Art Association Almost 20 Years Old

The Sanford-Seminole Art Association was organized in 1959 by Helen DeWitt who was elected as its first president. Mrs. DeWitt served for 2 years.

Purpose of the Sanford-Seminole Art Association was two fold: 1) To promote a friendly and inspiring atmosphere among those people interested in the appreciation and creation of art; to provide for all people in this County to meet and work together gaining knowledge in the field of art. 2) To develop a community interest in the appreciation of art and its relationship to the cultural growth of the county which should keep abreast of the economic expansion thereby fostering civic pride.

Membership of the Association is divided into four classes: Honorary; Active (adults above the 12th Grade); Associate; Junior.

The by-laws adopted in 1959 contained this paragraph: "At least once a year there shall be a juried art exhibit of the works of the members of the association.

This should be held as near the middle of February as possible. The exhibit must be free to the public — The exhibit should be so staged as to add to the cultural atmosphere of Sanford and the community."

Among the charter members of the association are a few well-known artists, including: Helen DeWitt, Georgia Ball, E.B. Stowe, Mrs. Wade Garner, Beth Gregory, Mrs. D.C. Howard, Mary Koenig, Mr. & Mrs. Joseph Mathieu, Gretchen Crowell, Mrs. A.B. Stevens, and Mildred Babcock.

Total membership was only approximately 30 when organized; at this time amounts to 112 adults and 8 juniors.

In 1977 the show at the Sanford Plaza was limited to juniors. Both shows in downtown Sanford and at the Plaza have been drawing more and more artists from Sanford Plaza.

Lake Mary: New Plant, 2nd Near

By MAX ERKILIAN
Herald Staff Writer

One new plant has decided to locate in Lake Mary and a New England firm is considering relocating its entire operation in that city.

Numa Corp., an Orlando-based enterprise, is planning to construct a 10,000-square-foot manufacturing plant on a site north of Stromberg-Carroll on Riverhead Road.

Construction for the plant will begin in mid-November, according to company officials, with completion expected in March or April.

Initially the firm will employ 40. However, by the end of the first year of operation, corporate officials expect to have doubled the size of the plant and increased employment to 100.

The work force for the plant will come from local people, said one spokesman.

Numa and its subsidiary, Zypes International, which will also operate out of the Lake Mary plant, handle electronic assembly and research, according to company officials.

In addition, a Stamford, Conn., flight simulator manufacturer is considering moving its entire operation to Lake Mary.

Lake Mary is one of three or four central Florida sites being considered by Reflectone Inc., according to Ed Haversat, regional manager with the firm.

The firm would employ 200 to 250 initially and expand to 300 or 400 employees within the next several years, according to Haversat.

The engineering division of the firm is already located in Winter Park.

Lake Mary is being considered as a site for the planned 120,000 square feet plant, because of the favorable cost of living and ready labor market, according to Haversat.

"The cost of living in New England area is extremely high and it is hard to attract personnel," said Haversat.

Other considerations making Lake Mary a prime candidate for the plant is its nearness to Florida Technological University (FTU) and the firm's major account — the Navy Training Center at MacDill Air Base.

"We're primarily an engineering firm and it is important to us to be near university, because a lot of our people want to continue their educational training and we encourage that," commented Haversat.

Haversat is part of Reflectone's search committee that will recommend a site for the firm's relocation. He said that recommendation is expected within the next few weeks.

"Hopefully a decision on a site will be made within a couple of weeks and we can begin construction four or five months down the road," said Haversat.

Three-year-old Linda Jacques, daughter of Pauline Jacques 507 Center St., Altamonte Springs, and the late Lucien Jacques won't be going to school for the next two weeks.

She'll be at home recuperating with a double-sprained knee, received when she was struck by a car as she was crossing Palm Spring Drive on the way to her bus stop to Milwee Middle School.

The Altamonte Springs Police Department patrolled and directed morning traffic at Center Street and Palm Spring Drive for more than a year — especially the heavy volume of traffic of parents of children who walk to the Altamonte Springs Christian School.

But the Altamonte policeman wasn't there Monday morning.

He was checking on some complaints, said Police Chief Justice East, "on the school traffic when it hit us between the eyes that the section of Palm Spring Drive is not within the city. The Christian School is in the city, but that section of the street is not," he said.

He said after conferring with the sheriff's office, it was agreed that the Altamonte Springs Police would patrol and direct traffic

It was a question of jurisdiction.

No one knew about any jurisdiction problem until City Commissioner Dolores Vickers began receiving telephone complaints and forwarded them through channels from city motorists that the city police officer was requiring motorists to turn right through a residential area of dirt roads to move the volume of traffic faster during the 8:15 to 8:30 a.m. rush.

"We were checking on some complaints," said Police Chief Justice East, "on the school traffic when it hit us between the eyes that the section of Palm Spring Drive is not within the city. The Christian School is in the city, but that section of the street is not," he said.

After listening to arguments and testimony for more than an hour at the Seminole County Courthouse Thursday afternoon, McGregor said the youth required supervision for the rest of his life.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Smooth Sailing Thus Far

For Egypt-Israel Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The early sessions of the Egyptian and Israeli peace talks went swimmingly Thursday after President Carter welcomed the participants with a glittering ceremony in the East Room of the White House.

The working sessions are being held in the crowded second-floor library of Blair House and in the 6 hours and 20 minutes of the first day, all three delegations met together briefly, and then Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and his delegation met separately with the Israelis and the Egyptians. The conference is expected to last three weeks.

Snipers Mar Lebanon Truce

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Sniper bursts and the whine of exploding shells laced Christian sectors of the capital today despite a reported compromise to end two weeks of fighting between Syrians and Christian militiamen.

Cambodia Boss: All Is Fine

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Cambodia's Foreign Minister Ieng Sary, ignoring the testimony of dozens of refugees who report mass executions in their homeland, says everything is fine for 90 per cent of his people. Cambodia would be a lot better off if Vietnam, the Soviet Union and the United States would stop interfering, says the mysterious Communist leader.

SALT Agreement 'Within Sight'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On the eve of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's departure for the final phase of the SALT talks, Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher said the two superpowers "are within sight" of a new strategic arms agreement that will not weaken U.S. power.

Striegel said. "We were a very close family until my father died and we just never got along again. We didn't have the house."

McGregor asked Miss Striegel if she was afraid of her brother and what he might do if released.

"I don't fear him," she said. "But at the same time I can't trust him. Without therapy, even I can't guarantee it (being released) would do any good."

Striegel's attorney, Gerald Rutherford, termed the situation at the Striegel home: "A human being leading to an ultimate explosion." "What we've got here is no outlet," Rutherford said. "A condemned situation."

He said the night of the murder his mother, "Mrs. Scott," his room and arranged for him to clean the room. He said every time he came out of the room the arguments with his mother would begin again.

"I had been building up for a long time. I guess I just exploded," he said.

"I've never really been that mad before at anyone in my life," Striegel said.

"Was your anger justified?" McGregor asked.

"No, no way," the youth responded.

Dodie Striegel, 25, who lives in Tallahassee, testified her mother had a difficult time referring to her husband's death from a heart attack.

She said her mother began drinking and eventually she drank virtually every night. She blamed the murder on her brother's temper and her mother's drinking.

Bus Station Loses $1,661 To Robbers

The Trailways Bus Station at 581 S. Park Ave. in Sanford was robbed Thursday evening and four men got away with $1,661.

Two men entered the station, which includes a gas bar, Western Union, at 6 p.m.

One of the men stuck a short-barreled handgun in the chest of the 23-year-old woman manager of the station, Carolyn Mae Thomas, and told her: "Stand up and don't move."

The robbers then went behind the counter and emptied two cash drawers and took $1,661. They shoved the woman in an office and closed the door, according to records. In the cash drawers were $1,000 belonging to Western Union and $661 belonging to the Veterans' Administration. Records indicate there were no signs of forced entry and the burglary could have occurred anytime.

A witness, a 28-year-old Seminole man, told police he saw the two men come running out of the station and go into an alley behind Welsch's Camera Store and get into a Gran Turismo with two men already inside the car, according to records. The witness told police he last saw the car headed west on Third Street.

OVEN TAKEN

A refrigerator and oven with a combined value of $800 was reported stolen in Sanford.

Deputy James Shad reported the burglary at 3005 McMillian Ave., according to records. The burglarized building is owned by the Veterans' Administration. Records indicate there were no signs of forced entry and the burglary could have occurred anytime.

CACHELLING MISSING

A 1969 Cadillac parked at the Spanish Trace Apartments on Wayne Road in Altamonte Springs was reported stolen.

Alan Sylvan, Rd. 2B, told Shad his depiction of the car was stolen between noon and 6 p.m.

Today, he said the car was located and he estimated its value at $800, according to records.

United Way

The United Way of Seminole County campaign reached 27 percent of its goal Thursday for a total in gifts and pledges of $67,480 according to reports from volunteers attending the first report "brown bag" luncheon at the Altamonte Springs Civic Center.

This year's goal for the county is $200,000; $85,385 was reported at the kick-off breakfast last week in Sanford.

The commercial division was tops with $12,000 from Sears in Altamonte Mall; $6,500 from Levitz reported by Jack Stewart; $25 from Shad reported by Graham Karcher and $75 from the McDonald Drive-In reported by Jack Weible.

Other new reports included: Seminole YMCA $200; Special Gifts — Sanford, $400; Oviedo, $55; Maitland, $100; Sweetwater, $100; and Everette Huskey, $100; Professional Accountants, $100; dentists, $50; Seminole Community Hospital, $375; Seminole Community College, $300 and black community, $30.

"It really wasn't either the driver or Lincoln's fault," said Mrs. Vickery. She picked Linda up and drove her home. The child was taken to Florida Hospital North for emergency treatment.

"There was usually a police officer there, but there wasn't one Monday morning. There is a several lot of traffic in the morning on Palm Springs Drive," she said.

City Commissioner George Perkins, father of five children, got wind of the situation and it was brought before the city commission Tuesday evening.

"I'm surprised," said Perkins, "why the police officer wasn't there and I was told about the jurisdiction problem."

Congress Over A Barrel

President Carter's successful veto of the $10.2 billion public works bill may stand as an achievement in domestic politics as significant as his achievement at Camp David in foreign affairs.

The leadership in the House and Senate had defended the congressional prerogative to pass this kind of pork-barrel legislation with all the stubbornness that opposes sides in the Middle East had brought to Camp David.

Defying Speaker Tip O'Neill, House members fell 53 votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to override the president's veto.

Almost half of the House went along with Mr. Carter's appeal to set an "example" for the rest of the country — a signal that the government was willing to make political sacrifices for the sake of fighting inflation.

Release of the monthly wholesale price index only hours before the House vote may have helped Mr. Carter's case.

The .9 percent increase in September was the greatest since last spring and would work out to an annual 10.8 percent.

While this is bad news for the anti-inflation effort the administration has conducted so far, it bolsters Mr. Carter's argument that Congress cannot take a business-as-usual attitude toward spending bills that contribute to the inflationary federal deficit.

Mr. Carter's victory on the public works issue will be important, however, only if it sets a precedent.

Cutting the deficit toward a balanced budget will be possible only if both the President and Congress can resist political pressure from special interest groups for other programs in the anatomy of deficit budgets.

Regional water projects represent the pork-barrel tradition only in a geographic sense. There is no pork-barreling, too, when powerful members of Congress insist on perpetuating programs of doubtful priority for the sake of satisfying one constituency, or another.

Congress will be defeated if it fails to take another run at passing a more modest public works bill.

Mr. Carter's intention was not to forgo new water projects altogether. He objected to the puffed-up nature of the bill he received, authorizing more than twice as many projects as the administration proposed in its water resources budget.

He is prepared to sign a bill based on "what we actually need at a cost we can afford."

The challenge to Congress is to establish a more rational process of defining needs and priorities in a comprehensive program for water resource development.

In the usual array of public works projects, the line is often fuzzy dividing genuine and urgent public need, and the need of individual House members and senators to score points in their home states or districts at election time.

In his veto message Mr. Carter acknowledged that for Congress to lower its sights on water projects is only the beginning.

"Both Congress and the executive branch must recognize that there is no one, single dramatic act which will control the budget," and that control will be achieved "by the cumulative impact of hard choices."

An impressive 180 members of the House made their hard choice recently to sustain the president's veto.

There will be harder ones ahead, both for Mr. Carter and the Congress, if federal spending is to be held to a non-inflationary level.

Needed: Short Form Charity

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "Charity never fails," proclaims the NEA. Perhaps charity will "undercut all things," but that optimistic assessment was offered long before the Treasury Department began presenting "short form" tax returns.

The ubiquitous 1040 A "short form" for individual taxpayers allows a taxpayer to limit standard deduction as a substitute for the various itemized deductions — includes those for charitable contributions — available on the regular, more complex form 1040.

In recent years, the Treasury Department and its collection agency, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), have had a determined (and successful) campaign on behalf of the 1040 A.

In 1976, 80 percent of all taxpayers used abbreviated forms but Treasury and IRS convinced Congress to broaden the pot by increasing the size of the standard deduction five times to eight years.

By last year, 77 percent of all individual tax returns were submitted on the "short form," and federal officials have a strategy designed to push that number even higher — to 84 percent.

The benefits of the 1040 A are obvious: it greatly simplifies both the taxpayer's chore of filling out the forms and the IRS' job of auditing the returns.

But the reform has produced an unhappy side effect: It has eliminated, for many low-income families, the tax incentive to make generous contributions to charitable organizations.

The Treasury Department's own figures confirm the direct correlation between the percentage of taxpayers using the IRS "long form" (which allows itemization and deduction of charitable gifts) and the percentage of personal income donated to charity.

Martin Feldstein, a professor of economics at Harvard University, estimates that charitable giving would rise this year from $4.5 billion to $6.5 billion, or an increase of $1.1 billion or 12 percent — if all taxpayers were allowed to claim deductions for their contributions.

Treasury and IRS officials generally agree with these estimates, but they oppose itemization because it would reduce an annual federal revenue loss of approximately $1.5 billion.

Legislation authorizing itemization of charitable donations on the IRS "short form" was introduced this year in the House by Reps. Joseph L. Fisher, D-N.Y., and Barber B. Conable Jr., R-N.Y., and in the Senate by Sens. Daniel P. Moynihan, D-N.Y., and Bob Packwood, R-Ore.

These proposals were rejected by both the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee, but the sponsors of the legislation continue to insist that it is still in the minority.

Opponents of that approach argue that the standard deduction already includes an allowance for charitable contributions, the additional loss will constitute a tax form where the principal virtue is simplicity and the change will not provide for the addition of other standard deductions.

'The People's Pope' Sought Advice

WASHINGTON — Consolidated State Department cables revealed that the late Pope John Paul I had received advice from three world leaders on moral issues in the days before his unexpected death.

In his 34-day reign as spiritual leader of the world's Catholics, Pope John Paul I did not necessarily know what the new pope was contemplating any action on these controversial issues. But he was willing to discuss them privately with U.S. officials.

Although regarded as a moderate in doctrinal matters, the late pope had already indicated that he intended to continue the efforts of his two immediate predecessors, Pope VI and John XXIII, in helping the Catholic Church move fully into the twentieth century.

Just before the papacy began, Pope John Paul I had agreed to a personal audience, the search for solutions to the pressing problems of world hunger, disease and monetary conditions that plagued the lives of billions in the world's underdeveloped countries.

He may not yet to achieve a wide range of major successes, of opportunity lost. However, the visiting members of the College of Cardinals will remember him as a man who had the confidence of the pontifical powers.

It is likely he would have continued with the same policies that his predecessor had espoused in the United States of a United Nations conference on population problems to be held in Trondheim. The delegation, headed by Pope John Paul I, Bishop R. E. Jones, Bishop D. V. N.Y., will include a number of Catholic cardinals.

One of the cardinal officials, sources told our colleague Jack Mitchell, did not necessarily believe that the new pope was contemplating any action on these controversial issues. But he was willing to discuss them privately with U.S. officials.

As an extremely private man, Pope John Paul I had agreed to a personal audience, the search for solutions to the pressing problems of world hunger, disease and monetary conditions that plagued the lives of billions in the world's underdeveloped countries.

He may not yet to achieve a wide range of major successes, of opportunity lost. However, the visiting members of the College of Cardinals will remember him as a man who had the confidence of the pontifical powers.

In his brief tenure, Pope John Paul I set a tone of moderation and conciliation that cannot fail to have a strong influence on the cardinals as they decide who can best fill the shoes of the fallen spiritual leader and become the next Roman Catholic pope.

MIRACLE TIME — A British company has developed a tire that will hold together even after a blowout. But for some reason, American industry executives are shying off the idea as being impractical.

Such a safety tire would undoubtedly save lives. "Out of all motor vehicle accidents in the United States is caused by tire failure," according to the National Safety Council.

The tire, developed by the Dunlop Company, has been tested and found to hold up to 100 miles in a high-speed accident.

"I haven't heard anything about it," said a spokesman for the Consulate. "It's an old concept," said a Goodrich executive. A General Motors spokesman first told us the plant may not be able to do a strong job on the cardinals as they decide who can best fill the shoes of the fallen spiritual leader and become the next Roman Catholic pope.

Moment Of Truth: Seminole Vs. Gainesville Tonight

By JIM HAYNES
Herald Sports Editor

FELIX WILLIAMS CARRIES MAIL

Call it a moment of truth. The biggest high school game to date this season will be staged in Sanford tonight when the state's No. 1 ranked Gainesville Hurricanes blow into town for a showdown against upset-minded Seminole.

There's a lot at stake. Aside from the prestige of knocking off the team regarded as the state's best, there is the mad scramble for the post-season playoffs.

Gainesville and Seminole are the only undefeated teams in AAAA-9 district play, and tonight's winner will be hands down favorite to advance to the state playoffs.

There are three other games tonight involving Seminole County teams. Lake Howell entertains Lyman in a contest which is spiced by a neighborhood rivalry. And Oviedo meets Wymore Tech in a contest at the Colonial High field in Orlando.

Kickoff for all four games is at 8 p.m. It is the Gainesville-Seminole game which commands most of the attention tonight.

For openers, the two teams have played close, aggressive games against each other the last four years.

Tonight's game has overtones of the meeting between the teams two years ago when Seminole won by a 26-20 score to apparently wrap up a state berth, but had to forfeit to the Canes because of an ineligible player.

In addition, Gainesville has not been challenged all season. The Hurricanes breezed past DeLand (34-7), Lake Brantley (35-14), Lyman (31-7) and Lake Howell (46-0).

Seminole's defense has been its strong point, and coach Jerry Posey is hoping to be able to contain Gainesville's bevy of fast backs, led by quarterback Johnell Brown.

Seminole has beaten Spruce Creek (24-30), Mainland (20-12), DeLand (19-0) and lost to Orlando Edgewater (26-13).

The Seminole offense is led by quarterback Tim Hardy, with a strong array of backs including Reginald Branch, Felix Williams and Reginald Campbell. Seminole's heroes of the trenches include William Jackson, Gee Knight, Willie Fisher and Frank Mann.

WILLIAM JACKSON READY TO GO

Guidry Stays Calm, Series Pressure On

NEW YORK (UPI) — In spite of the winds of turmoil and potential disaster swirling all around him, Ron Guidry, the New York Yankees' manager, remains calm.

With the Yankees trailing in the World Series two games to none, his teammates are squabbling again.

"If we beat Guidry, we can sweep this series," said Ron Cey, who drove in four Dodger runs in Wednesday night's 6-4 thriller with a home run and a single.

This was the pressure-cooker situation that Guidry, the major leagues' outstanding pitcher this year, with a 28-4 record, faced Friday night in the series opener at Dodger Stadium.

"My arms feel strained now as it was throughout the '81-82 season," the 5-foot-11, 180-pound Guidry, who has pitched 281 innings, said calmly. "I don't know what effect the number of innings I have worked will have on me in the World Series, but you can always call upon yourself to get up one more time."

Opposing Guidry for the Dodgers will be right-hander Don Sutton, a formidable veteran of post-season play. With his loss to Philadelphia in last year's playoffs, Sutton had won five of eight post-season games including two in the World Series.

Sutton, however, conceded the matchup against Guidry could be a most difficult task.

"I don't know if pitching against a 28-4 winner is a pressure situation," said Sutton. "I do believe that I'm not going to win a 16-4 game, though I think that Guidry is a great pitcher."

Quarterback John Bradley, a 5-foot-11, 174-pound junior, is characterized by Alabama assistant coach Sylvester Croom as "capable of throwing or running at anytime and he has been real leader." Bradley has completed 30 of 35 passes for 357 yards.

POLITICS IN BRIEF

Widow Gets Nomination For Seat In Congress

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI)—The state Democratic committee Thursday chose Beverly Byron to run for her dead husband's seat in Congress next month. That decision means the seat will not go by default to Melvin Perkins, a nominal Republican who is fresh out of jail and has been shunned by his own party. Perkins became the Republican candidate because the GOP did not field an opponent to Rep. Goodloe Byron, a four-term Democrat. But Wednesday, Byron dropped dead of a heart attack while jogging in his Western Maryland 6th Congressional district.

Barron: Won't Campaign

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Former Senate President Dempsey Barron says he won't support Democratic gubernatorial nominee Bob Graham, but probably won't work for Republican Jack Eckerd either. Barron, who harangued Graham during his rancorous fight with Attorney General Robert Shriver, said he intends to stay out of the governor's race from now on.

Capua Joins Eckerd Drive

Peter Capua, Rep. Lou Frey's running mate as lieutenant governor, has joined Frey in taking leadership roles in the Eckerd-Hawkins campaign.

A FEW STROKES...

...AND A TOUCHUP

From Show Biz To School Biz

The autographed pictures of Peter Graves, Buddy Ebsen and other television stars line the walls of Ron Harrell's office.

These are the remembrances of days gone by. In the same small office at Lyman High School also are an artist's board, paint brushes and other assorted artistic items.

Several feet away in the cafeteria are wall paintings of people in sporting events.

These are the tools and by-products of his current job as a graphic artist at the high school.

"I was delighted to make the move. I find the kids are

'Teachers...ask me for a picture

really receptive and get a full appreciation of the work I am doing," said Harrell in describing why after eight years as art director at an Orlando television station he changed jobs. He made the move about two years ago at the request of principal Carlton Henley.

"The most important reason I wanted Ron here was the visual help that he could bring to education and our students and teachers," Henley said.

While at the television station as a one-man staff, Harrell met Gena Ebsen, and others, whom he directed the promotions for television shows.

To give the aid to the school, the 35-year-old Harrell does a variety of work for the school's faculty.

"Many times teachers will come to me and ask me for a picture or slide that will help them illustrate a particular point in their class," he said. Harrell believes his work "makes the curriculum even more enticing and actually enhances education because the students are able to see the things in pictures as they are reading about them."

The artist's job does not stop with the classroom teacher, but extends to other areas of the school.

One example is the art work which lines the cafeteria walls.

"The walls here looked very plain and dull, so Henley suggested putting these sports figures up here," he said as he looked around the room of his work.

Additionally, Harrell is the school yearbook adviser and videotapes all Lyman football games.

Harrell learned his trade didn't think he would be there long "because I thought I would work myself out of a job."

However, he has since first arrived at Lyman he rethought that position

"because the curriculum is constantly changing," he said. "I find the teachers want different things each day and so I'll stay as long as they need me."

Ann-Margret: Glamor Show Biz Triple Threat

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —
Ann-Margret Olson was professionally born in "Bye, Bye Birdie" in 1963, a year after Marilyn Monroe's death at a time when Hollywood was looking for a successor to the world's greatest sex symbol.

To be sure, she had appeared in "Pocketful of Miracles" and "The Fair."

But "Bye, Bye Birdie" revealed her as a leggy, lusty prospect to fill the void left by Marilyn.

For a time it appeared Ann-Margret would do just that. She was red-haired, full-figured and lent herself easily to the big glamor buildup.

Ann-Margret will star in two television specials — "Rockette" — A Holiday Tribute to the Radio City Music Hall" in December and "The Donny and Marie Show" scheduled for Oct. 14.

As if two new movies and a brace of TV musicals were not enough, Ann-Margret will have added Las Vegas on stage eight weeks this year with her own night club act. Only Liza Minnelli and Barbra Streisand begin to Jayne Mansfield was still around. Raquel Welch was to come along.

In several years she played roles in which her curves were more in evidence than her talent.

"Viva Las Vegas" with Elvis Presley and "Kitten With A Whip."

But the Swedish-born beauty was as bright as she was alluring, and determined to become more than a sex symbol.

Today, Farrah Fawcett-Majors has ascended to the goddess status of Monroe while Ann-Margret has safely established herself as an actress. She received Academy Award nominations for her performances in "Carnal Knowledge" and "Tommy."

At this moment she may be the most versatile star in show business; a dramatic actress ("Magic"), musical star ("Tommy") and comedienne ("The Cheap Detective").

Rural Clients Can't Pay City Fee, PSC Rules

By MAX KREHLIAN
Herald Staff Writer

Florida Power and Light (FPL) customers in Sanford will be paying more for their utility services after the first of the year while rural FPL customers will be paying less as the result of a Florida Public Service Commission (PSC) ruling.

The PSC ruling ends a city connect charge rural residents served by the utility to raise revenues to pay a franchise fee levied by a city.

Rural residents pay a six percent franchise fee as a charge for using public right-of-way.

The six percent franchise fee imposed by the city was based on Sanford customer use. However, the utility spread the franchise fee out to all customers in the Sanford service area, including those outside the city. That spread amounted to a charge of 1.7 percent on each utility bill.

Things are different now. "Now you can separate the billing for customers inside the city," said Donnelly. "The people who live in the county will not have to pay that franchise fee."

"The effect will be that people inside the city will have to pay more and the people outside will pay less."

The thinking is that only those customers who are directly served by the franchise fee are responsible for paying that fee.

Last year, the city of Sanford raised $275,701.04 for the city of Sanford, according to Harry Tamm, city clerk and director of finance.

All the money received from the utility fee goes for the retirement of construction bonds on: the city marina; the Sanford Civic Center; the city police station; the city's public works building and the land the city hall is built on.

The change in rates will not affect the amount of money the city receives from the utility, according to Tamm.

"From the size of revenues received the city will receive more won't be able to tell the difference," said Tamm.

"I don't have that information yet," said Higginson of the cost to Sanford customers.

"Our Miami office is supposed to be working out a formula for that and I won't know what it is until we get a directive from

The PSC order struck down the PSC's long-standing use of the "spread" method of billing to pay for the franchise fee.

The spread method applies the burden of paying the franchise fee to all utility customers. Under the "direct" method of billing ordered by the PSC, FPL will only bill customers served by the city.

"With the old idea, before things were as complicated, it was impossible to break down the cost of all the franchises fees," said William Donnelly, PSC clerk. "so they spread those charges out to all the customers and areas they served."
