

Graham Expected To Name Davis Judge

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

Gov. Bob Graham is expected to announce Monday the appointment of Sanford attorney Joe Davis as the 14th circuit judge for the 18th Judicial Circuit of Seminole and Brevard counties. Meanwhile, Gov. Graham has appointed an Orlando circuit judge to the Florida Supreme Court.

The new judgeship for the 18th judicial circuit was created by the Florida Legislature during its 1978 session. The post of circuit judge pays an annual salary of $43,600.

Davis, 55, is a native of Sanford, attended public schools here and graduated from Seminole High School. A graduate of the Stetson University College of Law, Davis was a special agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and served in the legal section of the old Florida State Road Department, now the Department of Transportation.

He is a member of the prestigious law firm of Stenstrom, Davis, McIntosh and Julian. Davis served in the Florida House of Representatives in the 1960s. He has been city attorney in Altamonte Springs for the past 25 years, a position from which he resigned several months ago. He is continuing to serve while appointment of his successor is being considered. He is currently Oviedo city attorney and was previously city attorney of Longwood.

Davis is married to the former Betty Jane Woodcock of Sanford.

Davis was one of three lawyers nominated for the post by a judicial nominating committee. Others nominated were County Judge Wallace Hall of Lake Mary and a Brevard County attorney, Edward L. Stahley. Local members on the nominating committee were Altamonte Springs attorneys, Newman Brock and Gary Massey.

Graham appointed Orlando Circuit Judge Parker Lee McDonald Friday to succeed Justice Joseph Hatchett, who was elevated to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals recently by President Carter.

Hatchett was the first black to be appointed to a state high court in the South and one of the first in the country. Graham was unable to appoint a black to succeed him because all three finalists recommended by the Supreme Court nominating committee were white.

McDonald, 55, has been a circuit judge since 1961 and an acting member of the new state 5th District Court of Appeal since mid-summer. The other finalists were L. Pharr Abner, a Winter Park attorney, and Ormond Beach Circuit Judge Warren Hyland Cobb.

"Parker Lee McDonald is a fine lawyer and an experienced and intelligent judge," Graham said. "His substantial judicial experience provides him with the professional abilities necessary to this important position."

McDonald was appointed to a term ending in 1985 when he will come up for "interim retention" review.

He is a member of the executive board of the National Conference of State Trial Judges and a former chairman of the Orlando circuit judges conference. He practiced law in Sebring and Orlando from 1950 to 1961 and was appointed a circuit judge in 1961 and reelected subsequently.

McDonald was presiding judge for the 3rd Statewide Grand Jury from December 1977 to June 1979. The panel investigated organized crime. He was rated the outstanding circuit judge in Florida in 1978 by the Florida Bar's young lawyers section.

He and his wife, Velma Ruth, have four children.

The appointment is not subject to Senate confirmation.

She Teaches A Nuclear Energy Unit To Youths

By RUSSELL HARRIS
 Herald Staff Writer

It could be that eighth grade students enrolled in Colleen Pelley's physical science class may have an energetic jump on their futures.

What used to be regarded as a whistle-stop unit in science classes throughout Seminole County middle schools, is now deserving of far more emphasis—at least in Mrs. Pelley's classes at Lakeview Middle School in Sanford.

Mrs. Pelley has been teaching about nuclear energy for seven years at Lakeview, and she considers the total five weeks spent on nuclear energy a necessary and significant step in helping youngsters better understand their changing environments.

Though her students do not begin to learn about "plutonium," "uranium isotopes," and "tritium" officially until January, Mrs. Pelley has got them thinking about nuclear energy already. After all, she reasons, "they are the ones who'll be working in a world where it's necessary to understand some things about nuclear power sources and such."

Yet understanding the foundations of nuclear power and energy is something which many adults cannot fathom. Primarily, the reason amounts to a matter of exposure.

Most adults are products of school systems which did not promote learning about nuclear energy—since the emphasis clearly was on other forms of energy more consistent with the needs of the times.

Even today, with more attention given to nuclear energy by the media, and more demand placed on developing alternate energy sources, nuclear energy study is primarily limited to a handful of students who take physics in high school.

"Nothing is really too complicated for an eighth grade student if you teach in a progressive, logical way," said Mrs. Pelley.

"When we had the three-mile disaster some months back, a lot of people were in the dark. My students understood what was going on."

Mrs. Pelley is not alone in her teaching. The entire physical science staff at Lakeview teaches a nuclear energy unit, as do several teachers throughout Seminole County. She thinks it's a sign of the times.

"I think it's getting to be a trend. Nuclear energy will be an important issue when the students begin voting in a few years, and I find I'm stressing it more with each year."

Since the beginning of this year's school term, Mrs. Pelley has been urging students to submit news articles concerning nuclear power. Though many of the students may not understand in full what the articles

COLLEEN PELLEY

...looking into a nuclear future are about, come January, chances are they will. The news articles ranging from lost uranium to leakages will be discussed and student enlightenment will grow. Possibly, debates over the timely issues will result.

"Nuclear energy is a part of our curriculum," said Mrs. Pelley "but I just expand it more for one simple reason: it'll be a power source of the future and children need to be informed of what is going wrong with nuclear power as well as what is going right."

2,000 Nuclear Protesters Assault Seabrook Plant

SEABROOK, N.H. (UPI) — About 2,000 chanting, anti-nuclear activists yanked down chain link fences around the Seabrook nuclear plant today. Hundreds of baton-wielding state troopers repelled the protesters with mace.

By mid-morning there had been no arrests, and authorities said none of the demonstrators had gained access to the construction site.

The protesters, who have said they would turn the Seabrook power plant into a vegetable-growing commune, and the authorities, who have promised to arrest anyone who attempts to do so, were at a standoff.

Shouting "Sit-erg" and singing anti-nuclear protest songs, the predominantly young demonstrators attacked the fences that surround the unfinished $2.6 billion nuclear complex in several places with wirecutters. After severing the fences, the protesters pulled them down with ropes.

More than 250 riot-helmeted troopers from New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine and Vermont—backed by 200 National Guardsmen based in from Portsmouth on Gov. Hugh Gallen's order—sprayed mace on demonstrators who tried to cut the fences.

Those protesters who didn't have makeshift gas masks quickly doused their eyes with water. While helicopters hovered overhead, German shepherds barked incessantly, keeping the protesters at bay. Construction crews and letting the air out of tires of buses used to replace those that had been torn down.

Several protest leaders said the demonstrators would re-stage their next course of action. Some speculated the whole demonstration would shift to the mangrove of the park, where protesters would attempt to block the entrance.

A few hours after dawn, the protesters, carrying two days supply of food in backpacks, left their campsites on private land and waded through muddy marshes, hiked through heavy woods and marched down railroad tracks to get at the Seabrook plant.

Since 1976 there have been 1,891 arrests at Seabrook—which has become the sharpest point of conflict in the growing dispute between protesters and promoters of nuclear energy.

Scores, perhaps hundreds, more demonstrators were expected to be arrested this weekend.

Led by the Boston-based Coalition for Direct Action at Seabrook, the protesters have said they will occupy the site and turn it into an "antinuclear village" with victory gardens and alternative energy exhibits.

"We're going to establish a community that is reasonably self-sufficient and grows its own food," said Barry Feldman, 25, a nuclear protester from Cambridge, Mass., who described himself as a "living communist."

State and local police, and protest leaders themselves, were unable to determine how many demonstrators arrived in the tiny seacoast town Friday to participate in the "occupation."

Rozanne Elder of Austin, Texas, who came with 17 people loaded in two vans, said her group "will stay until the plants are shut down."

"I am prepared to stay in jail indefinitely," said Kevin Lawless of Newburyport, Mass., one of the protest leaders.

Violent Blast Rips Refinery

SIRACUSE, Sicily (UPI) — A violent explosion devastated parts of the huge Montedison Priolo Refinery today, sending flames hundreds of yards into the sky.

Plant officials said the explosion evidently originated in the 2,327-acre complex's plastics division, and the resulting fire spread to the benzole production area in the center of the plant, igniting several vats.

One worker, Vito Pese, 53, was critically injured in the early morning blast. The plant, sprawling over 2,300 acres, employs some 9,500 people.

People half a mile from the refinery were shaken from their beds by the blast. Many raced into the streets in panic and, fearing poisonous fumes, fled the area by car.

"There is no danger whatsoever, the situation is under control," a Montedison official said.

Pope John To Washington After Greeting Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Pope John Paul II, cheered by the love of 1.5 million Midwestern pilgrims, left for Washington today to meet President Carter on the final leg of his nine-day international crusade for peace.

The pope appeared on the balcony of Cardinal John Cody's residence to wave a final goodbye this morning and give a final blessing to a crowd of about 2,000 people — some in evening dress and others bundled in parkas — who had gathered through the night to see him off.

Some sang and chanted: "John Paul II, we love you" and "We love the pope."

As his open car began the short ride to a heliport set up in a nearby baseball field, a group of 15 young people from the Focolare Movement — a worldwide Catholic peace group — moved forward with a bouquet, and the pope stopped to chat with them for a moment.

During the limousine's brief trip to Lincoln Park, hundreds of people ran behind and beside the car to get a final glimpse of the pontiff.

At the heliport, several people broke through the barriers but were chased back by police with raised billy clubs. No one was struck.

Banners were displayed everywhere, including one from the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church. One proclaimed: "The Unification Church Loves Pope John Paul."

He waved and blessed a small crowd at O'Hare Airport before boarding his special red-and-white jet, "Shepherd 1." Departure ceremonies at the airport was open only to dignitaries, military personnel and reporters, but there were chants of "Long live the pope."

The plane lifted off at 8:10 a.m. (9:10 a.m. EDT).

John Paul ended his visit to Chicago and his 2 1/2 million Catholics by emphasizing the twin themes of love among mankind and stern adherence to conservative church traditions Friday.

The pope gave the crowd a final blessing from door of his plane. About 1,500 people had gathered at the restricted military side of O'Hare for the pope's departure.

As the 727 jet climbed into the clear sky, a cheer went up from the crowd. In Washington, Government meteorologists said today, several dozen people were already camped out on the Mall, near the altar where John Paul will celebrate mass at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The temperature in the capital was 49 degrees this morning, expected to rise to the upper 60s under sunny skies. Government meteorologists said "the weather should be pleasant but cool for the activities accompanying the visit of the pope."

Break From Mosquitoes? Yes, But Only Temporary

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

Respite from the hordes of blind mosquitoes which have infested the Mosquito Lakefront and the downtown area of Sanford is in sight. But the respite will be temporary.

As the weather changes, the number of the pesky insects will decline over the next six weeks, according to Dr. Arshad Ali. Dr. Ali heads the midge research program which has been underway for the past year at the Agricultural Research and Education Center in Sanford. The center is affiliated with the University of Florida.

The method appears to combine the old ways of spraying with a few new twists. In the 12-page report, which has several appendices of specific information, Dr. Ali points out the adulticide can be done by truck from the shoreline of the lake, by aircraft or boat over the water.

The types of chemicals that could be used in the program would not only kill blind mosquitoes but also the "biting variety," Dr. Ali pointed out.

At this point neither Sanford nor Seminole County has money budgeted for mosquito spraying.

Dr. Ali said Friday he will volunteer his services on an advisory board to periodically test one of their helicopters along with the services of their pilot.

Or, he says, the midge emergence and dispersal area

Tribe Goes On Warpath; Scalps Hawks 21-6

By JOE DESANTIS
Herald Sports Editor

The big play defense, sparked by senior linebacker Reggie Campbell, put a pair of scores on the board for Seminole High School and stifled the Spruce Creek offensive attack to lift the Fighting Tribe to a 21-6 win over the Hawks Friday night. Spruce Creek jumped out to a 6-0 lead when the Hawks defensive end Ricky Davis grabbed a popped-up hand off attempt by Seminole on the Tribe's second possession of the game and returned it twelve yards for the score.

Seminole's Ricky Butler thudded a Hawk bid for a two point conversion run by nailing Spruce Creek quarterback Larona Badie after the fake kick attempt.

The Seminole defense, which held Spruce Creek to 56 yards rushing on the night, forced a Hawk punt midway through the second period to set up the first act of the Reggie Barnes show. Campbell gathered in the punt at the Spruce Creek 45-yard line and raced down the left sideline untouched to tie the contest at 6-6 with ten minutes left in the half.

Jim Voltoline, who was wide all night with extra point kicks, sent his first attempt sailing to the left to leave the score tied. The Tribe again came up with the big play on defense on the ensuing kickoff.

Spruce Creek's Tyrone Green returned Seminole's kick off to the Hawks 34-yard line before being knocked loose from the air again but was intercepted by Spruce Creek's Art Graham at the Tribe 18.

Seminole's Dennis Warren Pops Big Gainer

Badie immediately went to wide-out Roy Bovier for sixteen yards and then found fullback Clarence Sippio drove the Tribe to Spruce Creek's 40-yard line with a 28-yard connection to Sam McGill. With one minute left in the half Sippio went to the Jeff Patton coffin-cornered the kick which left Spruce Creek with a first-and-ten at their own goal line.

Badie got the Hawks moving with a pick up of six yards and two carries by Allen Brown moved Spruce Creek to their 27 before Robert Guy came up with the third Tribe interception of the game.

Seminole drove to mid-field before being forced to punt. Jeff Patton came up with his second spectacular look of the night by dropping the ball dead at the Spruce Creek five-yard line.

Two running plays later the Hawks found themselves at their three thanks to the hard tackling of Lenny Sutton and Andy Faint and were forced to Seminole picked up 65 rushing yards in the third quarter but a clipping penalty halted their drive midway through the period.

The Tribe defense continued to frustrate Badie who tried to get the Hawks moving with the pass but came up empty handed on seven third quarter attempts.

Badie went to the well once too often and Campbell came up with three of his show with an interception that gave the Tribe the ball at the Hawk 17-yard line.

"Our defense just played a hellacious game," beamed Tribe boss Jerry Posey.

"Offensively we moved when we had to but Spruce Creek had us bottled up a little bit."

Posey's game plan varied slightly, especially in the first half.

"We usually do because they really came after our wide receivers," commented Posey.

"Reggie did a tremendous job tonight. I really enjoyed this football game," continued the Seminole Coach.

The victory lifted the Tribe to 1-1 on the year, the only five star squad with a perfect conference record.

"We still have a rough road ahead. Now its time to get ready for Appopka."

The Oviedo Lions roared as a full moon smiled down on their 52-8 victory over Interlachen High School Friday night.

The Coach Joe Montgomery, beamed with pride with a 4-0 record, complimented his team as they left the field and exclaimed, "We're the only undefeated team in the county."

Mike Scott of the Oviedo Lions returned the opening kickoff 10 yards to open play the evening. Troy Kessinger, quarterback for the Lions, connected with Sammy Duda on a pass play that nearly broke for a touchdown but the game was nullified by a penalty. The Lions then went to Marvin McClenon who seemed able to go around either end or through the line for major gains every time he received the ball. With seven minutes gone in the first quarter McClenon took a pitch to the right for the first score of the evening with Kessinger loaded up.

Napoleon DuBois, quarterback for Interlachen, met his Waterloo on the football field when he was sacked on two consecutive plays by Ted Kramer and Keith Gray of the Lion defense.

Moments later on a pitchout from Kessinger to McClenon, who passed to Duda, the Lions tallied their second score of the evening and with the failure of the extra point attempt, led the Interlachen squad 14-0.

The first play of the second quarter McClenon pitched to Kessinger, who lobbed a pass to Duda for a long gain which enabled McClenon to score three plays later.

Kessinger faked an extra point kick and passed to Neese for a two point conversion giving the Lions a 29-0 lead.

The Lions Johnny Cobbs and Merlon Bowers spoiled Interlachen's third down conversion attempt by breaking up a DuBois pass attempt. DuBois failed to make a first down on a quarterback sneak.

Five plays later Kessinger connected with Neese to increase the Lion lead to 34-0. Scott walked into the endzone for the two-point conversion to end the first half score at 36-0.

Kessinger completed a pass to Neese and Scott added the two-point conversion to give the Lions a 44-0 lead with 11 minutes left in the game.

DuBois flipped a short pass to Kenny Hollis, moving Interlachen close enough for Kim O'Neal to scamper into the end zone.

Mike Scott carried the ball time after time over the middle to grind down the clock and also to make the last touchdown for Oviedo with McClenon adding the two point conversion for a 52-8 Lion victory.

Abstract Of Title Includes History

Question: What is an Abstract of Title?
Answer: An abstract of title is a brief history (in abstract, or brief, form) of the instruments appearing in the county record which affect the title to the parcel in question. The legal description of the property is in the caption of the abstract.

Your Real Estate

Abstracts will usually commence with the government ownership of the land. They usually consist of several sections or continuations, and each section covers a specific period of time. It is therefore necessary for each succeeding section of the abstract to begin with a search of the public record from a date immediately following the date of the previous section. Were this not done, there would be a gap in the abstract.

When an abstract is first prepared, or is continued, the abstractor lists and summarizes each instrument in chronological order along with information relative to taxes, judgments, special assessments, etc.

The abstractor concludes his certificate by indicating which records were examined and when, and he signs the abstract. An abstractor must exercise due care, since he can be liable for negligence for any failure to include or accurately record all pertinent data; however, he does not pass judgment on or guarantee the condition of the title.

In a sale of land, the seller's attorney usually orders the abstract continued to cover the current date. When the abstract has been completed by the abstractor, it is submitted to the attorney for the purchaser.

The purchaser's attorney must necessarily examine the entire abstract. This means that he must examine each section from the origin of that title. Following his detailed examination, the attorney must evaluate all the facts and material in order to prepare his written report for the purchaser on the condition of the ownership, which is called the attorney's opinion of title.

As transfers of title have accumulated through the years, court decrees to clear up actual or potential defects in the abstracts. In many ways the title evidence system of abstract examination and opinion and the certification of title by attorneys were imperfect and open to objection. For example, it is difficult to detect forged deeds or other documents, false statements including incorrect marital status, and transfers involving incompetent parties or minors.

SIDS: Infant Death; Cause Unknown

By DORIS DIETRICH
Ourselves Editor

Halene McDonald, left, social worker at Seminole Memorial Hospital, discusses Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) with several of the 90 persons attending a SIDS seminar. Approximately 6,500 'crib deaths' (SIDS) occur annually in the United States.

There is no evidence that a struggle has taken place, nor did anyone hear the baby struggling. Sometimes, though, the child has obviously changed position at the time of death.

An autopsy may reveal, at most, a minor degree of inflammation of the upper respiratory tract, but no lesion sufficient to account for the death. Often the autopsy reveals absolutely no evidence of illness.

In about ten percent of crib death cases, careful examination does demonstrate a previously unsuspected abnormality of a rapidly fatal infectious disease, such as meningitis or pneumonia. These particular children die within minutes of SIDS. If death results from an infectious disease for instance, the family may need to have protective medication. A thorough autopsy can put the family at ease about this.

Did My Baby Suffocate in Its Bedding?
It is not uncommon for a victim to be found wedged into the corner of the crib or with the head covered by blankets. Sometimes the face is turned down into the pillow or mattress or is discolored.

Under such circumstances, it is natural to assume the baby smothered. However, SIDS also occurs under conditions where there is no possibility of smothering. The baby is found without any articles of bedding, clothing, toys or pets around or near the face. The autopsy findings are identical in both types of cases. Investigators have found that even when infants are covered by bedding, the amount of oxygen is not reduced to the point of causing suffocation. This it is possible to say with certainty that SIDS is not caused by external suffocation.

Could My Baby Have Suffered and Choked After Its Last Feeding?
SIDS is not caused by vomiting and choking. Sometimes milk or even blood-stained food is found around the mouth or on the bedding. This has been shown usually to occur after death, and at autopsy is found not to block the internal air passages. Can SIDS Be Prevented?

There is no known way to prevent its occurrence. No symptoms exist, so there is no way to know when a child is better to avoid taking a young infant into crowds of people.

Did My Baby Suffer?
It is known that SIDS can occur within five minutes. It is probably almost instantaneous. There may be some movement during the last few seconds of life, accounting for the "unusual positions" that are

Funeral Is Over, Flowers Have Faded... A New Widow May Ask, 'Now What?'

By TOM NETSEL
Herald Staff Writer

The funeral is over. The flowers have faded and cards of condolence have been put away.

Taking a deep breath, the wife may try the sound of her new title: widow. Now what?

The postman comes as he does every day and the mailbox has its share of the usual bills — bills he always took care of — a second notice requesting payment.

What was this one for? He always handled the money. The money? What about the money? The insurance? The mortgage?

Each year thousands of women are widowed, and for the first time many of them are forced into handling the family's financial affairs.

Unfortunately, many of these women have little or no idea of their financial standing. They never talked with their husbands about it. He always handled everything and now he is gone.

The Florida Bank of Seminole and Jacobson's recently presented a seminar designed to help answer the troublesome questions: Whom do I turn to? In what should I invest? What's going to happen? Held at Jacobson's in the Longwood Village shopping center, three members of the Flagship Bank trust department spoke to a group of women and discussed the importance of having a will, of having some knowledge of the family's financial position, and of proper financial management should she become widowed.

Lou Black, vice president and trust officer from the Orlando office, discussed the benefits of having a will and discovered that the majority of the women attending the seminar did already have one.

The many advantages of having a will include the most obvious one of giving you the power to dispose of property according to your wishes. You can appoint a guardian for your children and it eliminates any problems should you and your spouse die simultaneously.

Taxes can also be handled in the best way, trusts can be established, and you can disinherit all and everyone except for the spouse's elective share.

"Your favorite uncle may go off and marry the wrong person," said Black, "and he is no longer your favorite, so you can disinherit everyone except the surviving spouse."

He added that once a will has been written, it should not be forgotten. If a will is at least three years old it "suspect," said Black, "and if it is five years old, it more than likely contains something that must be changed."

Black also added that you should have a good working relationship with your attorney. "A will written in another state will fall under Florida law and may or may not be valid. After your spouse's death, he said, finding out-of-state witnesses to an old will can be more expensive than having a will redrafted.

In reply to questions on a "self-proof oath," which is a statement notarizing that you and witnesses were together voluntarily signing the will. "It is good regardless whether the witness moves, dies, or whatever," he said.

John Tapley, senior vice president and senior trust officer from Flagship's Tampa office, discussed the benefits of simply sitting down with your spouse and discussing the family money.

"How much money does it take to live on?" he asked. "How much does your husband earn? Many wives don't know."

He further urged the women to ask their husbands how much and from where will the money come after he is gone. Tapley thought the seminar would have been successful "if we can just motivate you ladies to go back home and ask your husbands what's happening."

It was suggested a record about a will be kept with a list containing information about safety deposit boxes, the location, the number, and location of keys.

Bank accounts should be listed with numbers, their location and in whose name they are owned.

All other assets should be listed, including real estate owned, business interests, rents and royalties, cemetery plots owned, life insurance policies, annuities, money owned the family and its liabilities, plus a record kept of all investments.

Many banks, Flagship included, can provide forms to aid in the keeping of such records.

After taking such an inventory, Tapley advised taking stock and deciding how best to minimize taxes on one's estate. He went on to explain how setting up a trust could reduce estate taxes for the surviving spouse.

John George, a vice president and trust officer in investments, discussed stocks and bonds and the problems of inflation on investments. He also discussed the different kinds of stocks available. Blue chips are from well established companies which offer the greatest amount of security but with usually a small dividend.

Gross stocks are from companies which have for the past 10 to 15 years provided earnings and dividends that have grown faster than the economy.

Income stocks provide a reasonable level of income for one's needs and are sometimes

 6. Advance notices should be submitted one week prior to publication date.
 7. Photograph coverage requests should be made one week in advance.

Jan Freeman, president of Seminole Mutual Concert Association, says she is excited over the "exceptional high quality" of SMCA's scheduled concerts.

"The old prices have been in effect forever," she added.

Mutual Concert Season Underway

Membership Prices Increase This Year

By DORIS DIETRICH
OURSELVES Editor

Seminole Mutual Concert Association (SMCA) members at the 1979-80 season Friday night with a gala reception at Mayfair Country Club to honor members of the association.

During the reception, it was pointed out that information mailed to subscribers was incorrect.

According to Jan Freeman of Sanford, SMCA president, the board of directors voted to increase the membership to the following: family, $30; single, $15; and student, $10.

"The old prices have been in effect forever," Mrs. Freeman said. "We (SMCA) are faced with raising $13,000. We have some good concerts coming in this year. Where else can a family see four professional concerts for $30?"

The Florida Symphony Orchestra will begin the series on Nov. 13. Mrs. Freeman explained that this concert was originally scheduled for Nov. 14, but has since changed.

Other concerts planned include: Kingston Trio, Jan. 22, 1980; "Say It With Music: An Irving Berlin Celebration," March 10, 1980; and Jamz Dutton and Orchestra, April 14, 1980.

"The Champagne Ball will be held on Dec. 1, at the Sanford Civic Center," Mrs. Freeman said. "We have a 10-piece orchestra and are planning some different decorations."

Ruth Gaines is the ball chairman. And the tab is $30 per couple, according to Mrs. Freeman.

Explaining that the season looks "real good,"

Mrs. Freeman said the board is working hard to make this season "the best ever." She mentioned she would like to see "the return of elegance" in the community.

Since living in Sanford, Mrs. Freeman, who is married to William T. (Tom) Freeman, has done more than her share of community work.

She is a former president of the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford, and is currently the District VII Junior Director of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs. She is also coordinator of the Sanford Business Association.

The Freemans, including 10-month-old Amanda, have recently moved into a new home they built on Vinton Road.

Other members on the SMCA Board of Directors are: Patty Anderson, Susan Arnall, Don Bales, Dr. Richard Beck, Thomas Buford, Gail Bonjoni and Carmine M. Bravo.

Also Gwenne Butler, Eloise Collins, Peggy Deere, Dr. Richard Dunn, Ron Dycus, Peggy Gornio, John Higgins Jr., Shirley Huanan and Chuck Huffman.

Also Pila Hughes, Faye

Kelly, Carol Kirchoff, Jeri Kirk, Mrs. Gerald Korman, Lucy Lauer, Joe Liebert, Nicholas Mergo, Sue Monroe and Grace Petree.

Also Mary Rhoads, Florence Shellenberger, Vida Smith, Gail Stewart, William Wharton, Judy Wimbah, and Martha and Ned Yancey.

Board member William Ken Stratford is the membership chairman. For memberships and information contact him at 1204 Windsor Ave., Longwood, phone 321-4347, or either of the above persons.

Dad Lists Do's, Don't's For Teen-Agers

DEAR ABBY: There has been a lot of discussion in our home about a column you wrote recently. I refer to "Do's and Don't's for Parents"—written by a 14-year-old reader.

I'm a 47-year-old father, and I have written some "Do's and Don't's for Teenagers." If you think they are worth printing, a lot of parents will thank you.

Don't bring obscene literature, pot, or any kind of drugs into your home.

Choose for your friends kids who have earned a good reputation.

Take proper care of your own property, and don't allow others to abuse it.

Treat both parents equally well—especially if one happens to be a step parent.

Don't threaten to run away from home if your parents' rules don't suit you.

Dear Abby

If your parents have adopted you, try hard to adopt them. Treat your brothers and sisters with consideration and respect.

Don't demand things just because your friends have them.

Try to earn your way by helping around the house, especially if both parents work.

If you have a difference of opinion, let your parents talk, and don't interrupt them.

When you are wrong, apologize. And if you're caught in a lie, don't tell another one trying to deny it.

Do let your parents know that you love them.

DEAR ABBY: My 14-year-old daughter went to boarding school last year. In January she was put on probation for drinking. In April she was expelled for possession and use of marijuana. She's home now permanently, and things aren't going well.

She recently gave me your column on "Do's and Don't's for Parents," written by "a loyal fan"—a 14-year-old girl. Underlined were "Don't search your kid's room. Don't read their diaries, personal letters, etc." This has become a major issue with her because while retrieving my hair dryer from her room I knocked over a box containing pot pipes. Another time, on our front steps, I found a letter (no envelope) containing a description of how she and her friend got stoned at school.

Also underlined was, "Don't choose their friends for them." Because I refused to let her have a weekend guest a girl who had been kicked out of school for providing her classmates with pot.

I agree that parents should respect the privacy of their children, but children also owe their parents some honesty. It is almost impossible to deal openly with problems when the children constantly lie. Children should also realize that parents are not frustrated Gestapo agents, but very worried fathers and mothers.

Have you any advice for our family situation? Our daughter is still into these self-destructive habits.

WORRIED MOTHER IN N.Y.

DEAR MOTHER: I reports from all over the United States and Canada raving about this fine supportive organization.

MOUS, P.O. Box 34, Torrance, Calif. 9051. Please enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. I have received yours.

from companies that are "out of favor." George said these may be corporations such as fertilizer producers, or certain utility companies that through various reasons are out of favor with the public. To offset this, they may offer higher dividends to attract investors.

Examples of defensive stocks may be found in the food industry. They are stocks whose earnings and dividends usually go up since they are connected with products that are necessities, such as food. Regardless of the economy or the price, one must buy food.

"For the big reward," George said, "you must take a comprehensive degree of risk." This is to be found in speculative issues, but is "a degree of risk" most of us should avoid.

Read usually pay a fixed rate of interest and this is often less than the inflation rate, said George. Also mentioned were currency bonds, which can be traded for stock in the same way, and are usually more liquid.

The letter is usually advantageous only to those in higher tax brackets, 35 percent and above.

He concluded that "overly and his cousin will help you invest your money" but he strongly advised one get professional counseling in money matters. Lawyers and banks offer this type of help, but whomsoever you select, discuss your needs, your financial objectives, and then how often you can talk with them and review your situation. Does their investment philosophy agree with yours? Above all, deal with someone with whom you have peace of mind.

This is an age of specialists, said George. "You go to a doctor when you have pain; we specialize in money."

Homemakers Take All-Day Tour

A special treat was received Monday by about 100 members and guests of the Seminole County Extension Homemakers Club — an all day trip to the popular Webster Flea Market near Leesburg, and to Rogers Christmas House and Village in Kaville.

PILA HUGHES
Lake Mary Correspondent
323-4891

Planned, organized and conducted by Mrs. Louise Pope, Home Economics Agent, the trip was successful and from what they told me everybody seemed to have a real good time.

The group left from Winter Park at 8:15 a.m. in two buses chartered for the occasion.

They arrived at Webster about one hour later. Here, they spent over two hours shopping and looking for goodies. Later on, on their way to Brooksville they stopped for a mid-day break — in other words, a well deserved lunch in a nice restaurant.

Refreshments will be served. Ladies interested in joining the club are invited. Plan to attend and bring a friend with you.

Guest speaker will be Seminole County Agricultural Agent Tom Davis who will speak about landscaping. For more information contact Mrs. Durea, 322-5911.

Jim and DeLores Lash are very happy over the birth of their second granddaughter, Debra Anne, who is at home now in Sanford with her parents Bill and Diane Crapps and sister Nancy who is two and a half years old.

Visiting the Crapps family over the weekend was Mrs. Ethel Bergresser, DeLores' mother, who met her second great-granddaughter for the first time.

Sanford's Fall for Art was a great success. To our participants from Lake Mary, congratulations!

Chairman of the Show and past Vice-president of the Sanford-Seminole Art Association, Mrs. Aurora Bennett, originally from Kalamazoo, Mich., has been living in Lake Mary since 1958 with husband John and children Lisa, 15, and Travis 9.

By the way, Lisa was her mother's model for one of her paintings.

Betty Reagan, a past president of SSA who's pastels and oils (portraits) were on display, said she was pleased with the "tremendous success of the show, their biggest year so far." She is looking forward to a bigger and better one next year.

Betty, an accomplished tennis player who participates in tournaments sometimes three times a week, has been living in Lake Mary for the past 12 years with her husband, Don. The parents of six children and grandparents of one, they now have two sons at home, one attends Seminole High School and the other SCC. A married daughter lives in Okinawa, Japan, and they have a son in the service in Germany. Their other two daughters, both registered nurses, live in Miami.

Betty received two awards for her art work — a Merit award and the other a purchase award by Chase and Co.

Sybil Best, who received her Master's in Education in the field of Visual Arts at UCF a year ago is also a member of the SSA and has been in Lake Mary since 1956.

She has been a teacher at the Midway Elementary School for 10 years.

She is the wife of Capt. USAF (ret.) Thomas A. Best and they are proud parents of seven children, five of them married. They have nine grandchildren and the 10th is on the way. Sybil specializes in acrylics and photography and she has been participating in the Sanford Art show for the past five or six years.

Edith S. Ljebert and her husband, Joe, have been residents of the Forest for the past five years. They are the resident managers.

They lived in New Jersey before moving to Florida and are the parents of three married children and five grand children, four boys and one girl.

Edith's participation in the arts show was a first for her, and a "very rewarding experience," she said. Her needle painting, using a weaving technique, received a lot of compliments.

She took two lessons from Mrs. Connie Dailey, who teaches weaving needle painting to the Forest residents, and from there on, she developed her original work which was on display. Congratulations! Hasta la vista.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymon (Dick and Melanie) Schmitt of 1116 Magnolia Ave., Sanford, announce the birth of their first child, Spencer Julius, who weighed in at 7 lbs. 12 1/2 oz., on Sept. 30, at Florida South Hospital, Orlando.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene P. Sams of Chuluota.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Schmitt, 407 Summerlin Ave., Sanford. Maternal great grandmother is Mrs. Nora Kendrick, Chuluota.

Mr. and Mrs. Johny (Janet Hawkins) Box of Osteen, announce the birth of their first child, Jeanne Marie, on Sept. 20, at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Hawkins of Sanford. Paternal grandmother is Mrs. Hattie Lee Box of Lake City.

Great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Hawkins of Lake Monroe, the late Mrs. Lavinia Ramsey of Longwood and Mrs. Louise Box and the late Charlie Box of Lake City.

...Sudden Infant Death Syndrome

 sometimes evident. However, the babies do not cry out and very often show not the slightest trace of having been disturbed in their sleep. Therefore, it is safe to conclude that SIDS does not cause pain or suffering to the baby.
 Is SIDS Infectious?

Is The Immediate Family In Danger?
 SIDS is not contagious in the usual sense of the word. For example, sometimes one of twins in the same bed is taken by SIDS, yet the other is spared. There are seasons during which SIDS is more commonly seen but there is no reason for unusual concern in cases where an infant is exposed to a SIDS case. SIDS virtually never happens after the first year of life, so older children are not at risk.

 Would It Have Helped If I Had Breast Fed My Baby?
 Breast feeding does not prevent SIDS. Literature of previous centuries, when nearly all babies were breast fed, mentions the problems of sudden and unexplained infant death. Recent research shows SIDS occurs to breast fed as well as to bottle fed babies.

 What About Babies We Might Have In The Future?

About two of every 1,000 newborn babies die of "crib death" yearly in the United States. According to the best available data, SIDS is not hereditary.
 Is This A New Disease? Are There More Deaths Of This Kind Now?
 There is evidence that SIDS has been with us since antiquity. In Biblical times it was referred to as "overlaying." Then, as in some cultures today, mothers slept with their infants. When a mother woke to find her child dead, she assumed she must have rolled over on him and caused his death.

 Do These

Deaths Occur All Over The World?
 There is evidence that SIDS is an extremely widespread condition. Studies of the syndrome in England, Ireland, Australia, Czechoslovakia, Canada, Denmark, as well as New York, Washington, D.C., Pennsylvania, Ohio, Washington, Oregon, and elsewhere in the United States have all revealed similar rates of occurrence.

 SIDS occurs in tropical climates of Florida and the heat of southern California as well as in the cooler climates of the Northwest and the Northeast.

SIR GAWAIN, BEING A CHAMPION, WILL NOT ENTER THE GRAND MELEE, BUT ACCEPTS ONLY CHALLENGES.

BUT HIS SQUIRE, PRINCE ARN, IS NOW BIG ENOUGH TO ENTER HIS FIRST TOURNAMENT AND LEARNS SEVERAL IMPORTANT LESSONS: HE IS DRAGGED FROM THE FIELD.

HE IS TAKEN TO GAWAIN'S PAVILION, LAID ON A COT AND GIVEN A SLEEPING DRAUGHT. TRY TO STAY AWAKE UNTIL DINNER TIME," PLEADS SIR GAWAIN SOLEMNLY.

AND IT IS A PROUD DAY FOR GALAN TO SEE HIS FATHER STANDING IN THE LINE OF CHAMPIONS... A LINE THAT IS BECOMING EVER SHORTER AS THE TURBULENT YEARS GO BY.

THERE ARE STILL MANY KNIGHTS WHO WOULD LIKE TO BE CHAMPIONS, BUT LAUNCELOT AND GAWAIN ARE MIGHTY MEN, NEVER YET DEFEATED. PRINCE VALIANT, BY CONTRAST, LOOKS YOUNG AND UNTRIED.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's how I brought an old Neptune Rex Certificate out in the open—my husband had been a Navy man and had gotten this certificate when crossing the equator during World War I. It had been rolled up all these years and was quite brittle. I laid it upside down on the ironing board very carefully, and then placed a damp pressing cloth over the certificate and gently pressed it with a moderately hot iron. This flattened the certificate wonderfully and the dim printing even seemed to show up better. I then put it into a glass frame and it really looks sharp!

Millie
Thanks, Millie! Sounds like your hint has given all that old memorabilia a new lease on life.

LETTER OF THOUGHT
DEAR HELOISE:
To Anita who has "I don't like to wash dishes-its," I used to have the same problem. I could clean the entire house with relative ease, but still wouldn't tackle a sink full of dirty dishes. But I have overcome!

I'm a confirmed day-dreamer and I have learned over the years to use this time with the dishes to do my daydreaming and thinking things out. After a while I found I didn't mind doing the dishes. Try it, if you hate doing them, too.

When our grandson was born, his proud daddy, who doesn't smoke, passed out two-inch pots of "baby tears" plants instead of the traditional cigars. Although I give my plant loving care and it is thriving, it hasn't reached the 11-pound size my "preemie" grandson has attained in ten weeks because of the loving care he receives.

GRANDMA'S LITTLE CUPCAKE!
DEAR HELOISE:
I'm only 11 years old, but I like to cook a lot. Like cupcakes, cookies, etc. But when I cooked cupcakes, it always turned out to be a mess just trying to put the mix into the pan. My grandmother was visiting when I was making them one day and she told me to put the mix into a measuring cup and then pour it into the pan. It was great!

I've always read your hints and I've always wanted to write one. So I've finally found one to write. I just got a new small doll that you dress up, and I had trouble putting clothes on her. I put baby powder on her legs and it works perfect.

DC-8 Air Crash Kills 14; Plane Held Isotopes

FLYING HIGH

Lake Brantley quarterback Tony Constantine, who connected on 16-of-22 pass attempts for 308 yards and a pair of touchdowns last week will be looking for clear skies once again when the Patriots play host to Spruce Creek Friday night. Constantine's offensive line, which averages six-foot four inches and 240 pounds is anchored by center Steve Johnston (72). Varsity cheerleaders Daphne Snyder (left) and Cindy Larbig (right) will be cheering Lake Brantley against the Hawks Friday night.

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — A Swissair DC8 jet with 154 people aboard overshoot the runway at Athens airport and burst into flames on a golf course Sunday night, killing 14 people, police said today. Officials said the plane was carrying radioactive isotopes in its cargo.

An airport spokesman said a seven-man team from the Greek nuclear research establishment Democritus had arrived to advise rescue workers on procedures for finding the remains of the isotopes.

Police and investigators today removed the charred remains of the 14 passengers from the fuselage and began identification of the dead.

A Swissair spokesman said it would confirm the figure of 14 dead only when identification had been completed. But a police spokesman said all 14 missing people had been accounted for with the removal of their bodies from the wreckage.

The jetliner was carrying 142 passengers and 12 crew members.

The plane ran off the end of the Helleniko airport runway, next to the Cityfada golf course, where it crashed to a smoldering halt.

In Geneva, the Swiss News Agency quoted the DC-8's captain, Fritz Schmutz, as saying the condition of the runway was responsible for the accident.

"The aircraft was in good condition," he was quoted as saying. "It is my opinion that the accident was caused by the condition of the runway. I did everything I could. I was unable to keep the aircraft on the runway. It skidded and refused to obey the brakes. The entire thing lasted only a few seconds."

An airport worker said the victims may have been unable to get out of the plane because one of the emergency exit doors had failed to open.

An airline spokesman said 14 persons were hospitalized with burns and shock, but none were critically injured. She said all crew members escaped injury. "There was some confusion because some of the emergency exits wouldn't open, but they got the exits working and everyone was very orderly," said Guy Stafford, a journalist from Portsmouth, England.

Some of the passengers were injured when one of the emergency chutes collapsed, officials said.

Professor A.J. Zuckermann, a Swiss doctor on the staff of London University criticized the emergency services for the passengers, saying "in dealing with the injured at the airport, there was a disorganization of a magnitude I would not have thought possible."

Minister of Communications Alexander Papadopoulos said in an official statement that an investigating committee had started to examine the cause of the disaster, but did not expect any immediate results.

The plane, Flight 316 bound for Bombay and Peking, flew in from Zurich and Geneva on schedule and made a normal landing approach at 10:15 p.m., an Athens control tower spokesman said.

The pilot, Captain Fritz Schmutz, was warned by the control tower that braking conditions on the runway were moderate to poor, with light rain falling, he said.

"The plane skidded to halt, and I looked out of the window and saw flames coming from the wing," said Alma Kowalczyk of Switzerland and Australia, one of uninjured passengers.

"I was one of the first out. The crew shouted to everyone to get out as fast as possible. I just got on the chute and never looked back," Mrs. Kowalczyk said at the airport.

"The crew were marvelous. There was very little panic," Dr. Jay Tata, one of several doctors traveling on the flight to Peking for an unofficial visit sponsored by the Chinese public health ministry, said the passengers "traveled down the chutes very fast."

"But flames and smoke were everywhere in a very short time after landing," he said.

Downtown Parking An Issue At Sanford Meeting Tonight

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Should the lease arrangement between the Sanford Atlantic Bank and the city concerning four parking stalls on Park Avenue adjacent to the bank be abolished in order to release the spots for general city use? And should the no left turn law at the intersection of Park Avenue and First Street be eliminated? The Sanford City Commission at its 7 p.m. meeting today will consider both questions, while recommendations received by the city commission are against changing the two existing situations. City Manager Warren Knowles, after receiving a letter from Howard Hodges, president of the Sanford Atlantic Bank, has recommended that the bank be permitted to continue leasing the stalls.

In his letter to the city Hodges said the bank is "fully aware" the spaces are now being used by patrons "of neighboring businesses and that the bank's customer parking lot is also being used by patrons of other businesses.

"Our neighbors should be happy about the fact that our parking lot is left open for public use on Saturdays when the bank is closed," Hodges' letter said. He also pointed out the bank "attracts a great many people to this shopping area which in turn provides a much larger customer potential for our neighbors than they would ordinarily enjoy."

The bank for many years has been paying $300 annually to the city for use of the four parking stalls.

Meanwhile, Glenn McCall of the Greater Sanford Development Corp., sponsors of the downtown renovation project, has asked that no left turn be taken by the city to eliminate the no left turn practice at the intersection of First Street and Park Avenue.

McCall, in a letter to the city, asked for the delay until the city's engineering department has completed the plan for the capital improvement project for downtown. McCall also strongly urged the city to keep the two-hour parking limit in the downtown area.

The request of some merchants for the elimination of the no left turn at the intersection was brought before the city commission two weeks ago by Commissioner Eddie Keith.

Knowles said earlier that removal of the no left turn law would require turning lanes to the intersection, also would result in the loss of seven parking places, and would require modifications to the traffic signal.

Nine Persons Killed

FLORENCE, Ky. (UPI) — A commuter jet lost an engine and crashed while taking off from Greater Cincinnati Airport today. All nine persons aboard were killed.

Seven persons died on impact when the twin-engine Navajo Piper crashed at the airport, located in Florence, across the Ohio river from Cincinnati, as it was taking off on a flight to Nashville, Tenn.

Two other persons were injured critically and were taken to Booth Hospital in Florence.

The crash of the Conair jet occurred as the plane was taking off on the south bound runway at the airport.

"The plane got to 200 feet in the air when the pilot advised the control tower he had lost an engine," said Honero. "Shortly after that he crashed about three quarters of the way down the runway. It was about 800 feet to the right of the runway."

Conair is a regional airline based at the Greater Cincinnati Airport and is owned by a group of businessmen.

Neglected Seminole Teens May Find Help After All

A Seminole County teen-ager, overwhelmed with problems at home, possibly from parental neglect or physical abuse or perhaps victimized by sexual abuse, runs away.

Picked up by authorities, the youth's problem now becomes the problem of the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS). Where will this young person be sheltered while some solution is being sought to the difficulties in her home?

Many Seminole Countians are shocked as they watch national television or read newspaper reports from elsewhere in the country dramatically tell the stories of what happens to teenage runaways who reach the big cities of the north.

But few have seriously considered what should be done for runaways right here in Seminole County.

That problem is faced almost daily by two young men stationed with the state HRS in Seminole County — Steve Shacovsky and Tom Weinberg.

Finding foster care for these young people with problems ranging from child abuse and neglect to incestuous relationships has become increasingly difficult.

While Orange, Osceola and Brevard counties, the other counties in the HRS District VII, provide fully-staffed, 24-hour-a-day facilities to house these children, there is none in Seminole County.

A year ago there were 41 families in Seminole providing foster homes for teen-agers, today there are 20 such homes.

According to Shacovsky, HRS service network manager for Seminole County and Weinberg, single intake supervisor for HRS, there is no problem finding foster families willing to help and house babies through 12-year old children in need.

But with teen-agers, it's different. Teen-agers do not adjust well in foster homes. "It is hard to place them in a foster home. And often six out of 12 of these teen-agers have been victimized either by sexual or physical abuse," Shacovsky and Weinberg said.

Currently there are 20 Seminole County teen-agers in foster homes in the county, while another three are in emergency shelters and five or six are housed temporarily in adjacent counties.

Several months ago, Shacovsky and Weinberg faced with this problem of finding shelters for these teen-agers with difficulties began gathering public support to find a way.

With cooperation from Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffer, currently serving as Seminole County's juvenile judge, several meetings with interested citizens were held. The problem was also presented to various civic clubs in the county.

The answer appeared to come, however, unexpectedly from the Florida Legislature just prior to adjournment of its 1979 session.

Some $150,000 was appropriated from general revenue funds for emergency shelter child care for district VII and $83,000 of those funds were allocated for Seminole County.

Hopefully by the first of January, Shacovsky and Weinberg said, there will be a parental home, a structured shelter open on a 24-hour a day basis.

Rather than looking toward constructing or buying a facility with the allocated funds, Shacovsky and Weinberg are looking toward a contract arrangement whereby a competent organization, following state licensing procedures and state guidelines, can provide a facility.

HOCUS-FOCUS

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

EYES HAVE IT! An anagram is a word or phrase formed by rearranging letters of another word or phrase. A clever example involves THE EYES. How quickly can you transpose these seven letters to form two related words? No fair peeking below.

HERE, IN CODE, IS ANOTHER NAME once suggested for what became the United States of America: DPMV-NCLIS. If B is A, C is B, etc., what was the name? Hint: It honors a famed explorer.

Time Tested! There is a time when three minus six equals nine. Can you figure out when?

Riddle-Me-This! Where do you find the smartest fish? In the brainy deep. Which is worse, poison ivy or poison oak? To itch his own.

SQUARING UP THE CIRCLE

It is possible to insert the missing four figures of the wheel above in such a manner that the sum of the squares of any two adjacent numbers will be equal to the sum of the squares of the two numbers on opposite spokes. That is to say, 14 squared plus 27 squared will equal 49 squared plus the square of its neighbor; 8 squared plus 14 squared will equal the squares of their opposite, etc.

Now then, which numbers go where?

PASS PERFECT! One of four tosses lands invisible ball in the hands of player at lower right above. Which one?
