Sex Education?

Middle-School Class Stirs A Controversy In Seminole County

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

What is sex education? Despite the difficulty of defining the term, Seminole County school officials are positive it does not exist in the county's public schools.

However, human reproduction is included in health courses in the middle schools and in biology courses in the high schools. And it has for years.

But there are no sex-education courses as such, school officials insist.

The Rev. John Butler Book, evangelist at the Northside Church of Christ, Altamonte Springs, complained to the county School Board nearly two weeks ago that middle-school children are being taught sex education.

He said he would complain to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), that federal laws requiring parental consent are being violated in the local public school system. And, he said, he would ask HHS to withhold federal funds to the school system until the situation is corrected.

He followed through with letters to Richard Schweiker, HHS secretary, and Terrel Bell, secretary of education, the next day.

The Rev. Mr. Book asked for a "through investigation to see whether or not (the school system) is ineligible for federal funds until the civil rights" requiring parental permission before sex education is taught.

He said the problem specifically "revolves around sex-education courses and classes that open the door for the invasion of privacy in both the students' and parents' lives."

Mr. Book said a parent informed him at a church meeting that the classes are occurring at the South Seminole Middle School.

Karen Hart, 235 Hayes Road, Winter Springs, said her son, Michael, a sixth grader at South Seminole School, was shown a sex-education film in recent weeks without her permission. Mrs. Hart said the film, shown in Mrs. Rebbe "Sunny" Hammond's sixth-grade health class, "shows changes in the human body as it becomes sexually aroused."

She said the film was shown in a mixed class of boys and girls. Mrs. Hart said she viewed the film. "It wasn't quite as bad as the children described it. Still, I didn't consider it something a sixth grader should see, she said.

South Seminole Middle School, like the other middle schools in the county, includes health as a one-semester course in the "exploratory" program. Also included in the program are art, band, chorus, health occupations, home economics, industrial arts, and business education.

And human reproduction is just one of dozens of topics discussed during the 18 weeks in the health course.

The words used in the human-reproduction section of the health-course text are forthright and simple and couldn't in any way be described as sensual, some say.

The text in the section on human reproduction is illustrated with drawings of egg cells and sperm, and embryos in various stages of development.

The rub, according to Mr. Book's complaint, however, is not in the printed matter in the textbook. Rather, it is directed toward a filmstrip on human reproduction.

Angelin Taylor, consultant coordinator of audiovisual services for the county schools, said the filmstrip on human reproduction was purchased for use in high school biology classes in the county schools 17 years ago. The film was produced by the McGraw-Hill publishing firm.

"It's been used all these years," Mrs. Taylor said. She added that before the film can be shown to a class, the principal must give permission.

The filmstrip has been used in health classes not only at South Seminole, but also at Jackson Heights and Rock Lake middle schools.

Mrs. Taylor said the film begins with pictures of statues of a man and woman. It explains the parts of the human body and how children are produced. There is also an animation of the causes of an erection, she said.

"We have never considered this a sex film. It's considered an education film on the human body," Mrs. Taylor said.

Mrs. Hammond, whose teaching career spans 17 years, including 12½ years at South Seminole Middle School (SSMS), said she has been using the same materials for teaching the 18-week courses during all her years at SSMS.

"I always preface this unit by telling the students to go home and discuss what they have learned with their parents. And we never use the word sex per se," she said.

Mrs. Hammond said boys and girls are taught separately about their growth and development and physical and emotional changes during adolescence.

She said the students are told about bodily functions and maturing and that it is done in a casual way.

"The students ask intelligent questions. And every year they have more knowledge than the previous year. A lot of their knowledge, however, is not correct," she said.

The wife of a Milwee Middle School teacher, Mrs. Hammond has been married 32 years and is the mother of four children, three of whom attended SSMS.

"I'm disappointed Mrs. Hart did not talk to me first. I'm sure I could have put her fears to rest. I'm doing a darn good job of what I'm doing," she said.

Mrs. Hammond said she answers any questions the students might ask and does so in the best way she has the ability to do.

Some of the questions some children wouldn't think of asking their parents. The students see nothing in class they don't know or haven't seen in magazines or on television," she said.

SSMS principal Sidney Boyette said, "We have no course called sex education at South Seminole Middle School. We don't send letters home to parents on the health class. If any parent is concerned, I'll be happy to talk to him or her," he said.

"Why should children know about animals and not about their own bodies?" he said.

The stages of growth and development of a fetus is among the illustrations in the textbook used in the health classes at the middle schools in Seminole County. Human reproduction is only one section in the course, which has dozens of subjects.

Nursing Home Residents Want A Lift From Sale Of Their Crafts

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Residents of Altamonte Springs' Life Care Center nursing home got a real lift when their homemade crafts won 43 ribbons at the Central Florida Fair, but now they're seeking a lift of a different kind.

The center is home for about 235 elderly men and women, many of whom are confined to wheelchairs, says Madeline Corder, the center's activities director.

"We have a van we use to transport our residents to doctor's appointments or various outings, but it doesn't have a hydraulic lift to aid in loading and unloading our wheelchair patients," she says. "We have to roll the patients into the van on board slats. But if we can raise enough money, we're going to buy a lift for the van to make loading and unloading more comfortable and safer for them and easier on me, although I'm not complaining."

But how do these men and women plan to raise the $2,000 needed to purchase the lift?

"We're going to have an 'Up, Up and Away Day' fair," Mrs. Corder says. "It was the residents' idea, and they want to hold a carnival here in the center's parking lot and sell the crafts they made and entered into competition at the fair recently."

"We're going to have such a big time Sunday," says Kitty Cook, a resident of the center since last August. "People who come and don't buy are going to get a swift kick in their britches," she says with a laugh. "I'm not going to do the kicking, though; I'm going to get a little boy to do it."

The fair will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Life Care Center parking lot, 989 Orienta Ave., Altamonte Springs. "We've got all kinds of crafts for sale," notes Joyce Rohlik, assistant activities director. "We've got clowns, kitchen towels with macrame handles, bird mobiles, pillows and cushions, and much more. All the crafts were handmade by our residents."

"I made the bird mobiles," says Dolly Allen, 53, a resident at the center for about eight months. "There are three birds on each one and I'm selling them for $3 — a dollar for each bird."

"I helped put the eyes on the birds," chimes in Jeannette Yarborough, who has lived at the center seven years. "I also made owls and cushions."

"We're going to have a lot of fun, and the patients have worked really hard to have everything prepared," says Mrs. Corder. "In addition to the crafts they made for competition at the fair, they've made scores of other things to sell."

"One thing is for sure, though," Mrs. Corder adds. "They take great pride in their work. If it isn't their best, they won't enter it, and they surely won't allow it to be sold at the fair. I've looked at their works and compared them with items in the stores, and their crafts are less expensive and, in many cases, far superior in craftsmanship."

"Last week I sold $186 worth of my towels," says Mrs. Cook. "I crochet the tops of the towels so you can tie them onto the refrigerator doors or ovens or whatever. I sold them all and never left the center or publicized that I was selling them. I wouldn't even let my doctor in to see me until he bought two towels. He bought them, too."

Mrs. Corder, who has worked at the center about six years, says this is the first time the center has held such a fair, but that she is considering holding a "spring bazaar" every year now.

"The patients' interest has been great," she says. "We even have a 92-year-old Sanford man, George Maynard, who is making birdhouses to sell Sunday. The patients do everything, too. They cut, paste, stuff, decorate — everything.

It's their craft. And I really think it's a good idea, because there is such a let-down after the Christmas season that the bazaar will give them something to look forward to each year around Easter."

Mrs. Corder says people don't have to purchase anything at the fair to donate toward buying the lift, and notes that donations to the center for the van lift are tax-deductible.

"We're real proud of our residents and of their work, as they are," Mrs. Corder says. "To show you how good their crafts are, they were competing against the community efforts at the fair and were able to capture 27 first-place awards, nine second-place awards, four third-place awards and three awards for our volunteers' entries. They take a lot of pride in their work, and will give only their best."

Among the patients who entered the fair's craft competition and placed are Catherine Amendolore, George Maynard, Dolly Allen, George Berry, Frances Halen, Ray Higgins, Jeff Johnson, Irene Polk, Agatha Quidley, Jeannette Yarborough, Mildred Lynch, Helen Sankey, Peg Kimberly, Ruby Walbroel, Florence McLoughlin, Corella Henderson and Kitty Cook. Volunteers Beattie Needle and Grace Higgins also placed in the fair competition.

Sanford Pool Claims Life Of Boy, 4

A 4-year-old Sanford boy is dead today after he reportedly wandered away from his Douglas Avenue home and drowned in a neighbor's algae-filled swimming pool.

Less than 40 minutes after David Lee Sheppard Jr., 1501 Douglas Ave., was reported missing to Sanford police by his father, David Sr., searchers discovered his body in a neighbor's pool at about noon Friday, police said. Police have ruled the death accidental.

Efforts by Sanford and Herndon Ambulance Service rescue workers to revive the boy failed. He was transported to Seminole Memorial Hospital by Herndon, officials said.

"When we got the call and responded, Sanford's rescue people were already on the scene," said Bob Hodges of Herndon Ambulance Service. "Apparently the boy wandered away from home, it was reported to police, and we had one false alarm that he was found by a neighbor. Then someone said he was in the pool. We found his body in a pool completely green with algae. The fence, which is about 4½ feet high around the pool, has a swinging gate. He may have gotten into the pool area through the gate."

A Talk With Russo

Public Defender Discusses His Job

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

After 14 months on the job, Public Defender James Russo has found his occupation to be like most others: It has its good days and bad, its satisfying moments and periods of frustration.

Russo, who at 31 is one of the youngest public defenders in the state, talked about his first year in office as public defender for the 18th Judicial Circuit (Seminole and Brevard counties) this week.

"The most satisfying aspects of the job have been the organization of the staff and the professional manner in which our office has handled its caseload," says the Cocoa Beach native.

"The most frustrating part of the job has been the necessity to understand that you are just part of the whole scheme of things — that you interact so much with other departments and agencies. The judicial system is not designed for quick changes," Russo says. "When the goals you set can't be met immediately, it can be frustrating."

Russo, who was born in Long Branch, N.J., and moved to Brevard County in 1957, was graduated from Cocoa Beach High School in 1968 and went on to earn a B.S. degree in business administration at Louisiana State University.

He received his doctorate in law from LSU's Law school in 1975, and after passing the Louisiana and Florida bar exams, relocated to Cocoa Beach, where he worked as assistant state attorney from 1976 to 1979.

Russo returned to private practice for two years before successfully campaigning for the public defender's office.

Since taking office in January 1981, his main target has been the revamping of the public defender's staff from one heavily laden with part-time lawyers to a stable, full-time, functioning department.

"One of my foremost priorities was to organize and stabilize the department," says Russo. "Formerly, the majority of the staff in the public defender's office was part-time attorneys. Before I was elected, the department had six full-time and 26 part-time attorneys. As of April 1 of this year, the public defender's office will have 17 full-time and four part-time attorneys."

"Surprisingly," he adds, "We've been able to get a lot of high-quality attorneys out of private practice and into the public defender's office full-time with the budget remaining about the same."

Russo feels that in the last year Seminole County has benefited greatly from the office's new organization and stability.

"Seminole County has always been treated like a stepchild in the circuit," he says. "Like there was nobody in charge. Now, Norm Levin (chief trial attorney) sees to the day-to-day operation of the office and I spend two or three days a week in Seminole County."

The public defender's office handles about 5,000 cases a year. At the present time, Russo says, the most frequent cases involve burglary, both residential and commercial. And while the crime rate has jumped dramatically statewide during the last year, the rate has not been substantial in Brevard and Seminole counties.

"For the size of the Seminole-Brevard circuit, the increase in crime hasn't at all been proportionate to the population," Russo says.

With that rising crime rate comes a public perception that the function of the public defender is not so glowing or positive.

"I can understand that the average citizen would see this job as the expenditure of tax dollars to represent undesirable people," acknowledges Russo.

"Everybody charged with a crime is presumed innocent. And those who truly can't afford an attorney need an appointed one to represent them. Until 1963 we didn't have that judicial provision, and a lot of people unable to properly represent themselves didn't stand much of a chance against a seasoned lawyer," he notes.

"It's not our goal to go into the courtroom and get people off the hook. Nor is it the prosecutor's goal to go in there and nail people. Our goal is to see that justice is served in a fair and impartial trial, and that's the prosecutor's goal too. The results take care of themselves," he says.

One result Russo is particularly pleased about is the implementation of the lien-assessment program. The program, in effect for about a year now, provides that individuals represented by the public defender's office who are found guilty be asked by the court for payment. Depending on sentencing and the guilty party's future income potential, the convicted individual may later be assessed. Requests for assessment in the Brevard-Seminole circuit in the last year have been in excess of $250,000, according to Russo.

"What's beneficial about the program," he says, "is that whatever is collected stays in those counties for use by the county, however it deems fit."

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, March 23, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY March 23, 1982
This coming year you are likely to reap benefits from several persons you have known for a long time, who feel they can trust you.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others will appreciate dealing with you on a one-to-one basis today.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It pays to put forth your very best effort, regardless of the size of the task today.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is one of those days when you won't have to seek the spotlight: it will search for you.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You could be rather prophetic today.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The companions you share your time with today will have a great influence on your outlook and attitude.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something which may at first appear to be but a small opportunity could actually be quite large if viewed from another angle.
CANCER (June 21-July 21) Although you may not think so at the time, others will put great stock in your ideas and suggestions today.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This is a good day to implement a change about which you have been thinking — one you feel could be beneficial to your family. Put your thoughts into action.

Undigested Food Can Cause Gas

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor said I swallow air. I have so much gas all the time. I asked him how to stop it and he said he didn't know. I have low stomach acid so no antacid medication is good for me. In fact I use lemon juice with many meals. Can't use milk at all either since I'm older.

Dr. Lamb

I take three heaping teaspoons of Metamucil in a glass of water before breakfast and at bedtime and I do seem to gulp air as it goes down. But how do I stop it? I have to swallow it fast before it gets too thick. Even when chewing gum or drinking tea, I seem to be swallowing air. I have trouble containing the gas.

DEAR READER — There are two ways most people develop gas. You can swallow air as your doctor has suggested in your case. Others do not have a lot of swallowed air but undigested food ferments, usually in the colon, releasing gas. Milk intolerance can cause this and that may be why you have said you can't use milk anymore.

Sometimes the only way to tell what is causing the gas is to analyze it. If the gas is mostly oxygen and nitrogen, it is from swallowed air. If it is mostly hydrogen and carbon dioxide, it is released from fermented undigested food products. In that case you need to find out which foods you are not digesting properly and avoid them in your diet. That may take some time and trial-and-error testing.

We all swallow air to some extent. Ill-fitting dentures makes the problem worse. You might try drinking liquids through a straw to avoid taking in air with every gulp. If that works and you want to break the habit, perhaps you can liquefy a lot of your foods in a blender and use a straw for a while. Antacids do not prevent or relieve gas. They only neutralize acid. In the process some form gas. Don't chew gum. It invariably leads to swallowing air in a person with that habit. Hold an eraser between your teeth between meals to help prevent the swallowing mechanism.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-8, Controlling Gaseousness. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it healthy for people to sleep with dogs every night the year around? Can a person who has an allergy hope to get well as long as he does this? Tests showed he was allergic to dog hair. Could this have caused the allergy in the first place? DEAR READER — All allergies are caused by exposure to the substance a person is allergic to. If a person is allergic to grass, the first time his body will be sensitized to the grass and form chemicals that will react with the grass (antigen).

The next time that person is exposed to grass, the body chemicals will react to the grass antigen producing the allergic reaction. Once of the best ways to treat an allergy is to avoid the substance one is allergic to, in this case dog hair. But a doctor may be able to desensitize the victim so he can then tolerate dog hair. Otherwise the symptoms will persist upon continued exposure to dog hair, indoors or outdoors, in the car or in bed.

IN BRIEF

Mount St. Helens Blast Growing Less Likely

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — Scientists flying into the steaming crater of Mount St. Helens say the rapid lava dome growth from the volcano's first explosive eruption in 17 months may lessen the chance of another blast.

Scientists flew by helicopter Sunday into the crater for their first look at the new addition to the 600-foot-high dome of hardened lava that exploded to life in twin blasts of volcanic ash Friday night and early Saturday.

GM, UAW Reach Agreement

DETROIT (UPI) — A grueling 37-hour bargaining session produced an agreement between the United Auto Workers and General Motors Corp. that will save thousands of jobs and possibly lower car prices in return for some $3 billion in union concessions, officials said.

The 30-month pact was unanimously approved by the UAW's bargaining committee Sunday night. It is patterned after an agreement the union reached with Ford in February.

Nixon Appeals Tapes Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon refuses to give up his court fight to keep the public from listening to 6,000 hours of his secret Oval Office tape recordings.

Undaunted by two rejections in federal courts, Nixon has asked the full U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here to reconsider a February ruling by a three-judge appellate panel that would allow public access to the tapes.

Bribery Suspect On Trial

ATLANTA (UPI) — A prominent lawyer was to go on trial today on charges that he was the "middleman" in a scheme to arrange a $150,000 bribe for a federal judge in exchange for judicial favors for two convicted racketeers.

Lawyer William Borders Jr. of Washington and one of his old friends, U.S. District Judge Alcee Hastings, a native of Altamonte Springs, Fla., and the first black appointed to the federal bench in Miami, are charged with conspiracy to commit bribery, defrauding the government and destruction of justice.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Spring made its debut with all the cruelty of winter, dumping up to 14 inches of snow in the upper Midwest and slamming the South and Northeast with baseball-size hail, tornadoes and thunderstorms. Bad weather plane crashes in New Hampshire and Pennsylvania killed seven people and eight others were injured in tornadoes in Alabama and Kentucky Sunday — the first full day of spring, which kicked off with the same type of weather blamed for 33 deaths last week in winter's final stand. But residents in flooded Fort Wayne, Ind., took up the pioneer spirit and began returning to their homes. Three tornadoes touched down in Kentucky and two hit Arkansas Sunday and one of the twisters slammed into a grocery store in Shelbyville, Ky., injuring eight people. Thunderstorms produced 70 mph winds that destroyed an airplane hangar and overturned a radio tower at Macon, Ga. Thunderstorms pounded New Boston in northeastern Texas with hail the size of baseballs and 3-inch rains. Road crews in North and South Dakota cleared more than foot-deep snows that choked the area, isolating hundreds of people and creating near-blizzard conditions. Temperatures in the teens covered the Northern Plains and the mercury at Bismarck, N.D., dipped to one above zero for the nation's low.

Part Of U.S.-Canadian Drug Probe

Longwood Man Nabbed In Cocaine Bust

By TENI YARBOROUGH
 Herald Staff Writer

A Longwood man is one of four suspects arrested in connection with a drug smuggling operation between Canada and the U.S.

Raymond Socrates Kane, 29, of Longwood was arrested late Friday in Schaumburg, Ill., which is northwest of Chicago, along with Robert Louis Kellar, 32, Markham, Ontario; Gerard Madden, 23, Schaumburg, Ill.; and Robert Andrew Scott, 29, Roselle, Ill.

The four men were arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Carl Sussman on charges of conspiracy and possession of cocaine with intent to distribute, authorities said. Their arrests came as a result of a four-month joint investigation between U.S. and Canadian drug agents.

Undercover agents for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police began their investigation of the illegal drug operation last December in Toronto, according to regional Drug Enforcement Administration officials.

Agents reportedly arranged to meet Kellar and his associates in Chicago to buy 22 pounds of cocaine. On Friday, agents purchased the drug, with a street value of about $400,000, from the four for $80,000, DEA agents reported.

The four are currently being held at the Metropolitan Correction Center in Chicago and are scheduled to be tried in U.S. District Court, Chicago.

THIEVES TAKE CASH, GROCERIES

About $110 cash and $25 worth of groceries were stolen from an Apopka man's home sometime between 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Thomas D. Lightner, 18, told sheriff's deputies that someone entered his apartment at Jerry's Efficiencies on Overland Road and stole about $110 from a glass jar which was on the refrigerator and about $25 worth of groceries.

MAITLAND HOME BURGLARIZED

Thieves broke into a Maitland man's home sometime between 4:30 a.m. and 4:50 p.m. Thursday and stole a television set, microwave oven and an undetermined amount of jewelry.

Richard Huff, 39, of 60990 Dean Road, told deputies someone broke into his home by prying open the sliding glass door.

FIVE APOPKA SHOPS HIT

Burglars broke into five retail stores along Hunt Club

Boulevard in Apopka Wednesday night, stealing an undetermined amount of cash and property.

Among those shop owners and managers reporting burglaries to sheriff's deputies were Gerardo Mendez Jr. of Touch of Class dry cleaners, 620 Hunt Club Blvd., who reported $75 cash and an undetermined amount of property stolen; John Drew Mead, 22, The Pass Sporting Goods, Inc., 350 Hunt Club Blvd., $81 cash and an undetermined amount of property; James P. Stefanucci, 28, of Fayva Shoe Store, 566 Hunt Club Blvd., reported the thieves broke into the store's safe and stole an undetermined amount of cash and discharged a fire extinguisher on the safe and floor; Terry Paulson, 33, Mom's Ice Cream Store, 558 Hunt Club Blvd., an undetermined amount of money stolen from the store's video game machines; and Donna K. Tope, 37, Classy Things, 522 Hunt Club Blvd., reported her store was burglarized but nothing appears to be missing.

Deputies said the thieves got into all five buildings by prying open the rear doors with a crowbar.

SAWS STOLEN

Thieves made off with two power saws and a 100-foot extension cord from a Sanford man's truck sometime between 10:30 p.m. Wednesday and 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

Leonard George Nelson, 54, told Sanford police that someone stole the saws and cord, valued at about $190, from his truck which was parked in the yard at 1313 Olive Ave., Sanford.

NASA's space shuttle Columbia took off on its third flight this morning after some minor delays. The shuttle is scheduled to touch down at the White Sands, N.M. missile range next Monday. The seven-day mission is considered to be the orbiter's toughest to date.

Record Crowd Witnesses Third Shuttle Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Hundreds of thousands of space buffs jammed beaches and causeways around the sprawling Kennedy Space Center today to see astronauts Jack Lousma and Gordon Fullerton make space history in the third space shuttle flight.

Police estimated half a million people — the largest crowd ever to see a Columbia launch — lined banks of the Indian River and other vantage points throughout the Space Coast to watch America's reusable rocket ship take off on a weeklong, 34 million-mile mission, its longest and most difficult test yet.

Another 3,000 VIPs, including a dozen astronauts and pop singers Anne Murray, Gordon Lightfoot and Jimmy Buffett, who wrote a song about Columbia after its maiden voyage, accepted space agency invitations to view the liftoff from a special grandstand 4 miles from the ocean's launch pad.

Steve McClean, 12, from Bonita Springs, Fla., likened the liftoff to "a dragon shooting fire from its mouth as it goes for air."

"I think it will be a breathtaking event. It will be just a pillar of flames, I can't wait." Dennis White, 29, an unemployed builder from San Diego came to the Space Coast for the sole purpose of seeing the shuttle off. When he arrived at the Orlando airport, all the rental cars were gone and he had to settle for a rented truck.

'Restore Student Aid'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One member of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee thinks the Senate should reject President Reagan's proposed $1.4 billion slash in college student grants.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., urged senators in a letter released Sunday to support the full $2.4 billion authorized for the program in the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act passed by Congress.

In his letter to other senators, Pell said the cuts would mean that more than 1.1 million students "would no longer be able to obtain Pell grants."

The number of students receiving the grants, he said, would drop from the current 2,845,085 to about 1.7 million.

Gas Prices Take Tumble

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Retail gasoline prices have taken their biggest plunge in history over the past two weeks because of the world oil glut, an industry survey shows.

In his biweekly report, oil analyst Dan Lundberg said Sunday Saudi Arabia is responsible for the price drop, spurred by the world's leading oil producer's policy of deliberate overproduction.

"The ball is in our court," Lundberg said, adding members of OPEC "are scrambling to undo the glut engineered" by Saudi Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani.

'Since decontrol of American oil on Jan. 28, 1981,

motorists have seen the price of gas fall by 16 cents a gallon, not including the inflationary factor'

— Dan Lundberg

Lundberg said a survey of 16,000 service stations around the country showed retail gas prices nationwide averaged $1.21 6/10 per gallon, a dip of 4.3 cents "representing the sharpest national decline for any two week period in history."

He said the average wholesale price, excluding taxes, stood at 96.32 cents a gallon.

"Since decontrol of American oil on Jan. 28, 1981, motorists have seen the price of gas fall by 16 cents a gallon, not including the inflationary factor," Lundberg said.

Lundberg said American drivers are conserving more than ever — buying less gas because the recession has forced them to spend money "on macaroni instead of gas."

It's that reduction in consumption that helps force the prices down — from a national high of $1.37 a gallon retail last March to the current price.

American motorists have reduced their use of gasoline by about 15 billion gallons a year since the high consumption year of 1978, the analyst said.

OPEC oil ministers announced agreement Saturday to cut production and lower some prices slightly in an effort to end the over supply of oil on world markets.

The agreement, which was not expected to have a measurable impact on gas prices in the United States, emerged from two days of talks marked by disagreeable, contradictory statements and hard bargaining.

AN ARTISTIC BREAK

Jan Ring-Kutz, of 209 E. 10th St., Sanford, takes time out for an ice cream cone while displaying her weavings at the 23rd Winter Park Sidewalk Art Festival this past weekend. The soft sculpture weaving "Pillars" in the background was selected for judging in the prestigious show which drew a record crowd of 250,000 spectators and 283 artists.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Lawmakers Try To Resolve Reapportionment Issue

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Clearing the way for negotiations to begin with the House, the Senate Appropriations Committee meets today for one last bit of business — approval of a congressional redistricting plan.

Reapportionment — including a new map of congressional districts — is one of four major unresolved issues as the Legislature enters the last eight days of its extended session.

'Sunburn' Defense Begins

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — The defense finally got its turn at bat today in the "Operation Sunburn" trial of six men charged with drug smuggling and conspiracy.

For nine days, the government has produced witnesses providing rare glimpses into the heart of a marijuana smuggling ring. Many of them said they were former members of the smuggling ring, known as "The Corporation," who pleaded guilty.

Haiti Invasion 'Ridiculous'

MIAMI (UPI) — The leader of an armed group of men arrested last week on the high seas by the Coast Guard says accusations that they were planning an invasion of Haiti are ridiculous because he is "not a Don Quixote tilting at windmills."

"We were not on our way to Haiti," the leader, Benjamin B. Weissberg, said Sunday. "That would have been suicidal, and none of us has a death wish."

WORLD IN BRIEF

American Landowner Slain By Leftist Guerrillas

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas raided the plantation of an American, dragged him from his house and shot him dead, the U.S. embassy said. He was the second American slain in Guatemala in five weeks.

J. Pitts Jarvis, 63, of Swan Lake, Ark., was shot repeatedly by gunmen after they ordered his wife to flee, the embassy said Sunday. Marquerite Jarvis was not injured in the attack Saturday in San Cristobal Verapaz, 33 miles north of Guatemala City.

Elections: 'A Day Of War'

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — The head of El Salvador's Catholic Church has urged an "in-depth" investigation of the slayings of four Dutch newsmen, and a leftist leader vowed next week's U.S.-backed elections will be "one more day of war."

Walesa Supported, Attacked

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — A defiant crowd of 7,000 Poles turned out for the christening of Lech Walesa's 2-month-old daughter in a gesture of support for Solidarity, but authorities began a prime-time television attack on the interned union leader.

Walesa remained locked up during Sunday's ceremony in Gdansk, the port city that gave birth to Solidarity in 1980.

Earthquake Rocks Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — Aftershocks rumbled through northern Japan today and authorities battled to repair services disrupted in a major earthquake that injured 110 people.

More than 30 tremors were recorded in the 24 hours following the temblor, measuring 7.3 on the Richter scale, which struck Japan's northern island of Hokkaido shortly before noon Sunday.

Lake Highland Curriculum Fair Set For Thursday

Lake Highland Preparatory School, 901 North Highland Avenue, Orlando, will hold its annual curriculum fair on Thursday from 5 to 8 p.m.

The parents of students and prospective students are invited to participate in this event which focuses on all aspects of student life: academic achievement, enrichment activities, physical education and sports programs.

Orientation for prospective students, with reception and presentation, is set for 5 and 5:30 p.m.

Entertainment by students from Lake Highland's drama and music departments will be featured. There will also be athletic displays and sports demonstrations. An alfresco supper will be served between 5 and 7 p.m.

For further information, call the school admissions office at 251-2561.

JROTC Application Under Review

Lake Mary High School's application to the U.S. Marine Corps seeking a Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps (JROTC) program at the school is "very competitive."

That is the message from Capt. R.A. Burciaga of the Sixth Marine Corps district in Atlanta to John Reichert, assistant principal at the Lake Mary School.

Reichert today said Burciaga asked for the number of students anticipated at the school when it is a full-four year institution and whether a rifle range could be placed on campus.

Reichert said when Lake Mary High School has all four upper grades, the student body will number 2,400-to-2,500. He added that a safe place for the rifle range can be found on the 50-acre campus.

He said Burciaga has forwarded Lake Mary's application to the selection committee in Washington. Reichert said he is unsure how long it will take for the application to be reviewed.

The Seminole County School Board approved the JROTC program concept earlier this year. When the student body was surveyed, 212 of the 997 students expressed an interest in signing up.

If the program is ultimately approved, the boys and girls participating during one class period daily will be trained in leadership, marksmanship and marching.

The group will represent the school in flag ceremonies and marching parades.

WHAT AM I BID?

Mike Stepen, sales manager for Sheds America, Casselberry, displays a $600 utility shed donated by the firm for the Seminole High School Band Parents auction Saturday at the Seminole Civic Center. More than $5,000 was raised to buy instruments and uniforms for band members.

Wildmere Homes Face Review

The Longwood City Commission will get a look at final plans for a proposed 16-unit condominium project between Wildmere and Overstreet avenues at tonight's 7 p.m. meeting. But the plans don't include a recommendation for the paving of Overstreet Avenue.

Developer Dick Williams has proposed to build Wildmere Patio Homes 200 feet east of County Road 427. The project will consist of four two-story buildings containing four units each.

The project received unanimous approval March 10 by the city's land planning agency.

Williams and City Administrator David Chacey will sit down after tonight's commission meeting to iron out a compromise that may require Williams to foot the bill for paving a 400-foot section of Overstreet, a dirt road from County Road 427 east to the condominium site, to create proper access.

An issue is whether Williams will be required to pave the entire 400-foot stretch of road because owners of undeveloped portions of commercial-zoned property along Overstreet Avenue would benefit from the paving.

Commissioners Study Land-Use Map Longwood In 1987

By JOE DESANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood city commissioners will get an idea of what the city's long range land-use plans will include when planning consultant Bob Goll presents the commission with an updated version of a proposed land-use map at tonight's 7:30 p.m. meeting at City Hall.

The map, a result of two previous workshop sessions and public hearings, is part of a comprehensive plan for the city's future land-use plans.

Commissioners are expected to take their first vote on an ordinance adopting the map. A third public hearing for adoption of the map has been scheduled for April 12th's regular commission meeting.

The latest version of the map includes recommendations by both city commissioners and residents.

The map will give us a good picture of what Longwood will look like five years from now," according to City Administrator Dave Chacey.

"We've had a lot of input from the public and I think the commission has a good feel for what they want," he said.

One of several other land uses commissioners agreed to include on the map in a recent workshop appears headed for a legal battle.

A change from commercial to residential zoning of a small parcel of land along Longwood Hills Road and Lake Emma Road has brought a protest from the property owner.

"It's a little piece of land that's been zoned commercial for a long time," said Chacey. "It's the only piece left in that area that is commercial. The owner of the property doesn't live in town, but he sent us a notice that he didn't want it rezoned."

"But the majority of the people in that area want it zoned back to residential. They don't want a convenience store there," he said.

Other zoning changes the commission is expected to address include:

- Expanding the city's historic district to include an area bounded by Florida Avenue on the north, West Jessup Avenue on the south, Wilma Street on the east and E.E. Williamson Road on the west.
- Changing nine acres off 14th Street from single family residential zoning to a higher density for duplexes, and letting Commissioner Russell Grant retain multi-family use of his property west of Grant Street to the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad tracks and changing his adjacent lot from light industrial to multi-family use.
- Commissioners must also revise the city's current zoning map because a state attorney general's opinion requires land-use maps and zoning maps to coincide. Changes to the zoning map will be made after the land-use map is approved, Chacey said.
