Mrs. John W. Geary, 840 Ursuline St., New Orleans, La., says that life lately is sure wonderful—she didn't dream the world was such a fine place to live in. She thinks things look different—like she had just taken off dark glasses for the first time and saw things as they really are. Then I heard about HADACOL. After the first few bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now my stomach doesn't trouble me at all; I eat anything I want to and the most glorious thing is that my nerves are just as normal as can be. HADACOL is wonderful—it must be it did so much for me. Thanks again to HADACOL."

cut hike in California. The increase in California was the first since land reached a peak in that state in March, 1947.

The Department said continued strengthened prices for grazing land in the mountain states.

Price increases were not the rule for all states, however. Unfavorable weather or crop conditions caused price weaknesses in some areas. In the east and south central states demand for farm land this spring was checked somewhat by a short cotton crop last year. Dry weather has affected crop and pasture conditions in Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah.

Compared with a year ago, values are higher in 21 states, but lower in 22.

The Department said the volume of farm sales is down for the country as a whole. High asking prices for land were said to be a major factor in reduced sales. But recent improvements in farm product prices may lead to an increased volume of sales, the Department said.

"Fairly large acreage planting allotment for wheat and the possibility of larger market outlets for other farm products as a result of the Korean situation would also tend to stimulate land purchases," it continued.

Some tightening in credit for purchase of farms was apparent during the first half of 1950, the Department said. It added there is little indication that a lack of

Red Troops With Tanks Burst Through Naktong River Line; Negroes Storm Little Cassino

Misdirected Mortar Fire Forces Men Back From Hard-Won Mountaintop

BY STANLEY SWINTON
WITH THE U.S. 24th INFANTRY REGIMENT WEST OF HANAN, Aug. 15—(AP)—Negro infantrymen valiantly climbed a precipitous mountain in the dead of night, slipped behind North Korean positions and without a single casualty early today captured "Little Cassino."

It was high ground for which scores of Negro soldiers have fought bloodily during the past three days.

Other American troops, not aware that "Little Cassino" at last was ours, unleashed a mortar barrage of white phosphorus and high explosives. The Negro infantryman was snarled.

An anti-aircraft gun from higher command to move down from the peak for a redistribution of positions. Angry, the men under temporary Commander Lt. Gabriel Amador, of Eastland, Ore., withdrew.

Three hours later North Koreans were observed back at the picturesque Buddhist temple whose light had flickered early during the previous hours, a few yards below the 24th Infantrymen's position.

Navy planes came in and attacked the temple.

"Little Cassino" was given its name by a veteran of the battle for the safety of Little Cassino, in Italy, Maj. Horace "Little Butch" Donohue of Los Angeles, a native of Stephenville, Tex., and former resident of Galveston, Tex.

Battalion commander Lt. Col. George R. Cole of Cape Elizabeth, Portland, Me., who fought with the 24th Oklahoma Division in Italy, agreed.

It was Cassino transplanted to miniature to the Korean mountains—a Buddhist temple instead of a deep, rocky position from which tough North Korean fighting men popped up to cut down attacking infantry despite raking fire from the mountain.

American Public Got A Bargain In Brig. General George Barth

BY DON WHITEHEAD
(For Hal Boyle)
WITH THE U.S. 24th INFANTRY REGIMENT, Korea—(AP)—The American public got a bargain in Brig. General George B. Barth of Lawrenceville, Kas. He's about the nearest there is to a doughboy's general that is found in Korea.

Officially, Barth commands the artillery in the U.S. 24th Infantry Division. Actually, he's an old infantryman at heart who never is satisfied with just looking after the artillery. He's always poking around the front and checking up on the infantry.

Barth's main job is to see that the artillery is in position to give the maximum fire support to the foot soldiers. He has that. But he also acts as a traffic cop, a one man general staff, a liaison and an adviser who stays with the front line.

Barth is a stocky, well-built man who carries his 62-year-old weight with little sign that the strain of war is a heavy burden. He has the neck of a Notre Dame tackle and the strong features of a Kansas farmer.

Barth's main job is to see that the artillery is in position to give the maximum fire support to the foot soldiers. He has that. But he also acts as a traffic cop, a one man general staff, a liaison and an adviser who stays with the front line.

UN Resistance Said Slowing Commie Time Table For Aggressive War

TOKYO, Wednesday, Aug. 16—(AP)—Red troops with tanks burst out on the Naktong defense line today before Changgyong and urged to push seven miles east of the river.

They overran segments of the U.S. 24th Infantry Division in better fighting that piled up casualties on both sides.

General MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo early Wednesday announced his usual morning report would be omitted because, there had been no change in the South Korean situation. The headquarters was summarily usually a few hours behind field dispatches.

The Allied resistance to the Communists had slowed the Red was timetable. North Korean pilots said the schedule called for capture of Taejeou, South Korea's emergency capital, on Tuesday, fifth anniversary of V-J Day and of Korea's liberation from Japan.

The Changgyong fighting was bloody but unsteady.

Thirty miles northward along the snaking over U.S. and Red troops were reported throwing everything at each other but not getting anywhere.

A field dispatch said the Red surged six or seven miles east of the Naktong on their deepest penetration in the Changgyong sector.

The Red gain was, considered serious but an American divisional staff officer said:

"We are still confident we can push the Reds back across the river by September 1st. The Red battalion fought desperately to link up with guerrillas behind the Americans. A Russian-made Yak plane, on Wednesday, Aug. 16.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

In the long run every ambition that runs counter to God's plan is wrecked. There is no power but of God.—Rom 1:21

Virtually everybody, we believe, will admit that this country is certainly in a hell of a fix. But when we insist on electing men to high office like President Truman and Governor Warren, what can we expect? We generally get the kind of government we ask for.

This country has spent 24 billion dollars during the past 15 years in trying to provide Social Security for old folks, children whose parents don't want to take care of them, and for those who are too lazy to work. Just what kind of security they will have if we get into a war with Russia should cause us all to stop and wonder. They might have been more secure if we had spent that money on universal military training.

We suppose President Truman is right when he says this is no time to consider a bill for universal military training. The time has gone that was three or four years ago so that young men now being called upon to fight would at least know how to walk, to obey, to carry a gun. They would be so much better off in actual battle if they had undergone thorough preliminary training. But it is too late for that now. It's Selective Service we need, not Compulsory Military Training.

A friend of ours who has just gone through Spain by train writes us some interesting observations on the country which were Republican members of Congress wish to make the major bulk of our power in Europe. The people are poverty-stricken and starving. There is no drinking water on the trains, and you have to put cognac in the water you get at the stations to prevent it from poisoning you. There are soldiers everywhere and, apparently, ninety per cent of them are officers. Across the border in France the people are relatively prosperous and friendly and the food is wonderful. We hope that American fortunes in Europe will not be based on a corrupt, bankrupt, Fascist dictatorship like Spain.

The United States has been busy during the past six months making consumer goods, it hasn't had much time to think about the danger of Communism or Soviet Russia. It has been too busy making what was going on behind the Iron Curtain, where few consumer goods are made, but many implements of war. So during the first six months of this year, we made 270 billion dollars worth of automobiles, radios, frigidares, and what have you, or three billion more than the previous high attained in 1948. We're a great country, we are, got more of everything than anybody. That's why the Russians want to take it away from us. They could use our automobiles, and our frigidares, and they'd see that we make them, just as we have been doing, only they'd ship them all to Russia.

It wasn't three months ago when a lot of people were telling us "Why do you print all that stuff about the United Nations, and what goes on in Tokyo and Europe? Nobody is interested in all that. Give 'em more baseball news, more comics." Well, we suppose they were right. But as of the moment, people are more interested in what the Security Council is doing than anything else. The United Nations has actually replaced baseball as the top afternoon television attraction in the New York area. And for once the American people are more interested in what Jacob Maslow says, and does, than in the base running of Joe DiMaggio. If Americans could just maintain their interest in peace-making machinery, when there is no immediate prospect of world war, we might be getting somewhere.

Feeding The World

Every people in the world, including the presumably well fed Americans, would change their diet if the world food goals of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization were realized. The experts on the organization staff are not concerned about how much Americans eat, but about what we eat. Their charts say that the average caloric intake for Americans is satisfactory, but our diet contains too much sugar and fats, not enough fruit, vegetables, meat, fish, eggs and milk.

The United Nations study finds a similar situation—enough calories but the wrong assortment of foods—in Oceania, three nations of South America, Scandinavia, the British Isles and surprisingly Russia and all of Europe except the southern segment of the continent. In all of the rest of the world the average daily food intake is less than the experts figure it should be, and nowhere is there a diet which is regarded as satisfactory. In almost all cases the diet is said to have enough or too much of carbohydrate foods, not enough of protein foods, which are generally more expensive.

Preparations to deal with the problem are as yet vague and sketchy, but one reassuring point has emerged. The Food and Agriculture Organization experts do not believe that the solution is to take food from those who have it and give it to those who lack it. They see the problem as the production of more food, and think that total world output can be doubled. The next problem would be to distribute the food. If that could be done on a paying basis, the United States might happily find itself relieved of its troublesome food surplus problems.

Argentine Vice Raid

Argentine police have set a mark to shoot at in the conduct of large-scale raids on docks of vice. In a single sweep in Buenos Aires which made occupied members of federal police, 6,476 persons were arrested.

The knowledge that Argentina is a police state takes some of the sting off this feat. It is found to be suspected that the raid was not carried out for the sole purpose of lifting the moral tone of Buenos Aires night life. Nevertheless the operation should leave a definite mark on the areas of shady entertainment. It should be a long time before the Buenos Aires underworld, or its patrons, forget that night.

Questionable Quotes

Developments in Korea have made certain recent statements by "very important persons" sound a bit queer.

For example, Secretary Acheson, Jan. 12 said: "If South Korea were invaded, our attitude would be that South Korea would be able to resist."

Secretary Johnson, Jan. 10: "The reduced budget of $13,545,000,000 for the armed services offers an adequacy of defense for any situation that may arise in the next two years."

Back in November, 1949, Gen. J. Lawton Collins said: "Given four or five months more training, American ground troops throughout the world will be able to take on anybody, any time, anywhere."

President Truman's optimism, since considerably modified, was expressed in these remarks March 2: "The defense of the United States are in better shape than they have ever been when this country was not at war." May 4: "The situation is not nearly so bad as in the first half of 1946." June 1: "The world is closer to peace now than it has been in the last five years."

Gen. Walton E. Walker, July 29: "We aren't going to give up one inch. We are going to stand and fight." And two days later, July 31: "We had hell kicked out of us this morning."—Tampa Tribune.

night without the North Koreans even knowing they were there," said Lt. Francis Thompson of Princeton, N.J., artillery man officer for the attack.

THE NATION TODAY
By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—(AP)—Many of the top leaders in this country think the U. S. Army should occupy all Korea, if the Americans win the present fighting. But, so far as can be learned, no decision has been made on this. There's a good reason why the U. S. might not be able to carry out such a decision, if it were made.

The reason is Russia. If Russia sees the North Koreans losing, it may send its own troops in to occupy all North Korea down to the 38th parallel of latitude, which divides north from south. If that happens, we'll have to stop south of the 38th parallel anyway, whether we like it or not, unless we're ready to go to war with Russia, for crossing the line then would mean that.

After World War II Russia took over all North Korea down to the 38th parallel set up a Communist Korean government, armed it, and then got out.

We took over Korea south of the line, helped set up a South Korean republic, left it practically unarmed, and then got out. This left the North Koreans free to attack the south when they were ready. And then the U. S. moved back in.

If the U. S. wins the North Koreans and drives them north of the 38th parallel, but itself stays south of it, then the North Koreans might move will be free to roam.

So long as we kept an army in South Korea, the North Koreans probably would not "come another attack, but how long would this country be willing to keep an army in South Korea?

True, this country could arm the South Koreans and let them do the fighting. But this would be just a band-aid on a wound that would heal by itself, if it is not stopped by the U. S. occupying all of Korea it could disarm the Communists, try to stamp them out, and maybe set up a single, non-Communist government for all Korea. But—

What would Russia do? Sit idly by while the U. S. took over all Korea, which is smack up against the Communist territory of China and Russia?

Or would it once more move in to North Korea, taking it over down to the 38th parallel, as it did before? The Russians could argue.

U. S. occupation of Korea would give the country a strong foothold and base in Asia, for use in any future war with Russia.

The Russians might point out that the U. S. would hardly sit idly by if the Russians tried to occupy Mexico or Canada, which are smack up against the United States.

Once the Russians moved into North Korea, they could not be driven out except by force, which would be war.

This story raises more questions than it answers. At this moment the answers haven't appeared.

After the mortar barrage began, the mortar fire, the men said.

"Yeah, we got white phosphorus and mortar fire this morning—our own," said Sgt. David Robinson of La Grange, N.C. bitterly.

After the mortar barrage started to move down from the steep slope of terraced rice fields. Hours later, Maj. Bowen Carter of Omaha, Neb., who fought with the 24th Infantry Division, reported that Navy airmen had been ordered in to attack the temple which had been speedily reconnoitered by the North Koreans.

THE VITAL AIR INSTALLATION at Puhang (1) remained in U.S. hands although the North Koreans held the burning city, six miles east. Bomber drives to expand the Nakdong River bridgehead into a full scale attack on Taegu (2) were marred by a new tank-covered crossing. In the southwest, United States troops and Marines consolidated a line on the heights overlooking Communist-held Chinju (3). (Central Press)

Senator Fights

1. Should the family support allowances, paid in part by the government and in part by the person on duty, go to all persons in the armed services with dependents other than commissioned officers?

2. How much should the allowances be and should they include various contributions, such as for pay and promotion?

3. Should men with a certain number of dependent children or dependents be exempted from being drafted, or be discharged as family care, because of the large cost to the government of family allowances?

Maj. General Lewis H. Hersey, director of Selective Service, told the group that no draftees with dependents had been inducted recently and said he did not plan to induct them until Congress provides allowances for dependents.

Hersey estimated that about 1,000,000 young men between 18 and 25 years old present age limits for induction are now deferred because of dependents.

Rep. John R. Walsh (D-Ill.) failed to show up for the start of the bill, leaving a speaking engagement in Gray, Ill.

Yesterday Walsh told reporters: "God willing, I'll be on the floor" in time for the vote.

If Walsh doesn't show up today the bill will be knocked off the House calendar and can be considered again only if the Rules Committee changes its mind or 218 members sign another petition.

At the State Department, officials told reporters that O'Dwyer knows and is liked by Mexican leaders from the President down. They predicted he would make a first class envoy.

Evidence multiplies that Moscow is far from having succeeded in communicating her satellite empire in Eastern Europe.

Indeed it's becoming increasingly clear that Soviet efforts to bring that part of the continent into the Red fold—to its holding of an ideological conquest of Western Europe—will be a long range affair at best.

It's the old, old story that you may compel physical obedience by force, but you can't change men's minds by force.

Signs of hostility to the Soviet regime continue to manifest themselves in various parts of Eastern Europe despite the use of the iron hand. Disaffection is prevalent in some states that there is an almost constant purge of the disturbing elements going on. Specifically, in Czechoslovakia many people recently have been sentenced—some of them to death—on charges of plotting to overthrow the government. And it should be noted that this is one of the key states of the Red empire.

Over in the three little Baltic republics the Russians have been waging a purge to protect the coastal defense secrets. The authorities reportedly fear a fifth column activity by Baltic nationalists along the seacoast where the Soviet is said to have submarine pens and rocket launching sites.

Hungary and Poland have been furnishing their quotas of allied disaffection. And of course Moscow has relegated Yugoslavia to the discipline in toto with Tito.

So the story runs until we have sufficient evidence to warrant the assumption that Moscow never will subdue all of the present generation in Eastern Europe. The Soviet will have to rear and communicate another generation before the danger of revolt is wiped out, if ever it can be.

So these we have another excellent reason why Moscow isn't challenging fate by employing strong-arm methods to conquer Western Europe. It knows that, despite her 170 divisions of troops, it would be making a terrific gamble to push ahead without consolidating territory already overrun. The general leaves pockets of rebels behind him as he seeks for trouble.

Naturally another powerful reason for the stoppage of the Red drive in Europe lies in the heavy acquisition of atomic bombs by the United States, Marshall plan and the Atlantic Pact military projects. And that's not to overlook the fact that America's striking power in atomic bombs is an enormous quantity to Moscow—we hope.

That isn't strange to find Communism turning its attention more and more to Asia. As Sir Gladwin Jebb, British delegate to the United Nations, pungently stated in a speech:

"Here (Asia) is the vast arena in which, repaid in Europe, it is now clear that the dark forces of Communist imperialism are concentrating for the kill. All the new emergent Asian states are affected by this, and they know it."

That is where Moscow is able to maneuver others into the position of fighting for her. That is the field in which she can do the Western Allies untold damage if she can invade them in military and economic expenditures, while she herself builds up strength at home.

Small wonder that Russia should shift her main assault to Asia.

Tuberculosis' board financing also came into the discussion, as the Governor renewed his suggestion that the board withhold spending its special cigarette fund for construction of new sanatoria until it is sure of enough money to operate them.

House Director Homer Graham recalled the Governor already authorized the tuberculosis board to spend all the $6,000,000 in federal funds to build new sanatoria at Tampa and Tallahassee. The board was asked to appear next week for a full discussion of the matter.

The TH Board presented a statement showing it plans to spend the $6,000,000 plus $750,000 in federal funds to build new sanatoria at Tampa and Tallahassee. The board was asked to appear next week for a full discussion of the matter.

Princess Elizabeth

From the Clarence House, London, from a crowd of well-wishers which had grown to a vast number of people, the young princess, Elizabeth, was escorted to the Buckingham Palace, London, where she was to be crowned.

The crowd numbered to over a thousand in the space of a few moments.

From Whitehall, east of the government buildings, news was sent to British possessions and commonwealth members around the world.

The second half of the 14-year-old princess presumes and has been called royal official, but probably will be named official, into the christening. That ceremony, if it is followed, will take place at Buckingham Palace on Saturday.

There is some speculation, but nothing authoritative, on the chance of a girl's name.

Those probably in the running are the old royal family names of Victoria, Mary, Elizabeth and Anne.

The names of late royal family members, but the new princess, Elizabeth, is the infant's official name.

The infant's official name, Elizabeth, which has led to the choice for 12 of England's 29 monarchs since the Norman conquest in 1066.

Five of the last six monarchs, including the present king, George VI, were at times ranked third before they inherited the imperial crown.

The new baby, could lose her right to the throne to any child, even to her brother, Prince Charles.

Princess Elizabeth, born Oct. 21 in the 14th century, was the daughter of Edward III, king of England, and Philippa of Hainault, the daughter of Edward, Duke of Brabant, and Margaret of France, the daughter of Philip the Fair, king of France.

Elizabeth is known as being presumptive rather than being appointed because if a son were born to her mother, Queen Elizabeth, he would become first in line of succession. It is officially presumed, however, that there will be no further children born to the King and Queen.

The new child, about six months old, has a lot of health problems. She will be pushed around by Prince Charles, her big brother, but her older brother, Prince Philip, has a new set of teeth. And, how, the old baby has been named by Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret long ago.

The same goes for the child, for the boy, Prince Charles, has a new set of teeth, too, but this time, the strain on the young man's teeth is enough to cause Prince Charles a new set and new teeth, including a young man of 21 months.

The royal family, which greeted the arrival of the new princess, Elizabeth, in London, followed the royal family, first a 62-year-old, in Hyde Park, the regular family gathered the first with 14,000. Throughout the British Commonwealth, the birth was also noted. The Canadian governor, Magnificent Fred, a 51-year-old, was the first to be born when the new princess came into force at midnight April 17, 1949.

Here is Mrs. Shuff's statement: "I have been sick and weak for some time. When you are a housewife on the farm you have lots of work to do—not hard work but work that is tiring, especially when you are sick. At night I couldn't rest—and food, no matter what I ate, didn't agree with me. Then my sister told me about HADACOL—she said HADACOL would really make me feel better. I took her advice and began taking HADACOL. I felt better after the third bottle. So far I have taken 15 bottles of HADACOL. I feel as if anything I want to, I sleep well every night and my housework doesn't tire me at all. Anything I say about HADACOL would be an understatement. I think HADACOL is wonderful!"

Pin Ball Machines Are Termed Illegal

TALLAHASSEE, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Coin-operated pin ball machines, that offer free games as rewards, are illegal in Florida.

Attorney General Richard Ervin said such machines are as unlawful as if they paid off in cash, and under Florida law "it is unlawful to possess or to permit the operation of such a machine."

Ervin said the fact that a state and county license has been purchased for the machine does not make it legal "because the law does not authorize the licensing of such a machine."

The attorney general said the State Supreme Court has ruled "it is unlawful to possess a coin-operated machine which pays off no money or slugs but upon which a player might win free games."

He gave his ruling in an opinion in Sheriff Alva Thomas of Bay County who asked if one-half coin operated machines which offered free games were legal.

GAINESVILLE, Aug. 15.—(Special)—Plans for orientation of some 2,000 expected freshmen and transfer students at the University of Florida this fall have been made for the week of Sept. 18-24, according to an announcement by Assistant Dean Men A. W. Boldt.

Eighty group counselors, all outstanding upperclassmen, will be called on to guide approximately 25 new students to each through the weeklong program.

The program will begin with an opening address by University of Florida President J. Hill Miller, and will include several advisory talks, a pajama parade and pep rally, and a student body outing at the University's nearby Camp Wauburg.

streets in the project area, said City Manager Clifford McKibbin this morning and he added that the design of the project will include its own walkways and drive-ways.

The City will stand one-half of the cost of the paving of the outside area around the project, whereas all paving inside of the area will be paid for by the Housing Authority.

A. P. and R. K. Michaels, engineers made reports on how to increase the City's water supply. Among their recommendations was the connection of a new pump to the present Diesel and installations to the header system in order that more water will be available to the pumps.

The engineers, said Mr. McKibbin suggested either seeking out a new water supply or digging a test well to 1,500 feet to tap an other strata of water. A 200,000 elevated storage tank for the southeastern part of the city was recommended.

Purchase of another Diesel engine for standby service was suggested. The Commission took the report under advisement for further study.

The City's share of expense in taking the census, $42, was approved.

Bids for installing a sewer system in the San Lanta section were tabulated, and the Commission recommended the award to Langston Construction Co., Orlando, which bid $27,733. This action was deferred until the project can be reviewed.

One hour parking was authorized for the west side of Palmetto Avenue from Third Street north to the first alley.

It was agreed to have city workmen clean up the cemetery, provided owners keep the lots clean. Purchase of an engineering level for use by Mr. McKibbin was authorized. Installation of four lights 300 feet apart on Palmetto Avenue south of Geneva Avenue was ordered.

General Barth

in the General's routine: He's up at 6:30 each morning and finished with breakfast by 7:30. After checking on the early morning battle situation, Barth sets out for the front by jeep with a weapon at his side.

His first chore is to visit his artillery batteries to see where the guns are emplaced; if there is enough ammunition; if the men are in good spirits, and if there is anything he can do to help them.

Once he knows all is well with his artillery, Barth pushes on up to visit the forward areas to see how things are going.

The other day Barth arrived at a regimental command post just as the enemy was attacking the regiment all along the line.

Actually he had pushed beyond the command post. Foot soldiers gawked at the one-star general who rode through an area swept by enemy fire.

Barth commanded a regiment of the 90th Division in World War I. So he was able to give a younger commander some quieting advice. Within a few minutes, Barth had ammunition on its way to the regiment and speeding tanks forward to help the infantry.

Then he scrambled through a ravine to visit one of his batteries which was firing at the enemy at pointblank range—blasting hillside less than 800 yards away.

After a few minutes he was off again, back down the roads where the enemy had been sniping at passing vehicles. Then he swung down another road and went forward on another sector to see how the Marines were doing.

The day before Barth had pushed up so far that he had to take to a ditch when an enemy machinegunner swept the road with fire.

Late in the afternoon he was back—bringing with him to division headquarters an exact picture of the situation up front.

Each day it's the same. Out in the field all days and then more work in the office at night. If the General were paid for his overtime, he would be able to retire with a fat bonus in pay.

One of Barth's chief concerns is over his artillerymen. The enemy constantly is infiltrating the American lines in an effort to attack artillery positions.

The field artillery is committed to an infantry role in this war," Barth said. "This is the first time that American infantry ever has been in this position and the artillery has to be just as heavily armed as the infantry."

There was a time when artillerymen were only sidetracked for protection. But now Barth's men are arming themselves with rifles, and South Koreans are being sent into the hills to protect artillery positions.

But in the midst of fighting a war, the General took time out to take a box of home made cookies to the G. I.'s at the front.

It was little thing to do. But it showed the kindness and thoughtfulness that for a moment eased the strain of war.

House Passes Bigger Social Security Bill

Vote On Measure To Control Economy Delayed Due To Democratic Rally

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The House gave its final approval today to legislation vastly expanding Social Security coverage and increasing benefits. The roll vote was 373 to one. The lone opponent was Rep. Byrnes (R-Wisc.).

The House accepted a compromise version of different bills passed by the House and Senate. The compromise now goes to the Senate.

An effort to knock out one provision of the bill was defeated 168 to 185. This was aimed at the so-called Knowland Amendment, sponsored by Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) and opposed by President Truman.

The Knowland Amendment was left in the bill by Senate and negotiators who worked out differences between the measures passed by each chamber. It restricts the power of Secretary of Labor to withhold unemployment compensation funds from states when he questions whether the compensation system of a state conforms with federal standards.

The Secretary of Labor could not withhold the funds from until 60 days after he had ruled a state program fell short of federal standards. In that 90-day period, a court in the state involved could determine the question of conformance.

The effect of this is that a state court—not the Secretary of Labor—would make the final determination.

The House also voted today to restore city mail service to two villages in a bill passed and sent to the Senate by the Post Office Department to cancel an Apr. 17 order cutting city mail deliveries to one daily and curtailing other services. The roll vote was 291 to 106.

A Senate Committee has approved a companion bill. There is no assurance, though, that President Truman will sign it.

Race Track Man Said Reimbursed For Demo Donation

MIAMI, Aug. 16.—(AP)—James L. Clifford, former steward at Gulfstream race course, has turned over documents to the State Racing Commission which he claims prove President James Donnan was reimbursed for a $2,500 contribution to the Democratic National Committee.

Clifford, who has tried unsuccessfully four times to sue Donnan on charges of mismanagement, testified at an open hearing Monday that Donnan gave $2,500 to the committee during the 1948 presidential campaign.

Donnan and W. G. Ward, Gulfstream's attorney, vigorously denied the track president ever had been reimbursed for the contribution. Donnan said it had come as a personal donation out of Donnan's pocket.

Clifford, who turned the documents over to the Racing Commission yesterday, said the first document is an itemized statement showing payments made by Donnan in behalf of the track amounting to $27,503.42 included in the list was $2,500 item for the Democratic committee.

The second document is a check for $2,500 dated Aug. 16, 1948.

RUSSO-CHINESE AXIS
TAIPEI, Formosa, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Chinese Nationalist reports said today that Soviet Russia and Communist China have agreed the Chinese Reds will throw 150,000 troops into the Korean war if the North Koreans are pushed back to the 38th parallel.

This is the line that divided North and South Korea.

The unconfirmed reports also told of a Moscow-Peking pact to resort only to infiltrative methods instead of open invasion in southeast Asia "so as to avoid the outbreak of a new world war at present."

Learn Mountain Claims Their Son

GRIEF STRICKEN PARENTS, Mr. and Mrs. William Wasserman stand beside a search plane at Lone Pine, Calif., as they learn that the body of their son, Stephen, 17, had been found in a crevasse high on Mt. Whitney. Mountaineers were continuing their hunt for Stephen's companion, tobacco heir Christopher Smith Reynolds, son of torch singer Libby Holman and the late Zachary Smith Reynolds. (International)

Reynolds' Body Being Brought Down Nation's Tallest Mountain

LONE PINE, Calif., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Libby Holman Reynolds, who flew 7,000 miles from France hoping to find her missing son alive, waited today for a party of Alpinists to bring his body down from the heights of the nation's tallest mountain.

The former torch singer arrived last night by chartered plane, leaving for support upon the arms of a nephew, Michael Kahn, of Media, Pa., and a friend, Harvey Poe, a British Oxford student.

Only a few hours earlier, seven members of the Sierra Club ended a six-day search when they reached the frozen body of 17-year-old Christopher Smith Reynolds, heir to tobacco millions.

It was wedged in a crack on the snow-capped peak of 14,960-foot Mt. Whitney, some 700 feet from the summit, apparently he and his companion, Steven Wasserman, also 17, had almost completed a delicate, perilous ascent of the peak when tragedy struck.

The body of Wasserman, son of William Ritz Wasserman, wealthy Philadelphia broker and economist, was found Sunday in a snow-choked crevasse more than 1,000 feet below.

Ray Gurin, a member of the rescue party, speculated that the youths were within 300 feet of their goal when they fell, roped together.

"It would guess they fell maybe 400 feet before Reynolds struck and was held by the crevasse," Gurin said. "The rope couldn't take the strain of Wasserman's body. It snapped and Wasserman fell perhaps 1,500 feet more."

For Miss Holman it was a second major tragedy. Shortly before her son was born in 1932, his father, Zachary Smith Reynolds, died.

Robinson Says Might Be Traded Before '51 Season
EROOKLYN, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Jackie Robinson, famed Negro Dodger, said today "I won't be surprised if I'm traded to some other club before the start of the 1951 season."

Robinson gave this opinion amid indications of rising tension on the Brooklyn team, such as can be expected on a championship club favored to win the pennant but now lagging six and a half games behind.

"I can't tell you any more," Robinson said to an Associated Press reporter. "It may be no more than a hunch. I've just got the feeling: That's all."

Milton Gross of the New York Post, quoting Robinson to the same effect, also said Roy Campanella, Brooklyn Negro catcher, told him: "Jackie's not the only one who's thinking that. There's a lot of fellows on the club don't figure they're going to be back. There's going to be plenty of trading this winter."

Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, is known to be irate at the team's performance. Rickey's secretary said the Club President is in the city but could not be disturbed.

In a recent public speech he said he doubted if the team would repeat as National League champion.

TALLAHASSEE, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Fuller Warren, wife of Florida Governor Warren, celebrated her 54th birthday today.

Judge Holds Road Practice Is Not Legal

Renting Road Building Equipment Without Competitive Bidding Is Stopped

TALLAHASSEE, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Circuit Judge Hugh M. Taylor ruled today that the State Road Department's practice of building roads with rented equipment violates the Florida competitive bidding law.

He said, however, that "common honesty" is expected of the State, and contractors who have rented equipment to the department should be paid for services they have rendered.

He suggested negotiations between the Road Department contractors and attorney General Ervin to prevent a cessation of work on projects now underway with rental equipment.

The judge said he would be inclined to make a further ruling that would prevent losses to the parties, from whom rented equipment is contracted.

Chairman Alfred McKethan of Road Department testified the agency has paid more than $3,000,000 so far this year for construction with rented equipment and has that much more outstanding contracts entered without competitive bidding.

Comptroller C. M. Gray is holding up payment of $501,100 in July bills for equipment rental until the question is finally decided. Attorney General Ervin, who joined with former Road Department employees in attacking the practice, previously indicated he would refuse to overturn existing contracts entered in good faith if the question was raised in court.

He said the important thing was to stop the practice for the future.

Robert O. Ghio, former Road Department secretary, and Arthur Sims, former assistant attorney for the agency, quit their jobs to challenge the equipment rental practice.

It has been followed for 22 years, but the volume of contracts during the Warren Administration is far heavier than before.

McKethan said 93 of 241 construction projects undertaken this year have been completed without ratification by the road board and without competitive bidding.

Ghio, Sims and Attorney General Ervin contended the State Road Department is asking for competitive bids on all road construction.

Attorneys for the Road Department and contractors argued the rental policy is "legal and sane."

BOY SCOUTS
Boy Scouts of the Seminole County District will complete their annual camp Thursday night at 8:00 o'clock in preparation for the big council meet at Davison Beach on Sept. 9.

Three boys from each group will be eligible to compete in the swimming events in Daytona Beach.

RUSSIAN ARMS
SOUTHEAST KOREAN FRONT, Aug. 16.—(AP)—A U. S. Army officer said today that American combat troops have captured Soviet-made weapons and ammunition manufactured in 1950.

The Russians said recently at Lake Success that they have not provided arms to the North Koreans since 1948, when their occupation forces withdrew from the area north of the 38th parallel.

The captured equipment includes 123 grenades, a submachinegun and other small arms, all manufactured in 1949 and 1950.

Reds Flee In Panic Before U.S. Superfortress Blow; Waegwan Sector Pulverised

No Enemy Resistance Reported To First B-29 Battle Front Bombing Mission

A U. S. BOMBER BASE, Japan Aug. 16.—(AP)—B-29 crew came back from their biggest bombing raid of the Korean War today, able to do something for the guys saying "We hope, by God, we were on the ground." They had.

The bombers had just smashed a 26-square mile area containing up to 60,000 Red soldiers in a corridor 3 1/2 miles wide and 7 1/2 miles long just northwest of Waegwan.

The Army wanted to chop off the threatened Communist advance toward Targu and the southeast before it could get started. The Army called on the Air Force for a B-29 saturation raid in the region where the Reds were massing for attack—a tactical battlefront mission instead of the big bombers' customary long-range strategic effort in the Red rear.

It was the first time B-29s had ever been asked to give close-up support to ground forces. It was the first time the deadly graceful silver giants had ever been ordered to go and blanket an area in a direct strike at enemy troops.

When it was all over the pilots and bombardiers didn't know whether they had done any good. They had hit the target right on the nose, and they said "Results were uniformly reported as 'excellent.'"

"But that means we dropped all our bombs and hit the assigned area," one Air Force officer said. "But it doesn't mean that we killed anybody because we just don't know whether they were there."

Before the operation, Maj. General Emmett (Boss) O'Donnell, chief of the Far East Bomber command, said "We don't know whether this is going to do any good. We hope it will. If the North Koreans are down there we think it will. Anyway we think it worth a try."

The big show started before dawn. Sleepy-eyed pilots, navigators, bombardiers and crewmen got together in the theater of this post-Bomber command mission briefing. Officers stood on the platform and quietly told the crews where they were going, what they were going to do, and why. Then they broke up into smaller groups, all the plane commanders, together with all radio operators and the others for special briefing.

The briefings broke up and the airmen filed out of the theater and climbed into trucks for the short trip to the airstrip.

Out on the field the aircraft checks on the night's flight went smoothly.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—President Truman today signed a bill exempting from the federal lottery laws non-profit fishing contests sponsored by recognized organizations.

The Post Office Department has ruled that, under the present law, fishing contests are lottery, and information about them is barred from the mails.

FLAUNDER CAUGHT
Low water levels in the St. Johns River are resulting in catches of fish usually found only in salt water. Recently Mrs. J. Hugh Tillis, fishing in Lake Harney, caught a flounder weighing nearly nine pounds.

WASHINGTON DOCTOR SAYS WOUND MAY BE NECESSARY TO GET POLIO
By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Editor
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—A Washington doctor advanced the theory today that you have to have some kind of a wound in order to get infantile paralysis.

And, says Dr. James G. Cumming, the tendency of children toward a higher injury rate during summer months—when they have full freedom of play—may account for the fact that polio is more prevalent during the summer months.

He believes that direct damage to nerves—such as necessary to clamp those nerve fibers and lay the nerve system open to stimuli—wounds like the cavities of lost baby teeth could provide such damage.

He also said tonsillectomies and other surgical operations, as well as accidental wounds could damage those nerve fibers and lay the nerve system open to stimuli.

U. S. Urged To Five Day Strike Send 5 Divisions Set For Monday To West Europe

PARIS, Aug. 16.—(AP)—American officials in France are pressing Washington for a solid promise of aid to Europe in the form of U. S. troops to build up badly sagging West European units.

Their proposals are double-barreled. One—the United States should deliver at once, or promise to deliver quickly, at least five more divisions on European soil.

Two—A commander, preferably American, should be appointed to unify present undirected efforts at rearmament.

MIAMI, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Winds up to 135 at 140 miles an hour were found in the tropical hurricane warning zone 725 miles east of Miami early today.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Miami said a Navy "hurricane hunter" aircraft reported that "the eastern quadrant has winds over 120 knots and is beginning to drift in a westerly direction."

"This is now a severe hurricane," commented Chief Forecaster Gladly Norton. "It's picked up considerably in intensity in the last six hours and has begun to move very slowly in a westerly course."

"The drift is still very slow and not much over six or seven miles an hour, but what movement there is in this storm now seems to be toward the west."

Norton said the plane's "fix" placed the steadily growing Atlantic hurricane between 700 and 725 miles east of Miami.

He said all indications pointed to a steady westerly drift being maintained.

ELKS FOUNDATION
The ladies of the Elks Auxiliary recently donated two drinking fountains for use of children at the Elks playground. These have been installed by City workers in the settings in front of the Ligustrum hedge. Under direction of J. L. Dunn, park superintendent, workmen have removed sandspur plants that started to grow in the playground area, said City Manager Clifford McKibbin.

South Korean First Division Pursues Red Hosts Fleeing Across The Nakdong

TOKYO, Thursday, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Red Korean troops were reported retreating in panic across the Nakdong River Wednesday under bombing of 98 American B-29s.

The bomber smash was probably just short of atomic explosive power in concentrated effect.

It was aimed at breaking the back of a 60,000-man North Korean offensive buildup along the river.

Front dispatches said Waegwan, local point of the war 12 miles northwest of Targu, was a gutted-in-ruins town but not too suitable a target for anyone to hold long.

AP correspondent Hal Boyle said that after the B-29 saturation bombing a First Cavalry Division tank clattered into the ruined city to look it over. The tank engaged one Communist tank on the city's edge and knocked it out and chased another northward.

Boyle said the North Koreans have a force in the hills north of the city where they are able to lob mortar shells directly into Waegwan. The city also was under direct observation and artillery fire from the Red-held west bank of the Nakdong.

The air blow came as large-scale reinforcements arrive from the United States for major infantryment at the front to bolster the Allied Defense of the peninsula.

First report from observer plane indicated B-29s may have turned the tide with decisive effect for the present.

They saturated a 26-square mile area with 4,500 quarter-ton bombs. The area is slightly larger than New York's Manhattan Island, but it was believed to have been the greatest Red force yet put together.

The B-29 strike was made on an emergency tactical basis, an American soldier to their face, Boyle charged the bombers as they attacked.

There was evidence that the Reds, in expectation of follow-up ground attacks, were trying to blow up the Russian-style underground.

Prime Minister Refuses To Call Parliament Now
LONDON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee tonight rejected a formal demand from opposition leader Winston Churchill to convene Parliament before Sept. 15 for urgent consideration of defenses against Communism.

As the Cabinet met, proposals for reinforcement of the peninsula were discussed before World War II. It would allow 10 Downing Street, Churchill revealed the release of the records as he arrived last week for his Cabinet meeting in a break these today.

STOWAWAYS
SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Two Americans who boarded the Polish liner Batery under unusual circumstances last week were removed by British police here today.

Immigration authorities announced both men will be held in Winchester Jail until Aug. 30, when they will be deported aboard the Batery on her return trip to New York. Both were refused "permission to land" under the aliens' order—a technicality.
