

18 May Face 'Pyramid' Charges

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

A get-rich-quick scheme may have backfired on some Seminole County residents when they inadvertently invited three police officers to a "pyramid party."

The hostess of the party was arrested on three felony counts and 18 other persons — among them a Seminole County official — may face misdemeanor charges.

Police are also looking for the Altamonte Springs man who solicited 11,000 memberships in the pyramid lottery from Florida Department of Law Enforcement Special Agents Stewart Hudson and Lawrence Bielek, Special Agent Supervisor John Van Truck, and others present at the meeting.

A pyramid lottery is akin to a chain letter. It requires a group of people to invest an initial amount of money and recruit new members. Each new member invests money which goes to the person higher up on the pyramid. The new members, in turn, recruit members so they can move up on the pyramid.

According to Hudson, those present at the pyramid party were promised $16,000 return for a $1,000 investment.

The party was held at the Sabel Pointe home of Barbara Lamar Biller, 34, 300 Cypress Landing Drive, Longwood.

Biller was arrested pursuant to Florida Statutes Chapter 49 and charged with organizing or attempting to organize and promote a lottery, aiding and assisting the promotion of a lottery and possession of lottery paraphernalia.

She faces five years in jail and/or a $5,000 fine if convicted.

Her Altamonte Springs assistant will also be charged with the same three felonies, Hudson said.

Assistant State Attorney Alan Robinson, who filed the three-count information on Biller based on the FDLE's investigation, said no final decision has been reached on whether others present will be charged.

"It's my understanding the FDLE is continuing its investigation," Robinson said. "There could have been people there who had no intention of participating (in the pyramid). They committed no crime just by being there."

"The idea is not to make mass arrests," Hudson said. "We just want to stop those actively promoting (pyramids). Some there took a more passive role and some none at all."

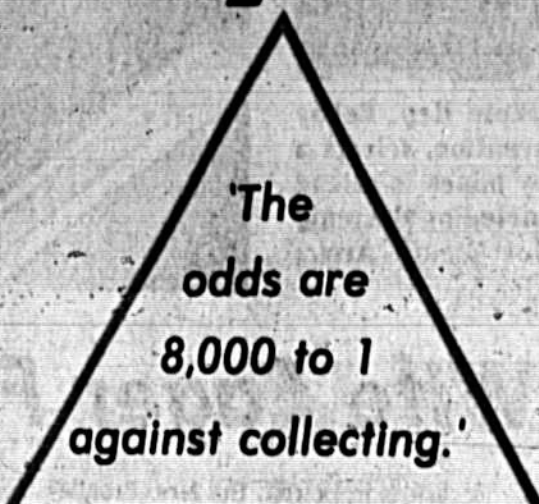

But Hudson said the FDLE purpose is to warn the public that there are good ways to lose money.

"The chances are astronomical that you will ever move into a collecting position if you join one of these things," Hudson said. "And, they're illegal."

But the Seminole County official who was at the pyramid party was invited to attend the hostess had an illegal activity planned.

"We were invited by my sister-in-law to attend a business meeting," he said. "We were told we could possibly make some money."

"Well, the last time we got hit by something like that it turned out to be a doggone Amway thing."

At approximately 8:22 the man instructed all those who wished to pay their $1,000 to raise their hands and their money would be taken. At that point, Hudson said, he identified himself and seized the pyramid chart, advised those present the meeting constituted an unlawful assembly and that the pyramid constituted a lottery under Florida state statutes. All persons present were asked to identify themselves.

Four of those present were from Casselberry, three from Altamonte Springs, two from Longwood, two from Sorrento, five from Orlando, two from Nashville, one from Ormond Beach, and one for whom no address was given.

If misdemeanor charges are brought against any of those present, conviction would mean a year in jail and/or a $1,000 fine, Hudson said.

Hudson added that Orange and Seminole counties are the backbone of Florida's pyramid activity, with 800 to 1,000 people involved, but the same is surviving in other locales.

"We can document 16 games in the Orlando area and we know they are very active in Polk, Palm Beach and Dade counties," he said.

In Palatka 300 people have coughed up the $1,000 each to join games. Usually, he said, they're doctors, lawyers and professional people. Not the types you usually expect to be involved in an illegal activity. And they can usually afford to lose the $1,000," Hudson said. And lose they usually do.

"The odds are 8,000 to 1 against collecting," he said.

Animated 'Lord Of The Rings'

No Plans To Make Last Tolkien Film

By DICK KLEINER
Herald Staff Writer

DEAR DICK: I am quite fascinated with Ralph Bakshi. His animated movies — "Wisecruds" and "Lord of the Rings" — are the utmost in stimulation for the imagination, art in one of its truest forms. I would like to know if, and when, he will finish Tolkien's trilogy, "Lord of the Rings." RICK BETTINGER, Warsaw, Ind.

Not for a while — if ever. He and his partners are currently putting the finishing touches on an animated feature called "American Pop." They still have a while to go on that. Then, maybe, he'll tackle another part of "Lord of the Rings."

DEAR DICK: We are fans of Red Skelton and would like to know if they will ever show his old television programs on TV again. We think he was the greatest ever of any comic. MRS. MARION ELIASER, Miami, Okla.

Red's various shows ran, in one form or another, from 1951 to 1972. Some were hours, some half hours, some color, some black and white, some variety, some other acts. It is possible that a few of them could come back, but certainly the older ones are now outdated and are curio, at best. The chances of you seeing any of them today are slim, unless they are brought back simply for their curio value.

DEAR DICK: I have a question with another party regarding Rob Reiner. I said he was married to Penny

Dick Kleiner

Marshall, this party informed me I was wrong. Could you verify this for me? JIM MILLAR, Stuart, Fla.

Consider it verified. Rob was married to Penny, but you will note the use of the past tense. They are no longer so occupied.

DEAR DICK: Is Barbara Bach kin to Catherine Bach? RICKY PURSLEY, Brainerd, Texas

No, they are not-kin.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me who starred in the TV series, "Shannon"? I think that it was Robert Horton. Whatever happened to him? ALICE STARR, Carl Junction, Mo.

You think correctly. It was Horton. He's still acting, but it's a tough profession. Lately, he's done mostly stock theatrical work, with an occasional TV job.

City Judge Looks Up, Finds Mary Tyler Moore

Judge Luis Neco thought it was going to be just another quiet Sunday night of arguments in Criminal Court at 180 Central Street in New York City. He was not a little surprised when he looked out from his bench around 10 p.m. and spotted a celebrity in his courtroom.

DM also got himself into a bit of trouble perhaps? Not at all, said Mary Tyler Moore. She was just visiting, interested in getting to know all she could about the criminal justice system in the Big Apple.

"I was surprised! Absolutely!" Judge Neco was reported as saying. When the judge got a break later in the evening, a mutual friend introduced Neco to MTM, who, he recalled, stated in "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" on Broadway.

"We spent a few minutes chatting about the court," Neco said. "She wanted to see for herself what it is like in Criminal Court. She was here for about 30 minutes."

"She was really curious, and utterly charming. It's ironic that I am one of her greatest fans. In fact, many nights when I get home I try to be invited by watching reruns of her show on television."

'Jack' Is A Woman On The Run

By JANE CASSELLBERY
Herald Staff Writer

It all started quite innocently. She had heard others talk about how much fun it was, so she decided to try it for herself.

First it was only once a week, then twice a week. Finally it was every day and weekends. The friends she ran around with were into it, too.

What was this compulsive addiction that changed the life of a young Casselberry woman who has been plagued with enough serious physical problems to cause most people to give up?

It's running — a craze that has attracted many Americans in recent years. But Jackie McCain, who prefers to be called just plain "Jack", is not the everyday run of the mill type runner.

Ninety-five-pound Ms. McCain, the veteran of seven 24 mile marathons, has lost the sight in one eye to Sci-oder's Disease, a rare life-threatening optic nerve disease, which has impaired the vision of the other eye as well.

The licensed practical nurse regularly travels to the Basisk-Palmer medical research institute in Miami for treatment of the disease, which is presently in remission.

She tries to limit these medical visits to coincide with an organized race so that she can run while she's there.

A diabetic, she has undergone more surgery than she cares to remember — for uterine cancer, breast cancer, and a malignant brain tumor, as well as the laser-beam surgery on her eyes.

Over the last July 4th weekend after running well to the Daytona Firecracker Beach Run and the First Annual 10,000 North Independence Road Race in New Smyrna she took a rare day off from running because of her latest kidney stone attack.

But this past week she was off and running again. She ran several miles in the morning to her job at a doctor's office in the San Jose Center on State Road 438. After a day's work most of us would flee the 90-degree plus heat for an air conditioning and a cold drink. Not Ms. McCain. The computer guru has run marathons and made a few friends for an eight or 10-mile run or her dancing class.

When her doctor advises her to take it easy she only runs two miles at a more relaxed pace.

One of the biggest disappointments of her life was qualifying for the Boston Marathon and having to drop out at the last minute when she had a seizure.

"Right up to the gun I kept thinking I would feel better and I'd give it a shot, but the officials advised me to wait until next year when I would have a better chance rather than take a chance of hurting myself," Ms. McCain said.

So instead of running she sat on the platform with the timers and announced at the finish line and cheered the other runners as they came across.

Ms. McCain began running occasionally for exercise about six years ago and after the seizure she began to race seriously she set her sights on the "big one" — the Boston Marathon. The qualifying time for women had been lowered for this year's race from 4 hours 30 minutes to 3 hours, 15 minutes in the Orange Bowl Marathon just 10 weeks after undergoing an operation to remove a brain tumor, followed by daily radiation therapy.

"Everybody that runs respects, the marathon runner," Ms. McCain said. "It is the ultimate in racing and takes speed, training, dedication and endurance. Everyone thinks of the Boston Marathon differently than any other race."

The 8th Boston Marathon was held April 21 and the heat and glare of the streets made the race so tedious that many of her friends were unable to drop out, she said. However, she dropped out because she was so exhausted she could not run.

Furthermore, Ms. McCain noted, Rula looked out of shape, and none of the 10 officials at each checkpoint along the route had seen her running. It was later ruled that Rula did not get the entire route and she was disqualified.

Ms. McCain was talking to a journalist, who mentioned he was anxious to meet a girl from Orlando, who was entered in the race.

"What's her name? Maybe I know her," she queried.

"Jack McCain," he replied. It seemed "Jack's" story and her photograph appeared in the Boston Globe before the marathon.

Someone else who had heard about her and wanted to meet her was John Kelly, "grandfather of the Boston Marathon," who was running it for the 48th time. She was there to welcome him when he finished the race and they had their picture taken together.

Ms. McCain says if she is in good enough condition to qualify she wants to try to the Boston Marathon again next year.

She doesn't consider herself to have a health problem. "My diabetes is under control and they are doing the best they can do for my eyes, but these things don't affect my running," she explained.

While growing up in Casselberry with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin McCain and her brother, Marvin Jr., Ms. McCain studied dancing for many years and wanted to be a dance teacher. However, after several broken bones, her doctor advised her to forget about dancing professionally. In contrast, she learned gymnastics. She has taught a gymnastics class since she was 16.

She coaches a gymnastics team made up of girls 10 to 12 years of age at the Winter Park YMCA, works at a Winter Park club on Saturdays, enjoys cooking for friends and takes care of her 10-year-old daughter, Erin. Ms. McCain is a member of the Orlando Runners Club and enjoys the group's activities and runs.

The man who got Ms. McCain started racing and gave her so much helpful advice is Bob Rockway, who she calls "coach."

After hearing of the joys of running, she entered a two-mile fun run in Miami for only $2.

"I couldn't believe the feeling that came over me," she said. "It was really fun and I began racing off and on. The more I raced the more I wanted to. "When you are racing there is a special feeling. You do things you couldn't normally do. It pushes you to your limits. I have to go with the right frame of mind. It takes me a couple of days to get psyched up for a big race."

Ms. McCain plans the race out in her head in advance.

Ms. McCain hopes to get Erin involved in some family runs this fall. "She's promised she would try it," she said.

If Erin has half her mom's courage and spirit, she'll also become a winner.

Marathon runner "Jack" McCain of Casselberry keeps in shape on her daily run.

Queen Evacuated To Military Hospital

Queen, whose release from captivity was ordered by the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, was accompanied on the flight by his parents who flew in late Friday from the United States.

Both expressed their joy at his release. The father, Harold, said their son had just 10 to 20 pounds during his months of confinement in the Tehran Embassy but was showing "tremendous improvement."

Mrs. Queen said her son "has no heart feelings toward the Iranians despite some verbal moments."

State department administrative officer Sheldon Krys said there was "no talk involved in Queen's transfer to the U.S. Air Force hospital in Wiesbaden."

Asked why Queen could not be flown directly back to the United States, Krys said the "military hospital setting was the best because it is closer."

It has not been decided how long the 30-year-old diplomat, who has a neurological disorder, will remain in Krys said.

Motor City Strike Over

Detroit (UPI) — Striking municipal workers today rallied a new contract to end a 15-day strike that has crippled city services and threatened to disrupt next week's Republican National Convention.

No details of the agreement were immediately released, but one union official said the city had increased its cost-of-living allowance and "discussed" a supplemental unemployment benefits plan.

On To Detroit Brantley Seeks Key Role At GOP Convention

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Bobby Brantley made the decision four years ago that he would be a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1968.

He was already a member of the Seminole County Republican Executive and Executive Committee Young Republicans. He soon became the local Young Republicans president.

Two years later, in 1970, he was elected state representative for the Seminole and Lake counties and the 15th congressional district.

A few months ago he went to the fifth congressional district GOP caucus and was elected a delegate after lobbying members of the state committee. At the caucus of party of details he received more votes than anyone chosen.

Monday he and his wife, Paul, will head a plane with other Seminole and Orange candidates for Detroit, and Monday will be involved in the nomination process.

The 35-year-old legislator and his wife expect to spend $1,000 to $1,500 for the flight, hotel and food expenses and all the other activities connected with the convention in the "Motor City." The party doesn't assist delegates with expenses.

Brantley has not been assigned to any committees as yet. He does, however, plan to attend special meetings for Republicans. And since he has been a Reagan supporter "out front" for many months, he expects to have "some input" with the former California governor.

"I've been told I will be meeting with Reagan to give him my input on who the vice presidential candidate should be," he said.

"When the names are picked, I don't know how both sides will be able to have Reagan's ear," Brantley said.

Brantley has already had some input on the vice presidential nomination. He said Reagan met with congressional delegates to discuss their desires and whether Reagan should throw the choice of a vice presidential candidate open to the convention.

"My number one choice is Phil Crane," Brantley said. Crane, a congressman from Illinois, was the second choice of the Florida Republican mini-convention in Orlando last fall.

"Crane is one of the most intelligent people who has run for public office in this country in a number of years," Brantley said. "He is an intellectual. Crane dropped out early in the race for the Republican presidential nomination."

"My second choice is Jack Kemp, the congressman from Buffalo, N.Y. He has something else to offer. He used to be a professional football player. He is extremely good looking and says things the Monday arm-chair quarterback can run with."

"In this election the vice president is going to be out front. The only really strong criticism of Reagan is his age (69) and whether he can last four years," Brantley said. "I believe he can."

"The usual role of a vice presidential candidate is to carry his home state and the bordering states. This time Reagan is going to have to count on the person in the second position to help carry some other states besides his own and to be out on the stump campaigning," he said.

"Either man is young enough to offset the feeling that Reagan is too old," Brantley said. He said a lot of pressure is being placed on Reagan to name George Bush to the vice presidential slot on the ballot.

"Reagan is doing everything to make sure the Republican Party comes out of this convention united," Brantley said. Brantley said he is having no problem accepting the party platform being hammered out by the platform committee prior to the convention.

"The position of the platform committee against the equal rights amendment is the same position I've had on ERA since

WORLD IN BRIEF

Mexican Police Arrest Allen Smuggling Organizer

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A man who helped lead 13 Salvadorans to their deaths in the blistering Arizona desert has been arrested by Mexican authorities as he organized another alien smuggling expedition.

Mexican agents Friday arrested Silvano Marcias Rodriguez near San Luis Rio, Colorado, Mexico, a border town south of Yuma, Ariz., as he prepared to sneak 20 Mexicans over the border, the government-owned news agency Noticias reported.

Rodriguez said he had tried to smuggle 43 Salvadorans into the United States, but he did not say how many actually made the trip to the Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument south of Ajo, Ariz.

The bodies of 13 Salvadorans were found in the desert last weekend and 14 others who lived through the ordeal were rescued.

Ten of the surviving Salvadorans were released from custody in Tucson on $500 bond each Friday and are staying with relatives or local church sponsors. They will testify at the trial of the two men charged with leading them into the country.

Pope Returns To Rome

ROME (UPI) — Pope John Paul II returned today from a grueling 17-day trip to the cities and jungles of Brazil and said he had gone to the world's largest Catholic nation "as a missionary of love."

The pope arrived at Rome's Leonardo DaVinci Airport at 9:37 a.m. 2:37 a.m. EDT and was greeted by Italian Prime Minister Francesco Cossiga, about 20 cardinals and bishops and members of the Vatican diplomatic corps.

"I went among them as a missionary of love," the pope said. "I wanted to express...the great desire of the Catholic Church to offer its collaboration...to every initiative aimed at the promotion of fundamental human values."

New Thai Fighting Erupts

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — New fighting erupted on the tense Thai-Cambodian frontier today between rival bands of Cambodian smugglers battling for control of the lucrative cross-border black market.

International Red Cross workers removed 20 more seriously wounded Cambodian civilians out of the border-straddling camp at Nong Samet, 145 miles east of Bangkok, bringing to 105 the number of wounded evacuated to nearby clinics.

Scores more of the wounded are still believed to be behind the lines on the battlefield that once was a bustling refugee encampment of 100,000 people.

Relief teams said they had recovered 30 bodies from the fighting that began Thursday night and the final death toll was expected to go much higher.

Brantley's Wife Eager For Trip

Wherever State Rep. Bobby Brantley goes at the Republican National Convention in Detroit, Patti Brantley will go if her "quest pass" is acceptable.

Patti, Brantley's diminutive blond wife, has been a familiar figure in the state capitol in the 1978 and 1979 sessions of the Legislature. She spent practically the same number of days in Tallahassee as her husband did.

At one occasion, a United Press International photographer found the sight of Mrs. Brantley attempting to take a picture with a new camera from the gallery of her husband debating on the floor so appealing, he took a picture of both. The UPI photo was published in newspapers throughout the state. Mrs. Brantley's picture did not turn out. She's taking the camera with her to Detroit. "I'll be everywhere it is possible to go at the convention," she said. Brantley said his wife was trying to find excuses to expand her wardrobe for the special occasions in Detroit. But Mrs. Brantley confided that she had "pretty well stocked up" before she went to Tallahassee this year.

"I don't expect to go to many formal events. There are some scheduled fund-raisers, but I don't think we'll be attending," she said.

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. Brantley, she and her husband will be attending an special reception for Republican state legislators. On Sunday evening, a host and hostess who have been assigned to them will take the Brantleys to the Bloomfield Hills Country Club.

The Brantleys will be staying at the Troy Hilton with the Florida delegation. The whole delegation will travel back and forth to the convention by Greyhound bus daily, she said.

Mrs. Brantley said she has packed dresses, heels, jackets and skirts and a cocktail dress. "When we leave the hotel in the morning we'll be dressed for all day," she said.

A special occasion she is looking forward to attending is a reception for U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp at the Detroit Plaza on Monday.

"I've been a Jack Kemp fan for a long time," she said. "To see a man with Paul Newman eyes and good politics in the same package is fantastic," she said.

On the same flight to Detroit, Mrs. Brantley said, will be Sue Lewis and her daughter, Candy, of Rolling Hills. Both are active in Republican politics and will be spectators. Also on the same plane will be Carol Perry of Winter Springs, an alternate delegate. Mrs. Perry's husband, Vince is chairman of the local Republican committee.

Mrs. Audrey Holloway of Altamonte Springs is also an alternate delegate. — DONNA ESTES

Action Reports

Swim-Trunk Bandit Gets $100 Richer

An armed bandit, wearing only black swim trunks, got away with $100 following a Friday afternoon robbery of the Tennessee service station, 1800 French Ave., police said.

The robber, armed with a small handgun, demanded money from the station cashier at approximately 12:25 p.m., police said.

VICTIMS LOSE COOL IN THEFTS

Nine air conditioners were stolen this past week in Seminole County.

Two whirlpool air conditioners were stolen sometime between 4:30 Monday and 10:00 Tuesday, from two residences in Sanford owned by contractor Zella Evans of Orlando, police said.

The air conditioners were taken from 208 Yale Drive and 142 Carver Ave.

The thieves entered the north garage door of the Yale Drive residence to gain access to the unit. The other unit was removed from the contractor's sales model after wires and copper tubing were cut.

Sometime between July 5 and July 7, Y-Enterprises lost six air conditioners to thieves.

Five units valued at $2,600 were taken from lots 17, 21, 22, 25 and 28 under construction on Georgia Avenue in Sanford. The sixth was taken from a home at 1009 Holly Avenue. It was valued at $300.

Floyd Backs Doyle Resignation

"It's probably the best thing for him, the department, and everyone else," Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd Sr. commented today on being informed of the resignation of controversial Altamonte Springs Police Officer William Doyle.

"It's one of those things — I guess he would always be under suspicion."

Floyd said he had not yet been informed of the resignation submitted by Doyle Friday afternoon by Acting Chief B.W. Cook. The resignation will be effective Monday.

Cook was appointed acting chief of the police department Tuesday after former Chief James Best was promoted to lieutenant by Floyd.

Doyle has been the subject of a month-long probe by the state attorney's office over allegations of sexual favors and smoking marijuana with prostitutes and trying to cover up the wreck of his police car last December. Seminole State Attorney Douglas Cheshire did not find enough evidence to warrant an indictment, however.

Doyle, who had been transferred from the vice division to uniform patrol division, has denied any wrongdoing.

forever," Brantley said. "I would rather that the states hand equal rights through legislation rather than having it thrown into the hands of the Supreme Court. It is important that the people realize if ERA is ratified it will end up in the Supreme Court."

"Everytime ERA comes up, there is a lot of emotion about it. It is being used now to split the Republican Party. The platform favors equality for women, but it is not taking a position in favor of ratification of ERA."

"The party platform had ratification of ERA as a plank for many years and supported it until the time limit for ratification of all constitutional amendments ran out. When an extension of that time limit was given, ERA was getting preferential treatment. No one knows how the courts will rule on the extension itself. It is not important whether ERA is in or out of the platform. If another couple states ratify, the amendment is going to go to the courts anyway," he said.

"Placing ERA in the platform will not make states either ratify or deny ratification faster."

He said the subject of abortion has also been a big one for the platform committee. "I am not in favor of abortion except in cases where the mother's life is endangered or when rape or incest is involved," he said.

Brantley noted that during the past session of the Legislature he sponsored and got passed legislation dealing with the regulation of abortion clinics in the state.

"The governor was thinking of vetoing the bill. I spoke with him and gave him my feeling and I was told this past week that he decided not to veto the measure," Brantley said. The bill became law Thursday without Gov. Bob Graham's signature.

Brantley said his legislation allows the state to inspect abortion clinics for sanitation and cleanliness; to make sure the clinic is disposing of medical records in a proper manner by making sure surgical instruments and hypodermic needles are handled properly; and that fetal remains are disposed of properly.

He said when the bill was before committee, persons testified about a clinic in Clearwater throwing medical records and fetal remains in the garbage. Dogs got into the garbage and scattered it over neighboring yards. The same kind of thing happened in Jacksonville, he said.

"This law sounds like something that should have been on the books already," Brantley said. "If this type thing happens now the state can take away that clinic's license. There was a coalition of planned parenthood, Right to Life and others, who lobbied in favor of the bill."

Brantley said Reagan is "pretty much in control of the platform situation. It will reflect his views on different issues and I think it should. He will be carrying the banner for the Republican Party. I think the platform will reflect the views of the mainstream of the American public."

"I see a move toward conservatism. There is no doubt about that," he said.

Brantley and his wife will be staying during the convention in the Troy Hilton in Troy, Mich., which is about 30 minutes from the convention center.

While the Brantleys are at the convention, their sons, Lenny and Bobby Jr., will be staying with grandparents in Jacksonville.

Young Seattle Highjacker Overpowered After 10 Hours

SEATTLE (UPI) — A 17-year-old Seattle youth who claimed he had a bomb in his suitcase and wanted to average the death of a friend seized control of a Northwest Airlines 727 for more than 10 hours until FBI agents overpowered him as he stepped from the plane.

The suspect, identified by the FBI as Glen Kurt Tripp from the Seattle area, demanded and received two parachutes and $100,000 in cash Friday and said he intended to jump from the jet into the mountains in what would have been an attempt similar to the 1971 hijacking by the mysterious D.B. Cooper.

All 52 passengers and all four of the six crew members were released unharmed several hours into the tense drama. The remaining two crewmembers later escaped unharmed during the arrest.

The hijack was being examined to determine if it contained an explosive device.

Kiddy Porn Conviction

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — An Amherst man accused of taking lewd pictures of himself and an 8-year-old girl has become the area's first conviction under the state "kiddy porn" law enacted three years ago.

Louis DeVincentis, 37, was found guilty Friday of felony sex abuse charges and the use of a child in a sexual performance by state Supreme Court Justice William Flynn after a four-day non-jury trial.

The "kiddy porn" law seeks to stop the sexual exploitation of children.

Cuban Death Tests Awaited

LITTLE ROCK (UPI) — State officials are awaiting the results of a test to determine the cause of death of a 22-year-old Cuban woman found lying dead on her bed in a Fort Chaffee barracks.

Dr. Fahmy Malik, state medical examiner, said Friday, an assortment of health problems could have killed Rosa Conde Abadia. However, she "did not die a traumatic death" and showed no signs of injury, he said.

Hal Glassman, spokesman for the Federal Emergency Management Agency, said the woman had been ill for at least a week and had been under the treatment of a post doctor, who had prescribed medication.

Venting Completed Safely

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (UPI) — Three Mile Island officials say the venting of radioactive krypton gas from the disabled nuclear plant has been completed with only minimal amounts of radiation detected in the surrounding environment.

Plant officials say they will now focus on the next step in the decontamination of the nuclear plant — the first planned entry into the building housing the crippled reactor in that gas week.

Escape Back In Jail

NEW YORK (UPI) — Convicted murderer Howard "Buddy" Jacobson is being held without bail today in the same Brooklyn jail he boldly escaped from 41 days ago.

Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold said Jacobson, 50, was "nervous" and "air sick" Friday during the flight from California, where he was arrested in a Manhattan Beach diner Wednesday night.

Animal Lovers Wrangle Over 'Great Goat Hunt'

SAN CLEMENTE ISLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Hundreds of animal lovers are wrangling over the future of a herd of wild goats on the island.

The goats' origin is unclear. They are Spanish meat goats, now feared — domestic animals living in the wild — and apparently are the descendants of animals put ashore a century or more ago by sailors or fishermen to provide an offshore meat source during voyages in the area.

Local 3113 of the Communications Workers of America represents over 150 employees of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company in Sanford, Florida. The local union is very much concerned over the loss of work opportunities and erosion of established wage levels for some of its members as a result of the company's increased use of its "Phone Mart" facilities. As a telephone subscriber, you are entitled to FREE repair service which is computed in your overall telephone bill.

When you have a repair problem with your telephone, you should call repair service and insist on a visit by a trained repairman so that he can check and routine all of your telephone equipment. THERE IS NO ADDITIONAL CHARGE FOR THE VISIT. You should also ask for one day service.

Should you use your gasoline to bring your telephone into the Phone Center? Instead, insist on the service you're already paying for.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Boat Brings 80 Refugees To Dock At Key West

MIAMI (UPI) — A 36-foot houseboat, the first such craft to appear among the thousands of "vessels" that have participated in the Cuban sea lift, ended a safe but perilous crossing of the Florida Straits at 11:30 p.m. Friday, landing more than 80 Cubans at Key West's old Navy dock.

The unidentified houseboat was escorted most of the way from the Cuban embarkation port of Mariel by the Coast Guard Cutter Cape York. Coast Guard spokesman Bill Hesse said the ungainly craft, heavily loaded with 80 people including the crew aboard, could go no faster than 5 knots against the Gulf Stream's swells.

Law Bounces On Court

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Despite the dictum that "ignorance of the law is no defense," officials of one appeal court have pleaded innocent to violating the law on the basis they didn't know the law existed.

Auditor General Ernest Ellison said Friday his auditors discovered the First District Court of Appeal in Tallahassee court was not charging a $5 penalty fee checks that bounce. State law requires such a penalty.

"Court personnel stated that they were unaware of the provision and have never requested or received the $5 service fee," Ellison said. "The court should instruct the appropriate personnel to collect the $5 service fee for returned checks as required by law."

Liquor Bottles Backed

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Beginning next month holders of special restaurant liquor licenses can begin selling alcoholic beverages by the bottle for off-premises consumption as far as the state is concerned.

But local ordinances might continue to ban such sales despite the change in state policy.

Charles A. Nurn, director of the Florida Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco, said Friday the change in policy would take place July 30.

Earlier, division attorneys discovered that the rule banning bottle sales by restaurant licenses for consumption off the premises was "without statutory authority."

At Daytona, Autos Pose More Danger Than Ocean

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A vacation spot for millions, the "World's Most Famous Beach" is also the only oceanfront in the country where sunbathers and motorists face more danger than swimmers.

Every year more and more of them get hit as they compete for space with the automobiles that drive up and down the sandy beach on a roadway that changes every time the tide rolls in and out.

"Really and truly we have more people on automobiles on the beach than we do from swimming," says Dorothy Stridberg, chairman of the Daytona Beach Advisory Board which helps the city council set beach policy.

The most recent tragedy occurred a week ago when terrified bathers watched as a 16-year-old Ocean girl and her mother were run over by a car stolen by another teenager. The girl died, her mother's legs were broken and the 16-year-old driver faces a homicide charge.

The accident was the second vehicular fatality of the season on Volusia County's 23 miles of drivable beaches and served to remind what has become a continuing controversy in a part of Florida where driving on the beach is as natural as driving to work.

"The car-pedestrian situation is one of our biggest problems," says Daytona Beach Mayor Larry Kelly, "We're looking for a solution, but we haven't found one yet."

The issue in Daytona Beach and its environs is a political hot potato. Earlier this year the city council gave tentative approval to a beach toll plan endorsed by the Volusia Council of Governments which Kelly said would raise money for more patrols and cut down on beach traffic. Citizen opposition killed it.

A similar fate awaited the plan in Daytona Beach Shores.

and Kelly holds out little hope for passage in Orange Beach and Volusia County. Beach traffic is a major issue for Daytona Beach and Kelly says he has no intention of backing down.

More than just the environmental question, however, is the fact that Daytona Beach has no parking for beach-bound cars except on the beach itself. Kelly says he has no intention of building a parking lot on the beach.

Stecher said the city council is "in a bind" because of the number of people who use the beach. Kelly says he has no intention of building a parking lot on the beach.

Faculty Pay Issue Could End In Court

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The House will fight Gov. Bob Graham in court, contending an $8.8 million faculty pay raise is dead because Graham vetoed the higher education reform bill.

Brown hired Miami lawyer Talbot "Sandy" D'Alemberte Friday to represent him.

Brown will ask for permission to intervene in a suit Graham and three Cabinet members will file in Leon County Circuit Court Monday, contending language in the supplemental budget tying release of the pay raise money to the "higher ed" bill becoming law is unconstitutional.

D'Alemberte will argue that the Legislature had the right to tie the two proposals together.

He also may file a suit against Graham, contending the governor did not have the authority to veto only specific items in the education construction budget rather than rejecting the entire plan, Ryan said.

"We're certainly considering that," he said.

Brown was represented by D'Alemberte last summer when he filed a suit attacking Graham's decision to veto certain portions of the $18 billion biennial budget.

Brown contended that Graham couldn't veto restrictions on the use of money without also vetoing the money, and that he couldn't veto part of an appropriation without rejecting all of it. The Florida Supreme Court ruled in Graham's favor this spring.

Graham vetoed the "higher ed" bill Thursday, saying decisions on the merger or expansion of universities and other major policy issues addressed by the proposal should be made by the Board of Regents, not the Legislature.

He instructed his general counsel, Lamar Matthews, to ask Leon Circuit Court to throw out the provision language inserted in the 1980 million supplemental budget by Brown in an effort to ward off a veto.

Wisconsin Course Comes Under Fire

Kratzert Continues To Tame Tuckaway

FRANKLIN, Wis. (UPI) — The sarcastic questions about the caliber of Tuckaway Country Club didn't seem to bother Bill Kratzert, the second-round leader in the $200,000 Greater Milwaukee Open.

"Cheer! You can't cheat on any of the holes on this golf course," insisted Kratzert, whose 6-under-par 66 gave him a two-day total of 133. "If any of you know how, please show me. I don't care how short some of the doglegs are."

But Kratzert, who finished ninth in last week's Western Open, was hard pressed to explain the traffic jam on the leaderboard.

Ron Streck, who had shot 65 Thursday, and Dan Pohl, a long hitter who admitted he was "cheating" on the doglegs, were just one stroke back.

Still, Kratzert liked his chances. Only the cross winds that swirled in the afternoon, bringing welcome relief from sticky 90-degree temperatures, bothered him.

Competition Held At Chase Park

Sanford Baseball Hosts Pitch, Hit & Run

SOME 40 youngsters were on hand at Chase Park in Sanford Saturday morning for the 1980 Pitch, Hit and Run competition, co-sponsored by Major League Baseball and local Burger King Restaurants in Seminole County.

The competition, open to boys and girls between the ages of 8-13 included three different skill positions.

Players got three tries to fire pitches into a basket from 60-feet, got three cracks at the bat to see how far they could hit and were also clocked for fastest times around the base paths.

The competition at Chase Park was one of three stations being run in Seminole County Saturday.

Youngsters also took part at the Five Point Sports Complex in Winter Park and at English Estates Elementary School in Fern Park.

Scores will be tabulated over the weekend and the local winners will receive awards at a cook-out Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. at the Altamonte Civic Center.

From there the winners compete in regional competition which will eventually place the national winners as guests at baseball's World Series in October.

Who's The Fastest Runner In The Majors?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who is the flat out fastest runner in the big leagues?

Most of the ballplayers throw their vote to Willie Wilson, the Kansas City Royals' skinny-legged whippet, but that opinion isn't unanimous by any means.

Some say Pittsburgh's Omar Moreno is the fastest and a few name Montreal's Ron LeFlore or Cleveland's Miguel D'Elia. Then there's Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson, who keeps insisting his big former All-American football flanker, Kirk Gibson, can stay with them all when he shifts into high gear.

Back in the old days, when they held those special "field days" in which the fastest players would run one another 10 or 60 yards for 100 or simply for the kick of it, there was a better opportunity to settle the question.

Such competitions are rarely, if ever, conducted today.

There are a couple of reasons why they are not. First of all, management discourages them because it doesn't care to have any player pull a hamstring or possibly hurt himself in some other way.

Another reason has to do with the players themselves. Even the fastest among them realize someone else can beat them on a given day and rather than have that happen, they prefer to leave the issue unsettled and thus keep some of the mystique.

When you talk about running to Willie Wilson, he doesn't know his own horn. He doesn't claim to be the fastest runner in the majors, but neither does he say he knows anyone faster.

well." Pohl, seeking the first victory of his three-year career, said he benefited from the short rough.

Alcott Pushes U.S. Women's Open Lead To Four Strokes

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Amy Alcott says she'd really rather be two strokes behind instead of taking a four-stroke lead into today's third round of the U.S. Women's Open golf championship.

"I'd like to be a couple of strokes back," the 24-year-old Alcott said with a grin Friday, after posting her second consecutive 1-under-par 70. "I'm a come-from-behind player."

Alcott had to make a birdie putt on the 18th hole of her first round to tie Barbara Matteson for the lead, but her consistency has made her the one to chase ever since. She had a two-day total of 140.

"If she keeps playing consistently, we're the ones who are going to have to do the catching up," said Nancy Lopez-Melton, a favorite going into the tournament. She pulled to within six strokes of Alcott with her second round of 72.

Alcott, who has been bothered by swollen hands in the 98-degree heat, will have to keep an eye on three challengers who are just four strokes back.

Matteson, who four-putted No. 17 for a double bogey Thursday, shared the second place spot with Donna Young, leading money winner on the LPGA tour, and Penny Pals. Both Young and Pals shot consecutive 72s in the first two rounds.

The lowest round in the tournament, a 3-under-par 68, was posted Friday by Sandra Post. The winner of three 1979 tournaments grabbed three birdies and then held par to finish 3-under for a two-day total of 147.

Irwin, who has decided to pass up next week's British Open, said his game was "finally coming around."

"I missed just one fairway and one green," he said. "This is probably the best I've played since the last couple rounds of last year's British Open."

Scott Simpson, last week's Western Open winner, shot a 68 for a 139 total. As a result, he was still within striking distance of a $188,000 paycheck — $80,000 for first place and a $100,000 bonus from GMO sponsors for winning both the GMO and the Western.

Seventy one golfers survived the cutoff mark of 141, 3-under-par — lowest on the tour this year.

Moyness said the heat also got to her and her game. "I don't think I've ever been in hot," she said. "I think this is the worst (heat) I've been in."

Streck, also seeking his first tournament win, said he was still dropping some long putts and predicted the third round would be crucial.

Tennis Anyone?

By LARRY CASTLE

Magic Of Wimbledon

It seems redundant to write about it, but it would almost be a sacrilege not to write about it. As long as people talk about tennis, as long as people write about tennis and as long as hackers all over the world try to hit that fuzzy ball, "The Match" will be discussed. Everywhere I went this past week, people asked me what I thought about "The Match". No one ever had to say what I thought. I knew what they were talking about.

People who have been deeply involved for thirty, forty or fifty years were even astonished at the level of tennis that was produced by Mr. Borg and Mr. McEnroe. For four grueling hours these two giants of tennis hurled bullets at each other but each refused to die. The fourth set tie-breaker was one of the longest in history and it was enough in itself to leave us gasping at what we were seeing.

Borg is the No. 1 player in the world and McEnroe is No. 2. They were seeded 1 and 2 in Wimbledon. On this day they gave us what is sure to go down in history as one of the top matches of all time. Borg, his usually quiet, stoic self and McEnroe, the "spoiled brat" image for a while or so, were equally as quiet and businesslike, were simply awesome.

The shots that they produced were line clipping, 100 m.p.h. trajectories out of a dimension that tennis players only dream about. Another dimension was reached. Each time McEnroe raised his game, Borg's would go higher. I now believe that a three minute mile will be run someday, or a 8.510. Some one will high jump nine feet — that was a comparable level of tennis that we saw.

I'm glad I was able to see it. I know you feel the same way. It may never happen again. Borg won for the fifth time but that was overshadowed by "The Match" — the match between two great players who would not give an inch and produced a great show for the world to see.

Almost lost in the shuffle was the fact that Evon Goolagong Carley won the women's, beating Chris in the finals. Evonne is at her best on grass and won the event for the 2nd time in her illustrious career. The delightful, free spirited Aussie produced beautiful and athletic shots and was playing so well that she could not be denied.

In this writer's opinion there are two players that stand alone at the top in the history of tennis. Borg is one. I feel only equal in tennis was Rod Laver. At his peak I believe Laver was as good as Borg.

"I'd love to meet him. I've been a fan since the 1960s. I even went to Florida in March to watch spring training. I love Reggie," she said. "I'm not interested in any monetary reward. The value isn't because the ring is made of diamonds but because it was Reggie's, because he had it on his finger."

Lou Domiano Jr., operator of Northern Associates, said Jackson called his office late Thursday afternoon to say the ring was his and he would make arrangements to get it in about a week "when things cool down a little bit."

"He said the press was bothering him tremendously about it and he wanted removed. He said he couldn't even get time to practice the day after. He was a little mad, even kind of arrogant about it," said Domiano. "I said, 'What am I doing wrong?' I just have the ring and I'm looking to return it."

He added Reggie guessed he may have lost the ring in his brother's car, a green Thunderbird, in Philadelphia, Domiano said. Northern Associates purchased about 20 T-birds from the Philadelphia area in the last several months.

Also confirmed recently by team management as being under consideration was former Colorado Rockies' Coach Don Cherry and former Detroit Red Wings' Coach Bobby Kromm.

"We have stringing this thing out another week," said Penguin Vice President Paul Martha Friday. "But we have no other choice. We have details to resolve with our candidate's agent and there's no way we can have everything worked out today."

"The press conference will be held Tuesday because of the nature of the business. It's difficult to reach all members of the media over the weekend to set up a Monday press conference."

The Penguins originally had planned to name Wilson's replacement Friday, but Martha said all the details weren't worked out.

"I suppose we could have made an announcement before finalizing everything with the contract," he said. "But we would have ended up looking bad if we held the press conference and then had to get together again with him to work out those final details. When the announcement is finally made we will have everything resolved."

Former Nevada Ad Lawlor Dies

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Glenn "Jake" Lawlor, former University of Nevada basketball coach and athletic director, died Friday after a long illness. He was 73.

Lawlor had been under treatment for cancer at St. Mary's Hospital since July 1. Lawlor, an Iowa native, took over as athletic director at the University of Nevada in 1951. He retired from that position in 1970 but stayed on as professor of health, physical education and recreation until 1972.

He also was Nevada basketball coach from 1942-1943 and 1945-1959, when the Wolf Pack competed in the Far West Conference.

He was named to the Wolf Pack Athletic Hall of Fame in 1972.

Yarborough Holds National 420 Pole

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Cale Yarborough captured the pole position for Saturday's Nashville 420 stock car race with a qualifying speed of 104.817 mph during qualifying Friday night.

Yarborough covered the .596-mile oval in 20.470 seconds on his second attempt to gain the inside position. His first lap speed of 104.887 mph would have also earned the pole position.

Qualifying for the second spot was Benny Parsons with a speed of 104.267 mph. The No. 3 qualifier was Darrel Waltrip who had a speed of 103.984.

Yarborough has won seven of the last eight pole positions in NASCAR-sanctioned events. During this time, he has established five track qualifying records and seven during the entire season.

"We have a lot of momentum going, I guess," said Yarborough, who established the NIR record for a pole-sitter with a speed of 106.581 mph during qualifying for the Music City 420 in May. "It's hard to believe we have won as many poles as we have."

"We have worked well as a team." The Chevrolet-driving Yarborough knows the heat and humidity are going to be a factor for Saturday's race. It was a factor Friday night, with most of the drivers' second lap speeds slower than the first lap.

"It will be at least 150 degrees in the cars," Yarborough said. "But we'll have to put up with it. There's nothing we can do. I try to keep it out of my mind."

The Nashville 420 will be held at 7:30 p.m. CDT today. Qualifying for starting positions 11 through 30 will be determined in timetrials earlier in the afternoon.

The defending champion is Waltrip. NASCAR has dropped a twap penalty on the drivers for changing tires during a caution period on a short track like the one in Nashville. The organization adopted this rule earlier in the spring but decided to change it after drivers protested.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Some Philadelphia Phillies players and their wives have been interviewed by state officials in connection with a drug probe but are not suspected of any criminal involvement, the team says.

Phillies' owner Ruly Carpenter, in a prepared statement issued before the start of the Philadelphia-Chicago game Friday night, said the players and their wives "were contacted today by officials from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in connection with an ongoing criminal investigation of persons not employed by the club."

Philly Players, Wives Queried In Drug Probe

Reggie's Loyal Fan A Real Gem

TAYLOR, Pa. (UPI) — Yankee fans sometimes are rewarded for their support in strange ways. For Virginia Overholtz, a life-long rooter for the Bronx Bombers, the reward also came from a strange place — the garbage.

"I was just going out for lunch," the 33-year-old secretary recalled Thursday, "and I kicked a pile of trash. This object rolls out and across the floor, and it glittered, and it was gold, and it was a ring. It said 'Jackson' on it and it even had his number, 44."

Mrs. Overholtz, employed by Northern Associates Inc., said she immediately recognized Reggie Jackson's 1974 World Series ring. It is 14-karat gold, has one large diamond (estimated at 1 1/2 karats) and 22 diamond chips, and also contains an engraving on the inside which reads: "Greatest comeback in history."

Mrs. Overholtz contacted the Yankee organization to return the ring. "Some people are saying I'm stupid for returning it," she said. "But it isn't my ring. It must have meant a lot to him and he should have it back."

Since Northern Associates refurbishes formerly leased cars, Mrs. Overholtz theorized Jackson may have dropped the ring in a car he rented, though the famous Yankee slugger cus-tomarily drives around in a Rolls Royce. It may also have been stolen when Jackson's apartment was ransacked a year ago, she said.

The One-Putt Putter

Arriving at green (A) in thirteen, the deadly duffer (B) approaches ball (C). Taking custom built, one-putt putter (D) from bag, duffer is ready for guaranteed one stroke, 90 foot putt. As duffy squeezes grip (E), false door (F) opens in head of putter, releasing trapped mole (G). Mole, seeing hole (H), thinks it is home and digs trench (I) straight to it. Duffer now needs only to top ball into it. Roll to hole... one putt green and adding only one stroke to his thirteen for a multi-bogey total on score card (J).

Scotty's Altamonte Store Scores Successful Opening

Scotty's, Inc. has reported sales for the year ended June 30 of $24.6 million, an increase of 22 percent over sales for the year ended June 30, 1979, of $20 million. Sales for the five weeks ended June 28 were $3.2 million an increase of 8 percent over sales for the corresponding five weeks ended June 30, 1979.

Kwik Adds New System

Kwik Kopy, of Altamonte Springs has announced the installation of a new duplicating system that can produce bold solids, and excellent photos and halftones, without the need to make a negative or a plate.

AREA BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

Temporary mobile units are moved on the site of Flagship's newest office located at 5600 Red Bug Lake Road at Tusawilla. Ralph Pezold, branch manager, anticipates opening about the middle of July. When the permanent building is completed, this sixth office of Flagship Bank of Seminole will include a 24 hour automatic teller.

James W. Jones (left), son of Donald and Jean Jones of Sanford, has been elected banking officer at Mercantile National Bank at Dallas. He will handle accounts in the National Department. Jones, who joined the bank two years ago, received a degree in finance from Emory University and a Master's degree in finance from Georgia State University.

The 4. Umbermens Mutual Insurance Co. has announced the graduation of Sandra Baily (right) from its Basic Property and Casualty School. Baily is from Casselberry. She graduated last August from Michigan State University with a bachelor's degree in economics. Baily is presently working out of the Detroit office.

Good news for savers with $100 or $100,000.

The good news is you don't have to be rich to get richer at Atlantic Bank. Look at our chart.

For $100. Act before July 23, and as little as a $100 minimum deposit will earn 9.25% interest (annual yield 9.69% compounded daily) with Atlantic Bank's 48-Month Investment Certificate. Average interest rates are declining, so act now to guarantee this protected, high return for four years.

For $100,000. Since the FDIC raised its coverage, whether you have $100 or $100,000, you're fully insured at Atlantic Bank. That's the good news. There is no bad news.

Former Pilot Brings Suit

An alleged nationwide conspiracy by the airlines pilots' union to blacklist nonunion pilots is being challenged in Federal Court in Winston-Salem, N.C. Former Piedmont Airlines pilot Howard B. Peterson III has brought a $4.6 million suit in damages against the Air Line Pilots Association union, 300 individual ALPA members, and Piedmont for allegedly blacklisting him and causing his discharge from the airline's employ.

Peterson is being assisted in the suit by attorneys with the National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation, an organization providing free legal aid to employees whose rights are violated by company unionism abuses.

YOU be the judge ...for a change!

Dear Registered Voter,
A Tallahassee judge has just ruled that it is O.K. for Florida election laws to disseminate against candidates for public office, I am an independent candidate for the U.S. Senate. The judge has ruled that to have my name on the ballot, 126,516 registered voters (3% of all of you) must sign my petition cards.
But, an independent running for President of the U.S. needs only 42,172 petitions (1%) to be on Florida's ballot.
And, a Democrat or Republican running for the U.S. Senate in the party primary needs only one (1) signature - his or her own!
YOU BE THE JUDGE! Is this fair?
I served two terms as an independent Florida State Senator and stood up against the party politicians to serve all the people. Now these same politicians are trying to keep me out of the U.S. Senate race.
Will you join the PEOPLE'S COURT OF APPEAL, by signing my petition card printed below. Any Florida registered voter can sign.
Your signature simply helps get my name on the ballot. Then, in November, you can compare the candidate and decide if you want a different choice and a different voice in Washington.
Sincerely,
Lori Wilson

Local Expert Included In Metric Directory

Clem Boyer, coordinator of Mathematics for Seminole County Schools, has been included among a select list of knowledgeable volunteer speakers listed in the recently published U.S. Metric Board Speakers Directory. The Metric Speakers Directory has been compiled to identify local individuals able to help interested organizations learn more about the measurement system used by 95 percent of the world's population. Individuals listed in the Directory speak as private citizens, not as representatives of the U.S. Metric Board. Any opinion expressed by the speaker in his or her own and does not necessarily reflect the views of the Board, an independent Federal agency.

Cultural Classes Offered

The Council of Arts & Sciences has compiled a catalog of summer cultural classes. Many of the area's art centers, educational institutions and other organizations offer classes in the visual arts, drama, dance and music which begins in late June and July. The Council's cultural classes catalog lists the organization's address, types of classes offered, age groups, when the classes begin and how long they last as well as information on registration. Anyone who would like to have a copy of the catalog sent to them free of charge should call the Arts Council at 943-287 (THE-ARTS).

Search On For Singers

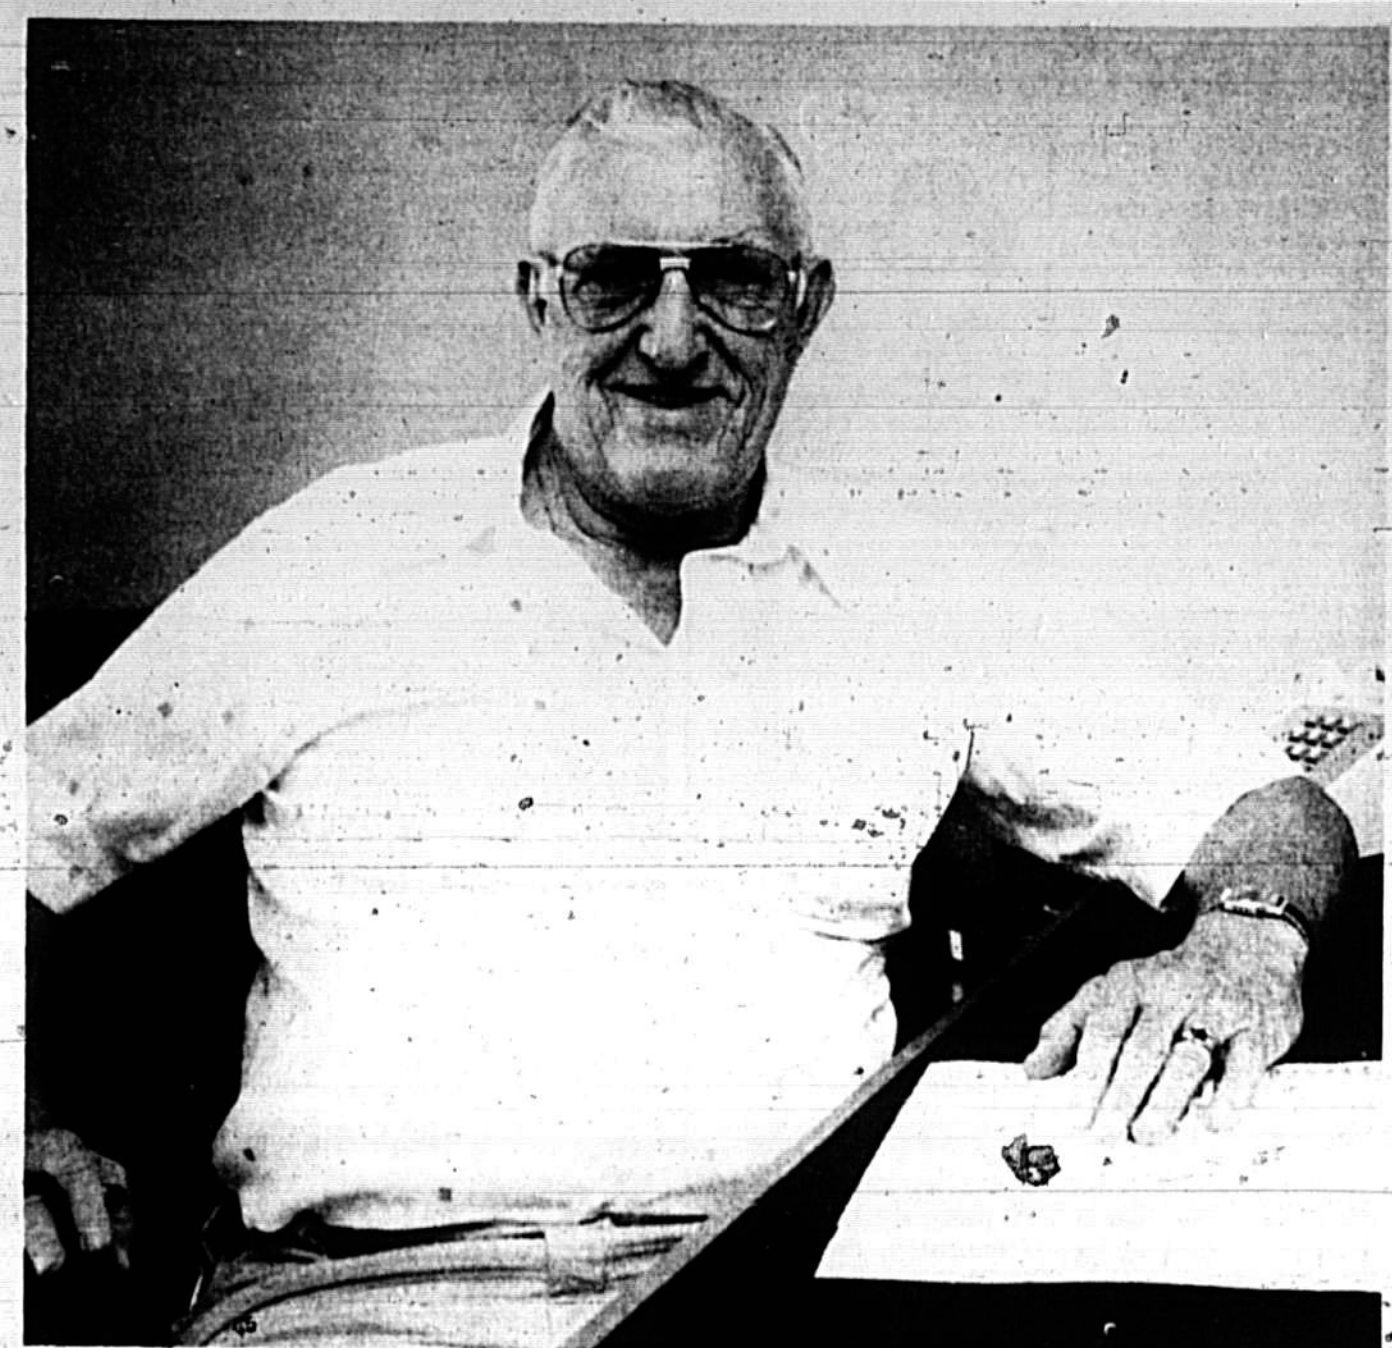

The Sound of Sunshine Chapter members of Sweet Adelines will be hosting a membership night July 17 at 8 p.m. at their regular Thursday night meeting place, St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, 9913 Bear Lake Road, Forest City. The evening's theme will be "Hitch Your Wagon To A Star" and will feature entertainment by seven "Kooky Quartets" and "Elocera." Refreshments will be served. The Chapter is looking for 20 new members to participate with the chorus in upcoming shows and in the Regional Competition. For information contact Sharon Aagaard, 298-2220, or Florence Korgan, 322-2524.

Summer Exhibit At Museum

The Summer Exhibit Program at the Cornell Fine Arts Museum, located on the Rollins College campus, will be on display through Sept. 14. Highlight of the display is ten large illuminated shadow boxes depicting events in the life of George Washington. The boxes are complemented by portraits and original signatures of the Presidents of the United States. Running concurrently with the shadow boxes is an exhibit of 75 posters produced during World War I by America and her Allies. Hours are Tuesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 1:00 to 5 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Harry Smith decided to stay in the army after World War II. But in 1950 he had an unwelcome surprise. 'I was one of the first to get called for the Korean War,' he said.

Work In Recreation A Far Cry From War

Harry Smith: City of Sanford's Superintendent of Recreation.

By TOM NETSEL
Herald Staff Writer
Anyone who has ever played ball in one of the numerous city leagues, checked out a set of horsehoes at the Sanford Recreation Department, or even attended a Little League game, has been certain to come across a big white-haired man overseeing the activity.

He is Harry Smith, who, for the past 12 years, has been superintendent of Recreation for the City of Sanford. Working in the field of athletics would seem a natural endeavor for a man like Smith because at one time, he could have been a professional baseball player.

In 1939 Smith was being scouted by the Chicago White Sox when he was the catcher for his undefeated high school baseball team. The dollars then were not as impressive as the salaries offered ball players today, so Smith decided to continue his education.

A couple of years later World War II took Smith in another direction, keeping him busy in a military career that lasted 21 years.

Smith was in the Maritime Service during the early days of the war, but in 1944 he accepted a direct commission into the Army's newly formed transportation corps.

The Army was looking for experienced personnel to become harbor masters and to handle their own freighters delivering supplies to troops. Smith had partner ran off with most of the funds. Photographs of lions cover one wall of his home still. "I raised them to be super tame cats," he said. "We used lots of TLC (tender love and care) and they were remarkably gentle."

Even though his animals were almost regarded as house pets, they were still strong beasts and at times unpredictable. "They were super tame," said Towne, smiling behind his beard and moustache, "but I was mawled three times, leaped on by an elephant, kicked by a camel and had three bites by poisonous snakes. Of course, now I might cut off an arm with a bandsaw."

Towne came to Florida six years ago and turned his interest in animals and conservation into the art field. All of his sculpture is nature-oriented. He said there is a limitless variety of forms to be found in nature and "there is no end of opportunities in the art field."

By laminating sheets of plywood together, his pieces, once they are carved and polished, have a dramatic woodgrain and structural integrity not found in a solid piece of natural wood. "They are much stronger," he said. "They'll last a lifetime. Each is an heirloom item."

planned to work with the inter-island freighters since he had experience in the Maritime Service. The Army had other plans.

While in training Smith recalled how an officer came into the class looking for six volunteers for an amphibious training regiment. "In those days in the Army," he said, "no body ever volunteered for anything."

He came back the second day still looking for six volunteers, but got no takers. On the third day he came back still looking for his six volunteers, only this time he said if he did not get them he had the names of the six youngest officers in the class. "That's how I got into that," Smith said.

Instead of stepping freighters, Smith found himself assigned to a Duck, a small craft with wheels that could be driven on land or water.

In the Pacific theater of the war, Smith loaded and unloaded supplies on 11 different islands often under enemy fire. In the Marianas Islands Smith recalled delivering a 105 mm howitzer on the island of Tinian. The lighting was heavy but Smith wanted to deliver it to the troops at the front. "When I asked where the front lines are," he said, "they told me to drop it right there on the beach."

In the final days of the war the U.S. was making its big push to Japan with almost nonstop air raids on the island nation. Guam was an important air base in that operation and bombs were in constant demand. "We were taking bombs directly from the ships to the planes," Smith said, even though the Ducks were not designed for that type of service.

Smith decided to stay in the army after. But in 1950 he had an unwelcome surprise. "I was one of the first to get called for the Korean War," he said. "I think the war started on the 25th of June, 1950, and the first week in July I was on my way, two weeks after it started."

In Korea Smith was given something a little larger than the amphibious Ducks he had in W.W.I. This time he spent much of his time loading and unloading ammunition ships. "Ammo," he said, shaking his head, "I tell you it's nothing to fool around with."

Smith is modest when it comes to talking about it, but the Army thought he did such a good job in loading the ships in Japan, taking them to Korea and unloading the explosive cargo, they awarded him the Bronze Star for meritorious service.

After hostilities ceased, Smith spent some time in Japan before being sent to Spain where he was Part Commander in Barcelona for three years. The U.S. was building several bases in Spain at that time and the post was a busy with incoming building supplies. "The film makers were also busy in Spain," recalled Smith, and he met several celebrities, including Artie Shaw, Gina Lollobrigida and Ingrid Bergman.

Communicating by telephone in Spain often posed problems for the American Consul General in Barcelona. See FAR CRY, Page 2B

Nature Lover Turns Interests To Wildlife Sculpture

He has always had a strong interest in animals and that interest has manifested itself in different ways.

First, he was a professional trapper, hunter and guide in the wilderness areas of Illinois and Michigan.

From hunting animals he turned to protecting them and for seven years he was the director of a zoo in the Midwest.

Then to further support his conservation activities, he opened a tourist attraction displaying lions and other big cats. Working with the cats as a trainer and handler, he used the money from the attraction to breed endangered species and to help protect them from extinction. With such a background it would seem strange that today Charles Towne is an artist living and working in Forest City, but visiting his workshop and home on the corner of Forest Lake Drive and State route 436, it is easy to see he still had a deep love and interest in wildlife.

Towne works in wood, usually laminated plywood, and the pieces he carves are usually birds, fish and other forms of wildlife.

Towne's career change came about six years ago. He had to sell his big cats and close his attraction when a partner ran off with most of the funds. Photographs of lions cover one wall of his home still. "I raised them to be super tame cats," he said. "We used lots of TLC (tender love and care) and they were remarkably gentle."

Even though his animals were almost regarded as house pets, they were still strong beasts and at times unpredictable. "They were super tame," said Towne, smiling behind his beard and moustache, "but I was mawled three times, leaped on by an elephant, kicked by a camel and had three bites by poisonous snakes. Of course, now I might cut off an arm with a bandsaw."

Towne came to Florida six years ago and turned his interest in animals and conservation into the art field. All of his sculpture is nature-oriented. He said there is a limitless variety of forms to be found in nature and "there is no end of opportunities in the art field."

By laminating sheets of plywood together, his pieces, once they are carved and polished, have a dramatic woodgrain and structural integrity not found in a solid piece of natural wood. "They are much stronger," he said. "They'll last a lifetime. Each is an heirloom item."

Towne finds his work satisfying though he said he would like to destroy most of the things he did several years ago, and would probably feel the same a few years from now about the work he is doing today. "I don't want to be a Michelangelo or a Da Vinci; I want to be known as a Charles Towne. I want my work to be recognized as Charles Towne Originals."

Towne has also used his work to make statements for conservation in other ways. On the lawn of his home is a large three-headed dragon which might easily be termed a traffic stopper.

The dragon was meant as a spoof directed at the Army's Corps of Engineers, an organization for which Towne has little regard. "Everything the Corps of Engineers touches turns to mud," he said. "They may have done something beneficial, but the corps has done more harm than good."

Like a dragon with threeheads - Towne's is named Apollon meaning "The Destroyer" - the Corps of Engineers he feels, has an insatiable appetite and is never satisfied.

The Cross Florida Barge Canal is a prime example of their "family planning," he said. "They don't give a damn

Photos Of Ex And Wife Irk Divorcee

DEAR ABBY: We were both kids when we married. We didn't have a pot to cook in or a window to throw it out of, but we were in love.

Dear Abby

He was ambitious, smart as they come, and worked like a horse. I did all the things a good wife should do, including raising three nice kids practically single-handedly while my husband was all over the map on business most of the time.

To make a long story short, we sort of drifted apart. Twenty years later he was a multimillionaire, and we were living in different worlds. That's when he asked for a divorce. He said there wasn't anybody else—he just wasn't "happy."

Well, I wasn't going to hang onto a man who didn't want me, so I didn't fight it. My lawyer got a much better settlement than I asked for or expected, so I am well provided for financially. I've been alone for four years. He is now married to a younger, stylish woman who is very pretty and active socially. I frequently see her picture (usually with him) in the society section of the newspaper. Abby, every time I see a picture of that woman with my ex-husband, I get so upset I have to go to bed for a week!

I would cancel my subscription to the paper, but I love your column. What should I do?

DEAR JEALOUS: Don't cancel your subscription. Just quit reading the society section.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a neighbor who brings her dog next door to do his business on MY lawn—and on a leash yet!

That dog's urine has burned white spots all over my lawn. Her lawn is lush, green and perfect. I would give her a piece of my mind, but I don't have the nerve.

FUMING DEAR FUMING: I think your neighbor has a lot of nerve and you don't have enough.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 21-year-old unmarried woman. Whenever I travel on a bus or plane, I enjoy conversing with the person sitting next to me. It's easy to strike up a conversation. I just introduce myself, then I'm asked where I'm going, and what for, etc. Well, Abby, I've got this terrible habit of making up the most fantastic stories. I never lie to people I know, but just let me start talking to a stranger on a bus, and I start to spin the most outrageous yarns. I even amaze myself. I suppose it's just a matter of time before I meet one of these fellow travelers and get tripped up in my lies.

I keep promising myself I'll quit making up stories, but the first chance I get, I do it again. What's wrong with me?

STORYTELLER DEAR TELLER: Probably nothing more than a lively imagination and a strong desire to exercise it. Why not try your hand at creative writing? It will fulfill your urge to fantasize without telling lies.

As a lover of nature and a man who respects the wilderness, Towne hopes to build an appropriate respect for nature in today's young people. "Appreciation of nature has to be taught," he feels. "It doesn't come naturally; kids have to be taught."

Towne escorts groups on canoe trips on the St. Johns and Wekiva rivers and tries and tries to teach them to appreciate the wilderness. "The wildlife in the Wekiva area is magnificent," he said. He has spotted blue herons, egrets, raccoons, armadillos, snapping turtles, alligators, deer, ospreys and even black bears and eagles.

A trip into the wilderness can be soothing to the spirit, said Towne. Breaking away in a canoe is a way to relax that makes one feel closer to the Creator. "For jangled nerves, go to the river," he added.

Unfortunately many parks and recreational areas are being spoiled with trash and litter. It is getting to be that the national lower seems to be Kleenex in many parks, he said. He wishes more people would take the time to clean up after themselves.

Towne, a widower, is helped in his work by his two sons, Ted, 26, and Russ, 16. He finds his work satisfying and enjoys many outdoor activities. He works hard and though he has had setbacks, he keeps trying. "If a man works hard at whatever he does, he's got to be a winner. Winning may be a state of mind and not mean financial success," he said, "but you'll know you've done a job the best way you can." —TOM NIKSZE.

Mrs. True Honored On 80th Birthday

Looking far younger than her 80 years, Arolyn True, surrounded by a number of relatives, warmly greeted many friends at her birthday coffee, July 5, at the Lake Mary Presbyterian Church Educational Building.

Party hosts Mrs. Raymond (Pat) Fox was ably assisted by Lew Gleason, Dee Smith, Anna Mae Decker, Mary Terry, Elta Jane Keogh, Oladell Cochran, Lucretia Ball, Virginia Anderson and Betty Day.

The beautifully decorated table offered bottles punch along with many delicious "goodies".

A floral arrangement of daisies and baby's breath was sent for the occasion by Arolyn's grandsons, Brent, Bevan and Barrett. They are the sons of her daughter, Mrs. James (Charlotte) Basham. They all live in San Francisco and, unfortunately, were unable to attend.

Daughter Natalie and her husband Everett Dix of Daytona were accompanied by their sons, Michael Dix of Atlanta, Steven and wife Susie along with son, Mark, of Daytona, and Marty Dix, also of Daytona.

Among the 80 some guests attending the celebration was Mrs. W. E. (Betty) Baker formerly of Lake Mary who now lives in Maitland.

It was pleasant seeing Mrs. Raymond (Lurene) Ball greeting people at the guest register and I was most happy to meet their daughter, Mrs. Tyler (Betty) Dedman.

Betty is leading an exciting existence in Lisbon, Portugal where her husband is Rear Admiral in charge of the NATO command. Lena Elith, Isabella Thompson, the Gleasons, Keoghs, Smiths and everyone in general seemed to welcome this event as a good time to enjoy chatting.

A flower decorated basket gathered many cards for Arolyn to enjoy later.

Many happy returns, Arolyn! Welcome to Lake Mary!

FSU Honor Student Earns As He Learns

Charles Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jackson, 109 Scott Drive, Sanford, is getting practical experience while attaining academic excellence.

Jackson is a second quarter junior at Florida State University in Tallahassee, with major in public relations and minor in marketing with a special interest in journalism.

He is getting practical experience by serving as public relations director for the Church of God Mission in Tallahassee, and as a newspaper staff reporter for the Watson Temple Church of God in Miami.

During Jackson's first quarter at FSU he was named an active member of the Public Relations Student Society of America, Black Student Union, and Alpha Phi Omega National Service-Fraternity (APO) of which he is administrative secretary.

While plugging APO and maintaining his academic obligations at FSU, Jackson was named to attain an academic grade point average of 4.0. When asked how he did it he replied, "by praying and having faith."

He is a 1977 graduate of Seminole High School and a 1979 graduate of Tallahassee Community College where he received an Associate of Arts degree.

Miss Betty Jean Black, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Israel Black Sr., 415 East 9th St., Sanford, was united in holy matrimony, to Jeff Dorman, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Allen Dorman of Austin, Ala.

The couple repeated their vows before the Rev. Quincy L. Carwell. The bride was given in marriage by her godfather Theodore Martin, Shellah G. Black, served as matron of honor. Pilgrim Black, Jr. was best man.

The reception was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. I. Black Sr.

The bride is formerly from Sanford where she was employed as a typist at the Central Florida Migrant and Community Center, Inc. She was a member of The Hickory Avenue Church of God, where she was active as the church's correspondent and soloist with the church chorus. Miss Black was engaged in many community activities.

The bride and groom will make their home in Decatur, Ga.

The Clarks Entertained On Visit To Former Home

Viola and Woodrow (Vi) and Woody Clark of Hendersonville, N. C. arrived Friday to spend a few days in Sanford.

The Clarks lived in Sanford for many years and were both active as community leaders. Before moving to Hendersonville last year, Vi said they simply "could not stand the heat" in Florida but any longer.

Vi and Woody are making the home of Lucy and Bud Lauer, their former Sanford neighbors, their headquarters while in the city.

The layers entertained at a small dinner party for the Clarks Friday night. On Sunday Daphne and Hawkins Connelly will host another dinner party for the couple.

Vi, a past president of the Women's Club of Sanford, is also the honor guest at two other "do's" while in Sanford. Hostesses are Jerri Kirk and Dorothy MacHenry.

Carolyne Fole Zeonard, 18, has been crowned "Queen" of her school, Baldwin High, Jacksonville, according to her grandmother. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wittenmyer of Sanford.

Carolyne was selected queen from 1000 contestants. She also won first in the talent competition for her singing and dancing.

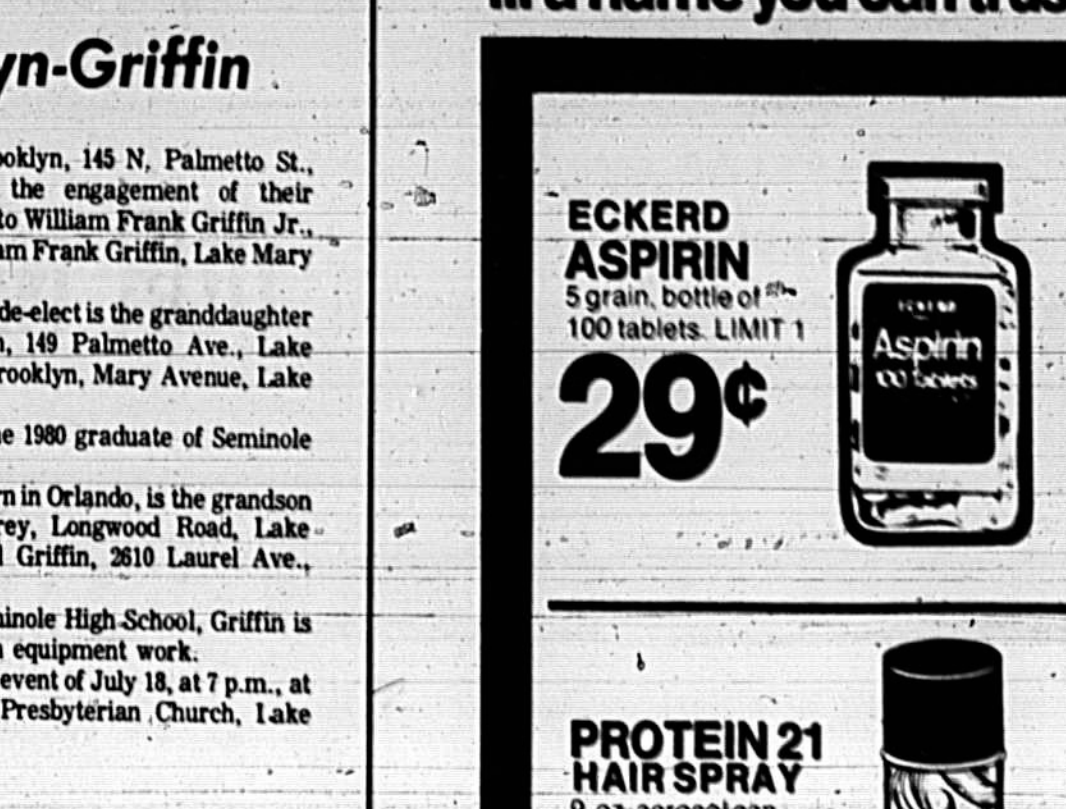

Surprise! Surprise! And that's how it was when Theresa Acosta popped in on her husband, Orlando. The setting was Lima, Peru.

According to Dean Clifford L. Eobanks, Ramon D. McGough Jr. made the Dean's List for the Spring Quarter at the University of Central Florida.

He is the son of Ramon D. and Julia McGough of Sanford, is a graduate of Seminole High School and is entering his senior year at UCF.

Chad Miller of Atlanta, Ga. has arrived to spend the summer vacation with his father, Le. C. Miller, Tina and Rusty at their Hidden Lake home.

Dean Named To Newest UCF College

Physicist Ralph A. Llewellyn of Indiana State University has been appointed Dean of the new College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Central Florida, UCF President Trevor Colburn has announced.

The plan is effective July 1. The appointment of Dr. Llewellyn, 47, was viewed "with great pleasure" by Colburn and Academic Vice President Leslie L. Ellis, who joined to express their gratitude to the selection committee of UCF for their dedication to the task. The search was nationwide in scope.

Llewellyn is expected to assume his new duties with UCF not later than Sept. 1. He has been chairman and professor of physics at the Terre Haute campus of Indiana State since 1973. Prior to that time, he served the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council in Washington, D.C., as executive secretary in the Board of Energy Studies and as staff officer with the Environmental Studies Board.

The new Dean graduated with high honors in chemical engineering from Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology and was awarded the Ph.D. in experimental nuclear physics by Purdue University in 1961. Beginning as an assistant professor in 1962, he had risen to chairman of physics and director of graduate studies at Rose-Hulman prior to moving to Indiana State University.

Donna Llewellyn and his wife, Laura, have four children, ranging from 28 to 18 years of age.

Youths Attend Music Camp. On Monday, five of the Sanford First Baptist Church's young people will be going to the Florida Baptist Youth Camp at Lake Yale Assembly.

Vacation Church School. Registration is being taken at the church office for the Vacation Church School to be held at the First Baptist Church of Sanford August 11-15 from 9 a.m. to noon (9-11 for preschoolers) for ages 3-11.

Ministers Elected. Dr. Virgil L. Bryant Jr., minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford, was elected to serve on the Synod Council at a meeting held June 24 in Titusville by the Presbytery of St. Johns and Presbytery of North Florida.

Programs For Youth Set. The Community United Methodist Church of Casselberry will hold a Vacation Bible School and Special Teen Program (STP) Monday through Friday of this week.

William Collins To Preach. Dr. William Collins will be preaching this Sunday at the 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services at the First Baptist of Deltona.

RELIGION. Bible Distributors Get Mixed Reception. Special to the Herald. Distribution representative for the Pakistan Bible Society, described an incident that illustrates how even potentially dangerous situations for Scripture distributors often turn out to have positive results.

Bible Illiteracy A Problem. Three examples of the Bible illiteracy which afflict us today: 1) A third-grader in Sunday School was asked, like the others in the class, to draw a picture of "What Easter Means to Me."

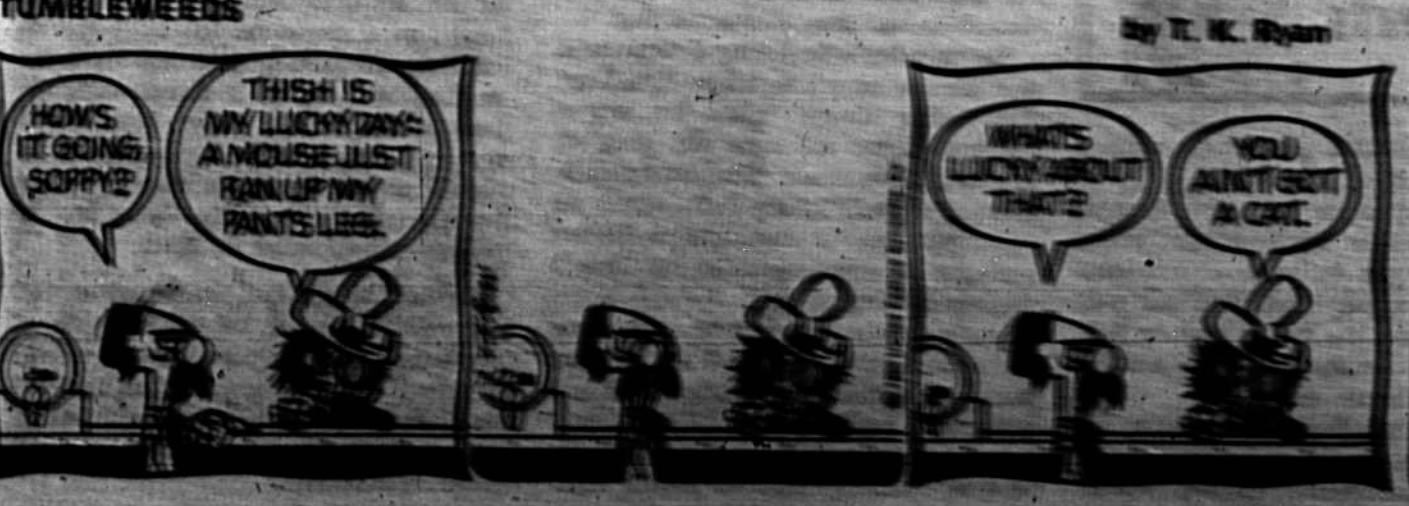

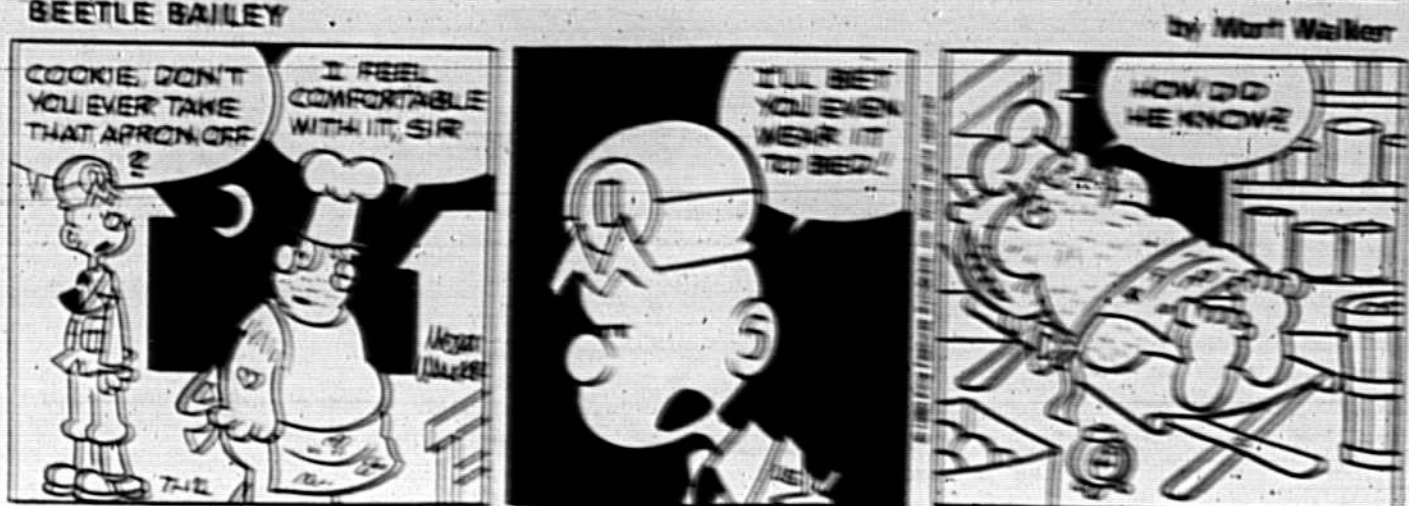

Saints and Sinners. George Plagenz. Illustration of a man and a woman. Text: 'The Bible does not disclose what the aged Abraham said when Sarah, his young wife, told him she was pregnant.'

Many Kinds Of Conscience. In his book of "Conscience" Thomas Baird deals with several kinds of conscience mentioned in the Word of God—the natural conscience (Romans 2:15), and a defiled conscience (Hebrews 10:22), a convicting conscience (Hebrews 10:22), a convincing conscience (John 8:9), a purged conscience (Hebrews 9:14), a pacified conscience (Hebrews 10:2), a good conscience (1 Peter 3:16), an answering conscience (1 Peter 3:21), a pure conscience (2 Timothy 1:3), a witnessing conscience (Romans 9:1), and a conscience void of offense (Acts 24:16) among others.

Captain J.B. Root Is Patriot's Day Speaker. Captain John B. Root Jr. will give the sermon at the 11 a.m. worship service at the Congregational Christian Church. The title will be "His Justice Cannot Sleep Forever." Assisting him will be his son, John B. Root, III, a student at Seton Law School.

District Methodist Men To Hear National Staffer. James H. Sned Jr., national staff person for the United Methodist Men, will be the speaker at the DeLand District United Methodist Men's Men's quarterly dinner meeting on Thursday, July 24, 6:30 p.m.

Forgive And Forget Or Suffer Heaviness Of Heart. QUESTION: I was cheated in a financial transaction by a person I thought was my friend. I've tried to forgive him, but my feelings just wouldn't let me forget what he did. Ever since that happened I've felt a heaviness of heart that takes all the joy out of living. Can you tell me how to get rid of this misery? ANSWER: We don't have to live with the heaviness of heart that unforgiveness causes. Our health, our productivity and our ability for living all depend on a joyful heart. So God has provided the wonder drug of forgiveness to restore our spirits to wholeness when we have been wronged, just as He has provided prayer and medicine to restore our bodies to wholeness when we are sick.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 13, 1980
Friends who will be thinking of you were so much to better your material outlook this coming year. They'll fill in the gaps you can't manage to on your own.

CANCER (June 21-July 21)
You're likely to fare better in venture with friends today than you are in things you attempt on your own. Unity offers both strength and success.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Your first thoughts are likely to be your best ones today, especially if they affect your work or career. If you find you have a good idea, do something about it.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Hours can be pleasantly and productively spent today on projects you deem to be labor of love. Seek expression for your imagination and creative talents.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Arrange your social activities today so that you can spend time with persons to whom you're really close. Family members would be ideal, if it's possible.

TALIBUS (April 20-May 20)
This is a good day to discuss issues important to you and your mate. Solutions that have evaded you can now be found.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You're a lot smarter in your year yesterday, so if there's a deal you'd like to renegotiate, get back to it.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Your partner opens one heart. You hold 5-4-3-2-1-0. What do you bid?

YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 14, 1980
This coming year will offer you a new beginning in an area that was difficult to tackle in the past. If you are patient and take each step in proper sequence, you'll come out ahead, but you may not get all you hoped for.

CANCER (June 21-July 21)
Assert yourself and don't put up with disruptions or irresponsible activities upsetting your busy schedule. Fully tell those who interfere that you don't have time for them today. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Box 483, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Cooling-off may be particularly appealing today. Much to your surprise, however, you'll gain little pleasure from it. Keep your nose to the grindstone.

TALIBUS (April 20-May 20)
If your plans require the participation of another, don't assume this person is lily swabbing you. Check things out and make the necessary arrangements.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Avoid trying to find a shortcut for an important task today. Rewards come from that which is done in a responsible, careful manner.

Altamonte Doctors Save Arm

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS, Fla. (UPI) — Two weeks ago 5-year-old Candy Turner's left arm was severed in an auto accident, but following a delicate operation there's a good chance she'll be able to use it again.

Dr. Jose Borrero said Candy is the youngest person he's ever operated on with a severed limb and probably the one of the youngest in the world to have suffered such a devastating injury.

He said Dr. James Urbach used a microscope to reattach the tiny nerves and blood vessels in the little girl's left arm and performed similar work on her right hand which was also mangled in the accident.

"What happened was that the left arm was just left dangling by a small strip of skin," he said. "The entire bone was shattered, the elbow was open and exposed, and all the muscles and blood vessels and nerves were shredded and torn out."

"The operating team at Florida Hospital Altamonte deserves a lot of credit for how they handled things for a girl of a night."

People Sizzle, Suffer In The Heat

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

It's been 18 days since the high temperature dipped below 90 degrees locally, and lots of local people are suffering from the heat.

"Especially those in Sanford and Midway areas," said Visiting Nurses Association nurse Meg Halverson. "A lot of them just don't have the money even to buy fans."

Halverson, who directs the north Semole visiting nurses, said several of her staff nurses have had to treat cases of heat stroke and heat exhaustion, especially among the elderly with no air conditioning.

"It's bad," she said. "A lot of people are suffering."

She added that she does not know of any community efforts to provide relief — in the way of fans or evacuation to emergency air conditioned shelters.

A spokesman for Herndon Ambulance said there has been a recent increase in the number of calls for heat exhaustion, but the exact number has not been tabulated. Victims of heat exhaustion are taken to a hospital for treatment.

Seminole Memorial Hospital Public Relations Director Kay Bartholomew said the hospital emergency department has been expecting an increase in heat-related illnesses, but so far it has not materialized.

Saturday, a 28-year-old Sanford man was brought in to the emergency room suffering from what may have been heat prostration.

Earlier, an elderly Sanford man collapsed while mowing his lawn and was dead on arrival at the hospital.

Doctors surmised, she said, that his condition was aggravated by the heat. But she pointed out that there are always several such cases in the summer.

"The doctors are urging people not to over-exert," she said. "Avoid exposure to the sun and maintain an adequate fluid intake."

Meanwhile, Sanford police have reported nine air conditioner thefts in the past week and weather experts see no relief from the high temperature for at least the next five days.

But, it's worse in other Florida communities, said John Newton, weather

"The heat's given me a lot of trouble with my eyes and under my arms. The water just runs off me. I got a fan but it ain't no good. It don't do nothing but blow hot air. I'm about to suffocate," Ethel Aytch, 52, sits in a chair with a fan at her feet but the heat makes her tin-roofed home in Midway feel like an oven. It is a small frame structure located at 2220 Church Street and while it has numerous windows, no air moves in Mrs. Aytch's living room. "Even with the windows and doors open, I just stay wet with water," she said. "I keep the fan on all night and anytime I wake up I have to take a towel and wipe it off."

Animals Sweating It Out, Too

Humans are not the only ones suffering from the record breaking heat in Central Florida. Many dogs left at home during the day and over weekends are falling victim to the high temperatures and lack of water.

Barbara Woodall, vice president and investigator for the Humane Society of Seminole County, reports that they are getting many more calls about animals suffering. "We're getting about 10 a month now," she said, while two calls is what they normally receive.

A big problem is with animals tied with a rope or chain getting it tangled around a pole or tree and then the animal cannot reach its water.

A continuing problem is people leaving their animals in parked cars while shopping. On a hot summer day the inside of a car heats up very rapidly and to leave an animal in any closed vehicle is extremely cruel. Even with the windows on each side left open four inches, it is still not enough, said a Society member.

The Society recommends anyone seeing an animal left without food or water, or left in a car to call the police or sheriff's department and report it. Such acts are punishable under Florida State Statute No. 828.13.

Barbara Woodall and others at the Humane Society of Seminole County make certain dogs in their care have plenty of fresh water and urge dog owners to do the same.

for them.

"In some cases, however, we've come in and removed some of the sand."

Schuder added that if the heat keeps up he expects problems with some recent pothole repairs that were made with a cold asphalt emulsion. This mixture tends to soften in the heat, he said.

"But unless they're sick, we don't expect any losses," he said.

"Most of our pastures are on lower ground and there's good quality grazing in the marshes when the water drops," he added. "Cattle get fat on marsh grass."

"They (cattle) don't like the heat," Jasa said, "but as long as they have shade somewhere they can survive all right."

Jasa said if the heat keeps up and cattle do not have shade, they will lose weight because they won't graze.

"Most of our pastures are on lower ground and there's good quality grazing in the marshes when the water drops," he added. "Cattle get fat on marsh grass."

Detroit Welcomes GOP To Coronation Of Reagan

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit offered a joyous welcome today to thousands of Republican National Convention delegates and a triumphant Ronald Reagan, arriving to claim without opposition the GOP's presidential nomination.

Not since it renominated Richard Nixon in Miami in 1972 has the Grand Old Party been so united behind a candidate. And it is a lot happier this year. Republicans admired and respected Nixon — but they love Reagan.

Discontent exists. Some GOP moderates worry about the conservative tilt the GOP is flaunting, both in its candidate and its platform, and there is discord in almost any discussion of possible vice presidential choices. But most concern is smothered by the prevailing optimism.

Since Reagan has no opposition, the only suspense is over his choice of a running mate — and that is mostly titillating, not fearsome.

The victorious Californian was arriving today to accept the crown and mantle Thursday. He confided to United Press International that he is balancing all the factors and covering enough ground in his vice presidential decision so later on, "I won't have to say I hadn't thought of that."

He acknowledged being under pressure on the choice, and said: "I must say I sometimes find myself wishing there was a different method of selection. It is going to be a tough job."

The first session of the 32nd GOP convention is to be called to order by Chairman Bill Brock of the Republican National Committee — himself under fire from party conservatives — and feature a series of convention "housekeeping" duties such as calling the roll, electing temporary officers and adopting rules.

And speeches, including those by Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., one of the top vice presidential prospects, and Anna Chennault, wife of the late World War II Flying Tigers hero Gen. Claire Chennault.

Cyclists Arrive In Sanford, Maine

Sanford's rolling ambassadors Rick and Tom Fowler pedaled their 10-speed bikes into Sanford, Maine, this morning and presented gifts from Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce to the Board of Selectmen chairman, who escorted them around town.

Jim Wallace, executive director of the Sanford (Maine) Chamber of Commerce, who described himself as Jack Horner's counterpart, said he and the selectman would be taking Rick, 21, and Tom, 17, to lunch today.

He said the boys, who have been on the road since they left home on June 7, and planned to be no worse for wear and equipped to continue their trip to Bar Harbor and Canada before returning home by the latter part of this month.

The cyclists are the sons of Mrs. Constance Fowler of 308 W. 15th St., Sanford.

Abduction Victims Coming Here

A New Tribes Mission couple en route to Sanford were reunited Sunday morning with their three missing small children in Birmingham, Ala., after five frantic hours of searching.

The youngsters, abducted while sleeping in their parents' car in Birmingham early Sunday, were later found by police unharmed and eating sandwiches at the home of a local minister.

The youngsters — Brent Lauffer, 19 months, Sharon Lauffer, 5, and Kenneth Lauffer, 7 — are the children of the Rev. Douglas Lauffer and his wife of Rochester, Pa.

The Lauffers were en route from Memphis, Tenn., to Sanford, Fla., for a visit with relatives and a stop at the headquarters of the New Tribes Mission church.

Council Meets Tonight

Sanford Mulls Flood-Prone Areas

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford City Commissioners, at a 7 p.m. meeting today, will consider adopting an ordinance designating areas around the city's lakes and near the city ditch on the west side of the city as "flood prone."

The areas have been designated by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers following a survey. The ordinance must be adopted to continue the eligibility of builders in the city of Sanford for Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and Veterans Administration (VA) financing for their developments and flood insurance.

The city commission, if it approves the Army Corps of Engineers' proposal, will set a public hearing on the issue and instruct its staff to prepare an ordinance.

A Sept. 17 deadline for passage of the ordinance has been set by the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Bill Brackland, the city's building official, said increase in building costs in the areas deemed flood prone by the Corps of Engineers could range from $1,104 to $6,544 for a $30,000 home. He said his estimated increase in building costs do not include costs for stairs or for utilities that must be brought from grade. In addition, piling and post figures will vary with depth because of local soil conditions, floor loads and engineering costs.

Brackland said costs of building slabs on grade could rise from 92 cents per square foot to $4.82 depending on the method of construction used.

Brackland said the city has been operating under temporary flood-prone property regulations. The new flood-prone property designations to be adopted will be a permanent ordinance.

City Manager Warren Knowles, in a letter to the federal agency, complained that flood data provided the city by federal agencies is "inaccurate and of sorry engineering." Knowles, an engineer, said the flood data was "apparently done from office maps and a desk with only general relationship to the existing facts."

Knowles said he had corresponded with regional federal representatives and was "stonewalled" and felt it was "useless to pursue further any city attempt to make a good federal program accurate."

"It's a shame that our experience with this program supports the caricature of a mismanaged, bungling, government program," he said.

The city was criticized by the federal agency for not adopting a program sooner. The Corps of Engineers map to be used by the city becomes effective in September.
