Many New Inventions Of Unusual Mechanical Type Have Been Made Recently

PITTSBURG, Feb. 16.—Scientists leaping forward in great strides, is recording new inventions and achievements whose very suggestion in the dim and distant past would have excited thoughtful ridicule.

In proof whereof there is offered the exhibits which the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company presented at the midwinter session of the National Association of Iron and Steel Engineers, attended by 250 experts from all parts of the United States.

Some of the exhibits, developed by Westinghouse engineers, are:

The "Televox"—a "mechanical man" which receives orders over the telephone and executed them automatically doing such domestic duties as sweeping, dish-washing, etc.

A "Photo-glow" tube—a device which controls electric currents by its sensitivity to light and shadow.

Counting Shadows
A "shadow-counter"—an instrument for tabulating attendance. A beam of light was centered on a delicate relay, extremely sensitive to shadows. A person interposed with the light beam thus casting a shadow on the relay which then operated a meter similar to that on a street car which "rings-up" fares. The working principle of this invention revolves around the photo-glow tube. A coil magnet capable of lifting 30 times its own weight.

A new electric locomotive—which eliminates the "third rail" and overhead trolley.
An automatic rolling mill—a miniature rolling-mill was constructed to show how a billet of steel could be automatically carried through various process of rolling and shearing. This was done by means of the photo-glow and an ingenious method of time limit control which prevented over straining of motive equipment, speeded production and eliminated more labor and overhead.

Following the exposition of these very latest achievements of Westinghouse engineers, the discussion turned to other inventions which attracted wide attention during 1927. These were:

"The Sound Analyzer"—The grid-glow—a current controlling device so sensitive it can be operated by the mere approach of a human hand. It was by means of a grid-glow that the late Judge Elbert H. Gary sat in his office in New York and put into operation the huge new electrical steel works at Homestead at the completion of the part of a $37,000,000 improvement program in the U. S. Steel plants at Homestead, Braddock, Duquesne, and other points in the Pittsburgh district.

Judge Gary merely held his hand about two inches from the grid-glow and then waved, the energy thus created being caught by the grid-glow and being transferred within a few seconds to Homestead, several hundred miles distant.

"The Sound Analyzer"—an instrument which picks up the hum of an approaching airplane and automatically turns on the floodlights at flying fields. A demonstration of this was made at Bell's Field, airmail port, and the flyer was enabled to make a perfect landing on a brilliantly lighted field out of a pitch-black sky.

Months found only in cars of the highest luxury type, rubber spring mountings have been passed along by the operation of Chrysler's Standardized Quality principle to other Chrysler models, the "72" and "62." Their remarkable enhancement of riding ease was thus made available for the first time in the moderate priced automobile field. Metal shackles are entirely dispensed with, spring ends being anchored in blocks of live rubber.

In addition to this use in spring suspension, rubber is effectively applied by Chrysler engineers in other ways to insure quiet, long-lived operation and a high degree of passenger comfort. Among the uses of rubber recently devised by them is its application to cushion engine mountings, also a development primarily for Imperial "80" cars, and transmitted from them to the other Chrysler models. Here also, direct metal-to-metal contact is obviated, sound vibrations are kept from passing through the frame into the body of the car, and much improved riding ease is achieved.

Women of Paris have a new fad in a brooch for carrying flowers. It is in the shape of a chrysanthemum, and is composed of French paste. It is especially designed to hold the large button-hole bouquets of fresh flowers that are now popular.

2,000 HOUSES; 2,000 RADIOS
That he will erect 2,000 houses, each equipped with a radio receiving set, has been announced by a real estate promoter in England. Each house will have a two-valve set, complete with loud speaker, the aerial being erected beneath the roof.

FAMILY COSTUMES IN PARIS
Whole families of children in Paris are dressing alike this season. In the Bois may be seen two or three or even more sisters all garbed exactly the same, even to their socks and shoes. Small boys also now have smocks or sailor suits made of the same material as their sisters' dresses.

KINGS OF VAUDEVILLE UNITE THEIR REALMS

The greatest theatrical organization ever founded was launched this week when 700 theaters with a combined audience of 3,500,000 people were brought together by the merging of the Keith, the Orpheum, and several other circuits. E. F. Albee, manager of the vaudeville, Robert Lehman, of Lehman Brothers, who brought about the union; and Marcus Heiman, Western manager, are shown in New York signing the final arrangements. The theatres involved play to the equivalent of the entire population of the United States five times a week.

FOR 1928 BABY BUNTING

Up-to-date Baby Buntings are not necessarily wrapped in rabbit skins. A quilted crib cover like the one shown here, with two alert pink or blue bunnies standing guard on it, answers the purpose just as well.

The bunnies are first cut out of the gingham and applied to the quilted crib cover. The eyes are embroidered in black. Then the wadding is planned or basted to the top and the quilting is begun, always working from the inside outwards. A fairly short running stitch is used, going all the way through the wool sheving. When the quilting is done, use the second flour bag to make the back and bind all the edges with a two-inch fold of the gingham.

A small baby pillow to match, only worked without the wool lining, is an attractive addition and can be made out of the strips left over from cutting out the crib cover.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

LOVE CASTS OUT FEAR: There is no fear in love, but perfect love casteth out fear; because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love.

PRAYER: O Lord, help us to realize that now abideth faith, hope, love, but the greatest of these is love.

STUDY IN GRAY

In the New York Herald Tribune All of the beautiful words are worn and dusty. All the dear phrases tarnished by the years; Love's secret places and its altars lonely; Swept by the rain of silent, unshed tears.

Down the dark sky the whispers of the evening Like a bird's flight pass on their soundless wings; Only a whisper echoes within the twilight; Only a sigh of half-forgotten things.

Mc Adoo still chosen to talk much to the discomfort of Al Smith.

The Florida State News suggests that we give Paul Beaumont the horse laugh.

"Organization Cited As Need of Citrus Men"—headline. And we might add, celery men.

A recent suit has cost the Duke estate eight million dollars which is unusual even for these days of high prices.

If Charles Lindbergh were as much worried about his own fate as other people are for him, he wouldn't be long.

We have heard so little from the Tampa gubernatorial candidate recently that we are moved to wonder if he is still in the race.

We'll bet the Senate committee wishes that all witnesses brought before it were as agreeable and as helpful as John D. Rockefeller.

Princess Anastasia—you know, one of those Russian royalty who were killed during the revolution—is now visiting Mrs. William B. Heeds in New York.

Now someone has presented Coolidge with an onion farm, the inference probably being that now he will have a chance to know his onions.

The defense is trying to have a brain test made of Hickman. We know some folks would like to make that test with a meat slaver.

Among others, Edison, Ford and Firestone are for Hoover. The Democrats will need a strong man to oppose him, one not likely to excite animosity.

If you do not think there are motorists in Sanford, notice the number of foreign license plates you will see on cars on First Street. We believe there are more out-of-state cars here this winter than ever before.

They are having a gas war in Miami with the precious fluid now selling at eighteen cents while a tank full of oil free of charge is given every purchaser of gas. We had a gas war over here once, but nobody's been given anything yet.

It is an unusual co-incident that the War Time leader of the British government, and the leader of the League should have died side by side; peculiar too, that the former should have ruled in politics during the first part of the war while the latter headed the armies during the last part.

Just "Idling" Along

One of our subscribers very kindly calls our attention to an error occurring in a recent editorial in which we stated that "Old men who remember the last days of the last century recall that twenty-five miles an hour, with any horse and buggy was a 'right smart clip,' while 'idling' was no better than five or six." Our friend requests that we advise him where he can purchase a horse that can run twenty-five miles an hour and adds that "Fifteen miles is pretty fast speed for any kind of a horse, but twenty-five miles an hour is traveling some."

We cannot imagine what anyone, in this day of automobiles, speedboats, and airplanes, would want with a "horse that can run twenty-five miles an hour" unless to use him on the race tracks or polo fields. Consequently we are forced to the conclusion that this is what he proposes to do. We readily yield to his inference that if "fifteen miles an hour is pretty fast speed for any kind of a horse," one that could do twenty-five would not only be a money-maker but also a miracle.

However, if we could produce such an animal, we fear our friend would be doomed to disappointment as to what he could do with him. We fear that he would find that he had only an ordinary horse. Pacers and trotters did better than twenty-five miles an hour forty and fifty years ago and with the proper application of the breeding and training methods of recent years, their speed has been consistently increased. Running horses have been known to do as much as forty five miles an hour for short distances.

We refer our friend to the record made by Uhlun at Lexington in 1913 when that fine horse trotted a mile in 1:54 1/2, or if our arithmetic still serves, better than thirty-one miles an hour. In more recent years Peter Manning, another famous trotter, has covered the mile in 1:56 1/2. For pacers, Dan Patch, as far back as 1906 had hung up a record for the mile in 1:55. In 1916 Directum I paced a half mile at Syracuse in 1:55 1/2, or better than thirty-two miles an hour.

So far we have been writing only of the slower gaits. Horses pace and trot when they are "idling." A right smart clip might possibly refer only to a running horse. In 1926 Bubbling Over won the Kentucky Derby, running a mile and a fourth in 2:38, or nearly thirty-six miles an hour. In 1923 the famous Wise Counsellor did a mile at Churehill Downs in 1:37.4, or over thirty-seven miles an hour. The incomparable Man of War captured the Withers Stakes at Belmont Park in 1920 galloping the mile in 1:35.8.

We trust our friend has not been bored by the humdrum repetition of these statistics, but we have only tried to show him that if we produced a horse that could do no better than twenty-five miles an hour, he could not win races with him, and for other purposes in our modern era even the humble Ford is more completely satisfactory.

The Smith Propaganda

New York newspapers supporting Al Smith for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, have given considerable publicity and comment to a statement attributed to Herbert Felkel, St. Augustine editor, that the Florida delegation to the Houston convention will be largely for the New York governor. Whether Gotham papers in their enthusiasm have deliberately misconstrued the Floridian's statement or whether Mr. Felkel honestly believes what has been credited to him, we are not in a position to say, but we think the instance has raised a question which merits the serious consideration of every voter in the state.

There is considerable Smith propaganda being circulated throughout the country and Tammany Hall is spending enormous sums to secure the nomination of its favorite son. New York newspapers have been the chief sources for disseminating the propaganda. They have published the results of purported surveys and straw votes, and have quoted political leaders in an effort to establish that there is a widespread demand for Al Smith. We do not know the trend of public opinion in the west and central states, but we do know that the New York newspapers' claims insofar as the South is concerned are erroneous and unjustified. And if this is to be taken as a criterion there is reason to believe that ninety per cent of the reports are incorrect.

The danger of such a campaign lies in the fact that many people will become convinced that Al Smith is the logical man for the nomination. This is the problem that must be combatted, especially in the South where there seems to be a special effort to advance the candidacy of the New York chief executive. The need for an organized fight is imperative in Florida in view of the fact that this state's delegation will go uninstructed to the convention. We know Al Smith could not carry Florida if the issue were raised today, but the danger of the situation lies in what his supporters will do between now and June.

With Smith's propagandists presenting a united front, the best way to defeat them is to adopt the same methods. Florida must send to the convention a delegation that we know is hostile to the New Yorker. We agree with the Jacksonville Journal that the only certain way to select such a group is to compel the candidates for delegate to declare themselves for or against Al Smith and vote accordingly.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING JACKSONVILLE JOURNAL

"A body in motion tends to remain in motion; A body at rest tends to remain at rest."

Insofar as its citrus problem is concerned, Florida would almost seem to be the body at rest and California the body in motion.

The sense of the recent citrus conference in Jacksonville last week was that "the greatest need in the citrus industry is better production." A meeting of county agents in Tampa at the same time arrived at the unanimous opinion that "scientific production of quality fruit is more important to the growers of Florida today than the manifold plans of solving marketing problems." Granting that improved grading and quality of fruit is the first need of Florida's citrus industry, the argument for a more complete organization of the industry is merely made the stronger. There was apparently no tendency either at Jacksonville or Tampa to deny this argument.

This newspaper believes, however, that organized marketing is as important as organized production—even though the production problem should come first in point of time. The sequence of success in any business is first to "get the goods," then to popularize and deliver them. The best Florida fruit is better than any other in the world and, with organization, Florida can easily specialize on this best.

than economic, it seems to us, a new state like California is, from the very nature of things, more open to new ideas and methods than is an old state like Florida. The longer men or their ancestors do things in a certain way... the more loathe they are to change. In Florida's case, the traditions and precedents which are so fine an asset in many respects would seem to be an actual liability in this particular respect. Certainly Florida is today far less receptive to new ideas than is California where there are comparatively few traditions or precedents and where almost nothing is so old that some living Californian cannot remember when it was new. California is not afraid of new ideas for the simple reason that it has so few old ones.

Not all new ideas are good ones. But the idea of co-operative marketing has been tried so successfully in so many places and businesses as to have every present economic logic in its favor. We agree that Florida's citrus cannot win the market it deserves without an organized concern for the quality of the product shipped. But we believe just as devoutly that the winning of these markets depends in equal measure, upon the willingness of Florida's fruitmen to enter whole-heartedly into a system of organized distribution and advertisement.

Cabaret Is Given By St. Agnes Guild

The Cabaret, given Tuesday evening at the Hotel Forrest Lake by the St. Agnes Guild, was a splendid success from every standpoint and was attended not only by local people but by those from the neighboring cities.

The large dining room was arranged in true cabaret style, the small tables placed about the edge of the room, with spaces to dance between. All kinds of festive decorations and other details added much to the picturesque setting.

During the dances, a most enjoyable program was presented and the numbers received many encores. "The Gay Pirates," Misses Juanita Smith, Julia Ritchie, Marguerite Garner, who were first on the program, gave a delightful group dance in colorful costumes.

"A Few Minutes with Red Barber," was the next number, and only those who have had the pleasure of seeing and hearing Red, the incomparable, can appreciate the ovation with which he was greeted.

Miss Mildred Holly was adorable in her stunning Pirate costume of red and white, and sang a number of latest Broadway hits, and clever parodies, pertinent to this section.

Another delightful number was the song and dance by Miss Julia Ritchie and Richard Hotzelaw. Miss Ritchie was recalled again and again and responded with a number of difficult dances. Her fetching costume was black patent leather with red hearts, and topped with a large silk hat.

"See Yourself In the Movies" was among the hits of the evening. During the past week, a committee had been busy on the streets of Sanford taking pictures of prominent persons and interesting views and much merriment was caused by the showing of these, taken while the persons least suspected.

"Love" Brings Two Noted Movie Stars Together In Film

John Gilbert and Greta Garbo, who as a team scored one of the sensational successes of the year in "Flesh and the Devil," and whose real-life romance immediately following furnished gossip for film fans the world over, appear before the camera for the first time since, in "Love, Meta Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular film-ization of "Anna Karenina," Tolstoy's classic of Russia, which opens today to the Milane Theatre.

The new picture, one of the most gorgeous and spectacular film romances of the season, presents both in roles that perhaps fit them better than any others that could be imagined. Gilbert, splendidly uniformed, is seen as the debonair and romantic Count Vronsky, a role that recalls his great hit in "The Merry Widow," with Miss Garbo in the role of the tragic Anna, who sacrifices all for love, only to be dogged by a strange and sinister doom.

Edmund Goulding directed the new picture, which was staged on a lavish scale. The cast is notable, including George Easton, who played the king in "The Merry Widow," as the Grand Duke; Brandon Hurst as the husband, Count Karenin; Philippe De Lacy, Emily Fitzroy, and others of note. Among the players are several interesting characters: Prince Youca, Troubetzkoy, playing a role of a former Russian army commander, who fled from the revolution, and General Theodore Lodi, another Russian refugee, as generals on the Grand Duke's staff.

Progressive Dinner Given For Miss Hand

One of the many social affairs for Miss Marion Hand, an attractive bride of the week, was that unique progressive dinner given on Tuesday evening by Misses Nonie Williams, Perry Lee Bell, and Mrs. Roy Williams. The guests were invited to take a trip on the Honey Moon Special leaving 1012 Magnolia Avenue at 7:00 o'clock.

The first stop was at the home of Miss Perry Lee Bell. The attractive sun parlor was converted into a Matrimonial Diner, where the first course consisting of creamed chicken in patty shells, scalloped potatoes, stuffed tomatoes, pickles, olives, hot rolls and coffee were served by the Chief Master Clifford Bell. The favors were miniature handbags, in which were found "Travelers Guides for the continuance of the journey. The menu cards when filled in provided to be advise to the bride.

The excursion proceeded from there to the home of Miss Nonie Williams where the guests registered at The Romance Hotel. Graceful baskets of snugglons and sweet peas were used throughout the rooms where tables were arranged for the second course. Unique fortune placards foretelling the future of each guest marked the tables.

A flowery Romance Contest created quite a bit of excitement. Miss Mina Howard was presented a Valentine train for a reward for the most perfect story. A tempting salad course consisting of Macedoine salad, stuffed celery, olives, pickles, saltines and iced tea was served by Miss Love Turner and Mrs. Wallace Sipple. At this point the porter on the Honey Moon Special arrived with an unexpected complimentary luncheon checked by Miss Albertine Trumbull. When opened it was found to contain a beautiful houndoo pillow.

Friends Of Leon Trotsky Worry Over Treatment He May Receive In His Exile

BERLIN, Feb. 17.—(INS)—Having confirmed the news that Leon Trotsky, creator with Lenin of the Russian Bolshevik revolution, has been exiled to Central Asia, his friends here are now worrying whether he will long survive the ordeal. Censorship in Moscow has suppressed or distorted the news of his treatment at the hands of his former comrades, but by devious and underground routes the essential facts have seeped over the border and become known in Berlin.

Having given the best part of his life and energies to the party which has now banished him to one of the most desolate and God-forsaken spots within the confines of the Soviet Union, Trotsky is no longer able to stand the hardships he endured as a young exile under the Czar. He is forty-nine years old, exactly the same age as his bitter opponent and conqueror, Joseph Stalin, but his constitution has never been as robust as that of the latter.

Lives In Fortress

Trotsky's place of exile, the tiny town of Wyernyi on the borders of Chinese Turkestan, is divided from the rest of the world by the two most effective natural insulators, desert and mountain. When the exile turns his eyes toward Moscow they will rest upon the shimmering heat waves rising from the sands of the "Great Hunger Steppe," a desert which approximates the size of Germany and upon the edge of which Trotsky will make his home.

But man does not live by bread alone, and this scriptural maxim was never truer of the Hebrew prophet of revolution, Lev Davidovich Bronstein. It is the moral pressure of exile, the lack of intellectual society, and the mental stagnation which Trotsky's friends fear will eventually rid Stalin of his only serious rival.

Trotsky is no stranger to prison camps or to prisons. Under the Czar he knew the inside of the penitentiaries of Kherson, Odessa, and Moscow, and the exile stations of Irkutsk, Yst-Kut, and Alexandrovskaya. But his last prison experience was twenty years ago when he had the unswerving confidence that the regime he was fighting would fall. Today, twenty years older, he faces a future which contains little promise of change.

It will take Trotsky nearly three weeks to reach his place of exile. Starting by railroad, he will ride for four days before he gets to Tashkent. The slow train requires about a day to cover 400 miles and the distance is 1600 miles.

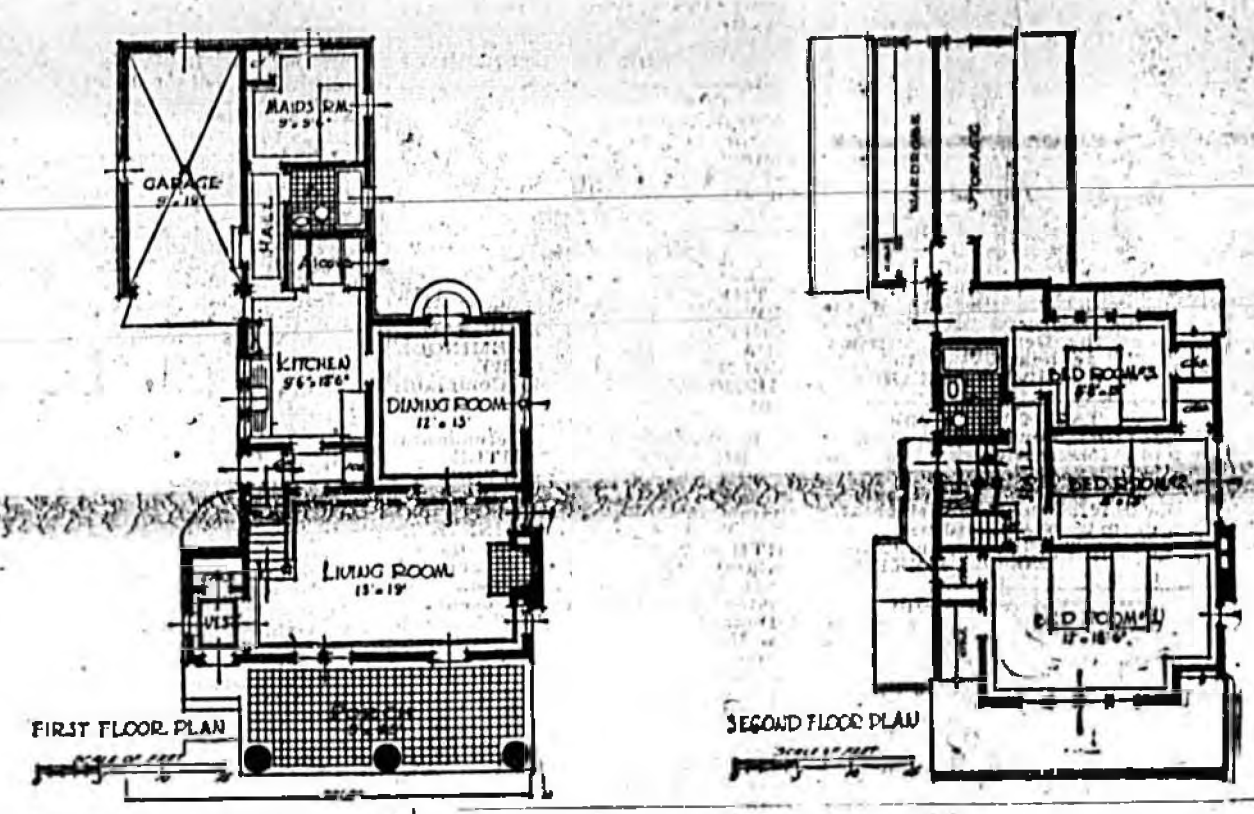

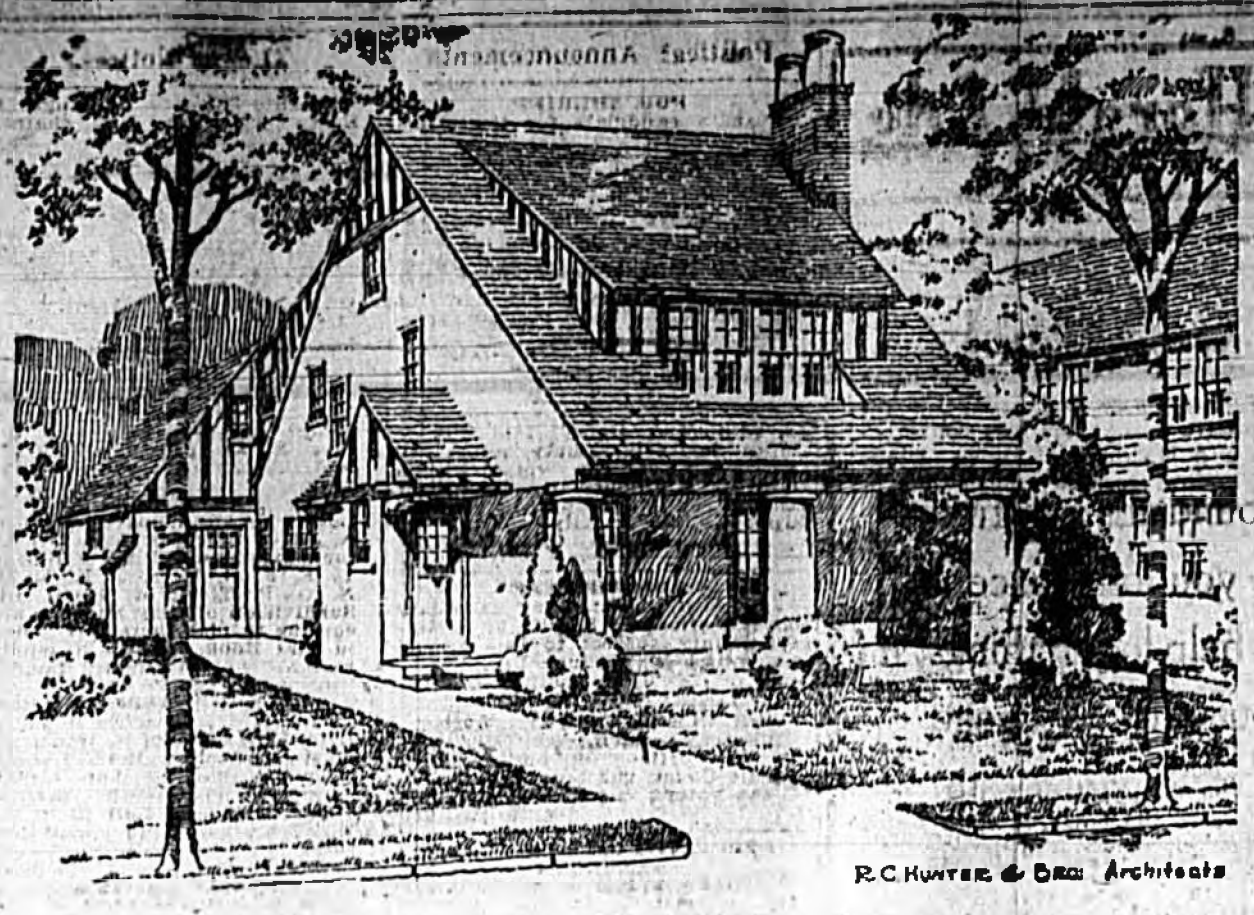

From Tashkent he will go by horseback and camel in easy stages, for the heat of the caravan trail is great, more than 300 miles before he reaches Wyernyi. At every caravan camp his companions will be G. P. U. soldiers, the guardians of the border, and the wardens of the man who made their own existence and the state which they serve possible.

Trotsky will not be confined in a cell or in a room in Wyernyi. He will be free to roam about as he pleases, and to occupy himself as he likes. He has refused to fall in with Stalin's farce of having him administer a government clerkship in order to conceal the fact that he was exiled. Instead, Trotsky will devote his time to writing.

His financial means are secure for the Soviet government in exiling him did it in a form which preserved his personal property and income from confiscation. Aside from his books in Russia, which may now be suppressed, his publications abroad bring him sufficient royalties to buy the physical necessities of life in Wyernyi.

Across the Mountains of Heaven lie Chinese Turkestan and Tibet, countries which still require the explorer's presence to make them known by description to the outside world. Backward by way of the Great Hunger Steppe, the way is strewn with skeletons of men and animals.

In the last ten years the Cheka and its eunuchlike successor, the OGPU, have used Wyernyi and neighboring forts for thousands of exiles, but only one has ever escaped. He was a giant peasant, who walked back to Moscow, skirting the Hunger Steppe, taking nine

PHYSICIANS PLAN TO MAKE WAR ON COMMON COLDS

Disease Which Causes Great Financial Loss To Industry And Business Will Receive Thorough Probing

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 17.—The "common cold" which is claimed causes greater loss to industry and business than any other single disease, is to be made defendant in a five year war against it, for which the cream of the medical talent of the United States is being mobilized.

Every resource of the Johns Hopkins Hospital of this city is to be thrown into the battle against the common cold. The Chemical Foundation of New York has given $105,000 to finance the work, and in a letter to president Frank H. Goodnow of the University, Francis P. Garvan, president of the Foundation says more funds will be forthcoming if needed.

Honor Dr. Abel

The only string to the gift is that it is known as the "John J. Abel Fund for Research on the Common Cold." Dr. Abel, professor of pharmacology at Johns Hopkins, conducted the researches that led to the discovery and synthetic production of adrenalin. He was the first to isolate the pure chemical principle of insulin.

Colds, it has already been said, affect women more than men. Four out of every ten men, and seven out of every ten women, are disabled by colds each year. Industry, as a result, loses 1.4 days per year for every man on the payroll and 2.1 days for every woman.

Cause Obscure

"Despite the widespread prevalence of common colds and the universal discomfort and great economic loss which they cause," Dr. Goodnow said, "there is very little exact knowledge concerning their cause or of dependable methods for their prevention and cure. The exact nature of the disease is so ill-defined and so intimately bound up with other infections, such as influenza, tonsillitis and various forms of pneumonia, that it will be necessary to take this whole group more or less into consideration in any thorough effort to find the cause and cure of common cold."

"The various ramifications of the problem are so extensive that they go beyond the scope of any one man or department. For that reason the research is to be conducted on a cooperative basis involving the staff and facilities of every department in the medical school, the School of Hygiene and Public Health, and the hospital that is needed to throw light on the problem."

MODERN CROOKS USE POLICE FOR AIDING SCHEMES

Confidence Men Are Successful In Pulling Off Jobs By Employing Detectives Who Innocently Become Victims

PARIS, Feb. 17.—The modern confidence man enlists the aid of the police in his escapades and in the case of Roger Chaprat it was done successfully—to the extent of $1,500.

Roger found a come-on to whom he proposed "an affair." "I can get 500 pounds of cocaine for $2,000," Roger told his "prospect." "You loan me $1,500, and I will supply the balance. Meet me at the Cafe Royale tomorrow morning and I'll have the goods."

The prospect "bit" and gave Roger the money. In the meantime Roger himself called up the police anonymously and gave his own description: color of his hair, eyes, clothes and hat. He told them his height and weight.

"This man," said Roger, over the telephone to the police, and referring to himself, "is a cocaine merchant. He will come to the Cafe Royale tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. He will step out of a taxi cab with a brown suitcase. The suitcase will be found to contain a large quantity of cocaine."

The only trouble Roger tried the same trick time he was carrying propose his cocaine deal clothes man from him so this time the police ed him—to the station where he is awaiting feelings.

Moslem Inhabitants Of Hedjaz Get Regulations For Their Moral Conduct

JERUSALEM, Feb. 17.—(INS)—With the approval of the Government of Ibn Saud, the Wahabi King, at Mecca, the "Association for the Defense of Religion and Morals" has published nineteen commandments regulating the behavior and devotions of all Moslem inhabitants of the Hedjaz.

The first clause provides a penalty for anyone failing to answer the Muezzin's call to prayer. Prayer is declared the pillar of faith, those failing in their devotions, forfeiting their religion.

Blasphemy and the use of improper language are crimes punishable by religious law, as is swearing by the names of Prophets and Apostles. Only the name of Allah may be taken in oaths.

Assembly for the purpose of pleasure is prohibited. Intoxicating liquor must not be taken in any form, shaving of the beard is an offense involving the punishment both of the customer and of the barber whose shop will be closed for breaking the law. Smoking is strictly prohibited. If after being warned the offense is repeated the offender is liable to punishment.

Mourning for the dead must not be indulged in any form, according to the seventh commandment, the eighth commandment providing punishment for memorial meetings, or charity given after the funeral for the sake of the soul of the departed.

Men and women must not assemble under the same roof for celebrations. Fortune-telling and witchcraft are strictly forbidden. Men must not deck themselves out in gold, silver or silk. Silks may be worn in moderation only as provided by law.

Urinary A Crime

The lending of money at interest in any form is a serious crime. Merchants are warned against any form of swindle and misrepresentation.

Women must not appear in the street with their make-up and are forbidden to do anything to rival men in looks. The place for a woman after dark is the home, which she must not leave except in case of extreme necessity.

There must not approach pilgrims and other guests. Welcome ing them with a blessing in the hope of earning a tip is forbidden. Women must not visit any graves except that of the Prophet and must not remain very long at this tomb.

The nineteenth commandment holds the "Mukhtars" or elders of the various quarters responsible for the improper conduct of any resident. Elders who are found conveying any improper action will be considered parties to the offense.

Committee Approves Strike Investigation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(INS)—Investigation of conditions in the soft coal fields of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia, now gripped by strikers, was approved unanimously today by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. It was decided to have the inquiry conducted by a sub-committee which can make a first hand inspection of mining camps.

A proposal by Senator Reed (R) of Penn., for an investigation of freight rates on coal was rejected. The general inquiry was proposed by Senator Johnson (R) of California at the request of the United Mine Workers. Immediate action will be sought in the Senate.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

DETROIT, Feb. 17.—(INS)—Major Robert Kirk McLeod, 33, veteran airplane pilot of the World War and operator of the McLeod Brothers Air Transport Service of California, tried to commit suicide here today in a restaurant by swallowing poison after his wife had refused his plea to come to him. He is in a serious condition.

First Execution Of Rum Runner To Be Held In Lauderdale

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 17.—(INS)—The first federal hanging of a rum-runner for "murder on the high seas" is scheduled to be held in the Broward county jail yard here on May 11. It will be the first United States execution for murder on the seas in the South, according to federal authorities.

Horace Alderman, alleged rum-runner who killed two coast guardsmen and a federal secret service operative after they had captured his boat and who attempted to make others "walk the plank" in true pirate fashion, is the doomed man. He has appealed for a new trial and attorneys stated their intention of carrying the case "to the highest courts in the land," but further intervention is considered unlikely.

Alderman was sentenced to be hanged for the slaying of Sidney C. Sanderlin and Victor A. Lamb, U. S. coast guardsmen, in a coast guard patrol boat 37 miles out at sea, near the Bahamas. He is also under indictment for the murder of Robert K. Webster, of the secret service.

Robert Weech was expected to go on trial on charges of being an accomplice of Alderman this week. The death penalty for the defendant was also predicted.
