

Prisoners Riot Over Spilled Coffee

HONOLULU (UPI) — Some 300 prisoners at tension-strained Hawaii State Prison rioted over a spilled cup of coffee, but returned quietly to their cells today after agreeing to a weapons search.

No injuries were reported during Tuesday's five-hour rampage in which inmates smashed furniture and broke doors before allowing 80 helmeted guards back into the medium-security cellblock for the search.

The uprising began when a prisoner spilled coffee on a guard at breakfast. Prison spokesman Chapman Lam said when officials attempted to take the inmate from the cellblock to question him, the situation "blew up" and the outnumbered guards fled.

"Any number of incidents could have set this off," Lam said. "Tensions have been running high among inmates for months."

He said the lack of recreational and vocational opportunities for the prisoners, together with the fact 300 inmates are crowded into a cell block designed for 250 men, were the major causes of the tension.

Talking to UPI through a ground-level paint shop window, one prisoner said inmates were treated "like dogs" at the prison. He said overcrowding, understaffing and "inexperienced guards" have led to a number of small incidents in the past couple weeks.

Monday morning, a new guard was beaten by a group of inmates at the prison. Inmates allege he had first struck a prisoner.

Prisoners began returning to their cells Tuesday evening, after guards searched the cell block for weapons. Lam said the search turned up "a pile" of clubs and pipes, and several homemade knives.

Damage to the prison, which is located in a heavily populated area near downtown Honolulu, was reported as "light."

It's Up To Senate

House Abolishes Auto Inspections

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The Florida House of Representatives Tuesday, with Seminole's two resident legislators opposing, adopted a bill abolishing the state's motor vehicle inspection program. Whether the measure will pass the Florida Senate before its scheduled adjournment later this week, however, is anyone's guess.

And whether the Seminole County Commission will take advantage of the local option contained in the proposed law requiring motor vehicle inspections here is also up in the air.

State Reps. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, and Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, were among the 44 in the minority voting against the abolition.

The House approved the bill 66-44 labeled the state's annual motor vehicle inspection program a "hoax" and a "dinosaur."

The measure (HB 101) was sent to the Senate, where a companion bill (CS-SB 515) is pending before the Appropriations Committee.

Hattaway said today he voted against the proposed law a total of four or five times in various committees of which he is a member as well as on the House floor.

"Basically, in all the committee testimony I heard, there was no real testimony to prove the validity of abolishment. I remember years ago, before inspections, the number of vehicles on the roads which did not have proper lights, were really in need of repair and were a danger to people on the highways," Hattaway said.

"I have not in line for car inspections like everyone else. The safety is worth the time and the $3 it costs for the inspections," he said.

"I checked with the Seminole County Commissioners and they were not in favor of abolishment. I got a handful of letters all in opposition to the bill."

Hattaway said Gov. Bob Graham has given the abolition issue a number one priority for passage this session. "More of his people are lobbying for this bill than on appropriations. This lobbying is having a major impact," he said.

Hattaway said, however, those opposing the abolition in the Senate, are trying to bottle it up in the Senate Appropriations Committee. "I think the bill has problems getting out of the Senate," he said. He added, however, "anything can happen during this session."

Brantley, who called the 1981 legislative session a "wild one," said he voted to keep motor vehicle inspections because they appear to be in the best interests of the county.

In the Senate, meanwhile, Sen. Clark Maxwell Jr., R-Melbourne, whose district includes Seminole County, said: "As long as the option allowing counties to continue the program remains in the bill, I will vote in favor of abolishment."

"From the testimony I've heard, there is no worthwhile purpose being served by motor vehicle inspections. All the statistics show there has been little difference in accident rates in the years the program has been in existence in Florida. In many cases it has been poorly administered with doubtful benefits and considerable inconvenience to the public."

Maxwell said chances are good the bill will pass the Senate.

Sen. John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach, was not available for comment. County Administrator Roger Neiswander said today the county currently owns and operates three motor vehicle inspection stations in Sanford, Casselberry and Sanlando Springs. Nineteen full-time employees and some part-time "fill-in" inspectors are employed by the program.

The annual budget for the operation of the stations is $340,000 and revenues anticipated to be to the county from the operations this year is about $345,000.

"The commission," Neiswander said, "has indicated support for the motor vehicle inspection program so far. If the bill abolishing the statewide program becomes law, we will get some firm direction from the board on its interest in a local option."

Commissioner Barbara Christensen said she doesn't believe the bill will pass the Senate. "We are going to have to go one step at a time," she said. "If the bill passes, I would have to take a good hard look at what it will cost, whether it can be self-supporting, whether the county would have to purchase vehicle tags anywhere in the state, there would be difficulty enforcing a local motor vehicle inspection law. If the surrounding counties didn't have a program, how would Seminole County enforce one?" she asked.

County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said today the county in the past was making money on the program. "But," he said, "at $3 per inspection it has been getting to where the operation is no longer profitable."

"I think there is a benefit from the program. But unless it is put on a basis where the county can afford it, I would have to go along with the move to close down the stations," Kirchhoff said.

Barron, Childers Vow To Stop Feud

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Senate President W.D. Childers and Deputy Barron vowed today to stop their feud that has left the Senate in shambles and form a united front against the House and tax increases.

In what senators and other legislators later called "a love-in," Childers and Barron promised to put their differences aside for the time-being and work to pass "a responsible and proper" $9 billion state budget, although not necessarily in time for Friday's scheduled adjournment.

House Speaker Ralph Haben said today Tuesday he found it impossible to work out a budget compromise with the two leading Senate factions and figured there was a 90 percent chance the Legislature would have to meet in special session.

"I feel comfortable in that the Senate is united," declared Childers.

The Senate was far from united Monday when he and Barron, the leader of a coalition of conservative Democrats and Republicans, almost had a fistfight on the Senate floor.

"The Senate is bigger than the president of the Senate or any member of the Senate or any group of members of the Senate," Barron said.

Childers prepared to leave the chamber after the "love-in" was over to lead a delegation of 13 senators in budget talks with Gov. Bob Graham and the House leadership, including Haben. He called Barron to the rostrum to take over as presiding officer, a move clearly intended to demonstrate unity.

Childers was afraid to let Barron anywhere near the rostrum earlier this week because the Barron coalition was plotting to change the Senate rules and strip him of most of his power.

House leaders were skeptical about the battle-scarred Senate's new-found unity.

It remains to be seen if it will hold up," said Fort Myers Rep. Frank Mann, the House's chief conference committee member on education and transportation. "I hope it all works out."

"I think the love-in was the result of half-a-dozen lead newspaper editorials today talking about how dumb and stupid the Senate was and embarrassing and shameful. They read too," Mann said.

For the second time in 24 hours, Childers appointed a special delegation of senators to negotiate an end to deadlocks on education, transportation and reserve fund members. He named 13 senators, including six from the Barron coalition, to join him in secret negotiations throughout the day.

The official conference committee, which contains no leaders in the Barron group, is on hold, with the real decisions the subject of fierce, secret negotiating.

County Wants To Know If Nightspot Legal

County officials were scurrying to the law books today to make sure the operation of "The Fling," the new "natural adult entertainment" establishment which has opened in Fern Park is following all county rules and regulations.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn, in whose commission district the night spot is located, asked the county attorney, zoning and building officials and other county department heads to determine whether all county laws are being followed.

Mrs. Glenn was especially concerned about whether juveniles are being admitted to the spot, saying "The Fling" advertised open hours daily are from noon to 4 a.m.

Shelton Polokoff, owner of the building, said today he is leasing the facility to a group headed by a "Jerry Glover." He said juveniles are not being served.

"The county's digging for nits and lice is unreal. They are running the joint as clean as possible. It's a clean place. They are charging $5 at the door," Polokoff said. "No juveniles are getting in."

Mrs. Glover, reached at a telephone number given by Polokoff, refused comment.

County Commissioners two weeks ago adopted an ordinance requiring establishments with adult entertainment and holding liquor licenses to request a special exception from the county's board of adjustment before going into business.

This was the best way commissioners determined to regulate adult entertainment establishments.

But, Bill Diamond, county building inspector, told commissioners Tuesday there is no county regulation he could find that the "Fling" violates. Since it does not sell alcoholic beverages and since it opened its doors to business prior to the county's adopting the ordinance, it apparently does not come under the county's new ordinance, County Administrator Roger Neiswander said.

County Commissioners two months ago halted the processing of applications from liquor establishments planning adult entertainment until passage of the ordinance.

Polokoff, who had owned and operated the former Fancy Dancer adult entertainment spot had closed his business temporarily for renovations. After the establishment was closed for 90 days the special exception he received previously to sell alcoholic beverages expired.

Selph Elected To Head Young Republicans

Carl Selph, 33, of Longwood, has become the first Seminole Countyman to be elected chairman of the Florida Federation of Young Republicans (YFRs).

Selph was elected during a St. Petersburg convention Saturday. The federation has over 1,000 members in more than 20 clubs statewide.

Selph defeated the incumbent, Tim Baur, for the office by 88-86 votes. The certified public accountant is immediate past president of the Seminole County YFRs and headed the Reagan for president campaign in Seminole. He has been active in young Republicanism for the past 18 months.

He said today he plans for 1981 to be a big fund-raising year with nationally-known speakers brought to the state for dinner engagements. Part of the proceeds from such events, he said, would go to the local clubs involved with the remainder going to the state federation. Selph said he will be working with the leadership of the state GOP to obtain the speakers.

He said he also plans to schedule off-hour meetings at least once a month. He said he will lead the 26-member delegation, one of the largest in the nation at the upcoming national YFRs convention in Niagara Falls.

Others who were elected to major offices in the Florida Federation of YFRs Saturday were: Rick Badgely, St. Petersburg, co-chairman; Cindy Pepelle, St. Petersburg, secretary; Linda Clarke, St. Cloud, treasurer; Rob Dressler, Ft. Lauderdale, national committeeman and Gen. Watson, Winter Haven, national committeewoman.

Married At Last... On One Condition

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Police Sgt. William Elfo told today how a young couple overcame a rain storm, a missing marriage official and an armed robbery to get married.

Elfo said he was driving along the beach highway Friday evening when a young woman flagged him down. "There was a driving rain and she told me they were supposed to be married on the beach," he said, adding that the notary public the couple had engaged to officiate at the wedding failed to show up.

Elfo, who is a notary as are all police supervisors, told Karen Puhig, 28, of Lighthouse Point, and bridegroom Ronnie Gene Partridge, 23, to follow him to the police station and he would marry them.

"The ceremony was interrupted when I had to go to the scene of an armed robbery," Elfo said. So the couple waited until Elfo returned to the station and finally were wed. It was the first wedding Elfo has performed.

"I just told them I'd marry them if they didn't have any domestic arguments in the city," he said.

Senators Investigating Cancer Research Fraud

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., was assured that instances of falsified research by scientists working in the war on cancer were very rare. But he wasn't convinced.

"Is this really the tip of the iceberg or the iceberg itself?" Kennedy asked National Cancer Institute Director Vincent DeVita. "How serious a problem is this? How many situations like this are there out across the country?"

"It's my sincere belief this is a very, very small problem," DeVita replied. "I don't know how you can say, in all due respect, it was rare," Kennedy said.

The exchange took place Tuesday at a one-day Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee hearing called by Chairman Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, to hear charges of what he called "tax surveillance with contractors and tolerance of mismanagement and fraud" at the institute.

The committee's three-month investigation was one of the most thorough since the Nixon administration and Congress declared war on cancer in 1971.

NCI has spent nearly $10 billion in that period.

The investigators told United Press International their inquiry turned up no faulty research conclusions or unfounded claims about a cure for cancer.

DeVita contended most of the deficiencies have been, or are being, corrected.

The most significant charge was that NCI gave a $910,000 research grant to Dr. Marc J. Strass at New York Medical College while he was under investigation for allegedly repeatedly falsifying data on an earlier grant at Boston University.

"I gave a person who had not been convicted the benefit of the doubt," DeVita said, adding he would not act against Strass until a year-long NCI investigation is completed this summer.

John Ferris, of the HHS inspector general's office, told of "a rather wide array of problems with NCI's contracting practices."

The committee also heard testimony from staffers from the Health and Human Services Department, of which NCI is a part, and the General Accounting Office.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Israelis Keep Up Barrage Against Palestinian Targets

United Press International
Israeli gunboats shelled Palestinian targets in northern Lebanon near Syria and its warplanes leveled a Palestinian guerrilla base in the south despite U.S. requests for restraint, the Israeli military command said today.

The Israeli naval vessels shelled the suspected Palestinian targets north of Tripoli, 40 miles north of Beirut and almost at the Syrian border, the military command said.

The new assault by Israel followed an appeal Tuesday by the religious leaders of the Christian Lebanese besieged in Zableh for intervention by the Reagan administration to save their Bekaa Valley City.

Israeli warplanes struck Palestinian targets in south Lebanon Tuesday for the second time in five days. Israel said the jets destroyed a coastal guerrilla base but the PLO said they hit civilian targets.

Radio Damascus demanded the United States denounce the raid. It warned further attacks would mean the U.S. attempt to prevent an Israeli-Syrian war "is doomed" and Arabs have the right to attack Israel nuclear reactors and "research centers."

Inmates Seize Prison

MATSQUI, British Columbia (UPI) — Inmates seized most of a medium security prison and set it ablaze late Tuesday, a penitentiary official said. More than 100 soldiers were rushed to reinforce police and guards around the prison.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police, prison guards and local police controlled the perimeter of the 300-prisoner Masqui Institution, prison spokesman Jack Steward said. More than 100 Canadian Armed Forces troops were ordered rushed to the scene to secure the surrounding area.

Six prisoners were injured in the takeover and fires, but no prison personnel were injured or taken hostage, he said. "In fact, after the fire started nurses in the prison hospital were told by the inmates to get out."

The fire burned out of control in more than half the prison late Tuesday, Steward said. Firefighters trained hoses on the burning buildings from outside the prison, 42 miles southeast of Vancouver.

NASA Cancels 14 Shuttle Flights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A revised cargo manifest for America's space shuttle orbital freighters calls for 14 fewer flights than originally planned through September 1986.

The latest plan schedules 33 flights in that period using four shuttles — the Columbia; the Challenger, which is to be completed next year; the Discovery, which will be delivered in 1983; and the Atlantis, to be finished in 1984.

Most of the missions on the new schedule will carry commercial communications satellites into orbit, with the shuttle transporting as many as three spacecraft at a time in its 60-foot cargo bay. Eleven flights are devoted to secret Defense Department payloads.

The Columbia's maiden test flight was almost flawless in April. Its next test flight is scheduled for Sept. 30. A third test flight is planned for next January and the fourth and final test is set for May 1982.

Stanley I. Weiss, associate NASA administrator in charge of shuttle operations, outlined the schedule revisions Tuesday and said the previous shuttle schedule called for 47 missions in the same time period.

Weiss said seven of the flights shaved from the schedule involved NASA missions that either have been delayed because of budget cuts or condensed from two flights to single missions because of monetary and technical problems.

He said seven additional missions — affecting commercial enterprises — were pushed back to 1986 or beyond, primarily because of the probability that there will not be enough external fuel tanks for the shuttle before that time.

The manufacture of the 154-foot-long external tank — the only part of the shuttle system that is not reused after each flight — is taking longer than expected because of additional attention to the tank's external insulation.

Soviet Consul Kills Himself

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The Soviet consul general in the western Polish city of Poznan shot and killed himself Tuesday night, but it was not immediately clear if it was a suicide, official Polish sources said today.

"It was either suicide or else an accident while he was cleaning his pistol," official sources in Warsaw said. "It will be very difficult to establish just what happened."

The government press agency Interpress said leaflets were strewn in parts of Poznan saying the consul, Rudolf Skvortsov, had been assassinated. The news agency said Skvortsov was not assassinated and the leaflets were disseminated by "irresponsible people" who "obviously want to stir up trouble in Poland."

Communist Party officials in Poznan said they had been informed the consul died Tuesday night, but they had no news on how he died.

"The consul-general is a man who is very well liked by the people in the city due to his broad contacts with the people," another Polish source in Poznan who asked not to be identified said.

Bani-Sadr Aide Arrested

United Press International
A member of Iranian President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr's staff was arrested on counter-revolutionary charges, further eroding the power base of the moderate chief of state in his power struggle with Moslem fundamentalists.

Fifteen other Iranians, including two clergymen, were arrested on the same charges, Tehran Radio said Tuesday.

The radio said Manouchehr Masudi, an aide of Bani-Sadr whose specific post was not named, was arrested Sunday and charged with being linked to a "big network" for smuggling foreign currency and counter-revolutionaries out of Iran, the radio said.

The report of Masudi's arrest came a day after a special Iranian commission gave the first hints Bani-Sadr may be ousted on charges of violating the constitution and defying Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's ban on political speech-making.

Police Battle Students

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Police battled thousands of colored students with dogs, tear gas and batons today to break up a march protesting the detention of a student leader.

Witnesses said many of the mulatto students tried to escape the tear gas by taking refuge in a high school and could be heard screaming from two blocks away.

Others rushed into surrounding apartment buildings as riot police waded into the marching students.

Police said students from three high schools in neighboring colored townships were involved in the fracas. The students said they were protesting the arrest of Aziz Jardine, the Student Council president at Chris Jan Botha high school.

House Committee OKs SS Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House committee has approved $560 million in Social Security benefit cuts — a drop in the bucket compared to the billions Congress and the administration are working on eliminating in the future.

The House Ways and Means Committee voted three changes in benefits — including elimination of the $253 lump sum death benefit if there are no surviving beneficiaries — for next year to make up for a $411 million cash shortage in other health, welfare and employment compensation programs.

The committee action Tuesday was part of an effort to stay within 1982 budget targets already approved by Congress.

On an 11-6 vote, the panel approved elimination of the $253 lump sum death benefit, normally used for burial fees, to save $300 million next year.

Rep. Hensen Moore, R-La., called the benefit "a funeral home relief proposition." The Senate Finance Committee also has approved elimination of the death benefit, and the administration supports the move.

By voice vote, the committee decided to keep the retirement exemption age at 72 instead of lowering it to 70 on Jan. 1 as scheduled. The exemption allows a person 72 or older to earn any amount of money and still receive Social Security retirement benefits. President Reagan's plan eventually would allow people 65 or older to do that.

The House committee also agreed by voice vote to delay recipients' first checks by one month unless they become eligible on the first of the month.

100-Year-Old Poll Reveals Victorian Women Liked Sex

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 100-year-old poll of Victorian women shows they were not at all squeamish about sex, although one lady did say it put her to sleep.

The survey of female sexuality, conducted by Dr. Clelia Mosher more than a half century before Alfred Kinsey, was published Tuesday in American Heritage magazine. Her survey was discovered in papers examined at the Stanford University Archives by historian Carl Degler.

Although the doctor's study did not have a statistically significant sample — 47 uppermiddle-class, well-educated women answered a nine-page questionnaire — American Heritage said it "is important because it is the only such survey known to exist."

The results defy the stereotype of the priggish Victorian woman. Despite marriage manuals that spoke of sexual intercourse as a wife's duty rather than her pleasure, a surprising 72 percent of the women said they desired sex — and experienced orgasm.

Preston 'Confession' Told Murder-Rape Trial Jury

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

"I did it! I did it!"
With those words, Robert Anthony Preston Jr. effectively confessed to the Jan. 9, 1978 robbery, kidnapping, rape, and murder of an Altamonte Springs convenience store clerk.

At least, that's the way Assistant State Attorney Alan Robinson explained it to a 7-man, 5-woman Circuit Court jury this morning as the 24-year-old Preston went on trial for his life.

In making his opening remarks to the jury, Robinson said Preston's "confession" was made to his younger brother Scott and his girlfriend around 4 a.m. on Jan. 9, about an hour after Earline Walker was robbed, abducted from the Lil' Champ store at Spring Oaks Boulevard and State Road 436 in Altamonte Springs and brutally raped and murdered.

Her body, clad only in sneakers, was found later that day in a vacant field in Forest City, not far from the Preston family home at 3221 Walton Road, Forest City. The corpse had been stabbed at least 20 times, Robinson said, and Walker's throat had been slashed so deeply that her airway was severed.

Robinson conceded that Preston never admitted killing Mrs. Walker per se, but his words, combined with the fact that he showed Scott and his girlfriend a large sum of money and mentioned hearing of the crime even before the dead woman's body had been found, makes a strong circumstantial case, he said.

In leading the jury through a summation of the prosecution's case, Robinson quoted Preston as telling his brother an hour or so before the robbery, "I know a place we can hit, where we can get some money."

That, Robinson maintained, turned out to be the Lil' Champ store where the 44-year-old Walker worked. An estimated $310 and some food stamps were taken in the hold-up. The cash was never found, but the food coupons were discovered in Preston's bedroom by police two days after the murder.

Also in the bedroom a jacket was found splattered with blood matching Walker's.

On the day after the killing, Preston was arrested for an unrelated incident of throwing a beer bottle at a car. He is presently serving a six-year sentence for that offense.

While in jail on the bottle-throwing charge, Preston became a suspect in the Walker murder when his fingerprints were matched with those found on the outside of the dead woman's car and on two packs of cigarettes inside the vehicle.

A strand of Walker's hair was later found in Preston's belt and another strand on the blood-stained jacket and Preston was charged with the Walker murder-rape-robbery-kidnapping.

Defense attorney A.J. "Sonny" Kutsche made no opening statement today.

His job was made tougher before testimony even began when Judge Joseph Davis Jr. Tuesday denied a motion to prevent introduction of the jacket and food stamps at the trial.

Kutsche claimed the items had been improperly seized and should therefore be excluded. Preston's mother Virginia agreed to a search of her home, Kutsche said, but only when she was present. Sheriff's deputies searched the house while Mrs. Preston was at work "so the initial consent was revoked," he said, "the conditions of the agreement had been broken."

Robinson pointed out that a transcript of the meeting between Mrs. Preston and former prosecutor Joel Dick does not reflect any limitations being placed on the search. And Dick, who testified Tuesday, was unable to clearly recall whether Mrs. Preston specifically demanded the search be conducted only in her presence.

In making his ruling, Davis said, "No conditions or limitations were placed on the consent that would invalidate that consent. Therefore, the consent was valid and the motion to suppress is denied."

DONE IN BY THE WIND
They employ some of the most sophisticated small arms weaponry and strategies in the world, but members of the Longwood Police Department's Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) team Saturday morning found they couldn't defeat Mother Nature.

SWAT team members were holding a 1 a.m. practice session when the wind picked up and blew tear gas from a training building at Lake Street and Bay Avenue into some nearby homes, prompting numerous complaints.

Local residents reported cases of nausea, fever, and breathing difficulties, according to a police spokesman. Some homeowners left their homes until the gas cleared.

The tear gas had been released in the abandoned building so SWAT team members could practice entering and working in a gas-filled structure.

The police spokesman said there probably won't be any more training sessions in the area. "The fire department is going to burn down that building to practice firefighting," he said.

Lefever Confirmation May Trigger Filibuster

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan says he has not "retreated one inch" in the growing battle over his controversial human rights nominee Ernest Lefever, whose confirmation may trigger a Senate filibuster.

Reagan reaffirmed his support for Lefever Tuesday and the White House said it found no evidence of any conflict of interest by the man named to be assistant secretary of state for human rights.

"I haven't retreated one inch from wanting him," Reagan told reporters after a visit to the hospital room of his wounded press secretary.

Hours before, Senate Republican leader Howard Baker told Reagan that Lefever's nomination could trigger a filibuster on the Senate floor. Baker said confirming Lefever will mean a "difficult fight," although he is willing — with the president's backing — to push for Senate action.

"I told him I would press that fight, if he wanted me to," Baker said. "I will probably take 60 votes — instead of 50 — because we'll have to break a filibuster."

At the State Department, Secretary of State Alexander Haig told a group of editors, "One may disagree with his (Lefever's) views, but not with his qualifications."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, its members leaning against Lefever, may vote on the nomination Friday, following a closed session Thursday on allegations of conflict of interest — denied by Lefever — involving the research center he once directed and the Nestle Corp.

Two of Reagan's closest advisers, James Baker and Edwin Meese, met with Lefever for 90 minutes Tuesday. They reviewed the record and transcripts of Lefever's Senate confirmation hearing together with deputy White House counsel Richard Hauser.

Deputy press secretary Karna Small said Hauser "has found nothing on the record to indicate a disqualifying conflict of interest."

Elections

Political Favorites Victorious; L.A. Vetoes More Taxes For Police

United Press International
Political favorites emerged victorious from New Jersey's gubernatorial free-for-all and races in Ohio and Mississippi, while Los Angeles voters — in the latest spate of anti-tax fever — said "no" to higher taxes for more police.

During a day of scattered elections marked by a common low level of interest at the polls, New Jersey voters Tuesday chose Democratic Rep. James Florio and Republican Thomas Kean, a former state assembly speaker, as nominees for the state's highest office.

Florio carried 56 percent of the vote in the field of 13 Democrats. Kean, with seven opponents, collected 31 percent of the GOP vote. One will replace Democratic Gov. Brendan Byrne, whose three terms bar him from reelection.

State Rep. Michael Oxley became the odds-on favorite to succeed the late Tympanon Guyer in Congress from Ohio's 4th District.

Oxley defeated five other candidates for the GOP nomination — the closest by 1,500 votes — in a hard-fought primary the outcome of which was expected by many to decide the June 25 general election in the heavily Republican district.

State Rep. Dale Locker, breasted past political newcomer Barbara Foster by nearly a 3-1 margin to win the Democratic nomination.

Proponents claimed it would have cost the average homeowner just 15 cents a day to put 60 or more officers in every neighborhood police station and increase street patrols by 65 percent.

But opponents warned Proposition A was inequitable because homeowners would pay the same amount regardless of the value of their property. They also insisted more police could be hired without raising taxes.

In California, where the first shot in the nationwide "tax revolt" was fired three years ago, Los Angeles taxpayers soundly refused to pay more taxes to hire more police officers.

primary purpose, 34 also believed the exchange of pleasure was worthy in itself.

Eleven of the women surveyed claimed they knew a great deal about sex before they were married from books, courses, friends and relatives.

A more naive respondent told Dr. Mosher, "I was so innocent of the matter that until I was 18, I did not know the origin of babies."

More than six out of 10 respondents used some method of birth control, the magazine said. "Withdrawal and 'timing'" ranked high, but most women preferred douching — with water, alcohol, or sulphate of zinc (a method that since has proved unreliable).

"Several women's husbands used a 'male sheath,'" and two women said they used a "rubber cap over the uterus," perhaps forerunners of the condom and diaphragm, the magazine said.

The first data goes back to 1881, when the report's author interviewed women at the University of Wisconsin. She also interviewed patients of her private practice and at Stanford, the magazine said.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Death Row Inmate Asks For Clemency

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—A Death Row inmate convicted of beating, burning and terrorizing his four children, ultimately killing two of them, has asked Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet to spare his life.

But Assistant State Attorney Ralph Green said Tuesday that Ernest John Dobbert should be executed "as a symbol to our society that it will not tolerate vicious acts against itself."

Dobbert, 43, was convicted in Jacksonville of child abuse, child torture, the first degree murder of his daughter, Kelly Ann, 9, and the second degree murder of his son, Ryder Scott, 7. The bodies of the two children, killed in early 1973, were never found.

In order to commute a sentence to life in prison, the governor and three Cabinet members must concur. The Cabinet took the clemency appeal under advisement, and will issue a decision at a later date.

William White, Dobbert's attorney, told the Cabinet that his client's behavior was not premeditated but was the act "of a desperate man who himself had been abused by his father."

Junk Food Bill Jinked

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The House has decided the state has no business telling public schools to stock sugar-free drinks and natural food snacks in their vending machines.

On a voice vote Tuesday, House members approved an amendment gutting a measure known as the "junk food bill."

The measure would have required that at least half of the space in school vending machines be devoted to unsweetened juices, skim milk and the like.

Senate OKs Graham's Appointees

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—After a bit of parliamentary maneuvering by some skeptical senators, the Florida Senate overwhelmingly approved some of Gov. Bob Graham's top administrative appointees Tuesday.

The appointments of Secretary of Transportation Jake Varn and Department of Environmental Regulation Secretary Victoria Tschinkel were handled separately from the list of appointees to administrative boards and regulatory panels the Senate routinely approved.

Sen. Malcolm Bard, D-Tampa, asked that they be included but Sen. George Stuart, D-Orlando, chairman of the Senate Executive Business Committee, said the committee reports were in Senate President W.D. Childers' office for later consideration.

After a brief recess, the Varn and Tschinkel reports — both highly favorable committee clearances — were distributed to the Senate and debate began.

Three Miami Senators — Sens. Jack Gordon, Bob McKnight and Gwen Margolis — objected to the Varn appointment. They did not suggest rejecting it, but said Graham could reappoint him for another year and the Senate could evaluate Varn's performance next session.

Varn, a former head of the DER, is not a licensed engineer, they pointed out, and his experience in engineering has been in water management — not transportation. McKnight also objected to Varn's performance as head of the DER.

"We ran into impasse after impasse," McKnight said of Varn's dealings with the legislature as DER chief.

Gordon said "I certainly have no personal qualms about the nomination," but said the law requires the DOT secretary to be a professional engineer.

"That may be a bad qualification, but just glossing over that requirement and confirming him bothers me quite a bit," he said.

The Senate voted 37-3 for Varn, with the three Miami's dissenting.

The vote on the Tschinkel appointment to succeed Varn at DER was even more emphatic — 36-1 — with only Sen. Curtis Peterson, D-Lakeland, opposing her appointment. Peterson said he was unhappy with DER performance and that "I want to send her a message" with her confirmation.

The Senate unanimously approved the appointments of Katie Nichols and Susan Leimer to the Public Service Commission.

Demos Move Toward Tax Cut Compromise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A key group of House Democrats is moving toward a tax-cut compromise that would split the difference between President Reagan's three-year plan and the Democrats' preference for a one-year bill.

Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee met for two hours Tuesday. Although they failed to reach agreement, Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., said they discussed "the possibility of a multi-year bill" — something the administration considers essential to any compromise.

Rostenkowski planned to link tax-cut strategy with all House Democrats at a closed caucus this morning and to resume discussions with the 21 Democrats on his committee later in the day.

Earlier Tuesday, Reagan left the door open for more tax-cut negotiations during an hour-long meeting with GOP congressional leaders.

He Tortured Boys?

Minister Charged With Child Abuse

ZEPHYRHILLS, Fla. (UPI) — "Jesus Loves You." That was the name of a home for wayward and retarded boys run by the Rev. Gene Jandreau.

Some love, says the state of Florida.

The state says Jandreau had one 16-year-old locked in a metal box for a day; had another teenager bound with a rope and sheet, again for a day, and forced still another 16-year-old to march for seven hours while carrying a concrete block then stand for a day in a 2½ foot space between two doors.

Jandreau, a 41-year-old Baptist minister, was arrested Tuesday on four counts of felony child abuse and two counts of aggravated child abuse. He was released on his own recognizance.

Jandreau's assistant, Ralph Bowen, was also charged with two felony counts of aggravated child abuse for allegedly carrying out Jandreau's orders, but he remained at large Tuesday.

The charges resulted from a five-month investigation of operations at "Jesus Loves You," a 63-acre, ranch-style compound 30 miles northeast of Tampa, the Hillsborough County State Attorney's Office said. The investigation followed a January story on the operation by the Tampa Times.

Assistant State Attorney Bill Jennings said the state has not completed its investigation and may file more charges against Jandreau and others.

Jennings said the youths were retarded and delinquent juveniles placed under Jandreau's care by the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services or by their own families or guardians. Jandreau was president and director of "Jesus Loves You" until he shut it down in January.

The child abuse charges were first raised by former employees, who told the Tampa Times that "adolescents were sometimes given ice baths, tied to chairs while covered with sheets, forced to stand in corners, locked in closets or made to balance on upright logs while holding concrete blocks" for misbehaving.

The Times story prompted HRS secretary Alvin Taylor to order the agency's inspector general to investigate the "contractual and programmatic relationship" between HRS and the program.

An HRS counselor, Marcel Bravo, was charged late last month in connection with the probe and pleaded not guilty to a misdemeanor charge of failing to report child abuse.

When Jandreau closed "Jesus Loves You" in January, according to HRS figures, there were 49 adolescents and adults in the camp. Jandreau received $349 a month for each client placed in his care by the state and more than $150,000 annually for the education, training and therapy of his clients.

Jennings said investigators tried to trace how Jandreau spent state money designated for training and therapy of the retarded boys but could not do so because of sloppy bookkeeping at HRS.

Special Session Likely

Senate Feud Over Budget Continues

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — House Speaker Ralph Haben continues to negotiate with two feuding Senate factions on a state budget, but he says it's almost certain the Legislature will be forced into a special session.

Senate President W.D. Childers accepted the political realities Tuesday calling the conservative coalition led by Dempsey Barron into his budget dealings with Haben and other House leaders.

Childers appointed Lakeland Sen. Curtis Peterson and Senate Republican Leader Jim Scott of Fort Lauderdale as two of six senators assigned to begin secret budget talks with the House outside of the regular conference committee work.

But a lengthy afternoon meeting produced no progress toward resolution of the education, transportation and reserve fund issues blocking agreement on a $9.4 billion state budget and Haben was left pessimistic.

Barron's conservative coalition refused to agree to an increase in required property taxes for schools and Haben refused to back off one.

Agreement on the so-called "required local effort" is the key to approval of a compromise that includes using another 33 percent of the state's license tag money for transportation and giving counties the option of raising the sales tax to provide more money for roads and law enforcement.

"We probably are even further apart. I think the possibility of our extending is now about 90 percent," the speaker said.

"There has never been anything like this before. You're dealing with three parties — the House, the Senate and the Senate."

If the Legislature is unable to adjourn on time Friday, Haben wants the Legislature to take a two-week break.

It would be his recommendation that Gov. Bob Graham call a 30-day special session, but that most legislators go home for two weeks, leaving only the budget conference committee members in Tallahassee to work.

Childers snubbed the Barron coalition when appointing his official conferees last week, but he was forced to reconsider Tuesday after it became clear the conservatives lined up against him would reject any state budget they didn't help write.

A complicated settlement must be worked out if legislators finally are to get together on a plan to govern state spending for 1981-82. Haben and other House leaders want to raise the required county share of school funding, freeing state dollars for transportation. The Senate budget actually reduces local dollars going to schools and dips into the working capital reserve fund for road money.

Haben has sided with Graham in saying the Senate cannot be allowed to spend onetime, surplus money for roads projects that will still be around next year and require funding.

Refusing to raise taxes a little now will force the Legislature into a major tax hike later, he argues.

The House budget increases the required local effort by $138 million, which would mean a slight increase in property taxes. It leaves the reserve fund at $419 million, the maximum allowed by state law.

There is no boost in property tax dollars for schools in the Senate budget except what would be generated by growth in the tax rolls, but more state dollars than in the House version.

Since it spent unobligated recurring tax dollars on education, the Senate was forced to dip into the reserve fund for interstate construction and other special transportation projects.

Chemical Warfare Repugnant, But...

Chemical warfare is the kind of subject most people would prefer not to think about. But ignoring the repugnant is a luxury the Reagan administration, Congress and the Pentagon can ill afford.

Former President Nixon unilaterally halted all production of U.S. chemical weapons — chiefly artillery shells containing nerve gas — 11 years ago. The ban was continued by Presidents Ford and Carter.

Unfortunately, this self-imposed restraint, and four years of fruitless Soviet-American discussions on a prospective chemical warfare treaty, has had no apparent effect on Moscow. The Soviets have continued to add to their stockpiles of lethal chemical agents, including nerve gases, phosgene and hydrogen cyanide.

Soviet military manuals include extensive instruction in both offensive and defensive chemical warfare. Most Soviet artillery and surface-to-surface rockets are equipped to fire chemical munitions. Virtually every Soviet division includes specialized decontamination units.

And all Soviet armored vehicles manufactured during the last decade feature elaborate seals and air-filtration systems that permit operations in chemically contaminated environments.

As though all this were not sufficient evidence that Moscow takes chemical warfare seriously, there is compelling evidence that Soviet forces in Afghanistan and their Vietnamese allies in Laos and Cambodia have used lethal gases against guerrilla opponents and civilians alike.

Clearly, the United States can no longer neglect its own chemical arsenal, or assume that the Soviets would decline to use chemical weapons in some future conflict.

The Reagan administration has asked Congress for $20 million to purchase production machinery needed to manufacture the new "binary" nerve-gas artillery round. These would replace the deteriorating, Korean-war-vintage shells that now constitute the bulk of U.S. chemical weapons stocks.

The $20-million item, approved by the House and by the Senate, is likely to be followed shortly by a second request for actual production funds. This too ought to be approved.

Volume production of binary shells coupled with the Reagan administration's plans to equip Army units with more and better protective gear against chemical attack is the minimally acceptable counter to Soviet capabilities.

Nazi Germany was deterred from using poison gas against the allies during World War II by the sure knowledge that its opponents were prepared to respond in kind.

Absent the measures the Reagan administration advocates, no comparable deterrent would exist to restrain the Soviets.

"You have all your money tied up in PORK BELLIES? How DISGUSTING!"

Around

The Clock

By DONNA ESTES

The St. Johns River Water Management District has issued a bulletin on "Water Wise Living — Home Conservation Tips" which is chock full of helpful hints on saving water.

Among the tips and information included are the following:

SHOWER — Turn off water while soaping up. See how light a spray you can wash with. Less than 5 minutes for a shower is adequate. Water running — 25 gallons. Wet down, soap up, rinse off — 4 gallons.

BRUSHING TEETH — Clean tooth brush with an occasional burst of water. Use cup to rinse. Tap running — 10 gallons. Wet brush, rinse briefly — 1/2 gallon.

TUB BATH — A full tub holds at least 36 gallons. You can bathe adequately with less than one quarter as much. Stopper tub before turning on water. In-lal burst of cold water can be warmed by adding hot water later. Small kids can go in together. Consider recycling bath water for heavy cleaning jobs. Full — 36 to 50 gallons. Minimal water level — 10 to 12 gallons.

SHAVING — Clean razor with an occasional burst of water. Or better yet, try an electric razor. Tap running — 20 gallons. Fill basin — 1 gallon.

TOILET — Flush only feces, urine and toilet paper. Use waste container for tissues, trash, hair, paper towels, paper diapers, etc. Be sure not to flush more often than necessary. Check for leaks by putting a few drops of food coloring in tank. If color appears in toilet without flushing, there is a leak. Normal tank — 3 to 7 gallons. With tank displacement device — 4 to 6 gallons.

DISHWASHING — Scrape dishes with paper napkins from meal. Rinse all at once. Soak pots and pans overnight if very dirty. Tap running — 30 gallons. Wash and rinse in dishpan or sink — 5 gallons.

DISHWASHER — Pre-clean dishes with paper napkins from meal. Soak pots and pans overnight if necessary. Wash only full loads. Experiment to discover least possible detergent necessary to cut down suds. Full cycle — 16 gallons. Short cycle — 7 gallons.

WASHING MACHINE — Use load selector for large or small loads. Otherwise, wash only full loads. Use cold water. That doesn't save water, but it does save energy and money. Full cycle, top water level — 60 gallons. Short cycle, minimum water level — 27 gallons.

LAWN — Water slowly, thoroughly and as infrequently as possible. Water at night to minimize evaporation. Keep a close watch on wind shifts while using sprinklers. Select hardy plants and grasses that don't need much water. Mulch heavily. Average hose — 10 gallons per minute. Low priority, eliminate.

CAR WASHING — Car washing can be done from a bucket, rather than constantly running a garden hose. Turn on the hose to rinse after washing the whole car. Average hose — 10 gallons per minute. With bucket for washing — 8 to 10 gallons.

DECKS AND SIDEWALKS — Clean pool decks, sidewalks, and driveways with a broom. Hosing these surfaces down uses hundreds of gallons of water needlessly. Average hose — 10 gallons per minute. Eliminate.

Military's Voracious Appetite

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Take a moment to study this number: $1,488,100,000,000. That's 1 trillion, 488 billion, 100 million dollars.

That's also the amount that President Reagan proposes to allocate in the federal budget for national defense funding during the next five years, from 1982 through 1986.

Before we spend almost $1.5 trillion — more than $6,000 for every man, woman and child now living in the United States — it's presumably prudent to consider whether that Broddingnagian level of financing is justifiable.

Will it produce only another generation of over-engineered weapons systems whose performance fails to meet expectations while their costs soar beyond budget projections? Will it further enrich the nation's major defense contractors while failing to provide an adequate shield against the Soviet Union and other potential military adversaries?

The answers to those questions are important because fiscal responsibility has not been one of the Defense Department's most notable attributes in recent decades — even during the past few years of supposedly "lean" military budgets.

Item: The Heritage Foundation, the conservative think tank that is among the staunchest proponents of increased defense spending, insists that the Pentagon "could save billions of dollars annually" by modifying its policies.

"Chronic inflation underestimates," procurement delays and a disruptive pattern of tardy specification, design and quantity changes are cited by the foundation as "contributing factors" to the unwarranted cost overruns.

Item: The Defense Department issues quarterly reports on cost changes in major weapons systems. The report issued at the end of last year showed a $47.6 billion increase in the price of 47 major weapons systems.

That's an average increase of more than $1 billion per weapons system during only the three-month period spanning October, November and December 1980.

Item: The most recent quarterly report shows that in the one-year period from March 1980 to March 1981, the cost of the Ground Launched Cruise Missile increased 54 percent, the Hellfire Missile went up 48 percent and F-18 jet fighter experienced a 21 percent increase.

Item: Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., an outspoken supporter of a strong military establishment, complains that "the unit costs of major defense weapons systems are increasing at rates far beyond inflation, adding billions to the budget just to buy the same quantities of weapons that were planned before."

Item: Former Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats says the General Accounting Office under his direction found that the Defense Department could save $10 billion annually by instituting new procedures.

Warning against sudden large increases in military spending for new initiatives, Staats says "you just cannot absorb much (new) money very fast."

Bribery Charge Could Hurt Williams

WASHINGTON — Leaders of the Teamsters Union are meeting in Las Vegas this week to decide on a successor to their late president, Frank Fitzsimmons. There seems little doubt that they'll settle on the interim president, Roy Lee Williams.

Two weeks ago, Williams' fitness for union office of any kind — much less head of the nation's largest labor union — was challenged by a Senate subcommittee report. The next day Williams was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges that he attempted to bribe Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev.

Historically, Teamsters presidents have been notorious for their brushes with the law. Dave Beck and Jimmy Hoffa wound up in prison; investigations of Fitzsimmons, however, never got past the guilt-by-association stage. In the rough-and-tumble world of union truckers, disapproval by government authorities has never been a handicap for election to high office.

That's been the situation with Williams, whose involvement with the scandal-ridden Central States Pension Fund has done him no damage within the union. But the indictment for bribery may prove to be a truck of a different color.

For years there have been allegations that Williams has ties to Kansas City mobster Nick Civella. Much of the evidence to support these allegations was circumstantial. But with Williams' indictment for bribery along with the Teamsters Union's financial wizard, Allen Dorfman, the evidence of Mob links could no longer be circumstantial.

There's one piece of evidence that connects Williams with casino skimming operations conducted by Civella's gang. Among documents seized in a raid on a crime family member, FBI agents found some handwritten sheets listing the distribution of skimming proceeds according to first names, initials and code names.

The list noted the amounts to be paid to various individuals, and the names of the recipients included several Civella "family" members — Nick, Cork, Carl and Pete. One notation designated $1,500 for "Rancher."

Williams is known as a rancher, and according to a still-secret report prepared by the Senate's permanent subcommittee on investigations, law enforcement officials have identified "Rancher" as the Mob's code name for Roy Williams.

The skim-split sheet also lists $1,000 for "S.A." Sources told their associate Tony Casperino that these initials identify Sen. Alvinson, a teamsters organizer who is close to both Williams and Nick Civella. FBI affidavits say it was Ancona whom Civella called after allegedly setting up a meeting between attorney Morris Shenker and Williams on Oct. 12, 1978.

The meeting was held in La Costa, Calif., and its purpose, according to the FBI, was to get around a court order forbidding a casino loan by the Central States Pension Fund.

The day after the meeting, Ancona and

DON GRAFF

Do You Smoke Or Read?

Sometimes nothing fails like success.

Or to put it another way, you can lead a smoker to the truth but that doesn't mean he's going to read it.

That seems to be the message, or the significance of the message, contained in the report of the Federal Trade Commission on its five-year study on the effectiveness of the health warnings that cigarette packages and advertising are required by law to carry. Among other things, the FTC discovered that fewer than 3 percent of all adults exposed to the warnings are bothering to read them.

And that makes discouraging reading for those who have been waging a public information war against the hazards of smoking for decades and scored their greatest legislative victory 16 years ago when Congress mandated the warnings. These were supposed to bring home to every smoker every time he or she lit up the risk being run.

The fellows in the U.S. Surgeon General's office in particular may well be asking themselves what they have been doing wrong. The answer is really nothing in their approach to the issue as a medical problem. An immense amount of research has been undertaken on the negative relationship between smoking and health and is readily available to the public.

But smoking is more than a medical problem. It is also social and psychological. The pressures encouraging the smoking habit remain immense in American society. Just check the cigarette ads. Even with those subliminal warnings, the suggestions of joy to be derived from the product are overpowering. The currently "in" ad features one or more beautiful young people exulting over the flavor of their poison to a degree that could raise questions as to what's in those little tubes in addition to regular tobacco.

Further, the capacity of individuals to tune out truths they do not want to know is awesome, as demonstrated by some additional FTC figures. Despite the intense informational effort of government and private health agencies, the study indicates that some 20 percent of the public is still unaware of tobacco's much publicized and discredited cancer connection, and more than 30 percent does not know that smoking is a factor in heart disease. Among women, it is news to almost half that smoking increases pregnancy risks.

And there is more. The problem is also politically charged, as Joseph A. Califano Jr. coincidentally confirms in his current best-selling insider's guide to the Carter administration, "Governing America."

The former secretary of health, education and welfare takes time out from analyzing various major and minor political skirmishes between the good guys (guess who?) and the bad guys (virtually everyone else) in Carter Washington for an illuminating chapter on his own involvement with smoking and health going back to the mid-'60s. As a key aide in the activist Johnson administration, he had been unable to persuade a president who had firsthand evidence in his own heart condition of the consequences of smoking to move forcefully on the issue. The political obstacles raised by the tobacco growing and processing industry in this case outweighed the social goal.

BUSINESS WORLD

Japanese And Computers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Japanese computers, unlike their autos, are not yet a major presence in the United States, but they are slowly gaining a firm foothold.

Mirek J. Stevenson, chairman of Quantum Science Corp., which specializes in evaluation of the impact of technology on business, told a recent seminar "Japanese companies have strong technological capabilities which will pose a threat in the new rapidly emerging computer departmental information processing and teleconferencing markets of future office systems."

"These technological capabilities are particularly strong in such areas as communications, video compression, speech recognition, non-impact printing, teleconferencing, facsimile and personal computers," Stevenson told the meeting sponsored by the American Institute for Professional Education.

He said the merger of computer, communications and office-related technologies will give the Japanese a big advantage, unless properly faced by U.S. suppliers.

He predicted Japanese computer concerns will progress from original equipment manufacturer sales to joint ventures and then to direct sales in this country. Most, he said will achieve this by the mid-1980s.

But system sales in the United States will continue to be difficult, he said.

Analyzing on a company-by-company basis, he said: —Fujitsu Ltd., focuses its research efforts on such leading edge technologies as pattern recognition, cassette bubble memories, Kanji (Japanese character) technologies, fiber optics and 64 K-RAM (random access memory) chips. Fujitsu overtook IBM Japan Ltd. as Japan's leading computer vendor in the Japanese fiscal year 1980, ended last March, for the first time in history with $1.5 billion volume vs. $1.3 billion.

—Nippon Electric Co., with telecommunications revenues of $1.5 billion and electronics data processing system revenues of $59 million, is strong on fundamental technologies, such as optical fiber components and systems, bubble memories and solid state devices, speech recognition and robotics.

—Hitachi Ltd. registered $62 million in computer sales, ranking third in Japan, and its goal is to export 25 percent of its computers. It now exports 7 percent.

Stevenson said he does not think the Japanese Ministry of International Trade and Industry runs the whole show in the Japanese computer industry, adding Japanese computer makers are competing fiercely among themselves.

Edward Lesnick, assistant to the president of Wang Laboratories Inc., disputed Stevenson's view.

He argued the Japanese government has been picking up half of the research and development expenditures for Japanese domestic computer manufacturers and specifically has limited its support and purchase of computers to native-owned companies.

These practices, he said, in effect force individual American computer companies to compete with the Japanese government.

Frank R. Kline Jr., an analyst with Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc., the Wall Street House, in a recently published report, said the Japanese pose a serious threat to U.S. manufacturers of computer parts, peripherals, microprocessors and small desktop computers, which he expects to materialize over the next 24 to 36 months.

Kline forecast Japanese exports of computers and their components to the United States will grow at an annual clip of 24 percent over the next nine years from the present $200 million to $7 billion by 1989, taking a handsome 11 percent share of the U.S. market.

He said, however, there is no reason to believe U.S. computer manufacturers will be relegated to second-place status behind the Japanese in this decade.

IN BRIEF

Six Sailors Injured In Fire On Navy Ship

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — An engine room fire aboard a Navy ammunition ship, the third blaze aboard a Navy vessel in less than a week, injured six sailors and left the USS Nitro disabled in the Mediterranean Sea off Crete.

The 512-foot ship with a crew of 315 was towed to a naval facility at Souda Bay on Crete for repairs, while the injured were flown to the Army hospital in Landstuhl, Germany.

Atlantic Fleet spokesman Cmdr. Mike Cherry said Tuesday the exact cause of the fire, which broke out Monday during operations 60 miles off Crete, was unknown. However, Navy officials described it as "a fuel oil fire."

Although the Nitro was loaded with "all kinds of naval ordnance," Cherry said there was no danger of the ammunition exploding because it was located a safe distance from the fire. It took firefighters 1 1/2 hours to control the blaze.

Two of the victims were identified as Donald J. Nicholson, 28, a machinist mate from Queens Village, N.Y., and Christopher Buckridge, 22, a fireman from North Valley Stream, N.Y. Both were in "guarded condition" as a result of eye burns and smoke inhalation.

Quintuplet Dies

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — The largest quintuplet born with "immature lungs" to a woman taking fertility pills died today of heart and respiratory failure.

Britton Austin Granata, who had been on a respirator since his birth two months prematurely, died at 5:05 a.m.

All four surviving quintuplets born by Caesarian section Monday to Janice Granata, 23, of Findlay, were reported in stable condition today.

George Granata, the father of the quintuplets, said Tuesday of Britton Austin, who was listed in grave condition, "It's more difficult for him to breathe than the others."

Anybody See $7 Million?

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — FBI agents and auditors searched through the books of Crocker National Bank today in an effort to find out what happened to nearly $7 million.

Officials declined to detail the circumstances under which the money disappeared from the nation's 14th largest bank. The loss was discovered Monday.

"To the best of our knowledge, the situation involves real-estate loans not to exceed $7 million and we would expect to recover a substantial portion of that," bank officials said Tuesday.

The FBI said only that its San Jose office "is conducting an investigation into an alleged embezzlement of funds." An agent said there were no suspects at this point.

Plane Rocked By Turbulence

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Twenty-three passengers and five crew members aboard an Eastern Airlines Airbus were injured Tuesday when the flight from Orlando to Philadelphia encountered unexpected wind turbulence over South Carolina.

An Eastern spokesman in Miami said the aircraft was flying at 33,000 feet and was 20 miles north of Charleston, S.C., when "there was one quick bounce or jolt which might indicate clear air turbulence."

"From what the airline told us, they ran into unexpected turbulence that didn't show on the radar," said police Lt. Charles Schernitzpauer. "That's why there were so many injuries. They weren't buckled in."

Cool Thieves Ambush Brink's Armored Car

NEW YORK (UPI) — Brink's offered a $100,000 reward and police fanned out across the Northeast today in a giant dragnet to track down four armed bandits who ambushed an armored car, killed one guard and seriously wounded a second before fleeing with up to $300,000.

Police and the FBI appealed for the public's help today in the finding the gunmen — black males in their 20s and 30s — who were armed with an M-16 rifle, a shotgun and a 9mm automatic.

A special task force was set up to find witnesses to Tuesday's bloody ambush in a shopping center parking lot outside a Chase Manhattan branch bank. Initial descriptions of the four gunmen were sketchy.

"Most of those at the scene hit the pavement the second they heard shots," a police spokesman said. "At best, they got a glimpse."

Police said the gunmen drove up beside the Brink's armored car after two guards opened the rear doors to take money into the Chase branch, which is in the northern Bronx near the Westchester County line.

One guard managed to draw his gun, but the gunmen fired more than a dozen shots, killing one guard and wounding a second in the left arm and left chest.

"It was practically an assassination attempt," said Robert Haller, Brink's vice president for operations.

Police said three thieves coolly grabbed one money bag each, as the fourth sat behind the wheel of the getaway car. They fled in a stolen green car that later was recovered outside a motel on the New England Thruway, near the Westchester County border.

Edward Lenahan, Brink's vice president for security, said the three bags contained currency of several denominations, worth between $200,000 to $300,000.

The third guard was identified as William J. Henry, 39, of New Milford, N.J., an employee of the company for 35 years. Michael Schlacter, 45, of Queens, a Brink's employee for 19 years, was listed in critical but stable condition at Misericordia Hospital.

The armored car driver, Frank Rogers, 51, of Franklin Square, N.Y., remained in the cab during the ambush and was not hit.

Police issued an alarm across the entire Northeast and assigned more than 50 officers to concentrate full time on the case.

Brink's offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the gunmen.

Further Out Of Reach For Most

Average House Now Costs $84,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average new house cost a record $84,000 in April, the Commerce Department reported today, and sales of new dwellings dropped to their second lowest annual rate in 11 years.

As new housing got further out of reach of most Americans, sales of new houses in April dropped to 411,000 units at an annual rate. It was the lowest since April 1980's rate of 353,000 units, and the second lowest figure in 11 years.

In its regional breakdown, the Commerce Department found the average price of a new house in the Northeast reached $94,700; in the West, $91,400; in the North Central states, $80,700; and in the South, $76,100.

Confirming the monthly figures, the Commerce Department found that the average price for its "constant house," of 1,700 square feet, reached a new high in the first three months of this year — $79,900. The same house in 1977, a new base year used by the government for comparison purposes, cost $54,200.

The rate of sales of new houses in April was 13.5 percent below that of March, a reflection of the dampening effect on sales of high mortgage interest rates. But the sales rate for used houses increased for the month, according to Bob Sheehan, director of economic research of the National Association of Homebuilders, the housing industry trade group.

Sheehan said the reason may be that owners of existing houses have more financing tools available to them than contractors selling new houses, such as assumptions and wrap-around mortgages.

Sheehan said the rate of new house sales for April was lower, except for April of 1980, than any month during the 1973-74 recession and was the second lowest since 1970.

With the average price at $84,000, new houses were financially out of reach for more than 97 percent of American families in April, Sheehan said.

There were an estimated 42,000 new houses actually sold in April. The median sales price, exactly halfway between top and bottom, was $64,900. It was the highest ever.

Through the first four months of 1981, 166,000 new houses were sold compared with 164,000 for the same period of 1980. At the rate of sales in April, this meant that the number of new houses on the market would fulfill current demand for the next 9.3 months.

Beef, Chicken And Egg Prices Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Now may be the best time for shoppers to buy steaks and chickens because prices are at or near their lowest levels of the year.

Eggs, another good source of protein, also may be at their best bargain prices for 1981. Producers of all three food items are losing money because their costs are surpassing their income.

The Agriculture Department Tuesday issued a "food marketing alert," advising officials at institutions such as schools and hospitals to "buy and use beef, broilers and eggs during June due to expected heavy supplies of these items."

Late last year, the department predicted meat prices would rise sharply this year, but the predictions turned out to be wrong, at least for the first half of the year. Stable food prices, in fact, have held down the Consumer Price Index.

The food marketing alert said there has been a sharp increase in cattle slaughter in the last few weeks, primarily of cows and grass-fed animals.

With the slaughter of cows and grass-fed animals expected to remain relatively high,

"total beef production could be up about 2 percent from the level of a year earlier," the department said.

Prices of cattle fattened by grain fed in feedlots in late May were $2 to $3 per 100 pounds higher than last year, but "for most producers they are still below this year's higher cost of production," the department said.

Knoxville Is Host In '82

What If You Gave World's Fair And Nobody Came?

Editor's Note: The 1982 World's Fair, to be held in Knoxville, Tenn., is a subject that triggers emotions as diverse as pride, outrage and amusement. To find out why, UPI National Reporter Leon Daniel returned to his hometown, where 28 years ago he was UPI's Knoxville bureau manager.

By LEON DANIEL
UPI National Reporter
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — "What If You Gave A World's Fair And Nobody Came?" the Wall Street Journal asked archly in a front-page headline which enraged this host city for the 1982 World's Fair.

The Journal, adding insult to ridicule, described Knoxville as "a scruffy little city of 180,000 on the Tennessee River." And there was the Reader's Digest article entitled "The Shocking Saga of Expo '82," which charged the fair was "born of sordid politics" and is a "gross example" of porkbarrel spending.

Undaunted by attacks ranging from the merely snide to the vituperative, the fair's organizers are hard at work on Tennessee's third largest city, create 37,000 jobs and reclaim 70 blighted acres in the downtown section.

God willing and if the creek don't rise, as mountain people in these parts have been known to say, my hometown on next May 1 will join London, Paris and the other great cities which have hosted official international expositions.

That is heady stuff for a town that heretofore has hosted only fairs of the type where blue ribbons are won by hogs.

By the time the fair ends after 184 days on Oct. 31, 1982, according to local movers and shakers, 11 million people will have attended what will forever after be known as — for better or worse — the Knoxville World's Fair.

Paris and Knoxville were once mentioned in tandem by travel writer John Gunther, who described the former as the world's most beautiful city and my hometown as the ugliest.

Philip Hamburger, writing two decades ago in the New Yorker, put it this way: "There is very little to be said for downtown Knoxville. Even third-generation and fourth-generation Knoxvilleans, a prideful people, tend to shudder when walking through downtown."

At the time Hamburger wrote those mischievous words, the city was tearing down the old red-brick Market House and erecting in its place a new shopping mall.

Some of us would have preferred to keep the Market House.

The fair has had difficulty signing corporate participants because of direct competition from a permanent scientific exhibition which is to open next fall at Walt Disney World...

which may have been ugly but displayed beautifully cured hams and sausages and fresh produce.

Knoxville now has lots of new buildings but some people still see it as ugly.

The city never seemed ugly to me. I loved growing up and working in Knoxville. As a kid, I delivered the Knoxville News-Sentinel and deposited my earnings at a bank in the Flat Iron Building, which as you may suppose is shaped like a flat iron.

Some people say the Flat Iron Building — which admittedly is not a thing of beauty and a joy forever — is typical of old Knoxville architecture.

Knoxville's landscape today is dominated by a glittering 27-story office building which is the headquarters of a banking empire put together by Jake Butcher, whose support of the fair may have cost him the governorship last year.

It was Butcher, a Democrat who helped elect Jimmy Carter to the presidency, who persuaded Carter to approve federal seed money for the fair.

For Unwanted Animals

Bill: Injection Over Death Chamber

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Stray dogs and cats in county animal shelters would be put to sleep with a lethal injection, rather than being killed in a decompression chamber, under a bill the Senate sent to the House Monday.

If adopted by the House and signed by Gov. Bob Graham, the bill (SB 87) take effect Oct. 1, 1983, giving Jacksonville time to switch from decompression chambers to sodium pentobarbital injections for condemned animals. The bill would only apply to public animal shelters, not private veterinary offices.

"It's a very painful death in a chamber, especially if they have a respiratory problem — which most of the stray dogs and cats on the street do have," said Sen. David H. McClain, R-Tampa, the sponsor of the bill.

Sen. Joe Carlucci, D-Jacksonville, had fought the bill in the Senate Agriculture Committee — claiming it would cost Duval County taxpayers about $100,000 to make the change. He said his county would have to hire more animal control workers and pay higher insurance costs for them, if they had to handle possibly diseased animals and dangerous knockout drugs.

McClain said after the Senate's 31-3 vote on his bill that the dose used to kill an animal "would only give a human a headache." He said the cost to counties would be "negligible."

Carlucci and Sen. Bill Stevens, R-Parkland, voted against sending the bill to the House.

"If we can't give these little animals a humane life, at least we can give them a humane death," McClain said.

He accepted the 1983 amendment to overcome Duval County objections to the bill.

"It's been Jacksonville against the world," said McClain. "Hillsborough County has been using sodium pentobarbital, Dade County has been using it

A 1979 poll indicated a majority of Knoxvilleans opposed the fair but public opinion now has swung in favor of it.

Support for the fair is bipartisan, with Sen. Howard Baker, the majority leader in the Senate, leading the Republican boosters.

In an interview in his skyscraper office, Butcher attacked his critics.

"They called the fair the Jimmy Carter-Jake Butcher pork barrel but they never revealed that Howard Baker also supports it," said Butcher, 44, a former Marine from nearby Maynardville, hometown of country music star Roy Acuff.

"I don't expect to get anything personally out of the World's Fair," said Butcher, a friendly man with steel gray hair.

"The World's Fair is more important than my being governor," said Butcher, who added that if his losing race against Republican Gov. Lamar Alexander — also a fair supporter — were held again in 1982 "I would get a lot more votes than I got."

Dr. Joe Dodd, a political scientist at the University of Tennessee, is the most outspoken opponent of the fair.

"You cannot justify using federal funds for this fair as a pump-priming device because Knoxville already was an economically booming area," Dodd said in an interview in his office in a campus tower which the professor noted was made of yellow brick rather than ivory.

"This is a scheme that concentrates public funds in the hands of a few for their own betterment," said Dodd, a lanky Virginian who describes himself as a Democrat.

Dodd also grumbled about the "social costs" of the fair, which he said would include air pollution and an increase in crime, not to mention inflation.

Other critics of the fair worry about the hordes of people they believe will swarm into town. Proponents of the fair argue that the city easily handles football crowds of more than 80,000 that jam Neyland Stadium, home of the Tennessee Volunteers.

S.H. "Bo" Roberts, president of the fair whose theme is "Energy Turns the World," still is hopeful the Soviet Union and China will participate.

But with less than a year before opening day, international participants include only Australia, West Germany, France, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Saudi Arabia, the United Kingdom and the 10-nation European Economic Community.

The fair claims a dozen "corporate participants," including the Church of Christ, but the big energy-related firms such as Exxon have not signed on.

Roberts, a former journalist, said the fair will focus attention on energy advances at the University of Tennessee — where he was a vice president — and also at the nearby Oak Ridge National Laboratory and the Tennessee Valley Authority, one of the world's largest utility complexes.

The fair has had difficulty signing corporate participants because of direct competition from a permanent scientific exhibition which is to open next fall at Walt Disney World in Orlando, Fla.

Mayor Handy Tyree, a native Middle Tennessean and Democrat serving his second term in staunchly Republican East Tennessee's largest city, acknowledged politics "played an important role" in efforts to organize the fair.

Tyree, who some say will run for governor in 1984, said Butcher was able to interest Carter in the fair but the mayor added Republican support also will be vital to the ultimate success of the fair.

The fair evidently enjoys the quiet support of the Reagan administration and some observers consider it a good bet that the President will attend.

Tyree rejects charges the fair is financially unsound, contending the revenues it will generate will provide a net profit for the federal, state and local government investments.

The fair's biggest backer is the federal government, which so far has put up more than $44 million dollars. The city approved an $11.6 million bond issue and the state chipped in $3 million. Butcher put together another $25 million in a financing deal involving lending agencies throughout the world.

and they've been leaders in this state in humane disposal of dogs and cats."

McClain said many animal shelters do not die in decompression chambers the first time they are put in them. He said decompression can cause nitrogen bubbles in body tissues — a condition divers call "the bends" — and that animals either die slowly or have to be put through the process a second time.

"The wave of the future is sodium pentobarbital," he said. "It's quick, it's lethal. One shot goes right to the brain and affects the central nervous system."

McClain said "most experts agree" the injection is more merciful than the death chamber. He said dogs and cats can hear and smell much more acutely than humans, and that they sense danger when they are herded into the decompression chambers.

With the injections, he said, the animal has no time for fear and dies quickly and painlessly.

Federal and state funds totaling $24 million are being used to improve Knoxville's interstate system — which includes a bottleneck local wags call "Malfunction Junction" — before the fair opens.

The fair site is a valley between downtown and the University and will be dominated by a 238-foot "Sunisphere," which will resemble a golf ball on a tee and will house a revolving restaurant.

Charles D. Smith, fair vice president for site development, works in an office in an old warehouse topped with a sign that reads "1982 World's Fair Operations Center."

Smith, an architect, explained what he had in mind for the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Depot, where my father worked in an upstairs office as a train dispatcher before retiring at the age of 78.

As a youngster, I liked to go there and watch Dad, who wore a green eyeshade, use a telegraphic sounder to send messages in Morse Code down the line to places like Etowah and Copper Hill.

My Dad is bemused by plans to turn his old work place into a post restaurant.

"This has been a great construction year for us," said Smith. "We're actually ahead of schedule. The weather has been fantastic. We have a no-strike agreement with the unions."

That agreement did not stop Knoxville police, who are involved in a pay dispute with the mayor, from picketing the site at a recent press opening.

Fair organizers have gone to considerable lengths to link the Knoxville exposition to the great ones of the past.

Prospective participants are shown an elaborate slide show with photographs of the 1881 London Fair and the 1889 Paris Exposition which unveiled the Eiffel Tower. There was big scenes from the fairs in San Francisco and New York, plus shots of Brussels, Osaka and Spokane, Wash., where the last world's fair was held in 1974.

Some say the sanctioning of Spokane as a world's fair site by the Bureau of International Expositions in Paris was the end of the big ones and the Knoxville fair will be a relatively minor regional event.

Spokane city fathers contend their fair was a great success and the Knoxville organizers insist theirs will be, too.

At the fair site, bulldozers belch dark exhaust fumes and there is the continual thump of pile drivers. But Knoxville — which some of us pronounce "Noxful" — is not "scruffy." London, where I lived for three years, is scruffier. As for New York City — where The Wall Street Journal is published

Some say the sanctioning of Spokane, Wash., as the 1974 World's Fair site by the Bureau of International Expositions in Paris was the end of the big ones and the Knoxville fair will be a relatively minor regional event

— there is The Bowery, South Bronx and some other places that could qualify as scruffy.

Before leaving Knoxville I got a $7 haircut from a pretty young woman named Marty Collins in a place called The Lion's Den on Gay St., which is the city's main drag and is not at all gay, in either sense of the word.

"The World's Fair will be great for Knoxville," said Mrs. Collins, deftly snipping my thinning mane with scissors.

When I was a kid growing up in Knoxville, my haircuts cost 35 cents and were administered with electric clippers noisy and powerful enough to mow a lawn.

I had a fertile imagination in those days but I certainly never dreamed Knoxville could one day be the site of a world's fair.

It is true that Two Ton Tony Galento once fought an exhibition at Knoxville's old Lyric Theater, which is gone now.

Another big deal was the time my Dad took me to a railroad show where a dead whale — which gave off an odor indicating it had not lived for some time — had been hauled into town on a flat car.

A world's fair with the theme "Energy Turns the World" had got to be more "educational," as our parents used to put it, than viewing and smelling a deceased whale laid out on a flat car parked on a sidetrack.

Is it wrong for a funeral director to enjoy life?

Through the years, the funeral director has been passed off as someone different. He never smiles or has any fun. He always speaks in hushed tones. He perennially wears a just pressed black suit.

The truth, of course, is that we're people, just like you. We have the same human interests and habits and faults as other people. And maybe that's what makes us good funeral directors: we understand your feelings in time of loss because we feel the same way in our own time of loss.

Dexter Debose and Stewart Gordon had three hits and three RBIs apiece. Debose had a home run, while Gordon had a home run and double. Jeff Blake also had a home run for the winners.

Oscar Merthle had a two-run triple for Sunniland Corporation.

Clem Leonard Shell led only 3-2 before scoring 13 runs in the final two innings.

Leonard Lucas had a home run and single for Clem Leonard Shell, while David Goldstick and Mike Gross pounded doubles.

Dwayne Willis was two for two with a home run for Cardinal Industries and Hubert Williams was two for three.

Two games are scheduled for today in the Sanford Junior League. Kiwanis, in first place in the second half, plays Elks at 5 p.m., while first half winner Knights of Columbus plays Moose. Both games are at Chase Park.

Tampa '84 'Super' Site ?

By United Press International

DETROIT (UPI) — Tampa, Fla., is hopeful of emerging victorious today from a field of five candidates seeking to host the National Football League's 1984 Super Bowl.

NFL owners are expected to vote and announce their choice after hearing presentations from the five hopeful cities — New Orleans, Miami, Detroit, Tampa, and Pasadena, Calif.

Tampa, which has never hosted a Super Bowl, is pushing hard to get one and looks to be the front-runner entering the presentations.

Detroit, site of the Super Bowl on Jan. 24, 1962, is not expected to get another one until it proves it can stage that one successfully. The chief worry is that it might snow so much the night before the game that nobody would be able to get to it. The game will be played indoors, in the Pontiac Silverdome.

Officials from the various league franchises checked in at the Detroit

Plaza Monday night — only to find there were no reservations for them.

"The general manager of the hotel apologized," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL. "He said the computer system went out and all their reservations were lost."

"Some people were a little upset at the time, but they're all right now. They all understand this was one of those things that can happen."

Only the 1984 game site will be chosen at the meeting.

College World Series

Dukes Deadens Bulldog Bats

OMAHA (UPI) — Trailing 3-1 in the third inning, Arizona State Coach Jim Brock figured it was time to tether the Mississippi State Bulldogs. He went to his bullpen for Kevin Dukes and the Bulldog bats played dead.

Dukes, a senior, ended the game with 6 1-3 innings of no-hit relief Tuesday as Arizona State edged Mississippi State 4-3 in the first winners' bracket game of the NCAA College World Series.

Earlier Tuesday, South Carolina beat Maine 12-7 in a losers' bracket contest to eliminate Maine from the tourney.

Arizona State at 7:10 p.m. Friday will play the winner of today's Oklahoma State-Miami game, which is set for 7:10 p.m. The loser of today's game plays Texas in an elimination game at 8:10 p.m. Thursday.

Mississippi State will play South Carolina at 5:10 p.m. Thursday in another elimination game.

"Mississippi State has nothing to hang their heads about," said Brock. "I believe Kevin (Dukes) would have been tough on any team the way he pitched tonight.

"He wasn't just overpowering with that 92-mph fastball and major league curve ball, but he had all the guts in the world out there tonight," Brock said.

The performance by Dukes overshadowed a fine pitching show by Bulldog pitcher Steve D'Ercole, who went the distance while scattering eight hits and striking out 10.

Dukes came on with two out in the third inning to squelch a Mississippi State rally that had produced three runs on four hits.

"I was lucky a lot out there tonight," Dukes said. "I really felt stronger and stronger as the game went along. All I concentrated on was not getting beat on my best pitch."

A crucial error by the Mississippi State defense handed the Sun Devils their 4-3 lead in the fourth. With the score 3-2 and a Sun Devil on first and second, Kevin Romine hit a high chopper to Bulldog shortstop Steve D'Ercole, who flipped it to second base. No one was there.

The mixup loaded the bases and Bert Martinez delivered a two-run single that proved to be the winning hit.

"The ball hit up the middle was not an ordinary doubleplay ball," said Mississippi State Coach Ron Polk. "Steve (D'Ercole) (second baseman) Pete (Adams) arrived there at the same time. "And Steve pitched back while thinking that Pete was covering the base. That definitely cost us one run and we might still be playing."

The South Carolina Gamecocks survived a slugfest with Maine to post a 12-7 win that knocked the Black Bears from the tourney. The game, which saw a total of 26 hits and 10 errors, was delayed 82 minutes because of rain in the fourth inning.

Gamecock catcher Rob Lowery proved to be the major Maine nemesis by slapping a pair of two-run homers.

Adcock No-Hitter Forges Three-Way Deadlock

After Tuesday's action there is a three-way tie for first place in the red-hot second half race in the Sanford Pee Wee League.

Rinker Materials was 3-0 going into the day's action, but Adcock Roofing pitchers John Bryant and Anton Reid combined for a no-hitter and an 8-2 victory.

Michael Merthle pitched a no-hitter for Clem Leonard Shell in a 13-1 win over Seminole Sporting Goods.

Rinker Materials, Adcock Roofing and Clem Leonard Shell are all 3-1 with one game remaining in the second half. Clem Leonard Shell has already won the first half.

Tuesday's third game was also a no-hitter, but with different results. Ken Kern's Garage beat Butch's Chevron 14-10 although the Chevron nine out-hit Ken Kern's five hits to none.

Rinker Materials led 2-0 after one inning, but Adcock scored four runs in the top of the second and then padded the lead with three in the third and one in the fourth.

Ty Koke pounded a pair of doubles to pace Adcock at the plate, while teammate Brian Howard rapped a pair of singles.

Clem Leonard Shell amassed an 11-0 lead before Seminole Sporting Goods scored its only run in the second. After a walk, error and hit batter put runners at the corners, Seminole Sporting Goods scored on a double steal when Clem Leonard Shell tried unsuccessfully to nail the runner at second.

Bill Shaw was two for two for Clem Leonard Shell.

Merthle, who ran his record to 4-0, fanned five in the three-inning performance.

After Ken Kern's Garage scored three runs in the top of the first, Butch's Chevron charged into the lead with six runs in the bottom of the first. Tony Sawyer had the big hit of the inning, a triple.

Ken Kern's Garage scored six runs in the top of the second to regain the lead, but it was short-lived as Butch's Chevron scored four runs in the bottom of the second to lead 10-9.

Five runs in the top of the third gave Ken Kern's Garage a 14-10 lead and relief pitcher Denver Johnson blanked Butch's Chevron in the bottom of the third, striking out three of the five batters he faced.

Kerry Wiggins had a pair of hits for Butch's Chevron.

Pete's Triples Key Victory

Rose Looking For 10, But Not Bo Derek Kind

RAY BURRIS
... four-hitter for win

By United Press International
Pete Rose is looking for a "10" — but not what you're thinking.
After collecting three hits, including a pair of triples, against the New York Mets Tuesday night, Rose needs just 10 hits to surpass Stan Musial's NL career record.
"I feel no pressure whatever," said Rose after driving in three runs to spark the Phillies to a 9-7 triumph. "It's fun going after the record. I'd like to do it tomorrow (Wednesday) night but that would be a long game."
Philadelphia, pecking its fourth straight victory, went ahead, 6-4, in the fourth when Rose tripled in one run and Luis Aguayo doubled in another before the Mets tied it, 6-6, in the fifth on a triple by Frank Taveras, a double by Mike Jorgensen and a groundout by John Stearns.
Rose broke the tie with a grounder in the sixth that scored Larry Bowa. Then, in the seventh the Phillies added two insurance runs on a sacrifice fly by Boone and Rose's second triple.

Raines Smacks Loaded Triple

Expos 8, Cardinals 1
Ray Burris, 3-4, pitched a four-hitter and Andre Dawson went 3-for-4, including his 13th homer, to lead Montreal.

CRAIG REYNOLDS
... ninth inning triple

Rookie Tim Raines tripled with the bases loaded to drive in three runs and highlight a six-run rally in the third inning. It was Raines only hit in five trips. Raines still leads the major leagues in stolen bases with 40, but has dropped out of the top 10 hitters.
Astros 2, Padres 1
The Astros, held to only one hit over the first eight innings by rookie Chris Welsh, scored twice in the ninth inning to win. A run-scoring single by Terry Puhl and a triple by Craig Reynolds spoiled Welsh's effort.

Phillies 16, Cubs 3
Steve Nicosia led a 19-hit attack with four hits and drove in four runs to pace the rout, in a game played despite a strike by Three Rivers Stadium personnel.

Braves 3, Dodgers 1
Run-scoring doubles by pinch-hitter Bill Nahorodny and Jerry Royster in the 10th inning enabled the Braves to prevail.

Nahorodny, pinch hitting in the 10th inning, doubled home Bruce Benedict with the gamewinner and Jerry Royster doubled in pinch runner Bob Porter for the Braves' final run.

Giants 15, Reds 7
Jerry Martin capped a nine-run fourth inning with his third career grand slam and Joe Morgan drove in three runs with a homer and a bases-loaded walk in leading the Giants.

Fast-Learning Reverting Homer Grounds Orioles

By United Press International
Dave Reverting is learning fast about Yankee Stadium.
Acquired in a trade from Oakland two weeks ago, Reverting cracked a two-run homer with one out in the 11th inning, to lift New York to a 5-3 triumph over the Eastern Division-leading Baltimore Orioles.
"I know we have to beat the Orioles. I just want to start pulling my share," said Reverting, a left-handed hitting first baseman. "I know I can do a lot more with the bat. I haven't learned how to hit here yet."
Rick Cerone led off the 11th with a bloop single to center and was sacrificed to second before Reverting followed with his game-winning blast to right field.
The homer made a winner of reliever Rich Gossage, 2-1. Gossage came on in the eighth inning with the bases loaded and walked in the tying run, but he pitched out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the 11th by retiring three batters on short flies.
"I had a lot of adrenalin in that last inning," Gossage said. "I think our team showed a lot out there tonight."
Red Sox 4, Indians 0
Dwight Evans drove in two runs with a double and his 13th home run and Dennis Eckersley tossed a four-hitter for his fifth victory to help Boston win.

Angels 3, Blue Jays 0
Dave Frost, with help from Andy Hassler, hurled a four-hitter for his first victory in exactly a year and Ed Ott hit a two-run homer in pacing the Angels.

Brewers 5, Tigers 2
Gorman Thomas hit a three-run homer to cap a four-run first inning and added a ninth-inning solo shot to power Milwaukee. In the third, Milwaukee's Ben Oglivie was hit in the head with a pitch thrown by rookie George Cappuzzello and wrestled the Tigers' left-hander to the ground.

Rangers 5, Twins 3
Al Oliver and Buddy Bell each singled in a run with two out in the eighth to lift Texas. John Ellis clubbed his first homer of the year for the Rangers.

Mariners 4, Royals 3
Jim Anderson collected two singles and a double, knocked in two runs and scored another to pace Seattle. Floyd Bannister, 5-5, got relief help from Shane Rawley and Dick Drago, who notched his third save.

A's 6, White Sox 2
Shoety Babbitt's two-run triple capped a five-run first inning and Steve McCatty scattered seven hits to help the A's increase their Western Division lead over Chicago to two games.

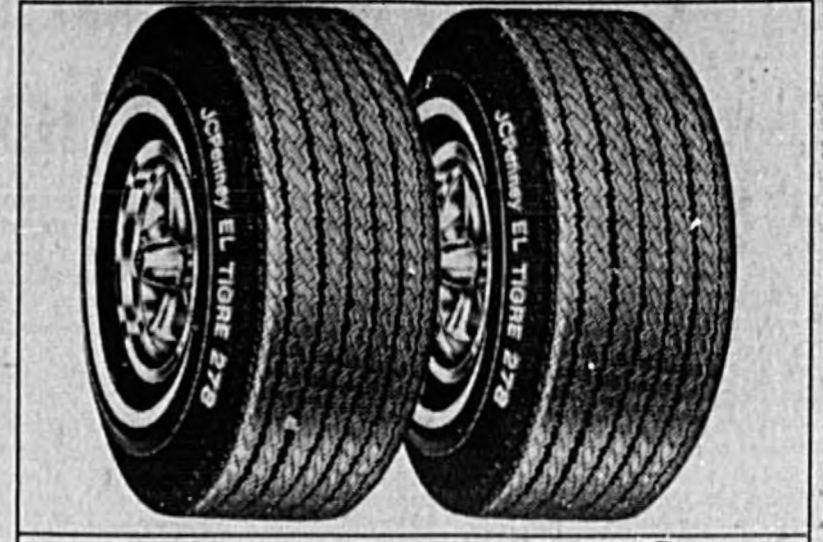

Dave Frost combined with Andy Hassler for a four-hit shutout over the Blue Jays

Mays, Gibson: Two Gut-Busting Hall Of Famers

NEW YORK (UPI) — For 14 years, they never had much time for each other and you had to know the basic character of them both to understand. Oh, they'd say hello whenever they happened to pass and there certainly was no personal animosity between them, but they were a couple of gut-busting competitors in the purest sense of the word, they were on opposite sides, and Willie Mays and Bob Gibson were always trying so hard to beat everyone, they both wound up in the Hall of Fame.

It was altogether different now, though. The two of them were completely relaxed sitting together Sunday in the New York Mets' clubhouse at Shea Stadium before a ball game with the Chicago Cubs, Mays holding the keys to his car in his hand and looking like he just came from the golf course in his dark blue sport shirt and light blue slacks and Gibson, one of Joe Torre's coaches, already in his Mets' home uniform.

Hearing them begin to talk about the "old days," which actually weren't so long ago for either the 50-year-old Mays or the 45-year-old Gibson, both of whom look as if they can still play, Torre said down to listen to one of the club's trunks across from them and outfielder Lee Mazzilli camped himself on another one.

"You know how you usta' hold the ball behind you like this?" Willie laughed, getting up to demonstrate to Gibson. "Well, we could tell what was comin' by the way you put your fingers around the seams. We could see it."

"I knew you could," Gibson let him know, getting up himself and assuming his old pitching position, "but I was doing all kinds of little things with the ball. See, like this!"

"You mean you know?" Mays inquired incredulously.

"Sure, I did," Gibson laughed.

"Gene Mauch (now managing the Angels but then managing the Phillies) usta' whistle to let the hitters know what was coming when I pitched against them," Gibson went on. "I'd hear him whistling and I'd change what I was gonna throw. I'd just move my fingers differently across the seams, that's all."

Mays shook his head in disbelief. He jumped to another subject, talking about how much more the pitchers would throw at the hitters than they do now.

"They usta' throw at you like dogs and we didn't have any helmets when I first came up," he said.

Milton Richman
UPI Sports Writer

"How old are you?" Gibson wanted to know.

"Fifty," Willie answered him.

"Fifty?" Gibby repeated questioningly. "How can that be? I'm 45 and you were 25 when I got here."

"Shooout," Willie came right back at him. "I started when I was 18 in Trenton, New Jersey, spent three months there and then went to Minneapolis. I came up to the Giants from Minneapolis when I was 18. The guys... the reporters... they changed my age when I got older. But I'm 50. I'm an old man now."

"You're not old," Gibson offered.

"Sure I am," Mays laughed some more. "But I see all these young guys wantin' to fight now just because somebody throws at 'em and I remember the way it was when I first came up. They'd throw at you the whole first week just to test you and see if you could take it. And remember, we didn't wear any helmets."

Has He No Flaws?

A Personal Report On Alan Alda

By PETER COSTA
UPI Staff Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alan Alda is fuming my marriage. As an "honorary woman" — at least that's what Gloria Steinem and the gang call him — actor Alda is the absolute male model of consideration, liberation, compassion, and "supportiveness" to women. Not only that, he is psychologically well-adjusted, self-actualized and happy.

Alda is everywhere. He's in my living room, my basement, the supermarket. Every time I spend two hours in my workshop sawing and hammering in isolated happiness, I now hear "Alda refrains" from upstairs: "Alan Alda wouldn't desert his family on Saturday mornings to play with his toys."

Or when I am engrossed in reading the letters of Mr. Self-centeredness himself, Ernest Hemingway, in all their 921-page splendor, he surfaces again: "A truly thoughtful man like Alan Alda would choose a book that means something to the family, something that can be shared."

In the grocery store, he lurks at my shoulder reminding me to buy food I can prepare on special week-day nights and serve to my wife for whom marriage, to these long years, has been one of working woman servitude combined with utter kitchen chauvinism.

Not only does he take out the garbage but he does the dishes too.

He helps his wife buy smart suits with stylish accessories and yet maintains his masculinity, humor and self-assuredness.

Has he no flaws? Apparently not. He is featured in virtually every woman's magazine as "the man who has everything."

His friend, Carol Burnett offers this testimony to a woman's magazine: "Alan is one of the few people in this business who understands the very simple fact there's no reason to change your life once you're happy."

He is on every television talk show and always makes the men in audience laugh — a bit too loudly to be sure and doubtlessly out of guilt. The women who see him on television simply swoon.

He told McCall's magazine he and his wife, Arlene, are together all week long "in a wonderful condition that feels like a second honeymoon." When his wife is tense, he tries to learn "not to react to her tenseness in a defensive way, but to see what I'm doing to cause it."

Most of us, when our wives are tense, slam doors and sulk. We react to our wives' tenseness with boorishness and complete Visigothic disregard for their feelings.

Alda's career grows and he is never dissatisfied with life. Most of us lower species of men are thrown into despair if the boss just frowns at us.

But perhaps we can take heart.

One woman we overheard on the train the other day says she doesn't believe "all that about Alda."

"Wouldn't it be just terrible to find out that he cheats on his wife? I just don't want to be hurt, so I don't believe any of it."

To which, millions of us nod. Alda men say: Right on.

Cook Of The Week: Mary Bronson

'Vegetarian Foods Taste Good'

By LOIS SMITH
Herald Correspondent

Vegetarian: Webster's Dictionary defines a vegetarian as "A person who believes that plants afford the only proper food for man." Mary Bronson believes that vegetarian foods taste good too.

Mary is a 64-year-old mother of four and grandmother of 17. She recently retired to Sanford after 12 years of service with Florida Hospital in Apopka. While at Florida Hospital, she was the head cook. She is also certified as an assistant dietician.

Mary explains, "Vegetarian eating is really very healthful. The foods contain no fat or preservatives." Mary suggests the following diet plan for the proper nutrients everyday.

MILK: 1 quart for each child
1 pint or more for adults.

Use milk for drinking and in cooking.

FRUIT and VEGETABLES: At least 4 servings; include 1 dark green or yellow vegetable, 1 serving of citrus fruit or tomato.

PROTEIN FOODS: 2 servings of cheese, eggs, Tofu (soy cheese), dried peas and beans, prepared vegetable protein products, or peanut butter.

CEREAL & BREADS: 4 or more servings of whole-grain or enriched cereals and breads.

BUTTER, MARGARINE OR OIL: Some daily, as desired, or as needed to complete energy requirements.

WATER: 6-8 glasses daily. SWEETS: In limited amounts, as needed to maintain normal weight.

"I like to cook," says Mary "and I now have the time to enjoy cooking for my family and friends."

In addition to cooking, Mary likes to walk two or three miles a day and spend some of her time reading.

Her favorite activity takes her to Speed World on Saturday nights. "My son Barry has a drag race car and I love to watch him race and cheer him on. He won two weeks ago," Mary exclaimed.

Mary shares some some of her favorite recipes. "Everyone who has tried them has really liked them," she says.

Beta Sigma Phi Chapters

Theta Epsilon

Creative minds were at work at the semi-monthly meeting of Theta Epsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Tracey Wight and Laurel Rodgers presented the program on art and sculpture. Each member was asked to bring an item she wanted to be creative with.

After a brief history of art and sculpture, Tracey and Laurel showed some of the free form sculpture they created.

Then each member using dried leaves, flowers, weeds, wood, hangers, material, etc., created their own piece of free form sculpture.

This meeting, held at the DeBary home of Pat Shaver, was also the installation of officers for the upcoming year. The new officers are: Joyce Harvey, president; Pat Shaver, vice president; Nancy Hark, treasurer, and Karen Hillard, corresponding secretary.

A $25 check was forwarded to Kracie Kare for paint along with a $25 check for bibs as part of the service project for the year.

After installation of officers, members were served refreshments.

Zeta Xi

Members of Zeta Xi chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met in the home of Bonnie Jones, where they were given a crash course in handwriting analysis by Carl Lind, handwriting analyst.

Some members were surprised at many of Lind's comments and were treated to a brief analysis of their own handwriting which proved to be accurate.

Members also attended the Founder's Day Luncheon at Aggie's and honored their girl of the year, Virginia Powell. They held a ritual of welcome to honor new members

French Students Need Area Host Families

Pacific American Institute (PAI) of San Francisco, is sponsoring a summer homestay program for French students in the South Seminole-Orange County area. PAI is an international educational organization. Thirty students ages 14-20, will be in this area during the month of July studying American language and culture while living with local families.

Marty Fisher, Seminole program coordinator, is looking for families to host these students while they will be here. Host families will offer their French experience to the foreign students.

"It is a great opportunity for us to learn about French culture, and at the same time give a teen-ager an experience of a lifetime, one that couldn't be learned anywhere else," said Fisher.

Students are matched to host families according to family background and interests, and how they are similar to their new Florida families. The visitors will attend classes in language development and culture four days a week, also visiting an area attraction once a week. In addition, roller skating, swim parties, trips, dances, and beach days have already been planned.

Host families are being offered the unique experience of exchanging customs and traditions with a French visitor, making it a two-way learning opportunity. Host families will be invited to participate in all of the activities planned for the students.

Families that have hosted students in the past have all enjoyed the time spent with the students immensely. Most have made lifelong friends, often visiting each other many years after the summer experience. Some students from last year's host families will be going to France this summer to visit their French visitors from last year.

For information about this program contact Fisher at 882-4236 as soon as possible. The available students are going fast.

Cancer Patients Urged To Get Other Opinions

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to your request to hear from women who had been treated with radiation therapy instead of undergoing a mastectomy.

On my 35th birthday I learned that a golf ball-sized lump that had been removed from my right breast a few days before was malignant. After discussing the situation with my surgeon and learning that he felt he had removed all of the cancerous tissue (the procedure is called lumpectomy), I could not bring myself to accept the "usual" next step of a modified mastectomy.

My surgeon referred me to a radiologist who, after reviewing my medical record, decided that I was a good candidate for radiation therapy.

I then underwent six weeks of radiation therapy. Unlike the side effects experienced when many other parts of the body are treated, those produced by radiation on the breast are minimal — a slight cough, loss of hair under the arm, and the skin that is treated becomes less soft, darkens slightly, peels and becomes itchy.

It has been five years since my lump was removed, and the only visible evidence of my bout with cancer is a barely noticeable 1 1/2-inch scar!

Please feel free to use my name.

SUZANNE PHILLIPS, ROCHESTER, N.Y.

DEAR SUZANNE: Thanks to Juliet R. Ristom, who refused to accept her doctor's decision to undergo an immediate mastectomy for breast cancer, California became the second state (Massachusetts was the first) to require every physician to give a written summary of all options available to breast cancer patients.

I would urge every woman with breast cancer to get several opinions before deciding on therapy. Ask to be referred to a surgeon and a radiation therapist. And please, practice breast self-examination faithfully every month, because the only women who even have a chance are the ones who detect it early.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a healthy young man, married one month, who says to his bride: "I won't bother you very often for sex. I want a pal, not a sweetheart." And he's living up to it, too. NOT BOTHERED

DEAR NOT: He may be "healthy," but your marriage is sick. Tell him that unless he tries to fulfill his role as a husband, as far as you're concerned, the marriage won't work — that you didn't get married to live with a "pal." If he wants to be a husband, but can't, he should see a doctor. If he just plain doesn't want to, you should see a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I want to thank you for something I read in your column a long time ago that came in very handy when I needed it. It was the perfect answer to a rude and prying question.

Yesterday I ran into an acquaintance I had not seen in a long time. I am now in my eighth month of pregnancy, which is certainly obvious. When this acquaintance noticed my condition, she said, "Oh, I see you're expecting again." (I have three children who are all in school now.) Then she asked, "Was this one planned?"

Remembering your column, I smiled sweetly and said, "If anybody asks you, just tell 'em you don't know."

At first she was speechless. When she found her tongue, she chuckled and said, "I'm sorry. I suppose I shouldn't have asked that question." READS YOU IN FT. LAUDERDALE

Florida's Fitness Food

Here's To That Marvelous Milk Machine...The Cow

Florida is a colorful and unique state — a state rich in many different ways. Not many people — locals or tourists — would deny that!

After all, there are lakes and white beaches, forests and fields, hotels and motels and gators and seals. We have fruit trees and honey bees, carrots and cabbage, chickens and horses and "love" bugs in forces.

There are shrimp and fresh scallops, tourists and turtles, palms and bald cyprus, and strange birds to excite us!

But one of the most modern "Floridians" of "now" is that magnificent bovine the shy dairy cow.

Yes, Florida is a unique dairy state. It's no Wisconsin, the nation's leading dairy state, but it is the leading dairy state in the Southeast, and ranks in the national top 20.

Florida's 450 dairy farms are among the largest in the world. In Wisconsin dairy farms average about 50 cow herds, while in Florida 400 cow herds are commonplace. Florida has many herds with over 1000 head.

The "Sunshine" state's 187,000 milk cows were busy in 1980, pumping-out over 2 billion pounds (about 236 million gallons) of fresh fluid milk to supply the Florida market.

In 1980, the Florida Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, USDA, tallied 2.028 billion pounds of Florida produced milk — a gain of two percent over 1979's 1.996 billion.

The service also noted that cash receipts for Florida produced milk totaled nearly $317 million in 1980 — up 11 percent from 1979's $287 million.

Although the number of dairy cows on Florida farms declined from 188,000 in 1979 to 187,000 in 1980 — production increased. This points out a significant trend in today's progressive dairy industry — production per cow is increasing!

During the decade 1970-1980, on the average, Florida cows squeezed-out 26 percent more milk each. In 1970 production per cow stood at 8,582 pounds (about 1000 gallons), by 1980 it was 10,845, over 1260 gallons.

The U.S. average production per cow increased over 18 percent.

But in spite of these increases in production Florida dairy farmers are finding it more difficult to supply the state market, and more tanker loads of milk are rolling across state borders.

Bill Cammack, Chief, Bureau of Dairy Laboratories, Dairy Division, Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services recently reported that in 1980 a total of 4,891 tankers, hauling raw fluid milk trucked into Florida. At 56,000 pounds per load — that's a lot of milk. Also over 700 shiny tankers bearing cargos of cream and condensed skim milk cruised into the "Sunshine" state.

Cammack also noted that Florida imported 26.1 million lbs. of powdered milk, 10.7 million lbs. of packaged cream, 41.3 million lbs. of ice cream and ice milk, 32.5 million lbs. of butter, 47.1 million lbs. of cottage cheese, 26.3 million lbs. of yogurt and a whopping 128.6 million lbs. of cheese.

The Division of Dairy of the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services has the responsibility of enforcing Florida's strict dairy regulations.

Milk coming into the state must meet the same standards as the locally produced product.

Now's the time to balance your diet. Eat from the four basic food groups. Milk and milk products form one of these nutritious food groups. Toast that marvelous milk machine — the cow! Drink more "Milk — Florida's Fitness Food"!

DRINKS

Depend On Milk For Instant Pick-Me-Up

Searching for something different in snacks, appetizers, meal accompaniments or desserts? Count on dairy power for nutritious drinks anywhere, anytime.

These cool, delicious milk drinks actually fit in any of the categories mentioned. For a delightful pick-me-up, call on Peanut Butter Pleaser. It's an instant energizer, this tasty blend of peanut butter, honey and fresh whole milk. The drink provides protein and carbohydrates (honey) in a natural form, along with calcium, vitamins and other minerals.

Table buds call for something sharp and tasty to tease the appetite, but should not compete with the main course. Made-to-order for this is a Tangy Fruit Refresher made with fresh buttermilk, a bit of sugar and a trio of fruit juices.

When served with the main course, the beverage should be lightly flavored and not too filling. For this, there's nothing more welcome than a pitcher of frosty cold milk or milk lightly flavored with chocolate or cocoa. Tomato Twister combines chilled tomato juice, shredded cucumber and seasoning with fresh whole milk for a salad and sandwich accompaniment. Carrot Curler may be used in the same way for variety.

Slightly sweetened drinks, such as Spicy-Coconut Creamer, may offer a perfect finale to the meal, substituting for dessert. You need dip only lightly into the honey jar for this one.

Summer Outings Call For...

COOLER FARE

Tuna Noodle Layered Loaf
Zippy Olive Salad
Whole Wheat Scones Herbed Butter
Fruit Glazed Cheesecake
Chilled Milk

How would you like going on an outing without having to look for kindling, build a fire, stand over hot coals and cook? If you agree, then cooler cuisine is for you on any June day. Of course, you'll have to prepare the food, but it's easier at a leisurely pace in familiar, comfortable surroundings — your own kitchen. In fact, the entree and dessert can and should be put together the day before the picnic. Scones, Herbed Butter and salad dressing can be done even farther in advance than that.

TUNA NOODLE LAYERED LOAF

- Tuna Layer:
- 4 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
 - 1/4 cup cold water
 - 1 can (13 3/4 oz.) chicken broth, undiluted
 - 2 hard-cooked eggs
 - 2 small celery stalks with leaves
 - 1 can (12 1/2 oz.) tuna in water, drained and flaked
 - 1-3rd cup finely chopped green onion
 - 1-3rd cup finely chopped celery
 - 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- Noodle Layer:
- 2 cups egg noodles
 - 1 cup cooked peas
 - 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
 - 1 cup dairy sour cream
 - 2 tablespoons pickle relish
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon onion powder
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 4 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
 - 1/4 cup milk

For tuna layer, sprinkle gelatin over water to soften. Combine gelatin and broth. Heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved. Pour 1/4 cup of gelatin mixture into bottom of a 9 x 5-inch loaf pan. Arrange 3 egg slices and 2 small celery stalks decoratively on bottom of pan. Chill until almost firm. Meanwhile, chop remaining egg. Combine egg, tuna, onion, celery, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Stir in remaining gelatin mixture. Pour over egg-celery layer; chill until almost firm. Meanwhile, for noodle layer, cook noodles according to package directions; rinse and drain. Combine noodles, peas, cheese, sour cream, pickle relish and seasonings; mix well. Sprinkle gelatin over milk to soften. Heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved. Stir gelatin into noodle mixture. Spoon over tuna layer. Chill several hours or overnight. To serve, loosen edges with a spatula; invert onto serving plate. 6 to 8 servings.

NOTE: For taking to a picnic, remove loaf from pan at home. Place a wide strip of aluminum foil across bottom of pan with a few inches extending over sides of pan. Replace loaf in pan. Cover with foil. Lift out of pan and invert onto serving plate at picnic site.

FRUIT GLAZED CHEESECAKE

- Crust:
- 1 cup zwieback crumbs
 - 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter, melted
 - 2 tablespoons sugar
- Filling:
- 1 cup cottage cheese
 - 1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
 - 3/4 cup sugar
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 3 eggs, separated
 - 3 tablespoons flour
- Glaze: (Yield: 1 1/3rd cups)
- 1 1/2 cups fresh whole strawberries
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 1/2 cup water
 - 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
 - 2 tablespoons cornstarch
 - 1/4 cup water
 - 1-3rd cup fresh blueberries
 - 2 small nectarines, thinly sliced
 - 2 kiwi fruit, peeled and thinly sliced

For crust, combine all ingredients. Press onto bottom and sides of a 9-inch square baking pan. Refrigerate while preparing filling. For filling, beat cottage cheese in small mixing bowl on high speed of mixer until almost smooth, about 5 minutes; set aside. Beat cream cheese in large mixing bowl until light and fluffy. Beat in cottage cheese until smooth. Beat in sugar, vanilla and salt. Beat in egg yolks one at a time. Gradually blend in flour. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; fold into cheese mixture. Spoon into crust. Bake 30 to 60 minutes or until light brown on top; turn off heat; open oven door and let cake cool in oven. (It is normal for cake to sink slightly in center.) Refrigerate several hours or overnight. For glaze, mash 1/2 cup of the strawberries and place in saucepan with sugar, 1/2 cup water and lemon juice. Combine cornstarch and 1/4 cup water; add to fruit mixture. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 2 minutes. Strain and cool. Slice remaining strawberries. Top cheesecake with rows of strawberries, blueberries, nectarines and kiwi. Pour enough sauce over to glass. Pass remaining sauce. One 9-inch square cake.

HERBED BUTTER

- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter
 - 2 teaspoons sesame seed
 - 1 teaspoon thyme, crushed
- Whip butter in small mixing bowl until light and fluffy. Add sesame seed and thyme; mix until well blended. Serve with Whole Wheat Scones. Yield: 1 cup.
- NOTE: Herbed Butter may be stored, covered, in refrigerator up to 1 month.

Tuna Noodle Layered Loaf, right, and Fruit Glazed Cheesecake are both practical and delicious for serving at a summer outing.

Barbecuing Way Of Life In Florida

Cookouts are fun and also get the cook out of the kitchen. Whether you grill on a hibachi or use the most accessorized gas or electric smoker unit, there always is room for another new barbecue treat to try.

Grilled chicken breasts, for example, take on more excitement when they are boned and stuffed with shrimp, mushrooms and peppers and basted with a special sauce. Or, combine ribs and chicken for a special cookout platter.

GRILLED CHICKEN BREASTS STUFFED WITH SHRIMP

- 1 cup chopped fresh mushrooms
- 1 red and 1 green pepper, chopped
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 pound small shrimp, cooked, shelled and deveined
- 2 cups herb stuffing mix
- 1/4 cup cranberry juice cocktail
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 8 whole boned chicken breasts
- Salt and pepper
- 1 cup prepared Italian oil and vinegar salad dressing
- 1/2 cup jellied cranberry sauce

In a skillet, saute red and green peppers and mushrooms in butter 5 minutes. Chop shrimp and add to mushroom mixture. Stir in stuffing, mix cranberry juice cocktail and egg. Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper and stuff with mixture. Secure chicken breasts with skewers.

Place on grill 8 inches above gray coals and grill for 10 minutes on each side. In a bowl, beat salad dressing with cranberry sauce until smooth. Brush mixture over chicken breasts every 5 minutes while grilling breasts another 15 minutes on each side. Serve with foil-wrapped grilled whole baked apples or pears and ears of baked corn in their husks. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

BARBECUE RIBS AND CHICKEN

- 3 pounds whole chicken, cut in quarters
 - 3 pounds pork spare ribs, cut into rib sections
 - Salt and pepper
 - 1 can (16 ounces) whole berry cranberry sauce
 - 1 cup ketchup
 - 1/2 cup vegetable oil
 - 1 small onion, minced
 - Juice of 1 lemon and 1 orange
- Trim excess fat from chicken and ribs. Sprinkle chicken and ribs with salt and pepper. Place on grill 8 inches above gray coals and grill for 15 minutes each side. In a saucepan, mix together remaining ingredients and heat on grill.

Brush ribs and chicken with cranberry mixture every 5 minutes and grill ribs and chicken another 10 minutes on each side. Heat any remaining sauce; spoon over each serving. Serve with fresh sweet potatoes baked in the coals or yams and grilled wedges of fresh pineapple. To cut costs, use more chicken pieces and fewer ribs. This kitchen-tested recipe make 6 servings.

Baste stuffed chicken or ribs with cranberry sauce.

Microwave A Tasty Black Forest Torte

The traditional German recipes have been passed down through families for generations. Now, with your microwave oven, these delicious family favorites can be quick and easy. Black Forest Torte, an elegant chocolate cake, and Wiener Schnitzel are two recipes from a microwave oven cookbook that combine traditional dishes and modern cooking convenience.

BLACK FOREST TORTE

Total cooking time: 19 minutes

- 1 16-ounce can pitted dark sweet cherries
- 1 3 cup kirsch
- 1 2-layer-size package chocolate cake mix
- 4 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1 pound sifted powdered sugar (4 1/4 cups)
- 3 egg yolks

Chocolate shot

- 1 1-ounce square semisweet chocolate, finely shaved
 - Maraschino cherries
 - Chocolate curls
- Drain cherries, reserving 1/4 cup syrup. Halve the cherries and pour kirsch over; let stand at least 2 hours.

Prepare cake mix according to package directions. Line bottom of two 8 x 1 1/2-inch round cake dishes with waxed paper. Pour 2 cups batter into each dish. (Use remainder for cupcakes.) Cook, one layer at a time, at MEDIUM for 6 to 7 minutes, giving dish half turn once. Cook at HIGH for 1 minute or till done. Cool 10 minutes in baking dishes. Remove cakes from pan and cook on rack.

Place cornstarch in 4-cup glass measure. Gradually blend in the reserved cherry syrup; add cherry-kirsch mixture. Cook at HIGH for 4 to 5 minutes or till thickened and bubbly, stirring 4 times. Cool, then chill.

In small mixer bowl, soften butter at LOW for 1 minute. Beat butter and powdered sugar till smooth. Beat in egg yolks and continue beating till light and fluffy.

Place one layer cake on serving plate. From 1 cup butter mixture, make a 1/2-inch border (1 1/4 inches high) around top of cake. Use 1/2 cup butter mixture to make a solid circle in center of cake, about 2 1/4 inches in diameter and 1 1/4 inches high (same height as border).

Spread chilled cherry filling between border and center of butter mixture. Place second cake layer on top; press down just enough to make layers stick together.

Cover top and sides of both layers with remaining butter mixture. Sprinkle sides with chocolate shot. Top with shaved chocolate, maraschino cherries, and chocolate curls. Chill. Let stand at room temperature about 20 minutes before serving.

WIENER SCHNITZEL

- 1 pound veal round, 3/4 inch thick, cut in 4 portions
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 beaten egg
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons cooking oil
- Lemon wedges

Pound veal till about 1/4 inch thick. Cut small slits along edges of meat to prevent curling. Stir together thoroughly flour, salt, and pepper. Combine egg and milk. Coat veal with flour mixture; dip in egg mixture, then coat with crumbs.

Preheat Meal Browner browning dish at HIGH for 5 minutes. Add 1 tablespoon oil to browning dish. Swirl half the veal in oil in browning dish. Cook at HIGH for 2 minutes. Remove veal and keep warm.

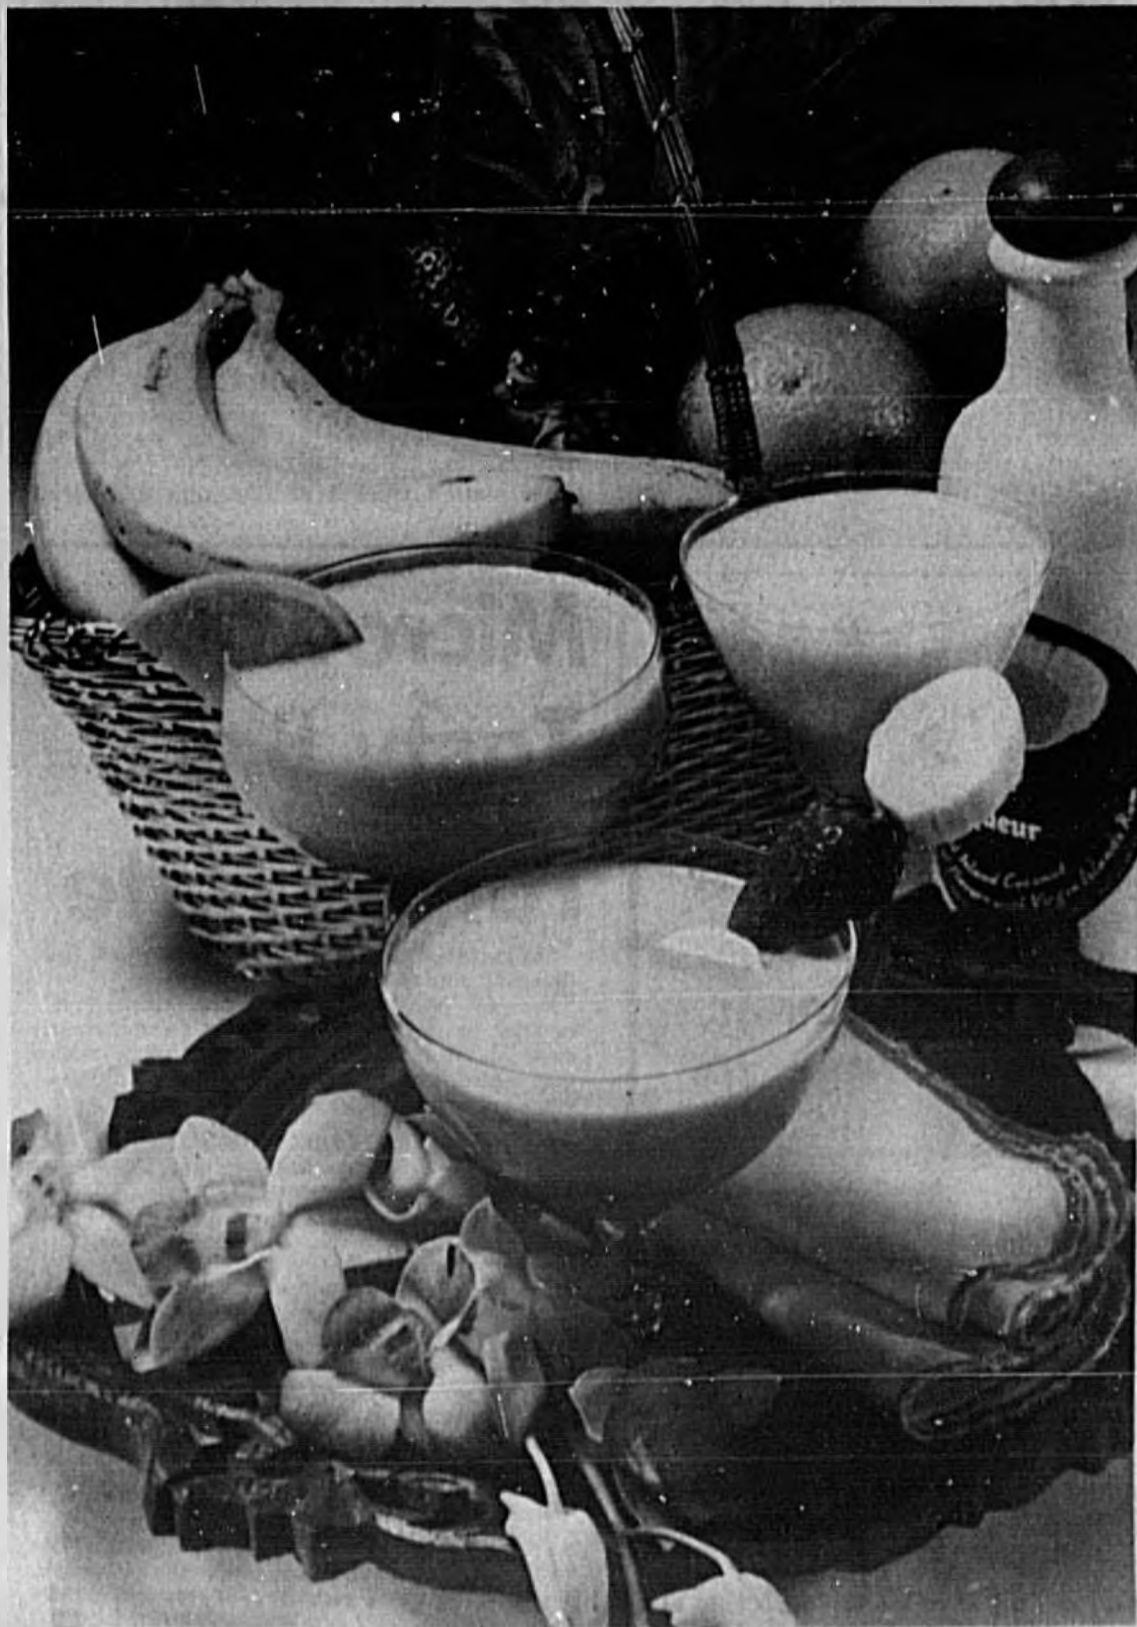

Preheat browning dish at HIGH for 3 minutes. Add 1 tablespoon oil to browning dish. Swirl remaining veal in oil. Cook at HIGH for 2 minutes. Turn and cook at HIGH for 2 minutes. Serve with lemon wedges. Makes 4 servings.

MICRO TIP: Freshen up those stale snacks by placing about 2 cups snack chips (corn chips, potato chips, or whatever) in a shallow baking dish. Heat, uncovered, at HIGH for one minute. Let stand one to two minutes before servings.

Black Forest Torte: elegant chocolate cake.

Tropical Patio Drinks Whisper Of The Caribbean

A refreshing medley of tropical drinks made with bananas and coconut rum liqueur enliven a summer day.

You can transport the tropics to your patio or poolside with cooling drinks that whisper of the Caribbean.

The summertime pleasures of lazing by the pool, swaying in a hammock, or stretching out in a chaise lounge on the terrace are enhanced by frosty drinks that blend the complementary tastes of coconut rum liqueur and luscious bananas.

In fact, the flavors of banana and coconut are so popular that serving these drinks invites instant applause.

These extraordinary beverages of varying hues recall island fantasies. But they are as accessible as your blender, and very easy to make. And while bananas, available year round, are such a familiar item on the American table, the drinks will remind you of their island origins. Be sure to choose completely ripe bananas to give these drinks the fullest dimension of the fruit's mellow sweetness.

Banana Boat is a sunny chocolate coconut drink that imparts the velvety texture of coconut rum liqueur and the lively banana. With vanilla ice cream, creme de cacao and crushed ice, it is an uplifting version of a thirst-quenching banana shake.

Mango Fandango glows with shades of a Caribbean sunset. The combination of mango, orange and pineapple juice, accented by the lush duo of coconut and banana, makes it so delectable that you're convinced you're vacationing in the tropics.

A drink that is as pink as a little girl's frock — but ever more sophisticated — is Banana Craze. A splash of club soda over a mix of Creme de Almond, heavy cream, banana and coconut rum liqueur gives it a fizzy foam.

Because of their richness, these fanciful drinks can be served instead of dessert, or, if you prefer, as aperitifs. They will roll on your tongue like the rhythmic sounds of "banana" and "CocoRibe."

Go For Eggs

People on the go, go for eggs. They're quick to fix and can be prepared in an incredible number of ways. Whatever your preference — poached, fried, scrambled or baked — they're high in protein and low in cost.

Unexpected guests? Eggs can save the day when you need a meal in minutes. Why not serve elegant omelets? The speed with which you can create omelets makes them a good choice for any spur-of-the-moment meal.

We all need protein, but where it comes from is up to us. Some protein sources cost less than others, but are still high in quality. Eggs are a good example. Egg protein is of such high quality, it's sometimes used as the standard of comparison for other protein foods. Yet, when Large eggs cost $1.13 a dozen, they're only 67 cents a pound. Now, that's incredible!

The incredible edible egg has symbolized many different things in various cultures throughout the span of time. Ancient people often associated the egg with spring because both represented creation. The egg later took on religious significance during certain holidays celebrated in the spring. The Easter egg, for example, has long represented Christ's Resurrection, while the Passover Seder plate's roasted egg has signified life everlasting.

Play it safe. Always keep hard-cooked eggs on hand. They'll give you a tasty start on salads, sandwiches and canneroles. Whenever your day is hectic or you don't feel like doing much in the kitchen, you can serve a delicious main dish in a hurry when you count on hard-cooked eggs.

LET'S CELEBRATE Dad's Day...His Way

Although the idea of Father's Day was originated in the early 1900's by a woman in Spokane, Washington, the first national observance of the occasion was recommended by President Calvin Coolidge in 1924 "to establish more intimate relations between fathers and their children, and to impress upon fathers the full measure of their obligations."

Ever since that time, mothers and children have thought up ways to create a special day for the special man in the family. For many that means a special meal. Since every dad has his own unique "style," plan this year's Father's Day meal to fit his tastes, whether that calls for a gourmet touch or burgers in the backyard. And if Dad enjoys being creative with his barbecue grill, this is the perfect day to make him head chef.

This is accompanied by raw vegetables, perfect for dipping in a barbecue sauce-based Thousand Island Dressing.

For the dad with the gourmet palate, try Lemony Grilled Fish. It's filled with a snappy stuffing and brushed with a delectable lemon-barbecue sauce.

Some other hearty treats to make Dad's day extra special include Summerfest Kabobs, a colorful combination of fresh vegetables and lamb cubes barbecued kabob-style, and Round Steak Roll-Ups with a savory filling of chopped zucchini, carrot and onion, and Monterey Jack cheese with jalapeno peppers. Those hamburger-lovin' dads haven't been forgotten, either.

This recipe for El Paso Burgers brings a Mexican flavor to barbecuing burgers, with crushed corn chips, barbecue sauce, chopped green chilies, and chopped onion in the meat mixture, and a "Salsa" of whole kernel corn and chopped tomato, celery, green pepper, and onion mixed with bottled barbecue sauce.

To make the meal a real family affair, let the kids pitch in, too. There are lots of things the little ones can do, from tearing up some greens for a salad, to shaping hamburger patties. And with minimum guidance, even the younger children can brush on the barbecue sauce. The important part of this family day is that everyone can have the personal satisfaction that they "helped" to make the day special for Dad...his way.

POTPOURRI

Cheese Spreads From Leftover Bits

The French cook is as conscious of thrift as she is of fine taste... never, never is good food wasted. For the problem of bits of leftover cheeses she has an ingenious solution... a melange of morsels of overripe fromage combined with pungent seasoning to complement the robust cheese flavors. The mixtures are easy to make... simply combine in a crock leftover cheeses such as Beaufort, Brie, Explorateur, Roquefort and Chevre. Beaufort is a semi-soft variety from the French Alps with a fine nutty flavor and distinctive "eyes"; Brie is one of the most celebrated soft-ripened cheeses from the Ile de France; Roquefort, made exclusively of sheep's milk, is known as king of the blue-veined family; Chevre is the tangy goat's milk cheese of France. Add butter to gentle the taste, some Herbes de Provence, the French all-in-one seasoning, and a lacing of Cotes du Rhone red wine. Serve on slices of French baguette and accompany with a simple carafe of wine — red Cotes du Rhone or chilled Macon blanc.

CHEESE SPREAD A LA FRANCAISE

(Makes about 3 cups)

2 cups (1 lb.) well-packed French cheeses: Beaufort, Brie, Explorateur, Roquefort, Chevre, etc.
 1/2 cup butter
 1/4 cup Cotes du Rhone red wine
 1/4 cup Herbes de Provence

Combine all ingredients and beat until well-blended. Pack into a crock, cover and chill until ready to serve. Spread on thin slices of French baguette. Can also be used to top mushroom caps, celery pieces, or cherry tomatoes.

HAMMEDLEY

3 cups cubed cooked ham, 1/2-inch cubes
 2 cups chicken broth
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 2 medium onions, sliced
 1 cup uncooked rice
 1 can (14 1/2 to 16 ounces) tomatoes
 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
 1 large green pepper, cut into thin strips

Place meat in a large skillet. Add broth, seasonings, and onions. Sprinkle rice over top. Heat to boiling, stir well, lower heat, cover, and simmer for 15 minutes or until rice is tender. Stir in tomatoes, mustard, and green pepper. Heat about 5 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

CREOLE BAKE CHICKEN

2-1/2 pounds cut-up chicken
 1 envelope Shake 'n Bake seasoned coating mix for chicken — barbecue style
 1 large or 2 medium Bermuda onions, cut into 1/4-inch slices
 2 medium green peppers, cut into strips

Wash chicken pieces and gently pat dry, leaving slightly moist. Empty seasoned coating mix into shaker bag. Shake 2 or 3 pieces at a time in bag until evenly coated. Spread onion slices and green pepper strips in a 13x9-inch pan; top with chicken pieces and sprinkle any remaining mix evenly over the chicken. Bake at 350 degrees for about 30 minutes, or until tender. Place chicken on serving platter, and spoon vegetables around chicken. Stir the sauce in the pan to blend, and spoon over vegetables. Makes 4 servings.

SUNNY ORANGE-TOPPED ANGEL FOOD CAKE

1 package white angel food cake mix
 2 teaspoons grated orange peel
 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
 2 tablespoons orange juice
 1 package creamy white frosting mix.

Prepare cake mix as directed on package except—after beating, fold in 2 teaspoons orange peel. Bake and cool as directed. Remove from pan.

Beat cream cheese, 1 teaspoon orange peel and the orange juice in small bowl on low speed until blended. Beat on medium speed until fluffy. Beat in half of the frosting mix (dry) until smooth. (Reserve remaining frosting mix for future use.) If necessary, beat in additional orange juice, 1/4 teaspoon at a time, until glaze is of desired consistency. Spread glaze over top of cake, allowing sauce to drizzle down sides. Refrigerate until chilled, about 30 minutes. Refrigerate any remaining glazed cake.

CORN STUFFED PEPPERS

Remove tops and seeds from 5 small bell peppers. Place seeded peppers in boiling water for 2 minutes. Remove and set cut side down on paper towels to drain. Thaw a 12 oz. package of corn soufflé, combine with 1/2 cup sunflower kernels. Spoon mixture into pepper shells, place in shallow baking dish and sprinkle 1/4 cup coarsely grated cheddar cheese over corn filling. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 25 to 30 minutes, or until peppers are tender. Serves 5.

A cool glass of sparkling mineral water with a generous squeeze of lime is a delicious thirst quencher. It's great after an exercise session or anytime as an alternative to higher-calorie beverages. 'Secret Ingredient' Inspires Contest

Try never-fail meringue torte.

"Meringue" — the very word conjures up visions of fluffy, soft, cloud-like desserts; delectable and elegant, but light as a feather. Yet anyone who's tried a hand at making meringue will attest that it can be tricky.

Fortunately, there is a secret ingredient which makes elegant meringue desserts practically foolproof. Marshmallow creme is the secret ingredient that will help you create winning desserts for your family and friends.

The special meringue dessert pictured is an example of a recipe that might be given consideration for judging in an exciting recipe contest using that "secret ingredient." It's called the Kraft Marshmallow Creme "Easy Secret Ingredient" Recipe Contest and complete rules follow:

CONTEST RULES

1. The 1981 Kraft Marshmallow Creme "Easy Secret Ingredient" Recipe Contest seeks home recipes that are easy to make, fast to prepare, and require a minimal number of ingredients.

Send entries to: Kraft Marshmallow Creme "Easy Secret Ingredient" Recipe Contest, P.O. Box 11317, Dept. N, Chicago, Illinois 60611. Enter as often as you wish, but only one of your entries may be a winner. Each entry must be sent in a separate envelope and must include:

A. Your recipe entry with your name, complete address and the recipe category printed on the top right hand corner. Every recipe entered must include Kraft marshmallow creme as an ingredient and must fall under one of the four contest categories.

B. The back label from any size jar of Kraft marshmallow creme. No proof of purchase required by Florida residents.

2. Contest Recipe Categories:
A. Easy Recipes For Kids. Recipes in this category should be easy enough for a child to prepare, or the type of recipe that would appeal particularly to children.

B. Start With A Convenience Product. Recipes in this category are made easier with the use of convenience products such as mixes, canned or frozen products.

C. Make-Ahead Desserts. In this category, recipes may be completely prepared well ahead of serving time, to save last-minute steps for busy cooks.

D. Special Occasion Dishes. Recipes in this category are elegant enough for company, yet quick and easy to prepare.

3. Recipe Entry. Print or type your recipe using Kraft marshmallow creme on a plain sheet of 8 1/2" x 11" paper. Your name, complete address and the recipe category must appear on the top right hand corner. List every recipe ingredient with exact standard U.S. measurements. Give complete directions for preparation, number of servings, size of pan and any special utensils-cookware used, and cooking times and temperatures. Ingredients should be generally available.

4. Entries must be postmarked by midnight October 31, 1981, and received by November 14, 1981. In case of duplicate recipes, the one with the earliest postmark date will be judged. All entries become the property of Kraft, Inc.; none will be returned. No communications or correspondence will be entered into.

By entering this contest, winners agree to the use of their names, likeness and entry, recipe or title, in any form for publicity, advertising and/or trade purposes by Kraft, Inc. and its agencies without additional compensation. Winners acknowledge that Kraft, Inc. is the owner of the recipe and may alter or amend it to meet the Kraft recipe preparation standards.

5. Judging. Twenty-five (25) recipes will be selected from each category and judged as semi-finalists by Marian Tripp Communications, Inc., an independent judging organization, and a panel of Kraft Home Economists. Final selection of the five top prize winners, a Grand Prize Winner and First Prize Winner in each category, will be made by a panel of independent nationally recognized food authorities under the supervision of Marian Tripp Communications, Inc.

All recipes will be judged on ease and convenience of preparation, originality, good taste, appetizing appearance and the appropriate use of Kraft marshmallow creme.

Favorite family recipes collected and used over time are eligible as are newly created recipes. However, in the process of selecting the semi-finalists, the judging organization will disqualify recipes which it knows to have been previously published or which have been winners in national contests, unless they feature changes which in its judgment are significant. By entering, you warrant that, to the best of your knowledge, the recipe submitted has not been so published. Judges' decisions are final.

6. 100 prizes will be awarded as follows:
— One Grand Prize of $5,000 will be awarded for the best-of-contest recipe of all the four recipes of all the four recipe categories.

— Four First Prizes of $1,000 will be awarded for the best recipe in each of the four recipe categories.

— Fifteen Second Prizes of $100 to finalists.

— Eighty Third Prizes of the Kraft Cookbook to semi-finalists.

Winners will be notified within ninety (90) days of contest close. All prizes will be awarded. Any taxes applicable are the sole responsibility of the winners.

7. Contest is open to residents of USA, its territories, APO-FPO Addresses, except employees of Kraft, Inc., its advertising and publicity agencies, the judging organization and their immediate families living within the household. Excluded also are professionals such as chefs, food editors and home economists who are involved in the preparation of food or recipes as a profession, and those living in a household with such a professional.

8. Contest void where prohibited or restricted by law. All Federal, State and local laws apply.

9. For a list of the top 100 Prize Winners, send a self-addressed stamped No. 10 size envelope (4 1/4" x 5 1/2") to Kraft marshmallow creme "Easy Secret Ingredient" Contest, P.O. Box 11257, Chicago, IL 60611.

Good Eating

50 Necessary Nutrients: Are You Getting Them?

More so today than ever before, people are concerned about what they eat. Why? Largely because of the influence of low-nutrient, high-calorie "empty foods". These foods have soared to popularity because of convenience, ease of preparation and the time they can save...but for all of this, what do they offer our bodies in terms of nutrients?

Wise food choices depend on knowledge — knowledge of what your body's needs are and how you can best supply them. Scientists have determined that the human body needs about 50 different nutrients to keep itself functioning properly! Ten of these are considered to be "leader nutrients", and they are protein, calcium, carbohydrate, fat, vitamins A and C, B vitamins, thiamine and riboflavin, niacin and iron.

These so-called "leader nutrients" are important because the foods they are contained in are usually also good sources of the other 40 nutrients. The key: Eat the right foods, in the right amounts.

Let's face it, Americans are generally "well fed" with obesity an ever-increasing problem. What is needed is knowledge of what foods will give the most nutrients for the least amount of calories.

Each year the U.S. Department of Agriculture summarizes the nutrient content of the U.S. food supply. With respect to getting "more" for "less" as calories go, milk and milk products rank very high.

Of the 10 "leader nutrients", milk provides 74 percent of the calcium needed daily, 30 percent of the riboflavin, 23 percent of the protein, and 13 percent of the vitamin A (more if you eat butter!) as well as contributions to other nutrient needs. Other good news is that milk products provide all of this and only supply 11 percent of your daily calories!

The meat, fruit-vegetable and grain groups are the other three food groups necessary to meet your body's demands. Just beware of all the foods you eat that don't fall into any of these four food group categories! They usually supply far more calories than they do nutrients! (PRN)

Divorce was possible in early China. However, a man could not divorce his wife if: she had no family to return to, she had shared his three year mourning period for his parents, or she had married him when he was poor and he had since become rich.

Couple Trying But No Children

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 20-year-old female and have been married since I was 17. In these three years neither my husband nor I have used any protection against pregnancy. I don't understand why I haven't gotten pregnant.

Also I have problems with my menstrual cycles. It usually only lasts four days. The first two days I experience awful pain and heavy bleeding. The next two I only bleed in drops, then it stops. Could this have something to do with my not becoming pregnant? Sometimes my menstrual period will only last two or three days. Other times it will be normal and last five or six days.

DEAR DR. LAMB—About 10 years ago my husband had a partial pancreas operation. The incision herniated after a couple of years, through the scar in the upper center of the abdomen. Two years ago he had gall bladder surgery. The surgeon tried to correct the hernia from the original surgery but it didn't work. Then he had a repair of a double hernia of the groin. The surgeon decided against trying to correct the hernia in the big scar again.

My husband is 230 pounds and it looks absolutely awful through his clothes. What danger is there in this? The doctor says lose weight and wear a corset. Neither is acceptable to my husband.

DEAR DR. LAMB—You can't expect much for patients who will not follow advice and the patient should not expect much either. Most such hernias can be managed with external support, as recommended by your husband's doctor. Weight control is important. There is probably not much hope for a successful surgical repair unless he really gets his weight down. All that fat inside the abdomen creates so much pressure that something is going to give.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Thursday, June 4, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 4, 1981
You are likely to strike a very good balance in your personal affairs this coming year. You will devote time to pleasurable pursuits and adequate effort to fulfilling ambitions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Instead of challenge discouraging you today, it's likely to increase your resolve and bring out those better, assertive qualities that urge you on.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Control events today, instead of letting them dominate you, especially in matters relating to your finances. Taking the initiative assures success. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 488, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You have the ability today to handle critical situations for yourself, as well as for others. You're apt to be tested in both areas. You'll do well.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Others find much to admire in you today. They know you are aware of their shortcomings, yet you're tolerant, understanding and helpful.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Even though associates may do things for personal gain today, your aspirations are likely to be much nobler. You'll put good deeds before greed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Winning won't come that easy today, yet win you will. What's more important: You won't make a big deal about difficulties you had to overcome.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Unfortunately, others may not be as eager to share today as you are. However, this won't stop you from divvying up fairly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You're very good today at sizing up others to determine what it takes to make them allies; yet you won't use this edge unkindly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
You could find routine work a trifle too boring today, but tasks requiring imagination will arouse your enthusiasm and give you pride of accomplishment.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
You have a knack today for managing others while letting them think that they are the boss. You won't be seeking personal credit, just solid results.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
A situation may arise today requiring you to make a serious decision regarding a loved one. For happiest results, permit your heart to rule your head.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
A matter affecting your security may look more ominous on the surface today than it really is. You have the smarts to convert negatives into positives.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Berthe translated from the French by Barry Seabrook.

We have changed his cards a trifle, but the principle involved in the final six-diamond contract is his. South takes his ace of hearts and plays the ace and king of trumps. West shows out and South has a sure trump loser. In such cases, it is advisable to look for a way to develop an end play. South's first thought is to play the hearts, discard a spade on dummy's third heart, cash the ace-king of spades, ruff dummy's last spade and throw East in with his high trump. If East holds the queen of clubs he will have been endplayed.

South does exactly that, but Berthe points out that South should also do a little counting along the way. If he does he will note that East has shown three trumps, followed to three hearts and played three spades while West will have discarded on the third spade. Hence, East was dealt five spades and cannot have more than two clubs. So South cashes the ace and king of clubs, throws East in and gets a ruff and discard since East is down to spades.

Each issue of "International Popular Bridge" includes a teaching article by Robert By Onwald Jacoby and Alan Soatag.
