

War Is Seen As Threat To U. S. School Progress

Fosdick Reviews Activities Of Rockefeller Foundation

NEW YORK, Apr. 4.—Because of the fundamental unity of the intellectual life of modern civilization, the present cataclysm in Europe contains a grave threat to progress in the universities and laboratories of the United States, Raymond E. Fosdick, president of the Rockefeller Foundation has warned.

In his annual review of the activities of the foundation, made public in part, Mr. Fosdick disclosed that grants made by the foundation in 1934 approximated $9,500,000 and enabled cooperative work to be carried on in forty-seven lands, including Java, Fiji and Australia.

The four fields of public health, medical, social and natural sciences each received grants of about $2,000,000. Mr. Fosdick disclosed that $1,000,000 was spent for activities in the humanities, and nearly $500,000 for a program of rural reconstruction in China. He reported the income of the foundation in 1934 was $6,627,450, supplemented by the principal fund of $1,845,000 transferred from the principal fund. Twenty-five percent of the total expenditure was in foreign countries and 75 percent in the United States, the foundation's president disclosed.

Mr. Fosdick challenged the statement that the trend of intellectual leadership is westward across the Atlantic and said that those who assert this and support it by referring to certain specific fields such as neurosurgery, anatomy, dentistry and orthopedics, overlook many other fields.

"In physiology, for example, it would be difficult to determine whether the leadership lies in Europe or in the United States," Mr. Fosdick said. "The same is true of anatomy and pathology. In fields like pharmacology, tropical medicine, ophthalmology, legal medicine, social medicine and dermatology—to mention only a few—leadership is unquestionably still in Europe or was in 1934.

"In mathematics the English are indisputably pre-eminent in analytic number theory; the Russians are making important contributions in topology and probability, the French in algebra. America cannot match the group of European scientists in the important fields of enzyme chemistry and the organic chemistry of natural products.

"Nowhere else in the world can one duplicate or even approach the coordinated and cooperating Scandinavian group which is focusing so many precise techniques of chemistry and physics on problems of biology.

The most dramatic scientific development of 1934, the splitting of the atom of the heavy element uranium and its transmutation into barium and other light elements, was based upon results obtained in 1934 by the Italian physicist Fermi, and the disintegration products of uranium first directly observed by Hahn and Strassman in Berlin in 1939. Mr. Fosdick pointed out.

"America needs to be humble about this question of intellectual leadership," he continued. "In spite of the anxiety and insecurity abroad during these recent years, of the six Nobel Prizes awarded in science in 1934, five went to Europe and one went to the United States. In countless ways we are dependent upon Europe for stimulation and leadership in relation to many segments of our intellectual and cultural activity.

"If, because of war-exhaustion or chaos the universities and laboratories of Europe should be forced to suspend their fundamental activities for even half a decade, the consequences to the intellectual life of America would be immediate and disastrous." At the present time scientific growth "is almost invariably the result of cross-fertilization between laboratories and groups in widely separated parts of the world," Mr. Fosdick said. Most often the start comes from some isolated or timid voice making an inspired suggestion or raising a stimulating question that echoes through the laboratories of the world until the voice becomes decisive and authoritative, he added.

"Thus, in the case of the breakdown of uranium during the past year, the early tentative questionings came from Rome; they were caught up at Berlin, were eagerly heard at Paris and Copenhagen and then spanned the Atlantic and were seized upon here so enthusiastically that literally within hours, rather than within days, the critical experiments had been checked and extended at Columbia University at the Carnegie Institute of Washington, and Lawrence's laboratory at the University of California," he said.

Sulfanilamide is similarly a product of international collaboration, the analysis of the drug produced in connection with the commercial dye industry in Germany; the isolation of the potent factor now known as sulfanilamide from the rest of the protosol molecule at the Pasteur Institute in Paris, and the subsequent experiments at Queen Charlotte's Hospital in London, at the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine in Baltimore, and in other laboratories and hospitals on both sides of the Atlantic.

"Achievement in science, more often than not, is the result of the sustained thinking of many minds in many countries driving toward a common goal," Mr. Fosdick concluded. "The creative spirit of man cannot successfully be localized or nationalized. Ideas are starved when they are fenced in behind frontiers.

"The fundamental unity of modern civilization is the unity of its intellectual life, and that life can-

French Women Are Proving Valuable Help In Factories

PARIS, Apr. 4.—(AP)—Raoul Dautry, minister of armaments, continues to pay glowing tributes to the women of France who are working in munitions plants.

This correspondent visited some of the factories in which hundreds of women are helping to keep war production at its maximum.

The women are working in almost every industry—automotive branches, shells and munitions, airplanes and clothing. They have filled the places left vacant by men who now guard the Meginot line. They are doing all the light work where deft fingers are needed, and where painstaking care is essential. In a land where for centuries the women made lace, artificial flowers, dainty clothing, and where they created and executed the world's styles in dress, it is natural for them to turn to the innumerable tasks where patience and precision are required.

In the big industrial plants, a few women operate small lathes and automatic machines, but for most part they work where only the hands and eyes are needed. In one big tank producing factory, one of the largest of its kind in the world, there are scores of women engaged in the quietest and most important. They were testing, packing and grading roller bearings, from sizes almost too small to be seen with the naked eye to big, polished cylinders and spherical bearings large as marbles.

Dressed in white smocks, not without disaster be broken up into separate parts. If, as a result of the present cataclysm on the other side of the Atlantic, Europe freezes into an Arctic night, we shall not easily keep the fires lit in the universities and laboratories of America."

Francis Whitehair Addresses Marion County Followers

OCALA, Apr. 4.—(Special) Marion county voters last night rolled to the gubernatorial campaign of Francis F. Whitehair, youthful DeLand candidate who spoke to a record crowd of more than 1,750 eager listeners in the bandshell park on his solution for the life of Florida's government.

"We've got to stabilize our government on a business-like basis," declared the 39-year-old aspirant for the office of chief executive. "Florida must pull together under a common banner to gain her rightful place among the states of the union."

Whitehair charged that no government has ever progressed under a system whereby such a great portion of the national income is required for governmental service, and promised to remove "a lot of the dead wood and red tape" in Florida's government if he is elected.

Whitehair left Ocala following his address last night for Orlando where he was to be honored all day today at a mammoth political rally and barbecue given by his Orange county friends and enthusiasts.

Average American

Did the depression of the Thirties harm the American spirit, asks the Minneapolis Star-Journal. Did it cause some to lose faith in what we call the American dream? Did it lessen self-reliance and stimulate class hatreds? A lot of people have feared that it did.

Most Americans—including three out of five married men with families to support, and more than half of the unemployed—would rather have a good job, with an even chance of getting promoted or fired, than a secure job at just enough wages to get by.

A majority think that they are better prepared to succeed than their parents were, that their chances of success are better, and that their sons' chances will be still better.

Seventy percent feel that they have an obligation to pass on to the next generation: better living and social conditions, a higher standard of citizenship, more education, better health. Only ten percent feel that bequeathing material wealth to their sons is important.

Self-confident, proud, believers in opportunity, builders of a better world—that's us: average Americans! Those qualities and ideals have made America's middle-class the highest common denominator of citizenship in the world, a class in which the all-American headline still is: Local Boy Makes Good.

Cancer Treatment

Early diagnosis and thorough treatment have resulted in the cure of an increasing number of cancer cases, according to Dr. Donald B. Armstrong, third vice-president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, who points out that the dread disease is not incurable, if detected in time, and that it is not caused by germs and is not contagious.

Announcing the company's participation in the cancer educational campaign being conducted this month by the American Society for the Control of Cancer, Dr. Armstrong says: "Progress is being made in the control of cancer, even though no specific method of treating or preventing this disease has as yet been discovered. Its cure still rests on early diagnosis and prompt treatment by experienced physicians. Cancer has so far been treated successfully only by surgical removal of the growth or its destruction by radium or X-ray. Yet increasing numbers of cases, which have had an early diagnosis and thorough treatment, are on record as established cures, without recurrence of the disease."

"It is highly important that information be disseminated about the usual danger signals of at least the common forms of cancer. A booklet recently issued by the Metropolitan, and being used widely in the current educational effort presents in brief the signs and symptoms associated with the varieties of cancer that are most frequently found."

Dr. Armstrong says that the relative importance of cancer as a cause of death has increased from year to year, until now it consistently takes second place, exceeded only by heart disease. This is at least in part due to the increasing numbers of older people in the cancer ages among our population.

"But," Dr. Armstrong declares, "cancer is not hopeless—if detected in time. Suspicious signs or symptoms means that there is just one thing to do, and that is to see a competent physician. He can set the patient's mind at rest if it is not cancer, and can hold out the only hope of cure if it is."

Dr. Armstrong referred to the financial assistance which his company and other agencies are giving the New York City Cancer Committee and the Lenox Hill Hospital, in their experimental use of the refrigeration or cryotherapy treatment of advanced cases of cancer with intractable pain. The results of this method of treatment, both in New York and elsewhere, he says, have thus far been decidedly encouraging, though it is far too early to announce the "ultimate significance of the treatment as a palliative or curative procedure."

MARKET TOWN NEWS

By BRUCE TUCKER, Sanford State Farmers Market

This past week we have all had a chance to get thawed out from the cold winter that we had, so let's not kick about it being hot. The Federal Market News have had several visitors this week from Washington, D. C. Mr. B. C. Bore and Mr. Spielman, both are big officials in the Agricultural Service. . . . Scribner Stenstrom, Mr. J. A. Hunter's able assistant really has been putting out the work. Cleared the office, also one day Mr. Hunter was out with Mr. Bore, and Scribner got out the report all by himself. Luck to you. . . . A. M. Thomas and Jimmie Barber who buy for C. C. Thomas, Hooahoke, Va. were buying on the market last week. A. M. really did his stuff Saturday night, several people went out to see what MULE had been turned loose on the platform, and there it was A. M. baying like one, but it was also true to life. Jimmie with the little mustache that twitches every time he laughs and he laughs quite often. . . . R. C. Gilbert was buying for the Gilbert Produce Company out of Hickory this week instead of his son, Everett. Imagine that Everett would have gone to Ybor City if he had been here. Eh, Everett? Dr. L. T. Doss called at the Market Thursday afternoon. . . . Was told that Jack Flynn came in Market office last Tuesday and asked for papers to get produce into Canada. No papers were there, and after some discussion Jack says to heck with that business. Says he has enough here in the good ole USA to take care of. . . . Red "Ryder" Huffman, Harry Tooke, Johnnie Watson and Richard Packard were around Tuesday night and feeding on some. THE WINNER AND STILL HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP!

DISPELLING THE FOG

BY CHARLES MICHELSON

Some of the Democratic administration's fans are worrying because certain States have chosen to put presidential primary tickets in the field pledged to Franklin D. Roosevelt, without his saying that he is a candidate.

Not having the remotest idea whether the President is seriously considering running or not—wherein my fellow columnists have an advantage inasmuch as I note by the newspapers they have positive information both ways—it is perhaps worth while to discuss the general situation in regard to those primaries.

What the critics seem to forget is that the primary is a party's only method of expression; the sole way of declaring its adherence to any particular form of Democracy, for example. So they name the individual who most nearly meets their idea of what their party's policy should be. Obviously it would be impossible to list the shades of opinion in behalf of the party, or the obvious right and privilege of every State to record whether it favors a conservative or a liberal Democracy, or a blend of these two different types.

A party, like every other sort of organized endeavor, progresses. The problems of today are not the problems of earlier days. It is because Democracy has developed from the comparatively simple mechanism of the past into the complexities of the present that it has kept alive for a century, while other parties like the Federalists and the Whigs, served their terms and became extinct like the pterodactyl and the mammoth, which could not keep up with the changing environment of this old earth.

The basic principles of the party remain immutable; the means and methods of putting into effect the program laid down by Jefferson must be altered to fit conditions unforeseen by the founder of the party. Unemployment was unknown in America when the Bill of Rights was added to the Constitution. There were no giant aggregations of wealth big enough and powerful enough to challenge the authority of the Government, but even then the protection of the common man from exploitation and the guarantee of an opportunity for him to make the most of his abilities was in Jefferson's mind.

With an ocean that required weeks for a crossing on the East, and a thousand leagues of wilderness to the West, we could be care-free respecting what happened in Europe. Now the air-clippers cross the Atlantic in a day and the wilderness has become a populous family of States; so both foreign and domestic questions influence Democracy.

With every generation the picture changes and the States have to register their will as to what they want in Government every four years. Obviously the only way they can function is by some primary system directly for individuals but actually for policies. Sometimes they put up a favorite man, even though they know they are choosing him, they are usually choosing him for the

Reynaud Promises To Conclude No "Phoney" Peace

PARIS, Apr. 4. (AP)—Premier Reynaud, fresh from a session with his inner war cabinet and military leaders, told America last night "France and England are strong and strong enough to win" the war and will conclude no "phoney" peace. France has "forged the weapon" against totalitarian Germany and "now we are going to use it," he said. Using American slang in a radio broadcast to the United States, Reynaud defined "phony" as "counterfeit" and outlined France's purpose as follows: "From the outset 'we must finish it' has been the formula which summed up all our thoughts. And that means no 'phony' peace after a war which is not 'phony' in any respect. 'Hitler's Germany will not succeed in selling us that counterfeit,' he continued. 'Totalitarian Germany has been totally insincere. It would be madness to believe that by signing some kind of a compromise anything other than our death warrant for the following day.'"

Roosevelt Makes Consolidation Of Treasury Posts

Order For Changes Will Become Effective In Next 60 Days

WASHINGTON, Apr. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt yesterday sent to Congress a new government reorganization order providing for consolidation of several treasury functions under a permanent fiscal officer, and for changes in the agriculture and interior department set-ups.

The order, the third promulgated by Roosevelt under reorganization authority granted him last year, will become effective in 60 days, unless specifically rejected by either House or Senate.

Roosevelt estimated the changes will save only $150,000 annually but he added that "if they resulted in no administrative savings at all, I should still consider them worthwhile in view of the increased effectiveness of administration that will result."

The order made no change in the status of the forest service, now under the agriculture department, which has been the center of a heated undercover rivalry between Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Secretary of Interior Ickes, who has reportedly been seeking transfer of the service to his department.

Asked at his press conference whether the forestry transfer might be included in his fourth reorganization order, which he expects to send up later this week, the President warned correspondents not to write themselves out on a limb.

Under yesterday's order the proposed fiscal officer would be a permanent civil service employe with rank of assistant secretary of treasury, who would take over functions now performed by the treasury's public debt service, the commissioner of accounts and deposits, and the United States treasurer.

In addition, the order provides for: 1. Assumption by the secretary of treasury of full jurisdiction over the federal alcohol administration, now a quasi-independent agency.

2. Consolidation of the bureau of fisheries and the bureau of biological survey in a fish and wild life service in the interior department.

3. Placing in the federal land office of functions of recorder of the general land office. The order abolishes the latter office as "a relic of the quill and box in the transcription of land records."

4. Consolidation of the agricultural adjustment administration's division of marketing and marketing agreements with the federal surplus commodities corporation in a new agency to be known as the surplus marketing administration.

5. Abolition of now-vacant positions of commissioners of immigration as well as of positions of district commissioners of immigration and naturalization. Functions of these offices will be assumed by district directors of immigration and naturalization.

John L. Lewis Lashes Out At AFL Maneuvers

WASHINGTON, Apr. 5.—(AP)—CIO President John L. Lewis, charged last night Wagner act amendments, approved by the House labor committee are "the fruit of an unholy intrigue between anti-union manufacturers and AFL craft union leaders blinded by partisan venom."

He said the four amendments sponsored by Chairman Norton, Democrat, New Jersey, of the labor committee, were "a dastardly attempt by AFL leaders and their anti-union allies to put a competing labor organization out of business through congressional enactment."

The Norton changes among other things would increase the present NLRB membership from three to five, apparently in an effort to change some board policies to accord with views of President Roosevelt's latest appointee, William M. Lester.

Holland Declares Interest In Labor And Agriculture

Bartow Candidate For Governor Brings Candidacy To Voters Of Seminole

Large Audience Attends Rally

Cites His Record As Proof Of Interest In Aged And Schools

Spesard L. Holland, champion of the working man in the Florida State Senate for eight years, last night brought his campaign for governor into Seminole County before one of the largest audiences to hear a political candidate in recent years.

Senator Holland, who was introduced by J. C. Hutchison, declared his interest in agriculture and the citrus industry and cited his liberal record in the state legislature to support his contention; in addition he read official records of the Florida State Senate and reports of the legislative committee of the four railroad brotherhoods proving his interest in the working man and woman.

He further presented proof of his interest in the consumer, producer, the old folks of the state, schools and school teachers, farmers and livestock men, the small citrus grower, and the small merchant.

The speech was delivered from a truck which served as a makeshift stage on the corner of First Street and Magnolia Avenue. Mr. Holland used a public address system which reached the entire crowd on First Street and Magnolia Avenue including those sitting in their cars down both sides of the street for nearly a block away.

Mr. Hutchison declared that Senator Holland was qualified in every way to be governor of Florida and that he was the champion of the people.

Declaring that he believes himself to be the best qualified man in the race because of his experience with business, legal and governmental affairs, Mr. Holland said that he has four promises to give the people of the state with assurance that he will be able to carry them out.

These four promises are: 1. That he will create harmony between the executive and legislative branches of the state government;

2. That he will appoint men and women to office on a merit basis only;

3. That he will notify these appointees that they have a free hand to do the best job within their ability without political interference and not as mere dispensers of political patronage, and

4. That he will so practice economy in the departments under him that they will be examples in economy to other branches used directly under him.

As a basis for a long range conservation program, Holland advocated the establishment of public hunting grounds out of lands which have been taken over by the state under the Murphy law. Such a plan, Holland said, would prevent the lands being dumped on the real estate market to ruin prices and would provide recreation spots for the poor man who cannot now hunt and fish because most of the lands of the state are fenced or posted.

"When you tie the ordinary man into conservation programs," (Continued on page four)

Trade Program Extension For 3 Years Voted

Roosevelt And Hull Score Victories In 42-37 Senate Vote

WASHINGTON, Apr. 6.—(AP)—The Senate, by a vote of 42 to 37, passed a three-year extension of the trade agreements program yesterday, thereby giving President Roosevelt a major victory over Vice President Garner, who had striven to limit the bill to one year.

The senate's action sent the key administration legislation to the White House, the House having previously approved an identical measure. Besides being a triumph for the Democrats, the bill was heralded as perhaps the congressional session's biggest test, the result also elated Secretary of State Hull, because the program provides for tariff and other trade barriers in return for concessions from other nations in the cornerstone of his foreign policy.

Some considered the result might enhance his chance for the Democratic presidential nomination, although others thought the sharp divisions of opinion within the Democratic party on the trade issue might have the opposite effect.

The passage through Congress of the act continuing the trade agreements program in force for the next three years will afford profound satisfaction to all those who have been observing and approving the operation of the program from the standpoint of our national interest.

On the final roll-call all Republicans present voted against continuation of the program. They were joined by 16 Democrats, mostly from the west, Senator Pepper of Florida voted against and Andrews was paired against.

The Garner-Roosevelt split, resulting in a 46-33 administration victory, came on an amendment offered by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, to limit extension of the program to only one year.

Fourteen Democrats and 20 Republicans voted for the proposal, while 48 Democrats were joined by Senator Danaher, Republican, Connecticut, London, Farmer-Laborite, and Norris, Independent, Nebraska, in opposing it. Senator Pepper also voted against the extension, and Andrews was not recorded.

Garner, only Democratic presidential aspirant avowedly opposed to a third term for President Roosevelt, was actively engaged in behind-the-scenes efforts on behalf of the limitation. The President, on the other hand, opposed it.

At his press conference a few hours before the amendment came to a vote, the President told newspapermen he believed the amendment would be very harmful to the nation.

He said it was not good for the country to have a congressional majority ever taking every year, and that this would be true next year regardless of what administration came into power.

Nation Guages U. S. Defenses On Army Day

First Totally Blind Flight Successfully Made By Bomber In Observance Of Day

WASHINGTON, Apr. 6.—(AP)—Army Day, the 53rd anniversary of American entry into the World War, gave the nation opportunity to gauge the progress made in transforming the country's land forces into a streamlined, hard-hitting machine.

Reviewing the record of the past year, military officials expressed gratification at success of the program for re-inforcing national defenses. An inventory based on the latest official reports by Secretary Woodring and other officials indicated the War Department's long-sought objective of a compact, fully-trained and equipped professional force ready for action definitely is sighted for the first time in peace.

Arms and equipment are available for an initial protective force of about 400,000.

LANGLEY FIELD, Va., Apr. 6.—(AP)—The first totally blind flight in the history of aviation was completed today by the United States Army's 22½-ton bomber. It landed here from Mitchell Field, New York.

Major Carl McDaniel, in charge of the crew of six, shot off from an outside contact by the blind, dependent children and from allotments made to dependents at home by enrollees in the Civilian Conservation Corps, according to information received today from the State Welfare Board.

During the month of March, figures released by the board disclosed that this country received a total of $7,597 from the four sources, including $4,070 in old age assistance grants, $311 in aid to blind, $236 in aid to dependent children and $1,000 was paid in compensation to the 60 young men from the county enrolled in the CCC.

Based on these figures, Seminole County is receiving $911.64 annually from the four sources, according to the Welfare Board.

In addition the county received quantities of surplus commodities, distributed by the Welfare Board's surplus commodity department.

No county tax funds are involved in the payment of old age assistance, or aid to blind, the State's portion of the revenue being derived entirely from the beverage tax. Welfare Commissioner C. C. Conington said he also pointed out that the State's portion of the revenue being derived entirely from the beverage tax. Welfare Commissioner C. C. Conington said he also pointed out that the State's portion of the revenue being derived entirely from the beverage tax.

Such a spirit can be developed through an understanding State administration and the cooperation of Florida's citizenry in a project designed to eliminate the section rivalries. What he said "When I am your governor," he added, "I will encourage an all-Florida spirit and will promote cooperative attitude among the various sections of the state."

Seminole County Receives $7,597 Through Welfare Board Agencies

One of Seminole County's most substantial payrolls is derived from the granting of public assistance to the aged, blind, dependent children and from allotments made to dependents at home by enrollees in the Civilian Conservation Corps, according to information received today from the State Welfare Board.

During the month of March, figures released by the board disclosed that this country received a total of $7,597 from the four sources, including $4,070 in old age assistance grants, $311 in aid to blind, $236 in aid to dependent children and $1,000 was paid in compensation to the 60 young men from the county enrolled in the CCC.

Whitehair Would Encourage Buying Of State Products

MADISON, Wis., Apr. 6.—(Special)—A "buy Florida product" sign must be encouraged to give the farmer, ranchman and poultry raiser of this state a profitable outlet for their produce, Finance P. Whitehair of Deland, a candidate for governor, said at a political rally here today.

"We spend 60 million dollars a year out of the state for agricultural products which can be produced right here in Florida," Whitehair said. "The money spent at home, would help raise our average annual wage of $445 per family to a level in keeping with the increased cost of government and would elevate the living standard of Florida farms to at least the relative status of non-engaged in a similar occupation in neighboring states."

Such a spirit can be developed through an understanding State administration and the cooperation of Florida's citizenry in a project designed to eliminate the section rivalries.
