Fireworks Over Seminole: Sparks Fly At Hearing On Comprehensive Plan

SANFORD MAYOR LEE MOORE: 'Still waiting...' COMMISSION CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: 'Big bad wolf?'

Officials from Seminole's cities blasted county government's proposed comprehensive plan for future growth Tuesday night during a special public hearing in which representatives from civic organizations and other non-government entities praised the plan. The officials zeroed in on the plan's language, which some city officials contend gives the Seminole County Commission too much power. At the same time, civic organizations and other interested parties lauded the plan as a blueprint for "organized growth" in the future.

Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore led off by reminding commissioners of the first interlocal agreement between Sanford and Kimbrough Hills Orlando On Sewer Plant, Page 2A the county 15 years ago. Moore said officials thought it a "grand thing" that the city and county would split a $1,500 tab for installation of a stop light. Moore said Sanford officials still are waiting for the county to pay its share. Moore's introduction of a resolution in opposition to the plan was followed by comments from Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd. "We don't mind going fishing with the county, but we sure don't want to be the bait," Floyd reminded commissioners. Alex Dickson, Sierra Club representative, called the plan a "sound growth document."

No New Programs Planned Sanford Readies Budgets

Sanford city department heads will submit budget requests to City Manager W. E. Knowles by the end of this week, marking the beginning of the process of formulating a city budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. Knowles, who actually puts the budget together, says he anticipates no new programs in the coming fiscal year. After the city manager returns Monday from a week in Tallahassee at the state legislative session, he will initiate a series of meetings with department heads to review the budget request and develop an operating budget, along with a five-year capital improvements program. In July, Knowles will present a proposed budget to the city commission. Two months of workshops, hearings and a line-by-line review by the commission will follow. Final adoption of the budget will take place in September. City Finance Director Henry N. Tamm Jr. who will develop revenue estimates "within the next two weeks," said he does not know if the city's property assessment rate of 5.3 mills will have to be increased. The city this year collected $6.30 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation. The property tax, which raised $97,000 this year, is one of the city's major sources of revenue. The city's utility tax accounted for $695,000 in revenue this year. "Operating the city budget is like operating 22 businesses. The city's budget is composed of 22 separate funds, and each fund must be balanced every year," Tamm said.

Ethics Panel: Jo Ann Violated The Law. TALLHASSEE (AP) - The Florida Ethics Commission today unanimously ruled that JoAnn Saunders beaen in last November's general election by Rep. Richard Kelly, violated state election law by not filing her financial disclosure statement on time last year. The commission voted to refer the case to the Leon County state attorney for possible action.

Consolidation Fears Spur Plan Opponents

Consolidation fears spurred opponents of the county plan. This was reiterated time after time Tuesday as spokesmen after spokesmen in varying terminology. But there was no doubt about what was on their minds. For Commission Chairman Dick Williams it was like an exercise in masochism. There he was recognizing the speakers from the floor knowing the bombardment that was his message to the commissioners. Each time reference was made to the feared gobbling up by the county of some municipal functions or even property, many in the crowd applauded. Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd picked up where Chairman Williams left off in the world of tables. Williams on May 9, in effect chiding city officials for their fears relating to the comprehensive plan, accused some of them of using the "Chicken Little technique." "They have taken half-truths, made broad, sweeping, unrelated generalizations and are attempting to convince others of these false conclusions," Williams observed, referring specifically to the matter of countywide consolidation. Williams noted that a "foxy opportunist" led Chicken Little and her supporters to their consolidation. Right from the start, few would argue, this has emerged as the key stumbling block in his city by the county commission. "Here we go again," See PLAN, Page 2A

Analysis

Analysis of the consolidation plan. The evening began with usually mild-mannered Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore recounting and recalling past usurpations and attempts at usurpations at his city by the county commission. "Here we go again," See PLAN, Page 2A

BROKEN MAIN CUTS PRESSURE. Sanford utility workers repair water main which broke this morning at third Street and Sanford Avenue. Incident made it necessary for city utility officials to lower water pressure throughout Sanford's water system. Water pressure should be restored to normal by late this afternoon, according to City Engineer Mack LaZebny. Traffic on Sanford Avenue between 3rd and 4th streets is prohibited until city workers can fill the hole they dug to repair the pipe and repave part of Sanford Avenue. LaZebny said he did not know what had caused the break. "It's an older line, and older systems are subject to (breakages) periodically." Offices in the Seminole County courthouse are closed between 11:45 a.m. and 1 p.m. because the lowered water pressure rendered the courthouse's air conditioning and toilets inoperative.

Sirhan Sirhan Says He's Ready To Talk About Assassination

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Convicted assassin Sirhan Sirhan, who has maintained silence for eight years, now says he wants to talk about the killing of Sen. Robert Kennedy. Sirhan, serving a life sentence at Soledad Prison, sent word through his attorney Tuesday that he would like to meet with Los Angeles County Supervisors Baxter Ward and Kenneth Hahn. The invitation was relayed by attorney Godfrey Isaac as the supervisors opened public hearings in their investigation of unsolved aspects of the Sirhan case.

Carter May Speak To Citizens

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says he may try holding a nationally televised citizens' news conference because "it gives me a good sense of what is of concern to people." Carter held a session Tuesday with citizens of Los Angeles but the question-and-answer show was broadcast only to local audiences. Carter saw the show as a success rivaling that of his radio call-in program in February. Carter made a quick round trip to California on Tuesday, returning to the White House early today.

Copter Crash Prompts Checks

NEW YORK (AP) — Emergency inspections have been recommended for all Sikorsky S-61 helicopters after the landing gear on one of the craft collapsed, causing its rotor blades to kill five persons and injure eight others. The recommendation, made by the National Transportation Safety Board to the Federal Aviation Administration, was aimed at about 80 Sikorsky S-61 helicopters in operation around the world.

Gas Tax For Mass Transit?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee is considering a proposal that would allow money from President Carter's standby gasoline tax to be used for mass transit instead of being returned to Americans as rebates. The proposal was made Tuesday by Transportation Secretary Brock Adams, who said it may make the controversial tax more palatable to Congress. Under Carter's plan, taxes of up to 5 cents a gallon would be imposed in annual increments beginning in 1979 if gasoline consumption continues its rapid rise.

Belks Under Probe

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The U.S. Department of Justice has begun an investigation of allegations that the Belk department store group made illegal political contributions in 1973 and 1974, a Charlotte television station reported Tuesday. WBTV quoted unnamed sources as saying the probe was in the hands of top Justice Department officials who specialize in election fraud.

Political Door Opens To Labor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under pressure from organized labor, the House of Representatives is expected to give its approval to a bill that will allow nearly three million federal employees to take part in partisan politics.

FDA Sates Saccharin Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is opening hearings on its controversial decision to ban saccharin from diet foods and soft drinks. The FDA announced in March it will ban saccharin as an artificial sweetener in foods and drinks this July, but will allow it to be sold as an over-the-counter drug.

Shots Hit Estranged Wife's Residence Husband Held In Altamonte Shooting

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

An Altamonte Springs man was being held without bond in county jail at Sanford today following a midnight incident in which gunshots were fired into the residence of his estranged wife, sheriff's deputies reported.

Sgt. Luke A. Stallworth reported two shots were fired into the 112 Salsanna Dr., Spring Valley, residence of Cassandra Carrigan, 40, and a neighbor chased but lost a light-colored car that sped from the shooting scene.

Sheriff's reports said Wade D. Conley, 39, of Orlando was inside the residence with Mrs. Carrigan when the shots were fired into the dwelling.

Arrested a short time later at his Altamonte Springs residence was Robert Edward Carrigan, 47.

Carrigan was jailed on felony charges of aggravated assault, shooting into a dwelling, and two counts of attempted murder. No bond was set on the attempted murder charges. Bond on the other charges was set at $3,000, according to county jail records.

Sanford police arrested John Wesley Ross Jr., 33, of 1300 W. Seventh St., on charges of aggravated assault, use of a firearm in commission of a felony and possession of stolen property. Bond was set at $3,000.

Police reports indicated officers responded to a report of a man waving a pistol in a parking lot at Lake Monroe Terrace. Officers said they were told a man with a gun had threatened Rhonda Flagler, of apartment 51.

Police said a 38 caliber revolver recovered during the investigation reportedly had been stolen in New York City.

House Tax Package Similar To One Requested By Askew

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The tax package passed in the House bears a striking resemblance to Gov. Reubin Askew's proposal for a 25-per cent sales tax hike coupled with tax relief for businesses and electricity users.

The lower chamber voted 71-44 Tuesday to hike the sales tax from four to five cents on the dollar, raising about $300 million next year. But part of the deal is to kick back more than $80 million in tax relief, thus forcing the House to cut its budget to reduce its $332-million deficit.

It was the first formal action by either house for the sales tax increase Askew wants to pay for expanded state services, chiefly for public schools and roads. At the same time, the House formally rejected the Senate's lower spending bill and set the stage for a conference committee.

With expertise on roofing supplied to her by her husband, Douglas, a specialist in the field who represents a national firm, Mrs. Glenn has insisted that a 20-year roof bond or at least a 10-year bond is necessary to fully protect the city.

Mrs. Glenn also told colleagues in recent months that birds are fond of urethane roofs and have been known to fly into the safety complex, currently under construction, is being financed with $1.25 million in federal Economic Development Administration funds.

Workshop Scheduled For Thursday Roofing: Complex Concern In Altamonte

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

An anonymous letter and correspondence from an attorney-resident has prompted the Altamonte Springs City Commission to again discuss the propriety of its acceptance of urethane roofing and an accompanying three-year warranty for the roof on the city's planned new public safety complex.

The city commission Tuesday evening agreed to discuss the matter in workshop beginning at 8:30 a.m. Thursday, after receiving a letter from attorney Michael Jones. But, the majority of the commission indicated the workshop will result only in a reshuffle of the pros and cons and that no change in decision should be expected.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn, has been the only member of the board to protest the General Electric urethane-type roofing and to criticize the three-year warranty.

With expertise on roofing supplied to her by her husband, Douglas, a specialist in the field who represents a national firm, Mrs. Glenn has insisted that a 20-year roof bond or at least a 10-year bond is necessary to fully protect the city.

ROVERS Study Quasars

GAINESVILLE (AP) — The University of Florida Rovers gaze far out in space through sleepless nights in an attempt to help this energy-hungry world solve its major current problem.

The Rovers are a group of research professors and graduate students studying a phenomenon of the heavens known as quasars, for quasi-stellar radio source.

Rovers is an acronym for Regular Observers of Variable Extragalactic Radio Sources.

The UF group mans the university's 30-inch telescope, tucked away in an observator on Rosemary Hill about 30 miles southwest of Gainesville.

Rosemary Hill stands 150 feet above sea level. It is, as Dr. Alex Smith, leader of the Rovers, likes to joke, "the closest we could find to a Florida mountain."

Auto Inspection Bill Clears

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A bill requiring auto inspection stations to adjust headlights rather than flunk the vehicle has cleared its final Senate committee hurdle.

The Senate Transportation Committee voted 6-1 Tuesday for the measure to change auto inspections laws by eliminating several checks, such as requiring proof of insurance. One member says the changes will shave several minutes off the inspection time.

The bill now heads for a showdown on the Senate floor where opponents seeking to junk the entire program say they believe they still have the necessary votes.

Social Security: 'Rest In Peace'

Years of congressional tinkering with Social Security pretty well drove it into the ground as an "insurance" or "pension" system. The administration's plan to start shoring it up with general tax revenues would plant a headstone over the grave.

Social Security checks no doubt will continue to await Americans in their retirement or as a benefit for disability, but the principle that we earn them as contributors to an insurance plan is now fully exposed as an illusion.

This is not the only epochal change which Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano Jr., outlined recently on behalf of the absent President Carter. While heretofore employees and their employers have shared the Social Security payroll tax equally, it would not become a burden falling more heavily on employers.

Under the plan, workers would pay the 6.05 per cent Social Security tax on earnings up to $19,500 by 1979. That ceiling would continue to stand on what the worker pays. But there would be no ceiling on the employer's contribution. The 6.05 per cent tax would be applied across the board to all wages and salaries. The result would be an additional $30 billion in the tax burden on American business and industry over the next five years.

Mr. Califano says "there's plenty of money on the corporate side" to bear this new burden. This may be news not only to corporate treasurers but to members of Congress who are in the process of enacting tax incentives to business to encourage them to hire new employees. What's the point of that kind of "stimulus" for business firms when the government will be making it more expensive to hang on to the employees they already have?

Further, personal and corporate income taxes are going to be burdened with the $14.1 billion in revenue which the administration may have to take from the general fund over the next five years to keep Social Security from running out of money. We are now getting a glimpse of what it is going to cost to keep feeding the Social Security system that began with such modest ambitions some 40 years ago. We doubt if there were any cheers in Congress when Mr. Carter's plan to rescue the system was delivered. The cheers are reserved for those moments when the eligibility for Social Security is broadened or the promise of future benefits is sweetened. There have been many of those occasions over the years.

What the administration is proposing is a whopping tax increase. We can't say much for the equities of the plan, clinging as we do to the hope that Social Security might survive as something other than a government dole. But if Mr. Carter accomplishes nothing else he will have jarred Congress into confronting the piper waiting to be paid.

The demands of reality justify the dropping of American opposition to admission of Vietnam to the United Nations. And tentative steps to "normalize" relations between the United States and Communist Vietnam certain trade advantages to this country, not the least of which is possible offshore oil exploration rights for U.S. companies. But if the contemplated exchange of ambassadors with our recent adversary is linked to Hanoi's expectations of U.S. financial assistance, "normalcy" remains remote.

The Communist claim to aid stems from cease-fire agreements negotiated in Paris by former White House aide Henry Kissinger in 1973. The forced occupation of South Vietnam by the Communists in 1975, however, and the subsequent unification of the country under the Red banner give the claim questionable validity.

Congress has been adamant, and rightly so, in rejecting aid to Communists in Vietnam — or anywhere else. If the price of that adamancy is a delay in diplomatic exchanges, there can be no compromise. There is nothing "normal" in international blackmail.

Washington — The adviser who did the most to help Jimmy Carter develop his presidential style, insiders agree, is his personal pollster. Long-haired, 26-year-old Patrick Caddell calls at the White House a couple times a month and counsels Carter on public relations.

It was Caddell, for instance, who suggested that the president build an image as a man of the people by using fire-side chats, town meetings and such symbolic gestures as cutting back on government limousines. One White House cynic summed up Caddell's advice to Carter in these words: "When in doubt, smile!"

While Caddell has been helping Carter scale the political peaks, the pollster has chiseled out a piece of the rock for himself. He sells his services to federal clients for around $1 million a year; his association with the president hasn't hurt business. "Carter sees tough conflict-of-interest laws applying to everyone but Caddell," grumped one administration official.

Five days after Carter won the New Hampshire primary, the Saudi Arabian government signed on with Caddell. Carter conceded that Caddell had advised him on Middle East policy but said he didn't see anything improper about Caddell's Saudi connection.

Caddell told us he had merely provided the Saudis with some research. "It was pretty innocuous stuff," he said. He would never accept a political assignment from a foreign government nor help another government influence U.S.

policy, he said. In any case, the Saudis no longer subscribe to his service.

Westinghouse also retained Caddell last year to help the company cope with the anti-nuclear referendum in California. Caddell estimated that a national, pro-nuclear campaign would cost about $10 million. "Just as the anti-nuclear forces have sold fear," he advised Westinghouse.

"The industry needs to find a lever with equal emotional intensity — massive unemployment, no power, poorer living standards, runaway costs and foreign dominance."

"People buy objective research from us," Caddell told our associate Howie Kurtz. "We haven't been marketing our White House relationship or saying, 'Hire us because we work for Jimmy Carter.'"

Yet Caddell's corporate clients are aware of his Carter connection, which has become a factor in his growing prosperity. For example, two giant oil companies, Arco and Exxon, quietly subscribed to his service last year. The great banking house, Citicorp, signed on after the election. One of his latest clients is Bell's department store chain.

Such corporate giants as Sears, Roebuck, Aetna Life and Casualty, Federated Stores, First Bank System of Minneapolis and United Banks of Colorado also subscribe to Caddell's $20,000-a-year quarterly opinion poll.

The president's pollster stressed that he goes

State Sen. Lori Wilson (I-Cocoa Beach) has been successful in getting a bill endorsing her latest crusade — the banning of pay toilets in public places — through the upper house's governmental operations committee.

Miss Wilson in 1974 sponsored a bill ordering the removal of locks from pay toilets in public places that were determined to be necessary facilities by the state Division of Public Health. Testifying on behalf of her new bill, Sen. Wilson pointed out that no pay urinals exist in men's public rest rooms. The pay toilets in women's rest rooms are, she said, "discrimination in its most basic form."

"Women in the lower economic scale with lots of children (boys and girls) will be in line for the free toilets while the men get a free shot," she said. "Pay toilets are a barbaric practice plaguing mostly the poor and women and children and must be outlawed. If God had meant us to have pay toilets, we would have been born with exact change," the senator said.

Another of Sen. Wilson's positions, this time the differences in the laws concerning men and women's chastity is being endorsed by her latest crusade — the banning of pay toilets in public places — through the upper house's governmental operations committee.

Senator Wilson's remarks on the chastity issue were to the effect that men's chastity is as important as women's and no difference should be cited under the law.

Crow notes that under the libel statute currently, Chapter 336.04, a penalty of one year's imprisonment or $500 fine can be levied against any person who "falsely and maliciously imputes to her (a woman) a want of chastity."

Casselberry City Attorney Kenneth McIntosh will be busy in the next few weeks attending graduation ceremonies. Last weekend, he attended the graduation from Stetson University of his oldest son, Robert, 21.

The second McIntosh son, Dan, 18, is graduating from Seminole High and his youngest son, Mark, 15, will be graduating from Croombs. Dan is talking about law school in the future and plans to attend Duke University. Mark is considering medicine as a career.

No graduation just yet for the only McIntosh daughter, Martha, a student at Lakeview Middle School.

Casselberry's freshman councilman, Frank Schutte, by virtue of his having been elected vice chairman of the city council back in January, was acting mayor of the city last week.

Mayor Gerald Christensen and City Council Chairman Nathan Van Meter were both out of town, so Schutte became for the brief period the acting chief executive.

Although he stayed faithfully near a telephone and available no calls came for him to make an executive decision. Maybe next time, Frank.

The fact that more activity is being generated locally in the real estate market is attested to by the figures for the week which ended May 6. The record property changed hands in Seminole County, compared with the same period one year ago of $3,868,066. The activity was up 66 per cent.

With nearly half the votes in, the state television network predicted the Likud will win 41 of the 120 seats in the Knesset, Israel's parliament, to 33 for Labor, 14 for the new Democratic Movement for Change and 12 for the National Religious party.

Begin, 63, who commanded the Irgun Zva'i Leumi terrorists during the struggle to establish Israel, told jubilant campaign workers he expected to form a new government "with all Zionist parties" and pledged to open peace talks with the Arabs.

Geneva, Switzerland (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko begin three days of talks today on the nuclear arms deadlock and efforts for Arab-Israeli peace. Vance, arriving this morning from London, declined to predict whether his meeting with Gromyko would result in progress toward SALT 2, the second agreement between the superpowers to limit their nuclear arsenals.

Washington — During his campaign for the Presidency, Jimmy Carter criticized the previous administration for recommending insufficient funding for this country's international radio stations: the Voice of America, Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty.

Noting that for several years these freedom radios have been the primary source of unencensored information for millions of Eastern Europeans and Soviet citizens, Mr. Carter rapped President Ford and Henry Kissinger for failing to "appreciate the importance of an open foreign policy and a free flow of information and ideas through mass communications."

Candidate Carter singled out what he called "a more insidious problem," namely Kissinger's preference to "deal privately with the Soviets, while they have launched a massive diplomatic attack on the radios, demanding that they be shut down."

Now that he's president, Mr. Carter has moved to increase the output of our three freedom radios and for this he deserves high praise.

In a message to Congress, the president has recommended spending an additional $45 million over the next three to five years to build 8 more transmitters so the VOA, RFE and RL can expand their broadcasts, primarily to the peoples of Eastern Europe and the U.S.S.R., as well as people in the Western Pacific and Eastern Africa.

An indication of the effectiveness of these three radios is the hysterical vehemence with which the Soviet government has attacked them. Moscow has excoriated RFE and RL as being run by "staff members of the CIA, former agents of the Gestapo and Hitler's intelligence service, various kinds of renegades and traitors to their country."

The Soviet news agency TASS quotes the Soviet Foreign Ministry as complaining to the U.S. embassy in Moscow that RFE and RL "are spreading slanderous fabrications about the domestic and foreign policy of the U.S.S.R., attempting to sow national strife and hostility, and engaging in frankly inciting activity."

President Carter's plan to increase the station's broadcasting clout "plays only into the hands of the opponents of detente, making it necessary to take retaliatory measures," said TASS.

A spokesman for the Board for International Broadcasting, which directs RFE and RL, says: "We don't know what they intend to do that they're not already doing, such as jamming — which is a violation of the Helsinki accords and other international agreements."

Fortunately, President Carter has not been intimidated by all this claptrap. As he has observed, if detente with the Soviets and its captive nations in Eastern Europe is to have any real meaning, then the United States must work toward a free flow of uncensored ideas and information.

There's no way to determine whether Caddell's business has increased because he is close to Carter or because he's a good pollster. "There's no requirement that you can't get new clients just because you happened to work for someone who wins a presidential election," added the spokesman.

Right-Wing Winner

Eyes Top Israel Post

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Right-wing leader Menahem Begin filed a claim today to become Israel's next prime minister as mounting returns from Tuesday's general election indicated a smashing defeat for the Labor party that has headed the government for all of Israel's 29 years as a nation.

Saudi and Kuwaiti government radios said the victory by Begin's hardline Likud Bloc was a setback for President Carter's peacemaking efforts. Syrian radio said it "will push the Middle East close to a new war."

With nearly half the votes in, the state television network predicted the Likud will win 41 of the 120 seats in the Knesset, Israel's parliament, to 33 for Labor, 14 for the new Democratic Movement for Change and 12 for the National Religious party.

Score House Demos

Fecht, Hattaway Nixed Sales Tax Hike

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County's two delegates to the Florida House of Representatives, Bob Hattaway (D-Altamonte Springs) and Vince Fecht (R-Leesburg) — voted against the one-cent sales tax increase and blasted the House Democratic leadership in the process.

Speaking by telephone from Tallahassee today, Hattaway was the speaker of the House refused to recognize him to permit an amendment to the sales-tax increase that would have specifically earmarked the resulting revenues.

Fecht said a coalition of lobbyists working with the Democratic leadership pushed through the tax hike. He said rules set down by the leadership left no parliamentary way for and to look at those areas where adjustments and the closing of loopholes to balance out inequities could be brought about.

"We were placed in a posture by the leadership of being permitted to consider only amending the sales tax law and could not go to other areas like fixed-unit taxes — cigarettes, alcohol and phosphates — and that is unfortunate," he said.

Fecht said the one-cent additional tax will cost Florida families $35 per year.

And, for the fourth time in his five years in the House, Fecht voted against the bill supported by conservatives which would have permitted the one-cent increase but would have earmarked the $50 million anticipated revenues.

Under the Hattaway amendment, the state Department of Transportation would have received $97.6 million for the 77-78 year; the Department of Education $100 million; property tax relief $100 million and $63 million for a working capital fund.

He added that one man hired by the state last year to collect previously uncollected state taxes brought into state coffers $918,000. "Money spent auditing sales tax returns, brought in $7 for every $1 spent."

Fecht said the House appropriations bill, as passed and sent to conference committee with the Senate, includes an "excessive" level of expenditures" with $33 million in excess of anticipated revenues.

"The only way government can be limited in what it spends and waste cut out is to cut the tax revenues. Enough money could never be found to fund what government says it needs, what the executive department wants plus include the 'turkey' legislators want," he said.

He pointed out the $38,000 per man spent on prison facilities recently as an example of waste near Sanford-Central Florida Airport.

But birds that congregated near the airport made it necessary for city officials to shut down the landfill, and the city is now using the county's facilities at a cost of $5,000 a month.

Fecht's favored approach at budgeting, "zero-based budgeting," was not attempted this year, he said, because subcommittees simply didn't have time.

Fecht said the policy in Florida for years has been that when a "short fall" (taxes are less than anticipated) occurs, more taxes are laid on. But when a surplus is seen taxes are not reduced.

The city's utility department budget, supported by water and sewer charges, was $1,029,000 this year.

Tamm would not comment on the possibility that refuse rates may be increased in the next fiscal year. Last year it cost the city about $20,000 to operate its own sanitary landfill operation electric power.

Joan Joyce's No. 1 Problem: Keeping Catchers

NEW YORK (AP) — There are those who forego the pleasure of working with high-voltage electrical wires, joining the police force in a high-rise area or wrestling an alligator. Some prefer catching 118-mile-an-hour fastballs thrown by Joan Joyce.

"I lost two catchers last season," said the 36-year-old pitcher for the Connecticut Falcones professional women's softball team. "I lost them both because of the drop."

The drop is one of six pitches in a repertoire that has been developed in 23 seasons of softball pitching. The others are the rise, the curve, the knuckleball, and the screwball, which would produce gray hairs for a catcher even if they weren't thrown with such serve-and-bat-shattering velocity.

But she can throw a drop pitch that rolls right off the edge of the table, so to speak. "If I were a catcher," she says, "I wouldn't call it."

One victim she recalled, had a finger fractured so badly in catching it that screws had to be surgically placed to help the bones heal. A drop bounced off another catcher's foot, causing another fracture.

To go with her variety of pitches, Miss Joyce sports a lifetime batting average of .325 and adds that "in fast-pitch softball, if you hit .270, you're a good hitter." They have to be good to hit Miss Joyce, who compiled a 39-2 record with 404 strikeouts and an earned run average of 0.13 in last year's championship season.

Miss Joyce is also good in basketball, bowling and golf. She tried joining the Ladies Pro Golf Association tour but didn't qualify last year. She will try again this year.

"It takes coordination to hit a softball," she says. "A golf ball is just sitting there, but since it is much smaller, it goes much further when you hit it, the margin of error is much greater."

As soon as I was old enough to hold a ball, that's when I started," she recalled during a luncheon at which she was named second runner up to gold medal winner Sheila Dorothy Hamill and Sheila Young as the All-time of the Year by Women-Sports Magazine.

Dubose No-Hitter Paces Chase, 9-0

Chase's Dean Dubose fired a no-hitter and belted a home run to defeat Seminole State, 9-0, in the National Division of Sanford's Florida Little Major League Tuesday.

Dubose struck out the side four times in six innings, fanning an amazing total of 16. Dubose belted a homer in the sixth inning driving in three runs. Alan Davis also had a homer to his credit, a solo blast in the third.

In other games in the National Division of the League Jack Prosser Ford whipped First Federal, 13-3, and the Railroaders scored a 18-3 victory over Seminole Sporting Goods.

Prosser Ford was led by Greg Parker who had three of the team's six hits. Ted Jones went all the way for Prosser allowing just two hits and three runs while striking out seven.

George Winegard and Steven Boyd had the lone hits for First Federal.

Two hits each by Terry Russi and Harold Gaines help to give the Railroaders a 10-run decision over Seminole Sporting Goods.

Tommy Vaezoin, Rodney Carlex, Eric Freddie and Peter Calangelo all had one hit apiece for the losers.

Handwriting on Ali's Wall?

If heavyweight historian Muhammad Ali peaks at the records of former champions in the big-muscle division, he'll see the handwriting on the wall: In the last 25 years, every heavyweight champ — except Rocky Marciano — has ultimately been separated from his title by a knockout.

The public likes its sports heroes to wave farewell from the shoulders of their supporters. Retire on top, the public urges. But the opposite picture has been the case in heavyweight boxing, where the crown has been passed on to the next in line with the champ flat on his back.

Based on his dismal dance marathon with unsmiling Alfredo Evangelista Monday night, the 35-year-old Ali seems destined to end his boxing career looking back and looking up.

Call it the heavyweight championship's "knockout wish."

"I know it's hard to quit, especially when you're making millions of dollars," says Joe Louis, who retired as heavyweight champion in 1949.

Louis also was a fighter who didn't know when to quit. Best of his family troubles, Louis returned to the ring in 1950, at the age of 36, to fight champion Ezzard Charles. Louis lost a 15-round decision, then continued boxing through 1951, losing by a knockout to rising heavyweight Rocky Marciano.

Charles lost the heavyweight crown to Jersey Joe Walcott by a knockout in 1951. A year later, Marciano defeated Walcott for the title. Marciano went on to retire undefeated in 1956 after six successful defenses, including another knock-out of Walcott and a decision and an eight-round knockout of Charles.

Floyd Patterson inherited the vacant title, but took it on the chin against Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in 1959. Patterson returned the favor a year later, sending the Swede to the canvas to regain the title.

Sonny Liston made short work of Patterson, recording a pair of first-round knockouts, only to later lose twice to Cassius Clay — now Muhammad Ali — the second time in one round at Lewiston, Maine.

All himself was decked by his decision not to serve in the army. His title was taken from him in 1967. In the resulting scramble for the title, Joe Frazier rose to the top until he was KO'd by George Foreman in two rounds in Jamaica in 1973.

Meanwhile, Ali, vindicated by a shift in the political climate, returned to the ring, building his reputation by beating people like Frazier in seven rounds in 1971. Patterson, 36 at the time, finally retired. Ali was 29.

All regained his lost crown in 1974 when he wore Foreman to the ground in the eighth round in their classic confrontation in Zaire, Africa. Since then, Ali stopped Frazier, who contemplated retirement. But he didn't hang his gloves up until his next fight, a fifth-round knockout at the hands of Foreman.

Frazier fought at least one fight too many, which seems to be what Ali is doing right now.

But if Ali doesn't retire and meets someone like Ken Norton, the ending will be a sad one for his millions of fans.

And the heavyweight championship will get another "knockout wish" fulfilled.

Altamonte Colts Win

Altamonte Springs scored a 3-2 victory over American Wood Products in the Colk Division of the Seminole Pony Baseball League.

Rob File and Jim Fry each had two hits for Altamonte with Brent Champlain, Dean Firth and Otto Cleveland added one hit each for the winners.

Tommy Vaezoin, Rodney Carlex, Eric Freddie and Peter Calangelo all had one hit apiece for the losers.

Prosser Ford was led by Greg Parker who had three of the team's six hits. Ted Jones went all the way for Prosser allowing just two hits and three runs while striking out seven.

George Winegard and Steven Boyd had the lone hits for First Federal.

Fish Finders Major Aid For Fishermen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — What has knobs, electricity, paper and takes pictures of the fish you are trying to catch?

If you guessed anything other than a fish finder you blew it. Fish finders are super-sophisticated electronic gizmos that take pictures of the bottom of a body of water by means of a beam of light reflected at various depths.

Other present a permanent record of the bottom by means of a graph, drawn on paper by a pencil in a manner similar to that of an electrocardiogram.

Both types show both the actual bottom of say, a lake, and other kinds of structure beneath the surface, and, here's the money part for the fisherman, swimming fish.

When the fisherman knows the depth of the water at any given spot, and say that depth is 35 feet, and something shows on the finder at a depth of perhaps 14 feet, something new has been added. The fisherman who knows how to use his finder figures it's fish.

In Minnesota, a state senate committee killed, at least for the time being, a bill that would have banned the use of the graph-type finders.

But File and Jim Fry each had two hits for Altamonte with Brent Champlain, Dean Firth and Otto Cleveland added one hit each for the winners.

Wilson-Maier Gals Triumph

Wilson-Maier banged out 14 hits to score 18 runs and trounced Hamp's Angels in the Sanford Women's Softball League Tuesday.

Debbie Anderson, Judy Carlton and Carol Ann Pickles each had two hits for the winners. Dena Flamm had a game high three hits also for Wilson.

Anna Nelson only had one hit for Wilson but it was a solo homer in the third.

Patricia Burke, Jonnie Bennet and Pam Bryant each had a pair of hits for Hamp.

In the only other game in the league Shoemaker ripped Auto-Train 15-2.

Rue Nooney slapped out three singles driving in two runs for Shoemaker. Beth Shoemaker added two hits for the winners.

Jackie Jackson, Dorothy Bryant had two hits each for a free throw for the final point.

76ers Wrap It Up, 112-109

HOUSTON (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers aren't allowing a controversial call at the end of their 112-109 victory over Houston Tuesday night to detract from their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference championship.

"Our team should be proud of itself," forward George McGinnis said after the 76ers won the best-of-seven series 4-2.

"We've taken a lot of heat this year and some of it was deserved."

"But when this season started, there were 22 teams playing and now there are only two."

Those two are Portland, the Western Conference champion, and the 76ers. They start the best-of-seven championship series Sunday at Philadelphia.

Houston, which came from 17 points back to win the fifth game in Philadelphia, almost made another stirring comeback Tuesday night after falling behind 104-97 with 5:27 to play.

The Rockets rallied to take the lead twice and apparently had tied the game 111-111 on John Lucas' driving layup with five seconds left. But Lucas was called for charging into Doug Collins by official Jake O'Donnell and the basket was nullified.

Houston's bench erupted, and a capacity crowd of 15,676 threw coins on the floor, but it did no good. Philadelphia kept its two-point lead and then, with three seconds left, Steve Mills hit a free throw for the final point.

Lucas and Newlin. Henry Bibby put Philadelphia ahead to stay with a basket with 37 seconds to play and a free throw on the eighth seconds to go.

Erving led all scorers with 34 points while Collins had 27 and Dawkins 20, including 15 in Philadelphia's third quarter surge. Lucas led Houston with 24 points. Kevin Kunnert had 21 points, Calvin Murphy 20 and their final lead, 109-108 on bases.

Will Florida's House Speaker End Up Like Carswell?

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — There's an eerie echo of the past in the recent speculation that the House Speaker Donald Tucker's Civil Aeronautics Board nomination could run into U.S. Senate opposition.

Such talk recalls the last time that a prominent Tallahassee politician was nominated for a high federal office.

The year was 1970 and the nominee was former federal Judge G. Harold Carswell. There are people in Tallahassee who still haven't forgiven the U.S. Senate for rejecting Carswell's nomination to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lawsuit Naming Sanford Officers Asks $500,000

The owner of a family portrait sales plan based in New Jersey has amended a federal civil rights lawsuit to include Sanford Police Chief Ben Butler, his brother, Cecil Butler and Police Lt. Richard Nooney as defendants.

The four-count lawsuit seeks more than $500,000 in damages and a jury trial, charging violation of civil and constitutional rights, negligence, malicious prosecution and false imprisonment. No trial date has been set in Federal District Court, Orlando, in the civil action.

James D. Sullivan, of Ocala City, N.J., and Fayetteville, N.C., claims his "Baby History Plan" portrait sales operation lost the services of two agents as the result of a March 1974 arrest of a sales agent by Sanford police patrolman Richard Bennett on a charge of having an improper driver's license.

Bennett and the City of Sanford were originally named as defendants in the lawsuit. The action was amended last month to include Chief Butler, his brother, Cecil, who was a jailer at the time of the arrest, and Lt. Nooney as defendants.

Sullivan claims his company agent Susan Burnside was driving a car with a Florida tag when she was arrested by Bennett because she had a New York driver's license and jailed when she and another sales agent, John Hall, didn't have money to post a $5 bond for Miss Burnside.

The lawsuit claims Bennett and Nooney threatened to arrest Hall if he didn't keep "his mouth shut" and that Sullivan tried to get Miss Burnside released from jail telling police by telephone that his agent was engaged in an interstate commerce business and that the state law under which she was charged didn't apply.

Sullivan alleges he told Bennett by telephone that he had gotten a Florida State Atty. General's ruling in 1956 resolving the same question in connection with the arrest of another agent in Lee County "and that the ruling was in favor of (Sullivan's) sales operations in interstate commerce."

The lawsuit alleges Bennett and Nooney "willfully, wantonly and recklessly declared said information" was a federal jailer Cecil Butler to put Miss Burnside behind bars. The civil action alleges that this was in accord with alleged policy of Chief Butler and that it deprived Miss Burnside of her constitutional rights.

On June 3, 1974, after three trial delays in County Court, the state attorney's office dropped the charge against Miss Burnside and "refused to prosecute the case," according to the lawsuit complaint.

Sullivan claims there was a "conspiracy" by the defendants to "procure revenue from him to 'ransom' his agent and that she had an emotional breakdown and later quit her job that was providing $10,000-a-year revenue to the portrait sales firm.

Sullivan also claims the Sanford police actions "let fright in the mind" of Hall and that he quit.

Sullivan says he sent police a telegram the night of Miss Burnside's arrest in Sanford telling them she was engaged in an interstate commerce operation and that the lawsuit would be filed if she wasn't released.

The lawsuit also claims Bennett arrested Miss Burnside, who has refused to be a plaintiff in the federal court suit, without giving her her constitutional rights and that Bennett was negligent in permitting her to drive to the auto to police headquarters, using the New York driver's license, after her arrest for not having a Florida driver's license.

The lawsuit claims Chief Butler sets the incarceration policy and that it is against the "public interest, unnecessary and unreasonable." Sullivan claims Cecil Butler "knew it was unnecessary to incarcerate Miss Burnside, but pursued a willful and negligent attitude that his superiors were correct" and abused the rights of the agent and caused damage to the sales firm as a direct result.

'Police Story' Ends In Death

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Call it a police story, or maybe a love story. It was both.

It started with courtship and ended with two young police detectives — husband and wife — lying dead on a downtown sidewalk, victims of a murder-squad.

Police officials said the stresses that led to the tragedy are common.

Detective Claude Downs joined the Louisville Police Department in 1973. The next year, his future wife, Gwen, joined the force. They fell in love and were married. Happily married, neighbors said.

Downs, 31, became an undercover "cover" agent, working mostly during the day. His wife, 25, assigned to the sex squad in the criminal investigation division, worked at night most of the time. They didn't see each other very much.

But they met at a downtown restaurant Monday night, apparently to talk about their recent separation. Both were in street clothes. Downs was off duty, his wife was working.

They started arguing, witnesses said, and Downs pulled his service revolver. He shot his wife in the chest and once in the head, then fired a bullet

House sources say it's a lead-pipe cinch that the president will announce the nomination soon.

Tucker has been a controversial figure in Florida politics, and the imminence of his nomination to high federal office was enough to set tongues wagging.

The St. Petersburg Times and Miami Herald Washington bureaus have reported on opposition to Tucker, among some White House aides and in the Senate, which must confirm the nomination.

It was the press that did Carswell in, but under different circumstances. Reporters for a Jacksonville television station dug up a speech in which Carswell, as a legislative candidate in 1948 in rural Georgia, endorsed white supremacy.

The old speech was widely reported in the nation's newspapers and on television. It, and charges that Carswell was a mediocre judge, led to his rejection by the Senate.

The fact that Carswell was nominated by former President Nixon and the Democratic-controlled Congress had already tasted blood in rejecting Nixon's previous nomination of Clement Haynsworth didn't help the Tallahasseean.

Tucker's nomination will fall into an entirely different political situation. He is an early supporter and close friend of a president who is enjoying basically good relations with Congress.

The Florida power structure, including Sens. Lawton Chiles and Richard Stone, both Democrats, is Tucker's corner.

The press has taken repeated shots at Tucker, focusing on alleged conflicts of interest, but has yet to make one stick. In fact, Tucker was cleared of any wrongdoing by a federal grand jury that investigated his $200,000 loan from a Miami bank shortly before the House approved a branch banking bill. Chiles said he expects Tucker's nomination to sail through the Senate, unless an FBI investigation — standard for federal nominees — turns up some gross misconduct.

So Tucker's confirmation seems assured. Any trouble, however, would add to the belief by some folks that there's a conspiracy against Florida's capital in the nation's capital.

It's customary to address politicians by the title of the current, last or highest office they have held, whichever is appropriate. But when one has held as many different offices as insurance Commissioner Bill

Gunter, things get confusing. Gunter has run for office seven times in the last 16 years and he is now apparently gearing up to run for governor next year.

He has been a state senator, congressman, unsuccessful U.S. Senate candidate and insurance commissioner — all within the last six years.

Some of Gunter's former colleagues in the state Senate still refer to him as "senator." They obviously reason that it's the highest and best title a politician can have.

One reporter, meanwhile, wasn't sure where to begin at a recent Gunter news conference. "Congressman, ex-commissioner..." said the newsman.

"Governor," interjected another reporter. It would appear that legislative aides have better things to do, but some lawmakers seem to regard their assistants primarily as "go-fers."

A go-fer is someone who fetches things for his or her boss. At least three aides attend a House Commerce Committee meeting this week, and all the did was fetch coffee for the boss and other lawmakers.

Wouldn't it be better to have single designated go-fer who could attend to everyone an allow the other aides to go about their business?

The elderly particularly, seem to be the most vulnerable prospects for the hustlers. Authorities say that's because elderly people often can be easily disoriented and confused when broiled in the scheme. Unfortunately, often to a disastrous end.

Take the 88-year-old woman who lives just west of Sanford, for example, who only a few weeks ago was conned into withdrawing her life savings — $5,000 — from a Sanford bank and list it to a couple of fast-talking female con artists.

The hustlers managed to also talk the woman into giving them another $1,670 in cash she had kept at home. Then they dropped her at a shopping center parking lot and took off.

Needless to say, they never returned and the woman was out every red cent she probably worked her life to save. So shaken by the experience was the woman, police had to take her to the hospital as a precaution.

Tragic, you say. Indeed, so common it is that. So effective are these hustlers in convincing their victims the scheme is foolproof and that they stand to benefit from the game, often is difficult for someone to help them save their money.

Con Games Can Even Happen To Seminole Countians

By TOM GIORDANO
Herald Staff Writer

Each year hundreds of unsuspecting people give away thousands of dollars to smooth-talking hustlers and con men after becoming involved in one "money-making" scheme or another. And it happens in Seminole County as well.

Sometimes the victim is motivated by greed when he, or she, sees what appears to be an opportunity to "get something for nothing."

The elderly particularly, seem to be the most vulnerable prospects for the hustlers. Authorities say that's because elderly people often can be easily disoriented and confused when broiled in the scheme. Unfortunately, often to a disastrous end.

Take the 88-year-old woman who lives just west of Sanford, for example, who only a few weeks ago was conned into withdrawing her life savings — $5,000 — from a Sanford bank and list it to a couple of fast-talking female con artists.

The hustlers managed to also talk the woman into giving them another $1,670 in cash she had kept at home. Then they dropped her at a shopping center parking lot and took off.

Needless to say, they never returned and the woman was out every red cent she probably worked her life to save. So shaken by the experience was the woman, police had to take her to the hospital as a precaution.

Tragic, you say. Indeed, so common it is that. So effective are these hustlers in convincing their victims the scheme is foolproof and that they stand to benefit from the game, often is difficult for someone to help them save their money.

In fact, the 88-year-old woman fled in Sanford adamantly refused to heed the local bank president's warnings.

"It's a strict bank policy that all of our tellers are instructed to notify a bank officer, preferably me, when large withdrawals are requested," the bank president pointed out.

"In this particular instance, the amount was $5,000. But, no matter how I tried to stop her from making the withdrawal, she ignored it. After more than 10 minutes of trying to talk to her, she finally asked me, 'Isn't this my money?' yes, I answered. 'Then give it to me,' she demanded. I had no choice but to honor her request."

The bank president said bank officials usually do not call police in such matters, but suggest to what appears to be a prospective victim do so. "Normally, the extent to which we go, is to look outside and make note of a license plate number if we see them get into a car," he explained.

What motivates people into giving up these huge sums of money can be laid solely to greed. Many times the victim is simply tricked into giving up his life savings to a smooth talker after being convinced "he's helping a 'bank examiner' clear up "discrepancies" at a bank in which the victim has a savings account.

Some authorities have concluded there is a nationwide ring of swindlers operating with organized crime backing.

There is reason to believe, say some federal law enforcement officials, that the gang manages to get a list of elderly persons who have substantial amounts of money in banks, and from this list select their victims.

The FBI and police in cities throughout the country have compiled lists of suspected gang members and hope to curb the illegal activity.

Although there are numerous con games used by swindlers, two of the more popular ones are the "pigeon drop" and "phony bank examiner" or "bank investigator."

While con artists generally are male, more often the pigeon drop is perpetrated by female hustlers. One example of the "game" occurred not too long ago in a nearby city.

A woman was bilked out of $1,000 — all the money she had in the bank — by a fast-talking woman.

The victim, in her seventies, was in town shopping when she was approached by a middle-age woman who was later described as well dressed and an intelligent talker.

The con artist told her victim she had just found an envelope containing a large sum of money which she would share if given assistance.

The fast talker told the elderly woman she wanted to leave the money with a trustworthy lawyer in town for the time required by law when, if not claimed by the loser, it can be kept by the finder.

All the elderly woman had to do to share in the find was put up $3,000 in cash for good faith to be held by the lawyer.

The victim, apparently eager to "earn" $1,500 for doing nothing except put up her life savings, followed instructions and withdrew the money — in cash from the bank and turned it over to the con artist.

The elderly woman was instructed to meet the swindler at the lawyer's office later in the day. Needless to say when the victim went to the attorney's office, neither the "generous" woman, or the money were there. The lawyer, of course, had never even heard of the con artist.

In the other con game, the swindler, posing as a bank examiner uses a slightly different technique, but the result is usually the same: the victim gives away money and gets nothing in return.

In a recent case in a northern city, a woman nearly lost $6,000 when some of the gang swindlers tried the phony bank game on her.

She was contacted by telephone and told by the caller, who identified himself as a bank examiner, that the bank in which she had her savings was under investigation.

The caller said he wanted her to help him determine if there was any wrongdoing at the bank by withdrawing her savings and turning the money over to him.

The woman, the con artist told her, would get her money back after it was determined which, if any, of the bank officials was crooked.

So convincing was the would-be swindler, that it took a bank officer more than 30 minutes to convince the woman not to draw her cash from the bank and that there were no discrepancies.

The bank official also managed to convince the woman she apparently was about to become the victim of a con game and advised her to call police. She did, and saved $6,000.

The woman was never again contacted by the phony bank examiner. Police theorize the con artist or an accomplice was in the bank and saw that the woman didn't withdraw the money.

Scores of elderly persons throughout the country have not been so fortunate and have lost their life savings.

Authorities say they still are not sure how gang members obtain their victim list, but they're working on it.

About the best safeguard a prospective victim has to prevent being swindled, authorities say, is to never give up money without first checking with a bank official or police if there is the slightest hint a swindle is in progress.

There are some tips put out by some police departments and lending institutions:

(1) Have you met a stranger who showed you a large bundle of money and told you he would share it if you put your money in good faith?

(2) Has a stranger recently offered to bless your money, remove a curse or perform a ritual which will double its value?

(3) Have you received a visit or a telephone call from someone who said he or she is a bank examiner who wants your help in trapping a bank teller believed to have withdrawn your money from your account?

(4) Have you met anyone who offered you money under any circumstance, but requests you show good faith by putting up your own money?

If the answer to any of those questions is "yes" authorities urge you to notify bank officials and police immediately. Never withdraw your money from the bank without getting advice first.

If you still think it is odd for people to be talking out of their money, remember this: every year one or more "suckers" still buy the Brooklyn Bridge.

Dear Abby: I am writing to complain about all the rotten things that go on at our high school.

First, somebody broke the faucet in the hall near study hall, and they don't know who did it, so they're just leaving it broken. Now, nobody can get a drink.

Also, some kids have been smoking in the bathrooms, so now all the doors are removed from the individual toilet rooms, and there is no privacy for anybody!

I don't think that's fair, do you? Why should everyone have to suffer because of what a few kids do?

DEAR BUGGED: It's not fair. But the authorities can't punish only the guilty because they don't know who they are, so they punish everyone.

DEAR ABBY: I am considering marrying a man who has been married before. (I have not.) We are both in our middle 30s, and have gone together for two years and love each other very much. My question: How much should I ignore a fully decorated eight-foot Christmas tree standing in their living room, so I said, "My tree is just as beautiful now as it was when you put it up last December! How long do you plan on leaving it up?"

The lady answered me with a straight face, "Oh, we haven't even thought about taking it down. We've grown accustomed to it. And it's plastic, so the needles won't be falling."

Then I said, "It's quite unusual for people to have a Christmas tree up in May. Perhaps you should call the press and have them come out and take a picture of it."

She didn't even acknowledge my suggestion, and then her husband started to talk about something else.

Now, Abby, I ask you. Does a Christmas tree in May make any sense to you? Should I call the press? It might make an interesting news item. Or perhaps I should ring up the state institution and ask them to send the men in white coats with their butterfly nets.

NAMELESS IN ARIZONA
DEAR NAMELESS: Don't call anybody. Dismantling a Christmas tree is no small task, and since it's their tree and their home, it's their right to leave it up until next Christmas — which may be what they have in mind.

DEAR CURIOUS: I agree about things that may concern your lives together should you marry. Has his child? Is his former wife still? His financial responsibility? What were the grounds for divorce? Are they on friendly terms?

This information is indeed your business and you have a right to know.

Cook Of The Week "Red Bugge" Book

By ELDON NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

A charming and well-planned new cook book, hot off the presses, is the result of hard work and high hopes among Red Bug Elementary School PTA students and faculty.

When Joyce Baker, Red Bug PTA president, and Linda Evans, ways and means chairman, along with Principal James Neville, hit upon the idea of compiling a cookbook to raise funds, little did they dream of the long, tough road that lay ahead.

"Originally, we discovered so many good cooks among the parents after several teachers' lunches," explained Joyce.

"That was when Mr. Neville brought up the idea of a cookbook," Linda recalled her son's former school up North had put together a cookbook, so she seconded the idea. As ways and means chairman, she was soon involved in putting the plan into action.

"Last October we sent home questionnaires asking for recipes, and we were soon deluged with replies. We then organized workshops, and checked each recipe and fitted it into the correct category. Our volunteer typists each had separate sections to type. We really didn't get into the first 'ough draft until after Christmas," she said.

There are 392 recipes in the book, with the person's name who submitted it, plus their student's name and grade. The ads in the book were the result of Joyce and Martha Hendley visiting area businesses for their support. Laura Roser, school art teacher, was the book's illustrator. Scott Hathaway, fifth grade, made the illustration that was chosen for the book cover.

The book's title, "Ye Olde Redde Bugge Cookery," was conceived by Vi McLaughlin, school administrative assistant. "Celery City Printers," really gave us lots of help and advice," said Linda. "Bill McLaughlin, who is on the County School Advisory Board, allowed us to do our own editing, which saved us a lot of money."

A profit of $1,000.00 is expected from the sale of the book. "It sells for $4.00, and may be purchased at the Red Bug School office, or from students taking orders," said Joyce. The money will be used for reading and math materials and equipment.

Relieved that the book is published and ready for sale, Joyce laughed and said, "My husband took a copy of the finished cookbook to work and said, 'This is why I haven't had any good meals in such a long time.' But we're all happy that it turned out so well!"

Teague Middle School students, under the direction of Charles Allen, President Elect of the Florida Industrial Arts Association, and Mike Baker, walked away with seven first place awards, and many second and third place awards. On this basis Teague then received the Outstanding Industrial Art Award presented by the Broad-Head Garrett Corporation. Jim Green's students, Tuskuwilla Middle School, received five first place awards, which is the greatest number of first place awards received by any single teacher. Other teachers whose student's work received at least one award are James Fierro, Croombs, Bob Wagner, Sanford Middle and Greg Hack, Milwee Middle School. We congratulate these teachers and students and greatly appreciate the excellent work being done in our middle school Industrial Arts program.

Cookout ideas Feature All-Florida Food

SPRING is bursting out all over and so are Florida vegetables. The cold weather that destroyed so many of the crops is gone and vegetables that were replanted are now being harvested and sent to market.

This is a good time of the year to entertain our friends on the patio or in the backyard. So why not plan a special "All Florida Foods Cookout." The Merchandising Specialists Home Economist with the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services have selected a menu for just such an occasion.

Florida Cucumber Dip
Tomato Juice Cocktail
Florida Vegetable Beef Kebabs
Roasted Corn Zucchini Salad
Florida Lime Pie

When entertaining plan a menu that lets you do most of the work the day before or earlier during the day of the event, leaving you free to enjoy your guests when they arrive.

TOMATO JUICE COCKTAIL
(8-5 oz. servings)
4 cups tomato juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup vinegar
Juice of 1 lime
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
1/4 teaspoon Tabasco Sauce
Dash black pepper
1/4 teaspoon celery seed

FLORIDA CUCUMBER DIP
Peel and slice 1 large (or 2 small) Florida cucumbers and 1 medium onion; marinate a half hour in 1/4 cup vinegar and salted water to cover. Drain and grind or finely chop; drain again. Combine with softened 8-oz. package cream cheese. Add 1/4 cup mayonnaise, 1 tsp. lime juice and 1 Tbsp. chopped chives to make dip consistency.

A few drops of hot sauce and coloring may be added, if desired. Serve with potato chips.

FLORIDA VEGETABLE BEEF KEBABS
2 lbs beef chuck
1/2-3/4 cup oil
1/2 cup wine or wine vinegar
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/4 cup soy sauce
1 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce

1 Tbsp. dry mustard
Cut chuck meat into 2-inch cubes. Combine all other ingredients, mix well. Pour marinade over meat cubes. Refrigerate several hours or overnight. One hour before preparing kebabs, place the following vegetables in the marinade:
24 small precooked Florida new potatoes
24 whole mushrooms
24 Florida cherry tomatoes
6 Florida green peppers, quartered
String beef and vegetables

Mix all ingredients together and refrigerate 2-4 hours before serving. May be garnished with fresh lime slices.

FLORIDA LIME PIE
1 8-inch graham cracker or pastry pie shell, baked
3 egg yolks
1 can condensed milk (15-16 oz.)
1/2 cup Florida Key (or Persian) lime juice
Grated rind of one Florida lime

Meringue (see below)
Prepare pie shell, bake and allow to cool. Beat egg yolks until pale yellow. Blend in condensed milk. Slowly add lime juice and lime rind and blend until smooth. Pour this filling into pie shell. Top with meringue mixture (below). Bake space between tidbits on skewer, so heat reaches all. Exception: for rare beef push close. Basic beef and vegetables with the marinade during cooking. Broil about 12 minutes for medium-rare; turn often. Serves 6.

Being certain that no egg yolk is present, add cream of tartar and beat whites until foamy. Add sugar, one tablespoon at a time, beating constantly. Beat until sugar is dissolved and whites are glossy and stand in soft peaks. Spread meringue on pie, starting with small amounts at the edges and fixing it to the crust at every point. Allow no space to remain between meringue and crust. Cover pie with remaining meringue, spreading evenly in attractive swirls. Bake in a 350 degree F. oven for about 10 minutes or until top of irregular surface are lightly browned. Cool at room temperature. Chill until firm.

At Sanford "Farm City Day" Produce Abundant

Fresh vegetables will be available in quantity and at wholesale prices in Sanford this Saturday on Farm City Day. Buying in quantity is often a prelude to either canning or freezing vegetables so that your family may enjoy them far into the winter months when such treats are otherwise unavailable.

There are two methods of canning vegetables: the hot pack method and the raw method. In the first instance vegetables are scalded, packed loosely in jars, then covered with boiling liquid. In the second, raw vegetables are packed tightly into the jars then covered with boiling liquid.

In both instances the condition of jars and lids should be carefully checked. Jars with nicked rims and lids with dents should be avoided. Jars should be washed in hot, soapy water then rinsed in boiling water. They should be drained and filled immediately. With most vegetables (and fruits) a half inch of space should remain between the top of the contents and the rim of the jar. With corn, peas, lima beans and meat a full inch should remain.

Water bath canning may be done in a large kettle which has both a tight fitting lid and a rack which prevents the jars from jostling against the bottom or walls of the kettle. The kettle should be deep enough to permit boiling water to cover the jars by at least a couple of inches.

Pressure canning is done in a pressure cooker, which has a gauge permitting control of the amount of pressure. Vegetables and fruits should normally be canned at 10 pounds of pressure.

Whichever technique you use, remove the jars carefully, using tongs when the processing time is over. Set the jars on a thick towel, several inches apart, leaving them to cool overnight. Now test the seal by depressing the lid. If it stays depressed the jars are safely sealed. If it pops up, refrigerate the contents and use within three days.

Freezing vegetables requires careful sealing into freezer containers to withstand freer conditions. The vegetables will dry out if they are not properly sealed.

VEGETABLE	PREPARATION	PROCESSING TIME
Beans, Green, Snap or Wax	Boil 5 min.	20 min.
Beans, Lima	Boil 3 min.	40 min.
Corn, Whole Kernel	2 c. boiling water per quart of corn	55 min.
Greens	Steam, just till wilted	70 min.
Summer Squash	Boil 2-3 min.	30 min.

The following chart applies to vegetables processed at 10 pounds of pressure and packaged in one pint jars.

VEGETABLE	PREPARATION	SCALDING TIME
Beans, Green, Snap or Wax, Beans, Lima	Clean, snap	Small 2 min. Medium 3 min. Large 4 min.
Corn On The Cob	Husk, wash	Small 6 min. Medium 8 min. Large 10 min.
Corn, Whole Kernel	Husk, wash, scald and then cut from ear	5 min.
Greens	Clean, remove stems	Spinach, kale Chard 2 min. Collards 3 min.
Summer Squash	Clean, wash, cut to desired size	3 min.

To freeze vegetables the following instructions may be used.

Corn Great Any Way You Cook It

By ALLEEN CLAIRE
The Herald Services
For sweet corn lovers, the season never ends now that their favorite vegetable is shipped year-round. For example, Florida growers plant thousands of acres and pick two or three crops a year to produce a 600-million-ear sweet corn yield. Sweet corn is shipped to various states under coats of snow-ice which helps preserve its sweetness. Keep corn refrigerated when you take it home from the supermarket and eat as soon as possible.

Although a favorite way to cook fresh corn is in boiling water for 5 to 8 minutes, you can bake it in its own husk or strip the husk and foil-wrap it, moistened with butter. If you haven't done so, try oven roasting sweet corn in the husks. Either way allow 20 to 30 minutes baking time in a 350-degree oven.

CORN BAKED IN THE HUSKS
Remove husks and corn. Replace husks and tie with string. Soak corn in water for 10 minutes. Place in a baking pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven 25 to 30 minutes.

FRESH CORN AND CHEESE QUICHE
4 ears fresh corn
5 eggs
1/4 cups light cream or milk
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground pepper
9-inch unbaked pie shell
8 strips crisp bacon
Remove husks and silks from corn. Cut kernels off cobs (makes about 3 cups). Set aside. Beat eggs with cream, pimiento, salt and black pepper. Mix well. Stir in reserved corn. Four into pie shell. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven for 25 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees. Arrange cooked bacon over top of quiche. Continue baking until a knife inserted near center of pie comes out clean, about 20 minutes. Makes 6 portions.

Proper Eating Helps If Blood Sugar Low
From headaches to lightheadedness, from hay fever to heartburn, we are daily inundated by the media, with various ailments. It is enough to give one an Excedrin headache.

Hyperinsulinism, or low blood sugar, is an example more prevalent than its opposite, diabetes. Low blood sugar has symptoms familiar to many of us: chronic fatigue, headaches, irritability.

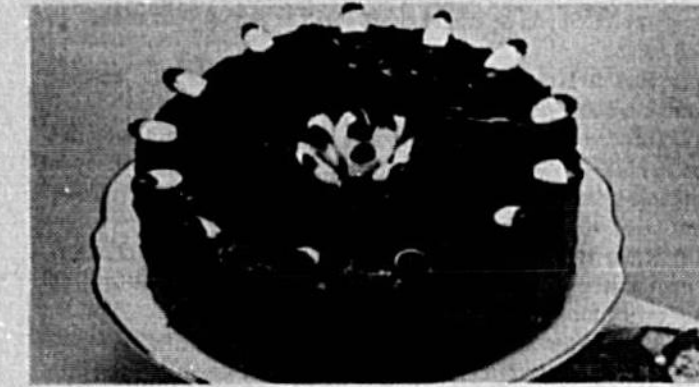

Your doctor can determine its presence with a glucose tolerance test. Since these symptoms usually occur between meals we reach for the convenient snacks - coffee, cookies or soda pop - which only worsen the condition.

In Dr. E.M. Abrahamson's book, "Body, Mind, and Sugar" he writes: "If you have hyperinsulinism, you must avoid caffeine as you would the pest. The working girl's standard lunch-hour treat (or snack) of coffee and danish is at it's toughest, but not as bad as living in constant misery or blacking out at the wheel of your car."

The remedy for low blood sugar is a wholesome nutritious diet, including many protein-rich foods. The following diet is given in Linda Clark's "Stay Young, Longer!" It is recommended for those afflicted with the Snacks: (preferably those available in health food stores.) Small quantities of

1 teaspoon instant chicken 1/4 cup water
In a 12-inch skillet in the hot butter, gently cook the onion, carrot and celery until slightly softened - about 5 minutes. Add cabbage, green pepper and a mixture of the sugar, chicken granules and water; mix well. Cover tightly and simmer just until tender crisp - 8 to 10 minutes. Mix well and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

GATEAU AU CHOCOLATE

Julia Child Cooks American Style

By CECILY BROWN
Associated Press Food Editor
A soothsayer must have whispered to Julia Child, The French Chef of television fame: "You will do a new TV series, this time concerned with American cooking, and your programs will again be successful."

For Julia is working on such a series - and that's quite a switch. It will be some time, however, before the shows are aired. Meanwhile, her latest book, "From Julia Child's Kitchen," (Knopf) is a mighty good read.

Julia Child has boundless energy, enormous culinary curiosity and an interest in telling all - about cooking. Her recipes are written in detail. A while ago when Julia and I were chatting, I suddenly asked, "Are you a 'born' cook?" "No!" she shot back.

Her response proved a theory of mine: "born" cooks rarely have the patience, interest or skill to write the most explicit recipe. Julia does. Thus, her cookbooks are a windfall for would-be or seasoned epicures who are passionate about the merits of French cooking but feel timid in the kitchen.

There's a recipe for a bitter-sweet French chocolate cake in "From Julia Child's Kitchen" that was successfully tried by my recipe-tester, one of my neighbors and several other friends. It's a real delicacy. "To keep the cake light," Julia writes, "fold cornstarch rather than flour goes in."

JULIA CHILD'S GATEAU AU CHOCOLATE
Blend 2 teaspoons instant espresso coffee and 1/4 cup boiling water in a 6-cup saucepan, set in a larger pan of simmering water, and remove from heat. Break up 7 ounces semisweet chocolate and 2 ounces unsweetened chocolate; stir it into the coffee, cover and set aside to melt slowly until you are ready to use it.

Smear 2 teaspoons soft butter over the entire inside surfaces of two 8 by 11 1/2-inch round one-piece cake pans. With wax paper line bottom of each pan, butter paper, then roll 1/4 cup flour around in first pan to coat inside completely. Knock flour out into second pan, coat it and knock out excess flour.

Have ready 1/4 cup cornstarch, measured by sifting directly into dry-measure cups and sweeping off excess. Separate 4 large eggs, dropping the whites into a clean dry beating bowl and the yolks into a 3 to 4-quart mixing bowl. With a portable electric beater start beating the yolks, gradually adding 2-3rds cup sugar, and continue beating until yolks are thick, pale yellow and, when a bit is lifted in sides of beater, it drops off in a thick ribbon that slowly dissolves on the surface of the mixture - about 3 minutes beating.

Chocolate should now be soft. If not, remove pan and reheat water; remove from heat, set

Florida Tomatoes Should Receive Lots Of Special Care

By GAYNOR MADDOX
The Herald Staff Writer

A large, plump bright red tomato — that is what we all want in Florida. From the vine, warm with sunlight. But while waiting for those days of summer, we use commercially grown tomatoes. At this time Florida and Mexico are the main suppliers.

Right now, in Florida, a rebirth is taking place. Those miles of tomato plants, destroyed by the recent winter frost, have been replanted and are now producing excellent tomatoes. This replanted crop will be larger than the average late spring crop. Most of them will be from the Palmetto-Ruskin section of Florida," reports Wayne Hawkins, manager of the Florida Tomato Exchange. "This section has the best growing soil."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports no new shortages are now foreseen and the odds are good for relatively favorable weather. Despite the freeze losses prices this year should be only about 4 to 5 percent higher than last year. With good weather and growing conditions continuing as of today, there could even be a glut of tomatoes later on.

From the beginning of May to the end of the Florida-Mexican season, Florida alone will be shipping about a million 30-pound boxes. That is somewhat more than usual.

"Winter-spring tomatoes usually have to travel long distances to market from Florida or Mexico. If they were shipped ripe, they would be much when they arrived. Too often overlooked is the fact that tomatoes of this kind aren't meant to be eaten immediately. They're like green bananas, rock-hard avocados, pears or other fruit. Keep them out of the refrigerator and away from sunlight. Hold them a few days in the kitchen and they'll ripen and soften," Hawkins explains.

"Vine ripe is another misunderstanding point," he adds. "Actually, in commercial terms, a tomato showing the first tinge of yellow at the blues end of an otherwise very green fruit may be called 'vine ripe.' And, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, that's how Mexico ships most of its production.

Hawkins pointed out that it takes a tomato about 40 days to grow to picking stage. We pick every 7 to 10 days.

Home Made Ice Cream

In the good ol' summertime... there's nothing quite so delicious as homemade ice cream. Now it's simple to freeze up a batch, right in your refrigerator. Start with a base of sweetened condensed milk — in no time you're ready to serve All-American Vanilla Ice Cream fanned up as Imperial Peach Sundae, Patriot's Ice Cream Pie and Sparkling Strawberry Soda. Or let everybody add their favorite flavorings such as chopped up seasonal fruits, flaked coconut, nutmeats, chocolate chips. Whatever your pleasure, it's a winning scoop! (Sweetened condensed milk has a low freezing point, so you limit formation of ice crystals when using the freezer tray method.)

ALL-AMERICAN VANILLA ICE CREAM
(Basic Recipe)
For electric or hand-turned ice cream freezer:
2 cups heavy cream
1 cup cold water
1 (14-oz.) can Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk
1 tablespoon vanilla extract
Combine all ingredients in freezer can. Proceed according to operating instructions for ice cream freezer.
For refrigerator-freezer compartment:
In large bowl, combine sweetened condensed milk, water and vanilla; chill. In medium bowl, whip heavy cream to a soft, custard-like consistency; fold into sweetened condensed milk mixture. Turn into a 13½-inch pan; freeze to a firm mush (about 1 hour). Break into pieces and turn into chilled, large electric mixer bowl. Beat until fluffy but not melted. Return to pan; cover with foil and freeze until firm.

PATRIOT'S ICE CREAM PIE
(Makes one 8- or 9-inch pie)
1½ cups crushed coconut
one-third cup butter or margarine
1 recipe Basic Vanilla Ice Cream softened
1 pint fresh strawberries, hulled and halved
1 cup fresh or frozen milk, blueberries, rinsed and drained
In small bowl, combine crumbs and butter; press on bottom and sides of 8- or 9-inch pie plate. Chill 1 hour. Spoon ice cream into lined pie plate and arrange strawberries and blueberries as desired on ice cream. Freeze until firm; wrap and store until needed.
SAUCE (optional):
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup water
In small saucepan, combine all ingredients. Cook and stir over low heat until mixture thickens and bubbles. Cool to room temperature. Serve over individual wedges of pie.

69th Year, No. 232—Thursday, May 19, 1977 Sanford, Florida 32771 Price 10 Cents

THAT'S MY 'POP-PI' Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore talks about annual Poppy Days Plan: Friday and Saturday, in Sanford with 6-year-old Tonyale Ripley, Miss Poppy, 1977, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ripley of Lake Mary. The poppies are made by disabled veterans and sold for whatever contribution individuals offer. The annual program is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Sanford Mayor Rebutts Charges Of Bias Against Blacks

By MARK WEINBERG
Herald Staff Writer

Charges of discrimination against blacks by the City of Sanford may soon be aired before the city commission.

Mayor Lee P. Moore said today he will recommend to commissioners Monday that they meet in workshop session with Seminole Neighborhoods United Council (SNUC), the group making the charges.

Moore said SNUC representative Sandra Gaines this morning turned down his offer to meet with her and SNUC coordinator, the Rev. Amos C. Jones, before Monday's commission meeting to discuss the charges.

"She said a meeting between us alone would be 'purely academic' and proposed I meet with the entire group," said the mayor, but he declined the invitation.

Emphasizing he was speaking only for himself, the mayor commented on charges made by SNUC in a May 13 letter to City Manager W.E. Knowles: "They know the facts in these situations, and some of the things they said were distorted."

The SNUC letter cited figures in a federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) form completed by the city stating 137 of Sanford's 490 employees are black, that one of the city's 27 administrators is black and that two of the city's office or clerical employees are black.

"If they're quoting from the EEOC form, I assume their figures are correct," the mayor said.

SNUC also charged that recent street

curbs, gutters and sidewalks on all streets. More important to us, and I think to them, was to have all the streets paved."

The mayor said, "No curbs or gutters were installed in any areas of the city unless adjacent property owners paid for them. In some instances this was done. There was a city ordinance requiring curbs and gutters. We set that aside because you could pave more streets without the sidewalks, curbs and gutters."

He added the quality of streets in white and black neighborhoods is "identical wherever they were paved" by a private contractor under contract to the city.

"If federal revenue sharing funds (which financed the improvements) had been sufficient, we would like to have had curbs, gutters and sidewalks on all streets. More important to us, and I think to them, was to have all the streets paved."

The SNUC letter said the paving "was instigated by a class action suit against the city which resulted in an out-of-court settlement leading to paving. Paving was done through coercion, not through the city's initiative."

The suit, Georgetown Taxpayers Association and 15 plaintiffs against the City of Sanford, was filed in federal district court in Orlando in 1970 and settled in 1974.

"The coercion part was not correct," Moore said. "We felt they couldn't win the suit, but it was the recommendation of the city attorney (William C. Hutchison) to use federal revenue sharing funds to pave all the streets. We felt we could have won, but we wanted to pave the streets."

The SNUC letter said construction of Sanford's new city hall should have been a lower priority than providing drainage. The city hall is being built with funds from the federal Economic Development Administration (EDA) of the U.S. Commerce Department.

Moore said when the city applied for funds to build the city hall it had also applied for funds for storm sewers. EDA granted funds for the new city hall but not for drainage.

"Given my druthers, I personally would have preferred to spend the money on drainage, but EDA said build the city hall," the mayor said.

Moore added the city had recently ap-

'The Spirit Of Lindbergh

On May 20, 1927, Charles Lindbergh took off from New York for his historic non-stop flight to Paris. He landed the following day.

That was 50 years ago.

Some of his thoughts during that flight are noted below from his book, "The Spirit of St. Louis."

A review of the flight, with photos, is presented on pages 8A and 9A, in today's Evening Herald.

Is that a cloud on the horizon, or a strip of low fog — or — can it possibly be land? It looks like land, but I don't intend to be tricked by another mirage...is each new illusion to become more real until reality, itself, is meaningless? But my mind is clear. I'm alert. The temptation is too great. I can't hold my course any longer. The Spirit of St. Louis banks over toward the nearest point of land...

The southern tip of Ireland! On course; over two hours ahead of schedule...I circle again, fearful that I'll wake to find this a phantom, a mirage...

One senses only through change, appreciates only after absence. I haven't been far enough away to know the earth before. For 25 years I've lived on it, and yet not seen it till this moment...During my entire life, I've accepted these gifts of God to man, and not known what was mine until this moment. It's like rain after drought; spring after a northern winter. I've been to eternity and back. I know how the dead would feel to live again.

Williams: Give Us $200,000 Yearly In Sewer Plant Fees

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

County Commission Chairman Dick Williams said today the city of Orlando must guarantee Seminole about $200,000 per year in impact fees before he will vote June 7 for the city's proposal to construct a controversial $40-million regional sewer plant near Oviedo.

Williams said Seminole needs that amount to offset impact costs the county would suffer as a result of Orlando officials building the plant on 330 acres west of SR 520.

At a Wednesday night hearing, Orlando officials offered about $7,500 yearly in impact fees. Also, Orlando City Atty. Edgerton van den Berg said the city will provide a $1-million bond to clean up any pollution in Seminole caused by the 24 million-gallon-a-day sewer plant.

"They (Orlando officials) still have not satisfied me," Williams said following a 4½ hour Wednesday to hold one more public hearing to determine if the Oviedo site can be utilized. Williams, Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, Commissioner Bob French and Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski voted to rebury the issue. Commissioner John Kimbrough cast the dissenting vote.

On April 25, the commission by a 3-2 vote turned down Orlando's request. At that time French was considered the swing vote because Williams and Kwiatkowski favored the plant, while Kirchhoff and Kimbrough were adamantly opposed.

French asked the state's Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) for permission to dump effluent in Lake Jessup, instead of into the Little Econlockhatchee River as plans presently call for.

$350,000 Sought For 'Y' Building

A $350,000 fund raising project conducted by 140 participants is presently underway in Seminole County for construction of a new multi-purpose YMCA building.

Though estimated construction costs will hit a grand total of $750,000, YMCA officials said the National YMCA will furnish $225,000 in matching funds.

The Seminole YMCA is located behind Lake Brantley High School on Palm Springs Road in South Seminole County. YMCA officials operate out of the present building, but all YMCA programs are conducted in Seminole County schools because no recreation facilities exist at the YMCA office.

If the fund raising drive is successful, however, the new structure will contain an in-house office building, a gymnasium, a handball court, a swimming pool, a director's office and dressing rooms.

YMCA office Manager Marie Spicer said YMCA has been active in Seminole County since 1964. She said requests for in-house programs from Seminole residents prompted fund-raising efforts.

John "Chuck" Stoltz said plans are to build the new YMCA on five-acres at the Lake Brantley site owned by the YMCA unless a more suitable site can be located. Stoltz is YMCA Executive Director in Seminole.

Campaign Director Lee Hill reports about $30,000 has been collected since the campaign got underway May 3. The campaign is scheduled to run through May 24.

Hill is a professional YMCA fundraiser, Stoltz said.

C. Lee Maynard, President of Barnett Bank of Altamonte Springs, is general chairman of the fund drive. Lawrence Stank, of American Wood Products, is co-chairman. Don Reudlinger, who is in the insurance business, is also involved in the campaign.

Persons wishing to work in the drive for funds may write Hill at P.O. Box 305 in Altamonte Springs. Donations may be sent to the same address, or Hill can be contacted at 854-7768.
