Sheriff's office investigating East Altamonte death

A victim of an early Tuesday morning shooting has died overnight at Orlando Regional Medical Center. The death was reported by the hospital to the Sheriff's Office at around midnight. The Seminole County Sheriff's Office is now investigating the case as a homicide.

The shooting was reported at about 5:15 a.m. at Jackson and Oak streets near Altamonte Springs. When Seminole County Sheriff's Office deputies arrived, a male was found lying at the intersection. He appeared to have suffered a gunshot wound to the head. He was taken to Orlando Regional Medical Center for treatment. He was identified as 36-year old Troy Bouey, a resident of the East Altamonte area.

Later Tuesday morning, investigators got a tip that an individual, by the name of Russell Richardson, 21, might have some information about what happened. Authorities already had warrants for his arrest on other matters, including aggravated assault on a law enforcement officer.

When plain-clothes deputies stopped by Richardson's girlfriend's house at 501 Wayman St. in Longwood, Richardson took off running before investigators left their car. He ran through yards and hid in the garage attic of a home located at the corner of Orange Avenue and Lakeview Drive. A neighbor pointed out his whereabouts to deputies, who placed him under arrest.

Richardson is being held on the unrelated charges. He is a person of interest in the ring case, but is not being portrayed as a suspect at this time. Anybody with information about this case is asked to call the Seminole County Sheriff's Office at 407-665-6600, or Crime Line at 1-800-423-TIPS.

City commissioners say the opportunity and need is there to provide a senior center

LAKE MARY — With the urging from dozens of senior citizens, Lake Mary city commissioners made the first steps Thursday to secure a location for a new senior center.

Seniors currently share the 4,600-square-foot community building on Country Club Road with several other groups, including the city commission, which has temporarily relocated from city hall because of renovations. The Lake Mary Elders Affairs Commission requested the city allow seniors to move into the 11,000 square-foot life safety building on Rinehart Road after a new fire department hall is constructed next year.

"There may be potential to open up a great deal of space in there. If there is a large meeting room space obviously it does more than just senior interests in that homeowners associations can have meetings there," said Commissioner Gary Brender. "I certainly would be all in favor of trying to build our senior facilities. I think it is a terrific initiative."

John Young, who was speaking on behalf of his wife, Anita Young, chair of the elders affair commission, said there is an established need in Lake Mary for a new facility as the senior population in Lake Mary topped 19 percent in the 2003 U.S. Census.

"The seniors really don't have a place they can call their own, so it really stifles some of the things they do," he said.

According to Polly Stevens, president of the Lake Mary AARP, the organization based

From Oviedo to Lake Mary, government officials and dignitaries converged Thursday in unincorporated Seminole County to celebrate the ground breaking of a new facility for Meals on Wheels, Etc.

With its kitchen temporarily located at Heritage Woods of Lake Mary and its offices at Florida Hospital in Altamonte Springs, finding a new home for Meals on Wheels was paramount. The service distributes 700 meals a day to area senior citizens and recently had to scramble to find temporary facilities when their Lake Mary building they were leasing sold to another owner.

Its future facility was made possible by a host of private and public partnerships and is located off Ronald Regan Boulevard near U.S. Highway 17-92. The facility is due to open in April 2004.

"We've been looking for a permanent home for a long time," said Sherry Fincher, Meals on Wheels executive

County denies C.R. 46A rezoning

By Christopher Patton

Just as they did at the local planning agency last month, residents of neighborhoods on County Road 46A waved signs Tuesday night that read "No to a Rezone," but this time with different results.

Feverishly fighting a commercial land use rezoning at the southwest corner of County Road 46A and Casa Verde Boulevard, residents of Loch Arbor and Chase Grove neighborhoods had hired attorneys, bought advertisements in local newspapers and led petition drives to stop the proposed change. They were not disappointed as county commissioners voted unanimously to deny the rezoning.

led petition drives to stop the proposed change. They were not disappointed as county commissioners voted unanimously to deny the rezoning.

Dr. Charles Hardwick, a resident of Loch Arbor, purchased two pieces of property totaling about three acres that front County Road 46A between the roads of Lake and Casa Verde boulevards. With a contingency on the rezoning of the two parcels from agriculture and planned unit development to planned commercial development, Hardwick planned to sell the property to College Park developer Ted Biwater.

At the planning commission hearing, it was presented that the property could be developed into a pharmacy. Some residents said they

Altamonte police lead way with new computer crimes division

By Christopher Patton
Managing Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — There are a couple new computer geeks in town and criminals better not cross this technical tandem.

The Altamonte Springs Police Department is the first municipal law enforcement agency in Seminole County to form an economic/computer crime division. Investigators William Pierstorff and Sandi Gibb are currently completing courses at the International Association of Computer Investigation Specialists. They will become two of only four certified computer crime investigators in Seminole County — with the two others working for the sheriff's office.

Gibb, who has worked the past dozen years as an economic crime investigator, says Chief Robert Merchant is to be rewarded for his foresight to start the division.

"We knew it (computer crime) was coming and it was only going to get worse so we ought as well start our own lab," she said. "Before a criminal would steal your credit card out of a purse and go to the store, now they just steal it online."

8 Nov. 2003 I put in for my discharge, but they told me I'm on "indefinite status," meaning I'm involuntarily stuck forever in the army without an ETS (discharge date) until the army decides to let me out. I must ask America how much does she want. I've given 14 years of honorable service, including several wars, Bosnia, Panama, the Pacific area, and both of these phony Gulf Wars. I'm involuntarily stuck indefinitely. Heck, at this rate, I could be 90 years old when I finally get out. I've done my time, ten times more than the average citizen, yet remain an "indentured servant" of the government.

I don't think the public even knows about this indefinite enlistment stuff, or even that "stop loss" they put on so many at the beginning of the war. Some of those young troops had already fulfilled their three-year enlistments when the "stop-loss" prevented their ETS and sent them to war. I'd bet if the truth was known, some of the ones killed or wounded were under the "stop loss." My advice to anyone joining, is to get an attorney to read your "three-year" enlistment contract before signing, it could turn out to be something indefinite.

The weather is much cooler here now and you can imagine how much of a relief that is. I get my squad up at 0600, and we go for a run and a little PT to keep in shape.

I'm hearing more anti-Bush remarks among the soldiers and have seen several anti-war bumper stickers. Morale is still slipping here. It goes up a little, then

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

There's grumbling downtown over the appointment of two new members to the Sanford Downtown Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA).

The city appointed Charles Rowe to fill the spot of Chairman Larry Strickler, whose term expires in December. Tom Ball, a county appointee, also will see his term expire in December. Seminole County commissioners appointed Jeff Triplett to fill Ball's position.

Rowe served as Sanford's community development director for more than a decade before taking a job in the private sector. He still works with several community organizations in Sanford. Triplett, a vice president of Community United Bank, was a president of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce executive board and served on the Sanford Airport Authority. He resigned from that board when he moved to Volusia County but recently became a resident of the Celery City by purchasing a home in Mayfair.

Around the Clock

by Dan Ping

While both Rowe and Triplett are qualified to sit on the CRA, the downtown crowd is steamed that one of their own wasn't selected to sit on the board. Theo Hollerbach, owner of the Willow Tree Cafe, and Bart Peterson, owner of St. Johns Realty, were among those who applied for the position. The argument is that while both Rowe and Triplett should do a good job, neither lives or has an investment downtown. That's true, sort of.

Except for Barbara Ferrell (who has done a marvelous job renovating the old fire station into a New York-style loft) and the occasional homeless guy who sleeps in Magnolia Square, no one lives downtown. As for investments, Triplett's bank is on First Street, just five blocks from Magnolia Square.

Furthermore, folks downtown sometimes forget that the CRA is much larger than a few downtown blocks. It extends out to Seminole Towne Center Mall and includes Central Florida Regional Hospital, the Preserve at Lake Monroe and, for that matter, The Seminole Herald. The point is downtown doesn't exist in a vacuum. The CRA needs to focus on redeveloping the core downtown, and that's where all the money will be spent in the coming years. However, success or failure of that mission depends on the city as a whole developing. In fact, the CRA's bank account has swelled solely because of development out west State Road 46. Until the new Eckerd drug store at First and French opens in a few weeks, the core downtown will have added little in the way of increased property values during the CRA's eight years of existence.

My read on Rowe's appointment is city commissioners are tired of the infighting downtown. I think Hollerbach or Peterson could be an asset to the CRA, but commissioners selected a known entity in Rowe rather than picking a member of the downtown community that could ignite more bickering among the cliques. Is that the right thing to do? Probably not, but until a bona fide leader emerges from that group, city commissioners will be wary of selecting one of them to serve in an official capacity.

What do I mean by a leader? Someone who can build consensus downtown, and someone who isn't looking for a free handout of city money for his or her pet organization. This person doesn't have to walk in lock-step with the city commission, but he or she must have a working relationship that produces tangible results because that's what will move downtown forward.

It's not too late for someone to step up to the plate. Word Around The Clock is Linda Johnson may not finish her term, which expires December 2005. Johnson was appointed by the county when the CRA was first created in 1995. She's busy running a successful business (William Howard Jewelers) and may look to resign sometime in 2004. Downtown needs direct representation on the CRA, but it's not going to happen until someone proves they have leadership.

So how 'bout it? Anyone downtown fit the bill?

Proclamation of Alzheimer's Awareness Month

At a recent meeting of the Seminole County Board of County Commissioners a proclamation was presented that declared the month of November 2003 as Alzheimer's Disease Awareness Month. Nationwide about five million Americans have been diagnosed with the disease. Commissioner Grant Maicy presented the proclamation to Shellee Brassler, executive director of the Alzheimer Resource Center at 1400 N. Semoran Blvd. in Orlando.

Authorities promote holiday safety tips

According to police, during one of the highest crime times of the year, residents are encouraged to take the following precautions to ensure their safety.

Before you shop:

- Avoid carrying a purse, use a fanny pack or deep pockets in clothing to carry what you need.
- Avoid carrying large amounts of cash. Pay for purchases with a check or credit card whenever possible.
- Carry your keys, cash and credit cards separate from each other and be aware of your surroundings at all times.
- If you're not sure a shopping bag will be available to you, take one of your own to the mall. Consolidate as many packages as possible.

While shopping:

- Stay alert to your surroundings and the people around you. If you see people "hanging around" parking garages, parking lots, or the outside of stores, avoid the area. Notify the police or store security department.
- Shop before dark if possible. Coordinate shopping trips with a friend if you plan to be out late.
- Never park your car in an unlit area, no matter how convenient it is.
- Know exactly where you park your car. Make a mental note or write it down so you will know exactly where to go when you leave the store.

- Lock your car doors and windows even if you are only gone for a few minutes.
- Teach your children to go to a store clerk or security guard and ask for help if they should become separated in a store or shopping mall. They should never go into a parking lot alone.
- If you have to carry a purse, carry it close to your body and always zipped.

After shopping:

- Leave the mall/store well before closing time. This way, there is greater assurance you will walk out with other people. There is safety in numbers.
- Avoid shopping until you are exhausted. You are more alert when you are less tired.
- When hurried or in a crowded shop, make sure you get all forms of identification and credit cards returned to you before leaving.
- Use an escort or mall security if you have too many packages or if you are leaving the store after closing.
- Check underneath your car as you approach it. This is a common ploy of criminals in parking lots and they will take you by surprise.

- Have your keys in hand and remember to check the interior of your vehicle before you unlock the door to get in.
- When going from store to store keep your packages stored out of sight in the trunk of your car.

At home:

- Be extra cautious about locking your doors and windows at all times.
- Don't display gifts and other valuables where they can be seen from a window or doorway.
- After opening gifts, break down cardboard boxes of expensive electronics and fancy stores and put them in plastic bags to hide the fact that you have valuable items in your home.
- If you go out in the evening, turn on lights and a radio or television so the house looks occupied.
- Beware of package deliveries where couriers have the "wrong" address. Write down the tag numbers of suspicious delivery attempts.
- If you go on vacation, get an automatic timer for your lights. Ask a neighbor or trusted friend to watch your house, pick up the mail and newspapers and park their car in your driveway from time to time.

Buccaneer wide receiver encourages students to stay mentally, physically fit

By Christopher Patton
Managing Editor

SANFORD — Millennium Middle School students are striving to take 10,000 steps a day and Tampa Bay Buccaneer wide receiver Joe Jurevicius believes they can reach their goal.

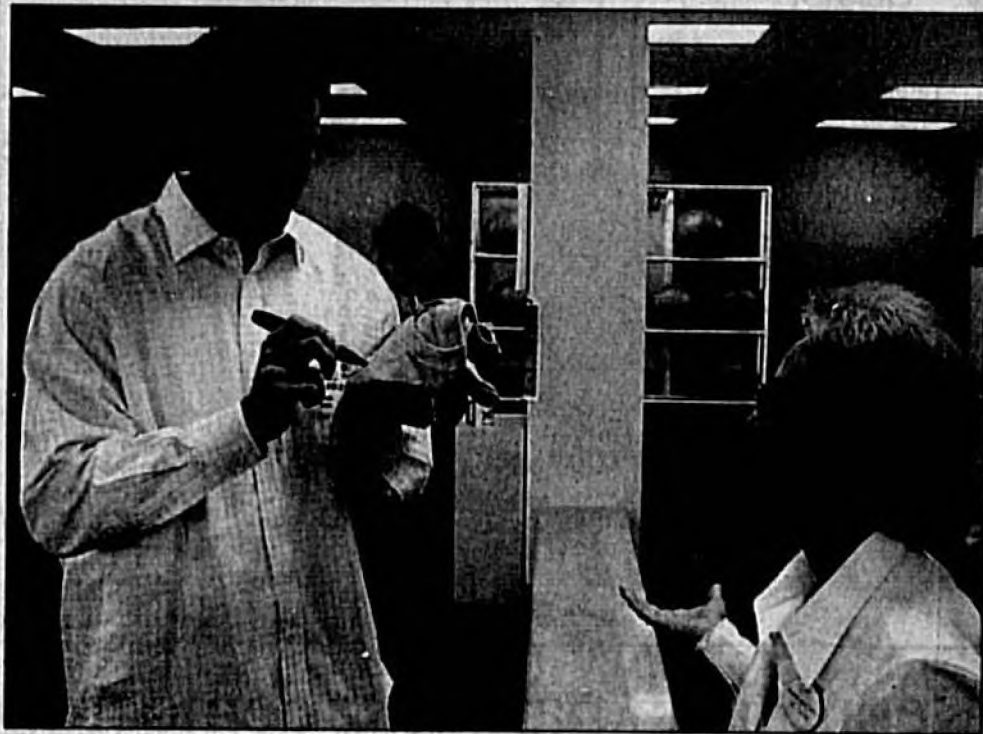

With more than 150 students assembled at the Millennium Middle School gym earlier this month, the NFL star was at the Sanford school to help kick off the "Step with It" program. The fitness program is a partnership between Coca-Cola, the National Association for Sport and Physical Education, the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports and Seminole County Schools. The initiative challenges students to take a minimum of 10,000 steps a day to maintain good health and mental fitness.

Students were given small pedometers to help them track their progress each day, and a few encouraging words from Jurevicius, a member of the Super Bowl champion team.

"When you think about it, there is a lot to see in this world," he said. "If you want to be around to see them, it starts with being mentally and physically fit."

The Penn State University graduate said the 10,000-step initiative "is an important message" because "if you are physically fit it helps you to be mentally fit."

Jurevicius said he maintains his physical fitness because it is his job, but he also sees it as a challenge. The former Nittany Lion is currently strengthening a knee he injured at the beginning of the season against the Carolina Panthers.

"We all need challenges in our lives," he said. "I still challenge myself to this day. I'm currently rehabbing (my knee). I need to get better because I love the game of football, and if I'm not fit I can't do the thing I love to do."

Since a young kid growing up in the Cleveland, Ohio area, Jurevicius said he always dreamed of becoming a professional football player. While that was a lofty goal, it is important to set smaller goals day-to-day, he said. One of Jurevicius "little goals" is that he keeps a dictionary near the television. When he hears a word that he is unfamiliar with, he looks up the definition.

"I can then use it in scrabble, TV interviews or with students like yourself," he said.

School principal Walt

Griffin said the fitness program raises the level of awareness for the kids, and it has already paid dividends. With their pedometers fastened to their belts, students have already gone home and walked trying to reach that 10,000-step goal.

"We're all walking more, even me," he said.

Center

out of the community building has 106 members, and it could use a larger room for exercise classes and meetings.

"If they all showed up it would be pretty hard to put them all in this building," she said. "Of course, we are now hooked up with the state so they'll want to come here and be our guests. We have the hotels and the places, but we don't have a room for them to meet in."

Seniors have researched the possibility of moving into the former fire department building and say the transfer could be made with minimal renovations. However, the building wouldn't fit all the seniors needs such as the smaller kitchen. Bill Carrico, city director of parks and recreation, said the old fire hall might actually be too large for seniors.

"Eight thousand square feet is a number we feel comfortable with, but I don't think at this time the use of the building has been defined. That is why our research is ongoing," he said. "If it was designed specifically for the seniors needs, it may not need the entire space."

With renovations happening at city hall and plans to construct a new fire station, Mayor Thom Greene said other opportunities for a senior center location might arise.

"From what I've heard tonight, I think the commission is committed to increasing the space for you all to use in the future. Also, I think we are committed to make that usage specific to seniors," he said. "As far as if that is going to work with the lifesaving building, it may or may not. There may be another building, since we are doing all these changes, that may fit your needs."

As seniors and city staff collect more information, the city commission hopes the seniors needs can be more defined. In addition, several city officials, including City Manager John Litton, said the old fire station might not simply work for that need.

"I think there are some alternatives the commission may want to discuss in the future," Litton said. "Giving the existing building and its lay out, it is very chopped up, and I'm not sure how much open space we can create. Certainly, the kitchen facilities that exist are not up to code to serve meals. I think it would take a lot of time and money, but I think there are some alternatives, and I surely support the concept."

Despite the commission's reluctance to move forward with guaranteeing the Rinehart Road fire hall facility to the seniors, they were confident the commission had good intentions to find them a new home.

"I don't think there is anyone on this commission or anyone probably in this room that would think enhancing the lives of our seniors is a bad thing. The question becomes how do we best serve that," said Commissioner Mike McLean.

A history of Thanksgiving Day from cobs of corn to Lincoln

I started writing this column with tongue-in-cheek, questioning what we have been taught in school about the origin of Thanksgiving. Either I've forgotten some of the details, or heard some things that weren't true. But I have a great deal of interest in the Pilgrims. I imagine most people know they settled in Plymouth Rock, Massachusetts, but what else do we know (or remember)?

Nick Pfeiffauf

Now, thanks to the internet, we can learn a great deal, and I find myself recalling what I have forgotten about these people and the event we are about to celebrate

Contrary to what my boss believes, I was NOT on hand for that first Thanksgiving. (I was out of town that day).

According to writings by some of the Pilgrims, the first Thanksgiving feast (though not called that) was held in 1621 near Plymouth Rock, where they landed in November of 1620. One report says that nearly half of the 103 people on the Mayflower died, mostly of starvation, during the first year's cold winter. By the fall of 1621 however, thanks to Indians teaching them how to grow food, the remaining Pilgrims reported an excellent year in their crops. They therefore decided to hold a feast and invite those friendly Indians.

One of my wife's ancestors, William Bradford, wrote about it, bragging about what a great crop they had of Indian corn. But mind you, this was not corn on the cob type — it was more for corn meal used in making bread. Actually, it was considered more like wheat — and one report said they even used it to manufacture beer.

Bradford did mention the food they had for the meal: cod, bass, four wild turkeys, six deer (killed by Indians) and many fruits (mostly berries), and vegetables (peas, squash and beans).

About those turkeys, if you remember, Ben Franklin originally suggested the turkey rather than the eagle, become the symbol of our new nation during the preparation of the Declaration of Independence in 1776. Ben thought the turkey was ideal because it was a proud bird, which strutted with his head held high and was peaceful as compared to the eagle which dives down, picks up small animals and devours them. Naturally we selected the eagle. But let it be known, in addition to wild turkeys, the Pilgrims also occasionally ate eagles, which one Pilgrim said "tasted like mutton".

Yes, there were Indians at this event, led by King Massasoit. Approximately 90 of them showed up for the feast, which lasted for three days. (It takes us longer than that to get rid of the left-overs). With 90 Indians and approximately 50 survivors from the Mayflower, there were probably 140 people at the event.

What did they eat? While we have pumpkin pies, they had pumpkins, but prepared more as a pudding, sweetened by honey or syrup. They didn't have any whipped topping for it.

Cranberries were available at that time, but they couldn't sweeten them enough for the average palate. Sweet Potatoes or Yams? No. They hadn't been introduced in the New England area in the 1600s.

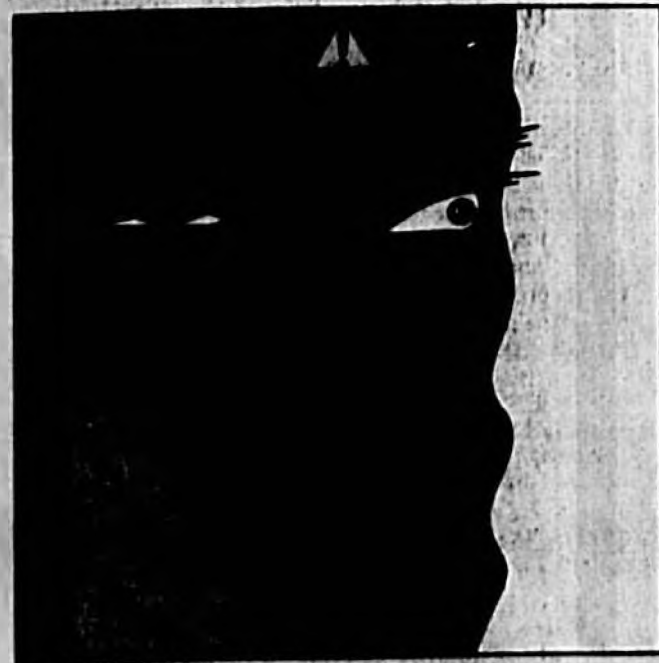

Many folks these days have ham, in addition to in the place of turkey. Pilgrims didn't have ham — they didn't have any pigs, which is probably the main reason.

That first Thanksgiving is believed to have occurred in October of 1621. Originally, it was considered a harvest meal, giving thanks for good crops. Eventually descendants of the Pilgrims called it "Forefather's Day," and observed it on Dec. 21. It was Abraham Lincoln who finally called it Thanksgiving and made it a national holiday.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in 1939, changed the date of the event to the fourth Thursday of November.

These days, the holiday is more centered on giving thanks for ALL of the blessings we have, family, friends, etc.

For a few folks, the families may have gone their own way, and left some alone for the holiday. We recommend checking local churches and other institutions which may provide Thanksgiving meals for people who are in need, or are alone. If you can, offer them your help, monetarily or by volunteering. Let's make Thanksgiving a day during which everyone can give thanks.

Republican paradox, democratic dilemma

I felt hot flashes of anger on Thursday afternoon when cheering anti-Bush demonstrators — all claimed to be anti-Bush but not anti-American — pulled down a 17-foot, gold-painted papier-mache effigy of my president. The idea of the mini-drama was to equate Bush and Saddam Hussein, whose golden statue in Baghdad was similarly toppled last April.

The scene and the comparison literally turned my American stomach. I am anti-Bush and opposed to his stupid war of choice in Iraq. I think he is a lousy president, but he is no Saddam, and Americans are not a whipped people.

Americans, me among them, intuitively rally round the flag in self-righteous patriotism that makes foreigners crazy. We always have. "The worse you do, the more they like you," said President John F. Kennedy after he saw his approval rating jump more than 10 percentage points in the wake of his disastrous adventure in Cuba at the Bay of Pigs in 1961.

That paradox now applies to a Republican president. In the short run, the worse President Bush does, the better he looks. He, after all, is the one saying terrorists are everywhere, waiting to kill Americans and other innocents abroad. Bad news — the latest from Istanbul — tends to validate the bellicose scare-talk from the White House. (I think the bombing in Bali, just before the 2002 congressional elections, may have saved Republican control of the House of Representatives by validating Bush's fears and rhetoric.)

In a longer run — the race to Election Day 2004 is as far as politicians can see — the same set of events is helping to create a dilemma for Democrats and other Bush antagonists. They secretly have to hope that things go bad (or stay bad) abroad and at home. I have talked with more than a few Democrats of prestige and position who have trouble hiding secret glee over bad economic numbers or even ambushes in Iraq.

That's the way it is in the politics of electing presidents. It's a dirty little secret, but not a new one. In 1970, in the taped privacy of the Oval Office, President Nixon said that if American voters understood that anti-war Democrats secretly wanted the United States to lose the war in Vietnam, Republicans would hold the White House for the next 50 years.

Part of the Republican paradox and the Democratic dilemma has to do with the great differences in the wars President Bush chose to fight after Sept. 11, 2001. An overwhelming majority of Americans, whatever their political affiliations, understood and supported action in Afghanistan. Taliban rulers had provided shelter and cover for al Qaida and for Osama bin Laden. We had every justification for that invasion. The pity is that we did not get Osama and more of his henchmen. They were our enemy — and obviously still are a danger to us everywhere in the world.

America was united then. The world was, too. Then Bush threw it all away. He has many explanations for why we went into Iraq — they change with the weather of events — but what he calls "noble" history is likely to judge him foolish. We are draining our resources and power into desert sands, and the world has turned on us.

Will American voters, too, turn on Bush? Hard to say. The 2004 election, like many before it, will begin as a referendum on the sitting president. But it may be finally decided by events unpredictable, or it may be decided by the Democrats. If Bush and his blunders are the issue next autumn, he will probably lose. If the Democratic candidate becomes the issue — because of his record or incompetent campaigning — then Bush will almost certainly be re-elected easily.

The Democrats have huge political problems going into this election season. Much as Bush has painted himself into a corner in Iraq — how do we get out now? — the Democrats have painted themselves into a political corner by deliberately scheduling more and more early primary elections. The election calendar was designed to produce a nominee late in February or early in March — basically within the next three months — to give that nominee more time to collect money and to attack Bush rather than campaign against other Democrats.

That strategy, like many other things these days, seems to be backfiring. The front runner now, Howard Dean, is essentially unknown and untested nationally, but because of the front-loading of primaries, he could lock up the nomination before most Democratic voters know who he is or what he is about. Perhaps he will be great, perhaps not. In times of paradox and dilemma, there is no predicting what will happen next.

Separation of church, state is for everyone's protection

It's no wonder that we're having a hard time teaching Jeffersonian democracy to the Iraqis. It's still controversial in America.

Take the precincts where Roy Moore holds sway. Moore, recently ousted as chief justice of the Alabama Supreme Court, has become the standard-bearer for Christian conservatives who believe that the United States is a "Christian nation." He has inspired hundreds of thousands of followers.

Never mind that Moore insisted on placing a 2 1/2-ton Ten Commandments monument in the courthouse rotunda. Never mind that he argued that he's above civil law and ignored a federal court order to remove the monument. (It was eventually removed over the objections of Moore and his followers.) He has received plaudits from the U.S. House of Representatives.

How is it that the one of the world's model democracies finds its Bill of Rights so disrespected by its own citizens? Why is it that the religious repression that marks so much of the world has not inspired Americans to value religious liberty more dearly?

Cynthia Tucker

Moore and his supporters are no doubt sincere in their belief that much of what has gone awry in this society over the last few decades — divorce, out-of-wedlock births, drug use, abused and neglected children — can be traced to the legal strictures against public prayer in public places. They clearly worry about the consequences of the nation's rapid retreat from traditional morality.

But there is something worse, much worse, than the collapse of the traditional family: the collapse of civil society itself. Doesn't the prospect of stoning a woman to death for adultery, as nearly happened recently in Nigeria, suggest the horror of a state where religious law rules?

(Moore needs to spend some time with members of the Iraqi Governing Council, who have given up plans to start immediately drafting a constitution. Among the Shiites, Iraq's majority, many clerics expect a constitution that will enshrine their power. Any such move would be fiercely resisted by the Sunni minority, who oppressed the Shiites during the rule of their fellow believer, Saddam Hussein.)

It is not just the liberty of Jews and Muslims and Hindus that would be trampled by Moore's "Christian nation." So would the religious liberty of millions of Christians who don't accept his theology, including myself. I would be forced to bow to prayers that make me uncomfortable, to salute commandments I consider wretchedly antiquated ("Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house; thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his manservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbor's"), and to condemn good friends. (My neighbors, it happens, are a servantless gay couple.)

Moore's ouster has merely elevated his standing among his followers; in their eyes, he has been made a martyr, a victim of America's adherence to a secular god. It has become popular among many conservative Christians to claim that they are among the persecuted. (The claim is especially odd given that President Bush, perhaps the most powerful man on the planet, is a conservative Christian.)

But Moore's ouster merely keeps him from victimizing the rest of us. He is free to put his Ten Commandments monument in any museum that will have it, any private landscape that can accommodate it. He is free to pray in his home, his church, his car (and to pray silently anywhere at any time).

When Thomas Jefferson wrote his "Letter to the Danbury Baptists," where he used the phrase "wall of separation between church and state," he was quieting the concerns of a group of Baptists who feared the influence of a larger group of Congregationalists. Centuries later, the Congregationalists are still here — I'm one of them — and so are the Baptists.

Moore needs to understand that Jefferson's wall has helped preserve both of those great denominations.

back down, but varies from place to place. For the rear echelon troops living in the old palace compounds, morale is much higher. If we lived in Saddam's old palace compound complete with swimming pools, marble bathrooms, good food, and never had to go out on patrol and get shot at, then I'm sure our morale would be higher too. These are the troops that the VIPs talked to when they visit here for an update. Nobody ever talks with us about how things are.

The food is still better than it used to be, and we haven't had T-rations in a long time. Our favorite morale booster is watching DVD movies on a laptop computer. We don't have many DVDs so we keep recycling the same movies over and over again. Some of the troops get newspapers from home which we share. My Seminole Herald usually arrives about two weeks late, but I do look at the Herald webpage when I can get on the internet. Our most current and regular newspaper is the old Stars and Stripes, which every G.I. has read since Moses was a corporal. 9 Nov. 2003 Today is mine and Joyce's 12th wedding anniversary. I managed to get on the internet and send 12 roses to her, one for each wonderful year we've been together, although not necessarily physically together because of so many deployments.

We lost another military policeman killed by an RPG (rocket propelled grenade) about 30 miles south of Baghdad.

In Sadir City, the east part of Baghdad where we patrol, there was a confrontation in which a U.S. soldier killed the head of the district's municipal council. This official was like the mayor here. The soldier was one of two posted at the entrance to the public building and did not know that the man was a high official. The man was in a car that approached the main gate to the building. He got out and got into a squabble with one of the soldiers. When he tried to grab the soldier's weapon, another soldier shot him in the hip. He later died from losing blood through a lacerated femoral artery.

A big crowd of Iraqis immediately began to demonstrate in front of our gate at Camp Mariboro. This incident has outraged the Shiites, which just drives up the risk for us. Now we will probably get paid-back with mortars and road side ambushes again. I know, the President said "major combat is over;" well, try telling that myth to a soldier in this never-ending mess.

I went outside and saw Richardson flying a kite that he had made out of a garbage bag. I thought that was a pretty good hobby. I walked around the corner of our warehouse and found a full-fledged kite making operation going on with SGT Hunter and a few other soldiers. I like to see these guys doing something constructive like this rather than sleeping. It is good relaxation for them after our missions.

The cement guys came to our camp today and put in a cement pad at one of the doors. The foreman was Iraqi and spoke good English. He had gone to school in UCLA and lived in California for a while. I also saw the new recruits today from the Iraqi Civil Defense Corps (ICDC). Remember, I helped recruit these guys in August. They are now in uniform and have weapons and seem to like their work. They are marched around and trained by US soldiers. There are even women in the ICDC.

10 Nov. 2003 It rained "bazoons and chelups" last night (that's Arabic lingo for cats and dogs). So much for me saying it didn't rain much here. It's now very windy outside, but we got our windows put back in and all is back in order (no thanks to the 1st Sgt.). Our showers were working but now they don't. The food is okay now, but not as good as at RSS or Regiment. Having good food is a morale booster just like power and mail, without it you will have a lot of disgruntled soldiers. Right now we have power and mail but both are sporadic. Mail takes about a week to get here, so it is not too bad but the power still goes off all the time and takes so long to come back on.

Next issue: Counseling the troops.

Computer

Altamonte Springs police began assembling its computer crime lab Wednesday as they received $6,000 of equipment via a federal law enforcement block grant. According to Altamonte Springs Police Detective Bob Fedi, the price is well worth the potential return.

In a variety of criminal investigations from Internet fraud to homicides, the computer crimes division could be called on to assist detectives.

"Just about every crime we investigate involves computers," he said.

With the wave of technology, economic crimes involving computers are bogging down virtually every police department. Potential violent offenders are learning the risk is lower and the reward is greater in white collar crimes, Gibb said, using an example of replicating a bank check with a computer scanner rather than holding up a convenience store.

"Sandi's been doing this for 15 years and every year it doubles," Fedi said.

With a towering super computer investigators take computers confiscated from search warrants and replicate the hard drives. In some instances when the computer can not be confiscated, the investigators will go to the scene and copy the necessary information onto a laptop.

With software that can perform specific searches, investigators can sift through the hard drive "foot print" for a variety of information, including past Internet searches, Web chats or e-mails. Many computer users believe once they erase information, it is gone from the hard drive, but that is inaccurate.

"There is a lot of stuff on there you wouldn't think is in there," Gibb said.

"You think it's gone...it's probably not."

When it comes to cracking criminal cases with the aid of sensitive information captured from seized computers, Pierstorff says police investigators have the upper hand.

"For awhile at least until the criminal learns our technique," he said. "It's a game."

To Honor the Brave

Idyllwilde Elementary School celebrated Veterans Day last week with patriotic music and singing followed by speakers from the armed forces — retired U.S. Army Lt. Col Pete Marion and active U.S. Navy Chief Barton Cole (top, right). The two delivered Veterans Day messages (bottom) to the student body and were followed by the highlight of the occasion when the Sanford Aerobatic Team performed a flyover (right). The flyover was coordinated by Idyllwilde fourth grade teacher Richard Burkett (below) who radioed his father Claude Burkett, a member of the aerobatic team. The team performed the delta formation followed by a missing man formation that honors the fallen comrades lost in action. The ceremony was officiated by school principal David Scott.

Geneva resident flying high with powered parachute

Perhaps you've seen Bob Cloninger sailing overhead in the serene Geneva skies and wondered "What on earth is that?" as the bright colors of his powered parachute exited the peaceful blue and then ducked behind a section of trees to hide from sight.

Cloninger, a Geneva resident himself, saw a powered parachute overhead at the beach one day, and thought to himself "That looks easy and that looks fun!" Once home, he began researching the machines on the Internet and discovering them to be an affordable pursuit, found a Florida dealer and bought one on the spot before ever having experienced flight.

That was six months ago. These days Cloninger tries to take to the air at least once a week, which is not always easy. "You have to go early in the morning or late in the afternoon when the air is clear and there is no wind," advises Cloninger. He uses wind maps and Internet information and checks carefully to make sure conditions are right before trailering his chute to Southerland's grass air strip for take off. About a third of the time, they make the trek only to discover winds too brisk for his machine and return home feet never having left the ground. According to Cloninger, that is the most difficult part of piloting the experimental aircraft. "It's all been really quite easy," assures the novice pilot when asked about the learning process of flight. "The hardest thing is having the patience and self-discipline to say 'no' when you go out and have to abort because of wind." When he does find conditions right to take to the air, Cloninger says the experience is "everything I thought it would be and more."

"It's so beautiful seeing the rivers and lakes," he offers. "You see eagles every time you go up — and lots of deer. Near the landfill there are thousands of birds. The scenery is really beautiful."

Until recently, Cloninger's wife Karen stayed firmly on the ground waiting patiently at the airstrip while her husband glided about 200 feet above, wondering (even though she admits not wanting to think this way) "Is this the last time I'm going to see him?" Or maybe even "Surely he'll get tired of this soon."

But he never came close to either end, and Karen began to think instead, "I think I'd rather be up there!" She has taken one jump seat flight and thoroughly enjoyed the experience.

Her pilot however, requires more training and certification before he can officially carry passengers into the air. Meanwhile, he's learning all about the nuances of takeoff and landing, the effects of air currents, propeller hazards (Once he encountered a flock of buzzards and wondered if one might end up in his blades!), air space restrictions, instrument gauges, engine features, equipment safety, scheduled servicing, throttle, thrust and even aerial photography.

All this is done within a five- to six-mile, 25-minute loop from the Geneva airstrip at an average speed of 28 to 30 miles per hour. With a global positioning system (GPS) and aviation radio on board and a cell phone just in case, Cloninger cruises at 400 feet or less, well below other aircraft. "Up at even 100 feet," describes Cloninger, "you can see the Cape, the Lake Monroe power plant, Orlando International Airport, and downtown Orlando."

His 10-gallon gas tank allows about three hours of flight, although he has never stayed aloft that length of time. He's grateful to have an airstrip so close.

"Many parachute owners travel an hour or more to attempt takeoff and then have to go back home if the weather is not favorable," he says.

"I can go fly for an hour and still make it to work by 9 a.m.," chuckles Cloninger, a financial planner who is in the enviable position of having his office at home.

Involved in his insurance and investment work with obvious risk, he down plays the hazards involved with his hobby.

"If you lose your engine," he advises, "you simply land like a regular parachute."

Crashing in the roll cage he assures, would be no worse than "a car wreck

Says the smiling pilot, "The death rate from powered parachutes is less than from autos, motorcycles, and other fixed-wing aircraft, which can actually have more complications in flight."

Perhaps this is why Clanger is just one of about 20,000 powered parachute owners nationwide — with almost as many enthusiasts owning a backpack version of the same device.

How: Realty Executive Orlando is teaming up with local area businesses to help the families of our troops serving in Iraq during this holiday season. Gifts will be collected at various sites in the Orlando area and distributed to those families in need.

Here's How It Works:

The Seminole Herald will run a weekly series of stories beginning Sunday, November 16. Each week the featured family will share the kinds of challenges they face now that their family member is away in Iraq. Since the troops are expected to be there indefinitely, these stories will focus on the immediate needs of these families left behind to take care of themselves. For example, some of the National Guard Troops overseas have incurred large salary decreases to fulfill their commitment to our country. Meanwhile their families are left short on cash and some having to take on second jobs just to provide the basics. Please help us help these families.

All participating locations will have a special christmas tree set up ready to receive gifts for Operation Red, White and Blue. If you'd like to participate please buy an unwrapped toy, gift certificate, etc. and place it under one of the christmas trees for a family of our troops overseas.

Sanford Volleyball ends Fall campaign

By Dean Smith
 Sports Editor

Matt's Team showed once again that is the class in City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department Recreational Volleyball League as it swept both the regular season and tournament titles in the Fall A League.

The B League finished as balanced as it began as the Hawks won the regular season title despite losing a game on the final week.

Then Nooma, which finished last in the regular season standings, put it all together to win the Tournament.

Matt's Team got take to extra points by the Shoestrings, but the champions pulled out a 16-14 victory and then won its last two games to post yet another perfect 3-0 week.

Actually, the results of the final week (Nov. 10) followed the standings in the A League as the Shoestrings went 2-1, the Saints 1-2 and Nation's Fence 0-3.

The tournament was exactly the same as Matt's Team went 3-0 and only gave up 12 points in three games, with a 15-9 triumph over the Shoestrings being the closest.

The B League final week saw another split decision between the four teams.

Nooma showed that it was ready for the tournament by matching the Hawks with a 2-1 week.

But no one could have predicted an upset in the tournament as the Hawks handed Nooma its only loss by the lopsided score of 15-5.

The Hawks showed they were vulnerable, however, as they fell to Morrison Homes, 15-12. This was the only win for Morrison Homes on the night.

Sanford Church of God also got a win on the evening as they knocked off Morrison Homes, 15-9.

The Tournament saw Nooma and the Hawks win their first two games to set up the Championship matchup.

Nooma had to work hard to get past Sanford Church of God, 15-10, and Morrison Homes, 15-7, while the Hawks also struggled against Morrison Homes before winning, 15-12.

The regular season champs eased into the final game with a 15-5 romp over Sanford Church of God.

The two final games ended up having some of the biggest margin of victories as Nooma eased past the Hawks, 15-7, to win the trophy and Morrison Homes waited past Sanford Church of God, 15-8, to finish third.

WEEK 8
 A League - Matt's Team, 3-0 (15-5 over Nation's Fence, 16-14 over Shoestrings and 15-8 over the Saints); Shoestrings, 2-1 (15-8 over the Saints and 15-6 over Nation's Fence); the Saints, 1-2 (15-9 over Nation's Fence); and Nation's Fence, 0-3.

B League - The Hawks, 2-1 (15-5 over Nooma and 15-3 over Sanford Church of God); Nooma, 2-1 (15-11 over Sanford Church of God and 15-3 over Morrison Homes) 1-2 (15-12 over the Hawks); and Sanford Church of God, 1-2 (15-12 over the Hawks); and Sanford Church of God, See Volleyball, Page 2B by hitting .366 in game one. Sophomore Emily Watts drilled eight kills in the opening game victory for the Knights.

UCF cruised to a 30-15 game two victory after posting a .417 hitting percentage. Watts continued to take charge with five more kills and two service aces. Juniors Tanya Jarvis and Amanda Stoutjesdyk also played well with three kills and two blocks apiece.

In game three, Stoutjesdyk's eight kills and two blocks weren't enough for the Knights as UCF fell to FAU 30-28.

Game four was a continuous battle as both teams traded 15 tied scores and four lead changes. The score was tied at 25 apiece when A-Sun Player-of-the-Year Jenny Frank slammed the ball over the net, giving UCF a 26-25 lead. UCF took control from there behind the strong play of two freshmen, Kate Street and Jana Mitchell, along with an ace by Emily Watts to clinch the victory.

Watts and Jarvis both ended the match with double-doubles. Watts had 22 kills and 15 digs while hitting .273 and Jarvis had 11 kills and 13 digs with five blocks.

Stoutjesdyk recorded a .351 kill percentage with 19 kills and six blocks and Frank hit .350 with nine kills and 57 assists.

MEN'S HOOPS OPENS SEASON AGAINST PUERTO RICO

Eagles top Lions

Edgewater knocks out Oviedo once again

By Tony DeSormier
 Special to the Herald

OVIEDO — It was a season that was three years in the making and took just 48 minutes on the scoreboard to disappear.

Oviedo High School's bid for a dream football season came to a disappointing end Friday night as the Edgewater Eagles eliminated the Lions, 14-3, in their 6A-Region 1 semifinal game at John Courter Field.

Edgewater, the Class 6A runners-up a year ago, advance to face Jacksonville-Sandalwood in the Region 1 championship next Friday night. Sandalwood advanced with a 7-6 win over the Lake Mary Rams.

Friday's loss at home marked the final game for a remarkable group of seniors, many of whom had been starting or seeing considerable playing time for the Lions since they were sophomores: quarterback Lee Sloan, running backs Will Harrison, Brice Patrick, and Johnny Girard, wide receivers Jason Raulerson, Charlie Parker, and Shamus Wright, defensive lineman Vernon Foster, and linebackers Brett Joyce and Ray Brown.

"You don't replace a group like this easily," said See Oviedo, Page 3B

Herald photos by Jim Wentz

Seasons end for Rams, Bears

By Dean Smith
 Sports Editor

The slipper didn't fit again this week.

Seminole County football fans saw the season come to sudden and abrupt end Friday night as Oviedo, Lake Mary and Winter Springs all fell in close contests in the regional semifinals.

In Class 6A-Region 1, the Lions (see story left) were ousted for the second straight year by Edgewater, 14-3, while the Rams dropped a heart-breaking 7-6 decision to Sandalwood in Jacksonville, setting up a championship game between Edgewater and Sandalwood in Orlando next Friday.

The Bears (7-5), meanwhile, could not quite pull off another upset as they fell 26-20 to 10-2 Hillsborough in the Class 5A-Region 2 Semifinals at Chelo Hurt Field in Tampa. In the other 5A-2 game, Plant City-Durant rolled over Kissimmee-Osceola, which eliminated Lyman last week, 27-13.

Winter Springs was looking to keep the momentum gained from upsetting the top seed in 5A, Palm Bay, last week.

Lake Mary (7-5) showcased its outstanding defense as the Rams kept standout running back Maurice Wells in check for See Football, Page 3B

Bolin recognized by Shikar-Safari Club

Special to the Herald

The Shikar-Safari Club International recognized Officer Randy Bolin as its Conservation Officer of the Year for 2002 during the Florida Fish & Wildlife Conservation Commission's (FWC) meeting in Duck Key Thursday.

Jack Beal, a Shikar-Safari Club board member, presented Bolin with a plaque, framed certificate and a life insurance policy, as a token of the club's appreciation for his outstanding efforts to protect the state's fish and wildlife resources.

"All Shikar-Safari Club members are hunters and believe that wildlife conservation agencies do a good job of conserving wildlife through regulation and enforcement. We give this award each year in all 50 states and Canada to recognize and thank officers, like Officer Bolin, for the good work they are doing. They are doing what we can't," Beal said.

The 30-year-old Bolin, who earlier this year was named the FWC's Officer of the Year, is an avid hunter, angler and outdoorsman. He was born and raised in Sanford, is a third-generation Floridian and has been a conservation law enforcement officer since graduating from the former Florida Marine Patrol/Florida Highway Patrol Academy in 1997.

Bolin began his career at Pennekamp State Park and the Florida Keys National Marine Sanctuary in Key Largo as a law enforcement officer with the Florida Department of Environmental Protection. In 2000, after the former Marine Fisheries Commission and former Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission merged to become the FWC, Bolin joined the new agency and accepted his current position in St. Johns County.

Raiders suffering growing pains

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

SANFORD — Mama said there would be days like this.

Going into the season with 13 freshmen on a 14 man roster, Seminole Community College men's basketball coach Stan Cromartie knew that his team might struggle early in the season as the players got college experience and learned to play together.

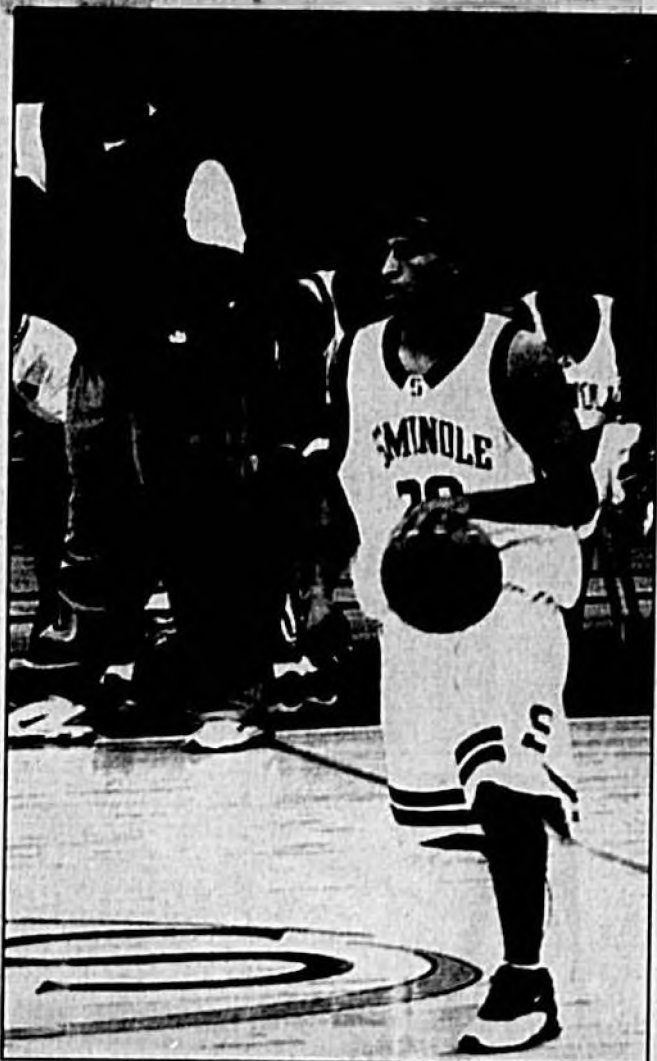

But this is getting frustrating.

For the third game in a row the Raiders got off to a slow start, rallied late in the game and lost a close decision, this time 70-65 to Brevard Community College at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center on Wednesday.

Neither team was able to do much over the first 10 minutes as the visiting Titans led just 10-9.

Then two things happened, both teams' offenses started to click and both started to get into serious foul trouble.

Two of the top players for SCC to this point in the season are...

Rushawn Johnson (No. 20), the only sophomore on the team, stepped and hit five three-point field goals and scored 18 points to lead the Raiders, but it was not enough as host Seminole Community College fell to Brevard Community College, 70-65, in Men's Basketball Tuesday night.

law enforcement agencies to protect the state's fish and wildlife. His accomplishments include a joint operation with the National Marine Fisheries Service, which resulted in three arrests for violations of the federal Endangered Species Act; numerous hunting-related arrests; rescuing eight people from two separate vessel accidents; and a near-perfect conviction rate.

He is a skilled vessel operator and regularly boards offshore fishing vessels for inspections - a hazardous assignment that requires skill, composure and physical fitness. He is an instructor at the agency's law enforcement academy and a member of the FWC's newly formed Special Operations Group (SOG).

Shikar-Safari Club International is an exclusive organization with a worldwide membership of no more than 200. The club began as an opportunity for members to get together and talk about their hunting experiences but has evolved into an organization that ardently supports conservation and education.

FWC POSTPONES RECLASSIFICATIONS

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) Thursday placed a delay until November 2004 on making any changes to the state's list of endangered, threatened or species of special concern. The only exception is for emergency listings, such as classification of the Miami blue butterfly, which is so close to extinction any delay would be extremely risky for the species.

Commissioners voted to classify the Miami blue butterfly as an endangered species. The species, already classified as endangered under an emergency order by the FWC's executive director, will be classified by rule that will become effective in about 20 days.

The FWC, meeting in a three-day session at Duck Key, had planned to consider moving ahead on a petition to consider reclassifying manatees from endangered to threatened and up-list the Panama city crayfish to threatened. After convening a special panel to look at the listing process and after a full-day workshop on the issue, Commissioners felt too many questions and unresolved problems exist in the listing process. FWC staff will continue working to recommend improvements to the listing process for Commissioners to consider in coming months.

Currently, the FWC uses criteria developed in 1996 by the International Union for the Conservation of Nature (IUCN) to classify imperiled species.

CHAPMAN WINS HUMPHREY AWARD

The Wildlife Foundation of Florida (WFF) has honored Phil Chapman, a career fisheries biologist with the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC), with the 2003 Louise Ireland Humphrey Award. The WFF annually honors former Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission Chairwoman, Louise Ireland Humphrey, by recognizing an FWC employee whose dedication and service has made a significant contribution to the protection and conservation of Florida's fish and wildlife.

Chapman is widely known for his efforts to inform the public about resource issues, and for his preeminent leadership in promoting the now commonly accepted practice of catch-and-release fishing. Chapman began his career in 1970 as an assistant regional fisheries biologist in Lakeland. In 1971, he coordinated the assessment of Florida's largest pollution-caused fish kill. That assessment of the destruction of 70 miles of the Peace River, led to the nation's first successful prosecution of a major environmental case involving the destruction of fish and wildlife resources, with fines totalling over $900,000.

Chapman was promoted to regional biologist in 1973 and went on to lead studies and pioneer techniques for artificially culturing and rearing striped bass, sunshine bass, and snook for their use in freshwater. His work on snook ultimately filled in informational gaps in the life history of the species that provided valuable groundwork for spawning and rearing techniques in use today.

One of Chapman's most significant contributions came from his investigation into the biological impacts of bass tournaments.

Though Chapman found that tournaments do not significantly impact the fishery as a whole, tournaments did impact the trophy bass fishery. The finding led to statewide harvest regulations to protect the hall-mark resource.

In 1982, Chapman was instrumental in the state's acquisition of Tenoroc Fish Management Area, a 6,000-acre phosphate mine. This nationally recognized fishery provides high quality recreational opportunities to thousands of anglers annually. Chapman's creative use of restrictive harvest regulations and the support of fishing as a fun family activity has produced a unique approach to fisheries management at Tenoroc, one that has proved to be a highly successful combination in promoting as well as protecting the quality of the fishery.

Since 1989, Phil has headed the Aquatic Education Project and supervises efforts at Joe Budd Aquatic Education Center in Midway, the Boca Raton Aquatic Program and the statewide Fisheries Outreach Program.

In his career, Chapman has received numerous awards for his work in conservation including:

Water Conservationist of the Year (1985) from the Florida Wildlife Federation, the Diawa Youth Conservation Award, the Polk Conservation Award from the Coastal Conservation Association for efforts to conserve Florida's aquatic resources, the Warm Water Management Award from the National Federation of Fly Fishers, and a variety of recognitions from the Florida Outdoor Writers Association including a Lifetime Achievement Award for outstanding service to the outdoor field.

with 23 points in an exhibition win over St. Leo (Nov. 13). Lyons averaged 9.8 points in 2002-03, but put up 11.9 points in A-Sun action and enters the season as the team leader in that category. Morentin returns as the Knights overall leading scorer and rebounder averaging 10.0 points and 5.7 boards a game.

Sophomore Troy Lindbeck returns as the Knights leading three-point shooter after hitting just over 36 percent from long range in his freshman season.

The Knights will look to junior college transfer Gary Johnson to lead the offense at point guard. Johnson attended Schoolcraft Community College where he posted a two-year mark of 65-3. Another probable in the UCF starting lineup is Marcus Avant, another junior college transfer from Northwest Mississippi Community College.

P.R. Mayaguez comes to Orlando as part of a long stint in the Sunshine State that has already played Eckerd, Florida Southern, Florida Tech and Florida Gulf Coast. The Tarzans will play at Jacksonville (Nov. 21) before facing the Knights.

The Tarzans offense comes primarily from Jose Rivera and Luis Hilerio who scored 11 and 14 points respectively in their last outing against FGCU, a 99-55 loss.

The game will be broadcast live on the UCF ISP Sports Network on 740-AM with Marc Daniels calling all the action. Daniels will take to the airwaves at 7:00 p.m. with pregame coverage.

Tickets can be purchased day of the game, $6 for adults, $4 for both seniors (55 and over) and children from ages 6-17. UCF students can enter free by showing a valid UCF student ID.

MARSHALL DOWNS UCF, 21-7, IN FOOTBALL

Marshall spoiled UCF's first-ever appearance on national television at home with a 21-7 victory over the Golden Knights at the Florida Citrus Bowl. Marshall improved to 7-4 overall, 5-2 in the MAC, while UCF fell to 3-8, 2-5 in the MAC.

"We thought that they (UCF) would play hard," said Marshall head coach Bob Pruett. "We never doubted that they would play with pride. They got some good athletes. We just came out here and gutted this thing out and clinched the 20th straight winning season at Marshall. We're really excited about that."

UCF's special teams made an early impression with a pair of blocks. Following Marshall's first possession, freshman Ron Ellis partially blocked Ben Lewis's punt. On the Thundering Herd's next possession, Peter Senda blocked Ben Lewis's 28-yard field goal attempt to deny Marshall the game's first three points. The block was his second of the season.

"All year the special teams have been a big plus, and our offense is the thing that has been the anchor," said UCF head coach Alan Gooch. "It's frustrating that we haven't been able to produce the way we've liked to. But there is a lot of positives and we're going to take those positives, prepare for Miami, and try to finish this thing up strong."

Marshall countered with a special teams play of its own. A 70-yard punt return by Chris Royal set up tailback Frank Wallace, who scampered in from seven yards out to put the Thundering Herd in front 7-0.

The Golden Knights attempted to answer following a 15-yard Marshall punt. True freshman quarterback Steven Moffett directed the offense, driving UCF all the way to the four-yard line, but a mishandled snap on fourth down ended the drive and gave the ball back to Marshall.

The second half started slowly, but Marshall made a push for the end zone at the end of the third quarter. Behind the rushing of Earl Charles, the Thundering Herd drove 76 yards in ten plays. Charles capped the drive with a two-yard plunge, extending the Marshall lead to 14-0 as the quarter ended.

Moffett took it upon himself to lead the Golden Knights back. On third down, Moffett rushed around right end and exploded 55 yards for a touchdown, the first of his career and the longest for UCF on the season. Matt Prater's extra point closed the gap to 14-7.

UCF would get no closer, however. Marshall closed the scoring on a 49-yard touchdown run on a third-and-inches by quarterback Graham Gochneur with less than two minutes to play, bringing the final tally to 21-7.

"That was a called play," said Pruett. "They were bringing the safeties down and blitzing their linebackers and packing it inside. We made the call, it was there, and Graham (Gochneur) made a heck of a run."

UCF finishes its 2003 and 25th anniversary season November 28th when they face MAC Eastern Division champion Miami. Kickoff is set for 1 p.m. at the Florida Citrus Bowl.

"We're just trying to keep this thing together," said Gooch when asked about the past week. "It's a difficult time in this program with so many kids gone. But we want everybody to understand inside and outside the program that this is not only about football, it's about shaping kids lives."

STETSON MEN WIN SEASON OPENER OVER FLAGLER, 78-56

E.J. Gordon led five Hatters in double figures with 19 points as Stetson cruised to a 78-56 season-opening victory over Flagler Friday night in front of 1676 fans at the Edmunds Center.

Stetson led 21-5 after the first eight minutes and never looked back. The Hatters (1-0) turned up the defense on Flagler (4-1), limiting the Saints to just 25 first-half points and a 29 percent field goal percentage for the game.

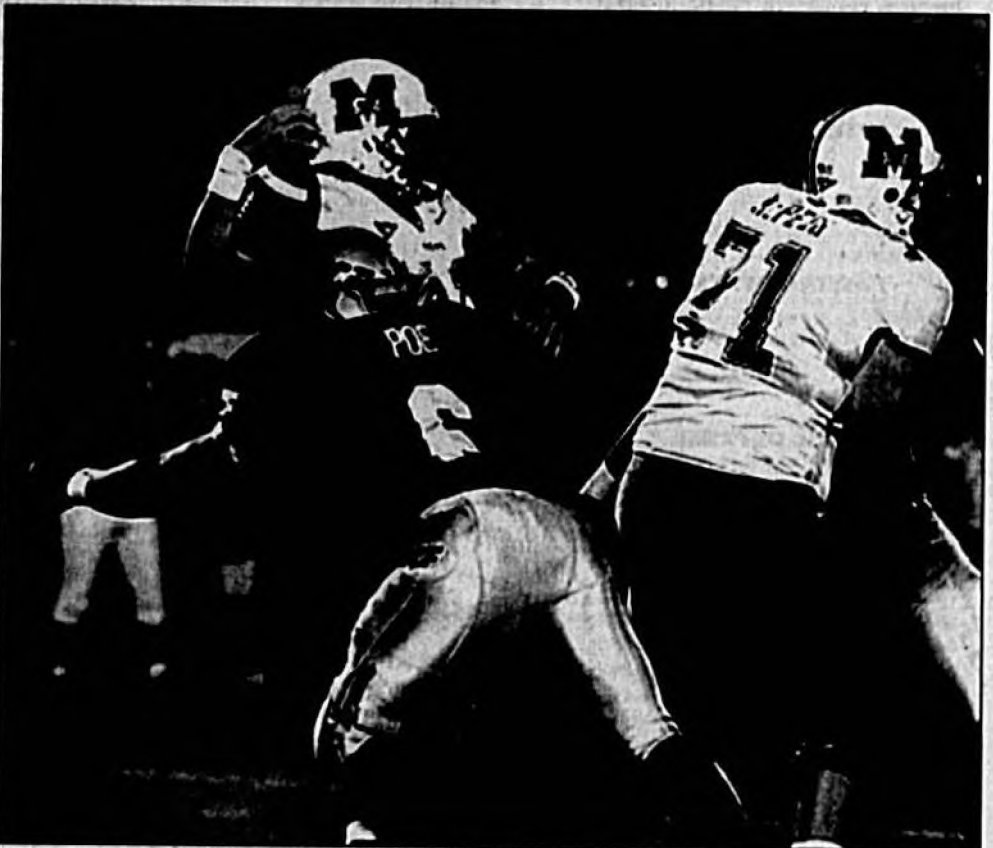

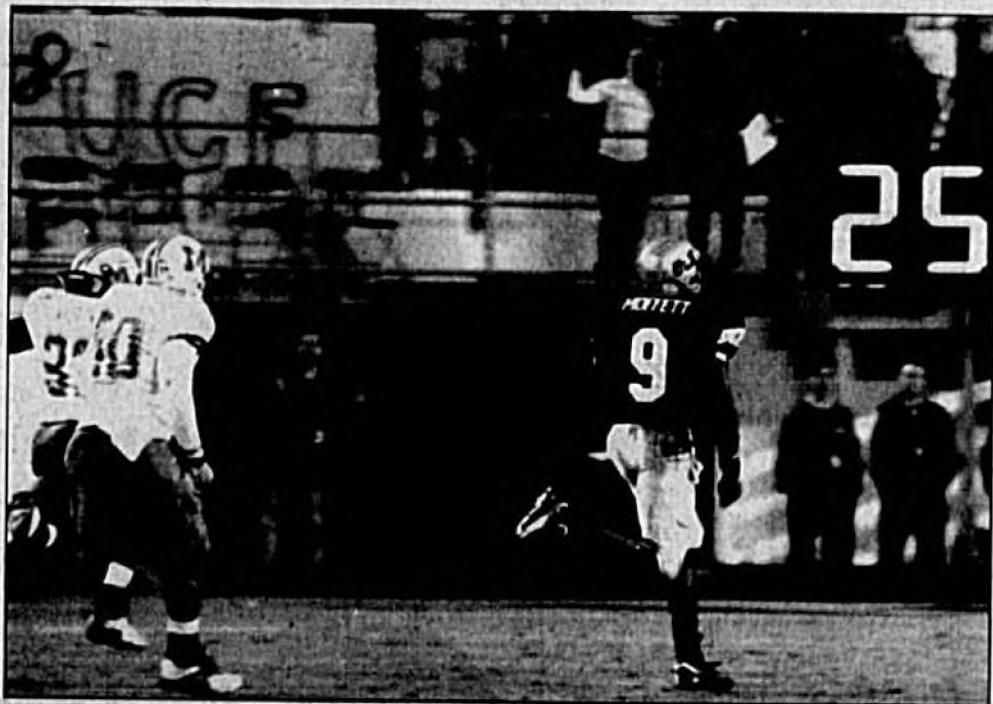

"I am proud of the way our guys learned and improved after our preseason loss," Hatters head coach Derek Waugh said. "That might have been as good as we've played defensively in recent memory. If we can keep it up, it might be the start of some good things."

In addition to his offensive performance, Gordon also led the Hatters with eight rebounds, six steals and two blocks.

"I thought I hit the boards really well tonight," Gordon said. "If I continue to rebound well it can be a big plus for our team."

Mark Stiles and Josef McNeal each contributed 13 points, while Kevin Craig and Anthony Register chipped in 10 points apiece.

The Saints' John Randolph led all players with 24 points and seven steals. Stetson out-rebounded Flagler 42-32.

Longtime UCF assistant coach Alan Gooch (left) saw some bright spots as freshman quarterback Steven Moffett (top) broke through on an option to score from 55-yards out to close the score to 14-7 and the defense (led by Antoine Poe, No. 6, middle photo) played a super game, but Marshall held on for a 21-7 victory to spoil Gooch's first game as head coach.

SCC

son, shooting guard Travis "JJ" Jones, who had scored over 20 points in each of his first four games and stands No. 4 in the state in scoring, and 6-foot-11 defensive stand-out Kemarie Samuels both picked up two early fouls and went to the bench and Vince Mosley, who came off the bench to score a co-team high of six points in the first half, also collected his second foul and had to return to the pine.

On top of that, 6-foot-11 back-up center Will Greene was hit with four fouls, but stayed in the game and actually scored four tough points in the first half.

BCC also had its share of foul trouble with one player with three fouls and three more with two personals each.

Despite the problems, the Raiders looked as if they would lead at halftime, which they had not done since the opening game of the season, as they led by as many as six points late in the going.

But the Titans' Steve Johnson (14 first half points) hit a three-pointer and a short jumper around a pair of three-pointers by SCC's Rushawn Johnson (six points) and the teams went to the lockerroom tied at 34-34.

The Raiders did not have anyone score more than six points in the first half, but all eight players who played scored in the first half.

The second half started much like the first, especially for the home team, as both teams struggled to find offense.

In fact, over the first 10 minutes of the second half, SCC only scored four points, but still only trailed 44-38.

Again, both teams suddenly started to play better offense and defense with Jones and Johnson doing most of the scoring for the Raiders and Orlando's Sam Jozenville carrying the load for BCC.

SCC went on a 14-0 run keyed by the excellent defense of Aaron Ball and William Graham to take a 52-44 advantage.

But a possible three-point play only netted one point for the Raiders when the layup rolled around, and off, the rim and then only one of the two subsequent free throws was good and the momentum changed in favor of the Titans.

Jozenville scored 17 second half points and BCC made 9-of-13 free throws down the stretch, while the hosts were only 7-for-14 on charity tosses in the second half, including only four of their last 11.

SCC tried to close the gap in the final two minutes as Jones hit a three and Johnson two long bombs, but with Greene and Graham out of the game and Samuels carrying four fouls, the Raiders could not get the big rebound when they needed it and the Titans were able to hold on for their first victory of the season.

Jozenville finished with 21 points, while Steve Johnson added 16 and Dickerson 13 for BCC.

Rushawn Johnson lost in five three-pointers and ended with a team-high 18 points, while Jones scored 11, but had his string of 20-point plus games end at four. Mosley finished with eight points, while Graham added seven before fouling out and Ball and Greene chipped in with six points each.

Also scoring for SCC were Thomas Williams with four, Lake Howell's Joivan Forester with three and Samuels with two points and 11 rebounds.

The Raiders now hit the road for a three-game trip to end November, playing Tuesday in New Port Richey against Pasco-Hernando Community College at 7:30 p.m. and then going to the St. Petersburg College Classic next Friday and Saturday.

SCC will return home on Tuesday, December 2nd to host Manatee Community College starting at 7:30 p.m. Admission to all home games is free.

The Seminole Community College women of Lisa Nuxol are on a tough road trip themselves, having to play defending National Champion and current No. 4 nationally ranked Gulf Coast Community College last night (Friday) and then take on a tough Miami-Dade Community College team today at 2 p.m. before challenging No. 14 nationally-ranked Okaloosa-Walton Community College on Sunday in the Central Florida Community College Shootout in Ocala.

The Lady Raiders will be at home next Saturday (Nov. 29) to host Hillsborough Community College from Tampa starting at 7 p.m. at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center. Again, admission is free.

Oviedo

Oviedo head coach Greg Register. "All we can hope for is that this special group of young men somehow managed to pass on their desire and work ethic to the juniors and the rest of the underclassmen."

Led by their core of three-year starters - particularly Sloan, Harrison, and Raulerson - the Lions swept to the 6A-District 2 and Seminole Athletic conference championships. Oviedo's only loss came on the road against the Lake Gibson Braves in Lakeland.

But on Friday, the Edgewater Eagles (who eliminated the Lions from the state playoffs last year) were just a little bit better just often enough to thwart the plans of Register and crew.

"We moved the ball pretty well in the first half, but then we would just bog down," said Register. "We couldn't keep any consistency going."

"We knew we were going to have to play a very physical game tonight. Edgewater's a very athletic team. We knew we were going to have to bring our 'A' game to beat them tonight. And I think we came very close most of the night to doing that. But they just made the plays when they had to and we didn't."

The Lions (9-2) had a chance to strike in the first quarter when an exchange of punts gave Oviedo excellent field position at the Edgewater 37-yard line. But four plays later, Oviedo fumbled the ball away. It took Edgewater only 10 plays to turn the take-away into points, Antonio Turner bullying in from the 2-yard line at 8:07 of the second quarter.

After that, the only time the Lions managed to get inside the Edgewater 40-yard line was when a bad snap caused the Eagle punter to fumble and eventually set Oviedo up at the Edgewater 30.

Jordan Feurer (another Oviedo senior) scored the only points of the evening for the Lions when he converted a 31-yard field goal with 5:43 remaining in the third quarter.

Any thoughts the Lions had of coming all the way back were dashed when Turner scored on a 1-yard dive at 4:42 of the fourth quarter to cap a 17-play, 46-yard drive.

Edgewater methodically and effectively shut down the Lions with their ball control offense, rushing 39 times for 189 yards while only throwing the ball seven times, completing three for 15 yards. Turner finished with a game-high 89 yards on 22 carries while Mike King added 71 yards on 16 rushes.

Oviedo, which accumulated 100 yards of offense in the first half, finished with a net total of 91. The Eagles came after Sloan ferociously and repeatedly in the second half, sacking him four times for 39 yards lost. Harrison led the Lions with 57 yards rushing on 15 carries while Sloan completed 11 of 19 passes for 66 yards. Raulerson had five catches for 28 yards while Parker gained 22 yards on three catches.

much of the night.

But the only sustained offensive threat for Lake Mary came early in the game when a drive early in the first quarter resulted in a two-yard touchdown run by Keith Rivers.

An omen of things to come came after the touchdown, however, as the extra point was missed.

The Rams kept Wells, who came into the game averaging 30 carries a game and 2,889 rushing yards on the season, bottled up in the first half, holding the star back to less than 20 yards as the visitors led 6-0.

But the Saints (8-4) returned the opening kickoff of the second half back to the Lake Mary 10 and two plays later took the lead when Wells caught a short touchdown pass and Sandalwood hit the extra point.

The Rams had chances to take the lead, but three missed field goals, including a very long 52-yard attempt on the last play of the game, kept Lake Mary from pulling off its second straight road upset.

Last Friday, the Rams had knocked off top-seeded Boone.

While Wells' total yards was not released at press time on Friday, the big back did get over the 81 yards he needed to break Willie McClendon's Jacksonville record for rushing yards in a season (2,969).

Distant Replay

Dec. 2, 1972
 Before Alabama began a nine-year "Iron Bowl" winning streak, the Tide lost to arch-rival Auburn after Bear Bryant made the pregame statement that he would prefer to "beat that cow college once than beat Texas 10 times." The No. 2-ranked and unbeaten Tide was up 16-3 with 5:30 to play when Auburn blocked two Texas punts and ran them in for touchdowns to give the Tigers a 17-16 victory.

Pride on line in Iron Bowl

There is usually a Southeastern Conference title or even a chance at a national championship on the line when Alabama and Auburn hook up for the annual "Iron Bowl." This year, all that's really left to play for is pride. The Tigers and the Tide bring 12 victories between them into this game, the lowest total ever.

Nevertheless, this game means so much in the state of Alabama that a victory on the road at Auburn would wash away the bitter taste that seven losses have left in the mouths of the Crimson Tide coaches, players and fans. It also would give head coach Mike Shula and his staff something positive to build on before heading to Hawaii to close out Shula's first season at the University of Hawaii Nov. 29.

For Auburn, this is it, the final game of the regular season. A victory would give the team seven on the season, with a shot at a decent bowl bid. This will still be a disappointment for a team picked to win the SEC.

Even though the Tigers have home-field advantage in this game, it hasn't meant much in recent history. Auburn looks to make it two in a row after upsetting the ninth-ranked Tide last year 17-7 for its fourth consecutive victory in Tuscaloosa. Before that, Alabama had won eight of the previous 12 in the heated rivalry, including the last two trips to Jordan-Hare Stadium in Auburn.

Both teams need to get back to the roots of their running games. Alabama barely avoided a shutout against LSU, which held Tide tailback Shaun Williams to a season-low 29 yards on 11 carries. Auburn also seemed to abandon the run, with Carnell Williams only getting 12 carries for 45 yards in the loss to Georgia.

Look for lots of running in this state showdown — running of both the foot and the mouth.

Alabama at Auburn

■ Records: Alabama 4-7 (2-5 SEC); Auburn 6-5 (4-3 SEC).
 ■ Series: Alabama leads 38-28-1. ■ Coaches: Alabama's Mike Shula (4-7); Auburn's Tommy Tuberville (61-44). Kickoff: 7:45 p.m. EST. ■ TV: ESPN.

Key for Alabama: Get TB Shaun Williams cranked up after an abysmal game last week. Score in the first half. Alabama was blanked last week in the first half, and it also was shut out in the first half of last year's loss to Auburn.

Key for Auburn: Hit the ground running. Running back Carnell Williams has to touch the ball more than twice in the first half this week if the Tigers want to take the Iron Bowl. Demonstrate why the Tigers are the second-best rushing team in the conference.

The Rest of the Matchups

Kentucky at Georgia

■ Records: Kentucky 4-6 (1-5 SEC); Georgia 8-2 (5-2 SEC).
 ■ Series: Georgia leads 44-10-2. ■ Coaches: Kentucky's Rich Brooks (95-115-4); Georgia's Mark Richt (29-7). ■ Kickoff: 12:30 p.m. EST. ■ TV: Jefferson Pilot.

Key for Kentucky: Slow the pass down. Last week, the Wildcats' defense was exposed by Commodores QB Jay Cutler; this week, they have to face David Greene and red-hot receiver Michael Johnson.

Key for Georgia: Blitz and get pressure on Wildcats QB Jared Lorenzen and watch him wilt. Vandy sacked him four times and limited him to 15-of-35 by getting in his face.

Vanderbilt at Tennessee

■ Records: Vanderbilt 2-9 (1-6 SEC); Tennessee 8-2 (4-2 SEC).
 ■ Series: Tennessee leads 65-26-5. ■ Coaches: Vanderbilt's Bobby Johnson (62-46); Tennessee's Phillip Fulmer (111-27).
 ■ Kickoff: 1 p.m. EST. ■ TV: None.

Key for Vanderbilt: It's simple: Just keep the ball in QB Jay Cutler's hands and let him win it. He makes great decisions, and is the reason Vandy finally snapped its conference losing skid.

Key for Tennessee: Utilize Chris Hannon more, just like last week, when the athletic wideout caught three of Casey Clausen's touchdown passes. Hannon is the future of this passing game, and the future is now.

Mississippi State at Arkansas

■ Records: Mississippi State 2-8 (1-5 SEC); Arkansas 7-3 (3-3 SEC).
 ■ Series: Arkansas leads 7-5-1. ■ Coaches: Mississippi State's Jackie Sherrill (180-118-4); Arkansas' Houston Nutt (80-49).
 ■ Kickoff: 2 p.m. EST. ■ TV: None.

Key for Mississippi State: Stop someone. The Bulldogs haven't been able to slow anyone down, and last week they allowed 535 yards in the blowout loss to Tennessee.

Key for Arkansas: Let QB Matt Jones do what he's been doing in the last three victories. He has completed an amazing 35 of 49 passes (71 percent) for 547 yards and seven touchdowns without an interception in that span.

LSU at Ole Miss

■ Records: LSU 9-1 (5-1 SEC); Ole Miss 8-2 (6-0 SEC).
 ■ Series: LSU leads 50-37-4. ■ Coaches: LSU's Nick Saban (78-39-1); Mississippi's David Cutcliffe (38-20). ■ Kickoff: 3:30 p.m. EST. ■ TV: CBS.

Key for LSU: Flex the defensive muscle. The Tigers lead the nation in scoring defense, allowing 8.9 points per game, and are second against the run, fifth against the pass and fourth in overall yards allowed.

Key for Ole Miss: Shore up that secondary in a hurry, and don't try the same soft coverage that doomed Alabama against LSU last week. Tigers signal-caller Matt Mauck will shred them if they do. He already has 21 touchdown passes and is back in the zone with favorite target Michael Clayton, who hauled in 12 passes last week against Alabama.

Clemson at South Carolina

■ Records: Clemson 7-4 (5-3 ACC); South Carolina 5-6 (2-6 SEC).
 ■ Series: Clemson leads 60-36-4. ■ Coaches: Clemson's Tommy Bowden (54-28); South Carolina's Lou Holtz (243-126-7).
 ■ Kickoff: 7 p.m. EST. ■ TV: ESPN2.

Key for Clemson: The Tigers must shut down the run the same way they did against Duke. Gamecocks QB Dondrial Pinkins isn't good enough to beat a decent defense by himself, and if he tries, he'll make costly mistakes.

Key for South Carolina: Get back freshman tailback Demetris Summers, who was sorely missed last week sitting out with a concussion. The Gamecocks need his spark and ability to break the long one if they want to hang with an ever-improving Clemson offense.

2-MINUTE DRILL

ALABAMA LSU's defense held Alabama without a first down on its first five possessions, and held the Crimson Tide scoreless in the opening half for the first time since last year's Auburn game, when the Tide also fell behind 17-0. Only Brian Bostick's 27-yard field goal midway through the fourth quarter prevented Alabama from being shut out for the first time in four years.

ARKANSAS Offensive tackle Shawn Andrews, a Lombardi Award finalist, became the first Razorback lineman ever to rush for a touchdown, scoring on a 1-yard run in the second quarter of Arkansas' 48-20 victory over New Mexico State.

AUBURN The Tigers have the second-best rushing offense in the SEC and the worst passing offense. Yet Auburn came out passing in an attempt to spread out Georgia's defense. The Tigers ran only the ball eight times, and four of those carries were by quarterback Jason Campbell.

FLORIDA Clatrick Fason started slowly, but he kept plugging along until he eventually began to dominate against South Carolina's defense. His first two carries resulted in only 1 yard, but he finished with a career-high 190 yards, the 10th-highest total in school history.

GEORGIA Kicker Billy Bennett tied an SEC record with the 78th field goal of his career, but he also missed an extra point in the 26-7 victory over Auburn, ending a streak of 113 in a row — the nation's longest active run. His two field goals (of 47 and 18 yards) tied the SEC record set by Alabama's Phillip Doyle from 1987-90. And with two games left in the regular season, plus at least one postseason game, Bennett seems assured of breaking the record. He is 78-for-101 in his career.

KENTUCKY Return specialist Derek Abney had 110 total return yards on six chances in the loss to Vanderbilt, and he also extended his consecutive-catch streak to 43 games with a 24-yard reception in the first quarter that set up a field goal.

LSU The Tigers' 27-3 victory over Alabama marked the fourth game in a row that they won by 24 points or more. The Tigers haven't had such a streak since they won their first four games of the 1911 season by scores of 42-0 over Southwestern Louisiana, 46-0 over Louisiana Normal, 40-0 over Louisiana College and 40-0 over Meteor AC.

MISSISSIPPI The Rebels rank 114th in the nation against the pass and, even during what has turned out to be the best football season in Oxford in decades, the defensive backs have struggled. The low point for the Rebels' defensive backs came early in the season when Texas Tech's B.J. Symons threw for 561 yards, the third highest total in Division I-A history. That game doomed the Rebels to finish near the bottom of the national rankings.

MISS STATE With the Bulldogs' loss last week, which was televised on Jefferson Pilot Sports, they have now dropped 11 in a row and 15 of their last 16 on live TV. Their all-time record on Jefferson Pilot Sports fell to an even .500 (15-15).

SOUTH CAROLINA George Rogers, the South Carolina running back who won the Heisman Trophy in 1980, gets a lifetime vote for the award. Rogers lists his current favorites as Oklahoma quarterback Jason White, Pittsburgh wide receiver Larry Fitzgerald and Mississippi quarterback Eli Manning.

TENNESSEE The Volunteers continue to dominate in November, going 71-4 in this month since 1985. The Vols need to keep the trend going, since they have to win all their remaining games to have a shot at the Eastern title. Unfortunately, because of the new tiebreaker rule, they also need to improve their BCS ranking, which won't be helped by their final two opponents having records under .500.

VANDERBILT Not only did the Commodores' victory over Kentucky snap the nation's longest conference losing streak at 23 games, it was also Vanderbilt's first SEC victory at home since 1998, when it beat South Carolina 17-14.
