

THE GOLDEN RULE—What- ever you would like men should do to you, do even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets. Matthew 7: 12.

WHEN LUCK'S AGIN YOU Though you know that luck's agin you And the world is lookin' blue, Smile! Though the skies are dark and cloudy, And the sun's quit shinin' through, Smile! It's a cinch to be a hero When the cards are runnin' high, But when things get goin' edgewise Show 'em that you're the guy To Smile!

THE SENATORS will likely find the Pirates a tough crowd. Well, the Senators have been having trouble with Pirates of one kind or another for about one hundred and fifty years.

Callaux's offer of forty millions for the first five years, sixty millions for the next seven years and one hundred millions thereafter for fifty years, seems on the face of it to be fair enough.

Formerly they always used to have playgrounds around school-houses, but before long automobile parking yards may be necessary.

Remember also that Colonel Mitchell is blessed with an independent fortune and if he got kicked out of the Army, he wouldn't have to worry about getting another job. That may be one reason why he is not afraid to disclose inefficiency in the Army, while other junior officers who know as much of conditions as he does, keep their mouths shut.

Alfred Zayas, one time president of Cuba, recently remarked: "Cuba is the only nation who has paid her war debt to the United States in full. This is due to the laboriousness of our people. Sixty-seven per cent of our imports are from the United States. Eighty-five per cent of our exports go to the United States. We Cubans are proud."

Secretary Wilbur has been a thorn in the Navy's side ever since President Coolidge pulled him off a California beach where he was serving a life term as chief justice and made a sailor out of him. It will be remembered that it was this same Wilbur who soon after his appointment, started on a tour of the country in behalf of Coolidge's election. He was making speeches and not weighing his words very well and Coolidge found it necessary to recall him to Washington.

Secretary Wilbur has been a thorn in the Navy's side ever since President Coolidge pulled him off a California beach where he was serving a life term as chief justice and made a sailor out of him. It will be remembered that it was this same Wilbur who soon after his appointment, started on a tour of the country in behalf of Coolidge's election. He was making speeches and not weighing his words very well and Coolidge found it necessary to recall him to Washington.

Mr. Wilbur did not want this investigation. But he finally concurred in the request for it that was made by the Acting Secretary of War, Dwight F. Davis, and it was assumed by the public that the concurrence was in good faith.

The Acting Secretary of War made no effort to direct or gag the army officers who testified at the inquiry. General Patrick's views on certain air policies do not agree with the views of Acting Secretary Davis, but General Patrick, like General Hines and General Drum, was allowed to speak frankly to the committee.

In contrast with Mr. Davis' dignified and becoming bearing, Wilbur made himself offensive by injecting himself into the examination of others and attempting to direct, shape and dominate the inquiry.

The country could do very well without Wilbur as Secretary of the Navy; Coolidge could do very well without Wilbur in his Cabinet. The New York Herald Tribune in no less stringent terms discusses the Secretary's statement made in refutation to Mrs. Lansdowne's word that her husband had protested against the flight, as follows:

This was in flat contradiction of the statement first made by the widow of Zachary Lansdowne. It seems now to be in equally flat contradiction of the official record. In the most lenient view Mr. Wilbur was appallingly ignorant of the conduct of his department and incredibly reckless in his assertions.

For his topic that Sabbath morning the reverend father chose the Judgment. He painted a shining picture of the scene which would be presented on the Last Day, when all the race of mankind, the quick and the dead, the old and the young from Adam to the newest born babe, would assemble before the foot of the throne of the Almighty to be judged, according to their deeds done in the flesh. It was an eloquent discourse and a moving one.

When the service was over an elderly Irishman tarried after the rest of the congregation had departed. He halted the priest as the latter was leaving. "Your Riverine," he said, "I want to ask you a question or two if you please. I followed your sermon close this morning, but still I don't know if I got your meanin' quite clear."

WHY? MIAMI HERALD

Explorers tell us of a savage tribe in Africa that has been, quite recently, very much agitated by the birth of an Albino child to a black mother of the tribe. The whole tribe is convinced that the event presages some dire disaster.

As But... BY ARTHUR SCHMANN (Copyright 1925)

THE WORLD war is replaced by a new war, more disastrous to America than the big war. Bootleggers and drug pirates supply ingredients for the new war.

David Bram, wholesale criminal dealer in drugs, is found murdered in an automobile, with $1,400 in his pocket. He took some change as he was leaving home.

He was killed, say the police, by bootleggers, his competitors selling whiskey against his drugs. He had informed against them, and was killed for revenge.

Nobody knows how many millions are spent for drugs, how many hundreds of millions for bootleg whiskey, or how many graves the drug and bootleg trades will fill.

THAT HUMAN beings are not so different from their alleged cousins that climb up and down trees was shown in an experiment on one monkey.

When they gave him only milk he was happy and grateful. They gave him beer and he refused milk. They gave him wine and he refused beer. They gave him whiskey and he lost interest in wine.

If they had given him opium or cocaine he probably would have yelled for these drugs, and refused whiskey.

It is encouraging to see bootleggers kill the drug selling kings, but it won't go far enough.

SASUKE KATANIWA, born blind, has climbed Mount Fujiama 17 years in succession "to purify his soul for the year."

He cannot see with his physical eyes, but he knows what is spread out before him from the mountain top. And every year, while he lives, he will climb the mountain.

That's a wise Japanese. With imagination, and perhaps his blind eyes, he is looking over Japan, see more than others see.

We see, feel, and know only what IMAGINATION tells us.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE knows how men that fought in the war feel about Colonel Mitchell and a national air force controlled by gentlemen that do not know how to fly.

American Legion men that carried Mitchell on their shoulders when he arrived in Washington, cheering for fifteen minutes, know the difference between a real fighter like Colonel Mitchell, who had more flying experience than any other man in the war, and gentlemen whose experience above the earth is regulated by the height of the elevators in their office buildings.

THE SOUTH needs cotton pickers, thousands of them, to help get in the crop before the Autumn rains injure the cotton. If you would like to combine business with pleasure on a trip to the South, write to the president of the Chamber of Commerce in Atlanta, Ga., or Fort Worth, Tex., and ask advice. Find where men are needed, also women and girls. Jump in your little car, see something of the South and its possibilities, and pay your way. See America first, and thoroughly. See it with your eyes open, and you'll be able to go to Europe.

A WALL STREET writer moans about "the weakness of United States Steel common."

Yet that stock closed last night at $120 a share. A few years ago Frank Munsey was buying 100,000 shares of it around $10 to $12 a share.

If Judge Gary lives twenty-five years more, and he ought to, he will be a rich man. Steel common will go a great deal higher, twice as high, very like, and brokers will still be moaning about the low price.

But don't GAMBLE in Steel or any stock. But only what you can pay for, put it away, and sleep well.

TO KNOW how the United States grows, especially United States finance, read this extract from a Wall Street report printed in New York ninety years ago:

"Several new banks have been reported in Albany. What nonsense! Give us a large bank—say one of fifty millions—to regulate the money market and checkmate Philadelphia."

New York has banks now with several times fifty millions each, and one bank with more than a thousand millions. And "checkmating Philadelphia isn't worrying New York."

Chicago has more than one bank which could have bought all the New York banks a little while ago. We are only starting.

MR. COOPER, learned financier in the Equitable Trust, who tells you whether you must pay five and a half or five and a quarter for money that he ought to be proud to lend you for three and a half per cent, says: "I see your Today column expects booming prosperity to continue."

A child in the cradle, if it could talk, might convince anybody that prosperity MUST CONTINUE.

We are only BEGINNING the world's period of great industrial development.

MR. CROMWELL, like 99 per cent of middle aged men that ride, rode in a soft hat. He fell, he struck on his head and was killed. The right kind of riding hat especially made with an archtrusion in the crown, would have saved his life.

Mr. Smith, one of the ablest presidents the New York Central ever had, was killed in the same way. Middle aged men take notice.

DAN DOES... Nothing makes a man more... The more you live as if you were the only person in the world the more you are out of it. Ho, hum! The nice things about living in a small town is you are so liable to be out of work. They jalled 600 more Chinese in New York. Looks like a hard winter for the Sing Sing rats. Six Cleveland men who raise glasses and said, "Here's looking at you," never will look again. And few things make a girl madder than not kissing her when she knows you know you could. Before many more weeks you will find just how much enchantment distance added to winter. A dancer called "Yellow Charleston" was executed at Sing Sing, but not for dancing the Charleston. We have read so much about dirigible balloons lately we dread last night we were a football. Look closely next time you buy a pedestrian with your auto. You may learn a new Charleston step. In Berlin, the women are using smoking cars. Doesn't make us just wanted to use that "bling" word. There are ways of learning to Charleston. One way is hunt a car, button in your bare feet in a dark room. In Newark, N. J., bandits get $10,000 worth of lamb skins, so now they can make themselves some diplomats.

Popham Defense Files An Appeal In Oyster Bed Case

TALLAHASSEE, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Attorneys for the defense in the famous so-called Popham case, have been given until Oct. 1 by the Court of Appeals to file the briefs in the noted litigation.

The case grew out of prosecution by the United States government of William Lee Popham, known as the "millionaire oyster king" for using the mails to defraud. It grew directly out of the case of Popham of St. Leo's island. Popham was convicted in the United States district court and sentenced to 4 years imprisonment. An appeal was taken to the Court of Appeals.

The briefs in the case, according to attorneys for the defense, will run about 3,000 pages.

The case was one of the hardest fought in Florida's legal history. Two attorneys were retained by Popham. They included Phillip D. Bell, Pensacola; John W. Cox, Pensacola; John P. Stokes, Miami; and Fred Daryl and W. C. Hodger, Tallahassee.

Two More Bodies Are Taken From Vessel

ON BOARD U. S. S. CAMDEN, FRENCH ISLAND, B. W. I.—(AP)—Associated Press, Oct. 2.—The toll of known dead of Submarine S-51 was raised to four today when divers recovered the bodies of two of the crew in the forward compartments of the ship. The men were identified as Walter E. Lawton of Sonoma, Calif., and B. D. Lindsay, engineer, second class of Pensacola, Fla.

Magazine Survivors Give Details Of Recent Disaster Before Investigating Body

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—At least four men, including Lieut. Rodney H. Dobson, commander of the S-51, were swept to death from the bridge of the submarine when it was sunk in a collision with the steamer City of Rome off Block Island last Friday night. This was brought out in testimony today by two of the magazine survivors, Alfred Geier of New Bedford, and Michael E. Lira, of St. Louis, before the local board of inspectors of the U. S. Steamboat Inspection Service which is investigating the disaster.

Neither man saw the submarine's running lights at that time. They testified that as far as they knew both the steering gear and the lights of the submarine were in good order on the night of the collision. Lira criticized the failure of the City of Rome to throw a line to the submarine in answer to the plea of the commander. Other than this both declared they had no criticism to make of any officer or crew of the other craft.

Both were asleep. That the submarine probably was running on the surface prior to the collision was brought out by the examination. Neither man was able, however, to give information concerning the events immediately preceding the disaster, since both were asleep in the battery room below when awakened by the crash of the magazine coming together.

A graphic picture of the disaster was given in the testimony of the pair. Geier was awakened by a "crash." Lira thought that there had been a battery explosion as he awakened and leaped from his bunk, situated in the same compartment as those of some 17 other sleeping men and officers.

Geier saw the chief signalman asking another man up the stairs to the conning tower hatch, the only one believed open. Lira saw Lieut. Dobson pause in the central operating room, heard him call the men to quarters and then saw him climb to the deck. Both men climbed through the conning tower hatch to the bridge.

Geier thought the deck to be level, and apparently the ship riding normally, but Lira said the boat was down 10 degrees. Both said that the outside of the submarine was "very close" to the starboard side of the steamer and (Continued on Page Two)

TENTATIVE PLAN TAKEN TO FRANCE BY DEBT MISSION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The final formula of a tentative arrangement, which must be ratified by the French government was thrust into the breach to prevent complete collapse of the Franco-American debt funding negotiations.

Thus, one week after Finance Minister Caillaux and his associates had laid down the first Franco-American proposal for funding their government's four billion war debt, they departed for Paris, taking with them a document intended only to fill the gap sufficiently to assure continuity of negotiations—even at long range.

The arrangement proposed by the American Debt Commission, as a final move to overcome what appeared to be insurmountable differences, would have France pay an annuity of $40,000,000 a year for five years and would enable the two governments to continue consideration of a program of final settlement to succeed the proposed pact at its expiration.

Further it stipulated that the annuity thus paid shall be in lieu of all interest on the debt during the time it shall run—or an interest charge of approximately one percent a year.

Caillaux Expresses Hope. M. Caillaux gave American commissioners the hope that he believed the French government would accept the agreement. He declined to sign it as a plenipotentiary inasmuch as he had been entrusted by his government, he said, to sign only a final settlement and he questioned his own right to act on an arrangement of a provisional character.

Consequently, being as desirous as you are not to interrupt the negotiations which can not fail to reach an agreement, M. Caillaux's last statement to the Americans said, "the minister of finance can do no more than submit to his colleagues of the French cabinet the proposition which you have made today, and he will do his utmost to give an answer as soon as possible."

Believe Progress Made. It was after making this statement that M. Caillaux and his associates marched in single file from the meeting and the end of the conversations between the two commissions had come. M. Caillaux was unhappy that a permanent arrangement was not reached. Secretary Mellon, too, was disappointed, but he, nevertheless, regarded the results as a step forward and he felt that a better understanding between the two nations had been developed.

But observers, and even members of the American Commission held varied opinions as to the tangible results of the seven day conference. Disappointment and dissatisfaction predominated in some quarters that the Americans had been unable to do more; in others the prevailing sentiment was that France can do better in the way of terms five years hence than her representatives felt able to do at this time. Among all of those directly concerned with the negotiations, however, there was a noticeable sense of relief at their conclusion.

Franc Goes Up In Value. PARIS, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The first tangible effect here of the temporary debt settlement offer in Washington was to send the dollar from 21.1 francs at the opening of business to 21.3 at 1 o'clock.

GRID WARRIORS TO OPEN SEASON WITH LEESBURG

Coach Welch's Protoges Said to Be Ready For Current Raiser Tomorrow, Claim Team Best in Years

Sanford High School will send its plucky warriors Saturday to Leesburg for the opening game of the season, confident of winning the initial struggle and buoyed by the knowledge that the 11 hunkies representing the local institution is the most promising for a number of years.

This assertion is the common opinion of those who have been in close touch with the preliminary work carried on during the early weeks of the season. It is under the supervisory eye of Coach Welch, grid mentor at the Palmetto Avenue school. A number of veterans of last year's successful squad are said to be back in the harness this fall.

And to this nucleus has been added the most promising of the material which reported after the call for candidates was issued. Fourteen seniors every evening have rounded out the form of the eleven, it is said, and the coaches are confident that the trip to Leesburg will fulfill the prophecy now voiced by adherents and critics of the pastime.

No announcement was made today regarding the probable lineup that will face the referees while the tomorrow afternoon. It is understood that certain players have already shown sufficient form to insure them a regular berth on the squad, but no definite information is available concerning which men will face the Leesburg defense.

It is reported here today that a large body of students and local alumni have made arrangements to journey to Leesburg for the initial appearance of the team.

Wealthy Carolinian's Daughter Goes On Stand To Aid Him In Fight For Life

ROCKINGHAM, N. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Elizabeth Cole Thursday took the witness stand in defense of her father, W. B. Cole, wealthy cotton manufacturer, who last Aug. 15 shot and killed W. W. Ormond, former sweetheart of the young woman. Attorneys for Mr. Cole, who is on trial here for murder, have set up pleas of self-defense and transitory insanity.

The state rested its case this morning after four eye witnesses had testified they saw Cole, wealthy textile executive, fire three shots into the body of Ormond as he sat in his car on the streets of Rockingham last Aug. 15. One other witness served only to identify a photograph showing position of the buildings and the automobile in which Ormond was killed.

After questions regarding her age and period of life here, A. L. Brooks brought up the subject of her relations with Ormond.

Mrs. Cole testified she broke her relations with Ormond of her own accord because he would not work; because he had a bad temper and because she could not look up to him as a husband.

Throughout her testimony the young woman betrayed no emotion. She glanced repeatedly in the direction of her father and after changing the position of her feet.

On cross examination the young woman testified that she had seen her father about an hour before the shooting. She was in an automobile she said, and passed the Manufacturers' building, in which he had an office. She saw him through the window and noticed that he was chatting, laughingly with several persons. She did not.

Before she was excused the witness acknowledged her signatures to several letters in possession of the state that will be introduced later, presumably in an effort to refute her testimony that she broke her relations with Ormond of her own accord.

These figures were supplied this morning through the courtesy of Manager A. C. Carter of the Sanford Credit Association, who compiled the account, and are said to show an average of 13.8 completed transactions during every working day of the month.

According to the figures available today, realty deals during the past month have far outstripped any preceding period of the year, the total amount recorded during September being greater by $76,400 than August, the next highest month, when transactions here amounted to $1,514,200. This increase is shown to be approximately 53 per cent.

Rhodes, Market Commissioner Man Addresses Chamber at Noon; Is Here For Geneva Meet; Quotes Statistics

Addressing members of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce at their weekly luncheon in the Seminole Grill today, L. M. Rhodes, State Marketing Commissioner of Jacksonville and Tallahassee, described the position of poultry production in this state, in relation to the other farming activities in Florida.

Mr. Rhodes, who is in this city in connection with the second annual Poultry Institute held in Seminole county, gave members a keen insight into the extent of the poultry business in the state at this time, presenting an exhaustive set of statistics which graphically show its great importance, and the present inadequate supply in the face of an increasing demand.

In his talk today, he stated that the raising of poultry, as an industry, is rated fifth in point of production among the crops of Florida, by state agriculturists. Even in this relatively high position, Mr. Rhodes pointed out, during the next 12 months Florida will spend $12,000,000 for importation of eggs and poultry from other sources than the state.

In discussing this feature of the situation, he declared that, with the advantageous climatic and other conditions prevalent here, there is no reason why Florida, in addition to being self-sufficient in the matter of poultry products, should not be able to provide export times that amount for export shipment.

Swimming Pool Estimate Given. Committee reports occupied much of the business session of the meeting, it is stated. S. O. Shinnoler, reporter for the swimming pool committee, stated that after long investigation members of the committee had reached the conclusion that complete cost of an attractive pool, together with the necessary bath-house, concession stand, etc., would approximately $40,000.

The publicity committee, represented at the meeting by Howard Hulick, approved the tentative advertising schedule as it had been prepared, and submitted it to members of the organization with full recommendations.

A report was presented members at this time by J. R. Chittenden, announcing that local realtors had subscribed for an additional 21,000 advertising circulars for their own use, and that 9,000 more would likely be taken by others.

Commerce Experts Ordered To Florida To Aid Rail Tie-Up

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Three agents of the Interstate Commerce Commission have been ordered into Florida, W. P. Bartel, director of service for the commission, said Thursday, to observe the progress of railroad attempts to relieve acute traffic congestion, particularly on the state's eastern coast.

Bartel said present information gave him reason to hope for relief from the tie-up, though repeated embargoes have been declared against certain classes of freight, particularly by the Florida East Coast system.

"Other railroads have congested in an endeavor to route freight shipments away from the congested zone," Bartel said, "but without great effect, since the greatest congestion has been between West Palm Beach and Miami into which no other rail routes can penetrate successfully. Our men have instructions to find the facts and also seek opportunity to assist."

"I now believe that the double track construction which the Florida East Coast is completing, and with the clearing up of the lines which the present embargo will allow, that traffic can be gotten into motion."

"The cause of the difficulty, it appears now, was the very great increase in freight movement, combined with the pressure of passenger traffic, beginning in September, which has subjected the congested lines to the year.

PALM BEACH MAN SEEKS TO TEST WILL'S LEGALITY

Arguments Over Will of Late Richard Croker Resumed in United States Court Bill of Complaint is Awarded

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 2.—(AP)—That the Richard Croker will, in which the children by his first wife are not provided for, is legal and that lawful conveyance was made of certain Palm Beach, Fla., ocean front properties by Croker, prior to his death, to his wife and subsequently to J. B. McDonald and his assigns, the Palm Beach estates, is the position taken by the defendants in the case now pending in U. S. District Court here.

This was set forth Thursday when McDonald and the estates, through their attorneys, filed an answer to a bill of complaint made an issue in federal court last Jan. 7. McDonald and the estates are co-defendants in the litigation with Mrs. Bula Croker, who has until Wednesday, October 7 to file her reply to the complainants' plea.

The filing of the answer to the original bill was in compliance with executive orders issued by Federal Judges Rhydon Call and Lake Jones.

The Croker children in their complaint maintained that the will should be decreed null and void and that the transactions, whereby the defendants gained possession of the properties, should be declared illegal. They asked that it be decreed that the properties form a homestead and as such should be held in trust, the children receiving their portions and Mrs. Croker a dowry right.

In support of this position they have declared that Croker was a head of a family under the Florida state legislation. This declaration is denied in the defendants reply in which it is pointed out that Croker, following his second marriage, lived upon the properties only at intermittent periods and that he was not "a head of a family in this state."

They contend that the properties were purchased only on an investment basis and that at no time did Croker use or express an intention to use the lands as a homestead.

The defendants maintain that the deeds of conveyance between Croker, Alice Eccleston and Mrs. Croker and between Mrs. Croker and McDonald and the Palm Beach estates were made in legal fashion with "valuable consideration being given." It is charged in the bill of complaint that the transactions were not legal inasmuch as no considerations were made in any instance.

"Please give me a line" were the commander's last words before the submarine slipped beneath the water, Lira asserted.

Both Lira and Geier were caught in clearing lines or antenna and went down but struggled loose and came to the surface.

"I got to the surface and looked around," Geier declared. "I counted six heads. The stern of the City of Rome was going away. After a few minutes I looked for the other boys and I only saw four of them."

Only Three Saved. His testimony was taken to indicate that of the seven in the water, including himself, only three were saved by the boat lowered by the City of Rome.

Lira was the first picked up. Geier said a lighted ring buoy was thrown to him and he was picked up, and that at that time the steam had headed about and was approaching him.

WHERE SANFORD TRADES

Colonel William Mitchell

Is this man Mitchell and where did he come from anyway? Readers of newspapers recall that last winter he had many of his superiors up in the air when he accused them of inefficiency and mismanagement of the air service.

Newspaper readers are now observing that the press is again full of the doings of this man Mitchell. A few hours after the wrecking of the Shenandoah, Mitchell had a statement ready for the people of this country, condemning high ranking Army and Navy officers for "almost criminal negligence" and the "grossest inefficiency and mismanagement."

They he was summoned to Washington to testify before President Coolidge's Court of Inquiry. Colonel Mitchell set out from San Antonio with eight volumes—or was it tons—of constructive argument as to why the United States should have a Department of National Defense with a unified air service.

But who this man Mitchell was before last winter, what he did or where he came from, very few newspaper readers can remember. Only a few recall ever having heard of him before this recent controversy was begun.

Colonel Mitchell is a picturesque person. He is about forty-five years old. He comes out of the West. There has been no more courageous and skillful soldier and aviator in the Army than he, not only this but few have touched him.

He is a restless spirit. He is a good deal of a lover of outdoor life, in many ways. He has a string of horses. We saw him at the National Horse Show across the bridge in Virginia. The grounds do not measure up to their name. He rode several entries.

Who's Who in America also contains a few facts about Mitchell which would tend to indicate that he is not just an ordinary mind-jammer, just a Shapurji Saklatvala, whose rabid shouting need not be taken seriously.

As Barbara

YOU NEED not be a newspaperman all your life to understand the most important fact in newspaper work, and John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Merchants' Trust Company, proves it.

To his intense surprise, when Victor Lawson died Mr. Mitchell found the Chicago Daily News dropped into his lap with power to do with it as he pleased. This is what he did, according to accounts in the Chicago Daily News office:

He sent for three men upon whom Victor Lawson had relied in his lifetime and said to them: "I know that a newspaper must rely for success on newspapermen, as banks rely on bankers. If you want my advice, and you ought not to need it, I will give it to you. But I want you to decide what ought to be done, and do it. All I ask of you is to prove to me that Victor Lawson showed good judgment when he made you his chief assistants and to agree among yourselves."

THE NEW York World dwindled in the hands of Jay Gould; the Herald, Sun, Press, Mail, in New York, and half a dozen other newspapers out of New York, faded away like sickly infants in the hands of Frank Munsey, able business man and financier, but without a lofty intellect and incapable of descending to the humdrum details of newspaper work—in other words, not a newspaper man.

Gould, Munsey and other business men, with newspapers on their hands, might have done much better had they known what John J. Mitchell knows—that it takes a newspaper man to run a newspaper, but it takes a railroad man to run a railroad and a good peanut vendor to run a peanut stand.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, how are you impressed by the testimony of Major Ralph Royce before your air board?

It isn't necessary to ask. Every intelligent American knows your common sense and sound judgment. But, for the benefit of some newspapers and obsolete military and naval "higher ups" that oppose an independent air force, to publish as widely as possible one part of Major Royce's testimony, as public service, said: "Last year I was inspected by eleven generals, and not one of them ever even looked at my airplane. They were interested only in the clothing of the enlisted men, in saluting, and the cleanliness of my kitchen and barracks."

MR. PRESIDENT and readers generally, what would you think of eleven generals, responsible for the safety of our country, who, if they confined themselves to inspecting the uniforms of Pullman conductors or porters, and the cleanliness of the dining car, and never asked a question about the locomotive.

THIS NATION needs an air force controlled by men that understand flying, men that are interested in the difference between an all metal monoplane and a weak cloth made biplane, more than in neat uniforms, or service saluting.

Providence, taking care of the birds, put in charge of them the brains of birds, not the brains of rabbits or turtles.

Why should this nation, depending for its safety in war, upon flying machines, and flying men, put the nation's flying department under the control of human rabbits from the navy or turtles from the army?

NOT FAR from the train on which this is written in Arkansas City, Kans., there lives a dog, name unknown, and all the rest of his life that dog will believe in miracles.

His owner, probably dead by this time, was Warren Hardy, man of quick temper. Seizing his shotgun by the end of the barrel, Hardy hit the dog with the butt. Neither he nor the dog knew the gun was loaded. Hardy is in the hospital, and probably won't recover.

ALL IN one second the dog felt the blow, heard the explosion, saw his cruel master stretched on the ground, knowing nothing about gunpowder. That dog will always believe in miracles, and also in a special providence that avenges dogs, when they are hit with the butt end of a gun.

IT IS foolish, however, to say the less you understand the more readily you believe in miracles. The radio is a genuine miracle of science, and it takes intelligence to understand it. A savage wouldn't understand it or believe in it. He would simply say "witchcraft" and go his way.

ARCH BROWLEY wrote an admirably brief notice, pinned it to the front door of his little restaurant at Fort Smith, Arkansas, went to the back room, drank poison and died.

The farwell notice read: "I am dead. This notice will not be open today."

CONVERTED AT LAST

It is the misfortune of the South that isolated acts of mob violence should color its social life and character in the eyes of the rest of the country.

Years of wholesome advertising of the favored region of the world may be largely nullified by one awful incident in which some mob seems determined to outdo bloody Apaches of other days.

In newspapers work at Milwaukee is Oadcock Goins, a native of the South, a man who knows the South and is devoted to its interests. Wisconsin people are now seeking information about the South and Mr. Goins has been asked to write newspaper articles dealing with this great part of the country. He met one man, "a clear high grade sort of man," who intends to locate in Mississippi with an associate, and operate a "fighting outfit."

Mr. Goins found that this Wisconsin man had always harbored some unfortunate ideas about the South, and persons in his neighborhood earnestly deprecated his decision to leave Wisconsin and go to live among people whom they pictured as "barbarians."

Right after this Southern man in Wisconsin had vouched for the character of the Southern people against allegations of "cruelty" and "barbarism" that were unfortunate current in Mississippi since a negro, accused of an atrocious crime, poured oil over his body and burned him at the stake. Perhaps if we had sufficient power of physical vision we might see the Wisconsin man, those who sought to turn him from his decision to locate in Mississippi, going to him with copies of newspapers telling of this savagery in that state.

Within two days there was worse savagery in Georgia, if anything could be worse. At Milledgeville a

THAT THIRD TERM MIAMI HERALD

Friends of President Coolidge are dismayed that the third term idea should be mentioned when his name is written or spoken. They seem to believe that he should not be treated as other men, that he is not subject to the same theories and conditions that surrounded other individuals.

Samuel G. Blythe has an article in the Saturday Evening Post headed "Third Term Tom-Tomming" in which he objects to any talk of a third term for Mr. Coolidge. Not that he objects to giving that eminent if silent Vermontian another term. Indeed he would seem willing to give him a permanent lease of the White House.

Mr. Blythe declares that the boomer of Mr. Coolidge for a third term is not sincere. He says that it is done by opponents in their own party, what is known as the Old Guard. They want to attach the third term label to Coolidge early so that his nomination may be avoided on the theory that he can't be elected and it nominated. This defeat will be tolerably certain. The "third term tom-tomming" is an effort to kill with kindness.

It may help you to endure the weather if you will reflect that the people you don't like are finding it disagreeable, too.—Spartanburg Sun.

FASHION REVUE THURSDAY NIGHT AT MILANE THEATER PRESENTS ATTRACTIVE STYLES OF FALL.

Thursday evening at the Milane Theater a large and exceedingly appreciative audience had the pleasure of viewing a showing of Fall fashions which were presented by the Baume & Mercier Special Shop. This semi-annual "Fashion Show" is an event which is looked forward to with much anticipation and always enjoyed. The gowns which were shown this season were more beautiful than any selection which has been shown before.

A drawing room scene with many shaded lights, palms and roses formed a pleasing setting for the beautiful models. The furnishings of wicker were supplied by the Smith Furniture Company and the floral arrangements were furnished by Stewart the Florist.

The costumes were made more attractive by the many beautiful accessories, which were declared by many to have been the best selection seen here for several years. The models' shoes were furnished by Lloyd Shoe Store and gave an idea of the attractiveness and diversity of styles of the new pump. The jewels which H. C. Viele, Sanford, modeled for the occasion added much to the costumes which are new with the Spangberg Shop.

Vandeville Numbers Enjoyed. A bit of vaudeville which is always a feature of the Fashion Show was enthusiastically received last evening as was evidenced by the warm applause given each number. The program follows:

Dorris Hill, Juvenile Dances; Miss Cora Hill, Selections; H. O. Clouse, Special Vocal Numbers; Miss Margaret Cowan, Readings; Maxine Brockham, Jazzy Tunes; S. S. Baume, Specialty Act. The music was furnished by Brockham's Orchestra.

Each number, as it was presented, was quite worthy of description for without exception they were beautifully selected costumes and modeled with charm. Miss Margaret Cowan, who is of a vivacious small brunette type, was exceedingly smart in a boyish, slim two-piece sport frock of sand charmeuse, with flowing tie of pencil blue and flecking little blue handkerchiefs tucked into the pocket, which was cut into the tucked band, forming the bottom of the tunic. The sport skirt was given a bit of fullness by an inverted pleat placed in front. A close-fitting sport hat of sand felt was worn with this costume as were sport pumps of tan with sand bows. She carried a bright French dress with a delightful dash of color to the picture.

Flowing bell sleeves and a decided waist line were outstanding features of another gown which Miss Cowan delightfully modeled. It was of black satin with inserts of bands of burchara satin, upon which large roses were embroidered in soft tones. She wore a gay little hat of burchara velvet, trimmed with roses and tulle-bound with gilt. Her pumps were of black patent with extremely high heels. She wore rose beige hose with them.

Attractive Dinner Gown. Miss Lillian Shinholzer, who is a tall beautiful brunette, was exceedingly lovely in each of the costumes which she modeled. She was indeed a lovely picture in a soft crepe remain dinner gown, which was a sleeveless model with extremely low waist-line. The skirt had a gathered front flare, with circular panel effect defined by rows of graduating petals of the same material. With this gown she wore choker beads of rose pearls, nude hose and pumps of blonde satin.

Another striking costume, which Miss Shinholzer was lovely in, was an afternoon dress of bright burgandy tulle with circular skirts lavishly embroidered in silks of brightest hues. The round neck was bound in burnt orange crepe de chine, which was tied in the back with long streamers. A small hat of burgandy velvet with a single ornament of brilliants was worn with this gown. Her pumps of black patent had large cut steel buckles and her hose was beige.

Mrs. B. J. Coleman made an unusually lovely model. She is a tall, slender type, whose charming personality was shown in each costume that she wore. One of the most attractive gowns that she modeled was a beautiful Peggy Paige afternoon dress of embroidered chiffon with a tight-fitting top of brick red. At the very low waistline, there was a flounced bottom of plain black chiffon with the fullness in the back effected by the use of many small flounces. She wore a large picture hat of velvet and tulle with facings and trimmings of brick red and black satin slippers with beige hose.

Flesh Colored Evening Gown. Mrs. Coleman was also an enchanting study in an evening gown of flesh colored georgette, crepe fashioned upon simple lines with a full flounced skirt. Hand painted orchid flowers were outlined with beads of crystal. In her beautiful hat of grey, Mrs. Coleman wore flesh hose and silver slippers, which were worn. Miss Nancy Bishop, as a model for junior dresses, was captivating. She is an animated, petite brunette type and was lovely in a sport dress of Scotch plaid flannel, fashioned on simple, straight lines with brief skirt. A smart mannish box coat of black velvet with buttons and ribbons of cherry red completed the ensemble. She wore a tiny cherry red felt hat turned up in front with a bow of the same red felt, and slippers of pink pumps with nude hose. She also modeled a soft, luxurious coat of suede velour in the new cuckoo shade, which followed the new flaring lines with a draped side effect. A collar, cuffs and band across the draped side, of mufflon fur, added the season's touch of style. With this coat she wore a hat of bright, brown velour with an ornament of buttons and brilliant.

Miss Cora Hill, who is a tall graceful blonde type, made a most attractive model in a two-piece day dress with jumper of unattractive metal cloth in Persian blue brocade with long, tight fitting sleeves and high, close fitting neck line. The skirt was of black satin with an inverted pleat. A small black felt hat with a narrow brim, was trimmed with silver ribbon and she wore black patent pumps with nude hose.

Low Waist Line Predominated. Miss Hill wore for her home number a beautiful dinner gown of imported chiffon, sprinkled with medallions embroidered in silver. A low waist line was formed where godets of solid black chiffon edged with grey fur were set in. She wore a great picture hat of black velvet with a silver faced brim rolling from the face. Her pumps were of black satin with stichings of white. She wore flesh hose.

With charming dignity Mrs. A. K. Power was beautiful as a model. She was exceedingly lovely in an afternoon gown of black crepe roman that featured a gathered panel, edged with grey fur falling below the hem line at each side of the skirt. A large, black hat of velvet was trimmed with flowers of silver cloth. Sheer grey hose and very high heeled black satin pumps with cut steel buckles, completed the costume.

Mrs. Powers also wore a handsome dinner gown of deep, rich purple georgette with a tubby bloused bodice and snug girdle, low and broad above a full skirt, which was draped over a slip of metallic lace. She wore with this, a large picture hat of purple with silver brim, trimmed with velvet flowers and pumps of blonde satin with nude hose.

French Model Is Attractive. Mrs. A. W. Epps was a most refreshing picture of blonde loveliness in the many gowns that she wore, and was particularly attractive in a copy of a French model of black satin-faced canton with longities of bright green and full bishop sleeves of grey crepe chiffon, which were heavily embroidered with steel beads and tied at the hand with green ribbons. The same beaded grey crepe chiffon was used to form a gracefully flared flounce, upon the bottom. She wore a large picture hat with a rolling brim with metallic silver facing. She wore grey hose and slippers of black patent with one strap.

She was a fascinating picture in a dance frock of airy black chiffon with a bolloy pleated skirt of uneven hem line and bodice of twinkling rhinestones and cut quilts low. The slightly lifted waist line was marked with a ribbon girdle and corsage of burnt orange. This was worn over a slip of flesh colored satin. She wore flesh hose and black satin pumps with rhinestone buckles.

Juvenile Dresses Modeled. A pleasing note was added to the showing by the juvenile models, each of whom delightfully displayed a number of children's frocks in bright colored crepe-de-chene, bloomer dresses of gingham and a number of straight wool rep. The young models were: Maria Ann Powers, Ann Robson, Maxine Brockham and Dorris Hobart.

The Fashion Show was brought to a close by an ensemble of the models in negligees, and robes. There were many beautiful garments of bright satin, two toned georgette and crepe-de-chene. Judging the trend of the seasons fashions as shown by the models, this is to be a season of sumptuous simplicity. The materials are of a pliable richness which include much of the new metallic cloth and infinite color variations. Greens and blues are to be the most popular shades, with some browns and reds.

The straight lines of last season are replaced by the silhouette that is slender at the top and which flares into greater width at the hem-line, this fullness is obtained by flare godets, gathers, pleats and flounces. The accepted length of skirts is 16 inches from the ground. There is a return of draped effects, often giving an uneven hem-line. For afternoon gowns sleeves are generally long with a great variation in shapes.

Viele To Open New Jewelry Shop In City Tomorrow

Official opening of a new jewelry store at 116 Magnolia Avenue Saturday, was announced today by H. C. Viele, who has been here for the past several weeks supervising plans for the opening.

Mr. Viele has been engaged in jewelry business for 25 years, a major part of which was spent in New York City. He comes to this city from Augusta, Ga., where he has operated a jewelry store since 1915, according to the announcement.

A complete line of diamonds, rubies, emeralds, silver service, and ivory good and glass will be handled by the new firm, it is stated, and the management has secured the services of a competent watch-maker to assume charge of the repair department which, it is declared, will be complete in detail.

Attractive offerings have been arranged for the opening tomorrow, it is announced.

They stood in Line 43 hours!

—Overflowed Into the Streets

So eager were the first buyers to invest in Davis Islands at the opening sale, that they overflowed in hundreds into the streets about the office. They held up traffic, stormed the doors and literally fought to secure lots in this, the best located property in Florida. And now, that these people have reaped profits of 400 and 500 per cent on their investments, is it any wonder we ask the question, was ever a demand more justified?

AT DAVIS ISLANDS TAMPA IN THE BAY

IT'S happened at a few world series and now and then at some notable sporting event, but seldom—if ever—has the public manifested such tremendous interest as to stand in line 43 hours for the opportunity of buying property in a real estate development.

People don't do that sort of thing without a mighty good reason and in this instance their reason was the best. Without exception, every person who bought at the opening sale of Davis Islands, has since watched his investment grow to two, three, four and even five times its original value! Those who have sold their property have reaped profits of as much as $23,500 on a single lot. And still others are holding for the greater values yet to come.

So these people weren't foolish, after all. Laughed at, at the time, perhaps, but who wouldn't be laughed at —who wouldn't stand in line 43 hours to make profits of twenty-five to fifty thousand dollars?

And that memorable event in real estate history took place less than a year ago, before Davis Islands had been enlarged several times its original size, before the advent of the $7,000,000 building program or the tremendous increase in property value. And if these people, the original investors, had such remarkable faith in Davis Islands in those pre-development days, what will be the attitude of the public when the last of Davis Islands goes on sale October 15?

It will, to judge by the literal shower of checks pouring in the Davis offices each day, be an attitude of complete, unalterable confidence in Davis Islands. In fact, if the present rate at which the checks are being deposited continues, the whole of the last of Davis Islands will pass into the hands of those eager to share in the tremendous profits yet to be made on the opening day of this sale, October 15.

Assistant Game Head Makes Report on Trip

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 2.—(AP)—T. P. Taylor, assistant game commissioner, reported to headquarters here after an inspection trip to the counties of Hamilton, Columbia, Alachua, Suwannee and Taylor. Mr. Taylor reported game abundant, more so, in fact, than he has seen it in 20 years. He attributed it to the favorable season. The dry hatching season, Mr. Taylor said, has given Florida an abundance of quail and turkey for the coming season. One conviction for the handling of undersized fish was made by Mr. Taylor in Alachua county, he reported.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Events in Washington probably have given a pretty wide-spread impression that all isn't quite right with American national defense.

Whether one considers Col. "Bill" Mitchell right or wrong in his aviation views, nobody can hold that the opinions he expressed of his superiors are those of a man in a frame of mind to work effectively toward the ends that they deem best.

Now, Col. Mitchell is not alone in an unfavorable opinion of these same superiors. He simply is the only one who says in public just what he thinks.

Irish Fish Industry and Dodo Join Hands. DUBLIN, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A gloomy view of prospects of the Irish fisheries industry is held by Father White, chairman of the Fishermen's association, who declares that "in five or six years, at the present rate of decay, there will be no fishing in Ireland."

State health officials Tuesday left for the Holly River section of Nichols county to investigate reports that more than fifty children and a few adults had succumbed to an intestinal trouble.
