Giants Play Saints In Sanford Tonight

Buddy Lake Expected To Do The Hurling; Sanford-Orlando Game Rained Out

Buddy Lake, Sanford veteran pitcher star, is expected to take to the mound tonight when the Giants take on St. Augustine at Municipal Ball Park.

The last time out Lake dropped a 6-2 decision to the DeLand Red Hats. He struck out four and walked one. The Hatter hurler Milburn limited the locals to 3 hits in going the route.

Last night the locals journeyed to Orlando only to have the game called because of rain. Orlando and Sanford will not meet again until June 4 when they tangle at the local park.

Levy said that in the event Lake didn't start he might give the nod to Carl Thies.

GAINESVILLE WINS

GAINESVILLE, May 17—(AP)—A five-run uprising in the seventh inning gave the Gainesville G-Men the runs they need to outdistance the Leesburg Packers, 9-6, here last night.

The rally broke a 3-3 tie and routed Rudy Wanek, who was tagged with the loss.

G-Man Starter Ray Britt was the winner although he had to have help from Claude Ramirez in the eighth.

First baseman Claude Ramirez of the Packers homered in the eighth with none aboard to put the Packers into the 3-3 deadlock.

It was the second straight win for the G's over the visitors.

Palatka Loses

ST. AUGUSTINE, May 17—(AP)—St. Augustine's Hatter, Palatka, lost here tonight behind the spry-hurling of big Claude Ramirez, who switched from the outfield to the mound.

Ramirez yielded two runs on successive singles by Dickman, Baker and Ramos in the first inning but handuffed the Azaleas the rest of the way.

Jim Saladino paced the Saints at the plate, driving home two runs on three singles.

Rotary Baseballers To Be Given Picnic

Boys who belong to the Rotary Baseball League are looking forward eagerly to their biggest outing of the year, a picnic given for them by Rotarians Saturday afternoon at Sandalwood Springs.

From 50 to 75 boys are expected to attend and are requested to arrive at 10 o'clock at the North ball park where the bus is waiting to take them to the picnic.

The Neutral Corner

By BILL HERING

The Sanford Giants discovered recently that Snowball, the Negro batboy who accompanies the team on its away trips, usually manages to root out better meals on the road than the players. The Giants pass the hat for Snowball's dinner prior to each game, and a nickel or a dime here and there soon stakes the batboy to a chicken dinner with all the trimmings.

And speaking of batboys, we read recently where the "clean-up" man for the Florida Southern College nine went on strike until team officials signed a contract with him assuring the lad of a set fee for each game plus a few other incidentals.

If that article falls under the gaze of Lewis, Petrillo, Green, et al, it's almost a sure-shot that the labor front will be faced with a new set of initials. Probably something like U.S.U.O.O.B.B. or United States Union of Organized Bat Boys.

Think of the portent behind such a movement: It's the crucial game of a World Series. Forty thousand fans jam the park. Millions sit breathlessly by their radios and television sets. Teletypes clatter away in countless radio stations and newsrooms when WHAM!, the batboys decide to go on strike for higher wages, lighter bats, and the installation of a coat hanger down the first base line from which the pitcher's jacket could hang just in case he got to the initial sack.

The hallowed halls of Congress would immediately become filled with anti-batboy strike bills. The rightist press would run streamers on how the dugout mites are undermining the nation's morale and/or threatening the extinction of a grand old sport.

An upheaval in the auto industry or a loud growl from John L. would go unheard, or at best, be buried at the bottom of the society page.

"I would be enough to turn Mr. Fan white with rage and render even Leo the Lip speechless.

Best the subject be dropped before we are dragged bodily before a Washington investigating committee on charges on hoisting the first flag or firing the shot heard 'round the baseball empire.

Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, said in a wire story recently that "... baseball needs a return to two hour games." He cites one game the Indians played in New York that last two hours plus. Mr. Greenberg, when saluting before a photo of Abner Doubleday, should thank the gods that he isn't attached to a club in the Florida State League.

The average game in the Cracker Circuit lasts well above the two hour plus marker. On Apr. 19 Sanford dropped a two hour and 45 minute contest to Palatka; the score was 5-3. A week ago Sanford took the Saints to the tune of 12-8; the game stretched over 11 innings and three hours and five minutes.

The shortest game the locals have played thus far took place this week against the Azaleas. Playing time was officially clocked at 1:40.

A twin bill, of course, can only be compared to a double feature at a local movie house. Along about the middle of the umpteenth reel the cinematogor finds himself sitting on his sacrum. Feel about the middle of the umpteenth inning of a FSL doubleheader, the bull fan isn't sitting at all—he's collapsed long ago.

Although we realize that the following sentence is an act of diamond sacrilegeousness we'll remain steadfast in our belief that too much of a good thing is fatal.

In short, we believe that doubleheaders should be banned from organized baseball. Especially when the doubleheaders take all of four hours to five hours to play.

As for the single contests, we can think of only one certain remedy to assure the fact that they are finished by 10:00 P. M., or thereabouts; start all night games at 7:30 P. M.

Mr. Fan will benefit by getting that extra half hour jump on the gun when he finds himself winding the alarm clock for the night. He'll think better of his squad—win, lose, or draw—when he tumbles out of the sack at 7:00 A. M. to do his daily plinth. He won't growl and grumble and take all sorts of oaths that he'll never go to another (mid)night game as long as he lives.

William Drake, ex-Trenton infielder, who was released by that club two weeks ago with orders to report to the Sanford Giants, hasn't shown up to date. Dugout rumor has it that Mr. Drake... quit baseball rather than play for a Class D team. To avoid a libel suit we'll avoid comment.

Around the League, The St. Augustine Saints currently in seventh place took the batting crown last week by scoring more runs than any other of the seven squads in the league. The Saints registered 64 tallies. Daytona Beach took runner-up honors with 60 runs, while Sanford nestled in third place slot with a total of 58 runs scored. . . . Dan Breuninger, DeLand slugger is leading the lead with a lusty .417 batting average. Manager Ed Levy is pacing the locals with .370, while Chadderton, Lake, and Hafenecker all sport averages well over .300. . . . Wally Gaddis, Islet hurler, leads the league with six wins as against no losses. . . . E'gad-in

High School Girl Interviews Two Sanford Giant Pitchers

By DORIS PARTIN

The Sanford Giants, so far this season, have proved to be about an average ball club, having approximately the same number of wins and losses; they are showing themselves, however, to be a hard hitting ball club with several of the players batting high in the three hundreds. The pitchers, with the exception of Buddy Lake and Charlie Tedesco, have been having a bit of trouble finding the plate, but they are improving as the season progresses.

The current standing of the Giants is fifth place.

Something interesting to know about the Sanford Giants is that with the exception of Buddy Lake and Ed Levy the average age of the players is 23. You can tell from this figure that many of the players have just gotten out of high school. We thought it would prove interesting to interview some of these fellows and find out some of their interests besides baseball, why they chose baseball for a career, etc.

First, we shall start off with Charlie Tedesco, a rookie right hander, who hails from Cincinnati, Ohio. He is 18 years old, stands an even 6 ft., and weighs 175 lbs. Charlie was signed up by the American Legion Baseball Association. His reaction to Sanford is, "It's alright." During his sparetime, Charlie likes to bowl or fish. He chose baseball as a career because he thinks he has a good chance to go up to higher ball and because he likes the game a lot. Charlie isn't sure but he hopes to win 20 games this season, with his record being six wins and two losses. He says that the Daytona Beach Islanders have been the toughest opposition that he has faced. Charlie approves of the Sanford fans one-hundred per cent. He thinks that his team mates are a bunch of nice fellows, and that Manager Ed Levy is one of the nicest fellows that he has ever met. Charlie plans after the season to return to Cincinnati and work to support his mother and sister. He thinks that the air base as a training camp is swell. Charlie could have signed with ten other clubs and we are glad to have him on the Giants' roster this year.

During a recent interview with George Kelly, also a rookie pitcher, he said that Sanford was a nice town and he liked it very much. His comment on the Sanford fans was that the ones who went to the games were very good, but there should be more of them. George is from Brooklyn, New York and this is his first year in professional baseball. He is 18 years old.

George tried out at the base in February and was signed up by the Giants. He thinks the training camp at the base is the best found anywhere. He says it is very comfortable; good food and recreation is provided. George thinks his team mates are tops and that Ed Levy is a good skipper.

He hasn't thought much about what he will do after the season is over but he says that he thinks he will probably work in a Navy plant. George now has fifteen guns in his collection, which is his hobby. George's nickname is "Shotgun" because he has a blazing fast ball. His record is no wins and one loss, but he hopes that it will change for the better soon. We all hope that "Shotgun" will have a successful season.

Sweaters were also given to the following sport managers: Jack Kimbrough, Chumukla; Jack Sorstein, Jacksonville; Ed Prange, Vero Beach; Alvin Jacobs, Miami; Richard Hollins, Jacksonville; Harry Bass, Clearwater; Don MacInnis, Miami; "Tootie" Thompson, Jacksonville; Bill Fleming, Miami; and Leo Thomas, Henry Sorenson and Dick Brown, all of Gainesville.

The Intramurals Department also awarded service keys to the following students who contributed 60 or more hours of service to the program: Jack Ackerman and Alan Rush, West Palm Beach; Nick Comitos, Ronald Jabara, and Paul Richard, Miami; Son Crockett, Miami Beach; A. W. Bikes, Jacksonville; John Kramer, Pensacola; Dick Laken, Port St. Joe; Nick Matlock, Yukon, Penn.; Ernest Middleton, Ft. Myers; Arnold Vandroff, Sarasota; and Hugh Noe, Gainesville.

Hugh Noe was selected as the best intramural official for 1949-50 play.

Bobby Jones Visits Lahey Clinic Today

BOSTON, May 16—(AP)—Bobby Jones, hopeful that "one more operation will do the job," undergoes examination at Lahey Clinic today to find the answer to a spinal ailment that has bothered him for 20 years.

The "Grand Slam" champion of golf in 1930 registered at the clinic from Atlanta, Ga., yesterday.

He has been troubled by pressure on the spinal cord since a violent 20 years ago. A year and a half ago he was operated on to relieve pressure on the fifth vertebra.

Before that time the pressure had so affected the motor nerve that Jones practically lost the use of his right side.

Kieley Needs Double Win In Tee Tourney

NEWCASTLE, Northern Ireland, May 17—(AP)—Dorothy Kieley of Los Angeles, gained the quarter-finals of the Women's British golf tournament, BOSTON — While a 6 and a 7 (11.00) won the featured six-furlong sprint at Suffolk Downs, CAMDEN, N. J. — King Chico (127.60) won Riverside Purse at Garden State — Old Tom (25.40) won featured allowance race at Churchill Downs.

NEWCASTLE, Northern Ireland, May 17—(AP)—Dorothy Kieley of Los Angeles, gained the quarter-finals of the Women's British golf tournament, needed two victories today to gain a finalist berth.

In a quarter-finals match today, Miss Kieley met Vicentese De Saint Saviour of France. If she wins the California star plays in the semi-finals against the winner of the quarter finals test between Mrs. Michel Binchoch of France and Miss Judith Percy of Australia.
