LABOR OFFICIAL LATEST VICTIM IN CAPITAL ATTACKS

Series Of Shootings Has Set Record Of 9 In Last Few Days

WASHINGTON, May 21—(AP)—An unidentified man opened fire without warning yesterday at a group of labor officials...

The man wounded was Frank Langdon, 54, editor of the trade journal of the International Union of Operating Engineers...

Police said they believed there was little doubt the latest shooting was the outgrowth of a labor feud...

Three trade union officials were seated at lunch in a coffee shop when the attempt upon their lives was made...

Capt. Edward J. Kelly, of the homicide squad, who questioned Cunningham just before his death, said the man would not answer yes or no to questions concerning the name of his assailant...

The bill was the subject of Mrs. Edna G. Fuller, Representative from Orange county...

With three exceptions, the amendments merely took care of minor flaws. Every amendment, however, met the approval of the powerful bloc backing the bill...

The debate against the bill brought numerous references to the certificate wagering system, controlled by Julian H. Hark and A. Wolfe...

The other members of the Hillsborough county delegation divided, Bledsoe voting for the bill and Lowe of Plant City, against it.

Instantly, with the action of the House clinched by parliamentary procedure, there was a huddle of leaders who figured on the bill's outcome in the Senate...

Poppy

Poppy Day
However red blooded Americans live... the red War veteran-made poppies will appear most numerous.

These poppies have been made by the hands of wounded veterans of our last great war now lying in Veterans' hospitals throughout the country.

They are symbolical of the poppies which grew in Flanders Fields following the final bitter fight which saw the blood of hundreds of thousands of fine American, French and English men flow into the soil.

Every poppy which is worn today will do honor to the memory of some brave American who sacrificed his life at the call of his country; and every poppy worn today will help some other equally brave American, who sacrificed himself in perhaps even a greater way than giving life itself, to find the going a little easier through life.

Every penny which is collected through the entire United States tomorrow from the sale of poppies will be used for the support of disabled veterans and their families. The poppies are made by the veterans themselves, and the ladies who sell them receive no compensation for their work.

Thirteen years ago we thought a great deal of our soldiers, whether abroad fighting in the front line trenches, or in cantonments on this side training for the fight to come. We cannot afford to forget them now.

Buy a poppy tomorrow. Whether you give ten cents or one dollar, your contribution will help a worthy cause.

Florida—Summer Resort

For several years Florida has been known as the most popular and delightful winter resort in America. It has become the playground of the rich and a vacation center for that great middle class which finds time to rest from the year's labors during winter months.

"Florida's appeal to the public as a year around resort is being more appreciated each succeeding year as its ideal conditions are becoming known as an all season place of habitation," says the Mount Dora Topic. "Its attractions as a summer resort rival any in the land. Here no torrid heat causes prostrations as the winds from the Gulf, the Atlantic and over thousands of lakes create a delightful temperature.

"During the past few years a number of conventions have been held in Florida, through whose delegates the state has had much favorable advertising. Several large conventions of national importance will be held here this summer and the numbers are growing every year. The railroads realizing the fact that both pleasure and comfort may be derived from a trip to Florida at this season of the year, are offering inducements to tourists in low rate excursions, and railroad officials state that early inquiries for tickets indicate a heavy business.

"Quite a number of large hotels are to remain open all the year and seashore and lake resorts have been greatly improved. Our good roads make delightful a tour of the state by short time vacationists, and the beauties of our semi-tropical scenery produce a charming impression upon the ever increasing visitors to this land of health, pleasure, recreation and enjoyment.

"Florida will soon be known to be equally attractive as a summer resort as it is already known to be the winter playground of America."

WILL COX BE THAT "DARK HORSE"?

ORLANDO SENTINEL

One recalls the confusion which resulted in March when the democratic national committee listened to Chairman Rankin's address calling for "revision" of the prohibition laws.

At that time James M. Cox, three times governor of Ohio, party nominee in 1920 was quoted as saying:

"I ask you whether any great democrat was ever moved by consideration of temporary expediency, or by his sense of duty. What is our duty, now? What is the expedient thing to do, and what is the thing to do if we follow the dictates of our own consciences? Let us consider our duty. The duty of government as promoted by political parties is to strike down, to regulate to control anything which menaces our social state. That is our duty, and if you will come into some parts of the North..."

The former governor's remarks made an impression on the party leaders, and when Rankin he has been widely quoted and mentioned as a "dark horse" in the democratic presidential nomination next year.

Cox is a liberal, a wet, he has no corporation connections, he was a supporter of Wilson, he comes from a pivotal political state, he could line up the Ohio delegation, he is only 60 years old, he has powerful alliances all over the country.

The New York Times treats him fairly in a lengthy editorial discussion. "In 1920 Bryan's speech at the Chicago convention brought about his nomination. Can a speech make a presidential nominee again—especially a speech delivered more than a year before the national convention? And could deadweight delegates be induced by the long memory of that speech to turn to one who was the unsuccessful standard-bearer of the party twelve years before?"

"More systems of political organization in this country would matter but conditions here are that regularity of elections should be maintained and the government should be kept out of business."

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

BY SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, May 21.—The news here today is... the fact that there is very much to be done at changing the... Buckingham Palace, only...

There are no serious... and... and...

mostly people... mostly people... mostly people...

"Good evening, Dr. Church," said the information clerk at the Hotel Chatham to the guest from Michigan. "What can I do for you?"

"Well," said the visiting physician, "the last time I heard my radio was three nights ago and Ruby Taylor had just come down with pneumonia. Do you happen to know how she is now?"

"She has passed the crisis," Dr. Church said the information clerk.

That from the hotel, Frank National Broadcasting a claim that more than 600 letters and wires inquiring as to Ruby's condition were received during the two days following the Amos 'n' Andy broadcast announcing "her" illness. Also four floral pieces to be delivered to the imaginary hospital.

Oscar of the Waldorf is the most famous of them all, and he has stuck tightly to the Waldorf during the two-year hiatus while the new hotel building has been erected in Park avenue. The Empire State Building now lifts its tower on the site of his former rick of stew pans.

His director of kitchens he has selected Alexandre Gastaud, chef de cuisine under Escoffier at the London Carlton as far back as 1905. Gastaud has cooked for the last two kings of England. He is a youngish-looking Frenchman with a cropped black mustache, large eyes and thinning hair. He must be in his fifties. Gastaud likes every delicacy except caviar. It used to be part of his duties to taste the caviar daily at the Carlton in London, where a group of bloods with delicate palates professed to be nauseated should the fish eggs have the slightest bitter aftertaste. Gastaud got enough of caviar then to last him.

For the first time in anybody's memory there are said to be no ill-tongued "Uncle Toms" shown on the road this season, although several stock companies are borrowing the local baggies and putting it on for a week at a time. This is too bad, because I should hate to have the famous dramatic criticism forgotten: "The dogs were good and deserved better support."

Ruth Bryan Owen made a fine talk to the gold star mothers at Washington. You see always trust "Our Ruth" to do the handsome thing when she gets up to make a speech—in which she is the true daughter of an illustrious father.—Winter Haven Chief.

The gubernatorial candidate jumped in the political swim at Wakulla Spring last Saturday. They might be reminded that it is a very deep spring.—Mount Haven Democrat.

people have been going daily to the lakes, the rivers and the golf, and few have returned home empty-handed. It seems that about all kinds of fish are waiting for the hook and bait, and especially is this true of bass and trout. The weather and the stage of the water seem to have combined to make this an ideal time for catching the fish in the good old way. This statement is borne out by game wardens and the dealers in sporting goods.—Perry Herald.

Carpen are again plentiful in the bay here. While not yet the local devotees of the red-and-rose have tried their luck at catching them, quite a number of small specimens have been taken with light tackle by persons in quest of either fish. Mrs. Mary C. Morriss, however, went out after carpen Wednesday and brought in six, the largest of which weighed 76 pounds.—Punta Gorda Herald.

KILLER OF TWO CALIFORNIA MEN NOW IDENTIFIED

Attack On Editor And Wealthy Politician Related At Inquest

LOS ANGELES, May 21.—(AP)—The slayer of Herbert Spencer, former Los Angeles newspaperman, and Charles H. Crawford, wealthy politician, was identified yesterday as Ray J. Radka, Crawford's secretary, as a man named "Wilson."

Under District Attorney Burke's announcement, a former deputy district attorney in his office was sought for the slaying. He refused to name the man but said he resigned last February and was "Wilson."

Radka gave the testimony at a coroner's inquest after police had held a search for a killer who shot the two men in Crawford's office in Hollywood Wednesday. The coroner's jury returned verdicts the men had been killed by gunshot wounds inflicted with homicidal intent.

Radka said he learned the gunman's name from Crawford a short time before the killings. Crawford referred to him as "Wilson," Radka testified.

"Crawford said to me: 'Radka, would you mind taking Mr. Wilson to the laundry?'"

"I followed the door for the man and he said 'O. K. Thanks, I never say him again. About 10 minutes elapsed and I heard two shots—very muffled. In fact they didn't sound like shots; I thought they were the barkings of an automobile."

"The first I knew that a shooting had taken place was when I heard a commotion in the front office. I ran out there and met Miss Fisher, the stenographer, and Mr. Copeland, the real estate man, who were dragging the bleeding body of Mr. Spencer back into the office."

Police investigation centered on two theories. One was that the shooting resulted from conflicts between two underworld groups. Another was that Crawford had chartered efforts of Chicago mobsters to organize in Los Angeles.

Spencer's widow said his life had been threatened repeatedly by mobsters.

The editor had written in an editorial in his magazine "The Critic of Critics," that any harm to one of his staff would result in the naming of a box by authorities, including names, haunts and habits of all those "interested in closing the mouth of the editor."

Spencer's deputies failed to find the box in a search of the magazine office yesterday.

Finance Angles Of Government Under Scrutiny with expenditures swelled by emergency needs, and revenues depressed below the normal point.

"Insistence on a balanced budget," he said, "in the one means of making the people realize that if they desire to expand the services of the government they must inevitably look to increased contributions in the form of taxes."

He urged that the tax system be adjusted so there would be no great variation between government receipts and expenditures, and said the treasury was endeavoring to find the answer.

Opponents, Jones, chief of the finance and investment division of the commerce department, told the 600 delegates there was a marked tendency to ascribe the delay in world economic recovery to the fact that "this country is lending and investing in foreign securities less freely than before the 1929 stock market crash."

"Our critics forget," he said, "that many countries borrowed to the limit, when the borrowing countries as well as this country were prosperous and foreign investment could be easily placed with the American investing public."

In addition to the war debts and short-term investment abroad, he said, Americans had invested more than $15,000,000,000 in foreign securities.

Chairman McFadden of the House banking committee predicted recovery from the depression would be a "long, hard pull" and expressed the hope that it would not be necessary for Congress to increase taxes but that it would reduce government expenses instead.

KILLS CHILDREN, BEATS WIFE
—DRACUT, Mass., May 21.—(AP)—Leroy Skillings, police said, beat two children to death with a hammer today, and injured his wife so badly that it is feared she will die. Skillings later severed the artery in his wrist. In what is described as her dying statement Mrs. Skillings said her husband was jealous of her.

of admittance. Another revenue feature provided that all employees of tracks except disabled former service men, would be required to pay an occupational license fee of $10 annually.

A state racing commission of five members, created under terms of the bill, would have power to regulate dates of race meets and operation of tracks. A member of the commission would be appointed from each congressional district.

Local referendum approval of racing would be required. Cost of the referendum election would be paid by persons seeking to operate a track after first having obtained a permit for operation from the commission.

Final approval of the race bill featured an otherwise quiet day in the Senate.

Voting 50 to 47 at its morning session, it refused to reconsider approval of a bill by Senator Hodges, Tallahassee, to exempt homesteads from a new federal income tax.

Senator John, Florida, introduced a proposal for a constitutional amendment to abolish the board of county commissioners and substitute a county board of administration with three members, each elected from the county at large.

ORDER BEGINS IN CUBA ON DAY OF UNREST

President of Cuba and now one of the opposition leaders, likewise received the reports of an uprising in Oriente.

"There has been no revolution," he said, adding, "I do not believe in the revolution until the revolution is complete." Secretary of the Interior Octavio Gaitanero said yesterday his information regarding the reported rebellion was without details.

In his official statement to the press he said "there has been a revolutionary movement in Manzanillo and Havana and elements of Holguin and Ciego de Avila."

He said the government was confident its armed forces were strong enough to meet any emergency and that the military situation permitted it might be necessary to mobilize national and international guarantees in Oriente.

President Machado has at his command the garrison, commanded by Gen. DeCortez and Mr. Speer.

SHOUSE SCORES PRESIDENT UPON TARIFF POLICIES

Criticizes "Harmful Optimism Of Presidential Cabinet"

BALTIMORE, May 22—(AP)—The "harmful optimism of the cabinet" in "the Hoover panic" and Republican tariff policies were attacked here last night by Jonett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National Executive committee.

"I should like to give the Hoover administration and its spokesmen credit for real progress," said Mr. Shouse, speaking over a radio hookup following a Democratic victory dinner at the Hotel Hamilton.

Senator Milford E. Tyngs and Mayor Howard W. Jackson also spoke.

"Within the last few weeks they have come to admit two things—first that there is a business depression, as they phrase it. I call it the Hoover panic—and, second, that instead of only two or three millions of unemployed, as was persistently claimed over a period of many months, there are more than six million unemployed today.

"It is progress to have finally an admission of basic facts, because obviously until the facts are admitted there can be no hope of correction."

On Mar. 8, 1930, said the Democratic chairman, "the President himself sent forth to the American people a most reassuring prediction. He said that the peak of unemployment had already been passed; that within a period of 60 days, making a specific prediction, business would be back on an even keel and steadily moving forward."

"The election of Mayor Jackson on May 5 over a Republican opponent was hailed by Governor Ritchie.

"A Democratic majority in Baltimore of approximately 35,000 this spring, following a like Democratic majority last fall, and both following a large Republican majority in 1928, only two years before, means, I believe, that Baltimore is determined to join the rest of the country in putting an end to Republican mistakes and blunders and mismanagement in Washington, and to entrust our national affairs to the Democratic party in 1932.

The Democratic party, said Mr. Shouse, "is the only instrumentality through which there can be a substantial hope of any improvement of conditions for the ordinary struggling citizen of this republic. But that assertion does not mean that the Democratic party should not be fair to capital and to labor alike.

"American business need not be afraid of a party that stands for progress. American business needs to be very much afraid of a party that stands for stagnation. American business has seen the result of the Republican tariff theories, carried to their logical conclusion from the policy of protection it has gone to

Schwab Sees Signs Of End To Present Economic Setback

NEW YORK, May 22—(AP)—Charles Schwab told the American Iron and Steel Institute today that there is reason to believe that liquidation is about over. Schwab is chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and president of the institute which held its semi-annual meeting here.

"There has been so much talk about the future we have lost sight of the extreme of embargo, and today, having seen to the wind, we are reaping the whirlwind.

"Our foreign trade is prostrate, our foreign markets are destroyed, retaliatory tariffs have been enacted by practically every nation with which we do business. In these circumstances, American industry has come to recognize at last that progress, world progress, and progress alike that endeavors to assure the advancement of our people—as a necessary, to the development and the maintenance of American trade and American standards of living as it is to the rights of the common man."
