The Welfare Report

Karl Lehmann's report on charity and welfare expenditures in Seminole County for 1933 impressed us rather forcefully for two reasons; first, that destitution and want in this county could have been so great as to require $112,743.17; second, that when this emergency arose the generous impulses of those of our people more fortunately situated were sufficient to hear the call.

The sum of $112,743.17 is a lot of money. The spending of so large an amount of money for charity in a county with a population of only eighteen thousand gives some idea of the depth to which hard times have cut. Further as Mr. Lehmann points out in his report, this is not all that was spent for relief. It does not include the expenditures of a number of organizations which had not yet prepared their data. Nor does it include innumerable personal contributions of the "Brother, can you spare a dime" nature. Most of these contributions represent a real sacrifice on the part of the donor. The depression has taken its toll at the top of the ladder as well as at the bottom. There is none, or very few, at last, who has survived the general collapse of values without finding his own wealth depreciated and his income reduced. Many of those who are giving to charity these days are contributing from their own necessities or from the comforts of their wives and children.

This is of course the real Christian spirit. Welcome are the gifts of rich men who give from surplus funds for which they have no material use, they come without personal sacrifice or human inconvenience. But the charitable contributions of the average man, whether they be a tent donation in a blind man's cup, or in the form of self denial and a sympathetic feeling toward suffering mankind. We feel sure that this kindly attitude is appreciated by those who are the recipients of such neighborly relief, but we wonder if all those who are being helped by the federal government, either through its relief activities or its various job-furnishing organizations, are fully as grateful for their blessings. The federal government is such an impersonal sort of thing. It is so difficult to be thankful to such an intangible something, so inexplicable and far away, as the United States of America.

Very few realize that this government of ours is simply a medium by which the hat is passed among those fortunate enough to be holding a job, among the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker, and any others whose incomes have not yet completely vanished; and which with the proceeds of these contributions manages to furnish relief to unemployed and jobs to several million others. Your merchants, your farmers, your lawyers and doctors, your railroad engineers, your clerks and stenographers even, are all contributing their part toward the funds which supply CWA jobs.

For that reason, especially, we feel that the men and women who are now at work in numerous government activities and who, but for these jobs or similar relief work, might be going without proper food, clothes, or shelter, should be particularly thankful to the government which is thus providing for them in their hour of great need and equally thankful to their fellow citizens, perhaps more fortunately placed in life, but who are contributing from their already greatly reduced resources larger and larger taxes in order to provide the funds with which to supply adequate government relief.

And in addition to being thankful, those who have been furnished jobs on relief projects, should give those jobs every ounce of energy and skill which they possess. They should try to show their appreciation by doing the best work they ever did in their lives. If the job which Uncle Sam has given them is pulling weeds, they should try to pull more weeds than any man in the United States ever pulled before.

Retraining Workers

Vocational training for new trade skills demanded by the technological advance in all industries is an important factor in the program of industrial recovery, according to the annual report of Dr. J. C. Wright, Assistant Commissioner for Vocational Education, in the Federal Office of Education. This is true, Dr. Wright says, because industry cannot resume activities on the new basis with a labor force untrained in the new techniques.

"It follows," he points out, "that as business resumes, the problem of recovery both for industries and for workers will not be a problem of getting the millions of unemployed workers back on their old jobs or on any other jobs for which their acquired training and experience has previously fitted them. For millions of those now unemployed traditional skill and occupational experience, acquired in the pre-depression period will very generally have gone into the discard as part of the price society must pay for resumption of activities at all under the intensified competitive pressure for economy which always characterizes a period of recovery. Industrial recovery and elimination of unemployment will, accordingly, not be simply a placement procedure of returning labor to jobs for which they are fitted, but rather a training procedure of preparing labor for the new jobs that have become available."

The retraining of workers of all ages in the new techniques is in Dr. Wright's opinion a prime responsibility of the vocational education system. "Vocational education," he says, "must function effectively as one social agency of industrial recovery."

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

Judge George G. Herring will practice law in the circuit and civil courts and has hung out his shingle at his office in the court house. He took the oath of office from the supreme court the other day and is now qualified to practice law in the courts—that is all the courts except his own—he being barred there on account of holding down the judicial chair. Judge Herring was prominent in Virginia legal circles and is an honor to the bar of Seminole County.

Miss Flossie Frank entertained at cards on last Thursday evening in honor of Miss Brown, her guest from Palatka. The first prize for the lady having the highest score went to Mrs. E. W. Herring while the first prize for gentlemen was won by Mr. E. M. Lloyd. Will Watson carrying off the baby prize. Those present were: the Misses Brown, Flossie Frank, Gode Wicker, Nell White-as skillful workers in their particular field, and they are to be paid the $1 an hour rate.

Mrs. Morse also announced that a shipment of about 8850 pounds of pork was received in Sanford today, and that it will be distributed from the Fire Station as needed. This shipment represents the January quota of pork for this county, and it, together with other articles of food, such as vegetables canned last summer, is to be delivered to indigent families.

The list of workers under the CWA is divided into several classifications, the first of which is termed "CWA Administrative Personnel."

Virtual head of this department is Roland F. Lamb, assistant disbursing officer who directs the work of nearly 20 persons. Mr. Lamb has one of the most responsible of the several assignments. In charge of all accounting records and the signing of and distribution of CWA checks to all employees, Mr. Lamb is responsible for any errors which might be made by any worker under him. His experience makes him particularly fitted for this type of work, it was reported.

Other persons in Mr. Lamb's department are:

W. R. May, listed as bookkeeper and paymaster for the CWA. Among his duties are the auditing of all bills, and the making of reports relating to work accomplished.

A. T. White, chief clerk in charge of payrolls and analysis reports.

Mrs. Mary F. Rawlins, file clerk.

Warren I. Tyler, in charge of project records.

I. T. Stringer, general utility man who posts CWA payrolls to the proper projects, files vouchers, numbers payrolls, and has similar duties.

Miss Margaret M. Wright, clerk in charge of office supplies who also acts as typist in an emergency.

The Misses Mary Finnell, Margaret Giles, Luella Mahoney, Dorothy Thurston, and Juanita Smith, and Mrs. Porter E. Pitts, who are stenographers. Their principal duties consist of typing government payroll forms and checks.

C. H. McKinney, night watchman.

Jack MacDonald, in charge of an elaborate card record of employees listed by payrolls as to hours worked and amount paid.

B. H. Williams, time keeper who is in charge of employee's personal records, and who handles all transfers.

Mrs. H. D. Laguna, clerk and assistant to Mr. Williams.

W. E. Bigger, listed as Injury Clerk, who also assists in preparing payrolls.

The Purchasing Department is under the supervision of W. M. McKinnon, who is purchasing agent in charge of all purchases for CWA projects, administrative or work.

Ira Thompson is a clerk in this department. He is also used by the Work Department as a contact man for foremen in delivering instructions, time books and other data.

Mrs. Margaret Edwards is stenographer under Mr. McKinnon.

The Work Department is under supervision of Wm. B. Williams, as director of work.

Jim Higgins is typist to Mr. Williams.

G. B. Elliott is in charge of tools used on all city projects. They are expected to check upon the delivery and receipt of material to various projects, and to handle any special complaints.

The Engineering Department has two supervisors. One is Fred T. Williams, supervising engineer for city projects. The other is Tony Pitchford, supervising engineer for county projects. The latter is not paid with CWA funds because he is an employee of Seminole County.

Working under these men are: W. E. Karie as an engineer, Fred Shames, Stephen Terrell, etc.

SANFORD FORUM

January 9, 1934.

To the Editor,
Sanford Herald.

A movement was recently started in the County urging the payment of poll-taxes, as a help towards keeping the schools open this Spring. The whole poll-tax dollar goes to school operation so it is a worthwhile effort, and I hope you will keep it before the public.

Many counties are having only four and five months terms this year. I am informed that Seminole County is at present only sure of a six month term. We ought to have a full eight months term. When the most of us were in Hagan, Jr., George Steele, and George W. Knight as rodmen; E. J. Hill as a draftsman, and Paul Dole and D. A. McCloskey as instrument men.

Under the heading of "Federal Emergency Relief Administrative Personnel" is listed the name of Mrs. Morse as director of social service and director of Civil Works Administration.

Under her are Mrs. Esther Ridge, Mrs. Helen Schultz, A. H. Beckwith and B. H. Guthrie as aides, and Mrs. B. A. Howard as supervisor of Women's projects.

In the FER department Mrs. C. M. Boyd and Miss Virginia Palmer are employed as stenographers, Miss Mary Buford Powell as typist and file clerk, Bob Cameron and Merton Aycock as desk clerks, and R. W. Lawton, John C. Smith and N. T. McPherson as distributors of commodities.

Elton J. Moughton is a CWA employee listed as architect for school projects.

Robert Holly Jr., is listed as supervisor of Rural Sanitation, a Federal project. Mrs. Morse stated that he is not on the local CWA payroll, and that his appointment and assignment was ordered from Tallahassee.

T. P. Appar of Daytona Beach is a new employee who is listed as supervisor of all works projects and safety inspector.

A. H. Dodge of Altamonte Springs is supervisor of the Seminole County Industrial Survey.

ing and distributing groups, abuses and unsatisfactory policies of all sorts. Johnson's idea is that now that a large part of the code are in effect they can be coordinated into a working whole.

The February gathering, he said, will be a continuation of the administrative revision which started with the price change hearing that concluded yesterday. This disclosed widespread use by industries of the code authorizations for publishing open prices to fix uniform and greatly increased prices on a variety of products.

A number of other misapplications of the code principle also were brought to light and officials school our elders didn't short change us out of a few months each year. Because other counties in Florida and in other states have done it doesn't make it right for us. If we make up our minds for a full school year I believe the ways and means for having it can be found.

After all there aren't many things more important than the education of the next generation. If we were to lessen our efforts in this direction very much the result would be conditions which fortunately we have never yet seen in this country. For a Democracy cannot withstand the greed and scheming of self-centered men without an intelligent electorate to keep them in their place.

Of course the poll-tax has never been a popular tax, because people feel that they are being charged for the privilege of voting. But this is the wrong way to look at it, and since it is one of the sources of income for the operation of the schools it is good citizenship to pay it, and particularly at this time when it will be of great assistance to those to whom we have given the problem of educating more children than ever before on a drastically reduced budget.

Your for a full length school year,

GORDON BARNETT.

HOUSE SEES GAG RULE USED BY ROYALISTS

publications carrying liquor advertisements being mailed into dry states.

Clark argued the debtor countries were looking to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to bring them out of the depression and at the same time were "thumbing their noses" at America on the debts.

The war debts amendment fixed a tax of $3 a gallon on wine and $5 a gallon on liquors, over and above the tariffs, from nations in default in whole or in part on their debts.

Party lines were split and the amendment carried 40 to 39.

The amended bill then was given Senate approval and went to conference with the House, where a committee of senators and representatives will seek an agreement upon the changes made by the Senate. Democratic leaders predicted the House would defeat the war debt amendment since a similar proposal was lost there last week.

FLORIDA'S MOTOR LAWS EXPLAINED

Read this Important Booklet—and learn how to make driving safer

What are the Florida speed limits—in business districts—in residential sections—on the open highway? When you approach a standing school bus, taking on or discharging children, what must you do? You should be able to answer these—and a hundred other traffic questions—for the sake of safe, pleasant motoring.

Because, as one of the great industries essential to motoring, we are decidedly interested in safe driving, we offer you FREE—at any one of our Gulf Service Stations or dealers—the authoritative booklet "Traffic Rules, State of Florida." It contains all the more important rules of the road within the state of Florida.

And further, because of this same interest in safe driving, many motorists that you drive in at Gulf Service Stations for complete, courteous service, Gulf Gasoline and Gulf Motor Oil help you materially in your performance as a driver. And they help save motoring dollars for you—because their highest quality gives you more miles per gallon, more miles per quart—and each mile a better mile.

This approved booklet is offered free at all Gulf Service Stations. Read it—and keep the rules always in mind when driving.

George McRory, Jr. will arrive Saturday from Jacksonville to spend the week-end here as the guest of Charles Betts, Palmetto Avenue.

Miss Christine Stoudenmire was a member of a select group which gathered at Orange City Inn to attend a dinner dance which was given by Mr. and Mrs. George Young in honor of their daughter, Miss Helen Young who celebrated her birthday anniversary.

Azalea Garden Circle Elects Annual Officers

Mrs. E. H. Laney was elected vice-chairman and Mrs. O. M. Harrison was re-elected secretary and treasurer at the regular meeting of the Azalea Circle of the Garden Club of Sanford held Friday morning at the home of Mrs. C. E. Gormley, Jr., Magnolia Avenue. It was decided that a chairman be elected at a later date.

Mrs. H. H. Coleman reported that, under the direction of Mrs. Fred T. Williams, cleaning and draining had been done at the Big Tree and azaleas, violets, oleanders, hibiscus and yellow elder had been planted.

Members voted that the most suitable name for the new bridge over Lake Monroe would be "Monroe Bridge." As chairman of the annual luncheon, Mrs. R. J. Holly stated that it would take place on Feb. 2 at the Episcopal parish house. She appointed the following decorating committee from the circle: Mrs. R. L. Cornell, Mrs. Katherine Davis, Mrs. Byron Stephens, Mrs. L. P. Hagan, Mrs. F. W. Bender, and Mrs. H. H. Coleman.

Mrs. Endor Curlett, Mrs. S. O. Shinholler, Mrs. H. B. Pope, Mrs. E. B. Stone, and Mrs. Fred Bender were selected to serve on a nominating committee for the general club election in February.

Those present were: Mrs. J. E. Baker, Mrs. Fred W. Bender, Mrs. G. H. Brown, Mrs. R. L. Cornell, Mrs. H. H. Coleman, Mrs. C. E. Gormley, Mrs. E. A. Harrison, Mrs. R. J. Holly, Mrs. E. H. Laney, Mrs. Ralph A. Smith, and Mrs. Byron Stephens.

Baron Munchausen Is At Milane In New Film

Jack Pearl, famous "Baron Munchausen" of radio, Jimmy Durante of "Schnozzle" fame, and Zasu Pitts, whimsical comedienne of the Potts-Todd comedies, are in a laugh-making trio heading the most remarkable all-comedians cast in history in "Meet the Baron," the picture that introduces the radio star to the screen. It plays at the Milane Theater tonight and Friday.

The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy with music is a hilarious story dealing with the singular adventures of "The Baron" and Durante in a girl's college. Miss Pitts is the head chambermaid, and she and "The Baron" fall in love while Jimmy proceeds to vamp the college dean, played by Edna May Oliver.

Ted Healy and his stooges are in charge of the campus. "The Baron" and Durante arrive aboard a peacocking elephant. Pearl and Miss Pitts have a screamingly funny love scene in an icebox. The picture is a beautiful singing and dancing chorine, do a musical number climaxed by a dance under shower-baths. Amid the comedy is a thread of a love romance. Walter Lang, famous for "The Warrior's Husband," directed the new picture.

Mrs. Sharon Hostess To Fortnightly Club

Vases and bowls of gladioli and roses in bright shades were used to adorn the rooms of the home of Mrs. James G. Sharon, West Tenth Street, when Mrs. Sharon entertained the members of the Fortnightly Club with a bridge party yesterday afternoon.

After several progressions of bridge scores were added and high score prize, a pottery vase, was awarded to Mrs. D. L. Thrasher. Mrs. E. M. Galloway received a similar prize for cutting high. Refreshments were served at the tea hour by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. D. L. Thrasher and Miss Jane Sharon.

Those present were: Mrs. E. M. Galloway, Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, Mrs. F. E. Rounhill, Mrs. H. B. Lewis, Mrs. A. P. Connelly, Mrs. W. J. Thigpen, Mrs. Fletcher H. Bailey, and Mrs. Norman S. DeForest.

Along with colored lights. At a late hour refreshments were served.

Those present were: the Misses Oleda Dyson, honor guest, Mildred Wells, Dorothy Wiggins, Mary Wiggins, Mildred McIntyre, Martha Telford, Elizabeth Dyson, Jacqueline Campbell, Elizabeth LeMay, Karlin Palmer, Marjorie Cogburn, Louise Perkins, Jay Lloyd, Cecelia Truluck, Madeline Truluck, Edith Petrie, Marie Knox, Lucy Rounhill, Hake Whitehurst, Ann Wright, Gretchen Morrison, Doris Jackson, Nancy Rossetter, Lillian Jones, and Betty Thurmond.

Mrs. Henry Witte, Jr. Entertains Evening Bridge Club

Complimenting Mrs. Henry Witte, Jr. who was Miss Hortense Davis before her recent marriage, Mrs. Morris Dooley and Mrs. Paul Dooley entertained with a party and miscellaneous shower on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Morris Dooley in Geneva. The hostesses were assisted in serving the guests by eight junior girls of Geneva.

The rooms of the large Dooley home were opened en suite for the occasion and decorated with a profusion of fern and white star jasmine which developed a color scheme of green and white. Miss Pauline Moran sang two vocal solos during the afternoon.

As the guests arrived they wrote recipes for the bride and pasted them in a recipe book. At a late hour the honor guest was presented with her gifts which were placed in a cloths basket decorated with green and white paper.

A salad course was served at the tea hour with a large four tiered wedding cake. About 65 guests were in attendance. Those present from Sanford were: Mrs. Henry Witte, Jr., honor guest, Mrs. Z. B. Ratliff, Mrs. Joe Harold, Mrs. J. N. Burdick, Mrs. E. D. Price, Mrs. Price Angel, Mrs. A. M. Gordinier, Mrs. Carl Chorpensing, Mrs. Henry Witte, Mrs. John Vaughn, Mrs. Henry Nichol, Mrs. I. D. Pu-Yi, Coronation To Be Featured By Rich Ceremonies

TOKYO, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The forthcoming coronation of young Henry Pu-Yi as emperor of Manchukuo was described yesterday as a move to emphasize the separation of that Japanese-sponsored state from China, of which it was a part until the Japanese occupation two years ago.

Reports circulating in China to the effect that Pu-Yi's elevation to the throne is intended as a rallying call to the Chinese subjects he ruled as a boy on the dragon throne, were branded as "entirely false" by foreign office spokesmen.

The coronation of Pu-Yi will take place, it is understood, on Mar. 1 in Hsinking (Changechun) the capital, with the pomp and ceremony Pu-Yi knew in 1912 as the ruler of China. He is now the chief executive of Manchukuo, the state set up after the Japanese offensive in Manchuria.

which were followed by a short business meeting.

Mrs. G. S. Selman closed the meeting with a prayer after which refreshments were served by the hostess. Those present were: Mrs. Harry Weeks, Mrs. G. S. Selman, Mrs. Volle Williams, Mrs. Lillian Vickery, Mrs. James G. Sharrp, Mrs. Jane B. Smith, Mrs. R. O. Meriwether, and Mrs. A. C. Chamberlain.

Delegate To Geneva Conference Talks On "World Peace"

...where she had an audience with Pope Pius XI who told her that he believes the world has not been in such a bad condition since the great flood. His solution of world affairs is prayer.

Mrs. Gamble, who is touring the southeastern states in the interest of "International Peace" under the auspices of the National Council of Catholic Women, spoke at the gathering of women yesterday upon the invitation of Mrs. J. W. McCollum, of Gainesville, president of the St. Augustine Diocesan Council of Catholic Women. Mrs. Gamble is chairman of the National Catholic Welfare Conference and was a delegate to the National Council of Catholic Women to the peace conference.

The Rev. John J. Kellaghan, pastor of All Souls Catholic Church, presided over the luncheon and introduced the various speakers of the day. The luncheon was given with a song directed by Mrs. E. B. Clark of Tampa, past president of the St. Augustine Diocesan Council.

An address of welcome was given by Mrs. J. L. Hurt who expressed her appreciation to the officers for holding their quarterly meeting with the local council, the youngest in the diocese. A response to her talk was made by Mrs. Josephine K. Maner of Jacksonville, one of the pioneers in council work, who thanked the Sanford council for its entertainment.

An interesting feature of the luncheon was the short address given by Miss Kate V. Jackson of Tampa, the only honorary member of the council, whose parents settled in Tampa in 1847. She stated that when her older sister was born a priest had to come down from Savannah, Ga. to baptize her.

HUGE DAMAGE SUIT FILED BY HECKSCHER

Three years ago, he was considered the largest owner of income-producing real estate in New York.

An injunction to end the alleged practices by the Rockefeller Center interests was sought in the complaint.

Rockefeller Center was characterized as a "modern Frankenstein" stepping "through the door of special privilege into the realm of destructive competition" in one section of the suit, which charged violation of an act of congress allowing the center to operate as a bonded warehouse for the display of foreign goods free of duty until sold or re-exported.

"As plaintiffs are informed and believe," the complaint set forth, "the congress of the United States was induced to pass said act upon a representation by defendants that they would thus be enabled to import articles from foreign countries solely for purposes of public exhibition; but that after the enactment of said act, defendants (Rockefeller Center) publicly advertised that by virtue thereof, this defendant was empowered to import, goods, wares and merchandise to be used not as samples only but for far-flung merchandising, and thus carry on the practices of trade without the requirements of capital with which to pay duty."

By virtue of the congressional act, the complaint alleged, tenants of Rockefeller Center display and sell goods in bond for a term of as much as two years from date of importation.

This provision was used as an inducement, it was alleged, to draw tenants from other buildings, including some from buildings owned by the Anahama Corporation.

Two of the buildings in the center, in which foreign firms with American offices are located, are the British Empire building and the Malson; France. An Italian building is under construction.

Some of the practices alleged against the Rockefeller Center associates are:

Paying tenants in other buildings sums of money to ignore present leases.

Taking tenants at prices less than required by the center to meet taxes and actual cost of operation.

Assuming at large costs the leases of tenants of other buildings, inducing them to purchase space.

The plaintiffs charged the Rockefeller associates with seeking to create a monopoly on rentals in the area about the center—between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, from Forty-eighth to Fifty-first Street.

There was no comment on the suit forthcoming from officials at Rockefeller Center. Counsel for the plaintiffs, headed by former Senator George F. Thompson, said Heckscher "has determined to put a stop to these practices, if possible, and for that reason has ordered this action commenced."

Mrs. Rossetter Sanford Lodge Is Dead After Long Illness

Jacksville where they were married.

The couple remained at Astoria until about 1890 when Mr. Rossetter's duties with the DeBary estate necessitated his removal to Enterprise, another bustling Florida community. There the couple resided until 1907 when they came to Sanford.

Since their residence in Sanford, the Rossetters have been identified with every forward-looking development. Mrs. Rossetter became closely associated with the work of church groups, and until a few years ago she was an active member of Presbyterian Church circle life.

Mrs. Rossetter was one of the charter members of the D. A. R., which was organized in 1918. Although she never cared for the responsibilities of office, Mrs. Rossetter was one of the more active women of the local chapter.

In collaboration with Mrs. J. N. Whitner of this city, Mrs. Rossetter wrote a ritual which has been used locally since 1924. She and Mrs. Whitner have received many honors at the hands of local and state D. A. R. chapters, and they are widely known in every section of Florida.

Surviving Mrs. Rossetter are her husband, a son, A. Kent Rossetter; a niece, Harriette Rogers of Warren, Pa.; three nephews, E. G. Rogers of Newport News, Va., A. A. Rogers of Miami, and E. D. Wetmore of Warren, Pa.; five grandchildren, the Misses Harriette and Sarah Rossetter of Warren, Pa., and Nancy Rossetter, Kent Rossetter, Jr., and Frederick Rossetter of Sanford.

Sanford Lodge Claims Man In Order 75 Years

Mr. Bledsoe was made a Mason in May 1890 at Georgetown, Ga., Lodge No. 68. He became 21 years of age on Mar. 17 of that year.

Since that time, Mr. Bledsoe, in moving from place to place, has affiliated with several lodges, but during the past several years, because he has been spending the winter season in Sanford, his special attention has been directed to the local lodge.

Hillsborough, Escambia, Nassau and Monroe are the only counties not governed by local prohibition laws. They come, however, under provisions of the Davis package law, permitting sale only in sealed packages. Many special laws concerning liquor were passed by the Legislature in previous years.

Marvin McIntosh, assistant attorney general, said the section of the proposed amendment providing for county elections meant each county may vote at the general election on local option. He said it was his opinion if the state and county voted wet, sale of liquor would be legal as soon as the result of the election was officially declared. The state canvassing board usually meets to check returns as soon as county canvassing boards have submitted their reports.

elections in counties within two years after the amendment may become effective.

In a three-page opinion, after calling attention to a number of special laws relating to sale of liquor in counties, Landis said:

"If the proposed amendment should be adopted, there appears to be no prohibition against the manufacture, and sale of intoxicating liquors in those counties or election precincts in the state"

Scarcity of Labor Is Reported Near Tampa

TAMPA, Jan. 11.—(AP)—A marked scarcity of labor for work in the South Florida tomato fields was reported yesterday by J. C. Huskinson, in charge of the Federal re-employment service here.

He said he had calls for negro workers to fill 2000 jobs at $1.40 a day, but so far had been able to get only 150 of them.
