By CHARLES J. ABBOTT UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON — America's schoolchildren will eat healthler lunches if schools lock up the candy and soda machines and put more fruits and vegetables - and fewer fatty foods - on the cafeteria menu. a panel of experts said.

The unofficial Citizens Commission on School Nutrition also urged a sharp increase in funding for the school lunch program, which feeds about 24 million children a for efforts over several years to limit the fat content in those foods to a level accounting for no more than 30 percent of the calories in a school lunch. Many health authorities, as well as the new edition of the government's Dictary Guidelines for Amerlcans, recommend a 30 percent ceiling on fat. A recent federal study indicated fat accounts for 37 percent of the calories consumed by children.

Congress appropriated $3.38 billion for the school lunch program this fiscal year. The program provides free or reduced-cost meals to low-income children.

School digs out time capsule

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD - Yesterday as the granite cornerstone was lifted from the northwestern corner of the original building at what is now Milwee Middle School, there was an unexpected present for school historians.

A time capsule, buried Jan. 23, 1924, had been stashed inside the 65-year-old structure.

The contents were simple: a letter from T.W. Lawton, superintendent of schools at the time and a copy of the Sanford Daily Herald.

"It was very, very interesting to see the news from that time," said Eugene Petty, principal of Milwee Middle School. The news included an item about the beginning of construction on the school and now as a middle school. In 1924 when the construction began, there was a great deal of growth in the Seminole County school district. A $15,000 bond issue helped pay for the construction of Lyman, the Goldsboro School on 20th Street in Sanford and the Ovledo School, now Lawton Elementary School on Graham Avenue in Oviedo.

The old buildings are being torn down and replaced with newer facilities. Classes are now being held in portable classrooms on the southern portion of the campus.

Petty said he did not expect to find the time capsule when the cornerstone was removed.

There was no record of it that I know of," he said. "It was a surprise...a nice surprise."

Petty said the materials, which were fairly well preserved, will be placed in a special case in the new school administration building when it is completed.

The case will contain other historical items from the school. Some items are those found on campus. others have been donated by Bee Time, Page 5A

Longwood citizen Vincent Warren addressed the commission Monday night during the public participation period. Citing the property tax increase from the previous city administration, he asked that the taxes be rolled back now that the new commission did not plan to pursue the original city improvement plans.

Prostitute denies she has AIDS

BRADENTON - A prostitution suspect charged with attempted murder denies she has AIDS. In fact, a Manatee sheriff's spokesman said she tested negative for the disease in Bradenton police arrested the 30-year-old woman on a charge of attempted murder last week. They claim she offered to perform oral sex on an informant knowing she was infected with the acquired immune deficiency syndrome virus.

Police based that charge on a secret, informal list maintained by city emergency squad workers of people who told them they had AIDS.

Sheriff's spokesman Dave Bristow said the woman told a nurse after she arrived at the county jail that she had been voluntarily tested in June at Manatee's state-run public health

With the woman's consent, the nurse verified the informa-tion with the health unit and showed the tests were negative. Jeff Peters, president of the Florida Bar's AIDS Legal Defense Fund, said the rescue squad workers may have broken the law by keeping the list and making the woman's name available to

Prosecutor: Tubbs planned war on Jews

JACKSONVILLE - Green Beret Michael Tubbs, charged with stockpiling weapons and explosives, was preparing to go to war with Jews and blacks, a prosecutor said.
U.S. Magistrate Harvey Schlesinger ordered Tuesday that the

30-year-old Army sergeant be held without bond. A U.S Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agent testified that many of the weapons seized from four Jacksonville locations last month have been traced to Army bases where Tubbs was stationed. He was at Fort Campbell,

Tubbs surrandered to ATF agents Nov. 26. Nine days earlier his brother, John, and longtime friend Stephen Fussell led authorities to four caches of military weapons stockpiled around the city.

John Tubbs, 25, is free on $25,000 bond. Fussell is being held on the same amount.

The hardware included mines, grenades, machine guns, anti-aircraft weaponry and 60 pounds of dynamite, enough firenower to blow up the Gator Bowl.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Charles Truncale said that Pussell told authorities Tubbs planned to wage war against blacks and Jews. Truncale also said Tubbs had complained that the United States had given too many rights to minorities.

'Toxic Top 10' dumping was legal

- Florida's 10 worst polluters released nearly 179 million pounds of dangerous chemicals into the air, water, soil and sewers in 1988, and it was perfectly legal, according to a "Toxic Top 10", study released

Leading the list was ITT Rayonier Inc. of Fernandina Beach, which released 54 million inds of ammonium sulfate in 1988. Ammonium sulfate is an mmonia salt that emits moderately poleonous fumes.

Other toxins ranged from phosphoric acid, a corrosive that can cause severe eye and skin irritation, to amonium nitrate, a combustible gas that can cause faintness and low blood presure, said Florida International University business professor Bob Hogner, whose students compiled the "Toxic Top 10" list.

Some of the toxins escaped through windows and smokestacks. Others were buried deep in the ground, heaped on top of the ground, or dumped into

Miami cleans up after rioting sparked by acquittal of police

United Press International

MIAMI - A Hispanic neighborhood ravaged by hundreds of rioters returned nearly to normal Tuesday as residents and city workers cleaned up after the looting and burning sparked by the acquittal of six police officers in the besting death of a Puerto Rican drug dealer.

The smell of smoke from fires set in anger the night before lingered in the air as small groups of people watched fire crews working in gutted buildings and talked about the violence and the jury verdict that led to the destruction in their neighborhood. Officials estimated the damage at about $2.5 million

The city was taken by surprise by the violence that erupted about 6:30 p.m. Monday in the predominantly Puerto Rican Wynwood neighborhood north of downtown, said Mayor Xavier Suarez.

"I certainly didn't expect kids with hoods (to hide their identity), " he said. "I've never seen that before. That's a new technique for me. We just have to keep learning and people have to understand that a court decision cannot lead to extreme violence and a sort of loss of total control

There were no serious injuries in the melee. which started hours after a federal jury cleared the Miami officers of conspiracy and other charges in the death of Leonardo Mercado, who lived just a few blocks from where the heaviest rioting occurred. Police said there were about 10 arrests.

Police following tipe Tuesday went to homes in the predominantly Puerto Rican Wynwood neighborhood north of downtown to recover stolen property, including computers and other office equipment. However, there were no more police on patrol than usual, said police spokesman Bobby Navarro.

"I would say things are normal - about as normal as you can get after a riot." he said.

Meanwhile, community and city leaders conducted several meetings during the day. Some leaders and residents said the Puerto Rican community has been invisible, its needs overshadowed by those of the city's other minorities.

"It's not really good doing what we're doing, but that's the only way we can get attention," one young woman said. Others said the violence was out of character for the neighborhood.

Majority leader Lippman steps down

By INCHAEL MOLINE

TALLAHASSEE - Rep. Fred Lippman stepped down Tuesday as House majority leader, saying publicity about a $47,000 payment to a woman who accused him of sexual harasement was interfering with the work of the House.

Lippman told colleagues during an issues conference that he was stepping aside temporarily, "until this matter can be cleared

Lippman, D-Hollywood, said the controversy was distracting the House from more important matters.

"No one has stepped forward with any credible evidence that I have done anything other than attempt to serve my constituents effectively with the highest standard of conduct. In time, 1 am confident that this will be confirmed to everyone's satisfaction." Lippman said.

"In the meanwhile, I have and 1966.

devoted too much of my life to this institution to see its important work impaired unnecessarily," Lippman said.

House Speaker T.K. Wetherell assigned the duties of majority leader to Rep. Bolley Johnson, D-Pensacola, and Rep. Everett Kelly, D-Tavares.

Earlier, Lippman insisted he had done no wrong.

"I want the truth to be told," Lippman said. "I am completely without any guilt. All the allegations are baseless."

Numerous lawmakers had complained that the affair was becoming a distraction. Some lawmakers said they were planning to ask Wetherell to appoint a special investigatory committee to determine if any wrongdoing occurred.

Kathie Jennings, a former House staff member, complained in 1987 that she was the victim of sexual harassment by Lippman and a former committee staff director between 1983

She later settled the complaint for $47,000, signing an agreement to pay double the money back if she ever discussed the case. The case finally came to light last month.

Rep. Elaine Gordon, D-North Miami, said Jennings had come to her with her complaints and that she urged Jennings to file a formal complaint with the Florida Human Relations Commission.

Instead, Jennings hired a lawyer and quietly worked out the settlement.

"My suspicions were aroused when I told her what the remedies were and that I would be willing to assist her in using those remedies, when she turned me down and said, 'Well, never mind, let me think about it,' and got a lawyer," Gordon said. "I don't know who sold her a bill of goods, but she went for money instead of substantiating charges of sexual harasement. said Gordon, who was asked about the affair during a break

CAPE CANAVERAL -The Columbia crew coaxed a tempermental $50 million telescope mount into action Tuesday, passing close by the Soviet Mir space station as they struggled to erase a scientific "goose egg" and begin routine astronomical studies.

"It appears at this time we have a good healthy payload," said mission manager Jack Jones. "All the instruments are up and working and all the pointing systems appear to be performing (normally) at this time.

But the astronauts continued to have nagging problems fine tuning the Instrument Pointing System, or IPS, telescope mount, forcing the crewito i switch to a backup system from time to time and keeping engineers on the ground busy trying to devise a permanent fix.

While mission managers were optimistic about finally beginning routine operations, many planned astronomical targets have been lost because of the problems activating and using the four telescopes making up Columbia's $150 million "Astro-1" space observatory.

"I have to tell you, it's a big goose egg," mission scientist Ted Guil said of the flight's results over the first two days. "But ... I think within the next day or two, we'll be over the 50 percent hump and observing effectively."

The goal of the 38th shuttle mission is to study X-rays and ultraviolet light from more than 200 celestial bodies.

The 13-and-a-half-foot inflatable craft powered by a 25 horsepower engine is capable of speeds of 20 to 25 miles per hour, depending on the number of people aboard, and is designed for quick response in local water rescue operations. Prime minister Major it will take the world awhile to get used to the very mention of "British Prime Minister John Major." The quiet-spoken 47-year-old with boyish features and spectacles seems a pale replacement for Margaret Thatcher, a dynamic and revolutionary leader who now goes down in history alongside Winston Churchill as one of Britain's towering figures of the 20th century.

Although Prime Minister Major projects a very different political style than his ironwilled predecessor, his policies are not expected to diverge abruptly from those of the Thatcher era.

He appears to be more receptive to Britain's close economic and political union with the 12-nation European Community. But otherwise his agenda will be a continuation of the conservative policies that have transformed Britain during the last decade.

Americans can take comfort from Major's strong support for the U.S. campaign to contain Iraq's aggression in the Persian Gulf. His decision to retain Douglas Hurd as foreign secretary signals a reassuring continuity in foreign affairs, as does his affirmation of Thatcher's decision to double the size of the British military contingent in the gulf.

Thatcher admirers around the globe should find solace in the fact that, in the final hour, she at least was able to anoint her successor. Like his mentor, Major springs from the British lower middle class. The son of a circus performer, he never attended college but rose to the top in the banking industry, eventually becoming Thatcher's chancellor of the exchequer (the equivalent of treasury secre-tary) through his own initiative and talent.

And to those who siready miss Thatcher's commanding presence on the global stage, it is a delightful irony that the man most responsible for bringing her down, Michael Haseltine, has been placed in charge of the despised Tory poll tax. After failing to win the backing of his fellow Conservative Party members to replace Thatcher, Haseltine was given the post of environment secretary in Major's new cabinet. As such, he is now in charge of local governments, which are financed by the highly unpopular tax that contributed heavily to Thatcher's demise.

Prime Minister Major must step outside the broad shadow of Thatcherism and leave his own imprint on Britain. Yet, even as he does so, it's difficult to imagine that he might someday leave a legacy known as Majorism.

Going Hollywood

Another megadeal gives another Hollywood entertainment conglomerate to a Japanese owner. First Sony buys CBS Records for $2 billion, then adds Columbia Pictures for another $5 billion. Now Matsushita buys MCA, including Universal Studios, for $6.6

Sony and Matsushita are rival electronic giants. Now they are rivals in producing the music and programs to play on their high-definition televisions and digital disc and tape players.

Vertical integration comes to the entertainment industry, with Japanese companies controlling everything from the translator to the movie star. Is that bad? Not necessarily. Bigness isn't bad, especially if it promotes competition and innovation on a scale that smallness cannot match.

It remains to be seen whether the masters of Matsushita can guide an enterprise in American mass entertainment with the sure skill of a Lew Wasserman, the 77-year-old magnate who started his career as a theater usher and ended as MCA chief executive with nearly a billion dollars worth of stock.

Matsushita's founding genius, the late Konosuke Matsushita, started after World War I in Osaka as a maker of electric sockets and died last year as a billionaire himself. But his greatest legacy is a company song and a 20-volume collection of his philosophies, an accumulation of Pollyanna truisms that would make even a Rotarian yawn.

Matsushita's heirs will have to do better than that to make money with MCA.

Growing concern for American jobs

Where there are no controls on working conditions, hours, or on the job injuries. The profitmongers, the ones that are mutilating the blue collar worker, the ones that maintain the vast majority of tax money paid in, the majority that our representatives are supposedly representing, and yes, our fair and temperate president who should probably be impeached for what he is allowing to happen in our country. I hope he enjoys his trip to Mexico, that will be another signoff for us Americans to pay for. As he gets on the plane, his waves of goodbye are really for our jobs.

We've worked, some of us for 24 years, for a company, given our life, our concern, our caring, only to have them tell us too bad, it's a better profit for us to produce outside the country.

Now we stare at the unemployment lines, try to convince the Labor Department to help get us Trade Adjustment Assistance, the National Labor Relations Board that there are unfair union labor conditions, try to let each other know what we are up against going for food stamps. Does Jordan want Mecca back?

WASHINGTON - One week after the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, King Hussein of Jordan began hinting broadly that instead of "king." his people should start calling him Sherif Hussein - the title of his great grandfather. Hussein's neighbors in Saudi Arabia raised

For the Saudia it was one more piece of proof that Jordan was part of a conspiracy with Iraq to invade

Saudi Arabia and seize the sacred cities of Medina and Mecca. Hussein is a 33generation descendant of the prophet Mohammed and a member of the Hashemite family that, in the time of his great grandfaher, was the guardlan of Mecca and Medina, now usurping Saud family in 1924. In memory of that time, Hussein said, "He who wants to honor me shall call me by my name, and he who wants to honor me more shall call me Sherif Hussein."

It was just the indictment the Saudia needed to reinforce their paranoia. We reported recently that Saudi leaders believe the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait was part of a larger plot. The plotters, in this scenario, are Iraq. Jordan and Yemen. Their plan was for lraq to take Kuwait and northern Saudi Arabia. Yemen would invade from the south and annex southern regions of Saudi Arabia. Jordan would be given back the Hijaz region where the holy cities are.

While the Central Intelligence Agency is skeptical that Hussein would get involved in such a plot, intelligence sources acknowledge that Jordan has done plenty to fuel the Saudis' suspicions.

The Saudis and some Israelis and extled Kuwaitis believe that King Hussein had early notice of Saddam Hussein's invasion of Kuwait. King Hussein claims he knew nothing until King Fahd of Saudi Arabia called him at 6 a.m. on Aug. 2, the day of the invasion.

In the wake of the invasion, King Hussein called Saddam "trustworthy" and an "Arab patriot."

King Hussein has continued to talk about Saddam as though the king were a lawyer for the despotic Iraqi invader. He even perilously talks about Saddam's historical claims to Kuwait.

In the past, Jordan has supplied in-telligence to Iraq, and that arrangement may be continuing. Saudi Arabia expelled some Jordanian diplomats in September on suspicion that they were photographing oil facilities and then passing along the pictures to Iraq.

Our intelligence sources believe the most significant collusion, if any exists between Iraq and Jordan, has to do with Hawk missiles. When Saddam seized Kuwait, he found about 150 American-made Hawk missiles there. The U.S. Air Force is virtually defenseless against them.

The Iraqis don't know how to use the Hawks, but the Jordanians do. According to one highly classified CIA report, there are significant indications that Jordanian military technicians have been teaching the Iraqis how to use the Hawks.

The Jordanian government denies that, but our intelligence sources say Jordan is just looking the other way while Jordanian military people get paid by Iraq to explain the Hawks. Some Jordanian military personnel, who are experts on the Hawks, have been given "temporary" retirement, according to Teens averaged 3.9 hours of volunteer time each week and over one fourth of the teen volunteers gave five or more hours each week.

According to Independent Sector, that meant a total of 1.6 billion hours of volunteer time by teens in 1989.

Parents asked to monitor toys

By STAN BARDON UPI Business Writer

ATLANTA - A federal consumer products official says parents of young children should cooperate with the government in keeping unsafe toys off the store shelves and out of the playpens and playrooms of America.

Jacqueline Jones-Smith, chairwoman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission, said Tuesday her office has received reports of 33 deaths from unsafe toys between January 1969 and September. One of the deaths was that of a 6-year-old Georgia girl who choked on a balloon.

Jones-Smith, the highest ranking Demo-crat in the Bush administration, said more choking deaths occur from balloons than from any other children's product. "Parents have to be active partners with us in safety, regardless of what the safety

'Black boxes' key to crash investigation

United Press International

ROMULUS. Mich. - Radio transcripts from the deadly runway crash of two Northwest Airlines jets indicate one pilot was lost in fog, and federal investigators turned Wednesday to the planes' flight recorders for further clues to the collision.

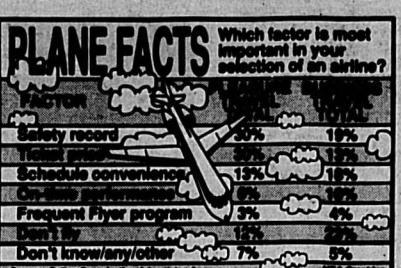

Arriving at the crash site Tuesday, a 70-member investigation team from the National Transportation Safety Board began piecing together information from the fire-gutted DC-9 and less severely damaged Boeing 727, then hauled both aircraft into a hangar.

The cockpit voice recorder and flight data recorder from each airplane were recovered from the scene of Monday's crash and flown to Washington, D.C., for analysis, safety board member John Lauber said.

Safety is the top concern of travelers who fly either for business or pleasure, according to a survey. Air passengers indicate that ticket prices and convenient schedules are also important considerations.

The DC-9 erupted in flames when its fuselage was sheared by the right wing of the 727, killing eight people and injuring 21 others, all aboard the DC-9. The pilot of the 727 aborted his takeoff and brought his aircraft safely to a stop.

A transcript of the radio communication between the tower and the DC-9 obtained by NBC News showed air traffic controllers in the tower could not see the jet, and the pilot unsure of his location.

Gorbachev power plan approved

United Press International

MOSCOW - Parliament has gavin quick approval to constitutional amendments further consolidating Mikhail Gorbachev's power in a reorganized government with all ministries under direct control of the president.

The package of amendments must still be passed by the larger Congress of Peoples' Deputies at a two-week session opening Dec. 17, but approval there is virtually assured and the Supreme Soviet Tuesday gave Gorbachev the go-ahead to begin implementing the plan.

Gorbachev's plan replaces the Council of Ministers under embattled Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov with a new Cabinet. which will still include a prime minister but report directly to Gorbachev.

The plan also creates a post of vice president, establishes a state inspection directorate to ensure implementation of central government decrees and forms a national security council to coordinate law enforcement and domestic order - all under the president.

Gorbachev's reorganization also envisages new powers for the Federation Council of leaders of each of the Soviet republics. but the body will remain under Gorbachev's direct leadership!

Fed lowers reserve req

Board says action will free up money for loans

UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK - The Federal Reserve Board moved to ease the pressure on U.S. banks and, indirectly, on the economy itself, saying it will let banks make use of certain funds they must now let the Fed hold as reserves.

Analysts said the reserve policy change Tuesday would mostly help a banking industry whose profitability and lending capacity have been undercut by real estate and other loans gone sour. But it could give the economy a slight boost.

The U.S. central bank said it will ease reserve requirements on time deposits by non-personal customers and Eurocurrency liabilities, that is,

borrowings by U.S. banks from foreign institutions, to zero from 3 percent. That means beleagured American banks will have an additional $13.6 billion in monies which until now were left with the Fed as reserves - a collective nest egg that also functions as a Fed monetary policy instrument.

The central bank took the action "in response to mounting evidence that commercial banks have been tightening their standards of creditworthiness and the terms and conditions for many types of loans," the Fed said.

"While much of this tightening has been welcome from a safety and soundness standpoint. it has in recent months begun to exert a contractionary influence on the economy," the three-page Fed statement said. Lower reserve requirements will reduce bank costs, "providing added incentive to lend to creditworthy borrowers," the Fed said.

Bush: negotiating with Iraqis is out

United Press International

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruquey - President Bush indicated there would be no negotiated settlement to the Persian Gulf crisis that shortchanges U.N. resolutions demanding the un-conditional withdrawl of Iraqi troops from Kuwait.

Bush, on the second day of a six-day swing through Latin America, told reporters Tuesday he is "not in a negotiating mood" and hopes Iraqi President Saddam Hussein "gets the message" about last week's U. N. resolution authorizing the use of force to liberate Kuwait if Iraqi troops are not out by Jan. 15.

In all, the U.N. Security Council has passed 12 resolu-tions that condemn the invasion, demand the withdrawl of troops and impose a range of global economic sanctions against Iraq. Scheduled to visit Argentina on Medicales on Wednesday, two days after the government there quashed a revolt by dissident military officers, Bush appeared to steer U.S. gulf policy back on the hard-line course that has been the foundation for the international coalition aligned against iraq. In a surprising move last Friday - the day after the resolution authorizing force was adopted - Bush offered to send Secretary of State James Baker to Baghdad for talks with Saddam and invited Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz in Washington. The invitation to Iraq was accepted and a meeting with Axis is expected early next

Arabs up diplomatic peace push

By LEESTOKES United Press International

As three Arab foreign ministers stepped up efforts to resolve the Peri peacefully, President Bush said he doubted economic sanctions alone would succeed in bringing about an Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait.

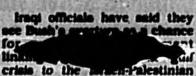

In a flurry of diplomatic activi-ty to end the crisis before a Jan. 15 deadline set by the United Nations for an Iraqi pullout, the foreign ministers of Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Syria met for a second day in Cairo Tuesday.

Egyptian news reports said the three foreign ministers, whose countries form the frontline of Arab opposition to Iraq, were seeking to create a rift between Saddam and his few Arab allies to isolate him further.

Specifically, the three ministers agreed to initiate new contacts with the Palestine Liberation Organization as well as Yemen, Tunisia, Jordan and Sudan, according to Egypt's Middle East News Agency. Meanwhile, King Hussein of Jordan flew to Baghdad Tuesday for a meeting with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

In London, the Sky Television News satellite network, reported Tuesday that Saddam offered to witdraw his troops from Kuwait to avoid war provided he is allowed to keep an oil field captured during the invasion.

But the White House has last-chance effort to avoid war by making sure Saddam un-derstands U.S. determination to end Iraq's occupation of Kuwait and restore the legitimate gov-ernment of the oil-rich emirate.

Bush recently ordered 200,000 additional American troops to the gulf to bolster the U.S.-led multinational force assembled in the region against Iraq.

Bush said that when he meets with Axis, "I want to make clear to him the best thing is to go through with the U.N. resolu-

Bush dodged questions about reports that the five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council — the United States, Soviet Union, China, Britain and France - had agreed after approving the force resolution not to attack Iraq in exchange for its withdrawal from Kuwait.

In another report, Sky Television News in London said that Saddam is willing to withdraw from Kuwait provided he is allowed to keep an oil field captured by his troops during

"I am convinced that Saddam Hussein has not gotten the message." Bush told reporters. "I don't think Saddam Hussein understands" the impact of the U.N. resolutions. "I hope he gets the message."

DER issues $3 million grant to city

My MICK PFEIFAUF Herald staff writer

SANFORD — One reclaimed water distribution system has received final approval by the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation, and another $3 million grant has been announced for the next project involving 2,200 acres of cityowned land near Geneva.

The final FDER inspection was recently completed for Sanford's reclaimed water system, the Mayfair golf course irrigation system and the city parks irrigation systems.

Together with previous final inspections of the wastewater treatment plant improvements and reclaimed water storage tanks, these latest inspections signal the completion of projects paid for by a $5 million grant to assist the city in correcting wastewater deficiencies and removal of the discharge into Lake Monroe.

Meanwhile, a second state grant in the amount of $3 million has been announced. This will assist in paying for contracts for the development of the 2,200 acres at a site near Geneva, known as Site 10.

This plan will bring about irrigation of agricultural lands used in the production of citrus and hay crops.

Originally, the land at the Central Florida Regional Airport in Sanford was to have been used for this discharge, but arrangements could not be worked out with the Federal Aviation Administration for continued long-term wastewater disposal, and a new location was needed in order to preserve the total $8.2 million in grants from the state and federal grant pro-

The Geneva site has been determined to have an almost identical irrigation capacity as that of the airport, and could be substituted in the 201 plan submitted by the city to the FDER.

When the FDER ordered Sanford to stop discharging reclaimed water into Lake Monroe, it insisted that Sanford come up with a demonstration of a "hard" capacity for the entire reclaimed water system as a prerequisite to continued approval of Sanford's 201 plan.

If the Geneva site had not been suitable for development and judged as acceptable by the FDER, Sanford might have lost this $3 million grant. With the city still under a mandate to find someplace other than Lake Monroe for elimination of treated wastewater, local utility customers would have ended up paying the bill through higher utility rates.

Following action announced this week by the Florida Bar, T. Michael Price, 220 Kettering Court, Longwood, was publicly reprimanded in a court order dated Nov. 8, according to a release from the Bar.

Price was found guilty of engaging in conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice: neglecting a legal matter and falling to seek the lawful objectives of his clients through reasonably available means.

Soccer: Rams romp over 'Noles

By TONY DeSORMIER Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD - If it weren't for a trio of three minute collapses. Tuesday afternoon's Seminole Athletic Conference girls' soccer match between Seminole and Lake Mary would have been a close, entertaining contest.

But in that combined nine-minute stretch, the visiting Lake Mary Rams seven goals on their way to a 9-1 blowout.

"The girls would play well for 30 minutes and then collapse." said an exasperated Suzy Reno, coach of the Seminole side. "This team is ahead of where last year's team was at this point in the season, but they're still letting the ball get taken from them.'

Dana Hoover gave Lake Mary a 1-0 lead when her 30-yard shot found its way through the Seminole defense into the net with less than 10 minutes gone in the match. Cory Tanzer had the assist on the goal

Despite the early setback, Seminole continued to play the constantly attacking Rams tough. Led by Amy Williams, the Tribe defense continued to block passing lanes and forced Lake Mary to continue working the ball around the Seminole end of the field.

With under nine minutes left in the half, the first collapse struck the Seminoles as Lake Mary scored three times in 2:12. At 31:42, Hoover took a pass from April Goss and played a shot over the Seminole goalkeeper. Shayne Thomas tapped in a cross from Jen Evans at 33:14 before Evans headed in a pass from Thomas at 33:54.

The Tribe ran into trouble early in the second half, Adriane Hemmerly and Tanzer scoring 3:24 apart. Tanzer, whose goal was unassisted. had the assist on Hemmerly's goal.

Seminole avoided the shutout when Dawn Burks pushed in a shot following a scrum in front of the Lake Mary net.

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"I've got a burning desire to be in football and make a difference, where I can contribute more to somebody else's life than just being a coach. I want a feeling inside that I've done something for somebody. My chances of staying here with the Bucs are very remote * I don't think it would work. I'm looking for a job as of 3 o'clock yesterday."

Orr sweeps Late Model events at New Smyrna, Orlando tracks

Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Scoring his second Late Model feature of the weekend, Pete Orr took the lead on lap five and went on to win the FASCAR-senctioned event on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

Coming out on top of a fierce four-car battle, Joe Middleton finished second. Ricky Marshall, the early leader, did the best that he could with his worn-out used tires as his strong "homebuilt" motor allowed him a third place finish over Joe Strehle and newcomer Bruce Everett.

Several Late Models crashed during warm-ups while others did it during the race, reducing the field to a mere dozen at the end.

Jeff Burkett won the Limited Late Model feature by a very slim margin over Allen Rhodes, who charged up to second place early and mounted a strong challenge in the closing laps. It was Burkett's third victory of the new season.

Once again, Mike Fitch ran away with the Florida Modified feature. Gary Salvatore was second, followed by 40-year veteran Leo Cleary, as smooth as ever, who came from last place to grab the spot.

Bobby Sears led all the way to win the Mini

Stock final. The hotly disputed Sportsman feature went to Rick John, while John Ripley, who is in the process of building a back-up race car, won the Bomber feature.

In other Speedway news, Canada's Junior Hanley, the defending World Series of Asphalt Stock Car Racing Late Model high point champi-on, and Floridian Bill Posey top the current list of entrants for the FASCAR-sanctioned Silver Anniversary Series which is acheduled to open on Friday, Feb. 8.

at Orlando SpeedWorld
ORLANDO — Pete Orr drove the"Horsen Around" Farms Pontiac Firebird to win No. 2 of the 1991 season in the FASCAR-sanctioned 25-lapper for the Late Models on Friday night at Orlando SpeedWorld.

Young Shane Russ, driving a former Dick Anderson mount in only his second appearance here, took a big early lead. But a caution on lap seven closed the field, giving Orr the chance that he needed. He made the pass on lap nine and led the rest of the way, despite four more cautions which kept the field bunched up.

Dave McCabe fought his way up to second at the finish. He was followed by Russ, who came back from a late-race tangle to finish third. Rounding out the top five were Bruce Everett and Bob Ackerbloom.

Using a timely caution period. Scott Bramlett won the second Limited Late Madel feature win of his carrer. Just as Chuck Stanley was passing Bramlett for the lead on lap seven. Jeff Moyer soun in water laid down by a backmarker. bringing out the caution.

On the restart, Bramlett pulled away from a fading Stanley to score the win. Stanley just barely held Moyer off for second, while division's point chase leader Mike Todd nursed a sick engine to finish fourth, just ahead of Wayne

Marshall. Wally Patterson took his first Florida Modified win of the new season, with a wire to wire victory. David Indivert, Scott McDade, Raymond Lovelady and Ray Smith rounded out the top five. Outdueling his neighbor Bobby Sears, Richard "Ole Greybeard" Newton came out on top of a crowd-pleasing side by side battle to win the Mini Stock headliner, while Mike Branco led every lap to claim victory in the Sportsman feature. John Ripley continued his domination of the Bomber class as he won his third of the new season over "Yankee" Hiner and Barbara Pierce.

Today's deal is taken from a new World Bridge Federation event, first held in Geneva last world's premier players were selected to compete in a par contest. The idea was for the competitors to play the deal on a computer, with points deducted from their score for mistakes made in the play. And how should today's deal be played? First, the opening lead should be taken by the king of hearts in dummy. Declarer should next cash two high diamonds from his hand, leaving the ace in dummy. Next, to provide for the possibility of a bad club split, the ace and king of clubs should be played, in that order, and then a club should be played from the North hand up to the queen. Meininger is active in the Interact Club at Seminole.

Recently, the club members built a float for the Homecoming Parade. Interact's float depicted a hammer hitting a ram on a football field. The ram represented Seminole High School arch-enemy Lake Mary High School whose football team is tagged the "Rams." The float's theme was "Slam the Rams."

While Meininger takes pride in rooting for the home team, attending Interact, studying. preparing for college and dodg-ing good-natured swipes from her little brother, she is also proud of her cooking ability.

Our teen cook has been involved in her culinary triumpha for the past five years.

"My mom and grandmother taught me to cook when I was about twelve years old," she said carnestly.

"I like to cook hamburgers and french fires and mestions. These are easy things for a lazy nature. Kide should start cooking easy things first, like meation and split baked potatoes," she said.

In addition to cooking, this young lady has some sage advice for other teenagers. Meininger spoke softly and intelligently as she offered some sound words of wiedom and related observations about other teenagers.
"Kids think that when they get out of school, life will be great but they need to be prepared. You have to set high standards for yourself. You need to build on a solid foundation."

She added, "Sometimes I dream about moving out of my house but then I think about being on my own and it's scary."

Start season by entering contest

Start your holiday cooking by entering the St. Lucia Baking/Cooking contest. Entry blanks are available at the Festival Headquarters on First Street in Sanford. Cash prizes will be awarded for each category. It's lots of fun and a great way to show off your skill and favorite Swedish recipes. Ribbons will be awarded to all who enter. There is not a category for microwave recipes this year. If there was, I would suggest entering this traditional holiday fare microwave recipe that is delicious served any time of the year.

A smorgasbord of fresh shrimp, pickled and smoked flahes, stuffed eggs, and parslied potato salad and Swedish brown beans could be served along with the meatballs and a glazed baked ham.

Stir powdered augar and orange juice until smooth. Spread evenly over cake and decorate with canded fruits and nuts.

Sweet yeast breads such as Swedish Tea Rings, Lucia braids and buns, Swedish Rye, and Limpa bread would make good entries for this year's contest, so get out those recipe files and cookbooks and get started. I'll see you there Saturday morning. December 8, at Holy Cross Episcopal Church, in Sanford.

Presidency off-limits to all foreign-born

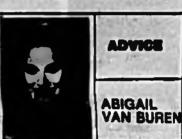

DEAR READERS: In the mood for a trivia quiz?

What do Rudy Boschwitz U.S. senator from Minneota). Madeleine Kunin (governnor of Vermont), Tom Lantos (congressman from northern Cathornia and Lowell Weicker inewly elected governor of Connecticut) have in com-

Give up? they will never be president of the United States. "Why not?" you ask. Because Boschwitz was born in Berlin: Kunin was born in Zurich. Switzerland: Lantos was born in Budapest, Hungary; and Weicker was born in Paris. And our Constitution specifically states that no person born on foreign soil shall be eligible to hold the office of the presidency. DEAR ABBY: I am Jewish, 33, was raised in the Jewish faith and had the bar mitzvah when I was 13. However, I do not attend services except on the high holy days once a year.

Last year I fell in love with a wonderful gentile girl. Connie is 19 and an atheist. I want to marry her, and out of respect to my parents I want to be married in our synagogue by the rabbi who has been a family friend for many years.

She is willing, and even agrees to raise our children in the Jewish faith providing I become a practicing Jew. She says if she takes the Jewish faith she will follow it, but she's not going to be the only Jew in the family. This means attending services every Friday night and observing all the holidays. What do you think?

DAVID DEAR DAVID: I think she's terrific. Grab her!

celebrated this weekend

St. Lucia is celebrated in Sweden and all of Scandinavia as the saint of light. Saint Lucia is celebrated on Dec. 13, marking the time of the dark winter when days become longer and lighter.

She is represented as a young girl, dressed in a long, white robe, a red sash and a crown of candles. According to legend, St. Lucia appeared in time of great poverty, sailing the seas hungry.

The Future of Sanford Committee chose to celebrate St. Lucia locally as brought the legend to

In keeping with the Festival's theme of celebrating Sweden's patron "saint of light" and the Swedish immigrants brought to Seminole County by General Sanford in the 1870's. the Lake Mary artist has painted the immigrants' first schoolhouse which was located in New Upsala near Lake Monroc.

Reagan's exhibit of approximately 20 canvases will feature scenes from the celery fields of Oviedo, Wekiva Springs. a Lake Mary garage, a farmyard in Slavia, landscapes along the St. Johns River and historic downtown Sanford, Just to list a few.

Currently, she is working on a new painting depicting Gen. Sanford's Florida Land &

Paintings of historic Colonization Company building in the foreground with one of the old steamboats that docked frequently at Sanford's waterfront in the background.

A native of Oviedo, Reagan has a special interest in the St. Lucia Festival as her grandfather was a Swedish immigrant to this county.

Her wellspring of talent comes from her favorite subjects, people and historical scenes. "Portraits are the most interesting and challenging, but historical scenes are fun to do because you can be more creative with color since you are working from old black and white photographs which are usually faded." Reagan said. She added that in researching for old photos and time periods associated with them. she has read as much as she could find about them and listened to old timers tell many interesting and entertaining stories of local hap-

I would hope that by recreating some of these historical scenes by painting them with interesting impressionistic color schemes, it would help to keep alive our interest in special moments and special places of our local history," she

Balletic recreation of holiday portrayed in Circle of Light

By MICK PPENFAUF Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Imagine. If you will, a holiday gathering in this city in the 1870s. General and Mrs. Sanford are hosting a dinner party for Swedish immigrants including Mr. & Mrs. Linburg, just recently brought to this country by Gen. Sanford.

The recreation of the event is part of the Circle of Light presentation during the Candlelight Gala Friday, Dec. 7, at the Sanford Civic Center.

This holiday vignette, written by Mildred Caskey and directed and choreographed by Valerie Rye Weld and Miriam Rye Doctor, will be performed by the Ballet Guild of Sanford/Seminole. Megan Lugen of DeBary will be featured in the role of St. Lucia.

A number of locals will also be featured in cameo roles including Mayor Bettye Smith and Dave Farr. executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, appearing as Mr. and Mrs. Linburg. Martha Yancey will portray Mrs. Linquist, with Don Sullivan as General Sanford.

Vocal artist Helen Hickey will sing the Santa Lucia song.

The evening's festivities actually begin at 7 p.m. at the Civic Center, with a champagne hour, followed by the Circle of Light presentation.

At approximately 8:45, a Swedish buffet, catered by Indulgence will be served with a background of harp music performed by Rosalind Beck of the Florida Symphony.

The Candlelight Gala then moves outdoors to 4th Street and Park Avenue at the Centennial Park gazebo where a program of Christmas music will be presented featuring the Caroling Company, bedecked in authentic Victorian costumes.

Candles will brighten the walkway as the activities move on to the Cultural Arts Center, 5th Street at Oak Avenue, for the grand finale. Swedish delicacies and coffee will be served in the building decorated in an old-fashioned holiday motif by Sanford Flower Shop while yuletide songs and music of the harp delight the ears of the patrons.

It all begins at 7 p.m., at the Sanford Civic Center on the lakefront, and promises to be a true Candlelight Gala, one of many events in this year's St. Lucia Festival.

Tickets for the Gala can be obtained from St. Lucia Festival Headquarters. 205-D E. First Street in Sanford or by phoning 323-9178.
