Cruise Ship Fire Quelled

From Local And Wire Reports

PORT CANAVERAL (UPI) -Firefighters, some from Sanford and Seminole County, have extinguished a 44-hour blaze aboard the cruise ship Scandinavian Sea after the fire cut short a gambling excursion for 742 passengers. About 200 crewmembers were also on board.

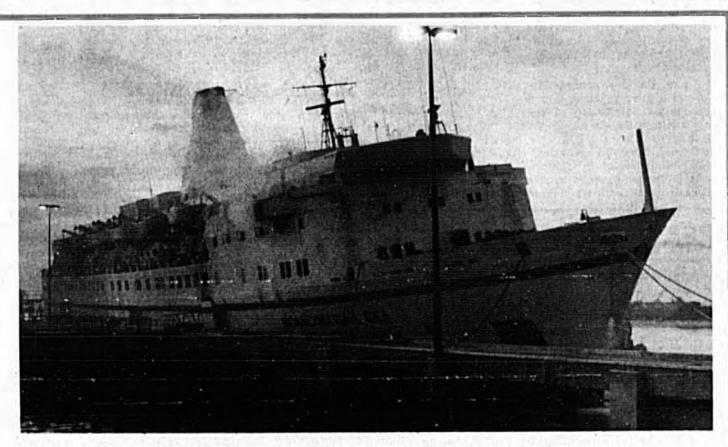

The fire gutted four of seven forward decks on the 506-foot luxury liner before being declared under control about 3:30 p.m. Sunday, About 150 firefighters battled against dense smoke, 600-degree temperatures and combustible insulation inside the vessel's steel walls.

More than 80 people were treated at the scene for minor smoke innalation. The cause of the blaze, which began at 7:30 p.m. Friday, was not known, said Jim Burnett, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board.

Ronald Renaud of Sanford, a preman with the Kennady Space Center fire department for some 20 years, said he and several other Seminole Countians responded from the Cape to help battle the fire.

Renaud and 17 men from his department worked in shifts at the scene for about 11 hours. "Some of our boys went down to the third deck in the thick of it. The smoke was so thick you couldn't see your hand in front of your face. The heat was unbearable ... it was hotter than hell in there," Renaud said. He said none of the firemen from the Cape suffered smoke inhalation.

Burnett said it could take six months for the board to prepare a report on the fire. The U.S. Coast Guard will also investigate the blaze,

The ship was six miles off Port Canaveral, returning from an excursion billed as a cruise to ered. Il docked at a concrete pler there 10 miles south of the Kennedy Space Center after racing back from sea about an hour ahead of schedule.

More than 10 tons of foam and water were pumped on the flames during the 44-hour battle. Authorities think the fire may have been sparked by an electrical mishap in a crew

The blaze was controlled at first, but it reflashed at 11 p.m. Friday and spread through the front of the ship.

The walls of the ship were packed with a "highly combustible" foam insulation, which complicated firefighting efforts, said Capt. Mathew Woods of the Coast Guard's Marine Safety Office in Jacksonville.

Rally For Jackson; Candidates Debate

A rally seeking votes on Tuesday for the "Jackson Five" - Rev. Jesse Jackson, three delegates and one alternate - brought a crowd of nearly 100 to Sanford's Ft. Mellon Park Saturday.

Tuesday's primary, Colorado Sen. Gary Hart was scheduled to walk a street in Tampa greeting voters at 12:30 p.m. today while ex-Vice grams. President Walter Mondale was to hold a press conference at the Orlando International Airport 1 p.m.

Calling the Jackson rally a success, Jackle Johnson of Midway, one of the Jackson delegates on Tuesday's ballot, said she feels it will help her candidate at the polls In Seminole County Tuesday.

The other delegates - Marie B. Palmer and Samuel L. Hoard - and alternate Nelson Wardell Pinder traveled by motorcade from Orange for the Sanford event.

We urged the voters to get out and vote and make a difference," Ms. Johnson said, adding votes for all the "Jackson Five" listed on the ballot are necessary. "First, vote for Jackson, then for the three delegates and the alternate delegate," she told the crowd.

Earlier, Mondale's old line Democratic Party values and Hart's "new ideas" collided Sunday in a final, combative face-to-face meeting of the leading candidates before the primary states - Massachusetts crucial "Super Tuesday" voting.

Hart, basking in the glow of four consecutive primary and caucus victories, was forced on the defensive by the former vice president In last minute campaigning before and the other three Democratic presidential hopefuls as he tried to use the League of Women Voters' televised forum to explain his pro-

> Many voters in the critical states that vote Tuesday, including Florida, were not able to see the debate broadcast live, although it was carried by the public network and cable outlets.

"Wher. I hear your new ideas, I keep being reminded of that ad -'Where's the beef?'" Mondale taunted the Colorado senator after he had explained his program for economic recovery.

"Fritz, if you listen, for a minute, County and spots around Seminole you'll hear." Hart shot back. "I've cast 5,000 votes in the Senate and Vice President Mondale has picked five or six and attacked me on

The battle between Hart and Mondale overshadowed the other three candidates taking part in the debate just two days before 11 primaries and caucuses pick 610 Among those in the group, she national convention delegates slightly less than one-third of the 1.967 total needed for nomination.

The debate could be the most crucial of the 1984 campaign as Mondale battles against Hart's string of wins in Maine, Vermont. New Hampshire and, on Saturday in the first test of voter sentiment in West, in Wyoming.

Polls showed Hart would win again Tuesday in two Northern and Rhode Island - while Mondale was ahead in Alabama. Georgia and Florida were seen as close battles.

Even former Sen, George McGovern, in the past a peacemaker in such debates, took after the new ideas of Hart - his campaign manager in 1972 - saying if his rejection of the past meant "George Washington, Franklin Roosevelt, John Kennedy and the human rights programs of Jinuny Carter, I'm glad to come here and defend the past."

Glenn, who will likely be eliminated after Tuesday if he continues to do poorly, made an impassioned please for Southern voters to give him another look.

"I see myself as the only moderate left," he said. "I see the politics of momentum here. I hope the people of the South will slow down ... use their common sense."

Polls and predictions on the eve of the great debate showed Hart ahead in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, two of the primary states.

The former vice president, who many once thought would walk to the nomination without serious opposition, was viewed as ahead in Georgia and in the lead, but slipping to Hart in Alabama.

The great battle is apparently in Florida, where a Washington Post-ABC poll showed Hart ahead. but Mondale catching up as the election neared. This is a reversal of the trend in states like New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont where Hart overcame an early Mondale lead to win by big margins.

Proposed Mental Health Budget Leaves Gaps?

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) - Gov. Bob Graham's proposed mental health care budget includes increases for youth and community programs but leaves critical gaps uncovered, mental health professionals said.

The Department of Health and Rehabilitive Services, overseer of Florida's mental health network, would receive a $154.1 million increase of its current $2.5 billion budget under Graham's proposal.

Susan Yelton, administrator for Health and Rehabilitative Services' Children, Youth and Families program, said the increase will provide valuable new services but neglects other important areas.

Skyway Flaws Uncovered

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) - An investigation of the $230 million Sunshine Skyway Bridge has turned up evidence of construction flaws but a subcontractor and a state senator say controversy surrounding the project is undeserved.

"As far as I'm concerned the bridge is being built right ... " state Sen. Malcom Beard. D-Seffner, said. "I believe with all the publicity. and all the self-appointed engineers, and all the politicians, we're going to get the best bridge ever built."

Beard, who is chairman of the Senate Transportation Committee, said he's tired of the "costly dog and pony show" the Florida Department of Transportation is conducting to answer charges about the bridge's safety.

Rival Factions Meet With Eye To Ending War

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) -Leaders of Lebanon's rival factions gathered at a heavily fortified lakeside hotel for talks today aimed at ending nearly a decade of civil war.

The conference, delayed from morning to late afternoon for the arrival of Syrian representative Abdul Halim Khaddam, newly appointed to a vice presidential post, was to bring together representatives of the major factions battling for power in Lebanon.

Work will start tomorrow for, I hope, peace," Lebanese President Amin Gemayel said Sunday.

"We will confront the problem with lots of hope. And soon, perhaps, we will be able to announce good news."

But the position of Nabih Berri, leader of the Shiite Moslem rebels who drove the government army from west Beirut this year, was reported unchanged from an earlier declaration that: "I am not optimistic at all."

In Beirut, clashes along the line dividing the Christian eastern sector of the capital from the Moslem-held west continued sporadically early today. At least 18 people died Saturday in the worst fighting in a month.

The Switzerland conference had to tackle Moslem demands for a change in power sharing by the Christians who now control the key posts in government - the presidency and a majority of seats in Parliament.

The talks were expected to last five days, said Rafik Hariri, who handles Saudi efforts to mediate an end to the Lebanese war. Saudi Arabia and Syria have observer status for the conference.

A similar conference last October in Geneva failed to produce any concrete results and Lebanon slipped into progressively heavier lighting until Moslem rebels triumphed over the army, driving it from west Beirut and the mountains to the south of the capital.

The conference at the Beau Rivage Hotel was accompanied by intense security precautions. Steel plates blocked windows of the meeting hall, barbed wire ringed the palatial 1861 structure and sandbags protected the entrance.

Guards with submachine guns checked all people approaching the grounds and everyone entering the building was required to pass through

Reagan Reportedly Nixed CIA Plan To Fire On Rebels

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan turned down a plan to have the CIA get directly Invoived in the figuring in 21 Salvador by firing on rebel troops from unmarked planes. Newsweek magazine reported.

In its latest issue. Newsweek quoted senior administration officials as saying U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick led the attack on the proposal by Gen. Paul Gorman, head of the U.S. Southern Command, and CIA officials in Central America.

On the streets and anywhere people gather, talk of the trial of suspended Miami policeman Luis Alvarez permeates conversations. Alvarez is charged with negligently shooting Nevell Johnson Jr, a 20-year-old black, at a video game parlor in Miami's Overtown

Community leaders fear that if Alvarez is acquitted this week by an all-white jury, there will be a renewal of the civil unrest that followed Johnson's shooting. Another man was killed and 26 were injured in three nights of street violence.

Alvarez faces a maximum of 15 years in prison if convicted. The jury is expected to begin deliberations by Wednesday. In the squalor of Overtown, just blocks from the

Protecting Vital Interests

George Shultz isn't the first American secretary of state to stub his toe trying to act as a peacemaker in the Middle East, and doubtless he won't be the last. Indeed, conflict in the region seems so intractable that many Americans must wonder: Why bother trying at all?

Here are two reasons as fresh as today's

- A new Syrian-Israeli war, increasingly possible now that peacemaking efforts in Lebanon are falling, could escalate into a superpower confrontation that might prove difficult to control.

- The bloody Iran-Iraq war, currently in its fourth year, threatens any day now to provoke an obligatory military response by the Unitd States. Britain and France if the Iranians try blocking the

The rising tensions between Syria and Israel seem especially worrisome. First, the presence of an estimated 7,000 Soviet military personnel in Syria heightens the risk of direct Soviet intervention of Moscow's client were to begin losing any new war. Second, Syria's arsenal now reportedly includes Soviet S-21 missiles. Although the missiles are almost certainly armed only with conventional warheads, they could still be used with devastating effect against Israeli cities.

The protracted Iran-Iraq bloodbath presents its own catalog of horrors, plus posing the threat of a larger war. Casualties on both sides are said to number in the hundreds of thousands in a brutally grinding struggle that is as senseless as it was avoidable.

'Iraq's socialist dictator, Sadam Hussein, started the war by invading Iran; partly to resolve a century old border dispute and partly because he feared (no doubt correctly) that Iran's fanatical Ayatollah Khomeini, a Shiite Moslem, was stirring revolution among Iraq's Shiite majority.

But for the last two years, the bilious Khomeini has spurned every Iraqi peace offer. The ayatollah says he will settle for nothing less than Hussein's overthrow as a first precondition for ending the war. That can only tempt the increasingly desperate Hussein to try stopping Iranian oil exorts, a step the Iranians promise will trigger their own closing of the Strait of Hormuz at the entrance to the Persian Gulf.

And that, in turn, would no doubt bring in nearby American, British and French naval units rightly committed to preserving freedom of the seas and, more specifically, the oil lifeline that sustains Western Europe and Japan.

Isolationist impulses run deep in the American psyche. The alien tangle of hatreds that is the Middle East must seem to many Americans a veritable advertisement for the wisdom of minding only "our own business." But then, that is just the point. What happens in places such as Lebanon and the Persian Gulf does involve vital American interests, however much some might wish it were not so.

George Shultz cannot afford to stop searching for the three hallmarks of American policy in the Middle East and elsewhere: Security, stability and peace. And Americans cannot afford to stop supporting that activist foreign policy,, least of all in the powder keg of the Middle East.

The End Of An Era

Pierre Elliott Trudeau ended a 16-year love-hate relationship with Canadians when he announced Feb. 29 he would retire as prime minister as soon as a successor is chosen by his ruling Liberal

Trudeau and the Liberals have been extremely unpopular in recent polls and are expected to be turned out by Brian Mulroney and the Progressive Conservatives after the next national elections, which must be called sometime this year. Still, it was in keeping with his aloof and flamboyant character when the 64-year-old Montrealer chose a leap-day for his surprise announcement as leaders of both opposition parties and potential Liberal successor, John Turner, were vacationing aborad.

As a result, the end of what was once dubbed "Treaudeaumania" won't be prone to annual commemoration by our northern neighbors. Yet the Trudeau era in Canadian politics will be difficult to match by any successor and not easily forgetten by North Americans.

In many ways. Canada is probably worse off economically from Trudeau's political domination. which was punctuated only by a six-month Progressive Conservative Party government headed by the uncharismatic Joe Clark in 1979.

Still, a united Canada is good for the United States. Good fences may make good neighbors. according to an old proverb. Trudeau's greatest accomplishment was in preventing Canadians from putting them up.

BERRY'S WORLD

By Donna Estes

The Florida House of Representatives Republican Caucus is supporting a series of pre-filed bills designed to save the state, money, promote efficiency and to act as an alternative to Proposition 1, reports state Rep. Carl Selph, R-Casselberry.

These bills include:

• House Bill 811 providing that no state agency have more than one lobbyist exclusive of elected officials.

Selph said there are more than 500 lobbyists registered in the state for the 25 agencies in the executive branch of state government which equates to more than three lobbyists for every member of the Florida Legislature.

The state Department of Education has 59 lobbyists, with other agencies having 26 to 30 lobbyists each, he said.

The bill, Selph said, does not address the 3,200 lobbyists for other governments including local government - counties and cities.

There are a total of 4,500 lobbyists registered in Florida.

• HB 807 which would require state agencies to budget expenditures for capital outlay in quarterly increments with no more than 15 percent of the quarterly budget in excess of the capital outlays per quarter unless approved by the state comptroller.

Selph said statistics gathered showed what appears to be excessive spending in the last quarter of fiscal 82-83. The state Department of Labor spent nearly 71 percent of its capital outlay in the last quarter of the year while the Department of Transportation spent 64 percent and the Department of Natural Resources 83.5

• HB 812 provides that any state agency that proposes a rule must take into consideration in that rule the latest legislative intent available. The agency must draft and formally propose any rule within 180 days of the law's provision giving the rule-making authority.

Selph said this legislative proposal came about because state agencies have given the impression that they wished to circumvent the Legislature in their rule-making. "The agencies in some cases have made rules already rejected by the people's elected representatives," he said.

HB 809 would require the state's auditor-general to provide a written report to the Senate and House Appropriation Committees noting discrepancies and inefficiencies of state agencies that would require substantial remedial action. Till reports are to include responses from "the suspect" agencies, Selph said, and failure to comply might cause "a negative fiscal effect on the next legislative appropriation for the suspect agency," he said, meaning that agency might lose some of its funding.

Where— There's At Least Life

MARIONA, El Salvador (NEA) - The name of the men's prison in this seedy suburb of El Salvador's capital has to have been selected with ironic intent.

La Esperanza. Hope. Very few of the inmates can aspire to much of that.

On the other hand, almost all in the political section would admit to something else. Luck. Of the tens of thousands of civilian casualties of the war that is tearing El Salvador apart, these few hundred are at least still alive.

Even for Salvadorans, getting into La Esperanza is not all that easy. It's much less so for American observers.

I made it because I attached myself to an ad hoc group checking into human rights conditions that included a congressman, Rep. Jerry Patterson (D-Calif.), Francis "Cissie" Farenthold, the twice almost-governor of Texas, and actress Susan Anspach, among others. In contrast to llopango, the loosely operated women's prison that is more like a detention camp, La Esperanza, walled and tightly guarded, is a grimly efficient penal facility.

Political prisoners are isolated in a separate building. They include trade union leaders. Some have been behind bars for years without trial or even information on the precise charges against them. Their incarceration is at least understandable in a society as pathologically suspicious of any challenge to the status quo as this one.

The majority of prisoners, however, appears to be in a different category random selection.

Take the case of Daniel Antonio Hernandez Cortez, His crime was to have been in a bar at the same time as several members of the civil defense force who told him they had decided to sit his throat.

They did exactly that, leaving what they thought was his body on a garbage dump. Friends found him and he recovered, to be picked up again - this time on charges of theft - and locked up in the political section of La

Esperanza. In his early 20s, he is for real. I've seen him. I can't say I've talked to him, however. There's the language barrier, and also the razor cut that removed his larynx. He can't really speak.

He has another souvenir of his experience, scars from the letters EM carved on his chest, for "Escuadron de Muerte" — Death Squad.

This one horror story reveals something of the selection process for political prisoners. Salvadorans who are tortured and die end up on the roadsides, the ubiquitous trophies of the death squads.

Those who survive the ordeal go to prison.

There are some 400 survivors. The count of the dead is now some 47,000. That is a conservative figure.

There are several agencies, official and otherwise, keeping track.

One is the documentation center at the Jesuit-run University of Central America. Its figures are now reasonably close to those of the U.S. Embassy because both employ essentially the same process — tabulating deaths as reported from throughout the country.

Our Global Village

The term "global village" has been cropping up lately and has even been used by some of the presidential candidates. It has a cosy ring to it, and makes you think of the local general store and the wisdom of the cracker

The term "global village" brings to mind Thornton Wilder's famous play "Our Town." This play opens, you will recall, with the local newspaper editor coming on stage and addressing the audience in folksy tones:
Here's the grocery store and here's

Mr. Morgan's drug store. Most everybody in town manages to look into those two stores once a day... This is our doctor's house, Doc Gibbs' ... This is Mrs. Gibbs' garden. Corn... peas... beans..."

Marvelous place, Grover's Corners, New Hampshire.

Well, little known to scholars, Mr. Wilder at his death had almost completed another play called "Our Global Village." The manuscript of this has just come into my hands.

This last play of Wilder's uses the same device as in "Our Town," only the man who comes forward at the beginning is not the local newspaper editor. It's Walter Cronkite.

At the rear of the stage, spread out in mercator fashion, is a huge map of the world, the Global Village. Several balconies project from the sides of the stage. On these, actors and actresses will enact the scenes Cronkite describes.

"Good evening," says Cronkite, in his most reassuring voice. "Welcome to our Global Village.

"Right now, the folks in Peking are going to bed. The folks in Athens and Cairo are just getting up. If you listen hard, you can hear the age-old call of the muezzin welcoming the dawn in the name of Allah.

"You can hear too the age old yodel of the Swiss mountaineer in his Alpine valley. He's going out to milk the cows. "Things are pretty much as they've always been in the Global Village.

"See there, in Iran, the police are cutting the arms off 20 pickpockets.A woman is being stoned to death for sleeping with her boyfriend, heh, heh, heh. In that part of the Global Village, women are not supposed to have souls, lich, heh.

"You may have heard, just then, what sounded like an explosion. Well, it was, and it came from the Ural Mountains. where a germ warfare factory just blew up. Anthrax, I'm afraid. Quite a few Global Villagers will die in that region. Over there in Laos, by the way, and also in Afghanistan, right here in the middle of the map, a strange kind of rain to falling, it's yellow, of all things... Well, that's the way it is in the Global Village.

"You just heard those shots? A young Turk has just tried to kill the Pope... And up here in Poland, they have Lech Walesa in jail for trying to start a free labor union. In that part of the Global Village, you can be sent to what they call a mental hospital for publishing an unauthorized poem. You hear those screams, down at the old mental hospital? Those are poets screaming. The doctors are injecting them with medicine. This medicine has a strange characteristic. It gradually destroys the

"Now over here in the Asiatic part of the Global Village they have a few problems, nothing that can't be solved, but a few problems, just like always... Down here. Pol Pot has just murdered about a third of his fellow Cambodians. He has a fine skull collection. And, up here in China, they are struggling with a population problem and a crime problem. They are doing numerous lateterm abortions, and, some say, postnatal abortions. Here that chopping sound? They just cut the heads off 150 common criminals in a soccer

"Well, things are pretty much the way they have always been in the Global

"Of course, from time to time, there are a few new items. See that wall there? Well. I bet you think walls are built to keep people out. Not this one. It's built to keep people in who would like to get out. Wait a minute. There is a man trying to get over the wall.

ROBERT WAGMAN Caucus Has Mondale Wincing

PORTLAND, Maine (NEA) -Whatever the outcome of Campaign '84, the week that ended with the Maine caucuses will be regarded as one of the strangest and most significant in recent Pollsters have long claimed that their science, when handled correctly, can reach the proper conclusions every time - and we've heard this so often that it has become an accepted fact.

But one week before the Maine caucuses, all of the major polls agreed that Walter Mondale would sweep to the Democratic nomination. In fact, two days before the New Hampshire primary, the people behind the CBS News-New York Times Poll concluded that Mondale "has the most commanding lead ever recorded this early in a presidential nominating campaign by a non-incumbent."

The Mondale strategy had been carefully worked out over the last three years, and it seemed foolproof: Throw a massive amount of money and personnel into the early campaigns and win them all - so that by the time Illinois held its primary on March 20, no other candidate would have enough money or credibility to contest the remaining primaries. After Illinois, the outcome would be predetermined.

But all of this came unhinged in just one week. The loss in New Hampshire was serious - not with regard to delegates (since Hart won only two more than Mondale), but because it stopped Mondale's momentum.

However, that loss apparently could be explained away: It was an open primary, said the Mondale camp - one that allowed for crossover voting. Mondale didn't see Hart coming and was only watching for John Glenn. whom the polls had correctly declared dead in the water. Therefore, Mondale made a number of last-minute strategic errors, such as leaving the state to rest and campaign elsewhere the weekend before the vote.

The loss in Maine is devastating - the kind that the Mondale camp has fervently hoped to avoid anywhere along this year's campaign trail. (Hart also overwhelmingly defeated Mondale in the Vermont primary, which is non-binding.)

In Maine, Mondale saw Hart coming. and he and his people threw all the money and personnel they had into the anti-Hart effort. They mounted a massive drive, beefed up an alreadyimpressive campaign staff by calling in troops from other states and outspent Hart by at least 10 to 1. In addition, they made a major last-minute broadcast effort, airing TV and radio ads attacking Hart and his positions - such as his; opposition to the windfall oil-profits tax and his advocacy of a nuclear-arms "build-down." Hart's primary strategy had included few plans for Maine. He still lacks enough money to wage major campaigns everywhere, so he has concentrated his post-New Hampshire efforts on the Super Tuesday states; he only broke off his campaigning in the South for a one-day visit to Maine. On caucus Sunday, he was back in Washington, appearing on the network

JACK ANDERSON

GAO Doubts Final Weapons Cost

WASHINGTON - President Reagan has earmarked more than $300 billion for the Pentagon in 1985. Of that staggering sum, one-third is intended for research, development and purchase

Yet most members of Congress have neither the time nor the expertise to make informed decisions about the strengths and weaknesses - and costs - of new weapons. This crucial function is left pretty much to the members of the House and Senate armed services committees.

My associate Donald Goldberg intercepted a briefing book prepared by the General Accounting Office for use at a closed meeting of the House committee. I believe the public should share the GAO auditors' doubts about the final costs of the big-budget weapons.

Here are highlights of the briefing

- The largest single expenditure is $7.7 billion to build 34 of the 100 B-1B

bombers the Air Force hopes to get eventually. The Pentagon has assured Congress the total price for the 100 planes will be $20.5 billion, but the GAO has its doubts.

The briefing book points out that it's far too early in the game to predict the cost accurately. The result, the GAO warns, is that "major program decisions will be made before actual cost history is available." For example, testing of the B-1B won't be completed for more than two years, "several months after the major program funding decisions have

- Probably the most controversial expenditure in the Pentagon budget is the MX "Peacekeeper" missile. The budget request is for 40 missiles at a total cost of $2.9 billion, plus additional research and development costs of $1.7

The GAO pointed out a potentially serious problem: "The risk exists that the Peacekeeper missile may not meet mission requirements when deployed." The reason is that a new re-entry system, the MK 21, hasn't been tested. Even if it does work, it's so heavy that either the number of warheads on each missile will have to be reduced, or decoy devices will have to be left off. In any case, the MX could be virtually useless because, the GAO notes, "the Soviets have been increasing silo hardness."

The auditors also warned of possible problems in the "producibility" and performance of key MX components. and pointed out that unit costs are already much higher than anticipated.

- The Pentagon's "space initiatives" include more than $1.7 billion for research and development of President Reagan's "Star Wars" weapons. A substantial portion of this amount will go into the space-based laser project.

"The space laser program plan is a long-term, expensive undertaking," the GAO briefing book states. "It is off to a slow start and is behind schedule Program management ... has proven cumbersome and has contributed to program delays."

- The Pentagon has requested $1.8 billion for one Trident submarine of a proposed fleet of 15, with a total program cost of $39.9 billion. But the GAO points out that the Navy "has been unable to determine how many Trident submarines with associated missiles will be needed to support future U.S. strategic forces."

Furthermore, the subs' missile is still practically untested. During early flight tests, the Trident I missile showed serious problems with its first-stage motor. This has raised "performance uncertainty" about the Trident II missile, GAO warned, adding that "the system's performance will not be fully demonstrated when the Trident II strategic weapon, system is initially deployed."

Balanced Lady Seminoles Run Away Again

Herald Sports Writer

The name of the game this season for the Seminole girls track team is balance. Seminole coach Emory Blake attributes the team's early season success to having balance from the start of the track meet to

"We've got good balance this year," said Blake, "We've got girls who may not win every event, but we score points. Other schools have a superstar who is good for 25 points and that's it. I've got a whole tram of girls who can competer Anytime you can put three girls in each event, you're doing

The Lady Seminoles used that balance Saturday afternoon to win the Lake Mary Relays and in the process, beat the defending state champion Oak Ridge Lady Pioneers for the fourth time this season and the second time in a week.

The 'Noles outscored the Pioneers, 94-70, with Titusville Astronaut finishing third with 68 points. Host Lake Mary finished fifth with 461/2 points, 21/2 points ahead of sixth place Lyman.

The Pioneers and Astronaut played right into Seminole's hand. Oak Ridge, always tough in the sprints, and Astronaut tough in the distance races, both had Seminole to compete with in both. What Oak Ridge couldn't score in the distance races Seminote did. The same with Astronaut, what it couldn't score in the sprints, Seminole did.

They balance us out," said Blake. "We're in the middle or in some cases we take the win. By the time it gets to the mile relay, Oak Ridge has used up all its people and we still have someone fresh."

Seminole won five events and placed second in three more while Oak Ridge won only three events and placed second in three Crystal Caldwell anchored Seminole by being a part of four winning teams. She helped the Noles win the long jump, sprint mi !! y 980 and mile relays.

Even though Caldwell was so impressive. Blake wanted to point to the team accomplishments.

We haven't peaked yet," he sald, "But I'll tell you if we run our time in the mile relay." Blake went on to explain that the 'Noles had run 4:01 and 4:04 twice and was

The Lady Seminoles went out to do just that when the race began. Linda Bass ran a 59-second first leg to put Seminole on pace. Caldwell ran the second leg in 60 seconds to keep the 4:00 time within reach.

But both Jackie Johnson and Katrina laps to finish in 4:01.2, still a respectable

In the boys part of the meet, host Lake Mary used four wins and six second place Anishes to slip by a slim field of six teams. The Rams had 116 points to second place Lake Brantley's, 108.

Lyman claimed both outstanding performance trophics for points scored. In the boys division, Doug McBroom ran good enough times to anchor the winning 4-mile relay and distance medley. Lori Carroll helped Lyman win the high Jump and place second in the distance medley.

The Seminole boys team had a split squad with the premium runners heading over to Titusville on Saturday afternoon to run in the Astronaut Classic. The Seminoles came away with a fourth place finish with 55 Walker both ran 61 flat over the last two points, well behind the winning total of 1041/2 by host Astronaut.

The Seminoles did have some first place finishes inspite of the split squad.

The 440 relay team of Frank Barnett, Cliff Campbell Louis Brown and Deron Thompson took first with a 43.0 flat. That same quartet also won the 880 relay in 1:29.0.

The Noles came away with one meet Campbell, and Eric Martin won the mile relay in a record time of 3:22.0.

Seminole's Charita Medlock goes up and over the bar in Saturday's Lake Mary Relays. Seminole won easily.

Tar Heels Still No. 1; Gators, FSU Rate NIT

couldn't knock North Carolina out of the top spot in the ratings, nor could it knock the Tar Heels out of the top spot in the 53-team NCAA Tournament bracket.

North Carolina took a 21-0 record and a No. 1 ranking into a game against Arkansas in Pine Bluff on Feb. 12 but was upset 65-64. No matter: the Tar Heels were right back on top of the ratings the very next day by vote of the North Carolina stayed No. 1 for the remainder of the regular season but suffered its second loss Saturday in the semifinal round of the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament, being eliminated by Duke 77-75. Still, the 27-2 Tar Heels were awarded the top seed in the 1984 NCAA Tournament the next day by a nine-member selection committee chaired by Dave Gavitt.

With North Carolina holding that top seed both in the tournament and the East Regional, the selection committee was forced to send No. 2 Georgetown from Washington all the way out West. The Big East champion Hoyas were given the top seed in the West, No. 3 Kentucky the top seed in the Mideast. and No. 4 DePaul the top spot in the North Carolina and DePaul headed the list of recipients of the 24 at-large berths in the 46th annual tournament. For DePaul, it will mark the final chance for the retiring Ray Meyer to win a national championship.

The 70-year-old Meyer has coached DePaul for 42 seasons and his 723 victories are fifth-best in NCAA history - but he's only taken the Blue Demons to one Final Four, finishing third in 1979 behind Earvin Johnson-led Michigan State and Larry Bird-led Indiana State.

Five other heavyweights who either won or shared conference titles but lost in their post-season tournaments were given at-large invitations: No. 6 Oklahoma of the Big Eight, No. 10 Nevada-Las Vegas of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, No. 15 Temple of the Atlantic 10. No. 16 Illinois State of the Missouri Valley, and No. 18 Louisville of the Metro.

League co-champions Purdue of the Big Ten and Oregon State of the Pac-10, the Nos. 11 and 17 teams, respectively. were also given at-large berths as was No. 8 Arkansas, the runner-up to Houston in both the Southwest Conference regular season and league tournament with a 25-6 record. The NCAA also showered at-large berths on the ACC, giving bids to Duke, 24-9. Wake Forest, 21-8, and Virginia. 17-11, in addition to North Carolina to round out a five-team contingent that also includes post-season tourney winner Maryland. Noticeably absent, however, was defending national champion North Carolina State. which was bypassed by the NCAA despite its 19-13 record.

The Southeastern Conference landed three more of the at-large berths -Auburn, 20-10, LSU, 18-10, and Alabama, 18-11 - as did the Big East with Syracuse, 22-8. St. John's, 18-11, and Villanova, 18-11.

Others receiving at-large berths were SMU of the Southwest Conference, Indiana of the Big Ten, independent Dayton, Virginia Commonwealth of the Sun Belt Conference and Brigham Young of the Western Athletic Conference.

Schools awarded the No. 2 regional seeds were Arkansas in the East, Illinois in the Mideast, Houston in the Midwest and Oklahoma in the West. No. 3 seeds went to Syracuse in the East, Maryland in the Mideast. Purdue in the Midwest and Duke in the West. No. 4 seeds went to Indiana in the East, Tulsa in the Mideast, Wake Forest in the Midwest and Texas-El Paso in the West.

The top four seeds in each regional draw first-round byes.

The tournament begins Tuesday night with five preliminary-round games at two sites, Philadelphia and Dayton, Ohio, and will climax with the championship game at the Seattle Kingdome on April 2.

NEW YORK (UPI) - This time there will be no magical ride to the summit for North Carolina State.

A championship, possibly. But of another kind.

N.C. State, last season's national champion, was passed over by the NCAA Tournament Sunday but the National invitation Tournament quickly followed with a bid of its own.

N.C. State, 19-13, is joined by one of its lodge brothers from the Atlantic Coast Conference, Georgia Tech. From the Southeastern Conference there are three entries: Florida, Georgia and Tennessee.

There are two traditionally strong Midwest independents in Marquette and Notre Dame while the Missouri Valley Conference answers with Creighton and Wichita State and the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference highlights its trio of LaSalle, St. Peter's and Fordham.

Also from the South is one of the nation's top independents in Southwestern Louisiana as well as Virginia Tech and Florida State from the Metro Confer-

Nervous Seaver Debuts With 3 Hitless Innings

By United Press International

American League - meet Tom Seaver. The three-time Cy Young Award winner made his debut with the Chicago White Sox Sunday and pitched three hitless innings in a 3-2 exhibition victory over the Boston Red Sox. He struck out four and walked two.

"I was nervous on the sidelines," said Seaver, who was claimed by the White Sox off the roster of the New York Mets. "This was the first time for me to show my new team that I'm capable of contributing something.

"I had good pop on my fastball I did not expect, and my control was better than I thought. Normally, I would not mix up pitches this early, but I was able to throw in some sliders and curves."

Chicago Manager Tony LaRussa said he was "not too surprised" because Seaver had been throwing well in practice after suffering back spasms two weeks ago. Britt Burns followed Seaver, allowing one run in four innings. Greg Biercevicz gave up a homer to Boston's Chico Walker in the

The White Sox scored twice in the fourth on RBI singles by Tim Hulett and Julio Cruz. Their final run was in the sixth off Al Nipper on a double by Cruz and a single by Carlton Fisk, who had three hits.

In other exhibition games:

Larry Oura pitched three hitless innings in the Kansas City Royals' 1-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Two-out 10th-inning doubles by Greg Pryor and Steve Balboni broke the acoreless tie.

The New York Yankees, held to 12 hits in losing their three previous games, ended their slump with a 17-hit attack in an 8-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles. Dave Winfield of New York hit a two-run homer.

Mike Patterson's 10th-inning sacrifice fly listed the Detroit Tigers to a 6-5 decision over Minnesota. Kirk Gibson's home run tied it in the eighth for Detroit. A two-run homer by Lloyd Moseby and a run-scoring double by Garth lorg highlighted a three-run Toronto eighth that lifted the Blue Jays over the Atlanta Braves 3-2.

Tony Perez' two-run single in the fifth inning broke a 3-3 deadlock and the Cincinnati Reds added five more runs in the seventh en route to beating the Pittsburgh Pirates

Rookie outsielder Mike Stenhouse's second homer of the game, a solo blast leading off the ninth inning, sent the Montreal Expos over the Texas Rangers 4-3. Kevin McReynolds hit his third home run of the spring, a two-run shot that climaxed a four-run eighth inning, as the San Diego

Padres defeated the California Angels 7-2. George Foster belted his second spring homer and catcher Mike Fitzgerald doubled in two runs to lift the New York Mets to a 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Moose Haas had his second consecutive strong performance and reliever Pete Ladd allowed only one walk and struck out five in four innings in the Milwaukee Brewers' 5-3 victory over the Chicago Cube.

Seminoles Shoct For 3rd In A Row

Seminole County baseball teams have pretty much had their own way when playing Volusia County rivals this spring. Three county teams hope that trend continues today when they open the second week of Five Star Conference play.

 Coach Bobby Lundquist's Fighting Seminoles go for their third straight win today at 4 p.m. The Tribe, 6-4 and 2-1, travels to Daytona Beach for a battle with the Mainland Bucs.

Lundquist, whose best hurler, Chad Braden, is still sidelined with a lower back injury, said junior James Hersey will be on the mound for the Tribe. Hersey, batting .444, hopes to have the same success on the mound.

Seminole's leading hitter is catcher Steve Dennis who is whacking the ball at a .481 clip and has stolen 21 bases in as many attempts.

William Wynn, Kevin Smith, Brian Rogers and Tony Cox also contributed big bats during Seminole's last two wins.

• Coach Allen Tuttle's Lake Mary Rams, 8-3 and 3-0, hope to stay atop the Five Star where they journey to Daytona Beach today for a 3:30 p.m. game with Scabreeze.

Hard-throwing righthander Eric Hagen will be on the hill. Hagen, a junior, fired a no-hitter last day against Spruce Creek.

Carrying the hitting load for Lake Mary has been center fielder Scott Underwood, rightfielder Ryan Lisle, shortstop Mike Schmit, third baseman Kevin Hill, eatcher Rod Metz and designated hitter Ron-Natherson.

 Coach Gary Smith's Lake Brantley Patriots try to bounce back from a 8-0 setback to Apopka Saturday when they travel to DeLand for a 7:30 p.m. matchup with the Bulldogs.

The Patriots, 4-5 and 1-2, were shut out by Rodney Brewer Saturday. Sophomore sensation Kenny Chapdelaine will be on the mound for the Patriots. Chapdelaine has burned up the league in his first three starts, pitching two shutouts and not allowing an earned run.

Sophomore Mike Beams is swinging the big club for the Pats along with second baseman Brennan Asplen and third sacker Mike Pinckes.

In the long-county matchup of the day, Lyman's Greyhounds, 7-4 and 3-0, tries to stay abreast with Lake Mary when they go to Lake Howell for a 3:30 p.m. meeting with the Silver Hawks.

Derek Livernois, who beat Apopka in his last start, whi drow for Lyman while van donaone will pitch for Lake Howell. The Hawks were blanked on three hits Friday night by Spruce Creek sophomore Tommy Abdo.

The Silver Hawks have been erratic. Junior Scott Munson, catcher Bill Lang and second baseman Jeff Poindexter have been the Hawks' most consistent Lyman's defense has been its only sore point. The Hounds overcame eight errors Friday, when they whipped Seabreeze, 9-6. Junior Clint Baker is the lead hitter with a .379 average. Robbie Robinson (.375), Derek Livernois (.343), Paul Alegre (.320) and Greg Lorenz (.300) have carried the offensive load.

Cribbs Upstages Rezier: Kite Nips Nicklaus By 2

PITTSBURGH (UPI) - The USFL's first sellout of 53,371 fans cramped Three Rivers Stadium Sunday, anxious to take their first peek at running back Mike Rozier. They left cursing Birmingham Stallions back Joe Cribbs Instead.

Cribbs gained 191 yards and ran for two touchdowns to lead the Stallions to a 30-18 victory over the Pittsburgh Maulers.

"He is a heck of a running back," said Maulers Coach Joe Pendry of Cribbs, who is in his first USFL season after spending four years with the NFL's Buffalo Bills. "He made a lot of people miss a lot of tackles."

Rozier, the 1983 Heisman Trophy winner from Nebraska, was held to 52 yards on 16 carries and lost a fumble which led to a Stallions

Pittsburgh fans.mail. to boo former Steelers quarterback Cliff Stoudt and took some shots with snowballs while he completed two of 17 passes for the Stallions. Stoudt had the last laugh, though, running for a TD and a two-point conversion and waved the ball at the crowd each time he crossed the goalline.

"The crowd really fired me up." Stoudt said. "I was just excited out there. I was having fun, and I wanted them to know it."

Cribbs carried 33 times and scored on runs of 4 and 13 yards as Birmingham won its second straight since dropping its opener. The expansion Maulers fell to 0-3.

Chuck Clanton gave Birmingham a 7-0 lead when he intercepted a Glenn Carano pass and returned it 53 yards for a touchdown. Scott Norwood kicked the extra point and added a 35-yard field goal for a 10-0 first-quarter lead before injuring his knee on a roughing-the-kicker penalty against Pittsburgh.

The Maulers scored on field goals of 28 and 42 yards by Tony Lee, a Roundup

4-yard touchdown pass from Carano to Shawn Petts and a 1-yard TD plunge by fullback Walt Easley.

In other games, Houston outgunned Chicago 45-36, New Jersey nipped Philadelphia 17-14. Michigan blanked Denver 28-0, New Orleans walloped Memphis 37-14, Oklahoma edged San Antonio 14-7. and Los Angeles tamed Oakland 10.0.

Washington visits Arizona Monday night.

MIAMI (UPU - As a member of Ine U.S. 16 at Cup team last October, Tom Kite said he was playing so poorly it was hard for non-playing captain Jack Nicklaus to use him.

"I realized I really needed some work on my swing." Kite said Sunday after shooting a 65 and beating Nicklaus by two strokes to win the $400,000 Doral Eastern

Since last fall. Kite put in long hours on the practice tee and sought instruction. Still, the good scores didn't come.

Last week, he decided his problems were mental.

"I was forcing it and being too intense," he said. "I was tearing myself up. "I made up my mind I was going to go out and have some fun - just let it happen. And it did. On the last nine holes I was as calm as I have ever been and I think the results showed it.'

It was Kite's third win in Florida and in each instance. Nicklaus was second.

"He's playing some awfully good golf and not winning. Sooner or later he's going to win," Kite said.

1982, was asked if the defeat bothered him.

"It doesn't hurt, It's only a game and let's keep it a game," he said. "I've accomplished about everything I wanted to this week except win the golf tournament, I wanted to win badly, I still want to win badly and I'll want to win badly next week."

Nicklaus led most of the day. But just as he did Saturday, he faltered in the middle of his back nine. He alternated bogeys and birdies for four holes starting with No. 13 while Kite posted three birds and a parover the same stretch.

Then Kite whacked a 4-fron out of the rough onto the green on No. 18 - perhaps the toughest finishing -hole in golf. He rolled in the 30-foot putt for a birdie-3 and it was over.

It still is a fact that nobody has birdled the Loral Diac Monster's final hole to win the tournament, because Kite probably would have won anyway. But it's as close to that feat as anyone has ever come.

With the $72,000 first prize, Kite became the seventh player to push his earnings over $2 million. He finished at 16-under 272.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) - Going into the final round of Sunday's $150,000 LPGA Classic on the Arizona Biltmore Adobe Course, it looked like Chris Johnson would breeze to victory.

The tournament was sponsored by Samaritan Turquoise.

But she wouldn't have it that way. She went the sensational route.

After blowing five strokes of her six-shot lead over Patty Hayes, she used an awesome 55-foot chip on the 12th hole to change the course of events. She finished with a final round of even-par 72, giving her a 72-hole total of 12-under 276, five Nicklaus, who hasn't won since shots better than Hayes' 281.

Trapped Gas Causes Intestinal Pockets

DEAR DR. LAMB - I've had two sigmoidoscopies and X-rays. I was told I had diverticuli, which I understand are pockets in the intestines. I've been told not to cat nuts, popcorn or seeds. Otherwise I wasn't given any particular diet.

Just what causes these pockets? At what age are they most prevalent? Can they be avoided? What is the difference between diverticulitis and diverticulosis? It's all very confusing.

DEAR READER -Those pockets are little blowouts. The colon is made up of three layers: the inner lining, the middle muscular wall and the fibrous outer coating. The muscles separate, allowing the inner lining to herniate through the muscles. These little pockets are thought to occur because of Increased pressure within the colon.

Many authorities think a spastic colon that traps gas and allows a pressure buildup is the main cause of these little pockets. Many people who have these pockets have spastic colons. But sometimes the symptoms people complain about are from the spastic colon, not the little pockets seen in the X-rays.

Diverticulosis refers to the general condition. Diverticulitis means that one or more of the little pockets is inflamed, bleeding or even perforated. Some doctors believe that if you avoid bowel problems you can avoid diverticulitis. That's why bulk is thought to be helpful.

Diverticult of the colon can occur in young people. but they're more common as you get older. Figures vary, but it's possible that people have diverticuli. DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm an 18-year-old girl. About five years ago I lost 50 pounds. Now I have loose skin around the abdominal area and a lot of stretch marks on my hips.

more than half of older legs and breasts. Are there any exercises that would help? Is there anything I can do to get rid of my stretch marks?

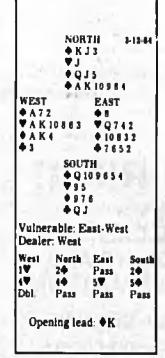

DEAR READER -Congratulations on having corrected a severe health problem, I'm pleased to see you've been successful in keeping the excess body fat off. Many people lose fat and then regain it.

There's a limited amount you can do about the excess skin. The younger you are when you lose the excess body fat, the less likely you are to have excess skin and stretch marks. The skin is somewhat like a big sack and unless it has a lot of good stretch fibers that will contract properly. you'll be left with excess

If you really want to do something about it, see a plastic surgeon who does cosmetic surgery. Then you'll have to decide if his solution is one you can live with. There's no way he could remove the excess skin without surgery and that means some residual scars.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Oswald: "His first hand is from a Masters Pairs game. He was East and see he was unhappy with reflect upon your status or his hand. His partner two spades. West four hearts. North four spades. and Mike decided to bid five hearts. South went to five spades. West doubled and led the king of diamonds. Mike followed with the deuce and West shifted to a club."

Jim: "Mike could now tell that his partner held ace of trumps and wanted to get a club ruff. Declarer won the club in his hand and led a spade, which West ducked. Mike could read his partner's distribution now. He had three spades, six hearts. three diamonds and a club. He obviously wanted to put Mike in with a high heart. How could Mike signal that he held the queen?"

Oswald: "Here is expert technique. With the king of hearts, he would simply throw a high heart on the next spade lead. With no ace, king or queen of hearts, he would throw his lowest heart. When the second spade was led, West won with the ace and Mike signaled the queen of hearts by discarding a diamond." Jim: "West cashed his diamond ace, led a low heart to Mike's queen and ruffed the club return to set South three tricks for plus 500. Not a top since five hearts was cold, but the best they could do after the five-spade bid."
