Florida International Festival

DAYTONA BEACH - The London Symphony Orchestra (LSO) will return to Daytona Beach at the Florida International Festival, July 23 through Aug. 8.

There will be more than 80 events at the festival, including blues, comedy, jazz, cabaret, acting and dance performances. The LSO has performed more concerts in Daytona Beach since 1966 than any other place outside of London.

The first of the LSO Classical Concerts, July 31 at 8 p.m., features duo pianists Anthony and Joseph Paratore, and will include works by Berlioz, Poulenc, Debussy and Stravinsky.

Tickets to all Florida International Festival events range from $6 to $55. Prices vary by event. To purchase tickets or for a free brochure, call the Florida International Festival Box Office at (904) 257-7790 between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Requests for information may also be e-mailed from the festival's web site, www.fif-iso.org.

Public hearing

ORLANDO - The Department of Elder Affairs will host a Public Hearing Monday, June 28 at Beardall Senior Center in Orlando to obtain input on the agency's plan for elder services in Florida.

The hearing begins at 9:30 a.m. Dr. Gema Hernandez, Secretary of the Department of Elder Affairs, and her top administrators, will be present. The Department of Elder Affairs has developed a strategic plan, covering 1999-2004, to identify issues, goals, objectives and strategies consistent with the department's mission and the governor's five pillars of the "Golden Choices" program. The pillars allow for elders to: age in place, age in an elder-friendly environment, age with security, age with purpose and age with dignity.

For more information about the hearing or for a copy of the agency plan, please call (407) 228-1803.

Daly ponders legal action against foes

Claims Longwood officials want to curb First Amendment rights

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

Jim Daly not only plans to defend himself against the Longwood City Commission's move to oust him from all city boards, he plans to sue.

"The first amendment right of free speech is among one of the defenses I'm going to use against the accusations against me," said Daly. "We're going to sue for defamation of character, libel, slander, we're going to throw the book at them. They've gone too far."

Daly's escalation of legal action is the latest fallout from a verbal confrontation he had with two members of Longwood's Charter Review Committee on April 28 following the official adjournment of that meeting.

He became embroiled in a heated argument with committee members Butch Bundy and Lynette Dennis. Since that time Dennis and Henry have petitioned the city commission to have Daly removed from all city boards.

The commission passed a resolution May 24 to conduct a public hearing on the matter, stating that Daly's behavior may constitute malfeasance and grounds for suspension or removal from municipal boards. That public hearing is scheduled for Monday, June 21, at 6 p.m. at Longwood city hall commission chambers.

"We're bringing witnesses and a court reporter," indicated Daly. "My words were spoken in anger after the meeting was over. Now they're trying to hurt me. They've pushed me too far."

Daly's attorney, Joe Rosier, was more reserved in his approach to the impending public hearing.

"I never like to telegraph a punch," said Rosier. "The results of our legal See Daly, Page 7A"

County promises $1.5 million tax rebate in budget

By Russ White
Staff Writer

SANFORD - Seminole County Commission Chairman Carlton Henley had two objectives in the week-long budget work sessions that concluded Friday — provide residents a tax rebate and negate posturing by individual commissioners.

At 3:30 p.m. Friday, Henley was smiling. The commission unanimously approved a $438.6 million budget for 1999-2000 that will provide in some fashion a $1.5 million rebate to tax payers.

Commissioner Daryl McLain had planned as much as a $5 million rebate, and Commissioner Grant Maloy $3 million (half of which would go to tax payers, the other half to road improvement).

Commissioner Randy Morris suggested the commission allow county staff to go with the budget it had recommended.

"This is their budget, we set policy," he said. "I believe it's a mistake for us to dictate to them. It's their mission. Let them carry it out."

Morris yielded, however, when Henley suggested a $1.5 million rebate to please everyone.

"We'd love to be able to do more," Henley said. "But what we have here is realistic. There See Rebate, Page 3A"

Sanford fireworks planned for July 4

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD - The traditional Fourth of July celebration at Fort Mellon Park will feature live music, 20 minutes of fireworks, and plenty of food.

MIX 105.1 and Power 105.9 will choreograph music simultaneously with the fireworks. The music will be broadcast live by the two radio stations during the display. The 20-minute display will begin at 9 p.m. "It's going to be a long fireworks display," said Linda Kuhn, executive director of Sanford Main Street, the organization coordinating the festivities. "They're going to be fantastic. What's great about this is that it's one of the things Sanford is known for."

Festivities will begin at 5 p.m., July 4. Vendors will serve hot dogs, popcorn, cotton candy, ice cream and drinks.

"It's going to be a good, old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration," Kuhn said. "I can See Fireworks, Page 7A"

Double Ot Elementary School?

Millennium theme dominates proposed names for school

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD - In the mid-21st Century, parents may need to explain to their children why they attended Y2K Elementary School.

That is one of many names proposed for the new elementary school in Oviedo scheduled to open during the 2000-2001 school year.

In addition to discussing proposed names, the Seminole County School Board is also expected to approve school improvements on Tuesday.

The board advertised for ideas to name the new Oviedo elementary school, and there are no shortage of gems. Many names relate to the year the school will open, such as Century Elementary, Oviedo 00 Elementary, Oviedo 2000 Elementary and Oviedo Double Ot Elementary School.

Many ideas for the school's name draw from history, such as Martin Luther King Jr. Elementary, and Bartram Elementary, in reference to the man who charted Florida in the 1700's, William Bartram.

The school could be named in honor of environmentalist leaders. Ideas for the school's name include Audubon Elementary and Douglas Elementary, in honor of Marjorie Stoneman Douglas, an Everglades environmentalist.

The new elementary school will be on Chapman Road. Some suggest the school should be named Chapman Elementary.

The school could be named for Clem Boyer, a math coordinator with the school district. Others have suggested naming the school for Oviedo Mayor Miriam W. Bruce, businessman and com- See School, Page 7A

Our View

It starts with us

Curbing school violence won't happen unless the entire community becomes involved

Testimony presented in Sanford this week at the Senate Task Force on School Safety was sobering. Our campuses have become armed camps. Increasing numbers of our students have traded bookbags for bombs, homework for guns, and group outings for gang membership; Meanwhile, our teachers have been forced to swap education for crowd control.

A lame duck president waives violent comic books at staged press conferences and chastises his Hollywood buddies for making nasty movies that contribute to a societal and cultural quagmire that has run amok.

It's time to take a deep, long look in the mirror and fess up. We've kicked God out of the classroom and taken the paddle out of the principal's hands. To borrow from the Pogo comic strip, "We have met the enemy, and they is us."

There's plenty of equitable blame to go around. A generation of parents has abandoned their children in pursuit of the almighty dollar, fancy sport utility vehicles, cell phones and country club memberships. In addition, educational "experts" are selling us snake oil in the form of educational theory and policy that leans too heavily on touchy-feely approaches. We have abandoned the core concepts of reading, writing, and arithmetic for ill-conceived junk education that pumps a false sense of self esteem up the skirts and pant legs of our kids.

And too many of our school children have exchanged the concepts of character, integrity, self respect and good citizenship for an "in your face" attitude and total disregard for authority. They learned that from us and our actions and activities. We didn't get here overnight, and we didn't arrive at this point singularly.

If we are the architects of educational disarray, we must likewise be the brick masons of our own educational reclamation. Money alone, no matter how big the local, state or federal education budget, can fix it. Dollars tend to treat the symptoms while neglecting the disease.

Maybe Hillary Rodham Clinton was right. It does take a village to raise a child, and its high time we got our village in order.

Our recipe for educational hope? Parents who practice, not preach quality time. An educational curriculum that challenges and rewards, and abandons social promotion for students who have not earned educational promotion. And our students taking responsibility for their own actions, good and bad.

Day by day and bit by bit we have collectively driven public education to this point. Day by day and bit by bit we can collaboratively put it back together. If we choose to make these tough decisions and have the intestinal fortitude to do so.

The Meter

Who measured up and who came up short? The Meter takes the weekly vital signs of the county to discover who's got their mojo working. Oh, behave baby!

Smooth sailing: Seminole County Commissioners got through the annual budget tug-of-war without too much political damage. And they finally approved a courthouse expansion plan.

Safe places: The state Senate task force for school safety has the right idea, and for once they're doing more listening than talking. But after the public hearings are over, they'll need to walk the walk. The time to feel our pain has past.

It all adds up: Michael Jordan exhorted us to "Just do it." Now Seminole Community College's Bill Jordan has defined what "it" is — the math. By demanding his students "do the math," Jordan wins regional and national awards, and in the process proves that math still counts.

Roadblock on Main Street: Sanford Main Street Director Linda Kuhn has done a poor job promoting the program, especially to County Commission. Though commissioners eventually tossed her a meager $10,000, they pointedly questioned the effectiveness of the program.

Preach on: They promised to be low key this year, but the Southern Baptists couldn't make it through its annual convention without damning homosexuals. Can't wait to see what happens next year when the traveling tent rival sets up camp in Orlando, home of the forbidden Mouse.

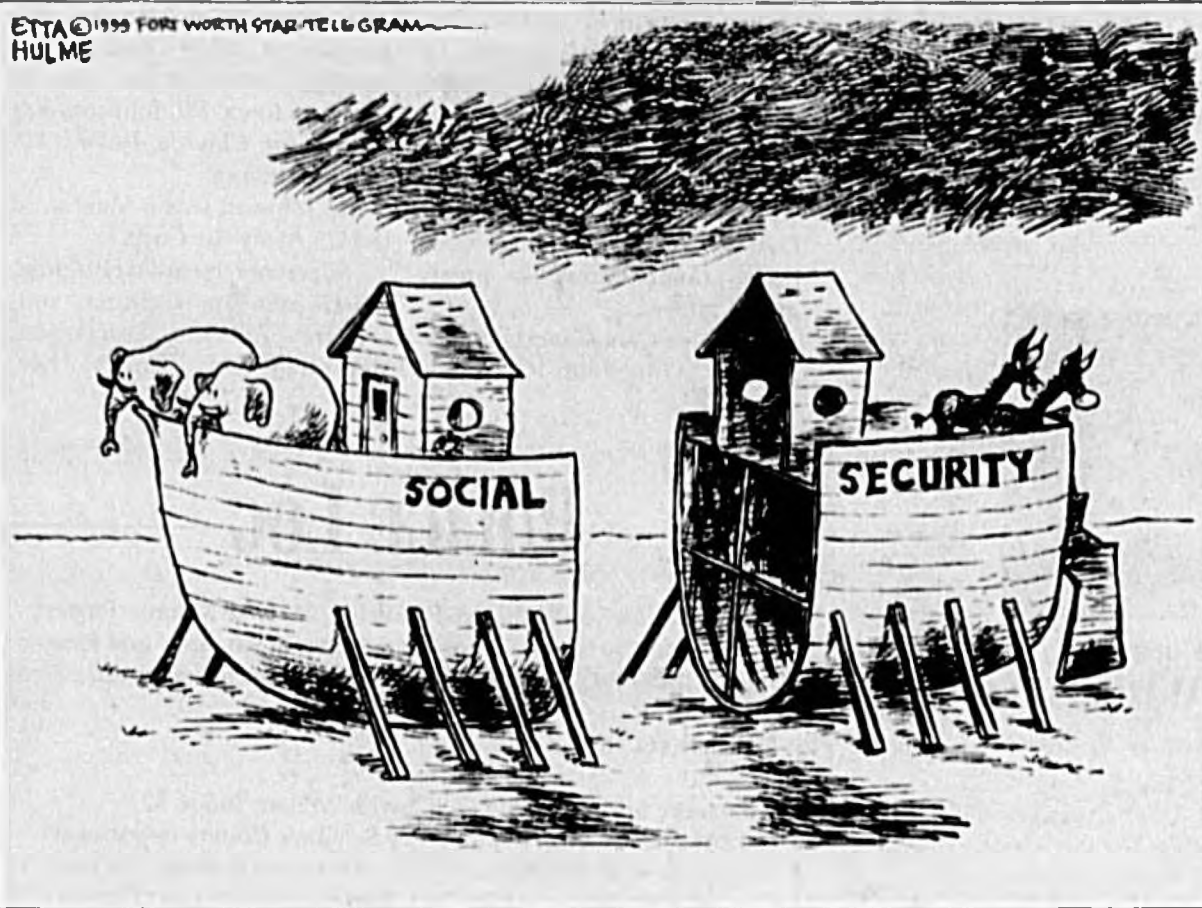

Not so high society: They couldn't win an election, so the Society for the Preservation of Fort Mellon Park is using legal shenanigans to hold up the Sanford hotel and conference center project. This society's wine is sour. Mayor Larry Dale is trying to drag the city into the '90s. Please get out of his way.

Beat it: As if our men in blue didn't have enough to worry about, local statistics show assaults on police officers are increasing. The cops are supposed to work their beats, not be beaten by their work.

School board should 'park' fee increase

To the Editor:
June 8, 1999. My first school board meeting. I had read student parking fees were going to be increased from $10 to $70 a year to help pay for a parking security officer. Thinking this wasn't a "correct" action, I filled out a "request form," and waited to speak.

When I concluded, the chairman of the school board, Mr. Larry Furlong, made reference that this fee (a.k.a. tax) may be illegal, and advised the audience that he would want this proposal researched. He "wasn't comfortable" with it. Board member Diane Bauer agreed that without information and data to review, she could not support it.

Not Bob Goff, who made a motion to increase the parking fees to $70. He then stated "It's stupid for assistant principals to be out in the parking lot" and a "waste of their time." I don't know how administrators can learn the "pulse" of their school sitting behind their desk. Maybe I'm wrong. The fact here is that Mr. Goff, and two members chose to ignore Mr. Furlong and Mrs. Bauer. The proposal, and student "tax," passed, 3-2.

Is it now the financial responsibility of our children to pay for increases in Family values or self-righteousness?

Public confirmation of Mississippi Gov. Kirk Fordice's long-running extramarital affair exposes yet another holier-than-thou, family-values-crusading, bring-back-the-1950s politician as a hypocrite. When will elected officials learn the folly of castigating others for moral failings that they themselves share?

Fordice is furious about the intense scrutiny to which his private life has been subjected, but it's his own fault. Like too many others — the self-righteous Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., former Louisiana Republican Rep. Robert Livingston — Fordice invited coverage of his personal life by being so critical about the personal lives of others.

In two campaigns, Fordice announced himself a symbol of family values and courted religious conservatives. He was a harsh and unrelenting critic of Clinton's extramarital affair with Monica Lewinsky, saying the president should resign. Back then, Fordice had a different view about press coverage of politicians' private lives, saying, "I think when folks enter public office, they're due all the scrutiny they get."

Fordice, by the way, is also national campaign co-chairman for Dan Quayle, who is running on a family-values platform. That poses more than a little embarrassment for Quayle.

The latest twist in Mississippi's favorite soap opera came this month, with a flurry of news reports that Fordice had vacationed in France with a woman to whom he was not married. The revelations forced him to announce that he will divorce his wife of 44 years and marry Memphis widow Ann Creson, his junior high sweetheart, with whom he has been linked over recent years. Creson's husband of 43 years, Roy Franklin Creson Jr., died in November.

Immediately after Fordice's announcement, Quayle came to his defense, stating that he was looking forward to Fordice's support. A few days later, Quayle canceled a planned June 23 campaign trip to Mississippi.

Even a numbskull like Quayle should have known better than to choose Fordice as a national co-chairman. The Mississippi governor has sent many signals that he was living a lie, at times behaving as if he wanted to be caught in a

Unequal justice under a bad law

The Supreme Court's ruling last week (June 14) that Operation Rescue founder Randall Terry and other pro-life activists must pay about $600,000 in fines and attorneys fees for blocking New York City abortion clinics 10 years ago may be cause for the National Organization for Women Legal Defense and Education Fund to celebrate, but the ruling could come back to haunt them and other liberal causes.

The Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances Act (FACE), passed in 1994 by a Democratic Congress and signed by a Democratic president, unfairly singles out a single issue — abortion — and makes certain forms of protest against it a federal crime. Yet no federal restrictions were placed on blocking the South African Embassy in Washington during anti-apartheid demonstrations. If such a law had been in place during the civil rights movement, owners of segregated lunch counters could have sued for damages to their businesses by black customers who were refused service and would not leave. Vietnam war protesters might have been fined for occupying government buildings or sitting in at Dow Chemical, a company that made napalm used in bombs that burned the skin off human beings, as certain abortion procedures burn the skin off unborn babies.

State and local trespass laws are sufficient to deal with the occupation of private and public property, but because the Democratic Congress wanted to make a statement about abortion, it unwisely built a federal legal fence around abortion clinics designed to keep people who regard the procedure as murder at a distance.

Pro-choicers should be concerned about the future. Suppose Roe vs. Wade is eventually overturned. Suppose that a pro-life Congress and a pro-life president restrict pro-choicers from civil disobedience against new abortion restrictions. The courts and Congress might see a precedent in what pro-choicers did with FACE.

Nonviolent civil disobedience is part of America's heritage. It is a way to heighten awareness on issues with a moral component. When citizens observe people willing to give up school security? Isn't this a budget issue? Where is the fairness? Wealthy children will just give the bill to their parents. Many students will have to work extra hours, at minimum wage, to pay the higher fees. Some may not be able to afford this extra cost.

It was stated that this "fee" is necessary, as a result of potential campus violence. We have prevention programs, such as W.I.S.E. (Weapons In School Eliminated), which are proven effective, at NO cost to students or taxpayers. If we have ways to keep schools safer, why not expand programs that already work, before we impose another expense?

We need the facts. How much revenue will be generated? What percentage of students involved are from each grade level? Which students must drive to work? Should grades and behavior prioritize the "right" to park? How many hours will this new security person work? Who watches the cars if (s)he "goes on break"? Are there other areas of the school this security guard will monitor? Is this about safety or "poor budgeting?"

Having recently attended the "Senate Task Force" on safe schools, fourteen speakers had various ideas for security, all for a "price." W.I.S.E. was the only program presented "without charge." I'd like to see our elected officials use prevention concepts that work, and "have the facts" before imposing "a children's tax."

Paul Gaipman

School board should 'park' fee increase

To the Editor:

After receiving a number of phone calls and inquiries from citizens disappointed about the City Commission's failure to adopt the Excessive Use of Public Safety Ordinance, I thought it was important to explain the outcome. With research and effort from our City Manager, the Finance Director and Chief Ray Bronson, we were able to craft an ordinance that would have been an excellent tool in improving the quality of life here in Sanford.

Contrary to what opponents of the ordinance claimed, citizens would NOT have been charged for calling the police. The ordinance was designed to reimburse ALL citizens of Sanford for the costs of policing properties that are allowed to deteriorate and destroy neighborhoods. More than 94 percent of all tax revenues are already spent in the police department, so spending more money on the problem is not an option. Many of these properties required our police department to respond more than 100 times each last year! One such property had 224 calls alone!

To tolerate this as a city amounts to nothing more than subsidizing the slumlord industry. Why do these properties exist? The main reason is that most of them are owned by absentee owners who have little regard for those that live near them. The curious thing about these property owners is that they only show a presence or concern on the first of the month, to collect rent. The rest of the month doesn't worry them because they're at home in their peaceful neighborhoods, miles from the property.

I'm fortunate to be surrounded by wonderful neighbors, but have met and seen too many people who aren't. I feel it is the city's primary responsibility to provide for the public's safety, and achieve this goal with all the innovative tools available. It is difficult to maintain this goal when a dozen or so property owners display a reckless disregard for the neighborhoods where they own property. This ordinance would have provided the "hammer" for a good start toward this end, and I was disappointed to see it fail. Irresponsible property owners may have won on Monday night, but the law abiding and courteous citizens of this beautiful city will have their day. The workbench of decency and responsibility contains more tools we will attempt to implement, and with your support, I know we'll be successful.

compromising situation. In 1993, he announced that he and his wife had "irreconcilable marital differences" and hinted at a divorce.

Indeed, he had told a reporter that he was in love with someone else. But his wife announced the next day that she had no intention of leaving the governor's mansion unless forced out, and a week later, they went public with what they characterized as a reconciliation.

In 1996, however, Fordice was seriously injured in a fiery, single-vehicle car crash on Election Day; he was driving alone, his normal state trooper escort nowhere in evidence. It was later reported that he had been in Memphis, where he had been spotted having lunch with — and holding hands with — a middle-aged woman. His wife was in France at the time.

Last month, it was revealed that Fordice had purchased a $230,000 home in the Jackson, Miss., suburbs without consulting his wife. "I knew it wasn't for me," Mrs. Fordice said at the time. "I've never been invited to the house."

As Fordice says, elected officials deserve a zone of privacy, but only as long as they don't campaign as sanctimonious representatives of moral rectitude while labeling opponents as sinners. When they stoop to that, they all but guarantee close examination of their own lives. Besides, it's not as though a huge constituency wants to hear politicians campaign as preachers.

So Quayle has a couple of choices here. He can give up the shallow centerpiece of his campaign: the idea that he should be elected president because of the fine family-values example set by him and his wife, Marilyn, and by their campaign spokespersons. Of course, that would require Quayle to find some relevant issues on which to run.

His other option is to dump Fordice and seek another symbol of family virtue to be national chairman. That's risky, though, given the record of family-values spokesmen.

their freedom, sometimes their lives, for a cause they regard as just, it can lead to changed attitudes and then changed laws.

Martin Luther King Jr. was a proponent of civil disobedience. He frequently wrote and spoke of the proper response to unjust laws. In "I Have a Dream: Writings and Speeches That Changed the World," James M. Washington, editor (Harper San Francisco, 1992), King noted: "Nonviolence offers a method by which (people) can fight evil with which they cannot live. It offers a unique weapon which, without firing a single bullet, disarms the adversary. It exposes his moral defenses, weakens his morale and at the same time works on his conscience."

No wonder pro-choicers had to shut Terry and his colleagues down. He was stealing their weapons.

Elsewhere, King noted there are just and unjust laws. What's the difference? "A just law is a man-made code that squares with the moral law or the law of God. An unjust law is a code that is out of harmony with the moral law Any law that uplifts human personality is just. Any law that degrades human personality is unjust. All segregationist statutes are unjust because segregation distorts the soul and damages the personality."

The same could be said of those who are segregated from the human family (the unborn) or by the content of their ideology (pro-life civil disobeyers).

King also observed that, "from a purely moral point of view, an unjust law is one that is out of harmony with the moral law of the universe." But what if people are largely out of harmony with such a moral law? How do you appeal to conscience when, for example, the economy is all that seems to matter?

You may not agree with the substance of the arguments or the behavior of groups such as Operation Rescue. You may feel it is important to be cautious in actions of civil disobedience, so that they do not encourage others to violence. Yet singling out a radical band of pro-lifers for special penalties is unjust. The issue should be revisited not only by a Republican Congress, but also by those who successfully used civil disobedience to advance their causes. If not, the tables may be turned when their "out-of-favor" issues are questioned.

Swaggerty Brothers earns Lake Mary landscape contract

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - The Lake Mary City Commission on Thursday awarded a contract to Swaggerty Brothers Landscape for Rinehart Road landscape maintenance.

Five companies provided proposals with the maintenance costs ranging from $56,520 to $85,638. Requests for Proposals were opened on May 19 for the landscape maintenance of Rinehart Road.

City staff recommended that the commission accept the proposal of Swaggerty Brothers based primarily on their current work at Timacuan, and their estimated cost of $61,450.

"They do a good job," said Lake Mary City Manager John Litton. "Timacuan is satisfied, and they have a good product."

Lake Mary's budget for the maintenance of Rinehart Road is $70,000. The City Commission agreed to a one year renewable contract with Swaggerty Brothers Landscape, Inc. for the landscape maintenance of Rinehart Road for an amount not to exceed $60,850.

Other clients of Swaggerty Brothers Landscape, in its eighth year of operation, include the Lake Forest Development, Timacuan, Sanford Landing, Remax Longwood, Middle Entrance Association, University Place, and six apartment complexes.

In other business news, the Lake Mary City Commission also approved site plan review with two variances for the construction of the Shaw Office Building on the corner of Fouth Street and Seminole Avenue.

The 4,000 square foot, two-story office building will sit on a 1/4 acre lot across from City Hall. The site presently has an existing residence that is to be enlarged and converted into the office building.

"We feel this certainly will benefit the residents of Lake Mary," Mayor David Mealor said.

The driveway at the site is one-way, with traffic entering at the southern-most curb-cut and exiting at the north. Two bicycle racks are provided at the northwest corner of the building.

Chamber works to build relationship with Mt. Dora

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD - While trying to build a relationship between Sanford and Mt. Dora, the Sanford/Seminole County Chamber of Commerce allowed the Mt. Dora Village Merchants Association to place a full page advertisement in the chamber's June newsletter.

Critics of the advertisement say that Sanford and Mt. Dora are competitors, not partners, and that the chamber should refrain from running an advertisement from the city's competition.

Ron Rose, executive director of the chamber, said that Sanford will benefit from a working partnership with the Mt. Dora community. He said both communities offer antique stores and fine dining, and that visitors from Mt. Dora can drive 30 minutes along State Road 46 to Sanford.

"We are working together with the common goal of attracting business away from the Orlando market," Rose said. "Our communities are so close, with similar attractions, that a partnership would benefit both communities. Regionalism and cooperation in partnerships is the future of business."

Rose said the Chamber is also a member of the Orlando/Orange County Convention and Visitors Bureau to draw business from the Orlando market. He said he hopes that critics of the Chamber will embrace the need to work together for the benefit of the city.

"This negativism has got to stop," Rose said.

Edgar Payne, chairman of advertising for the Mt. Dora Village Merchants Association, said that although there is not a formal partnership with the Sanford/Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, the two organizations are working together for the same goal of bringing business into their communities.

The Mt. Dora Village Merchants Association, a non-profit association of 100 store owners, is a member of the Sanford/Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

"We feel it gives us exposure to the Orlando Sanford Airport market," Payne said.

Payne said that the two communities are only 30 minutes apart along State Road 46, and he hopes people who visit one community will also visit the other.

"We offer many of the same attractions with the antique shops," Payne said. "The only thing Sanford really has that we don't have is the Seminole Towne Center (shopping mall)."

New gated community opens in Lake Mary

By Bill Kerns

LAKE MARY - A new 224-home gated community recently opened in Lake Mary.

Egret's Landing, located in the Chase Groves area of Lake Mary, held grand opening ceremonies June 6. Two families are currently living in the new community, and 29 homes have been sold.

Construction on the 224-home development will be complete in 24-to-30 months, according to Marilyn Anderson, marketing director of Engineered Homes, the company in charge of the development.

The community features a variety trees, landscaping, and a brick, gated entrance.

"We offer the combination of the exclusivity of living in a gated community with value of our prices," Anderson said. "It's a beautiful lifestyle."

The next phase of the Egret's Landing development will include an interactive swimming pool. Officials of Engineered Homes describe the pool as a children's playground on water.

The interactive pool has brightly colored pipes and a series of levers, poles and wheels that allow children to control the waterfall and spouts.

"It looks like a jungle gym," Anderson said.

The planned amenity package for the community will include an adult swimming pool and a children's playground. There will also be a cabana, which is a pavilion area that offers shading from the sun.

Prices for homes in Egret's Landing range from $110,000 to more than $180,000.

Egret's Landing features 15 different styles of three-, four-, and five-bedroom homes with one and two stories. Living areas range from 1,327 to 2,928 square feet.

One style of home at Egret's Landing is the two-story Poinciana with balcony. The home is a four-bedroom, 2 1/2-bath style featuring 2,580 square feet, 9-foot-6 inch ceilings, bonus room, breakfast nook, pantry, built-in entertainment center, and a three-car garage. It is priced at $164,990.

Egret's Landing is nestled in a heavily wooded area just south of Airport Boulevard on Old Lake Mary Boulevard. It is close to the Lake Mary/Heathrow business center, as well as Seminole Towne Center and the Orlando Sanford Airport. It will be within minutes of the planned Greenway expansion.

"(Homebuyers) not only want a quality constructed home but a quality of community and lifestyle as well," Engineered Homes President Igor Teplitzky said.

Commissioners cut funding for Sanford Main Street program

By Bill Kerna
Staff Writer

SANFORD - Sanford Main Street will receive $10,000 from the county, but the message from Seminole County Commissioners is clear. The program will need to look elsewhere for funding next year.

The commission granted $10,000 to Main Street on Friday from Economic Development Council funding, far less than the $35,000 Main Street requested. On Wednesday, the commission had denied funding for Main Street, saying it is not appropriate for the county's grant program.

"I am very thankful that they are giving us $10,000," said Linda Kuhn, executive director of Sanford Main Street. "I can understand that they want us to be more creative in seeking funding. We need to start looking at other grants."

Sanford Main Street, a non-profit organization established to benefit Sanford's downtown area, received grants from the county for the last four years.

The program also received $25,000 from Sanford this past year. The city's budget hearings are scheduled to start July 6. In addition, Main Street receives private donations and holds fund raising activities.

Kuhn said the program has enough funds to operate for another year. After that, Main Street will need additional funding from grants, donations and fund raisers.

"The whole purpose of our program is to improve downtown," Kuhn said. "Whether it's through street fests, fireworks, banners, a Farmer's Market we want to start, we're doing everything we can do."

Main Street is sponsoring the Fourth of July Fireworks show at Fort Mellon Park, with the city, county and private corporations providing funding.

The program will seek private donations for a set of 18 holiday banners to hang on light poles along Sanford's First Street. The set would cost $650.

Main Street is sponsoring street festivals in downtown Sanford on the third Saturday of every month through October.

On July 30, Main Street will sponsor a concert in Magnolia Square, presented by the London Symphony Orchestra. The performance will last from 6 to 8 p.m.

Main Street is also working with merchants to bring a Farmers Market into downtown Sanford. The City Commission has not taken action yet on Main Street's Farmer's Market proposal.

Kuhn's salary is $32,500, without benefits.

The county is proposing a $438.6 million budget for 1999-2000. The commission has directed staff to cut $1.5 million from the budget to reduce taxes. The final budget will be adopted in September.

approach depends on the outcome of Monday night. I can't speculate on the outcome of what will happen."

Rosler did confirm that a number of first amendment issues may come into play.

"Private citizens should always have the right of free speech under the first amendment," Rosler said. "It's my understanding this happened after the meeting was over. But there are many issues involving free speech where public officials or quasi-public officials still have the same rights as a private citizen."

In a letter sent by Rosler to Longwood mayor Paul Lovestrand and city attorney Richard Taylor, Rosler requests that under Florida's Sunshine Law, he is seeking the names of all witnesses that the City of Longwood plans to intend to call against Daly, as well as copies of any documents the city intends to utilize at the hearing. Rosler's letter also indicates his intentions to call live witnesses on Daly's behalf and he intends to call Dennis and Bundy to testify.

Longwood city attorney Richard Taylor says he has researched Rosler's subpoena request in depth and responded by letter this morning informing Rosler that the city does not intend to issue subpoenas.

"We want to give Mr. Daly his right to speak and to due process," said Taylor. "Under state statutes and the first amendment, people have the right to be heard."

Taylor indicated that although Daly has the right of free speech, his conduct as a Longwood representative has to be taken into perspective.

"Just because the gavel came down and the meeting was over, the city has the right to expect a certain decorum from its representatives. It certainly would not be appropriate for Mr. Daly to run naked through the parking lot just because a meeting has been adjourned."

munity leader John W. Evans, and Seminole Community College professor Thomas Allen Tipton, who died in the tornadoes in February 1998.

Eight elementary schools are affected by rezonings for the new elementary school, currently known as "Elementary School G."

The elementary schools affected include Partin, Stenstrom, Geneva, Lawton, Carillon, Rainbow, Keeth and Winter Springs.

The school improvement plans include goals to raise test scores throughout the district. Every school in the county is setting specific goals to raise test scores.

"Everybody is trying very hard to improve their test scores," said Marion Dalley, executive director of instructional support for the school board.

The district is committed to raising the proficiency of students and staff in using technology and the Internet.

Schools are taking a variety of approaches to improve their ability to educate students. For example, English Estates Elementary School will participate in the National Network of Partnership Schools, a program to improve school, family, and community connections, through Johns Hopkins University.

Bear Lake Elementary School is committed to reducing tardiness, and increasing the use of technology and the Internet by classroom teachers, while 90 percent of the faculty at Red Bug Elementary School will attend workshops addressing technology.

At Casselberry and Lake Mary elementary schools, administrators want to work with area preschool programs to raise students' readiness to start school.

Goldsboro Elementary School is completing its first year as a math, science, and technology magnet school. After moving into a new two-story classroom complex and a state-of-the-art Media/Technology Center, construction continues on the Cafeteria/Auditorium and a Planetary Space Lab.

Other items to be addressed at the school board meeting include:

- Discussion of two free airline tickets being awarded to district employees who had perfect attendance in the 1998-99 school year. The tickets can be used anywhere in the continental United States. The employees are Keron Kerr (teacher - ESC), Louella Rahming (teacher - Altamonte Elementary School), and Lou Saylor (bus driver).

- Consideration for final approval of the revised Citizenship Standards for Participation In School Sponsored Extra-Curricular Activities. The school board gave preliminary approval of the policy two weeks ago.

- Discussion of a tentative budget for 1999-2000.

- Discussion of the revised Secondary Student Conduct and Discipline Code for 1999-2000. The board gave preliminary approval to the discipline code two weeks ago.

- Consideration of a final draft of the Elementary Student Conduct and Discipline Code, given preliminary approval two weeks ago.

PUBLIC NOTICE

In compliance with Federal Air Regulations of the Federal Aviation Agency, Public Notice is hereby given that the City of Sanford, Seminole County Florida, has authorized Clarke Environmental Mosquito Management, Inc., to apply insecticides approved and labeled for this use, over congested areas of the City of Sanford, by low flying aircraft at altitudes under 500 feet from time to time throughout the mosquito season of 1999.

Populations of both potential disease bearing and pest mosquitoes will be suppressed by spray flights within the area.

All such flights will be made in the public interest at such times as are considered necessary, and under such conditions as are considered effective and safe, for the purpose of providing comfort and public health protection for residents.

Spray flights will be made over congested areas which ordinarily cannot be adequately treated for the suppression of adult mosquitoes with ground equipment, or where aerial treatments must supplement treatments by ground equipment.

Additional public notice may be given via radio station, local or cable television stations as needed. Additional information is available by calling Robert G. Herman, City of Sanford Public Works Director at (407) 330-5681.

Two live bands will perform on stage.

"We expect a big crowd," Kuhn said. "I think everybody will be excited, especially after the fireworks were canceled last year (because of the threat of fires)."

Thirteen vendors have so far committed to setting up tents during the celebration. The vendors will include Walt Disney World Casting, MIX 105.1, Power 105.9, Galaxy Foods, Walgreens, Nautical Discoveries, Peter Piper Pickles and 101+ Crafters.

Tents will also be set up by the 4C's organization, Kendall Jackson, Classic Family of Dealership and The Event Specialist.

If the celebration is rained out, the fireworks would be rescheduled for Labor Day, Sept. 6.

Sanford Main Street will present the fireworks in partnership with Seminole County, the City of Sanford, Mix 105.1 and Power 105.9.

Seminole County is providing $5,000 toward the festivities. Sanford is providing $7,000 worth of services such as police and fire department personnel.

A Father's Day guide to what makes a great - and not so great - sports dad

SANFORD - It's Father's Day and that means it's time for our annual tribute to the dads who make Seminole County sports so interesting. In the past couple of years, I've identified a lot of the dads by name.

But, after you spend a certain amount of time at a newspaper, you start to realize that there are just too many.

So here's a guide to what makes a dad great and not-so-great, at least when it comes to sports.

A great dad doesn't stand behind home plate, screaming at his daughter the pitcher, just because she struck out the side but he thought she was being careless. That actually happened in a playoff game against Lake Mary a few weeks ago. The dad was from a team from another part of the state, but his obnoxiousness was known by fans on both sides of the field.

A great dad doesn't scream at the umpire or referee over every perceived slight that goes against his team. "Open your eyes, you're missing a great game," is a tired, stupid yell you hear from dads at every level of play. The dads don't realize that the officials are doing their job for a mere pittance and have no concern whatsoever as to who wins. Isn't it ironic that almost every dad of a losing team blames the umpire or referee?

A great dad cares about his kids, win or lose. Not to mention names but a certain Seminole County boys basketball coach had the best player in the county on his team for the past four years (hint, hint: he's won two straight district titles). Never once did he lose composure and when his team lost in the regional both times, he was there for his team and responded with grace and dignity.

A great dad doesn't videotape little league games and show the umpire at the end of the inning when he believes a wrong call has been made. He certainly doesn't run around the stands showing it to the other parents in order to humiliate the ump even more. But that's what happened at a Lake Mary all-star game last year.

A great dad doesn't physically attack the coach of one of his players over a perceived lack of playing time. It happened in Longwood and Lake Mary last year and one of the instances involved a woman. The coaches don't get paid. It's a labor of love and physical violence shows a complete lack of class. Great role models, those parents.

A great dad doesn't constantly complain to his son's or daughter's coach over their playing time. Why do so many parents think that they are suddenly Vince Lombardi or Red Auerbach? Let the coaches coach.

A great dad is like one of the hundreds of soccer dads all over the county who have

Sanford rallies past Oviedo in Bambino Commissioners

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - Run-scoring singles by Brandon Hampton and Kevin Kropf in the top of the sixth inning rallied the Sanford All-Stars from a 10-9 deficit to an 11-10 victory over the Oviedo All-Stars in the opening game of the Babe Ruth Baseball Bambino Majors Commissioners Tournament at Roy Holler Junior Field Friday night.

The late game between Altamonte Springs and Longwood was rained out and was to be played at 9 a.m. Saturday morning.

The tournament will continue through Sunday, and possibly Monday because of the rain, at Roy Holler Junior Field in Ft. Mellon Park.

The Sanford All-Stars took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning on a two-run home run by Bacarie Mitchell.

But the Oviedo All-Stars answered with a three-run home run by Michael Lavoie in the bottom of the first inning and then tacked on three more runs in the second inning on an error, four walks and three wild pitches.

Sanford got two runs back in the top of the fourth inning, but Oviedo answered again with a solo home run by Matt Stovall in the bottom of the fourth inning.

Sanford took the lead for the first time since the first inning, plating four runs in the top of the fifth inning. The big blow in the inning was a two-run double by George Easley.

Oviedo was not ready to give up so easily, however, and regained the lead in the bottom of the fifth inning on a solo home run by Andrew Weaver and a two-run double by Lavoie.

It was Sanford's turn to answer this time as Mitchell led off the top of the sixth inning with a single and scored on a single by Hampton to tie the score. After a strike out, Kropf ripped his single to score Hampton with the go-ahead run.

Oviedo would have no answer this time, however, as the bottom of the sixth inning began with a strike out and a ground out. After a walk and a stolen base, putting the tying run on second base, a strike out ended the game.

Doing the damage for Sanford were Brandon Hampton (3-for-3 with a home run, three runs scored, two RBI), Bacarie Mitchell (2-for-3 with a home run, two runs scored, two RBI), Kevin Kropf (two singles, one run scored, one RBI), George Easley (one double, two RBI), Eddie Hogan (one single, one run scored), Dekywan Debose (two runs scored) and Richard Nelson and Tim Acree (one run scored each).

Providing the offense for Oviedo were Matt

Oviedo's Matt Williams had a double and scored three runs and had an early lead, but the Sanford All-Stars rallied for six runs over the final two innings to win 11-10 in the Bambino Commissioners Tournament at Ft. Mellon.

Altamonte Springs, Sanford advance in 14-15 Babe Ruth

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - Pitching dominated as the Sanford and Altamonte Springs All-Star teams cruised to victory in the opening games of the Babe Ruth Baseball 14-15 Year Old District 8 Tournament at Historic Sanford Memorial Stadium on Friday.

Jeremy Heckle and Fred Coursey combined on a six-hitter and the Sanford offense made the most of three hits to knock off Holly Hill, 10-5.

In the other game, Harney and Manfred combined on a five-hitter as Altamonte Springs blanked Longwood, 8-0.

The tournament was supposed to have started on Thursday, but the games were rained out. The tournament was to have continued on Saturday and will wrap up either on Sunday or Monday on Rinker-Stenstrom Field at Historic Sanford Memorial Stadium.

The Prep-13 and Bambino Majors District Tournaments have also been plagued by rain and will continue through the weekend at Candyland Park in Longwood and Hollyland Park in Holly Hill, respectively.

Sanford took control of its game quickly, scoring two runs in the first inning and five runs in the second inning to build a 7-0 lead before Holly Hill finally got on the board in the top of the third inning.

UCF tabs Striegler to coach women's basketball

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - University of Central Florida Athletics Director Steve Sloan announced Friday the recommendation of Gail Striegler for hire as the next women's basketball coach. Striegler will begin work on Monday, June 21, but is not expected to sign an official contract until later this month.

She will become the 10th head coach in UCF women's basketball history.

A native of Fayetteville, Arkansas, Striegler has spent the last five years at Stephen F. Austin State University in Texas as the top assistant coach and recruiting coordinator.

While at SFA the Ladyjacks have advanced to the NCAA Tournament five times, including a trip to the "Sweet 16" in 1996.

A highly respected recruiter, Striegler's 1998 recruiting class was ranked #13 by the Women's Basketball Journal and the Blue Chip Report.

She has signed and coached numerous All-Americans while at SFA and one of her many responsibilities as the top assistant included academic monitoring of players.

The Ladyjacks have maintained an 80 percent student-athlete graduation rate since Striegler has been at SFA.

Prior to her position at Stephen F. Austin, Striegler was the first assistant coach at Northwestern State University (La) for three seasons. While there the Lady Demons went 65-16 and earned a WNIT bid in 1992.

Striegler was responsible for coordinating Northwestern's defensive schemes and the Lady Demon's responded by holding their opponents to a

Magic's Darrell Armstrong turns on-court hustle into cash for kids

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - He blocked, he rebounded, he even stole - and two Central Florida charities couldn't be happier! Thanks to the on-court hustle of the Orlando Magic's Darrell Armstrong, the Orlando Magic Youth Foundation (OMYF) and the Boys & Girls Club of Central Florida received a charitable "assist" from the Pepsi Bottling Group.

Beginning on March 23rd and continuing through the end of the regular season, for every NBA-defined hustle play attributed to Armstrong, The Pepsi Bottling Group in Orlando donated $100 to the two charities.

By the end of the season, Armstrong racked up a grand total of 30 hustle plays, and a Pepsi donation of $3,000 that was divided between the charities.

"Pepsi is very proud that the very week we began this added incentive for Darrell, he earned the NBA Player of the Week," said Dennis DeCarlo, general manager for the Orlando Pepsi Marketing Unit. "We loved watching him make these spectacular plays during the season, and we couldn't be happier to give to such worthwhile causes."

Wanting to do something special for the two charities, Armstrong approached The Pepsi Bottling Group in Orlando with the hustle play idea in March. Pepsi agreed that it would be a fun way to help the two charities raise additional funds.

"Darrell is a definite fan-favorite in the Orlando community," said Otis Smith, vice president of marketing and community relations for the Boys and Girls Club of Central Florida. "We are so honored that he joined with Pepsi to help raise money for our organization. Darrell and Pepsi will always be favorites with us."

The hustle plays occurred when Armstrong blocked a shot, rebounded the ball or stole the ball from the opposing team. Not only are the hustle plays an integral part of basketball, but they can often be the deciding factor during a game.

"Darrell is an excellent basketball player," said Scott Bowman, senior director of public relations for RDV Sports. "We are glad that Pepsi gave him this opportunity to utilize his talent to benefit our organization. Darrell's willingness to hustle truly paid off on the courts and off."

Each Defendant is further notified that the Petitioner will petition for an Order of Taking before the HONORABLE THOMAS G. FREEMAN, one of the Judges of the above-styled Court, on Monday, the 19th day of July, 1999, at 1:30 p.m. in Hearing Room 1217, at the Seminole County Courthouse, Sanford, Florida, in accordance with its Declaration of Taking heretofore filed in this cause.

All Defendants to the suit and all other interested parties may timely request a hearing on the Petition for the Order of Taking at the time and place designated and be heard. Any Defendant failing to file a timely request for hearing shall waive any right to object to the Order of Taking.

AND Each Defendant and any other persons claiming any interest in the property described in the Petition in the above-styled Eminent Domain proceeding is hereby required to serve written defenses, if any you have, to the Petitioner heretofore filed in this cause on the Petitioner, and any request for a hearing on the Petitioner's Attorney or immediately thereafter, to show what right, title, interest or lien you have, if any, or claim in and to the property described in said Petition and to show cause, if any you have, why said property should not be condemned for the uses and purposes as set forth in said Petition. If you fail to answer, a default may be entered against you for the relief demanded in the Petition.

If you fail to request a hearing on the Petition for Order of Taking you shall waive any right to object to said Order of Taking.

R.K. Cooper holds a picture of his family. At 101 years old, Cooper has lots of experience in father-son relationships.

By Summer Copeland
Herald Intern

Father's Day, a day of praise and gratitude to all the daddies of the nation. Here in Seminole County, we can claim some of the best and most respected fathers, or at least that's what their children will proudly claim.

"I loved my Dad very much, and he used to love to brag about me," a fond remembrance of Mr. Cooper, a 101 year old resident at Renaissance Retirement Community. Mr. Cooper, a father of two, grandfather of three, and great-grandfather of nine, reminisced about his younger days in the hills of North Carolina, where he often attended his father by bringing home two hundred pounds of cotton and corn from the farm.

Cooper, moved to Florida to become a teacher and started his own family. Years later Cooper can still clearly recall the fond and fun memories of fatherhood including romping through the yard with his children, chasing their dogs.

Mr. Cooper's son, currently residing in Utah, serves his father's affairs, allowing Mr. Cooper free time to enjoy his daily exercises in which he claims "is worth more than any doctor." Mr. Cooper enjoys his family and his role as a father, and was graced on his 100th birthday with an entire family gathering, an event that he will treasure always in his memories of fatherhood.

Father Al Fornace gives an interesting twist to the typical definition of fatherhood. Father Al, of All Souls Catholic Church, Sanford, hails a dual role in celebrating father's day.

Ordained in March 1998 at 78 years old, Father Al also claims the joy of fathering eight children and grandfathering seventeen grandchildren.

The dual role has not changed Father Al's life, and in fact he enjoys the opportunity to set an example for others, a role he values as both a priest and a father.

Father Al always had a great desire to serve God, since his early teens, however meeting his wife changed his planned path and Father Al became a cardiologist. Through the values of prayer, fun, and work, Father Al made his life of family and work all come together to fulfill a life of harmony.

Father Al also plays a larger parenting role through the Christ Pregnancy Center, a building that he owns and in which 200 children this past year were saved. This role among Father Al's other parental roles, show how much this man values children and fatherhood.

Father Al has some valuable advice for newer fathers, he finds the most valuable characteristic of a successful father to be, "trying to bring your children closer to God." Father Al always tried to be a successful father through, "trying to bring church and God first, then study and work hard, and do everything possible to make the mother of your children happy."

Don Davis, a less seasoned Seminole County father, treasures the time with his three year old son Austin. As a newer father, Davis took the crash course in fatherhood which included little sleep and not enough time, when his son was born. Davis will now get to try on a different hat of fatherhood with the soon arrival of a new daughter.

The Joys of Fatherhood

What does it mean to be a dad? Better yet, where do you learn how to be a good dad? The Herald talked with some dads, old and new, to find out their experiences. Plus, we got the a perspective from those who need dad the most — their children.

Photo submitted
Don Davis plays with his son Austin. Like all new dads, Davis had to learn — and is still learning — how to be a dad through on-the-job experience.

Davis explained fatherhood as, "putting my life into focus. Before Austin my life seemed to have little purpose and I was just floating along, but now I have a family." Davis explained, or tried to explain how fatherhood has changed him, but his son wanted to play, so he was periodically interrupted by "Dr. Austin Davis" who wanted to take his daddy's temperature and hear his heartbeat with a plastic stethoscope, sometimes actions speak louder than words.

Davis enjoys the opportunity as a father to watch his child grow; he is amazed daily at the progress and ability his son possesses. A favorite past time of both father and son is playing sports, especially working on little Austin's dynamite golf swing.

Davis's advice to other expectant fathers is, "Expect fatherhood to take up a large part of time and adjust your attitude accordingly so you can spend as much time as possible with your kids." Davis also hails the importance of patience and a willingness to be involved with your children in his recipe for a successful life of fatherhood.

A final look at fatherhood can be taken from the eyes of children. The students of Ms. Knights Summer class at Rays of Hope Charter School had varying, but treasured thoughts to share about their fathers.

Kimmie, a young girl who is anything but shy, defined her father as a "loving person in her life." She recalled days of praising her father by leaving him little notes by his pillow before he awoke for work.

Other children, like Aric, Marcus, and Tommy gave a more typical father/son definition by explaining a sports relationship, where dad is a teacher of responsibility through the fun of basketball and football. Children spoke of their fathers as "strict, but cool," and simply "awesome".

These kids plan on honoring their dad on his precious day through letters, cards, and of course home made food.

The Seminole Herald would like to wish: all dads a great Father's Day.

Does Xenical help absorb fat?

DEAR DR. BLONZ: I was just wondering if you have heard anything about the diet pill called Xenical. Is this one of those products that prevents you from absorbing fat? And isn't this the product with which there has been some sort of association with breast cancer? What is your opinion on this type of product? — C.D., New York City

DEAR C.D.: Here we have the next major player in the fight against obesity. I am not in favor of Xenical (Orlistat) as a product that merits general use. There may be some cases where it may be appropriate, such as when morbid obesity is a life-threatening situation. (Obesity is referred to as morbid when it gets in the way of normal activity and physiological functions, such as a difficulty in breathing when one lies down.) But for individuals looking for a way to drop a few pounds, I say, "No way!"

This particular drug prevents fats from being absorbed by inhibiting lipase, a key enzyme involved in fat digestion. Without lipase, fats are not able to pass through the intestinal wall. The problem here is that this can affect ALL fats — the ones your body needs as well as the ones you don't want.

People focus on the caloric value of fats, failing to realize that a good portion of the healthful components in our diet are fat-based. Aside from vitamins A, D, E and K, many beneficial ingredients in greens, grains and fruits (phytochemicals) are fat-based substances. If these components rely on lipase and are consumed when Xenical is doing its thing, the body will not gain their benefit. This means that while you will be absorbing fewer fat calories, you may be giving yourself a solid nudge down the road toward chronic ailments.

NUTRITION

Then there are the side effects, which all relate to the fact that normally-absorbed fat will make the full trip through the digestive system and have to exit the body. Company literature, not known to overstate the negatives about the products it sells, lists the following side effects for Xenical: oily spotting, flatus with discharge, fecal urgency, oily stool and occasional fecal incontinence. It is important to keep in mind that these effects would probably be worse for those who view this medication as a license to be able to eat more fat than usual. Sounds great, doesn't it?

Concerning breast cancer, for a drug to be approved, it must undergo extensive testing and submit data to the Food and Drug Administration for approval. There was one study in which women on Xenical showed higher levels of breast cancer than women who were not using the drug. At the time of the study the manufacturer pulled its new drug application to further study the link. The company eventually stated that they were convinced that there was no link between Xenical and breast cancer. The tumors apparently were present early in the study. Using an understanding of the growth rate of the tumors they concluded that the cancers would have been present before the study began, and were not there as a result of the Xenical. The Food and Drug Administration agreed with their interpretation and granted approval.

There are some other issues, however. Breast cancers can grow at a defined rate, and it would be possible to conclude that the breast cancers were unlikely to have originated as a result of the Xenical. A factor to consider, though, relates to what I said above about the potential effects of Xenical on the absorption of compounds that can help to protect against breast cancer. Are protective phytochemicals, such as those found in soy and other foods, also affected by Xenical? Is it possible, then, that precancerous cells — often identified and destroyed by a healthy immune system — grow with less resistance when Xenical is on the scene? This is supposition on my part, but the fact that we don't have the answers to these questions might give one pause to consider the wisdom of using this drug — especially if there is a family history of breast cancer.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew E. Andrew

Lackey-Andrew vows exchanged aboard ship

Dina Kaye Lackey of Lake Mary, became the bride of Matthew E. Andrew of Deltona on April 26 aboard the Rivership Romance, a cruise ship berthed at Lake Monroe. Shawn McClain, ship's captain performed the traditional nautical wedding ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lackey of Lake Mary and the bridegroom is the son of Maynard E. Andrew of Sheboygan, Wis., and the late Mrs. Andrew. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a bouffant gown fashioned along the Southern Belle silhouette. The fitted bodice featured a sweetheart neckline, front and back, adorned with lace motifs as well as the elbow-length puffed sleeves. Her full chiffon skirt overlaid layers of satin and netting accented with rows of dainty ruffles. Her handmade, tiered veil of imported illusion was attached to a pearl tara headpiece and she carried a bouquet of burgundy and white rosebuds showered with white lace. Luncheon salutes retiring bridge leader, Pre-nuptial parties honor bridal couple

Back in 1993, Libby Prevatt initiated a Bridge Social, as a new dimension to the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. Libby was new in the area and needed something to absorb her interest. Organizing the new pastime and keeping it moving became a pet project for energetic Libby. She had the complete cooperation of Jean Metts, club president at the time, and the late Mrs. Ralph Austin (Charlotte) Smith, an avid bridge aficionado. But enough is enough and after six years, Libby has moved on from chairing the delightful monthly games. During the June gathering, the last meeting of the season for the Bridge Social, Libby was honored at a picnic-style luncheon at the clubhouse. Hostesses were Shirley Mills, Mary Dale Jones and Alice Potter. The tables were covered with blue and white checkered cloths accompanied by red and white checkered napkins.

Fourteen players arrived with homemade salads including fruits, vegetable, meats and gelatin. Completing the luncheon were garlic bread, "the best I ever ate," Libby said, "delicious" lemon pound cake and lemonade as well as sodas.

Before the afternoon bridge got under way, Libby was presented with a lovely friendship card hand-written in calligraphy and signed by all of the bridge members. "I was touched," Libby said. "It was a great honor, and the food was superb."

Two of Libby's friends who have been on the puny side attending were Frances Webster and Helen Ernest.

Not only did those attending enjoy the card games, but they took care of selecting hostesses for the coming season with Shirley Mills and Mary Dale Jones taking over as co-chairmen of the group.

Libby's professional expertise has added much to the club. She has served in several capacities and her most recent endeavor was co-chair of the club's "An Evening to Remember," a fashion dramatization to benefit the club's scholarship fund. The proceeds, along with two sizable philanthropic donations, were earmarked to scholarships for three deserving women.

Before the Sanford Woman's Club retired from the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs during the past season, Libby's award-winning crafts won state recognition. In order to enjoy the clout of a federated club, Libby joined the FFWC's Oviedo Woman's Club and holds joint membership in both clubs.

Libby, who has just completed an unexpired term as the club's public relations director, is an avid reader and member of the SWC's Literary Group. "I'm going to do a lot of reading and play a lot of cards," she laughed.

ENGAGEMENT

Cottrill-Case

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bybee of Sanford, announce the engagement of their granddaughter, Victoria Cottrill to Carl Case III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Case II of Warrenton, Va.

The wedding will be an event of June 26 in Bealeton, Va., where the couple will make their home.

BRIDESMAIDS BRUNCH

Mary Laurel (Laurie) Blair, who became the bride of Lt. Michael (Mike) David Harrison on June 4, at the USAF Academy Chapel, Colorado Springs, and her bridal attendants, were honored at the traditional bridesmaids' fete on June 3.

The Bridesmaids Mimosa Brunch was given by Mary Hillman, mother of the bride from Sanford, in the Eagle's Nest, a private banquet room at the Marriott Hotel in Colorado Springs.

Arizona university pays tribute to Johnson, a Crooms graduate

Theodore 'Ted' Johnson

Crooms Academy graduates and former teachers continue to achieve greatness wherever they have chosen to live.

The career of Ted Johnson began when he attended Florida Atlantic College, Bethune Cookman, Arizona State College, Stetson University, Northern Arizona University. Johnson taught English at Crooms High for 10 years.

In 1966 he accepted the position as graduate assistant of English at Northern Arizona University, and Cope Junior High School, Redlands, Calif.

Johnson has the honor of being the first African American faculty member at Northern Arizona University, Flagstaff, which he held for over 12 years.

Johnson taught for 43 years, 30 of those years as assistant professor of English at N.A.U.

On May 28, one day after Johnson turned 70 years old, he retired. He was saluted in honor of his contributions to the field of education, and the many students who learned under the directions and teachings of Ted Johnson.

Correspondent

Northern Arizona University is celebrating 100 years as a higher institute of education, and to commemorate the 46 years of service, Johnson was selected as one of the 100 faces of N.A.U., which was published in the Alumni Centennial Publication.

Congratulations to Theodore "Ted" Johnson, who also was selected by N.A.U. to be honored with the appointment as Emeritus Assistant Professor in the English Department.

Throughout Johnson's career he has also given of his services to the community in which he taught. His school activities include serving four campus organizations, and a wide range of university committees. Johnson has written articles on motivating black students - "the experience reflects the black literary content."

Johnson has received many honors for his civic and political accomplishments. He says the greatest honor of all, is having touched the lives of students in his 46 years in the field of education.

Johnson is married to the former Gwendolyn Ball of Winter Park. For over 40 years they have shared life together. They are the proud parents of two children, Angel, Jawando, and four loving grandchildren.

The Johnsons will be attending the classes of Crooms Academy Reunion 1934-1949, in December. Sanfordites look forward to Johnson's visit. Family and friends join in the honors bestowed upon Johnson, who is the son of the late Carrie Wilson Irvin, nephew of Olive W. Johnson, Eunice I. Wilson, James and Aaron Wilson.

Widows, widowers to mark first anniversary at luncheon/dance

From a small handful of people, Lake Mary based W.O.W. has grown into an organization of over 100 in just a year. W.O.W. is an organization for widows, widowers and persons with a spouse in a nursing home. W.O.W. held their first meeting on Tuesday, June 9. Some of the activities the group has done throughout the year have included going to the dog track, group outings and going to dinner theater. The group is not just for seniors. Anyone who has lost a spouse is welcome at W.O.W. meetings. During the year, they have also become advocates for people in local nursing homes. The anniversary meeting will be a luncheon/dance on Saturday, June 26 beginning at 10:30 a.m. Although the group usually meets at Florida Hospital on Sand Pond Road, the anniversary celebration will be held at the Family Worship Center, 1730 W. Airport Blvd. at 25th in Sanford. The cost for the luncheon is $11 each. W.O.W. is asking corporate sponsors to chip in and buy a whole table. The company's name will then be advertised on the table.

If you'd like to attend the anniversary celebration of W.O.W. or you'd like to find out more about the organization, call Dom DeSarno at 323-5152 or Terry Culp at 699-1808.

W.O.W. has yet another reason to celebrate. They recently received a donation of a large van from President Dom DeSarno. The van will make group outings a lot easier.

Some of the W.O.W. officers in front of their new van are: Front row, Antoinette Shouse, Arlino Zbikowski, Marie Fratto, Bebo Krebs, Anna Jebbia and Sophie

from Betty Jack of the Sanford Woman's Club and Janet Foley of the Oviedo Woman's Club to Keswoich Harris of Hospice of the Comforter.

Laurie received the guests wearing a mint green crepe suit while her mother wore a bright yellow 2-piece ensemble.

The entourage of 18 were seated at round tables centered with floral arrangements. Guests were served mimosas or orange juice. The brunch menu included, eggs Benedict, Bordeaux potatoes, scrambled eggs, roast beef, crisp bacon, and assorted pastries and fruits.

Highlight of the day was Laurie standing and presenting a brief review about herself. Then, each guest told who she was as an interesting "Who's Who" unfolded.

Bridesmaids honored were: Shari Moye, Deltona; Meda Williams, Sanford; and the bridegroom's sisters, Sarabeth Marshall, Tulsa, Okla., and Heather Bright, Largo. Other guests were mothers, grandmothers and other relatives.

Following the delightful brunch, girl talk evolved around the yards and yards of bridal gown, cathedral train, petticoats and cathedral-length veil in dire need of pressing. An ironing party got under way in a room at the hotel with four ironers taking turns to smooth out the masses of wrinkles. One bridesmaid had never tried on her gown, and at the last moment, her mother whipped out thread and needle to hem the gown in record time.

Several bets were taken that the cocoons sheltered in a dark closet wouldn't hatch into butterflies in time for the wedding. But they did!

As the guests departed from the brunch, one commented that she was going to catch a few ZZZs before the rehearsal dinner that evening.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Dr. and Mrs. David (Nancy) Hartson of Longwood, entertained guests attending the Laurie Blair-Lt. Mike Hartson wedding in Colorado Springs at the traditional rehearsal dinner. Customarily, the dinner follows the rehearsal, but was reversed due to scheduling at the chapel at the USAF Academy.

About 90 wedding guests (including graduation guests when Mike graduated from the academy two days before) attended the elegant dinner held at the USAF Academy Officer's Club. Guests were mailed a menu long before the wedding to make their choice. Prime rib, dill-sauced salmon and chicken breast were the three most popular entrees, accompanied by garden salad and fresh fruit.

Mike presented his groomsmen with monogrammed silver flasks and his parents and sponsors with a wall hanging of a large framed saber, an academy tradition.

Laurie presented her bridal attendants, flower girl and train bearers with strings of pearls.

Dr. Hartson welcomed the guests followed by several toasts.

Following the dinner, the wedding party and parents departed for the USAF Chapel to begin the rehearsal. At this time, the chaplain informed those attending that the chapel, with no air conditioning, would be extremely hot for the 4 p.m. ceremony the following day. "Pray for clouds and winds," he said.

The prayers were answered. It took two men several trips up and down the rows of steps to get the wedding gown, piece by piece, from the limo into the chapel amid gusts of winds so strong that several speculated the willow clouds of silk organza and tulle poufs would go airborne at any moment. But they didn't!

Father's love is felt in force when his son becomes a dad

DEAR READERS: Several years ago, Richard H. Kent, a retired colonel who served in the U.S. Air Force, sent me a poem he'd written as a tribute to his father. I have kept it in my book of special treasures. Today I'm sharing it in honor of fathers, stepfathers and grandfathers everywhere. Read on.

A BELATED GRACE by Richard J. Kent, Springfield, Va.

Make me half the man my father was And I'll know that I've been blessed. Give me half his courage and loving care And a kingdom I'll possess.

When I was young and foolish I heard but I didn't hear His words of wisdom, his sound advice, The need to persevere.

When I grew older and wiser, I saw what I hadn't seen His strength to cope with adversity And do it with dignity.

No need for the Ten Commandments When I came to a fork in the road I had only to think what he would have done And again, he'd carry my load.

Make me half the father to my two sons As the father he was to me And I know that I will rest at peace Throughout eternity.

DEAR ABBY: Your columns about random acts of kindness prompt this letter. I'd like to tell you about some people I'll never forget. I was taking the train to Oklahoma from Chicago for my Christmas vacation during World War II. I stood on the platform while all the servicemen boarded, and soon the train was packed. The conductor leaned out, announced, "There is no room for you!" and closed the door. I was standing in the snow and it was getting dark, and all I could think of was, "Will I ever get home?" Then a couple of the cooks leaned out of the dining car and said I could ride with them. They had such wonderful smiles and help you find?" Invariably they say, "No, thanks. I'm just looking." On rare occasions, a considerate customer will say, "Oh, thank you, I'll come back tomorrow." Thirty minutes after we have locked the doors and are waiting to close the registers, these "lookie-loos" stroll out, without so much as a thank-you or apology.

How I wish I could say, "You may have nothing to do and nowhere to go, but most of us clerks have families waiting for us at home, sometimes a hot dinner cooling on the table, or a child waiting for a goodnight kiss. We're tired and want to get out of the store. Please give us a break."

ANONYMOUS, NATURALLY

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Some stores have public address systems over which they announce that the store will be closing in 15 minutes, and it's the policy in others to flash the overhead lights to signal closing time. In others, clerks are allowed to approach the late customer and say, "We are closing in three minutes. May I help you find something?"

Discuss closing policies with your manager to determine if one of these practices can be instituted in your store.

ANN IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR ANN: You must be a person "of a certain age" to remember train travel when the industry was in its glory. Those were wonderful times.

The dining car staff was generous to take you under their wing, and you probably received better service than any other passenger.

DEAR ABBY: I recently saw a celebrity actually show his bare backside on a daytime talk show.

If this is called "mooning," what is it called when a woman lifts up her blouse and shows her bare breasts?

CURIOUS IN BRADFORD, VT.

DEAR CURIOUS: Exhibitionism!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are newly married and have been working for a large, well-known retail store for several years. When a store posts its hours on the front door, there is no excuse for a customer to wait in three minutes before closing time and expect to shop the entire store. Even if no hours are posted, one can assume that the doors will be closing at 9 p.m. This is standard for retail stores. (Holidays and weekends may vary.) Almost every night people stroll in three to five minutes before closing time. We will approach them and ask, "Is there anything I can

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Wanting to be your own person today can be a creditable aspiration, so long as you know what you're doing and it's not done at the expense of others. When others call on you, join them. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your instincts and emotions could lead you down some blind alleys today and cause you to be judgmental about issues you shouldn't. Relax and take things at face value. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Friendship should never be weighed or measured, but simply enjoyed. If accounts don't balance at times, don't make an issue over it. Time will square things up. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Bad reviews are in the offing today if you attempt to convey an image that's not you. To make a good impression, just be your natural, good-natured self. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It might take a little more than hard work and effort to get what you want today. Sometimes, we have to prime the pump in order to get things rolling. Don't be afraid to open your wallet. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Wishing to be elsewhere when in the company of those to whom you made a commitment is a waste of time. Relax and take in the good time going on around you. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Although your nature is to be cordial and charming, don't allow yourself to be bullied or manipulated by another today. Spend your time with those who appreciate you. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Get your duties and responsibilities out of the way first before you pursue pleasure. If you don't, it'll plague you all day long and ruin your fun. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's good to be helpful and generous, and you'll have the heart to be so today. However, be cognizant of your own resources and don't squander them on someone who doesn't deserve it.

WIN AT BRIDGE

The hardest of the week

We have been considering odds, and the ways percentages affect lines of play. Today's deal is the toughest of the lot. First, though, what is the best play for no losers in the spade suit if you take it in isolation? Next, you are in four spades. West leads the club jack. After you ruff his club-10 continuation, how would you proceed? With three top losers, you must play the trump suit without loss. In isolation, this means taking the finesse. The a priori chance for a finesse is 50 percent, whereas trying to drop a singleton king outside is only 6.2 percent. However, first, let's analyze the bidding and play so far.

The opening lead marks East with the ace-queen of clubs. If West had the ace and king of hearts, he would have led one, not the club jack. So, East has at least one of those honors. Now give him the spade king as well. That means he has at least 12 high-card points: both major-suit kings and the ace-queen of clubs. Yet he didn't open the bidding, and these days there are few players who pass with 12 points when they can open in a decent suit — here, clubs. So, West is marked with the spade king. And if so, why take a finesse that is bound to fail?

After ruffing at trick two, play a diamond to dummy's jack and call for the spade jack, to tempt a cover just in case East is a cautious bidder. But when he plays low, go up with the ace and beam contentedly at your partner when the king comes tumbling down.
