Bicycle fatality identified

SANFORD — The man killed at about 12:03 a.m. Wednesday when his bicycle traveling south on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, was struck from behind by a car, has been identified as Kenneth M. Matteson, 26, of 344 San Rafael St., Winter Springs.

Police Chief Steven Harriett said today Matteson was believed to be riding home when he was struck. The driver of the car involved stopped and Harriett said charges may not be filed, depending on the outcome of an investigation.

Man killed in truck accident

GENEVA — One man was killed and another received minor injuries in a head on collision early this morning just east of the Seminole-Volusia County line, 6 1/2 miles east of Geneva.

According to the Florida Highway Patrol, a 1985 Chevrolet pickup, traveling west on State Road 46, at approximately 3:39 a.m., apparently drifted across the center line, into the path of an eastbound 1977 tractor trailer.

The driver of the tractor trailer, identified as Carl Bigler, 43, of 2401 S. Willow Ave., Sanford, reportedly applied the brakes and attempted to swerve out of the path of the oncoming pickup, but could not, and the two vehicles collided head-on.

The pickup truck was deemed a total loss, while damage to the semi was estimated at $10,000.

The name of the driver of the pickup was being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

No charges were filed in the case.

'Super dogs' hunt for body

By SUSAN LODEN

LAKE MARY — "We want to put this case to rest one way or another," Lake Mary Police Chief Charles Lauderdale said as sheriff's crime scene technicians dug up a wooded area of Lake Mary late Wednesday.

The spot and one other had been "hit" by a team of four cadaver-finding Labrador retriever dogs brought in for a search from Texas and Georgia.

Bones sheriff's deputies said are believed to be animal bones were found at one of those hit sites. The dogs and their handlers, led by Sgt. Billy Smith of Texas, moved on to other sites this morning.

The dogs, through Saturday morning, will aid in searching woods in Lake Mary and Sanford for the remains of Kathy Engels, 15, of Lake Mary, who disappeared under suspicious circumstances Memorial Day weekend three years ago.

"This isn't our last hope," Lake Mary Lt. Thomas Taggart said, at the scene. "If this doesn't work out, we'll keep going like we have for the last three years."

And for Taggart that has meant at least weekly contact with Engels' grandparents Charlie and Marie Hooper, with whom she lived. For the last two months Taggart said his investigation has been revitalized, depending on his case load. Lauderdale said police want to either find Engels alive or to find her remains so "she can be laid to rest," if that's the case.

Taggart said the Sanford man suspected of foul play in connection with the disappearance is slated to be released from state prison this November from a sentence for raping another woman near his house. That's where he was last seen by independent witnesses with Engels the night she disappeared, when she was supposed to be spending the night with a girlfriend who lived in the same mobile home community as did the man. ## Dogs may be able to succeed where humans have failed

LAKE MARY — At the break of dawn this morning, a team of lawmen from Texas and Georgia were combing the woods, aided by their tracking dogs, looking for the remains of a 15-year-old Lake Mary girl missing for three years.

The trainer of the dogs and leader of the team, Sgt. Billy Smith of Houston, Texas, said he only knows about the success rate of the dogs that he has, since 1984, trained to find human cadavers. That rate, he said, is "100 percent. We don't know what we don't find."

Smith, with his 10-year-old chocolate Labrador retriever Junior in tow, was accompanied by dog handlers: Detective Scott Cosper, of the Sheriff's Office of Douglas County Georgia, and Kilo; Deputy Kathy Newborn, Paulding County, Ga., and Sgt. Babe; and Bob Barrick of the Monroe County, Ga., Sheriff's Department, and Toby.

The group began their search for Kathy Engels Wednesday in woods in Lake Mary, at the request of Lake Mary Police Lt. Thomas Taggart. Engels disappeared May 25, 1987, and was last seen by independent witnesses in Sanford. The man suspected of foul play in her disappearance told police he last saw Engels in Lake Mary. Areas of Sanford are slated for search if Engels' remains aren't found in Lake Mary, Taggart said.

The search with the four Labrador retrievers will end midday Saturday, Taggart said. Smith, 52, who prefers not to identify

Thieves steal 89 Park on Park plants

By J. BRADLEY DILLING
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Somewhere out there, there is a person or a group of people with a love for large, decorative plants and a need for a place to plant them or sell them.

Eighty nine Aspedestra, or "cast iron" plants, were stolen from Park on Park last night and city officials are angry.

A similar theft occurred last month in the same park. Then too, some cast iron plants were stolen as well as flowers.

The ornamental plants are about two to three feet high and two to three feet wide. They are green year-round and are called cast iron plants because they are so hardy and can grow most anywhere with minimal care, Yancey said.

They usually grow in clumps of five or six and have very dark leaves, said Martha Yancey, chairman of the city Scenic Improvement Board.

"They would have to have had a pick-up truck," said Bill Horn, city superintendent of ground maintenance. "These plants aren't small and it would take some time to load them. It would probably take at least half an hour for two people to load them."

The plants were watered yesterday. City employees at 8:15 this morning reported that they were gone, Horn said.

Horn said that because the plants were so large, whoever stole them would need to sell them or find a large piece of land to put them on.

At $6 each, last night's theft totals $534 in taxpayers' money, Horn said.

Yancey said that she was angry and hurt because so many people have worked so hard to make Park on Park look so nice recently.

"We really want to get these people," Yancey said. "When you work so hard and put so much pride and effort into something and then someone with no pride comes along and does something like this."

Anyone with information concerning the theft is encouraged to call the Sanford Police Department at 323-3030.

SHA accused of employment violations

By J. BRADLEY DILLING
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole Joint Tenants Council has asked the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to investigate the Sanford Housing Authority, accusing it of violating hiring regulations.

The letter of complaint was sent by Central Florida Legal Services to the Assistant Secretary for Equal Opportunity of the HUD department in Washington, D.C., on behalf of the tenants council and Beverly Pinkney, a tenant of a Section 8 apartment in the housing project apartments.

The letter said that since it receives in excess of $500,000 from the HUD, the SHA is obligated to use housing project residents as employees to the greatest extent possible.

"The complainants believe that this obligation has been violated by the current hiring practices of SHA.

During the past three months, at least four employees have been hired without any local advertising," the letter said. "No signs have been placed at gathering sites for the tenants or announcements of job vacancies sent to appropriate community organizations. No vacancies have been listed with the Job Service of Florida."

The letter said that Pinkney filled out an application for employment under the housing manager on April 13 and received a notice the next day terminating her eligibility to live in the housing projects.

The letter also outlines six other grievances, including one regarding the hiring of Interim Director of Housing of SHA Judy Weekly.

At a meeting of the SHA last month the tenants asked for the resignation of Judy Weekly, saying that a degree from an "advanced education" institution was required of the director and that Weekly had none.

Grand jury returns indictment against former city official

LONGWOOD — Charles Hassler, former city public works director and city engineer, was indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury that accused him of ordering the dumping of hazardous waste on city property in 1988.

The grand jury indicted Hassler on criminal charges he dumped hazardous waste without a permit or authority to do so and that he failed to notify proper authorities of the dumping. If convicted, he faces a maximum of five years in federal prison and a $500,000 fine.

The indictment came following a

Alligator hunters may apply for licenses through June 15

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

Applications are being taken through June 15 for licensees to participate in the state's third annual September alligator harvest.

Hunters must be at least 18-years-old and applications for one of the 239 available trapper's licenses must be filed with the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission's regional offices. For information call 904-336-2230.

"One major rule change this year is that individuals who are selected to receive permits must be in their boats during the harvest," GEWFC's Dennis David said.

"In the past, trappers could stay home and have an assistant do the actual hunting. This year, they can hire an assistant, but the assistant cannot hunt without the trapper being there with him."

Licenses cost $250 for Florida residents and $4,000 for non-residents. Assistants must purchase a $50 trapping agent license. Trappers must also pay $30 for each hide taken in the hunt. Each hunter, depending on his assigned hunt area may take

School official suffers heart attack

MIAMI — Dade County school superintendent Paul Bell suffered a mild heart attack after spending the day lobbying for school funds in Tallahassee, and was hospitalized in stable condition.

Bell, 57, returned to Miami from Tallahassee then presented awards at a scholarship ceremony that ended about 11 p.m. Tuesday. His wife said that he complained of feeling ill, and that because he had undergone triple bypass surgery after a 1977 heart attack, she took him to Baptist Hospital as a precaution.

"And at that time he started having what was the beginning of a heart attack," Barbara Bell said.

Bell was expected to remain in the hospital's cardiac unit until Monday, then be transferred to another ward for an indefinite period. Deputy superintendent Tee S. Greer will assume Bell's duties while he is absent.

OSHA fines contractor after driver killed

FORT LAUDERDALE — The construction company operating a crane that struck a passing truck on Interstate 95 in December, killing the driver, caused the accident by failing to lock the crane's arm in place, regulators said.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration in Fort Lauderdale imposed a $900 fine Wednesday against 1-95 contractor Archer-Western for the violation and a $600 fine for failing to provide records to OSHA.

"There's no question about it," said Jose Sanchez, OSHA's area director. "If the machine had been secured, it would not have rotated and hit the (truck) of the driver who was killed."

Driver Paul Dawson, 56, of Miami, a Sears delivery driver, was killed Dec. 14 when the crane's arm swung into the northbound lanes and crashed into his truck on I-95 in Hollywood.

City may owe back pay to police officers

STARKE — Police union officials said the city of Starke may owe back pay to most of the officers who have worked there in the past 16 years.

Since 1974, state law has required that police officers be paid monthly supplements for any police training and education they have completed beyond the state minimums.

The mature payments goes to the local governments from federal funds that are received by the state. This week, the city of Starke gave $1,340 dollars in supplemental pay to nine of the city's 14 officers to cover the period from January to the end of May.

Police union officials said the city had been telling the officers since 1974 that supplemental pay was already included in their checks, but the union contends it was not.

State Attorney Len Register has asked the city's accounting firm to investigate whether the officers did actually receive the supplemental payments, and if not, where the money went.

City officials have not determined how many officers may be due back pay, or how much money might be involved.

Indians plan to open new bingo hall

IMMOKALEE — The Seminole Indians plan to open a new 920-seat bingo hall in September at their Immokalee reservation, their fifth in the state but only the second to actually be run by tribal members.

The Seminole Tribal Council has approved a seven-year agreement with a company run by the Osceola family, tribal businessmen with experience running concessions.

The contract will allow the family to build and operate the bingo hall in return for giving 60 percent of the profits to the tribe.

"They have our blessing," tribal Chairman James Billie said. "The hall will be run by exclusively Indian people."

With the exception of a small hall on the tribe's Brighton reservation, the bingo halls were run by outsiders who contracted to build the halls and manage operations.

The tribe collects a portion of the profits for allowing the operators to set up on the reservation, where they are exempt from state gambling laws.

While the tribe has been satisfied with the arrangement, Seminole leaders for years have been aiming to develop savvy within the tribe to run games themselves.

Indian management at the Immokalee hall means more profits will stay on the reservation, helping more Indians get ahead and become self-sufficient, said Max Osceola, a tribal council member.

The new hall will be built on five acres near Immokalee, about 85 miles west of Fort Lauderdale and 35 miles southeast of Fort Myers.

Osceola hopes to draw players from nearby urban areas on the Gulf Coast, Naples, Bonita Springs, Fort Myers and Cape Coral are all within 40 miles.

The Immokalee hall should help the tribe without hurting the other halls, said Howard Tommie, a former tribal chairman and an investor in the company that runs the highly successful 1,500-seat hall near Hollywood.

The 10-year-old, 320-seat bingo hall at the Seminole's Brighton reservation is the only other bingo hall operated by a tribal member, Marty Johns.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS

Accused rapist pleads no contest

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — The last of three defendants in the Florida State University fraternity gang-rape trial pleaded no contest Wednesday, but said he would appeal whatever sentence he receives.

Lawyers for Daniel Oltarsh, 25, of Fort Lauderdale, said certain pre-trial rulings and "unfavorable media publicity" locally caused them to recommend that Oltarsh enter the plea.

"My client was in fact fully prepared to face trial, but we felt it in his best interest to take this to a higher court," said Craig Stella, Oltarsh's lawyer, who promised to appeal Oltarsh's sentence after it is handed down on July 10.

Oltarsh and two other members of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity were charged with the rape of an 18-year-old coed in a shower at the fraternity's FSU house in March 1988.

The woman later was dumped at a neighboring fraternity house, where she was found intoxicated to a life-threatening degree.

Oltarsh's co-defendants, Byron L. Stewart of Orlando and Jason McPharlin, a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity at Auburn University, already have pleaded guilty to reduced charges and were expected to testify for the prosecution.

Oltarsh was charged with sexual battery, kidnapping, culpable negligence and supplying alcohol to a minor. His plea Wednesday came after two days of jury selection and before testimony was presented.

Assistant State Attorney Steve Parton said he was "ambivalent about the plea ... because I'm sitting here all dressed up with no place to go."

Parton said he believed the "crowning blow" to the defense was the deposition given Tuesday night to defense lawyers by the victim.

The woman had left Florida after the incident and had been living in Texas. Prosecutors had granted her request not to return for Oltarsh's trial or to give her deposition to defense attorneys.

But a Texas judge agreed with defense lawyers to extradite her to Florida as a material witness. On Tuesday, while jury selection was still under way, Circuit Judge Ted Steinnmeyer ordered the woman to answer defense questions in a deposition.

The deposition was taken

Tuesday night. Steinnmeyer took the unusual step of sitting in during the interview because he said he wanted to make sure the woman was not harassed.

The defense said the woman, described as an emotionally disturbed alcoholic, consented to have sex with the three defendants. But prosecutors have said the incident became a gang rape when the woman became too intoxicated to know what was happening.

The Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity was suspended from the FSU campus for five years after the assault, in part because of a lack of cooperation by fraternity members in the investigation. The fraternity's national office also revoked the charter of the school's chapter.

Cops destroy $4.3 million in pot plants

United Press International

MILTON — A rural Panhandle county that led the state last year in the number of eradicated marijuana plants destroyed another 4,000 marijuana plants this week, deputies said Wednesday.

The mature plants were valued at $4.3 million.

The latest eradication Monday and Tuesday brings to 16,697 the number of plants destroyed in Santa Rosa County this year. That nearly doubles the 8,701 plants pulled out throughout all of 1989.

Cpl. John L. Shirah said the 12 plots where the 4,323 marijuana plants were found were in the northern portion of the county, near the communities of Jay, Mt. Carmel, Fidelis and McClellan.

"No arrests have been made but the investigation is continuing," said Shirah, who said all the land where the marijuana was growing belongs to a paper company.

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement's recent report on the state's marijuana eradication program showed Santa Rosa County last year led the state in the number of marijuana plants destroyed.

Martinez criticizes House prison plan

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez endorsed the Florida Senate's prison construction plan over the House version Wednesday, saying the House bill falls short of meeting Florida's public safety needs.

Martinez charged that the House plan would construct only 4,800 "hard" prison beds next year, while the Senate budget plan — which falls in line with the governor's own prison plan — would add about 9,400 new prison beds next year.

"There's no point in pouring money into crime prevention and drug programs if we ignore the cold reality of criminals who have to be locked away now," Martinez said at a morning news conference. "It's not going to do any good. Public safety must be the issue for all of us."

He pointed out that a recent Florida Department of Law Enforcement report attributes the 2 percent reduction in state crime rates last year partially to the increased space in prison, which he said has nearly doubled since he took office in 1987.

He also said the Senate plan would result in about 4,500 fewer earlier prison releases than the House plan and noted that Florida prison capacity has nearly doubled since he took office in 1987.

"This is the first time since Martinez has been here that he says he's recommending more prison beds than the department," said Rep. Douglas Jamerson, D-St. Petersburg, chairman of the House Corrections Committee.

The House plan calls for building more than

Beer bill gets stalled in Senate committee

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — An attempt to reduce drunken driving by banning the sale of chilled beer and wine was stalled in a Senate committee Wednesday in a move one senator said spared the measure from being killed outright.

Sen. William "Doc" Myers, R-Hobe Sound, said his proposal was aimed at sales of single servings of alcoholic beverages. But it ran into a wall of criticism thrown up by grocery, convenience store and beverage industry lobbyists, who complained their heavy investment in coolers would be wasted.

The committee on Regulated Industries prepared for a vote. Sen. Vince Bruner, D-Fort Walton Beach, offered a motion to delay until the panel's next meeting next week. He said he wanted to give Myers more time to bargain with industry lobbyists.

11,000 new prison beds next year, but Martinez said not enough of those beds will be for convicted criminals, but for prevention and drug treatment programs that also target youthful offenders.

Martinez said an analysis of the House plan shows only 4,844 prison beds for convicted criminals would be built next year.

SCIENCE & NATURE

Fence to halt manatee handouts

United Press International

FORT LAUDERDALE — Visitors have fed the endangered manatees at Fort Everglades so many sugar doughnuts, hot dogs and other tidbits that the sea cows skipped their annual migration this spring, biologists said.

At the recommendation of state and federal wildlife officials, Florida Power & Light Co. planned to build a fence Thursday to halt the handouts by keeping visitors away.

The warm water in the utility's quiet intake canal at the port has attracted manatees every winter since the plant opened in 1960.

In 1985, port and utility officials opened a Sea Life Viewing Area, where visitors were welcome to watch the fish and manatees in the canal. It proved enormously popular. Schoolchildren came by the busload and the site attracted 200,000 to 400,000 visitors a year, many of whom tossed food into the water.

'Soldiers' contract Lyme disease

United Press International

GAINESVILLE — At least five participants in a reenactment earlier this year of a Civil War battle have tested positive for Lyme disease, an ailment spread by ticks.

The significance of the finding, according to Tom Belucore, director of the Alachua County Public Health Unit, is that the disease — which results in arthritic-like symptoms — has finally spread to Florida.

Florida has recorded only 10 earlier cases of Lyme disease since 1985, when the state began keeping records of the ailment.

The five victims all took part in the Feb. 18 reenactment of the Battle of Olustee near Lake City. All five were treated with antibiotics and have recovered.

"With the occurrence of cases, one can make the assumption that it is currently in Florida and capable of being transmitted," said Belucore.

POLICE BRIEFS

Man charged with theft from tire store

SANFORD — City police here report seeing a man discard a hydraulic jack as he saw them watching him near the Big T Tire Store on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, at about 1 p.m. Tuesday. Police stopped the man as he hurried toward the highway and they said they recovered the jack that was stolen from the tire store. Melvin Bobby Mims, 38, of 1955 Second Drive, Sanford, was charged with burglary to an occupied building and petty theft in the case.

Police seize $13,631 from suspect

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A man arrested as a loiterer and prowler as he was driving away from a construction area at Spring Valley Cove on Wymore Road, Altamonte Springs, had $13,631, which Altamonte Springs police seized. Police said a drug detecting dog singled out packets of the suspect's money in a lineup with other packets of cash at the police station. Police said that indicated the money is linked to narcotics and may be forfeited.

James Harold Jenkins, 39, of Orlando, was also charged with possession of a small quantity of cocaine found in a pipe in his vehicle and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Two charged in break-in attempt

WINTER SPRINGS — City police here who saw a boy flee and who captured a man who were apparently trying to burglarize a motor home behind a business at 209 N. Moss Road, Winter Springs, report arresting both suspects.

The 16-year-old boy was caught at home. The other suspect Matthew Steven Pagan, 21, of Orlando, was found hiding under the vehicle. He allegedly carried a pocket knife and a hammer was found nearby. Police said the vehicle was damaged.

Pagan was arrested at the scene at about midnight Tuesday at the scene. He is charged with attempted burglary, possession of burglary tools, carrying a concealed weapon and criminal mischief.

Man arrested in robbery

MAITLAND — Ricardo Rivera, 21, of 732 Sunrest Loop, Casselberry, was arrested last night at his home and charged with armed robbery.

The grocery clerk of Mimi Oriental Grocery, 9230 Highway 17-92, Maitland, Hao Tsou, said a man entered the store brandishing a handgun, and took approximately $150 from the cash register.

Tsou reportedly supplied officers with a license number and description of the vehicle believed to have been driven by the robber. According to reports, when officers confronted Rivera at his home, he handed over a semi automatic handgun and $149 in cash.

Figurines missing

APOPKA — Several dozen Goebel Hummel Figurines were reported missing yesterday, from a locked glass display case at Sue's Hallmark Shop, 528 South Hunt Club Boulevard in Apopka. James Stephens reported the Hummels were valued at $2,561. According to Seminole County Sheriff's Deputies, there were no signs of forced entry to either the business or the glass display case.

Power boat races called success

By J. BRADLEY DILLING

SANFORD — Holiday Inn officials met with city officials and area businessmen in what has been described as an "att-a-boy" meeting yesterday to discuss the boat races that occurred on Lake Monroe this weekend and to plan for the return of the races next year.

"Everybody was really surprised at how well it went off considering that it was for the first time," said John Whigham, the brother of Thomas Whigham, a Sanford attorney killed by AIDS. The Super Challenge in the name of the event, "The Coors Light Super Challenge," refers to an effort in Thomas Whigham's honor to raise money for neurological AIDS research. Ten percent of the gross revenue from the event will go to the fund Whigham said, but the amount hasn't been determined.

Althea Parrisi, spokesperson for the city Utility Department who also helps in Super Challenge fund raisers, said there was quite a bit of back-patting and congratulating going on, but that some concerns over how to handle the races better next year were also addressed. "We'll have a bigger pit area."

Large beach crowds were among thousands of spectators at last weekend's event.

names of racers and crews, because some people were just giving their passes to friends so they could get through the gate without paying." Jeff Blackstone, general manager for the Holiday Inn, said that everything went better than was anticipated, but added that planning for an even bigger event in April or May 1991 will begin in a couple of weeks.

Sanford comprehensive plan aired tonight

By J. BRADLEY DILLING
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A nearly 500-page draft of the city Comprehensive Plan is more stringent than existing requirements for urban services, said City Planner Jay Marder. The plan will be presented for review at the city Planning and Zoning meeting tonight.

The toughest new requirements to meet will deal with roads, a subject is already difficult for many city and county entities, the city planner said.

capacity is a more challenging area because of the overuse of roads, the limited facilities and the statewide deficit of road capacity," Marder said.

"We in Sanford are relatively alright. We have a few roads that have problems. But other communities have many, many more. They are dealing with it. We'll deal with it, too."

The requirement for the report comes from the state's comprehensive plan, which requires that when new buildings are constructed basic "infrastructure" services such as roads and sewers will already exist to serve the new construction adequately.

ly. The requirement is called "concurrency."

A program of concurrency management must be adopted by 1992, according to the state. Sanford should have its plan adopted by April 1991, Marder said.

The Sanford plan requires that all new construction adequately address such needs as traffic flow and water and sewer services and submit information to this effect at the time that the builder applies for a development permit.

The report dictates that when the developer applies for a development permit, they must submit information showing that the development will meet the requirements. "The applicant's narrative and graphic information shall also demonstrate that the subject development shall not reduce the levels of service (LOS) associated with public facilities serving the development below adopted LOS standards," the report said.

Most city and county governments already have such requirements in their comprehensive plans, Marder said. This just puts it into law.

The original Comprehensive Plan adopted in 1967 and revised in 1986, Marder said.

Bush nears decision on offshore oil drilling

United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Bush, trying to balance energy needs with environmental concerns, said Wednesday he was days away from a decision on whether to open millions of acres of sea floor off California and Florida to oil drilling.

Bush conferred in the morning with members of his Cabinet-level task force on offshore drilling and later met for more than an hour at the White House with 11 members of the California congressional delegation.

The lawmakers said afterward that Bush for the most part listened to their views without giving any indication of his intentions on the sensitive issue, seen as a major test of his resolve to protect the environment.

Differences of opinion emerged after the meeting, with Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., saying new drilling might be acceptable far off the extreme southern coast of California, and Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., saying he was opposed to any new oil exploration in waters off his state.

The Florida congressional delegation was invited to meet with Bush Thursday.

At a White House news conference earlier in the day, Bush said he expected in "days and not weeks" to announce a decision.

Last month, the president said environmentalists would not be "too disappointed" with his decision, and he hinted again Wednesday that he was considering putting some areas off limits to drilling.

"I've already said that I am concerned about the environmental aspects as it relates to Florida," Bush said. "That is a highly sophisticated and sensitive area. ... But I don't want to suggest that I don't feel that way about certain areas off California."

On the other hand, Bush added, "I am increasingly concerned about our dependence on foreign oil."

Lawmakers from both states have maintained that the potential damage from offshore oil drilling to their respective beaches and the tourism and fishing industries far outweigh any possible energy gain.

Bush must decide whether the administration will proceed with the sale of 14 millions of acres of undersea tracts off the Florida Keys and two areas totaling nearly 8 million acres off California — near Santa Barbara and north of San Francisco.

That announcement is expected to pave the way for the administration's revised five-year oil development plan for the entire outer continental shelf — the federally controlled area that generally begins 3 miles from shore.

Britain honors American pilot

United Press International

MIAMI — A Coast Guard pilot stationed in Clearwater received Wednesday Britain's second highest award for gallantry in peacetime for rescuing five sailors in 1989 during a raging storm off the English coast.

Rear Admiral Paul Hoddinott, chief of the United Kingdom Navy staff in Washington, presented Lt. Cmdr. Darrell Nelson with the Queen's Commendation for Valuable Service in the Air in a ceremony at the Coast Guard's District Command Office in Miami.

Before he was stationed in Clearwater, Nelson was a Coast Guard exchange pilot in Culdrose, England.

On the night of March 12, 1989, he was the aircraft commander of a search and rescue Sea King helicopter that lifted an injured seaman from a Spanish trawler during a raging storm.

Minutes after returning from that mission, Nelson's crew rushed to the aid of a Korean merchant vessel that was being battered against some rocks.

Nelson lowered rescue lines to that boat and pulled four crewmen to safety. The remaining members of the crew of the Seal Japan refused to leave the shelter of the ship's bridge to reach the rescue line, and Nelson was forced to abandon the attempt.

Nelson received the medal for displaying leadership and aircraft skills during the seven-hour rescue effort.

Race settled in court

The 1988 contest for the America's Cup, now finally settled, took a lot longer to run in the courts of the state of New York than it ever did in the waters off San Diego. Nor was it any prettier.

One member of the New York Court of Appeal, the state's highest tribunal, observed that the race between New Zealand's monstrous monohull and the defending San Diego Yacht Club's speedy catamaran was "like putting a New York City bus against a Ferrari." But in its 5-2 decision, the court was concerned not with fairness, but only with compliance with the America's Cup deed of gift, drawn almost 140 years ago — a document written by gentlemen and, presumably, designed to be read by gentlemen.

"Any question as to sportsmanship and fairness, such as the propriety of races between monohull and multihull vessels," said the court, is left to "the expertise of persons actively involved in yacht racing (and is not) suitable for judicial resolution."

In a way, that was a reasonable judgment. Neither the San Diego Yacht Club, ultimate winners both on the water and in court, nor New Zealand's losing Mercury Bay Boating Club, distinguished themselves in this contest in a way that would have been honored by the members of the New York Yacht Club, who established the America's Cup. But being what they were, they would never have imagined that such issues as fairness in yacht races would require judicial resolution in the first place.

All parties in this contest say they accept the court's decision — there's hardly anything else they could do and now are pointing to the next series of races — in San Diego — in the winter and spring of 1992.

Given the vast sums involved, the expensive technology planning and testing, and the enormous commercial deals that come with them, there's no way that the races can in any way return to the kind of amateur status that they once enjoyed.

But the court's decision also is a reminder to the participants that they are themselves responsible for the fairness and, in the process, the future credibility of the event. That could be a model for a lot of other things that once were settled — peacefully — in some place other than a court of law.

Newton understood

Legend says that a falling apple helped Sir Isaac Newton formulate his theories of gravity. A kettle of boiling water led to James Watt's use of steam to generate power. And two sets of Tinkertoys helped scientists figure out how to fix a jammed antenna on the Hubble space telescope.

As these examples show, the solution to complex problems is often simple. Engineers for NASA had been befuddled by the Hubble's malfunctioning antenna, which had threatened to limit the telescope's operation. After millions of dollars of computer-driven design equipment failed to help find a remedy, it took the lowly Tinkertoys to pave the way for an imaginative solution.

NASA engineers David Skillman and John Decker used two boxes of Tinkertoys, a lamp cord, masking tape and glue to build a model and figure out how to free the Hubble's high-gain antenna. They relayed the information into space, and the problem was solved.

American physicist Edward Teller once said, "The science of today is the technology of tomorrow." In the case of the Hubble space telescope, the toys invented yesterday helped repair the technology of today.

Corporations sour on Big Apple

IRVING, Texas — On the banks of Hackberry Creek in this Dallas suburb, the Exxon Corp. is preparing to construct its new headquarters — and therein lies a tale of the troubles besetting New York, the city that long has been the company's home.

When Fortune magazine last month published its annual list of the nation's 500 largest industrial corporations, five of the top 50 companies were based in New York. When the 1991 version of those rankings is produced next April, the headquarters of only two of those five will still be in New York.

Exxon, the country's largest oil company and third largest firm on Fortune's overall list, will have moved to Las Colinas, an ambitious, 12,000-acre, mixed-use real estate project in Irving, a suburb 10 miles northwest of Dallas' central business district.

Mobil, ranked sixth, is moving its corporate headquarters from New York to the Washington, D.C., suburb of Fairfax. Va. RJR Nabisco, ranked 20th, is leaving New York for Atlanta. After they go, only 10th-ranked Philip Morris and 50th-ranked Bristol-Myers Squibb will remain in New York.

Indeed, the number of New York-based companies on the entire Fortune 500 list in 1990 is only about one-half of the 81 the magazine counted in 1980 and one-third of the 118 recorded in 1970. (Ranked separately are the country's largest banks, securities firms and other financial services companies, many of which are still headquartered in New York.)

What accounts for the corporate exodus? Many companies that have left New York and other cities in recent years prefer suburban locations. In addition, companies that have left in recent years cite a variety of social ills — including extraordinary levels of crime, homelessness and drug abuse — as well as economic problems that range from inflated costs of living and doing business to a crumbling public works infrastructure. Last year, there were more than 600 water main breaks in the city — an average of almost two every day. Crimes perpetrated yearly in the city include 2,000 homicides, 90,000 robberies, 130,000 burglaries and 120,000 motor vehicle thefts.

Before it builds its new headquarters complex on a 132-acre tract at Las Colinas, Exxon will rent office space in high-rise office towers here — at a cost of less than $15 per square foot compared with the $50 per square foot being asked for the midtown Manhattan space the company is vacating.

One of New York's better known residents, Harry Smith, co-host of CBS Television's "This Morning," recently warned viewers not to visit his hometown. "It's Calcutta without cows," said Smith of a city he described as "a filthy, stinking, broken mess."

That language is probably too strong, but these days New York is beset by more than its usual problems. About 25,000 securities industry employees, many of them in high-paying positions, have lost their jobs since the 1987 stock market crash. That, in turn, plunged not only the city but the surrounding region into a recession.

Conflict over leave continues

BOSTON — For one brief moment, the President's press secretary must have forgotten the party line. Somebody asked him what workers should do if their companies didn't offer medical leave in case of a family emergency. He just blurted out, "They should look for other jobs."

This must have sent the Points of Light Damage Control Unit onto full alert. Marlin Fitzwater had sounded, uh, less than compassionate. That just wouldn't do.

But within moments, the spokesman was back on the program, speaking as carefully as if he were reading crib notes on his shirt cuffs. "The high priority is to make work and family complementary," he intoned. "We urge all employers to find sensitive and flexible leave policies, but the government should not dictate it."

So goes the script. We are in favor of apple pie and balancing work and family; we just don't want to legislate it. We are caring people; we just don't want to mandate it.

These must be rough days for the people paid to craft the Bush line. They are struggling to sound-bite as friends of the family, while opposing family legislation. One month they tell us the administration is in favor of child care. It just doesn't like the child-care bill. Now it's in favor of leave policies. It's just opposed to the Family and Medical Leave Act.

It must be as hard to hoe this linguistic row as it is to explain the emergence of non-tax taxes. Lip reading is out in Washington, but mind reading is in.

The Family and Medical Leave Act that passed the House on May 10 may be the best example of Bush-speak versus Bush-veto. The bill grew out of the litany of true stories from the workplace. There was the coal miner with a terminally ill daughter who couldn't get time off. The file clerk who adopted a child and lost her job. The numerous women who had to choose between maternity leave and employment.

These tales sound, as Rep. Marge Roukema put it, like something out of Charles Dickens' England. The bill, written in response, pushes business closer to the reality of late 20th if not the 21st century. Employers with 50 or more workers would have to offer unpaid time off with job and benefit protection for the care of newborn, newly adopted or seriously ill children, spouses or parents.

The President says he'll veto it. But no politician, let alone Gentler George, wants to argue on the evening news against the parent of a sick child. So we have these contortions claiming to be pro-worker, pro-family and anti-bill.

Rep. Fred Grandy (R-Iowa) has mastered the technique with lines like this: "None of us disagrees with the motives but with the methods." Others, from Elizabeth Dole to John Sununu, warn about something worse than business pushing out families: It's government pushing around business.

In the past week, this troupe has criticized the concept of a mandate on at least two contradictory grounds. 1. We don't need the mandate because business is "naturally" voluntarily providing medical leave. 2. If we pass the bill, we'll lose jobs because the companies can't afford it. They don't commute.

At the moment we have a morass of different family policies. In one survey, about half the companies offered maternity leave, most offered disability and half continued benefits during unpaid leaves. About 25 states have family-leave laws. Even the current bill wouldn't cover the vast number of workers in smaller companies. It's a compromise and a start.

Nevertheless, Rep. Grandy compares medical leave to brushing teeth. We are all in favor of brushing, but we don't need to mandate it. There are, to put it mildly, better analogies.

In real life, the family-leave opponents are the political descendants of the folk who once fought minimum-wage standards, the 40-hour week and child-labor laws. We were all in favor of a child-labor law and we did need to mandate it.

As Rep. Roukema, a New Jersey Republican who has taken a strong lead in this fight, says: "We never write minimum labor standards for all the good citizens in the marketplace. We write them for those people who are callously indifferent to maintaining a good work force."

No spin-controller can pirouette around this conflict. You can't be in favor of families and against a bill that lets them take care of their own. Anyone in public life who can't see that, as our friend Fitzwater says, should look for other jobs.

Extradited man resumes life

WASHINGTON — David Neimann's life was already a nightmare when we told his story in February. The hapless Texas businessman had bounced some checks while on a business trip to Greece. Because of that, he became a bargaining chip in an American attempt to extradite a terrorist from Greece.

After we reported the story, Neimann was freed from a Greek jail, but not before his nightmare got worse. He had to endure months in notoriously brutal and squalid Greek jails, with no help from the American system that he still holds dear. At one point he was held for days with no food, toilet or blankets. The State Department could have spared Neimann this agony, but chose not to. At the same time that the Greek government was demanding Neimann's extradition to stand trial, the U.S. government was asking the Greeks to send a Palestinian terrorist, Muhammad Rashid, to America for trial. It would have been impolitic to balk on Neimann and expect the Greeks to turn over Rashid. He is suspected in the bombing of a Pan Am jet on a flight from Tokyo to Honolulu in 1982. Rashid was arrested in Greece in 1988. Neimann was extradited to Greece by the State Department in December. He had been fighting extradition on the flimsy bad check charge for years. In 1982, on a trip to Greece, he cashed three checks for $1,000 each. He didn't know that the American company that issued him the checks wouldn't cover them when the Greek bank got around to cashing them months later. Bank employees were at fault, and later admitted it, but not before Neimann had been put through hell. The ordeal has forced Neimann deeply into debt. He lost his consulting business and his home and even had to give up custody of his son while he was imprisoned. While fighting extradition, he spent a year in a Texas jail after his bail was revoked on a technicality. Now that he is back home in Dallas trying to put his life back on track, Neimann is amazingly philosophical. "I don't hold anything against the administration. I love this country. This is my home," he says. Neimann is a Czechoslovakian immigrant who fled to the United States in 1974 as a political refugee.

He became a bargaining chip in an American attempt to extradite a terrorist from Greece.

If he isn't angry about the way his government treated him, some of his friends are. Eugene Douglas, the former U.S. ambassador at large for refugee affairs, tried to stop the State Department from extraditing Neimann to Greece. He suspects the department was engaged in a bit of "geopolitical fantasy," expecting to get Rashid in trade for Neimann. "Even if the trade-offs worked, you do not railroad an innocent man," Douglas told our associate Dan Njegomir.

The State Department lawyer who recommended Neimann's extradition, Andre Surena, offered no apology. "The system, on the whole, is not perfect, but it has elements that serve the public interest," he told us.

A source close to the case has told us that Surena had implied in private that Neimann's case would be handled by the books because of the pending extradition of Rashid. But Surena told us the two cases were not linked and denied ever telling anyone that they were. He said he was merely following the law. Extradition procedure simply requires the American justice system to find probable cause that a person may have committed a crime and that the country asking for extradition is serious about it. The United States is not supposed to second guess whether the person is actually guilty.

Police say DUI defendant planned courtroom murder-suicide attempt

United Press International
KEY WEST — The drunk-driving suspect who pulled a gun and fired one shot in a Plantation Key courtroom had a note in his briefcase which said he intended to kill the judge and then kill himself, police said Wednesday.
 The briefcase was turned over to a detective in Key Largo late Tuesday by the father of suspect Peter N. Anderson, 22. Authorities in the Monroe County Sheriff's Office refused Wednesday to reveal the contents of the suspected murder-suicide note.

 "It gave his intentions to kill the judge, then kill himself," said sheriff's spokeswoman Becky Herrin. "He expressed feelings that the charges against him were unfair, that they should be dismissed."

Herrin said the briefcase also contained 50 bullets for the .38-caliber handgun Anderson used to fire the shot in court Tuesday. It also contained three dead white gardenias like the one he handed assistant state attorney Leo Bueno, she said.
 Anderson's father, Carl, was in court with his son Tuesday morning for the hearing before Judge William Reagan Ptoomey and fled with the briefcase during the confusion after the shooting. The bullet hit bailiff Ron Dowmond, 62, in the hand.

 Anderson was under a suicide watch at the Monroe County Jail in Key West and was ordered held without bond after an initial appearance Wednesday on new charges including attempted first-degree murder, aggravated battery, carrying a concealed firearm and resisting arrest without violence.

He originally had been brought into court Tuesday for arraignment on charges of drunk driving, driving with a suspended license and refusing to sign the traffic tickets against him.
 Anderson had been arrested shortly after midnight on March 23 in Islamorada and faked hanging himself while being held.
 He had been convicted of drunk driving in 1988 in Dade

County and a second conviction within three years carries a mandatory minimum sentence of 10 days in jail.
 At his arraignment Tuesday, Anderson said the charges were ridiculous and gave Bueno the dead gardenias. When Ptoomey ordered Anderson held for contempt, Anderson pulled the gun, just five feet from the judge. Dowmond was injured in the ensuing struggle.

Water skiing ban pursued

United Press International
LIVE OAK — Florida wildlife officials are close to winning a ban on water skiing on a 14-mile stretch of the Santa Fe River between Gilchrist and Suwannee counties.

The Suwannee County Commission voted in favor of the ban Tuesday, and the Gilchrist County Commission is expected to vote next month.

So far, no opposition has arisen to the proposal, which the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is pushing because the increased use of the river by boaters had made crashes an increasing possibility.

The popular tree-lined river forms the boundary between the two north Florida counties. On an average weekend, the area attracts an average of about 125 boats, many of them towing skiers.

In addition to the skiing ban, game officials are seeking permission to establish a "no wake, idle speed" zone at the mouth of the Santa Fe.

Visibility at the mouth, where it meets the Suwannee River, is low enough for officials to be concerned that boating accidents may happen, said M.P. Tyre, a state wildlife official who spoke in support of the restrictions at Tuesday's commission meeting.

"They could collide with the bank or cypress knees because the river's so narrow," Tyre told the commissioners. "It's like a yield intersection on a highway."

Lt. Dewey Weaver, a spokesman for the state commission, said officials do not have the authority to set rules regarding boating activities without permission from the affected county or counties.

The commission has been ticketing boaters and skiers under a state careless-boating law, he said, but officers often have to make judgment calls.

"If they come around a curve at high speeds, they can be considered careless and reckless, but we do have to make a judgment call if they're in a straight stretch of the rivers," he said. "With this (the ban), we won't have to worry about that."

The Santa Fe River is only about 50 yards wide in Suwannee and Gilchrist.

Search

 occurred before Engels disappeared, and the man was arrested for that crime within days of Engels' disappearance.
 Taggart says that the man has admitted to prison informants that he cut Engels' throat and buried her. He has declined to say where the body could be found, Taggart said.

That pending prison release date for the suspect, Taggart said, isn't pressuring police to crack the case. He said police can make a stronger case against the suspect if they have a body, but Taggart said police have strong circumstantial evidence against him in connection with the alleged killing of Engels. "I'll never give up," Taggart said.

The investigation continues, Taggart said, with Lake Mary and Sanford police and the Seminole County Sheriff's Department working together. The three agencies are jointly sponsoring the dog search. The cost of bringing in the dog team and their handlers is about $2,500 for expenses, with the Holiday Inn on Lake Monroe giving police a discount on the cost of housing the searchers, Taggart said.

Massive land and air searches, using an infra-red detection device, were mounted when Engels was reported missing.

 Taggart said Seminole County Sheriff's Deputy Robin Yilton, who has maintained a personal interest in the case, recently suggested that a cadaver-finding dog might be effective in a new search.
 Taggart contacted U.S. Army Intelligence Special Agent

Dogs

 himself, said, "I don't need the advertising. The people who need to know who I am and where I am will find me."
 He said he travels the world with his dogs aiding police in searches for cadavers in the wild. He said he has found more than 10, but declined to be more specific. Similar dogs were used to uncover human remains after the most recent disastrous earthquake in Mexico.

Newborn said such dogs are common tools for Georgia law enforcement agencies, and she doesn't know why more Florida dogs that are trained to find other contraband such as drugs and explosives aren't trained to find cadavers too.
 Cosper, a dog handler for four years and master to Kilo, said this was his first mission to find a body. "We don't have a lot of killings where I'm at...One or two a year, domestic (disputes)," Cosper said. "Kilo enjoys it. We hunt together. He's kind of like a human. He needs a vacation. I wanted to come to Disney World. He (Kilo) wants to ride Space Mountain." Cosper said of his acceptance of this assignment.

Carrick said cadaver-finding dogs are often used in Georgia in cases of drowning. The dogs, he said, are still able to find a body underwater.
 Smith said Labradors are natural hunters and retrievers and ideal for tracking and this type of search. Dogs he said are naturally curious and as long as something out of the ordinary is in their environment they will pick up the scent and react. A dog's natural curiosity is a key factor in their ability to "go to what's not natural," he said. "Dogs are a simple animal. They use their nose 80 percent of the time."

 Human remains, he said, in addition to decay-related odors, also emit a nitrous type odor that may originate in the human colon and persist for years. The odor of decay and from the colon is detectible by dogs even if the remains are buried or underwater, he said. He added this is only a theory. The way the dogs work is really a mystery, Smith said.

The oldest buried remains Smith has found had been missing since July 1979 and were found in January of this year. A dog handled by his partner Bill Tolhurst in Canada, Smith said, made a positive hit on remains of an American soldier on a battlefield from the War of 1812.

This search will be Junior's last mission. He is retiring after 10 years of success. Smith said he will replace Junior with a new dog. Since 1969, Smith said he has trained about 500 dogs. Junior works for tennis balls, which is what Smith used as a reward in his training.

 A synthetic chemical, believed to resemble the odor of human remains, is used when training the cadaver finding dogs, Smith said. The dogs won't hit on remains that have been embalmed, he said.
 The American Indians, he said, knew that animals could find buried cadavers. That's why, he said, American pioneers adopted the Indian tradition of covering a grave with rocks, "to keep critters from digging it up."
 When he retired from the U.S. Navy in 1969, Smith, who works for the department of corrections, who had never had a dog as a child, said he trained the nation's first dog that could sniff out heroin and cocaine as well as marijuana. Smith, who has "love" and "hate" tattooed across his knuckles, said he got the idea when he saw a pot sniffing dog on the old "Dragnet" television program.

He was told it couldn't be done without the dog becoming addicted. "Ten days later I had one working," he said. "I don't know how I did it. I trusted the dog's abilities." And the same is true, he said, when he expanded into cadaver finding training.

Hubble Space Telescope adjusting continues

United Press International
WASHINGTON — NASA engineers completed the first stage of focusing the Hubble Space Telescope Wednesday and began a guidance system test necessary before the observatory can take its first picture, possibly on Sunday.
 Technicians at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md., began a 38-hour process at 8 a.m. of testing the craft's three fine guidance sensors, which are needed to position the 12-ton, $1.5 billion telescope.

The process began after a 36-hour focusing procedure that brought the telescope within .0000747 of an inch of being focused, officials said.

The guidance tests will be followed at 10 p.m. Thursday by a second 36-hour focusing procedure that will enable the telescope's wide field planetary camera to take the telescope's first picture Sunday if all goes well.

The subject of the picture will be a 3 billion-year-old star cluster known as NGC 3532, located about 1,500 light years from Earth in the constellation

Carina. A light year is about 5.8 trillion miles. The picture is intended as a test and not to produce any new discoveries.

Ferried into space by the shuttle Discovery, the telescope is expected to revolutionize astronomy by studying stars, galaxies and planets in greater detail than ever before during its 15-year mission.

Officials initially hoped to take the first picture about a week after deployment. But the step was delayed by a series of glitches as engineers began an eight-month process of slowly turning on the complicated telescope.

While most of the problems have been resolved, workers are still trying to correct two unusual movements in the telescope, including a vibration that occurs whenever the craft goes in and out of sunlight.

Man charged with burglaries

United Press International

PEARL, Miss. — A 27-year-old Florida man has been charged with burglarizing four churches in Mississippi and faces similar charges in three other states.

Pearl Police Chief Tony Stuart said Thursday Michael J. Forsythe of Cocoa Beach was arrested after trying to buy a part interest in a pawn shop to sell sound equipment stolen from a Hattiesburg church.

He was held without bond on charges of burglary and possession of stolen property.

Stuart said Forsythe is also accused of burglarizing churches in Hattiesburg, Clinton, Pearl and Jackson. He also faces other charges in a church burglary in Lufkin, Texas, and automobile thefts in Florida and Las Vegas, Stuart said.

Stuart said about $20,000 worth of sound equipment was taken in an April 7 burglary at Clinton's Morrison Heights Baptist Church.

Forsythe is also charged with burglarizing the First Pentecostal Church in Jackson.

SHA

Housing Commissioner Terri Burritt refuted the charge, saying that a degree was not required by HUD by-laws and that Weekly was doing a good job.

The letter calls for the reinstatement of Linda Williams, Weekly's predecessor and asks for the right to vote for their tenant commissioner instead of merely submitting recommendations.

two-month investigation by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

During the week of Oct. 17, 1988, according to a memo from Hassler, he ordered city crews to bury 16 barrels behind the city public works department on Warren Avenue.

A neighbor complained to the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation, which investigated the burial.

Eight of the barrels were found to contain hazardous materials, including ignitable and corrosive materials.

Hassler resigned in January 1989 following the discovery of the buried barrels.

Longwood subsequently paid about $30,000 to remove the barrels, clean the site of chemicals that soaked into the ground, testing and other expenses. The city also paid a $25,000 fine to the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation for the dumping.

Hunters

no more than 15 gators measuring at least 4-feet long each, during the 30-day season. David said. Gator hides are valued at about $50 per foot and the meat sells wholesale for about $5 per pound, David said.

In Seminole County, portions of the St. Johns River and Lake Harney are open to some of the gator trappers. Statewide there are 31 harvest sites.

In 1989, 20,000 trappers vied for 228 licenses to hunt. Officials expect that the requirement that the trapper be present when his license is used will cut the number of applications this year. Any individual who submits more than one application will automatically be rejected from the computerized random draw, David said. Winning applicants will be notified in early July and must attend a 6-hour hunter training program in August, to participate in the hunt, he said.

the schools and speak to students, help tutor, and share experiences. The Dividends name refers to the number of hours each individual has volunteered.

Cross, the Dividend of the Year, volunteers at Tuskawilla Middle School and Lake Howell High School. She lives in Winter Park.

Ramsey, the volunteer hall of the Team of the Year, volunteers at Sabal Point elementary. She lives in Longwood.

Griffin, the other half of the team, teaches fifth grade at the school. She lives in Winter Springs.

The school district provided the following portraits of the top volunteers.

Helen Cross - "The Dividend of the Year started her volunteer work at Eastbrook Elementary School. That was just the beginning. Over the past 7 years, this incredible lady has helped at Eastbrook, Tuskawilla Middle and Lake Howell High School.

"At Tuskawilla Middle this past year she has been a weekly volunteer for the gifted social studies teacher. She types, prepares bulletin boards and does other clerical duties. When she heard of a need in the Media Center to help bar code books in preparation for automation, she organized a bar coding blitz.

"Through networking, she got 30 volunteers to help with this project, complete with arranging for pizza to be provided along with her homemade salads and desserts. How did she know about this project? She had recruited volunteers the previous year to bar code all the books at Lake Howell High School.

"In her spare time, our Dividend of the Year works as regular volunteer at Lake Howell High School. She coordinates the volunteers working on campus. She recruits, promotes and keeps records for the Dividends Program at Lake Howell, as well as volunteers in a classroom herself. She helps in the Career Center at Lake Howell regularly and assists in the attendance Office as well.

Diana Ramsey and Scarlett Griffin: "The epitome of a volunteer teacher team is exemplified by this dynamic duo.

"When the teacher underwent major reconstructive foot surgery in December, Diana organized a squad of parents to come in daily to the classroom to assist the teacher so she could return to the classroom earlier than the doctor recommended.

"Diana arranged a volunteer schedule with daily volunteers for three weeks. Thanks to her efforts, the teacher (Scarlett Griffin) missed substantially fewer days, which was beneficial to the students, teacher, and school. The added bonus was that parents were given a chance to spend a day being part of the class which was a very positive experience for them.

"Diana Ramsey and Scarlett Griffin have worked closely together all year long. Diana helps in the classroom tutoring, preparing bulletin boards, clerical duties or any place asked. Scarlett Griffin writes she has enriched my professional and private life with her generosity and has never asked for any recognition in return.

"Diana Ramsey, a professional, is a spiritually gifted woman. Her talents are well known and are being found in many ways, sprouting from her generous heart.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

White Sox win fifth straight

The Chicago White Sox ran their winning streak to five games Wednesday night by defeating a club whose 1989 success they hope to duplicate.

The White Sox, trying to go from the cellar to contenders in one season, beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-2 at Comiskey Park to remain two games behind Oakland in the AL West.

Last year, the Orioles were the majors' most improved team, finishing two games out of first in the A.L. East. The White Sox now are 19-10, second best in the league. Their 19th victory of 1989 came June 3. The last time the White Sox were nine games over .500 was in 1983.

Rookie Jerry Kutzler held Baltimore to three hits over six-plus innings, and improved to 2-0 with relief help from Scott Radinsky and Bobby Thigpen. Carlos Martinez hit a solo homer and RBI double. Carlton Fisk drove in the other two runs and Ivan Calderon stole three bases for Chicago.

Calderon's three stolen bases tied a club single-game record and gave him 10 for the season, matching his career high set in 1987.

In other AL games Wednesday, Oakland defeated Cleveland 7-6, Boston ripped Kansas City 7-1, Seattle beat Toronto 4-2, Detroit slammed Texas 12-0 and Milwaukee dumped California 13-5. Minnesota at New York was rained out.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Mitchell lifts Giants over Mets

With two out and nobody on base in the 10th inning, Alejandro Pena had no reason to challenge Kevin Mitchell on a 3-0 count.

Instead, Pena threw a fastball that Mitchell read perfectly, drilling a home run just inside the left-field foul pole and giving the San Francisco Giants a 4-3 victory over the New York Mets.

Left-hander Jeff Musselman started the 10th for the Mets and retired the first two batters. Mets Manager Davey Johnson then called on Pena, 1-1, so a right-hander would pitch to Mitchell.

Mitchell's eighth homer of the year gave the win to reliever Jeff Brantley, 1-1, the fourth San Francisco pitcher.

Elsewhere in the National League, St. Louis dropped Houston 10-6, Philadelphia edged San Diego 6-5, Atlanta blanked Chicago 4-0 and Los Angeles clipped Montreal 3-2. Pittsburgh at Cincinnati was rained out.

YOUTH BASEBALL

Second clinic set for parents

Oviedo Little League is sponsoring the second in a series of clinics this Saturday at the Oviedo Little League complex on King Street, next to Oviedo High School.

The clinic is an introduction to help parents of handicapped children find out what the Challenger League can offer them. New players and players from previous clinics are welcome. Players may register at the Little League complex at 11:30 a.m. on Saturday. The clinic will begin at noon and last approximately 1 1/2 to 2 hours. All participants will receive a Little League baseball.

For more information, please call Donna Walton at 365-8216 during the day or evening or Paula Church at 365-7063 in the evening.

COLLEGE TENNIS

Florida's Arendt reaches final

GAINESVILLE — Debbie Graham of Stanford University upset teammate and defending champion Sandra Birch in the semifinals of the NCAA Women's Singles Tennis Championships Wednesday to reach the final.

Graham will meet No. 7 seed Nicole Arendt of Florida, who subdued Eveline Hamers of Kansas, 6-7 (1-7), 6-4, 6-1 in 3 hours and 25 minutes in the 89-degree midday heat and humidity.

Arendt, suffering from dehydration, managed to claw back from an 0-3 deficit in the second set to oust Hamers, who is No. 30 in the Volvo Tennis/Collegiate Rankings.

"When I went up after trailing 3-0, I started to think of how Michael Chang came back from cramps against Ivan Lendl in the French Open," said Arendt, a junior from Princeton, N.J. "She started to get tentative and I just tried to keep the ball in play and wait for her to make a mistake."

Arendt, who has played 26 sets of tennis at the NCAA Championships between the team, singles and doubles events during the week, pulled out of her doubles quarterfinal after taking fluids intravenously.

Compiled from staff and wire reports.

Thomas, Varitek, Tuttle represent County at All-Star event

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald sports writer

BASEBALL CITY — The 1990 Florida Athletic Coaches Association (FACA) All-Star Baseball Classic Weekend will be held at Baseball City Stadium today through Saturday and a trio of familiar names will be their to represent Seminole County.

First baseman/outfielder Greg Thomas and third baseman/catcher Jason Varitek of Class 4A State Champion Lake Brantley and Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle will be the representatives from Seminole County who will take part in the three day event.

The Classic will feature players and coaches representing four areas of Florida, the North, South, East and West. Thomas, Varitek and Tuttle will be working with the East team that has players from Daytona Beach to West Palm Beach.

The players and coaches will report to Baseball City Thursday morning and will stay in the Kansas City Royals dormitories. The teams will work out Thursday before the games start on Friday.

The first game is set for 2 p.m. Friday with the North scheduled to take on the South. The East will swing into action against the West at 7:30 p.m.

The two losing teams will play at 11 a.m. Saturday with the winners playing for the championship at 4:30 p.m.

The tournament allows the players to show off their wares for the professional scouts one more time before the draft coming up in early June.

Thomas is a lefty who hit .504 this season which was the best in the county. He proved the average was no fluke in the state tournament as he was 5-for-8 with a double, one run scored and three RBI. He also showed he was very good with the glove also making several running catches while playing centerfield and digging low throws out of the dirt while playing first.

Varitek was rated the third best catching prospect in the country by several pre-season magazines but ended up playing mostly third base because the best rated catching prospect, Jerrey Thurston, just happened to play on the same team.

Varitek hit .394 this season while batting in the No. 3 spot in the order for the Patriots. He was only 2-for-7 in the state tournament but it was his two out, line single to center that capped the five-run come back that allowed the Patriots to take the championship.

Tuttle led the Rams to a 17-10 record this season and second place finish, behind the Patriots, in the Seminole Athletic Conference. Tuttle will be an assistant to Sonny Wise from Apopka. Wise's Blue Darters went 26-5 this season before losing to the Patriots in the regionals.

Other members of the East team will be pitcher Jimmy Mussewhite and shortstop Brett King from Apopka and pitcher Sam Edwards from Kissimmee Gateway.

Edwards went 11-3 this season and struck out 106 batters in 86 2/3 innings. Seminole County fans may remember that he struck out 31 in two games against Seminole High this season.

Cost of the tournament will be $5 per game or $16 for all four games. Anyone with an FACA card will be admitted for free. Tickets will be available at the gate on game day.

Roberts powers Pirates

From staff reports

SANFORD — The Moose Club Pirates took over sole possession of first place in the second half with a 13-5 triumph over the Kiwanis Club Orioles and the Rotary Club Royals upset the Knights of Columbus Cardinals 6-3 in Sanford Recreation Department Junior Major Baseball League at Chase Park Wednesday night.

The standings are unofficial at this time because of protests and questions regarding players' eligibility. An update of the official standings will be published as they are received.

The Pirates lead the second half with a 3-1 mark, followed by the Royals (2-1), the Cardinals (2-2) and the Orioles (0-3). Overall the Cardinals are 9-4, the Pirates 8-5 and the Royals and the Orioles are both 4-8.

Friday night the Royals and the Orioles will complete a suspended game starting at 6 p.m. The game was started last Wednesday but was interrupted by rain and a problem with the lights.

The teams will get back to regular scheduled games on Monday night with the Orioles playing the Royals at 6 p.m. and the Cardinals challenging the Pirates at 8 p.m.

The Pirates jumped on the Orioles quickly sending 11 men to the plate and scoring six runs in the top of the first inning. The Pirates had four hits, three walks and the Orioles committed an error to account for the runs.

Eric Roberts, Willie Williams, Harry Flowers and Dewayne Bell each had a single in the first inning Pirates outburst.

The Orioles countered with three runs in their half of the first on two walks, an error and a Jamie King single, but it was as close as the Orioles were to get.

The Pirates added single runs in the second, third and fourth innings before exploding for four runs in the sixth. Flowers and Wayne Branton had the big hits in the sixth inning.

Meanwhile, Pirates pitcher Roberts settled down to hold the Orioles to only two more runs, one in each of the second and sixth innings, and finished the game with a four-hitter, striking out six.

Providing the offense for the Pirates were Roberts (double, single, two runs scored), Flowers (two singles, two runs scored), Williams (single, three runs scored), Bell and Branton (one single and one run scored each), Corey Donaldson (two runs scored) and Matt Harris and Willie Jones (one run scored each).

Doing the damage for the Orioles were Corey Anderson, Ray June and Demetrius Jackson (one single and one run scored each), King (single) and Robert Huffman and Channing Walton (one run scored each).

The Royals upset the Cardinals in the second game despite being out 6-1.

Don Hunt had the only Royals safety in the first inning and it did not figure in the scoring as Hunt was later caught trying to score on a passed ball.

What the Royals did was take advantage of the uncharacteristic wildness of Cardinals pitcher Craig Merkerson. The usually reliable Merkerson walked 11 men in this game while striking out just four.

Tarrus Davis was the winning pitcher, scattering six hits, striking out six and walking only two Cardinals batters.

The Cardinals took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Merkerson tripled and scored on an Eric Ingram single.

The Royals used five walks to score three second inning runs and take a 3-1 lead.

But the Cardinals battled back to tie the game in the third when Ingram and Quentin Hunt reached on errors, stole a base and scored on a Charlie Farmer single.

The Cardinals couldn't hold the momentum, however, and the Royals took advantage of three walks and a fielding error to score three fourth inning runs and claim the victory.

Scoring one run each for the Royals were Andre Rawlings, Davis, Deon Daniels, Craig Stevens, Victor Peterson and Ricky Justice.

Contributing to the Cardinals attack Merkerson (triple, run scored), Ingram and Hunt (one single and one run scored each) and George Hensley, Farmer and Anthony Morales (one single each).

Tough-talking Bulls advance to Eastern Conference finals

United Press International

CHICAGO — The tough-talking Chicago Bulls say they are ready to avenge their loss to the Detroit Pistons in last year's Eastern Conference finals.

The Bulls earned a rematch with a 117-99 victory over Philadelphia Wednesday night, eliminating the 76ers in five games of their best-of-seven series.

Michael Jordan's 37 points and nine rebounds led the way for the Bulls, who lost to the defending NBA champion Pistons in six games last season. The conference finals begin Sunday at Detroit.

"We're a lot better than we were last season," said Jordan, who ignited key spurts at the outset of the third and fourth quarters. "Now we've got guys on the bench who can step up offensively and defensively. They've done wonders for our confidence."

"You've got to score to beat Detroit, and with the ability of Bill Cartwright, Stacey King and Scottie Pippen in the post, we won't have any problem in that area," John Paxson predicted.

Chicago's Horace Grant also forecasted a better effort on the Bulls' part.

"We're more relaxed and easy-going than we were last season," Grant said. "Get ready for Mike Tyson versus Buster Douglas."

Jordan averaged 43.0 points in the five games against Philadelphia, the third-highest output for one series in NBA playoff history. Jerry West averaged 46.3 points for Los Angeles in 1965, while Jordan averaged 45.2 in 1988.

"They gave me the jump shot in this series, so I took it," said Jordan, who sank 17 of 26 shots. "I was prepared to go inside, but they played off me."

"Michael had a great series," said 76ers forward Charles Barkley, who was limited to 10 field-goal attempts and 17 points. "But he wasn't the only reason why we lost. Their bench was the key."

Sparked by the return of Pippen, who scored 29 following a four-day absence because of the death of his father, Bulls reserves outscored the 76ers' bench 37-25.

"I dedicated this game to my father," Pippen said. "I appreciated the crowd reaction that I received. It really pumped me up."

Jordan opened the third quarter with a 21-footer to give Chicago a 64-63 lead it never lost, then capped a 14-2 flurry four minutes later with a slam for a 76-65 advantage.

Barkley had five points and seven rebounds to help pull Philadelphia within six on three occasions, but the 76ers still trailed 89-81 at the end of the quarter.

Jordan contributed six points to a 15-6 spurt at the start of the fourth quarter, sparking the Bulls to a 104-87 lead that was never threatened.

"They played more aggressively, and their defense was excellent," Philadelphia Coach Jim Lynam said. "We never got Charles into the flow, which was frustrating to him and our overall game."

Ron Anderson led Philadelphia with 20 points, while Johnny Dawkins added 18 and Mike Gminski 18. Grant scored 18 and Stacey King 13 for Chicago.

Behind Dawkins' 16 points and eight assists, Philadelphia held a 63-62 lead at halftime. The 76ers shot 63 percent from the field, while the Bulls hit 60 percent.

Chicago overcame an early seven-point deficit to take its first lead at 41-40 on Pippen's dunk early in a second period. The lead changed hands 12 times, the last on Dawkins' two free throws to close the half.

Philadelphia never trailed in the first quarter after Barkley, Gminski and Barkley scored consecutively baskets in the opening 94 seconds for a 6-0 lead. Rick Mahorn's 15-footer gave the 76ers their largest lead at 25-18 with 3:43 left in the period. But Pippen contributed six points to a run that pulled the Bulls within 31-28 after one quarter.

Winfield goes with California

NEW YORK — Dave Winfield and the California Angels agreed to a three-year, $9.1 million contract Wednesday night, ending five days of wrangling and paving the way for the veteran outfielder to leave the New York Yankees.

The settlement came after 10 hours of negotiations at the offices of the Major League Players Association. Winfield was prepared to enter arbitration over the dispute, but the parties managed to resolve the matter.

Arbitrator George Nicolau began the afternoon with the two parties, but left when it was clear Winfield would come to terms with the Angels. The Angels were represented by the Player Relations Committee, the owners' bargaining arm.

Winfield had balked at his trade for pitcher Mike Witt when the deal was announced Friday in Seattle. The 12-time All-Star had the right to veto any trade and said he did not want to go to the Angels.

Winfield's attorney, Jeff Klein, said the slugger will earn $2 million in 1991 and $3.2 million if he makes the Angels' Opening Day roster. In the last two years of the contract, which are not guaranteed, Winfield will earn $3 million in 1992 and $2.8 million in 1993. Other bonuses could raise the worth of the contract to $9.1 million.

Klein also said the Yankees agreed to pay the Dave Winfield Foundation $50,000 as part of the settlement.

"I'm still in shock," Winfield said from the lobby of the players' union headquarters. "I've lost a lot of sleep the last four or five days. I've had a lot to think about. I just want to play baseball in a comfortable, supportive atmosphere."

Winfield initially refused to report to the Angels, citing his status as a 10-and-5 player — 10 years in the major leagues and at least five with the same team.

The Yankees, however, argued Winfield's contract included a list of seven teams to which he would accept being traded, the Angels being one of them this year.

Witt reported to the Yankees Sunday. Winfield showed up at Yankee Stadium Tuesday, but was told not to play. Now he is due in Milwaukee Thursday for a game against the Brewers.

"We are delighted we were able to complete this transaction," California General Manager Mike Port said. "It means once and for all, Dave Winfield will be wearing an Angels uniform."

Winfield missed the 1989 season because of back surgery and started slowly this year. He was hitting .213 with 2 homers and 6 RBI and reduced to a platoon player by Manager Bucky Dent.

"Even at 38, I'm a valuable commodity," Winfield said. "I know I will be a major contributor. I'll have a good year."

The completion of the deal marks the end of a turbulent 10-year relationship between Winfield and Yankees owner George Steinbrenner. Winfield signed with the Yankees as a free agent before the 1981 season, a 10-year contract worth $21 million.

But it was only a few years later before Steinbrenner questioned Winfield's ability as a clutch player. He mockingly referred to him as "Mr. May," in contrast to the "Mr. October" designation accorded Reggie Jackson.

Their dispute soon turned from personal sniping to legal warfare, with Steinbrenner and Winfield clashing over contributions to the player's charitable foundation.

Steinbrenner has said he opposed the Winfield trade but agreed to the move on the advice of his "baseball people." The owner met with Winfield Monday and said the two smoothed over their hard feelings.

"It is true we have had our moments," Steinbrenner said from Yankee Stadium.

Aaron Pryor returns to ring with third round Knock out

MADISON, Wis. — Aaron Pryor knocked out overmatched Daryl Jones in three rounds Wednesday night just hours after a judge allowed the former junior welterweight champion to enter the ring.

Pryor, 34, who is legally blind in his left eye and had not fought since December 1988, improved to 38-1 by dominating the welterweight fight. After an even first round, Pryor dropped Jones twice in the second and put him down for the count with a left-right combination at 1:15 of the third.

A crowd estimated at only 400 to 500 saw Pryor's comeback and four other fights on the card.

The bout followed a week of controversy, as state boxing commissions around the country tried to convince Wisconsin to deny Pryor a license because of his impaired vision.

The state Department of Regulation and Licensing Wednesday had barred the fight by denying promoter Diana Lewis a permit. But Racine County Judge John Ahlgrim held a hearing just hours before the fight at the request of Lewis and ruled the fight could go on.

Ahlgrim, sitting in Dane County Circuit Court, ruled the state Department of Regulation and Licensing committed an "abuse of its discretion" by deciding Wednesday to deny a permit for the bout. The agency had assured Lewis that by following various procedures the fight could go on as planned, he said in his ruling.

"The plaintiff is substantially damaged," Ahlgrim said.

He also said it would have worked under hardship on Lewis, who invested $15,000 in the fight and sold at least $4,000 worth of tickets.

The bout has been embroiled in controversy since it was announced last week because Pryor has been denied a license to box in four states and was declared legally blind in his left eye by the Nevada State Athletic Commission.

Pryor, of Cincinnati, was the 140-pound champion from 1980 until 1985, but suffered from cocaine addiction. He was inactive from June 1984 until August 1987, when he returned to lose by knockout to Bobby Joe Young in his only defeat.

Pryor has had surgery for cataracts in his left eye has not fought since December 1988. He had been denied permission to box in Nevada, New York, New Jersey and California, but was examined twice in Wisconsin and was certified to fight.

The New York Boxing Commission and some Wisconsin legislators had asked state officials to stop the fight.

Pryor, who said he has another fight scheduled June 2 in Lake Geneva, said he had no trouble with his vision.

"I thought I was going to have trouble with my vision," he said. "That's what I had to adjust to. And once I did I knew he was in trouble."

The former junior welterweight champion signed a waiver releasing the state of Wisconsin from liability for any medical problems from the fight.

Disc problem may worsen symptoms

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have Guillain-Barre syndrome and was found to have three herniated discs in my lower back. The numbness has spread to my arms and hands, buttocks, feet and legs. Can you provide any information on my condition?

DEAR READER: Guillain-Barre syndrome is an acute form of nerve malfunction that produces muscular weakness and loss of sensation, which usually progresses from the legs to the arms. The cause is unknown. The condition usually follows trivial infections (such as flu), surgery or immunizations. Some patients also experience weakness of the facial muscles, the pharynx and respiratory muscles, requiring assisted ventilation for respiratory failure. A few show blood pressure fluctuations and heart irregularities. Guillain-Barre syndrome ordinarily begins within three weeks after an antecedent incident and peaks about three weeks later. Although patients usually recover with only supportive care (respiratory assistance, help with feeding and so forth), 30 percent of adults are left with a degree of residual weakness. There is no specific treatment or antidote.

From your description, I am not certain whether most of your symptoms are due to Guillain-Barre syndrome or to the herniated discs in your back. This latter condition also causes leg weakness, pain, numbness and tingling because when spinal discs slip out of position, they can press on the nerves to the lower extremities. Treatment for herniated discs includes bedrest, physical therapy and — in severe cases — surgery to remove or repair the discs.

The disc problem in your lower back is certainly not causing arm and hand symptoms; nonetheless, it may be contributing to the numbness in your lower body.

I suggest you request referral to a neurologist, a specialist in nerve disorders. This doctor will test your nervous system and, after determining the reason for your symptoms, suggest appropriate therapy.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

North's double of one spade was negative, meant to tell opener South that North wanted to compete for the part-score. South knew that his powerhouse hand had to play game, and he bid it directly. As to the redouble of five diamonds, it did not turn out well, given declarer's line of play. South ruffed the opening lead and played A-K of clubs. His plan was to ruff the third club with the queen of diamonds, and then pick up the trumps and played another heart. That would be a juicy overtrick. But an accident happened. East ruffed the second club and played another heart. Now declarer could ruff one club loser with the queen of diamonds, but he would still be left with a club to lose at the finish, as well as the ace of spades — down one.

Was there a better way? West's double of five clubs should alert declarer to the possibility of a 5-1 club division. To protect against it, South should play only one high club and then play the queen of spades. If East ducks the ace, declarer can then play a low club from his hand, giving up a trick but ensuring that he can ruff a third club with dummy's queen of diamonds and draw trumps to make his contract. If East takes the spade ace and plays another heart, declarer ruffs, goes to dummy with the spade king, and comes off with a low club. If East ruffs, declarer plays low. If East discards, South takes a high club, ruffs a club with the queen of diamonds, and makes 41 tricks as before. The key to success is not to let East ruff one of declarer's high club honors.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 18, 1990

Your desires for material growth are likely to be stronger in the year ahead than they have been in the past. Your newly aroused ambitions will enhance your chances for success. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If your ego gets in the way today you might find yourself overmatched in several competitive situations. Don't be too proud to back out or back down. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Caution and self-doubt are not one and the same, even though today you may believe them to be similar. Tread warily, but do not subdue the hope in your heart. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Under most conditions you tend to fare rather well in collective endeavors. Today, however, it might be wise to avoid participation in joint ventures. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today if you are required to make a judgment that affects another as well as yourself, don't do so in a cavalier fashion. Major decisions must be treated seriously. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You have marvelous powers of observation that give you the ability to render useful criticism, but today when evaluating another, your comments might be more caustic than constructive. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be selective regarding your social companions today, because you won't be comfortable in the company of persons who are domineering or dictatorial. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An unproductive day could be in the offing for you if you team up with someone who views opposite yours regarding ways a critical assignment should be conducted. Operate on your own. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's imperative today that you properly acknowledge anyone who goes out of the way to be helpful to you. Ingratitude could turn a friend into an adversary. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Extravagant inclinations could supersede your means today, so try to steer clear of expensive boutiques. Restrict your shopping to small, cash bargains. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If your boss is insistent upon having something done his/her way today, it's best you comply, ignoring directives and doing it your way could lead to a crisis. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today you may be tempted to do something against your better judgment in order to placate a disagreeable companion. Be friendly, but don't be foolish. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Do not entertain unreasonable expectations today in situations where you are looking for material or financial returns. Unrealistic hopes could be shattered. (C)1990, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

Help find 'Dad of the Year'

The Sanford Herald is searching for an area dad deserving of our annual "Dad of the Year" title.

We need our readers to help by writing letters of nomination, to be reviewed by our panel of judges.

Judging will be based on sincerity and clarity, with specific examples or anecdotes about why your nominee is a special dad. Your nominee need not be your own dad.

Only residents of Seminole County are eligible to be nominated but their nominators need not live in Seminole County.

Here's how to enter: Write us a letter about a special dad, telling us why he's so special.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for people who think it's all right to "drop in" on friends without calling first. It obviously does not occur to some people that even close friends and family have times when drop-in company is the last thing they need. People do bathe, take naps, make love, have family arguments and recover from the flu. I have solved the problem on how to deal with drop-ins. I simply don't answer the door unless I'm expecting someone. The drop-ins then have no way of knowing if I'm asleep, watching television, reading a book, making love or dead on the floor.

I am then free to tell them at a later date, "So sorry, I didn't realize you were at the door. Please call first next time so I won't miss seeing you again."

It works.

BUTTZVILLE, N.J.
DEAR BUTTZVILLE: Thanks for an ideal solution. Read on for a combination of the drop-in and perennial mother-in-law problem:

DEAR ABBY: When I married "Ted," I was a widow with three children. Ted had never been married — but he had a mother who lived 200 miles away. She and her husband started to drop in, uninvited, to spend every weekend with us. My children were very active in their church and school activities, and we were a busy family. I asked my mother-in-law to please let me know when she was coming so I could plan accordingly. She got very huffy and told me she'd come to her son's home whenever she felt like it. (Abby, I owned this house before I mar-hour, and when I came home, I caught her going through my bank statements!

I asked Ted to straighten her out, but he refused, so I packed his clothes and told him to go home to his mama, and when he was man enough to cut the apron strings, to call me, but first he had to understand that his mother could not walk in uninvited or invite company to my home without permission. He finally told her, so I let him stay.

Now I can understand why none of her other three sons could stay married. Guests you invite. Pests drop in.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Bush to consult with Kohl

WASHINGTON — President Bush, preparing for the superpower summit later this spring, was to meet with West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl at the White House today to preview the agenda on German reunification and NATO strategy.

The scheduled meeting with Kohl is part of the president's style to stay in touch with European leaders before he and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev meet in Washington from May 30 to June 3. Gorbachev will remain in the United States until June 4.

Senate approves major AIDS bill

WASHINGTON — The Senate approved legislation to give federal aid over five years to cities overwhelmed by the AIDS epidemic and to provide new treatment and community-based health and support services for victims of the disease.

Thirteen of the nation's largest cities, their health care systems buckling under huge numbers of AIDS cases, would immediately become eligible for the financial assistance. Other cities are expected to qualify as their caseloads increase. The bill also provides grants to states to provide health care, treatment and support to AIDS victims in urban and rural areas.

The estimated five-year cost of the financial aid package is $2.9 billion. The bill was approved 95-4 and sent to the House.

'Leak' investigation closed

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department ended its investigation into a politically embarrassing and misleading "news leak" involving Rep. William Gray, D-Pa., without prosecuting senior aides to Attorney General Dick Thornburgh.

Solicitor General Kenneth Starr was assigned to investigate the sensitive case, including examining the role of Thornburgh's longtime personal spokesman, David Runkel, and another key aide to the attorney general.

Starr said Wednesday there was no basis for criminal prosecution of anyone and "no further investigation is warranted."

Two days earlier, Thornburgh abruptly ordered the reassignment or departure of two of his top three aides. Both were questioned in the criminal investigation of the Gray leak and were members of his inner circle, dubbed the "palace guard" by detractors.

Arizona gets King holiday

PHOENIX — Two years after Gov. Evan Mecham was ousted from office following a series of events that began when he rescinded Arizona's Martin Luther King Jr. holiday, his successor signed a bill that restored it.

Just hours after the House gave the legislation final approval Wednesday, Gov. Rose Mofford signed the bill creating a King holiday and reinstating Columbus Day as a state holiday.

The controversial bill will become law within 90 days unless opponents collect enough signatures to put the issue on the November general election ballot.

Dominicans vote in general elections

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic — Former President Juan Bosch held a narrow lead over fellow octogenarian President Joaquín Balaguer in initial election results released Thursday.

With 5 percent of the ballots counted from Wednesday's national elections, Bosch was leading with 37 percent, Balaguer had 33 percent and Jose Francisco Pena Gomez 22 percent, election officials said. The other five candidates split the remaining votes.

Germanys move closer to unification

BONN, West Germany — East and West Germany will sign a crucial treaty on economic, currency and social unification Friday, bringing the two states a step closer to political unity, officials said.

Government officials in Bonn and East Berlin said Wednesday the document still must be ratified by the parliaments in the two German capitals.

"I do not see anything which can or should prevent a two-thirds approval of the state treaty by Parliament," said Guenther Krause, an aide of East German Prime Minister Lothar de Maiziere.

Nicaragua workers end strike

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Telephone operators were the first public employees to return to work with a 100 percent wage increase won in negotiations with the government of President Violeta Chamorro.

"The government gave a little and the workers gave a little," Central Bank President Francisco Mayorga said after more than 10 hours of talks Wednesday that ended the five-day strike.

The crippling strike had affected everything from telephone service and transport to banks and government ministries.

Nintendo poses health hazards

By KAREN KLINGER
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON — The popular Nintendo video games may create health problems for people who play them for hours at a time, including "Nintendo epilepsy" and "Nintendinitis" of the thumb, doctors warned.

In one recent case, a 13-year-old girl who spent three hours playing the Nintendo game "Super Mario Brothers" suffered an epileptic seizure apparently brought on by the flickering patterns, exploding lights and rapid movements on the video screen, said Dr. Edward Hart of Franciscan Children's Hospital in Boston.

Hart said the girl appears to suffer a rare form of "photosensitive epilepsy" that affects 2 percent to 3 percent of epilepsy patients, or about one in 10,000 people. Epilepsy is a neurologic disorder characterized by sudden, brief attacks involving loss of consciousness and muscle control.

In photosensitive epilepsy, seizures can be triggered by flickering lights, ranging from disco strobe lights to sunlight filtering through leaves, Hart said.

On the day of her seizure, he said the girl had taken only one 10-minute break in a marathon stint of Nintendo when she "felt strange" and suffered a 2- to 3-minute generalized seizure, witnessed by her parents," Hart said in a letter published Wednesday in The New England Journal of Medicine.

It is known that watching television can bring on seizures in some people with photosensitive epilepsy, but Hart said it is the first case he could find of "Nintendo epilepsy."

Although the girl "probably had a latent tendency to epilepsy" all along, she never had an identifiable seizure before, Hart said. During the Nintendo episode she "fell on the ground, lost consciousness and had true convulsions."

"I don't know how big a problem this could be in the sense of how many children might be affected," Hart said, noting that in some children seizures may constitute nothing more than a "momentary unresponsiveness."

Because the girl decided she could not stay away from her Nintendo game altogether, Hart said, she is being treated with a combination of drugs and reduced exposure to video games.

Hart said a similar case was reported in England involving a video game called "Dark Warrior," so "the phenomenon is almost certainly not game-specific."

In a separate letter, a Wisconsin doctor said a 35-year-old woman who played Nintendo without interruption for five hours experienced severe pain the following day.

Two convicted killers executed

United Press International

Texas and Missouri executed two inmates early Thursday, administering lethal injections to a condemned killer with an IQ of about 70 and a death row inmate who laughed at a judge when his sentence was announced.

Johnny Ray Anderson was declared dead at 12:30 a.m. CDT by doctors at the state prison at Huntsville, Texas. Leonard Laws died about 21 minutes earlier at the Potosi Correctional Center in Potosi, Mo.

The executions were the 126th and 127th in the United States since 1976, when the Supreme Court lifted its ban on capital punishment.

¶We appealed on the grounds (Anderson) is a poor, dumb, son of a bitch who should never have been given the death penalty. ¶

Attorney Louis Dugas

Anderson, 30, proclaimed from the death chamber gurney that he did not kill his brother-in-law in an insurance scam. "I'm still claiming my innocence," he said. "I am not guilty. That's all I have to say."

A psychiatrist testified that Anderson, a former mechanic, had an IQ of about 70.

"(We appealed) on the grounds he is a poor, dumb, son of a bitch who should never have been given the death penalty," said Louis Dugas, Anderson's attorney.

In the Missouri execution, Laws, 40, spent his last hours meeting with family members and faced his death sentence calmly, said Dale Riley, assistant director of the Division of Adult Institutions in Missouri.

His execution also was the second performed at the maximum security prison in a week and the third this year.

Laws had requested that no petition be filed in an attempt to save his life.

He had been a member of a gang that preyed on elderly and disabled people with low incomes, robbing and killing them.

Senate reaches agreement on civil rights bill

United Press International

WASHINGTON — A month after the administration threatened to veto the Civil Rights Act of 1990, the White House and Congress seem to be near an agreement on a revised version of the proposed legislation.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., called a news conference Thursday to announce a settlement on a key provision that sources said would hopefully eliminate White House concerns about job quotas.

Bush said Wednesday he is "working hard" with Congress to develop an acceptable measure, and earlier this week the White House said previous changes had helped alleviate objections.

A White House aide said the administration had not been informed of the Kennedy-Danforth proposal, but a source familiar with it said Bush "would be wise to buy it as a matter of substance and politics."

"We have enough votes to override any veto," the source said.

Bush, who has met in recent days with representatives of many minority and civil rights groups about the legislation, also was to host a Rose Garden ceremony Thursday honoring the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

Arthur Fletcher, the commission's chairman, is among the black leaders seeking to reach "common ground" with the president on civil rights legislation.

Union: Nursing shortage harming care of patients

United Press International

WASHINGTON — A nurses' union said today that despite some recent optimistic assessments, the nursing shortage is reaching "epidemic proportions" and is harming the quality of patient care.

The Federation of Nurses and Health Professions, a division of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, released a survey showing that 90 percent of the 1,600 nurses responding said they felt the nursing shortage is a problem, with 60.6 percent calling it a major problem.

Also, 73 percent said the shortage is harming patient care, while 86 percent said patient care suffers when nurses work overtime.

An estimated 90,000-100,000 additional nurses will be needed annually to meet current demands, federation spokesman Scott Triebitz said.

"Contrary to recent reports and news stories, the nursing shortage is not over. It's real and it's reaching epidemic proportions," said Candice Owley.
