

King Dies

The British Broadcasting Corp. announced that the King died of coronary thrombosis. This is often the cause when death occurs during sleep. Additionally, the King had a history of circulatory ailments—he was operated on in 1949 to relieve a circulatory disorder of the leg.

George's voice sounded husky when he broadcast his annual Christmas message, and some specialists saw that as a possible indication that cancer, having been removed from his left lung, was still present in his right.

Elizabeth gave him a long, anxious look last Thursday when she left London by air on her trip to Africa, Ceylon, Australia and New Zealand—a trip from which she was not scheduled to return until July. Spectators at the airport felt it was almost as if Elizabeth had a premonition she might not see her father alive again.

George VI was the first British King to visit the United States—he was there with his Queen, Elizabeth, in 1939. The new Queen went to Washington last year on a side excursion from her trip across Canada.

Prime Minister Churchill called an emergency meeting of the Cabinet to set in motion the machinery which will lead to Elizabeth's formal taking of the throne. One of her first duties will be to set a period of mourning for the court. When her grandfather, George V, died, court mourning was ordered for nine months.

George V's Queen, Mary, at 84 has outlived both her husband and her son.

It was at Sandringham that George V died, Jan. 21, 1936. Then Edward VIII was King for a few months. The dead King at that time was Duke of York. He became King Dec. 11, 1936, when Edward gave up the throne for "the woman I love," the twice-divorced Mrs. Simpson.

Word of the death came from Sandringham Palace at 10:45 a.m. (5:45 a.m. EST). The British Broadcasting Corp. announced it at 11:10 a.m. Newspaper extras hit the streets within a few minutes. In downtown London women burst into tears as they saw the headlines.

While Elizabeth became Queen immediately on the death of her father, the nation actually is without a constitutional head until she returns home from Africa. The situation resulted from the unexpectedness of the King's death. The ailing monarch was scheduled to leave March 11 on a health cruise to South Africa. Counsellors of state, to have been appointed before his departure, would have taken over all royal functions except the power to dissolve Parliament and to create peers. Such a ruler becomes incapacitated, as during the period after King George's lung operation last year.

The new Queen's accession to the throne will be proclaimed in an ancient ceremony at old St. James Palace in the heart of London. The garter king of arms, chief of the King's heralds, clad in his brilliantly embroidered medieval costume, will climb to the roof of the palace and read the official announcement.

This ceremony, however, must await the drafting of the official proclamation announcing the death of the King and the accession of the new ruler.

Queen Elizabeth's first constitutional duty will be to hold an accession meeting of the Privy Council, an ancient body which advises the King. It is composed largely of nobles and leading political figures.

At this accession meeting, the new sovereign will swear to fulfill her duties and be a good ruler of Britain. The oath will be admin-

Program Outlined For Local Scouts On Anniversary

Today is the opening day of the National 42nd Boy Scout Week. All the ladies and men's civic organizations, local Naval Air Station, schools, churches, press, radio, Tourist Club, and friends of scouting are helping in the Seminoles County Finance Drive and in the observance of Boy Scout Week.

Friday, Feb. 8 is the national birthday of Scouting in America. Official Boy Scout ceremonies will be conducted all over the United States at 9:15 p. m., when all scouts and scout leaders will dedicate themselves to the Scout Oath.

Through the fine spirit of cooperation of the Seminoles High School Band, Glee Club, Parkway School of Dancing, all club scouts in uniforms, scouts in uniforms and leaders will participate in the national dedication ceremony at the high school at 8:15 p. m. The benefit Boy Scout performance will follow.

Sunday, Feb. 10 is National Boy Scout Day. The churches of Seminoles County are cooperating in the observance of this day. Seminoles County churches are planning special sermon-programs planned for the occasion.

Troop 315 sponsored by the Presbyterian Church of Sanford has received a cordial invitation through the Rev. A. G. McKinnis to attend the Presbyterian Church special service in uniform at 11 o'clock.

Cub Pack 34, and Troop 34 sponsored by the First Methodist Church of Sanford has received a cordial invitation by the Rev. J. E. McKinnis to attend special service Sunday night at 7:30 p. m. at the Methodist Church. Scouts and Scout leaders throughout Seminoles County will attend the churches of their choice on Scout Sunday.

Character Building, Good Citizenship and Leadership are the three foundation objectives of the Boy Scouts of America, said John Pierson, Seminoles district chairman. The scout leaders and scouts of Seminoles County desire to express their sincere thanks and appreciation for the financial cooperation demonstrated by the civic organizations, Navy, school, churches, press, radio, and friends of Scouting in the plans for the observance of National Boy Scout Week, and for the Good of Scouting in America.

The council meeting also must agree on the leadership and organization announcing the accession of the new Queen. This is the proclamation that will be read from the roof of St. James Palace.

The same proclamation will be read at three other places in London—at Charing Cross in the center of the city, Temple Bar, which marks the boundary between the Old City of London and Westminster, and on the steps of the Royal Exchange, in the heart of the Old City.

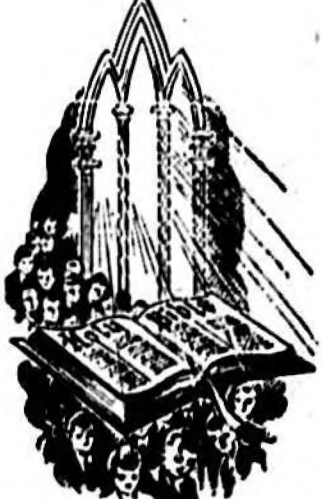

The proclamation also will be read in each of the dominions of the British Commonwealth and in the capital cities of every colony in the Empire.

Much of the responsibility for the state funeral of King George and the ceremonies surrounding the accession of Queen Elizabeth to the throne will rest on the shoulders of the 13-year-old Duke of Norfolk, hereditary marshal of England.

The new heir apparent to the throne, Prince Charles, was at Sandringham when George VI died. There also was his little sister, Princess Anne, now second in line of succession.

The King showed no hint of approaching death when he died goodnight Tuesday night at Sandringham to his Queen and the Princess Margaret Rose.

The new Queen's husband, the handsome, 36-year-old Duke of Edinburgh, may receive a new title in due course. There is a precedent—Queen Victoria's husband, Prince Albert had the title of prince consort.

The official news on the King's death shocked the nation, which had been deeply worried about his health.

Some courts abruptly adjourned their hearings. One murder trial was suspended for 13 minutes after the presiding judge received the official news.

Both houses of Parliament are expected to adjourn immediately after meeting today and making formal expressions of sympathy with the royal family. The House of Commons is in the midst of an angry debate on foreign policy.

CROSSING WRECK
WEST PALM BEACH—Two men and a woman were killed today when their car crashed into the side of the Seaboard Airline Railroad's Silver Star five miles west of West Palm Beach. Deputy Sheriff Emory Tickren identified the men as Roy Smith, 42, of Miami, and Ross Lee Vandiver, 32, of Madisonville, Ky. The woman was not identified immediately.

Florida Building and sizable defense construction projects are being counted on to keep builders busy during the coming year.

Based on the latest census, North Bay Village in Dade County topped all other communities in per capita spending on building. The magazine figured that $10,097 a person was spent there in 1951.

The dollar volume of building permits in Florida cities included: Dade County (unincorporated area) $42,073,958; Miami $26,323,552; Fort Lauderdale $24,963,820; Miami Beach $26,986,629; St. Petersburg $25,244,455; Duval County $18,969,465; Jacksonville $18,333,682; Hillsborough County $14,810,244; Coral Gables $14,779,311; Hollywood $13,825,000; Orlando $12,892,254; West Palm Beach $12,497,751; Key West $11,676,907; Tampa $10,429,346; Palm Beach $9,987,052; Sarasota $8,379,895; Clearwater $6,728,550; Hialeah $6,238,793; Daytona Beach $5,002,183; Lakeland $4,774,966; North Miami $3,286,719; Tallahassee $3,361,262; Broward County $3,000,000; Lake Worth $4,315,804; Surfside $3,123,728; Miami Shores Village $4,059,129; Miami Springs $4,036,082; Winter Park $3,996,009; Bradenton $3,315,776; Panama City $3,143,672; Gulfport $2,981,126; Pensacola $2,834,228; South $2,756,437; Fort Pierce $2,629,998; Sanford $2,629,998.

New Queen

gining of a 5-month tour of Africa, Ceylon, Australia and New Zealand. With her was her 30-year-old husband, Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, who cast aside princely titles and became a British citizen to wed her amid great splendor Nov. 23, 1947.

They had intended to complete their Empire-cementing journey by continuing around the world, with side visits to the Panama Canal and to Bermuda, British colony of the Atlantic Coast of the United States.

Now they must return at once. Their son, 3-year-old Prince Charles, born Nov. 14, 1948, now becomes first in line to succeed to the throne. The line of succession, in order, then is Charles' year-old sister Anne, and Elizabeth's 21-year-old sister, Princess Margaret.

Elizabeth was marked as a future reigning Queen when she was only 16 and her father became King. It changed the whole course of her upbringing, from that of a relatively carefree child to one laden with the prospective responsibilities of reigning over a world-girdling Commonwealth and Empire.

On her 21st birthday, she dedicated her life to looking after the welfare of that Empire.

In a radio speech from Cape Town, South Africa, where she and her parents were making another Commonwealth tour, she said:

"I declare before you all that my whole life, whether it be long or short, shall be devoted to your service and the service of our great imperial family to which we all belong."

One ride and You'll say:

"That's the Smartest Million Dollars BUICK Ever Spent"

WHEN we tell you that every 1952 Buick rides like a million dollars, we're not just slinging slang—we're talking real money—right-on-the-barrelhead cash.

A million dollars and more were poured into research and testing—design and tools—engineering, production and components—to team up the combination of ride features you'll find on a Buick—and on no other car in the world.

A million dollars and more was the price paid to work out control of end-way and side-roll on curves—to double-check vertical "throw" with shock absorbers and big self-acting coil springs for all four wheels—to V-brace the torque-tube keel and X-brace the frame—to cushion body and engine—and to silk out the whole operation with Dynaflo Drive.

You may not care how the job was done, or what it cost. But we'll lay you this: You're going to say "thanks a million" to Buick engineers once you get this spirited smoothie under your hands and haunches.

Old familiar roads take on a new smoothness. Gums are the weave and wander, the jitter and jounce that you've felt in lesser cars. You ride with road-hugging assurance and level ease.

All of which only begins to tell you what really great cars these 1952 Buicks turned out to be.

Never before have style and stamina—comfort and character—power, performance and price been brought together with such satisfying skill.

The obvious thing for you to do is come in and look them over. How about taking half an hour off to do that—today?

Remember, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. Shown on ROADMASTER, national ad does not set other styles.

Sure is true for '52.

Board Urged To Ignore Law On Inspection

Cattlemen And Packers Say Meat Inspection Act Will Cause Bankruptcy
TAMPA — Cattlemen, small packers and legislators today pleaded with the State Livestock Sanitary Board to ignore enforcement of the new compulsory meat inspection law which they claimed would require a small packer to pay a $3 inspection fee for one animal slaughtered but a larger packer, only 30 to 40 cents.

Every one of the eight state senators and representatives—all from cow producing counties—said in effect "We have made a mistake in passing that law. Set it aside and let the 1953 Legislature work up a new law."

Cattlemen and packers, led by Cushman Hodebaugh of Orlando, president of the State Cattlemen's Association, said the fees for compulsory inspection would be passed onto the producer and would be under the law, packers pay inspection fees up to a maximum of $100 weekly.

The Livestock Board has suspended temporarily enforcement of the law until such time as work out rules for making it work.

Excess Fees Of $17,385 Turned Back To County
A total of $17,385 in excess fees for 1951 was turned back to the county clerk, tax assessor, tax collector, county judge and sheriff, it was reported at the meeting of the County Commission Tuesday.

The office of G. P. Herndon had the highest receipts for 1951, totaling $27,707. Expenses were $13,019 and net income, $14,688. Deducting $7,000, the amount allowed the clerk, left $7,688 for the county.

Sanford F. Doudney, assessor, collected $20,859, deducted expenses of $6,729 and the $14,130 he was allowed to retain, leaving $1,401 to turn back. Of this $1,401 goes to the County School Board and $4,650 to the county. Herndon's receipts totaled $23,096. His expenses were $13,830 and he turned back $9,266 to the county and $443 in the schools after deducting the $7,000 allowed.

Fine Future Citizens

On Feb. 8, 1910, the organization of The Boy Scouts of America was officially incorporated and six years later was granted a charter by Congress. Since its beginning the Scouting movement has had a profound influence for good on the lives of young Americans.

Unlike the youth movements in some parts of Europe, where youngsters are taught the glories of living for the state, Boy Scouts learn the pleasure, service and dignity which can come to those who live as free men. Ideals of honesty and fair play are emphasized in their training program. The boys learn the lore of the woods, of safety, of crafts; they develop responsibility and a sense of honor.

Scouting is a voluntary movement which has affected the lives of adults as well as boys. Many men in every community find great satisfaction and pleasure in being leaders in an organization which shapes character. The Boy Scouts of America have done a remarkable job in helping to assure that tomorrow's citizens will be good ones.

Welcome The Other Pair

One of the most lamented institutions to pass from the American scene in recent years is the two-pants suit. In thousands of closets across the land suit-coats which have outlived the niggardly ration of one pair of trousers stand as lonely and useless mourners of the day when most respectable suits had an extra pair. But clothing manufacturers strike a hopeful note with the news that more two-pants suits will be made and sold this year.

That the trousers of a man's suit wear out faster than his coat is a law as immutable as gravity. With the two-pants suits his coat and two pairs of trousers were out at about the same time and were usually neck and neck in the race away from the old clothes man.

Now, however, with but a single pair of pants, what to do with coats bereaved of trousers is a problem perplexing and distressing, one which the addition of contrasting slacks to the wardrobe does not entirely solve.

The world has drifted away from many sound institutions in recent years. Perhaps it will have to turn about slowly and retrace its steps to regain some of them. The return of the two-pants suit may be one good step.

Ancient Plow Woman

A spry old lady of 104 in Whitesburg, Ky., insists that she will do the surling plowing this year behind the family mule as she has done most of her life. She sees nothing particularly amazing about her desire to continue doing arduous labor after more than a century of life. Her attitude is refreshing in this day when work is too often regarded as a necessary but unpleasant part of living.

Few people can hope to have the stamina and energy to continue doing hard work into an advanced age. But work gives purpose to living and without purpose living to be quite old becomes futile and painful. When God decreed that man must earn his bread by the sweat of his brow he compensated for the toil by adding the sense of accomplishment that comes when the bread has been earned. At whatever age men approach work they can receive joy in payment for it if they know that work is a privilege and not a drudgery.

Florida Is Ready For Any Attempt At Germ Warfare

JACKSONVILLE—(Special)—Any attempt at biological warfare—one of the threatening weapons aimed directly at the home front in this atomic age—will find doctors and other public health personnel in Florida alerted to move in with the speed of a fire department.

The Florida State Board of Health said today that thousands of trained personnel in medical and public health ranks have been engaged in this civil defense task "for some months."

Dr. Wilson T. Bowler, State Health Officer with headquarters at Jacksonville, said today that "one of the principal counter-measures against biological warfare is the communicable disease reports prepared by state and federal health agencies in cooperation with private physicians, veterinarians and public health workers."

"These reports give us notice of any unusual health conditions about the state and can be used as a warning service of any evidence of biological warfare, enabling us to put counter-measures into effect at once," he stated.

Dr. Bowler said that the Florida State Board of Health and county health departments were following closely all recommendations of the federal civil defense

Valentine Girl Of 1951 Gaining Strength Now Following Cancer

ATLANTA (AP)—A frail little girl who won hearts around the world last year when she asked for a Valentine is stronger now and hopes she can help others Feb. 14.

A year ago, 13-year-old Jacquelyn Marro, confined to bed or a wheel chair and given only three months to live, wistfully hoped she "could be someone's Valentine."

Through the marvels of modern communication and the unpredictable wonder of human kindness, the wish was answered in staggering fashion.

About 1 1/2 million pieces of mail flooded the modest Marro home, literally causing the floors to sag. The waste paper alone filled school drives several hundred dollars.

More than 500 boxes of candy and other gifts poured in. Opening letters has gone on and on but still an estimated 50,000 envelopes remain sealed.

The candy and boxes were sent to orphan's homes and children's hospitals. Jackie, who can walk today, observed, in her gentle, halting way:

"I'm so glad I got the candy and Valentines because I could share them. I enjoy them more that way."

Her father, Arthur Marro, said it was a year ago, after the second of three brain operations, that the surgeon told him it was never and the child probably could live no more than three months. Since then he said, treatment has continued and the doctor can not be sure whether the malignant growth has operating surgeon was out of town today but his office confirmed there had been a diagnosis of can-

Mr. Truman's decision to take the newsmen on a tour of the reconstruction, which is costing around $1/2 million dollars, came as a surprise to them.

Reconstruction Finance Corp.
(RFC)

The committee Wednesday told the President firmly it will not vote on confirming McDonald while the House is investigating charges of fraud in the agency he now heads, the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). No accusations are aimed at McDonald himself.

Sen. Maybank (D-S.C.), who led a delegation to the White House to tell the President of the committee's decision, said Mr. Truman refused to "judge an inch" toward a compromise.

He said the President announced he would "run the RFC himself" if the deadlock continued much longer.

Maybank said he does not know how that is possible, but quoted Mr. Truman as saying he would do it through "an executive order."

One informed source, declining to be named, told a reporter the President had in mind an order temporarily placing the huge lending agency under the Commerce and Treasury Departments jointly.

A House commerce subcommittee is looking into charges by the House Judiciary Committee staff that fraud has marked some SEC policing of the nation's stock and bond markets. McDonald insists "the SEC is clean."

Miami Herald Raps Threat To News In State's Capitol

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The Miami Herald Wednesday called a threat to cut it off from Capitol news "another in a long series of attacks" on the press of Florida by Gov. Fuller Warren's administration.

George Beebe, the Herald's acting manager, said in a statement that the paper would continue to print a truthful report of state government activities "regardless of what action the governor may see fit to take."

Beebe replied to a letter to the editor of the Herald from Warren's press secretary, Loyal Compton, in which Compton said Herald columnist John Kilgore falsely wrote that the governor "fancies himself a capital L sort of liberal."

Compton said the governor and those authorized to speak for him would "decline to communicate with Kilgore or the Miami Herald" if they "publish one more lie about Governor Warren and refuse to correct or retract such lie upon being advised in writing that it is a lie."

Compton said the step "will be taken regretfully and reluctantly."

Warren and Compton have often objected to reports in the Herald and other newspapers, and nearly every Capitol reporter has received letters complaining about his choice of words in dispatches about the governor and the administration.

Beebe said Compton "long has made it a practice to bombard the Herald with letters and telegrams splitting hairs over stories involving the governor."

Kilgore said he had no comment on Compton's letter.

Warren would not say for publication how extensive he might attempt to make any ban on news to the Herald.

settlement of the Korean question, but will talk at discussing broader issues such as Communism.

A U. N. spokesman, Brig Gen William P. Nuccio, said the Allies dropped their demand that displace civilians be interviewed after "repeated Communist assurances" that all will be permitted to live wherever they wish.

The Communist concession on troop rotation narrowed to 15,000 the difference between Allied and Red figures.

Until Thursday the Reds had held out for the rotation of no more than 25,000 men a month in exchange for the rotation of the lines for Red leave and temporary assignments elsewhere. The new proposal would permit rotation of 25,000 over and above those leaving Korea for brief periods.

U. N. staff members at the Alamo rock bottom figure is 40,000.

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—An American Sabre jet pilot damaged two Red MIG jets in a 3-minute battle high over snow-capped North Korea today.

Lt. William C. Shofner of Wayne, Okla., riddled the two MIGs in a light involving 17 Sabres and 30 Red jets.

Shofner said the first MIG he tackled "was belching puffs of smoke as it crossed the Yalu," into the safety of Manchuria. He fired at another until his ammunition was exhausted. Shofner said the MIG was "hit in several places, but would not go down."

The Sabre jets were flying escort for Allied fighter bombers, which look to the skies as snow clouds cleared during the afternoon. Pilots reported cutting Red rail lines at 11 points and destroying or damaging 12 supply buildings.

U. N. raiding parties hit the Reds west of Chorwon, one-time anchor of the Communists' Iron Triangle. One unit fought two sharp 25-minute battles in the snow before returning to its own lines. The other reached its objective on high ground without trouble and returned while snow still was falling.

Red infantrymen made three small early morning probes of U. N. positions in the center and extreme east of the battle front, but pulled back under fire.

censors and seen by Welch himself.

"I personally gave Welch my word that The Associated Press made no bargain with the Communist correspondents who passed the camera along to Noel. As our first news story relating the incident explained, the Communists were anxious to give Noel the camera because of the propaganda value they saw in having a photographer of his standing taking pictures of American prisoners they held."

"We foresaw the heartwarming response with which the families of these unfortunate United Nations soldiers would receive the photos."

"Since the start of the talks last July, Communist and United Nations correspondents have met every day and discussed the news between the East and West in their efforts to get an armistice in Korea. These public meetings have been reported in the press of the world and were conducted with the full knowledge of Air Force Brig. Gen. William P. Nuccio, spokesman for the U. N. delegation. Welch headquarters PIO in Tokyo, has not been a percent there and any suggestion Welch makes is based purely on hearsay. If Welch is the person who made use of the camera as he would be would realize that a majority of them are either ex-World War II and that the security of our own is as important as that of the East."

4 Pro-Truman Men In Mississippi To Go On Trail Soon

JACKSON (AP)—Four pro-Truman Democrats charged with aiding scheduled to go on trial on Feb. 14, U. S. District Judge Allen Cox set the trial date Wednesday after dismissing indictments charging five pro-Trumanites with perjury growing out of the job sales investigation.

A special grand jury returned 21 indictments against 12 persons charging 12 with conspiring to sell federal jobs, six with actually selling jobs, and five with perjury for lying to a Senate subcommittee under oath.

Ten conspiracy indictments were thrown out, all five of the perjury indictments were overturned and two of the indictments charging actual job sales were dismissed.

Two other conspiracy defendants pleaded guilty. Only four indictments remain.

Judge Cox dismissed the job sales indictments against Roy Brashear and Jimmy Wilkinson because the indictments alleged they sold jobs that never existed.

He threw out the conspiracy indictments because of "inflammatory and prejudicial" language used in them and the perjury indictments because the government failed to include in them the name of the person who administered the oath.

Defense Concludes Case In Trail Of Barber Board Men

TAMPA (AP)—The defense was winding up its case today for two former members of the State Barber Board charged with taking a bribe.

Brown R. Raines of Jacksonville, board chairman at the time, is accused of taking $500 in marked bills in 1949 from Tracy B. Phillips, who was a candidate for a barber's license. Applicants must pass an examination and pay a $27 fee to get a license.

V. H. Selph of Lakeland is accused of arranging for Phillips to pay Raines $200.

Selph denied the charge from the witness stand Wednesday. He also produced many of Lakeland's most prominent citizens as character witnesses.

Raines had not been called to the stand when Wednesday's session ended.

Phillips said he was working in a Clearwater barber shop in July, 1949, when Selph made an inspection.

Phillips' testimony continued: Selph advised him to meet the board at Tampa the night before the next examination. Phillips went to Selph's hotel room that night, and Selph took him to Raines' room and left them.

"It cost you $500," Raines was quoted as saying.

Seining For Panfish In Three Lakes To Begin Immediately

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Commercial seining for panfish in three central Florida lakes will start as soon as a system of state control can be set up, but fishermen must wait until July 1 to stretch their nets in three other bodies of fresh water.

The State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission provided for the commercial seining of broom, crappie and perch in Lake Okechobee, Lake George and Crescent Lake from July 1 to March 1, annually.

But there were no specific seasonal dates set for the 3-year experimental seining program for Lake Harris and Equis in Lake county and Healy Lake in Polk.

Earl Frye, assistant game commission director, said strictly supervised seining will start on the Lake and Polk lakes "just as soon as we can get squared away."

"All commercial dealers will be given an opportunity to request seining permits for those lakes," he said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense mobilization officials were in a state of alert Wednesday morning, silent carpenters sawed, hammered and fitted the King's coffin from a great oak tree, felled months ago on the estate where he was born and died.

The body of the monarch, dead at 56 after years of strain and illness, is expected to lie in state for three or four days in the gray, 16th Century Sandringham Church, where he worshipped every Sunday.

Rep. Lanham (D. Ga.), said "I won't vote to continue the Defense Production Act" unless the order is cancelled.

Adenauer Reveals Promise Of NATO Membership

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told his Parliament today West Germany had been promised eventual membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). He called for French cooperation in settling the new Franco-German quarrel over the industrial Saar.

The 76-year-old Chancellor opened parliamentary debate on the issue of arming 300,000 to 400,000 German soldiers to join the projected European army against Communism. The issue is one of the hottest ones in postwar history and Adenauer faced the fight of his political life.

Outside, 500 shouting anti-rearmament demonstrators tried to march on the Parliament building but were driven back by police with water hoses. Inside Bundestag (lower house), Communist deputies boomed and heckled the Chancellor, who put forward the West German government's proposal to raise 12 German divisions for Western defense. Several times Adenauer threatened to oust leftist hecklers from the chamber.

Adenauer appealed to the French to head off a serious quarrel developing between Germany and France over the future of the coal-rich Saar. The Germans have accused the French of trying to annex the former German divisions for Western defense. France has a 50-year hold on the economy of the territory. Recently France appointed an ambassador to the Saar as she would to any independent country. The final status of the border territory will be decided in the German peace treaty.

One of Elizabeth's first and most saddening duties is to make arrangements for her father's funeral.

The Cabinet reportedly made tentative plans for the King's funeral to be held Feb. 18, one week from Monday, but the plans must be approved by the new Queen. After lying in state at Sandringham and in London, he will be buried from St. George's Chapel at Windsor Castle.

Already, the dutiful Elizabeth was Queen—from the moment of her father's death.

Average American Citizen Makes His Own Investigation Of Capital

By HAL BOYLE
WASHINGTON (AP)—Wilbur Peble, the average American citizen, is making his own investigation of the goings-on in the national capital.

Here is his latest report to his wife, Trellis Mae:

Dear honey,
Well, your old man is beginning to find his way around the great marble swamp.

Today I learned how to spot one of J. Edgar Hoover's boys. I managed to snag up a left-over Republican box lunch at a bargain, and I was eating it on a park bench when a young man carrying a briefcase walked by with an unimpressed air.

"Looks pretty suspicious," I said to a fellow on the bench. "He's on the way to pay off a bribe."

The fellow just laughed.

"You must be a stranger," he said. "That's an FBI man. You can always tell 'em. They're the only ones in town who still have the self-confidence to carry a briefcase."

After that I moseyed over to call our congressman. Did I tell you how to tell a congressman from a senator? The congressman is the one with the hungry look—he's hungry for the senator's job. There is another difference. A congressman always asks, "What can I do for you?" but a senator just listens to you and says, "That certainly is heart warming. Yes, sir, that is real heart warming." And then he wanders away feeling he has helped better your world.

As I was waiting in the ante-room I heard our congressman say to his secretary:

"What another constituent? What's this one want—smallpox? Get me my other jacket out of the closet—the one with the patched elbows. I don't want him to see me in this sport coat. You know how constituents always get the wrong idea."

After that I was ushered in to find my hand as eagerly as if I had had an oil well in it, and said:

"I just want you to know that it is only the sight of a friendly face from home that makes this whole job worth while."

"Hullo," I said.

He sat and brooded over that for a while. "Now, just what did you mean by that?"

Well, Trellis Mae, that's Washington for you. No matter what you say to a fellow here, he always suspects you didn't mean all you say or else didn't say all you mean. This is the capital city of the hidden meaning.

Our congressman was fretting over a mass of papers on his desk.

"Been working on my income tax return," he said. "Taxes! Taxes! I don't know how much longer I can afford to live in this country on the pittance the government pays me."

When I asked why he didn't have an expert from the Bureau of Internal Revenue to over it with him, he said:

"I did have one of those fellows helping me. But right now he's busy explaining his own 1940 return."

Well, I showed him a couple of deductions he didn't know about, and I never saw such gratitude in a man in public life.

"I got to do something for you," he said. "How about sitting me take you to a cocktail party?"

It didn't sound like much of a reward to me, but I went. Pretty dull. The buzz of gossip about the lady who arrived in a mink coat

Communist Party And Cemeteries Grow In Germany

By DANIEL DE LUCE
AP Newsfeatures
FRANKFURT, West Germany—This is the tale of two cities sharing the same name but not one destiny.

The cause of Frankfurt-on-Oder is still bleak after seven years of peace. It has lost nearly a third of its population. Two things are growing: the cemetery and the Communist party.

In the erstwhile ruined city of Frankfurt-on-Oder, the skyline is pierced by towering new buildings. The traffic din in its streets is like Times Square. Its population is back to pre-war size. Trade booms.

Both Frankfurts are occupied by foreign troops. On the Main, young Americans from Syracuse, the cinema, and Chattanooga square local girls to movies and dances, and patronize the big gift shops with gusto. On the Oder, the by suspicion of the Russian garrison is enforced by barbed wire and armed sentries. Fraternization is punished by court martial.

As always, Frankfurt-on-Oder faces east. The muddy river flows up towards the Baltic sea in Germany's new frontier with Poland. Beyond it is a security zone 20 miles deep where a stranger is hunted down like an animal by Polish guards and Soviet troops.

Rumor claims that anti-Red partisans hide out there. If so, they are far outnumbered by common sense. In an economy of want, desperate men risk their lives for a contraband pound of pork fat. On the river bank, Frankfurt handles in ragged, faded red banners, hailing Stalin and the Communist version of peace, hang over dreary streets. The chronic shortage of electricity is met by plunging the city into a darkness to match its spirit.

Westward 236 miles is another Frankfurt, traditionally larger and luckier.

Two cities were named for river gods which Frankish tribes discovered in ancient times. But Chateaugue, the greatest Frank died away after it turned out she was the wife of an Iowa soybean magnate.

The senators grouped together and talked about how awful it was to be a congressman and have to explain your mistakes to the voters every two years. And the congressmen bunched up and began telling jokes on the senators. The best was this one:

A senator visiting the United Nations building in New York met a pretty girl employee. She worked for UNESCO, which is an educational, cultural and so forth organization in the U. N.

"And where might you be from, my dear?" asked the senator gallantly.

"UNESCO, sir," she replied.

"UNESCO? Isn't that heart warming?" murmured the senator.

"I just want to say that's a mighty fine little country, young lady, and it certainly did a big job in the last war."

Well, so long, Trellis Mae. Tomorrow I'll write you about how nobody is anybody in Washington unless he owns a ghost and an Italian.

Your loving husband,
Wilbur.

Representing their state associations, and chosen for their outstanding merits while participating in the Future Farmers and Future Homemakers of America chapters, 12 youngsters will be given an all-expenses trip to the Florida State Fair, at Tampa, beginning Feb. 8. The trip is sponsored by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, in recognition of the vast importance the railroad has as well as recreational trip arranged and conducted by representatives of the Agricultural and Live Stock Department of the Atlantic Coast Line.

Encyclopedia On Bible In Hebrew Is Being Written

By ERIC GOTTFREDSON
AP Newsfeatures
JERUSALEM—Six thousand seven hundred articles on the Old Testament are being written by 50 Jewish scholars in Israel. They have set themselves the task of compiling the first Hebrew Encyclopedia in Hebrew—the language in which the book of books found its first form.

The new great collective enterprise reminds one of the famous affair of 22 monks and learned rabbis who, in Alexandria, at about 260 B.C., translated the Bible from Hebrew into Greek. Legend has it that the 72 wise men, who had been summoned by Ptolemy Philadelphus, completed their work—the Septuagint—in 70 days. Helped by the same divine inspiration, each had produced an identical translation although each had worked isolated in his cell.

The 50 modern Hebrew scholars hope to finish their job in five years. First of all, it is a job of biblical interpretation and explanation. But in one respect it is a work of translation as well—an English version of the Hebrew Encyclopedia is now being prepared.

Both editions are to be published by the Messias Biakik (Blahk Fund) of the Jewish Agency in Jerusalem and will comprise five volumes each. The first volume (in Hebrew) is already on the market—or, actually off the market—all copies were bought up as soon as they appeared. Also forthcoming volumes have been bought up by eager biblical students in advance.

Moche Gordon, the director of the Biakik Fund, told The Associated Press.

The editorial board of the encyclopedia is headed by the archaeologist, Prof. E. L. Sukenik of Hebrew University, famous for deciphering biblical manuscripts found by Bedouins in a cave near the Dead Sea and reputed to be more than 2,000 years old.

The five volumes will deal with all biblical events up to the beginning of the Hasmonaean (Maccabean) rule in 140 B.C. Included in the contents will be everything connected with the evolution of the Bible and research on it, reaching back to the beginning of writing as far as they pertain to the old Testament, and finally extending to the archeology, geography, history, folklore, culture and civilization of ancient Israel and the Middle East—a factor that reflect on biblical history.

Rent Rollback In Sanford In Effect Now, Says Bryant

Although the deadline to register rental housing accommodations is not until Mar. 9 in the Sanford area, the rent rollback is now in force, J. M. Bryant, Acting Area Rent Director, emphasized today.

That means, Mr. Bryant declared, that ordinarily landlords may not charge more than the rent they were collecting on May 1, 1951 without the written approval of the Rent Office.

Mr. Bryant said that some landlords apparently are under the impression that the new rent stabilization program doesn't go into effect after completion of registration.

"Although landlords are given 30 days to register their units," he explained, "the critical area rent stabilization program became effective on Jan. 21, 1952. After that date, landlords generally cannot collect rents greater than they were legally charging on May 1, 1951."

In instances where units were rented for the first time after May 1, 1951, the first rental charged thereafter is the maximum rent. Such rents, however, are subject to review by the Rent Office to see that they are not out of line with rents for comparable accommodations.

Similarly, landlords who improved their property after May 1, 1951, or increased services, will be allowed rental increases justified by the improvements. Landlords who have made improvements and who are in doubt as to the rent which they may charge, should visit the rent office at 2222 Merch Building, or telephone 298.

VA Office Gives Advice To GIs On Insurance Claims

PHILADELPHIA—A Veterans Administration official had this suggestion today for a certain GI insurance policy holder.

Get in touch with your bank. The advice was offered by H. C. Crosson, district manager of the VA office here, to Harold Hogen of Island Trees, N. Y. Hogen and his wife were breakfasting together Tuesday morning when she opened a letter that began:

"Dear Mrs. Hogen:

"We have learned with regret of the death of your husband, Harold."

The letter from the VA went on to explain that she could be filing on the enclosed forms, claim the death benefits due under Hogen's $40,000 GI insurance policy.

Obviously, Mr. and Mrs. Hogen agreed, there had been a mistake

Idaho Town Boasts The World's First Atomic Electric Power Plant

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK—Here is the easy formula for making electricity with atomic energy:

Stand in a treeless, gray-green, metal flows in pipe through water tank, water makes steam; steam runs engine, engine drives dynamo.

The only twist is done at Arco, Idaho, in the world's first atomic electric power plant.

In and around this formula are more secrets than ever wrapped up in one small space. The space at Arco is a brick and tile building about the size of a county courthouse. The structure is built like a box. It has no windows. It stands on a treeless, gray-green plain, and is half-covered by a desert, out of sight of anything except nearby mountains.

The first secret is what kind of metal will flow like water, without melting the coils of the pipe through which it runs, like an endless chain, out from the hot interior of the atom-splitting reactor, through the water boiler and back again.

Another secret is how that metal is kept from freezing a bit each while cooling the water. The water could be pumped, and it is that, both a secret and a surprise. The metal transfer of heat is a new field of engineering.

Another secret is the geometry of the position of the coil of uranium inside the reactor. Probably no rifle sight was ever more precisely positioned than it every inch of the coil or channel.

But, in this power reactor, we are trying to have each atom that splits create more than one atom of new fuel which will replace wherever they said they planned to ask the VA.

That's where the bank comes in. Crosson said today that some time ago Hogen mailed a check as payment of an insurance premium. VA processed the check, deposited it for payment and it was returned by Hogen's bank with the notation "Maker deceased."

That started the VA Claims Section action. Crosson explained VA begins contacting beneficiaries after receiving "any legitimate information" that a policy holder is dead.

The VA is done, Crosson said, to help the beneficiaries receive the maximum payments in the shortest possible time. Very often, if the VA can't locate the widow, she gets the death benefits due under Hogen's policy.

Obviously, Mr. and Mrs. Hogen agreed, there had been a mistake

what we burn, and leave an excess that will build up everyday, every year, all through time. The margin for doing this industrial miracle is so slight that the position of the heating coils interferes and might ruin the attempt.

Arco is making only enough electricity to light its own small building and run a few motors. The electric output is insignificant. But if the dual purpose plant succeeds, the process can be applied to the great power plants of the future.

If Arco fails, then there will not be an atomic age for very long. Because there is not enough uranium to operate power plants for the entire world, in fact not even enough in sight to supply all the power the United States will want.

The uranium has to create new fuel as you burn it, and when the uranium is gone, the plutonium that never plants made has to continue the miracle. This is not perpetual motion, it is not lifting yourself by your bootstraps, it is not having your cake and eating it.

Plutonium will not make more plutonium out of plutonium. The fuel creation process requires a raw material, which uranium or plutonium can supply. There are only two such raw materials. One is the form of uranium which does not split and does not make fission. The other is thorium. Both are so plentiful that if the little Arco power plant succeeds atomic power from splitting will last for centuries.

At Arco we are starting the power experiment with uranium. Plutonium will give the same heat and power as uranium.

There have been official hints that the plutonium will do even better than uranium. Arco plans to switch to plutonium if the uranium experiment succeeds.

We are making plutonium for bombs in four large reactors in the state of Washington. But in those reactors, for every atom of uranium split, less than one atom of plutonium is created. This is a tremendous waste in view of the fact that the uranium so used up in Washington state is itself capable of making good bombs. The waste has never been fully explained, except that it was a wartime necessity. This waste remains a necessity until the Arco plant can show how to stop it.

When Arco succeeds, we shall be able, if we wish, to make our A-bombs in the same reactors that give us power for big cities and for industry. The excess fuel can be used for all the bombs we need. Then we shall have both power unlimited and A-bombs unlimited.

Huertgen Forest People Still Fear Another Conflict

By WILLY M. HORBACH
AP Newfeatures

VOSSENACK, Germany—Seven years after the war, danger and death still shadow the daily life of inhabitants of this little Huertgen forest village in the Eifel mountains, near the Belgian border.

For war at its fiercest passed this way. Ask any American GI or German soldier who survived the battles of the Huertgen forest. And even now hidden mines, dud bombs and other explosives are found by the score in the region.

When the Allied forces crossed the German border near Aachen in the fall of 1944, Germany hurried most of her remaining troops in the West against the attacker. In the hilly woodlands of the Eifel, backed by the armored forts of the Siegfried Line, the German Wehrmacht checked the American advance.

Bloody weeks of hand-to-hand fighting, murderous artillery barrages and air bombardment followed. Every inch of the "Huertgenwald"—soon called the Devil's Forest by battle-tired, desperate and exhausted GIs—was soaked with blood.

In the twilight of these one-beautiful woods 50,000 American and German soldiers lost their lives. And even now farmers, lumberjacks, and members of mine-clearing squads are being killed or crippled by hidden explosives.

Most dangerous of all is the Wild Bear Ridge, northeast of Vossenack. It is still "off limits" and may be entered only by the mine squads. Several thousand mines have been found here in the last few months, most of them made of plastic to evade the searching "feeler" of the mine detector.

Wild Bear Ridge still looks like it had been hit by a string of atomic bombs. No tree, no blade of grass was spared by the fury of the murderous battle. Turn tree trunks from against a grey, cloudy sky, typical for this region, their branches twisted to haunting images of the hands of fallen soldiers.

Reconstruction proved almost impossible. Only one part of the Devil's Forest, the Gerneter Ridge, has been cleared and reconverted to farmland for a group of settlers brought there by the government. So extensive is the damage to the Eifel forests that the government plans to build a factory just for the production of tar, the wood for being taken from the destroyed trees.

These Women

Next time you meet a blindman, you'll probably be amazed at the way he is able to handle himself. In fact, you'll probably tell him so, and you'll probably go away impressed by his manner, his good humor and his poise.

Chances are that this man, as a matter of self-protection, has taken a special course in the finer art of coping, politely and patiently, with people who can see.

The American Foundation for the Blind has compiled a list of "don'ts" for persons in casual contact with the blind. It is unfortunately true, however, that there are about two blind persons for every 1,200 of the population and, as a consequence, most of the population doesn't remember—if it's ever seen—the rules. So it is that most of the nation's 10 million—or "adjustment"—centers for the blind have tried to solve the problem by equipping the blind with an understanding of the average, unthinking reactions of the person with eyesight to blindness.

A young Dutch psychologist named Herman Roose, now traveling the United States on a United Nations fellowship, thinks this course is one of the most valuable projects he can take back for adaptation by the blind of his country.

There seem to be certain subconscious reactions by some people when in contact with persons who are blind. One of them, Roose said, is a tendency to shout, as if the blind person were also deaf. This tendency, however, is not limited to the blind alone. Most of us, if we don't stop to think, also speak more loudly to people with a faulty or sketchy knowledge of English, as if added details would add to their understanding.

Another apparently normal reaction is a tendency to address conversation concerning the blind person to his companion who can see. Frequently a host will remark to another person, "How many lumps of sugar does Henry like in his coffee?" Henry, if he's been trained to handle the situation, knows how to jump into the conversation and get over this distressing bottleneck.

Reactions to the blind are explained and probed in this course, so that the blind person has perception and understanding of the fumbling rudeness, the domineering motivated by sympathy and habited the Huertgen Kreis (county) before the war. In 1945 only 4,000 were left. Only 10 per cent of its buildings remained intact, most others were destroyed completely. Damage to private houses, the property runs up to 75 million dollars. One third of the farmland was left waste.

Sergeant Recovering Following Wound

LONG BEACH, Cal. (AP)—Army Sgt. Roger E. Haag, 31, believes he owes his life to a Bible, five pints of blood plasma and a tape recording.

Haag was wounded in the chest while attacking a Communist-held ridge in Korea. A Bible he had in his breast pocket turned much of the shrapnel from his heart and kept his severe wounds from being fatal.

Hospitalized in Japan, the sergeant was kept alive by plasma. But nurses reported the youth seemed morose, wouldn't take medicine and spoke to no one.

As a last resort a tape recording of his parents' voices was flown to his bedside. As he listened through earphones, a smile spread over his face. Worried nurses told him later that they knew then the biggest part of their battle was over.

the downright offensive solitude so frequently encountered. However, in case you run into a blind man or woman in the near future, here are some things to avoid, in some instances, they apply pretty well to persons handicapped in other ways and even to some elderly ones.

Don't talk to him as though he were deaf. Don't express sympathy for him. Don't be afraid to use the word in his hearing. "are" in his presence. Don't give him more help than he actually needs; usually placing his hand on some leading object is enough to give him his bearings to go on by himself.

Don't push him when walking; merely offer your arm and then walk in as straight a line as possible. Don't enter a room where he is without speaking—and be sure to identify yourself. Tell him when you're leaving, too.

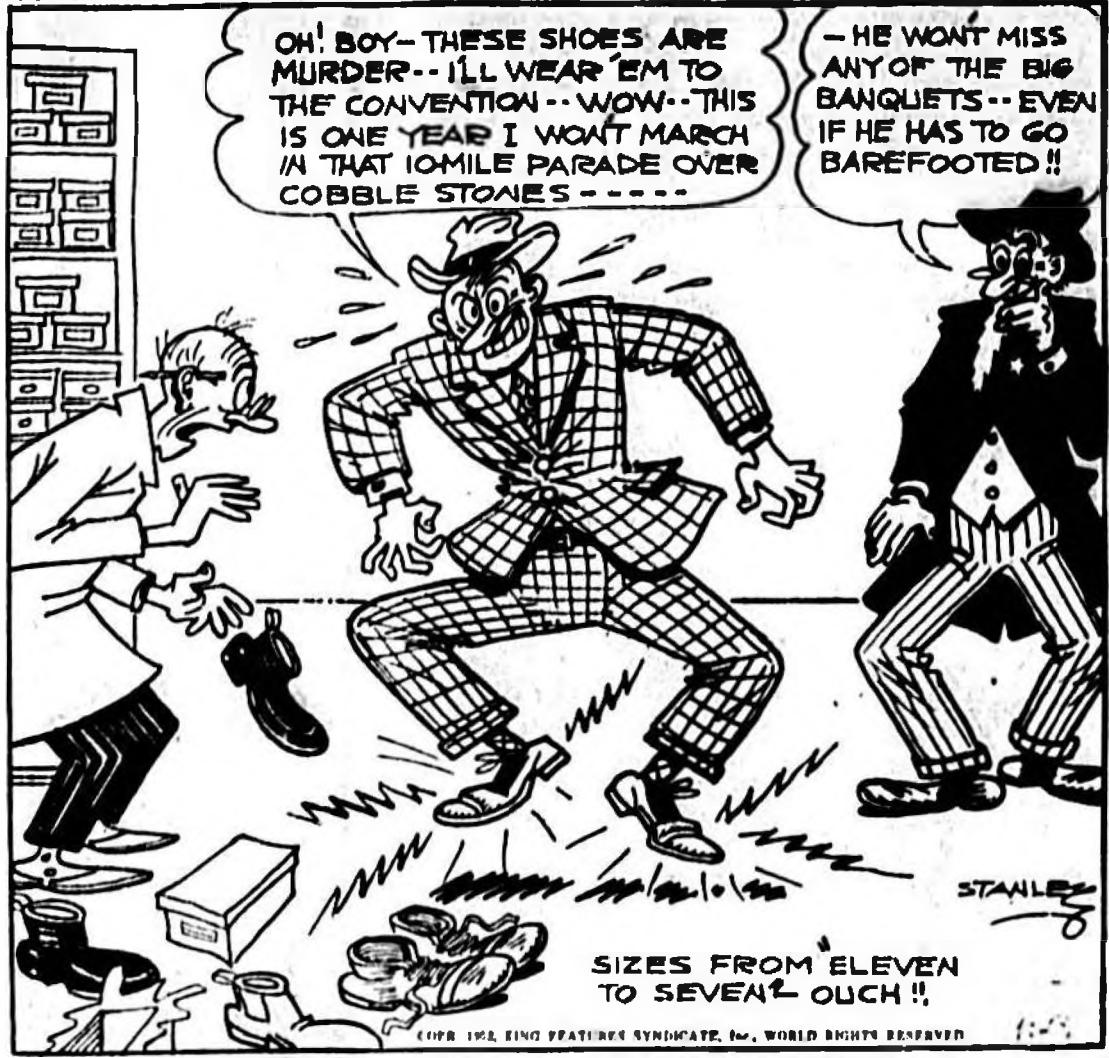

Don't talk about him to others as if he were not there; address him directly. Don't exclaim about how wonderful or marvelous it is for a blind person to do ordinary things. Don't talk about an "extra sense" or "practical compensation" supplied by ears, touch or smell.

Above all, don't patronize; always be natural and never fall in real kindness.

LATVIAN BACKTRACKS STOCKHOLM, Sweden—Swedish police say that under their questioning a husky young Latvian lumberman Tuesday night canceled his story that he was hired to the Soviet embassy to be kidnaped to Russia.

The police said he had only changed his mind quite suddenly about returning to his homeland, which is part of Russia, and fled the Soviet embassy where he had gone voluntarily to arrange re-

Inside WASHINGTON MARCH OF EVENTS

Kefauver Really Aiming At Vice President Post? Tennessee Senator Holds Appeal for Dixie Demos

WASHINGTON—Washington political observers watching the maneuverings of Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee as a Democratic presidential aspirant believe he is jockeying himself into an excellent chance for the vice presidential spot should President Truman decide to run again for the White House.

They feel he can gather enough backing and show sufficient strength at the Democratic convention to bargain for the vice presidential nomination.

In addition, the former House member, who upset the powerful Crump machine to win his Senate seat, has an impressive record as a "crime buster" to offset Republican charges of corruption in the Truman administration.

Furthermore, Kefauver comes from a border state—a fact which would appeal to many Southern Democrats. Democrats, however, are still not ruling out Vice President Alben Barkley as a candidate to hold his office despite the fact he is over 70. Barkley's recent trip to the Korean front lines was seen as a move on the Natchezian's part to counter talk that he is too old to campaign actively.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN—Administration Democrats look wistfully today back to 1951, when a switch of three Senate votes might have opened President Truman the embarrassment of the present Income Tax Bureau scandals.

Woodrow Wilson, then President, asked the Senate when it enacted the original federal income tax law, to place the Internal Revenue collectors, deputy collectors and inspectors under Civil Service. It was rejected on two separate votes, 37 to 32, even though the Senate was under Democratic control.

Since then, the top-eight posts in the Bureau have gone to political appointees and this is believed responsible for the current wave of scandal brought out by the House hearings.

Now, President Truman is asking Congress to place the tax collectors under Civil Service, but a lot of Democrats feel that the action comes 28 years too late.

FOREIGN AID CUT—Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder's hard words to the European finance ministers at the last North Atlantic Treaty Conference are finding substance in the current request for funds for foreign aid.

Current reports are that President Truman will ask Congress for no more than it approved last year. This is about a billion dollars below the ECA estimate of needs in January, 1951.

At the Rome meeting last October, Snyder told the gathered diplomats and financial experts the United States was having its own economic problems—it couldn't afford to continue pouring funds into the foreign economies.

Treasury officials are skeptical about using the funds to force foreign governments into following United States foreign policy. They feel that such steps would be largely ineffectual and would hurt our prestige abroad.

CONSUMER SHORTAGES—Government officials have uncovered some new consumer shortages in a recent survey.

Items which are becoming scarce for the average buyer are pressure canners, automobile batteries, tire chains, galvanized ware, barbed wire, nails and thermos bottles.

The officials say the shortages are not acute and have not yet become a serious problem. However, they expect similar shortages to develop in the next few months even though the problems of World War II are anticipated.

STEALM THUNDER coming Sunday would be "The Creative Process".

LOUP CITY, Neb. (AP)—The Rev. Culver J. Warner, pastor of Loup City's Methodist Church, announced his sermon topic for a 7½ pound daughter.

Truman Seen Not Planning To Run Again

Closter Associates Interpret Latest Remark As Sign Of Wanting To Retire

By The Associated Press
President Truman's news conference comment that he's going to let the political river take its course has been interpreted by some of his closest friends as an indication he does not plan to run again.

Jack Bell, Associated Press political reporter, says he has learned from a close associate of the President that Mr. Truman's inner circle expects he will step aside at the proper time and name his choice of a successor—barring unforeseen developments.

The President is said to believe the Republicans will nominate Sen. Taft of Ohio, and that the Democrats have a good chance to defeat him in November's election.

T. E. Tucker presided.

Road Department To Check No. 1 Time

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—State Road Department experts are going to make another check of the time it takes an automobile to get from Jacksonville to Miami on U. S. Highway No. 1.

The tests are part of a Road Department survey aimed at determining the need for a high-speed toll highway linking Miami and Jacksonville and bypassing smaller cities along the way.

The department also announced plans to inspect the Overseas Highway between Key West and Miami with an eye to flooding out how much it will cost to maintain it if it becomes toll-free and come under jurisdiction of the road agency.

When Seining Starts Nimrods May Take Over The 25 Limit

However, anglers will have to take all pan fish over the bag limit to an approved checking station for tagging. The excess fish cannot be sold by sport fishermen unless they hold retail fish dealer's licenses.

The limit of 25 on black bass, pickerel and pike commonly known as jackfish, will remain in effect despite the opening of the lakes to seining. No more than eight of this class of gamefish can be black bass.

When Seining Starts Nimrods May Take Over The 25 Limit

The purpose of the tagging is to prevent sale of fish from prohibited waters under claims they were taken from open lakes.

The tags, which will carry a printed message that the fish have been taken legally, will be designed for use only once. They will automatically destroy themselves when removed from fish.
