Sales Tax Hike, Record Budget Called By Askew

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew called today for a $330 million sales tax increase as he unveiled his record $5.53 billion 1977-78 state budget. The proposed increase would boost the state sales tax by one cent on the dollar.

Askew outlined a sweeping tax increase and adjustment proposal which would hike state revenues by $298.7 million. Included in the proposal was Askew's call for $49.3 million in increased beer, wine and liquor taxes and $7 million in new taxes on cigars, pipe tobacco and other non-cigarette tobacco products.

However, Askew called for $82.7 million in tax relief. He recommended $32.7 million in relief by exempting from the municipal utilities tax the first 750 kilowatt hours of electricity consumed in a month.

Askew also recommended $50 million in property tax relief for low income homeowners and renters by limiting property tax payments to a percentage of the individual's income.

"After much deliberation and a careful weighing of the alternatives, I have concluded that the best way to meet the needs of the state is to increase the sales tax rate from four per cent to five per cent," he said.

Askew recommended a total of $403.4 million in new tax revenue and $105.2 million in tax relief, for a net tax increase of $298.7 million.

The governor reminded Floridians that tourists pay 15 to 20 per cent of all sales taxes collected in the state. He said Floridians currently have the third lowest state and local tax rate in the nation.

Askew said the sales tax hike would enable the state to meet critical road-building needs without boosting gasoline taxes. He had previously indicated he would seek an increase of about two cents a gallon in gasoline taxes, but that proposal encountered opposition from some legislators.

Other elements of the tax program outlined by the governor were:

- Repeal of the two per cent credit on workmen's compensation taxes, a gain of $7 million.
- Increase in the oil and gas production tax from five to six per cent, a $5 million hike.
- Repeal of the beverage tax exemption for beer sold on military bases, a $2.8 million gain.
- Restoring the intangibles tax on accounts received by Florida residents in out-of-state transactions, a $1.3 million hike.
- Increase corporate filing fees from $5 to $10, a $700,000 gain.
- Reduce the assessment on inventory items to 10 per cent of just value for ad valorem tax purposes, a $22.5 million tax break for businesses.

JUST PASSING THROUGH
 Cloud of ionized barium gas was visible over Seminole County and much of the Southeast Wednesday night, and it prompted dozens of calls to Seminole County Sheriff's office. Part of Air Force experiments aimed at testing effects of such clouds on communications signals, barium was released from rocket launched from Santa Rosa Island, off the Florida Panhandle. Another such test is scheduled for Friday. Story in brief, Page 3A.

But Some Questions Remain

Hammock Building Ban 'Legal'

The Seminole County Commission can legally declare an eight-month moratorium on building in the hammock area, according to a ruling by the state supreme court.

The ruling, generally described as the area southeast of SR 427 that runs along Soldier's Creek to the western shore of Lake Jessup.

Environmentalists contend it is a natural green belt buffer zone separating north and south.

The 330-acre hammock area remains undisturbed because of its environmental value to Seminole County.

Public Hearing On Landfill Tonight

The Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission tonight will conduct a public hearing on the city commission's proposal to provide for sanitary landfills in the city's zoning ordinance.

The city commissioners voted Feb. 14 to propose a change to the ordinance allowing sanitary landfills as a permitted use on agriculturally zoned land, subject to two city commission public hearings and an affirmative vote.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Sanford city hall.

The city in January applied to the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) for a permit to operate a landfill on an 85.45-acre site at SR-46A and Oregon Avenue.

The 46-A Environmental Protection Association, a citizens group composed of landowners near the site opposes the landfill.

The city's zoning ordinance currently does not permit landfills, and the proposed landfill site is zoned residential.

This prompted DER to inform city officials Feb. 13 their application was insufficient because the proposed landfill site is not zoned to permit a landfill.

The zoning board itself proposed a change to the zoning ordinance permitting landfills and other governmental uses on residentially zoned land. If that proposal had been approved, a conditional use would have required planning and zoning commission approval — but no public hearings.

At a Jan. 21 zoning board public hearing on the proposal, Orlando attorney Bud Kirk, hired by the 46-A association, raised legal objections. The zoning board tabled the proposed change.

The city commission killed the proposal at a special meeting Jan. 28.

If the zoning board eventually approves the amendment to allow sanitary landfills on agriculturally zoned land, the city commission would conduct a public hearing on the measure before voting to accept or reject it.

Air Force 'Thunderbirds' To Perform Air Spectacular In Works

The Air Force's Thunderbirds, the Army's Golden Knights parachute team wingwalkers and the world's smallest jets will highlight the 40th Annual Central Florida Air Show Apr. 2 and 3 at Sanford-Central Florida Airport.

The air spectacular will feature a seven-act show, said Tom Hunt, publicity chairman for the Sanford Rotary Club, which sponsors the event.

Hunt expects 40,000-50,000 spectators at this year's airshow. Last year's show was enjoyed by over 22,000.

Proceeds from the show will go to charity, Hunt said. Last year's show netted $9,000.

The show will include seven acts:

- The U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds, a precision jet drill team, will perform Sunday, Apr. 3. The Thunderbirds are known for their close-formation flying and hairline precision maneuvers, which Hunt said will "leave the observer breathless."
- The U.S. Army's Golden Knight, the nation's No. 1 parachute team, will demonstrate free-fall drops and pinpoint accuracy as they jump from 13,500 feet. The free-fallers drop from the skies nearly 200 miles an hour, made visible only by trails of smoke emitted from canisters attached to their boots.
- Aerobatic pilot Jim Holland and Lindsey Hess will perform many of the same maneuvers as the Thunderbirds — at a slower pace. They will perform on Saturday, Apr. 2.
- Stunt pilot Joe C. Hughes, a favorite of last year's show, will be on hand Sunday. His performance this year will feature a 19-year-old female wingwalker.
- Hughes will perform solo. His act will include hammer head turns, ground-level loops and rolls and other hair-raising stunts.
- Corky Pined and Bob Bishop, flying the world's smallest jets, will make their first Central Florida Air Show appearance this year. Their Acrojet BD-5s weigh only 450 pounds each but can fly at speeds up to 300 miles per hour.

—Art Scholl, who enjoys an unrivaled reputation as an airshow performer and competition aerobatic pilot, will display his skill at the air show. He has been performing for more than 25 years.

H. A. "Speed" Moreland is chairman of this year's air show. Gates will be open at the airport at 10:30 a.m. both days to allow spectators to view many displays and exhibits, enjoy the aerial maneuvers of radio-controlled model aircraft and view performances by the Navy drill team and band.

Advanced tickets are $2.50 for adults, $1 at the gate. Children's tickets are $1, in advance or at the gate.

Tickets are available from any Sanford Rotarian, at many Sanford businesses, at all area offices of Chelsea Title and Guaranty Co. and at all area locations of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Mid-Florida.

Food and drink will be available at the airport. —MARK WEINBERG

NATION IN BRIEF

Congress Ready To Vote On Job Stimulus, Rebate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both houses of Congress are nearing votes that could send $50 checks to 200 million Americans this spring. The Senate scheduled a vote today on a planned seven-month economic stimulus of up to $17.5 billion, including tax cuts and direct federal spending. A House vote could come tonight on proposed $50-per-person rebates.

Carter Visits Mill Town

CLINTON, Mass. (AP) — President Carter won't find the down home ambience of small Southern towns when he visits this Massachusetts town later this month for the first of his "meet-the-people" trips. But Clinton's problems — unemployment, inflation and racial issues — won't be new to him.

During his March 16-17 visit, he'll participate in a St. Patrick's Day celebration and witness a special town meeting staged for his benefit. He'll also find a town hard-pressed by a slow economy, and a community troubled by racial friction.

House Sets Up Ethics Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Responding to a dramatic appeal by Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill to "make sacrifices" because the American public demands it, the House of Representatives is promising to follow a new and tougher code of ethics. The code requires extensive disclosure of personal finances and a limit on the "earned" outside income of a lawmaker at $8,625, or 15 per cent of his annual legislative salary of $57,500.

"King Kong" Turns Profit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Movie industry types say the box office performance of "King Kong" hasn't lived up to advanced billing, but producer Dino De Laurentiis denies it all the way to the bank. "We turned a profit when the worldwide gross reached $50 million and it's now pushing $90 million," said Gordon Armstrong, De Laurentiis' head of promotion and advertising.

Senate Shows Rights Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is joining the Carter administration's chorus of concern about violations of human rights abroad.

The Senate on Wednesday adopted a resolution decrying "the recent beatings, imprisonment and harassment of Soviet Jews and other minorities" seeking emigration visas.

Iowa House Okays Music

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — In the interest of harmony, the Iowa House has decided its members may listen to music at their desks — even if the strains of country western don't always blend with Bach. A rules amendment to forbid playing a radio or tape player in the House chamber from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. unless an earphone is used was defeated 57-39 on Wednesday.

SS Awaits Widower Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Social Security Administration offices across the nation are bracing for a flood of new business after a Supreme Court ruling granting new benefits to an estimated 500,000 widowers and the husbands of retired working women.

Poverty Victim Yields $21,898

TAMPA (AP) — At 84, Susan Korva didn't want to be a bother to anyone. So she hummed friends and lived alone in a rat-infested house, hoarding trash and her old age pension. Police found her sitting in the living room amid rubbish piled 10 feet high. Strapped to her waist was $21,898 in cash from Social Security and old age checks she cashed over the years, but never spent. Investigators went to Mrs. Korva's clapboard house after a neighbor told police it had been about a week since she had seen the elderly woman.

"The doors were barricaded," Sgt. Sam Jones of police welfare said Wednesday. "There was no response to a knock. The officers went in. They found her sitting there in a pile of junk. Large rats were running here and there." Mrs. Korva was taken to the hospital for an examination. A nurse assisting found the money stuffed in a pouch tied around her waist.

Yeggs Get Cash, Keys From School

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Burglars forced their way into offices at Millwee Middle School, SR-47 south of Longwood, early today and made off with cash and checks from a safe and master keys to the school, sheriff's deputies reported.

School officials told deputies that as much as $200 cash and $1,000 in checks may have been taken.

Deputy John Thorpe said assistant principal Curtis Hughes said a definite amount couldn't be immediately determined because the forged and cashed checks had been added to the safe in a half-dozen daily and were not separated. Officials this morning were reported making an inventory at the school.

Hughes discovered the burglary when he arrived at the school at 6 a. m., deputies said. Thorpe said the yeggs apparently used a knife to slip the locks on office doors. Officers found a broken knife blade near one office door and a knife in the safe closet. Investigators said it is believed that a key was used to open the closet. They said the key had been kept in the principal's office.

Deputies said the burglars forced doors to enter and ransacked offices of the principal and assistant principal. An undetermined amount of postage stamps and $30 cash was also reported missing from a secretary's desk, deputies said. Investigating officers said a railroad spike found near the school.

The yeggs emptied the safe of checks, cash, postage stamps and master keys, deputies said. They theorized the burglary was the work of adults and noted that large tennis shoe prints were found in numerous places in the offices. Deputies said there were indications also that the burglars may have worn gloves.

In a separate case, sheriff's deputies have arrested Betty Francis, 28, of 103 Mark David Blvd., Casselberry, on a circuit court warrant charging the obtaining of property by receiving. Bond on Francis was set at $5,000, according to county jail records.

County Challenged On Fire Truck Spending

Was the expenditure of some $120,000 in federal anti-recession funds to pay off an obligation on fire truck purchases for the special fire district in Seminole County's unincorporated areas legal? Winter Springs Mayor John Daniels doesn't think so and stated his position firmly Wednesday night at the Lake Mary meeting of the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County.

Noting the federal fund was to be used to benefit the entire county and not just a special tax district, Daniels called the expenditure a "gross misuse of the funds." County Commissioner Bob French, the county's delegate to the countywide governmental council, pleaded lack of knowledge on all the details of the expenditure, adding, however, that the county asked federal authorities if the expenditure was proper and received concurrence before the action was taken.

Daniels suggested that the county may not have included enough information in its query of federal authorities, information pointing out that the county fire department was created for and is funded by a special tax district and not the entire county. Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd, playing the role of peace-maker, urged that French be requested to look into the matter (which he was promptly) "rather than (Daniels) making waves."

Woman Ordered To Jail After Admitting Forgery

A 25-year-old Sanford woman who admitted in circuit court today that she forged and cashed $50 in checks on bank accounts of elderly persons has been ordered held in jail pending sentencing on April 21.

Gloria Dean Burke Williams, 25, of 1903 W. 18th St., entered guilty pleas before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor just before a jury was to be selected for the first of two forgery trials scheduled for her this week. Ms. Williams, who told the court she is a federal probationer, said she obtained checks on the accounts of Hattie Collins and Elijah Ransom, both of Sanford, and forged and cashed the checks. "I was on drugs," she told the court, "and I used the money to pay my rent and bills and to help support drug habits of some friends."

Parent To Address Board On School Locker Thefts

By STEVE DAVIS Herald Staff Writer

OVIEDO — Theft of personal items from student lockers at Oviedo High School has prompted a request by one parent to address the Seminole County School Board.

Mrs. Joe Nelson has asked School Superintendent William (Bud) Lauer to be placed on next week's school board meeting agenda following the theft of items, valued at $50, from her son's locker. Athletic shoes and a wrist-watch were allegedly removed during the ninth grader's physical education class. A mesh fence constructed around the lockers in the gymnasium has been ineffective, Mrs. Nelson contends, in deterring locker break-ins. "I can't see us taxpayers paying for this fence when they (the coaches) don't keep them locked," she said. Principal Keith Stone related that the primary problem during the day is that often two physical education classes are conducted simultaneously and that two coaches are responsible for as many as 120 students.

"The main problem," Stone said, "is that we do not have an adequate number of lockers for each student. The ideal situation would be for each period to have their own locker spaces." In response to a statement by Mrs. Nelson that lockers were poorly constructed and easily entered, Lauer said, "These lockers are not for security purposes. Students should not put their valuables in them." However, he added that money had been budgeted to replace the older lockers.

Thoughts after school hours are also a problem, Stone said, due to numerous sports activities being played at various times. "The coaches can't be two places at once," Stone quipped, "and other student assistants

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Barium Sky Brilliant Over Entire Southeast

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — The third in a series of communications tests that create bright, multi-colored clouds is set for Friday, the U.S. Air Force says.

A test Wednesday night released a cloud of ionized barium gas that was visible over much of the southeast.

The gas is released at an altitude of 116 miles from an Honest John-Hybac rocket launched from Santa Rosa Island, just off this Panhandle air base.

Air Force spokesmen say the tests are aimed at determining how such gas clouds effect communication signals relayed to aircraft via satellites.

Fourth Reyes Victim

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Medical science has been called on to save Steven Melle's life depends on prayer, says the father of the 9-year-old boy critically ill with the rare Reyes syndrome.

Steve Melle is one of four children who contracted the flu-related disease here within the past week.

Student Loan Suits Urged

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Auditor General Ernest Ellison says state education officials should go to court to collect $3.6 million in overdue loans to Florida students. Although noting that collection methods have improved in the past year, Ellison said in an audit Wednesday that Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington apparently hasn't sued to recover the money due last June 30.

State Highways Called Poor

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The bumpy and broken pavement on Florida highways is not only frustrating, it's costing drivers $200 million in extra automobile operating costs, a road construction lobby says.

The bad roads increase wear on tires, breaks, steering and suspension systems and waste fuel by interrupting normal traffic flow, the Florida Transportation Builders Association reported Wednesday.

Temperature Rules Surgery

APALACHICOLA (AP) — Doctors preparing for surgery at the hospital in this Gulf Coast community do more than check the patients. They also look at the weather report.

That's because a renovation project has left the operating room at Weems Memorial Hospital temporarily without heat.

"We operated with cold hands and feet back in January in freezing temperatures," said Dr. P. Nichols, hospital chief of staff. "But we learned some lessons. Now we watch the weather reports and schedule surgery around the cold fronts."

Sponsor Lori Wilson Says Measure Will Pass

Skinner Switch Puts ERA One Vote Away

GAINESVILLE (AP) — The Equal Rights Amendment lacks only a single vote to win passage in Florida after Sen. Pete Skinner added his support to the proposal.

"I will vote for an amendment for human rights for all. I will vote to ratify the ERA," Skinner said during an Alachua County legislative delegation meeting Wednesday night.

The Lake City Democrat said he decided to vote in favor of the proposed amendment partly because his mail indicates his constituents are 3-1 in favor of ERA.

"While attempting to represent those who elected me as their senator, I am also aware of the fact that in this case, and this one only, I am not only a state legislator but a federal legislator," he said.

Coffee, Orange Juice Up; Eggs Down

Shoppers paid more for orange juice and coffee in Florida supermarkets last month but egg breakfast cereals and egg bargains.

Eggs cost less in eight of the nine cities checked in the monthly Associated Press Florida marketbasket survey. There was an average 11-cent decline from the 95-cent average price in January.

The survey indicated that the Florida freeze in January showed its effect on the citrus industry's major product. Frozen orange juice concentrate was an average 19 per cent higher this week than at the end of January — 75 per cent higher than in late December.

And coffee continued its climb to an average $2.09 a pound — a 6 per cent increase from the $2.54 average the month before.

Every month, the AP checks 15 common supermarket items at the same nine stores around the state. Those items cost an average $15.64 in February, up from $15.45 in January and $15.01 in December.

Widow Billed For Her Gift

MIAMI (AP) — Mrs. Frances Tucker said she was shocked when she received a bill for donating her dead husband's vital organs for transplant recipients.

Her husband, Gerald Tucker, shot and killed himself two weeks ago during a spell of dependency, police said.

"I just couldn't believe it," she said. However, the hospital said it was all a mistake.

"It was a mistake," said hospital financial director Glenn Peterson. "The charges are against the kidney program, not the widow."

"I, as a representative of your district, your state and, in this case, your nation, will vote for human rights."

He said the since it is up to the states to decide whether to make the ERA a part of the U.S. Constitution "my constituents in this case are the people of the U.S."

"We, the legislators of the several states who have both the duty and the privilege to represent not only our constituents but the people of our great nation, must be permitted to speak on this vital issue," Skinner said in a five-minute speech.

"The ERA amendment reads equal rights under the law shall not be abridged by the U.S. or any state on account of sex. 'I, as a representative of your district, your state and, in this case, your nation, will vote for human rights.'"

Skinner's vote now gives the ERA amendment 20 committed votes in the Senate — one short of the majority needed for passage in the 40-member body. Sen. Lori Wilson, I-Cocoa and chief sponsor of the measure, has said she has private commitments from two senators — enough to push it over. One source said they were Skinner and Sen. Jon Thomas, D-Fort Lauderdale.

Carter Budget Needs Analysis

The Carter administration up to now had revealed itself mainly as a state of mind — a new tone or style in the White House and Executive departments. With the submission to Congress of President Carter's first budget revisions, the administration is getting down to specifics.

Mr. Carter seems almost apologetic about the budget. In office only a month, he has not had time to make major changes in the budget submitted by former President Ford last month. All he has done, he says, is take some "important first steps" toward putting his imprint on the budget.

Important, indeed. These may be only limited, first steps, but they imply changes in fiscal policy and government priorities that presumably will become more pronounced in the future.

Mr. Carter would increase federal spending by $19.8 billion over Mr. Ford's proposal. The projected deficit would increase by $10.7 billion, a figure being held down only by discarding Mr. Ford's proposal for a permanent tax cut.

The budget would scrap some of Mr. Ford's intended economies in health and welfare programs, and would add to his proposed spending on housing and energy programs.

The change in emphasis is most evident in trade-offs between social programs and defense. Mr. Carter is trimming $350 million from the Ford defense budget for next year and $2.7 billion from projected spending in future years — apparently a first installment in his effort to cut projected growth of defense spending by $5 to $7 billion. On the other hand, the budget for Health, Education and Welfare department would be pumped up by $2.3 billion over the Ford proposals for next year.

Further, Mr. Carter's budget message calls for new federal intervention in what heretofore has been a voluntary effort to hold down the cost of hospital care.

The Ford budget had been regarded as a tentative document all along, and Mr. Carter has both the right and the responsibility to try to adjust it to conform to his own thinking. But the revised budget he offered also has elements that should be regarded as tentative.

The 98th Congress, for practical reasons, had not devoted much attention to the Ford budget. The new one will require prompt attention to meet the deadlines for establishing budget ceilings. What the first Carter budget portends in basic changes of direction and emphasis in federal programs also demands that congressional attention be careful — and in some cases even skeptical.

GI Bill Abuse

The program of educational benefits for veterans was altered drastically at the end of last year to require contributions from members of the active military as a condition for educational subsidies upon leaving the service.

But the hundreds of thousands of military personnel who entered the service prior to Dec. 31 remain eligible for the student assistance that has been a tradition since World War II. And the implication is that the program will be vulnerable to abuse for as long as the next two decades.

The chief criticism is directed at the practice of students enrolling in college simply to qualify for subsistence payments. In many cases they accept their monthly checks and fail to show up for classes. Some educational institutions, too, reportedly encourage less-than-serious students, frankly emphasizing their desire for tuition dollars over class attendance.

A concerned Congress wrote rules for strict monitoring of the subject and the respect of the Chinese.

But if President Carter can gain at least working control of the domestic problems at hand, it seems clear that the VA must tighten its supervision.

When the Ford Motor Co.'s Edsel turned out to be a bomb in the marketplace, the company swallowed its pride and made it a museum piece. James Conlon, director of the Federal Bureau of Engraving and Printing, doesn't want to admit that the $2 bill will be the Edsel of our currency.

The bureau printed 415 million of them but has been able to get only 222 million in circulation. Mr. Conlon now wants to hire an advertising agency — for $330,000 — to conduct a publicity campaign on their behalf. That sounds like throwing good money after bad, even if the government figures it could save $7 million in printing costs if $2 bills would replace more of the $1 bills now in use.

ANGLE-WALTERS U.S. China Trade In A Stalemate

WASHINGTON — Five years ago this week, President Richard M. Nixon made his historic journey to the People's Republic of China, marking the first time an American president had ever visited that nation.

Nixon, never known to shrink from hyperbole, proclaimed on that occasion: "What we do here can change the world. . . This is the hour. This is the day for our two peoples to rise to the heights of greatness from which we can build a new and better world."

There were, indeed, high hopes that Nixon's bold and unprecedented venture would mark the beginning of a new era in Sino-U.S. relations — and nowhere were those expectations higher than in the area of international commerce.

Corporate executives in this country, visions dancing in their heads of the opening of a previously untapped and vast new market, made plans to sell the Chinese everything from cosmetics to steel mills.

Both sides view bilateral trade as another arena in which mutual benefit can be derived, said the landmark Shanghai Communiqué issued by the two governments on Feb. 27, 1972. "They agree to facilitate the progressive development of trade between their two countries."

But precisely a half-decade later, nothing of the sort has happened. In fact, previously unglorified figures show that in 1976 the value of all United States exports to China plummeted for the second consecutive year, to the lowest level since the signing of the Shanghai Communiqué.

(The value of United States imports from China has grown each year since 1972, but the annual increases have been quite modest and the rate of growth has slipped significantly in each year.)

Some figures: The value of all United States exports to China was $63.5 million in 1972. There was a dramatic surge to $140.3 million in 1973, and another increase to $151.1 million in 1974. The figure sank to $33.3 million in 1975, then dropped sharply again to $13.4 million in 1976.

What happened? Experts in the field cite the disruptive effects of the death last year of 4th Prime Minister Chou En-lai and Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung, the fierce leadership struggle which followed Mao's death and the trials of devastating earthquakes which rocked China.

Domestic politics in this country have also played a major role in the temporary collapse of the Sino-U.S. trade dream. Nixon, of course, was forced to abandon his China initiative when confronted by the Watergate scandal.

His successor, President Gerald R. Ford, took a perfunctory trip to China, but made little progress because of a lack of both an interest in the subject and the respect of the Chinese.

But if President Carter can gain at least working control of the domestic problems at hand, it seems clear that the VA must tighten its supervision.

When the Ford Motor Co.'s Edsel turned out to be a bomb in the marketplace, the company swallowed its pride and made it a museum piece. James Conlon, director of the Federal Bureau of Engraving and Printing, doesn't want to admit that the $2 bill will be the Edsel of our currency.

Fantastic Story Of Hughes Abroad

WASHINGTON — The late Howard Hughes, on the run from a tax investigation in the United States, used his enormous wealth to court island paradises.

First, he flew to the Bahamas where he dangled the dollars in front of Prime Minister Lynden Pindling. The billionaire offered to bail out a bankrupt hotel and operate it as a luxury casino in the Bahamas. As part of the deal, he spoke of "financial support" for the prime minister.

This reference in the secret Hughes papers indicates that the money would go to Pindling personally. But spokesmen for both the Pindling government and the Hughes organization vigorously denied it. Any such offer, they said, must have meant "financial support" for the Bahamas, not Pindling personally. They point out that, in any case, Hughes never opened the casino.

Hughes' next home away from home was Managua, Nicaragua, which is the fiefdom of Anastasio Somoza. The pot-bellied ruler controls every profitable industry in his tiny nation, from cattle farms and hotels to laundromats and houses of prostitution. He has an interest in the shoe factories, the cigarette companies, even the parking meters. The Somoza family has acquired just about half the country's private property.

Hughes offered to help the Big Bananas save

I like to think people are generally considerate and understanding of each other. After all, with our drinking dollar and diminishing natural resources, we all need to stick together.

Some disturbing evidence to the contrary popped up the other day in a local "fast-food" restaurant. After a harrowing few hours of tracking down news tips, contacting local officials for statements on issues of the day and meeting deadlines, three members of the weekly special at the restaurant. By the time we arrived, the mob scene was in full swing. No problem, we reasoned, because the restaurant's staff kept the long line moving swiftly. The problem came after we had purchased our meal.

All first there appeared to be plenty of tables, but a second look revealed many of them were occupied by only one person each — and they weren't eating.

What the squatters were doing, of course, was "saving seats" (a custom most of us haven't practiced since leaving the fifth grade) for their spouses or friends waiting in the service line.

But these folks were deadly serious, judging from the expressions on their faces.

We asked one squatter if she wouldn't mind letting us sit and eat. Her answer was a stony stare. Another table was completely unoccupied. Our approach to the table was cut off by a herd of squatters. "We already have our food," I explained. "You won't have yours for at least 10 minutes. Can't we all down and eat?"

"We got here first," was the mumbled reply. Finally we found a table and ate our meal, which had long since cooled to room temperature.

It was not a shining hour for the Brotherhood of Man. We agreed something might be done by the restaurant's management to remedy the situation on future "special" days. Maybe a talk with the manager would help.

Politely explained to him I had no complaints about the quality of the food or the speed with which I was served. The problem was not with the restaurant but with some of the clientele.

"I couldn't really go around pointing at these people and telling them to get up, could I?" asked the manager.

"Maybe you could put up a sign or two," I said. "The sign might say, 'Please allow those who have been served to be seated.' I'm sure it would help."

"Well, here's the problem," said the manager. "I'm the manager here, but I'm not really the boss. You see, this restaurant is owned by a national outfit with headquarters in Ohio. They're the ones that make all the policies. I could send it in and see what they say . . ."

"Thanks anyway," was the best reply I could manage. Sanford's motto is "The Friendly City." Maybe the luncheon special crowd could keep that in mind.

DON OAKLEY Portillo Visit Good Beginning

It was of more than symbolic importance that the first foreign head of state to meet with President Carter in Washington was Mexico's new president, Jose Lopez Portillo. Each country has problems of developing concern to the other whose solutions demand far closer cooperation than has been the case in the recent past.

Mexico is a small country only in comparison to its giant northern neighbor. In area, population, natural resources and agricultural and industrial production, it ranks among the largest and richest and hardy fits the category of a "Third World" nation — although its former president, Luis Echeverria, attempted to cast it in the role of leader of the developing world, at the expense of relations with the U.S.

Mexico also has troubles in proportion to its size. Its inflation rate is three to four times that of the United States. Its economy is staggering under a heavy foreign debt and successive devaluations of the peso and its unemployment rate is serious. Even more ominous is its runaway birth rate: At the present four per cent a year population growth, Mexico's 60 million people will double early in the next century.

Fortunately, Mexico also has immense potential, and it is encouraging that Lopez Portillo seems to have abandoned the ideological and nationalistic excesses of his predecessor for a more sober and businesslike approach to his office.

For one thing, Mexico has huge and largely unexploited oil and gas reserves. In fact, in a common hope, common confidence and common friendship" announced by President Carter, it has offered the United States an extra allocation of fuel to take us over the present emergency.

In return, the United States has technology, not only in petroleum but in other industrial fields, and investment money that could breathe life into the Mexican economy. A lot of that money and technology has gone elsewhere because of Echeverria's anti-foreign investment policies and out of fear of possible future expropriation.

Conversely, Mexico complains that U.S. quotas are discriminating against such Mexican products as tomatoes and shoes and are having an adverse effect on its balance of payments.

Then there are the perennial, and worsening, problems of the illegal immigration of Mexican workers, whose numbers in this country are estimated to be in the several millions, and increasing traffic in heroin, marijuana and other drugs.

It has become traditional for new administrations on either side of the border to promise the beginning of a new era in Mexican-U.S. relations. This time both countries have new administrations at the same time, and this time the promises appear to be genuine.

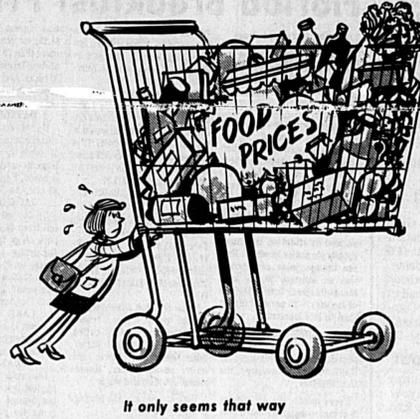

Another of his pet businesses, Nicaragua's national airline, said, reminded Hughes pointedly: "Nicaragua could be your alternate home." All Somoza would require, the memo suggested, would be a "13-hour notice."

The late tycoon never made it as far as Costa Rica. But President Jose Figueres, who was reported to be having personal financial difficulties, was attracted to someone so solvent.

Figueres also began to feel the same strong attraction for Hughes. On March 4, 1974, Figueres wrote to the reclusive on presidential stationery: "I have read about you. . . I began, I know you have no problem of residence in any part of this time, but nevertheless I want to offer you the hospitality of Costa Rica."

"Our country offers a wholesome climate and a great deal of individual freedom with stability." The letter was delivered to Hughes, along with a memo from his attorney, Chester Ivis, pointing out that Vesco had already made it move from the Bahamas to Costa Rica.

But Hughes remained in the Bahamas where he apparently received encouragement from Pine Minister Pindling. The secret Hughes

U.S. Banks Look Abroad

NEW YORK — The big American banks are aiming at a 150 per cent increase in overseas earnings next year. This is surprising, for, after expanding by over 30 per cent in each of the past five years, the growth in overseas earnings probably slowed down to around 10 per cent this year and might have been expected to slow even further next.

The banks have become increasingly sensitive to domestic criticism of the high proportion of their profits derived from overseas. Probably more than half, on average, this year. International lending conditions also appear to have gotten tougher lately.

The squeeze at the shorter end of the market has been even greater, with commercial customers able to get two-to-three-month credit at just 25 per cent over the interbank rate, against 30 per cent earlier this year. And, if anything, the squeeze on margins is likely to get worse over the next few months, with many bankers expecting spreads on top-quality syndicated credits to fall to under 10 per cent.

A general recovery in overseas margins is unlikely before the second half of 1977.

There are other short-term pressures. The banks have only been able to keep busy internationally by taking a kindly view of creditworthiness, especially that of Third World clients. Many feel they are running up against even their own rather tight credit limits.

Competition for medium-term Eurocurrency business from the major European banks has begun to heat up recently. The Europeans no longer feel as inhibited as they did even a few months ago about lending in non-local currencies, namely in dollars.

So from where do the American banks expect their 150 per cent growth to come? Partly from a gradual upturn in corporate lending as the world economy recovers, but mostly from a return to the Euromarkets by major industrial countries.

Britain, Denmark and Ireland have already tapped the Euromarkets for considerable sums in recent weeks. The bankers believe that, as economic growth picks up, balances of payments will worsen and bank finance will be sought to help close the gap. A pattern of international credit demand could emerge similar to that which prevailed in 1974, when industrial countries accounted for about $21 billion, or two thirds of all syndicated Eurocurrency lending, against just one third in 1973 and about 40 per cent in the first three quarters of this year.

American banks also still see some opportunities for expansion overseas. Citibank says, "We are pretty much every place we want to be," but would still like to open new branches in black Africa, an area it has so far neglected.

Manufacturers, however, established in Japan, Hong Kong and Singapore, see other areas in Southeast Asia, such as Malaysia, Burma and India, in which it would like to get a foothold. First Chicago is keen to build up its Latin American operations.

papers contain several references to Pindling familiarly as the PM.

An August 6, 1974, letter from Hughes to Davis finally got down to cases. "Regarding the Honorable PM," wrote Hughes, "I truly admire his courage and the actions he has been brave enough to take." Presumably, this was a reference to Pindling's favorable attitude toward Hughes and his projects.

"I urge you to tell him this," Hughes instructed his attorney. "I would like to be of some assistance. The question is: How much assistance does he need and how quickly?"

"It is very obvious to me, and I say again that he has been very courageous, and we both know this costs money, or credit, or financial support in one way or another. I repeat, how much of this do we need and on what kind of time schedule?"

The secret papers indicate that Pindling was willing to deal with Hughes, but the negotiations eventually broke down. The phantom industrialist next appeared in Nicaragua, where he set up housekeeping on an entire hotel floor provided by Somoza. Later, Hughes moved into Somoza's private headquarters.

The billions are propped for this royal treatment in cold cash, buying 25 per cent of Somoza's airline. When Somoza sought more financial support from Hughes, it merely strengthened the bond between them.

Israel Gives Dutch Girl Six Years On Spy Charge

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A young Dutch woman was sentenced today to six years in prison for working for Palestinian hijackers, Ludvina Janssen, 23, was found guilty Tuesday of spying and having contact with the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

Miss Janssen was arrested Sept. 25 and accused of coming to Israel to gather information about Ben-Gurion International Airport in preparation for a hijacking.

Miss Janssen claimed she came to Israel to see the sights. After her conviction, she appealed for mercy, saying, "I didn't mean to harm anybody."

Sugar Brokers May Go

MIAMI (AP) — A Dominican Republic sugar exporting brokers conference in Havana says brokers and wholesalers will be eliminated from the industry, according to Havana radio.

A broadcast monitored in Miami quoted Cirilio Vilorio, director of the Dominican Sugar Institute, as saying, "We will eliminate brokers and wholesalers" because they hold prices low until they have accumulated large sugar supplies, then let the prices rise.

Vilorio, head of the Dominican delegation to the 22-nation conference, said errors had been committed in his country in accumulating sugar to wait for higher prices. He said the price didn't rise and the sugar had to be sold at a sizable loss, the Wednesday night broadcast said.

Japanese Hostages Seized

TOKYO (AP) — Four armed men raided the downtown headquarters of Japan's largest business and industrial association today and seized four hostages, including the organization's director, police said.

Police helicopters flew overhead and officers surrounded the office building of Keidanren, the Federation of Economic Organizations.

The raiders, who police said had a rifle, a pistol and a samurai sword, issued a statement declaring that their aim was "to destroy the Yalta-Potsdam structure, which is post-war and handled by the Allied nations aimed at weakening the Japanese people as much as possible," the official said.

Longshoremen Boycott Ship

LONDON (AP) — The International Transport Workers Federation says its affiliates in 82 countries will refuse to service ships owned by Ravi Tikko until he settles a dispute with British unions over pay and conditions aboard his tanker Globtik Venus.

The Kashmir-born shipping tycoon sent out of work British trawlermen on the 56,895-ton tanker in Le Havre, France, Tuesday night to take over the ship from a Filipino crew striking to be paid European wages.

The vessel remained in Le Havre today with a new captain but no crew able to sail her.

Syria Shies From Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Syria, a Russian ally in the Arab world, is reportedly gradually reducing the number of Soviet military advisers in its country.

U.S. sources estimate there are some 1,800 Soviet advisers in Syria, well below the 3,000 Russian military personnel known to have been there four years ago.

Kenya: 'Hallucinating' Amin Hijack Plot Reported

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ugandan President Idi Amin planned to expel Americans living in his country, and the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine planned to hijack the plane on which they left, published reports here today.

The Nairobi newspaper the Daily Nation said that Amin planned to expel the Americans at the meeting he scheduled this week with them and then called off.

The newspaper said the information came from West German intelligence reports and that Amin presumably knew of the plan. British officials said no such intelligence report was received there. "There seems to be a lot of wild speculation going on in Nairobi," a Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

Kenya and Uganda have long been feuding. Milton Obote, Ugandan president overthrown by Amin, has been living in Tanzania.

The Nairobi report said the Ugandan government was going to provide a plane for the Americans to leave the country. "If PLP terrorists would have mingled with the Americans and boarded the plane," the newspaper continued. "It would then have been hijacked, and possibly flown to Kenya."

There was no comment on the report from the Amin government or from U.S. officials in Washington.

Meanwhile, the United States, Britain and Kenya rejected Amin's latest invasion charge, and Kenya said Amin was hallucinating.

"Hallucinations and shadow boxing are a commonplace thing with the military regime in Uganda," a Kenyan spokesman said. "With this understanding, you can even expect to hear that God has shaken hands with Amin."

Radio Uganda charged on Wednesday that 2,600 U.S., British and Israeli mercenaries were marching through Kenya toward Uganda. The U.S. State Department said the report was "completely and totally false."

The British Foreign Office said it was "highly unlikely" Israel said nothing.

It was Amin's third invasion charge in eight days. On Feb. 23 he said the United States, Britain and Israel planned to drop paratroopers into key Ugandan towns to overthrow him. The next day Radio Uganda claimed that an invasion force of Tanzanians were six miles from the Ugandan border.

Floyd suggested that the cities have their "fiscal people" meet with county financial experts to examine the issue "to keep the politics out."

Daniels said the next fiscal year budgets which go into effect Oct. 1 should include adjustments on double taxation.

Others attending the meeting were Orlando Mayor Leon Uliff, Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson, and Sanford City Commissioner E.O. Keith.

Mayor Floyd To Address Meeting On Utilities Taxes

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd will be speaking at today's meeting of the Florida League of Cities legislative committee against the move to eliminate franchise taxes on utilities.

County Commission Chairman Dick Williams, at a meeting of the Seminole County Legislative Delegation, has urged that legislation be passed either eliminating franchise fees on power bills or, in the alternative, "cutting up" the franchise tax into a fee on all counties to share in the tax revenue.

Williams explained to the delegation that the currently a power company combines the franchise fees it must pay municipalities and then adds the cost to all customers, those living in the incorporated and unincorporated areas alike.

He said that in this way residents in the unincorporated areas are currently a franchise fee which is paid by municipalities.

Winter Springs' Deputy Mayor John Daniels, a delegate to the Seminole County Governments in Seminole County, told that body Wednesday night at a Lake Mary meeting, "I don't think we should let anyone ever vote to take away the franchise fees."

Seminole County's seven cities receive sums of near $4 million annually from its franchise tax on power companies.

No estimate is immediately available on the amounts of revenues the cities would lose if the franchise tax were re-distributed to give the county a share.

Williams included the elimination or redistribution of franchise fees in the county's package of proposed legislation for special and general law.

Floyd said Wednesday night that several items are expected to be on the agenda of the Florida League of Cities legislative committee against the move to eliminate franchise taxes on utilities.

In other business, the Council agreed with its "Solid Waste Management and Resource Recovery Committee" that the most feasible method of creating a plan is for a cooperative effort among the county and the cities.

Daniels, chairman of the committee, was asked to have the committee continue working to formulate the plan with the representatives on the committee to continue representing the municipalities involved.

County Commissioner Bob French, the county delegate, was requested to take the idea to the county commission for review and approval.

Daniels said the plan of resource recovery from solid waste (garbage) should be flexible enough to include "advances in the art" likely to be developed in the next two to five years.

Floyd predicted that federal money will be available in the next few years to finance resource recovery and those with plans already developed will have first opportunity at the funds.

Blizzard Warning In Colorado Snow Blankets Plains

By The Associated Press
A major winter storm was dumping snow from the Colorado Rockies to the Dakotas and Wisconsin early today, and strong winds whipped through the central Great Plains with a blizzard warning in north-eastern Colorado.

Heavy snow warnings were posted earlier in the day in much of Nebraska, and through the day over the Colorado mountains, eastern North Dakota, most of Minnesota and northwest Wisconsin. Winter storm warnings were also posted through the day over eastern and southern South Dakota, northwest Iowa and southeast Wisconsin.

Showers and thundershowers extended from southern Iowa into the central Gulf coast states. A line of heavy thundershowers reached from southeast Oklahoma through central Texas.

Some snow continued to fall in northern Vermont and parts of the northern Rockies. Rain, with snow in the mountains, continued from Northern California through western Washington. Skies were clear from the lower Great Lakes region to the mid-Atlantic Coast and in western Texas and eastern New Mexico. Considerable cloudiness was reported elsewhere.

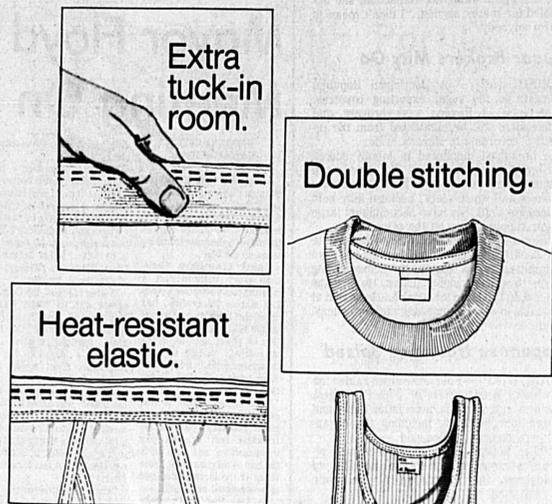

Temperatures around the nation at 2 a.m. EST ranged from 5 below zero at Warroad, Minn., to 70 at McAllen, Texas and Key West, Fla.

Here are some early morning, 2 a.m. EST, temperatures and conditions from around the United States and Canada:

Carter To Take Calls In Stride

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you want to call President Carter this weekend, don't worry about taking him away from the affairs of state.

Aides say Saturday's two-hour radio broadcast of the President taking telephone calls from citizens will hardly interfere with his normal office routine.

Barry Jagoda, the President's radio-television adviser, promises there will be only "minimal interference" with Carter's work habits in preparing for the radio program.

"We won't do this again if technical and logistical problems get in the way of his work," Jagoda said in an interview.

But Jagoda said technicians will be in the Oval Office for only two hours to set up special telephones after Carter finishes work Friday. On Saturday, he said, the technicians will enter the Oval office just two hours before the live radio broadcast begins at 2 p.m. EST.

To minimize interference with the President's work, the President and his aides, the control room for the broadcast is being set up in the neighboring Old Executive Office Building.

Thousands of callers are expected to try to reach the President by dialing a toll free number.

Nitty-Gritty Time Arrives For JuCos

By JIM HAYNES
Herald Sports Editor

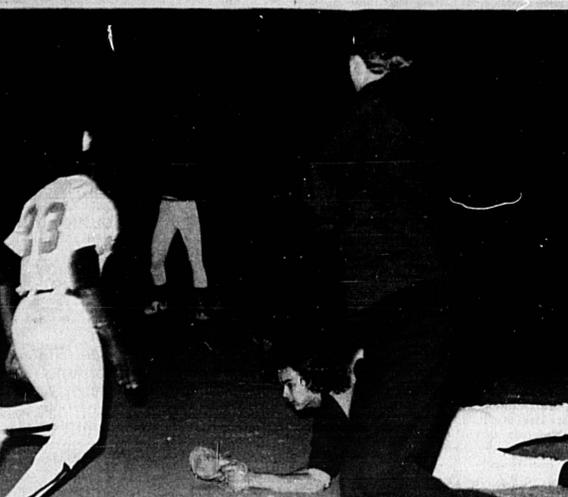

DeLAND — Will it be talent, balance, luck or coaching that moves to the forefront this weekend at Stetson University's Edmunds field, where eight teams are vying for the junior college state championship?

game. The Pirates reportedly have the best raw talent in this single-elimination event, with 6-7 Florida Crook getting the pre-tourney billing as possibly the best individual prospect on hand. Pensacola was 25-4 and ranked No. 6 in the nation. Guard Russ Saunders is also a top performer.

Seminole is expected to show the best balance in the tourney. The Raiders run through 26 opponents, losing only three times. A starting lineup of Willie Williams, Bob Zizzo, Robert Lewis, Ken Atkins and Sammy Williams find the first four averaging 15 to 17 points with Sammy, the team's height at 6-11, getting only seven a game, but his sub—Karl Krueger and David Kraitz—are averaging another 11 points between them.

WALKER CHUGS FOR FIRST AS OVIEDO'S RANDY HOMER LUNGES FOR ERRANT THROW

Oviedo Falls, 9-4

Seminole, Howell Nines Win

Seminole and Lake Howell chugged up big victories in high school baseball Wednesday. Seminole whipped county rival Oviedo, 9-4, thanks to some superb relief pitching by David Wiggins and Kenny Brown, plus some timely hitting by Tim Raines, Jeff Anderson and Wiggins.

Meanwhile, Lake Howell knocked off Orlando Jones, 6-3, with Matt Timonelli pitching a 9-4 count as Debbie Robinson drove in the winning run.

Seminole High notched its sixth straight victory in girls softball Wednesday, whipping Daytona Beach Seabreeze by a 9-4 count as Debbie Robinson drove in the winning run.

Trailing by one run in the last inning, Seminole rallied when Juan Martin doubled in the tying run then later scored on Robinson's sacrifice fly.

Robinson, Derris Flamm and Anna Nelson each had two hits for Seminole.

TENSE MOMENT IN SEMINOLE DUGOUT AGAINST OVIEDO

The Walking Wounded...

ORLANDO (AP) — Lee Trevino had a list of golf's walking wounded who will be on display this week in the $200,000 Florida Citrus Open.

Trevino, still treading very softly and very carefully, made only the second start of his comeback from major back surgery in the 70-hole test that got underway today on the heavily-wounded, 6,929-yard, par-72 Rio Pinar Country Club course.

"The back's okay, but I've been away a long time," said Trevino, who does not bend his back in marking his ball on the green, picking it out of the cup or placing the tee in the ground. He bends both knees, instead, squatting, and placing the tee or marker to his right side.

"I'd be real surprised if I played extra well—I never have after I've been out for a while," he said. "But if I could make some putts, get that ball rolling, I may be able to scare somebody."

Trevino is just one name on a long, long list of the injured—a list surprisingly heavy in non-contact sport—who are competing in this chase for a $40,000 first prize.

Two of them, Lee Eider and Lanny Waddins, are among the favorites. Waddins, a second-place finisher two weeks ago, is just now resuming full weekly play after a gall bladder operation.

Elder, who gained international fame as the first black to play in the Masters and has gained a return ticket to Augusta, Ga. this year, has been in and out of a heavy, stiff corset to support an ailing back most of the season.

"I've been out for a while," he said, "but I'll be sitting at home watching golf on TV and I start getting ants and all of a sudden it starts feeling pretty good again."

Among those missing with injuries and ailments are U.S. Open champ Jerry Pate (wrist) and former Masters champ Gary Player (elbow).

A healthy Hale Irwin is the defending champion and probable favorite, with current Masters' champ Ray Floyd (TD), Brezler, Moschaw, J.C. Snead, Arnold Palmer and Fuzzy Zoeller, a third-place finisher in each of his last two starts, among the other standouts.

NBC-TV will televise portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

"CBS would like to see a split," says Peters. "They think the plan has merit. Maybe we would outline a plan where one network televises a minimum of four games at 'x' hour and the other does a national game at 'y' hour. But that's just the way it is."

The NCAA television plan will be submitted to a mail vote of the entire NCAA membership in early September. After that, the hard-bargaining with the networks gets underway. There is some question as to how much negotiating the NCAA can do with the other networks before talking with ABC, ABC's current deal. CBS has suggested that a two-network situation, with games on both networks, might be worth $28-$30 million annually. That would depend, of course, on how many games the NCAA allows the two networks to televise.

NCAA Football Looms Tall In CBS' Plans This Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS, with all the money left over from its ill-fated pursuit of the '77 Olympics, is thinking about new investments. And NCAA football looms large in its plans.

ABC has carried the NCAA regular-season football package exclusively since 1968, and the '77 carry it again in 1977. But NCAA officials are already working on a television plan for the 1978-79 seasons and both CBS and NBC have shown interest.

"We know right now CBS would like a piece of the action and we have a hunch NBC would too," says Weaver Peters, athletic director at Dartmouth and chairman of the NCAA Television Committee. "Right now we're talking with everybody, getting ideas, weighing the merits of various suggestions."

"Eventually we'll outline a plan and make a recommendation to the board," he said. "The board will then meet with the NCAA last month. The Hughes Television Network, which is being represented by former Michigan-American Tom Harmon, has also shown interest."

NBC is considered less of a factor because the network is already committed to baseball Friday afternoons in September and part of October. But CBS is serious. The network may not be able to acquire the full package but they are very interested in part of it.

"CBS would like to see a split," says Peters. "They think the plan has merit. Maybe we would outline a plan where one network televises a minimum of four games at 'x' hour and the other does a national game at 'y' hour. But that's just the way it is."

legislation relinquished control over the setting of hunting seasons to the division of wildlife. Until the season was set, the mourning dove — a migratory bird hunted in more than 30 states — had been classified as a sought-in Ohio. No one had objected to the change during well-publicized hearings held by the division's Wildlife Council.

Wildlife biologists estimated the mourning dove population in Ohio at about 7.4 million in both 1976 and 1978. "The 1977 act gave us the regulatory authority," said Wildlife Division chief Dale Haney. "With that act they (the legislature) included language that said in essence that the division of wildlife, with approval of the Wildlife Council, had authority over wild animals."

Haney said two judges ruled in the matter back in 1975, both acting on the side of the season-setting. No fuss was raised about the 1976 dove season and most sportsmen felt the problem was a thing of the past.

The latest ruling, from the Lucas County Court of Appeals, came out of the original suit made. Department administrators are studying the ruling now and "serious consideration is being given to an appeal," Haney said.

of the House from Toledo. Wilkowski was one of the proponents of the legislation to ban dove hunting. The state has about one million in which to act and it is likely the ruling will be appealed to the Supreme Court, but no final decision has been made. Department administrators are studying the ruling now and "serious consideration is being given to an appeal," Haney said.

That would depend, of course, on how many games the NCAA allows the two networks to televise.

Dolphins To Lauderdale?

MIAMI (AP) — While negotiations between the City of Miami and the Miami Dolphins are stalemated over their Orange Bowl contract renewal, an offer has been made to build a new stadium here for the National Football League club.

But Dolphins managing general partner Joseph Robbie says he'll resolve his talks with neighboring Broward County before bothering to talk any more with Miami.

"We are not going to shop around until Broward has a top opportunity to act favorably on our proposal," Robbie said Wednesday. "If they decide to approve it then we'll go ahead with it (the move)."

The new offer for a city-operated stadium in Dade County west of Miami came from Donald H. Doctors, vice president of Benenson Holding Corp., a New York investment firm.

Doctors said the proposal made to City Manager Joseph Grassie would allow the city to design the stadium it wanted. Benenson would then raise the needed funds, build the stadium and then lease it to the city on a long-term lease agreement.

Grassie said the proposal would be "evaluated in terms of financial reasonableness." However, he agreed the offer was in the stadium and no concrete decision would be made in the near future.

Benenson's proposal gave no estimates on what the city's rent would be if the deal did go through. "It would be the lowest payment possible," said Doctors Wednesday. "If they decide to approve it then we'll go ahead with it (the move)."

Beached Navy Women Battle For Sea Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with a court suit, the Navy is moving to give women wider opportunities for sea duty.

The Navy is circulating word that it has prepared legislation to change current laws that prohibit assignment of women to vessels other than hospital ships and transports.

Navy women have been beached since 1975 when the last hospital ship, the Sanctuary, was retired.

A message from headquarters to fleet and shore stations said: "The proposed change . . . will permit the Secretary of the Navy to prescribe a greater variety of shipboard duty to which women members of the naval service may be assigned."

But Navy women still would be barred from serving in combat.

The proposal, which must be approved by Defense Secretary Harold Brown and Congress, marks a victory for Navy women who have been pushing for equality with Navy men.

Pentagon sources acknowledged the new move was spurred by a federal suit filed here by six Navy enlisted women and officers, who claim Navy restrictions infringe their constitutional rights.

The Navy message said the proposed law change would permit assignment of women "to temporary duty on any vessels not engaged in combat missions, and to permanent duty on vessels similar to hospital ships and transports which would not be expected to be assigned combat missions."

Officials refused to elaborate when asked for details on what kinds of ships would be likely to receive women for their crews. The language of the message suggested Navy women might be placed on combat-type vessels, as well as various classes of support ships, in peacetime.

Until four years ago, Navy women were limited almost entirely to medical and clerical jobs.

Since then their role has gradually expanded. Some women have taken flight training; others have become ship hull technicians and specialists in various skills once entirely the domain of men.

Women also have been admitted into the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps. Last year the U.S. Naval Academy, like West Point and the Air Force Academy, admitted its first women.

Women now account for 22,600 members of the naval service, about four times the size of the women's contingent 10 years ago.

DORIS HARRISON WITH 'COPY-CAT ART'

The Doris Harrison Touch Artistry Brightens Up Lamps

By JEAN PATTESON
Women's Editor

Doris Harrison, Sanford, is a painter. But instead of putting her paintbrush to canvas, she creates her pictures on old milk cans, flat irons and antique coffee cans.

In a folksy style similar to the Pennsylvania Dutch designs which adorn household items, Doris paints flowers, leaves and vines with free-flowing brush strokes.

A resident of Sanford for the past four years, she operated a Merle Norman cosmetics boutique in her native Ohio when she first developed her artistic hobby.

"There was this amazing coincidence. I had a friend called Bernice who was nicknamed Bunny, and she said I was so good at detail and such a fine copy-cat that I should try painting reproduction lampshades."

She discovered that the pretty painted china lamps which were popular last century had thick bases, but fragile china shades which broke easily.

It is possible to order plain white replacement shades. Doris' job was to copy onto the shade the design painted on the antique base. Usually it was a pattern of flowers, berries and leaves.

"Word got around after I painted my first reproduction, and I had quite a business going as people brought me their old lamp bases to copy onto shades. The trouble in Florida, she added, "is that there just don't seem to be as many of those lamps around."

There was one, however, and this is where her "amazing coincidence" comes in.

Doris' neighbor down the street from her 111 W. Jenkins Circle home is Bernice Larson — another Bernice who is nicknamed Bunny, who loves antique china lamps.

At a garage sale at the Larson home, Doris bought a painted china lamp base for 50 cents. She ordered a $9 lampshade, painted it to match the base, and later put it on a garage sale of her own.

Mrs. Larson bought it back for $25, and today it occupies a place of honor in her livingroom. The lamps can sell for more than $100, said Doris.

The technique of painting, she said, involves using oil paints directly out of the tube. The background colors are usually dabbed on with the fingers and the details painted in with a brush. Then the paint is wiped off any areas which are to remain clear and white.

When dry, the whole shade is given a protective coat of clear varnish.

Doris and her husband, Bob Harrison, have three daughters. She is employed at the Sanford City Hall

Shower To Honor Mrs. Chagnon

A baby shower to honor Mrs. Alexander (Suzanne) Chagnon will be held March 11 at the Sanford home of Miss Maxine Marcus. Co-hosts will be Mrs. Evelyn Grote and Mrs. Ellen Anley and guests will include

Mrs. Chagnon's co-workers at the Social and Economic Services office, Sanford.

Parents of the mother-to-be are Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Fallo of Sanford.

Springfield Gets Top Banking Job

MRS. MYERS TURNS 90

Mrs. Mary E. Myers of Valencia Street, Sanford celebrated her 90th birthday Tuesday with four generations in attendance. Her winter visits to the city ended two years ago when she moved from New Jersey to live with her daughter, Mary Schuenemann. She continues an active life, missing as few bingo games as possible. Mrs. Myers is pictured with her great-grandsons (from left) Timothy, Matthew and Mark Yeisley. Mrs. Schuenemann and granddaughter Gloria Yeisley. She has a second granddaughter, Betsy R. Smith.

Janice R. Springfield has been named executive vice president of the Flagship Bank of Sanford, becoming the first woman to hold this high position in a Sanford bank.

The announcement of her promotion from commercial loans vice president to executive vice president was made Wednesday by T. E. Tucker, board chairman and chief executive officer.

Tucker said Mrs. Springfield has held management positions with the Sanford bank since 1968 and has developed experience in all fields of banking since starting her career with the bank in 1958 when it was Florida State Bank of Sanford.

A native of Sanford and third generation Floridian, Mrs. Springfield is married to Wendell L. Springfield, corporate personnel manager of A. Duda and Sons, Inc. The couple has one son, Ken Jr.

She is a graduate of the National Commercial Lending School at the University of Oklahoma School of Banking of the South at Louisiana State University; and the American Institute of Banking which awarded her its Standard Certificate.

Mrs. Springfield holds an AA degree from Seminole Community College and is pursuing a BA degree in economics and finance at Rollins College, Winter Park.

She is a former member of the executive board of the Downtown Development Corporation of Sanford, the board of trustees of the Central Florida Zoological Society; past president of the Central Florida Chapter of the American Institute of Banking; and past group chairman of the Mid-East Group, National Association of Bank Women.

She is currently active as a member of the board of directors of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and numerous civic organizations.

"The future for Sanford is strong and we are going to show that Flagship Bank of Sanford cares about its people and its community," Mrs. Springfield said in "taking" the new responsibility. "We hope to provide impetus in seeking new industry for our area and jobs for our people."

Mrs. Springfield said she was excited about her new position and that she would be resigning from many of her civic activities so she could "devote all my time to bringing new industry to Sanford and putting our people to work."

Wants Pantyhose For The Well-Reared

DEAR ABBY: What's my problem? Well, to put it bluntly, I have a king-sized behind. I'm not really fat, but heavy thighs and big behinds run in my family.

I would love to find a brand of pantyhose to fit me, but there just aren't any. I've tried the stretch kind, which fits my legs just fine, but when I try to pull them up over my rear, they don't even begin to reach my waist. I've bought the tall-girl size, even though I'm only 5 foot 3, but they don't work either. I'm sure there are plenty of other women with the same problem, so you'd be doing us all a tremendous favor if you sent the pantyhose manufacturers to design something especially for us well-reared women. They would sell like hotcakes.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband's business associate ("Mr. X") recently lost his wife after a marriage of nearly 40 years, so we telephoned him (he lives in New York) and invited him to our little winter home in Palm Springs, Calif., to rest up and get over his grief. Mr. X said he would love to come for a few weeks.

About 10 minutes later he called back asking if he could bring his "girlfriend." Abby, we were shocked! My husband said, "But we have only one guest room." Mr. X said, "That's O.K., I want to see how this old gal looks in the morning before she puts her face on."

With that, he hung up, so now we are trapped. We certainly don't want that kind of setup here, but what can we do?

DEAR ABBY: I read your column every day and notice that you sometimes put in a good word for a worthy cause. I pray that this makes your column.

I work for the city animal shelter, and have had it up to here.

After five years of participating in the destruction of lovable, healthy, bright-eyed puppies and kittens, I'm about to lose my marbles.

Abby, please beg your readers to have their pets spayed or neutered. If not for the sake of all living creatures for the sake of the people who have to do this damn job!

DEAR ABBY: Somewhere in a modest home is the luckiest woman alive, and I'm sure she isn't even aware of it.

THE OTHER WOMAN usually writes a tale of woe. I am the OTHER WOMAN but I have no "tale of woe" because of a decision I have just made. This wife I speak of is lucky because her children are healthy and well-behaved. They have a pleasant, middle-class home, with good food, good clothes and a good car.

Their lives are secure. Her husband is with her and she always will be. If I could tell his wife one thing, it would be to LOVE her husband and let him know it.

He wanted me, and I wanted him, and only God knew how much. But when people are basically good, they refuse to hurt innocent people.

Our daughter can't handle him, and his father wants nothing to do with him.

Thank you, Abby for letting me say this. I feel better now.

DEAR ABBY: I read your column every day and notice that you sometimes put in a good word for a worthy cause. I pray that this makes your column.

Cannery Slates Free Demonstrations

Free canning and baking demonstrations will be offered March 10 and 11 by the Seminole Community Action Cannery, Sanford, according to cannery supervisor Laura Clark.

On March 10, Mrs. Pearl Yarborough of Geneva will demonstrate how to make orange marmalade and Mrs. Martha Lochte will show how pickles are made. The demonstrations begin at 1 p.m.

On March 11, Mrs. Ruth Runge of Longwood will give a bread baking demonstration, also starting at 1 p.m.

The cannery is located at 504 E. Celery Ave., just east of Sanford Avenue.

Terry Anyone? Old Fashion Standby Scores High On The Court

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
NEW YORK — (NEA) — The terry cloth division of Cannon Mills, Inc. (which occupies a floor in the Time and Life Building) consists of one office divided in two by a partition.

In the larger space sits Harry A. Gillman, manager, a sturdy man with admirable lungs. It is his custom to follow through the partition to Betty Schneider, his assistant, a silver-haired lady with whom we were talking, Gillman being engaged at the moment with a visitor.

We were investigating terry cloth, which has advanced traditionally, like a creature in a Japanese science fiction movie. First, it was toaster covers, robes, towels and bath slippers. But that wasn't enough. Terry reached out to the patio, the tennis court, the beach, and now — is there no stopping it? — it's extending its little loops to whatever wear: shirts, tops, jump suits, whatever you're inclined to wear.

It should be mentioned that a few days before, we'd spoken with Bob Moukaid, president of Lissane, a ladies longwear firm which is branching out into attractive terry playclothes, from $14-35, in junior sizes and petite, small, medium and large.

Moukaid is doing that because "terry cloth has become very big in our industry. It's absorbent and practical — machine washable — and when you blend polyester and acrylic, you get bright colors without fading."

What exactly is terry cloth, we asked, and Moukaid said he honestly couldn't answer a technical question like that, except to say it's a knitted fabric. Which is why we were sitting with Betty Schneider at Cannon Mills, a large supply of terry cloth.

What exactly is terry cloth, we asked her. "Terry has loops, but many other fabrics have loops," she said, reaching for a swatch of toweling. "A towel has terry on both sides. It used to be all flat on one side — as I said, cotton, but now the conventional towel is 44 per cent cotton and 16 per cent polyester. Blending makes a very strong piece of cloth and substantially reduces your shrinkage factor, and cotton gets very expensive. Woven terry is used for towels."

She picked up another swatch. "This knitted terry is flat on one side — as I said, woven terry has loops on both sides. This drapes easier, which is why it's used extensively for sportswear, women's robes, etc."

Gillman's visitor left just as we said, but what does "terry" come from, what does it mean, and she called over to him, how would you define terry cloth? "Terry was the first true non-iron fabric and still is," he yelled.

"We also make frosty terry," she resumed, offering a pink and white sample. "The loops are white over the basic color which gives it a frosty look and..."

Gillman roared, "Terry is a textured fabric of all-over loops, we asked her."

Republicans Elect New Officers
The Suburban Republican Women's Club has elected new officers and committee chairmen for the coming year.

Officers are: Barbara Wittingham, president; Betty Hearn, vice president; Barbara Warman, treasurer; Bonnie Bokos, recording secretary and Susan Lipson, corresponding secretary.

Committee chairmen are: Charlotte Biddle, membership; Alyce Myers, ways and means; Ann Pincock, legislative; Harriet Hearn, Americanism; Nancy Brunner, telephone and transportation and Mary Ryan, luncheon.

Also Dodi Feather, hostess coordinator; Lamar Williams, chaplain; Jackie Martinson, public relations; Frances Marone, parliamentarian and Betty Hearn, program and liaison to executive committee.

Beauty Tips
MANICURE MUST
Don't ruin that perfect manicure by dialing your bed friend with your fingernails: use a pencil instead.

FULL FASHION
Fuller skirts are returning for spring, and the fullness can come from pleats, tucks, gores in addition to dirrds.

HIGH STEPPEPPING
To counter the "flat" revolution in shoes, some — sandals, espadrilles — are reaching new heights, designed to accompany pants and dresses hovering mid-air.

SLEEK PROTECTION
No one's sneering at waterproof boots any longer, provided they're sleek. You can even choose a pair combining canvas and rubber.

FACE IT
Just because your body lotion is marked "body," doesn't mean you can't use it on your face and lips as well.

Skin game
To control flaky winter skin, try adding a cup of natural cider vinegar to your bath water and then slough off the dead skin cells with a bath brush.

Sensible Dieting Best Way To Lose

DEAR DR. LAMB: Today I read a letter in your column that could have been written by me. I have gone on diets and have lost weight but cannot lose my tummy or slim my fat thighs...

DEAR DR. LAMB: It may take some detailed studies to be certain and I am sure your dad is getting those in the hospital. If your description is accurate and his feet and hands have actually enlarged considerably there is a possibility that he has acromegaly.

What is acromegaly? It is a condition caused by growth hormone in an individual after the normal growth phase is over. The long bones don't grow any more because they have calcified but the hands and feet can enlarge.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My dad's hands and feet have almost doubled in size in the last two years. The doctors do not know the problem.

Gay Reporter Is Specialist

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Television news reporter Randy Shilts scurried around San Francisco gathering material for a story on the city's large homosexual community.

Included on his agenda were stops at a couple of gay bars. Shilts was not the least bit uncomfortable. Shilts is a newsmen for KQED-TV, which believes he is the first openly gay news reporter in television today.

A University of Oregon journalism graduate, Shilts, 25, was hired by the station last month to cover San Francisco's gay population, estimated at 100,000. "Being openly gay has slowed me down career-wise," said the bearded Shilts, "but it hasn't stopped me."

He covered last summer's Democratic National Convention in New York but noted that "most other reporters refused to take me seriously. I want to be judged in terms of more than a year and travel and the country writing about my gayness."

BRICKLAYERS DO THEIR THING

Heavy vehicle caused the road to sink in several places along 9th Street, Sanford, so the Sanford Street Department was called out. First, bricks had to be removed, the depression filled in and then the bricks replaced. It provided a busy few hours for these workmen. This brick street, among the first few paved in Sanford, is only one of many that will be needing similar repairs.

2 Dig In Hill For Gold, Only It's Kitty Litter

WICKENBURG, Ariz. (AP) — Not far from here, in the luscious days of frontier adventure, a pioneer named Henry Wickenburg hauled $2 million in gold from his Vulture mine in three swabbing years. Well, this desert still holds rewards for men of boldness and vision and daring. Not far from here today, about five miles beyond where the road runs out of Maricopa County and also out of blacktop, out in a barren land of saguaro cactus and diamondback rattlers, two such red-blooded men are laboring a small mountain for its mineral treasure.

Kitty litter. "Laugh, I don't mind, everybody does at first," Phil Reinhardt said. "But I'm serious about this, and I'm committed."

Reinhardt himself, a 31-year-old six-footer with broad shoulders and a rich red beard, the picture of the rugged Western prospector, adds to the incongruity of his commitment to the genteel problems of apartment dwellers and their passycats. So does his partner, Larry Johnson. Johnson, 34, has sun-bleached hair, faded jeans, scuffed shoes, all the badges of the outdoorsman, and lives alone in a cabin at the mine. "When Phil first mentioned to me what he was up to," Johnson said, "I laughed too."

To avoid that inevitable reaction when approaching potential investors, the two entrepreneurs have given their venture a most imposing name: Gulf American Mining Enterprises, Inc.

"Sounds impressive doesn't it?" Reinhardt said. "Besides, I like the acronym, GAME. But the real reason is that we believe this stuff has other applications and we intend to branch out — after we make it big in cat litter."

The "stuff" Reinhardt mines, and discusses with uncommon emotion, is rhyolite. There is rhyolite and rhyolite, Reinhardt explains. It is a form of lava. But the variety beneath his 1,000-acre lease, a chalky rhyolite, pale gray in color, has two remarkable qualities which he discovered by accident. It eliminates odor like a sea breeze and soaks up moisture like a blotter.

Phil Reinhardt got onto his unlikely product while he was knocking around the southwest prospecting for silver. He had a degree in structural engineering, but nine-to-five jobs bored him.

A geologist told him about the rhyolite mine. A Texas firm, unable to find a use for the rock, wanted to get rid of the lease. "I went to Houston and they showed me a sample of it, crumbled. I thought to myself, that looks like kitty litter. It was just a hunch. So I studied kitty litter. Do you know it's a $300 million a year market? I found out what properties kitty litter required and had some tests run. That was in 1973. You see the result."

Hopes Revived For 8 Trapped Men
From Mine, A Message Of Life

TOWER CITY, Pa. (AP) — A man alone in the depths of a mine since midday Tuesday has tapped a message of life through a 60-foot wall of coal, rekindling hope that seven comrades may also be alive. Rescuers made voice contact with 37-year-old Ronald Adley on Wednesday, nearly 32 hours after he and eight others were entombed a mile inside a 600-foot high mountain. The body of a tenth miner was found on Tuesday after the accident at the Porter Tunnel section of Kocher Coal Co.'s mine in the center of Pennsylvania's anthracite coal region. Adley's taps were the first sign that anyone had survived the crush of water that broke through a wall from an unused tunnel and flooded the mine, splintering timber and triggering an avalanche of mud and debris. Walter Vincinelly, the state's top mining official, said Adley was alone in the 17th finger or work tunnel, of the mine. The other miners could be about 250 feet away in the adjacent finger, the last one in that section of the mine, he said. Rescuers found nothing in the other sections. Vincinelly said a series of six-inch holes would be drilled where Adley was located. He said rescuers with picks would increase the holes little by little, making an escape hatch for the trapped miner. The mining official said, however, it would be early morning before they could expect to reach Adley. By late Wednesday, a second body had been removed from the mine. Hopes of finding the other miners still alive dimmed. Then rescuers heard the tapping sound and realized someone was alive, said Vincinelly. "They immediately started drilling and every time they stopped, they heard the tapping again," Vincinelly said. At 7:45 p.m., rescuers drilled a lifeline through the 60 feet of solid anthracite separating them and the trapped man.

Adley removed a cap on the pipe and told his rescuers he was unhurt and asked them to tell his wife.

Nationwide Activities Checked

'Sky King' Probed For Financial Fraud

By MARYLIN TIPTON
Herald Writer
Copyright 1977

The nationwide financial dealings of Kirby and Carolyn Grant and the Sky King Youth Ranches of America Inc., have been under investigation for several weeks, The Evening Herald has learned from a source within the Seminole County office of State Attorney Douglas Chesbire.

The probe by the state attorney's office is directed at the possibility of ranch funds being "funneled" through personal checking accounts, and the possible misappropriation of ranch funds, according to the source, who asked not to be identified. Additional investigative efforts may be directed at fundraising activities throughout the nation by the Grants and the organization.

At least another month of investigation probably will be required before any charges could be considered, he said.

"I can only tell you what I don't know," said Tom Thompson, the new executive director of the ranch. "When we talked to Mo (Maurice) Shams, attorney for the ranch, he said they — the state attorney's office — were embarrassed because they hadn't been able to find anything. I asked what the investigation was about, but we couldn't get any details."

As early as Feb. 4 subpoenas had been issued for the Combank, Longwood, banking records of the ranch itself and of Carolyn (Mrs. Kirby) Grant, the source said. Both Mrs. Grant and the ranch maintained checking accounts at that bank, according to bank officials.

Grant, television star of the former "Sky King" series, has been president of the organization since the mass resignation of six board members in December. Mrs. Grant has been secretary-treasurer since that time.

KIRBY GRANT

Grant has been criss-crossing the country seeking donations of funds and property. On Apr. 21, 1975, in a letter to board members, Grant stated, "There are nine states where we have been offered free land. This could only come about through trips I have made, broadcasts and word-of-mouth advertising. It is a natural culmination of events that this project shall become national."

In the same letter, Grant told the board: "For your information, during the network run of the "Sky King" series there were about 700,000 children in the "Sky King" fan clubs across the country. These children are now young adults with families of their own. Undoubtedly, a number of them have become eminently successful in business or the professions. It is this reservoir along with many other influential friends across the country that I shall count on to help me meet the challenge that I feel I must accept."

The name "Sky King" itself has entered into the controversy surrounding Grant's Seminole County youth care facility in Chuluota for the past three months. Flying Crown Enterprises Inc., a Winter Haven corporation, claims to have bought the rights to the name, as well as the actual prints of the old black-and-white television series. Although Grant was a founder of Flying Crown, members of the present board of directors told the Evening Herald his connection is now minimal "if any."

An attorney for Flying Crown sent a letter to Grant warning him to "cease using the image created by the television series 'Sky King.'"

An additional investigation is being conducted into the affairs of the ranch by the Florida Department of State. That check-up is a matter of routine, according to investigator William J. (Doc) Forbes, and is part of the organization's application for an updated certificate to permit them to participate in fund-raising activities.

The organization had been soliciting funds without certification since 1975. "Although Mr. Grant has consistently maintained that the members of the board who resigned were responsible for maintaining that permit," Forbes

'Hello, Jimmy?... I Want To Say...'

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is a room in the White House complex now that looks like a bookie joint. Or maybe one of those potboiler operations where telephone pitchmen sell stock in the Brooklyn Bridge.

It is the heart of Dial-a-President, or "Ask President Carter" as it's called, the two-hour period Saturday afternoon when you can get on the telephone and talk with Jimmy Carter about whatever bugs you. Banks of telephones are at one end of the room, complicated electronics equipment at the other. And in the center, like Zeus, sits Emerson Stone, his finger on the wipe-out button.

President Carter and Walter Cronkite, the two voices on the White House end of the radio talk show, will not be in the mission control center in the Old Executive Office Building. They will be in the Oval Office, seated before microphones and a television set that flashes the caller's name and its pronunciation.

Cronkite's major role will be to say "The toll-free number to call is 800-423-8111." (Yes, it's a 900 area code — the first). He will also act as the talk show host, gently casting off the verbose and redundant and keeping things moving. He can ask follow-up questions.

Emerson Stone's role will be different. When the show goes on the air at 2 p.m. EST, his finger will be poised over a silver button, ready to strike if the language gets saltier than hell and damn.

"The President and I will be the only people with The Button that day," he jokes.

Stone is a CBS Radio News vice president cast in a role performed by call-in talk show hosts on late-night radio all over the country.

There'll be a 6½ second delay before the conversation goes on the air. If your radio is on while you talk to Carter you'll hear yourself 6½ seconds late, causing no end of confusion. If Stone strikes his destruct button, a tape will announce a brief interruption.

President Carter and Cronkite won't be spared any obscenity or abusive language. That nicety is for those listening to all 265 stations on the CBS network, some other stations where there is no CBS outlet, some public broadcasting stations and the Voice of America.

CBS is spending $50,000-plus for the show, Carter's latest effort to stay in touch with the people. The White House says NBC and ABC have ideas for programs, too, but not necessarily in the same format.

County Commission Must Vote

Williams To Ask Amur Go-Ahead

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

County Commission Chairman Dick Williams said today he will ask county commissioners Tuesday for permission to ask a state agency to stock three Seminole County lakes with the controversial weed-eating white amur.

The Florida Cabinet last Tuesday cleared the way for stocking Seminole lakes with the hydrilla-eating fish, but the county commission must approve the concept at a regularly scheduled meeting.

Last year, state officials met with the cabinet to try and resolve a squabble between the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the state Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. The DNR wanted to stock Florida's waterways immediately, but the game and fish agency wanted additional research done on the amur before it's placed in the state's waterways.

The final upshot was cabinet members decided each individual project must be submitted by the DNR and approved by the cabinet.

Williams said he will ask for commission approval to ask the DNR to stock Lake of the Woods, Lake Orianta and Mirror Lake.

The chairman said he contacted DNR and was told a resolution is needed by the Seminole commission. Such a resolution may be difficult to obtain because commissioners disagree on the amur's worth.

The last vote deadlocked, with Williams and Commissioner Bob French in favor of the amur and Commissioners John Kimbrough and Bill Kirchhoff in opposition. Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski was absent when the vote was taken.

Kimbrough fears the "weed shark" might make its way into the St. Johns and Wekiva Rivers and destroy the game fish population. Other commissioners have expressed identical reservations.

But lakeside homeowners have submitted petitions asking that the lakes be stocked with the amur to rid the three waterways of pesky hydrilla.

French criticized the recent cabinet action.

"The cabinet did nothing," he said. French had hoped the cabinet would assign responsibility for the amur to the game and fresh water fish commission.

Also, French said he has similar reservations to Kimbrough's. The Democratic commissioner said he needs assurances that the amur will not make its way into the rivers where it can spawn and threaten the game fish. The amur, according to research, cannot spawn in a lake. Spawning requires swift running water, such as a river.

ALL IN A NIGHT'S WORK

Sniffing victory prematurely and suffering the throes of defeat were the order of the evening for Seminole Community College's basketball team and its fans Thursday in Deland where the Raiders bowed in the first round of the state tournament, 86-84, to Miami-Dade South. Down at one point by 13, SCC came back to lead by six midway in the second half. However, the Miami team outlasted the locals and advanced to tonight's semifinals at Stetson University.
