TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE
Our real enemies sometimes take innocent forms. He not deceived by outward glories.
Stand against the will of the devil.—Ephesians 6:11.

What this country needs is not necessarily a good five cent cigar, but a good five cent piece.

At the rate the Korean War is going, it may some day be referred to as the longest war in our history.

We like everything about Miss America except her fondness for Mr. Truman who she thinks is "the outstanding American today".

"One always receiving, never giving, is like a stagnant pool, in which whatever flows remains, whatever remains corrupts", someone has said.

The government is reported to be spending some $5,000,000 reconditioning Camp Handing, principal induction center for this area during the last war.

We were delighted the other day when someone suggested to us that we should write a column for the Sanford Herald like the one we write for the Orlando Sentinel.

The county of Wakulla has a new health center and medical clinic costing $120,000. The federal government is putting up 60 percent of the cost; the county is providing the rest.

Two Negroes enjoying themselves of them is dead, the other accused that the Negroes have to fear in the South, but each other.

Florida won the "Miss America" contest after all. Miss Neva Langley, although she was known as "Miss Georgia" because she is a music student at the Wesleyan Conservatory in Macon, Ga., really lives

More than 4,000,000 persons now drawing Social Security payments will get a pay raise this month. The old folks will get $5 to $8.60 a month more, and dependent children will get about $2.50 to $6 a month more. That will help but it will not offset the increased cost of living. And the only way for them to get any benefit out of the increased assistance is to keep the cost of living from going still higher.

Former Vice President Wallace explains where he made his mistake with respect to the Russians. "I thought they really wanted peace," says the naive Mr. Wallace. "Time has brought me to a new understanding," he continues. "Russia may not want a hot war, but she certainly wants a continuation of the cold war as will enable her to take the greatest amount of territory possible." Mr. Wallace has his eyes open. A little late perhaps, but if Mr. Wallace can see, everyone should be able to see.

Senator Smathers' Stand

From Senator George Smathers comes a statement of his position with respect to the presidential campaign. Friends throughout Florida will remember that he campaigned vigorously two years ago against former Senator Claude Pepper with many of the Truman platform planks as the chief issues.

It is especially interesting, therefore, to see what the Senator says now with respect to the Democratic presidential candidate.

"I have not completed almost pleasant talk with Governor Stevenson, Senator Smathers says. "The American people are indeed fortunate this year in having the opportunity to choose a President from such able patriots as Governor Stevenson and General Eisenhower.

"At the recent Democratic Convention those of us who believe in the principles of Thomas Jefferson defended the efforts of the militants who again sought to seize control of our party. This is no time therefore, to retreat and forfeit those victories recently gained within our party.

"I shall support Governor Stevenson and the Democratic ticket even though I find myself in disagreement with the Governor and the Platform on certain issues. However, it is the Congress not the President who makes the laws. Victory for the Democrats will insure the continuation in the Congress of that leadership which has in recent years upheld the principles of local self-government and freedom of the individual.

"I applaud the monumental gains achieved by the Democratic administration for the average citizen during the past twenty years. However, in more recent years I have deplored and resisted the attempts by the Executive Branch of our government to make of the government and the Democratic Party, the spear of certain vocal and well-organized special interest groups. After talking with Governor Stevenson I feel reassured on these points.

"From his conversation I conclude that he will vigorously clean house; that he will strive for a government that has equal respect for the rights of all our citizens regardless of their economic status, geographic location, national origin or religious affiliation.

"Obviously, Governor Stevenson is a man of great courage and independence."

No Favorites

In Springfield, New Jersey, a traffic officer recently observed his brother's car parked illegally. It must have been a temptation for him to turn his back on the offense but he tagged the car with a ticket. The next day he paid the one dollar fine himself.

Had the policeman ignored his brother's violation he would have been forced to let other traffic offenders on his beat get away without giving them tickets. The sight of one car parked illegally is an irresistible lure to others who can't seem to find parking places. It takes only a few improperly parked cars to slow up traffic along an entire street.

In a town or a city where illegal parking is allowed to go unpunished, where traffic tickets can be "fixed," the position of the policeman becomes embarrassing. Sometimes even honest policemen are discouraged from doing their duty when they discover that their tickets are nullified.

When the word gets around Springfield, New Jersey, about the cop who put a ticket on his own brother's car, violators will be careful to steer clear of the area he patrols. Because he demonstrated that he plays no favorites, the entire police force of Springfield will be credited with the same integrity. His job and the jobs of all his brother officers will be made easier. The amount of good one man who does what he knows to be right can do is sometimes amazing.

Alaskan Defense

The defense of Alaska is essential to the security of the entire country. That is why it is particularly reassuring to hear the report of General Omar Bradley who has just returned from an inspection of our Alaskan defenses. General Bradley was impressed with the readiness of our forces there to meet any emergency. Both he and other officers with knowledge of the area have admitted that there is still much to be done there.

Alaska is a valuable contributor to the economy of the United States as well as a highly strategic base of operations. In the event that war with Russia should come Alaska would provide bases from which bombers could take off and carry the war to the enemy. Because of its position and importance some observers have felt Alaska might be the first target should Soviet aggression come.

At the outbreak of World War II American troops at far flung outposts bore the brunt of the enemy attack until America could get ready to fight back. At Wake, Midway, Guam and in the Philippines our troops were inadequate in numbers and were poorly equipped. It is encouraging to learn that the bitter lesson learned a teach a high price has not been forgotten. Alaska deserves attention in our defense preparation and it seems to be getting it.

THE WORLD TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Taft can afford to be calm about the kind of support he gives Gen. Eisenhower. He is one of those fortunate men who no longer has to be troubled by ambition.

He has abandoned hope for the one job he desired above all others: the presidency. It is an "if" proposition. If the general wins, could offer Taft any other spot he likes as well as his present job in the Senate.

No other job would give him such a forum for his views and opinions, which he likes to express. And he has a following which shares his views.

His Senate job—he was elected in 1950 to a six-year term—is safe for another four years. He is 63 now.

The fact that the majority of the Republican party, as represented by delegates to the National Convention, turned him down in favor of Eisenhower doesn't necessarily mean the majority doesn't share his views.

It may have chosen the general because it thought he had a better chance of winning in November. Taft from his own position, clearly mean the majority doesn't share his views.

This does not seem to have made even a slight dent in his thinking. He has indicated in no way that he has changed. And he knows he represents the thinking of many Republicans who might have preferred him as a candidate.

For two weeks now at least there has been increasing talk—on an on-again and off-again basis—that he was going to confer with Eisenhower, who has apparently been anxious to have him campaign vigorously.

Several times, without committing himself to any promises of leaving the bushes for the man who beat him in Chicago, Taft said he wants to talk with the general to learn his views and what he'd do if elected.

This hesitancy of Taft's leaves the door open for him to decline such speaking tour if he doesn't hear from Eisenhower what he wants to hear.

If Taft stays out of it and Eisenhower wins, the general's supporters will, it seems sure, try to topple Taft from his present position of Republican leader in the Senate.

If Eisenhower makes commitments to Taft and then goes on to win, with Taft's help, Taft would be in a better position to keep his Senate leadership post.

Sanford, Florida
Dear Mr. Dean,

As I am leaving for Mountain Home, Tenn. today, I wish to ask you to please print a few lines in your paper for the people of Sanford and Seminole County to read.

When I came home from Thomasville, Ga. VA Dom, May 6, 1952 I was without a home or place to stay. Capt. White of the Salvation Army local corps, took me in, and saw I had food, clothes and a bed.

Now sir, this is my way of saying thanks to all of you citizens who gave to the Salvation Army so that Elmer might live until he could return to a VA home for disabled soldiers. I would have been glad to have been able to have stayed near my mother, Mrs. Arlee Banks, through her illness. But conditions beyond my control make that impossible.

So for the present time this will be my goodbye to all my good kind friends. May God bless and keep you all until we meet again.

Yours very truly

Rabbits That Walk In Awkward Style Are Aiding Science

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—Freak rabbits which can't hop but instead wobble like dachshund dogs are giving new aid in the study of certain human diseases.

This was reported today at the opening of a three-day meeting of the American Institute of Biological Sciences on the campus of Cornell University, one of the nation's centers of biological research.

"Instead of hopping like a normal rabbit, these rabbits have a shortness of the upper limbs and a peculiar undulating (wavy) type of locomotion resembling that of the dachshund dog," the biologists were told by researchers P. B. Sawin and D. J. Crary of the Jackson Memorial Laboratory, Bar Harbor, Me.

Explaining that the rabbits acquired their dachshund-like super structures as a result of a "mutation" or change in certain hereditary cells which normally make for run of the meadow rabbits, the scientists said this:

Because of their abnormality, the rabbits have been added to a menagerie of other animal "mutants" being studied at the Bar Harbor Laboratory in the quest for new understanding of such human abnormalities as epilepsy, locomotor ataxia, a nerve condition marked by disorders in gait; and D. J. Crary of the Jackson Memorial Laboratory, Bar Harbor, Me.

The researchers said the elongated rabbits of the no-hoper tendency showed up as variants of a strain of New Zealand white rabbits domiciled in California.

The unorthodox characteristics were classified as "recessive"—that is, the peculiar rabbits don't show up in every generation.

The strain of a gene mutation is expressed in abnormal development of cartilage in various parts of the body—and some bunnies even have deformed skulls.

The researchers said that in general, the rabbits are being used in connection with hereditary studies of both normal and abnormal growth.

Big Loss Reported In Traffic Accidents

Florida's economic loss from traffic accidents has already reached the staggering total of $81,000,000 during the first eight months of 1952, Safety Director H. N. Kirkman revealed today.

In commenting on the figure Kirkman said "Statistics will show that there are approximately 310 automobile accidents in our state for every fatal accident which occurs, and adding to this the hospitalization costs, medical care, insurance, loss of time, and compensation for injuries it costs this state in the neighborhood of $90,000 for every death."

The Safety Director stated that through September 8 there had been recorded in the Department of Public Safety 611 deaths, and that with four months to go until the end of the year, it is imperative that every driver and pedestrian give ample thought to his and others' safety so that the terrible cost of lives and monies could be appreciably reduced.

"It is possible to have a reduction in the number of deaths this year over last," concluded Kirkman, "by every driver practicing just simple courtesy on the highways."

The bagpipes, "drones," or tubes, are capable of only one note.

Installment Credit Now Approaching 15 Billion Figure

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The debt Americans owe on the things they are buying on time continues to climb. It is at a record high and approaching 15 billion dollars, the Federal Reserve Board reports.

Installment credit jumped 494 million dollars in May after the board removed curbs on it. June saw another jump of 558 million dollars, and July added 327 million. Americans now owe nearly two billion dollars more for their on-the-stuff purchases than they did a year ago.

The recent sharp increase in time buying shows up in other ways than in Federal Reserve statistics. It accounts for some of the improvement in retail sales of furniture, appliances, and autos—to the delight of the retailers involved.

And the better retail sales volume is now working back in the manufacturers of furniture and appliances, who are more optimistic now and predicting better days ahead.

But the growth of installment credit worries some in the business world who think 15 billion dollars is a lot of debt for American consumers to be shouldering. The monthly payments drain pocket-books of cash for current purchases. And installment debt would become an acute problem if time turned bad and workers were laid off, and thus be unable to keep up payments.

Installment credit firms, however, stress the argument that such credit is the only way to provide a market for the mass production of American goods.

The argument is based on human nature. "People wouldn't save the money needed to pay cash and therefore wouldn't buy the goods. But when they have to meet a monthly payment or give up the car or gadget they crave, people will save the purchase price over the period the payments run."

The Northern Trust Company of Chicago points out in its September business comment that the need to keep up payments may actually make people work harder. "Time-buying also channels spending into the article where mass production is so essential for lower prices."

The Chicago bank quotes Federal Reserve figures to show that nearly one fourth of all American families bought something or other on time during 1951. More than half of car purchases are made on installment or other borrowing. And around half of the furniture and major household appliances

PHONE RATE HEARING

MIAMI (AP)—The Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission will open a hearing here Monday on 10-cent pay station calls and other telephone rate increases.

The Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. seeks higher rates to raise $1,145,000 which it claims needed to cover wage increases. In addition to doubling the nickel pay station fee, the schedule calls for raising charges for private such exchanges, wiring plans, service terminals, and other changes, teletypewriters and other classes of service.

While the amount of money owed is much higher now than before World War II, the AFC says that the ratio of installment credit to national income is lower than that reached in 1929 through 1941. Therefore, AFC says, installment debt increases should cause no alarm.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD — "You ain't hard nothin' yet, folks. Listen to this."
Those words rank with "What Hath God Wrought" in their importance to the entertainment industry. They were spoken almost 25 years ago by a blackfaced minstrel named Al Johnson in the first talking picture, "The Jazz Singer." The picture premiered on Oct. 6, 1927, at the Warner Theater in New York. It revolutionized an industry.

"The Jazz Singer" is again being made by Warner Brothers. By turn of fate, a number of men who worked on the original picture are today helping to make the new version. I asked some of them for their memories of the Johnson film.
"The picture almost wasn't made," remarked Harold McLeod, who cut "The Jazz Singer" and is now head of the Warner's editing department. "Most people do not know that D. W. Griffith once tried to make a picture with Johnson. After Johnson saw the first couple of days' work on film, he was so disappointed that he took off for Europe and never returned to the picture."
"After watching the first few days of film for 'The Jazz Singer,' Johnson was again disappointed. He didn't realize that as the film he saw of himself wouldn't be

Central Baptists Have Supper Meeting

The Adult Bible Class of the Central Baptist Church held its regular business meeting recently at the home of Fred Young in the Wekiva River. An announcement was made that if necessary will be cancelled at the next regular meeting.

Those enjoying the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin O. Keith, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Brain and Mrs. Ed Davis, Mrs. C. J. Wilson, Mrs. S. L. Whitley, Mrs. Lora Taylor, Mrs. D. L. used. He was ready to quit. But as urged him to wait until he could see some of the film as it would appear in theaters.
"The Warner Brothers were desperate because they had sunk all their money into the sound experiment. So I stayed up all night to cut enough of the picture for Johnson to see. He looked at the first morning and agreed to stay. If he hadn't, sound might have been set back for years."

Electrician Ralph Owen recalled that the sound equipment, which lasted only six months in the picture, were shot in a tin covered stage. "We had trouble lighting the scenes, because the old lamps made too much noise," he said.
"Noise was a big problem. The director (Alan Crosland) would run around waving a handkerchief for silence. The camera was in a big booth that looked like an iceberg. The sound was recorded on a thick disc of wax. If one take was ruined, a layer of wax was shaved off and we tried again."
Herbert (Limpy) Pless, prop man for the original film, performs the same duties on the present one. He recalled that George Jessel, who created "The Jazz Singer" on the stage, almost played it on the screen. "But Crosland and J. L. Warner wanted Johnson, who was the biggest thing in show business then," Limpy said.
The biggest problem I had was hiding the microphone in those days, the mike had to be right in front, so we had to hide it behind curtains or flowers or something.
"All of us on the picture knew how important it was, but a lot of other people didn't. They said sound pictures were just a fad."
Louie Ruben, who started as a stage hand 45 years ago, has worked on both versions of "The Jazz Singer." He also worked on a Jolson stage show, "Honeymoon Express."
"Al was a regular guy," he remembered. "All the crew liked him. He'd get right down on his knees, but not to sing a mammy song. He'd shoot craps with the rest of us."

Love And Hate Are Found Reflected By 2 Statuettes

By HAL ROYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Old Jones, the big, a-bac dealer, had noticed the two young friends for years. They had made a habit of sitting during their lunch hour, first to look at the curies in his window. When Jones first had noticed them they looked like young men skipping to work both ends meet. But lately they had a prosperous air and the short, thin young man said brusquely:

"These two little stone statues in the window—let's see them." Old Jones immediately took a strong dislike to him, and decided he liked the other, taller young man, who stood in silence, half-smiling. Jones lifted the two objects from the window, and held them out, one in each palm.

The first was incredibly tiny, with a face contorted in great pain. The second was of a girl incredibly fair and innocent.

"They are forgotten tribal idols," explained Jones. "The one with the grudge on its head, the god of vengeance. The legend is that if you pray to it he will destroy any one you want put out of the way. The girl is Huma, goddess of love. Pray to her and you can win any woman's heart—so those who worshiped her believed."

The tall young man picked up Huma. The thin young man picked up Ibad, and a speculative look came into his eyes.

"I like him," he said. "He fascinates me."

"You ought to go more for Huma, George," said his friend. "I'm married and don't need her—but as a bachelor, she might be able to help you. What would you want Hira for anyway? You don't hate anybody?"

"Everybody has a reason for hating somebody, John," said the short man.

The handed back the statues. John thanked Old Jones, and they left.

Just before the store closed that evening the thin young man entered alone. He asked the price of that little statue we saw to day."

"It's $25," said the dealer, reaching for Huma.

"No—not her! The other one!" exclaimed George impatiently.

"Hira?" hesitated Old Jones.

"He's $50."

"Why?" bridled the young man.

"Hate is always more expensive than love," said Jones. "I don't really believe in legends, but I am not enough to know that but legends always bring bad luck to someone. Hira does no harm here where I can watch him."

"Nonsense," said the young man. An expression of utter evil came over his face as he could man reluctantly bent to wrap his purchase. Jones glanced up and saw it, and shook his head.

Summer passed, and then the

The actual date of signing the ticket and claiming the Miami election was June 28, not July 29, Kilgore, who writes for the Democrat under the name of John Neigh, had attempted to start out a conference by telling Compton he knew the date was wrong. He said later substitution of "July" for "June" was a mistake.

Compton wouldn't listen until he got his recorder set up and then he took the initiative in the discussion. He said he would have no comment on any phase of the matter until Kilgore corrected the error.

The date was given correctly in a story written by Kilgore for the Miami Herald but Compton refused to comment on that article. "I don't want to read it," he said when a reporter attempted to hand him the Herald clipping. "That's all I have nothing further to say," he said. "I have no comment on any phase of it until John Kilgore has corrected his false statement."

He ended the conference by clicking off his recorder.

RAISING SUN FLAG UNFURLED

TOKYO (AP)—A young political firebrand unfurled the Rising Sun flag, indomitable Tokyo today and played a record of the wartime "Navy March" from a float. Then he made a stirring election speech.

In a crowd that dwindled from 150 to about 75 while he spoke. As far as could be learned, it was the first time the Gunkan-Ki—the red-rayed banner of the old imperial navy—had been flown in Tokyo since World War II.

The speaker was Wataru Shimizu, an ultra-Nationalist who is pan-Yankee People's Independent winter, and Jones saw no more of the two young friends. Then on a spring day the thin young man came in again alone.

"I don't need Hira anymore," smiling, he untied a little parcel and put the small ugly god of hate on the counter.

"I don't need Hira anymore," he said. "I want to trade him back to you for Huma."

"I'm glad of that," said the old dealer.

"Will Huma melt the heart of a young widow?" asked the young man cheerfully.

"They say she will," Jones. "But I don't guarantee it."

"As he wrapped the tiny goddess, he asked:

"By the way, where is your friend—the one you called John?"

"I haven't seen him for months."

"You mean my former partner?" said the thin young man, and paused. "He—he—well, he died. Quite unexpected."

The old man looked at the young man and the young man's eyes shined under his stare. Silently Jones unwrapped Huma and put her back in the window.

"What are you doing?" cried the young man, flushing.

"The goddess of love isn't for sale," said Old Jones. "You wanted Hira, and now you will have to live with him. Hira never leaves a heart he enters."

utilities that may be in the way within the city limits east of Melonville Avenue in the Geneva Avenue, Highway 40 Improvement project, was approved.

Mr. Lemon was asked to study a proposal by Flood Palmer, fraternal insurance Co. representative, to increase the life insurance on City employees from $5,000 to $10,000 and to include hospital insurance.

Terence V. Brown of the National Guard appealed to the City to purchase the land at the Army and supplying water to the city.

The Commission granted the request despite objections by Mr. Lemon.

The latter said this morning that he had ordered such work discontinued as he did not think it is a good policy for the City to do such private work. He stated that he had opposed including city-owned equipment in the bond issue unless the Commission authorized it.

Such practice, he said, is not to the best interest of taxpayers and does not lend toward efficient municipal government or management.

while open shot at the Chinese.

An Allied officer said "as of this morning nobody owns the hill."

Eighty ROK infantrymen counter-attacked the Chinese five times in the face of the heaviest Red artillery barrage of the war—40,000 rounds. They reached the hill crest Monday but were thrown back.

The U. S. Eighth Army said the Reds in the 24-hour period ended at 6 a. m. Monday night raked the Capital Hill sector with 15,000 rounds of artillery and mortar fire. Much of the fighting has been at close range—with hand grenades, lists, clubs and daggers.

The Eighth Army estimated Chinese casualties at 954 killed and wounded in the first 14 hours of fighting.

Chinese in the west early this morning threw a probing attack against U. S. Marines on Hunker Hill on the Western Front but were driven off.

820 Superforts from Okinawa dropped 200 tons of bombs on Yangdok, a rail center midway between the North Korean capital of Pyongyang in the west and the shell-riddled East Coast port of Wonsan. The Air Force said Yangdok recently had been built up as a supply base for Red troops.

Seminole Farmers To Vote Saturday

All Seminole County farmers who are participating in the agricultural conservation program of the Production and Marketing Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are requested to vote Saturday for a new committee to administer the program for 1953.

John H. Hallard, chairman of the PMA representative, announced today.

Voting will take place Saturday from 8:30 a. m. to 6:00 p. m. in Mr. Hallard's office in the Court House basement.

The names of 10 eligible farmer nominees appear on the ballot. Of these, five will be elected to serve on the committee, and will assume office on Oct. 1.

Nominees are Leslie T. Bryan, Frank Wheeler, Jr., O. Leo Butler, Charles T. Lawson, Bonner L. Carter, Henry Witte, Jr., Miles D. Anderson and James T. McLean, Jr.

It will be the duty of the committee to contact all farmers in the County relative to signing intentions to participate in the soil conservation program for 1953, said Mr. Hallard.

Hope Fades For Quick Strike Settlement was held today for speedy settlement of a Lockheed Aircraft Co. strike threatening to spread to other plants in Southern California's gigantic warplane industry.

A long-smoldering labor situation ignited yesterday when the AFL International Association of Machinists struck Lockheed's sprawling plants, idling 23,000 workers. Wage raises and 53 other issues are at stake.

Strike leader John Smiter said only a peace overture from President Truman would be considered. So far the White House has been silent.

If President Truman would stipulate with an offer to appoint a fact-finding board to participate in negotiations, then he might be able to go back to work and production would be resumed," said Smiter.

Districts. "Florida now has 54 Soil Conservation Districts organized in 57 of the 67 counties in the State." E. E. Carter of Walabasso Association President said today. "We expect delegations from each of our Districts to be in attendance," Carter said. Senator Spessard L. Holland, Florida's senior Senator and a senate leader on Conservation affairs, will address the Supervisors at a luncheon to be given September 16.

District Supervisors attending the two-day meeting are invited to drop in on a pre-convention FFA Chapter demonstration at Zolfo Springs. Here on Tuesday, September 16, they will see mechanized equipment, new to southern Florida, in a soil and water demonstration of clearing, stumping, leveling, and improving 112 acres of land. The FFA Chapter has planned the demonstration especially in honor of the visiting Supervisors. In addition to Senator Holland, the program lists some of the most outstanding and best informed speakers on soil and water conservation in Florida and in the Southeast.

Mrs. Catherine Waggoner, Convention Chairman, and also Chairman of the Highlands District Board, states that "every effort is being made to provide entertainment for the visiting Supervisors while they are in Sebring." Highlighting the entertainment features is an old-fashioned square dance Tuesday night. "The dance is planned for a get-acquainted and let-your-hair-down session," Mrs. Waggoner said.

UN Debate On Korean Issues Being Readied

Acheson Also Tells News Conference Of Mexican Plans For Getting Truce

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today the United States, in consultation with friendly nations, is preparing for a debate on Korean issues in the United Nations General Assembly by next month.

Acheson also told a news conference the Mexican government has made some suggestions on Korean Truce negotiations, but declined to describe them. It has reported that Mexico would have the General Assembly ask U. N. members to take in turn priority those Korean War prisoners who resist repatriation after an armistice.

The purpose of the Mexican proposal would be to break the dead lock between U. N. and Communist truce negotiators over the repatriation issue and to bring the negotiations to a successful conclusion. The Communists have demanded that all U. N. prisoners of war be returned to their home countries, whether they want to or not.

On other points, Acheson said that so far as he knew the matter of using Chinese troops in Korea is a purely technical matter. He has not been officially raised. He said that the United States and Britain would change their position on an Anglo-Franco oil settlement, by saying the proposal had been presented to Premier Mossadeq by President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill and that he could not speak for either the President or the prime minister.

Directors Named By Membership Of County C Of C

Dawson Reports On Work To Bring Exchange To Sanford

The results of the recent election of directors of the board of the Seminole County Chapter of Commerce were announced last night by A. Lee, chairman of the election committee. Several new directors were elected.

Those elected from Sanford were Mack Cleveland Jr., Pete Higgins, J. C. Hubbs, Harry Lee, Francis Roumilt Jr., J. H. Rixson, George Touhy, and Don Wright. Those from the county were Martin Anderson of Longwood, C. P. Brantling of Lake Mary, L. E. Stevens of Monroe, R. E. True of Lake Mary, and H. A. Ward of Ovidale.

They were welcomed to the directorate by President Jack Hall who explained that all had been named to three year terms. Mr. Hall also appointed W. A. Patrick chairman of a nominating committee to report at the next meeting of the board on a slate of candidates for officers of the organization for the coming year.

Upon motion of John Ivey, seconded by Kaylie Housholder, the directors voted to make the president of the board the president of the Chamber of Commerce, and the chairman of the County Commission and the chairman of the Board of Health as members of the board if there is no conflict with the by-laws of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Ivey reported that his committee has secured a number of suitable sites for the Methodist Children's Home at Enterprise and said that Sanford would be a favorable position if the executive committee of the Home decided to move from its present location.

Forest Breckenridge, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, reported that a meeting will be held at Silver Springs by the St. Johns-Indian River Improvement Committee on Sept. 16 to consider further the St. Johns-Indian River Canal project. Col. H. C. Goo, consulting engineer for the Commission, will be present.

Merchants Ask Claims Judge Not To Resign Post

Over One Thousand Cases Handled By McNab During Year

D. K. McNab, Judge of the Small Claims Court yesterday informed directors of the Sanford Merchants Association at a meeting at the City Hall that since he was losing money in maintaining the court he felt that he could not continue in that office and suggested that a successor be picked.

M. L. Raborn, president, and a number of directors joined in the fight work Judge McNab has been doing as a small claims judge. H. B. Pope declared that he cannot be spared, and suggested some form of voluntary contributions be made by the merchants to pay part of the expenses of the court.

On motion of Andrew Rilling, seconded by Jack Hall, a resolution was passed requesting Judge McNab to withhold his decision to resign for 60 days, and President M. L. Raborn to appoint a committee to see if some satisfactory arrangement can be made to keep him in office.

Judge McNab agreed to this proposal, and Mr. Raborn appointed a committee that included Mr. Stone, W. A. Morrison, and Mr. Stine, to take action on the matter.

It was pointed out by Judge McNab that 1,028 cases were tried by the court during the past year, and that many cases concerned individuals rather than merchants. Fees, set by the State, limit the amount of income, and it was necessary to him to earn a few dollars a week, he said.

Mr. Stine declared that a bill is pending in the State Legislature that will cover fees of all small claims courts in Florida.

The directors voted that beginning on Oct. 1 and on Wednesday afternoons thereafter, that merchants be requested to keep their files in office.

Purchase a fanily to be given away at the annual Christmas party for children was discussed. President Raborn suggested that merchants of Sanford be asked to aid in Altamonte Springs fund raising campaign to purchase a fire truck by furnishing trade certificates valued at $5 each, to be given out in benefit show at the Prairie Lake drive in theater on Oct. 6.

Adlai Makes First Whistle Stop In West

Berates Republicans For 'Approving Our Program' During An Election Campaign

BY BELIAN MORIN
ADLAI STEVENSON CAMPAIGN TRAIN, En Route Los Angeles (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson, barnstorming through California in his quest of the presidency, said in San Jose today "the Democratic party is regarded as a party of life liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

He again intimated the "Republican" party is "a party of death." He said he could promise a positive program, continuing what the Democrats have done.

"We can give you out here our heads and we can give you our hearts," the Illinois governor said and added that peace is the major goal of the party.

About 2,500 persons lined the station platform as Stevenson's special train drew into San Jose for the first of eight stops he has scheduled today. There was a burst of clapping and cheering as he approached. The man held a large floral banner.

"We can give you out here our heads and we can give you our hearts," Stevenson said with a smile. "In fact, many of the things I am doing are being done by the Republican party."

Last night Stevenson said "America is threatened as never before," and he told a nationwide television and radio audience from San Francisco the way to avert it is to give material aid to the new nations of Asia, to recognize their desire for independence, and to show them that the United States is not pursuing a policy of domination.

Speaking with unusual seriousness, the Democratic candidate for the presidency made these points tonight.

"I do not think war is an inevitable part of this contest between freedom and tyranny."

"With 85 per cent of our budget allocated to defense, if the Soviet Union which now stands the level of our defense expenditures and our tax rates."

"Republican nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower's '16-point program' does not contribute much to our foreign policy discussion."

"I believe we may in some way keep him in office, but not turning point in history a turning point which led not to another war, but to the first historic demonstration that an effective policy for collective security is possible."

McCarthy Gains Landslide Victory In Wisconsin Poll; Ike Apologizes, If He Cussed

General Says He Does Not Have Slightest Recollection That He Used Profanity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower today said he did not have the "slightest memory" of having said "damn" during his radio address Tuesday night, but he did say it, he was sorry and didn't want to apologize.

Here on a five-day visit to address various Republican groups, the GOP presidential candidate said this was his interpretation of his speech in Indianapolis.

"I'm not of the habit of saying anything in my speech last night and while I haven't the slightest memory of it, I will try to wait it in the future."

"I would like you, the Republican voters, to know that I am too warm in my arguments to keep me from reaching out into the realm of adjectives that some people don't approve of."

"I haven't wanted to apologize to anyone I may have offended. Actually, there's some debate as to what was said, and what wasn't."

The general flew in to Washington for a brief visit and addressed the staffs of the various national GOP campaign organizations at their hotel headquarters.

He spoke of the "big South" which have greeted him in the South, in Philadelphia and Indianapolis, and said that everywhere there appeared to be a demand for new faces in Washington.

"The general flew in to Washington for a brief visit and addressed the staffs of the various national GOP campaign organizations at their hotel headquarters."

Red-Fighting Senator Piles Up Impressive Margin Over His 'Talkathon' Rival

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft said today he was "delighted" with the victory of Sen. Joseph McCarthy, Republican, in the Wisconsin primary Tuesday.

"I didn't realize, you know, because I never interfere in other states' primaries," Taft told a reporter.

"But I did not disapprove of his accomplishments in fighting Communism and subversion in government."
