Financial help for the Central Florida Zoo could be on its way from Seminole County. It all depends on the recommends. tions of two county advisory

Al Rozon, executive director of the 200, and Shyla Reich, president of the Central Florida Zoological Society, asked the county commission to allocate money to repair the large pavilion picnic area on the park property adjacent to the zoo.

An answer to their request was John Y. Mercer, banker, civic delayed until the county's parks and recreation advisory committee considers the request at its Sept. 20 meeting and makes a recommendation to the county

Meanwhile, the county's Tourist Development Council has been asked to consider whether the county should seek special legislation to permit the levy of a 1 cent resort tax for financial support of the soc.

The pavilion picnic area repair would cost $57,800, including $45,000 for materials and $12,800 for labor.

No Pet Quarantine In Seminole, But Care Urged

By Rick Brunson Herald Staff Writer

A animal quarantine imposed on parts of Orlando, Winter Park and Maitland due to an outbreak of rables in raccoons will not be extended into Seminole County. Seminole County Health and Human Services Director Dr. Jorge Deju said the rabid animals found in Seminole were not concentrated in one area as they were in Orange County.

"At this point we don't have any conditions requiring a quarantine," Deju-

An area stretching from Colonial Drive in Orlando to Horatio Avenue in Maltland was put under a 30-day quarantine Tuesday after Orange County health officials found three rabid raccoons in the area since mid-July.

The quarantine requires pet owners to keep their dogs and cats off the streets. Health officials fear of the pets are bitten by a wild animal with rables the illness could then be passed on to the pets

Regardless of quarantine, Deju warned area residents should be careful whenever they spot a raccoon near their home because "large numbers" of them have rables. Even if the animals look harmless they should be avoided. Deju said, because they often carry rables without showing any of the symptons. such as externely aggressive behavior.

Being hitten by a rabid animal can result in headaches, fever, convulsions and death if not treated. Treatment consists of a series of seven vaccinations which cost about $400, Deju said.

Of the 131 rabid animals captured last year. Deju said 56 were raccoons as compared with two cats and one dog. More people are taking raccoons as pets - a practice Delu said the health department does not recommend.

Shuttle Delayed

The space agency delayed the revert to their launch first flight of the hard-luck shut- day-minus-one schedule of tle Discovery from today to briefings once again today. Thursday to make sure nothing was overtooked in "improvements" to its, most critical electronic control circuits.

It was the third delay in two months for America's No. 3 apace freighter, but this time the problem involved an error in computer programming, not in equipment aboard the new ship.

'We're not going to launch Discovery until its ready to launch." said Jesse Moore, associate NASA administrator for space flight.

The problem that forced the new delay involved computer instructions for two timing devices that send electronic commands with split-second precision to various explosive devices. These ignite the ship's booster rockets and later jettison the twin burned out rocket casings and the spent external four unions representing all public school employees will go back to the bargaining table at 5 p.m., Thursday, at Lake Mary High School to talk about "merit schools" and how some $488,000 in state money will be split among the employees. Ernest Cowley, chief negotia-

Seminole County sheriff's deputies found the body of Ms. Ansley after her brother allegedly told Bushnell police that he had strangled and stabbed his sister.

Authorities in Bughnell, located in Sumter County, called the Seminole sheriff's department after Ansley made his confession. He had been arrested in that county following a traffic accident and was charged with willful and wanton reckless driving.

When deputies went to Ms. Ansley's home in The Springs, they looked through a window and saw her lying on the floor. She had been strangled by hand and stabbed in the lower ab domen.

While being held in Bushnell Ansley reportedly tried to hang himself with his jail-issued pants but was prevented from doing so by a Bushnell officer. In a macabre sidelight. Ansley listed his sister as his next of kin when he was booked into the Seminole County Jall. At the time, however, his sister had been dead for nearly two days.

Also, while Ansley was being booked, he allegedly tried to strangle Sgt. John Thorp and Jail nurse Dorrie Milphs, according to sheriff's spokesman John Spolski. He was charged with battery on a law enforcment officer and is scheduled to appear in court next month.

Cost Overruns Prompt Scrapping Of Four Nuclear Reactors

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) - Despite a $2.7 billion investment, the Tennessee Valley Authority plans to cancel four unfinished atomic reactors because of cost overruns projected at nearly $14 billion, officials say. The TVA Board was to meet today to act on a staff recommendation to cancel two reactors at the Hartsville Nuclear Plant near Nashville and two reactors at the Yellow Creek facility near luka. Miss

The staff cited combined cost overruns of $13.8 billion. It reported last month that finishing the construction would cost more than what TVA - the nation's largest electric utility and once the nuclear industry's best customer spent building its entire power system.

Nationally, eight reactors will have been abandoned this year with TVA's cancellations and 51 reactors have been acrapped since 1974 - the year after the Arab oil embargo lowered electricity demand. TVA already has canceled four other reactors.

No reactor has been ordered in the United States since the 1979 accident at Three Mile Island.

A spokesman for the pro-nuclear

Atomic Industrial Forum conceded more reactors in the United States are likely to be canceled this year because of the cost overruns.

These are horrendous cost overruns but there is nothing inherently wrong with nuclear plants. It's a horrible thing and it has soured a lot of utilities against nuclear," said Atomic Industrial Forum spokesman Don Winston, who blamed the rising construction costs on new federal safety regulations and higher interest rates.

TVA's three-member board plans to write off over the next 11 years the $4 billion spent on the agency's eight canceled reactors, including $2.7 billion invested in the Hartsville and Yellow Creek reactors, agency spokesman Carl Crawford said. The write-off will push up electric bills for the seven-state utility's nearly 3 million consumers about 2 to 4 percent each year for the next 11 years. Crawford said.

"We haven't seen any opposition. It's in the consumers' interest to cancel the reactors now," he said.

TVA once had 17 nuclear reactors under construction.

After four years of planning. the expansion of East Road. entranceway to Seminole County College, and the modifications of East Road's intersection with U.S. Highway 17-92, is set to begin with the state paying a large portion of the cost.

Blds on the projects that will include a four-lane divided boulevard for the SCC entranceway and two left turn lanes for north bound traffic on 17-92 and a new traffic signal at the intersection should be let by the Plorida Department of Transportation by late January, said DOT District Engineer C.A. "Bill" Benedict.

Construction is expected to begin by late April or the first of May, 1985, and be completed by the end of October or first of November, 1985.

Benedict revealed the time schedule for the construction Monday, after he surprised the Seminole County Commission and county staff with an announcement that the DOT will help the county with the project far more than expected.

Benedict said the DOT will not only redesign the 17-92 intersection to provide two left turn lanes into East Road by northbound traffic but also will pay the entire $75,000 cost for the construction and the installation of a traffic signal there.

He also said the state will do at no cost to the county the engineering work and supervision for the entire project, estimated at another $86,000

County Engineer Bill Bush had Afready praised Benedict for his help in gaining at no cost to the county surveys and engineering plans for the project and his assistance with gaining the rights of way necessary for the project to the work shop gathering of county officials, Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson and legislators, Reps. Carl Selph, R-Casselberry, and Art Grindle, R-Altamonte Springs, and Sen. Richard Langley, R-Clermont.

A work session of the county, city and state officials was called for Monday afternoon after it was noted that the Florida Legislature in 1981 under the sponsorship of then state Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, appropriated $225,000 for the improvement. Selph got another $250,000 allocated for the project in 1983. But the latest estimates of cost for the needed.

In a position paper, Bush said there is not enough money in the allocations for completion of the project and reasoned that the only feasible alternative left on the project was to postpone construction for another year until additional money could be found for the project.

Benedict then offered to assist with $161,000 in new state money from the DOT. He said the DOT will split the project into two projects, bid at the

In December, 1980, East Road was designated a major county concern because of the high rate of accidents at the intersection of 17-92 and East Road. Airport Crunch

Deregulation of the airline industry in 1978 brought consumers the benefits of vigorous competition - lower air fares and more flights. But these welcome benefits eventually produced an unwelcome problem - a crush of air traffic so heavy that several of the nation's largest airports simply cannot handle the current volume of flights without record numbers of delays.

Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole has interceded, asking the arilines to voluntarily limit the numbers of flights to six of the busiest airports or, failing to do so, face limits imposed, as a last resort, by the Federal Aviation Administration.

In truth, federal officials have little choice but to act. Flight delays at Kennedy International, La Guardia, Newark, O'Hare, Atlanta's Hartssleld, and Denver's Stapleton, among others, are creating chaos. It is nothing these days for flights departing at peak hours from the most crowded airports to be delayed an hour or more, with predictable consequences for travelers trying to make connecting flights. Last June, the FAA logged 40,852 flight delays, the largest number ever recorded for a single month.

The villain here is not deregulation or the airlines, but a shortage of airport capacity made evident sooner because deregulation has been such a success. In time, new runways will be added to some of the major airports and, in selected locations, whole new airports will be built. In the meantime, however, interim remedies are required.

In the spirit of deregulation, Dole wants the airlines to act on their own to pare the number of flights during peak flying hours at the six airports indicated. Accordingly, the federal government is prepared to support an Eastern Airlines request for immunity from anti-trust laws so that the air carriers can negotiate among themselves on flight reduc-

Fewer flights or more evenly spaced flights at hub airports are the obvious ways to cut delays now. Beyond this, the FAA should be hiring more air traffic controllers and modernizing its traffic-control equipment. In the long run, however, only additional airport capacity can preserve the full benefits of air deregulation, and get the millions of air travelers in this country to their destinations

Fleeing Romanians

Here is the story of two Romanians who came to the United States.

One, a sports journalists covering the Olympics, wanted to escape a communist regime. He quickly was granted asylum.

The other was a church leader accused of anti-Semitic, fascist sympathies. He came here many years ago fleeing a dark past.

Under threat of deportation, Orthodox Archbishop Valerian Trifa recently left for Portugal.

Perhaps the archbishop, too, wanted a refuge from his government when he emigrated to the United States in 1950 and became an American citizen seven years later. But it was for reasons our government ultimately did not accept.

American foreign policy, while generally sympathetic to those seeking to flee Iron Curtain countries, demands more of an immigrant than a desire to escape commu-

And Trifa's alleged sins outweighed any ideological consideration.

He was accused of being a leader in the violent, anti-Semitic Romanian Iron Guard. In 1941 he made an inflammatory speech that sparked a four-day riot, during which 300 Jews and Christians were killed. When the Romanian government tried to prosecute him, the Nazi SS shielded Trifa.

When U.S. officials learned of his past, the Justice Department worked nine years to strip him of his citizenship, and in 1982 he was ordered deported.

Why so long? We are a country of law. Deporting a person requires evidence and lengthy procedures. Our laws do, however, allow for quick extradition. Rather than letting Trifa find another safe harbor in Portugal, he should have been sent back to his native Romania.

The president of The Florida Bar has charged that the merit retention election process for Florida appellate judges will face "the sternest challenge" of its eight-year history because of a special interest group's announced opposition to the retention of two Florida Supreme Court Saying some disappointed Proposition One backers have "targeted" the justices who are up for a retention vote, Gerald F. Richaman said that "to allow a single issue campaign to dominate a merit retention election without regard to the overall record and performance of the Judge involved could destroy the entire concept of merit retention." He said if the targeting is successful, it could undermine judicial independence and prevent potential justices from serving. He did not name the justices.

Ten judges will run in Florida's fourth merit retration election this fall. The merit retention process for appellate court elections was incorportated into the state constitution by popular vote in 1976. The judges will not be opposed by other candidates. Instead, they are to be evaluated against their own performance, or merit, in office for the past six years.

Supreme Court justices will appear on the November ballot statewide.

Appellate judges appear only on those ballots within the geographical area of their court's jurisdiction. No one from the 5th District Court of Appeal, which serves Seminole County, is up for merit election. Candidates for trial judgeships at the county and circuit court levels are still elected in constested, but nonpartisan races where voters select the candidate of their choice.

Under the merit retention system voters decide whether to keep appellate judges in office for another six years. A majority yea vote retains a judge in office. If a majority nay vote prevails, the judgeship becomes vacant and is filled by a candidate from a group selected by a judicial nominating commission and appointed by the governor.

Richaman said previous statewide merit retention elections have shown the process works if it is understood by the public. But, he said, in past elections some voters have mistakenly thought judges were running against each other or were on the ballot for some other reason.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Number Two Spot Critical

In this election year, the vice presidential candidates are receiving more than ordinary attention. This is properly the case. If the Vice Presidency wasn't highly regarded in the past, this certainly isn't the correct attitude for our times. The Presidency has become so burdensome that the nation's Chief Executive needs to make effective use of the individual selected to the second highest constitutional office.

The choice of a Vice President is a major decision for the American people. President Theodore Roosevelt came to the White House after serving as Vice President in the McKinley administration. Theodore Roosevelt turned out to be one of the truly great American Presidents.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt made a decision of fateful importance when he chose Harry Truman to replace Henry Wallace as his Vice Presidential running mate in 1944. As President. Truman took many courageous stands, including the decision to use the atom bomb to end World War II. He authorized development of the hydrogen bomb in the face of furious opposition from pacifists and leftists, enabling the U.S. to gain that mighty defensive power a few months before the Soviets tested their H-bomb. He ordered the defense of the free nations of Western Europe. History would have taken a tragically different turn if Henry Wallace, a dupe of the Left, had been Vice President at the time of FDR's death.

Since Truman, Presidents have been making much more extensive use of their Vice Presidents. The responsibilities of the Vice President will increase in the years ahead. Therefore, it is all the more important that Vice Presidents be well prepared for their expanding duties.

Vice President George Bush's preparation for his office certainly commands notice. He was a Navy flier in World War II, a successful businessman, ambassador to the United Nations and the Peoples Republic of China, and director of the Central Intelligence Agency. This is a record of preparation that can be cited in a factual way without any suggestion of partisan political feeling.

The Vice Presidency is very important because it provides the vital element of continuity in our governmental system. Our system has a built-in constitutional, tested system for continuity of leadership when a President dies in office or is incapacitated. The lack of such a system is one of the great flaws and weaknesses in the Soviet system. A handful of men in the Soviet Politburo made the decisions as to continuity, and the changeover leaves the Soviet bureaucracy and people uncertain as to national leadership.

The Newest Utopia

The other day, as it happens, I was having lunch with Howard Fast. He has published an enormous number of books, and probably attracted most notice with "Citizen Tom Paine" and "Freedom Road," and he has a new one out called "The Outsiders." He was a communist until 1956 brought Khrushchev's revelations about Stalin's crimes. He now considers himself a "radical" and he is a Zen.
Buckhist Over the control of the control gretting the fact that we no longer have any utoplans around, by which he meant that we would benefit from the presence of people who dream of social perfection. I replied that I thought he was wrong, that we do have a species of utopian among us today - a gentler utopian than the old Stalinist variety, but a utopian nevertheless. Today's utopian, I said, believes in health food and peace, concern with gentleness, in making love not war and hugging your child today. This set of attitudes is utopian because it ignores the human predators loose in the world who require sterner methods of containment

But I think now that I was probably not probing deeply enough, and I have found good reason for reflection in a new book by Rael Jean Isaac and Eric Isaac called "The Coercive Utopians," which describes a utopianism that goes far beyond granola, love beads. and anti-nuclear poses.

In a brilliant set of sentences, a review of this book, Robert James Bidinotto, gives the source of the coercive utopians: "Collectivism doesn't spring from the grass roots of society. Rather it condenses within the philosophical smog layer enshrouding the universities, and descends upon society in a corrosive downpouring of proposals, experts. and organizations. Collectivism is the acid rain of academia."

The "coercive utopians" described in the Isaacs' book believe that an ideal social order must be Imposed by government coercion, because they know that the general population will never go for it. They believe that American society "is deeply flawed, indeed hateful. And if one has to identify the single aspect of American life they find most repugnant, it is our economic

The Isaacs' book is really an exploration of Joseph Sobran's col-lectivist "Hive," in which various kinds of bees perform different tasks but never sting one another.

There are the National Council of Churches and the assorted Catholic groups that preach theology" and fund Marxist terrorists in the Third World. There are the environmental idealogues such as Amory Lovins, Barry Commoner and Jeremy Rifkin, who seeks a 'conserver' society and a "Spartan" lifestyle. Since that kind of thing would never be voted in. coercion is implicit in the ideal. There are the innumerable and interlocking study groups and think tanks, which are interminably apologizing for Soviet behavior and condemning everything outside the Soviet orbit: the Institute for Policy Studies, the Center for Defense Information, the Fund for Peace. and so forth. There is Ralph Nader. disdainful of profit and productivity. There is the bogus "Peace" movement, whose unverifiable and unachievable nuclear freeze is now part of the Democratic Party's platform.

This kind of collectivism, explicit sometimes, sometimes implicit, is heavily funded by the great capitalist foundations. The Rockefeller Brothers Foundation, for example, has funded the Bay Area Institute. an offshoot of the Institute for Policy

Just Common Folk ...?

DALLAS (NEA) — Dallas bust nessman Trammell Crow lives in a society of Texas plutocrats who measure their wealth in "units" each equivalent to $100 million. In local parlance, he is worth "five units.

During the Republican National Convention here, Crow offered his thoughts about being selected to deliver a welcoming address to the delegates.

"When I was accorded this honor," explained Crow, "my reaction was: 'Why me? I'm not a politician or a party leader. I'm just a concerned citizen and a bustnessman.' Then I realized that ordinary Americans are what our party is about.

Crow may fit the convention's definition of a "concerned citizen" and an "ordinary citizen" but he doesn't qualify under any other standard. The world's largest developer and leaser of commercial real estate, Crow has a personal fortune estimated at $500 million, which makes him one of the country's richest men.

Crow was hardly a typical participant in the convention, but in many respects, he personified the materialism, elitism and insularity which were so vividly displayed

Almost 20 percent of the delegates had family incomes which exceeded $100,000 last year, according to surveys conducted by CBS News and NBC News. Nationally, only about 1 percent of all households are in that bracket.

The median family income of the convention delegates was $58,000 about twice as high as the comparable national figure of $24,580. Fewer than 1 percent of all delegates were blue-collar workers.

The unrepresentative character of the convention extended well beyond those standard demographic measurements. The process of drafting the party's platform, for example, was marked by repeated displays of ideological arrogance on the part of conservative extremists who cannot be considered, under any rational standard, to be in the mainstream of either the Républican Party or the nation's political process.

No less an authority than President Reagan's daughter Maureen publicly complained about the "Neanderthals" on the Platform Committee who summarily rejected the views of those with whom they disagreed on the issues of abortion and the proposed Equal Rights Amendment.

"The vast majority of elected Republicans and women support ERA and are pro-choice," said Ma Reagan. "This Platform Committee has taken the attitude that only they know what is truly right. It's an exclusionary process."

JACK ANDERSON

Curb Spending To Save Economy

WASHINGTON - Some terrible enervation of common sense and ordinary resolve in Washington has permitted a containable deficit to mushroom into an incalculable disaster.

The failure of government either to avert the calamitous deficit through precautions or to ameliorate its effect by timely treatment could tear the country asunder.

The interest alone on the exploding public debt has become an obstacle to the nation's economic well-being.

Reading the budget figures may cause the eyes to glaze over, but if the American people cannot absorb the intricate details, they won't escape the catastrophic results.

Each year, the deficit soars to ever higher altitudes. It is expected to ascend above $180 billion in 1985; some economists fear it will reach $220 billion in 1986. Each new deficit, in turn. becomes another massive blast of helium into the ballooning national debt. The total debt is now $1.6 trillion: It could expand to $2 trillion by 1986.

If the government's spending habits aren't changed, the prospects are hair-raising. The public debt will become so crushing that the economy couldn't generate enough income to pay the loan charges.

I have asked my sources inside the Treasury Department to assess the financial impact in order to give the unwary taxpayer an idea of what a $2 trillion debt will mean. Here's what their calculations show:

- If the $2 trillion should be split up equally, each taxpayer would owe $21,052.63 in addition to his regular taxes.

- Federal borrowing has pushed up the interest rates for everyone by an estimated two percentage points. If the budget were balanced and the public debt reduced, mortgage rates would be about 12 percent. This would mean more Americans could afford homes.

U.S. exports so expensive that overseas sales have fallen 14 percent since 1981. This has resulted in the loss of 1.3 million jobs. So anyone whose livelthood depends on exports must worry about Job security.

The public record is littered with warnings about the danger of continued lederal overspending. By the end of the decade, for example, just the interest costs on the government debt would be an estimated $219 billion - almost half of the $563 billion that the government expects to collect in personal and corporate income tax in 1989.

Budget director David Stockman told congressmen he doubted that they "could think of enough taxes to raise or enough spending to cut to offset that explosion of debtservice cost."

The key to the problem can be found inevitably in Congress - in its reluctance to recognize the onrushing danger, in the refusal of its members to expend political

High interest rates have made capital or take political risks for S. exports so expensive that economic stability, in its unwillingness to tangle with the determined special-interest groups of left, right or center.

The solution depends on America's political capacity to resolve what is at the bottom of a problem of self-discipline. But in political affairs, it takes a catastrophe to motivate Congress.

I fear the catastrophoe won't be long in coming unless millions of Americans raise a howl loud enough for Congress to hear. There is much for them to howl about.

The Grace Commission, headed by the indomitable Peter Grace, has documented government waste running into the hundreds of billions of dollars. Enough tak money is wasted, lost or stolen, he tells me, to wipe out the fearsome deficit.

Japan Aging Fastest Of All

By Michael Rosa UPI Senior Editor

TOKYO (UPI) — Longevity has always been venerated by the Japanese but now, for the first time, long life is also posing serious problems.

Because of a nearly 50 percent increase in life expectancy and an even larger drop in birth rates since the post-war baby boom. Japan is aging faster than any other nation on Earth.

By the end of the century the percentage of people reaching their twilight years in the Land of the Rising Sun will be the highest in the world.

This will not only place a tremendous and, many fear, insupportable burden on Japan's social security system, but will deprive it of one of its biggest advantages over other countries — the youth of its population, now the youngest of any industrialized nation.

Although the graying of society is not a phenomenon unique to Japan, it threatens doubly calamitous for Japan because of the pace at which it is occurring.

"A process which took over 100 years in Europe is taking place in only 30 years in Japan," said Kinji Kawamura, a prominent Japanese journalist. "This will put a severe strain on our institutions and tax our ability to cope."

Unlike Western Europe or to a lesser extent the United States, Japan has so far escaped the financial burden of old age. Only 9.8 percent of its population of 119.5 million is 65 or older compared with 11.4 percent in the United States, 15.2 percent in Britain and 18.6 percent in Sweden.

But by next year Japan's percentage of old folks will nudge past 10 percent, by 1990 it will exceed the United States, by the year 2000 it will surpass Sweden and by 2020, demographers calculate, nearly one out of every four Japanese will be over age 65.

Japan is aging quickly because prosperity has brought about lifestyle changes that have lowered the birth rate to a fraction of its initial post-war level:

Since 1947, the date of Japan's first post-war population survey, the statistical average for the number of children in a Japanese family has fallen from five to 1.77.

A same time, life expectancy has risen from 50.06 years for men and 53.96 years for women to 74.22 for men and 79.66 for women — the highest in the world.

At present, every old age pensioner in Japan is supported by the payroll contributions of seven people who work — what demographers call the dependency ratio. But by the time theaging process peaks in 35 years, the figure will have shrunk to a little more than two.

This presents the government with the unpalatable long-choice of either raising taxes and employee contributions to social security schemes or lowering benefits in the future.

If benefits remain unchanged, the Ministry of Finance calculates, those who work will eventually have to contribute 35 percent of their incomes just to keep social security solvent.

But the financial impact of an aging acciety affects far more than accial accurity.

fran social security.

Economists fear an older work force may be less productive and so undermine tilon's economic success.

Sociologists worry that the aging process also will erode the values and practices that have created Japan's much-touted work ethic. The most important of these — life-time employment and the seniority system — already show signs of cracking under the strain.

In Japan, life-time employment has meant that a youth entering a company could count on staying with the same firm until retirement while his progress up the ladder was preordained by a seniority system that paced promotions and wage increases to age, minimizing competition and therefore friction between co-workers.

The system has worked well thus far. But in order to make room for new workers, it has meant that companies have had to be rigid in their enforcement of a mandatory retirement age of

This was sufficient when lifetime employment was introduced back in the Meiji era and lives were much shorter. "But now that people are living so much longer, retirement at 55 is no longer life-time employment," said Mariko Bando, the author of Japan's first white paper on women and an expert on the problems of the aged.

Retirement at 55 also poses special problems for the aged because payoffs under the national pension scheme do not begin until age 65. Most people reaching retirement age face a traumatic 10-year gap that their small, supplementary company pensions cannot bridge.

Many seek re-employment elsewhere or, increasingly, are "re-hired" by their original firms — but nearly always at a drastic reduction in salary and for far leaser lobs.

To cope with this, many companies are edging up their retirement age to 60. But this creates a promotional bottleneck slowing the rise of younger workers to the top.

To deal with this problem, companies increasingly are experimenting with a promotional system based on merit rather than seniority. But this, Bando said, is not without complications.

"We Japanese have come to expect our companies to take care of us. Our loyalty and morale to work are based on this. If it changes, if lifetime employment and promotion are no longer ours by right, then our loyalty and morale will also erode." she said.

What is taking place, as society ages and companies become less able to act as womb-to-tomb guarantors of social welfare, is a gradual "westernization" of the work ethic, Bando believes.

"Big changes are taking place," she said, "and they will affect all of us."

While no one is sure what the effects of these changes will be, everyone involved with the issue seems to agree that Japan is not prepared to cope with them. The remedial measures taken so far have met with resistance.

A government bill to relieve some of the pressure on the aiready strapped national health insurance system by making workers pay 10 percent of their medical expenses encountered strong opposition in the Diet, Japan's parliament, it finally squeezed through, but only after Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone put so much personal prestige on the line that his November re-election chances were pegged to its passage.

Auto Fatalities On The Rise

NEW YORK (UPI) - Auto fatalities on the nation's highways are back on the rise after a three-year decline, an insurance industry survey showed.

The Insurance Information Institute survey, also showed accidents and injuries increasing. The survey covered 14 states and government data representing 54 percent of the nation's drivers.

In June, highway fatalities were up 7.9 percent over the previous year, the survey showed. For the first six months of the year, fatalities increased 5.6 percent from the same period in 1983, the survey said.

For the first quarter of 1984, auto injuries jumped 7.8 percent and auto accidents were 10.4 percent higher than in the same period last year.

Institute economist Sean Mooney said stable gasoline prices and lax attention to the 55 mph speed limit contributed to the increases.

U.S. drivers traveled 5 percent more in the first five months of 1984 than a comparable period in 1983, Mooney said. In addition, statistics show 54.1 percent

Job Seekers Beware: Studies Show Income And Payrolls Differ Dramatically By Region

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Income comparisons among regions of the country can look far different if welfare, unemployment benefits and other sources other than payrolls are left out.

The dramatic contrast between two different income measures was demonstrated Monday by the Commerce Department and the Labor Department.

Job seekers would be well advised to note the differences.

The Commerce Department reported New England led the way among regions with total income 11 percent above the national average.

However, the Labor Department measuring only payrolls in the same six New England states - found them to be averaging 9 percent less than the national average in 1983, a 20 percent difference.

More contradictions were to be found in some of the seven other regions of the

The Commerce Department says its washington and Oregon.

version is the big picture because it includes welfare and unemployment benefits that under the average in 1983 when welfare, would not necessarily be sources attractive to those seeking the best opportunities.

Anyone traveling to New England on the basis of its leading performance in the Commerce Department report could arrive to find payrolls far less generous than the area they left.

For the Plains states of Kansas, Minnesota, North Dakota, Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa and South Dakota, the Commerce Department's found total Income 3 percent below the national average in 1983.

But for those people on a payroll, the Labor Department, in its narrower gauge, found wage and salary income in the Plains states to be a lot further below average - 12 percent.

In the Far West, where the Commerce Department found all 1983 income of any type to be 10 percent above the national average, the Labor Department finds only a 1.1 percent advantage in payroli totals. The region includes California, Nevada, unemployment benefits and dividend income were totaled. But payrolls alone were 1.2 percent above the average, the Labor Department said.

The two reports were closer in remaining regions.,

In the Southwestern states of Texas. Oklahoma. Arizona and New Mexico the Commerce Department said income was 3.3 percent below the national average. The Labor Department's payroll study found it 3 percent below average.

Rocky Mountain states income from all sources was 5 percent below average in the Commerce Department report while payroll income alone was down 5.5 percent according to the Labor Department.

The biggest group, Southeastern states, which stretches from Florida to Arkansas and Virginia, had income 13 percent below the national average from all sources in 1983 and an 11.2 percent disadvantage in Income in the Middle Atlantic states and the District of Columbia was 2 powers, above average in both studies.

Florida's College Students Endorse 33 Legislative Hopefuls; Only 3 Republican

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Thirty-three state legislative candidates from college communities all but three of them incumbents — have been endorsed by the Florida Student Association.

Tom Abrams, a former Florida State University student body president who heads the FSA, said the group made its endorsements on the basis of voting records in Tallahassee and advice from state campuses in the legislative districts of candidates.

Almost half the 33 endorsed candidates - 15 of them - have no opposition in the primaries next Tuesday nor the Nov. 6 general election.

Although only three of the FSA-backed candidates are Republicans, Abrams and FSA lobbyist Ed Suarez said party affiliation was not a factor in the endorsements.

Suarez said the association has set up voter registration programs at each college cumpus. He said more than 12,000 students have registered to vote this year, and that the FSA hopes to register 20,000 before Nov. 6.

"We want to give a message to the legislators and the students of Florida," he said. "That message is that students are now involved."

"Tuition went up $12 million last year and the Board of Regents is asking for $7 million a year for the next two years," said Abrams. "We know there has to be periodic increases, but we want legislators with an open mind and an open door, who'll support a stable fultion policy.' He said student body presidents of state

Unlike past election years, Abrams said, the students will not fight the increase of Florida's drinking age from 19 to 21 - now that Congress has threatened to withhold federal highway funds from states not making 21 the drinking age within two years. Instead of mounting a lobbying effort on that lost cause, he said, the students will oppose tuition increases and any testing that discriminates against minority students.

He said the students will also urge lawmakers to increase scholarship aid at state campuses.

Auto Emissions Tampering 'Disturbingly High

WASHINGTON (UPI) - U.S. motorists are putting as much as 8,000 extra tons of lead into the air each year by illegally pumping leaded gas into their cars and disconnecting auto emissions controls, the government says.

In a study, the Environmental Protection Agency surveyed 1.800 cars in six states and found more than one-fourth of 1975 to 1983 model automobiles "had at least one emission control device tampered with."

The tampering is pouring into the atmosphere additional "hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxides," said EPA Administrator William Ruckelshaus. This is worsening urban smog and aggravating respiratory problems that afflict millions of Americans, the agency warned. The report comes less than a month after the EPA, citing "overwhelming" evidence of a health threat to children, proposed to cut the amount of lead in gasoline by 91 percent by 1986.

The agency's 1983 "Motor Vehicle Tampering Survey" also found that 14 percent of the vehicles "were subject to fuel-switching" - use of leaded gas in cars requiring more costly unleaded fuel. Leaded gas sells for about 7 cents a gallon less than unleaded fuel.

'This level of fuel-switching could mean an additional 8,000 tons annually of lead entering the environment through automobile emissions each year," said Ruckelshaus.

The government estimates 60,000 tons of lead get into U.S. air each year - most of it from leaded gasoline combustion in motor vehicles. The added toxic lead pollution could be disorders, the study said. The agency stressed that while motorists "misfuel" cars with leaded gas or tamper with pollution controls to save money and improve increasing exposure to children and fetuses.

which can cause retardation and nervous system engine performance, "fuel-switching actually costs car owners about 19 cents a gallon because of reduced engine performance and increased maintenance expense."

The 26 percent rate of tampering and 14 percent rate of illegal leaded gas use are "minimum estimates," the EPA stressed, "determined from brief inspections covering only the most readily observable forms of tampering and fuel-switching."

The survey was conducted in Arizona. California, Colorado, Illinois, Kansas and Texas.

It cautioned against assuming the figures can be applied nationally, saying the problem varies from one region to another and is worse in areas without mandatory vehicle inspection programs.

Ruckelshaus said the lead cutback was largely prompted by growing estimates of the number of newer cars being illegally misfueled with leaded

Leaded gasbline still accounts for 45 percent of motor fuel sold in the United States, but virtually all cars built since 1981 - and many built since 1975 - have catalytic converter pollution controls that only accept unleaded gasoline.

Those molecules provide more from full-term mothers.

Bitman said the uniqueness of premature milk was previously unknown because earlier studies

The research also uncovered a previously unsuspected milk

"Current methods of handling not preserve these special qualities," Bitman said.

Lipase, an enzyme present in human milk but not in most other milks, causes the important fat molecules to decompose even at conventional freezer temperatures.

Normally, the enzyme is activated by bile salts in a baby's stomach, but freezing and thawing also were found to activate it.

The only way to avoid that breakdown. Bitman said, is to freeze the human milk at minus 94 degrees Fahrenheit.

The researchers reached their conclusions from studying the composition of breast milk from mothers of 46 premature bables and six full-term babies

SCC Signs 2 More; Roster Grows To 12

Did you ever get tired of saying Seminole Community College? I do. From now on, I'm never going to say Seminole Community College again. Nothing personal, Dr. Weldon, it's just too

SCC is so much easier and it sounds nice, too. Well, SCC basketball coach Bill Payne filled out his basketball roster this summer by adding two more players. It brings the total to 12.

Only three players - all-stater Linny Grace. Mike Tolbert and Artis Johnson - return from last year's district runnerup, so Payne is anxious to get to work on putting the puzzle together for

"We still have some spots open for walkons," Payne said Tuesday. "Scott Hughes from Apopka has been working out with us all summer, so I'm sure he'll be there.

Payne and assistant coach Dean Smith have tentatively set the week of Sept. 3 for the tryouts. Since Labor Day is Monday, Smith said the next four days, Tuesday through Friday, would be used to give any unknown quantities a chance to make the team.

Official practice would begin Monday, Sept. 10. An alumni game will be played Nov. 10 prior to the season opener that next week. Smith said all former SCC players who would like to play in the game should get in touch with him at 323-1450.

Getting back to the two new signees, one should lend an excellent outside shot while the other should provide some muscle on the boards. Ken Edwards, a 6-4 and 160-pounder from Paris, Ky., transferred from Lee College in Cleveland.

Edwards was an all-region, all-state and all-city selection at Paris where he averaged 22 points and five rebounds a game during his senior year. Edwards is the nephew of Leonard Hamilton, an assistant at Kentucky.

Payne discovered him while he was at a clinic at UK. Edward was playing in the Dirt Bowl, an outdoor blacktop championship series in Lexington. 'He's a great shooter, something we need badly," said Payne.

Willie Strother, a 6-6 and 200 pound forwardcenter, is the other choice. Strothter, 22, recently was discharged from the Army after serving three years. Payne was tipped off to Strother by former player Luis Phelps.

Both are from the same town, Brooksville, although Strother is a 1981 graduate of Hernando while Phelps attended Spring Hill Springstead.

Willie is a good rebounder and a good leaper," said Payne. "We're not real sure about the rest of his offensive skills."

The two new signees join England's Mike Landell, Lexington's Greg Bates, Sanford's Brent Baird, Orlando's Greg "Slim" Johnson, Monticello Aucilla's Jeff Day, New York's Shannon Greer and Robert Brantley as the 1984 signees.

Grace, Tolbert and Johnson completed the 12-man roster.

Payne, by the way, is grooming his daughter to be the next Mary Decker. Lisa, an eight-year-old, turned in a good time at the Seminole Summertime Cross Country Jamboree Saturday. Just stay away from those barefoot runners Lisa ...

Baltimore Mayor Prefers Stars Over Poor Federals

BALTIMORE (UPI) - Mayor William Schaefer prefers to bring the USFL champion Philadephia Stars to Baltimore in hopes of a future merger that would leave the city with an NFL team rather than settle for the Washington Federals, a local investor has been quoted as saying.

The Baltimore Evening Sun reported Tuesday that Richard Sammis, a car dealer and one of 10 local investors trying to buy the lowly Federals, said that Schaefer's okay would provide the impetus to close the deal.

"Our opinion is the mayor wants the Stars here because he feels they're one of the top teams and if there's a merger (between the USFL and NFL), then he'd be back in the NFL. But that's not necessarily true," he said.

The NFL Colts departed Baltimore for Indianapolis earlier this year.

Stars' owner Myles Tanenbaum has said the USFL's switch to a fall season in 1986 makes it likely the championship team will move to Baltimore

Schaefer is currently out of the country and not available for comment. Sammis could not be reached by United Press InPro Football

A deal to sell the Federals and move the team to Miami fell through recently following the league's decision to move its season from spring and summer to the fall. Team owners also have met with a Florida group about moving the team to Orlando, according to Carl Hirsch, a general partner with the Federals.

Hirsch acknowledged he and his partner, Milton Maltz, are in favor of moving or selling the team to Baltimore, where they have franchise rights. But in published comments he did not indicate that a deal to bring the Federals to Baltimore was close.

INJURIES HURT SKINS

WASHINGTON (UPI) -Washington Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs is hard at work on the game plan for Sunday's season opener with the Miami Dolphins, but he isn't certain what tools he will be using.

Injuries incurred close to Monday's final cutdown date have left Gibbs in a manner of limbo. He's playing the waiver game - cutting here, protecting there and working toward the

ROZIER DECISION DUE

PITTSBURGH (UPI) - The owner of the Pittaburgh Maulers of the U.S. Football League may decide today whether he will let running back Mike Rozler out of the final two years of his threeyear, $3.1 million contract so he can sign with the Houston Oilers Edward DeBartolo will discuss the matter with Maulers president Paul Martha at his home in Youngstown, Ohio.

"We'll present their aide (Rozler and his agent, Art Wilkinson) and decide what we want to do." Martha said.

Martha said he and Wilkinson discussed a buyout price for Rozier's contract Tuesday, but reached no agreement. The Maulers originally asked for $1.9 million, the amount they've already paid Rozier.

Landry Feels Hogeboom Is The No. 1 QB

United Press International

The decision was based on the hardest of all things to figure — a feeling — but Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday that was the criterion he used in naming Gary Hogeboom the team's starting quarterback Monday night against the Los Angeles Rams.

"For my own reasons I have a feeling that Gary is right for this game." Landry said. "I have coached this game. I have played this game. I have to go on my feelings."

Hogeboom, 26, is in his fifth-year with the Cowboys and was named the starter for the Dallas opener over Danny White, who was entering his fifth year as the Dallas signal-caller.

Landry said he told Hogeboom and the 32-year-old White, in his ninth year with the team, about about his decision Monday.

"Danny was very disappointed. I talked to him yesterday. His reponse was just what you might think it would be. Danny is a team player, though, and he is going to do what is best for the "Gary was very happy, but you would be happy too, I guess. It is a lot different when you step up in that front seat."

Hogeboom, who turned 26 last Tuesday, had injured his shoulder and elbow against San Diego earlier in the exhibition season. He apparently got the surprise nod from Landry after he came on to lead the Cowboys to a 31-24 victory over Houston last Saturday. White struggled during the first half against the Oilers, Hogeboom, however, ignited the Cowboys' offense through the last two quarters with a 7-of-12 performance for 130 yards, one touchdown and no interceptions.

In other news:

— Injuries to key personnel left Redskins coach Joe Gibbs still deciding on his 49-player roster for Sunday's season opener with the Miami Dolphins. Several starters are bumped and bruised and Gibbs hasn't finished sorting out the roster.

'We want the best 49 people we can have," Gibbs said. "But you walk a fine line in several areas. You might sacrifice some depth now and play a man or two short to have a guy later."

The Scattle Scahawks announced their final cuts, releasing 10 players including nose tackles Robert Hardy, a five-year veteran, and Rickey Hagood, a disappointing fourth-round draft

The Minnesota Vikings cut eight players, including veteran running back Rickey Young. kicker Rick Danmeier and defensive end James White, and picked up three players on waivers to reach the roster limit of 49.

 The Miami Dolphins placed starting linebacker A.J. Duhe, backup guard Steve Clark and cornerback-kick returner Fulton Walker on injured reserve.

- The Chicago Bears signed quarterback Rusty Lisch after he was cut by the St. Louis Cardinals tight end Mitch Krenk after he was cut by the Dallas Cowboys. In other roster moves, the Bears put quarterback Steve Fuller and tight end Pat Dunamore on the injured reserve list.

- The Buffalo Bills placed tight end Mark Brammer, wide receiver Mike Mosley, rookie wide receiver Eric Richardson of San Jose State and rookie defensive end Leroy Howell of Appalachian State on injured reserve.

A.J. Duhe, one of the Dolphins top defensive players, was placed on the injured reserve list Tuesday.

Reagan Reinforces Status As No. 1

Eighty-two men and women from all over the Central Florida area converged on the SCC. tennis courts last week for the Seminole Community College Foundation Tennis Tournament.

Competition was held in men's and women's singles and mens doubles, and consolation rounds were held in all events. This tournament was used as a fundraising profect for coach Bill Payne and his Raider basketball team, and with the large number of participants was quite successful in this respect.

In the men's singles competition, 45 were entered. Many, many of the top players from the area participated and the level of play was very

The top four seeds were Rollie Walker from Orlando, Scott Reagan from Lake Mary, Claude Winter from Altamonte Springs and Mark Vine from Longwood. Walker played college tennis at UCF, Reagan played for SCC and Western Carolina, Winter played at Valencia and Viner played #1 for Lake Mary High last year and is going to Birmingham Southern on a tennis scholarship this coming year.

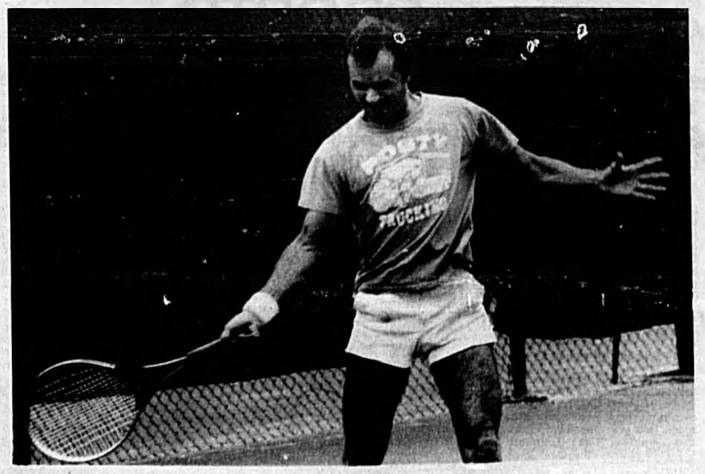

In the men's doubles, 16 teams were entered. The top four seeds were Reagan and this writer. John and David Holt, Rick Herbert and Duane Coville and Rodrigo and Santiago Uribe. The Holts are an outstanding doubles team having gone undefeated last year in team tennis playing for Bayhead. Herbert and Coville are one of the top doubles teams in Central Florida, and the Uribe brothers are from Columbia and were the forth ranking under eighteen doubles teams in their country.

in the men's singles, Reagan came out on top. in what was considered a very strong field and Reagan played a great tournament and really was the class of the group. In the finals Reagan defeated Rollie Walker 6-4, 2-6, 6-1. This was a very interesting match in that it was the classic confrontation between a strong backcourt player, Walker, and the serve and volley player, Reagan.

Both players played well as many of those who watched the final commented that they had not seen local tennis played on that level for some time. Reagan who played at Seminole High and later at SCC is without a doubt one of the most improved players in Florida. Scott has been a very solid performer for many years but has made a huge jump in the last year and now appears to be the top men's player in Sanford.

In the men's doubles Reagan and this writer played David and John Holt in the finals. These two teams survived a very strong 16-team field and played a very competitive championship match. The Reagan team won the final match

In the women's final Bernedette Peters from Longwood and Lake Mary High defeated Linda Payne of Eustis in the finals 7-5, 6-2.

Scott Reagan keeps his eye on the ball. Reagan reinforced his status as the best singles player in Sanford when he whipped Rollie Walker to take the Seminole Community College Foundation Tennis Tournament. Reagan then teamed up with veteran Larry Castle to capture the doubles.

Chris Crushes Walsh, 6-0, 6-0

NEW YORK (UPI) - If Chris Evert Lloyd is feeling any qualms about another possible showdown with Martina Navratilova, she's doing a good job of covering them up.

Indeed, she's gotten off to the kind of a start in the U.S. Open that not even the magnificent Navratilova is likely to equal.

Playing in what was supposed to be the feature night match on Opening Day, Evert Lloyd required a mere 41 minutes Tuesday night to crush Sharon Walsh, 6-0, 6-0.

"It was hard to judge how well I played because Sharon was so off her game," Evert Lloyd said. "But I feel good."

Navratilova, the defending champion and top seed, was scheduled to play her first match today on Center Court against Lea Antonophia, following a contest between No. 2 men's seed Ivan Lendl and Brian Teacher.

John McEnroe, the No. 1 men's seed, had an opening round match against Colin Dowdeswell today and defending champion Jimmy Connors faces Matt Mitchell at night.

While all neven of the seeded men to see action Tuesday were successful, two of the top women were upset. Sixth seed Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria fell to Petra Delhees of Switzerland, 6-1. 5.7, 7.5, and No. 10 Jo Durie of Britain squandered three match points in losing to Third seed Hana Mandlikova was extended to three sets before subduing Pat Medrado of Brazil, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, and also moving into the second round were No. 7 Zina Garrison, No. 14 Carling Bassett and No. 16 Andrea Temesvari.

Aaron Krickstein, less than a month past his 17th birthday, had the honor of opening the championship on Center Court, and the eighth seed barely squeezed past Bruce Manson, 3-6, 2-6, 7-6, 6-2, 4-0.

Manson retired in the fifth game of the final set with heat cramps.

Also winning Tuesday were No. 5 Andres Gomez of Ecuador, No. 7 Johan Kriek, No. 9 Henrik Sundstrom of Sweden, No. 10 Ellot Teltscher, No. 12 Vitas Gerulaitis and No. 15 Pat Cash of Australia.

Comes, Kriek. Cerulaitia and Cash all won in straight sets, while Sundstrom and Telfscher went to four sets.

Though defending champion Jay Sigel carded a 3-under 68 Tuesday to begin his run on a record third straight U.S. Amateur title and was joined by two others in the lead heading into today's final round of stroke play, most players found the going rough.

This is a great, great golf course," said Sigel, 41, of Berwyn, Pa., after he tied the Oak Tree Golf Club course record set by PGA player David Edwards in 1978.

Forty-five percent of all scores Tuesday on the Oak Tree Golf Club course ranged from 80 to 91, with the average score 79.

Still, University of Florida senior Scott Dunlap also managed a 68 on the Oak Tree Golf Club course to match Edwards' record and Sigel for the lead. Additionally, Columbus, Ohio, dock worker Richard Miller fired a 2-under 68 on the shorter Oak Tree Country Club course to claim a share of the first-round lead.

Johnson Loses Voice, But Survives Pressure

MIAMI (UPI) - Anybody who watched new Coach Jimmy Johnson after his underdog Miami Hurricanes outlasted Auburn 20-18 Monday night could have predicted it, but he seemed surprised Tuesday afternoon.

His voice was still gone.

"Usually by this time, I have it back," he croaked at a news conference Tuesday, about 12 hours after the game ended.

But this is a happy man, as evidenced by his multiple twin-fisted punches into the air as his players carried him around the field after the final gun. He took over the defending national champion Hurricanes after last year's coach, Howard Schnellenberger, opted for an aborted venture into the United States Football League.

Johnson wouldn't admit it, but the three "Dale has major ligament damage to the right knee, which will require reconstructive surgery. He is out for the season," said team physician Dr. Pete Indelicato.

The 6-foot, 187-pound quarterback, a fifth-year senior from Hialcah, was participating in a non-contact drill, called Team Polish. He had finished running a pattern and was standing still when a teammate ran into him, witnesses said.

Dorminey had been counted on to succeed graduated star quarterback Wayne Peace. whom he had backed up last year, in the Gators' season-opener against the Miami Hurricanes in Tampa Saturday.

"It breaks my heart for Dale'e and it is a challenge to all on our staff and team to move forward to the Miami game," said head coach Charley Pell.

"Merwin Bell will be the starting quarterback against Miami. Rodney Brewer is number two and Brian Massinnumber three." Pell said.

Moreland's 6 RBI Boosts Cub Lead

United Press International

Keith Moreland, relaxed from a little vacation, Tuesday laid the Cincinnati Reds to rest.

Moreland, taking advantage of three days off, drove in six runs to help the Cubs sweep the Reds by identical 5-2 scores and increase their lead in the NL East to 5 1/2 games over the New York Mets and 6 over the Philles.

The way the Chicago outflelder has been hitting, teams probably wish he'd take a permanent rest. Since the all-star break, Moreland has been on a tear with eight homers and 42 RBI. In his last 24 games, he has 29 RBI.

"Getting the extra rest makes it kinda like the all-star break for me," said Moreland, who had five hits on the day. "The rest really helps your body. But the main thing is that we won two games."

The sweep — the Cuba' fourth this year — put them 25 games over .500 and Cincinnati player-manager Pete Rose doesn't think anyone can stop Chicago from winning its first pennant

"I don't see them losing it. They are too strong, too deep. They aren't built around one guy." Rose said. "Besides, look at their players. They have more players with World Series experience than any other club in the National League."

Moreland grove in two runs in the nightcap and had a three-run homer - his 15th of the season - and a RBI triple in the opener. Ron Cey added two RBI in the second game.

In the nightcap, Dick Ruthven, 4-9, pitched the first five innings for his first win since Aug. 6, while Rich Bordi went the final four innings for his fourth save.

Ryne Sandberg gave the Cubs' their first run with a solo homer in the first off Frank Pastore, 3-8. It was Sandberg's 17th homer of the year.

Thad Bosley followed with a double to right and one out later scored on Moreland's double to MONTREAL (UPI) - For San Francisco righthanded rookie pitcher Jeff Robinson, the move to the major leagues this year has been a learning experience.

Just the same, Robinson combined Tuesday night with two other Giants pitchers to hold the Montreal Expos to five hits as the Giants handed the slumping Expos their fifth straight defeat.

The setback gave Montreal's its longest losing streak of the season and was the team's 31st one-run loss

Robinson, 7-13, has completed only one game

"I'm having trouble getting full games, but that will take care of itself," said the 23-year-old hurler.

"It's a big jump to the major leagues, but the first half of the season was a big learning experience and I got my feet wet. I've learned one thing; it's okay to be nervous, but don't be

Robinson got help from Gary Lavelle and Greg Minton, who earned his 15th save of the year.

The Giants took a 3-0 lead in the first inning on a run-scoring double by Jeff Leonard and a two-run homer by Bob Brenly.

Dan Driessen drove in both Expos runs with solo homers in the fifth and seventh innings.

Tim Raines singled once in five at-bats and stole his 58th base for Montreal. Raines trails Juan Samuel by two in his race for a fourth straight stolen base crown.

"Robinson pitched fairly well but gave two bad pitches for those home runs," said San Fransisco manager Danny Ozark, who is now 11-13 since he took over the team at the beginning of the

At Atlanta, Darrell Porter tripled home three runs with one out in the 10th for the Cardinals. The winner was reliever Bruce Sutter, 5-4. Ricky Horton pitched the 10th for his first major-league save despite allowing a solo homer to Bruce Benedict. Gene Garber fell to 2-3.

Astros 3, Pirates 2

At Houston, Jerry Mumphrey singled home two runs and Terry Puhl executed a suicide squeeze in a three-run eighth that led the Astros. Dave Smith, 3-2, went two innings for the victory. Starter John Tudor, 8-9, took the loss. Jim Morrison had a sacrifice fly and Doug Frobel an RBI double for Pittsburgh.

Orioles Suffer 2 Losses

United Press International

Next thing you know, the crabs will be leaving Chesapeake Bay. Don't bet against it. Just about everything else has gone wrong for Baltimore this year.

Orioles' ace lest-hander Scott McGregor suffered a broken ring finger on his pitching hand fielding a comebacker in Tuesday night's 4-2 loss to the California Angels and is likely lost for the season.

It marked still another misfortune in a campaign in which very little has gone right for last year's World Series champions.

"I couldn't figure out what happened," said McGregor, "I could tell it hurt. The pressure really started to build up, even after liced it."

McGregor even went to the bullpen to try to throw, but gave up on his first attempt to grip the ball. He plans to see a specialist Wednesday then go back to Baltimore, hoping for a clean heal.

"It's important for my curveball because that's the finger that holds the ball," he said. "But it'll be all right, I'm not going to worry about it.

"I can't be too worried about it. I'm fortunate I haven't had too many problems like this before.

Twins 2, Red Sox 1

At Minnesota, Tom Brunansky delivered a bases-loaded single with one out in the ninth for the Twins. Kirby Puckett led off with a triple off Bob Stanley, 7-10, and Mickey Hatcher and Kent Hrbek were walked intentionally to load the bases. Brunansky then hit an 0-2 pitch to make a winner of Ron Davis, 6-9. Blue Jays 7, White Sox 6

At Toronto, Damaso Garcia doubled over left fielder Ron Kittle's head to score Tony Fernandez with one out in the 11th, lifting the Blue Jays. Bryan Clark worked the 11th for Toronto and walked one batter while evening his record at 1-1. The White Sox have dropped 14 of their last 18 games. Indiana 8, Brewers 5

At Milwaukee, Joe Carter slammed a three-run homer, singled and doubled to knock in four runs for the Indians. The decision eliminated the Brewers from the American League East Division race, making them the Bostoo 85005100-12 Milon 81085501-210 Hurst, Markey [7] and Allenson, Findman (8); Vala Lyander (7); Dork (9) first team in the majors to be knocked out.

At Seattle, Ruppert Jones doubled home pinch runner Rusty Kuntz with two out in the ninth, leading the Tigers. Jones' second double of the game made a winner of Willie Hernandez, 8-2, who pitched the last two innings. Mike Stanton, 4-4, took the loss.

A's 4, Yankees 3

At Oakland, major-league RBI leader Dave Kingman capped a three-run 12th by singling home Carney Lansford, enabling the A's to snap a nine-game losing streak. After the Yankees had taken a 3-1 lead in the top of the 12th, the A's tagged Dale Murray, 1-2. Bill Caudill, 9-7, was the winner.

'Run For The Kids' Gets New Look In 5,000 Meters

A new look has been added to this year's "Run for the Kids" fund raiser for Threshold, Sept. 29 on the University of Central Florida campus. It will mark the first time women and men runners will compete separately in the annual 5,000 meter race.

The change will allow easier processing of finishers in what has become the largest run of its kind in Central Florida, said Dick Tucker, chairman of the run. Last year, 1,500 runners competed.

All proceeds go to Threshold Inc., the non-profit residential treatment program for severly dysfunctional children located in Goldenrod. Over the past five years, nearly $40,000 has been generated for Threshold through the annual UCF run.

There will be 13 age divisions in the 5,000 meters, which is the first major run in the 1984-85 Track Shack Grand Prix series. Runners will compete for $1,500 in gift certificates.

In addition to the road races, there will be a one-mile Fun Run scheduled for 10 a.m., one-mile team races for fraternities, sororities and clubs at 10:15 a.m., and a quarter-mile Kiddie Run for eight-year-olds and under.

The entry fee is $6 prior to Sept. 22 for the 5,000 meter race and the Fun Run and includes t-shirts, post-race refreahments ad eligibility for a drawing for more than $2,000 worth of merchandise prizes donated by local merchants. The fee jumps to $8 after Sept. 22.

Entry forms are available at all local track outlets and at any office of the First Bankers in Orange, Brevard and Volusia counties.

IN BRIEF

Iran Condemns Hijacking, Points Accusing Finger At Iraq

By United Press International

Iran condemned the hijacking of an Iranian airliner as "blatant air piracy" by Iraq and demanded the immediate return of the aircraft with its passengers, crew and two hijackers.

The 206 people on board the plane, including the two htjackers, landed in southern Iraq Tuesday and were flown aboard two civilian aircraft to the capital Baghdad where they were taken to a hotel and fed.

The air drama, which involved two nations at war for nearly four years, was the second international hijacking in a week and the third in less than six weeks involving Iran.

Iraqi authorities offered the passengers trips to Moslem shrines today and said they could stay in Iraq or travel to another country of their choice.

Iran accused Iraq military planes of intercepting the plane and forcing it to Iraq, a charge Iraqi officials labeled

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - Only 20 percent of ethnic Asian voters turned out in violence-marred balloting for their own parliamentary chamber, signalling a rejection of a new constitution that excludes South Africa's

Most of Tuesday's election-related violence took place around Johannesburg. In one of the bloodlest confrontations, about 100 people were injured as police fired rubber bullets and tear gas canisters to disperse anti-election campaigners at the Civic Center polling station in the Asian township of Lenasia. Voting in most of the nation's remaining 39 constituencies was calm but sporadic.

The low turnout was seen as a stinging rejection of the government's new constitution which goes into effect Monday and creates three separate houses of Parliament.

Radical Rabbi To Confront Arabs

UMM EL-FAHM, Israel (UPI) - Police sent reinforcements into northern Israel to avert a possible confrontation today between militant Rabbi Meir Kahane and residents of the country's largest Arab village.

Kahane, founder of the U.S. Jewish Defense League and leader of the Kach Party, said Tuesday he was determined to go ahead with his "congressional junket" to Umm El-Fahm with some 200 armed supporters to tell its Arab residents to leave the country.

But Hashem Mahmeed, mayor of the village 40 miles northeast of Tel Aviv. vowed to keep the Parliament member away, violently if necessary.

Kahane won a seat last month on a platform calling for the expulsion of 2 million Arabs living in Israel and its occupied territories.

Israeli Air Raid Kills 25

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - The second Israeli air raid on Lebanon in two weeks flattened a three-story jail in the Bekaa Valley, trapping 70 people under the rubble and killing 25 others, police sources said.

The raid on a suspected Palestinian guerrilla base in eastern Lebanon Tuesday came hours after gunmen fought heavy street battles in Beirut and Tripoli.

State run Beirut radio said the Israeli attack killed more than 15 people and wounded 25. But police sources said 25 were killed in the village of Rawdah, where four people died in the last Israeli raid on Lebanon Aug. 16.

Gunmen in mostly Moslem west Beirut battled for four hours after militiamen from the Shitte Moslem Amal movement raided a gambling den run by the Sunni Moslem Mourabitoun group and the owner was killed. security sources said.

Ex-Journal Reporter Charged With Abusing Post

NEW YORK (UPI) - A former writer for The Wall Street Journal has been charged with "abusing his position as a re-porter" by using confidential information obtained through the newspaper to help two accomplices make $700,000 in stock transfers.

R. Foster Winans, 36, of Manhattan, wrote the Journal's influential "Heard on the Street" column, which analyzes companies and stock trends. The former reporter and two other men were indicted Tuesday on criminal charges.

Prosecutors said it was the Carpenter, 35, who is Winan's first time a reporter has been criminally charged in an "insider trading" case in which he profited from information in his newspaper.

At a news conference, William Tendy, Acting U.S. Attorney in Manhatian, said his office has pursued insider trading cases because they pose "a very special danger to investor confidence and integrity in the securities marketplace.

"If left unchecked, insider trading incurs a cynical attitude that 'the fix is in.'" Tendy said.

Cook Of The Week

Artist From The Word 'Go' Creates Colorful Culinary Masterpieces

HERALD CORRESPONDENT Rosita Lopez was born in Moca, Puerto Rico but lived in many different towns as a child. Her father's job as a police officer involved transfers which led the family to a variety of places on the island. This enabled Rosita to make lots of friends and enjoy a wide range of experiences.

She says her childhood was joyful, free and close to nature. As part of a close-knit, loving family, traditional spiritual values were instilled in her at an early age.

In the town of Hadillo, which is near the sea, Rosita first became a dedicated beachcomber. She says she was like the little sandpipers, always In motion

At St. Joseph High School in San German, Rosita says she was popular and involved in many activities. She won awards for poetry recitation, painting and dancing. Her favorite idance was the rumba. She was an official dancer for coronations and floor show productions. Rosita also sang with a local orchestra.

One of the customs of the time was for the young ladles to be serenaded by their beaus. Once, Rosita was serenaded by an entire orchestra which was set up on the back of a

After high school, Rosita attended Inter-American University where she received her bachelor's degree, with art as her major. While still in Puerto Rico, she had a private art studio for 10 years. One of her favorite students was color-blind, but with her guidance and his desire to learn, he went on to become an art teacher himself.

In 1975, Rosita and her husband, Armando, moved from Puerto Rico to Hampton, Va. After his retirement from the military, they both were counselors for the 700 Club in Virginia Beach, Va., for six years.

Rosita and Armando have two children and six grandchildren who visit them as often as possible at their lovely lakeside home in Lake Mary where they have lived since 1981.

Their home is filled with beautiful antiques and, of course, Rosita's paintings and handwork. Since she is also an interior decorator, she says she made all her draperies. Armando makes all the frames for Rosita's paintings.

Currently, Rosita is in charge of the Spanish ministry at First Assembly of God Church which includes teaching the Spanish children, Bible study, and sermon preparation. She has also painted several murals in the church.

Her recipes feature the plantain. As well as being versatile, they are easy to prepare. Rosita says that plantains may be obtained in most area supermarkets, as well as at the Spanish-American Market on State Highway 46.

Following are some of Rosita's favorite plantain recipes, sure to be a break from the ordinary. (NOTE: All recipes serve 4-6.)

Teacher's Dream Ends As New School Opens

Carolyn Bistline of Longwood has a lot to be excited about lately. Carolyn, who has taught school in Seminole County nearly 20 years, will be opening up her own private school in Longwood on Sept. 4.

The school, Oak Tree Kindergarten, was a concept Carolyn dreamed about early last spring. With the help of her husband, Fred, the dream has become a reality.

Carolyn, mother of four children, has a bachelor's degree in Early Childhood, and plans to teach 4 and 5-year-old children. "I want small classes, not like in public school, where you can have up to 30 children per room. I want to give them individual attention," Carolyn said.

Carolyn's and Fred's family roots go way back in Longwood's history to the early 1900's. Fred's great great grandfather, Josiah Clauser, built the elegant Longwood Hotel, and J.A. Bistline, Carolyn's father, worked for the school board for 22 years, and had the gymnasium of Milwee Middle School named after him.

Ruby Wade of Sanford celebrated her 70th birthday recently with a gala open house birthday party. Guests came from all over the state of Florida to join in on the fun, even from as far as Atlanta, Ga., and it has been reported that well over 150 people showed up. Highlights of the day included Jennifer Taylor, playing Ruby's favorite songs, "Amazing Grace" and "Sweet Hour Of Prayer" on her violin.

Hosting the party for Ruby were Gloria and

Marijuana Implicates Woman

Man Gets 4 Years For Child Assaults

A 67-year-old Sanford man who pleaded guilty to fondling three young Sanford girls was sentenced Tuesday to 4 years for the lewd and lascivious assaults.

Homer Leon White, of 149 Country Club Circle, was also sentenced by Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. to a concurrent 1-year sentence for three counts of child abuse. The prison time is to be followed by 8 years of probation.

While White, who pleaded guilty to the charges In June, faced a maximum penalty of 48 years for the second-degree felonies, the state recommended guideline for an offender without a prior record called for a sentence of 21/2 to 31/2 years. according to Assistant State Attorney Angela Blakelev.

A charge of sexual battery was not prosecuted. Ms. Blakeley said, because in White's case a charge of sexual battery would have been a second-degree felony punishable by the same sentence a lewd and lascivious assault.

According to court records, White was arrested Jan. 27 after he was questioned at the Sanford police station. He reportedly made the girls, two 11-year-olds and a 13-year-old, to submit to oral sex and fondling between Nov. 1 and Jan. 27. He also asked them to participate in intercourse with him, according to court records.

White was designated a mentally disordered sex offender so he could receive specialized counseling during his prison term.

In other court action, a Sanford woman was found guilty Tuesday by jury of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

Teresa Mae Butler, 28, of 21 Higgings Terrace, was ordered held in custody by Circuit Judge Dominick J. Saift until her sentencing Nov. 15. She could receive a year in the county jail on each charge.

According to court records, Sanford police detective Mike Analey, with a search warrant, entered Ms. Butler's apartment April 12 and reported finding two marijuana plants, several packets of pot, a plastic smoking device and two pipes.

Blazing Montana Pleads For Help

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) - A plea for help to across more than 150,000 acres of timber and grassland brought hundreds of additional firefighters to help the 5,000 with the flames in tinder-dry Montana.

The nearly two dozen blazes that have caused havoc in the huge state for the past three days have forced hundreds to evacuate. destroyed numerous homes and some ran-

Gov. Ted Schwinden. who called the fires the worst in 10 years, was also promised more emergency federal funds after a third blaze was declared a national disaster by President Reagan.

"It's the worst fire situation in a decade." Schwinden sald Tuesday as winds gusting to 40 miles per hour propelled flames across treetops and through grass left tinder dry by a month of virtually no precipitation.

More than 20 fires have ravaged the state. including 75,000-acre fire formed by the burning together of two blazes near Billings in the center of the state. That fire has destroyed 30 homes and two ranches near the town of Roundup.

The U.S. Forest Service agreed to send an additional 1,000 firefighters from Washington and Oregon to bolster an army of nearly 5,000 already struggling against the flames.

Shaking Image Of Racial Hate

By Rich Nagle BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston of 1974 was a national symbol of racial hate, the city's yellow school buses a constant reminder of the strain and violence of court-ordered school desegregation.

School buses, some of their windows smashed by rocks, pulled up daily in front of the fortress-like South Boston High School.

The children riding inside, mostly black, were escorted by motorcycle police as helicopters hovered overhead and rlot gear-equipped officers stood taut next to federal marshals.

The same scene was repeated across town at Charlestown High School. Police anipera were on the roof watching the crowd that was dotted with signs reading "Never" and "Resist.

The Cradle of Liberty was "rocking a little monster called hate," one black leader said.

A decade later, the scene has changed.

Children - black and white enter "Southle" High to go to classes, meet friends and play

Across town, the century-old Charlestown High School will soon become condominiums. A modern high school has replaced the old granite structure and students of all races attend classes virtually without incl-

It has been a decade since U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity found boston's schools to be intentionally and systematically segregated - a decade that saw convulsive racial tension and violence and profound change. The images and symbols of Boston and busing have changed.

The schools are no longer armed camps. Gone are the Tactical Patrol Force - batontoting police troubleshooters dressed in flak jackets and riot gear - the spray-painted signs of deflance, the metal detectors at school doorways and the thousands of police and federal marshals who guarded school hallways.

Desegregation continues under Garrity's oversight, although he has said he may withdraw from the case next year and turn it over to the state Board of Education.

The scars left from the resistance to Garrity's June 21, 1974, order remain and ractal tension flares occasionally. But the virulent racism that existed almost for its own sake in the initial years of busing has been quelled.

Last year. Melvin King became the first black in city history to run in the final mayoral election. After an amicable campaign, he lost to a white man, Raymond Flynn, a Southie native at the forefront of the anti-busing movement of the early 1970s who ran his 1983 campaign on a promise to bring racial harmony to the city.

Common Concerns

Where there was once only strife between Boston's blacks and whites, there are now common goals and concerns clean streets, jobs, crime, high rents and control of condoconversion.

The fight for school desegregation began nine years before when Tallulah Morgan and other minority parents filed their 1972 suit against School Committee Chairman John Ker-

In 1963, black parents and students staged a "stay-out" day to protest segregiion.

Boston Celtics' star Bill Russell told students their fight was "a long way from being over, and the important thing is that we are in it and we are going to win,

The same year, the Congress of Racial Equality warned the all-white School Committee to start desegregating the schools or face legal action.

The suit finally entered U.S. District Court and Garrity found that the committee had maintained a dual school system for years, through student assignments, school construction and even by busing students past schools close to their homes.

Garrity so painstakingly docown expert to develop a plan for the fall of 1974, then promptly rejected it.

Garrity took charge.

His Phase I order involved busing 18,000 students and greatly reduced the number of predominantly black and other minority schools, but it did not touch 85 all-white schools.

The opening of school in the fall of 1974 led to boycotts by white students, and occasional bloody clashes between police and demonstrators.

At South Boston High, one white student was stabbed. Clashes between blacks and whites were a daily occurrence.

The violence prompted Thomas Atkins, then head of the Boaton chapter of the NAACP, to say Boston was "rocking a little monster called hate."

The virtually all-white, working-class, fiercely proud and Insular Irish-American neighborhoods of Southie and first of the year. Charlestown became the centers

Centers Of Dissent

Southle residents formed ROAR - Restore Our Allenated Rights - to fight orders from a judge who lived in a wealthy suburb and who they thought was attacking their neighborhood and taking away their schools.

Garrity's Phase II order, issued in May 1975, called for citywide busing of 26,000 students to improve racial equality.

On Monday, Sept. 8, 1975, Phase II began with a massive police presence, after a summer of increasingly heated rhetoric by anti-busing leaders and continued intransigence by the Boston School Committee.

Busing went smoothly in most schools in the city, with Southle and Charlestown staging boycotts by white students. Buses bringing students in from predominantly black parts of town were pelted by stones and bottles, fights broke out and racial epitheta were yelled.

Protesters took to sabotaging the police forces, in some instances leaving potsoned apples near a school for police horses to eat and laying down oil slicks on motorcycle escorts rode by.

The continued violence led the NAACP to file suit asking Garrity to close South Boston High.

Garrity, surrounded by court-appointed experts and federal marshals, made two visits to the school in the fall, and on Dec. 9, 1975, made an extrordinary ruling for a federal

He ordered the school into federal receiverahip, relieved headmaster William Reid and all administrators of their duties and barred the lame duck School Committee from making permanent appointments anywhere in the School Department until a new board was sworn in.

"The court's conclusion is the desegregation plan is not being implemented at South Boston High School. It's not even close to being implemented," Garrity

White school enrollment, then at 70 percent throughout the system, had been dropping for demographic reasons before busing. It decreased as parents sent their children to parochial schools or started their own private schools. Minority school enrollment in 1984 has climbed to 71 percent.

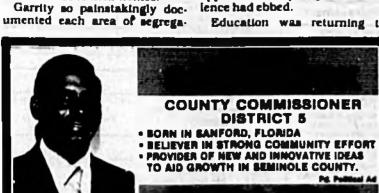

In the national media, Boston was a city "driven to the brink by busing."

Martin Walsh, regional director of the U.S. Community Relations Service, judged Boston in 1976 as a "city at a turning

"The climate here is for major racial violence," he said.

By 1978, when a consent decree ended South Boston High's receivership, headmaster Jerome Winegar had instituted reforms, student enrollment approached capacity, and violence had ebbed.

Education was returning to Labor and financial troubles hit the schools along with the Garrity asked all parties in the rest of the city in 1981 with the suit, including the School advent of Proposition 21/2, a Committee, to develop busing statewide voter-mandated law plans. The board appointed its that slashed property taxes and much of the city's revenue.

Garrity, who at the peak of his control of the system even decided what type of basketballs would be bought for school gyms, has slowly been handing adminstrative powers back to the School Department.

The department has prepared a draft plan to redraw school district lines and offer strong. specialized programs in 'magnet' schools as a way to ensure continued racial balance.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs have suggested a "freedom of choice" plan that would create nine districts for elementary and middle schools. School assignments would be on a first come, first served basis, with specialized programs designed to attract a mix of students.

School Superintendent Robert Spillane - hired in 1981 said the department would present its plan to Garrity around the

If accepted, the 1985-86 school year would be the first in more than a decade where the school committee - not a federal judge runs Boston's schools.

A brunch is one of the most fun and economical ways to entertain. Bright colors set the mood. The pace is relaxed. And. with a menu that features specialties of the season, you can serve a crowd without spending a bundle.

Since the food takes center stage, the table setting can be kept simple. Use familiar serving pieces in creative ways. Stemmed glasses are perfect for both juice and salad dressing. A favorite casserole can be dressed up inexpensively with colorful napkins. Flowers from the garden make an attractive centerplece.

When planning the menu. be imaginative. Treat guests to a spectacular assortment of seasonal fruits. California Fresh Fruit Platter works equally well as an eye-opener or a refreshing dessert. Red, ripe strawberries, now at peak quality and lowest price, share the spotlight with pineapple, kiwi and bananas. Accent the naturally sweet fruit with a tangy yogurt dressing laced with maple flavored table

Brunch entrees can be tailored to fit any theme and any size gathering, but regardless of the number, one should be elevated to "star" status. For economy and versatility, few entrees can outshine the egg. particularly when it is presented in the guise of Baked Egg & Corn Bread Casserole. Old-fashioned corn bread, crumbled and combined with cheese and crisp bacon bits. serves double duty as a nest for the eggs and as a golden crumb topping.

On a lighter note, a puffy Asparagus Souffle combines eggs with now affordable fresh asparagus. Enriched grits contribute a unique flavor and texture to this impressive main course idea.

For best value when buying eggs, select the next largest size if the price difference is less than seven cents per dozen. And, take advantage of specials. Eggs may be stored several weeks in the refrigerator.

Some of your guests may prefer heartier fare, and Sherried Turkey with Barley Pilaf is sure to satisfy. A great use for leftover poultry, this appealing entree combines the distinctive flavor and chewy texture of barley with a topping of turkey and vegetables in a sauce made extra easy with canned soup.

Other menu elements can be equally varied. Prepare creamy, rich Cheese Blintzes the night before and refrigerate until baking time. Original pancake mix makes short work of the tender crepes. Serve with or without dollops of sour cream and fruit preserves. And, homemade breads are always welcome. Wholegrain Sally Lunn features the hearty flavor and wholesome texture of rolled oats in the form of an easy-to-prepare batter bread.

Cookie Treats

With cries of "I'm starving" and "What's to eat?" the home-from-school set daily bursts through the door. From coast to coast, the scene is the same: the "munchies" have struck and hungry kids can hardly wait another minute.

When dinner time seems light years away, a youngster's after-school snack attack demands prompt satisfaction. A glass of milk and a help-yourself homemade treat - preferably portable: - are a time-honored answer. Bar cookies are favorites of on-the-go eaters and the Kraft Kitchens have created two new ones for the '84-'85 school year. Both recipes, one a baked bar and one no bake type. streamline preparation with a "secret ingredient" - Kraft marshmallow creme. Long a favorite for luscious desserts and confections of all kinds, it's a snackmaker's standby as well.

Chocolate Creme Bars start with a packaged chocolate cake mix. Then marshmallow creme teams up with cream cheese to sweeten and lighten the filling for the brownle-like bars. The recipe makes two dozen.

If you're already using the "secret ingredient" in your snack treats or would like to try creating an original snack recipe, you could garner a prize in the 1984 Kraft Marshmullow Creme "Easy Secret Ingredient Recipe Contest.

Entries are being accepted now through Sept. 30. There are three categories in which you may submit recipes - "Festive Fruits," "Frozen Favorites," and "Chocolate Challenge." Almost any original, easy recipe is a potential winner, from breakfast food to late night snack. Complete rules for the recipe contest follow, or you can write for the rules by sending your name and address to:
