

Political Map Readers Watch N. H. Primary

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Political map-readers will watch the New Hampshire presidential primaries Tuesday for fresh clues to show where voters are heading in this presidential election year.

The clues could be provided by write-in votes for president or vice president, or strong showings by supporters of presidential candidates other than Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

New Hampshire traditionally holds the nation's bellwether presidential primary. The next test will not come until Wisconsin votes four weeks from Tuesday.

On the Republican ballot in New Hampshire, Nixon is unopposed in the direct presidential preference vote. On the Democratic ballot, Kennedy has only nominal opposition from Paul G. Fisher, a Chicago manufacturer.

A conspicuous blank space on the ballot almost invites write-in votes from persons dissatisfied with the principal candidates. Write-in votes for vice president also are permitted.

A spectacular write-in vote for Nixon in 1956 helped stall Harold E. Stassen's drive to block the re-nomination of the vice president as President Eisenhower's running mate.

Backers of both Nixon and Kennedy will be pressing for a big vote. Comparisons will be risky, however, because Republicans normally outnumber Democrats in New Hampshire by a substantial margin.

In addition to the presidential preference balloting, New Hampshire voters will be electing delegates to the national political conventions. Democrats will choose 20, each with half a vote, and the GOP will elect 14, each with one vote.

Other political developments over the weekend:

—Kansas Democrats wound up their state convention without indicating clearly who will get the state support for the presidential nomination. Organizers for both Kennedy and Eisenhower claimed a majority of the 21 Kansas votes at the national convention.

—Sen. Herman E. Talmadge (D-Ga.) predicted that Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler "won't last long" as party leader after the July convention. Talmadge also hinted at a possible Southern walkout by saying Southerners will "begin to resent" their role in the party.

Congressmen Keeping Busy These Days Superintending New Projects

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is so much sidewalk superintending to take care of around the Capitol these days it's a wonder Congress gets any legislation done.

I find that superintending the new paint job on the Capitol dome is about all that I can handle. This means I have to neglect the work on the new east front, the new Senate subway terminal and the new House office building.

The paint job is scheduled to be completed sometime this month and then I can devote more attention to the other projects. I can only hope that they won't be botched up too badly in the meantime.

Most sidewalk superintendents, as you know, superintend by peering down into excavations through knotholes. Once the construction reaches eye-level, they lose interest.

This is why the Capitol dome paint job has been such a challenge. It requires the superintending to look up all the time. Moreover, this must be done out in the open without the aid of knotholes.

Some less dedicated superintendents might have given up long ago, but I am determined to see the job through to completion.

When the great east iron dome was assembled 97 years ago, it was painted an eggshell white to match the building's marble walls. With the passage of time, the marble got dirty and the dome had to be painted a corresponding greyish tone.

Now that the Capitol east front is being rebuilt with new marble, the dome is being restored to its original color. This hasn't been easy.

To begin with, we had to chip off 25 coats of old paint, each coat consisting of about 2,500 gallons. If you've ever tried to refinish a piece of lawn furniture, you can imagine what a job that was.

First we found that the iron dome would begin to rust almost as soon as the old paint was removed. They solved that problem by scraping off small areas and quickly covering them with a coat of anti-rust compound.

Then we discovered that every time we cleaned off a space a gang of dirty birds would come along and nullify our efforts. We solved that by draping a huge net over their roosting place.

Things are going smoothly now although the dome at the moment is tri-colored, like brick ice cream—one layer of vanilla, one layer of raspberry and one layer of almond toffee.

These are the shades of the paints being used as undercoats. Soon we will have it all white again, for which I'll be thankful. One more job like this and I'd not only have the sidewalk superintendent's occupational disease—fallen arches—but I'd have a stiff neck as well.

Army To Probe Inspection By Boy

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—The U. S. Army investigated a complaint today that the 9-year-old son of a colonel, dressed in a pint-sized uniform and swagger stick, conducted his own "inspection" of troops under his father's command.

Young Rickey Juergens was reported to have strutted down the inspection line behind his father, Col. K. E. Juergens, in Munich Feb. 26 picking out faults with the soldiers and marking deficiencies in a notebook.

His specially tailored uniform was incomplete with gold-braided hat, unit insignia, a row of ribbons and lieutenant bars.

Lt. Col. P. J. Corso, inspector general for the 7th Army support command, said his office was investigating a complaint from one of the soldiers.

Col. Juergens, a veteran of more than 20 years army service, confirmed the incident but said he had not been aware of what the boy was doing.

"I wasn't paying too much attention," he said. "An inspecting officer doesn't have much chance to notice anything beyond what he is doing."

An Army spokesman said Rickey's father bought the cloth for his son's uniform and men of the 71st Ordnance Battalion paid for the tailoring and adopted the boy as their "mascot."

A 7th Army spokesman said the incident appeared to be a "misunderstanding" since the boy, as mascot, had been invited to attend the inspection.

"Apparently he just got out of hand," the spokesman said. "But the incident is being investigated fully. You can rest assured it won't happen again."

Those accompanying the First Lady included her sister, Mrs. George Gordon Moore; Mrs. John McCone, wife of the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Mrs. Arthur Summerfield, wife of the postmaster general of the U. S.; and Mrs. John Foster Dulles, widow of the secretary of state.

Authority Says Only One Out Of 10 Makes Contribution To Science Field

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An authority on human heredity said Monday only one child out of 10 is born with the "inherent capability" of making "really original contributions" to knowledge in science or other fields.

He said this naturally gifted fraction of the population constitutes "our greatest national resource." But he warned that it is being dangerously neglected by a U. S. educational system which is " geared to the average child."

These statements were made by Dr. James V. Neel, professor of human genetics at the University of Michigan medical school, in an article contributed to a three-volume report on "The Nation's Children."

The report was published as a background study document for the 7,000 delegates who will participate in the White House conference on children and youth March 27-April 2.

"The existing social and educational structure of this country offers as much to the average child as can be found any place in the world today," Neel said.

The United States can also "take great pride" in the special services it has provided for handicapped children, he said.

Neel continued: "None of these services should in any way be weakened. Indeed, many must be strengthened. But it is high time we faced the proposition that the gifted, on whom we unknowingly rely to such an extent, deserve from this democracy far more than they have been given in the past . . ."

"By gearing our educational effort to the average, and putting the great bulk of our special effort into facilities for the handicapped, we have been giving our very able children less than the equal opportunity to which they are entitled."

City Won't Tolerate Violence, Demonstrating, Negroes Told

Police arrested six Negro youths Monday night as city officials began a close check on a Crooms Academy "Young Man's Social Club" which appeared to be departing from its avowed purpose of obtaining better recreational facilities through "peaceful means."

The arrest Monday night came at the end of a chase by police of a car driven by Freddie Lee Walker, 18, one of the youths identified with a Saturday night effort to enter a dance at the Civic Center.

Walker was charged with reckless driving and Ulysses Casey, 17, and Grady Caldwell, 17, with disorderly conduct after the chase on Magnolia Ave., during which police reported that the car was driven through stop signs at about 50 miles an hour.

Three juveniles under 17 years of age also were in the car and were charged with disorderly conduct.

Another Negro youth, Curtis Goldman, was arrested about noon Monday after a group of Crooms students had massed downtown and demanded use of the Civic Center or improved facilities of their own. He was charged with destroying private property and police said he threw a rock and broke a headlight on a truck driving along French Ave.

While Walker was being booked at the police station on the reckless driving charge, the passengers in his car were questioned and officers found them armed with sawed-off pool sticks. Two of them gave false information, police reported.

Investigation has revealed that the "Young Man's Social Club" at Crooms was formed about three months ago, with a stated purpose of obtaining improved Negro recreation facilities "by peaceful and non-violent means."

A student named Jerome Davis was identified as president of the club. He was one of the group which congregated downtown Monday and spoke with City Manager Knowles after the demonstration.

Five of the Crooms students had a session with Knowles after they had been asked by School Supv. R. T. Milwee to return to school.

They told the city manager that they would cooperate with city officials by helping to keep students from mass demonstrations.

"It appears that some of these students don't intend to abide strictly by their non-violence policy," Knowles said today.

"The city will not tolerate further demonstrations or violence. Police have been instructed to take whatever measures are necessary to prevent any recurrence of the Saturday night or Monday morning happenings."

"The six arrests have been the result of this policy and it will continue."

"Police also will not tolerate any interference, or supposed assistance, from any other groups or outside interests," Knowles said.

"This applies to all other student groups, organizations or individuals. The city doesn't want any action which will stir up added trouble."

"This is a local problem and will be handled effectively by local officials. This is the policy of the City of Sanford," he emphasized.

Knowles pointed out that the city has $60,000 worth of recreational facilities in Goldboro already and has worked out details of obtaining title to additional land for expansion of the program there.

He told the five Negro youths Monday that they will not be granted access to the Civic Center. This policy was established a year ago and the City Commission has upheld it as final.

Osteen Bridge Tops Road List

The County Commission today agreed to appear as a body before the State Road Department Thursday to "battle" for needed road projects for the county and commissioners specified that a new Osteen bridge and connecting link to SR 46 will be the top priority project.

Right-of-way money for this project is already in the budget, according to Board Chairman John Krider.

The Seminole County portion of the hearing will begin at 4:30 p. m. at DeLand.

Other top projects include the widening and rebuilding of SR 436 from Allamonte Springs to the Turkey Farm; four-lane Geneva Ave. from McDeville to French Ave.; Realign and resurface SR 426 from the Orange County line to SR 46 and complete W. First St. from French Ave. to the new interstate highway.

Top secondary road projects are improvements on SR 487 from SR 436 to the Orange County line; SR 487 from DeLoe Road to Allamonte Springs and Bear Lake Road from SR 436 to the Orange County line.

Board attorney Mack Cleveland Jr. was authorized to present the projects to the BRD at its yearly budget hearing.

At that time the board will hear requests from all counties in the district including Volusia, Orange, Brevard and Lake.

Holland 'Raps' All-Out Sessions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Spessard L. Holland (D-Fla.) charged today that Senate leaders were driving senators into a "valley of death" by keeping sessions going around the clock in an effort to break the southern civil rights filibuster.

Holland urged the leaders to bring an end to what he called "this abnormal procedure." The day-and-night sessions have been broken since Feb. 29 only by a 15-minute recess and a Sunday of rest.

In an angry exchange, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas challenged Holland to yield the floor for an immediate vote. Johnson blamed southerners for wearing down senators with quorum calls and other tactics.

Holland declined to permit the vote—until 10 a. m.—and said he would speak until noon. He said Johnson "may do as he pleases."

Holland said the "real reason" for the draw-out session was that the "minds of the leadership have not jelled on the form of a bill" that should be voted on. He blamed GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen as well as Johnson.

Holland said the marathon sessions were endangering the health and lives of senators. He added that he thought the "greatest risk" of the long sessions was to Johnson and Dirksen. He said both had been heart attack victims.

Johnson, who suffered a heart attack in 1955, said he didn't know where Holland got his information about Dirksen. He said he understood Dirksen's difficulty was eye trouble.

In urging that the leadership "crystallize its operation, Holland at one point orated: "Into the valley of death ride the 100, under the leadership" of Johnson and Dirksen.

'Traffic Insanity' Called Problem

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — "Traffic insanity is the nation's number one domestic problem," State Treasurer and Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson told the Southern Safety Conference Monday.

Larson said stricter laws, better highways, and more driver education for youth were needed to combat the problem.

More than 1,000 delegates from 14 states heard Thomas A. Seals of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, Washington, urge a college level safety course be set up for state troopers in every state.

Seals said states which have such courses "report substantial savings in state motor vehicle maintenance and accident reduction."

Fourakre said that Seminole County must push forward rather than stand still.

"But I do believe that we should go forward in a sound and sensible manner within the ability of our people to pay," he emphasized.

Land-Locked Lake Relief Studied

The County Commission today agreed on the necessity to take emergency measures to give relief to property owners near land-locked lakes.

A delegation of approximately 15 property owners from Lake Orianta near Altamonte Springs urged the board that immediate action was necessary to prevent "flooding the property owners off their lands."

The board authorized District 3 Commissioner Lawrence Swofford to check into the cost of cleaning out drainage wells in the Lake Orianta area and proceed with the job, subject to opinion by Attorney Mack Cleveland Jr. on the legality of the action.

Last month a similar delegation of property owners near Lake Seminole asked for help.

Spokesman for the group today was Charles Helts, who said the water was rising to its highest level in 25 years and "something must be done about it immediately."

Commissioner Homer Little answered that the problem is primarily that of the land owners, since they bought in that location.

However, Chairman John Krider said "we have been brow-beaten often by owners on this problem but there is a limit to what we can do."

"We recognize your problem but you must bear with us," Krider emphasized.

The board agreed to let Swofford check the cost of the "emergency" situation.

If its first few tests pan out as expected, the guidance package will be worked into a controlling role aboard the Atlas within the next few weeks, sources said.

Gubernatorial Candidates Start Moving In High Gear

By United Press International
The problems of how to save state money and how to build more and better roads claimed the attention of most Florida gubernatorial candidates Monday.

In speeches and statements from McClenny to Miami, the vying candidates offered a variety of solutions to the two problems.

Jacksonville Mayor Haydon Burns, speaking at MacClenny, said Florida needs a businessman like himself for governor, not an attorney as several of his opponents are.

"There is a place for attorneys in the state picture," he said, "but as legislators, judges and in the office of attorney general."

Burns said he was the only candidate qualified to handle the state's million dollar-a-day spending program.

In Miami, Fred O. Dickinson of West Palm Beach said Florida is wasting $6 million dollars annually in overlapping state offices.

Later he labelled C. Farris Bryant of Ocala and Doyle E. Carlton of Wauchula as "disasters of deceit."

He said Bryant and Carlton "misinformed" voters by telling them they supported the Sunshine State Parkway in the 1953 Legislature. "The fact is," said Dickinson, "that both Bryant and Carlton voted against the turnpike, thereby helping delay construction for two years."

Bryant also campaigned in Miami Monday. He said any substantial economic slump in Florida would bring an "economic disaster" not unlike that of the mid-1950's, and pledged his "personal effort" to keep the state's economy booming and prosperous.

Carlton and Ted David of Hollywood conceived themselves with roads in talks at Cocoa and Hollywood.

Carlton said one cent of the four cent gasoline tax should be spent to speed up the interstate road program. He said there were only three alternatives to his proposal: "Build on a patchwork basis as we're doing now, take money from the general revenue fund, or impose an additional tax."

David said he will recommend the state take over the buying of highway rights-of-way. The counties are buying them now.

David pledged not to pad the sprawling road agency with "political supporters and incompetent job seekers."

At Oldsmar, Ku Klux Klansman Bill Hendrix criticized six of his opponents for allegedly "keeping the integration question stirred up."

Labelling Burns, Dickinson, Bryant, Carlton, David, and John McCarthy of Fort Pierce as the "silk drawers gang," Hendrix said he just returned from campaigning in Miami, West Palm Beach and Orlando, where he found the six hotly competing for the Negro vote.

"They are meeting with Negroes and promising them anything," he asserted.

Negro Protests Spread To Middle, Border States

By United Press International
Negroes campaigning throughout the South against racial barriers reported two victories in one southern state at the beginning of the sixth week of their protest. The "passive resistance" movement also spread into the Midwest and border states.

Negro students who entered three drugstores in pairs at Salisbury, N. C., were served without comment at the stores' soda fountains. Two other drug stores refused them.

A few members of a large group of Negroes who marched into a variety store at Winston-Salem, N. C., were served hot dogs and soft drinks at the lunch counter. There were no incidents.

J. Charles Jones, 22-year-old Negro theology student at Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, N. C., predicted some stores in Charlotte will quietly abandon the long-standing custom of restricting lunch counter service to white patrons.

The picketing and mass demonstrations appeared to have hit a momentary lull in the Deep South. But new demonstrations were reported in Texas, West Virginia and Ohio.

At Montgomery, Ala., site of near violence in recent days, Negro students at Alabama State College may have abandoned their announced threat to boycott registration for a new term and try for integration of Auburn University and the University of Alabama.

College President H. Council Trenholm gave them an extra week to decide if they will register at Alabama State because "everything has been delayed by developments of the past two weeks."

At Nashville, Tenn., where 143 persons were arrested in sitdown protests, a bi-racial committee met with student leaders in hopes of working out a solution. Officials agreed to delay court actions against those arrested "while the committee is working."

But at Petersburg, Va., 11 Negroes were arrested under a new anti-trespass law Monday when they refused to leave the white section of the public library. Four were released under $100 bonds, and seven others chose to go to jail.

At Houston, Tex., police received a report that a bomb had been placed in a supermarket where 30 Negroes sat at a lunch counter in protest against the market's segregation policy. No bomb was found.

A restaurant at Xenia, Ohio, agreed to "serve everybody" following a demonstration by students from Central State College and Wilberforce University. Negroes complained of "poor service."

Nasser Attacks Jordan Rulers

DAMASCUS (UPI) — United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser returned to the attack Monday against the rulers of Jordan and the regime of Premier Abdul Karim Kassem in Iraq.

Nasser told soldiers at a camp 15 miles southwest of Damascus that Amman's "governors... yielded themselves to British imperialism and America to set against Arab nationalism."

He also charged that "Anglo-Communist forces in Iraq tried to destroy Arab nationalism but failed. Arab nationalism shall achieve a victory in Iraq."

About 125 boys and girls from the four Kadet companies marched and drilled in the state review. (Herald Photo)

Pope Criticizes Crime, Sex Stories

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII criticized the press Monday for playing up crime and sex stories in an "ostentatious stress of whatever is against the law of God."

"There are things that impress the Pope painfully," he told an audience of Italian Catholic publishers. "For instance the wide space newspapers are devoting to all the things that represent an illustration of the anti-decalogue (the opposite of the Ten Commandments) and of false testimony."

Mom Gives Birth To Heavyweights

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (UPI) — Mrs. Barbara Mitchell, 31-year-old mother of five, gave birth to twin heavyweights Monday in St. Joseph Hospital here.

A girl born at 5:08 a. m. weighed 9 pounds, 4 ounces. Four minutes later, a boy was born weighing 9 pounds, 3 ounces. The twins tipped the scales at a total 18 pounds, 7 ounces.

Air Force Investigates Lights

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Air Force officials today investigated reports of a mysterious stream of brilliant lights that flashed across the eastern United States Monday night.

The Defense Department said in a statement the lights were seen as far north as Lake Erie and as far south as Key West.

Air Force officials in Washington said the lights were believed to have been caused by a meteor. But missilemen at Cape Canaveral said the lights "definitely looked" like a satellite as it fell back to earth with the red-heat of air friction tearing it apart.

HEAT CIRCULATION IN THE HOME

Air circulation plays a big role in heating your home. The movement of warmed air through a room may be slowed down if the cooler air has no way of escaping. You can speed up the process by opening a window an inch or two from the top. Better yet, open the windows a crack at the top and bottom. In that way you'll get maximum circulation of air and heat.

Throwing At Cars Is Against Law

Sanfor Negro youths made a mistake Saturday night and Monday morning by throwing rocks and other missiles at automobiles on the city streets.

This is against the law and police are required to make arrests when offenders can be caught.

Such actions also involve a lot of innocent people and their property, leaving them at the mercy of thrown objects.

If these Negro youths think they have a grievance about recreation facilities, they had better stick to the formal channels of presenting problems to the city and school officials in a rational manner.

There is no room here for people, Negro, white or of any other hue or kind, who deliberately do harm to another man's property or his person. If the current wave of forming protest crowds across the southern states has been represented to our Negro people as the right approach to any problems, they should take the advice of the more responsible ones in their own community and not some bleeding hearts from another section of the country.

Brickbat throwing is going to get them a thrill they're not looking for.

Explosion Rocks Trenton Courthouse

TRENTON (UPI)—An explosion ripped apart three rooms in the Clatsop County courthouse Monday and buried a clerk through a glass window.

Horace Thomas, about 45, was rushed to a Gainesville hospital where he was reported in fair condition. He was burned and cut.

Sheriff Clyde Williams said the explosion occurred when Thomas tried to light a small gas heater in the lower east end of the two-story red brick courthouse.

"I had just walked out of a cafe across the street when the explosion happened," said deputy Charles Parrish. "I thought it was a jet plane at first. Then I glanced at the courthouse and saw papers blown out the windows."

The blast did extensive damage to the clerk's office, a records vault, and the superintendent of school's office. Windows were blown out, plaster from the ceiling and walls fell in, furniture tossed about, and an inner wall in the clerk's office collapsed.

ABOUT FACE, HUPI HUPI! ONE, NINE, SIX, OH!

ASSIGNMENT WASHINGTON by Ed Koterba

WASHINGTON—A second telegram has come this way from Bob Hope setting down his plans as the 1960 presidential candidate of the Humor Party.

It was filed in New Orleans at the odd hour of 3:28 a. m.

The wire follows:

"I'm excited just thinking about being president for four years.

I've never held a sponsor that long.

"I'm elected chief executive, I'd name Jackie Gleason as my secretary of agriculture. Give him a bib and a spoon and that will take care of the farm surplus.

"I have a few ideas for ambassadorships. Milton Berle is going to love it at Devil's Island.

"And I'd send Danny Kaye to England with a bottle warmer and a diplomatic pouch full of comic books.

"I would name Zsa Zsa Gabor head of our bureau of wild life. I'd put Walt Disney in charge of Cape Canaveral. Walt knows how to run a shooting gallery and make a profit. Why should we have those big rockets financial hope? Let's sell rides on them.

"I'd like to do something for the taxpayers. I'd take George Washington off the dollar bill and replace him with a beautiful girl in a bikini.

"Then, when you kiss your money good-bye, it won't hurt so much.

WORRY CLINIC by Dr. G. W. Crane

If you ever think Scrogge was a fascist character, just read this case about Tony. For Tony married one of my former good students from Northwestern University, but was a total failure as a modern husband. Then his wife shocked him into analyzing himself.

children. But we didn't know how to intervene.

"Then we read a couple of articles in your column in the Chicago Daily News, so I urged my daughter to consult you.

"Well, I don't know what you told her. And my husband and I are almost positive this marriage could not be salvaged.

"But it may surprise you to know that Tony did a real right-about-face.

"My husband is not here tonight because he is at home, baby-sitting with our two grandchildren.

"To represent the United States at the next summit meeting, I'd send Danny Thomas, George Jessel and Groucho Marx. With those guys nobody would get a word in edgewise."

At this point, comedian Hope bared indignation about the present inequalities in our taxes. He said:

"Why should Arthur Miller and I pay the same amusement tax?"

The wire continues:

"I'd send federal troops out West to these television studios and put an end to those Indian uprisings."

"I'd also insist on wide-screen money. If we are going to have have inflation, let's look at it."

Candidate Hope said he was in favor of integration. "I think Democrats should be allowed to mix with the Republicans."

There was one thing that was bothering the man. "I'm not sure," he wrote, "that we don't already have a Humor Party. Some of the statements made by the Democrats and the Republicans could put me out of business."

Hope neglected one thing — a campaign slogan. Symington has, "Let's Back Jack." Rockefeller's was, "Who else but Nelson?"

So why not: "Grape With Hope?"

CARE D-ONE: Tony, 32, was the staid, invertebrate husband described yesterday who ignored his wife and children to putter around the house during his spare time.

Then his wife shocked him into waking up, as she told him she planned to file suit for divorce, so he shed tears.

And when she let him rate himself on the "Test for a Good Husband," he ranked himself as "poor." Her rating classified him as "very poor."

So he tore up the tests, demanding me and psychology in general. But later that night, he dumped the wastebasket on the parlor rug and dug out the torn pieces of that "Test for a Good Husband."

Methodically he put the fragments together, for he knew the test was sound, though his pride wouldn't let him admit his own errors in front of his wife.

Tony was about as self-centered as Scrogge. And the odds were much against his making a dramatic change at the age of 32.

But he did: And his case proves you should never give up in your hope of improving human personality.

For example, the very next week Tony turned his full pay check over to his wife, though he had never given her a red cent in all their previous seven years of marriage.

Since the "Test for a Good Husband" requires a man to take his wife out on a date at least once per week he resolutely did so.

And he began paying more attention to his children. He no longer opposed their attending Sunday school.

Also, he began paying a few compliments to his wife and youngsters.

But she was unbelieving and somewhat hostile to Tony's first attempts.

A couple of months later I was invited to give an address at the Remeway Church in Evanston on "Marriage Problems."

After my talk, I shook hands with many of the members of the audience, including a cultured woman about 45 years of age.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "you don't realize what you have done for my husband and me.

"Tony was our sea-in-law and we both saw the handwriting on the wall as regards that marriage."

"We tried to keep out of it, but we hated to see a divorce, largely because of their two

When U. S. Runs Out Of Statistics It Just Goes Out And Gets More

By DECK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Every now and then, our government begins to run short of statistics. When that happens, it goes out and buys some.

At last count, we had 11,171 federal employees engaged in the collection and compilation of statistics. But this, naturally, is not enough.

To overcome the shortage, it has been necessary for the government to purchase $10,782,956 worth of statistics from private collectors during the past five years.

At least, I guess it was necessary. The House subcommittee on government statistics seems to have some doubt on that point.

The subcommittee has been gathering statistics on statistics-gathering to see whether the government is unduly burdening the public with its constant quest for obscure information.

In a report issued last December, the subcommittee said it had found that businessmen and other citizens regularly file nearly 5,000 different forms with the government.

These enable the government to keep track of such things as how many railroad crosses there are used each year and how many beer cans are made each month.

Now the subcommittee is out with a new report estimating that it costs the government around 70 million dollars a year to satisfy its statistical craving.

The report doesn't single out any particular set of figures as being something the government could perhaps do without. But the subcommittee does say it is hard to believe that all those figures are necessary.

In this connection, it has published a list of 63 contracts which federal agencies have awarded in the past five years for outside statistical services.

The bulk of the contracts was awarded by the Agriculture Department, which seems to have an insatiable curiosity about such things as the "economic evaluation of beverage consumption by children."

If I interpret the results of the beverage survey correctly, most kids drink milk. Nailing down this fact cost $26,200.

Quotable Quotes

United Press International
MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Elvis Presley, refusing to pose with one of the stuffed toy animals with which he filled his home before entering the Army:
"I would look a little silly for a 25-year-old man home from the Army to be playing with dolls."

WICHITA, Kan.—Petite animal trainer Evelyn Currie, after wrestling a 250-pound tiger (half tiger-half lion) that had bolted from its cage:
"Handling one of these big cats is like holding a machine gun. You never know when it is going to go off."

NEW YORK—Jack Paar, returning to his TV show about three weeks after his emotional walkout over a censorship dispute:
"Coming back is hard and embarrassing in a way. In a crisis you learn who your friends are."

RESEDA, Calif.—Mrs. Darlene Cleary, sister of confessed murderer Dennis Whitney, 17, stating that she and her husband will fly to Miami to show him his family is standing by him:
"I guess he never felt wanted. I always admired how well he was taking care of himself. We had no idea it was through robbery."

Satellite Radio Relay Is Success

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Massachusetts Institute of Technology today announced it had confirmed the first successful two-way radio communication in which artificial satellites were used for the signal relay.

An MIT freshman and a Maryland high school senior—both 17—were responsible for the scientific achievement, MIT officials said.

Raphael Solfer, of New York City and MIT, and Perry I. Klein of Bethesda, Md., climaxed two years of experimentation Feb. 6 when they sent and received signals between New York and Bethesda.

Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner, director of the MIT research laboratory of electronics and an authority in the field of communications research and space technology, verified the work of the two students.

"I am impressed by the careful preparation made by Solfer, and I found no major technical fault in his paper," Wiesner said.

"I would stress," he said, "the need for more data and more use of scientifically instrumented measurements before any absolute claim can be made."

Ten years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock, Santa Fe, N. M., was an active seat of government.

Covington Covers Sports

By JERRY COVINGTON

The basketball season is over. Although our Seminoles failed in their bid for a trip to the state tournament, it has provided us with a great season. It has taken many years to put the game where it should have been all along but Coach Bud Laver and his youngsters did just this and now it is here to stay.

Game after game they continued to thrill everyone with their talents on the court and in doing so they piled up a fine 19-3 record for the season. They also brought home the first trophy since 1937 when they took the Orange Belt Conference tourney in Apopka.

During the season we saw many great individual performances and many new records set. Ray Lundquist proved himself to be the finest guard in the entire area and he now holds the new scoring record in a single game with 36. Ray was the first Seminole to letter all four years in basketball and he will be long remembered as the most colorful player ever to come on the court at SHS.

High scoring Jim Gracey has established a new season scoring record with 423 points and a 19 point per game average. He broke his previous high of 385 points for a single season which he established last year. His great shooting eye accounted for many of the Seminole victories and his loss will be a great one next season.

Senior Terry Christensen, who was the finest defensive player and passer on the squad this season, also will long be remembered for his leadership and spirit on the court. It was his determination that made the big difference in the OBC tourney victory against Winter Park. Terry is due a lot of credit for the points scored by Gracey and Lundquist because it was his great passing that made the fast break go so well.

Cowboy Oravetz and Doug Tammy came through time and time again for Laver and their rebounding was very effective most of the season. Oravetz will be lost by graduation but we can expect great things from Tammy again next season.

Junior Guard George Perides started slowly at the beginning of the season but he soon found that he was ready and was a great asset to the success of the team. He can look forward to a great season again next year and should pick up right where Lundquist left off.

Coach Laver was blessed with a fine bench all season and most of these youngsters will be back again next season. John Taylor, John Marsh, Dave Wilson, Alex McKibbin, Mike Roberts, and Eddie Fuhrman all saw a great deal of action and with exception of Wilson, all will be back again.

There aren't words to praise the job done by Laver this season. He has worked rigorously for five years at SHS and the results of his efforts can be seen in the record books this season. He is a great coach and a fine gentleman and the parents of these young athletes should be proud to have a person of his ability on the faculty at SHS.

When speaking of the future Laver sums it up this way. "This is only the start. Basketball finally found its place in Sanford and when we get in our new gym next season we should still be plenty tough. We have found out what it is like to win now and we aren't ever going to be such an easy target."

Congratulations Seminoles on a great season!

1960 baseball season kicks off in Sanford Thursday with the arrival of approximately 60 youngsters from the San Francisco Giants minor league teams.

Future Mickey Mantles and Ted Williams will be coming from places as distant as Artesia, N. M. and Eugene, Ore.

Giant training camp officials reported today that the stadium is in "top" working condition and everything will be set for the cry of "play ball" when the first exhibition game begins March 19 with the Harlingen, Texas team meeting Tacoma.

In other spring training news according to United Press International the condition of Ted Williams' neck has become a top secret item in the Boston Red Sox training camp.

Manager Billy Jurges supplied the new twist Monday when he placed a taboo on any mention of neck injuries. Only a week ago the 41-year-old slugger had said the painful ailment could force him to retire.

"Don't even ask Ted how his neck is," Jurges told reporters. "Let's let it go at that."

Williams, meanwhile, appeared improved to newsmen who watched him go through Monday's workout. He no longer carries his neck to one side and Monday he was blasting away in batting practice with his old zest and lecturing younger players on hitting.

Williams is attempting a comeback after his 1959 batting average fell to an all-time low of .254.

California Cagers Selected As No. 1 U. S. College Team

NEW YORK (UPI)—California's Golden Bears, who employed "old-fashioned" methods like ball-control and defense to win 24 of 25 games, today were acclaimed national college basketball champions for the 1959-60 regular season by the United Press International Board of Coaches.

Coach-of-the-year Peter Newell's men beat out Cincinnati for the honor by a margin of 10 points in the final ratings by the 35 outstanding coaches who comprise the UPI rating board.

This was a fitting tribute to 44-year-old Newell, who retired as coach after this season and steps up to athletic director at California. Before that, however, the Bears made a defense of their NCAA championship, starting tonight against Idaho State.

In their final ratings, 20 coaches made California their No. 1 choice and 13 voted for Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati. Third-ranked Ohio State and fifth-ranked Utah each received one first-place vote.

In points distributed on a 10-9-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis for votes from first to 10th places, California received a total of 624, 324 for Cincinnati. Both teams compiled 24-1 regular-season records.

A regular will receive the United Press International trophy, emblematic of the national championship.

Following Cincinnati in order came: Ohio State's Big Ten champions (21-3), Bradley (24-2), Utah, the Skyline Conference champ (24-3), West Virginia, Southern Conference champion (24-4), Utah State (22-4), Georgia Tech, Southern Conference winner (21-5), Villanova, an independent with a 19-5 record, and Indiana (20-4).

Sugar Ray Signs Bout With Veteran

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Ray (Sugar) Robinson has agreed to meet veteran middleweight Tony Baldoni in a 10-round bout at the Baltimore Coliseum April 2. It was announced today by promoter Al For.

Robinson accepted the bout as a tuneup for his rematch with Paul Pender at Boston April 29. Pender won the New York Massachusetts version of the world middleweight title by outpointing Sugar Ray in their first meeting at Boston Jan. 22.

Baldoni, a native of Wilkes Barre, Pa., who now resides in Baltimore, has been boxing professionally since 1948. He has won only three fights over the last four years. He engaged in only three bouts last year, losing two on knockouts.

Stetson Loses In NAIA Play

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Top-seeded Tennessee A&I will try to avoid the upset tonight which already has claimed two of the high ranked teams in the 22nd annual NAIA basketball tournament.

Tennessee A & I, tournament champion here for the past three years, makes its debut at 1 p.m. against Midwestern (Tex.) University.

Tonight's play will end first round action in the week long National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Tournament.

Sharing the night billing with Tennessee A&I and Midwestern are games between Hamline (Minn.) and Florence (Ala.), 8:30 p.m.; Pittsburgh (Kan.) State and Findlay (Ohio), 9:30 p.m.; and Christian Brothers (Tenn.) and Parsons (Iowa) at 10 p.m.

Two tournament favorites were felled in Monday's first round action as unranked Oklahoma Baptist rode the 26-point scoring and brilliant all-round play of 5-foot 6-inch Don Masters to a 75-41 victory over third-seeded Southern Illinois, and William Jewell (Mo.) bested seventh-seeded Stetson, 68-66.

Defending Champions Are Favored As NCAA Tourney Regionals Open

United Press International California and West Virginia, who finished only a point apart in last year's final, will be separated by 2,000 miles tonight when they start off on that long journey toward a possible rematch in the NCAA basketball tournament.

The defending champion Bears are heavy favorites to crush Idaho State in the Far West regionals at San Francisco and West Virginia is an equally strong chance to sink Navy in the East regionals at New York.

California slipped the Mountaineers, 71-70, in the 1959 championship game and both coaches—Pete Newell of the Bears and West Virginia's Fred Schaus—are confident their paths will cross again in this year's final at San Francisco, March 19.

Ahead of them, though, lay other strong teams with the same dreams, plus a good deal of traveling that frequently drains the stamina of these college kids in short pants.

The West Virginia-Navy meeting is one of three games scheduled in the East regionals at Madison Square Garden. New York University is a 19 1/2 point choice over Connecticut and Duke in a six-point favorite over Princeton in other openers.

In the Midwest regionals at Lexington, Ky., Notre Dame is favored to eliminate Ohio University and Western Kentucky is expected to lurk back Miami, Fla.

In California, named the regular season national champions by the United Press International Board of Coaches, gets by Idaho State 10-9 expected to meet face Santa Clara in the second round at Seattle, Wash., Friday night.

Santa Clara earned an automatic berth in the NCAA jamboree Monday night by defeating Loyola, Calif., 69-53 in a playoff for the West Coast Conference title.

DePaul and Utah also bounced into the second round of their respective regional eliminations. DePaul earned the unenviable honor of meeting powerful Cincinnati in the second round of the Midwest regionals by downing the Air Force Academy, 69-63, at Chicago and Utah eliminated Southern California, 80-73, at Provo, Utah, in the Far West playoffs.

Kansas finished in a tie with Kansas State for the Big Eight Conference title by turning back Nebraska, 70-74, and will meet the Wildcats in a playoff game Wednesday night at Manhattan, Kan. The winner will gain a berth opposite Texas in the second round of the NCAA Midwest regionals.

Cincinnati completed its regular season by whipping Xavier University, 86-69, for its 23th victory in 26 games.

St. Louis rolled to a 66-40 triumph over Louisville in its final warmup for the National Invitation Tournament and Missouri beat Iowa State, 85-67.

Little Miss Top Dog Track Choice

Five of the eight standouts lined up for tonight's Grade-A feature at Sanford-Orlando Excess Club are female stappers and it looks like fair sex will sweep honors if morning line odds are a guide.

The hot sixth will spice a 10-event schedule starting at 8:10 p.m.

A little miss named Bold And Golden, owned by R. F. Bennett, is rated a 2-to-1 choice in the headliner. The fava racer will move after Swiftie, the mechanical rabbit, from the fourth post position. The speedy, but erratic, colt will be seeking her fourth season triumph.

In the three-box will be Dorlene, another little lady who has shown enough power to run with the best in the early of queens. Paul Boone's 31 pounder is assigned second-best early odds of 4-to-5. She'll be running in quest of her fifth victory.

The other female entrants in the feature are Outsmarting, O. E.'s Smoke and Ed's Red Pony.

Sanford Man To Be One Of Oldest Alumni At March 19 Gator Reunion

Sanford's Jay H. Beck will be one of the oldest alumni at the University of Florida reunion Mar. 19. Beck is one of about three surviving members of the U. of F. class of 1894.

The only other living class member Beck recalls is Gen. A. H. Blanding of Barlow who gave his name to the former Camp Blanding near Starke.

When Beck was in college, the University of Florida was made up of five branches at Gainesville, Bartow, DeFuniak Springs, St. Petersburg and Lake City. The branches merged in 1900. Beck's studies at the Gainesville state military institute branch included bookkeeping, geography and history, arithmetic and spelling. College was a lot different in those days, Beck said Monday.

The 82-year-old Sanford resident has a sheepskin signed by the faculty naming him as a cadet first lieutenant at the institute. Beck recalls that he was more interested in the military aspects than in the academic side of college life.

The veteran alumnus is a member of the U. of F. "Grand Old Guard," made up of alumni who graduated from the school at least 50 years ago. Members of the class of 1910 will be initiated at the March 19 reunion.

Beck, who still rides the horse he rode as a cadet in the 1890's, recalls how a duck hunting adventure put him through a siege of pneumonia at college.

He went duck hunting in Lake Jessup over Christmas vacation and waded waist deep in water to get at the birds. After Beck returned to the campus, his mother had to follow him and nurse him through pneumonia and a 10-degree fever.

Beck was not often the man to hang back.

Once when he had a shoe store on First St., a man walked in whose face Beck recognized although he had never met him.

"The honorable William Jennings Bryan," Beck said as he stepped forward with hand extended.

"In person. Tell me a pair of shoes," the famed political orator replied.

Beck's father and mother were in Sanford before General Henry Sanford arrived. Charles H. Beck and Nancy Beck were here when Indians were all about.

His father left Sanford in 1898 to follow the lure of the Alaskan gold fields. Shortly after his arrival in Alaska he was buried in a snow slide at Dyea, along with more than 75 other persons.

Beck is a lifelong Sanford resident and has lived at the same 419 Magnolia Ave. address since 1915. His old house burned down in 1924 and he put up a new one on the same site. The two-story frame house in which Beck was born in 1878 is still standing near the corner of French Ave. and 25th St.

Ike May Find Nikita's View Changed As Result Of US Tour

WASHINGTON (UPI)—When he goes to the summit and to Moscow in the next few months President Eisenhower may find a changed Nikita Khrushchev, softened in some ways and hardened in others toward the United States.

The Soviet premier was reported to be greatly impressed with the American standard of living, cars, drive-ins, ice boxes and housing during his trip here last September.

But Khrushchev is firmly convinced that U. S. officials are amateurs at "the art of revolution," a phrase which refers to the struggle between East and West to win the peoples of the world to their side.

Kremlin officials boast that Russia recently invited several thousand Africans to Moscow to study medicine and other subjects while the U. S. Senate was busy having a filibuster over a civil rights bill.

Western circles feel Khrushchev has no doubt that in the long run Russia will take over the world by cold war means. Thus, he sees no need for a catastrophic war and views his military establishment mainly as a deterrent against any Western hostility.

It was this philosophy which recently allowed him to ask the Soviet ambassador to Sweden to nominate him for a Nobel Peace Prize.

Though he has boasted Russia will pass the United States economically in a few years, Khrushchev was said to feel privately that this will be a tremendously difficult task.

He was believed to have high respect for U. S. military strength and to concede that this country could devastate Russia in any war. It is said that one man who does not attach great weight to the "missile gap" is Nikita Khrushchev.

But Khrushchev is firmly convinced that U. S. officials are amateurs at "the art of revolution," a phrase which refers to the struggle between East and West to win the peoples of the world to their side.

Jurors To Resume Deliberating Today In Finch Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jurors will resume deliberating the fate of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his red-haired mistress today when final parts of the surgeon's testimony in the three-month trial are read.

The reading of the last few pages of the 43-year-old surgeon's testimony about the night his wife was killed was expected to take about an hour.

Then the seven women and five men would return to the jury room to pick up deliberations where they left off Saturday when they asked to hear again Finch's description of the events leading up to the death of Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch last July 18.

Finch and Carolie Tregoff, 22, are charged with murdering Mrs. Finch after trying to buy her death. Defense attorneys deny the couple planned to kill her.

If could take the jurors a week or more to reach a verdict—if then.

Hen Can't Read But Knows Letters

NOBLE Okla. (UPI)—A hen owned by D. B. Compton, a farmer living near here, appears to be trying to tell us something. She lays initialed eggs.

Compton said she had laid eight or ten such eggs. Among them are some which bear marks recognizable as the letters S, I, and C, and one that is either a capital E or a small G.

Excellent Acting, Direction Sparks Sunday Showcase

NEW YORK (UPI)—A touching play about intriguing people was turned into a memorable production on Sunday night's "Sunday Showcase" by excellent acting and direction.

"Turn the Key Defily," NBC-TV's psychological mystery by Alfred Bestér, starred Julie Harris and Maximilian Schell as sweethearts in a traveling circus. Francis Lederer was the impresario.

By pushing and turning a few keys of his own rather deftly, the author built up a sympathy-evoking story that insinuated itself into the marrow.

First, he used as a setting the magic, illusion-filled world of the circus, functioning in a non-illusory world. To this dichotomy he added another, Miss Harris as a schizoid who ranged from a good, fantasy-oriented girl to a "twin sister" who was world-based and evil.

Max Schell's intrusion into her life, or lives, led to Miss Harris' murder. He started out as a nonsense architect. Once he was diverted into the circus life by his father's demise, he learned to love the people and their circus fakery even though he lacked the fullest appreciation of their instincts. The murder occurred after Schell married Miss Harris and discovered he would be going through life, not with the sweet girl he courted, but with her evil "twin."

That is where Bestér's story failed. The author apparently wanted to show the havoc that occurs when literal-minded people intrude upon the world of fantasy. But the havoc in this case was murder and Schell's subsequent insanity. So it was essential that the damage be convincing. Schell's act of murder did not seem to be a natural development. It came as a sudden, jarring climax and smacked of expediency.

The actors performed the quiet, superb authority and understanding. Director George Schaefer's contributions were unfalteringly effective. His use of closeups, hands and mirrors (both shattered and whole ones) added dimension and much of the impact to this quietly told story.

"The Book of Silence," on "GE Theater" Sunday night, derived its story from Russia's treatment of its Nobel prize-winning author, Boris Pasternak. Playwright David Karp gave us a series of speeches that showed the effect that personal feelings, warped motives and artistic persistence can have in a decision to censure a non-conforming writer in a dictatorship. Rod Steiger, as an aging author grasping at a last chance to resume his career, marred an otherwise excellent portrayal with some shouting that contained more decibels than conviction.

Saturday Night's CBS-TV production of "Treasure Island" was a smashing success. If I judge my 7-year-old son's reaction at all accurately, he's now asking about a repeat and demanding that I read the book to him. He had only two complaints: "They didn't show the pirate flag," and "they never showed the writing on the treasure map." Those items just can't be ignored in such productions.

I'm inclined to agree with my boy's enthusiasm over this latest "Du Pont Show of the Month," although I felt it moved a bit too quickly to allow for the fullest savoring of the suspense, the meanness of those scurrilous pirates and the heroism of the good guys. Especially rousing performances by Hugh Griffith, Boris Karloff, Barry Morse and George Rose.

The Channel Swim: The hour-long mystery series "Thriller," with Boris Karloff as the host, will replace NBC-TV's Friday night fight series next fall... Part of Leonard Bernstein's next CBS-TV special, on Sunday, March 13, will find him and the New York Philharmonic comparing the use of rhythm in music with Shakespeare's poetry... Thelonious Monk, a "way" out jazz pianist, will be seen on ABC-TV's "Music for a Summer Night" Wednesday, March 16. Jeff Chandler will play the title role in "David," the two-hour long Biblical drama being produced for ABC-TV by William Goetz. Filming starts in Israel early in May.

Writers' Selections

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tom Sanders and Ray Paprocky of New York University and Tony Jackson of St. John's were unanimous choices on the All-Metropolitan college basketball team selected by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers' Association. Bob Mealy of Manhattan and Ivan Kovac complete the mythical first team.

Sleet, Snow Pelt South, Other Areas

By United Press International
A new late winter storm pelted the South with sleet, snow and cold rain today.

It spread a new blanket of snow and ice atop the remnants of a record ice storm that struck Dixie a week ago. Highways were icy and hazardous and ice coating the streets turned to slush as the temperature rose slowly.

But there was deep snow and a hard freeze in the Appalachians—measuring up to 15 inches in southwest Virginia and half a foot in the Johnson City, Tenn., area. Heavy snow occurred across the top of Tennessee and through the Cumberlandians.

Lighter snowfalls reached as far south as Macon, Ga., and the northwest corner of South Carolina. Hundreds of schools were forced to close by the snow that reached across the mountains and Piedmont area of North Carolina.

Most of Tennessee had sleet and freezing rain and similar weather struck northern Alabama, slowly recovering from the worst ice storm on record in that area.

Much of the Corn Belt turned into a snow belt and travelers, school children, factory workers and even coal miners were forced to stay home.

Shortly after dawn, a foot of snow was piled on usually busy, industrial Evansville, Ind. Bowling Green, Ky., reported an incredible 18 inches of snow in the latest storm; London, Ky., had 14 inches.

SEABEES CELEBRATED their 18th birthday by crowning Mrs. Donna Saylor "Queen Bee" as a climax to a party at the VFW Hall, Ledr. E. M. Michael placed the crown as Mrs. Shirley Cason, maid of honor, and Lt. D. L. Conner looked on. The other maid of honor, Miss Carol Cason, is not shown. Cdr. L. D. Tammy, executive officer, NAS, was an honor guest at the celebration.

Counters Wanted

Examinations for positions as Sanford census enumerators will be given Thursday from 2 to 4 p. m. at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce building on First St.

Only persons living within the Sanford city limits are eligible for the positions. Sanford census crew worker Mr. Ralph Smith said today. Persons who want to be enumerators, but are unable to be at the exams Thursday should call Mrs. Smith at FA 2-4368. Efforts are being made to have the districts small enough that census takers can make their count without transportation.

Adjustment Board Grants Appeal

Sanford's Board of Adjustment decided Tuesday to classify real estate and insurance offices as professional offices.

The board made the decision after an appeal from Cullen and Harby Real Estate that they be allowed to build a real estate and insurance office at the northeast corner of 22nd St. and Park Ave. This land is zoned R-3 for professional offices.

Sanford Building Inspector M. A. Velington told board members that they were determining whether a real estate and insurance business was a professional office. Mrs. Mable A. Cullen and Mrs. Dorothy W. Harby were not applying to build in the R-3 zone.

Though the zoning ordinance does not list professional offices as professional offices, it does not define what a professional person is. It does say that professional buildings should be similar to residential dwellings and may have only one non-lighted sign with the name of the occupant on it.

Mrs. Cullen and Mrs. Harby plan to have their real estate operation in one part of the building and to have insurance offices in another part. There will be an 18 by 50 foot off-street parking area.

Ex-Deputy Enters Constable Contest

O. G. Owen of Sanford said he will qualify today or tomorrow for District 4 constable.

Owen, who ran for sheriff in 1956, was chief deputy sheriff in Seminole County from 1953-55. He is now a conductor for the ACL Railroad.

The 44-year-old native of Ponce de Leon, Fla., is a member of the Central Baptist Church of Sanford and has been a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen for 21 years. He is a member of the National Sheriff's Assn. and is a past member of the Sanford Lions Club.

Owen lives at 2805 Palmelto Ave. and has been a Sanford resident for 24 years. He is married and has a 16-year-old son, Glenn Owen Jr.

Owen said Tuesday that he is a staunch believer in segregation and believes that schools and public recreation areas should be kept segregated.

"I will promise the people of the Fourth District of Seminole County that if elected I will do everything within the powers of that office to see that this is carried out," Owen said.

"I also believe that equal facilities should be made available to both races.

"I promise the people of this district to administer the duties and responsibilities of this office as set forth in the Florida statutes by the state legislature and this I promise to do in a prompt, friendly and courteous manner," Owen said.

18 Miners Trapped By Gas, Fire

LOGAN, W. Va. (UPI)—A rescue team struggled desperately today to reach 18 miners trapped deep underground since Tuesday morning.

West Virginia Mines Director Crawford L. Wilson said that an eight-man rescue team equipped with oxygen masks may reach the trapped men "in a few hours."

The team moved past the area where fire had blacked the tunnel until early today.

Wilson said the men could have survived if they built a barrier of coal to protect themselves from gas and fire caused by a state fall.

The rescue team entered the mine along with 60 other men and began groping through the gas and smoke-filled tunnel. The others, carrying tools and timber, began shoring up the roof and walls of the tunnel to prevent further cave-ins and attempted to extinguish the blaze.

Wilson said the rescue team moved past the fire by "clearing a passway around it."

The miners were entombed 485 feet below the surface—about two miles from the pithead.

Officials first expressed optimism that the trapped men would be reached alive, then said dead.

Willis Carter, 46, Verdunville, W. Va., who had designed the mine's ventilating system, led one other man out of the pit and pleaded with the others to follow him.

"I kept talking to the men to get them to come with me but they all looked like they were in shock."

Carter gave the remainder of his party little hope to survive unless they joined six others 1,200 feet farther back and built a wall of coal to prevent the fire-caused gases from suffocating them.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower told the nation Tuesday night that U.S. relations with Latin America are at an "all-time high" but conceded there are some "serious misunderstandings."

In a 15-minute radio-TV report on his 10-day trip to Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay, Eisenhower declared that "no other area of the world is of more vital significance to our future" than Latin America.

He said "an even firmer partnership" with the nations south of the border must be the U. S. goal.

Eisenhower reported that he had been struck by a "vast sense of unity, admiration and respect for the United States of America."

Meanwhile Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said the United States eventually might have to consider breaking relations with Cuba, but that he hopes things would never come to that stage.

Herter told a news conference that no consideration is being given at this time to such drastic action despite Premier Fidel Castro's apparent determination to keep trouble stirred up between the two countries.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate called a halt to its bitter civil rights fight today because of the death of Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) set arranged for a showdown vote Thursday on a gag rule.

Neuberger, the first Democrat elected from Oregon to the United States Senate in 40 years, died early today after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage.

The 47-year-old author and politician had been resting at home for several weeks, convalescing from a series of virus attacks and a bout with the shingles when he was stricken suddenly at 4 p. m. Tuesday.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson told the Senate he would like to recess early today out of respect to Neuberger, then vote Thursday afternoon on the bipartisan debate limitation motion.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (N.Y.), a leader in the move to impose closure, said he thought this would be satisfactory but asked for time to consult with his liberal colleagues.

Johnson told newsmen he still "thinks the Senate will pass an 'effective voting rights' bill."

But he said earlier that the effort to apply closure or gag rule on the debate is premature and predicted it will "prolong debate instead of expediting it."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon told United Press International the administration civil rights measure still has the "best chance of enactment" by Congress.

Kennedy Cuts New Hampshire Margin Of GOP

MANCHESTER, N. H. (UPI) — Both Sen. John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon polled record votes in New Hampshire's bell-weather presidential primary but the Republicans appeared today to be losing their grip on the state.

Nixon easily topped President Eisenhower's 1956 vote. Kennedy doubled the 1956 total piled up by Sen. Estes Kefauver and loosened the GOP's traditional 2-1 hold on the electorate.

On the basis of virtually complete returns, Kennedy polled two votes for every three Nixon ballots in the preference polls. There was no direct contest, the party primaries being separate, but the comparative vote was significant.

Complete Democratic returns gave Kennedy 42,965 votes as compared with Kefauver's 1956 total of 21,701. Chicago pen manufacturer Paul C. Fisher had 6,874 votes and Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) polled 373 write-ins.

Complete returns on the Republican side gave Nixon 65,077 votes to 56,464 for President Eisenhower in 1956. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York had 2,800 write-in votes and Fisher piled up an impressive 2,087 in the GOP poll.

Interpretation of the big Fisher vote as compared with Rockefeller's vote was clouded by the fact that Rockefeller withdrew from the primary contest early in the game while Fisher campaigned actively, although as a Democrat.

The balloting was heavy, perhaps a turnout of 100,000, with the voters apparently lured to the polling booths by a campaign brawl involving Kennedy, Nixon and Nixon's state campaign manager, Gov. Wesley Powell.

Elementary School For North Orlando Studied

BY JACK PHILLIPS
The County School Board is definitely interested in putting an elementary school within the North Orlando Council Territory.

Jackson said Mayor Ray Liddick showed the school board four possible school sites within the village, but a report from the board had not been received.

School Supt. E. T. Milnes said today that a survey team will be here in October to see what kind of school should be put in the village.

Jackson, presiding over the meeting in the absence of Mayor Liddick, said that North Orlando is assured of house-to-house mail delivery by June. This will be mail delivery to a box in front of each house.

Donald Ford of 181 Cortez Dr. asked the council what the prospects were for organizing a North Orlando volunteer fire department. Councilman Frank Fasula said the department would need a fire engine and he didn't think village residents could be assessed for this.

Ford said he thought residents would contribute money if they knew it was for a fire engine.

Fasula, Jackson and Ford agreed that a volunteer fire department would lower village insurance rates and would be an inducement to surrounding homes to come into the village limits.

"I agree with Mr. Ford that the fire department is our next step," Jackson said. Fasula will file the cost of different types of firefighting equipment by the next meeting.

G. W. Pettit of 86 S. Carter Dr. complained to the council about dogs running loose in North Orlando. He asked for an ordinance to compel residents to leash their dogs.

Robert E. Johnson of the Sanford Humane Society was present and said that the society, though just getting started, would be able to help by picking up stray dogs.

Jackson said that plans for the 24-house addition to North Orlando are progressing and that houses should start going up there within the next few weeks.

Jackson said that the developer, Perry Wilcox, has left room for a church and school area in the development on the Longwood-Orlando Rd. between Wads St. and Sherry Ave.

The FHA is expected to approve more than 100 lots in the south portion of North Orlando. This will be the next site of village expansion, Jackson said. He said the council that drainage of the proposed recreation area in the northwest section of the village will probably be accomplished by digging a small lake and using the fill to build up the surrounding land. The site is more than four acres.
