Store Robbers Escape Police In Wild Ride

Orlando Police Holds Suspects

Three Men Picked Up For Trying To Rob Orlando Drugstore

Extinguishing the lights of their car and turning off into an alley, three men who robbed the Angel barbecue stand on Sanford Avenue early this morning succeeded in eluding the police after a wild ride through the city streets. The police changed them at 70 miles an hour and were rapidly gaining on the trio when they lost track of the robbers in the darkness.

However, they evidently feared they had not eluded the officers as they dumped out on a little used side road leading off State Road No. 2 the two slot machines they had stolen at Angel's place and which they did not take time to rob. The machines contained large sums of money. Chief Williams stated:

It was at 2:40 o'clock this morning that E. D. Price, living across the street from the Angel stand, was awakened by the sound of breaking glass and saw two men entering the barbecue place. He ran to Mr. Angel's home and notified him, but they got back to the barbecue place in time to see the men load the slot machines in a car and drive away.

The police had been notified in the meantime and Officers Roy Tills and E. C. Wilcox arrived a few minutes after the two-armed bandits escaped with the one-armed bandit. Then the chase began. With the siren wide open, the police car followed the robbers and they drove toward the City on Sanford Avenue, speeding at 70 miles an hour. Despite several turns off on to side streets the police gradually gained on the robbers and were close behind them in Sanford Heights when the bandits switched off their lights and turned into an alley.

After a futile effort to pick up the trail the officers returned to headquarters and broadcast a report of the robbery, with the result that within an hour the

Seminole Fair Opens Tuesday For 5-Day Run

Women's Clubs Again Sponsor Big Event; Carnival Show Will Be One Attraction

The annual Seminole County Fair will hold the center of the stage next week. It is to open Tuesday noon and will continue for the remainder of the week. Women's Clubs of the County are again sponsoring the event, offering valuable prizes in a number of departments.

Fruit and vegetable exhibits will be in a huge tent, while canned goods, air craft, needlework, etc., will be displayed in five vacant stores in the Arcade building. The exhibition tent is to be erected near the Arcade building. The carnival shows, important adjuncts of the fair, will be adjacent.

While creditable displays of citrus fruits, celery, strawberries and vegetables of various kinds are promised, the focus, devoted to canned goods and other women's crafts is expected to be a leading feature of the annual exhibition. The amusement zone at the fair will be furnished again this year by the Krause Greater Shows, an outfit that has been, on the road for 27 seasons. Manager S. D. Highleyman of the exposition said that "no amusement company could live that long unless its attractions were of merit and its business relations with the public were satisfactory. Manager Krause has assembled ten high class sensational riding devices and twelve out-of-the-ordinary shows for this season's tour, and it goes without saying that each and every attraction is of outstanding appeal to the amusement seeker and well worthy of patronage. Every show or attraction is one that can be visited by women and children at all times as there will be nothing said or done of the Krause midway to offend any person."

Public Against AAA Tax Refund, Wallace Thinks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace said today he believed "public opinion would not tolerate" refund to manufacturers of one billion dollars paid in AAA processing taxes. In his first press conference since the Supreme Court killed the AAA, Wallace said that processing taxes have been passed on to the consumer. He added that $2,000,000,000 imponded in AAA processing taxes was in the same status as the $1,000,000 paid into the treasury so far as consumers are concerned. The important thing necessary to proceed with the farm program now, Wallace said, is to expand the definition of the soil conservation act to include specifically soil conservation and preservation of fertility.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Rudyard Kipling, British author, died at 12:10 A. M. this morning after an illness which followed an operation for a perforated stomach ulcer.

The famed author was taken suddenly ill Jan. 13, on the eve of his scheduled departure for South France, and was rushed to Middlesex Hospital where an emergency operation was performed.

The grand old man of English letters died without official recognition from the empire he created. The title as laureate of the empire, the dearest dream of a poet's heart, never became his.

Officials Study Reprive Reasons Of Gov. Hofmann

TRENTON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Attorney General David T. Wilentz and Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, two leading figures in the Lindbergh case, conferred today to study the statement by Governor Hoffman defending his leniency of Richard Hauptmann. Close friends said they decided not to enter a controversy with the governor. Wilentz and the head of the state police made no comment.

Reports of a break in Hauptmann counsel were denied by C. Lloyd Fisher and Egbert Rosenzweig, another defense attorney, denied making any statement that he believed Hauptmann guilty. William Conklin, press aide to Governor Hoffman, said he had no knowledge of any letters threatening Hoffman's life, that no police guard had been asked for the Governor's home, that he knew nothing of confidential letters being sent police in Midwestern cities asking the arrest of a man in the Lindbergh case, and that so far no request had been made to the New Jersey police asking them to continue investigations of the case.

Florida Canal Appropriation May Be Fought

Commerce Committee Chairman Foresees "Battle Royal" In Halls Of Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—A "battle royal" over the Florida Gulf Atlantic canal is predicted by Senate Commerce Committee Chairman J. P. C. S. V. when Congress is called upon to act on a regular appropriation for continuation of the project.

Copeland, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, expressed doubt, however, that "any good" could come of an investigation as proposed by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

The Michigan senator questioned the economic feasibility of the $143,000,000 waterway today as a Senate Commerce Subcommittee, headed by Copeland, opened hearings on Vandenberg's resolution.

Copeland said Secretary Lakes Public Works administration would be invited to appear before the subcommittee next week. Maj. Gen. E. M. Markham, chief of Army engineers, was the only witness today.

Discussing his own views on the waterway last night, Copeland said:

Auto Drivers With Old License Plates Better Stay Off Highways Says Sheriff

Motorists who have failed to obtain 1936 automobile license plates are advised by Sheriff J. F. McClelland to stay off the highways. He said today that beginning Monday morning arrests would be made of persons driving cars or trucks with last year's plates.

The time was up on the 15th and this is the 18th, the sheriff said today. "We have been very lenient and we do not want to cause unnecessary trouble, but the law provides that motor vehicles must carry proper license plates. Just tell the people, therefore, to keep their vehicles off the highways until they have procured license plates for this year."

King George V Of England Is Seriously Ill

Bulletin Indicates Fear For Life Of 70-Year-Old Ruler Of British Empire

In Poor Health For Seven Years

King Nearly Died In 1928; Heart Attack Suffered Today

SANDRINGHAM, England, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Seventy-year-old King George V, ill with a bronchial ailment, suffered further symptoms of a heart attack this afternoon, increasing anxiety over his condition. A bulletin posted by royal physicians said "His Majesty, the King, has had some hours of restful sleep. The cardiac weakness and embarrassment of circulation has slightly increased and gives cause for anxiety." The conservative wording of the bulletin indicated fear for the King's life. The Prince of Wales, Princess Mary and other relatives have arrived here.

King George has been in delicate health since he almost died in 1928 from a severe case of pneumonia. At that time, two operations were performed to drain his lungs and his doctors said it credited them with his recovery. The King's heart was exceptionally strong until after his illness of 1928. His strong heart and excellent constitution were credited them with his recovery from an illness so serious that for a time a council of state acted in the King's stead and his death was expected momentarily.

The Prince of Wales, then abroad, hurried home. The sovereign's health has been delicate and has been mostly closely guarded since the severe illness of eight years ago, which lasted many weeks, the King's heart weakened and gave considerable concern.

A strong police force was stationed about the palace grounds and all unauthorized persons were forbidden to enter. A crowd gathered in the drive near the gates asking for information of the King's condition. Guards, as well as officials at the palace lodge, refused to answer questions.

Final Vote Shows 62 Percent Of Nation Against New Deal In Literary Digest's Poll

The 1934 poll, the magazine says, is the most accurate yet.

The magazine, country-wide in scope, is the largest Literary Digest poll of public sentiment in the country. It is published by the Literary Digest, Inc., of New York City, and is the largest of its kind in the world.

The poll was conducted by mail, and the results were announced today. The magazine says that the poll is the most accurate yet, because it is based on a sample of 100,000 voters, which is a large cross-section of the American people.

The poll shows that 62 percent of the voters are opposed to the New Deal, and 38 percent are in favor of it. This is a reversal of the opinion expressed by the Literary Digest in its poll of 1933, when 55 percent of the voters were in favor of the New Deal.

The magazine says that the poll is the most accurate yet, because it is based on a sample of 100,000 voters, which is a large cross-section of the American people. The poll was conducted by mail, and the results were announced today.

Go To Cities For Health Is Advice Of Health Officer

URBANA, Ill., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The health authorities living in country cities are in the country where the air is pure, says Dr. Frank J. Jirka, state director of public health.

The reason, says Dr. Jirka, is that rural areas are lagging behind urban centers in health standards and conditions because of backwardness in establishing effective public health departments for country service.

"Much more from typhoid fever, measles, whooping cough and malaria were cured as high among rural as among urban inhabitants in 1934," he says. "Losses from scarlet fever, diphtheria, tuberculosis and influenza diseases varied from 35 percent greater among rural people than among city residents. Maternal and infant mortality were also higher in rural sections."

Rural sections still have the edge on cities in pneumonia fatalities, he says, the rate for urban deaths being about 30 percent greater.

"The outlook, however," he says "is that this difference may also change in the near future as scientific methods of controlling this disease are more perfectly developed and more extensively utilized."

In Illinois, says Dr. Jirka, there is not any local department organized for rural health service. Thirteen other states, he says, also have taken, no definite steps to stamp out disease on the farm.

"Rural areas," he says, "are just as healthful now as they ever were, perhaps more so. The shift in comparative healthfulness has resulted from the fact that cities have been able to take advantage of preventive medicine more quickly and more extensively."

The Winter Park city council has joined the movement for beautification by voting that all advertising signs must come down.

The action was the result of Mayor R. C. Baker's report that traffic warning signs along parkways were being hidden and mimicked by commercial billboards, that the beauty of the city parkways were thus desecrated.

Rudyard Kipling Author Of Note, Died Early Today

It, doubtless at the empire he helped to build for its failure to give him official recognition.

Kipling, glorifier of the Englishman in his works, himself resembled the Scandinavian in appearance. His cheek-bones were prominent, his brows jutting and dark until his death although his bushy mustache and the fringe of hair around his bald head were white in later years. He wore shall-tan, frame spectacles.

The poet's own attitude towards death was expressed in his lines in L'Envoi, reading:

"When earth's last picture is painted, and the tubes are twisted and dried,

"When the elder: colors have faded, and the youngest critic has died,

"We shall rest, and faith, we shall need it—lie down for snore or two.

"Till the master of all good workmen shall see: us to work anew."

Familiar quotations from Kipling's works would themselves fill a large book and find instant response with millions. A few of the more famous:

"For the colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin. A woman is only a woman but a good cigar is a smoke—An' I learned about women from 'er. It's clever, but is it art? It's Tommy this and Tommy that an' 'chuck 'im out, the brute but it's 'savior of 'is country' when the guns begin to shoot. A rag and a bone and a hank o' hair. A fool there was, Westward the course of empire goes. The white man's burden."

Many of these have become a part of the English language in common usage. A number of his poems, set to music, are familiar songs.

Among these are: "On the Road to Mandalay," "Danny Deever," "Rolling Down to Rio," "Fuzzy Wuzzy" and the Ladies (learned about women from 'er).

Among the most familiar recitations in the world are Kipling's "Gunga Din" and "If." Six of his stories were sold for motion picture production within the last year.

Advertisements are a guide to value

Experts can roughly estimate the value of a product by looking at it. More accurately, by handling and examining it. Its appearance, its texture, the "feel" and the balance of it all mean something to their trained eyes and fingers.

But no person can be an expert on steel, brass, wood, leather, foodstuffs, fabrics and all of the materials that make up a list of personal purchases. And even experts are fooled, sometimes, by concealed flaws and imperfections.

There is a surer index of value than the senses of sight and touch... knowledge of the maker's name and for what it stands. Here is the most certain method, except that of actual use, for judging the value of any manufactured goods. Here is the only guarantee against careless workmanship, or the use of shoddy materials.

This is one important reason why it pays to read advertisements and to buy advertised goods. The product that is advertised is worthy of your confidence.

HEARTY CARE
A good deal has been written about the heart, and how it works. It is the pump of the body, and it is the most important organ. It is the heart that keeps the blood flowing through the veins and arteries, and it is the heart that keeps the body healthy and strong.

Many people think that the heart is a simple organ, and that it is not important. But the heart is a very complex organ, and it is the most important organ in the body. It is the heart that keeps the blood flowing through the veins and arteries, and it is the heart that keeps the body healthy and strong.

Now, the interesting thing is that the heart is a very complex organ, and it is the most important organ in the body. It is the heart that keeps the blood flowing through the veins and arteries, and it is the heart that keeps the body healthy and strong.

Wilcox Urging 'Wall Of Steel' On Each Coast

Florida Congressman Issues Warning Of 'Vulnerability' Of Interior Sections

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Pressing for construction of frontier air defense bases, Representative Wilcox (D., Fla.) warned today that he called the "vulnerability" of the United States in that respect.

It is ridiculous to assume an enemy would attack our coastline and attempt to land troops," he declared. "I am telling no secret when I say the most vulnerable section of the country is a rectangularly bounded by a line running roughly from Boston to Washington, to St. Louis, to Chicago, to Boston."

Wilcox said 45 percent of the population, 60 percent of the wealth and 70 percent of the industries of the Nation are located in that area, served by 12 trunk line railroads which pass over an average of one bridge or trestle every 20 miles.

A quick thrust at the west coast, he contended, would force the Nation to sue for peace before preparations could be made to combat an enemy.

The frontier air defense bases will enable us to send airplanes fleet out against aircraft carriers anchored off the coast or against airplanes which an enemy might establish on any of the hundreds of islands off the southeast coast," he added.

Wilcox explained the circle of operations of each air base would overlap the operating area of the next adjacent base, giving the Nation "an airplane wall of steel in both coasts."

A special Army board has been studying locations for the bases, authorized by the last Congress, and a report is expected within the next few weeks.

While no funds have been provided, Wilcox, a member of the military affairs committee and author of the Air Defense Act, said if money was not available through public works activities he would seek a separate appropriation.

The War Department is expected to make a recommendation to Congress as soon as the Army board reports its findings. Estimates of the construction program's cost vary from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000 for each base.

Under the Wilcox Act, the country is divided into six air defense regions—Alaskan, Northwest, Rocky Mountain, Northeast, Southeast, and the South Atlantic and Caribbean Sea, with a base in each area.

"Location of the frontier defense bases has been freed of politics and left entirely with the War Department," said Wilcox. "The act provides for six major bases and such intermediate bases as the War Department may find necessary."
