

ABOUT PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Boor were dainty, hand made handkerchiefs.

The wedding presents were shown at the end of the hall, where the silver, cut glass and china was attractively arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. Toole left on the morning train for Jacksonville and South Carolina, from where they will go to Philadelphia to make their future home.

The bride's going away gown was a smart tailored suit of dark blue wool poplin. With this was worn a blouse of blue crepe-meteor, hand embroidered, and a stylish black velvet hat with white wings and silver ornament.

Mr. Toole is a young man of sterling qualities, connected in business as insurance inspector with the Transportation Mutual Insurance Co. of Philadelphia. His bride is a charming and popular girl, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence D. Wicker.

Pre-Nuptial Dinner

Tuesday evening, preceding the wedding rehearsal, Miss Genie Wicker entertained with a very delightful dinner for the wedding party at her home on Oak avenue. Covers were laid for ten. The colors of yellow and green were tastefully carried out in the decorations of the table and dining room. The table with its appointment of cut glass and silver and dainty china, centered by a basket of ferns and almanders was very attractive. The pretty little place cards of cupids and hearts were attached to yellow ribbons attached to the charming favors concealed beneath the basket. These were cards containing kodak pictures of the bride and groom to be, with the date Oct. 21st, 1914. A tempting six course dinner was served consisting of

- Grapefruit Cocktail
- Turkey Bread Dressing
- Celery Cranberry Sauce
- Saratoga Chips
- Bread and Butter Sandwiches
- Chicken Salad Wafers Olives
- Ice Cream
- Fruit Cake Pound Cake
- Coffee

Miss Wicker's guests were Rev. F. E. Steinmeyer, Misses Julia and Rebecca Wicker, Mr. and Mrs. Florence Frank, Messrs. Norman Toole, M. M. Gregg, O. K. Lewis and Pope Wicker. After the rehearsal cake and wine were served.

Every Week Bridge

One of the delightful affairs of the week was the meeting of the Every Week Bridge Club, with Mrs. Forrest Lake hostess on Thursday. In honor of Mrs. Randolph Peyton of Washington, D. C., and two of the season's brides, Mrs. W. E. Watson and Mrs. Geo. D. Bishop, there was a guest table. Mrs. T. A. Neal made top score winning the club prize, a dainty tea set. Mrs. Bishop won the guest prize, a case of coasters. A refreshment course of creamed chicken, broiled pineapple, pimento cheese sandwiches, tea and coffee was served. Mrs. Lake's guests were Mesdames G. F. Smith, C. M. Vorce, Margaret Barnes, W. D. Holden, T. A. Neal, S. E. Puleston, R. A. Newman, D. L. Thrasher, C. O. McLaughlin, B. W. Herndon, A. W. Fitts, Sr., members of the club. Other guests were Mesdames Randolph Peyton, Geo. D. Bishop and W. E. Watson.

Fancy Work Circle

Mrs. H. H. Hill was the gracious hostess to the members of the Fancy Work Circle Thursday afternoon and a very delightful time was enjoyed by those present. The social gatherings of the circle are always enjoyable affairs and anticipated with pleasure. A tempting refreshment course was daintily served, consisting of tomato aspic, rolled sandwiches, olives, radishes and coffee. Assisting in serving were Misses Erminia Houser and Gladys Wilson. Members of the club present were Mesdames Tom Davis, N. H. Garner, Esterby, Roberts, Milner, W. J. Hill, W. T. Johns, W. W. Long and Miss Jessie Wheeler. Other guests of Mrs. Hill were Mesdames Ed. Higgins and Henry McLaulin and Miss Bessie Long.

Woodmen Circle

The ladies of the Woodmen Circle were delightfully entertained at the Gate City House Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. J. D. Parker and Mrs. R. E. Shinholser hostesses. The afternoon was pleasantly spent with amusing guessing games and music. In the "Flower" contest Mrs. J. N. Robson answered the greatest number of questions correctly and for the penalty of success will have to entertain the circle at its next meeting. A light refreshment course was served.

Launch Ride

A gay party of young people enjoying a boat ride on the lake Thursday morning were Misses Julia Wicker, Rebecca Wicker, Mary Chappell, Lucie Chappell, Margaret Davis; Messrs. O. K. Lewis, M. M. Gregg, Pope Wicker, Leslie Sample and S. Yountz.

Eastern Star

At the regular meeting of the Eastern Star Tuesday evening, Mrs. W. M. Haynes and Mr. Frank R. Adams were initiated. When it was announced that the new apparatus for the initiation ceremony would be used for the first time Mr. Adams was visibly affected and it would seem that Mrs. Haynes would not have the "courage" to wait for the German air ship to arrive but the candidates knew it would be a fine thing to be floating around with the other abiding stars, so taking their courage in both hands they stepped aboard the ship, flew over to France, dropped sixteen bombs overboard while hovering above the allied armies, didn't stop long enough to ascertain the damage, for Messrs. Ray Butts and D. H. C. Rabun were going to serve refreshments and returned to Sanford on schedule time, alighting on the roof of the Imperial just as the first call for refreshments sounded, amid the applause of the cheering stars, a frightened but happy pair of Eastern Stars, who did full justice to the tempting dainties served by the gracious hosts. Applications for membership are being received at each meeting and the order is growing rapidly in Sanford. Prominent guests from DeLand were Mrs. J. D. Conrad and Mrs. Belle Smith. Mrs. McGaghgin of Ocala was also present.

Woman's Club

The reception of the Social Department to the general club will be held at the club rooms Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 27. Every member of the entire club is cordially invited to be present. MRS. A. W. FITTS, Jr. Chairman

THE SANFORD COMMERCIAL CLUB HELD BIG MEETING THE CLUB IS GROWING IN MEMBERS AND GOOD WORK

One of the best and most enthusiastic meetings of the season of the Commercial Club was held last Friday night with about twenty-five boosters of Sanford and the surrounding country present.

The report of the committee on investigating the early closing of the express office was heard and a letter from the agent read, in which he stated that the downtown office would be open all day and would only be closed from 12 to 1 at the noon hour.

Regarding the request from the county commissioners that a fund be appropriated by their body for an exhibit at the Orlando fair it was the sense of those present that a report follows be sent the board that any fund appropriated for for or advertisement be placed in the hands of a committee of the Commercial Club to be expended on a home celebration during the month of February, details of which will be furnished later.

A committee was appointed, consisting of the following: A. P. Connelly, C. R. Walker and C. O. McLaughlin to appear before the city council at their next meeting to confer with them about the appropriation for a county exhibit.

Messrs. Singletary and Blackwelder were present and called the attention of the club to the meeting of the State Federation of Labor that will meet here in January and the president informed them that a committee would be appointed later to take care of the visitors and to cooperate with the local organizations relative to showing the visitors a good time during the three days of the meeting.

C. O. McLaughlin called the attention of the members to the Lake county side of the road leading from Sanford to Sorrento, Mt. Dora and Hustis and this matter will be taken up through the secretary with the Lake county board of commissioners.

The inland Waterways via the St. Johns river which was taken up at previous meetings was again called up and the importance of this matter brought to the attention of the members. A committee composed of C. R. Walker, E. T. Woodruff and A. P. Connelly was appointed to investigate the matter and write the Senators and Congressmen about the St. Johns river route.

One of the most important matters of the entire meeting was then discussed, that of making Sanford a basing point and several ideas were advanced that will eventually bring this to Sanford. To get official action on the matter the following committee was appointed: F. W. Mahoney, F. P. Rinea, A. P. Connelly, Geo. Herring, G. W. Spencer and H. Wight.

G. W. Spencer. The committee will report at the next meeting and the banquet and smoker will be held in the rotunda of the court house and promises to be one glad time.

Before adjournment the resignation of Secretary Bates was accepted. Mr. Bates has made the club an excellent secretary but the duties of his office as county assessor are such in connection with his other duties that he was forced to resign from the club. The members were loathe to part with him and in accepting his resignation paid him a high compliment for his efficiency and ability not only in his duties but the many publicity stunts that he pulled off for the city and county while he was secretary.

The names of Ernest Householder and W. M. Haynes were proposed and Mr. Haynes was selected for this responsible position unanimously and made a graceful speech of acceptance. Mr. Haynes is the business manager of The Herald and is a busy man but he can be depended upon to give the club his best efforts and can be found at all times at his office in the Herald building.

The Commercial Club is growing and the report of the finance committee was most encouraging, demonstrating that while a great many of our citizens are too busy at times to attend the meetings they are willing to enroll as members and pay their dues and the Club is beginning the year's business under most auspicious circumstances. No man in Sanford can afford to stand aloof and refuse to join the organization that has accomplished so much for the city and is continuing to accomplish so much. In fact nothing can ever be accomplished in Sanford without the united efforts of the citizens and they will never be united under any other banner but a trade body proposition. The way to build a city is for every citizen to join a commercial body and help push, forget all differences and boost, eliminate politics and pull and the united efforts will accomplish wonders.

The next meeting will be held in the city hall on Friday night, Nov. 6th.

Carman Jury Disagrees

Minola, N. Y., Oct. 26. The jury in the case of Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, failed to reach a verdict after thirteen hours and ten minutes of deliberation. At 10 o'clock the jury was reported as deadlocked, and was discharged.

Two jurors are said to have voted for acquittal and two for conviction of murder in the first degree, on the final ballot.

District Attorney Louis F. Smith said tonight it was unlikely that Mrs. Carman would ever be brought to trial again.

Attorneys for Mrs. Carman tomorrow will ask that she be admitted to bail, and the District Attorney is not expected to oppose such a step.

The defendant collapsed in the court after the jury was discharged.

When the jury appeared to report disagreement Dr. Edwin Carman, the defendant's husband, who had been sitting in the court room conversing with friends, joined his wife at the counsel table. Mrs. Carman appeared tired and fearful. Her hair was disheveled and her formerly immaculate costume wrinkled.

Robert Ludlum, foreman, announced.

"We have been arguing for eight or nine hours and we have been conversing for the balance of the time. We cannot agree."

At the suggestion of John J. Graham, Mrs. Carman's chief counsel, the jury was asked whether it was the evidence they could not agree on.

"It is not a question of evidence, Your Honor," said John H. Goehin, juror number nine. "We have gone over the evidence carefully and we cannot reach a verdict."

The Justice thanked the jury for its attention to the evidence and then discharged it.

Prominent Educator Here

Prof. Shelton Phillips of Williston and inspector of rural schools of Florida was here several days of last week looking after school interests. He had not finished his tour of Seminole county last Saturday and as yet we have not learned what he thinks of our rural schools but from what he did see he gave a most excellent account and the school board and teachers and the county superintendent of Seminole county can well be proud of the schools that have been entrusted to them.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR

The supreme efforts of the fighting men of five nations have failed to turn the tide of battle along the Franco-Belgium border. Latest reports today were that a struggle of unparalleled fury still was in progress along the North Sea, where the Germans with reckless bravery are throwing their troops against the allied forces.

RELATION OF GROWER TO THE BUYERS VEGETABLES PACKED PROPERLY COMMAND BETTER PRICES

The following letter from W. C. Deyo & Bro. is very timely and to the point and can be read with profit by all those who are interested in Florida fruits and vegetables.

New York, October 21, 1914. The Sanford Herald, Sanford, Fla.: Gentlemen—We believe it is recognized by those who know that there are as many cars of vegetables shipped from your territory as any other point in your great state. Our experience in handling these goods here as distributors is varied, and sometimes unsatisfactory, not only to ourselves, but no doubt to those who ship us. We thought perhaps it might go to more shippers, and they might benefit by our experience to better advantage if you would publish this letter in their behalf as well as ours. It is our opinion, after a great deal of experience, that if shippers and growers would use more care, and greater effort in packing and shipping their goods, better results would be obtained, and no fault found with their commission men, who at all times are doing the very best he possibly can with their shipments, if he is conscientious, honest and untiring in his efforts to get the best possible results. If not, he is not worthy of their shipments.

We believe it a good idea for shippers to use for themselves a brand, and in establishing a brand, build up a reputation that will benefit them, not only for the future years, but for their entire experience. For instance, if a brand of goods is branded Sanford star, every package that is shipped from that farm should be so branded, not carelessly, but neatly and plainly, and nothing under this brand should be shipped excepting No. 1 goods, and every effort should be put forth to pack these goods in such a manner as would sustain the reputation of the brand as well as the manager who is entrusted with the shipment of these goods, so that they will be in demand for some time to come.

- 15 Address, subject, The Efficiency Campaign for the Benefit of the Individual Society, by the State President, Mr. D. B. Curry. 15 Installation of Officers. 30 Consolation Service, Mr. S. Harrison, Winter Park. Benediction.

market price. In this way goods would invariably be sold before they arrived, and when such is the case, it is an easy matter to get an extra price. This can only be done on a brand that has a reputation, and is well known among the trade. Of course, there are exceptions. When receipts are light, and goods are in demand, then sometimes the ordinary stock brings as much as the good, but this is the exception, not the rule.

If this matter alone could be impressed upon the minds of every shipper and grower in your territory; we believe it would be of great benefit to them, and would be the means of their obtaining better results on the average for everything they shipped. It is done in some sections; and wherever applied it brings results, and that after all is what the grower and shipper has in mind, and is constantly working for. A shipper spends his time, his money and labor in growing goods, bringing them to perfection, and then when he has them ready to ship, puts them up carelessly and gets poor results, simply because when they reach the market they invariably reach there in poor order, packages slack and command no attention, causing a constant source of annoyance and worry to the party who sells them.

If you think favorably of this matter and think this letter is worth publishing in your paper we shall appreciate it, and we will be glad to follow it up with others, if in your judgment you think it necessary.

We are interested in Sanford. We handled a good many cars from there last season and we hope to handle a good many this year, and it is our aim, intention and purpose to get the best possible results for all who entrust their goods to our care. Cooperation in all lines of business means success, and if a shipper will closely follow the advice of a commission man, with whom he does business and in whom he feels confidence, he will get better average results.

In this large metropolitan district of ours the population is increasing rapidly, and the demand for southern grown produce is always going to be great during the winter season.

We hope for Sanford a successful season. Thanking you in advance we remain, Yours very truly, W. C. DEYO & BRO.

B. Y. P. U. Notes

Our regular Sunday evening meeting was held in the church. Our subject was missionary meeting—World Survey. This program was ably led by Miss Ruby Betts. The following is the program: Prayer by Mr. R. H. Davis. Scripture lesson, Matt. 28:15-20 and Acts 1:4-9, by leader. Statistics, by Mrs. Kennedy. The Home Base, by Mrs. F. E. Gatchel. Great Mass Movement Toward Christianity, Miss Annie May Morris. Native Control of Churches, Miss Ruby Betts. Strong Efforts being Made to Know Conditions, Mr. Davis. Old Religion Changing and More Workers Needed, by Miss Mary Gatchel.

How a B. Y. P. U. can Help in this Need, by Mrs. Kennedy. This was certainly a very interesting program and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Visitors are always welcome to these meetings. Next Sunday evening the program will be in charge of the president, Miss Clara Miller and vice president, Mr. S. G. Kennedy.

The Commercial Club has taken up the matter and a special committee of business men were appointed by President Laku at the last meeting for the purpose of conferring with Mr. Marks and making arrangements for the exhibits. As Sanford has never had an aeroplane flight this alone should prove a great drawing card and the men employed by Mr. Marks are among the best in the business and the weather permitting will guarantee a successful flight over the business portions of Sanford every day of the fair week.

This matter of a fair, while rather late to inaugurate should prove a decided success in every way and out of the first efforts a good annual fair can be evolved and another year Sanford can have a fair grounds race track and many other features that will appeal to the people of Seminole county.

It is to be hoped that the people of the whole county will take an interest in the fair and if possible the fair should be held in February of next year as it will be the means of attracting one of the largest crowds to Sanford that the city has ever known.

We have all the fruits, vegetables, live stock, etc., that any other section of the state can boast and a fair in February will demonstrate to the world that we have the goods and are not ashamed to show them.

The Literature Dept. of the Woman's Club will meet at Library-Club Rooms on Oak avenue Wednesday, Oct. 28th, at 2:45. New members are cordially urged to be present.

THE SEMINOLE COUNTY FAIR PROPOSITION

COULD BE HELD THIS YEAR IN FORM OF STREET FAIR

Sanford will be the scene of a big gala week in January or February when the first session of the Seminole County Fair is held. This will be surprising news to the people of the city and county but will be good news, for the idea of Seminole county having a fair has been agitated many times in the past year. If we are not to have an exhibit of our resources the next best thing is to have an exhibit in Orlando, or if the Seminole fair is held at some time near the date of the Orlando fair the Seminole county exhibit could be moved to Orlando with but little expense if the people of Seminole county so desired.

At any rate the idea remains fixed in the minds of the people of Sanford that this county should have a fair of some kind and as there are no fair grounds available the best manner of holding the first fair would be on the streets of Sanford. The booths could be arranged all along First street and the poultry show and fruits and vegetables and fancy work and products of the kitchen could be housed in the Imperial Theater or the city hall or any suitable buildings in the main part of the city in order that they would be under cover in case of rain.

The fair proper could be all on the main street and this feature especially appeals to the merchants of the city as the crowds would remain in the city during the four days of the fair. This being the case the merchants would arrange special sales and give away prizes and otherwise assist in making the four days a grand success and general trade days.

In connection with the fair proper, Henry Marks, one of the best boosters and advertisers in the fair and exhibitions business in the city and is anxious to put on aeroplane flights and some fine fireworks displays. His fireworks displays are of the best and he has the stage of Aftawep and several other good pieces that would be excellent drawing cards for the night displays. Mr. Marks has the highest class exhibitions of this kind and will also erect on the street the replica of Heidelberg Castle, in which the ladies of the city would serve lunches during the fair and make some money for the club affairs and civic improvements of Sanford. In fact, Mr. Marks would get up some most excellent attractions for the fair and some that have never before been staged in Florida.

The Commercial Club has taken up the matter and a special committee of business men were appointed by President Laku at the last meeting for the purpose of conferring with Mr. Marks and making arrangements for the exhibits. THE CHRISTMAS SHIP FOR EUROPE'S CHILDREN

SANFORD SHOULD TAKE PART IN THIS GREAT PHILANTHROPY

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me." St. Matthew xxv, 40.

One of Chicago's great papers, The Herald, is to be commended for starting the ball to rolling which will gather up the most useful, most needed and most sensible Christmas gifts which have ever been distributed since Santa Claus began to make his annual rounds to the children of men. As this is of interest to every home we feel that this column could not be put to better use this week than in giving a description of the enterprise as it appears in the Chicago-Herald, the paper which originated the scheme and is now carrying it out to a successful ending. It says:

"When daddy goes to work each morning you expect him to come home at night. You would be very sad if he did not, wouldn't you? "Over in Europe, where kings rule, millions of fathers are being sent to work by the kings—the work of war. The kings tell them to go and fight and they have to go, even if there is no one left at home to earn money to pay the rent, and buy food and clothing. Hundreds of thousands of fathers will never come home to their little boys and girls. They will be killed by the fathers of other little boys and girls, who do not really hate them, but who kill because they have been ordered to do so.

"You will have a Merry Christmas. You are looking forward to the day when Christ was born. You know that father and mother will be with you on that day. You know that Santa Claus will come from the frozen north, his sleigh laden with gifts for you.

"Have you stopped to think what is going to happen on Christmas day to the children of Europe whose Santa Claus fell dead on the battlefield when father dropped with a bullet in his heart—the father whose kiss and cheery, 'Up, lazy hoots, Kris Kringle has been here!' once awoke them on Christ's birthday?"

"For these bereaved children there will be no Kris Kringle. His sleigh will not jingle on the frosty air in the black forest, and the snows of the Russian steppes will be untrodden by the good saint's galloping reindeer. Stockings will hang limp and empty in many a French cottage and the smoky chimneys of England will know him not. No doll for little Jane and no red mittens for Brother John. No soldiers all red and shining, that Karl had hoped for! Oh, what a mockery at this Christmastide!

"Let each little boy and each little girl be a Kris Kringle. Isn't that a fine thought? Wouldn't you love to be that great saint? Would not you love to put your gifts in a sleigh and take the reins in your hands and drive the reindeers over the roofs of the houses, slipping down the chimneys and leaving your gifts for those who badly need them?"

"Can you do it? Of course you can. You can help load the sleigh and you can shut your eyes and feel the reins in your fingers and drive the reindeer up and down the lanes in England, lined with thatched-roofed cottages, through the vineyards of France and the stubble fields of Belgium, across the white mantled stretches of Russia, up and down the highways of Germany, over the hills of Austria and along the frozen Danube to the Serbian peasant's hut, stopping to leave a surprise—for your little brother and sister whose father is dead.

"You may live to be a hundred years old, you may travel over the world and see its wonders and delights, but never will you have such a journey as that.

"How can you do all this? "Just in the easiest kind of a way. But you've got to do it yourself to get the real joy of it. Earn money to buy the presents or make them yourself. Every boy knows how to earn money so he may go to the circus. Ask father to let you split the kindling, carry in the coal, carry out the ashes, look after the furnace and make him pay you for it. Save the pennies that are given you for candy. Deny yourself something.

"If you are a girl couldn't you knit a pair of gloves or socks or comforters? Wouldn't it be good to know that this gloves are keeping warm a pair of little hands like yours. Would n't it be fine to know that the comforters are covering frosted ears and protecting delicate throats?"

"And you must have some toys that have outgrown their charm for you. Send them. Then there is another thing you can do. Ask father and mother to beg Santa Claus to give to a boy, or girl in Europe one of the gifts that is intended for you.

"Yes, I hear you say, 'I will be Santa Claus to those poor little orphan children.' And then you ask, 'But how can my gift reach the child that needs it?' By the train and by the boat and by the train again. And then you say again: 'But the papers say that English ships and French ships and German ships, all armed with cannon, will stop the boat carrying my gift.'

"They will not. "England and France and Germany intend to salute the boat that is carrying your gift—not to stop it. Your ship will be a ship of good will. And all the countries at war will dip their flags to it as such. "All you have to do is to provide the gifts. The Chicago Herald will look after all other details. It will organize a bureau which will answer your questions. Write to the Christmas Shop Editor for help. It will see that our gift reaches the boat that will take it to Europe. It will see that your gift is put into hands that will place it in the fatherless home on Christmas morning. And it will tell every day all about what other boys and girls in our country are doing in this work of love.

"Just think what a brave sight the ship will make that carries your gift to Europe! Can you picture it laden with thousands and thousands of presents from the children of America? It will be officered and manned by fathers of little boys and girls who will take care that it safely reaches the countries which are sunk in the wants of war.

"Everybody who sees it will know what it is; for it will fly two flags. One will be your flag, the flag you love, the beautiful Stars and Stripes. "The other, too, will be your flag. It will be a white flag. In its snowy golden surface will be a single golden star, the 'Star of Hope.' The motto on that flag will be the one word, 'Inasmuch.' Ask father and mother to read the sentence in the Bible with which that word begins."

Why America Does Not Sympathize With Germany

To the Editor of The Herald. There seems to be considerable surprise and not a little resentment on the part of our German friends because America does not sympathize with the Fatherland in the awful crisis which now is upon her. May I have a few inches of your valuable space, and a few minutes of your readers' patience, to attempt to throw a little light upon this very perplexing situation?

The President has counseled neutrality on the part of our people; but what kind of neutrality is it that we should observe? As Hon. A. S. Hardy, ex-Minister to Persia, Greece, Switzerland and Spain has said: "Neutrality, in the sense of the President's proclamation, is a legal term applying to the conduct of those not parties to the war. Neutrality, in the sense of his later appeal to the American people, counseling the repression of opinions, is another matter. . . . The strictest observance of the laws of neutrality cannot prevent the formation of that verdict which is called public opinion." And, so a large part of the American press has aided in forming that public opinion which, so far, seems to be on the side of the allies. And, why? When we get back to the motive that apparently inspired the German leaders we are not at all surprised that much opposition in our land is manifest.

No one can deny that the entire world is debtor to the fertile and patient mind of the Teuton for much that we count of great value, in all lines of industrial, commercial, mental and even religious activity. The genius of the German, as a pioneer in so many good things, is not in question, nor is it to be forgotten. But what motive is back of all this greatness? What purpose do the German leaders have in it all, and how would they attain that purpose? Let us examine three of the leaders of German thought to discover that motive.

The first is Nietzsche, the prophet of "The will to power," of the "Superman" and of the "Master Morality," which makes it the privilege of the superior being to exalt himself at the expense of the weak without pity. He denounced Christian morality as the "morality of slaves." He died insane; but the haven of his influence has worked in German thought and contributed not a little to the feeling of superiority and contempt for other people which has been quite characteristic a feature of recent utterances.

The second name is that of Heinrich von Treitschke. For twenty years he was a most brilliant and popular professor in Berlin University, lecturing to proclaim as the mission of Germany the conquering the leadership of the world. England, he insisted, was their enemy and must be crushed and despoiled. Obedience to the state, he asserted, is the whole duty of the citizen; war is the weapon—the mailed fist, the instrument of God's will. "God will see to it that war always recurs as a drastic medicine for the human race." Prof. von Treitschke was stone deaf, but a man of genial life, intensely absorbed in a propaganda, the fruits of which are seen in the reign of terror which has followed the army in Belgium and France. There can be no question but what he had much to do with forming the ideals and war program of the present emperor, who addressed his troops on this wise as they went against the Chinese Boxers: "When you come into contact with the enemy, strike him down. Quarter is not to be given. Prisoners are not to be made. Whoever falls into your hands is into your hands delivered."

The third name is that of Gen. Friedrich von Bernhardi, who in 1911 published the book "Germany and the Next War." He set forth the theme of Germany's duty of extension and leadership by war—the doctrine of armed and aggressive Pan-Germanism. Headings of some of the chapters of his book were, "The Character of Our Next War," "The Next Naval War," "Preparation for the Naval War." The neutrality of Belgium and Holland is frankly spoken of as "only a paper bulwark." He speaks of the necessity of defeating France "so decisively that she would be compelled to renounce her alliance with England." The text of his plea might be seen in these sayings of his:

"Courts of arbitration are pernicious delusions," or "The inevitableness, the idealism, the blessing of war as an indispensable and stimulating law of development must be repeatedly emphasized," or again, "Huge armaments are in themselves desirable. They are the most necessary precondition of our national health." It is a most terrible book, and shows the militarist nation in its most warlike and aggressive guise.

Now, I leave it to our German friends if it is to be expected that a country like America, which, in its best expansion, stands for brotherhood and fair play is to sympathize with this sort of philosophy which has fired the ambition of a great people? Do these principles spell progress in peace, good will and international fraternity? Are they consistent with the motive spirit of American life and popular government? Can they be the basis of human freedom for the highest advancement? Can anyone blame such a nation as our own for not sympathizing with Germany? As an editor of a great American weekly has said: "With all our admiration for German achievements in learning and in practical affairs, we are not easily drawn toward a culture which is intolerant of other types of human development."

With the hope that these few statements may enlighten some who are now in perplexity, I remain Yours sincerely, F. P. STRONG.

GOOD LADIES OF FLORIDA WILL PUSH THE SALES

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 2. Following the publicity health work of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis has just organized the Red Cross Seal Commission of Florida. The object of the commission is to fight the White Plague in the state, and as first step in this direction it is centering its attention upon the coming sale of Red Cross Seals during December.

The seal formerly used by the Women's Clubs has been discontinued and all forces will join in selling the American Red Cross Christmas Seal, which will be sold in every state in the Union.

Last year forty-four millions of these little messengers of good health were sold in the country at one cent each yielding over $400,000 for the Anti-Tuberculosis Fund. Ninety-nine per cent of the proceeds of the sale in Florida will remain in the state to be used in the fight against tuberculosis, ten per cent being returned to National headquarters to pay for the printing and distribution of the seals and advertising material. The amount of work done by the Commission in 1915 will depend largely upon the readiness with which men, women and children lend their assistance by purchasing the seals.

Mr. F. C. Groover, chairman of the newly organized organization in speaking of plans for the sale said, "We expect to have the seals on sale in every city, village and hamlet in the state by December. Every community, no matter how small, will be given an opportunity to join in this campaign for better health by using quantities of the seals."

Among the following members of the Commission will be noted the name of Dr. Ellen L. Stevens, who is well known for her work along public health lines:

Chairman, F. C. Groover, Jacksonville; Vice Chairman, Mrs. T. V. Moore, Miami; Dr. John D. McRae, Tampa; Mrs. Thos. M. Shackelford, Tallahassee; Secretary Treasurer, Dr. Ellen L. Stevens, Jacksonville; Members, Mr. W. M. Johnson, Gainesville; Mrs. Walter P. Corbett, Dr. R. H. McGinnis, Jacksonville; Dr. J. Y. Porter, Key West; Mrs. William Hocker, Ocala; Dr. S. R. Mallory Kennedy, Rabbi Wm. Ackerman, Pensacola; Miss Kate V. Jackson, Mr. W. G. Brorein, Tampa.

For China Stand. When one has a chuba umbrella stand it is a wise plan to place a sponge in the bottom of the jar to keep it from being cracked or broken. The sponge not only prevents it from being broken, but also absorbs the water which drips from the umbrella.

Uses of Kangaroo. In Australia kangaroo farming is an important industry. The hides are valuable, and the tendons extremely fine; indeed, they are the best known to surgeons for sewing up wounds, and especially for holding broken bones together, being much finer and tougher than catgut.

They have established a rigid censorship at Petrograd (Florida) and Editor Straub is about to go to jail down there because he spoke lightly of the courts and their decision regarding the removal of the county seat from Powell City to Petrograd.

Sidney Catts, candidate for Governor has been here and gone and left us gasping for breath. His little folder states that he has been compared in his oratory to Wm. L. Yancy, who stirred the south to fury in 1868...

The following dispatch comes from Washington. Running for Congress is not the same expensive luxury in the south that it is in the north.

This is shown by the reports that are being made to the clerk of the House under the Federal corrupt practices act.

While northern candidates are reporting large expenditures, often running up into the thousands of dollars, the expenditures reported by the Florida candidates, for instance, are as follows:

Stephen M. Sparkman, nothing. Frank Clark, nothing. Emmet Wilson, nothing and W. J. Sears, nothing.

In other words, the total expenditures of these four Florida candidates are four ciphers.

If this is true there will be many a candidate running for Congress from Florida in the next two years. If there is no expense attached to the campaign for a $7,500 position every man in Florida will be after one of them.

AN UNFAIR DEAL

The country publishers and printing office generally are asking only what is reasonable when they demand that Uncle Sam shall cease to force them into an unfair, unreasonable and impossible competition by granting to one contractor the exclusive right to print cards on stamped envelopes.

Not only does the government stifle competition in price through its authorized sweat shop methods practiced in the Dayton (O.) plant, where all the government envelopes are printed, but it causes every postmaster in the United States and possessions to solicit and receive orders in its endeavor to still further monopolize this business to the exclusion of the local printers.

The system would not be so reprehensible if it inured to the benefit of any considerable number of taxpayers, but such is not the case. Unless 500 or more stamped envelopes are purchased at once, Uncle Sam will not take the order. The chief beneficiaries are the big business houses and manufacturing concerns, banks, mail order houses, etc., which can well afford to pay a fair price for their printing, which should be done in the cities where their business is located.

If the monopoly were abolished, business men could still enjoy the convenience of using printed stamped envelopes, but the printing would be done at fair prices in the home printing shop and the money would remain at home.

This envelope business is of vast proportions millions being turned out each day and the loss to the printing industry amounts to millions of dollars yearly in wages and business.

printing trades of the country when it derives no benefit from it.

If it is fair for our government to compete in the printing of commercial corner cards on envelopes, why not in the making of shoes, hats and other commodities at less than cost? Is it a square deal to the union printers, we think not.

This is a matter which vitally affects every publisher in the country.

Write your congressmen and senators protesting against this practice, and demand that this contract be abolished when it expires on June 30, 1915, and that the printing of these envelopes go where it rightfully belongs—to the local printers and publishers.

A CITIZEN OF THE WORLD

In politics as in life generally, things which loom large momentarily have a way of shrinking out of posterity's sight, while events which at the moment nearly escaped remark grow in significance. It is impossible as yet to know just what Woodrow Wilson's place in history will be, dependent as it is on many and varied conclusions of unfinished business.

Whatever his defects and angles and asperities and time will soften them and we shall grow more conscious of his qualities. Mr. Wilson is an American patriot and a citizen not of his own parish only, but of the world. His presidency, opening with the enactment of promised legislation, has been troubled by private bereavement, by Mexican explosions, by partisan ebullitions and by the greatest war in present memory.

BORN IN AN EDITOR'S BRAIN

The beautiful thought of sending a Christmas ship to carry gifts to the children of the war distressed countries of Europe had its birth in the brain of a busy editor on the staff of one of the great Chicago dailies.

Editor Keeley of the Chicago Herald, amid the grind of his daily routine, had an idea that was an inspiration. We do not know the train of thought that led him to it, but perhaps in a moment of rest that brain workers sometimes take, with eyes shut and mind relaxed, there came to him the thought of the days of his own childhood and that happiness that the Christmas time brought him, and then the busy brain in its erratic excursions over the world and elsewhere flew across the ocean and took in the homes where there were no fathers and the little ones that had no homes because the shell and the tarch had been there, and then he determined, with the confidence of a newspaper man in the power of the press, that Christmas should come to the children of Europe in their orphanhood and misery as well as to peaceful and happy America, with the enjoyment that is in the thoughts of childhood inseparable from the season.

He wrote a single editorial and sent it abroad to the readers all over the land; other papers took it up—and the thing was done. A government ship will be sent on this errand of merciful happiness, of light bringing amid the terror and the gloom of war. The ship has been already selected, and when the time comes for her to start the gifts to make up her lading will be ready for her, the only Christmas ship in the history of the world.—Tampa Times.

GROWERS' DAY

Governor Trammell has designated Saturday, Nov. 7th, as Farmers' and Growers' Day, and in a proclamation just issued pleads with the people throughout the state generally to gather at convenient places and give careful thought and discussion to ways and means of protecting and advancing their interests, and of arousing and stimulating interest in all measures affecting the prosperity of their respective localities as well as to all matters affecting the general welfare of the state.

Florida is today one of the most prosperous states of the Union, and enjoys a high rank in the matter of per capita wealth. Her prosperity and high standing can be even more advanced, however, by proper cooperation and organization in the interest of her farmers and growers who contribute so largely to the state's development.

The Drum Song

Corporal, what will you have today—The funeral march or the reveille? Corporal, what will you have to sing The notes of death or the notes of spring? But-a-tat-tal, we are ready, sir.

Corporal, what will you choose today For the tune that the army drums shall play? March, retreat or a quickstep thrum? Corporal, what of the army drum? But-a-tat-tal, we are fast and fine.

Corporal, tell us your wish and will. The slow retreat or the charge to kill? Corporal, whetting our sticks with glee. What shall the song of the war drum be? But-a-tat-tal, and horses and men.

Corporal, morning is fresh and fine. When shall we play for the ranks in line? Corporal, ready, and retreat you, dead. With a serenade for the cannoner! A serenade for the cannoner.

Corporal, dearest dear sir. Shalt tape be played? And oh, for the hearts that are aghast! And the drummer men and the drummer.

And the drums that sing out of every key. But-a-tat-tal, we are ready, sir. Shall we play for the ranks in line? The funeral march or the heroic thrum on the roll of the reveille.—Dartmouth Song.

MRS. CARMAN'S TRIAL RECALLS BAILEY MURDER.

Famous Case Overshadowed by War Comes Up For Decision

The trial for murder of Mrs. Edwin Carman of Mineola, N. Y., called attention anew to a mystery which attracted worldwide notice in the early summer, but which had been overshadowed by the war. Briefly, the facts in the case, so far as known, are as follows:

Mrs. Edwin Carman bought a dictograph, which she had installed in her physician husband's office in Freeport, N. Y., with one end in a closet in her room on the second floor. She admitted she wished to hear what was said in this patients' room.

Two weeks later on June 30, 1914, Mrs. Louise Bailey, a patient was shot and killed in Dr. Carman's office. The bullet came from a revolver which was thrust through a window shattered by an unknown hand.

Dr. Carman admitted he saw a white hand appear through the hole, leveling the revolver at him. He hid behind a chair. Mrs. Bailey was instantly killed.

A box of cartridges, 28 caliber, were found in the home of Dr. Carman. The bullet that killed Mrs. Bailey was 38 caliber.

Mrs. Carman was a witness at the inquest and admitted being jealous and to have slapped the face of a nurse who was in the office of her husband at one time.

She was first indicted for manslaughter, and later this was superseded by an indictment alleging murder in the first degree.

Since the shooting and while his wife has been confined in the jail at Mineola Dr. Carman has appeared very devoted to her and has kept her supplied with fruit and flowers. He declares his belief in her innocence and that the crime was committed by a man.

The negro maid employed in the Carman home first declared that her mistress did not go downstairs on the night of the shooting, but later admitted that she came into the kitchen in a kimono, went out of doors and in a few minutes, immediately after the shot, rushed back and through the kitchen, saying to her, "U-lla, go to your room, and for God's sake keep quiet."

Frank J. Farrell, a vagrant, says he was about to enter the Carman grounds when he saw a woman in a kimono at the window of the doctor's office. He says he saw her break the glass and fire the shot. Fearing to get into trouble himself, he fled, but later, after reading of the case, he came forward to tell what he knew about it.

Coming to Florida
A. VonDohlen, traveling passenger agent Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Paul's railroad, came down from Chicago on the New Dixie Flyer yesterday and said that on the train out of the more than 200 passengers for Jacksonville there were 100 homeseekers, sixty tourists and the rest were traveling men.

With Dr. Armstrong
Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong of Jacksonville treated their friends to a ride on Lake Monroe last Sunday in their palatial yacht, the River-view Maid, a treat that was greatly enjoyed by all those who were fortunate enough to be present.

The Youth's Companion, since its enlargement, gives generous space to this matter of athletic training and gets the best coaches in the country to write for it.

How to practice to become a first-rate pitcher, how to train for a race, how to learn the newest strokes in swimming these and a hundred other topics of the greatest interest to boys—to girls, too, for that matter—are touched upon in this important department of The Companion.

And this is only a small part of the service which the Companion renders in any home which it enters. It has points of contact with a hundred interests.

If you do not know the Companion as it is today, let us send you one or two current issues free, that you may thoroughly test the paper's quality. We will send the Forecast for 1915.

Judging Religious Sincerity.
"Brother Philander," said I to our head deacon the other day, "how do you judge a man's religious sincerity?" "Well," replied the old fellow with a smile, "if they belong to our church I consult my ledger. If they belong to some other church I go to the treasurer of that church." Philander is our church treasurer.—Kansas City Star.

BATTLE LINES SO CLOSE THAT SOLDIERS OFTEN TALK WITH FOES

British Cook Lost His Way Between Trenches; Nearly Fed the Germans. Little Stories of Interest From the Scene of War In Europe.

THEY TALKED much of the war in the trenches and the British and the German soldiers often talk with their foes. A British cook lost his way between trenches and nearly fed the Germans.

In regard to this the British cook, who had been sent to the front to cook for his company, had only finished cooking dinner late at night. The regimental wagons had gone astray and only joined the column after 8 o'clock. When the meat had been prepared the cook started off, carrying it on a large grill a yard square. The cook lost his way in the darkness and after wandering about came across a trench. "Is this the Sixth company?" he asked. To his astonishment the soldier he addressed rose to his feet, and the cook saw that he wore a spiked helmet. The cook turned and ran for his life, followed by a stream of bullets. Stange to say, out of 100 shots fired only one hit him, hitting a slight wound on the left arm, but the cook brought back his grilled beef dinner intact, although cold.

The hostile trenches in some places are so close that the soldiers occasionally throw hand grenades across the ground if they see a valley. At this short range the little bullets make fearful wounds. The men on both sides guess themselves by raising caps on the points of their bayonets, with the result that the head coverings are in steady demand with bullets.

Two army corps. One k. struck. The bullets are nipping low across the turf close to the ground. The conversation sometimes the smallest incident produces a battle. In one case a cow wandered close to a trench and a soldier leaped out to milk it. The German opened fire and the French responded until the milking was done and the dummy descended unscathed into the trench with his pail.

A shell burst near the cow, which walked calmly toward the spot where the projectile exploded to inspect the hole in the ground. However, a moment later she was killed by a bullet. The cow was milked for four days and the milk was used for the soldiers.

City's Ransom-Cured Prince One of the highest doctor's fees on record has been paid, according to the Paris Mail, in German gold at Eperon, France.

When the Germans occupied Eperon, their southward march the prince and his family fled to the city. The prince's ransom was paid in German gold. The prince was cured of his illness by the city's ransom.

As no German surgeons were present who were competent to handle the case, they appealed on humanitarian grounds to the French doctor, Veron, who successfully performed the operation.

The Germans offered him a "price of honor," telling him to name his own fee. Veron promptly asked $25,000 which he was at once paid in gold.

Praise For Our Consul at Ghent The British fingers in London are loud in praise of Henry A. Johnson, the American consul at Ghent. They say they owe their lives to his firmness. When about one of his firmness was leaving Ostend for Folkestone an officer of gendarmes ordered all civilians ashore, saying the vessel had been commandeered for army uses. "It has not," said Mr. Johnson. "Come aboard, folks."

The officer made a motion to draw a revolver, but did not. "Come on, folks," said Mr. Johnson again. They did, and the officer of gendarmes disappeared.

Germany's Advantage In Language. One of the greatest needs of the allies is interpreters for both the French and British troops, says a London Standard correspondent. When I have been in ordinary and armored motor cars this last week we have had to make peasants go in front as guides and have been absolutely at their mercy, with only the fear of our rifles to deter them from leading us straight to the Germans. When we invade Germany it will be still worse, for we won't be able to trust anybody. For English troops an interpreter who is English and can understand the Scotch, Welsh, Yorkshire and Whitechapel districts is worth far more than any Frenchman or Fleming who may speak a local language better, but can seldom understand properly what the natives say. British Tommy says to him: "I heard this marvelous supply of food who know local languages as one of the chief factors of German efficiency in the war. The allies need absolutely all the interpreters they can get and are suffering for lack of them. Very few British officers and sergeants are able to speak even serviceable French. Over and over again I have myself been deliberately misled by apparent peasants who, I felt sure, were German spies."

Queer Dress at the Front. The Morning Post has received a letter from an officer at the front containing an amusing description of the weird headgear and clothing that troops have adopted, having lost their own.

He says he saw men wearing all sorts of civilian caps, soft felt hats and straw hats, such as Mexicans wear, and there were quaint makeshifts, including a kilted cover for a cap.

An orderly was wearing a woman's bodice, and a lot of members of one company were wearing women's underclothing, their own being worn out.

How a British General Met Death. A letter received in London from an old friend of Major General Hubert A. V. Hamilton, whose body has been found, and it is said to be the general's body, and on the French battle field.

He was standing with a group in a trench, when a shell burst 100 yards away. A bullet pierced General Hamilton's chest and he was killed on the spot. No other member of the group was wounded.

It was a fine death, but I know how the general would have felt to be taken in his work was done.

The general's death was a great loss to the army. The general was a fine officer and a great leader.

New Idea in Breakfast Caps. There are so many varieties of caps worn by the women of other countries that new sources of inspiration will certainly not be hard to find.

Magic for Rust Spots. To remove rust spots on bathtubs and basins and discolorations in toilet basins and sinks apply muriatic acid with a mop. If the wound is cleaned and the liniment applied promptly, the healing process begins at once and the wound heals from the inside outwardly, thus performing a perfect cure that leaves no scar. If the wound is on the outside top quickly pus forms under the surface and breaks out into a running sore that is hard to cure and inevitably leaves a bad scar.

New "Supersubmarine" Devised by Uncle Sam Leader in Its Class

But torpedoes are its terrible weapons of offense if the submarine can steal up unseen to the neighborhood of an unsuspecting battleship. They are themselves miniature submarines, eighteen feet long and with an effective range of 8,000 yards, or over four miles. Each of them carries 400 pounds of gun cotton explosively in its "war head," so that if it hits anything something is sure to happen.

But torpedoes are its terrible weapons of offense if the submarine can steal up unseen to the neighborhood of an unsuspecting battleship. They are themselves miniature submarines, eighteen feet long and with an effective range of 8,000 yards, or over four miles. Each of them carries 400 pounds of gun cotton explosively in its "war head," so that if it hits anything something is sure to happen.

The battle between submarine and dreadnought is on. No less an authority than Sir Percy Scott, it will be recalled, prophesied early last summer that "the days of the dreadnought are numbered." Anyway, Uncle Sam is not going to take any chances and is going to build a "supersubmarine," and it will be a leader in its class.

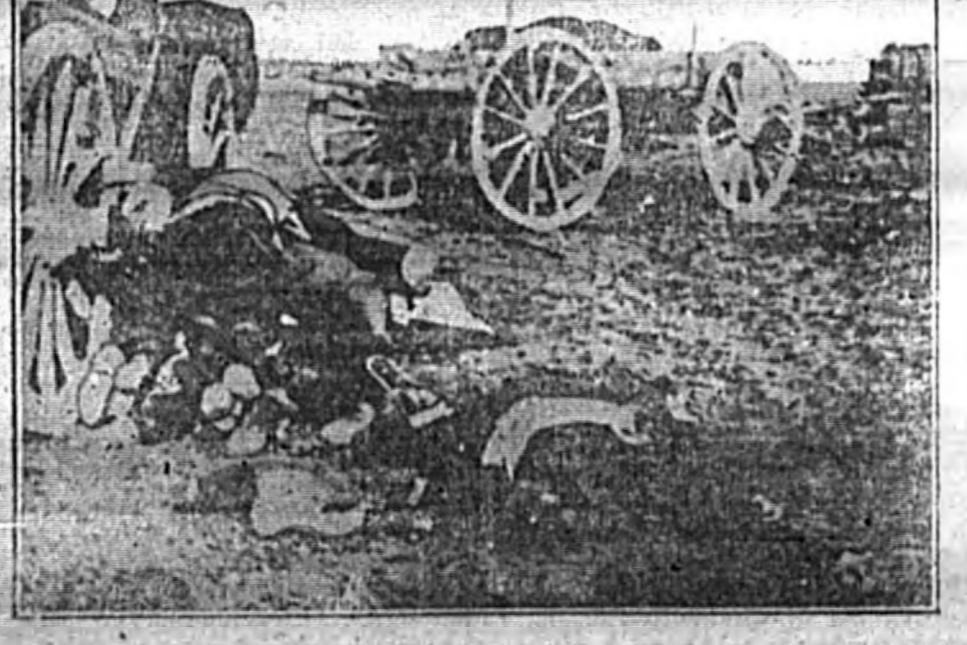

The submarines now on our naval list are provided with from two to four tubes for discharging torpedoes. The newly planned boat is to have ten tubes, six of them fixed and four set on pivots. Four will be in the bow under the forward rudders and two in the stern. The four pivoted tubes will be on the deck, so arranged as to discharge torpedoes at almost any angle, whether the craft is on the surface or submerged.

This is a very remarkable and entirely new idea for up to the present time the torpedo tubes on submarine boats have always been fixed in position at bow or stern, so that the vessel itself had to be maneuvered to secure proper aim. What is sought by the arrangement here described is flexibility of aim, and what is obtained by it in effect is an all-around torpedo boat.

Recently the European governments started in to build boats of a similar description, equally swift and as powerfully engined, at least one probably a little longer, but lacking certain up-to-date improvements which will appear in our new supersubmarine. Yet in regard to the details of their construction comparatively little is known with definiteness, for the reason that this branch of the service in every country is enveloped in a veil of secrecy.

LONDON AWAITS AERIAL INVASION

Takes Precautions to Repel Attack by Zeppelins.

GERMANS READY FEBRUARY.

Will Need Four Months' Time For Preparation of Fleet of Dirigibles "Wait and See," Says Inventor—"Zeppelin Neck," Due to Peering Upward, Prevalent in British Capital.

Information received in Amsterdam from an authoritative source regarding Germany's aerial plans throws a new light on the action of the London authorities in doing away with all brilliant illumination, sweeping the skies at night with many searchlights and mounting guns to assault balloons and aeroplanes. These precautions are thoroughly justified, though a bit premature, says the New York Times correspondent in Amsterdam.

While occasional minor raids may be made on London sooner, if Germany gets a firm foothold on the channel, the grand aerial armada will not be launched against England until February at the earliest, for Germany will not be ready till then.

"We are building 200 aeroplanes especially for the attack on London. These are of a new and extra large type, capable of carrying 1,000 pounds of explosives in addition to the weight of the pilot and bomb thrower," the correspondent was informed.

"These new aeroplanes will not be in commission before February. The fliers are being trained now at special aviation camps, and at least one of the instructors was flying in London as recently as last spring."

Germany's Aerial Equipment.

An American refugee from Roumania, who reached London six weeks ago via Austria, Germany and Holland, told the correspondent at the time that at the flying field in Berlin he had seen at least 500 aeroplanes and fifty Zeppelins in their sheds.

When the German officer interviewed was asked if there was any truth in the statement that Germany had fifty Zeppelins six weeks ago he replied frankly:

"That is nonsense. But we are working on new Zeppelins night and day and by February we shall have forty six."

Confirmation—of a sort—of the planned aerial attack on London came from Count Zeppelin himself, who returned to his home in Stuttgart, Wurtemberg, after a three days' stay in Berlin.

"Give Us Time," Says Zeppelin.

An American woman saw the count in Berlin and, rushing up to him, exclaimed, "Tell me, when are the Zeppelins going to London?"

Count Zeppelin bowed politely, replying: "Wait and see. Only give us time, madam."

"Zeppelin neck" is the form of malady now prevalent in London, according to one report.

This is the popular term for stiff necks, which are commoner than ever at this season because so many Londoners are craning their necks, scanning the heavens as the government searchlights relentlessly examine the sky for the enemy.

WATCH BRINDILLA CASE.

Washington and London Deeply Interested in Seizure of Oil Ship

If in the capture of the Brindilla, the oil tank ship formerly the Washington, the British government wishes to test neutral ownership, not alleged contraband cargo or an unneutral destination, it will be appealing to a principle of international law which Great Britain has never formally ratified. There are precedents for such a course, as when both Spain and the United States in 1898 adhered to the declaration of Paris, though neither had ratified it. The case is attracting much attention in Washington and London.

The Brindilla was a ship of the Deutsche Amerika Petroleum company, caught in New York by the war. She was bought by the Standard Oil company under the American registry act and sent out under the American flag outside the three mile limit she was taken and towed to Halifax and the jurisdiction of a prize court.

The declaration of London, article 6, declares void the transfer of an enemy's ship to a neutral in war unless it is proved that such transfer is not made in order to avoid the consequences to which an enemy's vessel, as such, is exposed. The burden of proof of good faith is put upon the owners of the Brindilla by this article.

The British commons, December, 1911, passed a naval prize act accepting the declaration of London. The lords rejected it. Yet it has passed by usage into the common law of nations was embodied in declarations by Russia and Italy during the Tripoli war and is admitted in principle by the present belligerents. If an appeal is taken from the prize court to the Hague that tribunal is bound by the convention establishing it to decide in accord with international law, or, if no recognized rule exists, to follow "the general principles of justice and equity."

Little Oddities In the European War News

French military surgeons in Lyons called for volunteers to give their blood to save the wounded soldiers from the effects of hemorrhages and had a gratifying response. Fifty persons offered themselves immediately.

On a British torpedo boat destroyed in a recent action the ships' pet monkey, evidently not relishing the noise and scurry, became terrified. He flew into the galley and climbed on the top shelf. There he hastily selected a big fish saucer and hid himself until the firing ceased.

Miss Felice Gauthier, stenographer in the office of the Austro-Hungarian consulate general in New York, who has returned from an extended trip in Austria and Hungary, says that Austrian soldiers going to the front are reported to have been supplied with vials of poison to take in case of capture by the Serbians to escape torture at their hands.

"The oddest thing I ever saw in action was that of a big Highlander who milked a cow under fire and shell fire to get something for his wounded mates to drink when the water ran out," says Private Clarke of the King's Royal Rifles in a letter home.

URGE CHRISTMAS PEACE.

Ministers Want Powers to Declare Armistice on Christ's Birthday.

This London Daily Mail received a dispatch from its correspondent in New York saying that leading clerics and educators there have under discussion a movement to have the warring powers agree to an armistice on Christmas day.

The correspondent said of the movement: "This idea is in its infancy, but it has already enlisted the sympathies of such distinguished leaders as Cardinal Farley, Bishop David H. Greer of the Episcopal diocese of New York and Rabbi H. Pereira Mendes of the Jewish synagogue."

The larger movement looking to a permanent cessation of hostilities is at present subordinated apparently to the movement for an armistice on Christmas day.

Bishop Greer said details of the plan were still to be worked out, but that probably, if the movement met with the expected support of all creeds and denominations, the proposal for a Christmas armistice would be made through President Wilson or the state department at Washington.

The movement is all the more commendable in that the idea should have come from a rabbi, Dr. Mendes.

Over Forty, but a Sluggo.

The greatest baseball player in the west is undoubtedly Frank Huelsman, the captain of the Salt Lake City team in the Union association.

This man is well over forty years old, weighs considerably over 200 pounds and is about six feet two inches in height. He has been up to big league company and has been playing professional ball well over twenty years.

Huelsman's age has slowed him up as a batter and base runner, and out side of his battling he wouldn't be considered eligible by any minor league club. But his hitting would make him a desirable man on any major league team.

Huelsman is now leading the Union association batters, with a percentage of 401.

CURBSTONE GLEANINGS

BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH. "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

"They Say"
Have you heard of the terrible family "They,"
And of all the venomous "They say"
And half the gossip under the sun,
If you trace it back, you will find begun
In that wretched house of "They."
A numerous family, so I am told,
And its genealogical tree is old,
For ever since Adam and Eve began
To build up the curious race of Man
Has existed the house of "They."

Gossip-mongers and spreaders of lies,
Horrid people whom all despise!
And yet, the best of us, now and then
Repeat queer tales of women and men
And quote the house of "They."

They live like lords and never labor,
A "They's" one task is to watch his neighbor,
And to tell his business and private affairs
To the world at large; they are sowers of tares
These folks in the house of "They."

It is useless to follow a "They"
With a whip or a gun, for he slips away
And into they house, where they cannot go;
It is locked and bolted and guarded so—
This horrible house of "They."

Though you cannot get in, they get out,
And spread their villainous tales about
Of all the rascals under the sun
Who have come to punishment never one
Belonged to the house of "They."
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Asa G. Candler in an interview published in The Atlanta Georgian, last Thursday's issue gives the people of the south some advice that should be pondered deeply and put into practice. Mr. Candler is one of the nation's foremost business men and what he says carries great weight and will go a long way toward silencing the calamity howlers. Excerpts from the interview follow:

"All we need to do is to keep wits about us. The worst enemy of the south today is the person who is eternally crying hard times and bankruptcy. We are very far from bankruptcy and if we haven't quite as much ready cash to spend as we have had at some other times in our existence we may still be very happy if we just half try. You can make yourself believe pretty near anything if you will keep repeating that thing to yourself. You can make yourself believe that you have the rheumatism if you keep reminding yourself that you have that disease. I wouldn't give a cent for a doctor who came to see me and told me the first thing that I was going to die, and hadn't taken any sort of care of myself and so on. All of that might be true, but I would discharge the doctor who kept telling me that rather than telling me what to do to get better.

"There isn't a business man in the south who isn't vitally concerned with getting our present business difficulties straightened out as speedily as possible. We are all mutually interested. I cannot hope to prosper if my fellow citizens are not prospering also. If everybody but me should go to the poor house, there would be no place left for me to go but to the poorhouse too. We should not delude ourselves with the idea that we can legislate a cotton market into existence. We cannot, and the sooner we abandon that idea the better. Let every business man, every banker, every professional man turn in and help. I am not given to using slang, but there is something in the advice: "Don't Knock! Boost!"

Throughout the entire interview, which is of some length, there is a ringing note of optimism that shows that Mr. Candler does not think that the south is in anything like the condition that the calamity howlers are trying to make out.

"Some people may despise the lowly nickel but the man who can corral a bunch of nickels or even of pennies will lay the foundation of a fortune. Some time ago Asa Candler the Coca Cola king of Atlanta gave one million dollars to a Methodist college. One day last week he gave thirty millions to move the cotton crop and when you pause to think about how he reached the million mark just from the sale of nickel drinks the figures are appalling. A few years ago Coca Cola was hardly known outside of a few southern states and I well remember being in the north some twelve years ago and asking the soda fountain man in one of the largest cities for Coca Cola and he asked me what I meant. He finally decided that I wanted the new Atlanta concoction and reaching under the counter brought out a small sample bottle that held enough for two drinks. We had them together and he liked it so well that he concluded to order some more and today that city is probably using Coca Cola by the thousand barrels. All of this popularity of the drink was made by advertising for go where you will the large signs of Coca Cola greet your eye and every paper and magazine carry the advertisements. About ten years ago, while in Atlanta Mr. Candler carried me over his plant and told me the amount of money he was spending on advertising and while I do not remember the amount the figures were in the hundred thousand class and have more than doubled in the time since. This all goes to show that if the man who can get up something that brings in the nickels and advertises it extensively and makes many millions of dollars in the time that Asa Candler has it is high time that the man who does not believe in advertising should get wise to himself and the one who despises nickels can also take a tumble and start to saving them up.

"Some people in the past have called me a crank on the subject of the bulkhead and the idea of making Sanford a more beautiful city but in later years many people have come to my rescue and if I was crazy a few years ago I now have some mighty good company. Among my warmest supporters are the good ladies of Sanford and they have joined the attack on the citadel of "fossilism" most valiantly and today the idea is strong in the breasts of the majority of the people to make Sanford the most beautiful city in the country. And why not? We certainly have the foundation for Sanford is undoubtedly endowed by nature most lavishly and all we need to do is to assist by some artificial touches to tone down the harsher angles and here and there pat Dame Nature down a bit and we will have the finest city in the land. The bulkhead is a mighty fine start and when finished will be a thing of beauty and a joy forever. I hear some talk of a yacht club on the lake front that will build a fine pavilion for dancing, having bowling alleys, etc. Now I want to supplement this with the idea that some Sanford man who has the good of the city at heart will erect the pavilion and turn it over to the club for a term of years, the club to pay him a good interest on the investment. This would not be any hardship on either side and the Commercial Club could have the building for headquarters. And there could be no better room in the city than on the lake front. We have often talked of a country club. This would be fine, but let us get ahead of the game and build a yacht club. Any city in Florida can have a country club but mighty few of them can have a yacht club such as Sanford could have.

"I suggest that some of the calamity howlers in this neck of the woods try a diet of baked beans and maybe they could get up enough life to take part in the progressive movements of Sanford.

F. J. McDannel, who exists in Owosso, Michigan that he may live in Sanford some day and who has the best interests of Sanford at heart all the time, is anxious that the people of Seminole county plant trees along the highways. Mr. McDannel owns a nice place on the Sanford Orlando road and it is safe to assert that when he can divorce himself from his present position and come to Sanford to stay that he will plant trees upon his right of way. He sends the following about trees to The Herald:

"The Indiana office of public roads is urging the public to do something that is so obvious that it ought to require no urging to plant trees along the highways.

In the Old West the road was primarily an economic question, because wood is so scarce and valuable. They would figure how great a value could be created by raising a double line of great trees along thousands of miles of roadway, thus utilizing land that otherwise would be useless. Perhaps the trees would be of some value even in this country, but the main argument is apparent.

Nobody from city or country ever fails to note the beauty of a fine row of trees. Occasionally in driving through the country one enters an avenue that would be an ornament to any city park—a long stretch of road with a row of magnificent maples on each side, their branches interlacing over head. Nobody but a blind man could fail to notice it. Scarcely any one fails to say to himself: "Somebody did a good thing when he planted those trees."

And he did do a good thing. Every man who plants a tree does a good thing; for he starts something that goes on without him, and continues to grow more and more beautiful and valuable long after he is dead.

Lenawee county has more than a thousand miles of county roads, and probably 75 per cent of this mileage is altogether treeless, save for an occasional remnant of the original forest, or a stray seedling that has sprung up in a fence corner. Probably not 5 per cent—perhaps not that much—can show rows of shade trees planted by human hands. How could the same amount of effort produce so much beauty and satisfaction as the beautifying of all these barren miles of highway?

It takes work of course to plant a tree. But the work comes at the very time of year when the time can be spared on the farm. To set out one tree is a small chore; but to set out a dozen would not be a very big one. Think what a change would be made around any farm by setting a dozen maples, or forest saplings of any kind each year. Imagine how the road would be transformed, in even so short a space as ten years. Imagine what a beauty spot it would be in thirty or fifty years.

It is a good idea and one that does not need any concerted effort or any act of the legislature. All that is needed is the desire to do it. The man to begin is you; and the place to begin is your own highway; the time to begin is the first day you feel like it. Set out trees. If you can't set out trees set out a tree.

Do it every year. Tree planting is contagious and your neighbor will follow suit. And the people of the next generation will look back with appreciation on your work.

Editor in Trouble
Clearwater, Oct. 23. Choice between publishing an apology in his newspaper or else being sentenced to jail was given by W. L. Straub, editor of the St. Petersburg Times, when arraigned before Circuit Judge F. M. Robles here today on a charge of contempt of court. The charge arose out of editorial comment made in the Times, in which Mr. Straub said that either the "law or the decision" of Judge Robles in the Pinellas jail matter "was a fake."

In calling Mr. Straub before the bar this morning Judge Robles made a very straightforward statement of his past pleasant relations, of his high esteem for newspaper men in general, and of Straub in particular, and of his reasons for making the decision which he did. He emphasized the fact that while newspapers should have the fullest leeway in making proper criticism of courts there was a point beyond which statements might reflect discredit, not upon a judge personally, but upon the judiciary and he stated that his understanding he language used was that it was a contemptuous term. He declared that while he might make mistakes no one had ever had reason to doubt his sincerity, and he felt that an explanation of the article was necessary.

Mr. Straub protested that he meant only to imply that a law which permitted of such a decision was a fake. He declared the highest regard for the judiciary and for Judge Robles in particular, and said he had no reason whatever for using any contemptuous term regarding him.

The judge stated, however, that the language used would undoubtedly be considered by any judge or lawyer as tending to bring derision upon the judiciary and to lessen its influence, if it were generally published that fake decisions were given in important cases. He said that he would hold the matter in abeyance for a few days to see what explanation Mr. Straub would make, and that if a suitable apology appeared in the Times the matter would be dropped. Otherwise the editor would be called up again.

The judge also added that he would never in a contempt case, impose a fine, as that would merely take a few dollars out of the pocket. Anyone who would be adjudged guilty of contempt, he said, would have to receive a jail sentence.

He said that he would hold the matter in abeyance for a few days to see what explanation Mr. Straub would make, and that if a suitable apology appeared in the Times the matter would be dropped. Otherwise the editor would be called up again.

The judge also added that he would never in a contempt case, impose a fine, as that would merely take a few dollars out of the pocket. Anyone who would be adjudged guilty of contempt, he said, would have to receive a jail sentence.

BAPTISTS CONVENE

THE WEKIVA BAPTIST ASSOCIATION HAS FINE MEETING

The thirty-eighth annual session of the Wekiva Baptist Association convened with the Lake View Baptist church at Whittier, Fla., last Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 21 and 22. In the absence of the moderator the meeting was called together by the clerk, and organization perfected. Officers elected for the ensuing year, for moderator, Rev. E. Lee Smith of Apopka, and for clerk, Jno. D. Jinkins of Sanford. In spite of the distance the Association was well attended, especially by the churches in the lower part of the territory covered by the Association, but not so well by the churches further north.

Whittier is located fifty miles south of Chuluota, and forty-four miles from Kissimmee, and is on the Lake Okeechobee branch of the F. E. C. Ry., and was at one time the county seat of Brevard county, before the formation of Osceola county.

Reports from the churches showed an encouraging growth and development practically all over the territory covered by this Association, which embraces the churches at DeLand, Sanford, Oviedo, Apopka, Geneva, Longwood, Umatilla, Sorrento, Tavares, Orlando, Kissimmee and many smaller churches.

The introductory sermon was preached by Rev. W. W. Willian of Tavares, and the doctrinal sermon by Dr. A. J. Holt of Kissimmee, the closing sermon by Rev. E. Lee Smith of Apopka.

The delegates were sumptuously entertained by the good people of Whittier and vicinity under the direction of Rev. B. H. Guy, the pastor, and Mr. John H. Baisden, chairman of the entertainment committee.

It has long been thought that the Wekiva Association was too large covering as it does the territory from DeLand to Bassenger and Lake Okeechobee and from Geneva, Chuluota and Fort Christmas to Winter Garden and Umatilla. After careful consideration and conference with Dr. Rogers of the State Board it has been decided to form a new Association, and for that purpose the following churches, Chuluota, Geneva, Lake Gertrude, Lockwood, Oviedo, Pine Grove, Sanford, Sorrento, Tavares and Umatilla, in addition to this the churches of DeLand, Longwood, Enterprise and Altavilla are expected to come into the new association. Also churches from other associations which are expected to unite with the new association are Daytona, New Smyrna, Titusville, Oak Hill, Lake Helen, Osteen and Jarroville. This will give the new association a compact territory and several strong churches. A meeting to perfect the organization has been called to be held with the Sanford Baptist church Thursday, Nov. 12th at 11 a. m.

The Seminole Baptist Association is the name suggested for the new organization.

THE POSTAL BANKS GETTING DEPOSITS

WAR SCARE SEEMS TO HAVE MADE POSTAL BANKS VERY POPULAR

The war in Europe is proving a big boon to postal savings in this country. From the very day hostilities opened across the seas postal-savings receipts began to increase by leaps and bounds and withdrawals fell off, a result quite contrary to the predictions of many well informed persons who, in their imagination, saw lines of feverish depositors at postoffice pay windows anxious to again return their savings to the boot-leg and to by belt depots where they came before entrusted to Uncle Sam.

Two important results have followed; thousands of people, largely of foreign birth, accustomed to send their savings abroad, are now patrons of our postal savings system, and enormous sums of actual cash have been released for commercial uses among our own people at a time when the need for every available dollar is pressing.

The growth of postal savings in the United States has been steady and healthy and the system has filled an important gap between the ten-cent depository and the factory paymaster. On July 1, when affairs were running smoothly here and abroad and the transmission of money across the Atlantic was safe and expeditious, there was approximately $43,000,000 of postal savings.

The unexpected increase in postal-savings business has not only added greatly to the general administrative duties of the system, but has brought up many new and interesting problems which have called for the careful personal consideration of Postmaster General Burleson and Governor Dockery, Third Assistant Postmaster General. But their task has been lightened somewhat by the promptness of depository banks in furnishing additional security to meet the abnormal deposits. A number of the very largest banks in the country, which have heretofore declined to qualify as depositories for postal savings funds are now among eager applicants for them.

There are now 90 depositories in Sanford, whose deposits amount to $6,724.00.

C. E. Convention

The delegates to the convention are arriving in our city today. Preparations are completed for a good, helpful gathering of our Christian Endeavor forces of the district. Sessions, beginning tonight are open for all, and especially the young people of other societies of the cities are cordially invited to be present. Come and bring a friend with you, at the Congregational church.

There is something woefully in-sane about a "neutrality" that will begin to talk about the need of American armament "if the Germans invade England."

Prominent Floridian Here

Among the prominent visitors to the city yesterday was Hon. John M. Caldwell, editor of the Jasper News and one of the most prominent men of the state. He is on his rounds as High Priest of the Royal Arch degree of Masons and coming to Sanford to make connections for the East Coast found the people so religious over here that they would not allow the East Coast trains to run on Sunday and he was obliged to stay in Sanford. If Uncle John enjoyed his visit as much as we enjoyed having him the feeling is mutual, for he is one of the most interesting men in Florida, having been born and raised in Florida and has the proud distinction of being the father of seventeen children, all of whom were given an apprenticeship in the printing office and have made good in the various walks of life.

The Methodist church has had a very harmonious year and more than fifty members have been added to the roll, and from the modest prosperity of the church.

MUST HAVE LICENSE TO HUNT IN STATE

JONES EXPECTS WARDENS TO DO THEIR DUTY THIS SEASON

Jacksonville, Oct. 30.—State Game and Fish Commissioners E. Z. Jones has placed applications for hunting licenses in the hands of the county judges of the peace in the state for the benefit of the Nimrods. He has loaned distributed the blanks with all of the county judges. Commissioner Jones stated that he has taken this step to enable the hunters to procure the necessary licenses with as little trouble as possible. One thing to secure a license may now be before any judge of the peace and make application for such and the official will take his sworn application, send it in to the county judge and secure the desired permit to hunt. In this connection the commissioner makes it plain that where a party secures a state license he is entitled to hunt in any county in the state without the necessity of securing a county license. He states that in many cases he has received inquiries as to whether or not it was necessary to secure two licenses if a party desired to hunt in any county other than that in which he lives. Mr. Jones also desires all hunters to understand that he intends to enforce the law. He does not permit hunting without license. Up to the present time some 200 prosecutions have been started over the state. Those who have been prosecuted by the commissioner have been accused of hunting without licenses, which is contrary to law. Those prosecutions have been begun in 22 counties. Volusia county leads with 14 prosecutions already started. However, Polk, Leon, Marion and Howard counties are not far behind.

The number of suits started in Escambia, Manatee and Santa Rosa counties, but one prosecution has been started for each county.

WEATHER CONDITIONS AND THE MARKETS

COLD SNAP MAKES BETTER OUTLOOK FOR THE LETTUCE

The following information on the market and weather conditions in the north is of interest to Sanford growers. It is absolutely authentic and is furnished by F. F. Dutton, who is in daily communication with these markets.

From Chicago. We had our first snow storm yesterday and a heavy freeze last night which we believe will cut down supplies of home-grown vegetables materially. There is little or no change in the celery market at the present time, but we believe this cold weather will stimulate same. New York lettuce is arriving in very bad condition and there is a good demand for fancy stock. We have had several inquiries as to how soon Florida will start and would appreciate your advising us promptly on receipt of this communication relative to the situation there and how soon you will have stock to offer.

From Philadelphia. Referring to your remarks contained in yours of the 22nd regarding lettuce which should be ready to move in the course of the next two or three weeks, wish to say that over night we had a very cold snap and we were advised by wire from New York that the temperature had dropped to 44. While no serious damage has been done to the celery crop, it has done the lettuce crop a lot of harm and there is no question but that if your stock is good and headed the market will be all right when it is ready.

From Pittsburgh. The weather here has turned cold over night, temperature around 35 and we are having snowfall. The predictions for the week are continued cold and today unquestionably puts a quietus on home grown products.

CONFEDERATE VETS HOLDING REUNION

LAKELAND IS HOST TO THE GRAY CLAD WARRIORS OF FLORIDA

Lakeland, Oct. 29.—Following the general reception and address of welcome of Wednesday, the Florida division, meeting here in annual reunion, spent the morning in an important business session. A large increase in attendance was noted today and the reunion gives promise of being one of the most successful ever held in this state.

Every afternoon the veterans and sons and daughters of veterans will be taken for an automobile ride in and around the city.

Lakeland is maintaining its reputation for hospitality, every incoming train being met by a committee which sees that the old veterans are assigned to their quarters and are taken there with the minimum of inconvenience and trouble to themselves.

A force of boy scouts is in attendance and as soon as a veteran receives his card one of these boys is at his side to act as guide and companion and escort him to his destination.

Due to the nature of general battle the veterans are a fine looking and intelligent body of men, many of them remarkably interesting personalities. A number of them show the effect of service scars and missing limbs, but the frequent being in evidence. One veteran, A. B. Davis of Plant City is 94 years of age, but he carries his burden of nearly a century as lightly as some men of fifty. Another aged and distinguished member is H. W. Long of Marion county, known throughout the state. Prominent figures also are those of Y. D. Williams of Jacksonville, brigadier general and assistant adjutant general, F. M. Brimmer of Jacksonville and many others. The sponsors and mards and their charm and beauty in contrast with the rugged qualities of the aged soldiers.

A thought a reception for the sponsors and mards is being held at the residence of Mr. A. H. ... long to be remembered.

SANFORD TO HAVE A FOOT BALL TEAM

BOYS HAVE ORGANIZED AND WILL TRY TO HAVE WINNING AGGREGATION

The Sanford High School is to have a foot ball team this year. The boys have already organized and are practicing hard every afternoon. More athletic spirit is being shown in the school this year than ever before, and it is certain the boys will succeed if they keep up practice and interest as they are doing now.

The years before that the H.S. tried to organize a foot ball team were unsuccessful on account of lack of men and interest, but this year we have a superintendent who is just as enthusiastic over the game as any of the boys, and he has already done much toward making this a successful year in athletics. The freshman class this year brought several good men who are showing up fine.

Those trying for the team are Shepherd, Routh, Spencer, Murrell, Brown, Pope, Wickham, A. Green, Arthur and Fry.

Several games have been arranged, one of which is with St. Augustine H. S. and is to be played here Friday week. The St. Augustine game is strong and a good game is expected.

Football in Tampa

The Herald acknowledges with thanks the courtesies of the sporting editor of the Tampa Tribune for the football games to be played in Tampa tomorrow afternoon, in which Southern College and Stetson will compete. On Thanksgiving Day the big game will be played between Southern College and Florida University. The games are played at Plant Field in Tampa, said to be very fine grounds and large crowds should attend both games. Several of the boys from Sanford expect to see tomorrow's game.

Red Cross Recital Fund

It is desired to make the Red Cross fund, through the coming Recital as large as possible. Every one is interested and anxious to help the cause along. On every hand, each one addressed on the subject expresses the earnest desire to aid to the utmost. The clergy, the merchants, county and city officers, business men and citizens active and retired unitedly wish the project well and promise help generously and gladly. The entertainment itself is going to be superb and worth more than the admission price at which tickets have been placed. All will be ready with their fifty-cent pieces when the admission cards are ready, which will be shortly. It is absolutely necessary, in order to make the right kind of success of the project, to sell two hundred tickets.

MRS. OVERMAN IS STEADILY IMPROVING

REPORTS THAT SHE WAS DEAD FOUND TO HAVE BEEN UNTRUE

In a letter to the editor of the Herald Mrs. J. H. Overman states that she is improving every day and the report that she is dead has been greatly exaggerated. Mrs. Overman, it will be remembered, fell through a broken place in the flooring of the back porch over the Progress Laundry in Tampa and sustained serious injuries, shattering the bones in her leg between the knee and ankle. She is still in the hospital and while suffering greatly is still the cheerful and optimistic lady that the Sanford people knew so well. Her many friends here will be glad to know that her limb will not have to be amputated and that eventually she will regain the full use of it, although it will be some time before she can bear the weight of her body on it.

Her many friends here will be glad to know that her limb will not have to be amputated and that eventually she will regain the full use of it, although it will be some time before she can bear the weight of her body on it.

FORREST DABNEY CARR COMING FOR RECITAL

RED CROSS BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT WILL BE GIVEN FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 13

Mr. Carr's recital and benefit for the Red Cross will be held at 8:00 P. M. at the Metropolitan Opera Co. on Friday, November 13. Mr. Carr was associated with the Metropolitan Opera Co. His singing in the Brick Church, N. Y. City (Dr. Henry Van Dyke, pastor) gave him opportunities of appearing before the leading musical clubs of the country, especially the Evanston Musical Club of Evanston, Illinois. P. C. Latham, director of the club, says that in Edgar's "King" that was so pronounced he was dramatically engaged by this same organization to sing Edgar's master work "Caractacus" which created a sensation at the St. Louis Exposition—winning honors for the club and securing second prize over the leading choral societies of the world. Mr. Carr's singing of Dr. Waldorf Davies setting of "Everyman" under the direction of Mr. Clarence Dickinson, was the first performance in America and will be remembered as one of the most beautiful interpretations this character has ever received.

Death of Mrs. Bishop

Following a lingering illness from paralysis for over four years, Mrs. Bishop, wife of Dr. J. N. Bishop, passed away Sunday morning, the 25th, at "The Norton" their home in Crestwood, New York. The funeral services were held at their residence, conducted by Rev. C. P. Tinker, followed by burial service at New London, Conn. Mrs. Bishop's birthplace and former home.

Dr. and Mrs. Bishop are well known in this community, as he has been identified with the growth and development of Sanford, and has large interests at Paola, where they had their winter residence over thirty five years.

Dr. and Mrs. Bishop were well known in this city, where they resided for many years. Dr. Bishop located in Sanford with Mrs. Bishop about the year 1875. He built the Bishop block and practiced medicine here, leaving for New York in 1887. He and Mrs. Bishop made many visits here, afterward stopping in Sanford and visiting their grove property near Paola. The many friends here of the family extend their sympathy to the bereaved in the hour of affliction.

THE CHRISTMAS SHIP IS READY TO LOAD

SANFORD PEOPLE SHOULD ASSIST IN THIS GREAT MOVEMENT TODAY

The Christmas Ship will be started from this city and the Woman's Club will have the management of the shipments that will go to make the little children happy in war ridden Europe. The school children have been interested in this great movement and Mrs. Terheun paid a visit to each room this week explaining the proposition to all of them and the children of Sanford have taken hold of her idea with much enthusiasm.

Any one having toys or presents of any kind that would help to gladden the little children of Europe at Christmas time should take the articles to the Woman's Club house on Oak avenue this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon or call up Mrs. Terheun for information on the subject.

The Southern Express, with commendable spirit have agreed to carry the articles free of charge and assist the movement in every way and the following letter is self explanatory: Vice President instructs that Christmas gifts donated for the children of Europe for forwarding on United States Government steamers from Brooklyn November tenth will be carried free to Brooklyn from points where express service is necessary because of limited time before sailing date. Shipments must be limited to one hundred pounds and marked "Christmas Gifts for the Children of Europe" and should be timed to reach Brooklyn approximately forty eight hours before November tenth.

In order that this information may reach the largest number of our patrons, I suggest that you advise local papers of this free service offered by express companies.

In acceptance of shipments it will be well to caution shippers of such packages that it is not advisable to pack perishables in their donations or articles that would probably spoil during the long voyage. Respectfully, C. C. WOLFER, Superintendent.

Change in the Cotton

Washington, Oct. 30.—United States Ambassador Gerard, at Berlin, cabled the state department today that Germany and Austria need about 75,000 bales of cotton a month from the United States and he is getting details on the points of shipment.

Baron Von Schuck, one of the German embassy secretaries, made inquiries as to the extent of protection for cotton going to German ports. Indirectly he informed the state department that Germany is pleased with the plan evolved by the United States and Great Britain.

The state department plan, which will undoubtedly be utilized by American shippers, means $3,000,000 worth of cotton a month may now cross the seas safely under the virtual protection of the British navy. Cotton carrying vessels for German ports should be neutral bottoms, as understood by the state department, and also as indicated by Ambassador Gerard. Cotton shipped under the neutral agreement is now fixed may be used by the army of any country to which it is consigned.
