Recession?

Gross National Product Up, Raising Questions

United Press International
The government's broad gauge of economic activity — gross national product — actually rose 0.6 percent during the third quarter, the Commerce Department said today in a revised report raising new questions about whether a recession is really under way.

Last month, the department announced that GNP for the July-September quarter showed a 0.6 percent contraction. But today it issued the revised, inflation-adjusted figure showing a surprising turnaround.

The market value of America's goods and services, projected to annual rates, was $2,956 trillion, the department said. GNP was up a strong 8.6 percent from January through March, then dropped 1.6 percent from April through June.

The 0.6 percent increase in the third quarter means there were not two consecutive quarterly declines, as previously reported. Two quarters of decline is one factor that economists use to determine if a recession is on.

The president has said the nation is in a light recession. Some analysts who did not agree with the president's recession declaration have said that recent signs of economic deterioration show the diagnosis may have been right but premature.

The GNP figures are routinely revised three times to take account of additional inventory and import data before becoming final, with the biggest variation likely to come in the first revision delivered today.

The government's inflation measure contained in the GNP figures, called the "implicit price deflator," jumped 9.3 percent in the third quarter, a marked deterioration from the progress against inflation in the previous quarter when the same figure was 6.4 percent.

In another bit of unexpected good news, corporate after-tax profits rose 0.5 percent in the third quarter after dropping 9.8 percent in the second quarter.

The department reported Wednesday that despite a 0.6 percent rise in personal income and a new income tax break, Americans cut spending 0.2 percent in October, saving the money. Savings rose 1.5 percent in October from the July-September rate.

The first drop in personal spending since April and the savings rise came as the Christmas sales season opened.

Most of October's personal income rise was limited to government workers and people getting high interest returns. Factory wages and salaries fell, as did farm and other commodity industry income.

The department also said the housing industry's depression hit a new low in October, with fewer single family homes started than at any time since those records began in 1959. Projected to an annual rate, October's number was just 487,000.

But real estate agents and brokers ended a convention on an optimistic note Wednesday, hearing predictions mortgage rates would fall to 14 percent, or lower, by the end of 1982.

START YOUR ENGINES

Push-powered go-karts in neighborhood streets are a thing of the past as far as Mark Regnier, of the Mario Andretti Grand Prix raceway in Casselberry, is concerned. Regnier is ready to "start his engine" to test-drive the new Indy 500-style racer at the track. Merger Of 2 Authorities In Dispute?

By LEE DANCY
Herald Staff Writer

At least one of the three members of the Seminole County Commission who favor a proposed merger with the Orange County Housing Finance Authority said it does not matter to her whether there would be single or multi-family units resulting from an alliance with the agency.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen is one of three board members who favor a proposal for Seminole County to join with the Orange County authority to provide multi-family housing through low-interest mortgages to builders. Money for the loans would come from tax-exempt bonds.

When Commissioner Sandra Glenn proposed investigating the possibility of a merger, the county's lawmakers were discussing the feasibility of single-family homes financed by the low-interest loans.

'A lot of people can't afford single-family homes. I think we have to look at all different types of housing.'

Commissioners Bob Sturm, Mrs. Glenn and Mrs. Christensen said they favor the proposal because it would help first-time home buyers.

The Orange County authority, however, currently is pursuing a $150 million bond issue for multi-family housing only. Only 20 percent of those units would be available for low-income renters.

"Before I reject it (the multi-family housing), I would have to go over the benefits and disadvantages," Mrs. Christensen said. "I'm not going to say I'm opposed to it until I get all the facts."

Mrs. Christensen said she would have to determine whether there is a need for more multi-family housing in Seminole County and who would benefit from it.

"A lot of people can't afford single-family homes," Mrs. Christensen said. "I think we have to look at all different types of housing."

Commissioners Bill Kirchhoff and Robert G. "Bud" Feather are opposed to the proposed housing finance authority merger. Both commissioners think bonds which would provide money for the low-interest loans would be unfair competition for other bonds being sold to finance a new regional sewage treatment plant and county roads.

Mrs. Christensen disagrees. "Once the economy turns, I think all bonds would be sold," she said. "I don't think it will affect the bonds currently being sold, including the new bonds for the Iron Bridge regional sewage treatment plant."

Sturm and Mrs. Glenn could not be reached for comment this morning.

Howard Hodges, president of Atlantic Bank in Sanford, does not think the new bonds for housing would be unfair competition for other bonds already on the market.

"I don't see why that would have any effect on the market," Hodges said. "I personally believe it's a good idea to put this money out into the community."

Hodges said similar bond sales for low-interest loans have worked well in Orange County and other areas.

Kirchhoff said he is opposed to the proposal because it would not help lower-income residents but would, in his opinion, help the building industry. He also said the tax-exempt status of the bonds will hurt President Reagan's economic policies.

By granting tax-exempt status to the bonds, the federal government is denying itself revenue, Kirchhoff said.

"As long as you're spending more than you take in, interest rates are going to remain high," he added.

Janice Springfield, vice president and cashier for Flagship Bank of Seminole County, said her only concern focuses on whether the various financial institutions in the county would be interested in handling the tax-exempt bonds.

"If we don't have any (financial institutions) interested, there wouldn't be any buyers for the bonds," she said.

Flu Shots Can Cause Dangerous Reactions

BOSTON (UPI) — Shots given annually to millions of Americans to immunize them against influenza can cause potentially dangerous reactions to other medicines, researchers reported today. The flu shots taken annually by an estimated 22 million people depress the body's ability to metabolize such common medicines as those given to protect against blood clots or to treat asthma, the researchers said.

The depression of the metabolism of other medicines means the drugs remain in the body for a longer period of time, producing the equivalent of an overdose, the doctors said.

The study, conducted by Drs. Paul Kramer and Craig J. McClain of the Minneapolis Veterans Administration Medical Center and the University of Minnesota, was conducted after a patient who had been receiving a drug called warfarin for 12 years following aortic valve replacement suddenly became ill.

Ten days after the patient was vaccinated against the flu, he developed a massive upper gastrointestinal-tract hemorrhage and other problems, the doctors reported.

Great American Smokeout Turns To Ashes In County

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

While an estimated 18 million people are stubbing out their last cigarettes today in observance of the American Cancer Society's "5th Great American Smokeout," only a few signs and a few buttons announcing the event are being seen in Seminole County.

Irene Brown, president of the American Cancer Society's Seminole County branch, said today the special program "has not been a truly great success in the county in years past."

And, she said, the local unit of the cancer society has been absorbed in finding a new home and also been concentrating its efforts on helping patients, getting them to tumor clinics.

"The Smokeout is a preventive measure," Mrs. Brown said, noting that lung cancer is "a disease one does not have to get."

At the same time, Carol Kirchhoff, public-information officer for the local unit, said she has put up posters in the county courthouse lobby and at the Flagship Bank and is passing out buttons reading, "Kiss Me, I Don't Smoke." Buttons also are available in the lobby of the Flagship Bank, downtown Sanford, she said.

Mrs. Kirchhoff said seeking a new location for the unit's headquarters has taken a good deal of time. The local Cancer Society offices were located at the Sunniland Corp. building at 202 S. Oak Ave., Sanford, for years. In the last few weeks

Sunniland moved its administrative offices to the firm's chemical plant at Five Points, which in turn meant the cancer society had to move its offices.

Mrs. Kirchhoff noted that Flagship Bank, downtown, has given space on its second floor "until the office is rented to someone else. So, we still have to find a permanent office site," she said.

The American Cancer Society says as many as one third of the nation's 55 million smokers are pantomiming inhaling and popping themselves with rubber bands to stay off cigarettes in the 24-hour Great American Smokeout which began at midnight.

The fifth annual Smokeout is featuring a New Orleans-style jazz funeral in Coral Gables and the burial of a symbolic cigarette, with minister and undertaker, in Knoxville, Tenn. In Lubbock, Tex., a bonfire is being stoked by cigarette packages.

At least a couple of celebrities — actress Polly Bergen and designer Halston — are trying to kick the habit.

The Great American Smokeout, which runs around the clock today, is part of a double-barreled assault on cigarettes by the American Cancer Society. An ACS-funded national conference — "On Smoking or Health" — opened today for a three-day stand at the New York's Waldorf Astoria hotel.

Conferees are coming up with strategies to reach smokers not fazed by health talk against cigarettes.

At the Tobacco Institute in Washington, D.C., the trade group for the $19 billion-a-year tobacco industry, spokesman William D. Toohy said the Department of Agriculture estimates 630 billion cigarettes were consumed in 1980 — up 10 billion from the previous year.

"It's obviously a great publicity tool for the cancer society as they move into their fund-raising season," Toohy said.

"But we think it's really a shame that they spend millions of dollars on this one-day media event when that money could be put toward scientific research to determine exactly how and why a normal healthy cell becomes cancerous. Those questions still remain unanswered and are, I think, of utmost importance to all of us."

Regardless of whether it's an expensive gimmick, the cancer society says between 18 million and 20 million of the nation's 55 million smokers are trying to quit for 24 hours. If last year's smokeout is any indication, nearly five million will succeed.

One of the American Health Foundation's methods for kicking the habit, as illustrated Tuesday for Ms. Bergen and Halston, is to purse one's lips and puff — without a cigarette.

Janet C. MacAinsh of Howell, Mich., says a rubber band was her key to kicking a 26-year pack-a-day habit in five weeks. "Wear it loosely around your wrist and snap it every time you think you want to smoke," she said.

John Schirard Named To Citrus Commission

JOHN H. SCHIRARD
...wins appointment

John H. "Jack" Schirard of Sanford has been appointed by Gov. Bob Graham to fill the vacancy on the Florida Citrus Commission created by the resignation of longtime member Arlen N. Jumper of Ocala.

"I was asked to serve in this capacity, which is a heavy responsibility for the citrus industry, and I felt it was my obligation to do what I could," said Schirard.

"It's a time-consuming job, but some of us who care for the industry must do it," he said, explaining that the commission meets several times a month in Lakeland.

Schirard, of 101 W. Crystal Dr., who has been a member of the Citrus Harvesting Research and Development Committee for six years and chairman for five, is a native of Sanford and has lived here 48 years. Vice president of the Patrick Fruit Co. and of Okahumpka Groves Inc., both of Sanford, he has a degree in agriculture from the University of Florida.

Schirard is involved in ownership of citrus properties in Seminole, Lake, Orange, Indian River and St. Lucie counties.

Policeman Sues Casselberry

Demotion Brings Lawsuit

The city of Casselberry, its mayor, its Police Department, the Civil Service Board, its former and current police chiefs, five police officers and a police dispatcher have been named co-defendants in a civil suit filed in U.S. District Court in Orlando by Police Officer Andrew Moler, a former police sergeant.

Moler, demoted from sergeant to officer earlier this year based on written and oral complaints from former squad members who said he was incompetent to lead, is asking $1.6 million from the parties named in the suit. He said he feels the city's actions were improper and that he has been libeled and defamed by the demotion.

Former Police Chief George Karcher's demotion of Moler, 37, was supported by Mayor Owen Sheppard and the Civil Service Board at a grievance hearing held June 18.

According to Assistant Police Chief Winthrop Gates, three charges were brought against Moler, two of which were upheld by the Civil Service Board at the hearing.

The upheld allegations say Moler was "derelict in his duties for failure to display personal and supervisory qualities" and "incompetence in that he was absent from patrol twice and showed a lack of supervisory control," Gates said. The third charge, which was unsubstantiated by the Civil Service Board, was filed with Karcher by three police officers who said Moler intimidated them.

"I am aware of the suit, of course," Sheppard said. "And I agreed with Chief Karcher's action then (to request Moler's demotion) and I certainly agree with it now." — TENI YARBROUGH

Cabinet Officers Don't Want Deep Budget Cuts

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington and Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner may try to talk Gov. Bob Graham out of moving too quickly to slash $56 million from the budget.

These officials are not convinced it is absolutely necessary to cut the money immediately — particularly since the state has a rainy day surplus of more than $400 million built up.

Mandating Basic Education

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Miami Beach Sen. Jack Gordon may win the support of a prestigious commission today for his rule requiring college and university students to take at least a year of math and two years of English.

And approval of the rule by the Post-secondary Education Planning Commission likely would provide the impetus for Cabinet approval, which would force the standard on the state's nine universities and 28 community colleges.

PATCO Officers Fined

TAMPA (UPI) — Ronald Levesque, one of two former Tampa air traffic controllers who pleaded guilty to criminal contempt for refusing to go back to work, literally talked himself into a $1,000 fine Wednesday.

U.S. District Judge George C. Carr — adjudicated Levesque and John Seddon, both officers of the Tampa local of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers union, guilty and fined both the maximum $1,000.

Sea Search Suspended

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — The Navy's search for a fisherman whose 30-foot boat was swamped by heavy seas about 45 miles off the north Florida coast Tuesday was suspended Wednesday.

Three men were spotted clinging to debris from their boat Tuesday morning by a lookout on the Navy's fast frigate USS Antrim. They were rescued and told their rescuers of a fourth man, who had swum away from them.

Moderating the event, at which all eight candidates for three council posts in the Dec. 8 city election are scheduled to appear, will be representatives of the Seminole County League of Women Voters.

The three council seats up for election include: Seat 1, Councilman Vic Olivera, completing his first two-year term in office, is being challenged by Francis G. Mark, a former councilman. Seat 3, held by one-term Councilman Ray Fox, opposed by Al Wichman, a high school teacher, and W.L. Durrenberger, formerly a member of the city's Planning and Zoning Commission and Board of Adjustment; Seat 5, held by first-term Councilman Gene McDonald, who is vying with Bob M. Ball Jr., real-estate broker, and Robert Stoddard, a volunteer firefighter and past member of the city's Board of Adjustment.

Councilmen are paid a $125 monthly expense allowance. The city has 1,406 voters eligible to cast ballots in the election.

At Tonight's Board Meeting

Selection Process For SHA Director Continues

The Sanford Housing Authority Board of Commissioners at a 7:30 p.m. meeting today will narrow the field of candidates for the $20,000 to $30,000 annually salaried executive director's post. The meeting will be held at the Redding Gardens Community room at Fifth Street and Locust Avenue.

Joseph Caldwell, board chairman, said today that each of the five commissioners is to submit a list of their five top choices for the post. The lists will be compiled for review by the entire board and interviewing of top candidates is expected to begin at a special meeting in two weeks, Caldwell said.

He said that although the board would like to select a permanent executive director in December, it is more likely one will be appointed sometime in January.

Although the salary range for the post is $20,000 to $30,000, $26,000 has been budgeted for the salary and it will probably be the one given, Caldwell said.

The authority has been operated by Linda Williams as interim executive director since shortly after the former director, Lewis Cox, resigned in August. Cox was named shortly after a previous board of commissioners fired the authority's eight-year veteran executive director, Thomas Wilson III, in November 1980. Mrs. Williams has been employed by the authority for eight years.

A request by Wilson's lawyer for court permission to take depositions is scheduled to be heard by Circuit Judge Robert McGregor at 10:30 a.m. Monday. Wilson's lawyer said the purpose of the depositions is to discover information that may or may not lead to Wilson's filing a lawsuit against the authority.

At the time Wilson was fired, the only reason given by authority members was that they no longer had confidence in him.

Boy Scout Troop 832, sponsored by the authority, will open the meeting and perform a sketch. The troop meets regularly in the Higgins Terrace apartment complex community room. The board is expected to approve the expenditure of $900 to refurbish that room.

Don't Expect Quick Results From Disarmament Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Realistic results from President Reagan's broad initiative for mutual conventional and nuclear disarmament with the Soviet Union loomed far down the negotiating track today despite the hurrahs greeting the sweeping proposals.

"It's going to take time to accomplish anything with the Soviets," said Richard Perle, the assistant defense secretary for international security policy who coordinates U.S. and NATO affairs.

The NATO allies applauded Reagan's far-reaching overture Wednesday as the ammunition needed to quiet growing anti-nuclear sentiment in Europe. But the Soviets, not unexpectedly, immediately denounced it as a "propaganda ploy."

Reagan offered to cancel deployment of 572 new medium range nuclear missiles in Europe if the Soviets dismantle theirs, to reduce the numbers of strategic atomic weapons on both sides and to cut back conventional troop and armored forces facing each other across the NATO-Warsaw Pact frontlines.

In a speech beamed worldwide, Reagan said, "It's a simple, straight-forward, yet historic message: the United States proposes the mutual reduction of conventional, intermediate range nuclear and strategic forces."

The "unprecedentedly sweeping" measures, as one administration official described the offer, basically appeared as much designed to end the nuclear face-off in Europe as they are to calm European fury over plans to counter the deadly accurate Soviet SS-20 missiles with more advanced U.S. missiles.

The proposal to withhold deployment of 108 Pershing IIs and 464 cruise missiles in five European countries beginning in December 1983 will be the opening U.S. position at the first phase of the disarmament process opening in Geneva Nov. 30.

In exchange, the Soviets would have to agree to dismantle what administration officials have said are 270 SS-20s and another 380 older SS-4s and SS-5s. The SS-20s, with ranges of 2,500 miles and which carry three warheads each on tracked launchers, can hit anywhere in Europe.

By comparison, the United States now has 108 Pershing IAs with ranges of 180 miles and 36 Lance missiles that can be fired no more than 70 miles — making them useful only as tactical battlefield weapons.

As for reducing the numbers of strategic forces, Secretary of State Alexander Haig is to meet Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Geneva Jan. 26-27 to discuss opening the so-called Strategic Arms Reduction Talks, a senior U.S. official told reporters — the follow-up to the SALT bargaining.

"We hope this bold proposal put forward by the president satisfies the question about whether this is serious," said Fred Ikle, undersecretary of defense for policy. But, he said, "it may take long and hard negotiations."

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, may have summed up the positive reaction to Reagan's first major foreign policy address when he said, "This is an opportunity for the Soviets to put up or shut up."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes described Reagan as "extremely pleased" with the positive reaction at home and abroad.

The platform for the speech was the National Press Club, but it was beamed around to globe to what the International Communications Agency estimated will be an audience of 200 million. Seven countries broadcast it live.

The timing of the address gave Reagan the opportunity to seize the arms control initiative from Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, who is to meet with West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt in Bonn next week.

Senate Republicans Seek To Avert Reagan Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seeking to avert a veto by President Reagan, Senate Republicans are looking for budget cuts small enough for Congress but large enough to satisfy Reagan.

They struggle with the matter Wednesday, planned to meet with all GOP senators early today and then, on the Senate floor, offer an amendment aimed at reducing a $17.4 billion spending bill that is needed to keep the government from shutting down at midnight Friday.

Arms Talks To Go Slowly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union will start medium-range missile talks Nov. 30 at opposite ends of the negotiating spectrum. It will likely be months before real give-and-take begins.

In the meantime, the United States intends to proceed toward deploying a new generation of super-accurate missiles in western Europe and the Soviets show no signs of slowing the production of their triple warhead SS-20 missiles.

Ford Questioned In Death

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Authorities have questioned actor Glenn Ford about a last meeting with his close friend William Holden, who died to death following a drunken fall in his oceanfront apartment and was found a week later.

Shortly after the Oscar-winning actor's death was disclosed Monday, Ford said he was with Holden, his close friend of more than 40 years, just four days earlier.

But Robert Dambacher, the coroner's chief investigator, said Wednesday that Ford denied saying he had been with Holden four days before the 63-year-old actor's body was found.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Soviet Union Says 'Nyet' To Reagan Arms Proposal

United Press International

The Soviet Union dismissed President Reagan's appeal for European disarmament as a trick to ensure nuclear superiority but NATO leaders welcomed it as a sign of concern for their problems with the anti-nuclear movement.

"The U.S. proposal is a mere propaganda ploy designed to stalemate the Geneva talks and to present the American course of escalating the arms race and ensuring military superiority as a peace initiative," the Soviet news agency Tass said Wednesday.

Kissinger Booed In Brazil

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI) — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger fled a university in the back of a van to escape 400 students who hurled eggs, burned a U.S. flag and shouted "murderer" to protest his $15,000 speaking fee.

Kissinger was giving a lecture Wednesday at Brasilia University when 400 students surrounded the auditorium building, trapping the former secretary of state and scores of high Brazilian government officials for about two hours.

Warsaw Threatens Strikers

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Poland's parliament warned strikers and would-be strikers today that the Communist regime still is prepared to ban walkouts and invoke martial law to end labor unrest.

The Sejm's message, published on the front page of national newspapers, warned of the harsher action if "a threat to national existence emerges" from the continuing worker disturbances.

Lake Mary Council Set To Talk Trash

Officers of Superior Sanitation Service will appear before the Lake Mary City Council at a 7:30 p.m. meeting today to answer the "large dose of complaints" about its service received by city officials. The meeting will be held at City Hall, 158 N. Country Club Road.

Mayor Walter Sorenson said today that the 90-day trial period given by the City Council for Superior to improve its service under an existing franchise agreement has expired.

When new owners took over the operation of the service, one of two franchised by the city under non-exclusive arrangements, the council received assurances from the company that service would be improved. Individual councilmen had received numerous complaints.

In recent months, the council demanded explanations from the firm's officers on their attempt to raise rates to city customers from $7 to $8 monthly without prior council approval.

The franchise agreement requires council approval before rate increases are made. The council disapproved the proposed increase, saying the firm had not shown it was warranted.

In other business, the council will consider adopting amendments to two ordinances. The first would repeal a section of the zoning ordinance calling for one or more members of the Board of Adjustment to also serve on the Planning and Zoning Commission. The second would add a section to the personnel policy to require the automatic suspension of officials suspected of wrongdoing.

The council will hear proposals from computer-service firms on the costs of placing utility billing and city accounting on a computer.

The amount of money to be paid workers at the Dec. 8 city election will be set.

Cancer Society Finds Home

By LEE DANCY
Herald Staff Writer

A new home for the Seminole Unit of the American Cancer Society was right under its president's nose.

Irene Brown, the society's president, had been looking for a new location over the last month. The nonprofit organization's former office in the old Sunniland Corp. building at 202 S. Oak Ave., was lost when Sunniland moved to offices at its chemical plant in Five Points.

The new location for the cancer society will be Flagship Bank's downtown office, at 200 W. First St., second floor. Mrs. Brown works for Flagship as vice president in charge of marketing management.

"It (Tuesday) was a day of miracles," she said. "We had space right under my nose. We will move in next Monday (Nov. 23)."

One of the best aspects of the cancer society's new office is that it's rent-free, just what Mrs. Brown wanted. Paying rent for office space would have meant less money for helping cancer patients and teaching others about its warning signals, she said.

The new office may not be permanent, however. Mrs. Brown said Flagship continues to search for a tenant who can pay for the office. If the bank does find such an occupant, the society will have 30 days to find a new location, she said.

"We will continue to look for something more permanent," she said. "But it's nice to have a home for now."

The new office is small, Mrs. Brown said. Fitting the organization's desks, typewriters, office machines, shelves for brochures and other assorted supplies into the tiny suite will not be easy.

"We'll have to consolidate, but we'll make do," she said. "As long as we don't have to spend money for space, we can make do with practically nothing."

The cancer society's telephone will be disconnected Friday while the phone company relocates it to the new office. Mrs. Brown said the number (322-0849) would remain the same, however.

Most of the people the cancer society helps in Seminole County come from the Sanford area in the northern section of the county. Mrs. Brown emphasized that she works for all of Seminole County and wants people living in Altamonte Springs, Casselberry and other south county locations who need some kind of help involving cancer to contact her.

FP&L Needs Research Volunteers

The Florida Power & Light Co. is mailing out letters and survey forms to 15,000 randomly-selected residential customers to invite participation in a new energy conservation research program.

Volunteers for the study will help in identifying the most effective energy conservation steps that can be taken in the home, and measuring their effectiveness.

From information provided in the survey forms returned to the company, some 2,000 homes will be selected for visits by FP&L representatives to determine eligibility for participation in the study. Based on the results of the visit, a smaller number of customers will be selected to receive either a $50 cash payment for allowing installation of special equipment to monitor energy usage or one or more energy conservation measures added to or replaced in the home at no cost to them. These measures include insulation, energy-efficient cooling systems and energy-efficient heat pumps.

Be Thankful For Plenty Of Gas

MIAMI (UPI) — The AAA Clubs of Florida forecast plenty of gasoline across the state during the Thanksgiving holiday and said 66 percent of Florida service stations plan to be open on Thanksgiving Day.

AAA reported Wednesday that the price of gasoline fell another .8 of a cent a gallon — to $1.42 per gallon at full service pumps — in Florida during the last half of October and the first half of this month.

There was an average savings of 12.5 cents a gallon at self service pumps.

AAA found the average price for all grades at full service pumps has declined 1 cent since mid-September, while the cost at self service pumps is down by 1.5 cents since that time.

Ever-Increasing Terrorist War

To a degree never known before, terrorism has joined warfare as an extension of politics by other means. Although there are some exceptions, the terrorist is generally the cutting edge of international subversion. Terrorism is a recognized Marxist tactic for destabilizing a society in preparation for revolutionary takeover.

The botched $1.6 million robbery of a Brink's armored car on Oct. 20 near Nyack, N.Y., provided the FBI with startling new evidence of a small but dangerous revolutionary underground in this country. Some of the seven persons arrested were found to be remnants of the Weathermen, a revolutionary splinter group of the 1960s. Evidence rounded up in raids conducted in five states suggests the evolved group, now known as the Weather Underground, was merging with an urban-guerrilla group, the Black Liberation Army.

To be sure, the known evidence suggests the Weather Underground membership is tiny. But the small numbers customarily associated with terrorist operations should mislead no one. For example, the Baader-Meinhof gang, which terrorized West Germany during the 1970s and brought about draconian defense measures, is thought to have numbered no more than 60 members.

The two police officers and the Brink's guard who were shot down by the Weather Underground add another tragic statistic of terrorism that struck without warning in more than 7,300 international incidents between January 1968 and October 1980. Nearly 3,000 attacks were aimed at American citizens or installations. During this period, terrorists killed 173 Americans and wounded 970.

The attempted assassination of acting U.S. Ambassador Christian Chapman in Paris recently is but the latest example of how American diplomats abroad are now targets of international terrorists. The would-be assassin in this instance has been linked with Libya's Col. Moammar Khadafi.

An insight into the significance of rising terrorism in the world has been provided by Joel Lisker, chief counsel and staff director of the U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Security and Terrorism. According to Mr. Lisker, terrorism is not irrational violence but "... violent criminal activity designed to intimidate and induce fear for political purposes."

A broader and timely understanding of terrorism has been provided by Clair Sterling's new book, "The Terror Network," which contends the Soviets are behind most of the terrorism afflicting the West.

Ironically, Americans have been more aware of the Soviet link to terrorists abroad than to those at home. As far back as 1973, Arab terrorists in Rome were caught with Soviet-made surface-to-air missiles. Moreover, we have long known that terrorists from numerous nations have been trained in Libyan and PLO camps established by the Soviets. And we have learned more about the sources of terrorism in Turkey, for instance, where terrorists have killed 5,000 persons during the last two years alone.

Fortunately some remarkable revelations about Soviet involvement in U.S. domestic terrorism are coming to light. The Wall Street Journal calls attention to a new Canadian-produced film, "The KGB Connections: An Investigation into Soviet Operations in North America," which documents Weather Underground assistance from the Cuban embassies in Canada and Mexico and the involvement by Cuban intelligence in American terrorism. It also documents how the Kremlin "assumed full financial operational control" of Cuba's secret police after the 1968 Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia. For some unexplained reason, this remarkable film has been restricted to small, private showings in this country while being shown abroad.

The day of pussy-footing about Soviet responsibility seems to be coming to an end.

"...And this revised plan calls for STOPPING THE ECONOMY in order to STOP INFLATION!"

By JANE CASSELBERRY

The Harry-Anna Crippled Children's Hospital in Umatilla is owned and operated by the Elks Lodges of Florida and is the organization's main charity function in this state. This Sunday afternoon, 40 of the young patients will be guests for dinner at the Winter Park Elks Lodge 1830 on Howell Branch Road in South Seminole County.

There will be clowns, balloons and entertainment for the youngsters and officials such as Seminole County Sheriff John Polk, who have been invited for the occasion.

The women's Does group affiliated with the Winter Park Lodge will present a check for $1,200 raised from a recent bazaar to Hospital Administrator Jim Oliver.

Women from the Seminole County RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) will present items which they have made for the Harry-Anna patients.

The four-year-old 100-bed modern orthopedic hospital is open to all children from infants to 18 years who are financially indigent, regardless of race or creed who would benefit from treatment there. There is no charge. If surgery is needed it is done at Orlando Regional Hospital at the Elks' expense.

Patients must be referred by a doctor. At present the hospital is less than half full, but has to be fully staffed and completely equipped. Ruth Rowley, of Longwood, Harry-Anna Crippled Children's Hospital chairman for the Winter Park Does, says there are a lot of eligible children who need the kind of treatment offered free of charge at the hospital, but their parents do not know that it is available.

In addition to patients in the hospital, there are currently 13 outpatients. Patients living in Miami for instance can receive therapy at Harry-Anna, while undergoing surgery and outpatient care in their own city.

The Sunday Funmakers of Florida, a 400-member organization which sponsors events that range from balls to barbecues, will hold a benefit for the Seminole County Humane Society building fund from 7-11 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 6 at Lord Chumley's Pub, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs.

The "Animal Cracker Ball" will be open to the public and advance tickets may be purchased for $5 at the Humane Society or Lord Chumley's or at the door for $8. There will be entertainment and music for dancing by the Terry Carroll Band. There will be munchies on the tables and a cash bar.

All profits will go to the fund for the new animal shelter. For more information contact Phyllis Dale, coordinator for the affair, at 830-5015.

As this is the Funmakers' Christmas party, those attending may bring a gift of dry or canned food or litter for a cat or dog, or a toy for a girl or boy or a small gift for an elderly person. They will be distributed by the Sunday Funmakers to the Humane Society shelter children's homes and nursing homes at Christmas.

The Funmakers were organized over a year ago and is made up of married and single folks of all walks of life looking for fellowship and something to do on Sunday. They have a big event about once a month, such as a trip, or picnic and they will sing carols at nursing homes at Christmas. Members range from waitresses to TV personalities and owners of companies.

When Cargo Is Hazardous

WASHINGTON — Who ought to have regulatory authority over the approximately 100 million packages of hazardous materials — including flammable, explosive, toxic and radioactive elements — shipped every year in this country?

More than a decade of debate has failed to resolve that difficult question, but the federal government appears to have finally found a partial solution to a complex problem fraught with emotional overtones.

Many state and local government leaders as well as various consumer and environmental organizations are unhappy with the pending action, which gives Washington officials an unprecedented degree of centralized control over the domestic transportation of hazardous items.

But the current decentralized system — which allows cities, counties and states unilaterally to establish restrictions that often conflict with the limitations imposed by neighboring jurisdictions — is an invitation to disaster.

New York, Chicago, Boston and Miami have disparate rules governing shipments of radioactive materials through their cities, as do many smaller communities including Lakewood, Ohio; Carteret, N.J.; Charleston, S.C.; New London, Conn.; Wendell, Mass.; and Missoula, Mont.

Some jurisdictions ban certain types of hazardous shipments, some require prior notification, some insist upon providing a police escort and some demand that shippers obtain special (and expensive) permits.

The result is a situation in which hazardous materials often are required to spend excessive time in transit, thus unnecessarily exposing the public to improbable but nevertheless potential catastrophes.

A committee of the National Association of Attorneys General that studied the problem offers these conclusions:

"Scores of localities across the country have restricted or banned shipments of nuclear and other hazardous materials within their borders. It is understandable that citizen groups are concerned... (but) the balkanization of a transportation network could do far more harm than good.

"A hodge-podge of conflicting rules may actually worsen the danger. Local laws do protect local citizens, but they also force... shippers to take circuitous routes, to cover more miles and to spend more time in transit over second-class roads, thus increasing the chance of an accident."

A shipper seeking to transport radioactive materials through Connecticut and Rhode Island, for example, is confronted with conflicting time-of-day restrictions in the two states.

Even at the federal level, jurisdiction over hazardous materials in transit has long been fragmented. Authority over radioactive shipments, for instance, is shared by the Department of Transportation, the Department of Energy and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Feds Were Asleep At The Loan Window

WASHINGTON — During the silver boom and bust nearly two years ago, the federal government's regulatory watchdogs were strangely blind, deaf and toothless while wealthy speculators tried to corner the silver market.

By their inexcusable inaction, the federal agencies actually encouraged the speculators' manipulation of the silver market. They ignored the serious inflationary effects of the silver boom, which drove up the price of hundreds of items like X-ray film and hearing-aid batteries, crippled companies that depended on silver, and made bank loans harder to get for businessmen who had to compete with the silver traders for credit.

The whole disgraceful story of the regulatory agencies' failure to do their job is laid out in a still-unreleased report of the House Subcommittee on Commerce, Consumers and Monetary Affairs. Ostrich violations of federal policy were winked at by the federal regulators, the report concluded.

"Banks and brokerage firms, prohibited since the 1930s from making loans to meet

EDUCATION WORLD

Education Week Noted

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Education Editor

Flashes from the school house and campus — a sampling about some things educational during "American Education Week," which ends Friday:

"Our citizens have faith in the public schools and they have demonstrated it time after time," said Willard McGulre, head of the 1.7 million-member teachers' union, the National Education Association. "The public schools have not let them down." (The NEA is a sponsor of "education week." Other sponsors include the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, the National School Boards Association and the U.S. Department of Education.)

"Education, U.S.A.," published by the National School Public Relations Association, tells readers about a headline seen in a recent Des Moines Sunday Register: "Beginning Engineer Makes More than Me, says 20-Year Teacher." Comments "Education, U.S.A." — "Let's hope that wasn't a direct quote."

—Carnegie-Mellon University, Pittsburgh, Pa., claims to have the only Robotics Institute in higher education. It runs on a budget of $2 million and 35 Ph.D.s — who have not yet been replaced by robots. So far no robot at Carnegie-Mellon has done what a robot did at the University of Florida: go crazy and beat itself to death.

—Student poll: More discipline could curb violence in school. "Read Magazine's" poll of more than 12,000 junior and senior high school students made that claim. The poll also found 87 percent of participants would appreciate "a lot of" or "some" discipline," reports Terry Borton, the school magazine's editor. As a Beaver, Pa., student put it, "Principals and teachers let kids break rules. They say 'Well, just this once, we'll let it go.' But every time they let a kid get away with something, they make the situation worse for themselves, for the troublemaker and for the kids who want to learn something." "More teachers who are strong enough to handle bigger kids," wrote a girl from Grand Blanc, Mich. "Then use a lot of discipline."

—American Council on Education: U.S. Colleges and universities are having a tough time finding and keeping well-qualified faculty to staff engineering schools, triggering a crisis in engineering education, says an ACE report. "Many of the survey respondents believe that the quality of research and instruction in engineering colleges is on the decline." One of the problems: teachers leaving to take higher-paying jobs in industry. The study, sponsored by the National Science Foundation, represented 244 colleges and universities with accredited engineering programs.

—American Association of State Colleges and Universities, at its annual meeting in Colorado Springs, urged Congress to preserve the Department of Education. The AASCU, which represents 39 state colleges and universities with 2.5 million students, also opposed proposals to turn programs such as the College Work-Study, Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grant, and National Direct Student Loan program into block grants. The AASCU claimed this could lead to destruction of the financial aid programs.

—Society of Tied Tongues. A report in the Yale Alumni magazine, warns about the neglect of foreign languages in American schools. The need to understand foreign languages has never been greater, but the country is in the grip of a new "linguistic parochialism," said Peter Demets, professor of Germanic languages and literatures and president of the Modern Language Association. "The resulting paralysis of our public will to learn languages could cut America off from other cultures and, even within its own boundaries, turn it into a pluralist society of tied tongues."

—Justice action. The U.S. Department of Justice has filed suit against the Fairfax County, Va., Schools for trying to charge tuition to military families with children in country schools.

DON GRAFF

Who Needs This?

You're probably familiar with the Gallup and Roper polls, but what do you know about the Merit Report?

If the name doesn't at least ring a faint bell, it's not for lack of tolling. The report is a recent entry into opinion surveying that supplements the usual telephone sampling of public attitudes on the usual range of public and social issues with in-person, on-the-street interviews conducted from computer-equipped trailers traveling from city to city.

Clearly, a state-of-the-art operation. But what makes this "public service" — as it is billed — especially interesting is the sponsorship by an enterprise with which much of the public is familiar in another context. Philip Morris, which among its products numbers a cigarette called ... So now you know.

Critics in the anti-smoking camp see the report as advertising in faint disguise and, especially, a sneaky way to get around the ban on the hyping of tobacco products on television.

They have a good case, sponsor disclaimers to the contrary. Inevitably, every time the media takes note of a report on the public's views on the state of the economy or its preferences in politicians the sponsor's product receives a name-reinforcing plug.

Tobacco-interest sponsorship of attention-attracting events is, of course, nothing new. Golf tournaments and other entertainments are, however, one thing. Product promotion, masquerading as a news-related service is something else.

In this view, it comes down to a question of ethics — business and communication. In another, however, it may be one of excess.

To repeat, you're likely familiar with Gallup and Roper — maybe also with Harris, Crossley and Yankelevich, not to mention CBS-New York Times, NBC-Associated Press and ABC News-Washington Post, possibly even National Opinion Research Center, Research and Surveys Inc. and Civic Service Inc. And there are more.

The public is already polled almost to paralysis, to questionable effect. A case could be made that less, not more, of the same would be the real public service.

For some air travelers, the end of the line has been reached in Texas.

Carrying the separation of smokers and non-smokers as far as it will go, a local airline has banned the former entirely. No one is permitted to light up on Muse Airlines runs between Dallas and Houston.

Justification for the ban, as reported recently in the Christian Science Monitor, is a marketing survey indicating that passengers by a 5-to-1 margin preferred to be seated in the non-smoking section on short flights.

There's also the conviction of the line's president that there's no middle ground on smoking: "When you put smokers and non-smokers in an aluminum tube at 30,000 feet, there is no room for reasonable discussion."

Possibly, but certainly nowhere else to go for those who don't like the setup.

margins set on securities, extended massive amounts of credit to finance the purchase and holdings of silver by the major speculators during 1979-80," the report states.

There were two major speculative combines involved in the silver hoarding: one led by the brothers Nelson Bunker and William Herbert Hunt, the other known as the Conti group. Two wealthy Saudi Arabians were in both combines.

"Large speculative purchases in the cash markets and highly unusual demands for futures contracts and delivery under those contracts by the Hunt family and the Conti group between mid-1979 and early 1980 were the principal factors behind the sharp upper movement in both the cash and futures price for silver," the subcommittee report concludes.

The effect on the credit market was almost as devastating as that on the silver market. "The Hunts may have received almost 13 percent of all new business loans during February and March of 1980," the report states.

This run on the money supply came at a time when banks had been asked to curtail credit as a means of fighting inflation. So they cut back drastically on loans to consumers and small businesses — while they shoveled money at the silver speculators.

It is against Federal Reserve Board policy for banks to borrow from the Fed to cover speculative loans. Yet far from discouraging the bankers who were financing the Hunts — to the ultimate total of $1.8 billion — the Fed let them borrow at discount rates.

If the Federal Reserve Board was asleep at the loan window, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission was all but climbing in bed with the silver speculators. Commissioners and staff members met and talked with the Hunts privately; at one point, William Herbert Hunt expressed a desire to attend a commission meeting, but was persuaded that this would be "inappropriate."

The commission had authority to change trading rules in the commodity exchanges, set speculative limits or even suspend trading in a commodity if the situation warranted it. None of these actions was taken during the silver frenzy, the congressional investigators noted.

"The Commission's inaction seems to be the result of two factors," the report concludes, "a belief that 'official' action would further disrupt the marketplace, and the inability of the Commissioners to reach a consensus on any one particular action or combination of actions."

Yet when an independent exchange began demanding bigger margins for silver futures, Nelson Bunker Hunt had the gall to complain to the commission — which had done nothing. "This is like Libya," Hunt bellyached to one commissioner, "taking our property away."

Footnote: A commodity commission spokesman told my associates Vicki Warren and Tony Capaccio that the commission's internal investigation of the silver crash has been sent to Congress. The commission found nothing to indicate that there had been any attempt to manipulate the silver market.

Seminole Fullback Sutton Issues Homecoming Invite

If Seminole High fullback Lenny Sutton ever grows tired of running over opposing football players, the articulate senior could go on the luncheon speaking tour.

Luncheons and Sutton seem to go together this year. The sturdy, 192-pounder was selected by the Sanford Optimist Club as the Seminole High Player of the Week. It was the fourth such time.

And, although Sutton missed a meal last week because of Veterans Day, he was in attendance Wednesday as the Optimists honored not only the northern Seminole athletes, but outstanding students as well.

"Lenny likes our food so well he just keeps coming back," Optimist member Dale Coppock shot at the bruising fullback during Wednesday's meal.

Sam Cook
Sports Editor

Whether it's the food or not, Sutton has made an impression on the gridiron this year. Sutton has rambled for 891 yards in 163 attempts for 5.4 yards per carry and eight touchdowns.

While the gridiron yardage speaks for itself, Sutton has no trouble speaking for himself, which he does at just about every Optimist gathering.

Wednesday was invitation day. "I'd just like to thank the Optimists for honoring the athletes," opened Sutton. "It's a very nice thing for them to do."

"Our homecoming game is Friday against Spruce Creek and I'd like to invite everyone to come out and see us play. We've already won the (Five Star) conference, but we'd like to go undefeated in league play."

Sutton has a special reason for placing emphasis on this year's homecoming.

"We lost the homecoming game last year," continued Sutton. "That's why this year's becomes so important. I hadn't ever lost a homecoming game before." Sutton started as a sophomore linebacker on the varsity two years ago.

While the 10-flat, 100-yard-dash sprinter has played a different position each of the past two years, he foresees even another switch next year in college.

Florida, Florida State, Miami, Wake Forest and Wichita State have expressed interest in Sutton. Right now the bruising senior is leaning toward Gatorland.

"They want me to play defensive back," informed Lenny, whose 6-1 height goes well with his 192 pounds. "I don't think I'd have any trouble putting on weight either."

At his current size, Sutton is already big enough for a defensive back. It's a good bet that the 17-year-old will add a few pounds to his already strong physique.

LENNY SUTTON
... closes in on 1000 yards

If Sutton has his usual Friday night, he should go over a 1000 yards for the season. Not too many Seminole backs can claim that honor. The last one to do it isn't playing football.

But he's not doing too shabbily in another profession. His name... Tim Raines.

Foreign Company Explores Baseball At St. Petersburg

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — A former member of the Pinellas Sports Authority and a prime mover in a bid to bring major league baseball to St. Petersburg says a foreign company is interested in building a stadium in St. Petersburg and investing in a major league club.

Earl Halstead, long-time editor of the Baseball Bluebook, said Wednesday the important details of the company's plan may be made public after next month's baseball meetings in Hollywood, Fla.

He declined to identify the company or its country until then, and said the only reason he made the announcement now was to curb the recent clamor to build a baseball stadium in downtown St. Petersburg.

"There's not a chance of putting one there," Halstead said. "I broke the news to stop that talk. My people aren't interested in downtown. That would be the worst spot. It has to be accessible to North Pinellas, Tampa, Lakeland, Sarasota, Orlando and the rest."

He said the company wants to build the stadium just north of Gandy Boulevard and east of Interstate 775, across from the Derby Lane Kennel Club. He said most of the land has been "fled up" by the company.

"This is a reputable foreign company worth multi-millions of dollars and all it asks is that the local people put up the million to a million and a half it would take to make the construction of the stadium possible," Halstead said. "They want no part of politics."

"This company I've been talking to has 10 major projects in the United States," Halstead said. "We are number four on that list. The first is about completed so we will soon move up to No. 3. We have a meeting set up with the people right after the baseball meetings in Hollywood next month."

Raines Makes All-Rookie Team

Awards for Sanford's Tim Raines continue to come.

Wednesday, the major-league baseball managers selected the Montreal Expo left fielder to their 1981 all-rookie team. Tuesday, the 22-year-old switch-hitting outfielder was named The Sporting News rookie of the year.

Joining Raines on the elite team was teammate Tim Wallach. New York grabbed two spots with third baseman Hubie Brooks and outfielder Mookie Wilson.

San Diego's Juan Bonilla, Atlanta's Rufino Linares, Pittsburgh's Tony Pena, Los Angeles' Ferenando Valenzuela and Cincinnati's Bruce Berenyi completed the National League contingent.

Baltimore Oriole Cal Ripken was the lone American League representative.

Williams Takes Charge Of Padres' Heavenly Ascent

DICK WILLIAMS
... new Padre skipper

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Dick Williams, the guiding force behind the resurgence of the Boston Red Sox and Montreal Expos, has been asked to perform another sudden turnaround.

The 53-year-old Williams, fired as manager of the Expos Sept. 7, agreed to a 3-year contract with the lowly San Diego Padres Wednesday that calls for an annual salary of $150,000.

Williams became manager of the Expos in 1977 after that team lost 107 games the previous season. He guided Montreal to 20 more victories in 1977 than in 1976 and by the third year the team was a contender in the

NL Baseball

National League East. This season the Expos came within a game of going to the World Series.

In Williams, the Padres get a manager with 14 years experience in the major leagues. Before taking the Montreal job, he managed at Boston, Oakland and California, winning two World Series at Oakland and a surprising American League pennant at Boston in 1967.

"The situation here is similar to what I found when I went to Montreal," Williams said. "The Padres have an abundance of good young players that need to develop. I did some research on San Diego's minor league talent and I'm impressed by what I see. I know the organization is going in the right direction by developing our own talent. And we will start developing a winning habit the first day of spring training."

Williams said he would institute a return to fundamentals for the young Padres and would make the game as simple as possible.

"It means execution of fundamentals and using the statistics in a way to help the team execute," he said. "Come down and watch us this spring. If it takes walking every player to home plate and saying,

'This is home plate,' then we'll explain it that way. We'll give them the ABCs of baseball if we have to."

Padres President Ballard Smith said the team has a proven winner in Williams.

"We want to have a man who had two qualities — one, major league experience, and two, a proven winner," said Smith. "That's what we think we have."

As recently as two weeks ago, Williams said from his home in Tampa, Fla., that he was ready to "hang it up" because no club seemed particularly interested in naming him manager.

Senior Pride Lyman, Brantley Gridders Face Off In Friday Final

By JOE DESANTIS
Herald Sports Writer

Those dog days of late autumn. The 1981 prep football season winds down for Lake Brantley's Patriots and Lyman's Greyhounds Friday night. Both squads will be trying to reach the 500 mark when Bill Scott's Hounds play host to Dave Tullis' crew Friday night in one of Seminole County's liveliest prep rivalries.

In years past, the 'Hounds and Patriots used to meet much earlier in the season, but with 1981 being the Five Star Conference's re-scheduling year, both Lyman skipper Bill Scott and Brantley boss Tullis agreed their respective squads would be better off facing each other at the tail end of the season.

"For the past couple of years it seemed whoever lost that early season meeting between the two of us went on to have a poor season because of the intensity of the rivalry," noted Scott when the rescheduling was completed. "I'm glad the game was moved back," agrees Tullis. "We both have the same thing at stake, a 5-5 year."

A win for the Patriots would close out Lake Brantley's season on a two-game upswing following last week's win over DuLand. The Greyhounds, meanwhile, would like to end on a positive note following last week's loss to Spruce Creek. "Going in at 4-8 we both have the same things on the line," noted Tullis. "Both teams will be playing for the same things, Pride."

Pride appears to be the singular inspiration for the 'Hound-Patriot season closer.

"The thing is, neither one of us is going anywhere, but I know our players and Lyman's players will be playing for pride."

"And we expect a tough game, Lyman is a good football team with some good athletes," said Tullis.

"Our senior players are aware of what's at stake. It's their last game for Lake Brantley and I'm sure they'd like to finish with the memory of a win."

Tullis doesn't envision anything out of the ordinary in Friday night's finale.

"We'll go in and try to do the same things we've been doing. You don't change things for one game," noted the Patriot coach.

"We'll do our best to win the game against a capable football team. We know what's on the line."

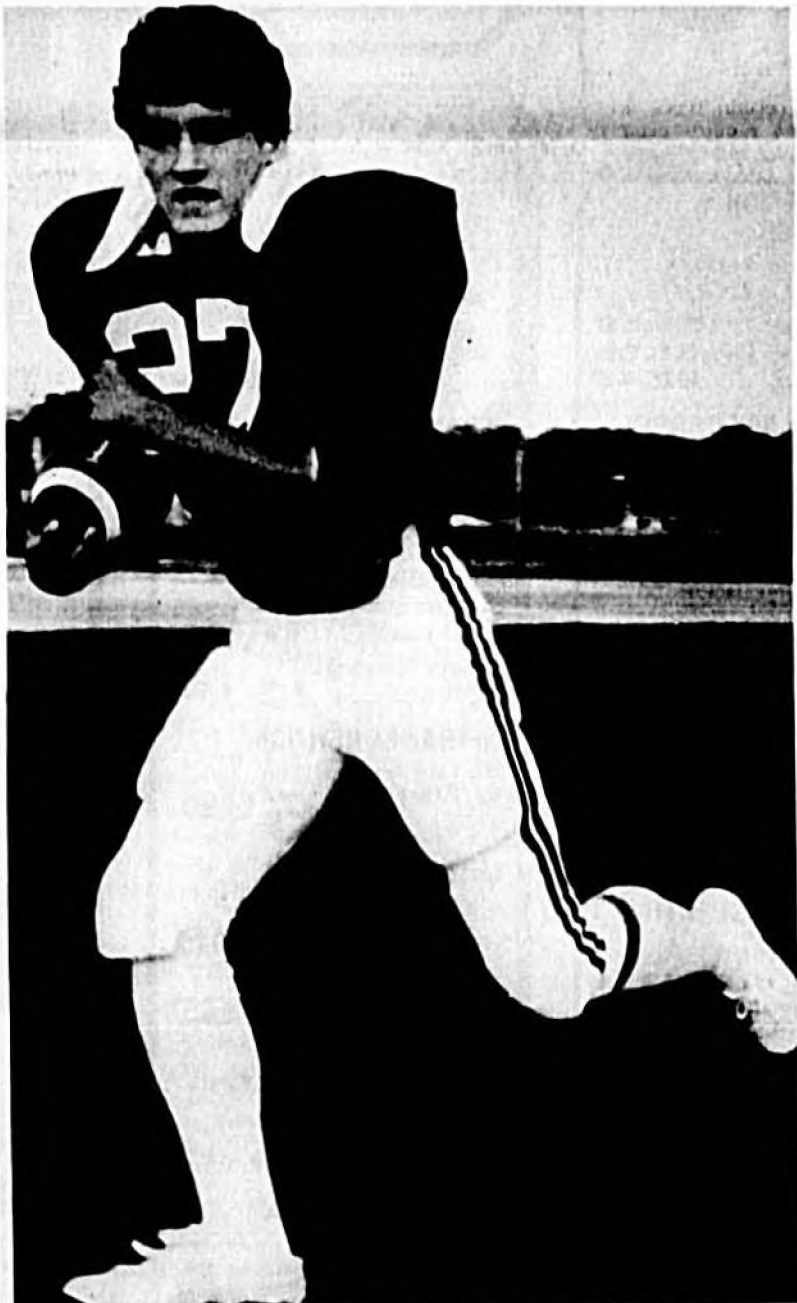

Seniors Kevin Besaw, Fred Baber, Otis Clatt and Kyle Davis lead the Pats' attack.

Vince 'The Prince' Presley, the Greyhounds' superlative speedster, is expected to be back to full strength.

Junior quarterback Jerry Axley completes the backfield along with Theo Jones.

Seniors Carl Quisenberry and Lonza Collier lead the defense.

Kickoff is 8 p.m.

Lake Brantley running back Kevin Besaw closes his high school career Friday at Lyman.

Rumler Blanks United; Celeste Stays Unbeaten

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Nobody is going to tell Sherri Rumler, "It's a man's world."

Especially not on the soccer field. Rumler, a goalie on Suzy Reno's age 14 and under "B" Sanford Soccer Club, turned in her first shutout of the year last Saturday as the Sanford Kiwanis 400 blanked F.C. United, 3-0.

"The whole team played well," said Reno about her club which improved to 3-5. "Keith Royster did a good job as sweeper and Sherri turned away all the shots on goal."

Teammates John Stuart and Danny Kearns gave Rumler all the help she needed with a goal in each half.

Stuart scored first with an unassisted effort for a 1-0 400 edge. Kearns broke all the way across to field for his score which put the game out of reach in the final period.

Sanford 000-3, Downtown Orlando 000-1

Coach Tom Brewer's age 10 and under Sanford squad saved its best effort for last. Sanford 000 ran off four first-half goals to bury Orlando.

Mark Barrett scored first for 000 with an unassisted effort. Ben Davis booted home another for a 2-0 edge. Chat Tulp and Troy Brewer followed with unassisted shots to put Sanford up comfortably at halftime.

Barrett added his second goal after intermission to close the scoring.

"Rick Austin did a great job in the goal," exclaimed Brewer about the win which ended the 000 season at 4-3-1. "Tony Duncan, Matt Williams and Travis Zinger were all outstanding."

Sanford 000-3, Winter Park 000-5
In the wildest game of the day, Winter

Sanford Soccer

Park pushed across a goal in the last minute to forge a 5-4 deadlock with Celery City Printing Co.

Celery City's Durrand Richards had another outstanding performance. Richards tallied three of the four Celery first-period goals for a 4-3 halftime edge.

The Hat Trick was Richards' second in two weeks. Tim Roberts added the Printing Co.'s other goal unassisted.

Winter Park, however, broke loose for three goals in the second half, while Celery could muster just one, Shea Whigham on a pass from Richards.

"Our defense collapsed and Winter Park tied the game," said Reno. The age 14 and under "A" team plays Downtown Orlando 400 at College Park Saturday at 3 p.m.

Maitland 201-3, Sanford 200-2
Maitland fought off a determined Sanford Boatworks comeback to trip the 200 squad with a second-half goal.

201 broke to a 2-0 lead in the opening period, but goals by J.J. Partlow and Craig Tosi moved Boatworks back into contention.

Johnny Burthead was outstanding defensively for Boatworks. Sanford is 5-3 in the age 12 and under competition.

F.C. United 000-3, Sanford 000-0
Despite a strong second half, Sanford New Smyrna Speedway was shut out by F.C. United, 3-0.

The loss dropped the Speedway record to 5-3 for the year.

Sanford 201 by forfeit over Maitland 102

Sanford Celeste Industries took over first place the easy way last Saturday.

Without playing, Maitland forfeited to the powerful Sanford entry to move the Celeste record to a perfect, 7-0. Sanford competes in the age 12 and under division.

'Amazingly Good' Atlanta Attitude Gears For Playoffs

SUWANEE, Ga. (UPI) — For a team that has lost six of its last eight games, Leeman Bennett says the Atlanta Falcons' attitude is "amazingly good," and the team believes it is still very much in the NFL playoff picture.

"They still feel we're very much in the hunt," said Bennett Wednesday as he took a break in preparations for Monday night's home game against Minnesota. "It's just a matter of coming on and getting it done."

The Falcons, 1-4, are in a seven-way tie for the final NFC wild card playoff spot but they have a rough finishing stretch. After Minnesota, they play Houston, Tampa Bay and Los Angeles on the road before closing the season at home again Cincinnati.

"Amazingly, with us losing six out of eight, I think the attitude is very good," said Bennett, who added he was not surprised that a team with a 1-4 record was still alive for the playoffs. "I feel the league is more equal than it ever has been," he said. "The talent is more near equal and I think people throughout the league are doing a better job of coaching. If you make a couple more mistakes than your opponent makes, then the game is over — you get beat."

The Falcons are a surprising 4-point favorite over Minnesota, which has won the last four regular-season meetings between the clubs, as well as taking a 20-19 victory in preseason this year. The Vikings lead the NFC Central Division with a 7-4 mark and are 7-3 since quarterback Tommy Kramer returned from a knee injury after the first two games.

Bennett said the key to beating the Vikings will be stopping Kramer, the NFC's fourth leading passer with 200-of-375 for 2,900 yards.

"He's a guy who is going to make something happen," said Bennett. "He lives on the short 'dink-and-dunk' kind of passing game but he will push the ball upfield deep on you if given the opportunity."

"The thing they have beaten us with in the past, though, has been backs out of the backfield sitting down in the seams of the zone and Kramer having the ability to stick the ball in there."

He also noted the Vikings have the league's leading receiver in running back Ted Brown, who has 65 catches for 608 yards. "They are going to get the ball to him either by the pass or by the run," said Bennett.

Bennett said there is a chance three Falcon regulars who have missed several games — linebacker Joel Williams (knee), offensive tackle Warren Bryant (thigh) and offensive guard Dave Scott (knee) — will be able to play Monday night. He's hoping the return of Bryant and Scott will help the running attack, which has been lacking the last two weeks in losses to San Francisco and Pittsburgh.

"We've got to do a better job of knocking people off the line than we have done," said Bennett. "From what I've seen of the Vikings, their front people really come at you. It's going to be a little more physical challenge for our offensive line than the defensive lines we've played the last couple of weeks."

Other than the returning injured, Bennett said he expects no changes in his starting lineup, although a couple of Falcons turned in subpar performances in the 34-20 loss to the Steelers.

He said veteran Wallace Francis, who has dropped two touchdown passes in recent weeks, will continue to start, although he noted backup Alfred Jackson plays about as much as Francis.

"Normally we play three wide receivers in the game anyway," said Bennett. "Francis and Jackson have about the same number of opportunities to catch the ball."

Winter Park Set For Rotary Bowl

Winter Park High School Principal Tom Marcy will sign a contract Friday for his Wildcats to participate in the Rotary Bowl football game Nov. 26 at Lyman High School. The Wildcats, who were ranked as high as second in the 4A poll this year, finished the season with a 6-4 record.

Winter Park's opponent has yet to be decided. It hinges on the outcome of Friday's 2A battle between Ocoosa-Kissimmee and St. Cloud.

The Rotary committee's choice is Ocoosa. However, if Kissimmee beats St. Cloud, the Lions of coach Joe Montgomery will go to the 2A playoffs with the best record in District 2A-4.

Kissimmee then would be the Rotary Bowl choice. If St. Cloud whips Kissimmee, then Ocoosa would meet Winter Park.

Ocoosa is 6-3 and closes its season Friday against Cocoa Beach.

Malone's 37 Snaps Celtics' Streak

Rockets '2-Step' Past Boston

By United Press International
Was that Fred Astaire playing guard for the Houston Rockets Wednesday night?

"There were two ballgames out there tonight: the first half was a boogie and the second half was a Texas two-step," said Rockets coach Del Harris after Houston stopped an eight-game Boston winning streak with a 106-104 victory over the Celtics in a rematch of last year's playoff final. "We're much better at playing the two-step."

Moses Malone scored 28 of his game-high 37 points in the second half to enable the Rockets to overcome a 79-70 deficit entering the final period. Houston began the fourth quarter with an 18-7 lead that left the Celtics with an 88-86 lead with 6:24 remaining. Calvin Murphy scored all of his 8 points during the run while Malone added 4.

The Celtics came back to take the lead, 96-94, with 3:30 remaining on Rick Robey's field goal before Elvin Hayes, who finished with 18 points, and Malone regained the lead for Houston with 2:05 left. Boston tied the score with 1:43 left when Larry Bird sank two free throws. Malone then sealed it with a field goal and two foul shots, giving Houston a 102-98 lead with 1:10 to go.

Boston led 64-49 early in the third period behind Cedric Maxwell, who had 17 of his team-high 21 points in the first three quarters. Malone kept the Rockets in the game during the third quarter, scoring 14 of the team's 23 points in the period. The Celtics led 57-47 at halftime, getting 28 points from their bench over the first 24 minutes.

78ers 102, Bucks 100
At Philadelphia, Julius Erving scored 28 points, including a jumper with 30 seconds remaining, to lead Philadelphia to its fifth straight victory. The Bucks, who trailed by 19 points at halftime, took a 100-99 lead on two free throws by Marcus Johnson with 51 seconds to play.
Hawks 102, Suns 97

At Atlanta, John Drew, playing his first game this season, scored 29 points to pace the Hawks. Drew missed Atlanta's first seven games with a broken left foot and was activated before the game as forward Craig Shelton was waived. Phoenix was paced by center Alvan Adams with 30 points and 14 rebounds.

Pro Basketball

Cavaliers 110, Pistons 103
At Richfield, Ohio, Kenny Carr and Mike Mitchell each scored 21 points and a tough Cleveland defense held Detroit rookie Isiah Thomas to just 4-of-21 field goal attempts. The victory snapped a four-game losing streak for the Cavs.

Spurs 111, SuperSonics 93
At San Antonio, George Gervin scored 33 points, including 20 in the third quarter, to lead the Spurs to their seventh straight victory.
Nuggets 133, Clippers 128

At Denver, Alex English and Kiki Vandeweghe combined for 19 straight points in the final minutes of the game to give the Nuggets the victory.

Denver, which had led by as many as 16 points during the first half, trailed 107-100 with 9:18 left in the game and was still behind 111-110 when English and Vandeweghe went to work, giving Denver a 129-124 lead with 1:18 remaining.

Lakers 113, Jazz 110
At Salt Lake City, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 27 points and Jamaal Wilkes added 26 and the two triggered a fourth-quarter rally that carried the Lakers. Magic Johnson added 17 points for the Lakers, who won their fifth consecutive game. Adrian Dantley had 32 points for Utah and Darrell Griffith added 25.

Warriors 121, Nets 107
At Oakland, Calif., Lloyd Free scored 23 points and Bernard King added 22 to lead Golden State to its third straight victory. Free scored 16 of his points in the first half when the Warriors built up a 62-49 lead. Golden State had hit 65 percent of its field goals in the first quarter with King scoring 15 points.

TOP SCHOLAR AT UCF

Happiness is being a President's Scholar at the University of Central Florida, which means a four-year award for $3,600 to freshman Laura Bernosky, of Sanford, being congratulated by UCF President Trevor Colbourn at a luncheon honoring this year's recipients. Dean Charles Micarelli, undergraduate studies, is pictured in the background. Miss Bernosky, who is majoring in liberal studies, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Bernosky, 1001 Vihlen Road, and a 1981 graduate of Seminole High School.

Rock Music, Kids Irk Ex-Smoker

DEAR ABBY: As a reformed smoker, I feel qualified to comment on a reader's recent complaint that people objected to his smoking in a public place. You replied negatively, pointing out that people had a right to breathe clean air. Isn't it odd that these same people don't object if the gentleman's eardrums are being shattered by rock music blared at him, or worse, if his nervous system is being assailed by their own small children creating a ruckus in the same public place? It seems to me that he has an equal right to keep his ears and nerves intact as they have to preserve their lungs. If we're going to eliminate public nuisances, let's not be hypocritical and single out the smokers — let's be fair and go after the other two as well. And if you're fair, Abby, you'll print this just to show the other side of the record.

FAIR'S FAIR IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR FAIR: You are absolutely right. No one should be assaulted in a public place by rock music or ill-behaved, unsupervised children. My advice: Don't tolerate it. Go to the source and complain loudly!

DEAR ABBY: I need to learn how to drive a car, but I have a terrible fear of driving in heavy traffic. Just seeing heavy traffic on television terrifies me! I have heard that people who have had a paralyzing fear of flying have been cured. How is this accomplished? It's awfully hard for me to believe. Is there any hope for people with my kind of phobia?

FLOHIDA ODDBALL

DEAR ODDBALL: There is "hope" for every kind of phobia. A behavioral modification therapist can help you. (The phobic patient is exposed gradually to that which he fears until he finally conquers his fear completely.) Your local mental health facility can assist you in finding the right therapist. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: You frequently say, when someone asks a question pertaining to weddings, "It's the bride's day, and she is entitled to have anything she wants." This may be true as far as invitations and the type of dress are concerned, but as a pastor in a Lutheran church, I must disagree.

Many churches (ours included) have definite guidelines on the type of music allowed. Since it is a church service, the music should be church music — not popular love songs as some have requested.

I consider myself fairly open-minded, Abby, but I had to put my foot down several years ago when an obviously pregnant bride asked the soloist to sing, "I'm having his baby." I think it makes a mockery of the sacred vows when people say "I do" after they have already done it.

LONGTIME PASTOR

DEAR ABBY: Please help. I'm too embarrassed to ask my doctor. My husband died two years ago after 25 years of a good marriage. My children are all grown and flown from the nest, and I am dating again. I'm a young 46, still very vital and healthy, and I'd like to marry again one day and live out my years with the love and companionship of another good man. I had a wonderful sex life and I miss it.

After four children and 11 miscarriages (I am not putting you on), my vaginal canal is too loose (stretched) for my partner to enjoy marital relations. Can this be remedied? Please ask your medical consultant if anything can be done to tighten me up should I marry again. Sign me...

GRAND CANYON

DEAR GRAND: I called a gynecological surgeon who serves as my consultant. He said: "The woman's question is one I have answered often. Tell her that the vagina can be tightened by a surgical procedure, and there are also a series of exercises to keep it that way. She should consult her gynecologist."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Try To Avoid Saturated Fat

DEAR DR. LAMB - I understand that we should eat fish and poultry and less red meats because they contain less saturated fat. I'm not fond of fish and was wondering why I couldn't just eat chicken.

For that matter why can't a person just eat foods that contain no fat or very little fat? Is there anything beneficial in fish fat that you need? Is it really something that people should have, or is it just recommended to avoid the saturated fat problem?

DEAR READER - You are right that the idea is to avoid saturated fat. Only about one-third of the fat in fish is saturated fat. Another one-third is monounsaturated and the other third is polyunsaturated fat.

For readers who want a refresher on these terms, the saturated fat is a carbon chain of a fatty acid that is completely loaded with hydrogen. An unsaturated fat has one or more places on the chain without hydrogen.

The story doesn't end there. There may indeed be something in fish fat that we need. There is some evidence that we need a limited amount of polyunsaturated fat in our diet. There is very little in red meats. The polyunsaturated fat in chicken and vegetables is almost all from fatty acids that have only two spots on the carbon chain that don't have hydrogen.

Fish fat is about the only source of "highly polyunsaturated fat" in our food. It has even five or six places on the carbon chain without hydrogen. These highly polyunsaturated fatty acids may be important. There are recent studies that show people who eat salmon tend to develop lower cholesterol.

DEAR READER - We have a clear fluid in little sacs around tendons and in the joints, called synovial fluid. Some of this leaks out of its normal space and is surrounded by a membrane of tissue to form the cyst. They are not dangerous but they can be annoying if they are large or press on nerves and ligaments.

They have nothing to do with diet and if draining a cyst is not successful, then the only other alternative is to surgically cut away the cyst, to remove the membrane that has formed the cyst-sac. But such surgery is no guarantee that you will not have another.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

November 20, 1981

This coming year your most profitable enterprises are likely to be the ones you've already devoted considerable time and effort to. Stick to tested areas. These are where you'll reap your harvest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) You don't have to use material aids today in order to win approval. Your true friends like and respect you for what you are, not for what you offer. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mall #1 for each Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The type of results you desire are probable today so long as you can quietly do things your way without interference.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may erroneously feel today that others will scoff at your ideas or concepts. However, the reverse is true. They will be supportive of your suggestions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) The possibilities of getting what you desire today are good, but be sure to examine your motives carefully to be certain you want it for the right reasons.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Associates will rally to your banner today if they see you take a firm position. Any indications of being wishy-washy could drive them off.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Collective ventures hold promise today, provided you are matched with persons whose ambitions and talents are on a par with your own.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be flattered, not envious, if the one you love receives compliments and attention from members of the opposite sex. After all, you're the person he or she chose.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may come up with some dynamite ideas for making constructive changes around your home today. However, check first with your mate to see if he or she is in accord.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) You may give boring tasks today a lick and a promise in order to get to more pleasurable pursuits. What you neglect will haunt you later.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Most of the day you will manage your resources wisely, provided you begin prudently. If extravagance gains the upper hand early, it's another story.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could be a bit of a slow starter today, owing to some self-doubts you may have to contend with. Once you get into the action, they'll rapidly diminish.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do nothing today to take advantage of others in business situations. At the same time be sensible and practical about protecting your own interests.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Bridge hand analysis including North-South and East-West hands, vulnerable status, dealer, and opening lead.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

There are a lot of ways to bid this hand from "Popular Bridge." If played in a duplicate game you would see all sorts of contracts including some sacrifices at six clubs and possibly a couple of tries at six diamonds by players who just hate to let their opponents play the hand.

Somehow they even make six diamonds. No one would make six clubs. Anyway, you are playing rubber bridge and have let South play in five diamonds. You open the king of clubs and it holds. What do you lead now?

There is no point in leading another club or a trump. You are going to lead a spade or a heart. A little analysis will show that a spade lead can't hurt you. If declarer holds two small hearts your partner is not going to lose his king, but if declarer holds the king of hearts and your partner the ace of spades, a heart lead will let declarer romp home with all the tricks.

So you are going to lead a spade. Which one?

The king, of course. There is an old principle of bridge which is not to give your partner a problem. If you lead your six or nine he will take his ace and just might lead back a heart.

So you lead your king of spades, continue the suit and wind up with a plus. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)
