

Probe Clears Kelley Of Criminal Charges; Suspension Weighed

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

A year-long investigation of Seminole-Brevard Public Defender Franklin G. Kelley has cleared him of any possible criminal charges, but Governor Reubin Askew is considering suspending Kelley, a governor's aide in Tallahassee said today.

Askew assigned Volusia County State Atty. Stephen L. Boyles to the Kelley probe in July after Seminole-Brevard State Atty. Abbott Herring requested an outside state attorney evaluate the findings of his three-month investigation because of a possible conflict of interest.

Askew's legal counsel, Don Middlebrook, said in a telephone interview today that Boyles submitted his report to the governor last week.

"Boyles' report and investigation indicated no criminal charges are warranted," Middlebrook said.

"The other alternative is suspension of Kelley, but the governor hasn't decided on this or precluded it."

"This (suspension) would be considered based on the material Boyles sent us," Middlebrook continued.

If Askew suspends Kelley from office, he'll have to do it before midnight. Kelley didn't run for re-election and Titusville attorney David Porter, who has already been sworn in as 18th Judicial Circuit Public Defender, takes over the office on Tuesday.

Porter, contacted at the Titusville public defender's office today, said Kelley will become an assistant public defender Tuesday in charge of the Seminole office in Sanford.

The governor can suspend elected public officials — but not assistant public defenders, who are employees of an elected official.

Allegations in the Kelley probe included charges that some employees were coerced into providing sexual favors as a condition of employment, according to sources close to the investigation.

Kelley, who was not available for comment today, told reporters earlier that the probe by Herring covered everything from the way his office is operated to his sex life and that of some of his employees.

Porter said today he's made no official decisions yet on his staff since he has no authority to do anything until 12:01 a.m. Tuesday when his commission becomes effective. Porter was given the oath of office last week at Titusville by Seminole-Brevard Circuit Court Judge Joe A. Cowart Jr.

"I don't expect any transition problems at all," Porter said today. He said he'll be active in both Seminole and Brevard counties in defending indigent clients in court.

Although Porter said he's not ready to announce any staff changes in Seminole because "I want to evaluate employees more," two part-time assistant public defenders under Kelley confirmed today that they'll stay with the office.

Chris Ray, who was an unsuccessful candidate to the public defender post in recent elections, said he'll stay on as an assistant public defender.

James E. Figatt, a former assistant state attorney who worked under Kelley for 11 months, also said today that he'll stay.

George Sprinkel IV, another assistant under Kelley, won't be staying. He takes office as an elected Orange County judge on Tuesday.

Panel: Don't Hire Counsel

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

A five-member blue ribbon panel of attorneys appointed by the county commission has recommended that the county not hire special outside counsel to fight $7-million in lawsuits against Seminole County.

Exec. Asst. Roger Neiswender said the panel, in a memorandum to the board, recommended all jail fire litigation be handled by the attorney who represents the county's insurance company.

County Commissioner Bob French said today the insurance firm — Appalachian Insurance Co. — has hired the Sanford firm of Stenstrom, Davis & McIntosh to do the legal work.

The county is insured for up to $1.3 million. Claims won in excess of that amount would come out of the general fund — which comes from taxpayer dollars.

The lawsuits stem from a jail fire in 1975 that claimed 11 lives. Officials estimate the county will be in the courts on the lawsuits within six months.

Neiswender said a brief memo from the panel advised county officials to "stick with the insurance attorney" and that special counsel "won't be needed."

Republican Commissioner John Kimbrough last December asked for creation of the committee to advise county government on the best method of battling the lawsuits. At that time, officials theorized outside counsel, a "big gun," might be needed to defend the county's interests.

Former County Atty. Tom Freeman monitored 29 lawsuits against the county before creation of the blue ribbon panel. However, Freeman stepped down after the commission opted for an in-house legal staff.

The blue ribbon panel came under fire from Democratic Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski who claimed politics was involved in selection of the panel's membership.

But the Kwiatkowski charges came to naught, and each commissioner ended up appointing one attorney to serve on the Panel.

Sanford Police Pistol Team...

A quarter-inch error in grip or a 1/16-inch error in trigger pull can mean a 15-inch error on the target. It takes great concentration and lots of practice to be a member of the Sanford Police pistol team.

The department's pistol team is showing lots of enthusiasm and are continually competing for a team shot. The department's training officer and team instructor, Lt. Paul Whitley, has been instructing the team each week during off-duty hours and is striving for excellence in each and every shot. The team is currently in the middle of a "week hand" in firing practice. Whitley said, "We had shoot-offs for a number of days. The eliminations got down as close as a tenth of a point."

Whitley said, "The team number one is viewed as an 'insurance policy' because the policy must be 'paid' by continuous practice. The team is currently in the middle of a 'week hand' in firing practice. Whitley said, 'We had shoot-offs for a number of days. The eliminations got down as close as a tenth of a point.'

IT RAINED HERE THIS MORNING

Storm sewers were clogged, roads flooded, workers got wet and schoolchildren for once found the school bus a warm-dry haven. Sanford had more rain the first two and half days of January than it had all January last year. At 8 a.m. Sanford Port Authority weather bureau reported 1.10 inches of rain, but at 10 a.m. the rain gauge registered better than 1.5 inches. In January, 1976, only 1.4 inches of rain fell. Sanford got 58.72 inches of rain in 1976, about normal, weather bureau reported. Above: sanitation workers battle torrent at 20th and South Oak Ave. to unplug storm sewer. Below: A little water couldn't wash out first day of school after holidays as bus kicks up its own storm.

Amur Not On Agenda

Euga Can't Get A Word In

Delbert Euga, Seminole's representative on the Florida Council on Conservation in the Environment, today said county officials refused to allow him agenda time to speak out in favor of the controversial white amur.

"I have not been able to get on the agenda," Euga said. "I favors the amur — if it's established the fish cannot make its way into the rivers. The amur can breed in a fast-flowing river, but the weed carp cannot breed in the stagnant waters of a lake."

Euga said he's studied the weed carp — which he says is edible and tastes like crab meat — and does not believe the amur can get from a landlocked lake into rivers.

Meanwhile, Williams said Euga will be placed on the agenda when the commission again takes up the issue. The chairman said he has no plans to discuss the weed carp at Tuesday's meeting.

ED PRICKETT

Euga said today all the commission is doing is "passing the buck" to state officials.

In Tallahassee, the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is competing with the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for the right to make the decision. The DNR favors the amur, while Game and Fresh Water Fish personnel say it's too early to make any decision about whether the amur belongs in Florida waters.

In Seminole, Commissioner John Kimbrough is opposed to the fish. Kimbrough's greatest fear is the amur will somehow make its way into the Wekiva and St. Johns Rivers and destroy the game fish population.

Organisms that game fish feed on eat hydrilla. Thus, destruction of hydrilla would eventually alter the ecosystem, possibly destroying the game fish.

Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski, the swing vote, was not in attendance at Tuesday's meeting. Kwiatkowski said today he favors the amur — if it's established the fish cannot make its way into the rivers. The amur can breed in a fast-flowing river, but the weed carp cannot breed in the stagnant waters of a lake.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Execution Deadline Passes, May Be Hoax

MADRID, Spain (AP) — An execution deadline reported for royal adviser Antonio Maria de Oriol passed without word of the missing man's fate today, and police sources said they believed the death threat was a fake.

A note delivered to the Madrid newspaper El Pais last week threatened that Oriol, kidnapped three weeks ago, would be executed unless all of Spain's political prisoners were freed by midnight Sunday.

Police sources expressed doubt of the authenticity of El Pais' note after the newspaper's information reported receipt of a message Sunday renewing the kidnappers' original demand for the release of only 15 specified prisoners and their transport to Algeria. It contained no death threat and was accompanied by a letter in Oriol's handwriting, the newspaper said.

Governor Ignores Ford

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Ignoring President Ford's statehood proposal in his inaugural address, Puerto Rico's new governor says his first priority is revival of the island commonwealth's sagging economy.

Gov. Carlos Romero Barcelo, sworn in Sunday, pledged to work to eliminate "the intolerable conditions in which thousands of Puerto Ricans are still forced to live."

Romero, a longtime proponent of statehood, did not mention the issue in his address. He said in an interview he had made no decision on Ford's proposal, and meanwhile he had "a commitment to get the economy moving."

Rhodesia Talks Continue

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The British chairman of the deadlocked Rhodesia conference met with South African Prime Minister John Vorster today after failing to budge Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith.

British diplomat Ivor Richard proposed to Smith at a meeting Saturday that Rhodesia's interim government during the transition to black rule be headed by a council of ministers which probably would be dominated by blacks, that Britain appoint the chairman of the council and that Britain control the Rhodesian police and army.

Karen Quinlan: Still Breathing

MORRIS PLAINS, N.J. (AP) — Joseph and Julia Quinlan make daily trips to a nursing home here where their daughter, Karen Anne, is still breathing on her own in a coma more than seven months after lifesupport systems were removed.

Miss Quinlan, 22, a patient at the county-run Morris View Rest Home here, was removed from a respirator at her parents' request last May, following a landmark ruling by the state Supreme Court.

The court named Quinlan guardian of his adopted daughter and authorized him to remove the respirator.

Attorney Paul W. Armstrong, who represented the family in their court suit, said Sunday that the Quinlans, who live in nearby Mt. Arlington, visit their daughter at least once a day on weekends and twice each weekday.

A spokesman at the rest home said Sunday that Miss Quinlan's condition "remains unchanged." She is given intravenous nourishment and is rotated regularly to keep her from developing bedsores.

Miss Quinlan lapsed into a coma April 15, 1975, after ingesting alcohol and tranquilizers, and she was put on the respirator at St. Clare's Hospital in Denville.

When doctors at the hospital described her condition as hopeless but refused to turn off the machine, the Quinlans sued for her right to "die with dignity."

In November 1975, a Superior Court Judge in Morristown turned down the request. The state's highest court overturned that ruling last March.

Medical testimony at the trial showed Miss Quinlan was in a chronic vegetative state and would never recover.

Physicians said she would probably die if the respirator was removed. But when Miss Quinlan was eased from the respirator May 23, she continued to breathe on her own.

She was transferred in June to the home for welfare patients here.

Police Catch 3 On Job In Apartment Burglary

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Sheriff's deputies arrested three teenage suspects early today in a burglary at a south Seminole apartment complex and are investigating several apparently unrelated weekend residential burglaries and vandalism incidents.

Two men and a woman were arrested inside the recreation room at Plantation Apartments, 2100 Howell Branch Road, after a witness observed persons enter the structure by a window, deputies said.

Deputy Randy Pittman said names of the suspects booked into county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond each on burglary charges couldn't be verified since they carried no identification papers.

The suspects gave the following names and addresses when jailed: Kay Lynn Clark, 19, of Pass Christian, Miss.; Daniel Jon Cawfield, 18, of Fort Myers and Clifford Allen Johnston, 18, of Cape Coral, both Florida.

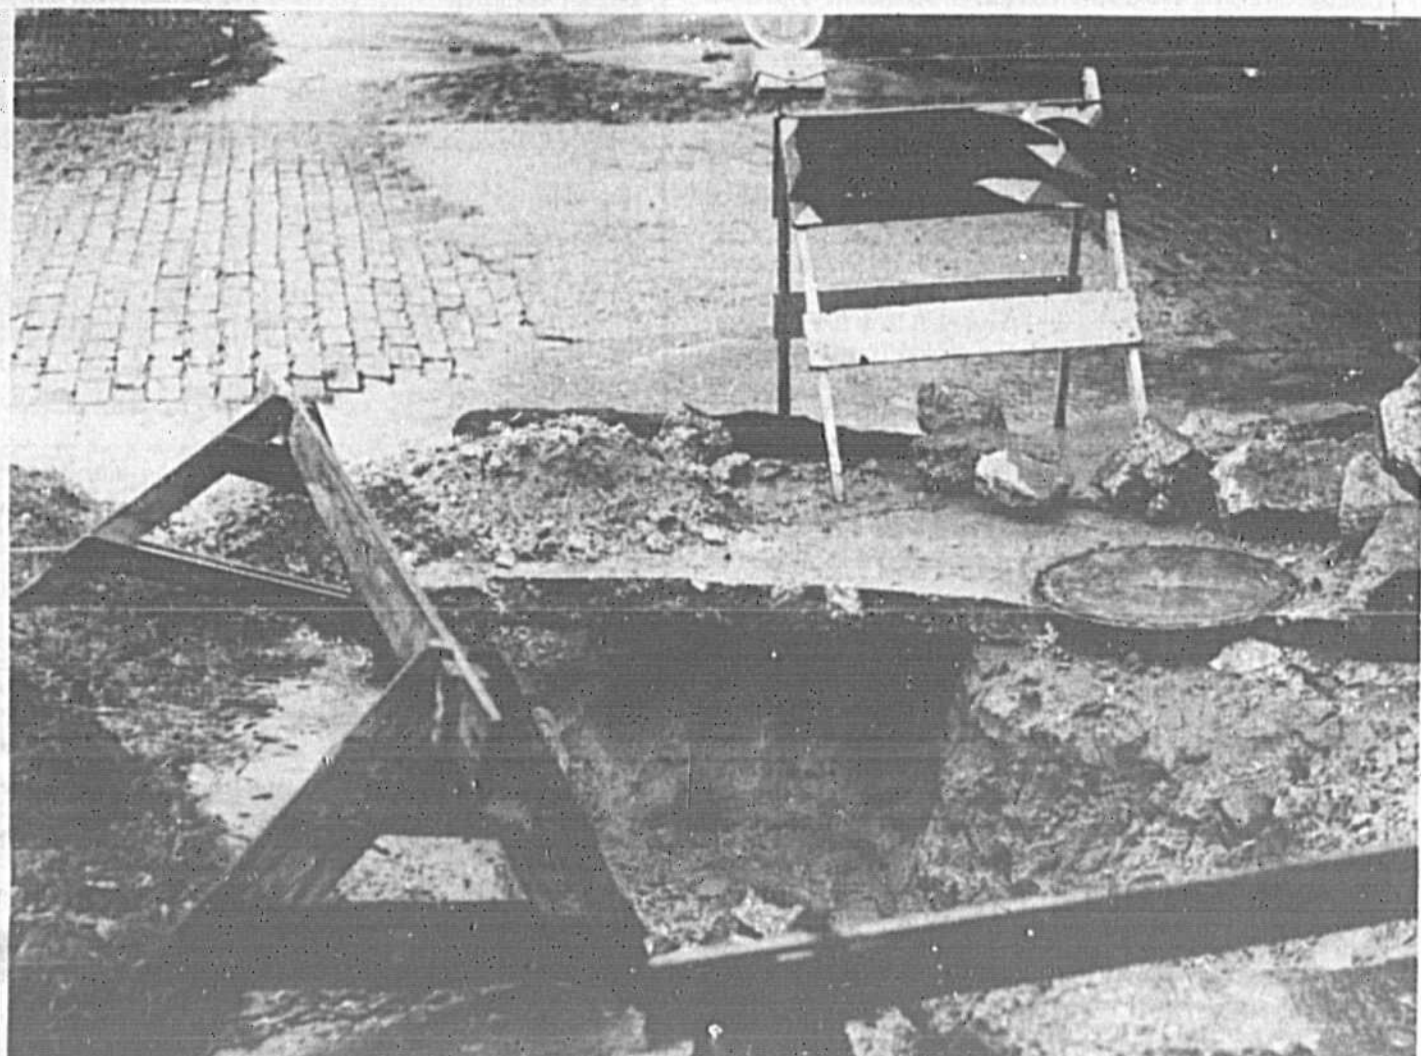

Ronald W. Thompson listed items valued at $2,000 as missing after a burglary at his 1928 E. Hampton Cir., south Seminole, residence, according to sheriff's reports.

Deputies said the missing items included a .22-caliber handgun, portable color television, cassette tape player, citizen's band radio, 35mm camera and zoom lens, camera case and accessories and $400 in silver dollars and assorted coins.

Deputy Randy Pittman reported entry to the residence was gained by apparently forcing a sliding glass door.

The same method of entry was used in a burglary at the 2160 Linden Rd. residence of Franklin Mulberry, according to deputy R.D. Strubidge. Items valued at $700 were reported missing, including a camera, lenses, projector and a vacuum cleaner.

Craig D. Malgoures reported that "several musical instruments, misc.aneous antiques, tape recorder and a color television" were missing following a break-in at his 508 Dew Drop

CAVE-INS HIT STORM SEWERS

Three cave-ins like one above gave Sanford workers headaches over the weekend. Causes are undetermined. This 8-by-10-foot hole followed cave-in at Fifth Street between Myrtle and Elm avenues, Sanford. Others were on Eighth Street between Park and Oak, and on Grandview near Lily Ct.

The President Until Jan. 20: A Whole List Of Things To Do...

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, back in the White House after his last scheduled flight on the presidential jet Air Force One, is planning a busy final 17 days as the nation's chief executive.

The President and Mrs. Ford returned to Washington on Sunday night after a two-week Christmas and New Year's vacation at Vail, Colo.

During the flight from Vail, Mrs. Ford told reporters aboard Air Force One that she feels a "sense of relaxation" now that Ford's two-and-a-half-year term is coming to an end.

"I am just very happy to have a well, happy husband to spend a few years enjoying life together," she said. "I would have been very happy if he had won but I wasn't completely distraught over the outcome of the election," she added.

The President, who skied nearly every day at the mountain resort, promised reporters before he left for Washington that he would be an active leader during his final days in office. "Because I'm President until Jan. 20," he explained, Jimmy Carter is inaugurated Jan. 20.

During the closing weeks, Ford will: —Direct the end-of-government controls on gasoline prices. The move, expected Tuesday, probably will meet strong opposition in Congress. —Send to Congress his recommendation for a tax cut, expected to total about $10 billion for individuals, plus tax breaks for corporations.

Congress is not expected to go along, instead leaving any tax cut decision to Jimmy Carter when he takes office.

—Decide whether to reconsider granting blanket amnesty to Vietnam-era draft evaders and military deserters. He is unlikely to alter his previous stand against such a blanket pardon or amnesty.

—Introduce legislation proposing that Puerto Rico be admitted as the 51st state. This proposal, made Friday, has been met by considerable opposition both in Congress and in Puerto Rico.

—Decide whether to recommend significant pay raises for members of Congress and 2,500 high federal officials. Ford has indicated he might leave this decision up to Carter.

The President also must complete three de jure messages: the State of the Union message to Congress by Jan. 11, the fiscal 1978 budget by Jan. 17 and a New Year's economic message to be sent a day or two later.

Republican politics also will figure prominently on Ford's agenda.

The Republican National Committee will meet late this month to select a successor to Mary Louise Smith, who is resigning as chairman.

Ford plans to hold a second Republican summit meeting this week, with Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, former Texas Gov. John B. Connally and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

...The President After Jan. 20: Reorganization Tops His Agenda

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter is focusing early on government reorganization, one of his major campaign promises.

The President-elect is meeting today with Thomas B. "Bert" Lance, his nominee as director of the Office of Management and Budget, and Chairman Jack Brooks, D-Tex., of the House Government Operations Committee.

The Brooks committee and its Senate counterpart, chaired by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., would act on any legislation embodying Carter's campaign pledge to reduce drastically the number of federal agencies, boards, commissions and committees.

Last month, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said after meeting here with Carter that he was going to talk to Brooks and Ribicoff about a Carter plan to amalgamate the federal government's energy-related activities.

If carried out, this would create a new Department of Energy and Natural Resources that would give a Cabinet slot to former Defense Secretary James B. Schlesinger, named by Carter as his White House assistant for energy policy.

Huge Crowd Hails Hirohito

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito stood behind a protective glass panel on a balcony at the Imperial Palace as a crowd of more than 165,000 persons jammed the palace grounds to wish him a happy New Year.

The glass also shielded members of the imperial family, including Empress Nagako and Crown Prince Akihito and his wife, Princess Michiko. The panel was installed after a Japanese man in 1969 used a slingshot to fire a steel ball at the emperor.

White thousands waved Japanese flags and shouted "banzai," — long life — one man shouted demands that Hirohito be investigated for involvement in World War II. Palace guards removed the man.

Hirohito, 75, began his reign Dec. 26, 1926. The public is invited twice a year to greet the emperor, on Jan. 2 and on his birthday, April 29.

Cardinal Pellegrino Quits

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Michele Cardinal Pellegrino, considered one of the most progressive Roman Catholic archbishops, has announced his resignation as archbishop of Turin for reasons of bad health.

The 73-year-old Italian cardinal was said to be one of the closest followers of the late Pope John XXIII's church liberalization policy.

Cardinal Pellegrino said during a New Year's Mass in Turin Cathedral that his health was poor and he had submitted his resignation to Pope Paul VI, who made him a cardinal in 1967.

The Pope must accept or reject the resignation. The Vatican has not said whether a decision has been reached.

Sadat Tones Down Party

CAIRO (AP) — President Anwar Sadat hosted a wedding reception for his 16-year-old daughter, Jihan, and the affair was considerably less elaborate than those given when the Egyptian president's other two daughters were wed.

Cairo newspapers reported that guests at the Sunday reception were given tea and sandwiches — an austerity move prompted by the country's poor economic condition.

Sadat gave lavish receptions in 1974 when his two elder daughters, Lubna and Noha, were married.

Jihan married Mahmoud Osman, an architect, at a private ceremony.

GOP Ripoff Star Resigns

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah state Sen. Douglas Bischoff, who gained national attention at the Republican National Convention this summer by ripping out the New York delegation's phone on the convention floor, has resigned.

Bischoff, a Salt Lake City Republican, said the pressures of his optometry business prevent him from continuing in the Utah Senate.

Film Director Injured

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — French film director Claude Lelouch suffered bruises when a stagecoach overturned and dumped him out during filming of his sequel to his classic movie romance, "A Man and a Woman."

Paula Wins After Bevis Quits Race

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Mrs. Hawkins had charged that the request was part of a plot by Mayo and Bevis to deny her the chairmanship just as they had done two years ago.

Then Mrs. Hawkins was in line in the rotation to become chairman but the two Democrats joined to elect Mayo instead. Since then, however, the rule has been changed to provide for strict rotation.

Swear-In

WINTER SPRINGS — The City Council meeting and swearing in of officials tonight at 7:30 will be held at the fire station on Moss Road due to muddy conditions around the civic building.

A reorganizational meeting is scheduled following the monthly reports from departments and the mayor, Westing Council candidates to take their oath of office will be John Daniels, John Sabatini and Donald Sites.

101, He's Given Freedom

PENSACOLA, (AP) — Public sentiment for a 101-year-old man jailed on a bootlegging conviction last week swayed a county judge into letting the oldest start the New Year a free man.

"I didn't know how old he was," Escambia County Judge Billy G. Ward said when he released Johnny White Saturday.

Ward was made the decision after receiving more than 20 telephone calls complaining about the 60-day sentence he had handed White.

Ward sentenced White last Wednesday to serve 60 days or pay a $500 fine on the conviction of having liquor in his possession with intent to sell it.

But White could only raise $100 dollars; he went to jail.

After spending three nights behind bars, White complained that nosy youths in the lockup gave him no peace.

Rogers Juggles Committees

WEST PALM BEACH, (AP) — Congressman Paul Rogers, a West Palm Beach Democrat, says he will relinquish his right to a committee chairmanship so he can keep his post on the public health and environment subcommittee.

Rogers, serving his 12th consecutive term representing Broward and Palm Beach's 11th District, is chairman of the subcommittee of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

"I would have the right to bid on the chairmanship for Merchant Marine and Fisheries, but I would prefer to keep my present chairmanship because it is dealing with issues that are more immediate and greater national priority," the 22-year House veteran said.

Rogers has been a central figure in federal legislation promoting cancer, heart disease and mental health research and treatment programs.

Secret Talks Renew Hope Of Miami Strike Peace

MIAMI (AP) — Officials of the striking hotel workers union say they are optimistic a partial agreement may be reached today in the walkout that has hit eight major Miami and Miami Beach hotels in the past 10 days.

"We hope that an agreement can be reached with some hotels," a spokesman for Local 355 of the Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Employees Union said Sunday. "There's some movement."

Another union official said, "We are trying very hard."

Coral Gables Chief Retires

CORAL GABLES (AP) — William Kimbrough, who headed the police department of this affluent community for 32 years, begins his first day of retirement this New Year's Day.

Kimbrough, 69, has worked for the department since 1928, minus the years of World War II when he was borrowed by the FBI.

In 1945, he was named the city's director of public safety putting both the police and fire departments under his direction.

At the time, there were only 17 officers under his command. The city now has 130 uniformed officers and 40 detectives.

Space Children Studied

MIAMI (AP) — Will spacemen and women living in the near future be able to produce "space children" free of genetic defects? Dr. Neal Bricker, vice chairman of medicine at the University of Miami, will be researching just such a question, as head of the new National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Space Science Board. "We will study the biology of reproduction in space," Bricker said, "but I think we'll begin with animal studies. If the animals can reproduce, that in itself will be a significant piece of information."

Death Row Victims Filed

TAMPA (AP) — A memorial to commemorate the murdered victims of those awaiting execution on Florida's death row will be established by the state's chief criminal prosecutor, says a state official.

State Atty. Robert Egan of Orlando says one of the reasons for the unprecedented memorial is to assure the survivors of murder victims that someone still cares about those who have been killed.

Another reason is to have easy access to information on all homicide victims without having to contact each of the 20 state attorney offices in Florida, Egan said.

The state has never had a central filing system in which information on murders and murder victims is easily accessible, he said.

Ominous Report On Soviet Arms

Chairman Leonid Brezhnev is getting impatient with the long pause in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks. When Treasury Secretary William Simon was at the dinner in Moscow a few weeks ago, Mr. Brezhnev said it was "high time" that the effort to reach a SALT II agreement was resumed.

On this side, President-elect Jimmy Carter is saying that the SALT negotiations will get "immediate attention" when he enters the White House, Cyrus R. Vance, named to be the next Secretary of State, has told newsmen that the arms talks will have "paramount importance."

Mr. Brezhnev holds the view that it was the American election campaign, and now the change of power in Washington, that brought progress in the arms talks to a halt. That's only part of the story. Even before SALT became derailed by our domestic politics, the negotiations had become snagged on the issue of how to treat the U.S. cruise missile and the Soviet Backfire bomber in the proposed formula to limit the numbers of strategic weapons on both sides.

That issue will be easier for Mr. Carter to deal with than it was for President Ford. We still face the question of whether a new, long-range SALT agreement can have the desired effect of slowing the strategic arms race when it does not attempt to limit progress in weapons technology.

Another ominous note was added to the picture when United Press International reported that U.S. intelligence has determined that a "very massive" missile development program is under way in the Soviet Union. Its goal is a fifth generation of ICBMs carrying more warheads with greater accuracy than the advanced multiple-warhead missiles the Russians are now loading into their launch silos. The intelligence report, says UPI, concludes that the Russians are working toward strategic superiority over the United States despite any SALT agreements.

The Ford-Brezhev summit at Vladivostok in 1974 produced a tentative agreement that would limit each side to 2,400 missiles and bombers, with no more than 1,320 of them armed with multiple warheads. Developments since then have shown the pitfalls in such numerical formulas when advancing technology produces new weapons like the cruise missile and a bomber like the Backfire which can serve either a tactical or strategic role.

Mr. Brezhnev's sense of urgency toward resuming the SALT talks removes any doubt about the willingness of the Russians to try to get a SALT II agreement in place before the SALT I accords of 1972 expire next October. However, there is still doubt, even a growing doubt — about whether SALT II can be made inclusive enough to deal with new weapons technology that can upset the strategic balance, and whether the Russians really want it.

Mr. Carter can consider his election victory as a mandate to keep pursuing the possibilities of detente with the Soviet Union. He and Mr. Ford hardly differed on that score. But he is in no better position than Mr. Ford to approach the SALT negotiations with any certainty that the Russians are not dealing with cards up their sleeves.

Amy's School

Amy Carter, daughter of President-elect Jimmy Carter, starts classes this month at Stevens Elementary School in Washington.

She will be the first child of a sitting president to attend public school in Washington since Theodore Roosevelt was president.

She will be one of very few children of top government officials enrolled in the Washington public school system. Most members of Congress, both black and white, send their children to private schools or to public schools in the suburbs of the city as do many other high government officials.

It is also true of many journalists. But in his acceptance speech at the Democratic convention in July, Carter condemned "a political and economic elite who have shaped decisions and never had to account for mistakes or to suffer from injustice."

"When the public schools are inferior or torn by strife, their doors go to exclusive private schools," he said.

Her education at Stevens Elementary should be a powerful symbol for a renewal of this country's deep moral commitment to quality and equality in the public schools. That is a commitment we must never surrender.

Around

The Clock

By AUDIE MURPHY

As the new year dawns, there is a quickening in the pulse of the United States of America, which may indicate the social and economic doldrums of the past few years may be coming to an end.

It is a vibration, a sound too faint to identify, an intangible spirit making its presence known in the land.

It is not a thing of economics or politics or technology and yet it is. Maybe the fields are vehicles for it. It cannot be measured. Nobody can say exactly where it will appear next. Nobody can capture it.

It comes closely and you can hear it in the sound of trains make late at night. Old people sense it and turn sharply as if someone had spoken to them. It is a promise with strings attached. Politicians feel it in spite of themselves. Businessmen see its shadow in the fluctuations of the stock market. They track it through the bowels of computers, but are disappointed. An invisible hand?

It produces good crops. Children sing of it in meaningless songs. Artists try to paint it, and some of them succeed. When the wind sweeps it across a pond, the fish start biting.

Construction workers can see it in the blueprints of a new building. It gives the poor the courage to try one more time.

Drowsy dogs lift their heads to note its passing, then go back to sleep. Huge rockets rise through it and invariably find their launch window. It makes for good sailing. It is in the morning smells of bacon and eggs.

Old volumes in the library hint of it. It is that which has been absent for too many years.

Many people noticed its absence in empty celebrations of New Years come and gone. In its place was bitterness, cynicism and despair.

In the Orient, they describe it in terms of yin and yang, the cyclical nature of the universe. Western ministers speak of it in terms of sin and blessedness.

Gamblers call it luck. Astrologers seek to understand it by watching the planets. American Indians are very conscious of it. Whatever it is, America has been languishing without it, but it seems to be returning. It's about time.

TOM TIEDE Ford Reign A Footnote In History

WASHINGTON — During the campaign the White House issued an 81-page review of what is considered to be the major accomplishments of Gerald Ford's two years in office. It was not greatly impressive. The president hadn't had time to shake the world, it was explained, "but watch him in the next four years."

There will not of course be four more years for Jerry Ford. Hence the contents of this 81-page review will have to stand as the complete story of his administration. The campaign booklet will be shelved alongside the legacies of other presidents, where, inevitably, history rather than voters will draw final conclusions.

How will the president compare to his 37 predecessors? Even from his close distance in time it seems clear he will not rank with the legends. Ford has not been a Lincoln. Most probably he'll be remembered as (1) the first appointed president, (2) the name who replaced and pardoned Richard Nixon, and, after this, for very little.

He will not likely become a historic pun, as is Millard Fillmore, "the first president to have an iron cookstove in the White House." Nor will he be leveled to the likes of Chester A. Arthur, whose administration was so lacking in substance that though the president seldom rose before 9:30 each morning neither did he miss much.

And certainly Ford's image will forever remain more interesting than that of, say, Van Buren, or Tyler, or Pierce, or Buchanan. These men served before the recording of history was relentlessly and awesomely efficient. Ford will live on, for better or worse, by virtue of the zillions of words and photographs describing his time.

Still, alongside the heritage of Jefferson, or that of either Roosevelt, it is fair to guess Mr. Ford will be little more than an accidental asterisk. And only the charitable will insist this is because he had so little time.

Ford took office with an opportunity granted no other leader in American history, that of owing virtually no one for his good fortune. He did not have political debts to pay.

Nowhere has this failure been more apparent than regarding the nation's energy dilemma. The president has continued to complain about energy problems. But not so the nation has been moved, or provoked, or shoved, into responding. Coal production is flat, national gas flow continues in a steady decline, the domestic output of oil at the lowest point in 10 years. And after two years in office the administration concedes that "our vulnerability to another oil embargo is very serious."

No time? In two years John Kennedy launched America toward the moon; in his first months in office Harry Truman brought a world war to a premature end; in 190 days Franklin Roosevelt set legislation in motion that lifted the nation from its knees. History is seldom interested in excuses when making its evaluation. And so Jerry Ford's 81 pages will probably be of small weight on the presidential shelf.

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Hundreds of American youths spent the Christmas holidays in dismal, dingy Latin American prisons.

Most of them were arrested on drug charges, usually for possessing a few pinches of marijuana, but sometimes merely for attending a party where marijuana was smoked. Often the evidence against them was dubious.

The U.S. government has done little to get them out. What they may not know is that the U.S. government helped to get them in.

The Washington officials in its zeal to halt the drug traffic from Latin America, brought pressure on various governments to crack down on drug violators. Unfortunately, the dragnets caught few smugglers but many users, including more than a few innocents.

We have written in the past about the plight of the young Americans who have received stiff sentences in Latin America for drug offenses that would have been considered minor in the United States. A couple of months ago, our associate Joe Spear interviewed several of them in Mexican jails. Their arrests were the direct result of pressure from Washington.

Today, we turn the spotlight on Bolivia, whose harsh narcotics laws failed to distinguish between pushers and users until a few weeks ago. Then a person caught with a gram of cocaine could be sentenced to 25 years in miserable Bolivian jails.

DON OAKLEY Self-Help Groups Spreading

It's true that in recent years Americans have tended to look more and more to Washington or some other "authority" for the solutions to their social problems.

But it's also true that the old American tradition of mutual self-help is far from vanishing from the scene. In fact, the number of groups organized around a particular problem or need has grown enormously in the past couple of decades.

According to one observer of the phenomenon, University of Michigan social work Prof. Thomas J. Powell, Americans have created "a vast, voluntary network of information sharing and mutual aid." He estimates there are hundreds of self-help groups with nationwide affiliation, and perhaps thousands of others that are oriented to local situations.

Granddaddy of them all is Alcoholics Anonymous, founded in 1855, with a current active membership of over 1.1 million.

Either fibroblasts of AA, or inspired by it, are Synanon and Narcotics Anonymous, aimed at persons coping with drug addiction, and Gamblers Anonymous, for people with a compulsive gambling habit.

Another and more recent "anonymous" is Parents Anonymous, a rapidly growing network of adults who have been guilty of child abuse and who, like alcohol or drug or gambling addicts, have joined together in the realization that they alone are responsible for their problem — and its solution.

In the health area alone there are any number of organizations, ranging from Recovery, Inc., which includes both discharged mental patients and any other persons suffering from emotional problems, to Make Today Count, an organization of cancer victims. There are such specialized groups as Lost Color Clubs, for people who have had their voice boxes removed by surgery, and Reach for Recovery, for pre- and postoperative patients with breast cancer.

Another category is represented by groups like Parents Without Partners and the Society of Compassionate Friends. Although the latter was organized by parents who have lost children through the Sudden Infant Death syndrome, it welcomes all bereaved individuals.

Still another category includes groups which focus more on public education and advocacy than on actual "help." Examples are various divorce reform groups.

Some groups are intended for short-term membership. Others, like Alcoholics Anonymous, can be lifelong commitments. The great value of all of them, besides offering people in trouble, is that they refer their "graduates" to a way to repay the help and support they received.

As Powell points out, a person who has triumphed over a problem is in the best possible position to help others who are struggling with it.

JOHN CUNNIFF Thoughts On Taxes

NEW YORK (AP) — The holidays are over now and it's about time you got back to thinking about the inequities in this economic existence of ours. Like the Tax Reform Act of 1976.

This act stipulates that the average price of your stocks on the final day of 1976, last Friday, will be the basis for computing the capital gains of your heirs, should these shares remain in your estate when you die.

Thereafter, whenever an heir sells shares bequeathed by you, the capital gains, and the taxes thereon, will be computed from that figure. If, for example, your shares averaged $10 on Dec. 31 and sometime in the future your heirs sell them for $15, they will be taxed on the basis of a $5 capital gain per share.

But now the disconcerting truth: In constant, or comparable dollars, the Dow Jones industrial average is now about 45 per cent lower than its high of 11 years ago.

This fact often is overlooked by even the best stock market analysts, so concerned are they with day to day movements. But stocks, like the dollar, become inflated.

Would you say, for example, that the dollar bill used today will buy as much as the dollar of 11 years ago? You know differently. And it's the same with stocks: they don't have the same buying power they used to have.

Therefore, rather than being near his all-time high, the stock market is really far, far below it. It has a long, long way to go just to get back to where it was.

In many instances, heirs are likely to inherit badly depressed stocks, on which they will have to pay capital gains taxes if those stocks merely creep back to their old values.

Inflation has always been the enemy of the stock market, not necessarily over the short-term but quite obviously over periods of 10 or 20 years. Over the past decade of inflation, you might observe, the major stock indexes wiggled every day but ended up just where they were.

Inflation drains money into the fixed-income markets. As bond yields and interest rates rise with inflation, investors prefer an assured, fixed income to the risky and sometimes lower yield from stocks.

Inflation also puts a hardship on many industries, cutting into profits and lowering their appeal as investments. Future profits, remember, are what stock prices are based upon.

Now that inflation seems to be receding, some analysts expect that stock prices will tend to move upward, although not even a tiny percentage of forecasters expect a surge.

Regardless of whether the gains, if they come, are large or small, it will still mean for some stockholders that they are merely battling back to where they were before.

And it might mean that some heirs will pay capital gains when they sell shares that are far, far below their value of 11 years ago.

Claudine Longet's Trial Gets Under Way In Aspen

ASPEND, Colo. (AP) — Singer-actress Claudine Longet's manslaughter trial opens today on charges of shooting her lover, professional skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich last March 21. The judge predicted the trial would last from two to four weeks. If convicted, the 34-year-old Miss Longet faces a maximum 10 years in prison and $30,000 fine. Miss Longet contends the gun she was holding fired accidentally.

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Regina Barnes, who chews gum and blows bubbles to help her concentrate when she plays bridge, is the youngest life master in bridge history, certified by the American Contract Bridge League. She got her 300th master point to earn the coveted gold card last February when she was 14, realizing a goal she began pursuing at age 9.

Pesticides Called Chaos

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government cannot guarantee Americans protection from poisonous pesticides because of "chaos" at the Environmental Protection Agency, Senate investigators charge. The accusation highlighted a 10-month study of EPA's pesticide program by the Senate subcommittee on administrative practice and procedure chaired by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. EPA Administrator Russell Train responded by conceding that his agency had made mistakes in its pesticide program, but he rejected implications in the report that the agency had acted secretly and broken its own regulations to cover up those mistakes.

New Year Toll: Fires Kill 45

Fires in seven states claimed at least 45 lives during New Year's weekend and damaged Boston's Old North Church. Officials said at least one of two fatal fires in Chicago may have been arson.

Police identified the Brookfield victims as Michael Fanta, 17, Ronald Fanta, 16, Theresa Fanta, 13, and twin brothers, Kevin and Kenneth Fanta, 11.

An unidentified woman was badly burned. The suspicious fire broke out in an apartment building on Chicago's Southwest Side early Sunday morning, killing five persons and injuring at least seven others. Police said two partly filled gasoline cans were found on the fourth floor of the building, where the fire apparently began.

The victims included a woman and her three children, ages 5 to 16.

On Saturday, another Chicago apartment house fire claimed nine lives on the Northwest Side. The cause of that blaze was undetermined.

The fire on Sunday was about a block from the site of a Christmas Eve fire in which 12 persons, including 10 children, were killed.

Nine persons were killed in a Skumokin, Pa., motor hotel fire which broke out about 2 a.m. Sunday. One of the victims was the owner-operator of the Walnut Towers Motor Inn in the central Pennsylvania community about 50 miles northeast of Harrisburg.

John Luckens, 44, died of smoke inhalation while trapped in an elevator between floors of the four-story hotel, fire officials said.

In Boston, historic Old North Church sustained smoke damage when a four-alarm fire burned out a nearby apartment house in the North End.

It was from the steeple of Old North Church that Paul Revere arranged for a friend to hang the "no lanterns" — the "no" by sea" of Longfellow's poem — on April 18, 1775, to warn patriots that British troops were moving across Boston Harbor. Then Revere set off on his famous ride through the countryside.

In Tennessee early Sunday, two fires killed eight persons, including three children.

In Springfield, Pa. Childs and her three young daughters, Teresa, Mimi and Sandy, died when their split-level frame home was destroyed by a blaze that erupted in a dry Christmas tree, police said.

And four people died in Union City when an apartment was destroyed by a fire of undetermined origin.

Richard Craden, 61, and three of his daughters, aged 13 to 4, died in a house fire in Duon, La., about 10 miles west of Lafayette early Sunday.

In Michigan, six children died in a blaze that swept a two-story game house on the southeast side of Grand Rapids early Saturday.

In New York City, an apartment fire on New Year's morning killed a grandmother and three of her grandchildren, aged 12 to 4. A fourth grandchild escaped, as did a woman and her 6-year-old daughter who lived on the top floor of the two-story Queens Village building.

Demos Maneuver To Pick Senate Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic senators will caucus Tuesday morning to elect a successor to Mike Mansfield as majority leader. The rival candidates are Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Robert C. Byrd, now the party whip, or deputy leader.

A spokesman for Humphrey says the secret ballot is the key to the battle for the post of Senate Democratic leader.

A conference of Republican senators also will be held Tuesday to choose their party leaders. The eight new GOP senators are to meet today with actual or potential candidates for party leadership posts.

Byrd has been acknowledged front-runner for the Democratic leadership post. However, David Gartin, Humphrey's administrative assistant, told a reporter that "we still think we have a chance" and that "the key thing" is that the vote will be by secret ballot.

Gartin said two or three senators have urged the Minnesota senator privately not to drop out, telling him they are going to vote for him even though they are publicly committed to Byrd. He declined to name the senators.

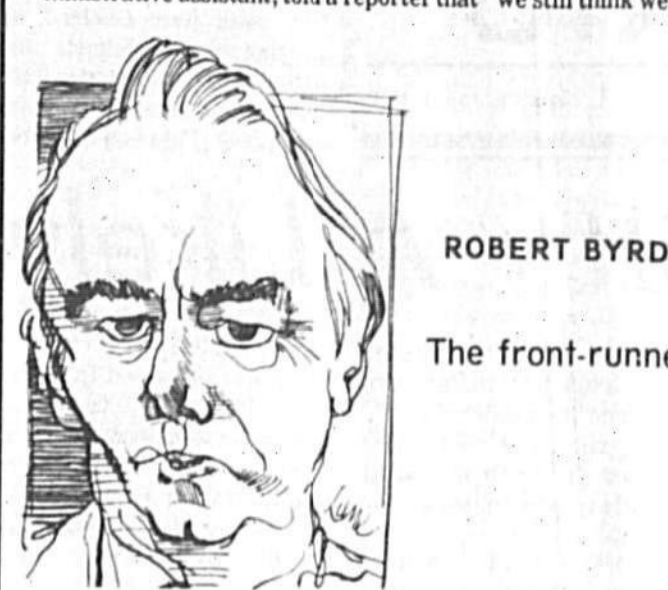

Byrd had no comment on Gartin's statement. Byrd, a West Virginia, has been the Democratic whip since 1971 when he unseated Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., from the post.

Mansfield, who served as the Senate Democratic leader for a record 16 years, did not run for re-election to the new Congress. On the Republican side, Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan is the only avowed candidate for minority leader. GOP senators are outnumbered 62-38 just as they were in the last Congress.

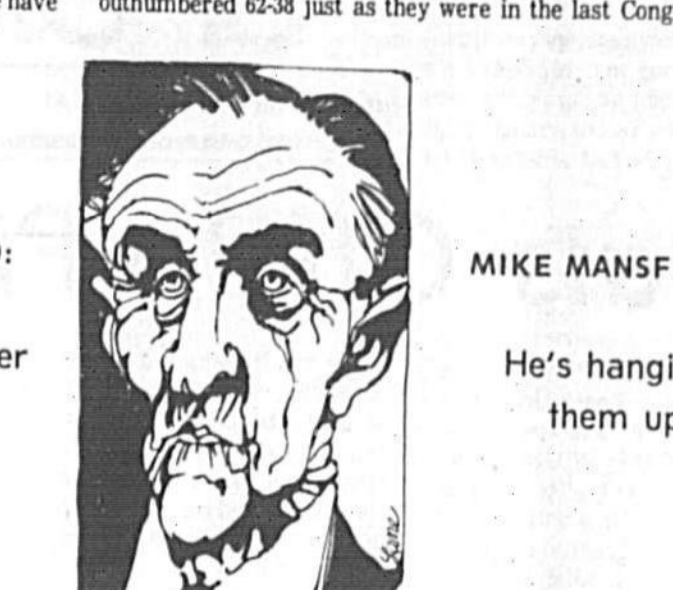

Sen. Howard H. Baker of Tennessee is a potential candidate for the GOP post. Baker is still waiting to see what his chances are before deciding whether to have his name put before the party conference.

A spokesman for Baker says it may be Tuesday morning before he decides whether to challenge Griffin for minority leader. The post is vacant because of the retirement of Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania. Griffin has been party whip under Scott.

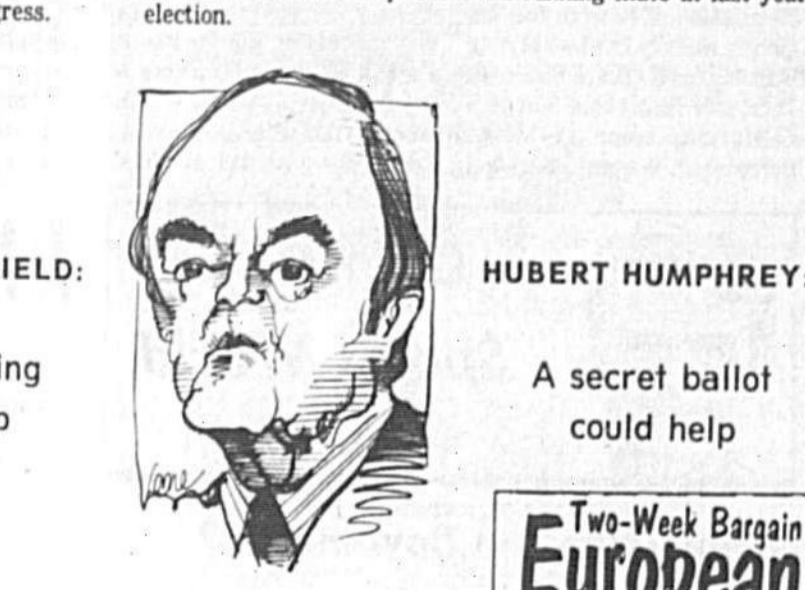

Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska is a candidate to succeed Griffin as Republican whip. A possible rival is Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, but an aide said Dole has made no effort to line up votes. Dole was President Ford's vice presidential running mate in last year's election.

laughed at his favorite-son candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination in the West Virginia primary, election, but that made it the only primary in which Jimmy Carter did not run. Byrd kept his state's convention delegates loyal and then delivered them to Carter.

All of this meant that when Mansfield announced his retirement earlier this year, Byrd was in a perfect position to cash in his chips. Although many liberals wanted somebody less conservative, they have failed to unite behind a single strong rival. Erosion set in, in the liberal camp; senators such as Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Floyd Stetson of Colorado, for his own reason, declared support for Byrd. Humphrey, backed now by Kennedy, claimed an advantage from the defeat of Byrd's allies at the polls in Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico. But Byrd, claiming no interest in the figures produced by his opponents, quickly went to work on the newly elected Democratic senators from other states, offering them the favors and courtesies at his command.

Behind the gentlemenly struggle could be detected the subtle hand of the embryonic

Carter White House. Of course Carter has great admiration for Humphrey, the strategists for the president-elect let it be known, but if Carter had his way, he would just as soon share the national Democratic spotlight with a figure so influential and widely respected as the senator from Minnesota.

Yet at the last private count Robert Byrd appeared to have a firm hold on 30 of the 62 votes in the Democratic caucus (counting his namesake Harry Byrd of Virginia, who is officially elected as an Independent). Byrd came to public notice in Jan. 1971, when he won a surprise victory over Sen. Edward Kennedy, replacing him as the Democratic whip. For four years before that, Byrd had served as secretary of the Senate Democratic Conference, a position without apparent significance but an excellent way to learn the ropes. After leaving Kennedy, the West Virginian became an independent senator, but he has been in the mainstream of the Democratic party. So it is that Muskie and Hollings, each disappointed by the soundings of support they made, have withdrawn from the competition in favor of Humphrey; and so it is that Humphrey has been in the mainstream of the Democratic party. So it is that Muskie and Hollings, each disappointed by the soundings of support they made, have withdrawn from the competition in favor of Humphrey; and so it is that Humphrey has been in the mainstream of the Democratic party.

Whatever the motives of the methods (and sometimes they were clumsy) Byrd's tactics have been successful. His own Senate seat is perfectly safe — he was re-elected without opposition in November, despite the fact that he no longer even maintains a home in West Virginia and rarely spends a night in the state. # '77 Food Prices Pick Up Where '76 Ended: Rising

By The Associated Press
 Consumers trying to start 1977 with a balanced food budget are going to have to hunt harder for bargains. An Associated Press marketbasket survey shows that 1976 ended with price boosts for a wide range of items. The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood products, checked the prices on March 1, 1973 at one supermarket in each of 13 cities and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. Among the findings in the latest survey: —The marketbasket bill increased at the checklist store in 12 cities during December, up an average of 5.1 per cent. The only decline, 5.9 per cent, was in Boston. —Price rises in grocery bills during 1976 were due mainly to the soaring cost of coffee. The AP survey found the marketbasket bill at the start of this month was up at the checklist store in 10 cities and down in three, for an overall increase of 3.5 per cent. Coffee was up in 12 cities over the year, rising an average of 63 per cent, and was unavailable in the requested size and brand at the checklist store in the 13th city. When coffee was abstracted from the marketbasket bill in the 12 cities where it was available, the AP survey showed that this January's totals were less than last year at the checklist store in most areas, for an overall decrease of 3.4 per cent. —Coffee prices also will keep going up, despite calls for a boycott by consumers. The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chicken, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Salt Lake City and Seattle. —The trends in beef and pork prices are expected to continue, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The USDA has predicted that the average price of a pound of beef will go up 10 cents next year. —Coffee prices also will keep going up, despite calls for a boycott by consumers. ## Let's Grow Longwood!

We've got a couple of good ways for you to grow. Our new office in the Longwood Square Shopping Plaza is now open. Of course, we'd like you to see it, get to know our people, and learn a little about the very helpful financial services we're now offering there. First, we'd like for you to open a savings account with us. We'll take care of making that grow for you with our current high interest rates. And, if you open an account for $200 or more, we'll give you one of the seven beautiful plants you see pictured below. That will give you another way to get something growing. You come out ahead both ways. So, drop on by and let's get something growing. We look forward to meeting you from nine until four, Monday through Thursday and from nine until six on Fridays. Our special plant offer will be good through the month of January only!

Miss Cranmer, James Wade Jr. Exchange Vows

Rebecca Ann Cranmer became the bride of James Harold Wade Jr. on Dec. 11, at 7:30 p.m., at First United Methodist Church of Sanford. Rev. Leo King performed the candlelight, double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cranmer. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Wade Sr., all of Sanford. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown of can-embroidered Chantilly lace accented with clusters of seed pearls embellished the bodice and long sleeves. Appliques of the same lace clusters were repeated on the flared skirt which terminated into a chapel train. Her full length veil of imported silk illusion was secured to a Cemelot headpiece fashioned of seed pearls and lace. The bride carried a Prayer Book arranged with a formal cascade of red miniature carnations, Christmas greens and

Circles End '76 With Festivities

The sixteen members of the AZALEA CIRCLE brought 40 gifts to place under a Christmas tree at their luncheon at the Sheraton Inn at Sanford. The gifts were for people at Car's Care Center in DeLand. A report that a bed of red and white azaleas has been planted on the north side of the Deltona Library building was received with acclaim. The first meeting of 1977 will be at the home of Mrs. Robert Davidson. Each member is asked to bring a "Bedside" arrangement to be given to the DeBarry Manor. The CARNATION CIRCLE inducted a new member—Mrs. Ellis J. Potter—at their Christmas luncheon at the DeLand Country Club, with Mrs. John G. Mayer as chairman. Mrs. Archy T. Schroek was announced as winner of the mini-horticulture exhibit. Mrs. Asbell and Mrs. Hutchison, accompanied by Mrs. G. Delarue, sang Christmas songs. Members joined in singing carols. A Christmas luncheon was held for PERIWINKLE CIRCLE at the home of Mrs. G. Malmquist. Co-hostesses were Mrs. John J. Falzone and Mrs. David Fortier. President Mrs. Bernard Fitzpatrick conducted a short business meeting at which it was decided to contribute to the zoo at Sanford as a new project. Members brought Christmas gifts to be distributed to the University Home in DeLand. After a short business meeting at the home of Mrs. Linné Therault, the POINSETTIA CIRCLE attended a Christmas luncheon at Lord Chumley's. Checks were sent to the Salvation Army, the Band Boosters of the Deltona Junior High and for horticulture at Raiford Prison. The Jan. 20 meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Samuel Evans with Mrs. Edmund Williams as co-hostess.

Drinking Man Not Thinking Man

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will print this suggestion for people who spend more money in bars than they can afford: Since you cannot refrain from drinking, why not start a saloon in your own home? Be the only customer and you will not have to buy a license. Give your wife $55 to buy a case of whiskey. There are 240 drinks in a case. Buy all your drinks from your wife at 60 cents a drink, and in 12 days (when the case is gone) your wife will have $90 to put in the bank and $55 to buy another case. If you live 10 years and continue to buy all your drinks from your wife and then die in your boots, your widow will have $7,080 on deposit—enough to bring up your children, pay off the mortgage on the house, marry a decent man and forget she ever sense of male pride. What would you call a female who has an exaggerated sense of female pride and delights in making men feel like little boys? In other words, Abby, what word can be used to describe the female counterpart of the "macho" male? AROUSED I like this guy, but I am responsible to my higher-ups. Do I look the other way again, talk to him, blab to the boss or wise up the wife? DEAR ABBY: I swear, like everyone else, that a grown man writing to you had to be the silliest thing in the world, but I have no one else to go to for a solution. I had a department where I work, and a coworker of mine who has an eye for the ladies is my problem. He's having an affair with one of the secretaries here, and not only is she going to be shipped out, but she is one of his wife's best friends. He has had other affairs, but I've always looked the other way, figuring it was none of my business. But this time, the work in my department is affected. He cuts his working hours short and makes excuses to be around her instead of tending to his business. I like this guy, but I am responsible to my higher-ups. Do I look the other way again, talk to him, blab to the boss or wise up the wife? DEAR WHAT: Tell your friend that his lapses on the job are beginning to show—for reasons that are no secret around the office. Furthermore, if he doesn't shape up he's likely to be shipped out. Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 49796, L.A., Calif. 90044. Enclosure stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL For Tuesday, January 4, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be very careful today not to alienate independent allies. You're on very thin ice and could easily fall through.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There's a possibility today you could say the wrong thing to your boss. If you have a criticism, be careful how you voice it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't participate today in anything that smacks of financial risk. The odds are definitely not in your favor through tomorrow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You won't get away with anything today if you're looking out for No. 1 only. If your approach is selfless, be prepared to be jumped on.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Guard against magnifying problems today and making them more frustrating than they really are. Don't sweat little things.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid any type of entanglement today where money is an issue. Don't borrow, lend or invest anything, even with close friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Using hard and complicated procedures doesn't assure success for you today. It's better to operate with simple, proven methods.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Take that chip off your shoulder today. Don't let minor impositions of others get you uptight and surly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Above all don't poke your nose into situations where it doesn't belong today. Know the boundaries and stay within them.

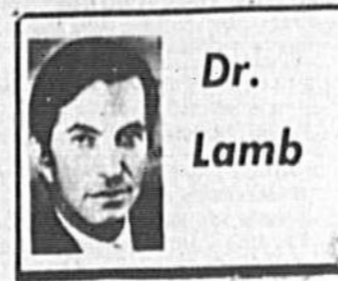

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) One-to-one relationships may prove particularly tests for you through tomorrow. Be extremely tactful when negotiating in close quarters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You might have some difficulties today involving people you're working with. Have the courage to stand up to them. They don't realize they might be wrong.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Betting in the blind today can prove to be a costly experience. Don't get mixed up with anything less solid than a blue-chip stock.

God Is The Best Of Physicians

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 59, female, married and have high blood pressure around 175. I am worried about strokes or a heart attack, but my faith believes only "God" is the greatest of all physicians. I wonder if you can buy something over the counter at a drug store?

DEAR READER - If you belong to the faith I think you might, you may be interested to know the lady who founded the faith wore glasses - but I don't know where she bought them. You should be concerned about your blood pressure as it does increase the chances that you could have either a stroke or heart attack or other disorders associated with diseased arteries.

I usually prefer to see a person with high blood pressure improve his or her living patterns first if that can be done. If you have any amount of fat at all under your skin, go on a sensible diet and exercise daily. At least try to walk 30 minutes to an hour a day. Walk in two sessions if you need to, in order to not be uncomfortable.

The weight loss often lowers a person's blood pressure, and when it is successful it is far better for you than any medicines available for moderate elevations of blood pressure.

Also you should avoid coffee, tea and colas, as well as cigarettes. None of these measures should conflict with your faith. I know of no Christian religion that is against a good healthy diet program, exercise and tea.

To give you more information I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Do you have any information pertaining to appendicitis and how to prevent it? Also I would like to know if an operation is the only answer if a person has an appendicitis attack?

DEAR READER - We have no definite information on how to prevent attacks of appendicitis. Dr. Burkitt and others who have studied the effects of cereal fiber bulk in the diet believe that appendicitis is rare in people who eat sufficient cereal fiber in their diet. These investigators believe appendicitis is just one of many diseases that we suffer because of our modern bulkless diet that leads to poor colon function.

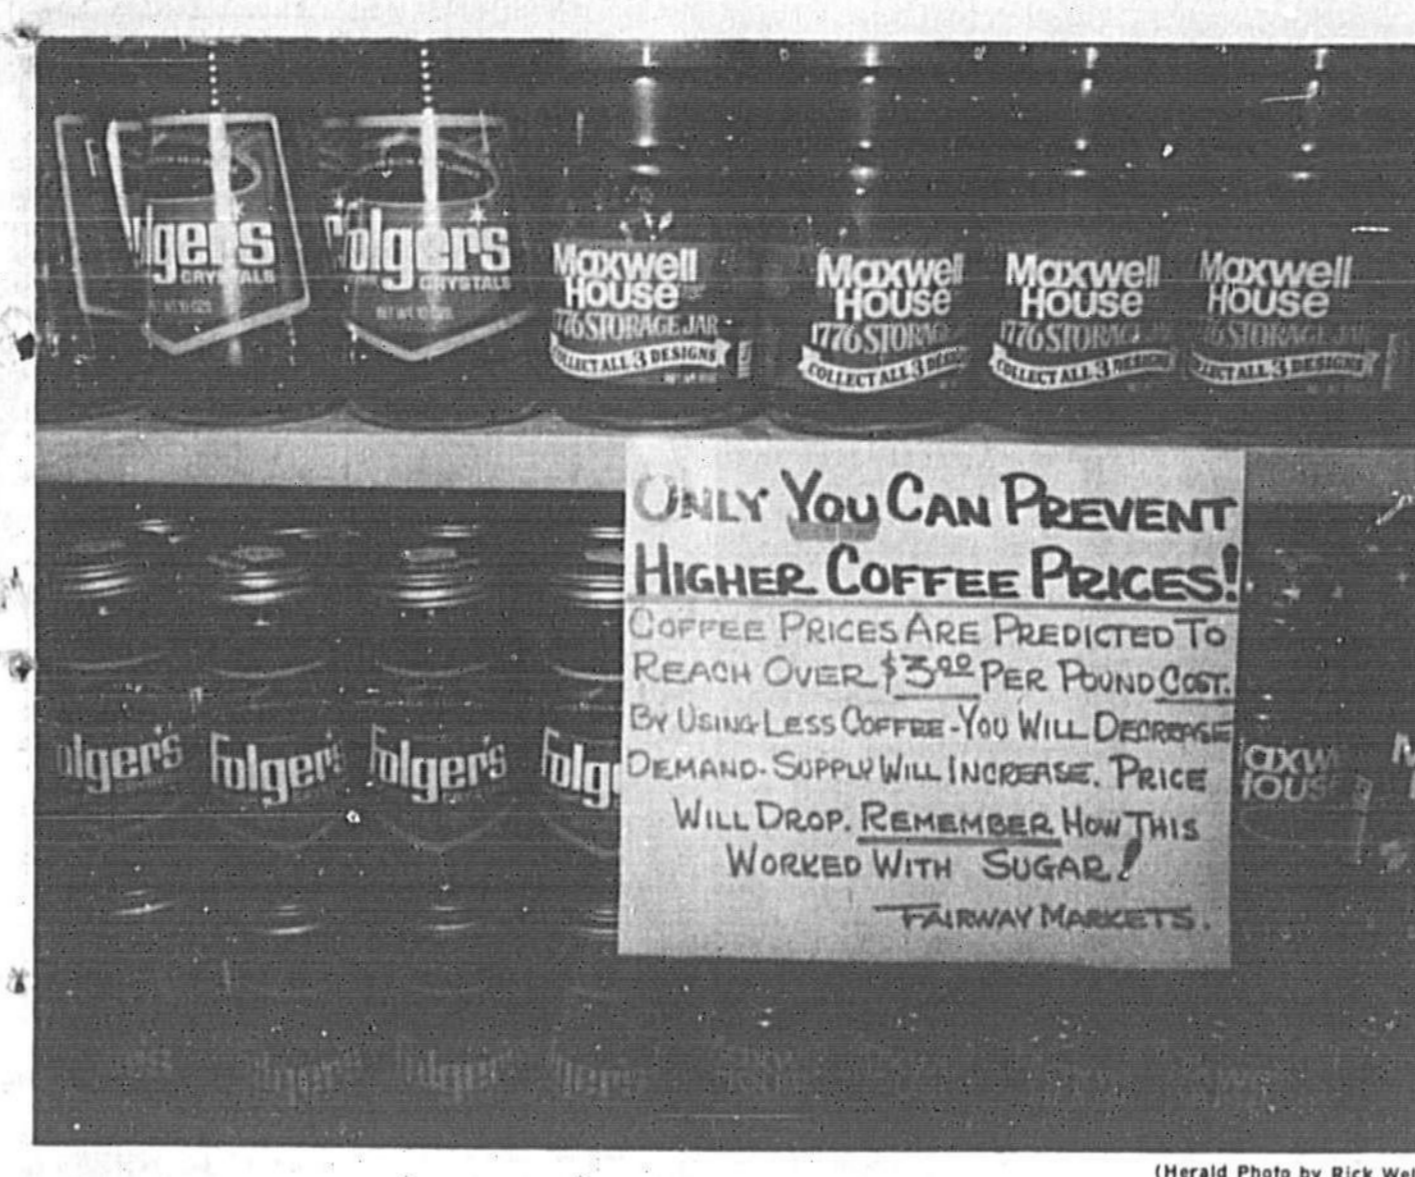

Appendicitis may be confused with several other medical conditions. These include the pain a girl may have related to ovulation, or inflammation of large lymph nodes inside the abdomen in either sex.

Once a case of appendicitis is definitely diagnosed most doctors agree that the only treatment is surgical. If the patient is severely ill for any reason, a period of patient preparation may be required. This can be required if the appendix has already ruptured. Otherwise, one of the few conditions for delaying surgery would be a very recent heart attack or similar severe illness.

In general doctors do not think trying to abort the attack with antibiotics is acceptable. The risks are too great.

ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT HIGHER COFFEE PRICES! COFFEE PRICES ARE PREDICTED TO REACH OVER $3 PER POUND COST BY USING LESS COFFEE. YOU WILL DEMAND SUPPLY WILL INCREASE. PRICE WILL DROP. REMEMBER HOW THIS WORKED WITH SUGAR!

Markets Shun Boycott, Perk Slowly On Prices

While a coffee boycott is being waged in supermarkets of the northern United States, southern chains are taking a softer approach for the time being as the rapidly increasing prices of the favorite morning hot beverage.

Woody Daniel, president of Fairway Inc., which operates a chain of supermarkets in Florida, said today that signs have been placed in all the company outlets urging customers to cut down on their consumption of coffee to bring prices down.

"We are telling the people, 'If you want to get prices down, quit drinking so much coffee,'" Daniel said. "At the bottom of the sign it says 'Remember Sugar,'" he said.

In the Central Florida area, Daniel said, coffee is selling for about $2.49 per pound. The chains as of today are paying $3.08 per pound wholesale. Retail prices lag behind the wholesale cost by about one month he said, with the heavy increase in the wholesale cost indicating retail prices will be going up again in the next few weeks.

"Every grocery store uses such commodities as coffee, soap, sugar, flour and baby food as loss leaders," he said, explaining that on these items and some other stores make no profit, but rather sell at a loss to entice customers into the market.

"These are sensitive items that every housewife knows the price of," Daniel said. Before the price of coffee started skyrocketing, popular brands were selling for about 89 cents a pound.

"We are trying to remind the people of what happened to the price of sugar before they started buying less and thus forced the price down," he said. He recalled that 2½ years ago, sugar was selling for 49 cents per five pounds and 39 cents per five pounds retail on sale when the price started rising until it reached a high of $3.18 per five pound bag.

When consumers cut down on their use of the sweetener by using substitutes, prices started coming down and currently are about 78 cents per five pounds, he said. "Now the sugar producers are screaming bloody murder that they are losing money and asking for federal subsidies. They aren't talking about the 500 per cent profits they were making," Daniel said.

"If the price of the coffee beans are so high, why are the producers allowing such tremendous deals. They are giving a $18 buying allowance and they are publishing 40 cents off coupons. What is happening is that the coffee producers are gouging and speculating..."

speculating just like the sugar people did and the answer is for the public to stop drinking so much coffee," Daniel said. The Winn-Dixie and Publix food chains have not officially taken as firm a stand as Fairway.

Layman Goodman, manager of the Sanford Winn-Dixie at 25th Street, said no directive on coffee has come in from the company's headquarters. He said those who wish to go to a coffee substitute may try hot tea or hot chocolate. Coffee at Winn-Dixie is selling for $2.29 per pound and "We are not making any money on it," Goodman said.

Kwiatkowski Challenges Decision Commission Knocked On Split Legal Staff

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer Democratic Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski today challenged the county commissioners intent to abide by last year's decision to hire an in-house legal staff to handle all the county's legal matters.

Kwiatkowski's challenge came during a commission meeting after Director of Public Works Jack Schuder informed commissioners he has solicited names of four persons who have applied for the position of utility attorney.

Kwiatkowski accused fellow commissioners of deviating from their decision to allow the new in-house legal staff to handle all legal matters - including those of the utility department. He said the commission is trying to "piecemeal" the legal responsibilities out to various attorneys.

Former Utility Attorney Edmund Woolfolk, an associate of County Attorney Tom Freeman, resigned his position as utility attorney last year shortly before Freeman himself announced he would not seek the lead attorney's commission in the newly approved legal department.

Kwiatkowski told commissioners today he wasn't aware of any official action in which the commission voted to hire an outside utility attorney. "The decision has been made somewhere, at sometime, Kwiatkowski said. "If I researched the records, I assume I can find it."

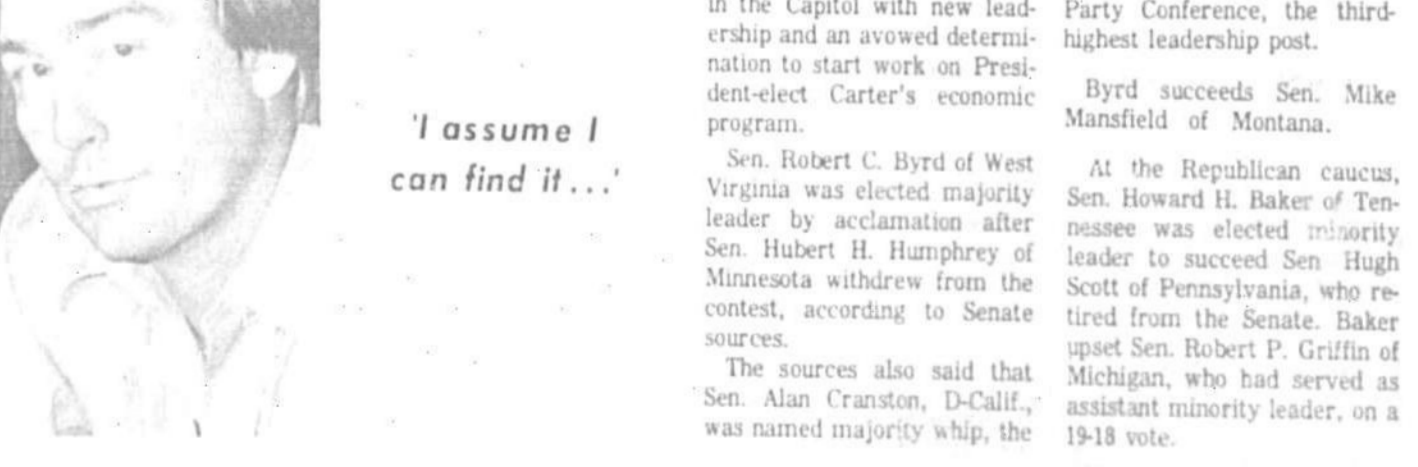

Commission Chairman Dick Williams responded to the criticism by stating that the commission has officially approved an advertisement which asks for a utility attorney separate from the lead attorney who will be in charge of the in-house staff. Williams also informed Kwiatkowski that he personally has written a letter to Seminole County attorneys advising them the position of utility commission is available.

With Kwiatkowski dissenting, the commission then agreed to consider four applicants for the position of utility attorney at a special meeting on Thursday. Kwiatkowski said he opposed the motion because he did not feel the commission is sticking to its original intent of allowing the in-house legal staff to handle all legal matters.

Commissioner Bob French said it was his understanding that a utility attorney is needed now. The county has advertised for a $28,000-a-year attorney to act as a department chief for a new legal staff. Although 12 applicants have applied for the position, a final decision is not expected for at least two to four months.

Shuder said the following persons have applied for the utility position: Harvey Alper of Altamonte Springs and the firms of Graham, Markel and Scott of Winter Park; Gray Evans, Harris and Robertson of Orlando; and Shinsler, Logan and Moncrief of Sanford.

The county commissioners last year opted for creation of an in-house legal staff to try and save money for the taxpayers by trying to take the attorney's position out of politics.

WASHINGTON (AP) - With the Democrats firmly in control, the 95th Congress today established two-year residence in the Capitol with new leadership and an avowed determination to start work on President-elect Carter's economic program.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia was elected majority leader by acclamation after Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota withdrew from the contest, according to Senate sources.

The sources also said that Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., was named majority whip, the post Byrd had held for the past six years, and that Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, was chosen chairman of the Democratic Party Conference, the third-highest leadership post.

Byrd succeeds Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana. At the Republican caucus, Sen. Howard H. Baker of Tennessee was elected majority leader to succeed Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, who retired from the Senate. Baker upset Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, who had served as assistant minority leader, on a 19-18 vote.

anything else for that matter. When South goes after hearts he will have to lose a trick in that suit on account of the 5-1 break. It won't give him a hot item score. Every other man in four spades will have taken the same line of play. Four spades down one will be about average."

Jim: "Lots of rubber bridge players will take this same line of play. It can be costly if West holds all three trumps and the hearts break badly. However, a really careful rubber bridge player will leave trumps entire!"

A Florida dealer wants to know if declarer can play from his hand and then play from dummy before his left-hand opponent has played. The answer is that he can do this if he wants to, but he can't change the card that he has played prematurely.

Carter To Trustees: (Pea)nuts To You All For Ethics Sake

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) - President-elect Carter today made public a tough ethics code for top government officials and pledged to free himself of any possible conflict of interest by turning over his prosperous peanut business to trustees who will lease or sell it.

The ethics code requires presidential nominees, starting with Cabinet members, to divest themselves of any holdings that do conflict with their government duties and to submit detailed statements of their personal wealth.

In addition, for the first time, they must sign a pledge to remain in government for their full appointed term, unless dismissed sooner. They also must agree that for two years after leaving government they will avoid any private job that would cause them to deal with their old departments or agencies on matters that concerned them as federal officials.

"It is the objective of the new administration to avoid any conflict which could in any way influence any government officer except in the even interest of the people," said the written guidelines. Another announcement said Carter's interest in Carter Farms Inc., which consists of agricultural real estate in this area, and Carter's Warehouse, a partnership that buys peanuts from area farmers for subsequent marketing, will be transferred to a special trust.

The land owned by Carter Farms will be retained in the trust so long as he is president and will be rented for an annual fixed amount. "Thus," the announcement said, "the Carter family will not be affected financially from profits or losses of any of the farm operations." Carter's Warehouse, in which the
