

Airline Industry's Order For Jet Fleet Important In '56

By EDDIE RICKENBACHER
 Chairman, Eastern Air Lines
 Written for UNITED PRESS

The airline industry's 2 billion dollars in orders for a fleet of some 400 jet-powered airliners made important headlines in 1956. Even more significant, however, is the fact that the 48 million passengers, who traveled 23 billion miles by air during the same year, have made the U. S. scheduled airlines the country's primary passenger carrier, outstripping both the railroads and the inter-city buses.

No realistic estimate of the economy of the industry's rapidly approaching transition to jet power can be made without linking these two facts.

Tremendous Power

The coming "jet age" will be truly revolutionary, possibly the first real mechanical "revolution" in commercial aviation history. Through the use of these new sources of tremendous jet power, the airlines will be able to bring a much greater and travel-conscious public the superior convenience, comfort and economy of almost silent, vibrationless flight, at speeds up to the speed of sound itself about 700 m. p. h., and at rates favorably comparable with any other means of transportation for distances of 300 miles or more.

On the other hand, there is no question but that the development of a greatly increased level of public air travel must be made as a sound foundation for the coming of the great jet airliners, which will not only double our present airliner speeds, but will triple our carrying capacity.

The 422 million dollar re-equipment program Eastern Air Lines has adopted to enable us to do this job, while the largest undertaken by any airline, is still generally typical of what the entire industry is doing in this regard.

Plan Triple Capacity

To care for today's growing volume of air travel, the airlines have also ordered 365 piston-powered airliners, with 73 more in prospect. Eastern, for instance, is adding new multi-engine radar-equipped Golden Falcons and Constellations to its fleet.

The first of 40 jet-prop Electras are scheduled to go into service in 1958. In 1959-60, when our fleet of 20 great 600-m. p. h. 34,000-HP, straight-jet airliners equipped to carry 112 to 125 passengers, are in operation, we will have tripled our passenger airlift capacity.

Any evaluation of airline economy and future growth must also consider the important facts that, although the airlines have now become our country's primary passenger carriers and although the American public is enjoying, and will continue to enjoy, greater income and more leisure time than ever before less than 10 per cent of the travel-conscious public has yet experienced the superior convenience, comfort and economy of air travel.

Beyond this, it must be realized that the dynamic industry and expanding economy of this country is geared to the speed of air transportation.

Irishmen Complete 73-Day Voyage Across Atlantic

FORT LAUDERDALE — Two tanned and heavily-bred Irishmen rested up here today after completing a 3,000 mile, 73-day voyage across the Atlantic in a 30-foot sail boat.

Michael O'Herilly, 24, a designer and producer for the famed Abbey Theater of Dublin, and Terry Murray, 32, docked their yawl here Tuesday.

"It's a life's dream come true," said O'Herilly in a thick Irish brogue. "And we didn't use the auxiliary engine once—even the time we were becalmed for three consecutive days."

The two began the voyage at Dublin Sept. 6, reaching the Canary Islands Oct. 24 after crossing the stormy Bay of Biscay, and then began the 3,000-mile voyage to Puerto Rico.

NOT HUNGRY AFTER CONTEST
PRINCETON, N. J. — Albert Soli, Princeton University freshman from Philadelphia, downed 11 hamburgers in 10 minutes Tuesday to win a contest. "I don't feel hungry anymore," he said.

TALAHASSEE — The Crippled Children's Commission asked today for increased funds to pay hospital and physician's larger portion of the cost of caring for needy crippled youngsters.

Dr. William R. Stringer, director, told the Budget Commission the agency in the past has been able to contract for hospital rates well below cost "but I anticipate we will have to meet reimbursable costs" in the future.

His budget includes $15 a day per patient for hospital care in contrast to $8.50 paid last year and an estimated $10.50 this year. The total budget, which contemplates basing 12 pediatricians on a fee basis and adding 12 physicians on straight salary, amounts to $1,196,321 over the current appropriation. Stringer said only one hospital refused to accept children without reimbursable cost. But he said the State Hospital Assn. has recommended full payment for all hospital-

Case Of Wealthy Widows To Open Against Doctor

EASTBOURNE, England — A 57-year-old doctor was charged with murder of an 81-year-old woman today in what promised to be the opening of the most sensational trial in British criminal history—the "case of the wealthy widows."

Dr. John Bodkin Adams, well-to-do Irish-born physician in this famed south coast resort town, was charged with the murder of Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell in November 1955. He will appear in an Eastbourne court tomorrow.

The murder charge limned one of the most painstaking murder investigations in Scotland Yard history, and foreshadowed even more sensational developments to come.

Adams was first arrested on Nov. 24, following inquiries by Scotland Yard Supt. Herbert Hannam, on 13 charges involving offenses under the cremation act, forgery and larceny.

The indictments were connected with the wills and cremations of several elderly Eastbourne residents.

Tonight's service at the local Lutheran Church will be the last mid-week service of the Advent Season.

Soviet Press Appears To Be Launching Spy Scare' Against U. S.

MOSCOW — The Soviet press appeared today to be launching a "spy scare" against the United States spearheaded by the "confessions" of an alleged American agent.

The newspaper Pravda and Izvestia published a statement issued by the State Security Committee this morning reporting the arrest of Rem Petrovich Moroz, allegedly sent to the Soviet Union by the United States to "collect espionage information on especially important defense objectives."

The paper said Moroz was flown to Turkey May 15 and crossed the border from there into Russia. According to Pravda, Moroz claimed he had no intention of carrying out his alleged instructions.

Resolution Is Being Prepared

Changing of the City Charter to allow for the election of a Mayor for the City of Sanford is reportedly being continued with the preparation of resolutions and necessary proposed legislative action.

At a special meeting of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners one week ago today, commissioners approved action set in motion by Commissioner John Krider to give the people of Sanford an opportunity to elect the Mayor of the City.

Commissioner David Gatchel, this morning, said "The mayor ought to have power to act in emergency for the city," as he pointed out that the present power of the Mayor, elected by Commissioners at the first meeting of the year, is limited to whatever action is taken by the Board of Commissioners.

"It is not in our minds to do away with the City Manager form of government. We will have to in some way, provide in the charter amendment a new system for the terms of office of commissioners and mayor," he said.

On the Wednesday morning meeting, Gatchel explained "The only thing coming out of that meeting was an effort in the people's behalf."

Commissioner Wilson explained "The main idea from the discussions at last Wednesday's meeting, and what I would be in favor of is not broadening the powers of the Mayor but to give the people a chance to elect him and the power to act in emergencies."

"The people are entitled to a choice," said John Krider, "and the Mayor should be paid a reasonable salary."

"My idea of a mayor would be that he would be confined to the usual power that a mayor in that position has," Krider explained.

He commented "The mayor should have powers that are spelled out in the charter and I think the people would be much happier to choose someone who represents them."

Commissioner Higginbotham said "I'll go along with whatever the other commissioners want to do in changing the charter for the election of a Mayor."

It is expected that discussions revolving around the proposed charter changes which must be presented to the local legislative delegation for the "Tallahassee hopper" at the April session of Legislature, will be forthcoming at early meetings of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners.

Merle Warne, commissioner, will be installed as a member of the Board of Commissioners at the first meeting of the board in January. At the same time, City Commissioner John Krider will give up his seat on the Board of Sanford City Commissioners to be installed as a member of the Board of Seminole County Commissioners.

According to the contractors, the building will possibly be ready for occupancy about Jan. 10.

First Shipload Of Refugees Sail For U.S. Today

BREMENHAVEN, Germany — The first shipload of Hungarian refugees sailed in a light fog for the United States today.

The Military Sea Transport Service vessel General Leroy Ethington carried a cargo of happiness, sorrow and confusion as they howled toward the open Atlantic in early afternoon.

The 1,750 Hungarians who came by train directly from Austrian refugee camps will spend Christmas at sea, but they will see the new year in an American soil.

Saddest people in the crowd on the pier as the 10,000-ton ship cast off were a little family of four Hungarians, whose two children had suddenly developed measles and must wait here for the next ship.

An expectant mother whose baby is expected within a few days will also wait in a hospital here for the next of the three refugee ships scheduled to sail before the new year.

Secretary Dulles Planning To Keep Post For Long Time

WASHINGTON — John Foster Dulles, appearing hale and hearty despite his recent cancer operation, is planning to stay on as secretary of state for a long time.

There had been speculation that Dulles might resign soon, but he is busy charting his future activities in the No. 1 cabinet post. He tentatively plans to fly to the Far East next March to attend a meeting at Canberra, Australia, of the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization.

Dulles hasn't talked about resigning despite his Nov. 9 operation for intestinal cancer. The best guess is that Dulles won't think about quitting until he reaches his 70th birthday on Feb. 25, 1928.

Some people believe chances are about 50-50 that Dulles will stay on for all of President Eisenhower's second term, depending, of course on the President's wishes and his health.

Britain, France Said Deadlocked Over Fleet Use

PORT SAID — Britain and France were reported deadlocked today in their negotiations with the United Nations over use of an Anglo-French salvage fleet to speed clearance of the blocked Suez Canal.

British sources said U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld agrees by tonight to permit British crews to remain aboard the 40 or more salvage vessels already working to clear Port Said harbor the vessels will move out with the invasion force.

A U. N. dispatch said Hammarskjöld was standing firm on his agreement to use only six British salvage vessels and without British crews. Other nations have promised 31 vessels.

Parents Await News Of Abducted Daughter

DALY CITY, Calif. — The distraught parents of Clo Ann Wiegner hovered about the telephone today, hoping their abducted daughter would try to get in touch with them.

"I imagine she will call if she gets a chance," said Mrs. Hazel Mowatt, "but I don't think they'll give her that chance."

Mrs. Mowatt was referring to Mike Wiegner, 16, husband of their daughter, and his accomplice, Jesse Eastman, 35. Both are fugitives from the Napa state mental hospital.

Branching a .22 calibre rifle, Wiegner and Eastman broke into the home of John Mowatt in this San Francisco suburb Monday night, bound and tied Mowatt and

Man Involves Self Others In Slaying Of 3 Young Boys

CHICAGO — Erwin Staud, 32, walked into a police station at 3 a. m. today and gave officers a statement saying he and "some other men" murdered three young boys whose bodies were found in a forest preserve near Chicago 14 months ago.

Police said Staud told them his conscience bothered him and he gave them a 7-page statement about the slaying of the boys. John J. Siler, 13, his brother, 11, and Robert Peterson, 13.

Police said they did not know whether to believe his tale. Chief of Detectives Pat Dewey sent a special squad to investigate and check the statements.

According to authorities, Staud said he and the other men put the three boys in a car, took them to Robinson's Woods, and beat them to death.

Detectives who have made a special study of the case questioned Staud intensively but were non-committal about the results.

Giants' Dormitory Nears Completion

The dormitory building, to house the New York Giants' Farm System players and prospects, under construction at the corner of Melville and Celery Aves. is nearing completion and will be ready for use early in January.

Horace Stoneham, head of the New York Giants organization, visiting in Sanford and attending the recent Mayfair Inn's $15,000 PGA Open said "The new building looks wonderful, even better than I thought it would be."

According to the contractors, the building will possibly be ready for occupancy about Jan. 10.

Partly cloudy, continued warm Wednesday and Thursday. Unsettled night and early morning fog in the central portion.

Feasibility Of Sewage Plant Session Topic

The possibilities of financing the sewage treatment plant, originally a part of the overall citywide sewer and water project, will be discussed at a special meeting of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners called for tomorrow night by Mayor F. D. Scott.

Wilson Holt, fiscal agent for the City of Sanford, will report to the Board of Commissioners tonight. Holt, employed by the City to make the survey of the City of Sanford's Utility Department in reference to the possibility of financing the sewage treatment plant project will attend his special meeting to talk with the Board of Sanford City Commissioners.

Six items appear on the agenda of the special meeting, which in all probability will take the place of the Christmas Eve meeting of the Board.

A discussion of the bill for work performed by a local concern on the city's wrecker is slated for the special meeting called to clean up items which are important to the city. City Manager Warren E. Knowles reports to the Board of Commissioners at their last regular meeting that the total cost of the work was in his estimation "too high". Knowles presented work sheets on both labor and material to carry out his views.

Also slated for discussion will be regulations for the protection of railroad crossings inside the City Limits of Sanford. The item on the agenda grew out of the Sunday morning crash at intersection of the Atlantic Coast Line's spur track on Melville Ave. near Locust. It is expected that tighter restrictions for guarding the tracks from traffic accidents will be tied in by new ordinances.

The other three items appearing on the agenda for tomorrow evening are: the appointment to

SYNOPSIS
Priscilla Pale's humdrum life as an office worker in New York is suddenly brightened when she is put in a secret from a great aunt. Her writer-friend Rita goes with her to Apalachicola, Florida, where Priscilla is to claim a 100-year-old estate and $10,000 in securities. On their way to a restaurant where an untidy fisherman searches their car and a distinguished-looking man observes all three of them with puzzling implications.

CHAPTER 4
MR. TODD seems surprised to see the girls and said he had not expected Miss Paige so soon. Asking them to be seated, he took the papers Priscilla handed him. He perused the records slowly, rubbing his chin thoughtfully as he read, and going back over each paper a second time. Presently he laid the papers aside, took off his glasses and leaned back in his swivel chair.

"We didn't see much of Miss Rachel—that is, Mrs. Porter—for the last year or so before she died. She was very old, you know, ninety-six. She was buried here, left those instructions in her will. She used to be quite a figure around town, they say. Born at Lookout House and lived there her entire life. In her later years she seemed to like seclusion. But the other lady—" He paused.

"The other lady?" Priscilla questioned.

"Mrs. Hampton. Mrs. Nora Hampton. She had been with Mrs. Porter about forty years—looked after her, did everything. Miss Rachel left her a small annuity. Fine woman, Mrs. Hampton. Everyone liked her."

"And where is Mrs. Hampton now?"

"Went back to some of her folks in Carolina. Seems Miss Rachel talked to her about you, started trying to find you before she died. Don't mean to be inquisitive, but how long do you plan to be in Apalachicola?"

"How long do you think it will be necessary for me to stay?"

"This legal business shouldn't take long. Shouldn't think you'd want to wait for a sale, but you'll probably want to go through the house and decide about the furniture. I don't know much about such things, but they say there's a small fortune in antiques. Anyway, they'll bring in something, so don't believe I'd let them go with the sale of the house."

Priscilla said she would look the place over. She added that she didn't suppose it was in any condition for them to stay there.

Mr. Todd looked startled. He glanced from one girl to the other. Then he shook his head decisively. "Place has been closed up over a year, even the gates are locked. You couldn't stay there. I'd advise you to dispose of it as soon as possible."

Priscilla was thinking. Of course it's been closed a long time, but why did he look so startled at my question? She said, "What condition is the house in, Mr. Todd?"

Mr. Todd hesitated before he said, "Good, considering. I mean it's well built, sturdy in its day. They don't build such houses now. It's a big two-story affair with a Captain's walk on top. Paint's all off. Can't recollect as how it's had any paint since I first saw it, twenty years ago. It seemed to be considering something, then he smiled and added, "I don't like taking from some secret room to the water front, and that it was used during the War Between the States by Confederate soldiers to come in to see their families, after the Yankees came. It was used as a sort of lookout post, too; guess that's where it got its name. Don't know anyone who actually knows about that secret passage and I've been here twenty years."

"Sounds like a mystery story," Rita said. "Frankly, I'm for getting rid of the house as soon as possible. Have you any idea, Mr. Todd, what Priscilla can get for the property?"

Mr. Todd drew figures on a blotter. He said nothing for a moment. Then he said, "I don't know what price you should put on it. Guess the best thing to do is to talk it over with some real estate people. I'll give you their names."

He told them then of the land boom, since the channel was now a certainty. He added that someone might tear the house down and put something else there. If Priscilla didn't want to sell right away, it might be best to hold the property for awhile.

"Do you have the key?" Priscilla asked.

"Again there was a perceptible hesitation. Mr. Todd said he did have the key. Then he suggested that they go ahead and find a place to stay and get settled. Since the day was short and the afternoon most gone, he'd show them the house the first thing the next day. Of course there were no lights. And they must be tired.

"We don't want to take up so much of your time," Priscilla said.

"Couldn't we go alone?"

Sensing that there was some reason Mr. Todd preferred to go with them, Rita said, "I think he's right, Priscilla. Since the place has been closed so long, we might have difficulty with locks and things."

Mr. Todd seemed relieved. He said it would be much better to wait until the next day, and they agreed to meet him at his office at ten.

"Now for a room and a good shower and some fresh clothes," Rita said when they were again on the street.

"Rita, did you get the impression he didn't want us to go to Lookout House alone?"

"Maybe it's the ghosts," Rita laughed. "For my part, I'm willing to wait until tomorrow. He did seem rather mysterious, though. . . . Look, there's a hotel right down the street—the Gibson. Let's go there."

They would have been more surprised had they known that soon after they had registered and gone upstairs, the distinguished-looking man they had seen in the red Buick returned to the restaurant and said to the girl at the cash register, "Did you notice two girls in here a couple of hours ago, one dark, hair tied up in a scarf, and wearing dark glasses? The other one, younger, wore red pedal-pushers. And I noticed a startling resemblance to Lauren Bacall."

"Oh . . . yes, I do remember her. She sure did look like Bacall. What about them?"

Army To Cut Some Division Sizes

WASHINGTON UP — The Army in the coming two years will cut the size of most of its divisions by one-fourth as part of an atomic age streamlining program, Army sources have disclosed.

The reorganization plan, which is still classified "secret," will result in about 60,000 troops being removed from the combat forces of the Army. The Army feels, however, that this reduction will be more than offset by the greater firepower of new weapons and the increased mobility of the reorganized divisions.

Under the reorganization, the size of the 12 infantry divisions will be cut from the present 17,500. The two airborne divisions, now numbering 17,500 men, will be cut even sharper—to about 11,500 men. The three armored divisions with 14,500 men apiece, will be only slightly reduced in strength.

The overhaul will start with Army divisions stationed in this country so as not to reduce the combat readiness of the Army too greatly during the reshuffle. The streamlining is scheduled to be completed by mid-1958.

The streamlining is designed to give Army divisions a mobility and flexibility necessary for combat on an atomic battlefield. As viewed by Army planners, ground warfare in the atomic age will be widely dispersed and fought by small units that quickly assemble for a break — through and then scatter again so as not to present a profitable target.

Instead of the traditional division organization of three regiments, the division will be made up of five combat groups, each a self-contained force directly responsible to the division commander.

Pope Will Deliver Christmas Message Dec. 23 At 11 a.m.

VATICAN CITY UP — Pope Pius XII will deliver his annual Christmas message at 11 a. m. 5 a. m. EST Dec. 23, one day earlier than usual, Vatican sources said.

They said the pontiff advanced the date of his broadcast in order to accommodate holiday newspaper schedules.

Church officials from various nations pointed out to the Vatican that newspapers in their countries are not published, or go to press early, on Christmas Day. They said this delayed publication of the papal message delivered on Christmas Eve.

White Jodhpur-Like Pants Worn By Nehru Have Early Origin

GETTYSBURG, Pa. UP — Those white jodhpur — like pants Indian Prime Minister Nehru is sporting on his current visit to the United States originated in the 13th and 14th Century.

They were first worn by Mongolians who invaded and conquered northern India—men who spent most of their time astride horses.

The close — fitting calves and flaring hips make the pants mighty comfortable for horseback riding but Nehru's valet, Abdul Hamid, probably doesn't particularly relish pulling them over the Prime Minister's feet every morning.

With the passage of years, the pants lost their direct functional association with horseback riding and became a traditional garment

Clearer Concept Of What People Want For Selves, Mankind Needed

What do Americans want? This is not an idle question, nor one lightly asked. It is a question that is central to any serious discussion of this nation's place in a world of rapidly changing world society.

This is not a matter that can be neatly slotted into the realm of foreign affairs.

Korean Artist

The story of a young Korean artist has come to light.

You may have already met Tong-Il, the 14-year-old Korean concert pianist who is known and welcomed in millions of American homes through the medium of TV. In April Tong-Il made his debut in Carnegie Hall, New York City, playing one of Tchaikovsky's Piano Concertos with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra at the Young People's Concert.

Covered into the young pianist's 14 years have been the grimness and tragedy of war as well as the fairy-tale story of his sudden good fortune and rise to prominence in the field of music.

Tong-Il was born in the East Coast city of Hamhung in north Korea, and when he was only three years old he showed such a keen ear that his father, a musician, started training him on the family piano.

A year later, after the Communist "liberators" had tramped into the Han home and carried off the piano, the family decided it was time to seek safety in south Korea, and made their way across the border at their first opportunity.

After that a piano was an impossible luxury for the family with little more than the clothes on their backs. But the father was determined that the little boy should not be denied an opportunity to practice, and so arranged for him to use pianos wherever they were available—in a school, churches and the homes of friends.

Then came the full force of the Communist scourge upon Seoul, and the Hans fled to Pusan in the winter of 1950. But this time adversity wore "yet a precious jewel". The years of practice and his father's faith bore fruit. One afternoon in 1952 when Tong-Il was practicing in the reception room of the U.S. Fifth Air Force Lt. Thomas Cutshaw, himself a pianist, heard the boy and was deeply impressed by his ability. So much so, that he reported his "find" to the Commander of the Fifth Air Force, Lt. Gen. E. E. Anderson. The General, too, heard the boy, and agreed with Lt. Cutshaw.

As a result, Tong-Il toured a number of American Air Force bases in Korea and the airman made generous Donations. The money amounted to $4800; and in June, 1954 when Gen. Anderson and Lt. Cutshaw returned to the United States, they took the lad with them. The Julliard School of Music in New York granted him a scholarship.

One of the secrets of Tong-Il's polished performances and the attractive stage presence that has endeared him to American audiences is his complete lack of nervousness. He told one reporter that he never feels nervous. "no matter how many people are in the audience or where I am playing."

Citrus Credit Assn. Extends Growers' Program

Florida citrus growers have a brand new source of credit available to them according to Al Whitmore, secretary-treasurer of the Florida Citrus Production Credit Association.

"When Florida Citrus Production Credit Association was organized in 1928," Whitmore said, "loans were made with a maturity not exceeding twelve months. Later, arrangements could be made to carry over a portion of a loan used for capital purposes if conditions warranted."

"In 1955 the association began experimenting with capital purpose loans on an intermediate-term basis with maturities not to exceed three years."

"Effective Jan. 1, 1957, the association may make intermediate-term loans with maturities not to exceed five years. These loans can be made for capital purposes such as irrigation equipment, purchase of land, fencing, buildings, building repairs, etc. The responsibility of making each loan is vested in the executive committee of the association which has the responsibility of fixing the terms and conditions on which the loan is to be made."

The question cannot be labeled as political or economic, or cultural. It deals with all these things and with what, if there is no better name, one might call the spiritual.

Fairly wide evidence is given to the idea that what Americans want is simply more of everything—that life in this country is a continual mad race for material gain, and devil take the hindmost. There is enough truth in that to make an American wince, but it is not the whole truth.

Does America want to dominate and control the world? The popular answer to that would certainly be a resounding negative; we do not seek empire or dominion. Does America want to lead the world? Perhaps it is nearer the truth to say that America feels called upon, even destined, to lead. But for what purpose, and in what direction?

If this concept of America's role as world leader is to have a real meaning, we must hammer out a clearer understanding of what we want for ourselves and for mankind. The great dream of brotherhood and democracy of all men working in freedom and harmony to create a good life from the earth, must be shaped anew. But the shaping must be done thoughtfully.

It is not idle to ask: What do Americans want?

Tax Sought

A general federal sales tax on consumer goods is asked by the National Association of Manufacturers, which has just laid its proposal before the ways and means committee of the House of Representatives. The Association would exempt liquor and tobacco, which are subject to excise taxes; also food and drugs.

This is an old stand for the Association. Through a general sales tax it hopes to bring about a cut in income rates. Yet despite its hardships the graduated income tax hits people who are able to pay it, whereas the sales tax lays a heavier burden on the poor, and would sharply reduce their standard of living. It also would lay the government open to the charge of discriminating in favor of the well-to-do.

For these reasons Congress has not, in the past, heeded this demand, and there is no sign of its being favorably inclined now. Even if President Eisenhower came out for a sales tax, which he certainly gives no indication of doing, it would have hard sledding.

Give Microscope

One of the most winsome of Christmas presents is a living animal—a pup, a kitten, a parakeet, even a small pig or monkey. Fond memory recalls that, a year or two past, a wealthy little girl with imagination asked for—and received—a baby hippopotamus from Santa Claus.

Pets, however, whether they be kittens or hippos, bring complications. They must be fed and tended and cleaned up after, exercised when well and nursed when ill. Pets and little chores go together like bread and butter.

What would a parent say, then, to news of a way to give pets—not one or a pair, but scores, hundreds of pets—that make no noise and require a minimum of attention? It can be done.

First step is to buy a small microscope, they're available these days at low prices. Then one dips a jar into the nearest body of stagnant water. A drop of this water, placed under the microscope, is likely to reveal a fascinating array of creatures strange and wonderful—and active, more so than the most vigorous pet.

Footnote to boys who receive microscopes: Once you let Dad have a good look at this wonderful wiggly world, you may have trouble getting him away from it.

Christmas Story

WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR

By REV. MILTON WYATT

Story, drama, and song have been based on the beautiful and familiar account of the visit of the wise men to Bethlehem to pay homage to the Christ child. From Matthew's account let me direct your attention to the words: WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR. These words suggest a pull toward something which is forever reminding us of life's true significance, true goal, and true home. Like the wise men of old, we have seen his star and we can never quite forget it even though we may wander far afield.

The star represents a new set of values which came into the world with Jesus Christ. These values revolve around the idea of what a person is worth to God. Because of the infinite worth that Jesus ascribed to human personality, the test applied to all of our actions is simply this: What happens to human personality because of our attitudes, our treatment of others, and the use we make of our God-given talents? Do our attitudes and actions help or hinder, heal or hurt? Are we using our God-given talents in such a way as to be of real service to others and to God?

Another timely suggestion brought to us by the star is that the future belongs to those values which are linked up with the Christ child. To appropriate a bit of verse—

"The stars in their course are one with the forces.

That fight for Christ's way and his truth."

Our tendency is to lose patience with the advancement of Christ's cause in our world. We see the temporary triumph of certain forces of evil and we conclude that the situation is hopeless. We are impatient, but God is patient beyond all imagining.

It is reported that in some valleys of the Alps it takes four hours for sunrise. A few years ago an enterprising movie producer took a motion picture of sunrise in the Alps and ran it off in 90 seconds. That's pretty representative of our "hurry-up" attitude toward the sometimes slow processes of growth and development. We have seen his star and we cannot believe that the forces of evil will ultimately win over Christ's cause.

There are those who throw up their hands in despair and say: "See what the world is coming to." The star, however, reminds us of what has come to our world. It reminds us of those immortal words: "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord." Someone has said that no word other than "who" has satisfied man's deeply implanted religious capacity. The most satisfying answer to our hunger for certainty and assurance regarding life's deepest meaning has come through a person to whom the star led the wise men of old. Thanks be to God Who sends His Son into the world to reconcile the world unto Himself. We, like the wise men, have seen His star. We are not left without a witness to God's personal concern for us. Let us follow His star until we stand in the very presence of the Christ and offer to Him ourselves and the best that we have.

New Bell Lab Base To Locate In State

Sanford-Deland Group Manager Gordon Rutherford announced today that a new base location of Bell Laboratories will be established at Cape Canaveral, where tests are to be carried out in conjunction with the ballistic missile program.

A building to house the Laboratories' activities on Cape Canaveral is being constructed by Western Electric Company and will be ready for occupancy on Jan. 1, 1957. It is designed to accommodate 70 people.

It is expected that personnel assigned to the Cape Canaveral Laboratory will be transferred to the location gradually during the first half of 1957.

Student Unrest Rises In E. Germany

Foreign Press Correspondent

United Press Staff Correspondent

East Germany threatened to become the most dangerous area in Europe before long.

The feeling is growing in European capitals that the situation there might develop into a threat of world peace.

Student unrest, like that which led to the revolts in Poland and Hungary, is mounting throughout East Germany.

East German Defense Minister Wilhelm Pieck announced on Sunday that his government had taken new security measures as a safeguard against possible rebellions.

The West German government is about as worried as are the East German Reds over the danger of an uprising.

Revolts were noted in West Poland and Hungary, though Communist-ruled, are nominally independent countries. East Germany, on the other hand, is a section of a divided country.

There were comparatively few Russian troops in Poland and Hungary when rebellion broke out there.

In East Germany, Russia maintains an army of 22 divisions, numbering perhaps 400,000 men. They are really occupying troops, because no German peace treaty has been signed.

If a revolt broke out in East Germany, there is no doubt that the entire Russian force would be thrown against the rebels in an ever more ruthless attack than that in Hungary.

Advances From Revolt

It is entirely possible that West Germans, acting as individuals, might cross the dividing line to join in the revolt.

Even if they did not, the situation would be dangerous enough. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has made it known that he fears a revolt in East Germany could lead to a world war.

In this, Adenauer agrees for some with the East German Reds. Gerhard Eisler, No. 1 propagandist of the East German regime, said in a speech in East Berlin last Thursday:

"Whatever in East Germany attempts to organize an uprising as

2 Year Enlistment In Army Effective

A two year enlistment in the U. S. Army has just become effective. It was announced by Master Sergeant Jacobson, the local Army recruiting sergeant.

This new plan is tied in with the Reserve Force Act of 1955 and carries only a six year military obligation.

One of the important features of this enlistment option is that a young man may enlist and be deferred from going on active duty for as much as four months.

The six year military obligation under this plan is broken down as follows: three years active duty, three years in the inactive reserve and one year in the inactive reserve.

Sergeant Jacobson will be glad to talk to all young men who are interested in this plan. He will be at the Army Recruiting Station at East Central in Orlando. Also at the Sanford Post Office each Wednesday morning.

LAFF-A-DAY

"George and I really have to go now. It's getting so late I can hardly keep my mouth open."

in Hungary is playing with a third world war."

Hence the situation is that in West Germany as well as East Germany, no responsible leader wants trouble.

Revolts May Take Action

One reason is that Russia itself, facing the breakdown of its satellite empire, might take some action that would start a war.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said at last week's meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers in Paris that this was a dangerous time for the West because the Soviet satellite system had started to disintegrate.

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano specifically mentioned his country as the most acute danger spot because it is in the front line of the Allied defense system.

Now dispatches from Washington mention the possibility that Russia might start a war as the result of its difficulties. If that happened, a revolt in East Germany might provide the spark.

Miss Mary Earle, W. T. Walker United In Marriage Last Night

Miss Mary Emily Earle and William Thomas Walker were united in marriage last night at 7 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. A. G. McInnis officiating.

The candlelight, double ring ceremony was performed against a background of poinsettia and Brazilian pepper, with Miss Joan Wilkie and Dick Aiken providing musical accompaniment. The bride wore a grey shantung suit and her corsage was a white orchid with a yellow throat. Ushers were Fred Pearson, Frank Wheeler Jr., George Means and David Earle.

Secret Sisters Are Revealed At O.E.S. Past Matrons Meet

The past matrons of the Order of Eastern Star, Centinole Chapter No. 2, of Sanford, held their annual Christmas meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Tom McLain, in Geneva, on Monday evening. The officers for the year 1957 were duly installed by the retiring president, Mrs. McLain, as follows:

President, Mrs. W. E. Rainey; Vice President, Mrs. J. H. Anderson; Secretary, Mrs. R. C. Maxwell; and Treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Courier. Mrs. J. P. Holtzclaw was appointed Chairman of the Welfare Committee.

After routine business, the new President took the chair and appointed committees for the January meeting, when the Club will have a dinner honoring the new past matron and all past patrons. Following the business, session the members revealed their secret sisters for the past year, in clever verse.

The hostess, assisted by some of the guests, then distributed gifts from the beautifully decorated Christmas tree. Gifts will be sent to all absent members.

Refreshments of cake and Russian tea were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Effie Hewson and Mrs. Rainey.

Present were Mrs. G. W. Bailey, Mrs. R. W. Turner, Mrs. J. O. Huff, Mrs. R. C. Maxwell, Mrs. J. E. Courier, Mrs. B. C. Moore, Mrs. S. P. Dutton, Mrs. Hewson, Mrs. S. J. Nix, Mrs. F. Hasky Wight, Mrs. Jack Burney, Mrs. Wurt Warner, Mrs. Edson Golt, Mrs. Louise Bills, Mrs. McLain, Mrs. Rainey, Mrs. Amelia Masic, Mrs. R. L. Griffin, and Mrs. Anderson.

Preceding a short business meeting, the auxiliary and Camp 13 U.S.W.V. enjoyed a covered dish and turkey dinner, following which the commander of the camp, Frank Evans, led the group in singing "Happy Birthday" to W. E. Randall on his 95th birthday. Mr. Randall was also presented a gift.

The members then exchanged gifts and the secretary of the auxiliary presented, on behalf of the local auxiliary, to Mrs. Jimmie Ericson, retiring chaplain, a copper banded kitchen wall electric clock, for her services as chaplain for the past 20 years.

The House was Decorated Throughout With Lights and a Christmas Tree. There were 10 Present.

It's good manners and good sense to be a thoughtful picnicer. Wash your picnic table with a soapy sponge or cloth before you leave the picnic grounds. The next visitor will appreciate this courtesy.

RUTH ERICKSEN
The Azalea Garden Circle met for its annual Christmas party Thursday night at Jim Spencer's restaurant. After a delicious dinner the group held a discussion concerning trays for the Seminole hospital. Mrs. Henry Russell, chairman, distributed gifts to all members.

The annual Christmas Coffee for the Dirt Gardeners' Circle was held at the home of Mrs. George C. Rarden on Friday last. Mrs. E. D. Rinehart was co-hostess. Beautiful Christmas arrangements featuring Yule ornaments, dried materials of silver and gold were displayed in the living and dining rooms. Mrs. Rarden read "The Hope of Christmas." Mrs. Don Perry described the Folklore of Christmas, the origin of our holiday customs. A delicious buffet was served, with Mrs. Irwin Fleischer pouring. The annual plant exchange followed.

Mrs. C. E. Hunter, with Mrs. M. E. Baker and Mrs. B. L. McKnight as co-hostesses, entertained the Hemococilla Circle at its Yule party Mrs. C. H. Moss, chairman, presided and introduced the guests of the evening. Mrs. Fred Ganas, who judged arrangements submitted by members. Mrs. Ganas was presented with a gift. Mrs. Wiggins won the door prize, an assortment of flower arrangement material. Members brought articles for the Good Samaritan Home and exchanged gifts. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The Hibiscus Circle met Friday afternoon for its Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Lauren Johnson in Rose Court, with co-hostesses Mrs. W. H. Stewart and Mrs. Fred Zerener. The spacious new home was decorated with yule decorations and the refreshment table held a sleigh with Santa, flanked with red candles. After a brief business session, games were played, with Mrs. R. F. Shields winning a prize for the state game. Gifts were exchanged. Mrs. William Toll invited the group to meet with her in January.

The Ixora Circle met at the home of Mrs. John Morgan in Rose Court, with Mrs. Taylor Brown and Mrs. L. S. Sloan as co-hostesses. Mrs. Fred Murray presented a film on Bird Conservation through the courtesy of the Davey Tree Expert Company. Mrs. T. W. Mero, chairman presided at a brief business session and announced that the Ixora Circle has been appointed to decorate a Christmas tree for the waiting room of the Seminole hospital.

Mrs. Al. Doucay, garden therapist, stated that the tree would be decorated Dec. 18 at 9 a.m. and the ornaments used to be donated to the Women's auxiliary of the hospital. Mrs. Joseph Baker, Junior Garden club co-chairman, asked for volunteers to demonstrate the making of dish gardens and plaques once a month at Pinecrest school.

The Mimosa Circle met at the Garden Barn in Eustis to luxuriate in the beautiful holiday arrangements always shown at Christmas time by the owners of this outstanding nursery. Palms decorated with colorful balls, silver and gold leaves; pink, white and scarlet poinsettia blossoms welcomed the group.

After a brief business meeting Miss Reba Harris of the Barn, gave a most instructive talk on "The First Christmas Tree Was a Palm." She advised that amber filter lights be placed at the base of the outdoor palm trees which are to be utilized in home decorations. The group went on a guided tour of the nursery grounds, seeing many new ideas in propagating plants. The party ended with a delicious luncheon at Fralich's restaurant at Mt. Dora.

Young People Have Christmas Party Monday

The home of Mrs. G. H. Sykes, on Scott Ave. was the scene of the Christmas party held Monday night by the Intermediate Department, Number Two of the First Baptist Church.

The party room was cheerfully decorated with a Christmas tree and poinsettias.

As the guests entered they were given bubble gum and a piece of paper with which to make a Christmas tree or a Santa Claus. The prize was won by Miss Connie Ball. Other games were enjoyed throughout the evening.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Sykes, Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, Mrs. A. L. The home of Mrs. H. J. Finch, with Mrs. John D. Carlson as co-hostess. Mrs. J. E. Nicholas was guest speaker, displaying a chart of the growth of plant life from its lowest origin to the latest branches of specialized development. A large assortment of seeds and stalks pointed out the various types of plant growth and reproduction.

Decision was made to present the Sarepta Nursing Home with a camellia plant in bloom and to have it set in the home grounds. Packets of flower seeds are also to be given to the home. Mrs. Harry Oakes, of the horticulture committee, gave a timely talk on growth of bulbs. She distributed seeds of the red lily and the monkey puzzle tree and described their slow growth, from 18 months to three years but with rewarding success in horticultural aims.

Mrs. Wade Garner brought beautiful arrangements to decorate the living rooms and refreshment table at which the Circle enjoyed a social hour of coffee and cakes. The next meeting will feature Gen. H. P. Newton, camellia expert, and will be at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Arne Erickson in DeBary.

The December meeting of the Camellia Circle was held Thursday night at the home of Mrs. I. E. Batten on Valencia Dr. Hostesses were Mrs. Dan Batten and Mrs. E. W. Peterson.

Mrs. Ralph Betts, circle chairman, presided over short business session. A discussion was held concerning the Christmas Tree for the hospital. Mrs. George Speer and Mrs. John Dunn will decorate the tree.

A very interesting Junior Garden Club report was given by Mrs. J. L. Horton, Jr. She explained the work she and Mrs. Harold Chapman have been doing in Grammar School.

Each member brought a Christmas arrangement or decoration which they had made for their homes. An explanation of how each decoration was made was given. Many cute and clever ideas were brought to the group.

Christmas gifts of gardening items were exchanged.

The hostesses served delicious refreshments of ice cream Christmas trees, Christmas cookies and coffee.

Those present were Mrs. Betts, Mrs. Speer, Mrs. Horton, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Roger Schmidt, Mrs. Benne Austin, Mrs. Alfred Chiles, Mrs. Jack Martin, and guest, Mrs. Bob Bratzel, Mrs. Verena Harbin, Mrs. Donald Knight, Mrs. Don Flamm, Mrs. E. Wildcats Breeze By Seminole Five 95-34 Last Night

Jay Bergman and Bob Wecker landed on the court sign for the Winter Park Wildcats last night as they breezed by the Sanford Seminoles 95-34 in a game that had all the early appearance of being closed. The Parker JV's made it a clean sweep as they downed the Seminoles JV's prior to the varsity game last night.

The Seminoles failed on the rebound and were unable to work against the Parker team defense. Playing a seldom shooting offensive game, the fast break fall flat, and the Seminoles were unable to contain the sharpshooting Winter Park offensive machine.

Bergman and Wecker were dangerous from all points of the court and made it virtually impossible to continue a scoring by the Seminoles.

As the half the Seminoles were trailing 45-14.

The First Annual Seminole County Invitational Basketball Tournament gets underway tomorrow night at 7 p. m. when the Sanford Seminoles and the DeLand Bulldogs will tangle with the Oviedo Lions.

The four teams will be vying for the coveted Sanford Herald trophy. This year the Herald will give two trophies; one to the winner and one to the runner-up.

The athletic department of Seminole High School has done a fine job in bringing good basketball to Sanford for this event. Two undefeated teams will be coming from out of town for the pleasure of the Sanford citizenry. Undefeated Oviedo is presently the hands down choice to take the Sanford Herald trophy. They will have a little trouble from Lyman, but not too much.

Undefeated DeLand is favored to take number two in the contest, and the final teams should be thrillers.

Friday night the winners and the losers of tomorrow night's clash will meet. The two losing teams, figured to be Sanford and Lyman will meet at 7 p. m. and then the championship game is to get underway at 9 p. m.

DeLand and Oviedo are picked by the prognosticators to play for the championship.

"We are proud to sponsor this tournament," Fred Ganser, athletic director of Seminole High School said this morning. "We only hope the people and the students that are presently enjoying their Christmas vacations will realize that the boys that will be playing in the game are having to sacrifice much of their time in preparation for this, and we hope we have a good spectator turnout."

This is the first time that such an invitational tournament has been sponsored by the high school in years. Poor attendance is the one thing that could keep this from becoming an annual affair.

"We are going to see some championship basketball tomorrow night, and the following night," John Schirrad, Jr., president of the Seminole Chiefs club said this morning. "We of the Seminole Chiefs Club earnestly urge all those who would favor a more progressive and complete athletic program in Sanford to attend this excellent program. Surely it would be a pity to have some of the out of town schools better represented than Seminole High and Sanford."

Bud Leyer, head basketball coach for the Sanford Seminoles said this morning that he had some plays up his sleeve that could possibly mean the difference in the final results of the game tomorrow night. "We want very much to be in the finals," he said, "and we have a play that we have been developing especially for use against DeLand. We call it 'triple trouble', and it could well be just that for the Bulldogs." Then he added as an afterthought, "I think the boys are getting a little tired of being pushed around on the court."

Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma's national champion Sooners, was fourth with 38 votes and Ara Parseghian of Northwestern finished fifth with 25 votes. Tommy Prothro, doing a big rebounding job at Oregon State, rated sixth with 18 votes.

Notre Dame Coach Looks Grimly Ahead To Next Season

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF. BY OSCAR FREALEY United Press Staff Writer SAN FRANCISCO, UP—Terry Brennan, feeling a lot older than his 28 years after "getting a lot of heat" for a "terrible" season at Notre Dame, looked grimly ahead to next season without much optimism.

"We only lose three men but they're good ones," Brennan said as he faced more coaching criticism in heading the East squad into the Dec. 23 East-West Shrine game at Kester Stadium.

The trio stepping down includes All-American quarterback Paul Hornung, halfback Jimmy Morse and guard Gene Hedrick.

"You have to feel the loss of players like those, particularly on a young squad," Brennan explained. "Sure, we hoped to do better than we did but six of the teams we played in losing eight of 10 games were among his top 15 teams in the country. That's no league to learn in, believe me."

Criticism from Leaky Brennan's lips lightened when he thinks of the "heat" which was heaped on him, including some sally remarks by Frank Leahy, the man he succeeded as head coach of the Fighting Irish.

"I didn't say anything to him, though," he grinned faintly. "You just don't say anything in cases like those."

It was a disturbing season for Brennan — who rated Michigan State, Oklahoma, Iowa and Purdue as the four best teams he saw.

"It wasn't a good year," he frowned, "and I guess that may be ranked as the understatement of the season. But the boys did their best and that's all you can expect."

Brennan indicated, without saying it outright, that Purdue was the best team he had seen.

Soomers Fall To Impress "They were tremendous against us," he asserted. "The 40 to 0 score by which Oklahoma beat #7 was deceiving and as for Iowa, we didn't play well against them."

As for his top football thrill, Brennan still rates his 97-yard opening kickoff return against Army in 1947 as the best.

That was the one in which his parents went to South Bend from Milwaukee to see him play—and his father was trapped under the stands getting Mrs. Brennan a cup of coffee and missed his red-haired son's great run. So that big thrill also was one of his top disappointments.

But not as disappointing as the 1956 football season was to Coach Brennan. And he'll get a greater thrill when, and if, he turns out a winner at Notre Dame.

"But," he admitted forlornly, "I don't hold too high hopes that it will be in 1947."

Hank Aaron, the National League's leading hitter with Milwaukee, led Jacksonville and the Sally League in hitting with .362 in 1955.

W. W. Tyre, chairman of the Junior High Football Project Committee, said this morning that the Seminole Chiefs have plans formulated that should carry the financing of the junior high football uniforms over the goal. He said that the committee has an auction planned for Feb. 22, "but in the meantime," he said, "we want all those who are handling donation tickets for the revolver rifle to contact some member of the committee and turn in the tickets and money for the tickets before Christmas." Tyre said the Seminole Chiefs would meet Thursday night, two days after Christmas, on Dec. 27. "At that time the drawing for the revolver will be made, and we want to be sure that all the tickets are in to us before then."

Early in the year the Seminole Chiefs were appealed to for help by the members of the Seminole High School athletic staff. "We are outgrown by our opposition," Fred Ganser told the group at the time. "The way we need in a junior high school project that will get the youngsters acquainted with strenuous competitive sports at an early age. Every other school that we face has such a program, and we are being outgrown by these schools. A junior high program is the only way we may hope to keep in competition with these other schools with a size comparable to ours."

The Seminole Chiefs came to the rescue and ordered uniforms for junior high football from Hill Implement Co.

The Seminole Chiefs devised several plans for financing the program of junior high football. Sheriff J. Luther Hobby donated a handsome $6 Smith and Western revolver to the cause. The nickle plated gun will be given away to some lucky holder of a numbered donation ticket when the drawing is made Dec. 27.

The 1957 University of North Carolina football team will lose only two starters from the 1956 team. They are halfbacks Ed Sutton and Larry McMillen.

Flower Bowl, filled with victors in the Delaware Handicap and Ladies Handicap, won her first race Jan. 17, 1955 at Hialeah.

Chuck Spleer, Detroit light heavyweight boxer, was a member of the U. S. Olympic teams in 1948 and 1952.

The Christmas Story

By RAYMOND A. LAJOIE
Central Press Association Correspondent
(Third of a series)

FROM the Austrian Alps in the region known as the Tyrol—the land in the mountains—is to be found the birthplace of Silent Night, Holy Night. Here, the towering Tyrolean peaks, famed for their snow-capped grandeur, rise in lofty simplicity into the cool, clear air, guarding smiling peaceful valleys.

Far up in the Alps where love of music is nature's gift to every child, nestles the town of Oberndorf, Austria. Here in 1818 lived a devout young Austrian priest named Father Joseph Mohr. With his friend the village schoolmaster and church organist, Franz Gruber, he was destined to give the world this most famous of all Christmas hymns.

The two men, both lovers of great music, had often talked of the fact that "the perfect Christmas song had not yet been found."

Thinking about it, Mohr sat in his church study on Christmas Eve, 1818. Outside, the hushed silence of the night heightened the snow-covered beauty and stillness of the mountain scene.

The purity and calmness of the high peaks filled his heart with radiant joy as the recollection of those first Christmas tidings, "Jesus, The Saviour is born," came to him. And the thoughts that had been long forming in his mind suddenly found musical expression in the song which we have since come to know and love as Silent Night, Holy Night.

The next morning, Christmas Day, Mohr hurried to his friend's home with the manuscript of his precious song. Gruber read it intently and exclaimed with uncontrolled enthusiasm, "Friend Mohr, you have found it—the right song—God be praised!"

Gruber, thrilled with the spirit of his friend's verses, set to work to compose the perfect melody for "the perfect song." Finally, the soft, flowing air we now use came to him. "It sings itself, your song," he cried to the delighted priest.

Gruber's real contribution to music lies in the beauty and simplicity of the tune, in its perfect blending with Mohr's verses. The two men sang the new hymn over together to have it ready for the church devotions that night.

Later in the same evening, when the villagers were gathered in the gray little mount church, Mohr and Gruber sang their Christmas song before its first audience. It touched the listeners deeply, and after the service, they thanked the two friends with tears of joy in their eyes. A new hymn had been born.

The story of how the song spread from its mountain home in the Tyrol to become one of the Christmas favorites in all parts of the world is an enchanting one. Only very slowly did it come into fame. For nearly a year after its first rendition, the song lay almost forgotten in Gruber's desk. Then, in November, 1819, the church organ had to be repaired, and the repair man when he had finished with his work, asked Gruber to play something to test the organ. The beautiful melody of Silent Night came back to Gruber's mind and he played it with all its powerful yet simple beauty.

So entranced was the organ-buider that he begged to take a copy of the song with him to his own town across the mountains.

From one music-lover to another the hymn was passed on.

Still, it was without a name and was known simply as The Tyrolean Song, because it had first come from the Tyrolean Alps. With that title it was printed in 1842 for the first time, 24 years after it had been composed.

It became widely used in Austria and Germany. On their American concert tour (1839-1843) the Rainiers, a family of singers from the Tyrol, brought this new Christmas carol with them and sang it before large audiences. Within a few years it also conquered the hearts of Americans.

From that time on, the song has been put into countless other languages and carried to all parts of the world to become the best loved of all Christmas songs and hymns, a truly international Christmas anthem.

Today, a monument in Oberndorf perpetuates the memory of the men who gave us Silent Night.

The song touches a heart-felt need, and to all who hear it, it brings the Saviour's calm and peace in its strains of beauty and joy!

Tomorrow: THE CHRISTMAS STORY—Is Santa Claus, the charming addition to the legend of St. Nicholas.

the Snapshot Guild

In this picture, a professional photographer worked in subdued room and made a time exposure of the fire, then moved his subjects into place and shot the picture with flash. For the amateur, it is easier to use a flood light or flash bulb to simulate the firelight.

It's Open Season on Shooting Fireplaces

Some of our readers must either be in an "Alice-sit-by-the-fire" mood or are planning to hang Christmas stockings "by the fire with care"—because we've had a number of inquiries about taking pictures around the fireplace.

With time exposures, of course, you can shoot excellent pictures by real firelight. But most people don't hold still during the exposure and that naturally doesn't make for good clear snapshots.

So we'd like to make this suggestion: Instead of having a real fire, just tuck a flood lamp way back in a corner of the fireplace. And then all you have to do is set up another flood in a reflector at a distance of about five feet from your subjects' faces. To keep the firelight effect, dim your room lights before shooting.

Following this easy procedure for fireplace shots, you'll get fine results, with even the simplest camera. The effect will be one of a happily blazing hearth—so true to life it would fool even the most seasoned arsonist!

If you're planning a fireplace shot as part of your Christmas shooting, don't be afraid to do a little "faking." Flood or flash lamps make wonderful "firelight" scenes—so gather the family around the fireplace, aim your camera, and fire away!

Record Crop, Livestock Yield Told

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The nation's farmers and ranchers turned out a record total production of crops and livestock during 1956 despite weather damage and the smallest harvested acreage in 20 years.

The Agriculture Department's final crop production report for the year, issued Monday, quoted 1956 crop output at 166 per cent of the 1947-50 base period. This equaled the 1948 record. Revised figures for last year's crop production, also included in the report, showed that 1955 also tied the 1948 record.
Department officials said total livestock production for 1956 already has reached 127 per cent of the base period, up from last year's 121 per cent. This output, added to the record—squalling crop, production, resulted in a total food, feed, and fiber production representing 114 per cent of the base period.

The previous record of 113 per cent for all three was set last year. Final figures on livestock production will be compiled in January.
The department said the record—squalling crop was achieved from the smallest total harvested acre—age in 20 years and in a growing season beset by late cold spring weather and drought threats or damage to crops over large areas of the nation.

Acreage Small
The harvested acreage of 59 principal crops declined, largely as a result of government acreage controls, to 319 million acres, the smallest since the drought disaster year of 1936, and nearly 14 million acres under last year's total. The total planted acreage was about 346 million acres, 2 per cent less than in 1955. The soil bank enrolled about 12 million acres with consequent diversion from crop harvest. In all, about 24,500,000 acres were abandoned or diverted before harvest.

The department said concern over rainfall, soil moisture and other water supplies bulked large among farmers' production worries during the growing season. Good early season moisture in Northeastern, Middle Atlantic, West Coast and some other sections contrasted with dry soils in a large area from Indiana west to the Rockies and from Iowa and South Dakota southward to the Gulf. Drought was chronic in the central and southern Great Plains.

Only one major field crop—soybeans—reached a new production record in 1956. But several important crops made larger total production than in 1955—corn, winter wheat, spring wheat, potatoes, and flaxseed. Large crops also were harvested for sugar beets, dry beans, dry peas and popcorn.

Several Crops Decline
Crops which fell below last year in output included cotton, hay, oats, barley, sorghum grains, rice, tobacco, peanuts, sugar cane, sweet potatoes, cowpeas, most legume and grass seeds and broom corn.
Citrus fruits as a group were slightly larger and deciduous fruit crops slightly smaller. Vegetable crops for fresh market were slightly larger and for commercial processing were considerably larger.

New high yield per acre records were set by corn, spring wheat, barley, potatoes and tobacco. Sugar beets tied the 1955 yield record, and rice fell only slightly below. Yields for cotton, soybeans, winter wheat, sorghum bushels, was the second largest in grain, dry beans, peanuts and popcorn were at above average to near-record levels.

The corn crop, at 3,431,282,000 million bushels, was nearly 7 per cent above last year's.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

FATHER CARNAHAN tells about a little Englishman who couldn't choose between two lovely lasses he had been wooing on alternate nights, and sought advice from the village priest. "Will it be Maggie or Maria, Father?" he begged. The priest said, "It's you who will have to decide, my son. Go to the church and pray for guidance."
A few moments later the Englishman ran out in great excitement. "It's a miracle!" he proclaimed. "I thought I'd say a prayer in front of the statue of Our Lady of Lourdes, so I go up to the altar and there on the blue cloth in letters of gold I reads as plain as day: 'Ave Maria!'"

Variation: I snot a sneeze into the air. It fell to earth I know not where. But later on, so I am told, a dozen others had my cold.
Ad in a theatrical magazine: "Lion tamer is anxious to get hold of a tamer lion."

"Put 'em In" won a $100 Third Prize for Lowell Bauer, East High School, Denver, Colorado, in the 1956 competition.

Here's a Rainbow Path to Pot of Gold for Teen Cameramen

If you're not a high school student—or if there isn't one in your family—this announcement is definitely not for you. For today we're calling all high school teenagers to fame and fortune through their cameras!

Yes, here's something you young people can't afford to miss—a big picture contest that starts on January 1. It's Kodak's National High School Photographic Awards and offers you a chance to share in $5,000 worth of prizes just by entering one of your snapshots in any of the four picture classifications being judged.
Since these classifications include a wide variety of subjects, you won't have any trouble finding an entry among the snapshots you've taken during the summer and fall. There's a handsome $300 first prize awaiting you in each of these categories: school activities and sports, family and friends engaged in non-school activities, scenic views in which people or pets are not featured, and animal and pet pictures.
Last year top prize in one class was for two small boys eating lunch in a school cafeteria—the camera angle and expressions made it an award winner. Another grand prize went to a student who snapped a picture of a very blond junior-size cowgirl on her first pony ride.
In the scenic class a quietly beautiful picture entitled "Silhouette" was the winner and in the pet class a monkey named "Happy" scored. Second awards went to pictures of a high school high jumper, a young fisherman, a mountain rainstorm and a pair of parakeets billed as "Two Smart Boys."
So, you see the subject matter of good contest pictures is far from limited.
Copies of the contest rules are probably available in most schools now. If not, you can get them by dropping a postcard to: National High School Photographic Awards, 343 State Street, Rochester 4, New York.
Read over the rules and remember to send your entry in promptly—the contest opens on January 1!

Men Do Shopping At Stag Shop Without Rush Or Blush

NEW YORK—The average American man would rather sit out the rest of his life in a dentist's chair than spend five minutes at a lingerie counter buying his wife a nightgown for Christmas.
It takes a special brand of savoir faire, known only to the French and a few Park Avenue playboys, to finger the price tag on a frilly feminine item without flinching under the salesgirl's smirk and the baleful glances of inquisitive women shoppers.
But be of good cheer, a mercantile movement may yet rescue you.
It's the department store stag shop where men can do their Christmas shopping without rush or blush in an atmosphere as masculine as the ward room of a battleship.
No women are allowed in except the sales help and a bevy of pretty models who will try on anything from a lacy negligee to a $20,000 mink coat.
Or, if you want a vacuum cleaner, they'll have a fellow come up from the appliance department and demonstrate it for you. For some reason or other, this doesn't happen often. The models are always more in demand than the appliance men.
Most of the successful stag shops like the one at Saks Fifth Avenue try to foster the club atmosphere of tweedy chumminess to put the customer at his ease.
There's no high pressure selling, no scurrying stock clerks, no clanging cashier's bells to evoke memories of bargain basement bedlam. The sales force is specially trained to guide a timid male through the labyrinth of feminine fashion, help with his gift list and keep him from going overboard on his budget.
Some men think of their wives as geographically unchanged since the days of their courtship, falling to take into account the spread of years. It's a flattering fancy that usually reverts to reality at the exchange counter in the week after Christmas.

One gallant old gentleman, whose wife exceeded even the generous bounds of the stylish stout category, always bought her the shiest and frilliest nightgown he could find. "When you're young and pretty," he explained, "this sort of gift means a great deal."
When you're not, it means even more.
Nightgowns and negligees account for more than 50 per cent of the purchases made in the stag shop each year, but jewelry, sports wear, sweaters, slacks and other personal items enjoy a wide popularity. So do novelty gifts like hand painted toilet seats and music box telephone cradles that play waltzes while a caller waits for his party to come to the phone.

'Cancer Cure' Here For Many

By DR. DAVID A. WOOD
President, American Cancer Society
Written for United Press
Among its more fervent prayers for 1957, the world will include one for "the cancer cure."
In modern countries like the United States, cancer comes to two of every three families and kills one in six of us.
Happily, it can be reported that "the cancer cure" is now here for many who will have the disease this year.

One in three cancer patients now are being saved—by surgery or radiation or both. Only a few years ago, the figure was one in four.
Progress Is Sure
One can predict with certainty that further advances toward cancer control will be made during the coming year. At long last, research is mobilized, financed more generously than ever before, and all along the massive front, from studies of cell chemistry to the treatment of patients, steady progress is being made.
Few if any responsible scientists expect that 1957 or any other year will produce a single drug which will cure all cancers. There is a growing likelihood, however, that eventually—and no one can say when—a variety of drugs will be developed which may cure many of the cancers that now resist radiation or are too far advanced for surgery.

Science in recent years has developed about a half-dozen drugs which will cure certain experimental cancers in laboratory animals. One big hope is that some drug—scores of them are now coming off molecule assembly lines in chemists' laboratories—will begin to cure human cancers. So far drugs have given substantial help to patients, but none has permanently cured human cancers.
Promising Fields
Beyond the field of drug treatment—or chemotherapy—lie several avenues of lively research promise. They include:
Biochemistry—which is revealing quantitative differences in the chemistry of cancer and normal cells and suggesting new ways of treatment.
Endocrinology—which has shown that hormones play a role in some cancers and palliate but do not cure the disease.
Virology—which has found viruses to be an agent in six or seven animal cancers and is slowly leading to the understanding and control of all viruses.

Tobacco Production Estimate Revealed

WASHINGTON UP—The Agriculture Department estimates 1956 tobacco production at 2,145,296,000 billion pounds—2.3 per cent below last year, but .3 per cent above average.
This year's crop was harvested from 1,266,000 acres, the smallest since 1941.
Flue-cured tobacco was estimated at 1,410,000,000 pounds, about 5 per cent below 1955, but the third largest crop on record.
Burley tobacco, the second major type, was estimated at 494,000,000 pounds, 5 per cent above last year but 15 per cent below average. A record high yield of 1,591 pounds an acre was obtained for the burley belt.
Burley production by states included: Virginia, 20,800,000; North Carolina, 18,620,000; Tennessee, 97,600,000 pounds.

Pryors Entertain At Christmas Tea

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Pryor entertained at a small Christmas Tea at their home at 299 Margaret Road Sunday afternoon.

The dining table was overlaid with a white handmade lace cloth and centered with a tall arrangement of red and white poinsettias.

Mrs. G. C. Dixon and Mrs. Edvin Kopchak served at the table with ruby red cranberry punch, coffee, open faced sandwiches, Christmas cookies, nuts and mince.

A point of interest in the living room was a cathedral suggestion of gilded palm sprays, sea gulls, and other dried items.

Guests during the afternoon included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dietz, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Martin, Mrs. W. D. Gardner, Mrs. J. M. Meyer, Mrs. John Ludwig, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Reed, Mrs. Hubey Spears, Dr. and Mrs. Epstein, and daughters, Adrienne

Community Tree To Be Held Thursday At Lake Mary CofC

The Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce will be the scene of much excitement Thursday, when the children will all gather around to receive their gifts from under the Community Christmas Tree, which is holiday tradition of the town.

This event is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zimmerman head the committee, which has two representatives from each church and P-TA working with them.

Conning The News

BY VIRGINIA CONN

VAR-7 had a welcome home party for those who had been on F.A.D. Saturday night at the B. O.G. The time was eight to twelve, and the decoration hastily borrowed from friends and neighbors, and put up by talented Pete Simpson. The reason for the haste was very short notice was given for the party at all, although they always turn out to be the best. And such was the case here. A review, written and produced by Rita Bauer (over the phone) was presented. The name of this great endeavor was the Gum and Glue Review, since this is the way they put it together, over the Bell and after the talented ones arrived at the party. To the tune of Glow Worm the unharmonious choir sang lyrics as yet unreleased to the public. But the gist of it was that they were glad to have their boys back. Members of the chorus were Pat and Kay Dwyer (and Kay went to the hospital shortly after and produced a boy), Dick and Dot Mann, and Rita Bauer and Gay Forrest.

Pete Simpson then entertained with songs and guitar music. Rita read one of her compositions, a parody on The Night Before Christmas—via Navy Air, this accompanied by gestures (Rita is a real ham!). The grand finale consisted of a chorus line containing gorgeous Betty Meyer, Doris Francisco, Terry Price, and Thelma McMurray, all dressed to the teeth and representing different cocktails. The commentary for this was done by Marilyn Forrest, who was then joined by Mary Libbey, and together they released balloons for a pin sticking contest. Later on in the evening the girls sang to the men and vice versa, and King Hedges did an impromptu act. Sounds as if VAR-7 is loaded with talent. Latch on all you scouts for High Fever and the Theatre Guild. There were thirty-nine good members of this party, and that alone means it must have been fun.

Ike, Nehru Say Talks Confirm Better Insight About World Problems

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India said today their "full and frank talks" confirmed a "broad area of agreement" about world problems.

In a joint communique issued by the White House as Nehru left for New York at the end of his four-day state visit here, the two leaders predicted that their meeting of minds will speed achievement of "peaceful and friendly relations among all nations of the world."

The Prime Minister and the President are convinced that the greater understanding of their respective policies reached at these talks will facilitate the constant efforts of India and the United States towards the achievement of peaceful and friendly intercourse among nations in accordance with the principles of the United Nations, the communique said.

Nehru and Mr. Eisenhower conferred for some 14 hours Monday in the seclusion of the President's farm at Gettysburg, Pa. They talked again at the White House Wednesday and at a formal dinner at the Indian Embassy.

VIENNA — Vice President Richard M. Nixon set out today on a tour of Austrian refugee camps that will take him within 11 miles of the Hungarian frontier. The inspection may lead to a new American open door refugee policy.

CORDELE, Ga. — Retiring Sen. Walter F. George predicts the world can enjoy a century of peace if the English-speaking peoples and their friends will strengthen and maintain their bonds of unity.

NEW YORK — Hundreds of Christmas shoppers in the Bronx scurried for cover Wednesday night during a running gun battle between police and an ex-convict gunman.

NEW YORK — Sportsman William Woodward Jr., fatally shot by his wife last year in the belief he was a prowler, left a gross estate of $12,876,877. It was revealed in surrogate's court.

LONDON — Egypt accused France today of "deporting" 156 Egyptian officers and men and called off a scheduled exchange of prisoners of war with the Anglo-French command.

Santa Will Arrive Via Fire Truck For Kiddies' Party

LONGWOOD — Longwood's Annual Children's Christmas Party will be held tonight in Sunnyside Park at 6:30 p. m. All youngsters to twelve years of age may participate in the event.

Santa Claus is scheduled to arrive via the town's Fire Truck at 7:30 p. m. when he will present each guest from the babies to the 12 year olds with a gift.

There will also be other "goodies" for those attending as well as entertainment and caroling.

The years event was planned under the supervision of Chairman Russell Grant, who was assisted by Mrs. B. R. Gray, Mrs. Claude Duncan, Mrs. Geneva Levent, Mrs. J. D. Carhart, Mrs. Ralph Hannon, Mrs. Cassie McLean and Mrs. Sarah Mobley. John Reams will be master of ceremonies for the evening.

The Christmas Party is financed by the Town of Longwood, Women's Civic League, Chamber of Commerce, Home Demonstration Club, Tourist Club, Volunteer Firemen, Longwood Baptist Church, Christ Church, Episcopal and the area merchants.

Subcommittees To Study Future Highway Plans

Completion Of 17-92 Nearing

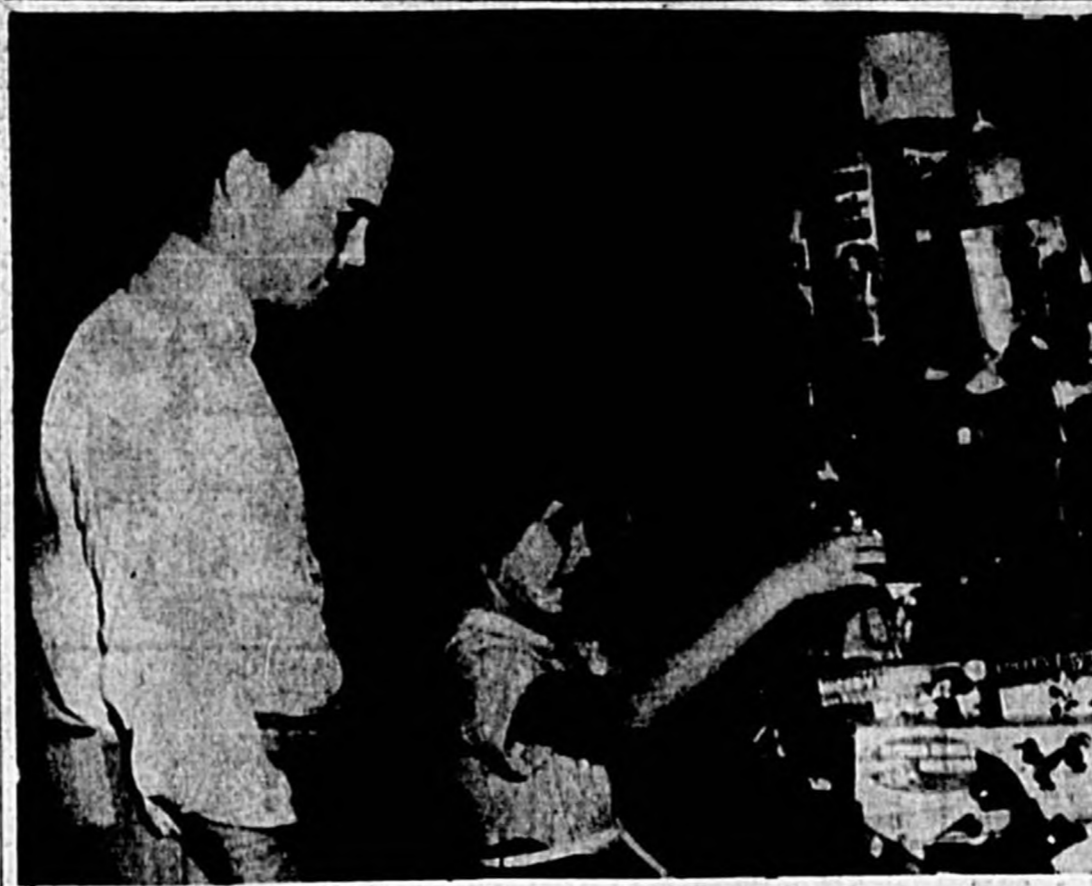

Nine subcommittees of the Long Range Highway Planning Committee were appointed last night by the committee's chairman, J. Bratley Odham, to look into the county's future highway plans.

The appointments were made following lengthy discussions on the present status of highway plans for the north section of highway 17-92 and for the east section of State Road 44.

District Engineer Hugh Hanna and G. Benedict sat in on the meeting.

Hanna told the more than twenty highway planning committee members that construction plans for the north section of 17-92 are nearing completion. "They need only inking," he said, "and by Jan. 8 they will be in Tallahassee for final approval."

It was also revealed that legal work, under preparation by State Road Department attorney's and title searchers has been completed and "deeds will be in Sanford tomorrow on ROW sections needed for the four-lane throughway."

Odham, speaking to the committee members said "There are a number of roads we can have if we ask for them—and if the county commission is a little more aggressive. We've got a lot that needs to be done."

Commenting on the attitude of Seminole County and Sanford people, relative to the highway problems, he said "A part of our trouble is that we give up before we start. We find more reasons to say NO than to find one reason to say YES."

"I want your imagination to run as far as it will go and in a month from now see what will happen," Odham said.

Young Mother To Be Reunited With Three Abandoned Children

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — A 23-year-old mother was freed from jail here today and given "the best Christmas gift I ever had," a trip to New York and a reunion with the three children she abandoned because she could not afford Christmas presents.

When Mrs. Irene Pierce was arrested for child abandonment she was broke and despondent. Today, she was dressed in a bright new winter outfit and had $33 given her by well-wishers who learned of her plight through news stories.

Major Hayden Burns lectured the tall brunette for doing a "bad thing" in abandoning her three children in New York's Grand Central Terminal last Friday. Then he told her police charges were being dropped and that her case was being turned over to the New York City welfare department.

"I talked to the mayor of New York and you must understand we don't think what you did was right," Burns said. "You did a bad thing, but you are living in a country where everyone is important, no matter who she may be, and we think you need help the welfare people have to offer more than any kind of police correction."

Tears filled the eyes of the young mother.

"I don't know what to say," she stammered. "I just want to be a good mom to my children. This is the best Christmas gift I ever had."

Jaycees Help Kiddies Select Christmas Gifts

Children, numbering a baker's dozen, from the St. Luke's Children's Home in Slavia, were guests of the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday for an annual "Shopping Tour."

Jaycees, with funds provided from the sale of balloons during the annual Christmas Parade, presented each child with five dollars.

Children spent their money as others whom they had named on their lists.

The boys and girls ranged from ages four through 16.

On arrival in Sanford shortly after noon yesterday, they were treated first to a movie at the Ritz Theatre through the courtesy of Kim Kimbrough.

Welfare Board Again Seeks Lien Recovery Law

TALLAHASSEE — The State Welfare Board will try again at the next Legislature to get a law passed authorizing the state to get back part of the money it spends on welfare from the property and estates of welfare recipients when they die.

Welfare Chairman Charles Andrews of Orlando Wednesday presented the Budget Commission with requests for increased appropriations of some 11 million dollars during the coming biennium. But he said lien and recovery laws would bring in an additional 3 to 4 million a year to the state.

The welfare board fought unsuccessfully in the 1935 Legislature for a lien and recovery law.

Premier Mollet Implies Resignation

PARIS — Premier Guy Mollet implied before the French National Assembly today that he would resign unless it approves the Franco-British action in invading Egypt.

Mollet did not ask for a formal vote of confidence in winding up a full-day foreign affairs debate. But the parliamentary language he used made his intention clear.

After reviewing his government's policies, Mollet said: "I will not pose the question of confidence. But if the assembly does not approve the Socialist motion approving his actions I will draw the necessary conclusions."

Board To Consider Six-Item Agenda At Special Meet

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners will meet tonight for a special called session to consider a six-item agenda.

Called by Mayor F. D. Scott, the commissioners will consider the possible financing of a sewage treatment plant, a bill for work on a city wrecker, regulations for the protection of railroad crossings inside the city limits, an appointment to the zoning and planning commission, the offer to the city of a piece of property for commercial or industrial site, and the General Sanford Memorial Library.

The meeting will be held in the City Commission Room of the City Hall, 115 E. 1st St., at 8 p. m.

Rattlesnake Killed Here Yesterday

A four foot ten inch rattlesnake which measured six inches around its body was killed early yesterday afternoon near the home of Isaac Warren on Sipes Ave.

The huge reptile was coiled and ready to strike at a chicken when Robert Warren, of the U. S. Marines at home on furlough killed it with a 22 rifle.

Age of the rattlesnake was determined from its 13 rattles and a button.

Weather

Partly cloudy and continued warm in central portions.

Christmas Lighting Contest Includes Five Categories

Entries in the Jaycee Christmas Lighting Contest are beginning to pour into the Jaycee information booth as Christmas Day draws nearer.

John Alexander, chairman of the Christmas Lighting Contest committee said yesterday that folks are beginning to "be aware of the contest and showing signs of sending entry blanks as soon as possible."

"We know that many of the outdoor, indoor, and door displays are not yet completed but the judges are making the rounds of Sanford each evening to determine the winner as quickly as possible after the contest closes," he said.

C. C. Welch, last year's winner of the commercial establishment trophy, entered the contest by sending an entry to the Jaycees Alexander was on hand to accept the entry. Others will soon follow, he said.

There are five categories, Alexander pointed out as he further explained the contest. One of them is an automatic entry when a blank is filled out for one of the other three residential groups. "We're going to judge the entries for an over all winner," said Alexander.

There are $25 U. S. Savings Bonds for the winners in the residential Christmas Lighting Contest with silver dollars for the runner-ups explained the committee chairman.

Winner of the commercial establishment entry will receive the traveling trophy.

HATU Uncovers Artistic Ability In Unit Member

By Ena Raymond J. Kennedy

The Heavy Attack Training Unit experienced a most unusual and beneficial event when the Chief of Naval Personnel approved Filipe V. Balbuena's request for a change in rating. This is considered unusual by this unit in that Balbuena changed from a Steward, second class to a Draftsman, second class. These ratings are dissimilar in the required skills demanded to be successful in each field.

This action was initiated when the need for a draftsman presented itself within this command's Training Aids Dept. When fulfillment of this need seemed remote it was discovered that Balbuena manifested a particularly high aptitude in the Fine Arts area. It was learned that in spite of a lack of formal art training he had long been interested in this field and was putting his talent to work in his favorite hobby, sketching and photo coloring. It was realized by the Heavy Attack Training Unit that Balbuena's talent should be channeled in such a manner as to prove a gain to both his service organization and Balbuena in terms of the satisfaction he would feel while doing a job which made demands upon his highest aptitude.

The Heavy Attack Training Unit is proud to claim this man as a member of their team, cause of the outstanding job he did in successfully preparing himself for a very difficult Draftsman examination. He exemplified the prevailing spirit of this unit through his initiative, determination to learn, and desire to improve his abilities so as to better serve the Naval Service. He put forth a maximum of effort in a situation which contributed toward the maintenance of the uninterrupted functional status of the Heavy Attack Training Unit's operations.

Kiwanians Enjoy Eventful Gathering

A guest, a visitor, a new member, newly elected officers, two Christmas presents, and a local entertainer, made news at the Sanford Kiwanis Club yesterday.

Frank Evans, chairman of the Seminole County Chapter, American Red Cross told the Kiwanis Club that "We have fallen behind in raising our quota for Hungarian Relief. We now have $150 toward a $415 quota," he said, "and as soon as that is raised we will discontinue our appeal for funds."

D. J. Scott, past vice president of Kiwanis International, of Altamonte Springs said "I have spent 40 years in Kiwanis and am proud to be a part of the organization."

John Krider, City Commissioner, County Commissioner-elect, Manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, and president of the Florida State League was installed as a new member of the local club. Lester Tharpe and Mack N. Cleveland Jr. were the installing officers.

Ed Santolucito, Sanford attorney, was named president of the singing of Christmas Carols.
