Peron's Supporters Help Elect Frondizi; But Oppose Administration

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (U.P.)—Supporters of ousted Dictator Juan D. Peron helped elect Arturo Frondizi as Argentina's new president—but they will oppose his administration.

Peron ordered his supporters to vote for Frondizi for "strategic" reasons, partly because some of the President's economic ideas coincide with his own.

The Peronist newspapers boast that Frondizi was elected only with Peron's support. But they have now announced, as one newspaper headline puts it: "The strategic support has ended. United, we must now oppose the winner."

The Peronists are now organizing formal opposition to Frondizi even though they are outlawed as a party.

It is estimated that about 1,400,000 of Frondizi's votes came from Peronists. In addition, there were 65,000 bank ballots. Many of these were cast by Peronists who refused to follow instructions to vote for Frondizi.

Frondizi is now working out his plans to take over the presidency on May 1 as the first freely elected chief executive in 30 years.

Intransigent Radical Party will have nearly all the seats in the chamber of deputies.

Peron bitterly fought, many were forced into the question of approval—amnesty—or even of Peron to return—lies a former enemies.

Mack Impeachment Appears Imminent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Owen Harris of a special House investigating subcommittee announced today he will file a resolution to impeach Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack.

Harris also expressed belief that a group of senators—accused of "improper" influence on the FCC—will have to appear before his subcommittee to explain their actions.

Mack is accused of letting money and influence sway his official decisions. He has denied the charges, but has agreed to consider Harris' demand that he give up his $20,000-a-year post.

There have been unconfirmed reports that the White House has given Mack an ultimatum to quit or be fired.

Senators Accused
Harris, Arkansas Democrat, made his statement in reply to a charge by George T. Baker, president of National Airlines, that Mack is being "crucified" and disgraced for not yielding to political pressure from senators in his FCC vote on TV Channel 10 in Miami.

Movie Economic Crisis Produces New Set Of Moguls

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—The movie industry's economic crisis has produced a new set of moguls—many of them actors, directors and other one-time thrills of the studio kinglys.

Replacing the old order are small mobile enterprises with virtually no overhead costs—except during actual production of a picture. Academy Awards during the past five years prove independent producers are making better movies than the remaining studios.

Crowding onto the nation's screens are the cutthroats of such companies as Batjac John Wayne, Byrna Kirk Douglas, Pearlberg, Seaton, Dona Danny Kaye, Barry Zauch, York Jerry Lewis, Stanley Kramer, Rusfield Jane Russell and about 100 others.

These "independents" release their films through major studio tie-ups, or via fast-growing United Artists which also bankrolls independent pictures. The newcomers frequently rent space from the old lots, moving in their own crews or "renting" technicians and property.

Three pictures itself in 1957, particularly in 16 independent productions.

Independent From Gizala

A division exists among independents—those who tie up with the studios and others who want nothing to do with the fallen giants.

Jerry Wald "Feyon Place" an indie producer at 20th Century-Fox, says: "The majors have talent available to producers. Indies are like gypsies. They make a picture and fold up. Working with a major company is a solid proposition."

Harold Hecht "Marty," a partner in Hecht-Hill-Lancaster, takes the other point of view. "Major studios are being held together by business arrangements with independent producers. They've broken into a network of independent companies."

In addition to the independents, TV is a big factor in keeping the studios afloat. While TV clobbers the movie boxoffice, it pours a substantial flow of the long green into the movie makers' coffers.

Not only did video pay close to $150 million for pre-1948 movies, it continues to bolster the industry by purchasing TV shows filmed at the studios. All the big ones are accelerating TV production.

Warner Brothers shoots four top video westerns, "Maverick," "Cheyenne," "Sugarfoot," and "Cattle" plans call for five more series in the fall.

20th-Fox has turned over one entire lot to TV films where four currently are rolling. "Broken Arrow," "Man Without a Gun," "Perry Mason," and "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Knowing It."

Paramount is shooting "Sally" and "Court of Last Resort."

MGM turns out "The Thin Man" series and "Northwest Passage." It also averages five commercials a week.

Columbia, which pioneered TV films through its subsidiary Screen Gems, produces nine net-work shows and 15 syndicated programs—including "Rin-Tin-Tin" and "Father Knows Best."

Universal-International announced only last week that it, too, has entered the field and has signed a deal with NBC to create and produce properties for the network.

One successful independent producer said recently, "without independent production, TV filming and the fortunes paid for old movies, the major studios would have fallen apart last year."

Ideal News Reporter

SEATTLE, Wash. (U.P.)—Frank E. Bartholomew, president of the United Press, has called for development of the "generalist," rather than the specialist, as the ideal news reporter.

Bartholomew spoke at the 11th final All-Coast Press Clinic, sponsored by Pacific Stone School Press and University of Washington School of Communications.

Since the Russians fired their first satellite, he said, there has been more and more talk of a need for science specialists and for developing science teams to track down the professor in his laboratory and explain his work to the country.

"We in the U. P. do have to try to anticipate trends in national life and national thought, and to try to build a staff which will cope with these trends by the time they are fully established," he said.

"People outside the organization who try to help us with these things urge us to lay on scientific talent. There is merit in this thought, but it is a drawback."

It is true

While it is true that no one can talk to a scientist the way another scientist can, Bartholomew said, the material gathered for a news story must be written so the public will understand it. The expert may not be aware of what the reader does or does not already know, he said, and he may not recognize the real news in the development.

"What is it, then, that we, all of us, are looking for and hoping to find?" he asked.

"I don't think it's the specialist, except in a limited way, and even then, perhaps the specialist should be in a field apart from the man's primary training.

"I do think it's the generalist,

People Assured Ant Chemical Won't Harm

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (U.P.)—State Health Officer Wilson T. Sowder has assured Florida residents that chemicals used in the state's fire ant extermination program "will not cause a hazard to the health of our people."

"We have also obtained the assurance of the U. S. Public Health Service that the program will not jeopardize the public's health," Sowder said.

Dr. Sowder said the fire ant has a poisonous sting that can cause severe after-effects to persons stung. Three deaths have been reported from stings of the ants, but they did not occur in Florida, he said.

He said unless the ants can be kept from nesting in Florida, people in the areas may expect considerable loss in farming operations. Destruction of wildlife could increase along with the human health hazards caused by the pests.

Yanks Win Helsinki Cup

HELSINKI (U.P.)—A U. S. Air Force team stationed at Hamstein, Germany, defeated the Finnish national team, 80-67, in an international basketball game here Thursday night. James Fitch and George Lyon scored 32 and 21 points, respectively, for the winners.

The status of the Mountain-top Christ is located in Rio de Janeiro, overlooking the bay.

"For personal, political, religious, regional, or national prejudice or pride," Bartholomew said he has some fears that the press release, or "handout," and the "spokesman" threaten journalistic diligence, ingenuity, skepticism and zeal.

"For," he added, "zealots we must be. Not for a cause. For facts and for the truth—and all of the truth."

Report Shows Per Capita Increase

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The Agriculture Department has estimated per capita income of farmers in 1957 was a record $932, up 10 percent from the $902 calculated for 1956.

This sharp per capita increase was accounted for almost wholly by a decrease in farm population. Preliminary estimates in the department's publication, "The Demand and Price Situation," show farmers' net realized income for 1957 totaled $11,500,000,000, down 4 per cent from 1956 net farm income of $12,100,000,000.

The department said the decline in realized net income—cash money left after production expenses are paid—was more than had been anticipated previously.

How Figured
The record per capita income was figured by dividing the farm population of 20,320,000 down from 22,257,000 in 1956 into a total farm income, derived from both farm and non-farm sources, of $20,200,000,000.

This total income included $11,500,000,000 realized net income, 600 million dollars in inventory changes, $1,800,000,000 paid in wages to hired hands on farms, and $6,300,000,000 received by farm people from non-farm sources.

The realized net income included about one billion dollars in direct payments from the government. These payments were for participation in the soil bank, wool, agricultural conservation, and sugar programs.

The per capita income of farmers from farm sources only was $664, compared with $601 in 1956. The per capita income from non-farm sources—mostly from off-farm jobs—was $309 in 1957. In 1956, it was $301.

Number of Farms
The department also released the number of farms by states in 1957. It showed the long-time downward trend in number of farms continued—the estimated 4,856,800 farms in operation last year represented a 2.3 per cent decrease from 1956. The department also estimated there will be about 4,750,000 farms operated in 1958.

Gasparilla

wouldn't know his west coast!

Gasparilla, Florida's famous scamp of buccaneer days, would really be amazed if he could set a course along the West Coast he knew so well in days of yore. Everywhere, desolate beaches and scrub growth have given way to sparkling resorts, modern highways, great bridges, bustling industries, teeming communities. Florida has truly come a long way since Gasparilla's time... thanks in very large measure to free enterprise... an economic way of life which is destined to bring about even greater progress in the future.

The same American free enterprise system which sparked Florida's fabulous growth from wilderness to wonderland has given America the world's foremost electric service, too.

Florida Power & Light Company, surging ahead on its record expansion program, is proud of its part in "helping build Florida"... in helping Floridians to LIVE BETTER, ELECTRICALLY!

Congratulations To The 4-H Club During Week March 1-8!

This week, more than 89,000 Florida 4-H Club boys and girls—along with over two-million others from every part of the United States and its possessions—are joining with the rest of the nation in observing National 4-H Club Week, March 1-8.

A goodly number of the Florida 4-H Club boys and girls are from Seminole County—a group of young people under the overall direction of County Agent Cecil Tucker and Home Demonstration Agent Miss Myrtle Wilson.

Following the Biblical injunction to "honor thy father and thy mother", the 4-H Club members have chosen as their theme this year "A 4-H Salute to Parents." Members of this youth organization are between the ages of 10 and 21.

Much has been accomplished among the 4-H Club members in Seminole County during the past year and the program is gaining momentum with interest spreading among the young people of the area.

They have attended camps, they have made good their projects, they have demonstrated their skill to do for themselves, carrying their accomplishments to district meets and get-togethers.

The entire community should take time to find out how much the 4-H Clubs of Seminole County do for their community and for themselves as individuals. Knowing that "as its individuals improve so does the community" interest in the organization should be paramount.

The annual 4-H Club "Report To The Nation" is being delivered in Washington by six top 4-H members who unfold the story along with pictures summarizing the report and 4-H accomplishments—and in addition paying special tribute to 4-H parents who helped to make the achievements possible.

We are all proud of the 4-H Club and its accomplishments right here in Seminole County.

Firm Makes Way For Missile Age

A well known authority on agricultural matters, Dr. Karl D. Butler writes that in the last 10 years the farmer's share of each dollar the consumer spends for food has dropped from 82 cents to about 42 cents.

This development has stirred much discussion and ill feeling. The charge has been made, for instance, that processors and retailers have been taking an unjustified share of the food dollar, at agriculture's expense.

Dr. Butler, however, shows that there is no case to be made here. The Department of Agriculture is authority for the statement that the food chains earn a profit of only 1.1 cents on that dollar. And the processor's profit dropped from 4 per cent in 1946 to 2.9 per cent in 1956.

Where, then, has the money gone? Dr. Butler, however, shows that there is help to account for the widened spread between what the farmer gets and the customer pays. And he finds, the biggest one, by a wide margin, "... can be found in what has been happening in the kitchen of America." He goes on: "Apparently most of the farmer's missing share of the consumer's food dollar goes into processing hundreds of ready-to-serve and ready-to-cook items. It would appear Mrs. Housewife and Mr. American are willing to pay someone else to do the housewife's work and have it done before reaching the home."

This increasing emphasis on "built-in convenience" is true of many other goods sold at retail. It requires much labor and costs

Income Tax Tips

The Florida Accountants Association—an affiliate of National Society of Public Accountants.

The interest you pay on borrowed money is deductible. If the interest is part of your business expense it is deducted along with other business expenses on a separate Schedule C on your tax return. If it is in connection with rental income it is deducted on page (3) Schedule G on the tax return. If the interest is a personal expense it is deductible only if you report on long form 1040 and itemize your deductions.

Carrying charges not in connection with your business or rental income can be deducted, with certain limitations. The code provides for the deductions of certain carrying charges as interest in the event that the interest charged cannot be ascertained. Whenever there is a contract for the purchase of personal property on an installment plan, and there is a stated carrying charge, finance charge, service charge, or the like, a portion of the charge is to be treated as if it were interest. The amount of the interest deduction is computed by taking six percent of the sum of unpaid balances under the contract at the beginning of each month in the taxable year and dividing by 12.

In other words, take the amount you owed at the first of each month and add them up. Then take six percent of this figure and divide that by 12 to get your deduction.

However, the amount to be deducted for 1957 cannot exceed the amount properly allocable to 1957. Some interest is not deductible and that is: Interest paid on money borrowed to purchase wholly tax exempt securities; single premium life insurance or endowment contracts; interest paid where you are not legally liable for the principal of a life insurance loan.

In computing the amount of interest on your mortgage or other installment contracts you should be sure that you are deducting only interest, not taxes, insurance, etc.

My New York

BY MEL HEMER

NEW YORK—Things one New Yorker thinks about:

Customarily the lost-and-found column of the New York Times is not overcrowded with items, because Times readers are cautious, logical and given to saving things, like string and tinfoil. They do not lose things. The other day, however, the column noted the fact that a single shoe had been found in the neighborhood of 72nd street and Lexington avenue and would the finder please call Butterfield 8-2482. Presumably there would be a reward, although what a suitable reward would be for finding a single shoe, I am not sure.

Now—how did he lose that single shoe? The problem besets me. My immediate reaction is that he was tossed out of a Lexington avenue saloon and one shoe went flying in the process. But—a Times reader? Hardly. It could be that he was having a shoe repaired in a cobbler's when he heard the sirens outside and ran out to chase the engine, only the fire was in St. Louis and by the time he returned, what with trying to get a taxicab at the airport it was two months later and the cobbler had shut up shop and moved to Biloxi, Miss.

It could be he was watching a Lollibridgia movie and to look off in complete relaxation he took off his shoe and—no, that's a little far-fetched. Perhaps he took off one shoe and, using it as a hammer, smashed the juke box in a 72nd street saloon because it kept playing Presley records. Well... we only can sit and conjecture. Somewhere at Lex and 72nd, a single shoe is in limbo, and a Times reader is pretty heartick.

SIDNEY ASCHER, IN HIS HEYDAY the president of the Society to Prevent Disparaging Remarks About Brooklyn, phoned the other day to report his latest venture: he seeks to get a million people to mail him a dollar, so he will become a millionaire.

"You think I'm kidding?" Sidney demanded. "How else can a man become a millionaire these days? Anyway, I want to take the money and go to Washington to become a lobbyist for the people. Nobody represents the people these days, not even the President."

New State Parole System Suggested

RAIFORD 28 — State prison officials have suggested a new parole system may be needed in Florida to speed up the rehabilitation of some convicts and relieve crowded prison conditions.

Raiford Prison last month took in 341 prisoners, a new all time record, Sen. Harry O. Stratten, chairman of the state prison and convict interim committee, reported.

Stratten added that recent reports indicated that Florida prisons are "receiving 80 prisoners more per month than they are turning out."

In a six-hour meeting, Stratten's committee suggested discussing the problem with the parole commission and other prison officials.

Stratten said architects and engineers for the long-range building program at Raiford had assured him "they are going to get busy on it and get it started. But it won't be finished by the next session of the Legislature in 1958."

Some $500,000 was allocated by the last Legislature for the three-phase project. The first building will house 1,200 inmates with one cell per prisoner.

"Right now, there are instances where 17 men are housed in one cell with 13 by 17 feet of floor space," Stratten said.

The committee also discussed the building program at Lowell's Prison for women, where two new dormitories are expected to be completed within the next 10 days.

The group approved a recommendation asking the state Legislature for "deficiency funds" for Belle Glade Prison Farm. Stratten said the prison "has deteriorated to such an extent it is hardly useable."

"The building is rotting down. There is a deterioration of kitchen equipment and there is an ever- increasing sink of the building due to a weakening of its foundation," he said.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)— An unidentified Negro truck driver saved a blind white man from possible death at a street intersection Thursday. The blind man was tapping his way with a cane across a street that had been torn up for repairs. He walked dangerously close to the open flames of warning flare pots that flared the repair site. The truck driver saw that the blind man was in danger of catching fire, stopped his truck and guided him to the curb. Then he got back in and drove away.

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN, Society Editor

The rain is coming down in sheets this morning, and it wonders me (to coin a phrase from Dodie King) if the White Elephant tournament scheduled for this afternoon will go on as planned. Hardly seems likely. The golf course will be knee deep in rain. Very bad for scores.

Nine of the VAH-9 wives gathered together Friday night to discuss trips to Europe, and other pertinent matters. Joanne Shover was the hostess. Joanne served delicious cookies, coffee and cakes. Instead of playing bridge as planned, we simply chatted.

Naturally the conversation turned to notorious VAH-5, who seem to feel they have to tell the whole world how good they are, while more modest men simply do their deeds in a quiet way. It was amusing to turn the page of the latest edition of the Sanfly and discover that a five man is on the bottom of the golf ladder. There are a few fields left for these men to conquer.

If our navy people were not so much a part of the daily Sanfly life, we would not discuss these things in public. But never get the idea that only a few men are defending our country. There are a whole lot of them, who are too busy to write about it.

In every field competition is considered an excellent thing. It keeps them competing on their toes, making the maximum effort. However, once in a while the spirit of competition is misconstrued. A very important part of it called "sportsmanship" is forgotten. And this is undeniably bad.

It would be a shame to have the whole community laugh at a group of hardworking individuals who have mightily bragged about their deeds. Better that they continue to do a noteworthy job without taking so many notes.

Good morale can be maintained within a group without public adoration. The sea stories, the tall tales, the true tales, all these belong at home, not all over town. So the tournament was cancelled, and no one played golf until a late hour. Midge Dunn and I were there at starting time, but were handed no prizes for promptness. Or anything else.

Becky Symes celebrated her tenth birthday on Saturday. Several little Loch Arbor guests came to her party, which was nicely arranged by busy Jo, who almost forgot the birthday.

Florida Fish Feature of Florida Products Week

February 27 — March 8 is the Third Festival of Florida Products Week. This year we have been asked to promote the use of Florida Sea Foods. Commercial fishing is a strong foundation stone and by using more Florida fish and shellfish, we are cementing that foundation, says Myrtle Wilson, Home Demonstration Agent.

You will find Florida mullet and mackerel very inexpensive.

The Department of Agriculture, Tallahassee, has published a new bulletin on "Florida Seafood Cookery". It is a free publication and may be received by writing a postcard to Mr. Nathan Mayo, Commissioner of Agriculture, Tallahassee, Florida.

Have you tried baked, broiled and stuffed fish? The baked fillets in sour cream was a favorite in the clubs this month. It's very inexpensive and takes little time to prepare. Use 1 teaspoon vinegar to 1 cup milk & I don't have sour cream.

Baked Fillets in Sour Cream: "FILLETS OF FISH NORMANDE"

- 1 lb. washed mussels
- 12 small mushrooms
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 tea. lemon juice
- 6 ray oysters (optional)
- 1 tsp. butter or margarine
- 1 tea. minced shallots or onion
- 2 lb. hawed or fresh fish fillets
- 4 tea. salt
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 1/2-inch thick slices French bread
- 2 to 3 tsp. butter or margarine
- 2 egg yolks
- 1/2 cup light cream
- 1/2 cooked, cleaned shrimp (optional)

Cook mussels and mushrooms in water and lemon juice 5 minutes or until mussels open; drain; set aside mushrooms, liquid; shell mussels. Heat oysters in their juice a few minutes. Melt 1 tsp. butter in 10-inch skillet; add shallots, then fish sprinkled with salt. Pour reserved liquid around fish. Tear or cut circle of waxed paper to fit skillet; tear small hole in center; place over fish. Bring to boil; cover; cook slowly 10 minutes, or until easily flaked with fork but still moist.

Remove fish to heated platter; arrange mussels, mushrooms, and oysters on top. Cream 1/2 cup butter with flour; add to liquid in skillet, stirring; cook until thickened; cook 5 minutes longer. Meanwhile, saute bread in 2 to 3 tsp. butter until golden brown on both sides. Stir egg yolks, mixed with cream, into sauce; being sure to boil. Taste; season if necessary. Strain over fish; garnish with sauteed bread, shrimp. Serves 4.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Bessie Davis, Mrs. Audrey Bishop, Mrs. Vera Phillips, Mrs. Evelyn Gunter, Mrs. Allene Cooper, Mrs. Ruby Davis, Mrs. Lorraine Graham and Miss Lorene Franklin.

Spring Training Goes Into Full Swing Around Sunshine State

By Jerry Covington
This weekend throughout the state of Florida, baseball fans everywhere once again, came alive — a picture that is unequalled to every fan of the national pastime.

Entertainment Set For Race Viewers

SEBRING —The principal emphasis in the central Florida resort area this month is on, of course, the 12-hour sports car grand prix endurance for the Amoco trophy Saturday, March 22.

Several things new in the line of social life and entertainment for the race enthusiasts have been scheduled for the week starting March 16.

For the first time, a gala grand prix ball, with an outstanding dance band, will be held Thursday night, March 20, according to the latest report from Mrs. Mary Ullmann, wife of race director Alex Ullmann, international industrialist and sportsman.

Reservations for the ball are now being accepted in the race headquarters at the City Pier Auditorium, Mrs. Ullmann reported $5 single and $5 a couple.

Dress will be informal. A complete floor show and other entertainment is being scheduled.

Coming up the following day, Friday, March 21, will be the first annual historical automobile cavalcade, with additional entries being received daily by committee chairman Smith Hampton (Oliver), former custodian of the Automotive division at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

Latest veteran and classic car entries, Oliver said, include a 1916 Stutz Bearcat, owned by H. Mitchell Harper of Palm Beach; 1919 Paige Daytona speedster, Roy G. Chandler, Riviera Beach; and 1922 Chandler Dispatch touring, Morris Clay, Wauchula, all in Florida.

From the wintry blasts and snow of Redding, Conn., will come Tim Hawkins' 1928 Bentley touring. From Malvern, Pa., J. S. Sherman will bring his 1928 Hispania. Suiza and Edward Kikman will trek his 1939 Ford deluxe phaeton from upstate Tallahassee, Fla.

Also on the social calendar is the activity planned for the Paddock area on race day, with advance reservations being handled at the race headquarters.

FSU Closes Out Season Tonight

TALLAHASSEE (Special)—Burt Decker is a clutch to cop the team scoring crown and Danny Holtz the rebound title as Florida State closes out its basketball campaign here against Georgia tonight.

Decker has 398 points and a 16.6 average through the first 21 games of the season, easily outdistancing last year's high scorer Hugh Durham, who now has 316 and a 15.0 average.

Holtz needs 12 rebounds to hit the 300 mark tonight, his nearest competitor is Captain Larry Strom with 288. It could be his first season in many years that three men have pulled down 200 or more rebounds, if Decker can add seven to his 193 total against the Bulldogs.

The Seminoles currently have four men hitting in double figures in scoring. Guard Jim Litzky is hitting at an 11.1 pace and Strom at an even 10.0.

The Seminoles will also be seeking to improve on their team free throw percentage. Through Feb. 17, FSU ranked 11th in the nation as a team, and Durham 15th individually.

ville slugger, or the chatter of the younger players as they hustle the ball around the field. To a baseball fan this is the most beautiful sound in the world. Weather and baseball just naturally go together.

Each year clubs, both major and minor, change towns or cities in an effort to bolster attendance but here is one phase of the great game that never changes—the fan himself. Where you find a true baseball fan you find a person who enjoys life to the fullest.

This weekend 12 out of 16 major league clubs reported in to their respective camps in Florida and begin their conditioning drills for fast approaching opening day in April.

In the American League six clubs train in the Sunshine State. The American League champs, the New York Yankees, make their spring home at St. Petersburg and work out at Miller Huggins field.

The Boston Red Sox (Ted Williams and Co.) will be in Sarasota at Payne Park. The Chicago White Sox at Al Lopez field in Tampa. Detroit Tigers in Lakeland at Henry Field, Kansas City at West Palm Beach, and the ever lovin' Washington Senators at Orlando.

It might be added that the preseason predictions find the Senators a sure bet to finish last in both leagues.

In the National League, the World Champion Milwaukee Braves will set up camp at Bradenton and will work out at Braves field (Newly named after last year's great victory). The St. Louis Cardinals (Stan Musial and Company) will also train in St. Pete with the Yanks and will work out at Al Lang field. Cincinnati will be in Tampa and will work out at Plant Field, Los Angeles will travel from California this season to work out at Vero Beach, Philadelphia at Clearwater, and Pittsburgh will return to Fort Myers again this year.

Both leagues find two clubs training in Arizona again this year. In the American League Baltimore and Cleveland and the Giants and Cubs from the National League train in Scottsdale, Cleveland in Tucson, and the Giants in Tucson.

Announcement that Fleming, of Shadydale, Ohio, and Parrish, of Gainesville, had been chosen by varsity lettermen came at the University of Florida's annual football banquet Thursday night.

Star halfback of the 1957 team, Jimmy Rountree of Miami, won the award as the most valuable senior player. Another Miami, guard Joe Windham, received the Walter J. Matherly award for the player with the highest scholastic average. Windham, a civil engineering major, compiled a 3.80, or "A-minus" average during the fall semester.

Fleming and Parrish were standing juniors on the 1957 football team which compiled a 6-2-1 record. A total of 35 varsity letters and 45 freshman numerals were awarded at the banquet.

Some 300 persons attended the ceremonies. The Rev. Roger Blanchard, dean of St. Johns Episcopal Cathedral, Jacksonville, who was a tackle on the Boston University football team in the 1920's, was the featured speaker.

TWO NAMED TO WEST
NEW YORK (AP)—Archie Dees of Indiana and Hubert Reed of Oklahoma City U. have been named to the West squad which will meet the East in the annual East-West All-Star basketball game at Madison Square Garden, March 23.

Wright Leading Scorer

NEW YORK (AP)—Teddy Wright of South Carolina State, who has completed his season, now must wait anxiously while Bennie Swain of Texas Southern makes a dangerous attack on his national small-college basketball scoring lead.

Wright remained on top in weekly scoring statistics issued by the NCAA for games through Feb. 22. He has an average of 28.0 points per game.

But the six-foot Swain zoomed from fourth to second place at 27.4 points per game after a week that saw him hitting a 33 average clip. Swain has tournament play remaining, so has a chance to overtake Wright before the books are closed.

Swain already leads the nation in field goal accuracy, sinking 63.8 per cent of his shots as he led Texas Southern to a record of 22 wins and three losses. His marksmanship helped put Texas Southern in the team lead in the same department with a .532 shooting mark.

Arnold Smith of Allen University finished his season as the top free throw shooter with a .912 average, topped in history only by Jim Sutton of South Dakota State.

Mary Becker of Penn Military leads in rebounds with 25.5 per game.

West Virginia Tech tops the team scoring list with an average of 19.4 points per game through Feb. 21, followed by Texas Southern at 93.9. McNeese State of Louisiana leads in defense, allowing 49.7 points per game.

Back to defend his championship in the Daytona 200 is Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., last year's winner who also holds the record for the race, an average of 98.52 mph.

Kenny Brown, Covina, Calif., winner of the Daytona 100 last year, has moved up in the motor-cycle race and will compete in 100 miles last year also was a record maker—an average of 93.87 mph.

Besides Leonard, four other Daytona winners will be in the Sunday race. They are: John Gibson, Durate and Pasadena, Calif., (1954); Brad Andres, San Diego, Calif., (1955); Bobby Hill, Columbus and Grove City, Ohio, (1954); and Dick Klamfoth, Groveport, Ohio, the only three time winner of the Daytona 200, (1949, 1952 and 1952).

A number of motorcycle events are scheduled for Handicapper Derby Week which opens Tuesday, March 4.

Guests of honor will be the National Polio Foundation's 1958 poster family from Marion, Ga. They are Mrs. Joseph Solomon and her children, Joseph Allen, 9, and twins, Sandra Sue and Linda Lou, 7. All four were victims of polio in 1953. Joseph will lead a motorcycle parade.

A highlight of Handicapper Derby Week will be the annual Awards Night ceremony Friday, March 7, at Peabody Auditorium. At that

ALL-STAR RATING By Alan Maver

108 Will Compete In Derby Final

DAYTONA BEACH — A field of 108 riders, the largest in recent years, is scheduled to compete in the finale of Handicapper Derby Week here — the national championship Daytona 200, the 200 mile national championship motorcycle race over the 4.1 mile beach and road course Sunday, March 9.

The field for the other beach and road race — the Daytona 100, Saturday, March 8 — also is the largest in recent years. The American Motorcycle Assn., which sanctions the Handicapper Derby events, reports 85 riders have filed entries for the 100 miles.

Adding spice to the competition this year will be the fact that these will be final races on the present beach and road course. This course, which has been used by both stock cars and motorcycleists, is being closed to races because the area is being developed for motels and homes.

Back to defend his championship in the Daytona 200 is Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., last year's winner who also holds the record for the race, an average of 98.52 mph.

My Brother Justice

CHAPTER 20
AFTER SUPPER I walked out part the barn and watched the sunset. Edna came out and stood on the edge of the porch. She saw me and called, "Will you hitch up the buggy, Smoke? Ma's tired of staying home so I thought we'd go into town to the dance."

I pulled the buggy out of the lean-to, then got out the harness horses. They hadn't been exercised for a few days and I was of Old Nick, but I shouldered between the traces and hooked up. Ma had put on her velvet dress and beads and the ridiculous hat. As always, I helped her into the buggy and Edna took the reins when I handed them to her.

"I wish you wouldn't mope around here, Smoke," Ma said. "Luther may come back," I said. "You go on, Ma. Have a good time."

She bent and patted my cheek. "You're such a good boy, Smoke."

I stood there while they drove from the yard, then went over to the porch and sat down. Luther, hell! The only reason I didn't have my suit on now was that I didn't want to face Julie Hageman after shooting off my mouth.

Night came in quiet and fast. The wind began to pick up, scouting dust along, banging and from stalls door in the barn. Time passed slow when a man is alone. I sat for hours and they seemed like days. Once I went inside to look at the kitchen clock; a quarter after ten, then once more I took my place on the porch.

A faint sound coming from the direction of the river pulled my attention up sharp and I sat perfectly still, listening. Then I heard it again. Two horses, and the creak of a buggy. I saw the rig moving toward the yard, and I stepped away from the house.

I recognized Julie Hageman before she saw me, and when she did, she seemed startled because she suddenly sawed on the reins. I held the nervous horses for a moment, then stepped to the off wheel. I could see that she had on a light-colored dress, the kind with a lot of ruffles, and from beneath the hem lace petticoats peeked out.

She said, "I waited, Smoke, but you didn't come." And then she said, "I didn't think I'd be welcome," I told her.

"We both said things we shouldn't have," Julie said. "Smoke, I just can't stay mad at you!"

"You seemed mad at Everett's place."

"I was pretending, but I can't do that well either." She looked at me and waited. "Well, are you going to take me to the dance or not?"

"Give me ten minutes," I said and ran toward the house.

Some people would say that a man can't take a cold water bath, change his clothes and slick his hair in ten minutes, but I'll tell you that I did it in eight.

Julie gave the reins to me once I'd hopped aboard and I whipped the light buggy around and drove from the yard. I didn't say anything for a while, not that I didn't have anything on my mind, but I was trying not to put my foot in my mouth again. Yet a man can't drive all the way to town without saying something.

"Sure glad shipping's over," I said.

"I'm glad I got up the nerve to come across the river," she said.

"Fish?" I stared at her.

"Smoke, can you forget the schoolgirl things I said?"

"Didn't sound schoolgirlish to me," I said.

She reached across and took the reins, pulling the span to a halt. "Smoke, you kissed me the other night, but not the way you wanted, but the way you thought I wanted to be kissed. She wrapped the reins around the whip socket and took my hands and placed them on her waist.

"Now, I want you to kiss me like you want to kiss me."

"Whatever folks have said about me, one thing they all know is that I don't need a lot of urging. I'll never forget how soft she felt in my arms, or how her lips answered me in a way I'd always wanted them to answer. My experience with women was limited, sure enough, but I could tell that I'd made an impression. Her eyes had a bright shine in their depths and her smile was for me alone.

"Smoke," she said, "are there really Indian squaws who kiss better than I do?"

The best way to make women shut up, I had just discovered, was to kiss them, which I did. Her arms knocked my hat off and I liked to choke me, but can you name a better way to die? When I released her, I said, "Don't you worry about any other woman, Julie."

I unwrapped the reins and drove on. She put her arm through mine and laid her head against my shoulder. And that's the way we drove to Ponca City, only it took a little longer than usual because I had to stop three or four times to see if that kiss had lost anything. It hadn't.

The Grange Hall was bright with light and music floated toward us as we tied up in the lot behind. I helped Julie down and we started for the hall.

"Wait! I forgot my box lunch," she hurried back to the rig to get it.

"What kind of a ribbon do you have on it?" I asked.

"Edna. Are you going to let me on it, Smoke?"

"You're darned tooter! I saw you think I wanted some other fella dancing with my girl all night!"

Something I said there had the kind of effect I had; she stopped close to me and pressed her lips against mine. Then she took my hand and we went on in.

The dance had been under way for nearly two hours. Ma and Edna were there and Edna was dancing with Bill Hageman. Julie spoke briefly to Ma, then took her box lunch to the audience's table at the end of the hall. I followed her, moving easy through the crowd. People spoke to me, farmers and townfolk. I saw Vines Randolph and two other farmers by the refreshment table. When I nodded to Randolph, he waved and smiled.

Julie and I swung onto the floor and for the next hour time sort of got lost for me. When the act was finished, I got her a glass of punch, turned down a smelt of stronger stuff, and took her outside. We sat on the audience's table and listened to the noise of people at peace. At the Grange affairs, they sort of put aside their likes and dislikes and to hear them you'd never suspect they were hog-poor and full of trouble.

"I don't see your brothers," Julie said.

"They'll likely show up," I told her. The music began again and I got up, pulling her by her feet. "That's too good to waste," I said.

Julie and I whirled about and forgot about everything, except having a good time. By the time this act ended, people were beginning to notice that we always danced together and some talk was being around. We didn't care, but wagging tongues can make up a lot of stories, and to cut some of them short, Julie left me and went over to where the ladies stood in moonlight splendour. I headed for Vines Randolph, who stood against the wall sipping his fruit punch. When I sidled him, he said, "You're having a good time, Smoke."

"That's sure grape!" I said.

"Where's Wade Everett?"

"Higgins stopped off before dark," Randolph said, "before he'd be here."

By chance I happened to be looking at the side door when my brother Cord stepped in. . . .

"Someone in this hall is a cattle rustler!" Cord declared, "I've passed around that I mean to catch that man!"

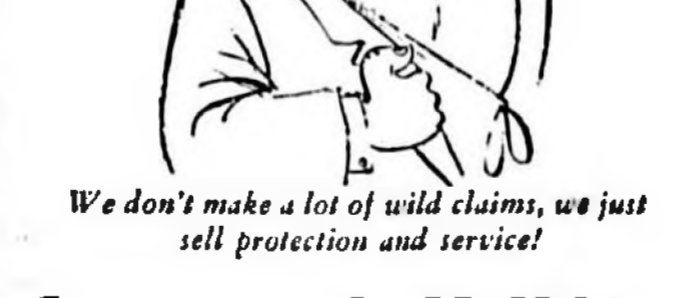

The story continues here tomorrow.

WIND TUNNEL SETS RECORD—For the first time, escape velocity (seven miles per second), which is the minimum speed required to propel planes and missiles into space, has been exceeded in the wind tunnel, Hotshot II, at the Air and Research Command's Development Center in Tullahoma, Tenn. An Air Force announcement revealed a test run lasting about a tenth of a second in which the air flow of 32,400 miles an hour (nine miles a second) was achieved. FDC Predicts Gas Extension Would Bring Savings

TALLAHASSEE—The Florida Development Commission predicted today that extension of natural gas down the length of the state this year would bring savings to consumers, stimulate industrial expansion and foster tourism.

In a special 23-page report, "The Impact of Natural Gas on Florida," the Commission said that "while the introduction of natural gas in peninsular Florida cannot be expected to remake the state's economy, it will bring large savings in fuel and greater convenience and cleanliness."

"Through cheaper fuel it will stimulate industrial development generally, and there is a sound factual basis for believing that some quite significant developments are likely, chiefly in the chemical and stone, clay and glass industries," the report declared.

White House OK's Earlier 'Morning Newspaper' News

WASHINGTON—The White House has approved a decision by the television and radio networks and newsreels to broadcast "morning newspaper" news at 6 p. m. e.s.t.—an hour earlier than under previous understandings.

First White House news to be affected by this change was President Eisenhower's foreign aid speech at 9:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Advance copies of the speech were given to reporters at the White House about 5 p. m. marked "for release in the morning papers, Wednesday, Feb. 26."

Under a long-standing arrangement among the news services—ad hitherto followed by the networks—dispatches about this speech could not have been published or broadcast until 7 p. m. The big CBS and NBC network news shows go on the air before 7.

CBS, NBC and the Fox Movie-tone and Telenevis television newsreels handed James Hagerly, White House press secretary, and understanding they had reached a "gentlemen's" agreement that henceforth they would release all "morning paper material at 6 p. m."

Hagerly posted the TV-radio agreement in the White House press room as notice to all media it was going into effect. Hagerly himself could set a specific hour for the release time but made it clear he does not plan to.

Board Approves Fare Increase For Airlines

WASHINGTON—The Civil Aeronautics Board says it has approved an 83-million-dollar yearly fare increase for U. S. airlines because of "speedy deterioration" in oil earnings last fall.

The statement came in the CAB's formal ruling on the increase. The commission announced Jan. 24 it had decided to permit all airlines fare increases averaging 8.8 per cent, effective Feb. 10.

The increase, actually a boost of 1 per cent plus a flat increase of $1 on every ticket, was approved pending conclusion of the CAB's long general passenger fare investigation now in the hearing stage.

The CAB said its deal of an emergency 8 per cent increase sought by the airlines last summer was based on information available then. The industry did not show "that the decline in recent earnings was attributable to other than temporary dislocations," the commission said.

Magnolia gets its name from Pierre Magnol, a botanist and professor of medicine of Montpellier, France.

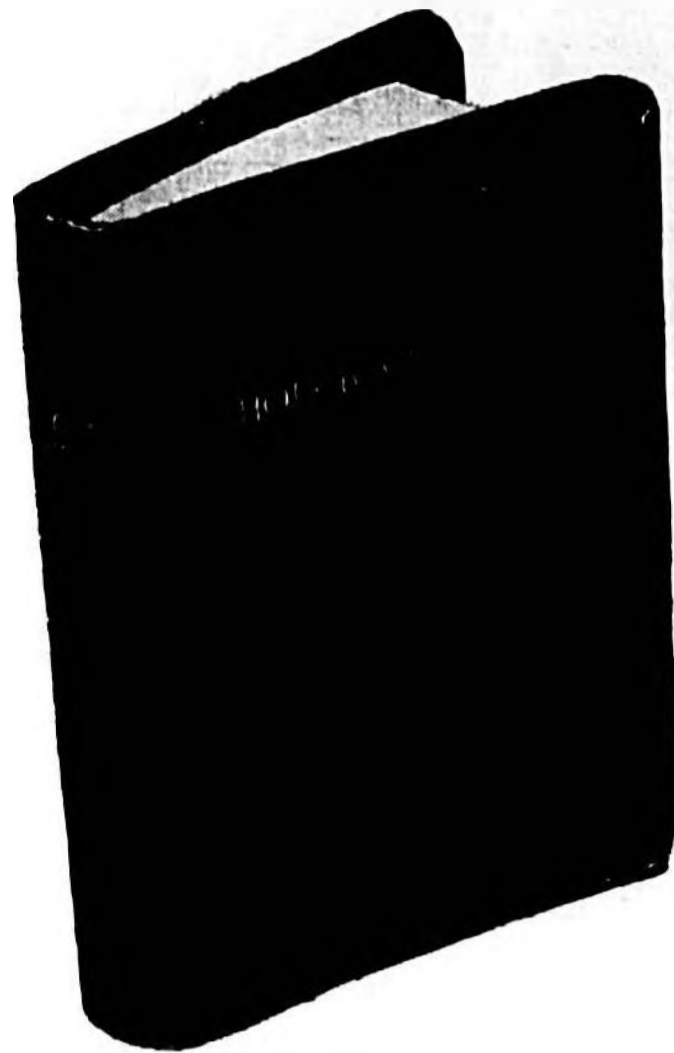

In 1773, the Rev. Dr. Stephen Hales, an Englishman, discovered that blood has a pressure and was the first to measure it.

Most brick used in Florida is imported, the report said. It added that brick could be manufactured in Florida with natural gas for at least five per cent less total cost than with any other fuel.

The report also commented that natural gas is the most nearly ideal of all available fuels for glass manufacture because of the easy regulation of flame and flame temperature and the cleanliness of the flame itself.

The Houston Texas Gas and Oil Corporation, with Florida headquarters at St. Petersburg, expects to spend approximately $100,000,000 on the project.

Following the business meeting there will be a short play under the direction of Mrs. Kent Bateman. "The Objectives of P-TA," Christensen, Rose Southward, Mrs. Ashby Jones, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Weigate and Mrs. Beryl Coleman. Refreshments will be served. This is a most important meeting and parents of students at S.H.S. are urged to attend. Strong Fan Support Seen For Where Did He Go Tonight

Paul Sutherland's Where Did He Go is certain of strong fan support when he goes to the post in tonight's ninth race at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club. The hard-driving red hound has only had six starts to date and has not yet failed to pay off. A two-time winner, he won his first start in Grade B, in Grade A his score is one first, one second and three thirds. Three four-time winners in this main attraction may give the Sutherland star plenty of trouble. They are George E. Fuller's Gaudy Hook, Jack Herold's Mabel Nug and Huron Kennel's Pocket Rocket. Mabel Nug belongs to the Nug family, every member of which has been helping to keep the Herold Kennel on or near the top in the battle for the most wins. Gaudy Hook, a lightning fast breaker has landed in the money nine times in 18 starts. Pocket Rocket has the same high average, having brought home the bacon in just half of his 20 trips postward. Rounding out the field for the main event will be Dark Bill, Will and J. F.'s Goldrush and Savie.

Maintenance Dept. May Have Set Towing Record

The Maintenance Department at the Naval Air Station, Sanford, has laid claim to what may be a record for towing an aircraft on open highways and through city streets. Basis for the claim came about when Lieutenant Commander Carl Stiles of VF-4, NAS Atlantic City, made a forced landing at an abandoned airport five miles south of Indian River City. There was no injury to personnel and no damage to the aircraft, an AD-5N. NAS Sanford responded to the salvage call, and a crew headed by Lieutenant Commander W. N. Webber, NAS Aircraft Maintenance Officer, boarded the rescue vehicle, a four-wheel drive "power wagon". Arriving at the scene of the forced landing, the crew quickly hitched the aircraft to the power wagon and started their homeward trek. Nine hours and over 70 miles later, they arrived at NAS Sanford, only to find that it was necessary to tear down a section of fence in order to get the wandering AD aboard the station. With the aircraft safely aboard and tied down, Chief F. O. Holland ADC, Salvage Chief, began compiling statistics of the epic journey. He recalls that the "caravan" passed through three counties and twelve cities and was aided by the Florida Highway Patrolmen plus sheriff's deputies from the cities of Oviedo, Cocoa, and Sanford. Other members of the record salvage crew were: F. P. Skeen, who drove the power wagon, and R. C. Poskus, AM3, who "rode" the brakes in the aircraft. Poskus stated he would also like to claim the record of the longest ride in a cockpit without becoming airborne.

Announcement of Smith's appointment was made by Gene Hawley, founder and president of the organization which numbers some 80,000 members throughout the nation and makes its headquarters in Lynwood, Calif. The new Executive Consultant of the nationwide organization was born in Sanford and attended schools here. He is a veteran of the U. S. Navy. The club has for its purpose the encouragement of better nutritional habits on the part of American families, with its motto being "Better Health through Better Nutrition." Serving on the National Advisory Council of the club are prominent bio-chemists, nutritionists, dietitians, doctors, and others qualified men and women in various professions, all of whom contribute their time and talents to the club for the purpose of helping to raise the nutritional standards of men, women and children through its educational program. Citrus Industry Said Not Hurt As Badly As Rumored
 WASHINGTON — General Manager Homer Hooks of the Florida Citrus Commission says the Florida citrus industry was not so badly hurt by the excessively cold winter as is generally rumored.
 Hooks talked in some 25 reporters from trade publications here where he is attending President Eisenhower's National Food Conference.
 Earlier Hooks reported that the President, Vice President Richard Nixon and Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson "enthusiastically endorsed" citrus products in the "everyday diet."
 Hooks said Florida will have ample supplies of good citrus and citrus products despite the freeze.
 "Our industry is in relatively good condition and we will have plenty of excellent fresh fruit for the balance of the season," he said.
 He added that with present commission safeguards on production of frozen orange concentrate, "demand for our main frozen product should be as good or better than in previous seasons."

Progress In 'Push, Treat' Program Said Excellent
 LAKELAND — The Industry Spreading Disease Committee has reported "excellent" progress in its "push and treat" program.
 Clayton Logan of Lakeland, chairman of the committee, presided over a meeting of the group with State Plant Commissioner W. C. Cowerthwaite and industry representatives. Charles Pocher of the State Plant Board reported that 4,000 acres were infested when the program began and that the board has now treated about 4,000 acres.
 He said the board would let up in its "push and treat" program for about 30 days while the Valencia oranges are being harvested in infested groves.
 One of Israel's leading industries is high grade plywood. Its main source of raw material is French West Africa.

THE CARD OF THANKS
 Very often a Card of Thanks in The Sanford Herald meets a need which is difficult to fill in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes but also courteously acknowledges the services and kindnesses of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed.
 Newspaper Cards of Thanks are accepted as socially correct. Emily Post, the noted authority on etiquette, feels they serve many good uses.
 There is no prescribed form for a Card of Thanks. It can be as brief or as detailed as you desire. When the occasion comes you will find a sympathetically understanding member of our staff to assist you.
THE "IN MEMORIAM" NOTICE
 It is the custom of many families in this country to commemorate a bereavement by an "In Memoriam" notice in newspaper classified columns. They find a real solace therein. Preparation of selection of a suitable verse brings back to them tender, pleasant recollections. As Eliza Cook, the English poet has so beautifully expressed it:
 "How cruelly sweet are the echoes that start
 What memory plays an old tune on the heart."
 Most frequently an In Memoriam is inserted on the anniversary of death. However, other dates, which it is felt are appropriate or meaningful are also selected. The birthday of the departed, the wedding anniversary, Memorial Day, even Christmas are among other significant occasions chosen.
 If you are hesitant to express your tender thoughts in poetic form, you may avail yourself of the Herald's collection of original verses. These express in poetic beauty the emotions of the heart-strings. Among them are verses appropriate to any circumstance.
THE RATE
 Cards of Thanks and In Memoriam notices, due to the fact they may run to considerable length, are billed at $1.00 per column inch.
