

Grid Prospects At Texas Fade With More Drafting

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

AUSTINE, Tex.—Six months ago they talked of prospects for one of the greatest football teams in University of Texas history, except that the more practical part in this proviso:

"Unless the armed services take too many."

Texas had just polished off a Southwest Conference championship campaign with a brilliant victory over Georgia Tech in the Cotton Bowl. Letterman glory was scheduled to return. Some of the brightest freshman prospects to come along in years were in the fold.

Then the armed services opened up and today Coach D.X. Bible is faced with building a team from naval trainees—the premeds and engineers—and boys under draft age.

He has two letters from sure from last fall—Joe Parker, an end, and Joe Magliolo, blocking back. He also may have the services of Roy McKay, a full back, who finished his varsity eligibility last season but who has been returned to the university in the V-5 naval training program.

McKay, the Southwest Conference's leading ground-gainer in 1942, can participate if a majority of the member schools voted to allow it. That was decided for such cases last spring at the annual meeting of the conference faculty committee. However, there still is a question of whether McKay would have time from the stiff V-5 course to take part in

Mrs. Gunther's Bedspread Provides Lawyers With Many A Laugh In Court

By ARNOLD E. MARTIN

TRENTON, N. J.—Loony legalisms are brightening the labors of New Jersey's appellate court judges.

There is, for instance, the case of Mrs. Henrietta Gunther's large and lacy bedspread, a hand-crocheted masterpiece.

The Court of Errors and Appeals, the state's highest law tribunal, is deliberating whether Mrs. Gunther, of Elizabeth, should get back her bedspread in view of the fact that a laundry already has paid her damages for ruining it in the process of cleaning.

Fitting arguments before the court was talk of cream and pink, the texture of bedspreads and the relative efficacy of laundering and dry cleaning.

The laundry, contending it had paid full damages and therefore was entitled to keep it, is holding on to the bedspread for dear life.

The fate of a combination photograph-radio is engaging the attention of the 16 black-robed members of the Errors Court.

Morris Edelman of Passaic says the instrument belongs to him, and the administrator of the estate of a former roomer in Edelman's home says "ain't so. The late roomer purchased the device shortly before his death, and Edelman contends he bought it from the roomer. Lower courts disagreed, ordered him to turn it over to the administrator. Edelman, however, appealed, and an Errors Court opinion is pending.

The Supreme Court held recently that it was perfectly all right for fire-bugs to send in false alarms by telephone, because the statute prescribing punishment listed as a crime only the wilful bell or alarm of any fire company.

Burlington's Senator Howard Eastwood immediately introduced a bill in the legislature making fire-bugs with telephonic subject to prosecution as insubordinate persons.

Four men were arrested in Jersey City and jailed as insubordinate persons after the police said they had driven a taxicab from New Brunswick to Jersey City just to shoot craps for fun.

"Since when," snorted Justice Joseph L. Boland, did people start driving all the way from New Brunswick to Jersey City just to shoot craps for fun?

Their convictions were upheld. Three justices of the Errors Court still are chucking over a lean and lanky lawyer who woke from a clandestine snooze and cried "I object! I object which he had no connection. The crimson-faced barrister apologized for "blowing out of order" and hastily exited amid unorthodox laughter.

He had dozed on his feet while waiting for his case to be reached by argument. Asking the court to think for a moment he was pleading his case. He sounded off before he realized it was just a dream.

JUST ONE BEAUTY was required to decorate a movie bathing scene but both Jo Carroll Dennison (left), "Miss America of 1942," and Jeane Crain, "Miss Long Beach," appeared for the role. The director couldn't bring himself to make a choice so he very sensibly made it a double feature and gave both lovelies a job.

Plans Are Made To Avoid Shortage Of School Teachers

GAINESVILLE, Aug. 8 (Special)—A ten-point program of action designed to avoid evil effects of school shortage estimated at 2,000 in Florida's public school system this year was announced here today as the outcome of a second annual Institute of Professional Relations for teachers held here recently.

C. F. Cumber, Institute chairman, said in a statement accompanying the plan that "immediate and concerted action must be taken by educators and lay groups through the state. Failure to encourage teachers to stay in the profession and others to come will be paid by Florida's rural children the first to suffer in a teacher shortage."

The plan, representing combined recommendations of five committees during the institute, provides:

1. A concerted effort to make teaching attractive enough to hold present personnel and to induce more persons of superior qualifications to prepare for and enter the profession.
2. A coordinated program for recruiting prospective teachers.
3. Co-ordination and expansion of present placement services for teachers.
4. Adjustment of teacher preparation programs to meet emergency needs.
5. A greatly expanded program for the in-service training of teachers.
6. Providing more opportunities for high school students to take courses by correspondence and extension.
7. Elimination of extremely small high school classes.
8. Consolidation of small schools with larger ones.
9. Issuance of emergency teacher certificates when necessary, but maintenance of the present standards for regular, long range

Nerves Of German Civilians Thought About To Crack

(During Jack Stinnett's vacation, his column is being conducted by members of the Washington staff of the Associated Press. Today's column is by Alexander R. George, AP Features Writer.)

WASHINGTON—Allied bombing may not yet have cracked the morale of the German people, but conservative observers believe the nerves of thousands of people in the sheltered cities of the Reich are nearing the "cracking" stage.

In the last year of World War I, when Allied planes were making relatively puny attacks on some cities, the Germans put out "feelers" for an agreement between the belligerents which would limit bombing operations.

In February, 1918, the Spanish ambassador to London told the British foreign secretary that the king of Spain had been in communication with the German government with the object of getting some check placed "on the bombing of undefended towns."

In March of that year, the Reichstag requested the German high command to present measures looking to an agreement with regard to air military objectives consistently. . . . Axis morale is already beginning to crack.

Major Groszkruit, writing in the German military publication Die Luftwacht in October, 1928, said that the reason for the Reichstag's air-raid limiting proposal in 1918 was that the average normal shock to the population of towns in western Germany subjected to enemy air raids called for effective and speedy measures.

The weight of bombs dropped on Germany during all of World War I was estimated at about 1,400 tons. This summer in a single 45-minute raid on Duisburg, the RAF dropped 1,400 tons of explosives. And in a recent one-night bombing of Hamburg the bomb tonnage was estimated at 8,000.

Evacuation and war weariness in 1918 had made the nerves of the German people "comparatively normal." Observers said the German people now are probably not as nervous as in 1918 but they are becoming so war-weary.

Germany's military leader Gen. Erich Ludendorff in September, 1918, announced to his officers that the German people were "becoming more and more nervous" and that they were "losing their nerve."

Churchill And Roosevelt To Plan Strategy

Allied Leaders Will Meet In Canada To Consider New Moves Against The Axis

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Secretary of State Hull today said the United States Secretary Sumner Welles is to receive a special assignment and be replaced by Norman Armour, United States Ambassador to Argentina. He said the same rumor had died before.

LONDON, Aug. 11. (AP)—New blows of unprecedented force against the Axis by land and air—possibly from Britain this time—were forecast today as the impending Churchill-Roosevelt strategy conferences stirred a flood of speculation.

Churchill arrived in Quebec, Canada, late yesterday for conferences with Canada's premier and later with President Roosevelt. The possibility Germany may be defeated this year is expected to be discussed cautiously. In all London quarters Allied talks are expected to deal first with the knockout of Italy.

QUEBEC, Aug. 11. (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill has arrived in Canada and will hold new war councils with President Roosevelt, Canadian Premier Mackenzie King and the combined chiefs of staff of the United States and the United Kingdom, it was announced officially today.

It was not announced when and where he would confer with Mr. Roosevelt, members of the chief of staff.

The announcement of the arrival of the British prime minister was announced by Mackenzie King in a communique which said:

"The prime minister of Great Britain has arrived in Canada accompanied by Lord Leathers, minister of war transport for the United Kingdom, and the British chiefs of staff."

Churchill was received on arrival by Mr. Mackenzie King and during his stay in Canada will be the guest of the Canadian government. Mr. Churchill will have discussions with Mr. Mackenzie King and later on will attend a conference with President Roosevelt and the combined chiefs of staff of the United States and the United Kingdom.

Little Surprise
Churchill's arrival in Canada was, it was, occasioned little surprise since it had been predicted freely for days that another conference among the United Nations leaders was imminent in view of rapid global developments of the past two weeks, including the collapse of Benito Mussolini's government in Italy and the steadily improving outlook in the war generally.

Announcement of Churchill's arrival climaxed several days of excitement when children's relief pictures were shown that show that some event of importance was imminent.

First indications of impending events were received when news came that the Canadian government was to be visited by Churchill and that the United States and Great Britain were to arrive.

When it became known that Roosevelt would be in Canada, it was expected that Churchill would be in Canada, too, and that the combined chiefs of staff of the United States and the United Kingdom would be in Canada, too.

Department Says Agreement Is Crop Prospects Reported Made Are 3% Better - On Rail Wages

July Improvement Is Said To Be Due To Better Weather

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported yesterday that crop prospects, reflecting generally favorable growing conditions, improved about three percent during July, but it predicted that aggregate production of all food, feed and fiber crops would be about six percent better than last year.

Further improvement in prospects appear to have occurred, the department said, during the first week of August, but August conditions were not taken into account in making current estimates.

The July improvement was due chiefly, the department said, to an exceptionally favorable start given the cotton crop, the rapid growth of late-planted corn in Northern states and a continuation of favorable conditions in the wheat belt from Nebraska northward.

Although prospects point to a smaller output of crops, the total production of all food—including livestock products—is expected to exceed last year's record supply, officials said. The indicated decline in crops will be more than offset, they said, by an increase in livestock products.

July brought a 168,000,000-bushel improvement in the important corn crop. The estimate of this livestock feed grain was 2,874,711,000 bushels compared with 2,706,552,000 forecast a month ago. A smaller output of crops, the department said, also would be short, however, of last year's record of 2,178,154,000 bushels and below livestock and industrial requirements for the year ahead.

The forecast for wheat was 2,484,000 bushels compared with 2,790,000 bushels predicted a month ago and with 2,813,200 harvested last year.

The department said prospects for hazelnut, peas, potatoes, dry beans, sugar improved during July, but the prospects for oats, sorghum, rye, hay, sweet potatoes, sugar cane, and peaches declined from 1 to 5 percent.

Many sharp local changes in prospects, local place during July.

Predicting "peace and union of war" would continue, he was named "leading citizen" in a "leading citizen" list of one government to be prepared for war.

More Steel Is Allotted For Oil Tankers

Meanwhile Gasoline Distributors Find August Allotments Cut By 25 Percent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—The Maritime Commission announced today a reduction from 65 to 33 in the number of concrete oil barges being constructed for the agency. More steel has been made available for tankers, the announcement said, and the decision to convert 102 Liberty ships into tankers also has eased the situation.

Yesterday gasoline distributors notified by their petroleum industry in the Eastern seaboard area were told that August allotments for the region have been cut by 25 percent.

The committee did not immediately explain its curtailment order, but it was directed only at distributors and will have no direct effect on the gallon value of ration coupons.

However, distributors in Georgia and Florida said their stocks on hand were not sufficient to meet the expected demands of couponholding motorists as ration stocks in other Southern states were not believed to be much larger.

One distributor said the probable effect will be to curtail filling stations as they hold coupons for, or dealers may be out of gasoline completely.

The Office of Price Administration said it hoped to issue an explanation within a few days. It says the August allotment is based on May sales, the curtailment will be felt more sharply in some areas than in others.

On the first count, Carbo is charged with having and receiving embezzled property in the form of two cases of cigarettes. The second information against Carbo concerns two charges, buying and receiving stolen property in the form of a bull yearling and receiving stolen property in the form of 160 pounds of dressed beef.

Kiwanis Club Is Entertained At Methodist Home

Kiwanians and their wives were guests Tuesday evening at the Methodist Home for the Aged, where they were entertained by a supper and entertainment by the Rev. Harold R. Barnes, superintendent of the home. The Kiwanis Club of the Home, directed by Harold Giffin, musical director of Stetson University, entertained with a number of sacred and patriotic songs. British Seize Guardia Near Italy's Coast

Heavy Bombing Raid Against Nuernberg, Nazi Party Capital, Is Made By RAF

British troops striking seven miles up the east coast of Sicily, have captured Guardia, storming within sight of the Italian mainland as Prime Minister Churchill began his vital strategy conferences in Canada.

Russian armies, not represented in the Canadian conference, continued to strike deeper against Kharkov and Bryansk. The Soviet columns are ringing Kharkov from three sides.

Meanwhile the RAF sent another great fleet of bombers against Nuernberg, the Nazi party city near Berlin, just four weeks in the day after Marshal Goring boasted that not a single bomb would reach the Reich.

The British Air Ministry said Germany thus far has been struck with 100,000 tons of bombs during the war.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 11. (AP)—Allied forces, smashing the center of a German-Italian northwest of Sicily, drove yesterday to within 10 road miles of battered Randazzo, one of the last of the enemy's hedgehog defenses on the road to Messina from central Sicily.

As the Sicilian campaign entered its second month, American, Canadian and British troops were officially reported to be making relentless though unexpecting progress in forcing the fiercely resisting Germans back into the Sicilian funnel at Messina.

The Germans were dynamiting mountainsides to cover miles of roads as they fell back.

It was reported that the Rome radio announced that all Italian troops had been withdrawn from the Sicilian front because of overwhelming superiority of Allied forces. The radio asserted that "if the Americans pay a proportionate price for Italy as they have paid for Sicily, they will be in a state of utter exhaustion at the end of the war."

Randazzo was still under from countless air raids of which continuing without a break throughout the day. The full power of the Allied air forces, such as in complete command of the skies over Sicily and southern Italy, has been against the highway viewpoint.

Strong Resistance
Through damage done to roads, the city already has been almost eliminated as a communications junction but powerful German defenses erected there are considered still capable of presenting strong resistance to attacking infantry.

It has been disclosed that Gen. and Staffed Leads the German 14th corps, composed of something like 100,000 men, is still in the area.

Technical Sergeant Orman Ward, who was wounded in action in the Solomonis, and who has written many of his interesting experiences to The Herald, has telegraphed that he is back in the United States, and hopes to receive a furlough soon to enable him to visit his friends and family here, before reporting back to duty.

Ned Smith, chairman of the miniature parade, announced today the parade, "The Spirit of Young Sanford" will be held in connection with the dedication of the new USO building on Sept. 1.

The Townsend Club will meet Thursday at the Court House at 8:00 o'clock.

Ernest Brotherson, Jr. who joined the Army Air Corps recently, has been called to train for an air cadet at Keeler Field, Miss.

The membership committee of the Seminole County Farm Bureau will meet tonight at 7:00 o'clock at Eddie's Restaurant in order to discuss plans for increasing the membership in the Farm Bureau in the County. It was announced today by Leo Butler, president.

Members of the new U.S. Cadet Nurse Corps will wear the famed Cross of Malta on the sleeves of their uniforms and the insignia of the Public Health Service on their caps and lapels. Cadet nurses release registered nurses from duty.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY
 Some have claimed that the Magi were directed by an occult light or guidance, to find the world's savior. The light of the story is enough for us. The simplest may find him if he so desires. We have seen his star in the East and are come to worship him.—Matt. 2:2.

BARRACKS MOON
 (From The Washington Post)
 Barracks moon through a curtainless window
 Fine-gold moon with a mist on it
 Shines through my dreamy before
 The stars, small head against my shoulder.
 Barracks moon with a fine-gold mist on it.
 Bless me with sleep for the morning's training
 For the rifle target at two hundred yards.
 The white bull's eye marker.
 Make me learn
 How a little brown blur of a man
 Three hundred yards off in the winter forest
 Has a life valued at just one trigger squeeze.
 Barracks moon, before the morning bugle
 Give me rest, respite of dreams
 Sleep for the stark mornings and battle training.
 Before sleeping,

Wonder how Hirohito is enjoying the news from Russia these days, an arm from Sicily and the South Pacific?
 When a newspaper columnist opens his article with "Now is the time to make up some new history."
 We have a hunch there would be no manpower problem in this country if everyone worked regardless of whether he needed the money or not.
 And then there was the girl who dated a soldier and found he was A-W-O-L—Leesburg Commercial. (Well you can't court martial a man for that.)
 The Republicans are so put to it to find a candidate for president next year that they are even discussing the possibilities of some fellow named Lindbergh.
 Yehon May Get Reprieve says McNutt—headline. What, another one? First thing you know they'll be like that doctor's patient who died of improvement.
 Over at Flagler Beach a hen is reported to have laid an egg six inches long and eight inches in circumference. That's pretty good, but how are they going to get it under the price ceiling?
 United States currency (paper money) now in circulation is actually nearly 18 billion dollars, or more than three times as much as it was in 1939 which was generally regarded as a pretty good year.

Les Green, Florida congressman, already running for reelection, can be expected to make his formal announcement soon.
 Tom Gehring, Supreme Court Justice, and the former U. of F. football coach, is being urged to get into the race.
 Secretary of State Hull and secretary of the Navy Knox were against "foolish optimism" over the course of recent events in Europe and predict that this will be a long war.
 The war will be long, says the Herald editor to announce that the war will be long.
 The war will be long, says the Herald editor to announce that the war will be long.

Your Carrier Boy

Declaring that from the boys of today will come the business, labor and political leaders of tomorrow, Frank Tripp, general manager of the Gannett Newspapers, tells the International Circulation Managers' Association, "The greatest danger America faces today is that the newspaper type of boy may come to think that unearned ease and plenty can be his through some new philosophy of life which promises universal security for all, irrespective of individual effort of contribution to the common good."
 The newspapers of the country, he points out, are performing a great service to their country in this hour of crisis. They are almost the sole medium used by the OPA and the rationing boards for keeping the public informed of new developments on the food front. They have been of vital importance in their contributions to the success of the scrap collecting drives, the sale of War Bonds and Stamps, in the public comprehension of new tax measures, in the widespread understanding of the political consequences of the war, without which no citizen could cast his vote intelligently.

Newspaper carriers today are making the greatest contribution toward the winning of the war which it is possible for children of their years to make. By helping to keep the public informed as to the state of the war on a dozen different fronts throughout the world, as to the necessities for personal sacrifices on the home front, as to the requirements of the various boards, bureaus and commissions in Washington which are trying to channel goods and services in the most needed directions, these carrier boys are serving their country even as the soldier in the field.

And while they are serving their country in this hour of crisis, they are laying the foundation of the future America. As Mr. Tripp says, "If they come to think that all to which they aspire is the bunk and that freedom from want and personal security are the sum total of American life, then the jig is up and our next generation will be a servile, spineless race of dependents, no better off than the pitiful peoples for whom we fight. If they crack up, if they come to believe that some magician can give them freedom from want without their working like beavers to earn that freedom, then America is sunk."

"Boys sell papers", this outstanding American newspaperman says, "because they want something. When they cease to want they give up their routes. It will be the type of boy who never ceases to want and grows into manhood conjuring ways to satisfy his wants, who will invent the gadgets, build the factories, employ the people, pay the national debt and save America in the future. Let them fear no want and America has no future."
 We personally have observed carrier boys for more than a generation. We have seen hundreds of good carrier boys grow into eminently respected and successful citizens.

Getting The Files

An ingenious soul says he is trying to invent a carrier for the fly-swatter which can be snapped onto every chair and the davenport. Also he is working on an idea for a small pair of tongs in the end of the swatter which will pick up the fly when it has been slain and convey its carcass neatly to the nearest ash tray.
 These are glorious ideas. It really is disconcerting to be annoyed by one persistent fly when the newspaper or the mending is spread out over everything, making it difficult to rise, and when the nearest swatter is far out in the corner of the kitchen. Here are two contributions to this serious subject:
 One family has a waste basket in every room in the house and a fly-swatter with the business end down lives in every waste basket. If the basket is not right beside the chair, at least it's not far off.
 Then there's the matter of cans. If every can is flattened, washed and prepared for the can collection, files won't be breeding in these cans. That helps a lot. Garbage containers are not noble subjects, but if they are not properly cared for, all the snappy inventions in the world planned to kill individual flies won't help enough to amount to anything.
 Uncared for garbage is the source of most fly nuisance. Being noble about scrubbing the container and spraying its contents with something drastic helps a great deal. It's a civic duty to be noble about preparing the tin cans, too. Then let the inventor have fun.

Speaking Of Names

Maj. Gen. Jimmie Doolittle of the Northwest African Strategic Air Force lives up to his military title, anyway. He and his associates seem to be about the busiest people engaged in this war. They are credited with sinking or disabling more than 200 Axis ships and destroying more than 5,000 enemy aircraft, in the air and on the ground, in the job of spearheading the Allied Mediterranean offensive. This estimate takes no account of all the trains, trucks and tanks knocked out.
 General Doolittle, who never was sensitive in stating facts, whether personal or impersonal, declares: "I want to say modestly but proudly that the Northwest African Strategic Air Force is the finest fighting unit of the greatest fighting force in the world. They fight now so that all the world may quit fighting soon."
 And to think that a man like that should be named "Doolittle!"

Raleigh Newspaper Freezes Circulation

RALEIGH, N.C., Aug. 11 (AP)—The Raleigh News and Observer announced today that it had frozen its circulation because of the limitation on the use of paper.
 The newspaper will be suspended until an ad subscriber discontinues the paper, the announcement said. Dealers and carriers will continue to receive the same amount of paper as usual.
 The newspaper is the largest in the South and is one of the largest in the world.

"VALLEY OF INDECISION"

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY
 With so many folks "askin' you?" (long period while phone made noise like Donald Duck) Senator patiently listened. "I know, Bill, I agree with you. I can't do anything about it. I'm only one man up there. I realize that. But I do try. I went over to see McNutt myself. You don't know how hard it is to get those fellows to listen. Etc., etc." Just add twenty minutes and stir with emotion.
 The Senator hung up the phone, snuffed his brow and turned to face the portion of his "public" that was there in person. "Now, gentlemen, where were we?"
 "How can a guy sell crates at ceiling prices when his labor costs are double and the logs have increased and repair parts take six months to get, if you can get 'em?"
 "Yes, Senator," chimed in another guy, "what about me? I can't get any help. Everything I do is wrong and nobody knows what's right—not even the guys who are makin' the insane rules."
 Then the phone rang again. "Go down to the OPA in the morning, Mabel, and tell Mr. Whoozit I sent you. I don't know what the job pays. No, you'll just have to catch him when you can. All right, I'll phone him."
 Turning back to his tormentors, the Senator tried again to pick up the thread of the conversation.
 A man in the crowd pulled a flock of forms, questionnaires and application blanks out of his pocket. "Here, Senator, try fillin' 'em out these. Just TRY. How can a guy run a business when he is expected to solve puzzles all day long?"
 The Senator smiled weakly. "I know," he said, "we have a committee working on that. You know it takes time. It will be all straightened out soon. I hope."
 "What do I do in the meantime?" screamed the constipated gentlemen, where were we?"

 Editor, "The Sanford Herald"
 Sanford, Florida
 Dear Mr. Dean:
 May I again have space in your paper for an expression of appreciation to those who contributed to the success of the Holy Pitcher Day?
 I should like to be able to thank each person individually but that is quite impossible at this time, so please accept my personal gratitude and that of my committee for the splendid work you did last Saturday. It is indeed a pleasure to serve with people such as you.
 The generosity of the business houses, the two local newspapers and Mr. Higgins, of "The Orlando Sentinel," in giving publicity to the drive, the faithfulness of the sales force—made up not only of representatives of the many women's organizations of the city and county but service men's wives and even visitors; the patriotism of the man on the street; all combined toward the success of the day.
 Greatfully and sincerely,
 Lucy H. Smith

Bandit Garbed As A Policeman Takes Pay Roll

Whistle Halts Car In Bronx, Gun Balks Robbery Of Guard

NEW YORK CITY, Aug. 11. (AP)—Charles Ehler, an officer of the stevedore firm of F. Binaldi & Co., 118 Broad Street, reported to police recently that a bandit, wearing a policeman's uniform, had stopped the car in which Mr. Ehler was riding with an armed guard and crept with a $10,200 pay roll at 11:30 A.M. on the Henry Hudson Parkway at 250th Street, the Bronx.

According to the story, Mr. Ehler told Detective Michael Foley of the King's County station, he saw the money in bills of small denomination from the United National Bank of Cliffside Park, N. Y., on Friday. The money was then taken to the offices of the Rinaldi Company, where it was made up in pay-roll form for the company's employees who were working on a contract basis for the Refined Syrup and Sugar Company, Inc., at the foot of Park Street, Yonkers, N. Y.

As Mr. Ehler prepared to drive Yonkers he was met by John J. O'Sullivan of 210 Montauk Highway, Lindenhurst, L. I., a guard employed by the Oceanic Service Corporation, 25 Beaver Street, which provides guards for private companies.

With Mr. Ehler driving and the money in a bag next to the guard in the rear of the car, the two drove up the West Side Highway and onto the Henry Hudson Parkway Near 250th Street, Mr. Ehler said, he heard a policeman's whistle and noticed a policeman standing in the middle of the roadway frantically waving his hands.

He made no effort to retrieve the guard of his gun.

Mr. Ehler started his car again but after he had gone about 100 feet he stopped. He saw the bandit hurry into a nearby garage in a service road of the parkway. Mr. Ehler said another man attired in civilian clothes, was at the wheel of the getaway car, which sped off.

Mr. Ehler, who lives at 110th Street and Lane Palisades, said Mr. O'Sullivan gave him a police badge and a description of the man. They said the man had brown hair, glasses, appeared to be about forty years of age, and was wearing a suit and tie. They were unable to identify the uniform. The man wore a badge, but it was not a police badge. They said he had a pistol in a shoulder holster and a pocket watch in his vest.

THOUGH THE RAID ON ROME was a masterpiece of precision bombing, the Basilica of San Lorenzo was hit by a stray bomb, causing the damage seen here. It was this accident which postponed the Pope's return to Rome after his escape to the Eternal City. (International Radiophoto)

Yankees Of 1927 Greatest Team Of Last Thirty Years

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Features Sports Editor
NEW YORK—The greatest all-round baseball team within the last 30 years, if not for all time, was the Yankees of 1927. At least that is what Babe Ruth told Cadet Ted Williams, the former Red Sox clouter, when the mutual admirers got together recently in the Yankee Stadium locker rooms for a long gabfest.

The Big Bam spotted Ted coming into the stadium and as quick as he can say "Hi-Keeed," he said his big left arm around the naval flier and was pumping him with questions about his new job.

But Ted wanted to talk baseball and that is one subject the Babe is always willing to go along on. So the two of them made their way down the long players' ramp into a corner of the visitors' dressing room where they wouldn't be disturbed.

Busy Learning To Fly
"Bill hitting 400?" the Sultan of Swat asked Ted as they sat down on a couple of players' trunks.

"Are you kidding?" quizzed Ted. "I'm so busy learning how to be a Navy flier, I don't even know what the score is these days. By the way," he asked us, "what is my average?"

Told it was .366, the kid gave one of his big smiles and quipped: "I didn't know it was that much!"

Coming from Ted Williams, that was quite an admission for the ex-Red Soxer always was one to follow those batting averages. The conversation that followed showed he was still interested in hitting marks when he could get away from his Navy cramping.

"Say, Babe," said Ted, "I've been wanting to talk to you a long time about hitters and old time players. I got into quite an argument down at Chapel Hill when I told them that I thought that modern day baseball players were a lot better than the old timers. Don't you?"

The Bam thought for a few seconds and slowly shook his head.

"No, I can't agree with you. We haven't got the ball players now that we had back in the old days. Why ever that team I played with in Baltimore (in 1914) had more players of major league caliber than a lot of your big league teams today."

"I think that is only natural though for not many good youngsters are playing in the minors these days. Of course you only have about a half a dozen leagues going now and many of the best players are in the services, but you will have to go some to beat the boys of 25 to 35 years ago."

Best Ball Team
What was the best baseball team you ever saw? Ted asked the Babe.

"The 1927 Yankees," the Bambino replied without hesitation. "For all-around skill, speedy base running, excellent hitting, and the best pitching that any team ever had you can't beat that 1927 bunch.

"That was the year you hit 50 homers, wasn't it?" asked Ted.

"Yes," replied Ruth, but I don't think my homers made it such a great team as the hitting of Gehrig (Lou), Combs (Earl) and Meusel (Hoh). Those boys were really hot that year."

(Gehrig hit 373 in 155 games, which included 175 runs batted in, a league record, 47 home runs—42hoco-lap taradtaunduan scored 149 runs to leader Ruth's 138; and had 218 hits 447 total bases. Combs hit 350 and Meusel, 337, their best all-time averages. Combs led the league in hits 241 and scored 137 runs. The Babe hit 356 himself.)

"Of course we wouldn't have been able to do it if our pitchers hadn't been the top. I think they were the best an Yankee team ever had. Wilcy Moore led both leagues in earned runs and had 19 wins against seven losses. Waite Hoyt won 22 and seven. Babe Ruth won 18 and six. Herb Pennock 19 and 8. Dutch Ruether about 13 and six, and George Pipgras, 10 and 3. Now how do you beat that kind of pitching?"

Williams agreed that it couldn't be done but went on to point out that the Yanks hit 307 as a team, the highest percentage for any American League pennant winner.

"You see I do know my hitting averages," said Ted.

"Spraking of hitters," declared Ted, "who was the best hitter you ever saw?"

"Well, I'd be inclined to say Harry Hellmann because he was the fellow I always remember. I can't forget that he beat me out for the batting championship on the last day of 1923."

Thinks Cobb Was Best
"Seriously, though, I'd say that Ty Cobb was the best of them all. After all, he hit over .30 three times and he was fast a jump ahead of all of them."

Just then, the Babe got a call and left. As Williams followed Ruth, he said:

"He can say what he wants, but I think he is the best hitter baseball ever had. I wish I could have seen Cobb, Speaker and some of the others but my greatest regret is that I never saw the Babe play. That would have been something."

Many People Still Try To Pay Poll Tax

TAMPA, Aug. 11. (FNN)—While no poll tax is required in Florida, Tax Collector Schlemann of Hillsborough County reports that hundreds of persons have come to his office and insisted that they be allowed to pay their poll tax and when told that poll taxes have been abolished in Florida they still demand that he take their money and give a receipt, believing that without it they will not be able to vote in the coming municipal election.

In self defense, Schlemann secured a letter from State Auditor Bryant Willis upholding him, which he has posted. The Auditor said:

"In view of the very explicit opinion rendered by the Attorney General regarding the payment of poll tax and the subsequent enactment by the 1941 Legislature, it appears to me that there is no such tax levied by the State or the County."

Old timers who have paid poll taxes for years, go away shaking their heads still disablated, and think it is some kind of a "trick" to keep them from voting.

WHAT THEY SAY:

Mr. C. E. Pepper, president of Christian Paper Tobacco Company, (manufacturers of only fine tobacco since 1852), says: "Radical changes in policy management are not customary or frequent in a concern as old and as well established as the Christian Paper Tobacco Company. After buying stock insurance from the same agent for more than 25 years, it is obvious that the case of mutual insurance had to be very definitely proven to warrant our making any change in our insurance set-up. Ten years ago, however, the local mutual agent, convinced us that the dividend saving afforded by mutual insurance justified our changing from stock to mutual. Today all our insurance coverage is mutual. The savings we lost over a period of years by not making the change sooner is our only regret."

Blanding Division Has 3 Officers Under 21

CAMP BLANDING, Aug. 11. (Special)—Typical of the Army's policy of offering every opportunity for men of proven worth to advance regardless of their youth is the fact that Blanding's 43rd (Blood and Fire) Division has three officers who have not yet reached the voting age.

They are Capt. Charles B. MacDonald, 20; First Lieut. Eugene Joel Bearman, 19, and Second Lieut. Otto Carrossa, 18.

Capt. MacDonald, son of J.L. MacDonald of Little Rock, S.C., graduated from Presbyterian College, Clinton, S.C., with the bars of a second lieutenant at the age of 19 and was promoted to first lieutenant before his twentieth birthday.

Lieut. Bearman, son of J.M. Bearman, 2218 Jefferson Ave., Memphis, Tenn., graduated from Columbia Military Academy in 1941 and was commissioned a second lieutenant in May, 1942, after taking a post-graduate course.

Lieut. Carrossa graduated from Marmon Military Academy, Aurora, Ill., this June, 1942, and entered active service last September.
