War Lord Assumes Presidency Today In Brief Ceremony

New Executive Sworn
In By Paul Loebe,
Head of Reichstag,
Before Big Crowds

Communists Shout
A Brief Protest

Executive Will Work For Recognition Of Nations Of World

BERLIN, May 12.—Field marshall Von Hindenberg was inaugurated today as president of Germany and except for a brief shout of protest from Communists the inauguration was carried out according to schedule, the field marshal being sworn into office by Reichstag President Paul Loebe before a crowded house.

An manifesto the German people this afternoon the president said "True to the Oath, I will devote all my energies to guarding the constitution and laws. Let us work through honest and peaceful means to gain recognition of other nations to which we are entitled."
The new executive did not arrive in Berlin for today's ceremonies until Monday evening, so great was his desire for seclusion and a night of rest prior to his induction into office.

An uneventful ride of four hours ended the presidential party to the edge of Berlin shortly before 6 o'clock Monday evening and in less than 10 minutes Germany's new president, who craves solitude and has a reputation for the friendly mob, found himself engulfed in a vortex of excited men, women and children.

Even the enthusiasm of mobilia-tion days in August, 1914, did not approximate in volume the popular reception which today poured into the path of the nation's new executive, and although the proverbial Bismarckian weather was denied him, numerous manifestations of his war sentiments and yearnings greeted him all along the route.

The old colors were in prodigal display and his air was redolent of pomp and circumstance as he passed through the throngs of patriotic citizens and other gala apparel, which went into seclusion with the revolution of 1918.

Through it all, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg sat rigidly beside Chancellor Luther, his face immobile and marked by pallor while his right hand automatically touched the rim of his top hat, as he trudged to the vociferous greetings and his right arm was raised in salute to the military presence of the presidential train arrived at the Heerstrasse station where Dr. Luther's 10-year-old daughter dressed in white stepped forward as the field marshal alighted and she handed him a bunch of yellow roses. With a faint smile the field marshal thanked her and then turned the flowers over to his daughter-in-law, to whom, Chancellor Luther had presented a cluster of the same flowers.

As the presidential train departed, the field marshal was seen as an escort along the way to Wilhelmstrasse. They showed flowers on the presidential motor and frequently dipped so low as to frighten the crowds straining to get a glimpse of the field marshal.

The arrangements called for 12,000 of the security force and several hundred plain clothes men and they functioned with old time precision. All traffic had been diverted and the drive from the suburban station to the chancellor's palace was accomplished in less than half an hour. The president-elect immediately retired to his private apartment and tonight will be the guest of honor at a dinner given by the chancellor.

Revival Of Informal Conversations On Question Fails To Bring Out Any Plan Al-Though Funding Is Certain

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Developments during the day with reference to the revival of informal conversations in Washington and Paris as to debt settlement questions failed to indicate that any concrete plan of settlement as yet had been advanced by either government as a basis for discussion.

Mr. Bell was also the author of a measure that would abolish the practice of "third degree" on criminals. Under provisions of the bill it would be unlawful for any sheriff, deputy, or other person to drink or otherwise dispose of any intoxicating liquors that had been seized.

Representative Harrison was also the author of a bill that would require every county to assess and collect from 3 to 10 mills for the county.

The state live stock board, which has been in session since the beginning of the session, came back today in the form of a bill by Representative Weeks of Holmes to amend the act creating the live stock board. There are but few changes of importance according to the author. Among them is one that would make six months the recognized period for dipping cattle, the owner to pay one-half of the cost.

Representative Harris, of Pinellas was author of a bill creating state board of examiners for embalmers. The board would be composed of the state health officer and four others to be named by the governor.

BIG GAIN MADE U.S. DRY FORCES IN INVESTMENT VICTORIOUS ON OF U.S. ABROAD LAND AND SEA

As Result of Foreign Trade And Financial Exchanges, American Holdings Show
Increase Of About Billion

Greatest Investor Of World Is U. S. Claim

WASHINGTON, May 12.—As a result of the foreign trade and financial exchanges of 1924, the sum of American investments abroad has been increased by about $1,000, 000,000, to a total in excess of $9-000,000,000.

Announcing the figures Monday in the third annual report of the commerce department on the "visible and invisible" foreign trade of the United States, Secretary Hoover declared that "the United States is now the world's greatest investor."

Calculations made embraced not alone the exports and imports of commodities, the movements of gold and the exchange of currencies, but also the investments of American tourists, who took into balance the sum of $40,000,000, representing the estimated cost of bootlegged foreign liquors; the increase in deposits of foreigners in American banks, estimated for the year at $1,000,000; and the remittances of immigrants to families in the old country, which reached the surprising total of $300,000,000; and the missionary and charitable expenditures by American religious and philanthropic individuals, which accounted for $55,000,000.

Other items were shown to have added to the total in 1924 $5,970, 000,000 for goods and services returned abroad, while the countering total of credits earned in this country by foreigners which included the credits of the remittances of immigrants to families in the old country, was $2,182,000,000. The difference was largely accounted for by the reports of banks that foreign borrowers and traders had left $216,000,000 on deposit against future drafts.

Position Stronger.
"The year's developments gave the United States a stronger position than ever in international finance," Mr. Hoover said. "The increasing importance of the invisible items in explaining our international trade balance is shown by the fact that in 1924 they were equivalent roughly to 22 per cent of our total exports, whereas in the period between 1896 and 1914 they were reckoned as only 8 per cent. But their nature has changed more than the figures. There was no business such studies as this, in spite of the impossibility of attaining absolute accuracy, are well worth the preparation."

To work out the balance of international payments, the United States, four groups were set up, the first dealing alone with imports and exports of goods. The United States was shown to have a favorable commodity trade balance of $70,000,000 for the year, after allowance had been made for the imports of liquor. The $40,000, 000 so assigned was said to be "in the opinion of officials connected with the customs service a low estimate," considering the operations of the ships in Rum Row.
The invisible items were then taken up, and the earnings of the country from previous foreign investment, figured at $64,000,000 for the year; from ocean freights, estimated at $76,000,000, and from services to foreign tourists, estimated at $100,000,000. Foreign tourists received, totaling $1,178, 000,000 and were sufficient to give them a credit balance against the United States on all "invisible" items of $388,000,000 for the year.

Liquor Offered Cheap
GLACE BAY, N. S., May 12.— Two ships, their decks piled high with cases of liquor, made port Monday, presumably from Rum Row off the New York and Jersey coasts where the American dry navy is maintaining a blockade.
The crew members were invited an hour before members of the crew were offering the cargoes at sale at prices far under the market. Rum was offered at 25 a gallon and whiskey at $12 a case. Champagne also was offered at low prices. There was no business transacted however, for two Canadian revenue cutters kept a sharp vigil on the ships.

The first number on the program was a march "Flag of Truce" and next came a Romance number "Homeless."
A cornet solo, "The Trumpeter," by John Schirard, Jr., received many comments of praise as did the saxophone-cornet duet by John and Bernard Schirard and the piano solo, by Miss Pearl Robson. Other numbers of the program were a gavotte, "Dancing Dolls," "Bohemian Girl," waltzes, "Sobre Las Alas" and march "Un-

NEW YORK, May 12.—Victories on land and sea were recorded by the government dry forces today.
The land victory was one of the most important dry coups in a whiskey distilling plant in the months, involving the discovery of lower west side and the seizure of $100,000 worth of synthetic rye whiskey.

Raiding prohibition agents said they were convinced the place was a source of much liquor that has reached the white light district during the past few months.

At sea, the victory consisted of the continued success of the dry navy's blockade of rum row under the most difficult conditions. Today, the seventh day of the blockade, was one of dense, swirling fog. It was just this kind of weathered most, as it would allow the rummers their best opportunity of running the blockade. But the government men averred that victory was theirs, that so far as trickled into the country, they knew, not a bit of liquor had run row evidently anticipated an attempt at blockade running, for a number of the whiskey carriers were found to have weighed anchor and stood in closer to shore.
The crew members were invited an
were offering the cargoes at sale at prices far under the market. Rum was offered at 25 a gallon and
whiskey at $12 a case. Champagne also was offered at low prices. There was no business transacted however, for two Canadian revenue cutters kept a sharp vigil on the ships.

Letters found in the place, the agents said, revealed that much of the product of the plant was sold to night life resorts and supper clubs as well as out of town customers.

The Evergreen Cemetery was voted as the official name of the municipal cemetery and a plat of it was approved. Other plats

Benjamin Way Claims
He Was Beaten For Writing Son Not To Eat Sanford Celery

N. Y. Story Brings
About Local Probe

Emphatic denial of charges made by Benjamin T. Way, aged father of Nelson (Pie) Way, former Yale and New York Giant pitcher, that he was kidnaped and whipped into unconsciousness by three men in Sanford on Apr. 15, was made today by Mayor Forrest Lake, Chief of Police Roy G.
Williams, Sheriff C. M. Hand and County Judge James G. Sharon.
Mr. Way's attorney, The statements were made in answer to queries sent by the New York World, which announces that it will publish a story, giving an account of the alleged manhandling as related by Mr. Way in an interview with that paper. Mr.
Way claims, according to a message received by The Sanford Herald from the World, that he was spirited away from Sanford by three men, who drove him into a wooded section and beat him into unconsciousness, after telling him he was being punished because of a letter written by his son warning him not to eat Florida celery because of poisons used as a spray.
The World's message further states that its story will include correspondence between W. F. Carter, New York Attorney for Mr. Way and Ernest P. Foster, president of the First National Bank, in which Mr. Foster is declared to have said Mr. Way was equally as guilty as the men who beat him.

Wells Examined in N. Y.
An investigation of the dispatch asserts that the World story will also assert that the wells on Mr. Way's body were examined upon his return to New York by Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., Allen S. Hubbard and Mr. Carter and that Mr.
Way and Ernest P. Foster, president of the First National Bank, complaining of the manhandling of Mr. Way, Mr. Foster condemned "the outrage" and quoted him as writing, "you have given me the first case where a northern man has ever been mistreated in Sanford."

Mr. Foster, when apprised of the story to appear in the New York paper, said he had nothing further to say in the matter and indicated that he will wait to see what the story contains. The message sent to this newspaper by Mr.
Way and Ernest P. Foster, president of the First National Bank,
in which Mr. Foster is declared
to have said Mr. Way was equally
him.

"In connection with the publication of this story, the World would like to have an expression from you as to whether you think Mr.
Way's story is truthful; whether the attack has become known in Sanford; whether public opinion there is such as to sanction such an assault on a man 74 years old; whether any investigation has been or will be made; what steps have been or will be taken toward apprehension and prosecution of the offenders; what offense Mr. Way could have committed to warrant such an act and whether you agree with Mr. Way that the assault was sponsored by the Ku Klux Klan." Officials Answer Charges.
Mayor Lake, the chief of police, sheriff and several private citizens also received messages from the newspaper, asking for information on the alleged affair and replies were dispatched this morning. The consensus of the messages were to the effect that Mr. Way's statement as to having been whipped and false and without foundation.
In his message to the World, the

An effort at the recent convention of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of the state at Salisbury to obtain the endorsement of Mrs. W. W. THREE POEMS

By Edwin Markham Who wrote "The Man with the Hoe"

THE IMPERISHABLE You tell me that your name will fade, Will vanish from me as a shade— That you, in worlds to come, will pass As vapor from a shining glass; That in my spirit you will be A raindrop melted in the sea.

No, Love, I might forget your brow Dream-lighted and immortal now; I might forget your shining hair That is my wonder and despair; I might forget your shoulder's curve, That cryptic smile, that old reserve Yes, even your soul so touched with sun Might sink into oblivion; Yet something beautiful would stay To gladden my immortal way, One thing to stir the eternal years— Your eyes that are so close to tears!

THE PANTHER

The moon shears up on Tahoe's brow, The panther leaps to the tamarack bough, She crouches, hugging the crooked limb; She hears the nearing steps of him Who sent the little puff of smoke That stretched her mate beneath the oak.

Her eyes burn beryl, two yellow balls, As Fate points out his last foot-falls, A sudden spring, a demon cry, Carnivorous laughter to the sky, Her teeth are fastened in his throat (The moon rides in her silver boat) And now one scream of long deat light Across the caverns of the night!

SIR LOVE

Come in, Sir Love, and hide awhile: Your wings are wet with rain. Sit in my chimney's twinkling smile, But do not bring your pain. Come: very empty is my heart: Come with your starry lore. But leave, oh, leave your bow and dart Outside my little door!

And then I heard him cry, "Adieu! I am the cryptic boy; Unless I bring my grief to you, I cannot bring my joy!" We are told that the gasoline tax does not apply to legislative gas.

Three men have signified their willingness to run for governor of Florida in 1928. They are Sidney J. Catts as usual, Frank B. Shotts of Miami and Dr. McKenzie of Leesburg. Of these Dr. McKenzie is the only logical contender.

As we understand it there is supposed to be a baseball game between the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Kiwanis Club on Thursday of this week. Are those who are going to play getting properly limbered up? If not, it might be a good idea for the drug stores to lay in a large supply of Sloan's liniment.

Money and people are flowing into Florida like water through a broken dam. Development work is going on at every point, vast projects requiring the expenditure of money in amounts to stagger the imagination. This capital is being planted there where it will remain.—Observer in Macon (Ga.) Telegraph.

Isn't it strange how a barber whose head resembles a brush pile can give you a good haircut?—Fort Lauderdale Sentinel. And some with the slickest looking coiffures themselves just chew their hair up.—Sanford Herald. And the barber his own hair. He will try to sell you some stuff to make the hair grow on that spot on top where it has become a bit thin.—Daily City Sunnet.

"To Whom It May Concern"

A Sanford woman tells The Herald that she has withdrawn her patronage from the grocery store she has dealt with for years because she cannot stand its unsanitary condition.

"I like the proprietor and I like the location of the store, and I find the prices as fair as any store in Sanford" she said, "but I just had to give up going there because things are so far from clean."

Of all stores, a grocery or a meat market—any place handling food supplies, should, of course, be scrupulously clean; and The Herald would thoroughly approve the decision of this woman to take her patronage elsewhere, if we didn't happen to know that the store which she is forsaking is not very dirty. It is merely disorderly. We told her this, and also told her that she would find just about the cleanest refrigerator she had seen in many a day, if she would take a look into the one in the so-called dirty store.

Taking our word for it, this well-meaning woman says she will give the grocery another trial. And now The Herald wishes it had a way, without giving offense, to tip off that particular grocer as to the probability of his losing a valuable customer if he does not spruce up his store a bit. We should like to tell him to get his windows clean and sparkling and keep them that way. We should like to tell him to make his assortment of vegetables look more attractive. Clean white paper is not expensive. It would pay him to make a background for his vegetables twice a day. We also should like to tell him of the efficacy of a vacuum cleaner to take the dust from his shelves, and suggest that counters scrubbed now and then, and floors scruoed regularly are considered part of the requirements in well-kept grocery stores.

The Herald candidly believes that that particular grocery is reasonably clean. We know that the refrigerator is all right, a most important provision as any housewife will tell you. But we know also that the disorder and unattractiveness of the store does not make a discriminating customer desire to hunt up the place to do her buying. She may go, but it is "in spite of the unpleasantness" of unsanitary LOOKING surroundings.

Dealers in food supplies of any kind should know the value of sanitary conditions. If that Sanford woman buys just one more bill of goods at that store, and then quits, we won't blame her. We just wish that particular grocer would take this plain tip, and put things in orderly places.

Asleep At The Wheel

Automobile accidents, we read, killed 19,000 persons and injured 450,000 during the year of 1924. In spite of the fact that these figures represent an actual increase in automobile accidents of four per cent over the previous year, the insurance men tell us that the "frequency" has decreased, since 2,000,000 more cars were in use during 1924 than during 1923.

Nevertheless as more cars are built and put into use and as city streets and country roads become more and more congested, the "actual increase" of accidents will continue, regardless of what the "frequency" may do, unless the importance of careful driving receives greater emphasis. When there were two or three automobiles within a city, a man might get by with carelessness; but when this number is augmented to thousands and hundreds of thousands, drivers must be wide awake continuously.

Practically all accidents are due to the negligence of some driver, or his doing something that he has previously been cautioned not to do. As the New York World says, "Killing people at the rate of fifty-two a day, and maiming them at the rate of 1,180 a day is an appalling slaughter. Most of these accidents would not have happened if somebody had not done something he was previously admonished not to do."

"Asleep at the wheel" is almost always the cause of any accident. It is not the woman-driver, the under-aged boy-driver, the "speeder", or the trembling octogenarian, who invariably receive the blame for some accident; it is the being of any age or sex who for one single instant forgot that he was driving a car, and hadn't the luck to miss what suddenly loomed before him.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

BY IRVIN S. COBB

In our town years ago we had for a city judge a fine old gentleman, typically southern in manner and air and voice and habit. He liked a toddy before his dinner; sometimes he liked one after his dinner. He was a first-rate judge of the merits of distilled liquors. Perhaps that was why he looked with private disfavor upon the products of a little one-horse distillery which presently started up in the vicinity. These products were more famous for fire and potency than for purity or mellowness. I heard a seasoned imbibery say once that when you took a slug of the stuff you immediately had all the sensations of having swallowed a lighted kerosene lamp. Be that as it may, it was fighting whisky. Guinea pigs were prone to insult foxhounds after a swig of it.

On a certain day our judge was dejected against the edge of his favorite bar. Court had adjourned and he was refreshing himself with a toddy. In came a friend.

"Judge," said the newcomer, "have you ever tried any of the stuff they're making at that new still house out on Mayfield road?"

"No, son," said the judge, "but I reckon I've tried nearly every-doby that did try it."

LET'S HOPE FOR RESULTS

ST. PETERSBURG INDEPENDENT

Federal officials charged with enforcement of prohibition have been stirred to activity, and they announce their purpose to come to Florida and attempt to stop the "leaks" along the coast line of Pinellas and other gulf-front counties. The way liquor has been coming into Florida has been a national scandal and St. Petersburg has been getting its share through smugglers who land on the deserted shores of the keys along the gulf. It is to be hoped that a new movement will be more than a political gesture.

Radical changes made at Washington looking to more effective enforcement of the Volstead act appear to corroborate the contention of Mrs. Mabel Walker Wilbrandt, assistant attorney, that the treasury department has not co-operated whole-heartedly with the department of justice. This is not a reflection on the personnel of the treasury department as much as it approaches the method of administration. It is the fault of bureaucracy that the prohibition unit must work under the treasury department. Their work is or should be as far apart as the poles—especially so when Secretary Mellon is reputed to at the head of certain whiskey distillery interests.

The fact that the prohibition commissioner has been subordinate to the secretary of the treasury is anachronism which lingers from the days of national wetness. In that ago the United States' sole interest in the liquor business was the collection of taxes.

Transcending The Law

PALM BEACH POST

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the person or things to be seized."

This is the fourth amendment of the Constitution of the United States. It is aimed to safeguard the peace and security of individuals, to save them from the spying and the prying of innumerable persons clothed in legal authority, and to stave off invasion of those sacred rights which surround every man and every family in the hallowedness of their homes and in the joys of their common vocations.

It is an amendment that was written and in effect before the nineteenth century. It was written and adopted at a time just following the obnoxious visits of British authorities to homes and business houses and shops and coaches, who, armed with general warrants issued by the crown, and under some real or avowed pretext, snooped through the colonists' homes and store rooms from cellar to garret at all times of the day and night.

The people at that time did not force the rising of a situation in America making such amendment necessary; but they did understand that this condition could come and they did all they could to prevent a recurrence of it by putting the prevention into the fundamental law of the land. They placed the burden and the trouble of conducting searches on the government.

In the first place before a warrant shall issue, there shall be "probable cause." This, then, must be affirmed or sworn to. More than that, the warrant must particularize—it must describe the place to be searched and the person or things to be seized.

This is the law of the land, not the law of any one community or state or region of the country. It is a law that is not based on any one commodity. It is a law intended to safeguard the rights of the individual rather than apprehend a guilty person or confiscate illegal wares. It was written around the principle that it is better for numerous guilty ones to escape than that one innocent person suffer. It contemplates no contraction of the scope it covers because of the broadness of what it asserts. There is no "however" and no "provided" in it, no exceptions.

The fact that the Florida house in passing a bill providing for searches and seizures without warrant was attempting to legislate for law enforcement does not render the legislation any less objectional or obnoxious. The principle wholly is contrary to that principle enunciated in the fourth amendment. Under the house legislation an officer to search everything but "buildings used exclusively for dwellings"—leaving persons and papers and effects as enumerated in the federal law subject to search and seizure without warrant—is to declare he has cause to believe and does believe the prohibition laws are being violated by that person or thing.

This form of legislation altogether is dangerous because it is legislation against, not with, the fundamental law. It is doubly dangerous in that it may lead to the overthrowing of a principle that is as sound as those everlasting foundations on which the Constitution of the United States was constructed by the founders of the American state.

The Florida Gambling Bill

ASHEVILLE CITIZEN

When the pursuit of pleasure runs beyond the limits of reason and contrary to the public welfare, the law is obliged to intervene, regardless of any discussion about making people virtuous by statute. In some of the Florida cities gambling, particularly at horse races, has been rampant. In such places thoughtful citizens have deplored the prevalence of amusements so conducted as to cause thousands of people to lose all self-control in a mad scramble for wealth, and to lose much good money in the effort. Now the Florida Legislature seems ready to enact a drastic law against gambling in all forms.

Following unrelenting and bitter debate, according to the Associated Press dispatches, the House passed a bill to end all betting on horses or anything else. No doubt some good citizens of Florida will say that this prospective law will drive away visitors who have been pouring into Florida with plenty of money and abundant willingness to part with it. Such fears about destruction of Florida's attractiveness to the people of other States are groundless. The majority of tourists who will be alienated from Florida by the abolition of wide-open gambling are the people who are in the long run liabilities and not assets to that fast-growing State. Florida is a great winter resort, a land of sunshine and tropical beauty, a land of great agricultural and commercial possibilities. Its facilities for amusement will not be injured but permanently improved by the elimination of these feverish amusements that are uncompromising enemies to the constructive building of commonwealths.

YOU'RE A BETTER MAN THAN I AM, HUNKA TIN

THE SCIENCE OF FORGETTING

MIAMI TRIBUNE

Don Byrne writing in a new series in the Century Magazine describes with unusual felicity the fire and romance of Ireland, and also the philosophy of old Irish men who find in Dublin a place to forget the disagreeable things of the past, and learn to laugh again.

"It is only in Dublin," he says, "that an old gentleman can live within himself as Mr. Moore did. In America people would have insisted on being kind to him, secretly trying to take him out of himself. In England some manly superior woman would have woven a romance about him, and in her superior way would have married him whether he liked it or not. But in Dublin he was just one of Dublin's old men, whose stories are forgotten. They come back to the gray city, and the silver mist, and the purple mountains. There is a crooning: "Ah, sure, what does it matter anyway. Life is short, and God is good, and be good! The devil, he isn't a bad fellow!" Life ambles on. The hair grays. The steps are shorter. The warmth of sun and the fitness of racing horses take one's mind from the epic failures of youth."

NOT NUTS BUT NUT EATERS

NEW YORK TIMES

Americans are becoming nut-eaters. Confectionery display windows tell the story. Where, in this city, one or two sorts of nuts once had a corner, now many varieties share the space, and are even done up in ribboned gift-boxes—confections that for many years had been in the nut business in a single spot, of a sudden commenced to spread themselves all over town, recruits to the chain store outbreak. Said the manager of one of these shops, as he dug into barrels of different varieties, "you see all these different kinds of nuts! They're all in demand. Some take them mixed. Salted peanuts were always popular, and salted almonds, but now they don't have to be salted—they are salable just plain."

HOW ADMIRAL FISKE WON THE WAR

NEW YORK WORLD

Some persons have pretended that the British Navy won the war; some that the French Army did; many more, nearer at home, that Pershing's army did. They are all wrong, it seems. It is to Admiral Bradley A. Fiske that the credit belongs for winning the war. He says so, that settles it. It is all really very simple. Admiral Fiske outwitted his superiors by having the navy in a state of preparedness by the time the United States entered the war. That was his doing, and he did it by himself. "The result," as the Admiral explains it, "was that when it became necessary for the navy to fet the army across the ocean the navy was able to do so. * * * Had there been any delay whatever, had the navy's work been even a little less efficient, our army would have arrived in France too late, and the war would have been won by Germany."

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI PLAN TO HAVE ANNUAL BANQUET JUNE TWELFTH

It was decided by the Sanford High School Alumni Association at a meeting at the high school Monday night to have its annual banquet on Friday night, June 12. This, it was pointed out, will give alumni now attending the University of Florida and the Florida State College for Women an opportunity to attend.

For several years the association has had these banquets which have proved very enjoyable occasions. It is hoped by the present officers to make this year's banquet the greatest ever held.

A dance at the Sanford Country Club following the banquet last year was an innovation which proved very successful and it is planned to repeat this part of the entertainment this year.

The place where the banquet will be held has not yet been decided upon but it is expected that the committee in charge will give out this information during the next few days.

As soon as sufficient information has been obtained by the committee, cards will be printed and sent to all of the local high school alumni whose addresses are available, these having a return card to be sent back to the secretary or the treasurer of the organization. Reservations made through the mail will be accepted. The cards will be sent out per plate for the banquet and will also include the names of the guests.

Due to the resignation of treasurer John Mussen, the association will elect a new treasurer. William Mussen is expected to take his place and will assume the duties of that office at once. It was voted to have the officers of the organization constitute the executive committee to have charge of preparations for the banquet and the dance. This committee includes C. L. Walker, chairman, Reuben Mason, Miss Frances Dutton and William McKim.

A sub-committee on decorations Miss Ruth Gillon was appointed chairman to act with Miss Edna Chittenden, Miss Fern Ward and Fordyce Russell. A meeting held at the home of Miss Frances of the executive committee will be at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night, May 22, at 101 Magnolia Avenue 12, it was announced.

Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Sharp Hostesses To Pipe Organ Club

The regular meeting of the Pipe Organ Club was held Monday at the Baptist Church with Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Sharp as hostesses. The regular routine of business was followed. Mrs. Allister asked for more work on hand-made handkerchiefs as they are in great demand. Plans were completed for the Musical Tea to be given at the home of Mrs. Frances Bolz on Magnolia Avenue, May 22. The following committees were appointed: Program; Mrs. R. L. Glenn, Miss Margaret McAllister, Mrs. Leslie Bryan, Dishes; Mrs. Forrest Gatchell, Miss Marina Fox and Miss Jeannette Laing, Decorating; Mrs. Kent Rossiter, Mrs. Winston and Mrs. Henderson, Invitations; Mrs. R. F. Cooper, Mrs. Mary Maines and Mrs. W. D. Gardner.

During the social hour little Miss Gladys Henderson entertained the guests with a number of readings which were enthusiastically received. The hostess served delightful refreshments.

Next Monday the club will meet with Mrs. R. E. Tolar on Magnolia Avenue.

Mrs. Wight Hostess To Club Officials

Combining social pleasures with club business, Mrs. Henry Wight charmingly entertained with a luncheon Monday at her home on Park Avenue, the guests being the retiring vice-presidents and the present vice-presidents of the Sanford Woman's Club.

The beautifully appointed table had a cover of grey linen embroidered in pink and blue. The centerpiece was a bowl of apple blossom claria and blue lace flowers. The china was also in the colors used.

High School Play Will Be Presented 2 Nights This Week

Adam Applebud blossomed forth with many original situations and bits of business as centipede has pedal extremities when he wrote "Be An Optimist," according to those who are directing the play which will be staged here Wednesday and Thursday night of this week at the high school auditorium by the senior class.

Funnier things happen than anyone ever dreamed of after a midnight encounter with a weasel-rabbit. An instance is the manufacture of a mummy with a love-sick swain, surgical bandages and a nail of coffee as chief ingredients. This situation and many others are guaranteed to keep those attending the play in a continuous uproar throughout the performance.

Pehearsals for the play have been in progress for several weeks and it is declared that the performance will be one of the best staged here for some time.

Following is a cast of characters:

I bet he was a regular sheik in his day. I could clope with him on the spot. Senior Play May 13-14.

Adam Applebud blossomed forth with many original situations and bits of business as centipede has pedal extremities when he wrote "Be An Optimist," according to those who are directing the play which will be staged here Wednesday and Thursday night of this week at the high school auditorium by the senior class.

Funnier things happen than anyone ever dreamed of after a midnight encounter with a weasel-rabbit. An instance is the manufacture of a mummy with a love-sick swain, surgical bandages and a nail of coffee as chief ingredients. This situation and many others are guaranteed to keep those attending the play in a continuous uproar throughout the performance.

Pehearsals for the play have been in progress for several weeks and it is declared that the performance will be one of the best staged here for some time.

Following is a cast of characters:

LAKELAND TAKES FIRST GAME OF SERIES 11 TO 10

Celery-Feds Stage Gallant Rally in Seventh, But Are Unable to Overcome Big Headway of Visiting Team

The lucky seventh was not quite lucky enough for the Celery-Feds yesterday afternoon and after making a gallant rally in that frame to overcome the five run lead of the Highlanders, they lacked just one tally of tying and the game went on to the end with the score 11 to 10 in favor of the visitors.

The Highlanders scored one run in the first and Sanford came back in the half and scored three, but in the second, the visitors jumped on Jackson for a total of three hits, which aided by a free pass and an error netted the visitors five runs. The Celery-Feds failed to score in their half of the second and in the third, the visitors got two men on with two hits and Jackson was relieved by Snowden. The first man to face Snowden went out short to first, but the next, Johnson, the opposing pitcher, hit safely to left scoring McCue. Dumas was out second to first and Doyle scored on the out; Buckley was out catcher to first.

Lakeland failed to score in the fourth and Sanford added one, but in the fifth the visitors scored three bringing their total to eleven.

In the seventh, the Cartermen staged a rally, which netted them four runs bringing their total within one of a tie. With one out, Bailey hit for two bases, Stanzak walked, Kinsey was safe on a fielder's choice (filling the bases); Snowden struck out; Curley walked forcing Bailey to score; Friable hit to right field scoring Stanzak, Kinsey and Curley; Craig relieved Johnson and Dean went out to right field.

Spritzer, a new man on the Sanford team, who played left field was taken out in the sixth, Thompson going to left and Kinsey being put in at center.

Friable made several sensational plays at short and batted in three runs for his team in the seventh. Bailey led his team in hitting, getting three, one of them a two-bagger. Thompson got two hits and one each was made by Curley, Friable, Dean and Abell.

Walzak was hit in the head in his first time up in the first inning and his place at second was taken by Dean.

Cusack was put in to bat for Snowden in the ninth when two men were on, with no out, but he failed to deliver in the pinch going out second to first.

A Fable

HON. ED. WATIAL, Sanfords Hudson-Essex Co., Sanford, Florida

Dear Eds:

This is a fable, but not in slang, and it does not start with "once upon a time." It is a fable about a nice man who used to succeed in getting away from the mess about one evening a week and making up a delicious time at a stag party in company with congenial spirits who had learned in their teens that two mice don't get very many pink ones in a session of this kind. These men spent their evenings reading, but not books. Nor did they read the newspapers, nor the magazines. They studied the numbers listed in the corners of some small pieces of card board, some printed in red and some in black and every little while having a "margin" all its own.

Now you have guessed it. They were playing a game of cards. In ordinary knowledge, not the same being one of the most popular forms of the great American species of poker.

And for along time this nice man we are writing about would strain his wishes, hoping that he would get the cards he wanted on the draw.

And many times he got the very thing he wished for, but he would find that it would cost him a lot of money to have those cards. This happened time and time again. He would have three queens when the pot was cracked, and he would lose, he would have four kings, for another queen and he would get the other queen and some other fellow would have four kings and that would result in the "receiving" a very "costly" lecture on economy. And so it went.

Finally our friend learned that he was working the wrong system. He began to wish, not for what he wanted, but for what he needed. If a fellow sitting on the right or the left, either, for that matter, has four kings, four queens are worth just as much less than nothing as a man has the nerve to play them.

And so, this nice man figured out a very simple solution to the great American game of poker. It is simply to have what you need, and what you want—no more and no less.

And the moral of this story stands out like a sore to an a-hare foot. If you have what you need, why be a hog? If you haven't what you need, how can you help being a hog?

A man who has an Essex Coach is neither a hog nor a goat. He has just what he needs.

Yours,
 Bill.

What My Neighbor Says is of Interest to Sanford Folks.

When one has had the misfortune to suffer from backache, headaches, dizziness, urinary disorders and other kidney ills, and has found relief from all this sickness and suffering, that person's advice is of untold value to friends and neighbors. The following case is only one of many thousands, but it is that of a Sanford resident. Who could ask for a better example?

W. A. Stafford, plumber, 408 Holly Ave., says: "I had kidney complaint, and my back ached so badly I couldn't stoop. I had dizzy spells and felt generally run down and tired out. I doctored, but didn't get much benefit. I used Dean's Pills and they completely cured me." (Statement given Mar. 22, 1914.)

On February 2, 1922, Mr. Stafford said: "My cure has been permanent."
