SANFORD - Planes scheduled to be featured in this weekend's Airshow Orlando at the Central Florida Regional Airport are expected to begin arriving by tomorrow.

Airshow officials say the U.S. Navy Blue Angels will be landing at approximately noon tomorrow. At 1 p.m., they are scheduled to take to the air once again and make their famous approach loops, circles and exhibitions which have been a tradition in inaugurating their arrival for an air show.

At 11 a.m. tomorrow, Fat Albert is scheduled to arrive in Sanford. The plane is one of the largest military cargo afreraft in use.

Other aircraft including World War II era military planes and stunt aircraft will be arriving during the next few days.

The gates at the airport will open at 8 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday, with the air show activities to begin at noon.

Restaurants approved, but ...

SANFORD - The Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission approved conditional use permits for two new restaurants. Ruby Tuesday's and Mozzarella's are to be located at Seminole Towne Center Mall. P&Z approved the actions during a March 2 meeting, but they needed further approval by the Sanford City Commission. Both considerations were presented to the commission Monday night, and they were both approved with one exception.

The requests had called for the sale of alcoholic beverages, Class 3-Special registration for both restaurants. They had applied for an 11 a.m. opening on Sundays. City codes however. prohibit opening such establishments before noon on Sundays.

Both requests were approved by unanimous votes from the commission, but with the stipulation that openings Sundays will be at noon. Commissioners indicated to allow any earlier opening would not be fair to other establishments which are also required not to sell alcoholic beverages until noon.

Fire cause revealed

LONGWOOD - Seminole County Fire Inspectors have determined the fire at 1079 Miller Drive in Longwood Monday night, was caused by a chemical reaction. The two alarm fire damaged the MKB Industries building, a furniture manufacturing company.

Memories of school

Georgetown is one of the historic black neighborhoods in Seminole County. At the heart of that community was a school that is now the Margaret K. Reynolds Annex-Seminole County Public School's Student Museum. Last week, families came from near and far to see the school and learn a little about the neighborhood surrounding it. Above, Fred Jones and his family took a look at the school that he attended in the fourth grade. Jones pointed out a picture of Mr. Higginbothan, who had been principal of the school in 1953, to his wife Leona and his daughters Allcia and Jennifer. Retired educator Ruth Hamilton, who taught for many years in the school district, shared her memories of the neighborhood and the school, with the assembled crowd. Below, Hamilton and Malme Bingham, principal at Hamilton Elementary, and fourth graders Sarah Jones and Karen Hickley shared some memories and learned some history.

SANFORD - If at first you don't succeed, submit more data. That was the message given developers of a controversial mall project which has pitted city against city, spawned lawsuits and drawn the wrath of area homeowners who fear their quality of life and property values will be hurt if the regional mall near Oviedo is approved.

After a five-hour hearing Tuesday night where the pros and cons of the 1.2 million square foot regional mall between Oviedo and Winter Springs were discussed, the Seminole Board of County Commissioners ask for specific traffle projections and continued discussion of the project until Bec Mail, Page 5A

FORT LAUDERDALE — A fugitive wanted in Italy on charges of tax evasion and falsely declaring bankruptcy was arrested after he tried to bound across the roof of his house to escape, the FBI said.

Giovanni Arnaboldi, 41, was turned over to the U.S. Marshais Service Tuesday. He was to be held at the Metropolitan Correction Center in Dade County until an extradition hearing. Arnaboldi had lived in Fort Lauderdale for a year and operated a travel agency, the FBI said in a statement.

Arnaboldi was a co-administrator and partner in an offshore racing team called SRL MGP, according to Italian authorities. He is accused of concealing or destroying the company's account books to evade taxes and obtain an improper tax reimbursement in Italy.

The fugitive also was chairman of the board and later a partner of Gruppo Pubblicitari Associati, a company which acted as an advertising agency for the team, Italian authorities

Downtown burglaries

Several business owners discovered their stores had been burglarized early Bunday morning. In each of three separate incidents, an object was reportedly used to smash open the glass at the front of the businesses. Police also indicated that cash registers had been opened, but in all cases, no money was in the registers, and the burglars apparently took nothing else.

The businesses were located in the 200 block of E.

Commercial Avenue and the 200 block of E. First Street in the downtown Sanford area. The third burglary was reported at a business in the 1800 block of French Avenue.

Sheriff's deputies arrested Willie Lee Campbell, 23, of 5401 Dunbar Street, Sanford, following a reported burglary Sunday at a residence in the 2500 block of Narcissus Avenue. Two black men reportedly had burglarized the home and fled on bikes. One officer reportedly saw two men on bikes approximately one block away, and the arrest report said when the officer told the men to hait, they fled. One of the men, later determined to be Campbell, was said to be carrying a firearm.

Following a foot pursuit, Campbell was located at Persimmon Avenue and Eighth Street. He has been charged with armed burglary to an occupied dwelling, aggravated assault on a law enforcement officer, carrying a concealed firearm, and resisting What's in a name?

There are suggestions being made to have the name of Sanford's airport changed. Since it ceased operations as the Sanford Naval Air Station (SNAS) many years ago, it has been known as the Central Florida Regional Airport.

One of the most prominent new names which has been discussed is the Sanford/Orlando atrport.

We don't like it. We don't like anything which takes away what rightly is the city's. We objected when the airshow being held annually in Sanford was called "Airshow

On the other hand, there was no qualm about calling a certain recreation facility "Sanford/Orlando Kennel Club." It was located midway between the two cities, and the name seemed to be appropriate.

But adding the name Orlando to Sanford's airport seems to be diluting the name of one of the city's finest facilities.

Yet, perhaps it's time to accede to this latest suggestion.

Why is the airshow called "Airshow Orlando?" Because promoters say it helps in publicity and promotion which extends well beyond Seminole or Orange County limits. "More people know where Orlando is than were Sanford is," they said several years ago.

Regarding the airport's name, perhaps the airshow people have a point. Someone flying in from Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago or Dallas probably wouldn't have any idea where Sanford is located in reference to Orlando. It may be in the panhandle or in the Keys for all they know. They may not want to take a chance on a flight to Sanford.

Yet, if both names are used, they will soon learn that Sanford is near Orlando, and as a result, they may not hesitate to fly in.

It could be an aviation boon to the area.

Let's face facts. Sanford is not a big city. It isn't known nationwide for any particular reason. It's a great city but there are larger zoos in the nation, more antique stores in other areas, larger malls, and yes, at certain locations, even prettier scenery.

Of what then, can Sanford brag to establish a nationwide identity?

Sanford can perhaps boast that it is close to Orlando, yet out of the congestion of the big city, and has a calmer, smoother lifestyle. But unless the name becomes better known, especially in regard to location, few people across the nation will even care.

We dislike having the names connected because it appears Sanford is losing some of it's singularity. Yet perhaps this will prove to be a good move.

Let's try it. We could always change the name again in the future.

LETTER

DUI problem

It is sad but true to note that our laws covering DUI offenses in this state have failed. I was told a few months ago by a supervisor with FHP, that 52 percent of all drivers on the road in Florida are driving without a valid license. Granted not all of these result from DUI offenses. It boggles the mind to think how many people that involves. We haven't got enough jails in the entire state to accommodate these people. The loss of revenue alone from these people just not renewing their licenses must be considerable.

For people to really believe that yanking a person's license is going to stop them from driving is the epitome of ignorance. People have to face the fact that we live in a mobile society and in an era when people don't live close to work or shopping as a rule. As long as there are automobiles and gas, people are going to drive with or without a license. The idea that is being floated now is that the state will steal people's ears for a third offense. This isn't going to work either. Most people finance their vehicles from banks, which at least makes banks co-owners. Not to mention that married couples are usually joint owners of these vehicles. There has got to be a better way to handle this issue without creating more problems that this law would produce.

I do not have an answer as to what should be done with these people, but I do know that what is being done has not worked. As long as laws are passed to accommodate the emotional aftermath of these tragedies we will never be on the right road to curing this problem. There is a reason why God allows these things to happen which oftentimes we are not privileged to know. And in my heart I always say a silent prayer that I never have to face such a situation. For I know that I, too, would be just as vindictive as those who have gone through such an ordeal. All I will be able to do in such an instance is to look to God for strength, for I know from past experience that I have been driven to my knees many times because there was no place else to go.

With flat tax, only accountants lose

House Republicans are putting the finishing touches on a $189 billion tax relief package that dishes out goodies to families, seniors and businesses

The smorgasbord includes a $500 per child tax credit, a capital gains tax cut, a deduction for losses in home sales, more generous treatment of individual retirement accounts and a reduction of taxes on Social Security benefits.

Normally, yours truly would be wildly enthusiastic about the prospect of tax cuts. But not this time around. Methinks It well and good to reduce the tax burden for certain classes of taxpayers, but vastly preferable to simplify the tax code for everybody.

The obvious way to do this is with a "flat tax" for both individuals and businesses. A recent Time/CNN poll indicates that 62 percent of Americans favor such a change in the tax system, while only 28 percent are opposed. On Capitol Hill, a flat-tax plan has been put In-play by House Majority Leader Dick Armey, the Texas Republican. On the other side of the aisle, House Minority Leader Dick Gephardt of Missouri is expected this spring to weigh in with a slightly less-than-flat tax plan of his own.

If either of the two Dicks were to ask me, this is how I would transform the most complex tax system in the world into the most simple:

First, get rid of all the various and assorted federal taxes, with their multiple rates. In favor of a solitary flat tax at a single rate of somewhere between 10 percent and 20 percent (whatever would yield the current level of revenues for the federal treasury). Then, eliminate the plethora of tax deductions, credits, exemptions and exclusions for individuals and bustnesses

What this means is that there no longer would be five different individual in come tax rates and eight different corporate rates. And the federal government no longer would collect Social Scenrity taxes, capital gains

Is with a "flat tax" for both individuals and

taxes, fuel taxes and excise taxes. Instead, all individuals above the poverty line would pay Uncle Sam, say, 15 percent of their gross income. And businesses would pay the same flat rate on net income frevenue less expenses). This new - and much improved - tax system would be so easy to figure out, even those of us who are merely college graduates could do our own taxes.

As it is now, the federal tax code is unintelligible to 99.9 percent of the nation's 114 million taxpayers. That's because it's contained in a monstrous volume that's four Inches thick. 4,000 pages and 5.6 million words.

So most Americans don't even bother to fill out their own 1040s. They leave this intricate task to accountants and tax lawyers, who rake in $20 billion a year to tell taxpayers how much they owe Uncle Sam.

And even the so-called tax professionals often make mistakes when calculating an individual's tax bill. That's why every president from Richard Nixon to Bill Clinton has been forced to pay the Internal Revenue Service back taxes.

A flat tax can stop the madness. With a straight 15 percent rate (and, again, no deductions), everyone can figure out their own taxes without the aid of a supercomputer.

Show was rigged for disaster

No one knows exactly why Scott Amedure decided to go courting on the Jenny Jones Show. Why does anyone go on these shows, baring their heart's desires and their life's disappointments to strangers?

"He led a troubled life" says his brother Frank. Last year, some men had beat him and smashed his truck. Once he was missing for two months. But for whatever reason, On March 6, he decided to expose himself as the "secret admirer" of Jonathan Schmitz.

Maybe Amedure thought that the spotlight would provide a warm glow of safety. Maybe the applause of a studio audience, the recognition of viewers, would provide an understanding venue. Maybe he just thought it would be fun.

Jonathan Schmitz apparently went into this event unaware. He went for the kick of it. For the trip to Chleago, for the chance to be on TV, for the harmless joke of being on a show about secret admirers. Why not?

When he saw his friend Donna Riley in the studio he assumed that she was the one. When It turned out to be Amedure, the 24-year-old Schmitz sat politely and said that he was heterosexual and not interested.

In the ctiquette of talk shows, the guest is supposed to go along with the joke, to be the life of the surprise party. He doesn't tell them to take the candid camera out of his face. He is a good sport. But three days later, Jonathan Schmitz snapped. Whether it was homophobia or humiliation.

the anxiety of waiting for the show to air or the follow-up note from Amedure on his door, the Michigan man bought a 12-gauge shotgun and five rounds of ammunition. "I just walked into his house and killed him," he told the 911 operator. "He was after me day and night."

This murder sounds like a perverse subject for another talk show shocker: "Can A Talk Show Be An Accessory To Murder?" Or: 'What Happens To The People After The Show Is Over?" But the shock is that It didn't happen

Back in 1992, Geraldo once had a father and daughter on his show talking about their incestuous relationship. Later the father kept calling up and telling the staff that he was thinking about killing his daughter.

Since then, trash TV has expanded enough to turn the daytime schedule into a waste site. of abnormality and amorality. Guests arrive, carrying their ex-husbands and excess baggage, their pathos and their problems. Then they are summarily disposed of.

We never know what happened to the 12-year-old star of a Gordon Elliott Show entitled, "My Child is Underaged and Oversexed." Or what happened after the reunion staged by Sally Jessy Raphael between four daughters and the father who deserted them

For that matter, what happened to the wife and the "other woman" who met on a Ricki Lake show? And does the gay guest in an earlier Rickt Lake show - "Surprise! I Want to Sleep With You" - rest easily these days?

If talk shows were old-time carnivals, the ringmasters would have some understanding of their performers, some obligation to their ongoing side show.

But in a world of revolving guests, the talks show's "guests" are temps. one-night stands sent back to live their lives as best they can. Jenny Jones didn't put the shotgun against Scott Amedure's chest. She is a former stand-up comic and before this murder. she worried about her guests: "What do we do with the feelings that come up?" But every host. producer, booker. knows that when you deal in surprise.

In the etiquette of talk shows, the guest is supposed to go along with the joke. 🖷 shame, embarrassment, you may also get rage. When you push people's emotional buttons, someone will eventually explode.

Last fall, Oprah did a two-part show called "Are Talk Shows Bad?" At the end of it, she swore off trash as if it were a fat gram and watched her ratings slide. Ricki Lake and Jenny Jones climbed within a rung or two. But Oprah knew best.

Talk shows in the 1990s are like quiz shows in the 1950s. The old quiz shows tricked viewers into believing they were witnessing the real thing, brains in action. The new talk shows trick viewers into believing they are watching real emotions in action. They trick guests with the belief that life and its problems can be resolved in one public hour.

Jenny Jones never knew Scott Amedure's history of Jonathan Schmitz' breaking point. The TV match made between a "secret admirer" and the unwilling, unsuspecting, object of his affection was as rigged as any quiz

It was rigged against real life. Rigged to treat emotions like entertainment. Rigged to deal with the feelings of strangers, casually, between commercials, with an eye on sweeps week. And now with this gruesome murder, we know that the show was also rigged for disaster.

Cohen sees tough choices ahead

WASHINGTON - Sen. William Cohen. R-Maine, is a calm and cerebral politician who subscribes to the out-of-fashion notion that "anger blows out the lamp of the mind."

Not much light was left flickering after Cohen was confronted by a group of Maine's senior citizen leaders livid over his refusal to "exempt" Social Security from the proposed balanced budget amendment. During a GOP leadership meeting. Cohen urged colleagues to undertake entitlement reform and deficit reduction in the coming months, mindful of the political realities.

'Just be prepared for it folks because it's not going to be easy out there." Cohen related. When you're rushing to pass the Contract With Not much light America' it's not going to be accepted as you might think. veterans programs or robbing seniors programs to achieve that goal.'

Cohen voted for the balanced budget amendment but against a proposed law that would have exempted Social Security from the consequences of the amendment. Cohen and others who opposed the ultimately defeated law were charged with colluding to use hundreds of billions of dollars of Social Security payroll taxes to balance the budget.

It's a myth that the $70 billion surplus that will be collected this year by the Social Security Administration sits in some safety-deposit box, waiting for the baby boomers to retire. Should the money be invested in U.S. Treasury bonds or in Mexican pesos? This is the question Cohen put to skeptical voters. Social Security doesn't operate like an ironclad trust fund, and hasn't for a long time.

The balanced budget amendment was shot down largely because Republicans failed to dispel the impression they were mounting a sneak-attack on America's nest egg. But there was never much surprise that Democrats would seize this weapon.

One Republican senator recalls spirited strategy debate in which some senators warned of the need to "neutralize" Social Security before it sunk the balanced budget amendment. One option under consideration by Republicans was to accept some amendment giving lip-service to Social Security "exemption," which would be watered down later in a House-Senate conference commit-

"We gave the (Democrats) perfect cover," recalls one Republican senator, who pointed to polls showing support for the balanced budget amendment evaporating once Social Security was interjected. "It was like watching a train wreck.

The financial train wreck won't occur until around 2013, when the black ink turns into red ink for the Social Security trust fund. More people will be retiring than are working. and the system will go bankrupt unless there

Although Social Security was a red-herring in the balanced budget debate. Cohen pleaded with leaders from seniors organizations, including the American Association of Retired Persons, to dwell on the demographics and tough choices ahead.

'It was not accepted by that group, and if it was not accepted by the advocates it won't be accepted by the general constituency," Cohen says. "I think unless we deal with entitlements we have no hope of balancing the budget — ever."

House on fire

Sanford and Seminole County fire fighters responded to a house fire Tuesday, at the southwest corner of 13th Street and Sanford Avenue. A young boy reportedly had a slight burn, but no serious injuries were reported. As of this morning, fire inspectors had not revealed the cause of the blaze.

County commission Chairman Randy Morris lightened the mood Tuesday night by passing out hard hats to fellow commissioners before beginning the public hearing on the controversial April 25. The meeting adjourned at 1:30 a.m. this morning.

Representatives of the developer, The Rouse Company, told the overflow crowd in the county commission chambers the mall will bring jobs. broaden the tax base, provide convenient shopping and medical services in an ambulatory care center proposed by Winter Park Hospital. The Viera Company (A. Duda) owns the land being developed.

The BCC by a 3-2 vote decided not to send the change of the county's land plan to the Department of Community Affairs (DCA) in Tallahassee, for review, which is the next step in the review process. In order for the development to occur, the county must amend the comprehensive plan by approving a substantial deviation to the final master plan.

Attorney Hal Kantor, who represents the developer, praised the project as a good example of joint planning with agreement between Oyledo and Winter Springs. Tom Ross, an attorney for Tuscawilla asked the commission to delay action until a judge rules on a homeowners' lawsuit which challenges the use of a designated conservation easement put in place in 1989 by the county commissioners as an access route to the mall. Winter Springs officials agreed to use of the easement after a $1 million payment from the developer.

Ross chided Winter Springs officials struck a deal for the easement in the middle of the night after the payment was offered. Kantor said the agreement was reached during a public meeting and was not underhanded as his fellow attorney

The mall has received approvals from Winter

Springs. Oviedo and the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council.

Oviedo and Winter Springs officials attended the hearing lending their support to the project. Oviedo plans to annex the mail property. Many residents of Tuscawilla and Chelsea Woods opposed the mail fearing cut through traffic.

Commissioners Pat Warren and Dick Van Der Welde wanted the DCA review while Commissioners Daryl McLain. Win Adams and chairman Randy Morris wanted more specific traffic projections and alternative access to the proposed development before putting their stamp of approval on the project. After review by the state, the proposal would have come back before the commissioners in May.

Although the trio said they favor the mall, the traffic concerns have to be addressed before the plan is submitted to the state, they added. The commissioners requested traffic projections for at least 10 years into the future targeting specific malls not using national averages. The property in question is in Warren's district.

"What you are hearing are five people (county commissioners) who support the mall," Warren explained after the majority voted not to send the plan to Tallahassee, "but we are trying to deal with the details, the finite points."

'We are looking for better information," Morris The Viera Company owns the 435-acre parcel

In other business, the commissioners also dented the rezoning of 64 acres on Hester Avenue south of Myrtle Street from agriculture to planned unit development for affordable housing. Suda, Inc. proposed to build affordable housing from the $60,000 to $100,000 price range.

Commissioners expressed vard was being used more and more as a throughway for people driving between U.S. Highway 17-92 to the west of Sanford, and coming in from Celery Avenue and Mellonville in the east.

Although Mayor Bettye Smith acknowledged that the flowthrough traffic helped alleviate what could produce traffic jams on First Street in the downtown area, Commissioner Lon Howell urged the commission to lower the speed limit even more to force even fewer people to use the boulevard.

Howell's proposal, however, failed to gain sufficient support.

Term limits debate forced

WASHINGTON - House Republicans forced a historic floor debate today on whether the Constitution should limit terms in Congress. They expected to fall and prepared to blame

The first-ever House vote on term limits, scheduled for tonight, also was turning into a major defeat for the Republican majority that took control in January. On the eve of the landmark vote, supporters were well short of the two-thirds majority - 290 votes - needed to pass a constitutional amendment, but they hoped to score political points for airing the popular cause.

"Passage is far from certain. But the mere fact that we are having this debate ... suggests just how much change really has taken place at the United States Capitol." Rep. Porter Goss. R-Fla., said Tuesday.

Pass or fail. Goss said, "we will establish some clear accountability and our constituents. I know, will appreciate

Federal regulations

WASHINGTON - The Senate is rejecting a sweeping. House-passed moratorium on new federal regulations in favor of a compromise plan to block excessive rules on a case-by-case

After two days of debate, senators were preparing today to approve legislation that stalls the House GOP's drive to put the brakes on thousands of federal regulations as part of its "Contract With America." The Senate was opting instead for a weaker proposal that would allow Congress to block individual rules and standards it considers onerous.

The Senate action represents another setback for the House, which last month by a 276-146 vote approved a far-reaching. one-year freeze on thousands of federal regulations. The aim. said freeze supporters, was to stop federal bureaucrats in place while Congress enacts broader regulatory reforms.

But the Senate seems to have little taste for such a dramatic

Newt asks for air time

WASHINGTON - Seeking a prerogative normally reserved for presidents. House Speaker Newt Gingrich is asking television networks to air a prime-time speech next week laying out a program to follow the "Contract With America."

The initial reaction from the networks was noncommittal. with CBS and ABC saying they would decide at a later date, and NBC and CNN declining comment Tuesday night.

But an aide for House Democratic leader Dick Gephardt, D-Mo., said the request was unusual. "I think it's a rather odd request for any network to grant - the airing, without interruption, the views of one party leader without giving equal access and equal time to the other," said Laura Nichols.

Gingrich's spokesman, Tony Blankley, said the first Republican speaker in 40 years wants to "report to the nation about where we go from here."

Clinton on the road

ATLANTA - Think of the states that are key to any presidential campaign and you might well include Georgia, Florida, lowa, New Hampshire, California and Michigan. President Clinton will visit all six in the next three months.

Although all are billed as official presidential functions, each event should give Clinton enviable political mileage toward the next presidential election - and all at taxpayer expense.

Today Clinton will preside over a regional economie conference here in the state that gave him his first Democratic primary win in 1992.

four Clinton plans to hold this year. Another will be in California, always a key state for any presidential candidate.

Scrap Plan A

WASHINGTON - So much for Plan A.

As Sen. Arlen Specter tested the waters for a 1996 presidential candidacy, he aggressively promoted himself as the sole Republican prospect who supports abortion rights, inviting and even picking fights with his party's religious conservative wing to curry favor with GOP moderates.

But as Specter prepares to formally join the 1996 race Thursday, he suddenly is without that niche, thanks to California Gov. Pete Wilson's recent decision to run. Specter has been forced to revamp his strategy

Rising crime in Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE. Haiti - Rising crime has raised fears former Hattian soldiers are resuming their violent ways and that police are either powerless or unwilling to stop them.

In the latest violence, a former top official of Haiti's 1991 military coup government was killed Tuesday in downtown Port-au-Prince when men with machine guns fired on her car then escaped.

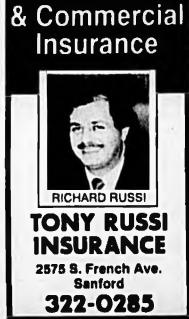

The assassination comes as the United States plans to turn over the international mission in Haiti to a smaller, U.N.-led Critics say while the United States restored President Jean-Bertrand Aristide to power, it failed to ensure enough security for democracy to flourish.

ORLANDO - New Smyrna Beach driver Jerry Symons outraced an 18-car field to win the Modified feature last Friday, March 24, at Orlando Speedworld.

Symons, who took over the ride when the car's regular pilot, Ed Meridith, was seriously injured in a construction accident, started the race from the 14th position.

By lap seven. Symons was in third place. Two laps later, he was in second place and hounding race leader Eddie Hartin for the No. 1 slot. A caution with three laps remaining in the race put Symons on the outside of Hartin for a restart. At the drop of the green flag, Symons charged to the point while Hartin tangled with Bruce Thompson, allowing Jimmy Wilkins, Bill Gunn, John Willis, and Martin Tucheske to move into the top five.

The race ended in that order. Meridith, who is confined to a wheel chair, joined the victory lane celebrations with Symons and the rest of the crew.

"This win is great, but to have Ed here makes it even better," said Symons. "Ed has always been and still is a tough competitor. We know that before long, he'll be racing with us again."

Fan favorite Bruce Everett took the checkered flag to a standing ovation in winning a wild 25-lap Late Model feature event. Everett, who drives the oldest Late Model on the FASCAR circuit and runs on other drivers' discarded tires, survived nine caution periods, two spins, and a fender bender to secure his first-ever feature win.

"This is just unbelievable," said Everett, who Gee Racing. Page 25

Baseball deal near?

By ROHALD BLUM AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK - Baseball players are mulling the owners' new offer and may make a counterproposal by Friday.

"I assume there's room for negotiation," union head Donald Fehr said Tuesday night before the union's executive board began a two-day meeting. "If there isn't, we're in trouble.

With the season scheduled to start in four days with replacement players, it appeared a final decision to begin play wouldn't be made until the weekend.

Fehr, who had a 90-minute meeting with acting commissioner Bud Selig, said the union will respond to owners Wednesday or Thursday, and he expected talks to resume then.

"Something's going to happen." Kansas City pitcher David Cone said. "It's going to be real hairy the next few days." Selig won't say whether opening day could be pushed back, but some teams - just in case - began planning for an extra three weeks of apring training. Management's new proposal offered to keep the system of salary arbitration and free agency that was in effect during the expired collective bargaining agreement. 'I think it is fair to say that the series of suggestions we have received represents some movement by the clubs," Fehr said. "I think it would be incorrect of me to suggest that we thought it was substantial." Management's plan called for a 50 percent luxury tax on the portions of payrolls above 844 million, which was 108 percent of the average in 1994. The sides would play this season under the old rules and the tax would start in 1996 and continue through 2000, when the agreement would expire.

"This proposal is much less than the clubs hoped to achieve. and I'm sure it will not thrill you either." Selig said in a letter sent Tuesday to all major league players. "But both the clubs and the players are at the point in this dispute where they must swallow hard and make an agreement. Otherwise, we will continue to do damage to this industry, which ultimately will cost the clubs and players far more than the amount at stake in this negotiating." Fehr, who described the plan as "some good, some not so good," said it would result in "paying players less than they are worth" and called the 50 percent tax "whopping."

"In our view, a 50 percent tax rate, at the level that it kicks in. is very close to - if it does not constitute - an effective cap, he said.

"There's a little movement, but it isn't one that knocks your socks off," free agent outflelder Brett Butler said. "This is a moving-the-ball kind of offer."

Selig said he expected to hear from Fehr today. Fehr didn't promise players will make a counterproposal, but left the impression they would. Butler predicted the union will offer one by Friday.

The union's executive board was expected to pass a resolution today stating that players would end the 71/2-month strike if U.S. District Judge Sonia Sotomayor issues a preliminary injunction requested by the National Labor Relations Board. It would restore salary arbitration, free agent bidding and anticollusion rules.

She has scheduled a hearing for Friday morning, but there's no indication when she will rule.

If players end the strike, owners may lock them out. But even hardline owners don't know if they can get the required 21 votes from among the 28 teams, and more management officials, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said they doubted owners would lock out the regular players.

The union's last proposal, made March 4, called for a 25 percent tax on the portions of payrolls above 133 percent of the average, which was $54.1 million last season.

TransSouth win allows Marlin to gain ground

Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH - Dale Earnhardt alipped five points with his third runner-up finish of the season Sunday but held to his NASCAR Winston Cup point lead over Sterling Marlin. Earnhardt, who has finished in the top five in all five NASCAR Winston Cup races this season, has 860 points, 67 more than Marlin, who won his second race of the season with Sunday's Transouth Financial 400. Mark Martin remained third in the standings with 648, just two points ahead of Derrike Cope and five in front of Terry Laborte. Ted Musgrave (624), Morgan Shepherd (615), Jeff Gordon (609), Dale Jarrett (602) and John Andretti (582) complete the top 10. Bobby Labonte, who has two runner-up finishes this season but has had tough luck otherwise, dropped to 11th with 578 points, seven more than Ricky Rudd and eight more than Michael Waltrip. Ken Schrader is 14th with 566 points and Steve Grissom is next with 560.

The final five spots in the top 20 are separated by a mere 20 points. Rusty Wallace is 16th with 555 points, three points ahead of Bobby Hamilton. Brett Bodine is 18th with 539 points, followed by Bill Elliott with 536 and Geoff Bodine with 535.

Marlin needed only five races to cross the $500,000 plateau. His $86,185 in winnings Sunday gave him a season total of $516,520. Dale Earnhardt and Jeff Gordon have each won more than $400,000.

The NASCAR Winston Cup Series heads to Bristol, Tenn., this weekend for the Food City 500.

Racing

travels 240 miles roundtrip to compete on Friday nights. "The fans and the people in the pits were just great. They really make my Friday night drive worthwhile. "I've been racing for five years, my car is 21 years old, I race castoff tires, and tonight, I made it to victory lane. People used to laugh when I brought my old car to the track. As I started to get better and pull down some top 10 finishes, the fane started to cheer for me. "Tonight to a big thrill and I owe it all to the fana, my fellow drivers, and everyone associated with the track." Everett, who has seven top five finishes and four top 10 finishes. is the current FASCAR Late Model points leader. In tow behind Everett were

to win the 15-lap Bomber feature

Schlimmer, who led every circuit to secure his fifth victory of the season, paced the field until the white flag lap. That's when Gould closed to Schlimmer's rear bumper and the duo raced nose-to-tail the last two laps. Schlimmer edging Gould at the flag stand by less than a car length.

Rounding out the top five were, in order of finish, Dave Waddell, David Gould, and Glen Castro.

Bobby Sears used his advantage of starting on the pole to win the Limited Late Model main event.

Sears, who notched his eight win of the season, led Paul Colgan, Mike Todd, Bill Loomis, and Bobby Lyons to victory lane. Other feature event winners were Barbara Pierce (Sportsman), Ted Vulptus (Mini-Stocks), Jim Erb (Run-Abouts), and Waylon Flynn (Mini-Bombers).

Caller makes pest of herself

DEAR ABBY: Help me, please! have a friend whom I have known for many years. She's my age (mid-40s) and lives on the East Coast. I live on the West Coast, but she thinks of me as her best friend. This woman calls me a minimum of four times a week - and talks for at least an hour each time. She goes on and on about her family, friends and coworkers. I make my living talking to the public eight hours a day, and the last thing I want to do when I get home is talk on the phone. Abby, I can't get rid of her. When I tell her I have to say goodbye, she says, "There's just one more thing I have to tell you," then she rattles on for another 10 or 15 minutes. I hate to hurt her feelings, but I am angry with myself for putting up with this insensitive pest. It's gotten so I hate to answer my own telephone. It would be very inconvenient for me to change my telephone

Survey: Quarter of schoolchildren don't eat fruits, vegetables daily

By DANIEL Q. HANEY AP Science Writer

NEW ORLEANS — Almost half of America's schoolchildren think apple juice has more fat than whole milk, a misconception that reflects the poor quality of health education, the sponsors of a nationwide survey say.

The survey also found that nearly one-quarter of the nation's schoolchildren don't eat fruits or vegetables every day or brush their teeth every night.

The survey was conducted by the American Health Foundation, a private New York-based research organization, and Scholastic Inc., a publisher. The foundation's president, Dr. Ernst L. Wynder, said the findings show that Americans are doing a poor Job of educating youngsters about healthy living.

"Rather than blame the children, we should blame ourselves," he said.

Wynder released the survey findings Tuesday at a conference sponsored by the American Cancer Society. It was based on a questionnaire distributed to 3,112 children in grades 2 through 6.

Dr. Edward J. Sondik, acting director of the National Cancer Institute. "The more we can teach youngsters about a healthy lifestyle, the better off we'll be. We aren't doing a very good Job.

Studies suggest that about one-third of all cancer in the United States could be prevented by better diets. Even though the precise nutrients involved in cancer are not known, research suggests that people who eat plenty of fruits, vegetables and fiber and relatively little fat have a reduced cancer risk.

Getting adults to change their cating habits is difficult. The California Department of Health Services conducted a public education campaign to encourage people to eat at least five servings of fruits and vegetables daily.

Susan B. Foerster, the department's chief, told the conference that while the program was going on from 1989 to 1993. consumption remained unchanged at just under four servings a day.

Finding solutions to sinus problems

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have chronic sinus problems. As a result, I suffer from bad headaches, have constant drainage, and must periodically clear my throat. Do you have any suggestions for control of this problem?

DEAR READER: Chronic sinus inflammation that causes the symptoms you describe could be the result of either infection or allergies. Also, if you're a smoker or work in a dusty environment, you may suffer sinus irritation.

Probably the quickest and casical solution to your problem is to see an ear-nose-and-throat specialist, who will examine you and order tests, such as a CT scan of your sinuses, to establish a diagnosis.

Once the problem is defined, the otolaryngologist can treat you with antihistamines (for an allergy), refer you to an allergist (for further testing), prescribe antibiotics (for an infection), or consider surgery (for polyps or other complications of sinus inflammation).

Ask your family physician for a referral.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please provide information on vitamin B6. DEAR READER: Vitamin B8 (pyridoxine) is an essential food factor that is readily available in a balanced diet. The Recommended Daily Allowance is 2 milligrams.

B6 deficiency causes weakness, irritability, nervousness, insomnia, poor coordination, rash, and anemia.

Excess pyridoxine can lead to liver disorders and nerve damage. Also, supplemental doses of the vitamin appear to interfere with the action of some medications, notably L-dopa for the treatment of Parkinson's dis-

Pyridoxine supplements (not to exceed 5 milligrams per day) should only be taken under medical supervision for the following afflictions: some forms of kidney stones, rare types of selzures, and occasional instances of pre-menstrual syndrome.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Fads I: Vitamins and Minerals." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long. self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

Is it true that having children makes it more obvious that one is getting old? Ogden Nash presumably thought so because he penned:

How confusing the beams from memory's lamp are: One day a bachelor, the next a

What is the secret of the trick? How did I get so old so quick?

In bridge, though, it pays to take things steadily at the beginning. Map out your plan of campaign at trick one. Then, if you worked things out correctly. your old age, trick 13, will be happy with a plus score being entered on the score-sheet.

West led his fourth-highest club against three no-trump. Often with two stoppers it is correct to hold up both of them for one round. And South thought this was the case here.

However, after winning the first trick with the club Jack, East switched adroitly to the spade queen.

Declarer, suddenly feeling distinctly uncomfortable, won with dummy's king and took the diamond finesse. However, it lost and West returned a spade. when South led a heart. East won with the ace and cashed two spade tricks to defeat the con-

As the key finesse in diamonds had to be taken into the hand with the long suit, it couldn't help South to duck the first trick. If he had put up dummy's club king and immediately taken the diamond finesse, he would have been all right (given that West didn't also hold the heart

HOROSCOP

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY March 30, 1995

In the year ahead, try to limit your involvements to situations that utilize your artistic and creative ideas. Your imagination has profitable possibilities.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Do not delegate tasks for a matter in which you have a substantial vested interest. It will be up to you to manage the situation personally to the best of your ability. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.50 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You might learn something valuable today if you listen more than you talk. Two friends may discard an idea that doesn't work for them, but it could work for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not start new endeavors at this ANNIE your enthusiasm. If you are committed, success is indicated.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You are now in a cycle of new objectives. If you want to increase your status or your material possessions, raise your expectations.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do everything you can in this cycle to add to your knowledge of your present occupational endeavor. What you learn could have various valuable applications.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your ability to transform ob-solete projects into something useful will be intensified at this time. You might want to start collecting what others discard. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A complicated arrangement you've been trying to negotiate will draw to a successful conclusion. You may need to be patient a little longer.

SCORPSO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is a good day to initiate that diet or exercise program you've been considering. If you start time unless they truly arouse now, the odds are you'll stick to BAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Over the next few weeks, your prospects for a happier and more active social life look good. It will be up to you, though, to hone in on a new circle of friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You are now in a cycle of endings and beginnings. Two unproductive arrangements will come to a close and something more rewarding will replace

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Put any business proposals in writing today, but just to be on the safe side, have someone you trust double check your copy for

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Beginning today, start raising your financial expectations. Developing a strong mental picture of yourself becoming more prosperous will motivate you to do
