County astrologer calls it quits

LAGRANDE, Ore. (UPI) — An astrologer just wasn't in the stars for Union County. Jenny Nicholson quit her controversial job as county astrologer before ever advising officials, saying the publicity brought her so much business she can't afford to keep the volunteer post.

Nicholson resigned Monday, five days after taking the job and a day before county commissioners planned to rescind the controversial appointment.

"The ensuing controversy has given me so much publicity and so many new long-distance clients that I no longer have time to be your volunteer," Nicholson said in her letter of resignation.

Kenyan leaders welcome Will back

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — The independent Kenyan government seems to be recovering from a 7-year-old "colonial hangover" that would make William Shakespeare proud.

In 1981, Kenyan leaders branded the English versions of Shakespeare works as too colonial and banned them from the nation's schools.

But President Daniel Arap Moi announced the return of the classic English writings Sunday, and instructed the Ministry of Education and Kenyan Institute of Education, which approve school texts, to put the English bard back on the exam syllabus.

The president said he saw nothing wrong with Will's works.

Free lunch program banned

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — There's no free lunch anymore for some prisoners in Pittsburgh.

Inmates had been served free grub while awaiting court appearances in the past year but city officials say the practice gobbled up the $15,000 food fund, which won't be replenished.

Dropped limb puts lights out

SANFORD — At about 10 a.m. today a Florida Power and Light crew trimming trees on County Road 15 at Iowa Avenue, Sanford, accidentally dropped a limb onto a powerline. The result was a 10-minute loss of power to 1,500 customers, a company spokesman said.

Budget, tax hike approved

By WAYNE MIZE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The city commission approved a $19.5 million budget for the 1988-1989 fiscal year Monday night that includes a 20.6 percent property tax increase.

The commission, by a 3-2 vote, gave tentative approval to the tax increase, which would help raise an additional $526,954 in ad valorem tax revenue.

Commissioner A.A. McClanahan and Mayor Bettye Smith voted against the tax increase and the budget package.

"I'm going to have to vote against this because from day one I said we could live with the millage ($4.85 per $1,000 of valuation) we have," said McClanahan. The 20.6 percent property tax increase represents a 1 mill hike to $5.85 per $1,000 valuation.

Commissioners John Y. Mercer, Herbert "Whitey" Eckstein and Bob Thomas voted for the tax increase and budget proposal.

The budget will not be adopted until two public hearings are held in September, the first on Sept. 12.

The commission voted against the originally proposed tax rollback from the current $4.85 per $1,000 of taxable property to $4.47 that would have generated the same amount of taxes due to property value increase.

The increase will add $759,551 to city revenue for the fiscal year.

The additional tax would mean an extra $54 per year on a home valued at $50,000 after claiming the $25,000 homestead exemption. Property taxes on a $50,000 home would be $150 per year and $296 per year on a $75,000 home.

Commissioners Mercer, Eckstein and Thomas said they think the increase is necessary to continue to provide adequate services to the city's approximately 29,000 residents.

Mercer also favored the increase because he said it would eliminate the need to spend $300,000 of the city's reserve fund, and Eckstein said city employees needed a raise. "We haven't taken care of them in the past," said Eckstein.

The budget includes a five percent cost of living increase for the city's 356 employees.

A four-percent cost of living increase for city employees and a $299,588 appropriation from the reserve fund was included in the original budget proposal by City Manager Frank A. Faison, which had a total figure of $18.7 million.

Mayor Smith said she thinks taxpayers need a rest from rising taxes.

"I don't think we should have raised the millage," Smith said. "I think we need to give the citizens of Sanford a break from raising taxes."

The final figures for each of the city's department budgets will not be available for at least another month, according to Faison, due to the many small and few major changes made by the commission during its four budget sessions which began last week.

Some of the changes to the original budget proposal made by the commission were:

- Increased the cost of living raise for city employees from four percent to five percent, adding $40,609 to the budget.

County road repair program given nod

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners unanimously approved a new $6.3 million five-year road repair program to keep county roads up to grade.

Since commissioners had already appropriated $825,000 for road maintenance this year, no formal approval of the spending package is needed during today's county commission meeting, says County Administrator Ken Hooper.

At least $526,648 will be spent to repair regional roads by the end of this year under the spending plan, including sections of Airport and Lake Mary Boulevards. Local unincorporated streets will be repaired with the remaining $298,000.

The county's goal under the five-year repair program is to keep roads at about 80 percent of their as-new condition.

Although on a countywide average, roads are currently at about 84 percent of the condition at the time of original construction, Public Works Director Larry Sellers told commissioners the condition begins declining rapidly after about 8 years of a road's typical 16-year life.

Sellers said a study completed for the county shows after 12 years, 75 percent of a road's life, the road quality has deteriorated by 40 percent. If road repairs aren't made after 12 years, Sellers said, repairs will cost four to five times as much at the end of 16 years.

Near the end of 16 years, a total reconstruction of a road may be required, which can cost between $200,000 and $300,000 per mile. The earlier repairs are made, the simpler, and less expensive the repairs are, Sellers said. A simple crack-sealing costs about $7,000 per mile.

If no repairs are made, Sellers said roads will deteriorate on a countywide average of about 72 percent of their as-new condition. With the current program, the average will be maintained at about 75 percent of their as-new condition.

In other discussions, commissioners also reviewed state and regional changes affecting the Wekiva River basin and its tributaries.

Vanderworp said the Wekiva River Protection Act requires the three counties the Wekiva passes through — Seminole, Orange and Lake Counties — to change their comprehensive land use plans to assure the river is protected.

The area west of Interstate 4 from the northern edge of Lake Brantley north to the county line must be protected to preserve the rural quality of the area and to assure riverbank vegetation and natural animal habitats are not endangered by development, Vanderworp said.

County building codes also must be changed to protect septic tanks within the highest water level the river may reach during a one-in-a-100-years downpour.

Vanderworp said he would compare the requirements with existing county land use plans and building codes and recommend changes in August.

In other discussion items Monday, commissioners reviewed proposed changes to the

Sanford city commissioners enact impact fees moratorium

By WAYNE MIZE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The city commission enacted an emergency ordinance Monday, imposing a moratorium on the collection of county transportation road impact fees within the city until a court decision on the legality of the collection is made.

A previously enacted moratorium against road impact fee collection was to expire this week, leaving the city vulnerable to collection, according to City Attorney Bill Colbert.

"To take no action would mean new construction would require impact fees from city residents," said Colbert.

The emergency ordinance goes into effect immediately and will allow the commission 60 days to have required public hearings on a more permanent ordinance, said Colbert.

The city is waiting for the Fifth District Court of Appeals to make a decision on an appeal made by the county of a circuit court ruling that said city laws supersede county laws, and cities could not be forced to collect county impact fees from developers within their borders. Seminole County appealed the circuit court decision June 28.

County commissioners approved an ordinance last year to raise money for road repairs by imposing an impact fee on new development.

Sanford, Winter Springs and Casselberry challenged the ordinance in circuit court, stating the county needed a city's permission before collecting fees within its jurisdiction, and imposed moratoriums on collecting the fees.

In other action, Monday night, the commission:

- Approved the concept of the construction of the Groveview Neighborhood Park, which will be between Old Lake Mary Road and Springview Drive. The park will cost the city $65,000, in addition to $70,000 of in-kind services and will be built with the help of a $120,000 grant.

- Approved a 10-year franchise agreement with CableVision with two 10-year options.

- Annexed property owned by Stanley H. Sandefur located between Geneva Avenue and the old railroad line, and adjoining Brisson Avenue, despite voiced opposition by Seminole County assistant attorney Lonnie Groot.

Groot said the annexation created an enclave and is against state mandates. Groot said after the meeting that the county board of commissioners would now decide if the annexation will be appealed to circuit court.

- Tabled for 30 days the annexation of property owned by Elizabeth Bush, Lila Walling, Mary Lefler and Judge Kenneth Lefler, located along State Highway 17-92 and lying between Old Monroe

NASA hopes launch still on target

By WILLIAM HARWOOD
UPI science writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — An accident that damaged an Oring seal in a shuttle test booster in Utah will delay a crucial ground firing but NASA officials are hopeful that the first post-Challenger launch date will not be seriously affected.

A NASA official who asked not to be identified said Monday the booster problem was the result of a mistake by engineers with rocket maker Morton Thiokol Inc. — not a design problem — and that a test firing of the shuttle Discovery's three liquid-fueled engines remains on track for around July 25.

The test booster, called production verification motor No. 1, or PVM-1 for short, had been scheduled for firing around July 30 at Morton Thiokol's plant near Brigham City, Utah, in the fifth and final such test required before the shuttle

POLICE BRIEFS

Vehicle theft charged

CASSELBERRY — A traffic stop and a records check, which showed a motorcycle was stolen, have brought charges of vehicle theft against a 21-year-old Longwood man.

Robert Matthew Rymann, of 300 Sweetwater Circle Blvd., was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies at 5:54 p.m. Saturday, after a traffic stop on State Road 436, Casselberry.

A deputy noticed the motorcycle Rymann was riding had a bald rear tire. A computer check on the Kawasaki, with a Texas license tag, showed the bike had been reported stolen in Dallas, a sheriff's report said.

Rymann was released on $500 bond to appear in court Aug. 8.

Driving under the influence

—Preston William Baker, 25, of 101 E. Altamonte Drive #332, Altamonte Springs, at 3:46 p.m. Saturday, after a traffic stop for allegedly having no license plate and failing to wear a seat belt. He was also cited with resisting arrest without violence and driving without a license.

Police say burglary was faked

WINTER SPRINGS — Winter Springs police have determined a burglary to Ozzie's Crab House, State Road 434, on June 29 was an apparent coverup for the theft of the night deposit of the business receipts for that day.

James Gregory Amos, 26, of 868 N. Winter Park Drive, Casselberry, was arrested at his house at 7:15 p.m. Friday. He allegedly filed a false police report in connection with the burglary, and is also suspected in the theft of the deposit. He remains jailed in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Police report a woman who was not named in Amos' arrest report was supposed to make the deposit on the night of the reported burglary. Amos was booked on complaints of grand theft, filing a false police report and petty theft.

Robbery suspect arrested

SANFORD — A man arrested for allegedly throwing a rock through a window on 11th Street has also been booked on two counts of strong arm robbery after an alleged accomplice named him as a suspect in a convenience store robbery.

Joseph Smith, 24, who refused to give his address, was arrested at the corner of Fifth Street and Pine Avenue at 12:11 p.m. Sunday about 20 minutes after a brick was thrown through a window at 906 E. 11th St. He was booked on suspicion of throwing a deadly missile into an occupied dwelling.

After Smith's arrest, Sanford police report a boy who they were questioning at the police station named Smith as his accomplice in a 9 a.m. robbery of the Lil' Champ store, 116 E. Celery Ave. Smith was then also booked on a complaint of strong arm robbery. Later Sunday Smith was also booked on an other count of strong arm robbery in connection with the robbery of a woman's about 9:45 a.m. Friday at 10 Palmetti Ave. He remained jailed in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Burglary suspect arrested

SANFORD — One of two suspects in a June 13 burglary to 892 S. Oregon Ave., rural Sanford, was booked on suspicion of armed burglary and dealing in stolen property.

Jeffrey Burton Ailing, 29, who allegedly fled from deputies who questioned him on June 21, then later tried to escape from them when they came to his house, was booked on a complaint of resisting without violence.

He was booked on the burglary and stolen property complaints at the Seminole County Jail Friday night and held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

He is accused of stealing 18 firearms, jewelry, stereo and a camera. The items were sold or pawned the day of the burglary, deputies reported. Some of the items were recovered.

Deputies said there is another suspect in the case who has not been arrested.

Transient suspected of stealing pickup

LAKE MARY — A Lake Mary man delayed reporting the theft of his truck last Wednesday by 24 hours because he wanted to give the offender a chance to bring it back.

Bruce Carlton Mann of 378 Pine Tree Road, told police he and a new acquaintance stopped in at the Lake Mary Pub, 119 W. Crystal Lake Ave. Wednesday, and the acquaintance is suspected of taking Mann's truck.

The acquaintance's name is unknown but his initials are thought to be T.B. According to police reports, T.B. is a transient who sketches portraits and sells them for $5. The pub owner said T.B. had frequented the pub several times over a two-day period last week.

Upon arriving at the pub

Wednesday, Mann parked his blue '82 pickup between the pub and Andy's Paint and Body Garage, and left his keys wedged between the seat and stick shift lever.

He went inside to chat with friends and lost track of T.B. However, sometime during the course of the evening T.B. left unannounced. Mann told police he believed T.B. was staying at the Sanford Motor Lodge, but police have been unable to locate him.

The suspect is described as a tall man weighing more than 200 lbs. with short red hair and a full beard and glasses. He was last seen wearing blue jeans, a black T-shirt and a green baseball cap.

Guns, car stolen from home

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating the Monday theft of eight firearms, a $250 video recorder, a $200 tent, $95 in cash and a 1980 Mercury valued at $1,050 from the house of Naomi B. Roberts, 1515 Dodd Road, Winter Park. The total value of the guns which include six shotguns, a rifle and an antique muzzle loader, exceeds $1,000, a sheriff's report said.

Billy E. Fleming of Apopka reported to sheriff's deputies three tires were stolen from his truck and trailer while parked on the side of State Road 436 at Hunt Club Boulevard, Apopka, Monday.

A male German shepherd dog owned by Paul Palmer of 407 Prairie Lake Drive, Fern Park, was stolen from his backyard Sunday or Monday, according to a report filed with sheriff's deputies.

A $575 air compressor, a $100 hose and two boxes of tools valued at $700 were stolen Sunday or Monday from Sun State Auto Sales, 8100 S. U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park, according to a report owner William McMichael of Orlando, filed with sheriff's deputies.

Sheriff's deputies report a $250 microwave oven was stolen along with a postage machine, two garbage cans and 11 bottles of liquor from Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 10180, 2766 Wells Ave., Fern Park, Sunday or Monday.

Michael Ray Bell of 308 DePugh St., Altamonte Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies 30 cassette tapes valued at $300 were stolen from his house Monday.

A $350 weed cutter was stolen between Friday and Monday from the pickup truck of Darrell S. Walker of Green Valley Landscaping, while it was parked at that business at 1694 Timocuan Way, Longwood, a sheriff's report said.

A $50 purse containing $50 in cash and a $150 watch was stolen Monday or Tuesday from the car of Alan Bradley of 589 S. Longview Place, Longwood. A sheriff's report said the car was at Bradley's house at the time of the theft.

Sheriff's deputies report $1,328 in cash and a $200 video recorder were stolen Sunday from the house of Michael Graham, of 2617 Eastbrook Bldv., Winter Park. James Childers of 2810 Sunset Road, Apopka, reported to sheriff's deputies his $379 lawnmower was stolen between July 6 and 8.

A $400 boat motor was stolen Saturday from the backyard of Mike Ramsey, of 889 Bearded Oak Circle, Longwood. He reported his loss to sheriff's deputies Sunday.

Patrick Johnson of 2845 Revere Court, Casselberry, reported to sheriff's deputies his 1984 Honda motorcycle valued at $800 was stolen between Friday and Sunday.

A $300 drill press, two chainsaws, a $175 weed cutter, a $75 set of wrenches and two drills were stolen between July 7 and Saturday from the house of T.H. Bellflower, of 285 McLain Lane, Geneva, a sheriff's report said.

Clothes, a tennis racket, and a radio were among more than $1,000 in goods stolen Saturday or Sunday from the pickup truck of Charles Davis, of 2500 Howell Branch Road #200, Winter Park, sheriff's deputies report.

Bruce Roth of 6239 Linnel Beach Drive, Apopka, reported to sheriff's deputies a $1,300 radio controlled car and a $130 controller were stolen from his car, along with a $200 radio and $180 speakers. The theft occurred Friday or Saturday.

Sheriff's deputies report a $250 revolver was stolen July 7 or 8 from the truck of John Blakley, of 9380 Junior Ave., Apopka.

A $500 range was stolen from a Contemporary Construction of Altamonte Springs building site at 1437 Rosters St., Apopka, Friday or Saturday, a sheriff's report said.

Lois Sells-Dougherty of 612 Encino Way, Altamonte Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies a $300 television and a $25 microwave oven were among items stolen from her house between July 4 and Saturday.

A $400 microwave oven was stolen Saturday or Sunday from the house of Edward Parrin of 800 Poinsetta Drive, Casselberry, a sheriff's report said.

Rape report investigated

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating allegations by a 40-year-old woman who says she was raped Saturday by two men, whom she was evicting from an apartment.

The woman, who lives in a campground in Altamonte Springs, told sheriff's deputies Monday she was raped between 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Saturday at the apartment. However, the woman said she had washed her clothing since the attack and she declined to have a medical examination, so deputies report they have no physical evidence of the alleged attack.

She is scheduled to talk further with investigators, who have the names of two suspects in the case.

The woman said she was attacked and forced to a couch in the apartment where she confronted the men over the condition of the apartment. She said they took turns raping her, with one holding her while the other assaulted her.

Deputies report the woman had bruises on her arms and legs when they questioned her Monday.

Appropriate word for weather is hot

By FRED M. COOPER
Herald staff writer

A reader called to complain. It seems that reference is made to these days as being warm and the suggestion was made that the report is compiled by the chamber of commerce. It was obvious that the caller had never spent a summer in Mississippi so really didn't know what hot feels like but a better contrast and compare thesis was made with New England where temperatures have been hovering in the mid-90's. Thermometers in Seminole County have read in the 80's for the most part during the past week.

However, that is done and gone for now. It is hot. The readings are in the low 90's and the humidity is right up there also. 'Tis air-conditioning time and hang the hole in the ozone layer problem. Not much damage done by window units and none by central systems anyway.

The temperature range for the next couple of days will be 70's to the low-to-mid-90's. Yes, there is the chance of widely-scattered afternoon showers so scatter and gather some water.

Thunderstorms that slashed the Atlantic Coast with strong winds and scattered showers did little to ease "beastly hot" weather sizzling the East, while heavy rain passed up the drought-choked Farm Belt but deluged Texas, where five people drowned in flash floods.

The chance of rain in Cincinnati tonight threatened to wash out professional baseball's All-Star Game at Riverfront Stadium. In neighboring Pennsylvania, on the other hand, it is so dry even golfers are praying for rain.

Storms raked the East Coast from New England in northern Florida Monday, unleashing winds up to 70 mph in Maryland, hail in Maine and more than 3 inches of rain in Jacksonville, by far the greatest downpour in the Sunshine State. You probably noticed there was none in Seminole.

Some 15,000 homes and businesses in Washington's Maryland suburbs were still without electricity today because of downed power lines. That was not the cause of the short outage in Sanford.

In downtown Baltimore Monday, it hit a record 102 degrees, while Newark, N.J., had 101. Philadelphia reached 100. Boston and New York City recorded 98, and National Airport outside Washington, D.C., reported 99.

A cold front reaching from the eastern Great Lakes through the middle Mississippi Valley and into the southern Plains brought scattered showers and thunderstorms Sunday night and Monday to areas of the Farm Belt struggling in the throes of a crop-devastating drought.

But farmers complained the moisture would do little to help the nation's corn crop. The rain was "too little, too late" to save half of the corn, said Ohio Farm Bureau Federation spokesman Kirby Hidy.

Flash floods swept dry creekbeds in Texas Hill Country, drowning four members of a San Jose, Calif., family whose car was swept along a flooded draw near Sheffield, Texas, late Sunday. The father survived the flood by clinging to a tree all night until the water subsided, officials said.

Trucks from Vermont, 850 miles away, rolled into Kenton, Ohio, with 6,000 bales of hay for about 165 farmers, including 70 Amish families from Hardin and Logan counties.

(Reports by United Press International and data provided by the National Weather Service were used in compiling this report.)

Local Report

The high temperature in Sanford Monday was 91 degrees and the overnight low was 74 as reported by the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center, Celery Avenue. There was no recorded rainfall.

Area Readings

The temperature at 9 a.m. is 82, overnight low 74; Monday's high 91; barometric pressure, 30.17; relative humidity, 88 percent; winds, South at 9 mph; rain, None; Today's sunset, 8:29 p.m.; Wednesday's sunrise, 6:36 a.m.

Area Forecast

Today...partly cloudy with scattered afternoon thunderstorms. High in the lower 90s. Wind south 10 mph. Rain chance 40 percent. Tonight and Wednesday...partly cloudy with a chance of afternoon and evening thunderstorms. Low in the low to mid 70s. High in the lower 90s. Light wind tonight then south 10 mph Wednesday. Rain chance 20 percent tonight and 40 percent Wednesday.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Lottery celebrates successful six months with record take

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Today marks the six-month anniversary of Florida's lottery, and officials say record-setting sales show no signs of slowing down.

State revenue estimators had predicted the lottery would generate $413 million by June 30, the final day of the 1987-88 fiscal year.

The lottery actually produced $690.5 million by that day, and sales still show no sign of tapering off, George said.

So far, those sales have produced a $145 million boost for the state's educational system, which by law receives all lottery proceeds not handed out in prizes or used for operating expenses.

"Florida is a unique state," Lottery Department spokesman Ed George explained Monday. "We have 40 million tourists a year, we have the first lottery in the Deep South. We get a lot of money from Alabama and Georgia where there is no lottery available."

Mica, Gunter file for Senate

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Rep. Dan Mica and Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter officially opened the 1988 election season Monday, filing documents for the Democratic U.S. Senate campaign and predicting victory.

Mica said he was gaining ground on Gunter in polls, and that he would either face the commissioner in a runoff for the Democratic nomination or beat him outright in the September primary.

But Gunter, who has much greater name recognition and raised more than $1 million in the first six weeks of his campaign, declared himself unbeatable.

Stark mother opposes payment

BOCA RATON (UPI) — The mother of an American sailor killed aboard the USS Stark says she is angry at the Reagan administration's decision to pay compensation for those killed aboard an Iranian jetliner last week.

Jane Ryals said despite promises of compensation for her son by Iraq, whose missile killed her son, Pat, she hasn't seen any. She said she is upset that there are no indications anyone is pressing the Iraqis.

"I'm so angry, so angry," she said Monday. "It really gets under my skin. We're so damn quick to offer money, to pay the Iranians, and the Stark families are still sitting around, day after day, and there's no news for us at all."

For reservations, call Bob Christie at 629-1488 by noon July 25. Cost is $11 for members, $13 non-members and $15 for late reservations and walk-ins.

Police link explosion, cruise ship

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — Police suspect two men killed in the explosion of a weapons-packed car at a marina near Athens were linked to terrorists who carried out a grenade and machine-gun attack on a Greek cruise ship that left nine people dead and at least 47 wounded.

The ship, the City of Poros, was carrying about 400 passengers — many of them foreign tourists — and 71 crew when it came under attack around 5 p.m. Monday as it was returning from a daily island cruise in the Aegean Sea at the height of the tourist season. Merchant Marine Minister Evaxngelos Yannopoulos said.

Authorities said today they believed all passengers who jumped from the ship during the attack had been picked up by a flotilla of rescue craft, but a search was continuing.

At least nine people were killed in the assault and 47 others were wounded, many by shrapnel from grenades, according to an official list of the injured released today by authorities. Yannopoulos had told a news conference Monday that 60 people were wounded.

The list of wounded included 30 French citizens, eight Scandinavians, three Swiss, three Jordanians, an Armenian of unknown nationality and two others who were unidentified.

Officials said most of those hospitalized suffered slight injuries, but two French citizens were in serious condition — one with a grenade fragment lodged in his head and the other with a bullet in the neck.

Minister of Tourism Nikos Skoulas said one British tourist was examined Monday for shock, but had already left for home.

The man, identified as John Whitmore, 59, said before leaving the Piraeus General Hospital. "The terrorists raked the bridge with sub-machine gun fire without any warning. People started to run from the sundeck in panic. We climbed down a rope into the sea and we were picked up by a rescue boat."

There were no immediate claims of responsibility for the assault, but police said they suspected it was connected with an explosion of a car earlier Monday at the Trocadero Marina that killed its two occupants, Trocadero, about 5 miles south of Athens, is the home port for the City of Poros and the ship was headed there when it was attacked.

"Now it seems the two men in the car were waiting for their fellow terrorists to arrive with the ship and were perhaps their backup team," a senior police investigator said.

Police said the car was loaded with explosives and a cache of arms, including automatic weapons and hand grenades.

The car was rented on July 4 by a Lebanese identified as About Al Hamit, 36, who lived in a hotel at Glyfada, a seaside resort near the U.S. Air Force base at Athens airport, police said.

The ship's captain, George Mavromatakis, told United Press International. "The ship was full of foreign tourists, mostly Germans, Swedes, British and Americans."

One Swede who suffered an arm injury and identified himself only as Ulf said he was on the deck when he heard the first shots and several explosions. "I saw many people jumping overboard in the panic," he said.

There were conflicting reports on details of the attack that took place about 40 minutes after the ship left the Island of Aegina in the Gulf of Athens to return to Trocadero.

Yannopoulos said three attackers were aboard the cruise ship and fired machine guns and grenade launchers before escaping on a small boat that approached the vessel after the assault.

But Antenna No. 10, a private Greek radio station, said the assailants came on speedboats, boarded the ship and then began firing.

The entire navy and coast guard were searching the Aegean for the assailants, Yannopoulos said, and frogmen were hunting for explosives and suspects aboard the cruise ship.

Prime Minister Andreas

Papandreou, vacationing on an island, returned to Athens to hold a special Cabinet meeting today, a government spokesman said.

The attack marked the worst incident involving a passenger ship since October 1985, when four Palestinians commandeered the Italian cruise ship Achille Lauro with 511 passengers and crew in the Mediterranean Sea off Egypt and threatened to blow it up unless Israel freed Palestinian prisoners.

When the Achille Lauro hijackers surrendered in Port Said two days later it was learned that American passenger Leon Klinghoffer was killed and thrown overboard.

Capt. Mavromatakis, whose ship reached the Trocadero port four hours after the attack, said the assault ignited fires on the vessel and forced passengers to leap overboard into the water to avoid the machine-gun fire.

"The passengers started jumping into the water to avoid the machine-gun fire of the attackers, and at least two were killed by the ship's propellers," he said.

Among the dead was the first mate.

Police sources said several ships rushed to the assistance of the burning ship, extinguished the flames and started rescuing the passengers as coast guard cutters sped to the scene of the attack to remove the wounded.

Kuwaiti prime minister seeks arms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan and the Kuwait crown prince are considering congressional opposition to Kuwait's bid for a $2 billion arms package and evaluating the situation in the violent Persian Gulf.

Sheikh Saad al Abdullah al Sabah, also Kuwait's prime minister, has met with several U.S. officials since his arrival Sunday. He met Monday with Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci and was entertained later at dinner by John Whitehead, the acting secretary of state. He was to meet with Reagan today.

Kuwait is seeking to buy U.S. ground-to-air Maverick missiles and 40 advanced F-18 fighter-bombers. An unidentified senior administration official said that the F-18 sale will be a subject of discussion during Saad's meeting with Reagan.

"We hope Congress will permit the sale to go forward," the official said. "Kuwait, as a friend, needs tools for its own defense. Congress has repeatedly asked what the gulf states are doing in their own defense."

After the Oval Office talks, Reagan planned to attend a "working luncheon" with the prime, Saad also planned to meet with Vice President George Bush during his stay in Washington.

Saad, 58, is one of Kuwait's most vocal proponents of a hard-line policy against terrorism and was in the spotlight earlier this year during the hijacking of a Kuwait Airlines jet.

Kuwait's intention to buy the weapons has provoked opposition in Capitol Hill, where supporters of Israel object to providing the sophisticated anti-aircraft missiles to Kuwait. A similar controversy over the sale of Mavericks scuttled an earlier proposed sale to Saudi Arabia.

Kuwait has made it clear that if the United States is not provide the weapons it seeks, it may turn to the Soviet Union — a move that could affect the delicate balance of power in the Persian Gulf region.

The administration official noted, "The relationship between the United States and Kuwait has expanded over the past year," an allusion to Reagan's decision last year to have U.S. warships escort American-flagged Kuwaiti oil tankers in the gulf, a major theater in the nearly 8-year-old Iran-Iraq war.

He said Kuwait is in a "dangerous" location and vulnerable to attack. The tiny oil state sits at the head of the gulf, tucked between Saudi Arabia and Iraq.

The official said pointedly, "We should not force Kuwait to turn to other sources," but he indicated the United States is not troubled by the new weapons deal between Kuwait and the Soviet Union announced Sunday.

A statement issued by the Kuwaiti Defense Ministry did not reveal the value of the deal or the type of Soviet arms purchased, but the U.S. official said Kuwait has been diversifying its arms sources and "this is more of the same."

The official said U.S. policy is still based on assuring Israel has a technological edge over its Arab neighbors and the proposed sale to Kuwait would not upset that edge.

As for reports that Kuwait will pull back the entire request if Congress blocks sale of the Mavericks, the official said, "This is a package. ... It is highly problematic that the sale would go through if it is taken apart."

Gulf Arabs reducing dependence on U.S.

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Arab states in the Persian Gulf are reducing their dependence on the United States by looking elsewhere to buy arms, but because of the need for U.S. support they have been reluctant to criticize Washington over last week's downing of an Iranian airliner.

Concerned that any U.S. withdrawal from the volatile gulf could leave them exposed to Iran's military superiority, the oil-rich states have tiptoed around the issue of U.S. culpability in the death of the 290 persons aboard Iran Air Flight 655 that was hit by a missile fired by a U.S. cruiser.

Instead they have blamed the tragedy on Iran's refusal to end the almost 8-year-old war with Iraq.

But that same feeling of vulnerability to Iran has led them to shop outside the United States for weapons in the face of bans on sales imposed by the U.S. Congress because of perceived threats to Israel's security.

Weekend announcements that Saudi Arabia would buy Tornado fighter-bombers valued at $12 billion from Britain and that Kuwait had signed an arms deal with the Soviet Union for unspecified weapons were the latest evidence of the trend away from the United States, which has dominated the gulf arms market.

The gulf Arabs had troubles with Iran even under the rule of the shah, but their concern over their powerful neighbor multiplied sharply with the advent of Iran's Islamic revolution.

Both Saudi Arabia and Kuwait "believe the U.S. military presence in the gulf is a key factor in keeping the Iranians at bay," a Western diplomat said.

ANALYSIS

Kuwait, which considers itself the most vulnerable of the gulf states because of its position on the edge of the warfront, last summer placed 11 of its reflagged Kuwaiti tankers under U.S. Navy protection.

It also reflagged two of its tankers with the Soviet ensign in a little-publicized move, although the Soviet Navy does not protect the ships traveling through the gulf like the U.S. Navy does.

Kuwait has not hesitated to play one superpower against the other in what it sees as a deadly survival game. Three years ago it bought $325 million of Soviet SAM-7 anti-aircraft missiles and other arms after Congress rejected a request for Slinger missiles.

The Arabs realize that they cannot rely on the United States to contain the Iranian threat forever.

The downing of the Iranian airliner aroused ears that Washington may re-examine its policy in the gulf and pull out, so the gulf states want to strengthen their arsenal of sophisticated weapons to make up for a lack of manpower.

Saudi Arabia, although repeatedly rebuffed by Congress over proposed U.S. arms deals in recent years, has yet to turn to the Soviet Union, with which it has no diplomatic ties, although contacts have been warming.

Sunken barriers may stop beach erosion

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — University researchers are teamed with a Navy inventor in a yearlong study of sunken ocean barriers he designed to reduce erosion of a valuable Florida commodity — sand.

"If you don't have beaches you don't have tourists," said Lonnie Ryder with the state Department of Natural Resources.

In addition to threatening the state's No. 1 industry, beach erosion menaces coastal homes and reduces nesting areas for endangered sea turtles. Man-made barriers to keep sand out of navigation channels can prevent natural beach restoration that occurs with tide action.

But the researchers, who have set up computers and electronic devices on the shore, hope a new device to deflect and reduce wave size will stem the flow of sand.

"We're really testing the concept, not the design," said University of Miami marine physicist Dan Hanes. "It's probably five years of engineering development before you'd market something like this."

In its current stage the device resembles three 40-foot steel culvert pipes sliced in half lengthwise and chained together with spaces in between to lie on the ocean floor. Ten sets of the three-arch devices will be submerged side by side off-shore in the Cape Canaveral area.

James Ballard, an oceanographer with the Naval Civil Engineering Laboratory in Port Hueneme, Calif., and inventor of the device, said the force of incoming waves is lessened as water passes over.

Ballard, whose job is to survey the effects of his breakwater on the sand, said the project is sponsored by the Office of Naval Research, but the military has no immediate need to stop beach erosion.

"They see it as an investment," he said.

The University of Miami team is using sonar to study how waves move sand. Hanes said the project is the first full-scale effort to intentionally alter a beach.

University of Florida researchers are using computer simulators to model the device's effect on the ocean water. And a team from the Scripps Institute of Oceanography in La Jolla, Calif., is measuring wave heights and currents with pressure sensors set on the ocean floor.

As an example of erosion destruction, Ryder said Miami Beach had disappeared by 1976 and was artificially restored by pumping in 14 million cubic yards of sand. A Time magazine article last year said the California coast is receding 6 inches to 2 feet annually.

Cruises lead to trips up a creek

Not too many years ago the selection by students of chaperones was a matter of determining who in the group had the "coolest" parents. Then the requisite number were chosen and the dance, party or class outing was approved by proper school authorities. Teachers and school administrators were only involved in school functions such as homecoming activities and proms.

There were also certain implicit "no no's" and all concerned social strictures. Teachers and students did not socialize, either on high school or college levels. Drinking with students was cause for dismissal of even tenured faculty at some universities.

Events of the 1960's changed much of that. The failure of the ill-advised Florida teacher's strike in 1968 unalterably changed the image of teachers. The transition of education associations into teacher's unions refocused the goals of educators in elementary and secondary education. The apparent softening of the public's attitude toward teenage drinking and sex gave rise to parental permissiveness in most areas of social interaction.

High school seniors in Seminole and surrounding counties have celebrated graduation with extended beach parties and cruises for the last decade. It was a trip limited to those who could afford it, and often divided "steadies" into can-affords and can't affords. Returns from the cruises were often "break-up times."

Now it appears that teachers in Seminole County have replaced parents as chaperones on the high-sea adventures and students cope with the challenges of keeping the students in line among the rows of gambling devices, kegs of alcohol, and other obvious temptations. The problems facing teachers who take on such responsibilities are apparent. The danger to the school system is also present for as long as employees of the schools are accompanying students and have specific responsibilities. They could be considered agents of the school system and the outing could be classified as an official school function. Releases and waivers of liability are not guarantees and could ultimately become merely fragments of evidence in protracted litigation in the event of harm or accident involving a participating student.

The Seminole County school administration cannot control student activities off campus and outside the auspices of the school. It should therefore be very circumspect in its voluntary involvement. Prudence is dictated and it would appear some teachers need a short course in Discretion 101.

Real experts

President Reagan has decided to offer compensation to families of the 290 people killed in the downing of an Iranian jetliner by an American warship. We disagree with this decision as being premature; a conclusion based on a faulty hypothesis. However, since the President has acted, the next step in government programs is the appointment of a committee to handle distribution policies.

We recommend a nine man committee with Terry Anderson as chairman and William Higgins as vice chairman. Other panel members should be Tom Sutherland, Joseph Cicippio, Frank Reed, Edward Tracy, Robert Polhill, Alann Steen and Jesse Turner.

These men have a degree of expertise not shared by others and are in the best position to assess the merits of claims made by Iranian families.

Bush, the cold-warrior, set to charge

WASHINGTON—Step by step, George Bush has begun to sketch an approach to national-security policy which not only sets him apart from President Reagan but challenges the dominant popular view of Soviet-American relations. In a series of recent speeches and interviews, Bush has taken a decidedly more skeptical tone than Reagan toward the changes Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev is seeking in his country. And Bush has outlined an arms-control strategy more likely to delay than accelerate the next agreement with the Russians.

He has done so knowingly, because he is listening to advisers whose convictions about the dangers of détente are more reminiscent of the Reagan of 1975 than the Reagan of 1988. As those views become more evident, they are almost certain to fuel a basic foreign-policy debate with Democratic challenger Michael S. Dukakis.

This development has large-scale consequences for the fall campaign and for the future of U.S.-Soviet relations if Bush becomes President. It has been obscured because of the summer holiday from politics and the understandable focus on headline stories from the Persian Gulf to the Justice Department. But unless Bush backtracks, which is doubtful, the line has been drawn and his candidacy will gain or lose accordingly.

It began with a speech in San Francisco on June 29 to the World Affairs Council of Northern California. The morning papers that day carried long stories about Gorbachev's address to the party conference in Moscow, in which he outlined probably the most radical restructuring of the Soviet government and the Russian economy in the 70 years since the Bolshevik revolution.

Bush read of Gorbachev's call for introduction of market pricing and individual rewards in an effort to revive what he acknowledged to be a falling economy. He read of the proposal to limit the tenure of Soviet leaders and curtail the monolithic grip of the party bureaucracy on every aspect of life.

And then he stepped forward to deliver a speech to which he had devoted substantial personal effort. He told his fellow-countrymen that "the Cold War is not over" and while America "must be bold enough to seize the opportunity of change," it must at the same time be prepared for "protracted conflict."

He said after the speech that he saw "a distinct difference" between his views and those of Dukakis. The Democrat, Bush accurately observed, attributes virtually all of the Soviet accommodations which led to the recently ratified Intermediate Nuclear Forces (INF) Treaty to the pressures of domestic economic problems. "I don't believe that," Bush said, adding that in his view the Russians were forced to negotiate by the buildup in American military strength and Reagan's demonstrated resolve.

A few days later, in an interview with The Washington Post, Bush dropped the second shoe. He said it is doubtful Reagan will be able, before leaving office, to achieve the U.S. nuclear agreement for reductions in long-range nuclear missiles he has sought for years in the START talks. And if Bush succeeds Reagan, he said, he would instruct negotiators to give greater emphasis to reductions in conventional forces in Europe.

Here's a toast to Ed Meese

Ed Meese chose shrewdly the moment to announce his intention to step down as Attorney General, right after special prosecutor James McKay had signaled his conclusion that there are no grounds for indicting him, and before McKay or anybody else could offer Meese's critics, as a consolation prize, a gratuitous opinion about the ethical propriety of his conduct in this or that particular instance.

Meese's enemies will probably push doggedly on for a few weeks, trying to damage his reputation a bit further; but the whole subject is yesterday's news now, and they know it. Ed Meese can retire with his head held high, and no doubt will find additional ways, in private life, to serve his country well.

Defenders of Mr. liberal media sometimes argue that their critics must be mistaken about their venom and their power, else how could a conservative like Ronald Reagan be elected and reelected president of the United States? The answer, of course, is that while the media are indeed powerful, they are not (thank the Lord!) all-powerful.

In many a battle below the presidential level, however, the media can inflict impressive damage on targets they dislike. The case of Ed Meese illustrates this process to perfection.

As one of President Reagan's old California team of close advisers, Meese was a logical target of media abuse from the very start of the Reagan administration. Anything discreditable that could be said about him would inevitably reflect, in the long run, on the media's real target, Reagan himself. In all this, needless to say, the media had the enthusiastic cooperation of the Democrats in Congress, who were always available to denounce, deplore, register shock, raise questions, float rumors, and express doubts.

The attack on Meese got under way in the first Reagan administration, when he was counselor to the President. Meese had accepted a pair of cufflinks as a gift from the Communist government of China, and there was a great rumpus about this in the press. Scantling blood, the media rooted out some loans that Meese had received from California friends who later obtained federal jobs, and congressional Democrats demanded — and got — the appointment of a special prosecutor (Jacob Stein) to investigate the matter, just as Meese was being named Attorney General.

Controversy surrounds parks celebration

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear
WASHINGTON — There is no love lost between Interior Secretary Donald Hodel and his underling, National Park Service Director William Penn Mott Jr. Now, Hodel has initiated what appears to be a politically motivated investigation of Mott and his special assistant, Loren Fraser, because they are helping a private committee promote a celebration of the great outdoors.

In the tradition of Reagan appointees to the top Interior job, Hodel is pro-development. Mott is a conservationist with a career in parks protection spanning more than half a century.

The current tiff between the two centers on the "National Celebration of the Outdoors." Interior Department correspondence we have obtained indicates that the department's inspector general is investigating the involvement of Mott and Fraser.

Listen to Jackson

It is one of the many grotesqueries of the present campaign that no one pays Jesse Jackson the courtesy of actually listening to what he is saying. A kind of quiet national decision has been made that the only, the only, important thing about Jesse Jackson is that he's black.

And maybe this is correct, because a white candidate saying the things Jackson is saying would be weighting in with less than one percent of the vote. The only reason Jackson is pulling a significant slice of the Democratic vote is that he's black. One surmises that even black voters are not actually listening to Jackson. All they pay attention to is his skin color.

A weird situation. This columnist has little interest in any politician's skin color. If George Bush were for raising my taxes and Jesse Jackson were for lowering them, you wouldn't need three guesses to know who I would vote for.

But we really ought to pay Jackson the courtesy of actually listening to what he has been saying.

Jackson supports racial quotas in jobs and schooling. If you apply for an opening and your "group" is "over-represented," Jackson would slam the door in your face.

Jackson backs the Harkin-Gephardt agriculture bill, which would enforce mandatory production controls on subsidized farm commodities, and would prevent farmers from selling more than their quota. Jackson apparently does not begin to understand that such a system would drastically raise food prices at the expense of the urban middle class and especially the urban poor. Or that it would require a federal policing of agriculture to a degree from which, you can be certain, Mikhail Gorbachev would shrink.

Jackson wants a "code of conduct" for American business which would monitor investment "in the best interest in the community." Translated, that means Jackson wants the government to tell firms and I suppose individuals where to invest their money.

Jackson wants "universal and comprehensive health care," no thought whatsoever of private alternatives or tax incentives for insurance programs. He admits that the bill would be $50 billion, to start with, and rising. Inevitably, such a program would end up in federal rationing of health care.

Jackson shows no understanding whatsoever of the economic roots of personal freedom, or of the efficiency of the market place in making economic decisions. Each and every one of his proposals would amount to more federal power, more regulation, more bureaucracy, and inevitable stagnation.

Jackson also lies shamelessly, and is not, not ever, called on it. He says, in broad daylight, that since 1973 we have lost 38 million jobs. The fact of the matter is that since 1973 we have made a net gain of 27 million jobs. Jackson talks as if we were back in 1935, in the depths of the Depression. In fact we are entering our 87th month of sustained economic growth.

No white candidate could get away with openly admiring Fidel Castro, Yasser Arafat, Che Guevara and Daniel Ortega.

No 1988 confabs for me

I hold these myths to be self-evident:

- That the tooth fairy leaves money in place of your tooth while you're asleep.
- That the Easter Bunny brings Easter eggs.
- That Santa Claus comes down the chimney on Christmas Eve.
- That "God didn't make little green apples, it don't rain in Indianapolis in the summertime."
- And that the two national political conventions nominate their party's candidate during July and August.

Somehow, when it comes to the quadrennial political conventions, intelligent adults still haven't put away childish things.

They think the Democratic National Convention at Atlanta and the Republican National Convention at New Orleans actually choose Michael Dukakis and George Bush for president. They sit in front of their television sets during convention week, wondering how the logorrheic orgies in boredom can be relevant to anybody beside the political fugitive standing in front of the microphone.

The fact is, both candidates locked up their nominations weeks ago when they won a majority of delegates in the primaries. Like the anachronistic electoral college, the two conventions merely ratify the electorate's choice.

This year, for the first time in my 30 years as a journalist, I'm not covering either one of the conventions.

It's time to stop lying to the American people. Political conventions are now as useful as an appendix and as electronically honest as a tag-team wrestling match.

The only thing to be seen on network television, which restricted full coverage in 1988 to the hours between 9 and 11 p.m. (ET), is an interminable procession of speakers, Hollywood-glitzed acts and somber-faced network pundits trying to pretend all of it is as relevant as a no-hitter going into the ninth inning.

It ain't. Once upon a time, R.P. (Before Primaries), conventions determined the nominee. At the 1948 Republican convention in Philadelphia, New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey received 434 votes on the first ballot. Ohio Sen. Robert E. Taft, 224; former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen, 157; and Michigan Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, 53.

years before its inception. In 1985, a President's Commission was organized to assess America's outdoor recreation needs. Some Democrats dismissed the commission as an attempt by Reagan to whitewash his environmental record.

The commission, however, recommended extensive and expensive changes. Its report apparently embarrassed the administration, because its policies ran contrary to the commission's findings.

When little was done to implement the suggestions, more than a dozen park and recreation leaders and conservationists decided to organize the national celebration. They designated one week in May 1989 for local groups to plan activities and meetings focusing on the outdoors.

Mott wanted the committee to have input from the Park Service, so he assigned Fraser as a liaison.

A spokesman for Hodel rejected the speculation that the resulting investigation is politically motivated. "Someone is suspicious of everything (Hodel) does. It goes with the territory," he said.

Miami Heat names Rothstein coach

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Heat Monday named Detroit Pistons assistant Ron Rothstein the first coach of the NBA expansion franchise.

The Heat and the Pistons confirmed the appointment. A news conference is scheduled for in Miami Tuesday to announce the move.

"You don't get this opportunity every day," Rothstein said prior to departing Detroit late Monday for Miami.

"I know it's going to be difficult. I know it's not going to be easy. But I'm going to be working with some great people down there. We'll approach this as positively as we can. We want to get better every time we take the floor, and sometimes success is measured in very small steps."

Utah Jazz assistant Jerry Sloan was the other candidate interviewed for the job. Sources said a final sticking point in the negotiations with Rothstein was his demand for a three-year, guaranteed contract. Rothstein has been considered the leading candidate for the job for several months.

Rothstein, 45, helped build the Pistons into one of the NBA's top defensive clubs. He worked as an assistant with the New York Knicks and Atlanta Hawks before going to Detroit for the 1986-87 season.

The appointment leaves the Minnesota Timberwolves as the last expansion team without a coach. The Charlotte Hornets named Dick Harter and the Orlando Magic selected Matt Guokas.

Bucs open camp, draft picks absent

TAMPA (UPI) — Demanding more competition at every position for the puncheonless Tampa Bay Buccaneers, Coach Ray Perkins staged his opening training camp practice Monday without the club's top two draft choices.

Perkins welcomed 74 players to the University of Tampa campus for an afternoon workout in muggy, 90-degree heat. Although veterans are not required to attend until July 20, the Buccaneers reported 21 veterans in camp for Perkins' second season with Tampa Bay.

Wisconsin tackle Paul Gruber, the first offensive player chosen in the draft; second-round pick Lars Tate, a running back from Georgia; and fourth-round choice Monte Robbins, a punter from Michigan, remain unsigned and out of training camp.

Simon wins 9th stage of Tour

STRASBOURG, France (UPI) — Jerome Simon of France won the ninth stage of the Tour de France Monday, defeating Italian Bruno Lali by seven seconds.

St. ve Bauer of Canada maintained the overall lead. Simon, a member of the Z-Peugeot team, moved into second place on the overall list and trails Bauer by 14 seconds.

The stage was a 99.5-mile run from Nancy to Strasbourg that included the first mountain climbs of the 21-day Tour.

Fisher, Roberts no-hit Smyrna

Sanford Juniors roll to 10-0 rout

Special to the Herald

SANFORD BASEBALL

SANFORD — The Sanford Junior Major League All-Stars, under the direction of Coach Mike Maples, started their quest for a state championship by crushing New Smyrna Beach, 10-0, behind the combined no-hit, 13 strikeout pitching of Maurice Fisher and Anthony "Redman" Roberts. The District 4 Tournament is being played all this week at Sanford's Chase Park on Celery Avenue.

In the first game of the evening, the Holly Hill All-Stars defeated the Edgewater All-Stars 9-4 behind the four hit pitching of Vincent Elliott.

The winners' bracket will be played tonight with Holly Hill facing Port Orange at 6 and Sanford taking on Ormond Beach at 8.

Sanford starter Fisher, who was the Junior League MVP/Sportmanship award winner this past season, got his team started right by striking out the side in the top of the first with only 10 pitches.

Sanford then took complete control of the game by sending nine men to the plate and scoring four runs in the bottom of the first.

The inning started with Phillip

"Duke" King reaching on an error by the third baseman, and Roberts reached on an infield hit. New Smyrna looked to be out of the inning when the next batter, Tyrone Williams, lined a shot to the shortstop with the runners going. The catch was made and King was easily doubled off second, but the throw to first was wild and Roberts moved to second. Mike Dillon blooped a single just over the pitcher's head as Roberts moved over to third. Dillon stole second and both runners advanced a base on a balk. Clarence Ferrell walked and both runners advanced when the pitcher balked again. Maurice Fisher, Matt Wilks, and Cory Williams all reached on infield errors with Ferrell and Fisher scoring. The inning finally ended when Mike Maples' bid for a hit was caught on a nice over the shoulder by the shortstop.

The second inning saw Fisher almost duplicate the first as he struck out two, but he walked James Posick and he stole second, but when he tried to steal third Sanford catcher Ferrell nailed him on a great throw to Cory Williams.

In the third, with Sanford leading 4-0, New Smyrna got Fisher in his only real trouble of the evening when, after the first two men struck out, Fisher walked the next three to load the bases and bring the tying run to the plate. But, after a visit from coach Maples, Fisher struck out the next batter with three pitches.

Sanford got back in the scoring groove in the third when Ferrell hit a single to center which got past the center fielder allowing Ferrell to move to third. Ferrell scored on an infield hit by Fisher, and Fisher scored on a double to right by Cory Williams to make the score 6-0.

New Smyrna again went down. See SANFORD, Page 6A

Nationals claim BIG victory over Oviedo

By CHRIS PISTER
Herald sports editor

SENIOR ALL-STARS

ALTAMONTE — It was a BIG night at Altamonte's Eastmonte Park Monday in the opening round of the District 14 Area 3 Senior Tournament. No, Tom Hanks didn't put in a surprise appearance. It's just that the Altamonte Nationals and Oviedo came through with BIG performances throughout the evening to keep the 301 fans on edge.

The game featured a pair of fireballing pitchers and sparkling defense on both sides. To go along with the pitching of Kevin Morro and impressive all-around defense, Altamonte got the BIG hit of the night as Neal James cracked a three-run homer in the first inning and the Nationals went on to claim a 4-1 victory.

Altamonte goes on to a winners' bracket game tonight at 7 at Oviedo. Oviedo will play in the losers' bracket tonight at 7 at Mount Dora.

Morro, who looks like a righthanded Sandy Koufax, breezed through the top of the first as he struck out the first two Oviedo hitters and retired the third on a grounder to shortstop T.J. Hamilton.

Altamonte got something going right away in the bottom of the first as T.J. Giuffrida drew a leadoff walk off Oviedo ace Bubba Fore. Hamilton followed with a bunt single and Jamie Mooney reached on a fielder's choice that put Hamilton out at second with Giuffrida taking third.

Fore then had a 1-1 count on James and came in with a fastball and James jumped all over it and lined a shot over the fence in straightaway center for a 3-0 Altamonte lead.

Oviedo's defense kept Altamonte from blowing the game wide open in the first as first baseman Fred Engle made a diving stop of Tanner Morrison's grounder and beat him to the bag for the second out and catcher Ryan Alkire threw out John Gardner on a steal attempt at second to end the inning.

Oviedo got a leadoff single from Alkire in the top of the second but Morro got the next two hitters and Altamonte first baseman Jeff Ostlie then made a lunging stop of Engle's grounder and outtraced him to the bag for the third out.

Fore retired Altamonte in order in the bottom of the second and Oviedo then put together its best scoring chance in the top of the third. Tyson Crist led off with a walk, but he was forced at second when Hamilton went up the middle, so take a single away from Jeremy Stelhorn. Kevin Blagg followed with a walk and Chet Tulp's swinging bunt went for a single as Oviedo loaded the bases with one out.

Morro then rose to the occasion as he got B.J. Calapa to pop out to third and the dangerous Alkire to fly out to right field.

Fore sailed through the bottom of the third without any problem and Morro then once again had to work out of a jam in the top of the fourth. Fore reached on a rare Altamonte error to start the frame and Pete Arcomone then lashed a shot that seemed headed for right field. Second baseman Giuffrida, though, robbed Arcomone as he made a spectacular diving stop and made it even more impressive quickly getting to his feet and getting the lead runner. Fore, at second, Engle then reached on catcher's interference but the rally ended there when Morro got the next two hitters to pop out.

In the bottom of the fourth, for the third inning in a row, Fore set down Altamonte in order as he continued to keep Oviedo in the ballgame. Morro then set Oviedo down in order in the top of the fifth.

Altamonte got a one-out single from Dana Dearth in the bottom of the fifth but Fore fanned the next two hitters to end the inning.

Alkire then put Oviedo on the board in the top of the sixth — and in a BIG way. Alkire was looking for a first-ball fastball, and that's exactly what he got. The Oviedo catcher unloaded a mammoth blast over the fence in left center to trim Altamonte's lead to 3-1.

Fore also got a first ball fastball and he lashed it into centerfield for a base hit. A one-out single to left by Engle put runners on the corners but Morro again pitched his way out of the jam as he got Crist to pop to Giuffrida and struck out Jason Steiner.

Altamonte added a run in the bottom of the sixth for a 4-1 lead. Hamilton singled to right to start the inning, stole second and took third on a wild pitch. Mooney then singled up the middle to drive in Hamilton.

Rain threatens All-Star Game

CINCINNATI (UPI) — What's good for the farmbelt is bad for major league baseball.

Rain, a rarity recently in the Midwest, has returned to Cincinnati in time to threaten today's 59th All-Star Game.

An early afternoon downpour all but wiped out a slate of festivities Monday that was to include a homer hitting contest with American and National league sluggers. And the National Weather Service is forecasting a 40 percent chance of rain for gametime (8:35 p.m. EDT) with cloudy skies and temperatures in the high-80s.

Monday's showers represented the first time since the opening week of April it had rained on consecutive days in the drought-stricken city, the Service said.

The Baseball Commissioners Office Monday did not divulge a contingency plan in case of a rainout. However, only 13 games have been rained out in Riverfront Stadium's 18-year history.

If the game went to Wednesday, the NL and its arm-weary pitching staff would benefit. NL Manager Whitey Herzog conceded Monday four members of his 10-pitcher staff would not play today barring extra innings. Chicago's Greg Maddux, Los Angeles' Orel Hershiser, New York's David Cone and Pittsburgh's Bob Walk all started Sunday and Herzog does not want to work them on such short rest.

"I'll try to stay away from those four guys unless I have to absolutely use them," Herzog said. "Those guys are all in a pennant race and that's more important than the All-Star Game. I still have six pitchers I can use."

Herzog announced Met right-hander Dwight Gooden (11-5, 3.04 ERA) will start. AL Manager Tom Kelly will counter with the top member of his Twin rotation, southpaw Frank Viola (14-2, 2.24).

No AL starter performed Sunday and only Milwaukee reliever Dan Plesac, with one inning, worked at all.

"We've got a whole bunch of guys ready to pitch," said Kelly, who will use Boston righty Roger Clemens as his second hurler. "Maybe if we had some guys pitch Sunday it would be easier because I want to get them all in."

Herzog's start decision came down to Gooden, and left-handers Bob Knepper of Houston and Cincinnati's Danny Jackson. Since the AL sports just one left-handed hitter in the starting lineup besides Viola, Boston third baseman Wade Boggs, Gooden became the choice.

Herzog said Knepper will pitch second and either Jackson or Philadelphia's Kevin Gross third.

The AL's weakness could come in the field. Yankee Rickey Henderson will bat his usual leadoff, but will play center instead of left field. Milwaukee's Paul Molitor will hit second and play second base for the first time this season.

Busse, Oviedo pound Altamonte

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

MAJOR ALL-STARS

OVIDO — The Oviedo Major League All-Stars came up with a spectacular comeback victory to throw down the Altamonte Nationals, 13-5, in the opening round of the District 14 Area 3 Tournament before 251 fans at the Oviedo Little League Baseball Complex.

Oviedo will return to action tonight at 7 at Eastmonte Park in Altamonte against Eustis, a 7-1 winner over Casselberry. Altamonte will return to action against Mount Dora tonight in Mount Dora.

Oviedo spotted Altamonte three runs in the top of the first before coming on in the middle innings led by the power hitting of Jay Busse who finished with two singles a double and a two run homer, racking up five runs batted in while scoring twice.

Oviedo also used some nice defense by center fielder Todd Bellhorn in the final two innings to prevent the Altamonte team from rallying. Bellhorn made a pair of nice catches in both the fifth and sixth innings with men in scoring position.

Altamonte managed to get on the board first coming out strong with Frank Harmer leading the game off with a single. Ken Mills then walked followed by a run scoring single by Chris Kleibl. After an out Dusty Story singled to score Mills and Kleibl to give Altamonte a 3-0 lead.

Oviedo picked up a run in the bottom of the second with Busse leading the inning off with a single down the left field line Brian King followed with a fielders choice with Busse being thrown out at second. After the second out of the inning Brian Duncan delivered a double down the left field line to cut the lead to 3-1.

Oviedo came back to score three more runs in the bottom of the third inning to take the lead for good. Bellhorn led the inning off and was hit by a pitch. Busse then belted a single to the left center field gap to score Bellhorn. King followed with a run scoring single before advancing to second on a fielders choice. Duncan then reached on an error that scored King to give Oviedo a 4-3 lead.

Oviedo took command of the game with five runs in the bottom of the fourth inning as Jason Alford led off by reaching first on an error. Two wild pitches sent Alford to third and, after an out and Timmy Slavick walked, he scored on a fielders choice by Mike Rugentus. Bellhorn then walked followed by a double by Busse and give Oviedo a comfortable 9-3 lead.

Altamonte came up with its final two runs in the top of the fifth, though, to make things interesting. Jared Varitek led off with a single, after an out, Mills hit into a fielders choice with Varitek being put out at second. After Mills advanced to second on a wild pitch Kleibl stroked a run scoring double, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Peter Gads to cut the lead to 8-5.

Tyson seeking new management

NEW YORK (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Mike Tyson is putting together a new management team that has no place for manager Bill Cayton, and may exclude promoter Don King and trainer Kevin Rooney as well.

Tyson, trying to break his contract with Cayton, Monday said he wants to manage his own career and will set up a board to advise him on boxing and business affairs.

Tyson already has enlisted billionaire real-estate developer Donald Trump as an advisor. Trump joined the board of Mike Tyson Enterprises, a corporation set up by Tyson, his wife Robin Givens, mother-in-law Ruth Roper and attorney Michael Winston.

Trump, Givens, Roper and Winston banked the 22-year-old champion Monday at Trump's Plaza Hotel in Manhattan. Tyson said he will rely on them for advice, but the decisions will be his.

"I called this press conference to set the record straight," said Tyson, who knocked out Michael Spinks in 91 seconds June 27. "I love my family, they're with me to the end. But I call all the shots. My wife didn't file suit against Bill Cayton. I did. I want to manage my career my own self."

BOXING

"I don't like the agreement I have with Bill Cayton. And I don't like the attitude he has toward me and my family. He wants all the power; he wants control of everything. He never takes a punch and he never sweated a day in his life."

Tyson filed suit against Cayton in New York Supreme Court the day of the Spinks fight, seeking to break his managerial contract and deny Cayton his one-third cut of the champion's $21 million purse.

Cayton insists he will remain Tyson's manager through the rest of the contract, which he says runs until 1992. There is a hearing Tuesday on a restraining order Tyson requested to prevent Cayton from acting as his manager or receiving money from the Spinks fight.

"I think the courts will find my contracts are fully enforceable and I intend to enforce them," Cayton said from his New York office. "We're going to be in a lawsuit next Tuesday. I would rather not comment, because I have been advised not to say anything. I will hold anything I have to say until after the lawsuit."

Trump's Atlantic City, N.J., casino has staged four of Tyson's lights, and Trump paid $11 million to hold the Tyson-Spinks fight. Trump said he will not insist Tyson fight at his casino.

"I don't care where he fights," Trump said. "Whether it's with us or Las Vegas, I'm a friend and an adviser. Mike will call his own shots."

Trump said he will work for a fee to be donated to charity.

Tyson is 35-0 with 31 knockouts. After beating Spinks and he said he might not fight again, but apparently he has decided to resume his career.

"I wouldn't say I'm retired," he said. "I love to fight. But this (retirement) is something I have to consider."

Tyson said he was "not sure" if he would fight Frank Bruno in England Sept. 3 as scheduled.

Judge rejects free agency

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — A federal judge has paved the way for a protracted legal struggle between the NFL and its players, rejecting the NFL Players Association's request for immediate free agency for more than 250 players.

U.S. District Judge David Doty refused to grant a preliminary injunction Monday that would have made all veteran players whose contracts expired Feb. 1 free to join any of the 28 NFL teams without the usual player reserve system of compensation and right of first refusal.

But, while depriving the players of short-term leverage in their long-simmering battle with management, the judge predicted the union would win a jury trial on its massive antitrust suit against the league, a process that could extend several years.

In his 16-page ruling, Doty said he "finds it probable that the players will prevail at trial and that at least some of the players are likely to sustain irreparable harm if they are not immediately permitted to sign with other NFL clubs."

Doty cited the possibility of "destruction of the competitive balance" of the league and financial losses by teams in ruling that "the potential harm to the owners greatly outweighs that presented to the players."

The suit was filed last Oct. 15. The day the players ended an ill-fated 24-day suit. It asserts that in the absence of a collective bargaining agreement, the league's player reserve system of compensation-first refusal, the college draft and the standard player contract violate federal antitrust laws. The old collective bargaining agreement expired last Aug. 31, about three weeks before the players walked off the job.

"It is very significant that judge Doty found it probable that the players will win in trial," NFLPA Executive Director Gene Upshaw said. "Winning would mean the awarding of treble damages for players who have been illegally damaged by the owners' unlawful continuance of the 1982 agreement. It is too late for the NFL clubs to undo that damage for 1988 free agents, so they face a huge liability in this litigation."

Upshaw said "we are not surprised" that the preliminary injunction was denied and said he will request an expedited trial date.

The Management Council Executive Committee, the powerful policy-making body of the league's labor relations unit, released a statement demanding that the union, which represents about 1,600 NFL players, resume talks for a collective bargaining agreement for the first time since the strike.

"NFL players now face another season with old benefits," the Management Council statement said. "Players deserve the improved benefits that go hand-in-hand with the negotiated settlement of all the interrelated issues. It is time to get out of the media and back to the bargaining table. We believe the NFLPA should resume bargaining at the earliest possible date."

Doty also urged the sides to resolve their long-standing labor differences at the bargaining table.

"By declining to inject itself into the controversy, the court enables the parties to continue negotiating in the stable and familiar environment of the status quo," Doty's ruling states. "Indeed, the court's ruling may produce the added benefit of actually moving the parties closer together in negotiations."

According to Management Council figures released earlier Monday, a total of 263 players, including such stars as Philadelphia's Randall Cunningham, the New York Giants' Mark Bavaro and Carl Banks, Miami's Mark Duper and Chicago's Willie Gault, would have been affected by the ruling.

Stokes throws no-hitter, Oviedo Juniors roll

By MARK BLYTHE

OVIEDO — Chris Stokes hurled Oviedo's second consecutive no-hitter to lead the Oviedo All-Stars to a 14-2 victory over Casselberry Monday night in the second round of the District 14 Area Three Junior League Tournament before 201 fans at the Oviedo Little League Baseball Complex.

Stokes finished the night with four strikeouts while walking four as Casselberry cashed in on a pair of errors to score its runs. Stokes was backed by the hitting of Chris Watson and Mark Bellhorn who combined for five runs batted in.

Oviedo will look to keep its good pitching intact, along with its tough defense and potent offense, tonight when it will travel to Altamonte to play the winner of the Altamonte-Eustis ballgame.

Oviedo jumped out to a quick lead again and was not challenged throughout the game as Drew Jackson opened the bottom half of the first inning with a single to left. After Jackson stole second Paul Giambalvo walked followed by a run scoring single by Bellhorn. Bellhorn then stole second before Wisdom stroked a two run single to left center to plate both runners and give Oviedo a 3-0 advantage.

Oviedo came out to score three more runs in the bottom of the second as Russ Cammack, Rob Brown and Jackson all walked to load the bases. After two outs, Wisdom drew a run scoring walk followed by a two run single by Stokes to build the lead to 6-0.

Stokes gave up his first walk in the top of third to Craig McGee who stole second and advanced to third on a passed ball. Oviedo, though, came up with a pair of nice defensive plays to keep the run from scoring.

Chad Shaw led off the bottom half of the inning with a double to the left center field gap. After a ground out advanced him to third he scored on a passed ball to up the lead to 7-0.

Casselberry managed to get on the scoreboard with a single run in the top of the fourth as Brad Norburg led the inning off by drawing a walk. Shay Burnstein then hit into a fielders choice with Norburg being thrown out at second. Burnstein then advanced two bases on an error that allowed Jaron Proulx to reach first safely. Proulx was then thrown out trying to steal and the throw back to the plate to put out Burnstein was off target narrowing the lead to 7-1.

Oviedo put the game completely out of reach in the bottom half of the inning with four runs. Bellhorn led off with a single to left and stole second. Wisdom then walked before Stokes dropped in a bloop single in load the bases. Shaw then drew a run scoring walk before Jamie Jackson dropped down a bunt. Casselberry tried to put the runner out at the plate but the throw was late and Oviedo had everybody advance safely. Cammack followed with a run scoring walk and after an out Drew Jackson hit into a fielders choice that scored Jamie Jackson that upped the lead to 11-1.

Oviedo added a run in the bottom of the fifth as Bellhorn led off with a walk, stole second and advanced to third on an error by the Casselberry catcher before scoring on a passed ball to up the lead to 12-1.

Casselberry added its final run in the top of the sixth when Jake Reid led off with a walk, stole second and took third on a passed ball. After an out and a walk drawn by Norburg, Burnstein reached on an error that scored Reid and cut the lead to 12-2.

Oviedo answered with a pair of runs in the bottom half of the inning as, after an out, Drew Jackson reached on an error followed by a single by Giambalvo that placed runners on first and third. Bellhorn followed with a run scoring single that Giambalvo was thrown out on trying for third. Bellhorn then stole second and moved to third on passed ball before scoring on a fielders choice by Stokes to score the final run of the night with Oviedo up 14-2.

Lyle one of British favorites

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (UPI) — The high point of Sandy Lyle's first British Open was shaking hands with Gary Player. Fourteen years later, Lyle is back at the Royal Lytham and St. Annes course as one of the favorites to win the championship.

Lyle, who won The Masters in April, is co-favorite with Spain's Severiano Ballesteros to capture the title on the relatively flat links, where the changeable winds off the northwest coast of England are always a factor.

BRITISH OPEN

"My record at Lytham?" Lyle said. "I was 16 when I played here for the first time, and played in the Open for the first time in 1974. I didn't make the last day."

"In 1974, I shook hands with Gary Player on the putting green at the start of the week."

Lyle won the Open at Sandwich, England, in 1985, but admitted his Masters victory at Augusta, Ga., in April had to be his best.

"The Open was the one which gave me the most pleasure at the time, but the Masters was the high point of my career — to finish with a birdie to win the Masters, that will be remembered."

Lyle said the key at Lytham would be getting to the green.

"My short game is pretty decent," he said. "The main thing is getting the ball off the tee. My main objective is getting off the tee and keeping the ball in play for the second shot in the green."

Altamonte rocks Eustis

EUSTIS — Steve Tolbert fired a one-hitter and Mike Elliott cracked a game-ending three-run homer as the Altamonte Junior All-Stars opened play in the District 14 Area 3 Tournament with a 12-0 rout of Eustis Monday night at Eustis.

Altamonte plays tonight at 7 against Oviedo at Altamonte's Eastmonte Park. Elliott is expected to get the start on the mound and Altamonte will hope to keep its bats alive as Oviedo's pitchers have thrown two consecutive no-hitters.

Tolbert is in complete command from start to finish in the six-inning contest as he struck out eight and walked only one while throwing just 68 pitches.

"He pitched a tremendous

JUNIOR ALL-STARS

game," Altamonte manager Baird Lyons said of Tolbert. "And he received excellent defense up the middle."

Altamonte took the lead for good in the first inning when Frank Harner singled, stole second and scored on Andrew Thompson's base hit. Nakta Roberts and Tolbert had RBI singles in the second frame as Altamonte built the lead to 4-0.

Elliott slammed an RBI triple in the third inning while Harner and Elliott both had RBI singles in the fourth. With the score 9-0 in the sixth inning, Elliott stepped up and roped a three-run homer to end the game by the slaughter rule.

Altamonte threatened to add to the lead but centerfielder Tulp put to rest any thoughts of an Altamonte rout. With no outs and the bases loaded, Gardner hit a high curve to Tulp and he let loose with a cannon shot that nailed the runner from third at the plate. Fore struck out the next batter to end the inning.

Oviedo got a runner to third with two outs in the top of the seventh and Morro then sewed up the win as he struck out Alkire.

Morro finished with four

Oviedo then put the game out of reach with four runs in the bottom half of the inning. Andy Taylor led off with a single moved to second on a wild pitch before advancing on a passed ball. Rugenius then walked and both runners moved up on a passed ball. Another wild pitch and a passed ball scored Rugenius before Bellhorn drew a walk. Busse followed with a line drive homer over the left field fence to give Oviedo a 13-5 advantage entering the final inning.

strikeouts and only two walks while allowing six hits. Fore, who pitched impressively in defeat, finished with six strikeouts, two walks and allowed seven hits (four in the sixth inning).

AMERICANS TRIUMPH

The Altamonte Senior Americans opened play in the District 14 Tournament with a 12-4 victory over South Orange at the Apopka-West Seminole Complex. The victory gave the Altamonte Springs Little League four wins out of five games on Monday night.

Americans rip Pine Hills, 20-5

PINE HILLS — Backed by a seven-run second inning in which six runs scored with two outs, the Altamonte American All-Stars rolled to a 20-5 victory over Pine Hills in District 14 Area 2 Tournament.

Altamonte, which won its second game in a row, advances to the winners' bracket final tonight at 7 against Apopka at the Apopka-West Seminole Complex.

"We hit the ball well but I felt the defense played poorly," Altamonte manager George Pihakis said. "We haven't found the pieces to the defensive puzzle yet."

Jason Perry had a key two-out, two-run double in the second inning for Altamonte to help break the game open Monday while Genius McRae also had a big two-out hit in the inning. McRae finished with three RBIs on the night.

MAJOR ALL-STARS

Also fueling the 13-hit attack was Jason Jufflet with two doubles and two runs and Todd Herrbach hit his first home run of the tournament.

Perry started on the mound but had control problems early and Tim Frazier came on in relief and got the win. Frazier had seven strikeouts in his relief effort.

Pihakis and the Americans are looking for to playing Apopka tonight since it is the same team that eliminated Altamonte from last year's tourney. Herrbach will start on the mound for Altamonte.

"We expect them to be real tough," Pihakis said of Apopka. "They have a pitcher who throws real hard and I expect we'll see him. This will be a key game for us because our goal was to be 3-0 and unbeaten in the area finals."

Tonight will also mark the last game in which Todd Wolgemuth will dress out for the Americans. Wolgemuth, a key player on the league champion Athletics team, is out with a back injury.

Trading active, prices mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 5.16 Monday, was up 0.71 to 2112.02 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 327-298 among the 1,048 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 10,331,000 shares.

Prices posted modest gains Monday in slow trading as a limited number of investors responded to an easing in fears over the outlook for inflation.

Monday "was another one of those picket-fence type of days," said Larry Wachtel, a market analyst with Prudential-Bache Securities Inc. "Often a quiet Friday leads to a quiet Monday. But it wasn't a bad session."

"Most of the gains can be attributed to the drop in commodity prices," Wachtel said. "Some of the inflation fears were temporarily stifled and this allowed the market to gain. However, there is still concern over the future of Fed policy and talk of a boost in the prime rate."

Dollar drifts lower gold, silver mixed

By United Press International

The dollar drifted lower today in light trading on major foreign currency markets as dealers stepped to the sidelines to await Friday's report on the nation's trade picture. Gold was mixed.

The Commerce Department is expected to report the U.S. merchandise trade figures on Friday.

Currency market watchers in New York said expectations forecast a trade balance on a seasonally adjusted basis of around $11.3 billion, a slight increase from May's $9.9 billion, offset by increased non-petroleum and oil imports.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar weakened against the Japanese yen in quiet trading, closing at 132.70 yen, off 0.63 from 133.33 yen on Monday.

In early New York trading, the dollar was mixed against key foreign currencies in light trading.

On the European markets, in Frankfurt, the dollar began trading at 1.836 West German marks, down from 1.8423 on Monday.

In Zurich, the dollar opened at 1.5273 Swiss francs, down from 1.5340 and in Paris at 6.1815 French francs, down from 6.1985.

In London, the pound opened at $1.6925 compared with $1.6885 on Monday.

The dollar started the day in Brussels at 38.80 Belgian francs, down slightly from 38.85 and in Milan at 1,361.00 lire, down from 1,364.75.

On the hullion markets, gold opened $1 lower in Zurich at $435.50 an ounce and was unchanged in London at $435.25.

The London morning gold fixing was $434.50, off 75 cents from Monday's close.

In earlier trading in the Far East, gold closed at $435.25 on the Hong Kong Bullion Exchange, off $4.50 from Monday's close.

Silver opened unchanged in Zurich at $7 an ounce and gained 2 cents in London to $6.96 an ounce.

Iacocca seeks trade retaliation

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca wants the United States to retaliate against its trading partners if they don't work to reduce the current $160 billion United States trade deficit.

Iacocca complained Monday to station WXYZ-TV that anyone who suggests action against the trade deficit is labeled a protectionist by the Reagan administration.

"There's no in-between with them, there's no compromise," Iacocca said.

The Chrysler chairman said the United States should set a deadline for dealing with the trading partners responsible for the imbalance.

"We own the market," he said. "We're the consumers. We're hooking our future. Why shouldn't we retaliate against them if they don't get the trade deficit down in five years? I'm not saying overnight."

county Land Development Code. A 14-member review committee has been meeting since January to consider proposed staff changes to the code governing development of unincorporated areas.

Although no major revisions were recommended, several interesting changes are suggested by the committee for the code. The definition of adult entertainment businesses needing special licenses and meeting certain zoning requirements has been expanded to include adult motels as well as adult arcades and adult dancing establishments.

To make sure people know whether or not they can have fowl in their backyard, a definition of "fowl" has been included to read "All kinds of poultry and fowl including, but not limited to, chickens, turkeys, ducks, guineas, geese, pigeons and quail."

One provision the committee is not recommending is to require a survey of wetlands for a rezoning application. Planning Director Tony VanDerworp said the survey is required by the county for platting and final site plan approval, which provides the county sufficient time to assure wetlands are not adversely affected by construction.

The committee also dropped the requirement for a dredge and fill permit for boat docks less than 400 square feet in size. A county building permit will still be needed for the smaller docks.

to the state capital. "We will do everything we can to help you," said Smith. "Maybe I can twist some arms."

"This year seems to be particularly bad," Farr told the commission. "We've come before you to try to eradicate the problem. We know it will be a long, drawn-out process."

Blind mosquitoes, which are actually midges hatched from larvae, have infested the lakefront, downtown and other areas of the city in recent weeks, causing many businesses to lose customers and money, said Farr.

The Independence Day fireworks display at Fort Mellon Park was hit particularly hard by the midges, making everyone uncomfortable, according to Farr.

The city commission also agreed to study the use of chemicals that might be more effective in killing the midges and to explore the possibility of purchasing hand-held foggers.

- Eliminated two longevity steps for senior city workers, which added $129,635 to the budget.
- Approved hiring two firefighters, in addition to the one proposed, and a clerk-typist, which increased the budget $39,050.
- Approved hiring two police officers, in addition to the two proposed, which increased the budget $45,380. However, Police Chief Steven Harnett had to agree to purchase squad cars from the department's trust fund.
- Cut an intern from the Community Development Office, and agreed only to pay the rental rehabilitation and grant specialist for six months, instead of the year proposed, saving approximately $40,000.
- Approved the hiring of a clerk-typist for Parks & Recreation, at a cost of $16,359. Also moved $57,000 from the Special Programs budget to cover cuts to parts, repair and supply items in Parks & Recreation.
- Decided against a seven percent wage increase for City Manager Frank A. Faison until after commissioners complete an evaluation. However, the money for the raise was put into a special fund for possible use later.

Not all commissioners agree on proposed Longwood budget

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD— City Commissioner Henry "Hank" Hardy found himself a minority of one Monday night at the first work session on the proposed 1988-89 city budget when he said he could not support the budget unless the full-time city attorney was replaced by a part-time one.

Other city commissioners said they intend to go along with the recommendations of City Administrator Gene DeMarie and the management study prepared by Jeff Etchberger. They said having an in-house legal advisor is not only convenient, but less costly than fees charged by a part-time contract attorney.

Etchberger's report recommended the position be maintained on a full-time basis for at least another year, while continuing to monitor for cost effectiveness. The proposed budget calls for a city attorney's office budget of $106,179, which includes $88,274 for salaries for the city attorney and his secretary Martha Tyler. Kramer's proposed salary, with cost of living allowance and possible bonuses, is $53,508. The amount budgeted for outside legal services in the 1987-88 budget was $55,088, but is proposed for the coming fiscal year at $12,000.

Etchberger said that over the past four months Kramer put in 120 billable hours (not counting hours Kramer spent in staff and city meetings and his being available to staff) — hours which would have had to be paid for whether the attorney was full or part-time. At the going rate of $100 an hour for a contract attorney that time would have cost $120,000, he said.

Also in the proposed budget is $4,000 for additions to the city's law library and $350 for equipment. Deputy Mayor Lynette Dennis said it would be a mistake to eliminate the full-time position because "Longwood now has an investment in a full-time city attorney in the way of law library and furniture."

DeMarie said there is also "an investment in the internal procedure and intradepartmental relationships in monitoring items through the city attorney."

Kramer said he would be glad to work on a part-time basis as he would make more money for less hours and take in outside clients as well.

DeMarie said in his experience with part-time attorneys there is a potential for conflict of interest and a problem of availability when they are needed most. He said the city is about to embark on several new things that will bring the city into the future and having legal advice easily accessible is essential at this time.

Hardy said "It may be very comfortable to have a full-time attorney in city hall but it is not very practical." This is not the first time Hardy has tried to oust City Attorney Michael Kramer. On Feb. 1, shortly after Hardy took office, he asked for a six-month probationary review of Kramer because he said he had "no confidence in the city attorney."

Hardy said at the Feb. 1 meeting that his dissatisfaction with Kramer dated back to the 1987 election campaign when Kramer ruled that no laws had been broken regarding use of city employees to type a campaign related letter and report form for two commissioners running for re-election: Ed Myers and June Lormann.

Kramer, who became full-time city attorney in September, 1987, said at the time he did not meet Hardy until just before he took office in January when Hardy came into his office after the Nov. 3 election, Kramer said. "He said he was going to do away with the office of city attorney as Longwood doesn't need a full-time city attorney. There was no reason to do so or no study on cost effectiveness."

Kramer said in his opinion the city charter doesn't require the city attorney to serve a probationary period, but is appointed for an indefinite term by the city commission.

In a Jan. 28 letter, Kramer wrote to Hardy, "I believe you came into the city with the preconceived notion of eliminating the full-time in-house office of city attorney. I respectfully request you allow a reasonable time to pass before making any judgment in that area."

Kramer is the city's second city attorney. The first, Ann Colby, who resigned after less than a year to go into private practice in Orlando, served for a while in a part-time interim capacity while the city was looking for a replacement.

Teacher, school negotiators swap proposals, discuss issues

By Joyce Herald
UCF intern

SANFORD — Negotiators from the Seminole Education Association and the Seminole County School Board met yesterday, exchanged proposals and counter proposals, and discussed issues affecting the 1988-89 teachers' contract.

Members of the SEA teachers' negotiating team sought to defend personal leave as outlined in the present contract. Currently, the contract allows four days of personal leave "without reason" to be charged against an employee's sick time.

The school board seeks to "tighten up" the contract, calling for two days "with reason" and two days "without reason." Their proposal would return the contract's requirements to guidelines set by the group two years ago.

Ernest Cowley, chief negotiator for the school board, cited increased teacher absenteeism under the "liberal" policy as the primary basis for the change.

Cowley presented statistics indicating a 41 percent increase in an average personal leave compared with the year before.

As a result of the absenteeism, the need and cost for substitute teachers became "alarming," Cowley said.

"What we're proposing is to be a little bit more restrictive to try to cut down and keep the teachers in the classroom, yet let them have some flexibility," Cowley said.

SEA negotiator Marshall Ogletree said, "This is probably one of the most discussed issues, other than salary, that we've had in Seminole County." He called the point a strong bargaining issue.

Ogletree disputed Cowley's assertion that the increase was due solely to the liberalized contract. "That's whooey," Ogletree said.

"Our teachers in the district use less than one day per year for personal reasons. I don't think that's very abusive whatsoever," Ogletree said.

In other items, the SEA also presented a proposal for teachers' calendar for the 1988-89 school year. Their proposal includes an increase in the number of paid holidays from four to six.

SEA negotiators were forced to work within the student calendar to achieve their objectives since the student calendar was approved by the school board in February.

As a result, the SEA developed a "creative" alternative. However, Cowley wryly dubbed it a "cafeteria school calendar" because of the choices teachers are given.

Specifically, the proposal gives teachers the option of taking either March 24, Good Friday, or June 13 as vacation days with pay. These dates, when classes are not in session, were scheduled as teacher work days or staff development days.

Ogletree said one benefit of the plan is to allow the opportunity for teachers to observe Good Friday.

DEAR ABBY

Hard of hearing should welcome labeling

DEAR ABBY: "Hurt in Paterson, N.J." said her day was spoiled when the florist delivered a beautiful basket of fruit—an Easter gift from her granddaughter—and on the delivery order was written: "She is deaf, so please wait for her to answer the door."

Abby, this grandmother has mistaken a kindness for an insult. In some cities, delivery people merely ring the doorbell, and if no one answers, they leave the package by the door where it can remain for hours—or even days.

How thoughtful it was of her granddaughter to have given those special instructions to the florist. And since florists make numerous deliveries in one day, their drivers can't be expected to remember special instructions unless they are written on the package.

Abby, a hearing loss is a fact of life; it is neither an insult nor anything to be ashamed of. I was surprised you didn't point that out instead of agreeing with "Hurt" that it was "insensitive and thoughtless" for the delivery instructions to have been in plain sight.

Seems to me, "Hurt" is overly sensitive. If that spoiled her day she should have sent the basket of fruit to a nursing home where residents would have been thrilled to be remembered at all.

DOLORIS WERDER, SUN CITY, ARIZ.

DEAR DOLORIS: You are absolutely right—I rate a raspberry on that answer.

One wonders why so many people who are hard of hearing are reluctant to admit it. And how ironic it is that so many of us willingly stick something in our eyes to improve our vision, but we're too embarrassed to stick something in our ears to improve our hearing.

Let's hear it from a sister who's right on in Sisters, Ore.:

DEAR ABBY: "Hurt in Paterson, N.J." should have been grateful, not hurt.

I was hospitalized not long ago. Several nurses were in and out of my room to take care of me. Some of them scolded me for not following instructions until I explained that I could not hear. One of the nurses made a sign and hung it over my bed: "Mrs. Tuggle is deaf, but she reads lips well."

From then on, all the people who came into my room made sure I could see their faces when they spoke to me. I wasn't offended by that sign. I was grateful to the nurse who put it there.

I hope that "Hurt" will accept her disability and not try to deny it or reject the help that comes from letting others know about our special needs. I have never known a person who did not respond positively to me when I explained my special needs.

Thank you, Abby, for giving space in your column to the problems of hearing impairment. You may use my name.

RUBY TUOGLE, SISTERS, ORE.

DEAR RUBY: Thank you for sharing your sensitive attitude. Many people who are hard of hearing pretend they aren't. They sit in groups, smiling and nodding, and either remain silent, or frequently they'll interject inappropriate comments because they don't have the faintest idea of what the conversation is about. Letters such as yours may help to persuade them to put vanity aside and see an audiologist.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "No-Boss Office," who complains because they (the three underpaid female employees) do all the work while their boss is in the back room playing with the new computer.

I work alone in an office, and without the computer my job would be almost impossible to do by myself. The office complainers in the "No-Boss Office" are probably the reason the boss bought a computer in the first place. The boss is probably looking to replace one, or maybe even two, of them with the computer.

Employees are not there to judge their bosses; they are there to do whatever the boss asks them to do. If I had employees like the above trio, I'd be replacing them with computers, too. Computers don't talk back.

DISGUSTED IN OCALA, FLA.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Talk back? Communication and honest dialogue between employee and employer are essential if both are to prosper in a productive atmosphere.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to comment on the letter from a young woman who was whining because her parents believed that since she was living in their house, she would follow their rules. She thought that they owed her an education and a place to live.

How about getting a job? When I was 15, I worked to pay for my extras. My parents took care of my "needs"—but I took care of my "wants."

When I was 18, I moved out of their house to live closer to the university I attended. I paid all of my tuition, rent, books, living expenses, bills, car, you name it. I worked full-time, went to school full-time, lived on my own and was able to graduate with a 3.5 GPA. I've added up my expenses over that five-year period, and they came to more than $25,000.

My parents are proud of me, and I'm proud of me. I could have stayed out all night if I wanted to—if I wanted to fall asleep in the class, I was paying my own money to attend.

I became responsible out of necessity, and it paid off. Thanks for giving me the opportunity to grow.

Orchids to show their best colors

MERRITT ISLAND — Thousands of colorful orchids, of all varieties, will be shown at the Platinum Coast Orchid Society's annual show at the Merritt Square. **All on the 520 Causeway on Merritt Island.

The 25th annual show, from Aug. 13-14, is the society's only summer orchid show.

Displays will be entered by some dozen commercial growers, as well as by orchid societies. Numerous plants will be given to raffle winners during the show.

The show will be at the mall's major halls, and no admission fee will be charged.

AYUSA program lets students try American life

SAN FRANCISCO — Academic Year in the USA (AYUSA), a government-sponsored, non-profit exchange student program, is seeking families to host foreign students for the 1988-89 school year.

AYUSA currently has applications from young people from Switzerland, Denmark, Japan, Spain, West Germany, Malaysia, Italy, Holland, France and the Philippines.

Students in the program arrive in the United States in mid-August and return home in mid-June. Among prospective AYUSA students:

—Christina, a 17-year-old member of the Danish National Water Ski Team, would like to be able to ski and train to improve her skills so she can help her team when she returns to Denmark.

—Tim, 16, from West Germany sails competitively and enjoys all sports.

—Sumie, 16, from Japan would like to improve her English skills in a U.S. school so she can pursue a career as an interpreter or translator. However, Sumie, as well as other AYUSA candidates, must have good English skills before they are accepted into the program.

The exchange students have their own spending money, medical insurance, buy their own clothes, and pay their own way to special events. Families who host AYUSA students are asked to provide room and board and make their student a "member" of the family.

Every exchange student is expected to share in household chores and follow the regular rules in the home.

If you would like to host an AYUSA student or would like more information, call Anne Teal at 407-331-8169.

Reach into your memory banks, share a vacation

The year is 1976. You are admiring the architecture of an ancient church in Venzone, Italy, when the ground beneath you begins to tremble. Luckily, you are not inside the structure, and you stumble away from the building into an open field. As the quake continues for a terrifying 56 seconds, nearby houses cave in like sandcastles.

It is 1986. You are visiting your folks' farm in North Carolina, where days and days of alternating drought and downpours have dwindled the harvest down to nearly nothing. Despite all indicators pointing to a financial crisis in your parents' lives, your family reunion lifts the gloom and becomes a wonderful time of affection and drawing closer.

Truth is stranger than fiction, so they say, and we at the Sanford Herald believe it. That's why we know everybody has at least one vacation experience that would make interesting reading in celebration of summer, the favorite time for getaways.

we invite our readers to tell us about "My Believe-It-Or-Not Vacation."

In entering our contest, follow these instructions: Type or print clearly your name, street address, city and daytime phone number at the top of your entry. Then write your vacation experience, good or bad, without embellishing the truth.

Write as much or as little as you want, but the Herald reserves the right to edit as necessary. Mail to Vacation, c/o The People Editor, P.O. Box 1657, Sanford, Fla. 32771. Or bring to our offices at 300 N. French Ave. Deadline for entries is noon on Monday, Aug. 1.

The top winners in the categories of best and worst vacations will have their experiences featured in the Aug. 14 edition of the Herald. Photographs should not be mailed, but winners will be asked permission to reprint any available photos from their vacation.

Art festival prizes bigger

MOUNT DORA — Substantial increases in cash awards and a break away from traditional timing mark the 1989 Mount Dora Art Festival.

The festival commonly takes place on the first full weekend in February, but this year will be held on Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 11 and 12.

More than 300 exhibitors and 150,000 visitors are expected for the festival.

Awards include $2,800 for best in show (purchase award), and $800, $600, and $400 for first, second and third places consecutively in the categories of oil and acrylics, water colors, drawings-prints-pastels, photograph, sculpture and non-utilitarian, and utilitarian craft.

For more information, write the Mount Dora Art Festival, P.O. Box 231, Mount Dora, FL 32757, or call 904-383-0880.

Kissimmee to be site of teen-ager pageant

KISSIMMEE — One lucky girl from Central Florida will represent her area in the Miss Teen-ager Pageant of the States, to be held at the Hilton Gateway Inn in Kissimmee Oct. 20-23.

The pageant, not to be confused with the Miss Teen USA pageant which is an off-branch of the Miss Universe pageant, is underwritten by private corporations and involves a $500 entry fee for representatives, said Dick Gillespie, national director.

Any Central Florida girl who is 13-18 years old as of Nov. 30, 1988, and who is single can be considered for representing this area.

Interested girls may obtain an official entry blank and full details by writing Miss Teen-ager Pageant, P.O. Box 562, Norwich, NY 13815, or by calling 607-334-9556. Entry forms should be in Gillespie's office by Oct. 5.

Candidates for the Central Florida area title and every other state/area title will be screened, and the top applicant will go to the Kissimmee pageant for national competition.

Competitions will include interviews, and swimsuit and evening gown competitions. Each girl who competes will wear the crown and sash of office for her area.

The new Miss Teen-ager of the States, succeeding reigning winner Christine Scott, will win her choice of several prizes, including $2,000 in U.S. savings bonds, a cruise to Nassau in the Bahamas, or a trip to New York to meet with top modeling agencies.

During the four days at the Hilton, contestants will enjoy a day as special guests at Walt Disney World, dinner at Medieval Times and other events.

There's no proof yet that 'antidote' works

Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Are the potassium iodide tablets one can buy over the counter the same things as the potassium iodide used as an antidote for nuclear-fallout poisoning?

will be able to detect increased cancer rates in citizens exposed to the Chernobyl fallout.

DEAR READER: Yes, they are. However, potassium iodide was not used precisely as an "antidote" by Europeans after the Chernobyl nuclear-reactor incident. Here, briefly, is how potassium iodide works.

The iodine we eat — in fish and other edibles — is extracted by the thyroid gland, stored and used for new hormone production when needed. Most of the iodine in our diets passes through the thyroid, even when the gland is not deficient. Therefore, it's a pretty good bet that any dietary iodine will eventually end up being concentrated in the thyroid gland.

During a nuclear accident, many types of charged atoms (isotopes) are discharged into the atmosphere. In time, these isotopes fall to earth (in rain and snow) and become part of the food chain by being incorporated into plants and water supplies. 131-I and 125-I are two forms of radioactive iodine that are released by a nuclear accident. Since these iodine isotopes will enter the body and be concentrated by the thyroid gland in like manner as nonradioactive iodine, Europeans were justifiably concerned that the isotopes were dangerous. Thyroid radiation has been shown to cause thyroid cancer.

Therefore, the people chose, quite literally, to stuff their thyroid glands with nonradioactive potassium iodide. When the glands are saturated with iodine, they tend to excrete, rather than to store, new dietary iodine. This ingenious method served to reduce the people's exposure to iodine isotopes. By saturating their thyroid glands with iodine in pill form, the people hoped to prevent absorption of significant amounts of cancer-causing isotopes. Hence, potassium iodide was used as a block, not as an antidote. The effectiveness of this measure has yet to be determined; several years will have to elapse before scientists

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

When you have taken all the sidetricks that you can against a suit contract, the only place left to get a trick is in the trump suit itself. But you have to keep your thinking cap on to know when the right conditions exist.

North used a Jacoby transfer bid (two diamonds) to tell his partner he had five hearts. Then two no-trump invited game. South declined but still placed the contract in hearts, the known 5-3 fit. After the king of spades lead drew the discouraging druce, West switched to the 10 of clubs. Declarer won the jack and played a heart to dummy's queen. East took the king, and West then took two more spade tricks. The defenders now had "book" needing one more trick to set the contract. West reasoned that declarer could not hold more than the ace of clubs. (With A-K-J in that suit, declarer would have played them out to shed a spade from dummy before attacking trumps.) With seven high-card points in the black suits, declarer had at least eight in diamonds to bring him up to no-trump opening strength. If that were A-K-J, East would have the queen but it would not take a trick. So the best chance for the defense was for East to hold a spot-card in the trump suit that could be promoted to the setting trick. The three of spades hit the table and East set the contract with his lowly eight of hearts.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Osot
YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 13, 1988

Past experience will serve as a useful mentor in the year ahead, and you're not apt to stumble over old obstacles. You'll be in control instead of being controlled.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you let others direct you in a situation where you should be leading, nothing very fruitful is likely to result. Take charge yourself. Get a jump on life by understanding influences which are governing you in the year. Send for your AstroGraph predictions today by mailing $1 to AstroGraph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) New vitality will be breathed into a secret ambition. Your chances of fulfilling your desire are much better than before. Keep the faith.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you've been thinking of establishing a new social affiliation, this is the right time to make your move. You could be very lucky in involvements with clubs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not settle for second best where your personal objectives are concerned. The only thing standing in your way to success is yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Knowledge and expertise gained from experience can be utilized to your advantage in this new cycle. Conditions will provide you with the right opportunities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Beginning today, be alert for opportunities that will enable you to increase earnings through other than usual sources. Start probing around.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) New agreements look promising today, provided you seek the best counsel available before signing any documents that could bind you legally.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Advancement is possible in your chosen field of endeavor, but you must have a well thought out plan. Be sure everything you do is aimed toward your goals.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not despair if Cupid has not been too attentive recently. He's about to make amends and you should like what he has in mind for you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today, it looks like you will be able to disengage yourself and start anew regarding a matter that has been a source of annoyance to both you and your family.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) plan your day carefully so that you do not end up spinning your wheels. If you fail to make appointments, you might not find your people in.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something propitious could develop at this time that will help enhance your material well being. It might start with a pop instead of a big bang.
