How to Operate the New Parking Meters

LARGE ALL RED TURNING DIAL IN FRONT, AND FACING THE FLOW OF TRAFFIC, SHOWS AT A GLANCE TIME REMAINING TO PARK.

Enforcement of parking regulations as provided by installation of parking meters has now commenced.

Parking meter regulations must be observed in accordance with instructions found plainly inscribed across the meter.

The important thing for the automobile owner to remember is that he must manipulate the meter handle by turning it clockwise when the timing device is operating.

In certain circumstances will police officers be authorized to manipulate the meter, except for the purpose of possible instruction when enforcement is first started.

In parallel curb parking, the operator must park so that the front wheel is adjacent to the meter.

Parking meters have been found in most cities to provide ample parking spaces by eliminating the tendency to double park. Double parking will not be tolerated.

To avoid a violation, the operator must set the meter in operation as directed on the face of the meter. This meter is exceptionally easy to understand and use, so failure to operate as shown will be inexcusable.

It shall be unlawful for any person to deface, tamper with, damage, open or wilfully break, destroy, or impair the usefulness of any parking meter installed on the streets. This provision will be enforced rigidly, and parents will be responsible for any damage done by their minor children.

Meters have been installed for the benefit of the whole community, to better traffic conditions. The cooperation of the entire public is requested.

French Claims To Rhineland And Ruhr Rejected By Byrnes

Secretary Says U. S. Does Not Consider German Border Fixed At Oder River

STUTTGART, Germany, Sept. 6, (AP)—Secretary of State James Byrnes today rejected France's claim to the Rhineland and Ruhr and notified Russia that the United States does not consider Germany's eastern boundary fixed at the Oder River.

These statements were made by the United States State Department chief in an unprecedented speech before 2,000 German and Allied leaders that packed the Stuttgart State Opera House to hear Byrnes outline American policy.

Byrnes presented a broad plan to unify Germany eventually under a national council. He said the council should be charged with drafting a federal constitution for what he described as a "United States of Germany."

The Secretary told his audience that security forces probably will have to stay in Germany a long time and as long as an occupation force is needed in Germany, the United States Army will be a part of that force.

The speech was addressed to the German people, but it was obviously a reply to an address made by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov on July 10 in which he opposed the federalization of Germany. In effect, Byrnes warned Moscow that any drive to enlarge Russian influence in western Europe would be strongly opposed by the United States.

The Secretary stated flatly that it is in the interest of world peace that Germany should become a pawn or a partner in a struggle between the east and west.

Byrnes also held out to the Germans not only the prospect of political rebirth, but also the hope of more favorable border lines in the east.

Byrnes emphasized the determination of the United States to see Germany rise as a powerful, centralized nation, as he rejected French claims to the Rhineland and Ruhr. He recommended a central German government, but he said that federalization should come later and only after the Germans approved it in a plebiscite.

Five Greeks Are Killed In Fight With Communists

ATHENS, Sept. 6, (AP)—The Ministry of Public Order has announced that three sailors aboard a Greek mine sweeper in the Gulf of Vlora have been killed in an attack on the ship by Communists operating shore batteries.

The Ministry said that five mortar shells exploded aboard the mine-sweeper.

The official statement also said that two soldiers were killed in a ten-hour battle yesterday near Vlora. Six others were wounded and two are missing. The battle occurred when a band of 300 men attacked a detachment of soldiers. The Public Order Ministry said that losses of the attacking band were heavy.

Two Greek rightists also are said to have been killed in separate incidents yesterday.

Police Chief Says Meter Crank Must Be Turned To Right

County Schools Will Open Doors Monday Morning

Increased Enrollment Is Anticipated By Herman Morris

All Seminole County schools will open at 9:00 o'clock Monday morning and an increased enrollment was predicted by Herman P. Morris, Seminole High School principal who is serving as acting superintendent of county schools during the illness of Superintendent T. W. Lawton.

"After depositing the coin," the chief explained, "the small crank must be turned clockwise to put the meter into operation. If a coin is deposited and the crank is turned counter-clockwise, the meter will not be effective and there is no way the coin can be returned."

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THE WORLD IS TURNED UPSIDE DOWN AND MANY THINGS MEN THOUGHT
FIXED ETERNALLY HAVE PROVEN QUITE THE REVERSE.
THERE IS ONLY ONE IMMOV-ABLE ROCK TO CLING TO,
THAT IS GOD; HE ONLY IS MY ROCK AND MY SALVATION, HE IS MY DEFENSE; I SHALL NOT BE MOVED.—
Psalm 62:6.

PUSH INTO THE FOURTH,
DIMENSION

(From The Tampa Tribune)
The pencil point extended to a line,

That line moved to a rectangle,
a square,

That change form pushed into a cube, a box...
Those three dimensions, well assembled there,
Immediately find a paradox.
For how can you imagine or define
That strange and terrifying new
dimension
Beyond antennae of your mind's extension?

Since the familiar three are true, the fourth
Must be so, too, but some keener being.
Some stereoscopic-eyed Man from the North
So long awaited, of superior seeing;
Aware of those immensities around us;
Polished, atomic and profound.
ISABEL FLIKE CONANT,

DESIGN FOR DEATH (From The Saturday Review of Literature)

So great was the heat from the bomb that fell on Hiroshima that the "shadow" of a passing man shows clearly on the black paw-ment, and vines lived just long enough to leave their silhouette on scared walls.—News item.

Every since the hour when in his cave

An unknown artist first immortalized

His vision, love has worked to cheat the grave

And to preserve the images it prized,

But he who vanished in this flash of doom

And like a figure on a Grecian vase

Remained aglow against the clay's dark bloom—

His outline captured by the potters glaze—

Found a new art; his strange distinction was

With his own life to ornament his tomb;

Artist and model of his final breath,

He traced himself the instant of his death.

II

Of the vine, nothing is left. Nothing at all.

Except a pattern on a blackened wall;

Testimony of how each flower turned

To sun that was not a sun, and as it burned

Shielded the stone from the consuming blast,

Leaving the future an imprint of the past,

Reminding man that his Promethean power

Can still be tempered by a single flower.

EVELYN AMES

We hope no one took it seriously when it was so freely predicted that the Security Exchange Commission and other New Deal experiments would prevent such debacles in the stock market as we have been witnessing lately.
At least, not to the extent of betting on it!

The Tampa Tribune pays high tribute to General MacArthur's administration in Japan and concludes an excellent editorial with "Did somebody say that Douglas MacArthur is too old to be President of the United States?"
Some people are wrong, too, when they say a good military man can't be a good administrator.

As might have been expected, Jim Mead and Tom Dewey have been nominated by Democrats and Republicans respectively for governor of New York. If Dewey wins in November, his prestige will probably be sufficiently restored in national party councils to enable him to win the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1948, which at this writing looks like a Republican year.

Unwanted Ships

The shipping business is caught in a typical post war vise. The War Shipping Administration began in February, 1942, to take over United States commercial ships and operate them to carry troops and war goods. Gradually they have been returning those vessels to private owners, but the picture has changed since the profitable pre-war days when water commerce was a desirable business.

Expenses have gone up, for labor, food for crews, and handling of cargoes. Income is fixed by the OPA, which still holds shipping rates to pre-war levels. As a result, the private owners are in no hurry to take back their ships. They have a choice of operating at little profit, or even loss, or of staying out of business. Low rail freight rates will offer stiff competition on some coastwise runs when the freight car situation eases.

The War Shipping Administration, which is supposed to fold up by the end of this year, has asked the interstate Commerce Commission to investigate the domestic rates of competing rail and water transports.

Meanwhile United States shipping, which is essential to the restoration of world trade and international business, is bogged down by a confusion of inflexible cargo rates, payroll costs and miscellaneous expenses inherent to the efficient use of commercial vessels. The problem is not one to be pigeon-holed. Its effects are too far-reaching.

Clay Houses

The British, faced with the problem of replacing one-third of their housing, because of war destruction alone, have devised a new building technique. They have labor troubles, too, so they figured out a way to use slabs of burnt clay.

The hollow slabs are set between steel girders.
Notched ends lock the slabs to the framework. The roof is made of clay strips, and the outside of the house is stuccoed. Such a house, designed with separate units for two families, with three bedrooms for each, costs about $13,000 in England. It can be built in three weeks.

Adobe houses have proved durable in America's Southwest, and in other parts of the country structures of packed earth have been practical. The British burnt clay construction may be worth looking into.

Very truly yours,
Claude Pepper

Dear Friends:
When you read this I shall be on the Pacific Coast making some speeches in behalf of Democratic members of Congress.

Before flying out from Washington, my mother came up from Tallahassee and joined me and she and I spent a little over two weeks at "Big Meadow Lodge" on the Skyline Drive in the beautiful Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia.
I combined work and rest by making considerable progress on my book on our foreign policy which I am preparing. The scenery is beautiful and the air most invigoriating, especially in view of about an hour's walk I took late every afternoon.

I ran into a good many people from Florida camping nearby at the beautiful camping grounds maintained by the National Park Service. There are picnic grounds all around with tables and little rock furnaces for cooking. On two occasions Mr. and Mrs. Jim Clements, formerly of Fort Myers, now of Washington, came down and brought some steaks and we cooked a good steak supper on Mr.
Clements' steak rack which he had set up in the ground right by the open fire and had a most delicious meal and a delightful time.

We sat up in our cottage before an open wood fire every day and we usually wore a sweater or a coat outside.

One afternoon we drove about six miles away to the Rapidan Camp, which President Hoover used to come to regularly. There are about a dozen frame buildings beside the Rapidan, a small stream in a beautiful grove of trees.
There are two fountains and pretty little rock gardens within the cluster of houses. The guide pointed out the cottage in which Prime Minister McDonald from Great Britain stayed when he visited President Hoover to talk about disarmament when President Hoover was in the White House. I don't think President Hoover ever got to be any great fisherman, because they told me that he used to pay one of the natives $200.00 a month to catch trout on the Rapidan with his bare hands and bring them down and put them in a pool under the bridge where the President used to sit and fish right by his chin.

One Saturday we drove about fifty miles down to Charlottesville, Virginia, and visited the beautiful University founded, designed and built under the direct supervision of Thomas Jefferson.
We went to the room in the dormitory which Woodrow Wilson once occupied as a student there and also to see Edgar A. Poe's room when he was a Virginia student.

At lunch we ran into former Speaker of our House of Representatives, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Getzen and their lovely daughter Joanne. Afterwards we drove a short distance from Charlottesville to Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, on the crest of the highest mountain in that vicinity. I wish every one of you who have not seen it could see that beautiful home which Jefferson designed and built.

He selected the materials to go in it and personally supervised very detail of its construction.

A few hundred yards down the hill from the home, Jefferson is buried beside his wife who died long ahead of him, and different members of his family. As I saw the graves of the Epps, I, of course, thought of members of the Epps family, direct descendants of Thomas Jefferson who long had lived in Tallahassee. Over his grave of Jefferson and his wife is the pointed headstone at least ten feet high designed by Jefferson himself on which appears Jefferson's epitaph, which he also wrote himself—“Here was buried Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, faith-er of the Virginia Statute of Religious Liberty and founder of the University of Virginia.”

Although he was Governor of his State, Ambassador at large and twice President of the United States, I wish every one of the contributors by which he wanted to be remembered.

As one walks upon this ground sacred to our country he feels new sense of appreciation and gratitude to this good and great man, who not only helped this nation to win its independence and wisely guided it through the years as President and especially gratitudinous to this man who, although he lived in one of the finest homes in America and had walked with Kings, yet stands out in history as the American political leader who had faith in and fought for what his aristocratic enemies called “the common herd”— the masses of the poor, the men, women and children of the people of our country.

Jefferson had two rooms for his bedroom and study and between the two rooms was Jefferson's bed.
In the daytime the bed attached to pilasters would be pulled up against the ceiling and out of the way. The space where the bed was then became a doorway connecting the two rooms so that he could pass to and fro. At night he let the bed down to the floor.

Jefferson did most of his writing in a revolving chair which he also invented, usually with his feet propped up on a stool of support we now call a chaise longue, upon a table which would adjust to any elevation he desired.
Jefferson designed his own eyeglasses, even the curtains for the windows of the house and the beautiful flower garden and lawn.

Jefferson's epitaph, which he also wrote himself, is inscribed on the headstone.

St. Augustine Trips Celery Feds In Second Tilt 8 To 2

Kettles Victim Of Saint Barrage; Teams Return To Sanford Tonight

FRANCIS FIELD, ST. AUGUSTINE, Sept. 6—(Special)—The St. Augustine Saints copied their first game in the current Florida State League playoffs last night by defeating the Sanford Celery Feds, 8 to 1 count behind the five hit hurling of big Jim Ketcher.

The victim of the Saints attack was Goose Kettles who allowed nine safeties in seven innings and six of the eight runs. Stan Karpinski led the barrage on Kettles and Charles Bisson, his successor, by pounding out three hits in five official trips to the plate.

St. Augustine tallied their first run in the lower half of the third frame as Johnnie Pawlick was safe on a fielders choice and took third on a single to center by Lyle Judy, and scored on a single by Art Stillwell.

The Feds came back in their half of the fourth to score as Buddy Lake dropped a single into center, followed by a base on balls issued to Ed Levy and a fielders choice by Byron Sharpe. A free ducat issued to Ossie Gloriz pusted Lake across with the tying marker.

Sanford tallied their final run in the sixth frame as Levy drew a free pass and took second on an infield ground ball by Sharpe followed by an error by third baseman Jack Wilkes on which Lew scored.

The Saints tallied their second time in the taurh as Karpinski lined a single into right, followed by an infield out by Mario Perez to move him to second, Karpinski was sent to third when Kettles balked and came home on a drive by Steve Shabala.

In the fifth the Ancient City nine added two more on successive singles by Judy and Stillwell, then a safety by Karpinski sent two mariners home safely.

The sixth session also netted the Saints a pair as Judy and Stillwell walked followed by an error.

It's probably a fictitious story, but it's such a good one that it never was denied by the individual concerned, the late minor league manager, Jake Atz. The story is that his real name was Zimmerman. However, when he was a young ball player, the men were paid alphabetically. When the man with the money got to Zimmerman, there never was anything left. So the story goes, that's how Jake Zimmerman changed his name to Jake Atz.

According to J. L. Ingley the following is an excerpt from the ledger that the City Recreational Committee has proposed for the coming year:

Approximately $500 worth of new playground equipment has been asked for to provide supervised play and recreation for the children of Sanford for the coming summer. In addition to the playground equipment there will be $120 asked for to continue the summer movie series for child entertainment during the coming year. An additional $592 is proposed to be spent on balls,

School Board Decision Ends Controversy

District 6 Students Denied School Bus Service To Attend Sanford Institutions

County school busses which have in the past transported school pupils of the first eight grades to and from Lake Monroe to Sanford schools will in the future go only as far as Van Ness Road on West First Street, it was decided at the Court House this morning at a joint meeting of the County School Board and school trustees of District 6 which includes Monroe and District 1 of Sanford.

This decision ended a controversy between Lake Monroe groups which delayed the opening of Lake Monroe School while all other schools in the county opened at 8:00 o'clock this morning. The school will open Tuesday morning, said acting Supt. Herman E. Morris, following the decision.

The action followed hearings on Saturday and this morning at which Lake Monroe parents appeared, some arguing that they be allowed to continue to send their children to Sanford schools, and others maintaining that all of the 120 pupils of the first to eighth grade in District 6 should be sent to the Lake Monroe School.

Backing up the latter group, District 6 school trustees with H. G. Behrens as chairman and including Talmadge McLean and W. G. Swartwout, presented a petition to the school board requesting the transportation of pupils from their district to Sanford, and stating that they would not pay for bus transportation or for the bus transportation of children in the Sanford district.

Prof. Morris pointed out that all bus transportation of pupils is paid for out of the general school fund, so that on the execution of the 33 high school pupils in District 6 who average a cost of $22 each, District 6 does not have to pay tuition for some 51 pupils who commute to Sanford, but at this is paid for by the District 2.

L. E. Julian, chairman of the school board, expressed the wish to work out a peaceful and harmonious solution to the problem.

Some Lake Monroe parents advised having a teacher for each of the eight grades at the school which was tended last year by 71 pupils and protected the school with three teachers and one substitute, was understated.

Prof. Morris replied that the State would pay $1,200 a year to a teacher with 30 pupils minimum and that on this basis he would be able to hire a teacher.

Prof. Morris replied that the State would pay $1,200 a year to a teacher with 30 pupils minimum and that on this basis he would be able to hire a teacher.

He promised, however, that the school would hire four full time teachers, one of whom would replace the substitute in four weeks.

Mrs. B. E. Chapman, trustee of District 1, pointed out that it required the services of two extra teachers here to take care of the 111 pupils from District 6. She recommended that Lake Monroe "build up a school to be proud of," and added, "If you go to keep the pupils if you want a good school." S. O. Chase, Jr., was the other trustee present from District 1.

Drivers Educated During Weekend On Meter Operation

Motorists were being educated by police during the weekend on the use and operation of the new parking meters, all of which have been installed except a few on Sanford Avenue.

Violators of parking regulations embodied in the recently passed City Ordinance 397, were being dealt with leniently today as it was their first offense by being required to pay a 25 cent fine within four hours after getting a ticket from police to City Manager H. N. Sajor. On second offense the fine may be $25 or 10 days in the City jail.

If the motorist stays overtime and finds he has no violation ticket, he can deposit another coin and escape fine. The law provides $200 fine or imprisonment of not more than 90 days for persons who wilfully break, damage or injure parking meters.

Wilson Says Farmers Should Be Thankful New York Truck Strike Did Not Occur In Heavy Season

Growth Of Boat Works Outlined By John Brumley

Owner Tells Rotary Club That Plant Valued At $60,000

Growth of the Sanford Boat Works from a small open shed for two boats to its present investment of over $60,000 with a dry dock capable of handling 50 foot boats and housing more than $50,000 worth of yachts was described to Rotarians at their regular weekly luncheon today by John Brumley, owner. Mr. Brumley said there are now 50 boats at the Boat Works averaging $3,000 in value with many more expected as soon as they are available.

He added that one of the boats comes from Wisconsin and makes the trip down the Mississippi every year. Two boat owners are from Indiana, one from West Virginia, and one from Maryland and a number of other states. A lot of trade comes from Deland. Mr. Brumley said, but most of the boats are owned in Orlando.

Declaring that the St. Johns River is one of the last highways where a man can escape the crowds where he can relax and find his heart little lessened close to nature, Mr. Brumley said it is his policy not to make boating a rich man's game but one which can be enjoyed by the average family and that in keeping with this policy he seeks to keep prices as low as possible.

"Construction work on the Plant City State Farmers' Market is progressing satisfactorily," according to latest available information, said Harry Wilson, in charge of the market system. This project involves the rebuilding of unit No. 11, which was destroyed by fire some months ago. The foundation and fire-walls have been completed and framework started.

"Plantings of strawberries in the east Hillsborough county section are ahead of last year as recently reported, and barring unforeseen developments production should be good. Plant City normally starts heavy shipments in November and December, with the bulk of the crop moving in January, February and March. Growers are planting a wide variety of other crops also.

Fall planting in the Watchula section is about completed, Manager Frank E. Conner of the Watchula State Farmers' Market reported, this week-end. The rainy season seems to have broken in that area and the outlook is good. All crops except late cucumbers are up, and doing well.

"Manager H. J. Lehman of the Sanford State Farmers' Market has reported preparations for Fall and Winter activities in that section. Two fruit companies are to start operations around the first of October. During the last week the Market received a small number of bunches turnip greens the first of the season.

RED CROSS TO MEET

The regular monthly meeting of the Seminole County Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held at 10:00 o'clock Thursday morning at the Red Cross building, according to Mrs. John Rogers, secretary.

County Schools Open Doors For 1946-1947 Session

Students, Teachers Welcomed Today By School Principals

Schools opened at 9:00 o'clock this morning in Seminole County and pupils and teachers were welcomed by principals at auditorium gatherings.

At the Junior High School, Principal R. E. Trite awarded premiums to outstanding pupils of the past term. These included awards to Dual Boyle for scholarship, Clarence Clause for health achievement and to Boris Willis as "the girl" and to Bobo Dean as "the boy," symbolizing all-around achievement. Allen Hartman got the geography award.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Mark Carpenter of Holy Cross Episcopal Church. Principal Trite exhorted pupils against slipping on newly waxed floors and against parking bicycles close to the building and in the zone where the heat has often caused trees to burst and instead park them under trees. In the shade the school song was rendered with much zest.

At Seminole High School, Principal H. E. Morris welcomed the faculty and pupils and pointed out that the school's facilities had been improved at any high school in Florida and that no "emergency certificates" have been issued. The Rev. J. E. McKinney of the First Methodist Church gave the invocation. Fred Gaines former Lieutenant (G) in the Navy, assumed for the first time his duties as director of boy's physical education and as instructor in mathematics.

Principal R. C. Steele directed the program at the assembly in the Grammar School auditorium. The Rev. Glenn E. Smith of the Christian Missionary Alliance of fed prayer.

Many of the new textbooks recently adopted by the State Board of Education are now in use here for the first time. The morning of the 30th anniversary of the committee made a house-to-house canvass throughout Sanford and Seminole County.

Miss Mildred Babcock, art supervisor and Mrs. Estelle E. Hance, supervisor of art, are making plans to assist the teacher having art and music projects.

"We are continuing our efforts to coordinate the program for the schools of the county," asserted Miss Hance, "in order to give each boy and girl educational opportunities, and we are making a special effort to recognize the need and meet the individual problems of each as was taught in the teacher workshop programs."

While the great bulk of our Florida produce moves by rail it is true that the railroad of inland thousands of carloads is much easier to move inter-state by truck. This truck movement covers markets all along the line from Florida to Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, New York, and even into distant points. When we consider the extremely perishable nature of many of our products it may be seen that a relatively slight upset in the machinery of distribution would occasion heavy losses if that upset occurred during our heavy-usage season. I wish there were something in Florida might do to alleviate the present condition facing the strike-affected areas and I hope that in the very near future some means may be worked out through legislation or negotiation, which will protect the public against the constant menace of such disasters. The averting of such catastrophes should benefit producers, consumers, and the labor elements thrown out of work at least temporarily during strikes and similar disturbances.
