

NAZIS CAPTURE 90 PERCENT OF VOTES IN SAAR

A politician warned the Associated Press correspondent to "get inside," asserting "The situation might become serious at any moment."

Frightened women and children, crying for protection, filled local headquarters.

Refugees fled from the Territory by hundreds.

The result of Sunday's plebiscite was made known by the League of Nations today after a night-long tabulation gave more than 90 percent of the vote to the Nazis.

The vote:

For a return to Germany, 477,000.

For status quo, 66,500.

For annexation to France, 1,124.

Powerful ties of blood and tradition stood in Sunday's plebiscite.

March in the Saar, sending an ominous message to the world.

The ballot resulted in a sweeping victory for Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and his Nazi party in the Reich, it learned officially today.

Neutral countries continued their check on the initial tally—but it was only to determine how great the Hitlerite victory would be.

Semi-official sources estimated the Nazi majority would run between 85 and 88 percent of the 540,000 votes cast, ending 16 years of separation while the Saar was under control of the League of Nations.

Max Braun, leader of the anti-Nazi opposition, at 2 A. M. (8 P. M. EST) admitted the returns looked "bad for us" but added: "We have just been informed, the cities and villages being counted after midnight are better." But he fought a losing battle in a lost cause.

The Saarlanders, loyally German, voted to return to the Reich, regardless of who rules there. It is now up to the League to put their mandate into effect by a decree returning the Saar to Germany.

point which the people were told a year ago should mark the end of continued treasury deficits.

"A huge emergency fund which permits executive allotments which may lack economic justification and may not accomplish the purpose for which they are intended."

Within congressional circles, there has been criticism of the President's request for $4,500,000,000 in a lump sum to relieve unemployment.

"Congress," the league statement said, "is asked to waive entirely its right and duty to make proper segregation of the purposes for which the money is to be spent."

Commenting on estimates that the public debt at the end of the fiscal year 1935 might total $34,220,000,000, the league said the President's failure to limit the total as a "new limit" for debt increase "adds a further reason for a feeling of uncertainty."

The statement said there was no certainty that four billion asked for would "mark the end of emergency outlays which must be financed by borrowed money."

"In effect," the league said, "it wipes out the savings of upwards of a billion dollars in necessary governmental costs which were accomplished in the attempted drive for economy which was commenced during the final year of the last administration and was carried forward with a marked degree of success in the early months of the present Administration."

which permits of executive allotments and other devices which are not subject to the usual checks and balances of the law. However, the law, such as an emergency cannot be applied to the letter. Frankly, it appears just as Mr. Dumas said: "There's no good way to handle a bad thing."

The Commissioners took a first step toward the repair of sidewalks in the downtown area when they passed four resolutions advising owners of certain property on both sides of Palmolein and Magnolia Avenues that unless sidewalks repairs are made within 60 days, the city will undertake the work and levy the costs against the property.

They also passed a resolution ordering the construction of a sidewalk on the west side of French Avenue from 15th to 20th Streets. Property owners are given the same time in which to complete this work, after which the city will take action if the work is not done.

The Commissioners voted to donate lumber in two old city-owned homes plus $250 cash toward the construction of a Community Canning Kitchen near the State Farmers' Market, or to donate lumber, tear down the home and transport the material to the market.

County Commissioner Chairman John Mitchell, who appeared to ask the Commissioners to assist in the erection of this Canning Kitchen, also expressed the opinion that the county would be willing to join the city in joint financing action aimed at fostering such property to the tax rolls.

City Attorney Fred E. Wilson was instructed to discuss the matter with County Board Attorney E. F. Housholder and to present recommendations before both groups as quickly as possible.

No action was taken on the suggestion that the City turn the management of the French Avenue tennis courts over to organized groups. However, for the present, the courts are to be placed in the hands of waterworks employees. The Commissioners authorized the purchase of two new tennis nets.

On the recommendation of Judge S. A. B. Wilkinson and Chief William, the Commissioners ordered $11 of a fine levied against Wesley Flowers, white, re-matted.

In accepting a bid of $9 per ton as the cost of gravel and transportation needed to reconstruct a proper application of the asphalt, the Commissioners directed toward the repair of all streets torn up by HIRA crews in replacing the sewer system.

The Commissioners voted to take no action on ordering the fence around municipal Field re-located at a cost of a next bid of $18,000. The suggestion that City Clerk F. S. James be given the honor title of City Manager, and on an application made by a local Golf Refining Co. agent who asked permission to lease a tract of 250 acres and south of the center of the property as a site for a bulk gasoline storage plant.

The proposed ordinance, the Commission agreed, would prohibit the sale of beer and wine in small stores as well as in hotels.

However, the Commission ordered a change in the ordinance which gives the beer and wine to the city.

The city will be unable to present a bill to the legislature until the next session, but it is expected that it will be a great success.

Also introduced as speakers were T. H. Eckstein of Jersey City and B. F. Haines of Alameda Springs, while Karl Lehmann, trade body secretary, in his last minute summary of instructions for the workers, reminded them not to lose sight of the goal—600 memberships in 26 hours.

Workers will gather at the Chamber of Commerce offices at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night for a "victory supper." Announcement will be made there as to the details of the strike with the greatest percentage of members, who said, all members of the team will be decorated the winner of Mr. Schmitt's offer of a $1 meal ticket and J. L. Marantette's offer of a theater party.

"You earn your wages"

That handy servant, the telephone, is a go-getter. He chases after groceries, runs to the drug store, carries messages here, there and everywhere, and only asks a few cents a day as his wages.

It does not matter who you want or why, whether it be day or night, storm or sunshine. Lift the receiver to order a loaf of bread - usually call a friend for a brief chat - or speed a frantic summons to the doctor, it is all in the day's work to the telephone.

If you are trying to get along without a telephone in your home, it will pay you to investigate the small cost, and the different types, of telephone service.

You will then very likely agree with most folks, who believe it costs more to try to do without telephone service than it does to have it.

For information, just ask any of your friends with the telephone company, or talk to the telephone Business Office.

"The writer is skeptical. If Bruno Richard Hauptmann wrote the ransom notes,"

The defense again brought dead leader Park inferentially into the trial with questions pointed toward a possible thesis that Hauptmann's handwriting was forged in the 14 ransom notes, but Tyrrell said it couldn't have been done.

Meanwhile, Detective Arthur Johnson landed in New York with three mystery witnesses and hastily sped to confession with them until such time as they are called for by the prosecution.

Meantime, the prosecution planned to introduce another "surprise" witness, but the attorneys declined to reveal the identity

Auto Industry Urged On To More Action

Richberg Warns Big Firms To Move For Year-Round Operations In All Plants

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Donald E. Richberg, executive director of the National Automobile Council, last night challenged the automobile industry to assume its obligation to regularize production, distribution and employment.

Speaking before a banquet of the National Automobile Dealers Association, Richberg said "the time has arrived for less talk and more action" in putting automobile production on a regular basis as against present seasonal trends.

If a business, because of weather conditions or other natural causes must be seasonal, the fact must be accepted, Richberg said. "But if a business, which has grown up into a seasonal character can be transformed into practically continuous operation, there is a clear need for planning and co-operation, and it should not require government compulsion or control to bring about that result."

This is one of the obligations and responsibilities upon private enterprise which private enterprise should meet, not only in the public interest, but in the interest of private enterprise.

Rumor Has German Confessing Crime

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The New York Times prints the following from Florence, N. Y.: "Rumors that Richard Hauptmann has confessed or is going to confess... were in circulation. It could not be confirmed. In prosecution circles the belief was expressed the accused may confess because of the weight of evidence that the state has presented. The state has no intention of making any deal with Hauptmann during the trial, it was said, but a confession naming other persons might be considered after a verdict is returned. Edward J. Reilly and C. Lloyd Fisher of defense counsel emphatically denied the rumors."

Inflationists Seek An Even Cheaper Dollar

Anxious World Speculates As To How Supreme Court Will Rule On Gold Acts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Amid anxious speculation as to what the Supreme Court would say about the New Deal experiment to raise prices by lowering the gold value of the dollar, inflationists and expansionists gathered today to seek an accord on some plan to make currency still cheaper.

The "gold clause" cases were in every mind as several organizations, most of them advocates of various schools of inflation, prepared to meet with legislators in the city of Washington.

More and cheaper dollars to restore the 1928 price level was the aim announced by Thomas.

Anxiety over the coming supreme court gold decision profoundly disturbed world markets yesterday while Washington looked forward to three more weeks of uncertainty before the verdict is announced.

A general belief prevailed the court would seek to expedite its decision, but that this period at least must elapse. Both financial and legal experts here took close note that stocks, grains, cotton and other commodities were on the first time in many months, and that dispatches from London and other foreign centers were to be expected.

Payroll Tax Will Be One Means Of Raising Funds To Finance Insurance For Jobless

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Old age pensions divided into at least two parts, the first to give joint benefits to persons already over 65 and the second to compel employer and employee to contribute to funds which would give persons over 65 annuities when they reach that age; the third, if approved, to permit persons to buy such insurance against want in old age.

All for dependent children in which the federal government would help the states to enable mothers to care for their children.

Church Army Aides Arrive In City On Evangelistic Tour

Led by Captain Charles L. Conder of New York City as assistant secretary of the Church Army in the United States, a group of young men reached Sanford this afternoon by bicycle for the purpose of spending two days in this section in the interests of mission work sponsored by the Protestant Episcopal Church.

They will appear as guests at the annual Parish meeting of Holy Cross Episcopal Church to be held at the Parish House tonight, and they will stage an open air meeting in Longwood tomorrow afternoon at 7:30 o'clock, and a meeting at Christ Church, Longwood at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

The men are on a 1000 mile tour of Florida. They left Orlando Monday, and they will visit 20 cities and towns before ending their tour at Daytona Beach in mid-May.

They propose to speak and sing in churches, colleges, schools, business-men's clubs, hospitals and prisons, and they also expect to hold outdoor meetings on beaches, street corners, and public parks.

While in Sanford they will work under the direction of Rev. Martin Brann of Holy Cross Church. They will leave for Deland on Friday morning.

Difficulties Beset Transfer Of Saar To German Nation League Council Ends Meeting In Which Deal Was Planned

GENEVA, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The League of Nations abruptly cancelled a meeting today at which it was expected to proclaim formally the annexation of the Saar to Germany, and difficulties in agreeing with Berlin on the date on which the territory should be transferred were said to be responsible.

Unofficial German sources said they wanted the date to be a month after the coming of the League's act.

Other sources said that the French wanted to attach conditions to the transfer, and planned to file a memorandum making the reservation that it must be understood the Saar cannot be forfeited.

It also is reported that Paris prefers not to fix a date for the transfer at the present meeting, but to do this later after "outstanding questions" concerning the Saar have been settled.

Germany's smashing victory in the Saar plebiscite Sunday stirred new hopes for peace in Europe.

In the Saar, meanwhile, Nazis celebrated their overwhelming victory. They pulled 90 percent of the total vote cast.

Saarländische Arbeiterpartei, though good-humored, Nazi celebration caused hundreds of socialists to take refuge in the League of Nations' protection, while most leaders of the status quo faction went into hiding.

Nazi took over police control, jailing 30 anti-Nazis.

Berlin—Reichsführer Hitler, celebrating the Saar, thanked other powers for "their legal acquiescence of the election," promised the victor "will make no territorial demands upon France" and indicated the way lay open toward improved Franco-German relations.

Governor—League of Nations circles believed the plebiscite outcome strengthened Hitler, reinforced Germany's position among great powers and improved prospects for peace, as the league.

Grade Crossing Elimination Seen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A half-billion dollar grade elimination program was advanced in official quarters yesterday as a key plan in the Administration's efforts to remove $200,000,000 from the relief rolls.

Plans for elimination of 5000 crossings with this sum have been worked out by railroad engineers. Those who sketched the plan said it, alone of the programs approved by the President and the National Resources Board, could be started immediately.

3 More Experts Swear Hauptmann Wrote All Notes

Prosecution Admits Bringing Witnesses From Germany

FLEMINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Three more state experts today insisted that Bruno Richard Hauptmann was the writer of the 14 Lindbergh ransom notes, but the defense's striking again at dead Isidor Fish, scored slightly in its fight to establish differences between Hauptmann's alleged handwriting and that found in the notes.

The court recessed at 12:25 this afternoon.

One after the other, Harry E. Cassidy of Richmond, Va., witness for the U. S. District Bureau of Staunton, and Albert D. Osborn of New York, took the stand to declare it their positive opinion that Hauptmann was the ransom note writer.

Osborn, seventh expert to testify, is a son of the first Albert S. Osborn who gave his testimony last week.

Sunder to his cross examination acknowledged differences between the notes.

Reciprocal Tariff Pact Nears An Agreement

TALLAHASSEE, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Paul H. Dugal, chairman of the Georgia revenue commission, yesterday conferred with Governor Smith and George H. Wilder, Florida's motor vehicle commissioner, on a proposed reciprocal agreement between Georgia and Florida for operation of trucks across the state line.

Wilder said a tentative agreement drawn up yesterday probably would solve the matter on which Georgia and Florida have failed to agree after more than a year of negotiation. He indicated a compromise had been made by each state, but he declined to announce the details. It will be presented to Governor Talmadge of Georgia for his approval before it is adopted.

4000 Acres To Be Set Out In Watermelons

KUSTIS, Jan. 16.—Planting of watermelons, one of Lake county's important crops, was started this week. Because of adverse conditions during the past several years plantings in county have decreased, the average here estimated at 4000 acres this year by the County Agent Clifford Hink. Last year 5000 acres were planted.

Growing of watermelons started here in 1928. Land on which melons are produced is rented, since they cannot be raised on the same soil every year. The standard variety of seed used in this section is the Tom Watson for northern markets and Stone Mountain for the local market.

Opposition To Long Continues To Spread

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Opposition to Huey P. Long's dictatorship was spreading through Louisiana last night as the deadline for the repeal of the constitution demanding repeal of dictatorial laws drew near.

The Attorney General's Opinion

During the campaign on the Homestead Exemption Amendment immediately preceding the November election, a number of points were raised about which the people still seemed to be in considerable doubt when they went to the polls.

According to the Attorney General's opinion, all homesteads in the State of Florida will be exempt from taxation for publicity, welfare work, agricultural work, the maintenance of roads and schools, and all ordinary operating expenses of city, county and state government.

On the other hand, the Attorney General also held that the homesteads are not exempt from taxation for the purpose of paying interest and principal on bonds which were outstanding at the time this section of the Constitution became effective (November 6, 1934).

It is apparent that in the opinion of the Attorney General homesteads can be exempted only from paying taxes for operating expenses, and that taxation for debt service must be continued exactly as heretofore.

The Attorney General further clarified the doubt which apparently existed as to exactly what a homestead is. A homestead is a home on 160 acres or less in a rural area, or 1/2 acre in city, owned by the head of a family.

Of course, the Attorney General's opinion is not a Supreme Court decision, and some of these rulings may be upset in the legal action which may be taken in court and ultimately carried clear to the United States Supreme Court.

Daytona Beach's Noble Experiment

Daytona Beach has tried the 3 percent city-wide sales tax and found it wanting. The Commission are now considering a real estate tax, a gross business tax, doubling the driver's license tax, a fire insurance premium tax, a liquor tax, a garbage tax, and occupational license fees.

"For a week Daytona Beach suspended all its profit taxes and was headed toward a program which would include no assessment of property," explains the Miami Herald.

"By use of a sales tax the city hoped to continue operations. Creditors could not touch money raised by that method. Neither could they mandamus the city into high levies if no assessment rolls were prepared.

"The merchants, meantime, have been raising a clamor and down the whole has been tossed. The sales tax induced them to believe they would lose their shirts in another week, and finally they let the commission suspend the tax, pending an effort to find more painless methods of tax extraction.

"Experience is showing that it does not pay to penalize too heavily the main arteries of commerce. What is happening in Daytona Beach should serve as an object lesson to our legislators when they begin debating a state sales tax in the spring."

Political Primer

How Congress works... The House of Representatives... The Senate...

12 Committees of Congress

Among the most important committees in the Senate are those on appropriations, finance, and foreign relations; in the House, those on appropriations, and ways and means.

All bills which relate to the appropriation of money must be considered and reported out by the committee on appropriations. All revenue bills must originate in the House of Representatives and come out of the ways and means committee.

There are 23 standing committees in the Senate and six others appointed for specific purposes. In the House there are 47 standing committees and three special ones.

In the House there are 10 committees designated as principal or exclusive committees in that a majority of the members of the committee are from that body.

These committees meet regularly on set days. They consider the bills which have been referred to them. They sometimes hold long hearings on important bills when those interested either for or against may come in and express their views.

The committee then considers the bill and may report it out with or without amendments or may not decide to report it out. Sometimes the committee takes up several bills of a similar character, considers all phases of the question and writes a new bill and reports it out.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—West Virginia's senator-elect, 29-year-old R. D. Holt, had all sorts of advice as to what he should do until he reached his assumed majority of 20.

Senator "Jim" Blair, Lewis of Illinois, for example, suggested that he not act as a "committee man" for the state of West Virginia until he was of senatorial age.

The veteran George Norris of Nebraska was represented as believing that young Mr. Holt could take his seat regardless of his senatorial minority.

When the present Congress opened, however, Senator-elect Holt merely presented his credentials as "duly elected" and sat in the rear of the Senate chamber while other "duly elected" senators were sworn in.

Reports drifting back to Washington are to the effect that Holt was deprived of exercising his talents as a legislator in the United States Senate by his keeping in practice back home.

He has no official connection with the West Virginia state legislature but he has made one.

As a member of that body he left it to run for the Senate. He was chairman of a committee to investigate the public utilities in the state. He credits that activity with a successful record for a year in the Senate.

He now is engaged in accumulating the information his committee gathered and whipping it into shape for presentation to the legislature. That's his hobby.

As a matter of fact he has not yet reached the age of 20 and the constitutional age requirement for taking his seat as a member of the United States Senate.

When June 12 does roll around for Mr. Holt he will find that although absent the Senate hasn't forgotten him.

His official residence is on a one-room affair on the second floor of the Senate office building.

But for a birthday present he'll get the suite of offices now occupied by the senator-elect from Pennsylvania, James J. Davis ("Fudger Jim") as he is known on capital hill, a cabinet member under three presidents.

As a result of his election to the United States Senate he will be paid from Jan. 1.

The amount of money most often mentioned is $10,000 a year. It is smaller sums for those in cities or rural communities.

The federal-state help for maintenance of these officials would be taken away as funds were built up by the local contributions of employers and employees.

The third phase of the plan, which was the subject of considerable argument in the committee that drafted the bill and which some officials felt might have been straggled from the final report, was designed to reach agricultural workers and persons employed in establishments where less than 10 persons are employed.

They'd also have been included in the plan through low regular payments, an insurance against loss of old age.

The fourth and fifth plans which were probably suggested to gain approval was one which would provide federal aid for states setting up effective forms of giving help to dependent children.

Much discussion surrounded the development of the health plans. A broad form of health insurance was considered but the general consensus was that this had been put aside for the time being with a recommendation that it be given further study in the meantime.

These officials believed there would be a widening of present forms of public health work.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—In order to promote a steady advance of private enterprise, the might well reverse our previous point of view and seek primarily to create markets for our products which will stimulate production.

Instead of first seeking to stimulate production on the false assumption that thereby markets will be automatically created, the executive director insisted.

In a vigorous attack on price fixing and curtailed production, Rickerberg said:

"We have seen concerted efforts to control production to hold up prices and to hold down wages, so that the profits of a few might be made more certain, although livelihood of a great many would be made insecure. But to the extent that our political economic system permitted this, it carried within it the germs of self-destruction.

A period of prosperity became the period of a vast increase of debts, which eventually could not be paid, because of the inadequate growth of purchasing power."

The 1929 breakdown, Rickerberg said, was "not a temporary period of contraction to make up for a period of expansion" but rather "the breakdown of an economic system, that called for an analysis of economic causes and effects."

However, he added that "a national recovery from years of depression is definitely under way."

FOUNDATION PLANTING

By Mrs. E. D. BISHOP

If we were handymen, we would wash out the canvas with a copy of a house on it and tell us to complete the picture, we would really be being assigned an easier task than when directed to complete the picture by planting, of a lot with just a house on it. If with paint and brush we find we have not harmonized the colors on the canvas, it is an easy matter to wash out the inharmonious colors and find that we have substituted the picture, that we can immediately be washed out. But if with plants, weeds and a lot with house on it, we attempt to complete the picture, deeper thought must be given because of the element of time necessary for flowering and growth, which are the color and balance required to find out whether we have washed out our colors, will blossom in the most advantageous places and with plants of proper growth either in height or width for their particular location.

Some knowledge must be had at planting time, of color of flowers and foliage produced by certain shrubs and trees, to see in the mind's eye, the blending of their colors. The architect of the house, the painter of the picture, the gardener of the garden, must have a knowledge of the nature and effect that we are going to produce. We must picture the result we would like to produce before we begin to plant. To start with, a simple sketch of the house, the place will be a great help. This can be studied and with one's choice of plants and their ultimate color and growth in mind, shrubs and vines, and build up what the possible result in later years might be. This will help avoid mistakes to begin with which otherwise can be corrected only with the spade and a loss of months or even years of precious growing time.

In Florida, where nature gives us the year round, a green background, we should splash in an abundance of reds, oranges, strong yellows, and purples. The architecture of the house, the location of entrances and driveways, the location, condition, and use of nearby buildings, a bird's-eye view of the entire street, and the safety for traffic, are all elements to be taken into consideration.

A tall and massive building with a foundation planting of low growing shrubbery, (even though height and well kept), will not present a good picture. Court-landscaping, and well kept, will not generally be large, which best if the shrubbery is allowed to grow to the height of the window sills, and with the plantings broken into groups by taller plants being used against wall expanses here and there. The large, two story home can be treated very much the same way, but should be less formal. This can be obtained by

Daytona Beats Local Team At Basketball

DAYTONA BEACH, Jan. 16.—The Daytona team won their third consecutive North Florida Conference victory by defeating Sanford High School's Celeryfields in a highly contested basketball game last night, 22 to 21.

The outcome of the spirited contest was a narrow one. The final whistle, and the score was 21-21 at 21-21 a few seconds before the end of the game when Daytona, dependable forward, scored the winning point on a free throw.

The game led at the half, 10 to 10, then led ground and trailed by two points until the final stages of the game when a rally pulled them even, and Herin's final toss netted them the victory.

Herin led the scoring with nine points, with Whitson, Sanford forward, scoring seven.

The local second string defeated the visitors 13 to 12 in the opener.

The Attorney General's Opinion

During the campaign on the Homestead Amendment immediately preceding the November election, a number of points were raised about which the people still seemed to be in considerable doubt when they went to the polls. On Monday of this week Attorney General Landis rendered an opinion to Comptroller Lee which to some extent at least clarifies the doubtful aspects of the Homestead Amendment.

According to the Attorney General's opinion, all homesteads in the State of Florida will be exempt from taxation for publicity, welfare work, agricultural work, the maintenance of roads and schools, and all ordinary operating expenses of city, county and state governments, making it incumbent upon the taxing bodies of these units to find new sources of tax revenues or to curtail the work now being done in these specified lines.

On the other hand, the Attorney General also held that the homesteads are not exempt from taxation for the purpose of paying interest and principal on bonds which were outstanding at the time this section of the Constitution became effective (November 6, 1934). This likewise applies to bonds issued and sold either before or after adoption of the amendment for the purpose of refunding the original bonds which were issued and sold before this section of the Constitution was adopted.

So it is apparent that in the opinion of the Attorney General, homesteads can be exempted only from paying taxes for operating expenses, and that taxation for debt service must be continued exactly as heretofore. Now that the Homestead Amendment has been adopted, all the taxes which the homesteads have to pay will go directly to the bondholders.

Daytona Beach's Noble Experiment

Daytona Beach has tried the 3 percent city-wide sales tax and found it wanting. The Commission are now considering a real estate tax, a gross business tax, doubling the driver's license tax, a fire insurance premium tax, a liquor tax, a garage tax, and occupational license fees, as a substitute for the sales tax, which was in itself a substitute for the old real estate ad valorem tax.

"For a week Daytona Beach suspended all property taxes and ran a household on a program which would include no assessment of property," explains the Miami Herald. "The idea back of that was to force the bondholders of the city into better terms by turning up all their chances for legislating through tax increases. Last year the city paid 3 percent interest on its debt as a salve to the creditors' feelings until negotiations for refunding took a more favorable turn, but even the 3 percent was stopped this year."

"By use of a sales tax the city hoped to continue operations. Creditors could not touch money raised by that method. Neither could they mandamus the city into high levies if no assessment rolls were prepared. But the courts have stepped in and injured the city: 'How come you don't make up a tax roll so these creditors will have something to show for their money?' And in the end Daytona Beach may have to resume its real estate taxation and make some effort to pay its just debts."

"The merchants, meantime, have been raising a clamor audible up and down the whole East Coast. The amount of business they lost in a week because of the sales tax weighed them to the ground. They would lose their shirts in another week, and finally the Commission suspended the tax, pending an effort to find more business methods of tax extraction."

"Experience is showing that it does not pay to penalize too heavily the main arteries of commerce. What is happening in Daytona Beach should serve as an object lesson to our legislators when they begin debating a state sales tax in the spring."

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

Political Primer

12 Committees Of Congress. Among the most important committees in the Senate are those on appropriations, finance, and foreign relations; in the House, those on appropriations, and ways and means.

All bills which relate to the appropriation of money must be considered and reported out by the committee on appropriations. All revenue bills must originate in the House of Representatives and come out of the ways and means committee. The corresponding committee of the Senate is that on finance. The Senate foreign relations committee is charged with considering and reporting out such matters as treaties, questions affecting the nation's foreign policy, and the like.

There are 23 standing committees in the Senate and six others appointed for specific purposes. In the House there are 47 standing committees and three special ones. In the House there are 10 committees designated as principal or exclusive committees in that a majority designated as principal or exclusive committees in that a majority member of anyone cannot serve on any other.

These committees meet regularly or on call. They consider the bills which have been referred to them. They sometimes hold long hearings on important bills when those interested either for or against may come in and express their views.

The committee then considers the bill and may report it out with or without amendments or may not decide to report it out. Sometimes the committee takes up several bills of a similar character, considers all phases of the question and writes a new bill and reports it out.

Inflationists Seek An Even Cheaper Dollar

Developments in the monetary and banking field have been making themselves known to the attention of the public. A dozen organizations, most of them formed for the purpose of producing inflation, are now in the process of meeting with some of the House members of a bipartisan nature to see if they could not agree upon some method of bringing about a cheaper dollar and higher prices.

Interest centered, too, on a double visit of Secretary McLaughlin to the White House. He and a cabinet member, Secretary Hull, and a cabinet expert, Special Assistant to the Secretary, Mr. C. G. Glass, visited the President. Mr. Glass is chairman of the subcommittee which will consider such legislation at the session of Congress.

Monetary matters, watched closely at stocks dropped one to three points Tuesday. Grains declined one to four cents a bushel, cotton dropped a dollar a bale, and sugar 12 cents a hundred, with government securities firm and in some cases strong.

At 1:45 to the Stock market it was noted here that the dollar was far above the level at which it becomes profitable for foreign dealers to buy gold with it to be sold for dollars.

Bankers said gold shipments would result in heavy losses if the Supreme Court should decide against the government in the constitutional matter of striking the Federal Reserve power by abrogating the Federal Reserve Act, which would be the equivalent of a gold coin or its equivalent.

The court itself remained silent, but there were grounds for believing it was following a well-established precedent in doing everything possible to expedite its decision. Aside from the remote possibility of its ruling might be handed down next Monday, however, it could not thereafter be announced until Feb. 4 because of an intervening recess.

Senator Thomas, Democrat of Oklahoma, president of the National Monetary Conference, called today's meeting for the purpose, as he put it, of putting a stop to "fighting among ourselves and working at cross purposes."

It will be attended by representatives of the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve banks, and also by the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve banks, and also by the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve banks.

Social Legislation Program Embodied In 30,000 Words

Provision for re-employment of those persons able to work; largely covered by the public works plans being contemplated and probably which will be recommended to Congress separately.

Some officials felt that the program would touch probably one out of every five persons in the United States, but no definite figures were available. Certain restrictions were contemplated with regard to unemployment insurance, old age pensions and "mother's" which would probably hold these applications to persons in low wage classifications or those most in need of these benefits.

For unemployment insurance, there was a close division of opinion as to whether the employer should bear the cost. Arguments through a payroll on the employer side should bear a part of the cost. Some officials felt that the President might leave these questions to Congress.

Upon the question of the amount of the payroll tax to be assessed, Federal and state governments, officials said, would co-operate in setting the old age pension to be paid, bearing the initial cost. The plan would take effect gradually as the unemployed now on relief rolls are returned to states, they said, predicting that the federal aid plan would encourage the 20 states that do not have old age pensions to enact such laws.

State systems would be required to conform to certain standards prescribed by the national government. This plan would be designed to reach those persons already above 65, who are needy and who might be enabled to live in their present residences with a little help to place out the funds they now have. Officially, it would be cheaper to maintain them in their own homes than to move them to the old-fashioned poor farms. The amount mentioned most often would range downward from $25 or $30 a month for those in cities to smaller sums for persons in rural communities.

The federal-state help for maintenance, these officials said, would be taken away as funds were applied to the most contributions of employees and employers. The third phase of the plan, which was the subject of considerable discussion in the committee, that of old age pensions, which some officials felt might be best financed from the Federal Reserve, was designed to reach agricultural workers and persons employed in establishments, bringing less than 10 percent. Under it, these persons not affected otherwise would have been enabled to buy through low regular payments, an insurance against need in old age.

The other-aid plan which was generally expected to gain approval was one which would help to develop forms of giving help to dependent children. Much discussion surrounded the development of the health plans. A broad form of health insurance was proposed, but the general consensus was that this had been just a matter of time being a recommendation that it be given further study in the meantime, these officials believed there would be a widening of present forms of public health work.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—West Virginia's senate-elect 23-year-old Rich D. Holt—had all sorts of advice as to what he should do until he reached his senatorial majority of 30.

Senator "Slim" Haney, Lewis of Illinois, for example, suggested that he act as a "commissioner" for the state of West Virginia until he was of senatorial age.

The veteran George Norris of Nebraska was represented as believing that young Mr. Holt could take his seat regardless of his senatorial minority.

When the present Congress opened, however, Senator-elect Holt merely presented his credentials as "duly elected," sat in the rear of the Senate chamber while other "duly elected" senators were sworn in, then caught a train for Charleston, W. Va., where the state legislature was meeting in biennial session.

Reports drifting back to Washington are to the effect that while Holt was deprived of exercising his talents as a legislator in the United States Senate he is keeping in practice back home.

He has no official connection with the West Virginia state legislature, but he has made one. He is a member of that body (the left it is run for the Senate) Holt was chairman of a committee to investigate the public utilities in the state. He credits that assignment as being a major factor in his successful contest for a seat in the Senate.

When Holt is done with around for Mr. Holt he will find that although about the Senate has forgotten him. His official residence on Capitol Hill at the present is a one-room affair on the second floor of the Senate office building. But for a birthday present he'll get.

Labor Sees Spring Work Aiding Only Million Now Idle

Federation Says New Work Plan Is Only Relief For Others

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—The American Federation of Labor recently predicted an expected spring business upswing would give work to only one million of the 11,450,000 it finds are jobless.

The only other immediately visible hope for reducing the size of the army of unemployed, the federation said, is through President Roosevelt's plan to put 3-million men already absolved so far as the state is concerned. Wilenta's remarks were carried to Edward J. Reilly, chief of defense counsel.

Work for another 4,000,000, the federation estimated, would result from adoption of a 30-hour week throughout industry.

Looking back over 1934, the federation asserted that although business was better, labor made no significant gains in either employment, real wages or hours of work.

"Each gain as were made since the enactment of NRA were accomplished in the summer and fall of 1933," the survey said.

The federation reported that the average worker's income last year was still $813 below the amount needed for keeping a family of five in health and decency.
