Mencken, Severe Critic Of American Customs, Thinks Dry Law Report Is Okey

BALTIMORE, Jan. 24.—(AP)—H. L. Mencken, in a copyrighted article in the Baltimore Evening Sun, expresses the opinion that the Webb-Kuhns law, Enforcement Commission, "did an excellent job—in fact a job so good as to be almost brilliant."

"All the editorial writers and other publicists seem to be shouting about the report," said the editor and critic. "I have encountered no commentary upon it which does not stress its confusion and inconsistency. The plain fact is that, as state papers go in the United States, the report is a document of manifold and unusual merits."

"The commission, as a commission," said Mencken, "had to keep within the bounds of the feasible. It had to remember the extreme difficulty of making any change, whether large or small, in the Eighteenth Amendment or the Volstead Act, and the sworn duty of Mr. Hoover to execute them so long as they remain upon the books."

RADIO APPEALS PROVE BOOST TO RED CROSS

Contributions In Excess Of $400,000 Are Reported As Result Of Broadcast

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—(AP)—While relief issues were spotlighted anew in the Senate, the Red Cross today reported contributions in excess of $400,000 as a result of a nation-wide radio broadcast Thursday night for donations to the $10,000,000 dollar fund. The total raised to date is $1,670,000.

Meanwhile, John Barton, national chairman of the Red Cross, yesterday estimated that a million persons would be receiving assistance by Feb. 1. It calls for aid continue to increase at the same rate in the last few days.

While Democratic spokesmen talked of "deliberate delay," Speaker Longworth referred the proposal to the appropriate committee for investigation.

THRONGS VIEW AIR CIRCUS OF THIRTY PLANES

Estimated Crowd Of 3,000 Attend Festivities At Dedication Of Local Air Field

At noon today the Sanford Avenue aviation field, which yesterday afternoon was the scene of the largest gathering of persons in this county in years as a result of the visit of the 30 or more planes which comprise the second annual all-Florida air tour, was a deserted spot and the last of the planes had disappeared from view, headed for Cocoa, where they will take part in elaborate ceremonies.

Before their departure this morning, however, fully 500 spectators viewed with much interest, the preparations surrounding the take-off, and, as yesterday, the St. Louis Robin, the giant trimotored Ford plane known as the "Flying grocery-store"; and the tiny Gee-Bee sportster which was used by Lowell Bayles in stunting, were the objects of the greatest interest.

It is estimated that 3000 persons attended yesterday afternoon's festivities, and the members of the Lions Club, which sponsored the air meet, were congratulated on all sides for the complete success of the entire program. Not a hitch marred the program from beginning to end. The planes arrived on almost scheduled time; more than 300 persons were safely carried as passengers during the day; Freddie Lund and Lowell Bayles gave stunt demonstrations which, judging from the gasps and murmurs heard, thrilled every spectator; Otto Hoover and Floyd Stimpson jumped head-first from the "Flying grocery-store" making delayed parachute landings and each of the entertainments which the Lions had provided for the amusement of the visitors last night were well-attended and evidently enjoyed by all.

While Dale Jackson, co-pilot of the famous St. Louis Robin which

DEAN OF BANKERS SEES DEPRESSION AS IMPERMANENT

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Jan. 24.—(AP)—George P. Baker Sr., 90-year-old dean of American bankers, arrived yesterday and went to his winter home on Jekyll Island, eight miles southeast of here.

Mr. Baker reached Brunswick in a private car and was accompanied by E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley railroad, a long-time friend of Baker's. The train was taken to within 75 feet of the boat landing. Mr. Baker was placed in a wheel chair by his servants and rolled to the boat, which departed for Jekyll Island.

Mr. Loomis said Mr. Baker was enjoying unusually good health except that his feet and legs were somewhat weak just at this time. His eyesight, which has been bothering him for a good many years, was really improving, Mr. Loomis said.

Asked what Mr. Baker thinks of the present situation, he said: "I am not pessimistic. I believe the depression is impermanent and will be followed by a period of recovery."

Green said the efforts of the federation through the authorization of the railroads would be to be in Congress, President Hoover, and the Interstate Commerce Commission for the consolidation of the American Federation of Labor to be a railroad consolidation.

The council has decided to send a letter to the Federal Reserve Board and the Interstate Commerce Commission, and to urge the consolidation of the railroads into four trunk systems.

All prisoners were taken to the yard where they huddled under guard. The south wing, where young prisoners were confined, was saved. Except for hysterical shrieks from women, all prisoners were orderly. They will be transferred to other state prisons.

SUPPLY BILL FOR U. S. FISCAL YEAR PASSED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—(AP)—After running the wet bloc gauntlet for a week, the state, agriculture, commerce and labor department supply bill for the next fiscal year was passed yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

Providing a total of $135,789,000 for the department, the measure set aside $11,963,000 for the prohibition bureau to increase the number of dry agents from 1400 to 1900. With it went provisions sustained by the House to permit the prohibition enforcement agencies to tap wires, use undercover men, buy alcoholic evidence and maintain speakeries to trap violators.

Wet forces had to be satisfied with the elimination of a provision for $50,000 to be used in prohibition educational activities.

A total of $51,239,000 was allowed the Justice Department; $5,038,000 for the Commerce Department; $10,681,000 for the State Department and $13,830,000 for the Labor Department.

An unsuccessful effort was made by Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, ranking minority member of the House appropriations committee to have eliminated from the State Department section $126,000 that is to be used for entertainment purposes at American embassies.

During the debate on the measure, yesterday a new note in the prohibition controversy was sounded by Representative Gifford, (R. Mass.), who previously supported prohibition. He admonished the wet forces that they would not be successful.

Miller extended Mix joined the Sells Floto Circus at a time he agreed to appear with his show in 1929.

ANCIENT BOOK THAT DESCRIBES HISTORY OF WEST IS FOUND

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 24.—(AP)—An ancient book, depicting the early turbulent history of the Northwest territory, has been found in an old family residence at Urbana, Ohio, it was announced yesterday by the Ohio Archeological and Historical Society.

The history, termed one of the most important of its kind in the United States, covers a gap in existing histories of the vast and wild territory from 1795 to 1803.

The book, in the handwriting of Sir, Winthrop Saigeant, later Governor of the Mississippi Territory, and other noted figures of the day, was written with a quill pen. It was donated to the Ohio Society by John H. James, who found it among his forefathers' treasures in the Urbana home.

Others who contributed to the history were William Henry Harrison, Governor of the Indiana Territory and President of the United States, and Judge Charles Willing Byrd, first Federal Justice in Ohio, and forefather of the Byrds of Virginia.

It was generally believed the history of the Northwest territory from 1795 to 1803 had been destroyed when the British burned the national capital in 1813, but the book just found fills in the gap from the day Arthur St. Clair assumed charge of the territory at Marietta until the formation of the State Government in 1803. The book contains 200 pages and is bound in sheepskin.

In quitting the $7500 a year job, she pleaded an error in the judgment and denied any ulterior motives in inducing Litsinger to lend her $50,000 to help recuperate her fortunes, which had been at a low ebb since the almost simultaneous deaths of her husband and son last April.

BIG VOLUME OF MAIL LEAVES SANFORD BY AIR AS PART OF FIELD DEDICATION

The official dedication of the new Sanford Avenue aviation field last Monday was a decided success in so far as volume of mail sent on the inaugural flight was concerned. This information is revealed in an interview with G. B. Ross, of the Eola Stamp Co., the leading philatelic agency in Sanford. Mr. Ross, together with George Schaal, another member of the firm who is the promoter of the dedicatory exercises, and arranged for a special cabinet of stamps which was affixed to each piece of a mail which left Sanford that day.

According to Mr. Schaal, exactly 4233 letters or "covers" were sent out of Sanford on that day, and stamp-collectors everywhere are now in receipt of them, with their value mounting hourly. All but 84 of the letters were signed by local residents, including Mayor E. L. Dumas and Postmaster J. P. Hall. From the standpoint of the air-mail cover collection, the most valuable cover in the collection was the one signed by James J. Hall, Jimmie and May Hain, W. E. Brown, Mayor Dumas, Postmaster Hall, Maxwell Steward and Fritz Weitzel. Mr.

LARGE GATHERING IS EXPECTED MONDAY TO HONOR GENERAL

While many persons have already signified their intention of attending the regular luncheon of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce at the Valdes Hotel Monday at 12:15 o'clock when General Charles P. Sumner, recently returned chief of staff of the United States Army will be the guest of the day, President Harry M. Papworth today urged that the largest gathering of local citizens at a trade hotel luncheon in months be on hand to greet the distinguished soldier.

"We should make every effort to do honor to Florida's own military genius, and I am hopeful that we will have a capacity attendance," said Mr. Papworth today. "While we have not asked that he deliver an address, we are in hopes that he will honor us with a few words," he added.

General Sumner is one of the nation's few four-star generals, an honor which he won shortly after his participation in the World War. He has traveled extensively during his 45 years in various branches of the service, and many important construction jobs are credited to his initiative and ability. He holds several military titles, and has been presented with medals and insignia from high foreign officials on behalf of their governments. His plans for retirement were delayed because of his recent acceptance of the presidency of the Citadel, the military college of South Carolina, and while he expects to resign as Eustis until Fall, his duties at that school will find him out of the state for at least one year.

Officers of the local branches of the Florida National Guard, the American Legion, and the Spanish American and Civil War veterans, have been given special invitations, and are scheduled to be present at the luncheon in honor of the general.

Florida Citizens Finance and Taxation Committee

The Florida Citizens Finance and Taxation Committee, of which Perry Wall is chairman, met in Tampa yesterday and voted unanimously in favor of recommending necessary legislation for the establishment of a state tax commission to revise Florida's tax system and for the levying of a tax on intangible property.

The report of this committee which will not be completed until February 15 is particularly interesting at this time since it contains recommendations which will be brought before the legislature when it meets in the Spring and since the members of the committee are men of such recognized ability and influence as to make their recommendations particularly significant.

Other recommendations of the committee which have been agreed upon and which are expected to be made to the legislature include the following:

Establishment of a uniform system of accounts for all county offices.

Bills guaranteeing a uniform system of public schools and an eight month minimum term.

A bill permitting the payment of taxes by installments. Bills to reduce the number of judicial districts, following the final recommendations of the Florida State Bar Association.

Consolidation of the offices of county and city tax collectors.

A bill requiring tax sales to follow the publication of one legal advertisement.

Consolidation of the county law libraries. All fees would go into a common fund used for the payment of salaries and office expense.

Revision of the pension rolls to eliminate unworthy recipients.

A bill setting up a civil service system for all state and county employes and fixing salaries.

Bills empowering states' attorneys to indict in cases other than capital offenses, thus reducing grand jury costs, and to represent the state in tax foreclosures without additional compensation.

Elimination of auto tag agencies and putting tag distribution in the hands of the county tax collectors without fees.

A bill requiring the payment of back taxes on property sold in the final settlement of estates.

Abolition of official court reporters in all judicial circuits.

A bill to divert the surplus in the state hotel commission fund to the pension fund.

A bill abolishing boards of bond trustees.

A general bill prohibiting nepotism or the appointment by officials of immediate relatives to subordinate positions.

Unknown Greatness

The poet probably had in mind the same thing when he wrote:

Full many a gem of purest ray serene, The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear; Many a rose is born to blush unseen, And waste its fragrance by the sea's air.

The DeLand Sun News illustrates this thought with a story of Constance Bennett who, as a motion picture actress, earning eight hundred dollars an hour, is not as necessary, as things go in this world, as many a woman, unknown, working quietly in her home.

"Ambitious young ladies will read a story about Constance Bennett, film star, and will be thrilled," says the DeLand paper. "She has signed a contract with Warner Brothers to make two pictures. For her services she is to receive $800 for each working hour—$300,000 for ten weeks; and yet some people say the earning capacity of women is below par.

"To those young ladies who will envy Miss Bennett, this writer would say, don't be envious. If your personality is of the screen kind you might develop it and become a star, but the chances are against you, something like a thousand to one. You are reminded that the best way to be successful in this world is to prepare yourself for the great work of keeping a home well. Remember, that every man and every woman who has accomplished great work, was first inspired around the hearthstone.

"Constance Bennett will earn lots of money and spend it freely, but she will never become as great as the mother of Abraham Lincoln, who gave to the world a full measure of manhood in her immortal son.

"Often men and women do not become great until they have been dead 100 years."

TELLING THE WORLD

By NEAL OWARA

TEACHER—I hope all you children listened to the radio last night and heard some good music. There was plenty of it on the air.

NELLIE—There was some nice talks on the air, too, teacher.

TEACHER—Nellie, did you happen to hear Garthwin's "Rhapsody in Blue"?

NELLIE—I heard something was in blue, but I think it was the tinny wrappers around the chocolate bars. And it's red when there are almonds in it. The man said both chocolate bars are good.

TEACHER—Herman, what music did you hear that pleased you?

HERMAN—I don't get a chance to hear much music, teacher. The man was talking about the Government papers that talk in the month and March. There's millions of 'em. A good music speaks to me all through, and it's so easy to hear effective than other music. These are the best.

WORLD'S

By PIERRE JACQUES

The desire to see something of an ancient Protestant church in Rome, the capital of Catholicism, led me to a small chapel dedicated to the cult of the Valdensians. It was without difficulty that we located this church, buried as it is in the maze of streets of the Old Rome. It was not until we stood in front of the building that we saw it to be a Valdensian house. We had looked merely for a Protestant chapel.

Now the very name of Valdensian inspires respect. For was it not against this sect that Innocent III preached a crusade a thousand years ago, and did not Simon de Montfort massacre the Valdensians by the tens of thousands in France and the valleys of Lombardy? We found a congregation of simple folks, well-to-do burghers, and artisans whose officiating minister shook us cordially by the hand as we entered. This unostentatious act of courtesy in itself had a way of opening our heart.

Differences in language and race vanish in such moments and we feel that the great tie of Christian brotherhood is something that transcends the frontiers. The organ and choir intoned a hymn, and although the words were unfamiliar to us there is always something very impressive about the Protestant way of congregational singing that made a Catholic priest at home remark once: "Every time I pass a Protestant church and hear their singing I feel a better man."

There is no doubt that the primitive church in Jerusalem and Antioch practiced it. Didn't the Lord and the disciples themselves sing before the gates of Jerusalem? And after the death of Christ were they not "gathered together" consulting each other and singing hymns?

The text which the minister expounded was taken from Christ's words recorded in St. John's Gospel: "Peace be unto you!" In a few words he passed in review the animosities and the ranking hatreds that persist between the people in post-war Europe. And he held that even the most simple citizen could help in the destruction of the gathering clouds of war by practicing the precepts of Christ—love and good will to his fellow men. Those who live in their own heart, the peace that passeth understanding could, he said, aid in effectively transforming a world torn by war and suffering.

There was nothing startling about the preacher's eloquence, nothing either new or original about his doctrine. But the sincerity and the timeliness of the admonition gripped the heart when the minister finally invited the congregation to stand up and sing a few translated stanzas of John Newman's inspiring invocation, "Lead, Kindly Light, Amid the Encircling Gloom." We could join in with all our heart and most reverently. Somehow we had felt perfectly at home in that Valdensian chapel.

Without having been exactly on the lookout for it, we strolled into the old Ghetto of Rome one Saturday morning. The gates of the Pale have been torn down long since, of course, but the church erected by a converted Jew at a spot where every inhabitant leaving the Ghetto must see it still stands. On the facade is a picture of the Crucifixion and underneath an inscription in Hebrew and Latin from Isaiah: "All day long have I stretched out my hands to a disobedient and gainsaying people." An accommodating headline in consideration of a traveling piece, showed me the lashes which are kept in the church. With the aid of these rods Christian children of Rome in the past used to drive the Jew, into the churches on Sunday morning. The order compelling Jews to hear sermons in Christian churches was abolished.

There are old inhabitants of the Ghetto who remember how they were compelled to attend service on Sunday morning in their youth. Ghettoes are nowhere lovely places. The Roman one, although a paradise compared to the stinking holes of Vilna and Warsaw and such places, is no exception.

The main street is a dreary slum amid crumbling classic ruins, the Theater of Darius, I believe. A black shirt was mounting guard over the entrance of these ruins. Observing us sauntering up and down, the man kindly inquired if we wanted to see the interior. Together we framed among the ruins. Noticing something unusual in this guide's dialect, we asked him from what part of Italy he hailed. He said he was a Venetian—and a Jew. "But isn't it something unusual for a Jew to be among the black shirts?" "Ah, signor, what would you?" he replied. "Times are hard and I have my children to be a Fascist five, me a chance to look around, and then I'm bound to be a corporal some day and that means a few more lira a week."

What A World Of Grief It Saves You

WE KNOW a seed house that proves each season's crop of seeds in their own trial gardens before they offer them to the public. Flowers and vegetables grown from these seeds must measure up to definite standards or else the entire crops from which the samples were taken are burned.

We know a manufacturer of dry batteries who tested a new product two years before he sold a single battery to a single dealer.

We know a manufacturer of an anti-freeze solution for automobile radiators who spent two years testing his product under all conditions before he said a word in advertising about the merits of his goods.

We know a manufacturer of household pharmaceutical products whose self-imposed standard of purity and efficiency is even higher than that laid down by the United States Pharmacopoeia and the National Sanitation.

If we mentioned their names you would recognize them immediately. You probably would say, "I plant those seeds," "I use that battery," "I use that anti-freeze," "My medicine cabinet contains these products."

The four instances cited are typical of every reliable manufacturer in America. Millions of dollars are spent annually in determining the quality of goods, and to take the guesswork out of merchandise, millions of dollars are spent in advertising to tell you about it.

All of which is to say that in getting your brand in advertising, you change you save yourself the bother, the expense, the time, the worry, the danger—of experimenting and discovering for yourself that you have made a poor breakfast food, radio tubes, hairpins, garden al devices, machinery—or what not—when you get the best quality money.

The news columns of this paper long ago informed you of the national, national and local organizations. The advertisement has influenced the American mind, and the American mind has influenced that America's most progressive industry and product.
