Dems Win (Again); Voters Shun Nixon

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford says the Democratic victory in a special Michigan congressional election is a bad omen for the country and that continued Democratic victories could lead to a "legislative dictatorship."

"One party control is not good for America," Ford said after Tuesday Bob Traxler's narrow victory Tuesday in the state's 8th District over Republican James Sparling Jr.

(Related Story Page 2A)

"And the trend in congressional elections now is for the Democrats to end up with an overwhelming majority in the House. This will mean a legislative dictatorship."

Ford said the election would have no bearing on how Congress treats the President in regard to the impeachment inquiry now being conducted by the House Judiciary Committee.

Traxler, who won in this traditionally GOP district despite a personal appearance by President Nixon on behalf of Sparling, said Nixon is the problem of Republicans, not Democrats.

Traxler's victory gave the 8th District seat to Democrats for the first time since 1932.

It marked the fourth time in five special elections this year that normally GOP areas have fallen to the Democrats.

But it was the first time Nixon took an active role in trying to stem the tide. With all of the 296 precincts in the district unaccounted for in unofficial returns, Traxler had 59,918 votes, Sparling 56,575.

The results gave Traxler 51.4 percent of the vote.

Traxler said after his victory that

Sparling said he did not blame Nixon for his defeat.

"And while we didn't dwell on Watergate...there are a lot of people who felt it very important that a message and communication be sent that decency, honesty and integrity are absolutely essential in the White House."

In his comments, in a statement given to newsmen at Palm Springs, Calif., Ford said he had talked with Sparling "and he informed me that Watergate was not the principal factor in his defeat. The unions simply did a better job than the Republican organization in getting out the vote."

In response to questions about the election would have no bearing on how Congress treats the President in regard to the impeachment inquiry now being conducted by the House Judiciary Committee.

Nixon Seen As GOP III Omen

President Nixon, with the dark cloud of Watergate hanging over his head, was seen today by persons interviewed in Sanford as a bird of ill omen to the GOP and the reason why the Michigan seat was captured Tuesday by Democrats, after being held by Republicans since 1932.

This attitude reflected the opinion of Sen Robert Griffin, R-Mich., who said today the defeat of Republican James Sparling in Michigan's 8th district means, "no Republican should assume he has a safe seat anymore."

Griffin said Watergate was "certainly" involved in the victory of Democrat Robert Traxler, but he added it was difficult to judge how much. He said other major factors in the race were high unemployment and good union organization for the Democrats.

In response to questions about the election would have no bearing on how Congress treats the President in regard to the impeachment inquiry now being conducted by the House Judiciary Committee.

Truman — don't pass the buck — was his belief."

"I don't know if the Republican party as a whole would be held responsible for the things Nixon might have done. I don't think they'll hurt in the long run because too many Republicans are fusing about Watergate," said Karla Oliver of Osteen.

"The whole trend now is toward the Democratic Party. Nixon has hurt the GOP," commented Sanford Police Chief Ben Butler.

"The events of the whole of last year have hurt the GOP," said Robert Judson. "But who have the Democrats got to offer? If the Republicans put up a strong candidate like (Gerald) Ford, it will depend on who the Democrats put up. I don't think Nixon is hurting the party by remaining in office. He's showing fortitude not yielding to outside pressures."

Irving Kaufman said he feels the publicity against the President should resign; otherwise it would help his party more if he could stay in and clear himself."

Pat Williams said the GOP would feel the Michigan seat was lost because of Nixon. "I think he should get out," declared Williams, who felt the GOP would be better able to salvage what it could without Nixon as president.

Irving Kaufman said he feels the publicity against the President should resign; otherwise it would help his party more if he could stay in and clear himself."

LONGWOOD — Disension and bitter sectional fighting continue to disrupt the city's government, with Tuesday's special meeting marked by one councilman calling another a liar, and then walking out claiming he could leave if he was sick.

Earlier, nursing home owner Donald Graham said he hoped the commission would consider his patients' morale after years of talk but no action on the deal.

Besserer conceded the hospital has made no plans to help the nursing home residents, but added, "I'm sure we'll do everything in my power to work with Mr. Graham about his patients."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is entitled to restrict public comment by its employees if they would impair the reputation and efficiency of the government, the Supreme Court has ruled.

In a 6-3 decision, the court Tuesday upheld a portion of the Lloyd-Lofellette Act providing for dismissal or suspension of federal civil service employees "for such cause as will promote the efficiency of the service."

The provision had been attacked as being so broad and vague that it inhibited the exercise of free speech rights by federal employees.

In passing the act, the Court said, Congress intended to give Federal employ job protection and did not intend to authorize dismissal for constitutionally protected speech.

But, the majority wrote, "the act proscribes only that public speech which improperly damages and impairs the reputation and efficiency of the agency, and thus it imposes no greater controls on the behavior of federal employees than are necessary for the protection of the government as an employer."

County Will Buy Nursing Lodge

Expressing regrets Tuesday that Milton Shaw, an executive board member of the county's Comprehensive Health Council and publisher of a senior citizens newsletter, who said he feared "we made a mistake in endorsing the sale of the nursing home."

The board of county commissioners Tuesday night gave the trustees the go-ahead on the 50-bed home for the aged at 300 Bay Ave., Sanford.

Hospital Administrator Robert Besserer said the nursing home will be purchased with money already squirreled away in certificates of deposit, and assured commissioners no tax hike would be necessary because of the outlay.

When the hospital board voted Monday to enlarge its 195-bed capacity by purchase rather than construction of a $15 million new wing, trustee Andy Carraway said he regretted seeing no alternative to using what he called "all the hospital's savings."

"An amnesty?" "And this too shall come to pass..." Offer a prayer asking for understanding, neighbors. 'Zebra' Toll At 12

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A young man was shot to death Tuesday night, the 12th white person killed in a series of so-called "Zebra" shootings that began last November, police said. The latest victim was an unidentified 28-year-old man who was helping a friend move a rug in the Ingleside District when he was felled by bullets. Police said three shots rang out about 9:30 p.m., and a witness saw a black man running down the street. Tuesday's victim was making room for the rug in the back of a station wagon when the assailant came up behind him and fired, police said. On Sunday, two white teenagers were shot and wounded at a bus stop. Police have mounted a massive hunt for at least two persons in the Zebra shootings. In each case the victim has been white and the assailant black.

Glass Bottle Explosions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Consumer Product Safety Commission, which estimates that about 62,000 accidents occur annually from exploding bottles, is opening hearings on the subject. The commission says about 25,000 of the accidents result in injuries requiring treatment in hospital emergency rooms. The hearings will include testimony from persons injured by exploding bottles and representatives of bottling companies.

Campaign Reform Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate-passed campaign reform bill that includes little-noticed financial disclosure provisions will be before a House committee next week when Congress returns from its Easter recess. Some House Democrats have already expressed opposition to the bill because it provides for full public financing of presidential and congressional campaigns. And the disclosure provisions also are likely to encounter opposition. A number of members have denounced such disclosure proposals as amounting to an invasion of their privacy.

Saturn Rocket Ready

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A Saturn 5-B rocket has begun its journey from the Michoud Assembly Facility that ultimately will fly in space in an historic rendezvous with a Russian spacecraft. The first-stage booster rocket, one of the last to be built at the Chrysler Corp. plant, will be used to power an American spacecraft scheduled to meet a Soviet spaceship in an earth orbit in mid-1975. The 80-foot, 65,000-pound first stage of the Saturn 1B-Apollo space vehicle began a barge trip Tuesday to the John F. Kennedy Space Center at Cape Canaveral. There, it will join an identical rocket sent to the Cape last August to serve as backup for the third and final manned Skylab mission. That same rocket will serve as backup to the U.S.-Soviet mission.

Environment, Consumer

SAN DIEGO (AP)—All lawyers should support and help finance public-interest law firms such as those concerned with environmental and consumer issues, the leaders of the American Bar Association said Tuesday. "This type of law firm offers to the organized bar the best current possibility of substantially enhancing truly equal legal resources for all in our courts," ABA President Chesterfield Smith said in a prepared statement. Smith, an attorney from Lakeland, Fla., termed consumer and environmental issues among those "for practical purposes are barred from the courts and from the legal process generally because they individually lack sufficient commitment to a particular issue pending in the courts to support litigation on the same scale as their adversaries."

Nixon Nephew Marries

NEW YORK—President Nixon's nephew Donald A. Nixon has married 23-year-old Helene Lipsky of Wantagh, Long Island. The marriage was confirmed by the bride's mother, Mrs. Boris Lipsky. She said the couple was married two weeks ago in Costa Rica. Donald is the son of the President's brother, F. Donald Nixon, and is employed as an aide to indicted financier Robert L. Vesco, who has been living as a fugitive in Costa Rica and the Bahamas.

President Declares Mom's Day

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)—President Nixon, in his annual Mothers Day proclamation, says "there is no undertaking more challenging, no responsibility more awesome" than being a mother. Nixon designated May 12 as Mothers Day and wrote: "Mothers are today, as never before, moving into highly skilled jobs and careers. Barriers against equal opportunity for women have been disappearing rapidly, but we must remain diligent in our efforts to remove them."

Warrant Issued For Hoffman

NEW YORK (AP)—Able Hoffman, a radical youth leader in the 1960s, has failed to appear in court to face a narcotics charge and a warrant for his arrest has been issued. State Supreme Court Justice Mary Johnson signed a bench warrant Tuesday after Hoffman's attorney was unable to produce his client. Prosecutors said Hoffman was last seen here Feb. 5 when he taped a lecture about Hoffman faces a 1-year to life prison term if convicted on charges of selling three pounds of cocaine for $36,000 to an undercover agent last Aug. 29. He had been free on bond of $10,000.

Stans Gets The Chance To Tell His Story

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Attorney Gen. John N. Mitchell has finished his testimony before a federal court jury trying him on criminal conspiracy charges. Now it is the turn of his co-defendant and one-time Cabinet colleague, Maurice H. Stans.

Mitchell testified under cross-examination Tuesday that he appointed Harry L. Sears as Republican campaign manager in New Jersey in 1972. Sears was one of the government's star witnesses against Mitchell.

On the same basis, the government brought out that Mitchell was instrumental in the appointment of William J. Casey as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission and of ousted White House

A defense objection was sustained on grounds the question was improper and it went unanswered. With that Mitchell's cross-examination was at an end.

Stans, Secretary of Commerce in President Nixon's first Cabinet, is scheduled to begin his testimony after the trial resumes today. There may be a final, minor defense witness first for Mitchell. Mitchell and Stans are accused of using their influence to obstruct a massive fraud investigation by the SEC into the financial empire of Robert L. Vesco, in exchange for the latter's secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

Mitchell's place on the witness stand was taken in mid-afternoon by the man who replaced him as Attorney General, Richard G. Kleindienst. Dean testified that Mitchell once called him and asked him to ask Kleindienst to look into the Mitchell-Stans grand jury here. Kleindienst's testimony was elicited in support of Mitchell's

Army Chief Halves Calley's Sentence

WASHINGTON (AP)—Penalty sources say Secretary of the Army Howard Callaway went far beyond the recommendation of a clemency board in halving Lt. William Calley's prison sentence to 10 years for the My Lai massacre.

Callaway's decision meant Calley could come up for parole within the year. The Army said it could not make public the recommendation of the Army-Air Force Clemency and Parole Board. But sources said the board proposed only a slight reduction in Calley's 20-year sentence.

Callaway said he remitted 10 years of Calley's prison sentence because of "mitigating circumstances indicating that Lt. Calley may have sincerely believed that he was acting in accordance with the orders he had received and that he was not aware of his responsibility to refuse such an illegal order."

At the same time, the Army secretary said Tuesday "there is no reasonable doubt in my mind that he perpetrated the acts for which he stands convicted."

WILLIAM CALLEY, who shot five Vietnameses to death during the My Lai massacre, has been sentenced to 10 years in prison by Army officials.

review it personally and make the final decision. Army lawyers said Nixon could affirm the present sentence or cut it further but could not increase it. Calley's civilian lawyer Kenneth M. Henson, said in Columbia, S.C.

Officials at Army headquarters said they believe Calley spent only one night in the Ft. Benning, Ga., stockade after his sentencing by a court-martial to life in prison at hard labor on March 31, 1971.

Both the U.S. Court of Military Appeals and the Army Court of Military Review upheld the conviction and sentence for premeditated murder of at least 22 Vietnamese civilians during a sweep through the My Lai hamlet March 16, 1968. Calley's life term was reduced to 20 years by Lt. Gen. Albert O. Connor, then commander of the Third Army Aug. 20, 1971.

Scandal-Crippled Nixon Simply Can't Save GOP

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP)—The Democratic victory in Michigan's special congressional election is a blow to President Nixon's hopes of defeating a political liability to Republican House members considering impeachment. Previous GOP setbacks in House contests in Johnston, Pa., Cincinnati, Ohio, and Grand Rapids, Mich., have made many Republicans fearful of a GOP electoral disaster in next November's congressional elections.

At the time of the vote, six days before the election, there was considerable sentiment among the 8th District's political observers that Republican James Spaulding Jr. had cut substantially into the lead indicated by polls for Democrat Bob Traxler and might even win.

denial that he ever had such a conversation with Dean after the latter had gone to the White House. Kleindienst said at the outset:

"I think of John Mitchell as one of the closest, most intimate friends I've ever had in my life. I have no recollection of any such call from Mr. Dean. Kleindienst went on: "I have no recollection of any conversation with Mr. Dean on this subject." "Do you deny it happened?" he was asked. "Well, I don't believe it happened," Kleindienst replied. "Certainly, he didn't say anything to me about acting as a conduit or messenger boy for Mr. Mitchell, because Mr. Mitchell didn't need a messenger boy between us."

April 18, when the Watergate cover-up was crumbling. In his latest action, Jaworski followed the practice of asking the court for permission to subpoena since the material is sought for trial evidence. The special prosecutor said he felt "obligated to seek these materials by subpoena," because he has received "no definitive response" to requests by letter. He enclosed a letter he wrote to White House lawyer James D. St. Clair, written April 11, advising him a subpoena would be sought in five days.

The Judiciary Committee subpoena also asks for Haldeman-Ehrlichman-Dean documents, and also those Nixon had with former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen.

Such a victory would surely have been cited by the White House to GOP doubters as evidence Nixon retains much support in the country and that a pro-impeachment vote would be politically risky.

But when the ballots were counted Tuesday night, the vote for Spaulding in the rural areas

Ambulance 'War' Nears Settlement

By CHRIS NELSON Herald Staff Writer
The battle for Seminole County's planned $50,000 annual exclusive ambulance franchise—and massive state and federal funds possibly lurking in the wings—has been narrowed to two companies. Herndon Ambulance Co., presently serving the county on a $5,000 quarterly extension since its $200,000 non-exclusive annual subsidy expired Oct. 31, and the fledgling Anderson Ambulance Co., of Longwood are the only firms which bid. The commission, professing disappointment but not surprise at the lack of enthusiasm from the 54 other ambulance firms invited to submit bids, has set an April 30 public hearing to consider the pair that came in.

Commission Chairman John Kimbrough, who jockeyed horns in a public squabble with D. Benjamin Newman of the Emergency Medical Services Council over delays in the bid advertising Tuesday directed county staff to submit full specifications to both applicants. Anderson Ambulance's proposal, submitted by three men forming "P.A.K. Enterprises" (Tom Pratt, Orville Anderson and Scott Kenneth) did not include details of total cost to the county, or breakdown of rates for patients. However, Anderson promised

County Approves Barracks Jail

Still facing a judge's order to submit plans for housing Seminole County prisoners through 1976 as part of a jail reform program, the Board of County Commissioners has given the go-ahead to study using former Navy barracks at Sanford Airport as a minimum security jail.

However, the board for the third time refused to comply with the court's order of a $611 renovation of the downtown Sanford jail's multi-purpose room into an attorney-client meeting room.

Council Adopts Police Aid Pact

By JANE CASSELBERRY County Editor
WINTER SPRINGS — A mutual aid police pact calling for cooperation and assistance among law enforcement units in South Seminole and North Orange Counties has been adopted by city officials. A resolution must be approved at Monday night's meeting to put the agreement into force and effect. Mayor Troy Pilsand said today.

Mom May Get $8,000 For 14 Years Trouble

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A mother who fought 14 years for freedom of a son now she feels unjustly committed to a mental hospital on a rape charge may be awarded $8,000 for her troubles.

Cave - In Victim Is Satisfactory

A 12-year-old Sanford youth, injured Saturday at Kammers Kove campground near Osteen when a tunnel he and two friends were digging caved in, remains in satisfactory condition at Florida Hospital, a spokesman said.

Editorial Money Will Not Buy Happiness

Every so often you find an item tucked away in the newspaper that, for reasons not entirely clear, brings tears to the eye.

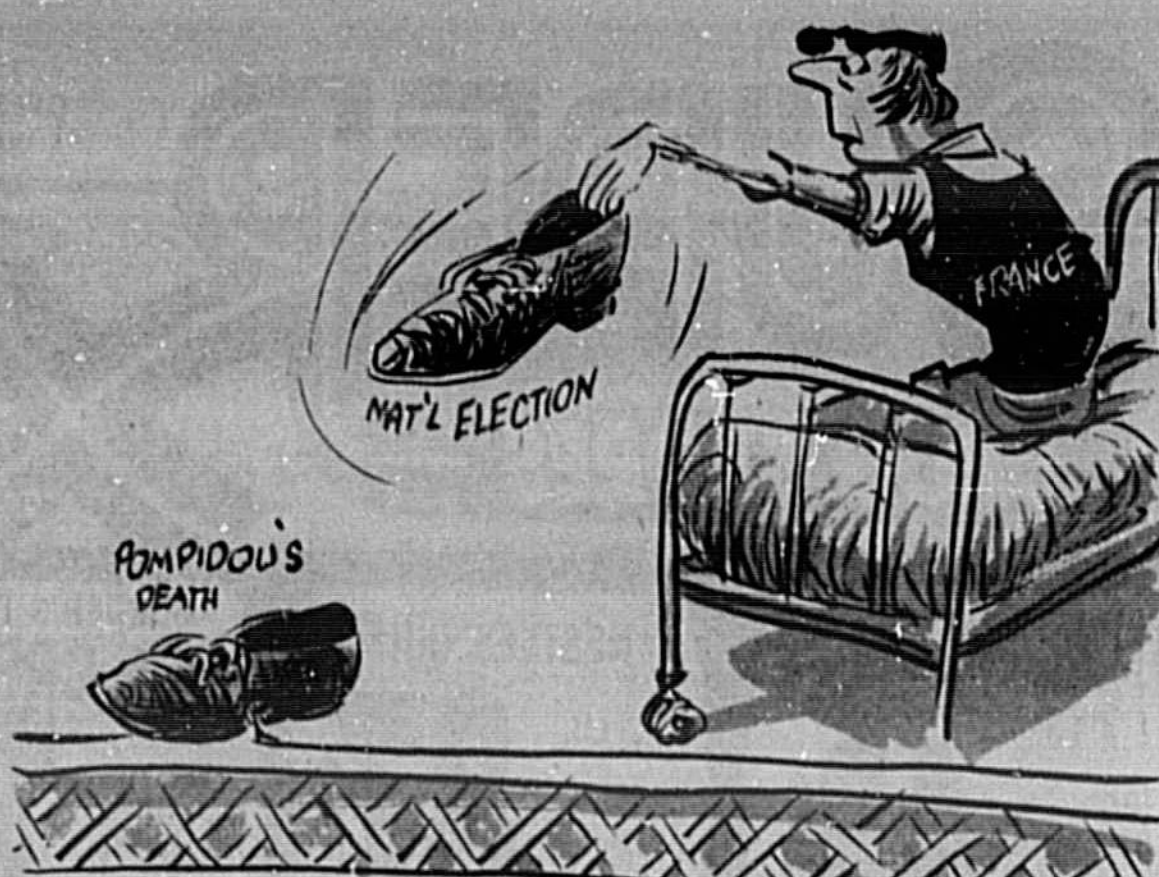

That's what happened over the weekend when we read of the latest chapter in the life of Betty Hutton. For some of our young readers it might be worth noting at this point that Miss Hutton was a movie star of the 1940s and early 50s.

She wasn't particularly talented, but she radiated energy, good humor and an open honesty that somehow made audiences believe, for the moment at least, that things weren't as bad as they seemed; that somehow good would prevail over evil and that if things really got bad, Betty's booming voice would wipe away our cares.

But movies went into a decline during the latter stages of Betty's career and the stars flocked to the new miracle of the entertainment world: television. Betty was among them, and it was a disaster.

Her talents, small as they were, somehow seemed bigger than life on a movie screen; on a television screen they seemed somehow even smaller than they actually were and she soon disappeared from public eye...another "star" unable to adapt to a new entertainment vehicle.

With Betty it was a case of out of sight out of mind. Most of her fans assumed that she had simply gone into quiet retirement and was living comfortably in Bucks County, Pa., or in a lowhouse in New York making infrequent appearances on the summer Straw Hat circuit.

The Other Shoe World Warned By U.N. Future Could Be Stark

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Around here these days they're talking about what the world might look like in a generation or so, and the prospect as of now isn't pretty.

What might it be like in the year 2000? A world jammed with seven billion people? Not enough food to go around? Intense competition for energy and raw materials? Crisis after crisis, pushing the big powers to the brink of a calamitous clash?

They talk about all these possibilities almost casually at the big glass house on New York's East River, where a special session on the future of the so-called Third World is in progress.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, in a statement to the opening of the special General Assembly on raw materials, sees an enormous global emergency in the making unless nations can find ways of cooperating effectively to head it off.

They talk about all these possibilities almost casually at the big glass house on New York's East River, where a special session on the future of the so-called Third World is in progress.

Strip Mining Laws Are Sorely Needed

By DON OAKLEY (NEA)

Americans are pretty much reconciled to the fact that if they want energy and a decent environment, too, they are going to have to pay for them.

Strip mining now yields more than half the nation's total annual output of coal, and will be called upon to yield more in the future. But nobody expects the coal industry to foot the entire bill—or most of it or even any of it—for the expensive and difficult reclamation of strip-mined land, or for devising some method of "cleaning" high sulfur content coal. The costs must ultimately be borne by the consumer.

NATO Plan Necessary

By GUY P. HARRIS

When the North Atlantic Treaty Organization came into existence 25 years ago, the occasion was widely regarded as a watershed event in American diplomacy.

In agreeing that an armed attack on any one of the original 12 NATO members was an attack on all, the United States in effect moved its defense borders to the edge of the Soviet Union's Iron Curtain.

There is little dispute from the European community that the presence of some 300,000 American troops provides a continuing barrier to any (swift) aggressive action—even Czechoslovakian-type takeovers—by the Soviets or their allies in the Warsaw Pact. But when the United States seeks to influence policy on closely related economic and political matters, some of our allies suddenly want to march to a different drummer.

Nixon's Zig Zag Defense

By BRUCE BISSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—While official findings of "no fraud" in President Nixon's 1969-72 federal income tax returns may keep this issue out of a possible House impeachment decision, he will not thereby avoid new public damage. Treatment of his case makes him out to be a strong gainer from high privilege.

He is being saved from criticism of fraud by the generous grace accorded him as President. Moreover, he has won unwarranted compliments from top lawmakers Rep. Wilbur Mills and Sen. Russell Long for making belated payments on his 1969 returns.

Let's start with a couple of basics. Where the Internal Revenue Service suspects fraud (intent to misrepresent) in tax returns, no statute of limitations applies at all. The IRS can go back as far as it wishes.

Secondly, the law specifies that when a citizen fails to report items of gross income adding to 25 per cent or more beyond the gross income he does cite on a given return, the statute of limitations does not run a mere three years (the figure commonly cited in the press) but extends a full six years beyond final filing time.

In its face, a key document prepared by the joint congressional committee which examined Mr. Nixon's returns at his invitation would seem to involve his 1969 returns in this provision of the law. Yet a twist in the regulations seems to salvage him in this instance.

For 1969, the committee found the President had declared the gross income amounting to $142,367, more than a third above the $100,000 he formally reported as gross income.

Such practice is both legitimate and very common. Except that in this instance the committee decided San Clemente was not Mr. Nixon's chief residence for 1969.

It is perhaps best, more than any other factor, which leads to recession or higher energy costs, are tightening the screws on those they have loaned money.

Significantly, the seven Arab nations did not lower the price of oil, nor commit themselves to any level of production. Additionally, they left their decision to end the embargo subject to review in June. This leaves the United States dangling.

It is perhaps best, more than any other factor, which leads to recession or higher energy costs, are tightening the screws on those they have loaned money.

Washington (NEA)—The lifting of the Arab oil embargo buys a little time. That is all.

The on-again, off-again manner in which the Middle East nations are handling the production and sale of petroleum services as a further spur to inflation. It adds to our economic uncertainties and leads to further retrenchment.

Members of the House Interior Committee are reportedly under intense pressure from coal and power lobbyists to kill or gut a strong federal strip mine control bill. The measure narrowly escaped defeat in the committee last month. (The Senate is apparently beyond hope, having previously passed a similar bill by a large majority.)

Racing days — To authorize Business Regulation Board to allow a charity racing day to benefit Florida A&M University. SB192 Horne. To House.

Subcommittee Seeks Secret Records For Possible Judicial Impeachments

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A House judiciary subcommittee chairman said today the panel is nearly ready to issue subpoenas for judicial qualifications Commission records.

School age — To require the Transportation Department to set up a uniform system of traffic and pedestrian control devices around schools. SB267 Gillespie. To House.

State lands — To provide that the governor and cabinet not allow aides to sign their signatures on deeds for sale of state lands. HB3030 Fulford. To Senate.

Legal actions — To provide a statute of limitation within one year for filing civil suits seeking recovery of damages. HB885 Crabtree. To Senate.

Insurance — To provide for medical insurance coverage for chiropractic treatment. HB2929 Culbreath. To Senate.

Education — To allow universities to accept credit card payments for tuition and other costs. HB2892 Andrews. To Senate.

Chartered Buses — To repeal the Senate Bill passed: Chartering Buses — To repeal

Mobile Homes — To require mobile home and recreation vehicle dealers to be licensed and to increase bond to $50,000. SB210 Ware. To House.

Wiretaps — To prohibit publishing of names of people overheard in a government wiretap. SB230 Johnson. To House.

Forbes said, "Probably a more prudent procedure would be to turn it over to the governor or a grand jury."

The judiciary subcommittee voted unanimously Tuesday evening to issue the subpoenas but delayed issuing them until checking the wording.

The subpoena was one of two looming actions throwing the House into confrontation with other branches of government. The other was consideration of a bill to curb bureaucratic rule-making powers.

The Senate, meanwhile, was considering several non-controversial bills, including a measure to decriminalize traffic offenses.

Forbes urged the subpoena after Richard Earle of St. Petersburg, chairman of the Judicial Qualifications Commission, appeared before the judiciary subcommittee.

Earle, urging approval of a bill to give the commission independence from the Florida Supreme Court, said the panel needed freedom to conduct its investigations of judicial conduct. He said the commission had investigated 25 judges in the past year.

Earle contended that he could not give the records of the investigation to the committee because their secrecy was guaranteed by law. But Forbes claimed the right to subpoena the documents.

"If there is misconduct among the judiciary I want to know about it," Forbes said.

"Let's issue subpoenas and find out what he (Earle) knows so we can start impeachment proceedings."

The House's other controversial bill, one to substantially revise the state Administrative Procedures Act, was scheduled for action by the full House.

The revision would end what supporters of the bill called a "phantom government."

It would require state agencies to seek public participation in rule-making and would require that all rules approved by the agencies be reviewed—but they could not be overturned—by a joint legislative committee.

Baxter Quits Altamonte

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS—Denver Baxter, the city's comptroller, treasurer and finance director for the past 17 months, cleared out his desk at city hall today, saying he refuses to be a "prostitute comptroller." Predicting he may be the first of several department heads to leave the city, Baxter submitted his formal resignation to city council Tuesday night.

DENVER BAXTER

Baxter said although the job has been a challenge, the city's management is deteriorating and Mayor Norman Floyd while keeping him (Baxter) in a position of responsibility had refused authority to permit control of city finances.

He resigned because of the close of business, May 17. Baxter planned to take his accrued vacation time April 26. Floyd was not willing to allow want to take orders," Floyd said. Floyd said he told Baxter certain things were not being done that should be done. "I told him he could not work on his own terms, that he would have to work for and with me."

Baxter reported to council several weeks ago the city would be in financial distress if curbs were not put on spending. He said today, "If department heads are allowed to do everything they want, the city will be in terrible financial straits."

He added that Floyd has ordered invoice splitting to circumvent the $1,000 bid requirement. Floyd answered the city has a policy of placing all expenditures of $1,000 or more out to bid. He added that when emergencies develop such as with the water or sewer plants, there is not time to place items to bid.

FRED T. LENFESTY, president of Polk Community College, will be the guest speaker at the Seminole Junior College graduation ceremony Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Sanford Civic Center.

Pilot Error Cited In July Crash

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pilot error probably caused the crash of a Delta DC9 in Boston last July 31 in which 89 persons were killed, the National Transportation Safety Board said today.

The crew was concerned with an erratic instrument when it should have been checking the plane's altitude as it approached fog-bound Logan International Airport, the board said in a report.

With less than two hours of debate, most of it over an amendment to extend the exemption to permanently disabled homeowners, the Ways and Means Committee endorsed the bill (S3) on a 16-2 vote Tuesday night.

Committee chairman Robert Saunders, D-Gainesville, said he expected the measure to be on Thursday's Senate agenda, the same day the House takes up a similar bill.

Extension of the homestead exemption for senior citizens was a key plan in Gov. Reubin Askew's tax-relief program for this legislature.

Under present law, the first $10,000 of assessed valuation of a senior citizen's home is exempted from school property taxes.

Meanwhile, Sen. Richard Pettigrew, D-Miami, and 10 other Senators announced plans to introduce a bill today to provide a tax relief for both homeowners and renters, including mobilehome residents.

Pettigrew said the Florida household property tax relief "circuit breaker" approach and a municipal utility tax credit in giving property taxes.

The circuit-breaker provides for the state to refund any property tax payments which exceed a certain percentage of a person's income. A House bill set the figure at five per cent.

Portions of the payments for electric bills should be exempted from the 10 per cent city utility tax in view of the sharply rising bills, Pettigrew said.

The Ways and Means Committee approved the amendment to extend the exemptions

Seminole Postpones Deal For Exclusive Garbage Plan

By CHRIS NELSON Herald Staff Writer

Faced by a massive outpouring of public sentiment — all of it negative — plans for an exclusive garbage franchise system have been tabled until May 14 by Seminole County commissioners.

The board listened patiently Tuesday night as representatives from more than a dozen civic associations, including CROP, stood and blasted what they termed an end to the free enterprise system by increased government regulation.

The speaker all struck at what they called an attempt to force an unwanted garbage firm upon them, and most said that after years of switching they were happy with their present companies.

Commissioners were unable to assuage fears that complaints would be acted upon with an exclusive franchise set up, since the threat of loss of business would no longer exist.

Much was made of apparently identical letters recently sent out by several garbage companies "announcing" the exclusive franchise system as of May 1, and setting rates for curbside and back-door service.

While commissioners stepped gently around what one civic association leader blasted as "obvious collusion," the board warned the garbage companies not to over-anticipate its actions.

"Ironically," said Vice Chairman Dick Williams, "the only way you can stop collusion is by government."

Trojans Stun Greyhounds With Second Metro Loss

By JOHN CHERWA Herald Correspondent

ORLANDO — The Lyman High School baseball squad became their own worst enemies, Tuesday afternoon.

The Greyhounds committed four errors and gave up six unearned runs as they were upset at the hands of Maynard Evans High School of Orlando 6-6.

In the game originally scheduled for Monday but postponed due to rain, the Greyhounds played as gloomily as Monday's weather. Mike Simmons started for the Trojans, gave up six runs, five in the fourth inning.

Eddie Kuhl was the winning pitcher for Evans. He allowed seven hits, including a seventh inning home run by lead-off batter Hal Staats.

Third baseman James Murray led the Trojan barrage going two for two and second baseman George Karr went for three and two RBIs.

Evans Denies Arson Involvement In Sept. 19 Air Flow Firm Fire

By CHRIS NELSON Herald Staff Writer

Plumbers Union official Daniel Evans, accused of arson and conspiracy in the Sept. 19 Air Flow truck blaze, today denied all knowledge of the accusations against him.

Taking the stand in his own defense shortly before lunch, Evans said the only true testimony by convicted arsonists Ben Hanes and Arthur Brundon involved a $125 loan made prior to the Air Flow fire.

However, Evans insisted when repeatedly questioned by prosecutor Claude Van Hook, no deal was made for the Air Flow arson, nor was it sealed by the loan. Evans also denied Hanes' claim of his participation in a union-sponsored arson campaign for the Fall.

Evans testified he posted bond for Hanes after his November arrest for the Air Flow fire, but said he did so on union orders, and assurances he would be paid back.

The 36-year-old Altamonte Springs defendant also admitted driving with Hanes and a "high union official" to a Tampa meeting with the union's attorney, but denied the official went because they were afraid Hanes might talk.

Police Blotter

Casselberry Frederick Walter Holmes Jr., 19, of 1109 Denton Road, Winter Park, charged with trespassing Tuesday night after he was found on the roof of Butler Plaza on SR 436. Bond set at $100.

Minor Traffic Crimes May Be Out Of Courts

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida Senate today voted to remove minor traffic violations such as speeding and running a red light from criminal courts.

The bill, passed by a 33-0 Senate vote and sent to the House, provides for a uniform system of penalties for minor violations.

Under the bill, persons ticketed for such violations would no longer have to appear before a judge. Instead, violators could either pay the penalty by mail, post and forfeit bond, or appear at an administrative hearing and plead innocent with an explanation.

Transportation Committee chairman Ralph Poston, D-Miami, said that the bill would treat minor traffic violations similar to the way parking vio-

10,000 Homeless After Mississippi Floods

BEAUMONT, Miss. (AP) — An estimated 10,000 south Mississippi flood victims are waiting for high water to move downstream so they can return to their homes.

The floods, which followed up to 16 inches of rain last weekend, have claimed eight lives and caused an estimated $60 million in nonagricultural property damage.

At Hattiesburg, where the Leaf and Bowie rivers converge, and at Columbia, where the Pearl River is over its banks, water was receding. But flood waters still remained in many homes and businesses.

The Leaf River crest was expected to move downstream to help.

With all the tragedy these people have gone through they're in a pretty good frame of mind," said Clark Wakefield, who is helping care for an estimated 1,250 refugees at the National Guard's Camp Shelby, near Hattiesburg. "We've had a lot of young folks volunteer to help."

Senior Citizen Tax Break?

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A Senate committee has approved a proposal to extend the state's $10,000 senior citizen homestead exemption on school taxes to city and county property taxes.

With less than two hours of debate, most of it over an amendment to extend the exemption to permanently disabled homeowners, the Ways and Means Committee endorsed the bill (S3) on a 16-2 vote Tuesday night.

Committee chairman Robert Saunders, D-Gainesville, said he expected the measure to be on Thursday's Senate agenda, the same day the House takes up a similar bill.

Extension of the homestead exemption for senior citizens was a key plan in Gov. Reubin Askew's tax-relief program for this legislature.

Under present law, the first $10,000 of assessed valuation of a senior citizen's home is exempted from school property taxes.

Meanwhile, Sen. Richard Pettigrew, D-Miami, and 10 other Senators announced plans to introduce a bill today to provide a tax relief for both homeowners and renters, including mobilehome residents.

Pettigrew said the Florida household property tax relief "circuit breaker" approach and a municipal utility tax credit in giving property taxes.

The circuit-breaker provides for the state to refund any property tax payments which exceed a certain percentage of a person's income. A House bill set the figure at five per cent.

Portions of the payments for electric bills should be exempted from the 10 per cent city utility tax in view of the sharply rising bills, Pettigrew said.

The Ways and Means Committee approved the amendment to extend the exemptions

What's This? A Hitting Pitcher?

By FRANK BROWN AP Sports Writer

Houston's Tom Griffin has the hitting power of a moose and the memory of an elephant when it comes to recalling his home runs.

And pitchers are supposed to remember things like shunts and earned run average and innings pitched...aren't they?

Elsewhere in the National League, the Philadelphia Phillies bombed the St. Louis Cardinals 10-3; the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Chicago Cubs 8-5 in 11 innings; the Montreal Expos tripped the New York Mets 4-1; the Atlanta Braves nipped the Los Angeles Padres 4-2, and the San Diego Dodgers topped the Cincinnati Reds 5-3 in 11 innings.

Ask the 26-year-old right-hander how many shutouts he has, and you'll get a blank stare. Griffin didn't know Tuesday's whitewash was the sixth of his career.

Griffin used only 93 pitches in dispatching the Giants. He retired the last 18 batters consecutively and threw only seven no-strikes in the last five innings.

Pirates 8, Cubs 5 Franks Taveras drove in Willie Stargell with the winning run and Manny Sanguillen added two more in the 12th inning to spark the Pirates to their second victory in nine games.

Expos 4, Mets 1 Montreal got three runs in the eighth inning on Ron Fairly's single and a two-run error by New York shortstop Ted Martinez.

Rusty Staub's first-inning home run was matched in the seventh by the Expos' Bob Bailey.

Steve Renko and Chuck Taylor combined to hold New York to four hits and hand 1973 Cy Young award winner Tom Seaver his first loss of the season. Braves 4, Padres 2

Darrell Evans dusted a two-run homer, Dubby Baker extended his hitting streak to 10 games with a single to center, and Ron Reed pitched eight innings of seven-hit ball to carry Atlanta past San Diego.

Dodger 5, Red 3 Los Angeles caught Cincinnati with a two-run ninth inning, then Bill Russell doubled home two runs in the 11th for the victory.

Jimmy Wynn hit his fifth home run of the season and pinch runner Rick Auerbach scored another to tie the game in the ninth.

The game was the second Metro loss of the year for the Hounds dropping them back into second place loss behind Winter Park.

The win gave Evans a firm grip on fourth place in the Metro. The top four teams go to the district tournament.

Gamble Pays Off In Play Offs For Celtics, Lead NY

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn gambled and won.

New York Coach Red Holzman took a chance and lost.

And because of those two decisions, the Celtics beat the Knicks 111-89 Tuesday night and took a commanding 2-0 lead in their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference best-of-seven final series, which continues in Boston Friday night.

In the only other pro basketball action Tuesday night the Milwaukee Bucks whipped the Chicago Bulls 101-85 in game one of the NBA Western Conference finals.

The moves by Heinsohn and Holzman turned out in the decision third period, when the Celtics took a 64-52 halftime deficit into a sizeable lead, out scoring New York 33-14.

Heinsohn took his calculated risk with 3:10 remaining in the quarter when his superstar and captain, John Havlicek, incurred his fifth personal foul. The Celtics, spurred by a 19-4 run early in the period, including 10 consecutive points, were leading 78-72 when Havlicek charged into Dean Meminger for his fifth foul.

But instead of taking him out, and having him available for the usually vital fourth quarter, Heinsohn left him in the game.

"I kept him in because that's where the game was going to be won or lost," explained Heinsohn. "I'll take him out, it's like he committed his sixth personal."

The decision paid off. Havlicek, who had fired in a remarkable 19 points in the first period—only three short of the NBA playoff record of 22—hitting his last seven shots for Boston's final 41 points of the quarter.

After the first minute, he took out his defensive hawk, Dave DeBusschere, who was limping. But less than a minute later, he reinstated the veteran forward.

DeBusschere, playing with what he said was an injured groin muscle, was completely ineffective, missing all seven of his field goal attempts in the second half.

Don Nelson chipped in with 23 points and 10 rebounds for the Celtics, Jo White contributed 22 points and Covens had 15 rebounds.

ABA Shooting For Stars: NBA Leaders The Target

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association, following the lead of the new World Football League, raised its major offering for talent today, drafting players from the National Basketball Association.

But the ABA was unlikely to be able to sign the NBA's best players for several years, because most of them were under long-term agreements, whereas the WFL already has signed numerous National Football League players for more immediate use.

"The best the ABA can get out of this is about a dozen players for future delivery, maybe for the 1976 or 1977 season," an NBA owner said prior to the draft, which was to consume five rounds.

"Basketball players are much different than football players," he continued. "You can't sell tickets with announcements that they will be playing for team two, three or four years hence."

One of the few NBA big-name players expected to jump to the ABA—provided, of course, the financial offer is substantial—is streak-shooting Charles Russell of the Golden State Warriors. Russell has expressed dissatisfaction with being the Warriors' sixth man.

As for other NBA stars, the ABA is expected to command a multiyear contract worth millions of dollars. He was selected by the ABA's San Diego Conquistadors and is expected to be taken by the Portland Trail Blazers, who hold the NBA's No. 1 selection.

Thompson, only a junior, also figures to sign a lucrative contract if he decides to turn pro.

Big 'Q' Win Just Too Much

BONITA SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — "I guess it was more than I could stand," said the veteran James G. Brown, who died of a heart attack as he attempted to cash a $1,800 winning ticket at a dog track.

Brown, 26, collapsed at the payoff window and died as an ambulance rushed him to a nearby hospital, authorities said Tuesday.

"He was always telling me he was going to win it sometime," said Ernie McCaulley, the owner of the cab company where Brown worked.

McCaulley said Brown had bought the winning "Big Q" ticket with a friend, Felix Rodriguez.

New York One Up On Montreal, 3-2

By The Associated Press

"I still can't believe it," declared Ron Harris, the unlikely hero of the New York Rangers overtime victory over the Montreal Canadiens Tuesday night.

"I heard the crowd roaring. That's how I knew it was in," Harris continued from 35 feet out at 4:07 of overtime to give the Rangers a 3-2 victory and 3-2 lead in their National Hockey League quarter-final playoff series. New York can wrap it up with a victory at home Thursday night.

The winner of the New York

Montreal series will face the Philadelphia Flyers in one semifinal round. The Chicago Black Hawks go against the Boston Bruins in the other semi, which begins Thursday night in Boston.

Harris, a defenseman for most of the year before moving to right wing in the third game of this series, scored the game-winning goal.

MacGregor sent the game into overtime by scoring with just 16 seconds left in regulation. It was MacGregor's second goal of the night and fifth of the series.

Montreal's Henri Richard and New York's MacGregor exchanged first-period goals and Murray Wilton scored for the Canadiens 5:24 into the final period to account for the other goal.

Jim Pappin's unassisted goal with 4:37 left to play gave Chicago its only margin if needed. Pappin connected on a 40-foot shot which deflected off Los Angeles defenseman Sheldon Koggespeler past Kings' goalie Roger Vachon.

"The shot hit my defenseman and then went in like a knuckleball," explained Pappin. "It really was a desperation shot. You know, when in doubt shoot."

It was the second straight shutout for Hawks' goalie Tony Esposito who stopped 18 shots.

Jan Popiel and Ralph Backstrom broke the WHA Cougars from behind with one third-period goal apiece.

Co-main events will headline the third presentation by McKinney, with Walter "Snake" White opposing Bob Freeze in light heavyweight action. Hector McBride will take on Freddie Majors in another 10 rounder.

White, the Florida State Champion, will be trying to get back on the winning road when he meets Freeze, the champion of the Bahamas.

"Snake's" last engagement was in Rome, Italy where he was stopped in three rounds by Aldo Traversaro, the Italian champion. Traversaro extended his record to 15-1-2 with the K.O. White dropped to a mark of 18-5-2.

Before the knockout, White had been rated eighth in the United States and was riding a win streak of six in a row that included wins over Bobby Lloyd, Ron Wright, Andy Kendall and Cipriano Hernandez.

McBride, the 23-year-old veteran of 25 victories in 26 fights, faces rugged competition in Majors who has been doing all his fighting in the Bahamas and Miami Beach area.

"Irish" Mike McKinney will try to pick up another win when he takes on K.O. Grant, also from the Bahamas. In his last bout McKinney fought one of the best fights of his career but dropped a six round decision to undefeated Nathaniel Gads.

Other bouts will find Ernie Licata and Mike Scott in a four rounder, and Mike Floyd against Ray Green.

ABA In Albany

SCENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — After weeks of speculation and disbelief among area residents, plans are solidifying for an American Basketball Association franchise in this upstate New York city.

An application and downpayment for a franchise were presented Tuesday evening to day officials in New York City, the day after the Schenectady City Council voted to spend $9.8 million to prepare a downtown site for an arena.

That prospect that the Albany area, with a population of about 80,000, will have an ABA team for the 1975-76 season finally are on firm ground.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Top-seeded Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and No. 5 seed Evonne Goolagong have advanced to the second round of a women's professional tennis tournament at this Gulf Coast city.

Miss Evert, who won last week's women's pro event at Sarasota from the Australian, had the easier time of the two in Tuesday's opening rounds, defeating Pat Bestrom of Seattle, 6-0, 6-1.

Miss Goolagong defeated Kathy Kuykendall of Miami, 3-6, 6-4.

Redskin Aloha

HONOLULU (AP) — Offensive guard John Wilbur of the Washington Redskins Tuesday signed to play for the Hawaiians in the new World Football League, the team announced.

The 250-pound Stanford graduate, an eight-year National Football League veteran, will join the Hawaiians in 1975 after playing out his option with the Redskins.

He is the 10th NFL player to sign a contract with the Honolulu team.

The Hawaiians also announced the signing Tuesday of tight end John Kelsey of the University of Missouri. Kelsey, who signed in his home town of Belton, Mo., was a fifth round draft choice of the Dallas Cowboys and of the Hawaiians.

Clay Stops Estevez

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Marcel Clay has taken a unanimous decision over Angel Estevez in a middleweight bout at the Miami Beach Auditorium.

The 168-pound Clay, now 17-4, easily won the Tuesday night decision, outscoring the 162-pound Estevez from the first round of the scheduled 10-round bout.

Estevez, who is 23 and from Miami, suffered his outer defeat at the hands of Clay, who comes from Opa Locka, near Miami. Estevez is now 12-2.

Wooseys Wooing World Wrist Wrestling Watchers

Copley News Service

ESCONDIDO, Calif. — The Fords are noted for cars, the Kennedys for politics, the Rockefeller for money and the Wooseys for wrist wrestling.

In two years, the Wooley family has won 10 major wrist wrestling championships.

John Wooley, 24, has won seven tournaments. His wife, Tona, 23, has won two and his brother, Jim, 27, has won one tournament.

Last May, John, Tona and Jim entered the World's Wrist Wrestling Championships at Petaluma, Calif.

Jim lost in the quarterfinals. Tona lost in the women's semifinals but John beat Ed Bond of Michigan for the world's middleweight championship.

"It was a great feeling winning," John said. "It's always a great feeling when you know you're the best."

Wrist wrestling has played a big part in John Wooley's life. "When I was a boy, Jim and I would often arm wrestle," he said. Arm wrestling is a form of wrist wrestling.

He became seriously interested in the sport after seeing the 1971 World's Wrist Wrestling Championships on TV.

made up my mind after that loss, to become the next world's middle weight champion."

John drove home and, with the help of his brother, built several regulation wrist wrestling tables. The tables are 41-inches tall, 36-inches long and 25-inches wide. They also have two U-shaped, six-inch elbow cups facing each other. "I knew what I had to do," he said. "I needed to work on my speed and technique."

Tona has won the women's division of the San Diego Invitational Wrist Wrestling Championship and the New Jersey State Tournament.

After perfecting their wrist-wrestling technique, the Wooseys felt they still lacked mental experience. To get it, John, Tona and Jim competed in the Nevada, Oregon State Tournaments and San Diego Invitational Wrist Wrestling Championships. John won all three tournaments.

This October, the three Wooseys will again enter the world's championships at Petaluma.

Jim will compete in the middleweight division. Tona in the women's while John will jump a class to the unlimited or heavyweight division.

"I'm eating three good meals a day," John said. "I'm eating protein and have started a body-building program to place the added weight where I want it." He hopes to weigh 245 by October.

John said heavy weights have been known to pick an opponent off the ground in putting them down.

Wrist wrestlers in the heat of a battle have broken wrists, dislocated shoulders and torn tendons.

Jim said a novice wrist wrestler is one who doesn't realize the importance of mental attitude and grip.

"The first couple of tournaments I went to with John," he said, "I had a hard time getting used to opponents giving me a soft grip. I had a tendency to relax."

"When the referee signaled go," said Jim, he was down before he knew what happened.

"You have to be mentally ready or you will get beat," he said.

Jim since has won the California State Tournament. John is 6 feet 3. His wrists are 8 inches; biceps, 18; neck, 18; forearms, 16; chest, 50; and weights 225 pounds.

He can squeeze a bathroom scale with both hands and send the dial to 350 pounds. With his right hand on San Diego Invitational Wrist Wrestling Championships. John won 200 pounds.

Death, Drought Strangle Africa

Editor's Note—This dispatch was written by an Associated Press correspondent during a visit last week to Niger, where the army took over the government on Monday with promises to bring drought relief to the starving population.

By LARRY HEINZELING, Associated Press Writer NIAHMEY, Niger (AP) — In this vast sub-Saharan land where the ground is often so hot that precious rain evaporates before it hits, the sunbleached bones of dead cattle litter the countryside from the desert outpost of Agadez to the riverside capital in the south.

Sprawling refugee camps — squalid clusters of hundreds of waist-high huts of mud and matting — house tens of thousands of nomads fleeing the sunbaked sandy wastes of the Sahara Desert to the north.

Niger, a semi-desert nation of 12 million nomads and subsistence farmers landlocked in the heart of Africa, is struggling to survive an ecological disaster.

West Africa's savage six-year drought has had a crippling impact on the rural economy of this former French colony, one of the poorest nations in the world. Senegal, Mauritania, Mali, Upper Volta and Chad also have been hit hard by the drought, but Niger is considered one of the worst off.

United Nations relief officials estimate half of the population has been affected by the lingering dry spell and relief officials estimate thousands of nomads have died from starvation or disease.

According to one estimate, about 800,000 persons in Niger are now receiving some of the food grain arriving from the United States and Europe. But only a third that number are getting the 1,800 calories a day Red Cross officials consider a minimum daily ration.

Besides the plight of its own people, Niger is beset by 75,000 refugees that have streamed into the country in recent months from Mali.

They are full of grim stories of death in the desert for stragglers fleeing the drought as they struggle to reach Niamey by foot or on camels and mules.

In the Department of Agadez, which embraces the northern half of Niger, some 70,000 people out of a total population of 100,000 are reported totally dependent on food from abroad.

Russia Unhappy With Sadat

By WILLIAM L. RYAN, AP Special Correspondent

The Russians are as if they suspect they've been had by President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, and that can make them together to deal with in the search for an over-all Middle East settlement.

Moscow was never very happy in its relationship with Sadat's predecessor, Gamal Abdel Nasser. But it is even more irked with the man who assumed Nasser's mantle in 1970.

This irritation has been increasing ever since the October war. Now, if Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger seems to run into mounting difficulties trying to bring about a military disengagement on the Syrian-Israeli front, it's a good bet Soviet pique has something to do with it.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko has been trying to counter Kissinger's shuttle diplomacy in the Middle East, and Syria is the obvious route. The Kremlin wants badly to shift attention away from Kissinger's activities to an unwieldy Geneva conference where the Russians can be more visible.

Sadat asked Moscow by failing to go along with that idea. But he had annoyed the Russians ever since October, when he failed to consult them on his war plans. He also:

- Neglected to confide in his Russian allies before agreeing to Kissinger's disengagement proposals.
- Ignored a Soviet proposal that Russian and American officers sit in on the disengagement talks between Egypt and Israel;

- Won majority backing for his policy from an Arab summit in Algiers.
- Ignored Soviet advice and successfully campaigned for suspension of the Arab oil embargo against the United States.

The Russians have had lots of time to get used to the idea that Sadat trusted them even less than Nasser did.

Vietnamese War Rages

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Two days of hard fighting in the Central Highlands have taken the lives of more than 500 North Vietnamese and 20 South Vietnamese. South Vietnamese military sources reported today. They said thousands of North Vietnamese battled government forces for five hours on Tuesday after a six-hour battle on Monday. Both actions took place between the Plei Me base camp and Pleiku. They said the battle Tuesday was the biggest in South Vietnam since the cease-fire 14½ months ago.

Pole Defects To Saigon

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Poland's delegation to the International Commission of Control and Supervision demanded today that the South Vietnamese government return a member of the Polish delegation who defected, but Saigon government sources said the demand was rejected. The Polish delegation claimed that the defector, a 34-year-old political officer named Mikolaj Holub, was mentally ill. Mikolaj went to the American Embassy early Monday and asked for asylum, and the Americans turned him over to the South Vietnamese. The Saigon government said it was considering the man's request for asylum.

Butz Hits Price Ceilings

TOKYO (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz today blamed the steep rise in American food prices in January and February on housewives and politicians who demanded price ceilings. Butz, on a tour of Asia, told the Japan National Press Club price ceilings had caused production to fall off and a consequent increase in prices. "One of the best ways to get production is to give some profit to the producer," he said.

Kennedy Behind Coup?

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Former President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes of Guatemala says the late President John F. Kennedy ordered the coup that overthrew him 11 years ago in retaliation for the failure of the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba.

In an interview on the eve of the 13th anniversary today of the invasion, Ydigoras Fuentes said the attempt on Fidel Castro's regime failed because of "the great decisions of President Kennedy."

He said, "As always, he had to find a scapegoat, and that scapegoat was Ydigoras Fuentes... It was through Kennedy's orders that my government was destroyed."

Artillery Still Rakes Golan Heights Front

By The Associated Press

Israeli and Syrian artillery and tank guns battled again today on Mt. Hermon and along the Golan Heights.

The Israeli military command said Syrian guns pounded Israeli positions on the bitterly contested mountain, wounding one soldier, and the exchanges spread along the 40-mile perimeter around the territory captured in the October war.

The Syrian command reported Syrian and Israeli forces battled on the slopes of Mt. Hermon throughout the night but gave no details. The loud of artillery was heard all night in Damascus, the Syrian capital 23 miles from the Biblical mountain.

The Syrians also said the fighting spread along the front of daybreak.

It was the 37th consecutive day of fighting and coincided with the 29th anniversary of Syria's independence from France.

The Syrians have been trying to capture an Israeli reconnaissance post on the north side of Mt. Hermon which overlooks the entire front. The Syrians have established a forward command post on a slope of the snow-covered mountain, indicating more attempts to capture the Israeli position.

Associated Press newsmen Hal McClure reported from the front that Israeli reinforcements ran into heavy Syrian cannon fire as they made their

Beefsteak Is Way To His Heart

By TOM HOGE

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Steak has long stood for the good life in America, and now it is regarded as a sign of affluence. But, costly as it is, most of us feel the need for a broiled slab of beef once in a while.

Everyone has his own ideas about how steak should be cooked. Time was when most diners preferred it well done, or at least medium. But today they usually ask for medium rare and some insist it be rare.

Most steak buffs have their favorite cut, and this brings up something I haven't been able to figure out: the names they give steaks. I'm told that Britons had never heard of London broil until some Yankee informed them what it was. And, although I was born and raised in Manhattan, I had never seen a New York steak on a menu until I visited Maryland.

As most of us know, beef is graded by government inspectors for the protection of the consumer. It ranges from prime, the most expensive, to choice, which is generally considered the best for daily household fare, and down the ladder to grades which are tough but still edible. Actually, the bottom levels are not recommended unless you blanket them with tenderizer and have a good set of teeth.

Most butchers will tell you just what grade of meat you are buying, but there are exceptions. Unless you know the man behind the meat counter, it is best to get a briefing on the signs of quality. Tender beef is heavily marbled with white streaks of fat. And the color of the best beef, experts say, is bright crimson.

Many people think of steak as a cut of beef seared on both sides in the broiler, then served with mushrooms or onions and French fries. But there are other ways. Steak cooked in beer is delicious, and a cut of round simmered in wine can be a masterpiece. In fact, this method can make a tough piece of meat fork-tender.

STEAK IN WINE SAUCE

3 pounds round steak 1½ inches thick

2 tablespoons butter

3 medium onions chopped

2 tablespoons prepared mustard

Dash of Worcestershire

1 cup sliced mushrooms

½ teaspoon salt

¼ cup red wine

1 to 2 tablespoons flour

Brown steak on both sides in butter. Add onions, mustard, salt, Worcestershire, mushrooms, wine and ½ cup water. Cover tightly and simmer 2 hours. Add mixture of 1 part wine and 2 parts water if needed. Add flour to pan juices and simmer 3 minutes. Add still more liquid if needed. Good with chilled ale. Serves 6.

Children Hurt By Obesity

By GAYNOR MADDOX

At Duke university Medical Center, James B. Sidbury Jr. is trying to get the fat off youngsters.

"Overeating is the main factor in childhood obesity. By obesity, I mean 50 per cent overweight, sometimes even 100 per cent. That is a habit these children learned from their overeating parents. And 80 per cent of the kids will grow up to be fat adults," states the chief of pediatric metabolism and director of clinic research at Duke.

Three years ago Dr. Sidbury began intensive development of a diet program for obese children and teenagers.

"Most reducing programs are geared to adults. We realized that the diet is not the most important thing. It's a structure program that guides both the child and the parents and teaches them new eating habits. The objective is a lower weight that can be maintained once it has been achieved," he explains adding:

"If the mother and father are obese and have a pattern of overeating then we must change that pattern. Otherwise the program for the child will not work. If older family members go on stuffing themselves you cannot expect the child not to follow suit."

Indonesian Foods Tingle All Of Your Taste Buds

By SHIRLEY GALLINA
Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — Don't ask if that peanut butter you taste in Bob Goey's salad dressing.

Goey will be horrified. He and other Indonesians use peanuts liberally in their food, but he considers peanut butter an abomination.

Spicy is the best word Bob Goey finds to describe the exotic foods of Indonesia, which also employ hot chilies and coconut milk.

"European and American foods are bland by comparison," says Goey, who with his wife, Jikky, owns J. B.'s Little Ball, an Indonesian restaurant.

"But each Indonesian dish has a completely different taste. That's why we can have only one dinner on our menu. It's because there's so much variety."

"You don't get bored with this food."

Goey says that Indonesian food has been influenced by many people. These include the early influence of the Hindu and Buddhist civilizations, the Chinese, the Arab traders and the European customs of the colonial governments of England, Portugal and Holland.

"Indonesian food is not of the Orient, the plains of Central Asia nor of Europe, yet it has been subtly influenced by all these areas of the world," Goey says.

The single dinner is a mastery production including a unique salad, eight entrees, five condiments and dessert.

"It's called by the Dutch name, 'Rijsttafel,' (pronounced rise-taffe) which simply means, 'rice table.'"

"In the old days, the Dutch served the rice table on Sundays and holidays for the whole family and friends."

"You can serve as many as 40 dishes, all of them served with rice."

Steamed rice is the base for all Indonesian food, and Goey says even today the Dutch serve more rice than potatoes and there are Indonesian restaurants all over The Netherlands.

"Our rice table is from East Java...the best," Goey says.

If you've forgotten your geography, Indonesia is an archipelago of 12,877 islands of which 6,844 are inhabited. It lies across the equator between the continents of Asia and Australia, between the Pacific and Indian oceans. It stretches 3,200 miles from east to west, and has a population of about 120 million.

Some of the better known islands include Sumatra, Borneo, Java, Bali, the Celebes and New Guinea.

Goey was born in The Hague, The Netherlands. But his Chinese father and his Dutch mother then moved to Java where Bob Goey was raised.

Goey's wife, of Chinese heritage, was born on one of the lesser-known islands, Sumatra.

The Goey's came to America 12 years ago, and opened their restaurant 11 years ago.

They are open only Thursday through Sunday, and serve

The Search For Food: People May Have To Eat Grass

By ROBERT BETTS
Copley News Service

How people can eat grass without it tasting like grass is one of the problems confronting food technologists as they look for ways to feed a world said to be growing hungrier by the hour.

With the exploding world population and rising fears of famine within a decade or two, food technology has ranged beyond agricultural experiments for increasing grain crops, to the search for new sources of sustenance.

Considerable headway has been made in the production of new foods, some of which already are on the market under such labels as "artificial," "substitute" or "imitation."

For housewives who want foods of the future right now, supermarket shelves feature chicken that never cackled, ham that never oinked, and beef that never set foot inside a stockyard. Canned, dehydrated, frozen or freeze-dried, they are but a few of the growing number of vegetable protein foods made to look and taste like the real thing, but originating in the soybean field rather than in the barnyard or on the range.

Other more far-out fare is being cooked up in laboratories, with such ingredients as seaweed, algae, cottonseed, grasshoppers, ants, sawdust — even powdered granite, souped up with synthetic vitamins.

Over the long haul, the scientists say, food from such sources as yeast, bacteria, chemicals or even petroleum undoubtedly will become increasingly important. They refer to such foods as "simulated," "engineered" or "fabricated."

Dr. Bernard S. Schweigert, chairman of the department of food science and technology at the University of California's Davis campus, uses the term "formulated foods" — those "in which a combination of ingredients are used to develop a new or modified food item rather than one of the traditional commodities."

Schweigert said, "I think formulated foods can contribute a significant portion of our nutrient intake, and will be a key part in providing some of the nutrients in our diet."

He believes protein concentrates that are on the drawing boards have varying degrees of exciting possibilities "ranging from pilot stage to a gleam in some researcher's eye."

Some experiments have been aimed at isolating the photosynthesis process from all other biological processes taking place inside a plant cell, allowing scientists eventually to manipulate plants so that they would produce more nourishing protein and less useless starch.

"Photosynthesis is the process by which the plant's energy is used by green plants to manufacture proteins, fats, sugars and starches while at the same time giving off free oxygen to the atmosphere. Scientists have succeeded in reproducing the process outside a living cell, taking a step nearer to using sunlight for the production of nourishing foods out of such waste plants as jungle leaves and grass."

"I know several researchers, including the U.S. Department of Agriculture, studying the extracting of proteins from alfalfa leaves and from other green leaves," Schweigert said.

"There again, we have a real interesting technical problem — first, to minimize the grass flavor from such preparations; and, second, the green color from the chlorophyll is not one of the greatest quality at-

Controlled Growth Is Imminent

COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

If any American shudders at some of the concoctions being cooked up by "food for the future" scientists, they are ready with a sharp rejoinder.

Already there are two billion starving or undernourished people in the world, they say, and the figure will increase as population growth outpaces food production.

Only one billion of the earth's 30 billion acres is held to be available or suitable for production of food and clothing for the human race. Present world population is estimated at four billion. Unless growth is controlled it may be half as much again or even double by the end of the century — meaning six billion to eight billion extra stomachs that will need to be fed from the same one billion acres.

"Very few grasp the magnitude of the danger that confronts us," the American Freedom From Hunger Foundation states in a report. "The catastrophe is not something that may happen; on the contrary, it is a mathematical certainty that it will happen."

World grain reserves already are down from a normal 150 million tons to 100 million, a dangerously low level, and experts believe stocks will go on declining. As world consumption expands by about 2.5 per cent annually, so should the size of global grain reserves. But over the last decade reserves have dwindled while consumption has climbed by one third.

"The gloomy prediction of worldwide famine is not universally shared, however. It is dismissed as unnecessarily alarmist by some experts who believe that nature will act to restore any imbalance, as it has done in the past."

In a report to the British-North American Committee, Harry G. Johnson, professor of economics at the London School of Economics and Political Science and the University of Chicago, asserted: "It is not logical to make projections of the future on the assumption that population behavior is completely independent of available resources and of human aspirations for improvement, when a wide range of human history — and not merely recent history of a technologically advanced and highly educated Western world — points in the opposite direction."

At least, the United States is considered to be in less present danger than any other country. Dr. James Bonner of the California Institute of Technology said that Americans may eventually have to become vegetarians but it will be a long, long time before they face going hungry.

"There is no food crisis," he said. "Food is the last thing we have to worry about. We have a tremendous production."

The White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health also reported that "this country has the ability — provided proper food policies and programs are followed — to produce all the nutrients our expanding population will require at least through the remainder of this century, though our population may increase substantially by then."

Dear Abby Something New; Divorce Shower

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: For years I have contributed to office collections for coworkers on the occasion of their engagements, marriages, anniversaries, births, deaths in the family, new home, etc.

My wife and I separated a year ago, and I've been rooming with another man since then. Now I'm getting my own apartment, and I need all the things a couple needs to set up housekeeping—sheets, towels, dishes, appliances, etc. (My wife took everything when we split up.) Since I can't afford to buy all these things at once, I have proposed a "divorce" shower at work. It might even be used items, since it's a second start for me.

The general reaction in the office was favorable, but some were on the fence. We agreed to abide by your advice as to whether this idea was too outrageous or actually a sensible way to help me out with a problem.

POTLESS: The idea makes a lot of sense to me. But shouldn't "propose" the shower yourself, anyone that a bride should "propose" her own shower. (P.S. Yours is not actually a "divorce shower," it's a miscellaneous shower for a man who's setting up housekeeping and doesn't have a pot.)

DEAR ABBY: I work in an office building. There's a woman down the hall who smokes about a pack of cigarettes a day, and she bums everyone of them!

She knows there are several smokers in this office, so she runs in just about every 30 minutes and asks if "anybody" has a cigarette.

I asked her why she didn't buy some, and she said: "I'm not supposed to be smoking at all, and if I buy them I'll only smoke them." I wonder what she thinks she is doing with the cigarettes she bums off us?

SUCKER: For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 322 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Fashions On Parade Earn Awards For Promenaders

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Blue skies, gentle breezes, bright smiles and a kaleidoscope of color set the pace for the first annual Parade in Sanford, a joint effort of the Downtown Business Association and Optimist Club.

Paraders promenaded through the park to appropriate recorded Easter music and were later by a bagpiper as the parade got underway.

Even a chimpanzee from Central Florida Zoo, dressed up in Easter finery, got in on the act.

And the parade paid off in cash prizes to the winners and in the Easter Egg Hunt which followed with 20 boys and girls awarded silver dollars for finding the lucky eggs.

The Levi Coleman family was awarded $100 as the best-dressed family.

Earning $50 for the best-dressed couple were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Holtzclaw.

The best-dressed girl award of $25 went to Brittany Rockett.

Tying for the best-dressed boy title and splitting $25 were James C. Lyon, 6, and Pat Harrison, 10.

It was also a toss-up for the most typical bonnet between Mrs. Dorothy Waller and Rachel Huckabone who divided $50.

Mrs. Nora Gordon was chairman of the parade and Jerry Munson president of DBA, served as master of ceremonies.

IN THE DARK: DEAR IN: It's just a wild guess, but I'd say he's either married or living with someone. Unless he's willing to let you know where he lives and where he works, you'd be wise to forget him and look for a man who's not afraid to answer a few simple questions.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CONCERNED IN TAREN-TUM, PA.: Your husband is 100 per cent wrong! Men can have breast cancer. He should see a doctor about that lump in his breast at once.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 89700, L. A., Calif. 90088. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: In the midst of some difficult aspects you have the chance to overcome obstacles and replace them with better conditions by words of encouragement to all with whom you come in contact. Remove any adverse thoughts you may have.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Think over more satisfying monetary arrangements with other persons and be sure to gain their cooperation. Don't impose on others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are magnetic and charming today and win over others by kindness. Try to come to the aid of a good friend who needs help now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get out of the doldrums and into the work ahead of you. Make sure you pay that bill instead of making others angry. Show wisdom.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) It is important to make some changes today that are to your benefit, so don't delay in doing so. Don't waste time foolishly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have responsibilities that need to be handled right away so don't run off on any tangents. Mate is not receptive now so use tact.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use tact in fending out how you stand with associates and then do something to improve the situation. Don't let others fool you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Although you have much to do, take the time to make your home more charming and comfortable. Sidestep one who makes trouble at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take a good friend with you and have fun at hobbies that will be mutually enjoyed. Don't be forceful with mate at this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't use that blunt approach at home or there can be much tension and trouble resulting. Use tact and get things smoothed out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You could be so busy handling unimportant matters that you lose out on something profitable or pleasurable. Think kindly of others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do whatever makes your home and other possessions more charming. Talk over with a clever business person how to be more prosperous.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Show kindness to others instead of hostility and you get along much better now. Avoid one who wants to get you into further debt.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be the kind of person who will readily understand others and will do well in any field that is allied with psychology. Be alert to the forte here and direct the education along such lines.

Each to be more objective since there is a tendency here toward self pity. Give finest education possible.

The Stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for May is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast, The Sanford Herald, P.O. Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Artist's Works On Exhibit

By FANNETTE EDWARDS Herald Correspondent

DELTONA—Mrs. Helen S. Mastulis of South Village Drive, a member of the Deltona Art Club, is having a "One-woman Show" in the Deltona Woman's Club House during April.

Mrs. Mastulis is a multimedia artist who has won at least 25 awards in New York City, Long Island and the New York area.

In Florida she has been in pre-juried shows in Loch Haven and Stetson University. She won first place in oils at Daytona Beach Art Center, first place at Volusia County Fair, and an award at the Florida State Annual Exhibition in 1973.

As a teacher, demonstrator and judge in the field of art, her work has been published in a book entitled, "Plastic Sculpture and Collage." She had had 14 "One-woman Shows".

One of her paintings on exhibit in the Woman's Club, "Harvest," was entered in the International Art Show in New York Coliseum. This painting was also chosen as one of the top 100 in a selection of 2500 entries for the Emily Lowe Gallery competition on Madison Avenue in New York. Her exhibit includes colored inks and wash painting, plexiglass sculpture painting, watercolor, collage and oils.

Tonight's TV Highlights

4:30-5:30 ABC AFTER-SCHOOL SPECIALS "Alexander" (RERUN) Red Buttons stars in a sensitive portrayal of an elderly man whose tales of his worldly travels win over three youngsters who join him in his fight to save his ancestral home. Fine story.

8-9 CBS THE SONNY & CHER SHOW (RERUN) Howard "Supermouse" Coe, Chuck Connors and a couple of beauty queens, Miss Universe and Miss USA, join Sonny & Cher for this frolic. One Coe!

8:30-10 PBS THEATER IN AMERICA "The Ceremony of Innocence" (RERUN) A sketch is titled "Little Darlin'" — by no means type-casting. 8-9 NBC CHASE "Vacation for a President" (RERUN) A free-spirited visiting Latin-American country president gives his security guards a rough time. He keeps alighting a plane, tearing down a historic mansion. Soul-searching story, mainly to keep the president — played by Henry Darrow — from being assassinated.

8-9 ABC WEDNESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK "Nakia" It stars Robert Forster as the Southwestern Indian deputy, in the first half of a double-feature. Arthur Kennedy plays the Sheriff, Forster his deputy, and Linda Evans is the female town attorney. The story involves a large corporation's attempt to take over and develop an estate, tearing down a historic mansion. Soul-searching story, mainly to keep the president — played by Henry Darrow — from being assassinated.

8-11 NBC NBC WEDNESDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES "Judgment At Nuremberg" (Part II) (RERUN) The conclusion of this fine drama deals with the courtroom procedures of the trial.

Impeach Christian Demands Growing

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A House committee to investigate impeachment of state Education Commissioner Floyd Christian was appointed today by Speaker Terrell Sessums. Christian was indicted by the Leon County grand jury Wednesday on 19 counts of bribery, perjury and conspiracy.

(Related story on Page 5A)

Sessums said he expected the committee to meet Monday to "look into the whole question of impeachment."

He said he detected "a deep feeling by all concerned" for the House to vote impeachment.

which would suspend Christian from office, and to delay the Senate trial on removing him from office until after Christian's court trial.

The suspension would be more effective than Christians' voluntary action in removing himself from office, Sessums said.

Also named to the committee were Reps. Jim Tillman, R-Sarasota and vice chairman, Marshall Harris, D-Miami, Eugene Tubbs, R-Merritt Island, Kenneth MacKay, D-Ocala, and Leon McDonald, D-Live Oak.

Redman, House chairman of the Joint Legislative Auditing Committee, said earlier he had met with Sessums to discuss possible actions.

Christian, 59, a Democrat and one of the state's top elected officials, proclaimed his innocence to newsmen as he was booked at the Leon County Sheriff's Office. He was released on $62,500 bond.

"I'm shocked and a little disappointed," he said.

Christian said earlier in a prepared statement that he would not resign but would turn his duties over to Shelley Boone, a deputy.

But Rep. James Redman, D-Plant City and House chairman of the Joint Legislative Auditing Committee which turned its investigation of Christian over to the grand jury, said he saw "no alternative to impeachment."

Redman said he probably would announce today a committee meeting to discuss impeachment.

Longwood Delay Saves $100,000

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD—City councilmen may have saved up to $100,000 by taking no action earlier this week to further extend an Associated Contracting and Building Co. bid for the city's proposed sewer collection system.

The $1,667,047 bid was extended 45 days to this past Monday by council in February on consulting engineer Bill Palm's advice, with a heretofore "secret" stipulation from the contractor that the city would pay increased materials' costs and a guaranteed profit.

As part of the bid extension agreement shielded from both the public and at least two city officials, however, was an escalation clause permitting Associated to collect a "25 per cent gross mark-up for overhead and profit."

Ten days ago Palm, at a city council meeting, denied the existence of an escalation agreement.

Today, B.G. Stephens, an Associated official admitted the escalation clause, adding increased costs of materials and the 25 per cent mark-up would have totaled between $75,000 and $100,000. He said his company is now reanalyzing the costs involved and is "thinking of making an offer to the city to do the job for the $1.6 million originally bid."

NO QUORUM IN LONGWOOD AGAIN

ACTING Council Chairman Donald Schreiner and Councilman June Lormann waited 10 minutes past the scheduled council meeting time Wednesday night before adjourning due to lack of a quorum. For the third time this week Councilman B. L. Helms did not show up and for the second time Councilman B. H. Ferrell was absent.

Recommending the delay in February, Palm said the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency was holding up promised federal money for the interceptor and sewer plant. Altamonte Springs expects state and federal grants of almost $5 million for its sewer plant and interceptors to pick up Longwood sewage.

Palm, at a council meeting on Feb. 18, recommended the first extension, noting Longwood's sewer line construction should be concurrent with construction of the city's interceptor system and the Altamonte Springs interceptors and regional sewer plant. Palm said Associated was willing to extend the bid with a stipulation that the city pick up increased materials' costs.

Stephens said he wants to help the city and will absorb the increased costs if possible and will forget the 25 per cent mark-up if he can still make some profit on the job.

Councilmen Donald Schreiner and June Lormann deny they were aware of the escalation clause at the time they voted to extend the bid in February.

Palm, at a council meeting on Feb. 18, recommended the first extension, noting Longwood's sewer line construction should be concurrent with construction of the city's interceptor system and the Altamonte Springs interceptors and regional sewer plant. Palm said Associated was willing to extend the bid with a stipulation that the city pick up increased materials' costs.

"If in the 45 days extension we should have any price increases on any materials for this project, we will have to be reimbursed the actual cost difference plus 25 per cent gross mark-up for overhead and profit," Stephens' letter states. Monday night, Palm recommended the city council reject Associated's bid, noting Schreiner said today he was not advised of any 25 per cent escalation clause and neither were other city officials at a public meeting. "The tapes of the meeting will bear this out," Schreiner said.

Askew: Homestead Exemption Increase Proposal Has Merit

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A proposal to deny homestead exemption to new Floridians and double the tax break for those who currently live in the state has received a boost from Gov. Reubin Askew.

Askew told a news conference that the idea had merit in the wake of a Senate vote to double the homestead exemption for the elderly.

The exemption for senior citizens goes before the House today where a fight is expected over the two proposals plus the so-called "circuit breaker" to give tax relief based on income.

After intense wrangling, a Democratic caucus Wednesday took the position that all three measures should be presented to the House.

House Speaker Terrell Sessums said he expected passage of the proposal to extend an extra $5,000 homestead exemption from school taxes to city and county taxes for senior citizens.

"We will basically be left with the Senate bill or a House bill that is virtually identical and one of those will prevail on a roll call vote," said Sessums, D-Tampa.

The Senate bill (SB 2) passed 34-0 Wednesday.

Rep. Robert Johnson, R-Sarasota, has proposed a constitutional amendment (HR 2294) and a bill (HB2292) which would give every Floridian who owns a home on Dec. 31 the $10,000 exemption and then not give the exemption to persons who later move to the state.

Askew told a news conference that an increased exemption for everybody "is an option that merits serious consideration."

He said he was studying it in detail to determine the impact, but estimated that it would cut property taxes by $150 million. The state would make up the lost revenue to local governments.

The circuit-breaker plan "would require substantial administrative machinery and could be viewed by many as an indirect income tax which I oppose," Askew said.

Sen. Richard Pettigrew, D-Miami, and 13 other senators filed a bill Wednesday which would combine the circuit breaker with an exemption from the 10 per cent city utility tax on the first $30 of a person's electric or gas bill.

Refugee Group Vows To Execute Cuban Exiles

MIAMI (AP) — A Cuban refugee group claiming responsibility for the murder of anti-Castro leader Jose Elias de la Torriente has vowed to kill other Cuban exiles who betray the "process of liberation of their homeland."

The killers of both Torriente and Rodriguez escaped, and no arrests have been made here or in New York.

The declaration from "Zero" made no mention of Rodriguez, and there was no indication that the same group was responsible for both murders. But it said "these miserable Cubans will continue to fall, one-by-one in a cold and dispassionate way..."

It declared: "We know that, unfortunately, the list is very long, but the cemeteries are also very big and we have more than enough time in which to get them there."

There were indications, however, that the Rodriguez and Torriente murders might have been linked in another way.

Rodriguez spoke before a Union City, N. J., group Sunday and Miami sources said he urged a renewed wave of terrorist activities against Castro government officials throughout the world.

Rodriguez knew his killer, having admitted "him into his home."

66th Year, No. 205 Price 10 Cents

By John A. Spolski

It's been less than a week since we chided the local gentry about the lack of fireworks last Fourth of July.

Jack Horner of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce was the first to respond and has a committee already working on resurrecting the pyrotechnical display — a favorite of one and all.

In addition, Sanford City Commissioner, Julian Stenstrom brought the matter before the city's fathers, and they too approved the idea of the city participating. Even appointed Director of Parks Jim Jernigan to coordinate the efforts.

Which brings us to that point... this isn't limited to only the chamber or the city, for that matter. The "Fourth" is to be celebrated by everyone... and that means all local service clubs and organizations should participate.

If you're interested, give Horner a call at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

And, oh yes... will you please check into your garage and attic and dust off Old Glory?

If some of you are so prone on reminding me how "unamerican" I am cause I get a little frustrated with the man presently occupying the White House, the least you could do is fly your colors to prove what a great American you are, right?

People Will Stuff It - Providing It Talks Back

BROOKVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — He talks, he sings, he makes slightly risque suggestions and he swallows garbage.

He's Arthur, the talking trash can.

His inventor thinks a kind word from Arthur encourages people to fill him with garbage rather than dump it where it doesn't belong.

Arthur is the brainchild of Charles Hamad, 24, of Danbury, Conn., a graduate student in psychology at C.W. Post College, and Dr. Jeff Corey, an associate psychology professor and Hamad's thesis advisor.

Arthur's voice is a tape cassette, activated when trash is stuffed into the 45-gallon can.

Hamad said he has five different tapes for Arthur. Several say, "Thank you," one plays music and another makes random noises.

And then there is what Hamad calls the "X-rated tape."

Hamad says it's "kind of corny, but says things like, 'Meet me up in your room in 10 minutes with a whip and an apron daniish...'"

But Hamad says a simple "thank you" seems to work best.

Arthur is a standard plastic trash can. There is a face painted on the lid, with blond hair, blue eyes and yellow teeth. The teeth surround a plastic mouth attached by a hinge, through which garbage is deposited.

When the mouth is pushed, the cassette is activated.

Hamad says he placed Arthur in a college dining hall for about four hours one day.

For the first hour, the cassette was turned off, and only 20 persons stuffed garbage in Arthur.

For the next three hours, the cassette was turned on and "a few hundred people" used Arthur, Hamad said.

But Hamad says Arthur has been used only for about 15 hours and more data is needed to confirm his theory that people are more likely to use trash cans if the can talks back, and to determine whether the novelty will wear off.

"Basically it's an example of behavior modification, it's merely a mild form of reward," Corey said.

Hamad says some students have had trouble coping with Arthur, the gabby garbage collector.

"One person had keys in his hand and he thought it was a regular garbage can," Hamad said. "He was sort of taken aback by the response the can gave him. He dropped his keys in it and we had to take the whole thing apart to get his keys back."
