SANFORD — Driving drunk can be hazardous to your health and the health of anyone around you on the road.

Slowed reactions, lowered concentration and impaired judgment can come with just a couple of drinks. Put someone in such a condition behind the wheel of a car and you're just asking for trouble.

Too often, however, teens mistakenly believe they are not succeptible to the same forces of nature that would sause one to be impaired when drunk behind the wheel.

This week, students at Lake Mary High School and Seminole High School had the opportunity to see what it was like to drive under the influence without ever touching a drop.

In a tour, sponsored locally by Metro Chrysler-Plymouth and Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), the Neon Drunk Driving Simulator weaved its way through the driver education courses at the two area schools.

Students got into the specially designed 1996 Dodge-Plymouth Neon and drove effortlessly through an obstacle course.

Forner was not on hand Thusday, however, similar urgings were presented by his wife Beth.

SANFORD — Students at Sanford Middle School want to get the most from their educational experience at the school and they are willing to work hard to get it.

Seeing the need for additional equipment and supplies in their classrooms, the student council devised a way to help raise the money needed to buy those things.

The students, under the leadership of Sue Ellen Duncan, will be hosting the Super-Thon walk-a-thon on January 29.

"The purpose of the Super-Thon is to raise the much-needed funds to purchase supplies and equipment for the school." Duncan said.

The students wanted a fund-raiser that would allow them to show their support for the school while allowing the community to offer financial assistance to a worthy cause, she said.

The students will walk and jog around the school's 200-yard track for one hour on the afternoon of the 29th, completting as many trips around as they can during that time period.

Canadian woman's depression

KISSIMMEE - A Canadian woman, who's depression surfaced in a suicide note that described life as a painful journey. had not been treated for clinical depression, a spokesman for the Osceola sheriff's office said.

A medical examiner ruled Friday that France Champagne, 43, took her own life with carbon monoxide poisoning. And the fumes from the car she used to commit suicide in the garage of a rental vacation home accidentally invaded the house and killed her husband and son.

The deaths of Jocelyn Vinette, 38, and Benoît Vinette, 14, were ruled as accidental manulaughter.

"it's really unfortunate. There's all sorts of ways to treat depression." said sheriff's spokesman Lt. July Rivers. He disclosed that the woman had not been under psychiatric care and had not taken medication to fight depression.

The note to her husband, in French, said in part: "I sak you one thing. Be happy. I leave you Benoit. He will be happy with you. Take good care. I say goodbye. For me, this journey is pain and I cannot go on."

The family's bodies were discovered Jan. 13, the day they were supposed to leave to return home to Laval, Quebec, a Montreal suburb.

Gator protection

TALLAHASSEE - You're safe 'til later, alligator.

That's the message from state wildiff officials who are temporarily withdrawing their suggestion that they might lift the status of special protection for the reptiles and make it open season on them.

A recent commission press release said the agency would consider removing the protected-species classification at its March 1 meeting in Tallahassee.

"Apparently, there was some miscommunication." said biologist Harry Dutton at the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission in Tallahasece.

Executive Director Alan Egbert, obviously upact with the announcement, tabled the item until the agency can come up with a standard procedure for removing species from the list of wildlife protected by one of three designations, Dutton said.

Those designations are: species of special concern. threatened and endangered. (Egbert) wants a policy document so we'll have a formalized procedure for doing this so there's no perception that we don't know what we're doing," Dutton said. The decision on gators isn't expected until later this year. Nevertheless, the commission does intend to go through with trying to take gators off the list, Dutton said. State biologists believe the protected status is no longer warranted, he said.

The alligator's status was downgraded from threatened to species of special concern in 1985 to allow controlled annual

Welcoming arts council

This afternoon, the recently formed Seminole Cultural Arts Council, Inc., will be having its first official reception at which the charter Board of Directors will be introduced.

An estimated 250 persons have been invited to the party being held in Altamonte Springs. They include government officials, and other persons who have been considered supporters of the arts.

We certainly wish them great success, for as every member of the group's Interim Board and the new Charter Board will admit, Seminole County has had a drastic lack of cultural opportunities.

It will be most interesting to watch the progress of this organization, and hear about its plans. Will what is considered as cultural arts be made available to everyone or just to those who could afford expensive tickets for admission to major presentations and/or productions?

We also will wonder what types of cultural arts they plan to pursue. The Interim Board took a poll of area business and community leaders to determine what they saw as the needs in Seminole County.

As we said when the poll began however, we hope the input the group received also came from John Doe and/or the man-in-you must behave in the extreme. This applies equally to journalists, as to any other profession.

One of the things that I do in preparation for writing this article is to review the editorials which grace the pages of our fellow publications both locally and nationally, in order to achieve a feel for the pulse of the industry.

In this review I have been amazed by one unique similarity, although there existed on January 14, 1996 a vast array of pundita, prognosticators, tellers of tall tales, and others who comprise the editorial branch of the media, they all seemed to share one singular trait. For the purposes of this column, we shall call it the chicken little syndrome.

it appears that whether from the pulpit, soapbox, television, stage, or other platform, for a surefire reaction, all you need to do is tell your audience that the sky is falling. From Rickey Lake to Dan Rather, even Jimmy Carter, it appeared that the universal response was that something was wrong with our society. To listen to these pundits we are either too liberal, too conservative, too self-centered, too fat, too divided, too irresponsible, too far from the Lord, or just not deserving of the blessings that we enjoy as Americans. Further our leaders are, either too liberal, too conservative, too selfcentered, too fat, too divided, too trresponsible, too greedy, too far from the Lord, or just not deserving of their leadership positions.

With all these individuals highlighting what is wrong with America, it is no wonder tht we as a society are confused and share a general sense of malaise. We are dissatisfied with everything, and want to blame everyone, with the exception of ourselves for this purported condition.

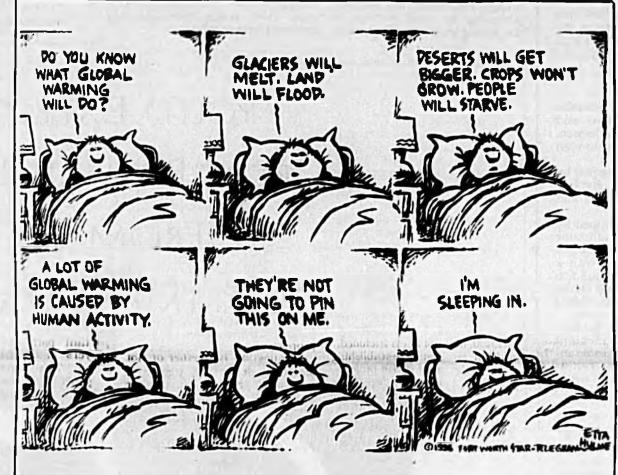

As I walked the streets of our community Monday afternoon, I was struck by what was right with our country. We live in a wonderful country and at a wonderful time. The present is full of challenges, but we are a young nation, which is strong and flexible enough, if we believe in ourselves to meet the challenges of the future. There is a lot right with us as Americans and we need not abandon that sense of liberty, and energy which makes this country unique.

Do not worry, next week I shall rejoin my fellow pundits, and continue to write about the things which affect our community, and the ferently, but believe me, as you read my columas remember, there to no other community or country that I would rather live in.

There is nothing wrong with being proud to be an American, and there is nothing inherently wrong with our society, which is unique to Americans. The difference between our American society, and others, is that we used to believe that we could fix those things which were wrong, and were willing to undertake the effort to do so, whether it was segregation, or rural electrification. We were known as a society that rolled up its siceves and worked on a problem. without regard to convenience, cost or comfort. We were a nation of can-doers.

I for one hope we never loose that element of Americanism which distinguishes us, because if we do we are really in trouble. I challenge the readers of this article to look at our community and see what is right, and then go out and make it better. For the American dream to grow we need to remain a society rising to a challenge, and not shrinking from R. ## Remembering Jessica

1 am a 16-year-old sophomore at Lake Mary High School who is an avid writer and on the school newspaper. The Rampage. A few months ago I wrote an article in the paper on the tragic death of a freshman, Jessica Denewith, who attended our school. She was brutally murdered around the same time the young girl from Lake Howell High shot herself in the stomach. My article was all about how our school as well as the press failed to give the young 15-year-old and her family the attention and sympathy they deserve. Instead, it went to the Lake Howell girl, Expeditas Reyes. If you read the article following this letter, you'll see

A few weeks ago I received a phone call from the mother of Jessica. She had just got ahold of the paper and read my article. She and her family were truly touched, so touched it made their Christmas. She asked me, as a wish, to see if I could get it published in a local newspaper. I had no idea that my article would get so many people's attention, for all the information in the article needed to be said. So please, consider this for your paper, it would mean so much to the girl's mother, family, and

P.S. Her murderer has still yet to be captured. The police have a prime suspect, but have still not caught him. Maybe the article

The girl who was brutally murdered? Of course. But did she? No. her death was mentioned on the morning announcements once, said in the same breath as " ... beat DeLand this Friday," by Principal Raymond Gaines.

Jessica Marie Denewith was a 15-year-old freshman who attended Lake Mary High School earlier in the year before she was reported missing in late August, having run away from home. On Oct. 24, Altamonte Springs police confirmed she was the young woman found dead in the trunk of a stolen car at an apartment complex.

What has brought today's society to not care about human life anymore? A young girl was gruesomely killed, and to be frank, not a whole lot of people cared. There were no huge headlines on her. No talk about her. Instead all of it went to that Lake Howell High School student, Expeditas Reyes, who is still alive and well. People can be so prejudiced against people because they are "run-aways." Just because she was a runaway wasn't a reason for her life to end. Jessica was still a person, and because it hit so close to home, people should care. "She was nice, very outgoing, and pretty much talked to everyone," said sophomore Tina Ferreira.

Tina met Jessica at Boystown awhile back and since then they had hung out and did things together. "All the school did was lower the flag for her and that's it. It made me a little angry, but I can't really get upaet about it."

A $1,000 reward from Crimeline is being offered for information leading to the arrest of Jessica's murderer. Police right now are seeking Terrell Carlton Glee, 23, whom she had dated, and who is a suspect in her murder. He has a history of drug and battery arrests in Orange County and is known to carry a handgun. Any information can be reported to Detective Bob Joanameyer at (407) 263-3706 or Crimeline at 423-TIPS.

Jessica's memory should carry on through the students of this school. Maybe since people know a little more about her now, a school "Built Around Success" will have more sympathy for an innocent 15-year-old who is not alive anymore. "People should learn from her death - don't hang out with people who are going to cause problems," said Tina.

It's great to be a Florida Gator

To say that the 1995 football season was bittersweet for me is a mild understatement. am a Cleveland Browns fan, and I am a die-hard University of Florida Gator football

When the Browns and Gators opned the season, it seemed like I would be enjoying the best of the NFL and college football worlds. After all, the Browns were tied for the lead in the American Pot division and the Gators were rolling along undefeated.

"Benedict" Art Modell (it seems appropriate that his first name really is Arthur) then slapped all Browns fans in the face by announcing he was moving the team to Baltimore. A talented team that was being picked by some experts to represent the AFC in the Super Bowl, went into a losing tailspin after the announcement.

The voters in Cleveland even approved a multi-million dollar tax proposal to renovate Cleveland Municipal Stadium, or possibly build a new one. So much for the fan loyalty and support which used to mean something to NFL owners. Now, it seems that when money talks, garbage walks.

So Modell was losing money, huh? Is that why he took out a $13 million dollar loan against the franchise to sign Andre Rison? Is that why he foolishly purchased Cleveland Stadium Corp., an organization that lost money when the Indians wisely moved to Jacobs Field? The bottom line is that Modell made some bad business moves, and now he wants Cleveland, Ohio to pay for them.

When you combine smart businessmen with saavy management, you get championship tearns like the Cleveland Indians. Bad businessmen with poor judgment produce losers, right Art?

The city of Cleveland deserves two things 1) an NFL team called the Cleveland Browns. which it has strongly supported through the worst of seasons. 2) To be rid of Art Modell. If that means getting an expansion team while Modell's team goes to Baltimore, that's fine as long as Modell leaves the Cleveland Browns nickname, colors, logo and history in Cleveland.

But while Modell was destroying my NFL dreams. Steve Spurrier and his Florida Gators were giving me plenty of reason to go on as a football fan. You may be sitting there saying "How about Nebraska"? Well, how about them. There was not a team in the country that could have stopped the Cornhuskers in the Fiesta Bowl. Only two division I-A college football teams won 12 games this season: Florida and Nebraska.

I said it in my pre-Fiesta Bowl column, and I will say it again now: It's great to be a Florida Gator. There were decisive victories over Auburn and Florida State, and a record-tying third straight SEC championship (fourth in the last five years). There was also the UF all-time best 12-0 regular season football record, and the Gators will be loaded with talent again next year.

What's the difference between Spurrier and Modell? Loyalty still means something to Spurrier. That was made apparent when the talented coach turned down an offer from the Tampa Bay Buccancers that anyone would have found hard to resist to stay in Gainesville.

Loyalty still means a lot to me and many other people. Go Florida Gators, go Cleveland Browns. And here's a sweet thought: Art Modell, Just go away.

Dems gather for look at future

By HEE PLONES
Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO - Misguided budget proposals by Newt Gingrich and other key Republicans have resulted in fatal self-inflicted wounds that will see President Clinton reelected in November, the Democratic Party chairman said Seturday.

Sen. Christopher Dodd of Connecticut, who heads the National Democratic Executive Committee, told Florida Democratic leaders at an upbeat gathering that the political climate has gone from bleak to sunny in the last six months.

"The environment has changed dramatically," Dodd said. "Mr. Gingrich has become the personification of the Republican-controlled Congress' seif-inflicted wounds. . . Ol' Newt did it to himself."

Contrary to speculation. members of the state party's central committee took no public action on the embarrassing issue of deceptive phone calls made during the re-election campaign of Gov. Lawton Chiles.

"There was a discussion Friday at one of the committee meetings," acknowledged Florida Democratic Chairwoman Terrie Brady. "But there was little or no negativism. There was no controversy whatsoever. Our party is very strongly organized and very unified, and we can agree to disagree on some things."

Ms. Brady said there had been no criticism of the role taken by Scott Falmien, the party's executive director, for the telephone calls that described Republican gubernatorial challenger Jeb Bush as a tax cheat and his running mate. Tom Feeney, as seeking to slash Medicare for the elderly.

"There was a concern more than objections," Ms. Brady said. "The major concerns will be addressed with legislation. . . so that misunderstandings and controversies don't come up again.

"There is full confidence in the leadership of this party," she added.

Falmien declined to comment on the issue directly.

Dodd said Clinton was targeting Florida as a state he can win.

Clinton came within 100,000 votes of winning this state in 1992. Dodd noted, with the difference being the votes garnered by Ross Perot.

Based on present surveys and polls, "If the election were held today, Democrats would gain back all the congressional seats we lost" in 1994, Dodd added.

"People have walked away from us. . . They said they were going to try something new. I think they've decided to give us a second look again now that they've had a good look at what the other crowd may offer. . . We have a long way to come back."

Earl Fox also came forward to comment on the situation. He said the problem was not one of nature, but was man-made, and done so deliberately. "Now we. as taxpayers, are going to have to pay to get it resolved," he Fox however, said the lake is not unusually high. "This is normal," he said, "but you allowed development to take place which is below what the normal water level is, and that is the problem.

He suggested the only way to resolve it was for the city to buy back all the affected homes, and either rebuild them or bulldoze them. "You are going to have to go to the people," he suggested. and be honest with them. Tell them you need money to do this, or the whole world is going to crush down on you.'

Others also addressed the flooding problem, which has been the subject of discussion for possibly a year or more.

The March of Dimes has proclaimed January as birth defects prevention month. They also hope to decrease infant mortality by increasing educational efforts in the community.

Many babies are born too small or too soon or with birth defects. There are several steps that can be taken to prevent those things from happening, the March of Dimes suggests. Those steps include:

•Get a medical check up before becoming pregnant. Have medical problems like infections, high blood pressure and diabetes diagnosed and treated before conception.

 Ask your health care provider about being immunized against rubella at least three months before conceiving.

Achieve ideal weight now. Pregnancy is no time to go on a diet. Know your family medical history, including any history of miscarriage or birth defects. • Adopt a healthy lifestyle: don't smoke, don't drink, don't take any non-prescription drugs while planning to concieve or during pregnancy.

 Avoid exposure to toxic chemicals and substances. For more information call the March of Dimes at (407)849-0790.

From stell reports

A comparison in hotel/motel occupancies for the month of December between 1994 and 1995 has recently been released by the Central Florida Hotel and Motel Association. Statistics were prepared by the Dick Pope Sr. Institute for Tourism Studies at the University of Central Florida.

Although questionnaires were sent out to practically all hotels and motels in Seminole, Orange and Osceola Counties, only 99 responded. They represent 35,805 rooms in all.

For Seminole County, only nine hotels/motels responded to the request for data. There was no increase in the number of units represented, but the average occupancy percent dropped from 62.84 percent in December of 1994 to 57.68 percent in 1995.

The average daily rate however was up from $60.28 per night in 1994 to $63.12 in 1995.

Building cited for safety violations

CHICAGO - Some residents could begin returning Tuesday to the 10-story apartment building where four people died in an early-morning fire that burned to 1,500 degrees and buckled steel beams.

The building was cited Friday for more than 30 new building code violations after residents complained that they had been pleading with the building's managers for years to repair non-working fire alarma.

The federally subsidized, 145-unit building is owned by a Los Angeles-based corporation that has changed managers several times, said City Council member Toni Preckwinkle.

The current manager is a company owned by Elzie Higgonbottom, a key member of Mayor Richard M. Daley's 1994 campaign finance committee.

Dozena of occupants and firefighters were injured as some residents tried to jump to safety Thursday from upper-story windows. One woman leaped to her death; the other victims were found in the building.

Brian Hurley, an attorney for the management company, said the managers hope to have the property reopened and upper floors reoccupied by Tuesday.

ARLINGTON, Texas - Friends, even some who didn't know her, filed past a blue casket to say their goodbyes to Amber Hagerman a week after she was yanked off her bike and whisked away by a man in a black pickup truck.

Four days after being abducted from the parking lot of an abandoned grocery, the 9-year-old Girl Scout's nude body was found in a mask. Initial autopay results indicate the died of cut. wounds to the neck.

Her funeral was scheduled for this afternoon at First United Methodist Church of Arlington.

At her wake Friday, dozene of mourners filed past the casket technical school as Amber's mother. As friends and family prepared to any goodbye to the brown-haired third-grader, investigators pursued leads from the area where Amber's body was discovered Wednesday by a man walking his dog. Her body was found in a rain-swollen creek outside an apartment complex about eight miles north of where she was abducted. Investigators believe the body was dumped upstream and washed north by strong thunderstorms.

Amber's parents saw the body on Thursday, said Jimmie Whitson, Amber's grandfather. "Donne got to hold her hand and kies her on the face and brush her hair." said Whitson. "She was a whole lot better after that."

Authorities were looking for a man in a black pickup truck. A witness saw him snatch the screaming Amber Saturday as she rode her bicycle.

FDA approves infant drug

WASHINGTON — A new drug may be ready for sale in two weeks to protect infants and toddlers from serious effects of certain respiratory viruses.

RespiGam, approved on Friday by the Food and Drug Administration, is made from the blood plasma of healthy people whose bodies harbor large numbers of immune system antibodies that fight Respiratory Syncytial Virus, or RSV.

RSV is the leading cause of pneumonia and other respiratory infections in infants, which hospitalize 90,000 children a year and kill 4,500 in the United States.

The virus spreads easily through coughing and sneezing. Premature infants and young children with chronic lung disease are most susceptible to it.

"This new preventive medication will give neonatologists and pediatricians, who normally despair when winter comes, an effective new tool to protect these at-risk children." said Dr. Jessie Groothuis of Children's Hospital in Denver.

RespiGam does not prevent children from getting the virus. which normally spreads from November through April, but the FDA said it can help protect high-risk children under age 2 from the most serious complications.

Fixing air traffic control system

WASHINGTON — Officials in charge of the nation's air traffic control system insist they are on track toward correcting problems that caused a dismaying series of outages last year.

But even as new power systems and technicians are on the scene, and other changes are under way, the most troublesome computers are only getting older and frailer, a senior official of the Federal Aviation Administration acknowledged.

FAA Associate Administrator Monte Belger reported Friday that an independent panel studying the air traffic control system generally has endorsed the agency's corrective efforts.

He insisted the complex system to handle the 39 million flights per year works 99.4 percent of the time. But at least in 1995, that 0.6 percent focused a lot of attention on the FAA:

Air traffic control centers went out of service at least 23 times. Beiger said new power supply systems have been installed in 15 of the 21 regional centers; controllers and technicians are getting more training on handling computer problems; 265 new maintenance technicians have been hired and new computers are to be installed. "The air traffic control system is safer today than it was last year, it is more efficient today than it was last year," he said.

The FAA announced Oct. 25 that it has ordered $87 million in backup electrical generators for its troubled centers for installation within five years. Last August, the agency said it would install new computers in five failure-plagued centers.

Clinton says third shutdown 'unbelievably irresponsible'

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSO Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - President Clinton told the Republican-led Congress Saturday that using the budget impasse as an excuse to shut down the government for the third time in two months would be "unbelievably irresponsible."

Congress would be equally wayward, Clinton said, if it refuses to increase the national debt limit, forcing the government into default and putting "the creditworthiness of the United States at risk."

"Don't shut the government down," Clinton said in his weekly radio address, taped Friday. "Don't make America default on its debt. My door is open. Let's talk."

Republican leaders say they want to avert another federal shutdown next week with a stopgap bill, but they are still trying to decide how to satisfy adamant House conservatives, Senate moderates and the president.

the GOP radio response, Rep. Bill Paxon, R-N.Y., kept up the party's criticism of the budget proposal Clinton has submitted. While the president now agrees the budget should be balanced in seven years, Paxon said, he has refused to make the policy changes the GOP de-

Paxon said Clinton's proposal remains based on "the same tired liberal answers that got us into this mess years ago. His plan is a quick fix that puts off the tough choices until well after the election. ... The president's budget supports Washington's old liberal spending ways."

Clinton put Republican leaders on notice in his own radio talk that if a partial shutdown does take place on Jan. 28 - for the third time since November - he will do all he can to make sure the GOP gets the blame. He urged Republican leaders to return to the voice."

Clinton also said he continues to believe the budget can be balanced in seven years without the kind of cuts that would devastate Medicare. Medicaid, the environment, and support for education.

"Two government shutdowns so far have cost taxpevers about a billion-and-a-half dollars." Clinton said. "That's not Monopoly money. Shutting down the government again would be unbelievably irresponsible."

A decision on legislation to avert a shutdown won't be made until rank-and-file Republicans meet on Tuesday. And conservatives might insist on slashing and even eliminating some programs the president values.

That would make a confrontation with Clinton likely — at a time when top Republicans have decided they have little to gain by prompting yet another partial federal shutdown. 'There's going to be some tense moments" before a bill keeping government open can be crafted, Rep. David Hobson, R-Ohio, a member of the House leadership, said Friday. "A lot of people feel this is time to stand for principle, not polls." With most lawmakers due to return to the Capitol from a winter recess next week, House leaders scheduled a leadership meeting for Monday and a gathering of House GOP lawmakers for Tuesday to decide what to do. Their thinking is also likely to be shaped in part by Clinton's State of the Union address Tuesday evening, which, if confrontational, could foretell a flerce fight over spending later in the week.

The GOP leadership wants to avert an immediate crisis by moving a bill through Congress on Thursday that Clinton would sign. Such a measure would once again temporarily provide funds for the nine Cabinet departments and dozens of agencies whose 1998 spending bills have not been signed into law.

House leaders decided Friday to recommend a bill that would run for 30 days and agencies at no less than 75 percent of last year's budgets, the same level now in effect. But rank-and-file Republican lawmakers might insist on pushing that level even lower.

Peace plan at risk over POW releases

SARAJEVO. Boania-Herzegovina - The architecta of the Bosnia peace agreement were staring at potentially serious cracks in the accord today after plans to free prisoners of war fell short.

But officials of the NATO-led force backing the accord indicated that the pact's other important Friday deadline had been largely met: the warring parties had moved back from most front lines to create 21/2-mile buffer zones.

The leader of NATO's rapid reaction forces in Bosnia, Britain's Lt. Gen. Sir Michael Walker, met today with military representatives from Bosnian Serbs, Bosnian Croats and the Muslim-led government to assess compliance to the withdrawal orders. But the POW impasse could dominate the closed-door session.

Less than a third of the 900 prisoners on an international Red Cross POW list were freed by the Friday deadline - the first big failure of the U.S.-brokered accord.

Grandma gets bouquet of thorns for her tacky wedding behavior

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a formal wedding where I witnessed something I thought was outrageous. When it came time for the bride to toss her bouquet, the bride's grandmother, who is well into her 70s, shoved the bridesmaids and young cousins of the bride aside and caught the bridal bouquet. Everyone was bewildered!

When it came time for the groom to toss the bride's garter, none of the young men tried to catch it, so it fell to the floor.

One young man was coaxed into picking it up and placing the garter on Grandma's leg. Obviously embarrassed, he put it on up to her knee when Grandma urged him to go higher until it reached her thigh. (Yes, she was sober.)

When one of the bridesmaids reminded Grandma that tossing the bouquet was a ritual intended for the young unmarried girls, Grandma shouted, "Well, I'm single!" Everyone applauded unforgettable frivolity to the wedding. (Are you sure Grandma was sober?)

DEAR ABBY: Unless you are willing to state unequivocally that the books and magazines you read and the movies you saw in your youth did not affect the way you conducted yourself, then your statement, "It's unrealistic to hold the media responsible for your daughter's morality —" is unrealistic.

When I was a teen-ager, the movies and what I read had some influence on my behavior toward others. Today we see raw sex on TV as early as 7.00 in the evening, and magazines on supermarket shelves devoted almost entirely to sex. I have seen sexual innuendoes on many TV shows to such a degree that it destroys their humor. I have heard more foul language in one Eddie Murphy movie than I heard in my several years in the Navy ashore and at sea. You cannot tell me that the language of the movies is not absorbed by teen-agers, resulting in unbelievable rudeness. And the sex scenes are going to reduce their inhibitions. There is no way that "Concerned in Chicago's" daughter can avoid seeing or reading all of this. When our children said, "But everyone else is ..." we could say, "You are not going to ..." with neutral or positive influence by the media. Now the movies and the printed word tell them that such conduct is all right. ALEX R. THOMAS, SAN ANTONIO

DEAR MR. THOMAS: It is the job of parents to supervise the exposure their impressionable children have to "the media" and to provide moral standards for them. Although the idea seems tempting, I am opposed to censorship. The family should provide the "filter" through which their children view society.

The love of baseball never dies

By DEAN SMITH Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD - It may have been cool and overcast for those watching, but for we players it was a warm, summer day in late April and we were all 17 again.

For three hours Saturday afternoon a group of 23 men were boys again as they took part in the annual Seminole High School alumni baseball game in front of a crowd of over 100 at the Seminole High School baseball complex.

While most of us have either some grey in our temples, a receding hair-line, or a little extra around the middle, we proved that you're never too old to compete and we all still love basebali.

And while we have either gone into softball or golf, or worse yet, become couch potatos, once a year we come out to show the young bucks that we still no how to play the game we grew up on and we still support our former school.

The game was exceptionally well played as the odd year graduates beat their even year foes 11-10 in a seven inning game.

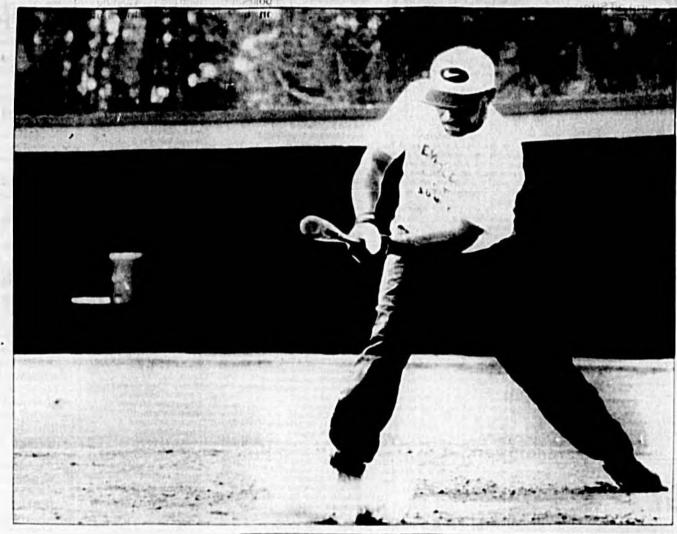

The event was in doubt to the very end as the even year grads scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to cut the score to 11-10 and had men on first and second with no one out.

But Seminole High School assistant principal Bobby Lundquist got three straight fly balls to SHS junior varsity baseball coach Larry Holbrook to end the game. Lundquist, a 1969 SHS graduate, hurled the final two innings to get the save in relief of Holbrook, a 1977 grad.

Young, relatively speaking, and old alike had good days as Lance Abney and Rod Turner, a pair of 1978 graduates, both hit home runs, and 1962 grad Mike Caolo Jr., 1968 graduate Bill Gracey and 1977 grad, and newest New York Yankee. Tim Raines had three hits each.

The even year grads took a 4-0 lead in the top of the first inning with the big hits bring a triple by George Porzig (1980) and the home run by Abney.

With the score 6-2 in the second See Alumni, Page 2B

The odd years team, led by Raines' three hits, nipped the even year graduates 11-10, in the seven-loning contest

Sportamen and other nature lovers call the WILDLIFE ALERT Hotline about 1,500 times a year to report wildlife law violations. Callers may be eligible for rewards and need not give their names or testify in court.

Since its creation in 1979, the WILDLIFE ALERT reward program has paid out $225,000, and the hotline has yielded 15,000 arrests. Individual rewards can run as high as $1,000. WILDLIFE ALERT is funded through tax-free contributions, and from fines levied against individuals found guilty of violating conservation

The fund is administered by a 13 member board appointed by the Game and Freshwater Pish Commission's executive director. To report wildlife law violators, concerned persons should call the nearest Game and Freshwater Fish Commission office. Regional listings for those offices are as follows: Panama City 1-800-342-1676, Lake City 1-800-342-8105, Ocala 1-800-342-8620, Lakeland 1-800-282-8002, and West Palm Beach 1-800-432-2046.

EXPERIENCED ANGLES LEARN TO FISH AROUND COLD FRONTS, NOT AGAINST THEM.

NOTHING SHUTS DOWN FISHING QUICKER THAN A SUDDEN DROP IN AIR TEMPERA-TURE. THE BEST FISHING OCCURS IM-MEDIATELY BEFORE A COLD FRONT, OR A COUPLE OF DAYS AFTER. WEATHER DURING THIS PERIOD OF TIME IS MORE STABLE, WHICH RESULTS IN FISH FEEDING AND MOVING ABOUT MORE FREELY. FISHING PORECAST

Another cold fron will hamper fishing slightly, but temperatures are forecasted to be moderate today. Expect fair bas action in the river, but high water will make locating bass difficult. Find areas of moving water around sandbars, creeks mouths, and openings of sloughs as base will likely be waiting in these areas to ambush bait-

Big flounder are still the main attraction at Sobustian injet. Fish in the 8-10 pound range are being caught on a daily basis by angiers bouncing finger mullet slowly across the rocky bottom. Small bluefish, redfish, jack crevalle and a few ledyfish are also biting on a regular basis.

Captain Jack at Port Canavoral reports fair offshore action when accompany to food extrines.

offshore action when seas persnit. Good eatches of grouper and king makers! have been made, along with a few dolphin and wahoo. A cold front this werkend will kick up some high seas, so good offshore action is unlikely until the middle of the week.

Inside the Port, expect flounder and sheepshead to be biting. Trout and redfish are scattered in the Banana and Indian rivers, as passing cold fronts have the fish moving back and forth from the flats to deeper water.

Huge sheepshead are providing fast action at the tip of the north jettles at Panas Inlet. They are hitting live shrimp or fiddler crabs. Small bluefish, drum, redfish, and a few small jack crevalle are also mixed in. Reds are reported roaming the flats of Mosquito Lagoen in vast schools.

California condor to be released in Arizona

Womack, 212.

By BILL SCHULZ Associated Press Writer

The giant California condor, once extinct in the wild, may fly over the Grand Canyon in a few years if the Fish and Wildlife Service has its way.

The Interior Department proposed this month that up to nine young California condors be released this spring in Vermilion Cliffs, about 30 miles north of the canyon in northern Arizona.

"It's part of a larger goal to re-establish condors throughout their historic range. It gives us another population should a natural disaster occur in southern California." said Robert Mesta. condor program coordinator for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

o would provide a second chance for birds that didn't do well when released in southern California because "Arizona is much more remote," he said.

The department is accepting public comment on the proposal. "There's a much bigger story here than the possible release of condors into their historic range in Arizona," said Nancy Kaufman, director of the Fish and Wildlife Service's Southwest Region, headquartered in Albuquerque, N.M. "That's the Endangered Species Act and how it has worked to prevent the condor from slipping into extinction long ago; and how it now provides a way of restoring balance to ecosystems that have lost some of their vital elements."

If the plan is approved, the birds released within a few months would be the first of many. Annual releases would continue until a selfsustaining population of wild birds is established in Arizona.

"The ultimate goal is to establish a population out there of 150 individuals that contain at least 15 breeding pairs and that are self-sustaining Mesta said by telephone from his southern California office. "That's a tall order. Realistically. the environment will tell us how many it will support based on the prey base. We want a self-sustaining population out there whether it is 15 pairs or 20 pairs or 50 pairs.

"They don't start breeding until 5 years of age: it probably will be five to 10 years that we learn how well they're adapting."

The giant birds which can weigh 25 pounds and have a wingspan of 915 feet once roamed over much of the United States. They developed a bad reputation because they feed on carcasses of other animals. Condors were last seen in Arizona in 1924. when a bird was reported feeding with golden eagles near Williams. A relic of the ice age, the condor was the target of indiscriminate shooting and poisoning, as well as habitat loss. The bird made its last stand in the mountains of southern California.

In a program that drew barah criticism from some conservation groups, the FWS began a capture program and the last of 27 wild birds went to a breeding facility in 1987.

Today there are 103 of the birds - 13 living free in and around Los Padres National Forest in Southern California. The rest are in captivebreeding facilities in Los Angeles: Boise, Idaho: and Escondido, Calif.

There are 16 breeding pairs among the captive

There are 16 breeding pairs among the captive birds and they produce about 20 chicks a year, Releases in southern California begins in 1991 and 27 birds have been released. More than half have died or been returned to cages. Four died when they flew into power lines and one drank

The remaining 13 are found in the Lion Canyon area of Santa Barbara County.

The service hopes that because northwest Arisona is far less developed than southern California, birds will not face human obstacles in their daily lives.

Biologists expect to provide calf carcasses for the newly released birds so they will have a source of uncontaminated food. Eventually, the condors will disperse beyond the Vermilion Cliffs area, and, the service hopes, some may find their way to the Grand Canyon so the millions of visitors there can see the huge birds that once flew over most of a continent.

Kids' exercise for cholesterol only good if they lose weight

By IRA DREYPUSS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Getting kids to do aerobic exercise will help prevent cholesterol problems, but only if the exercise makes them lose weight, a study indicates. Fit children had better cholesterol levels than did unfit children, said the researchers at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah. But the unfit children also weighed more, and the fit kids' edge in cholesterol disappeared once researchers statistically took the weight differences into account, said the study in the American Journal of Public Health. The findings help to clarify the role that exercise plays in cholesterol control, researcher Larry A. Tucker said.

carrying," he said. "When they are physically active, they tend to be lean."

The researchers studied 162 boys and 100 girls, ages 9 and 10. The children's parents filled out a questionnaire to tell how much fat was in their kids' diets.

The researchers tested the kids' time on a one-mile walkrun. Using calipers, the scientists measured how much fat the children had at the abdomen, arm and calf.

The kids also gave blood for cholesterol testing. Although cholesterol is rarely a major risk factor for children, other researchers have found young people with elevated cholesterol levels tend to mature into adults with cholesterol problems. "Children don't die of heart

Meals on Wheels aired for AARP

How can someone with money to spare be allowed to eat for free at congregate meal sites? That was just one of the questions Lake Mary AARP member asked Jeanne McKee from the Meals on Wheels program. The problem, Jeanne responded, to the way the law is worded. To have meals delivered to you home, you have to pass certain re-quirements. Social workers can look into your situation all they want. However, the law establishing congregate meal sites is worded differently. A social worker can ask you if your income is below a certain amount and they must trust whatever answer you give. Even if you're dripping with diamonds, they cannot ask for proof of your income or investigate it. That would be illegal and cause them to lose their funding. Despite minor glitches like this, the Meals on Wheels program is doing a remarkable job providing meals for those who cannot afford it, or in some cases, just cannot get to it.
That's why Jeanne McKee was on hand, not just to tell AARP members about the program, but to accept a check from the Lake Mary AARP for the program. The money donated was raised by various AARP fund raisers last year. The January meeting was also about appreciation. Ruth Dresser and AARP President Norma Smith presented scrolls of appreciation to AARP members who have gone above and beyond the call of duty volunteering their time for the AARP. Scrolls went to Addie Rossi, Margaret Carmona, James Carmona, Dee Buckland, Clair Schnaire, Mary Wolfe, Paulee Stevens, Wilbur Simms, John Sherman and Tom

In other news, the AARP has several trips planned for the upcoming months. For those who like to roll the dice, Casino Biloxi is the way to go. Three more trips are planned for January (one lest today). Two 2-night trips are scheduled for Jan. 24 and Jan. 26. The cost is just $129 plus an air tax of $23 and includes 3 buffet meals, hotel, and air fare from the Sanford Airport. One 3-night trip is scheduled for Jan. 28 for the same price.

If you love a mystery, join the AARP for a trip to the Sleuth's Mystery Theater and Dinner Show, Feb. 7. The bus will depart at 10:45 a.m. from the Sanford Civic Center for a luncheon performance of "Squires Inn." The price is $37.50 and reservations are due now.

Another day trip is planned for the Mark Two Dinner Theater on Saturday, March 30 for a performance of "The Bells Are Ringing." The cost is just $33.50 and includes the show, dinner, bus transportation and gratuities.

Also in March, the AARP has planned a trip to Myrtle Beach, Florida's answer to Branson. The 4-day, 3-night trip will include visits to Brookgreen Gardens, the American Pride Show, the Gatlin Brothers Theater, Magic on Ice, Rich Little and Jeanette Markey at the Circle Theater and shopping at the new Broadway at the beach. The cost is $365 per person, double occupancy and $435 per person, single occupancy. The price includes the above mentioned visits as well as motorcoach transportation, 3 nights' accommodations, all breakfasts and dinners, and

If you are interested in any of these trips, space is limited, so call B.J. Swain at 330-7490 to reserve your space. B.J. arranges these trips through her travel agency Cruise World. She does this as a service to AARP and makes no money on any of the AARP trips.

Hobbyist of the Week

Eddle Hughes shows some of the items in his carving collection.

Deputy whittles while he works at his carving

By SUSAM WEN Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Eddie Hughes has found a way to whistle and whittle while he works. His hobby has spanned several decades and only improved with

Since the age of 10 or 12 Hughes picked up the art of whittling. According to Hughes. for some 10 years he left his love dormant but now he has taken it up again with new zeal and

From his beginnings with a tiki head out of red cedar to carving knives, guns and animal figures. Hughes has progressed to one treasure about which he spoke.

"I made the life-size body of a woman out of cedar," he said. "I took a cedar log and worked with it for some time. I'd get a kick out of the people that would pass my garage and see me working on it. I guess they had to take a double take to see if it was real."

always been at the top of the list carve something and someone for projects. Now, favorites are cowboys, hunting hounds with racoons, hillbillies and wood sculptures.

Works of wood ranging from one Inch, 2 to 4 feet to his lifesize projects all express Hughes' talent. Several hundred hours were spent on life-size endeavors but as little as a few miniutes can form creative pieces.

Woods such as basswood, red cedar, butternut and some black walnut all include the many woods Hughes has used for whittling and carving. "Black walnut is harder to work with," he said. He does have one brand of tool he prefers. "I use the Warren brand," he said. "I like the wooden handles and the blades are interchangeable. They are a special order item from the catalogue."

For future projects. Hughes admitted he would like to carve a giant tortoise. He acknowledged that relaxation is the key to keeping his interest fucled.

Gifts for family and friends has "It's gratifying." he said. "If you wants it. It makes you feel good. It's great theraphy.

His love of turtles is shown by being the founder and former president of the Turtle and Tortoise Club of Florida, Inc. Hughes is also an 8-year member of the Central Florida Herpeological Society and is serving his second term as vice president.

Hughes is employed as a deputy with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office assigned to the Circuit Court 78, Judicial Division at the Seminole County Courthouse. He was formerly employed with the Sanford Police Department for 11 years.

He and his wife of seven years. Martha, live in Sanford. Hughes has one child, Eddie Hughes Jr.

Fishing for tricks

By Phillip Alder

mouthful of words.

Did you see that amazing program on the Discovery Channel about the Chinese fellow who trains cormorants to fish? There seems to be no end to the imagination of the human mind. In bridge, a little imagination can go

It was an exciting auction that be-gan with a strong, artificial and forc-ing two clubs. North was happy to sacrifice in four spades over four hearts. South wasn't going to sell out below five apades after receiving support. And West decided - incorrectly that enough was enough.

West led the heart king. When the dummy appeared. South saw that five hearts was probably one down. West losing one diamond and either two spades or one spade and one club.

ROBOTMAN®

And as the defense would be easy, South decided he would play to make five spades doubled.

West was marked with the club ace from his opening bid. And after losing a club trick, surely West would switch to a diamond. So, if South had two club losers, he would go down. Could South hold his club losers to one? Yes, there was a single chance. After ruffing the opening lead, South Immediately led the club two from hand.

Lo and behold, the ace was fished out. South won West's diamond-king switch with dummy's ace, cashed the spade king, played a spade to his ace and when spades broke 2-2, claimed, saying that he would ruff the clubs good. He lost one trick in each minor.

Lucky, yes, but if West had ace-doubleton of clubs, the contract was always going down.
