

NEW HOTEL GOLF LINKS FOR SANFORD

MR. HUFF EXPLAINS HIS PLANS IN LETTER TO THE HERALD

The golf club and tourist hotel are the issues just now and Sanford must get busy at once on these propositions. In order that every one may become familiar with the plans we called upon Mr. T. Salisbury Huff for particulars and he gave us the following:

Dear Mr. Editor:

In view of the honor of a number of the copies which I have received to my recent letter to the people of Sanford, in regard to the construction of a country and golf club I feel that it would not be amiss for me to enlarge upon the views expressed therein and beg to ask the aid of your columns as a medium through which to disseminate the same to the community.

In the first place, when I came to Sanford some months ago a number of your prominent citizens broached the subject of a hotel and endeavored to enlist my interest in the project. After discussing the matter with them at some length and communicating with others who might consider the matter with a view to building a hotel, such as you would want I concluded that in order to make the most profitable proposition here it would be necessary to construct a combination Tourist Commercial Hotel building, to be units so that it could run full time during the winter season and shut down during the summer months; those units that were built especially for the tourists but were not necessary to the comfort of the hotel.

After coming into the matter with the successful gentlemen, it seemed to me that Sanford had a very important and interesting proposition and that is the golf course. Every hotel man with whom I have conversed on the subject has said that it is the golf course that attracts and holds his tourists.

So you may say that it is a most potent argument in favor of a hotel, but in discussing the matter with the investor in such a project I would have found this to be true.

Coming to a seeking Sanford, however, the reasons is the ease and in order to induce capital to make a hotel possible for us we must give ourselves with the strongest possible reasons why a hotel in Sanford would pay. It is, of course, admitted that the ordinary commercial patronage would not justify the investment of $200,000 to $250,000 but would that of some classes of tourists. What we want here is the tourist with money, who is willing and ready to pay with it in order to obtain the particular relief he is seeking in Florida. You will find that nine-tenths of that class of tourists insist upon a golf course.

If the people of Sanford agree with me that a golf club is a desirable acquisition and one that would tend to strengthen our hands in seeking to interest capital in a local hotel, it will afford me great pleasure to offer my services free of charge in behalf of the hotel projects just as I am doing in the matter of the golf club.

I wish it distinctly understood that neither I nor any one connected with the furtherance of the golf club is to receive remuneration or profit of any kind. I am dedicating my services absolutely free and without expectation of gain in any way.

In reply to a question propounded by some I might say that the location of the golf club is a detail which the members themselves must decide. My only interest is in its success no matter where located.

As planned we should be able to obtain a local membership sufficient to pay all fixed charges and the proceeds derived from non-residents, tourists, etc., could be applied as a sinking fund to retire the bonds, to pay rotating of the profits from the club restaurant.

Started American Prisoners Released, March 12.—Emancipated from imprisonment and serious lack of food, fifty-nine American seamen taken by Germany aboard the Yarrowdale arrived here.

The sailors told of abuse at the hands of German guards, and reported they lived on an allowance of soup daily and suffered from cold because of lack of clothes.

They said they believed the raider which sank their vessel was the "Kitz of Bremen," especially built for raiding.

PERCY PACKARD SHOT

Young Man Badly Wounded by Accidental Discharge of Shot Gun

Percy Packard, sixteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Packard of Sanford Heights was badly injured yesterday afternoon while playing with a shot gun. Percy was at the home of Gus Frank and with young Dick Frank was trying to kill a chicken hawk and while in the house accidentally discharged the shot gun and the entire load entered the left groin of young Packard. He was rushed to the Miller Sanitarium where Dr. Miller rendered medical aid at once and it is not known at this writing whether or not he will survive the wound. The many friends of the family are anxiously awaiting word.

As we go to press it is reported that it is not expected to recover.

NEW HEAD HEALTH B'D. IN SANFORD

DR. COX NAMED FOR HEAD OF BOARD—MILLER IN CHARGE OF SCHOOLS

Dr. Wm. H. Cox, one of the most prominent physicians of the state, was a speaker at the board of health last week, and in the most glowing terms expressed his approval and interest in the board and a desire to see it succeed.

While in our midst he was the guest of Dr. Oliver L. Miller, city health officer, here for the purpose of a conference with Dr. Miller and Dr. Hiram Byrd of Princeton, Fla., as regards the health organization under the new health act.

We have understood that after a lengthy conference it was definitely decided that Dr. Hiram Byrd would be appointed as Assistant State Health Officer in charge of the Scientific Department of the new State Board of Health, and that Dr. Miller would head the Bureau of Medical Inspection and Sanitation of Schools throughout the state. This is a matter which cannot be settled until June 1st, when the new State Board of Health will be commissioned and make their appointments.

Dr. Miller has just returned from Tallahassee where he went to accompany Dr. Cox for the purpose of taking up a few matters with the Governor, and has advised this office that on Wednesday, March 14th he and Dr. Cox will start for Washington, D. C., for a conference with the Surgeon-General of the United States Public Health Service.

Dr. Cox has been practicing medicine at Brooksville, Fla., for many years, having been a surgeon of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway Company and from the reports received at this office we are satisfied that he will make the state a most efficient executive of the health department. At any rate, we wish to extend to him our congratulations and best wishes for a clean, progressive administration.

Dr. Hiram Byrd, for many years was the first assistant State Health Officer under Dr. Porter and is a national authority on public health. It is to be hoped that he can be secured by the new administration in the same capacity.

Dr. Miller who is a native son needs no introduction to the people of this section. He has made health and sanitation and medical inspection his life work and knows it probably better than any man in Florida. That he will make good goes without saying and the work will be done thoroughly and systematically.

LIVELY TIME IS PROMISED LEGISLATURE

PROHIBITION WILL BE FIRST AND WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE NEXT

Tallahassee, Fla., March 12.—With the convening of the regular biennial session of the Florida legislature, less than thirty days away, it will be interesting to sum up briefly some of the more important matters that will come before the house and senate immediately after they are organized on April 3.

With the plethora of all the hold over matters plus his own vote, Senator J. D. Johnson is assured the election of president of the senate. Although the Live Oak statesman has for years served his district as state secretary, he is expected to be elected to the senate.

It is expected that the first legislative session will be devoted to the consideration of the prohibition amendment and the woman's suffrage amendment.

It is also expected that the first session will be devoted to the consideration of the prohibition amendment and the woman's suffrage amendment.

GOVERNMENT WILL PROBE ALLEGED PLOT

PHILADELPHIA GERMAN'S UNDER ARREST FOR SMUGGLING

Philadelphia, March 13.—Government agents today continued their investigation into the activities of persons under arrest charged with smuggling ship chronometers from the German auxiliary cruisers interned at the Philadelphia navy yard and of persons suspected of having a hand in the alleged violation of the customs laws. There are reports that the federal authorities have discovered a plot with many ramifications to damage property at the navy yard in event of war. Government officials, however, will not disclose details of the investigation until the case is closed.

Admiral Sir John Jellicoe and his staff are expected to arrive in Philadelphia on Sunday to visit the navy yard.

Many papers and documents taken from the Fisher house in Philadelphia are being examined. It was said that they were definitely related to the German auxiliary cruisers.

BOARD TRADE BIG MEETING COURT HOUSE

PRESIDENT BROREIN OF TAMPA BOARD OF TRADE TO MAKE ADDRESS

There will be a most interesting meeting of the Sanford Board of Trade in the court house tonight at eight o'clock. President Brorein of the Tampa Board of Trade will make an address on the questions most vital to Board of Trade work and many other matters of interest will be discussed. Every member is requested to be present.

Notes From the Secretary

Daily bus line between Geneva and Sanford just as soon as the high road is completed and that bunch of up to the minute county commissioners are starting to build the road and they are going on.

Thirty seven artists representing seven or eight states, were directed by the Board of Trade to a drive over the new Geneva road during the past three days and eight were sent to Titusville via Geneva. The new road is an asset that will continue to grow. The tourists praise the scenery, particularly that section approaching Lake Jessup and the little city of Geneva and the many courtesies the residents of that city extend to them will add numbers to the tourists now leaving the state to come back next season. The tourists that were sent to the east coast, via the Titusville road through Geneva, by the Board of Trade, did so on the recommendation of fellows by the names of Kribbinder, Dooley and Whitcomb, and if any reports of a bad nature come back a committee composed of Sheldon, Raulerson, Patterson and Palmer will be appointed to investigate the same.

The Sanford Business School under the leadership of Prof. Van Gelderen and Miss Dora Howard is progressing every day. The course taught at night is a no matter where you go. This school deserves the patronage of the young men and young women who wish to prepare themselves for a future career.

Prof. Davidson says you pronounce a PROGRESSIVE NEWS.

Two things for Sanford—the Golf Links and Hotel. Both will be in readiness for the tourists next season and even then we will not be ready to accommodate them. Now host.

Yes, way up in Ocala, Mich., the Board of Trade has a member. His name is F. J. McDaniel, and he is a wide awake Sanford booster even though he lives in Michigan. He has absolute faith in Sanford's future and writes that when it's all said and done the iron cross should be passed to Bob Holly, in appreciation of his continual hammering for a bigger, better Sanford.

Board of Trade late registers: Jno. F. Greyson, Detroit, Alfred Berner and wife, Westfield, N. J., A. B. Peterson, Jamestown, N. Y., J. C. Grimm, Cincinnati, Mrs. Chas. Camp, Hockanum, Conn., O. W. Commons, Richmond, Ind., W. S. Calloway, Washington, D. C., W. G. Royster, Lincoln, Ohio, S. P. Stripes, Ft. Wayne, Ind., L. S. Maybray, Terre Haute, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Coleman, Portland, Miss Mary Demons, St. Louis and Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Brown, Nashville.

After a stay of two weeks in Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Askam of Millford, Conn., have returned to their home. "Sanford for mine next season," remarked Mr. Askam, "but I want to see some improvements, so I can bring some friends along."

Dr. Neal and Hon. Bower advise that the following gentlemen have been added to their list as expert tellers of gator stories, plant life, etc.: Hon. Geo. McCottes, Arthur Yowell, L. P. McCuller, Mayor Davison and Councilman Roy Symes. Tourists should be all means see one of the above gentlemen while in Sanford for authentic data that needs stretching.

Black Hand society meets every Wednesday.

Did you see, "Where Are My Children." A fine picture and one that will place Liggett parodies on woman kind where they belong.

AMERICA GIVES NOTICE ARMED SHIPS

GOVERNMENT PREPARES FOR WAR AND MAKES STATEMENT

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Federal notice that American ships carrying the German submarine gun are to every "armed guard for the protection of the vessel and the lives of the persons on board" was sent by the state department today to embassies and legations. Washington of all foreign governments. Following is the text made public by the state department:

The view of the statement by the imperial German government, Jan. 18, 1917, that all ships carrying the high seas would be sunk without precaution being taken for the safety of the persons on board, and without the exercise of visit and search the United States has determined to place upon all American merchant vessels sailing through the barred area an armed guard for the protection of the vessels and the lives of the persons on board.

The notification will be sent to Germany by the Swiss legation here. Whether other neutral nations will admit armed ships to their ports is a question for them to decide but it is said here no objections will be made. Holland, the only neutral known to have barred an armed ship will stand alone, it is believed.

The government did not wish to make it clear whether it was mandatory for all American vessels to have arms, or if they might sail without them if desired. Previously the navy department under its policy of silence on such questions had refused a ruling.

The navy department's position is that it will equip with arms all ships whose owners apply to it.

Permission for clearance of the French liner Rochambeau of New York, the first belligerent merchantman to arrive in an American harbor with guns mounted fore and aft, was today granted by the state department which rules that the Rochambeau as a passenger carrying vessel plying usual routes was a peaceable merchantman, entitled to take adequate precautions against illegal attacks.

Undoubtedly the Rochambeau ruling will lead to a general policy of placing arms on the forward parts of vessels. It was thought she was sent into port largely as a test of this government's policy. It is assumed that other entente merchantmen will follow suit.

Among The Theatres

Blanche Sweet at the Star Monday
The scenes in the Lasky Paramount production "Those Without Sin" in which Blanche Sweet is to play the stellar role were laid in and around Richmond, Va., before and during the Civil War. With their usual desire for historical accuracy of detail, the Lasky Company sent an architect and photographer to Richmond to secure descriptions of a residential street of which to make a replica at the studio in Hollywood. It was found by this search that none of the original residential streets remained. The progress of new methods had intruded into the romance of the famous southern city. However, photographs were secured of one of the streets as it appeared during the Civil war. In the production the Lasky Company has refrained from mentioning the name of the street used, preferring rather to save it as a surprise to those who will remember the city during the great struggle. The houses are all exact duplicates and even the ivy on the little church at the end of the little street is according to an original photograph.

At Lyric Theatre
The tremendous sacrifice made by a man for the sake of his friend is told in "A Square Deal," the new World picture Brady-Made. Carlyle Blackwell portrays the role of the man who makes the sacrifice and playing opposite him is charming June Elvidge in a particularly pleasing role of great dramatic intensity. The cast is a notable one, including as it does Henry Hull and Muriel Ostriche. This wholly delightful and entertaining story will be shown at the theatre on Friday.

"A Square Deal"
The Lyric Theatre has secured for showing on Friday the latest World Picture Brady Made, "A Square Deal," in which are seen Carlyle Blackwell and June Elvidge and a notable cast including Henry Hull and Muriel Ostriche. "A Square Deal" tells a particularly entertaining story of Bohemian life. The scene is laid in McDougal street, the famous little thoroughfare in the heart of New York city where so many famous authors and artists have their homes. The story tells of a tremendous sacrifice made by a man for his friend. For a time it looks as though the friend would never be able to understand why the man acted the way he did, but eventually everything comes out right and the friends are happy.

Four friends in Bohemia, otherwise McDougal street, New York, decide to stick together through thick and thin. Sooner than any of them expect one of them is put to the test. The manner in which he proves his friendship is as startling as it is unique. For a time his actions are misunderstood by his friend for whom he has acted, but eventually it is understood and everything comes out happily. This is the foundation on which a particularly pleasing photoplay called "A Square Deal," has been constructed by World Picture Brady Made. This film will be shown at the Lyric Theatre on Friday and patrons of this theatre will be interested in learning that Carlyle Blackwell an charming June Elvidge are the stars in the production and Muriel Ostriche are featured in the cast.

Dainty Marguerite Clark at the Star Tonight

In "Snow White" Miss Clark played the role of the delightful little princess whose faith in her feathered friends brought her safely through many perils. "Fifi," though equally charming is quite another character. She is a little mix of a French actress whose colossal conceit makes her believe that she is a great actress despite the failure of the first company with which she became acquainted.

Nothing daunted by this catastrophe, Fifi goes to Paris where she becomes acquainted with the son and despair of Cartouche, a French veteran of the Napoleonic wars, who takes the little girl in a mad desire to protect her from the clutches of the police. Cartouche, however, from answering the call to arms by his old wounds has turned actor and is engaged by the Imperial Theatre at the cost of the Black Cat.

Through the kindness of the station, Fifi obtains employment at the Imperial where she soon becomes the favorite of the little boy who is the position of leading lady of the company. She is a clever little actress and her winning personality, despite her past, makes her very popular. Cartouche, her self appointed guardian purchases a government lottery ticket which he insists upon presenting to Fifi. The ticket is declared the winning number and Fifi suddenly comes into possession of a fortune.

Thereupon Cartouche decides that she must be educated and made a "lady," much to her disgust, for the little girl has sincere dramatic aspirations and is in love with Cartouche despite the veteran's efforts to assume a very stern and fatherly attitude toward her.

Little Fifi is bundled protestingly off to the home of Louis Bourcet, a model young man whose mother is entrusted with the instilling into her heart of the principles of culture. The comic and near tragic results of this effort to force education—and a husband—upon the incorrigible Fifi beggar description. The revolt which is instituted by Fifi ranks high in the annals of personal revolutions, both in picturesqueness and efficiency. Needless to say Fifi circumvents all efforts to deflect her from her chosen path.

"Where Are My Children?"

The application of the eugenic theory to both men and women, carried to the extreme limit would, it is urged by many, qualified to speak on the subject solve the problems of birth control. Two years ago the Wisconsin legislature enacted a strict eugenic law, requiring all prospective bridegrooms to secure a doctor's certification that they were free from contagious or infectious blood diseases.

Violations were endless from the very beginning. There was an inferred stigma many refused to accept. Some evaded the issue by common law marriages, declaring themselves man and wife in the presence of witnesses. Others quietly departed to Illinois, where a justice furnished a marriage license and performed the ceremony between trains. Physicians announced that the law meant nothing; the more conscientious refused to issue certifications, insisting that the Wasserman blood test was required to ascertain the truth; and this, in the majority of instances was impractical. A few arrests followed the first violations. These have ended. Today the law is more or less a dead letter.

But nevertheless the truth is only too apparent that the homes where stalwart, healthy, well poised men and women might be produced are childless, and the homes where poverty, disease and depravity exist are overcrowded with puny deficient children.

Every possible phase of this world interesting problem is adroitly and delicately presented in that newest and most impressive masterpiece from the hand of America's greatest woman director, Lois Weber. "Where Are My Children?" aside from the serious problem it exploits, is a wonderful dramatic triumph. Tyrone Power as the District Attorney, handles the lead with that very natural and easy, yet dynamic personality that has made him famous. The entire cast was selected with infinite care and the result has been the premiere photo play of the season.

The Lyric Theatre will show this picture on Monday, March 12, the management of the theatres wishing to announce at this time that no one under seventeen years of age will be admitted unless with their parents.

Mabel Taliaferro at Star Tuesday
"A Wife by Proxy"

In the new Metro Rolfe wonderplay "A Wife by Proxy," which Mabel Taliaferro, the star, figures in a "quadrangle" of love and intrigue. The four characters in the "quadrangle" are: "A man without a soul; an adventuresome, a young man whose fortune and happiness are the spoils sought for, and a witty, clever little immigrant girl, "Jerry," who battles with great odds and wins out in the finish in a manner that is startling.

Miss Taliaferro, as the little immigrant transplanted to a great American city is confronted with problems which she solves by simplicity and truthfulness. Always alert and keen about protecting the man she loves, little "Jerry" in "A Wife by Proxy" wins sympathy, admiration and stirs the heart.

The scheming of the adventuresome (Sally Crute) is well planned, and her purpose and that of her partner in crime, while evident to the audience is not known by "Jerry" and young Burbeck (Robert Walker) until it has advanced to a degree that makes "Jerry's" task to thwart it almost a hopeless one.

But with dogged determination and ready wit, "Jerry" bravely makes the sacrifice that is demanded, of her, and the scheming of the adventuresome is thwarted. Unlike the ordinary problems which confront the newly arrived immigrant, that which Jerry has to solve is one laid in the home where she is living, and concerns the welfare of her employer—for whom she holds a secret and powerful love.

He left here to join the Canadian troops:

London, Jan. 7.—I have been spending part of this Sunday afternoon with a boy who, like myself, was raised under the mastery of Marse Henry Watterson in the blue grass region of Kentucky. Madame, the wife of the American Ambassador, who takes a deep daily interest in these boys from home, told me about him. In Ward K 4 of King George's Hospital he is a number—177,378. In Fayette county, Ky., he is Alexander McClintock. His home is that loveliest of all human habitations, a blue grass farm. The place is called Longridge, and it is on the Lexington, Maysville turnpike. His father and mother are at Longridge waiting for him. They belong to the Breckinridge clan. Before I went to the hospital I recalled that a grandson of John C. Breckinridge has recently come here to do some work in the embassy. I called him up and he went with me. So the afternoon in our part of King George's Hospital was a kind of old Kentucky home reunion.

We found Sergeant McClintock precisely what a Kentucky boy ought to be. Perhaps it is the same limestone that makes the blue grass; something puts love of light into the typical Kentuckian. Here in far-away London he is bright-eyed, well setup boy of 23, a bit of shrapnel still in his thigh bone, though the big piece had been cut out, smiling as he related his adventures and game for more of the same.

"Why did I go in?" he asked back. "Oh, I wanted to go in from the first."

That was all the why he knew. He was operated on at Rouen late in November and shortly afterward brought to London. He is convalescent now and hopes that he will be allowed to spend the interval between being able to walk and being fit for trench duty in the United States. He would just love to go back to Lexington for a few weeks before taking a hand in the drive that is going to make Fitz homesick. What would add to the interest of a trip home is that the King has just given him a medal for going into the German line to bring in two wounded men. Also the sergeant is shortly to become a lieutenant. We asked the questions, McClintock answered them and this is the story:

"On Oct. 21, north of Pozieres, on the Somme, my battalion went over the top after nine counter assaults by the Germans. We got to the Regina trench, one of the most famous out there, and we stayed there forty-eight hours. The first battle that I can't hold it because they didn't get the trench. Then the second battle went in and they got it, and the third did not, when the fourth, which was mine, and it became a very hot battle. The trench held us good in position by the company, firing above and spotting the German trenches.

I got out of that adventure all right. At 6.30 a. m. on Nov. 18 we again went over behind a barrage. The 100 of us who were left from the first attack in October got through and stayed in the second line of trenches. I was in charge of the second wave, known as the 'mopping up' wave. The first wave doesn't stop, but the second and succeeding ones have details to attend to. I got through the first line of trenches, but as I was going to the second I stopped at a shell hole where four men, confused by the firing and uncertain what to do, were lying. I had just time to order them forward when I got a piece of shrapnel in my thigh. I had the four men go on, and I lay in the shell hole, where I bandaged myself. I didn't lose consciousness, and after two hours I saw a lot of German soldier prisoners going by under guard, and I commanded four of

While in Florida See the Ready-to-Cultivate Farms of the Seaboard Railway in the Pasco County Highlands

Twelve months' growing season, some crop ready for market every month. Never very hot or very cold, climate healthful. Pasco County Highlands produce vegetables at time prices are highest; corn, hay and other staples on same land later in season. Year-round grazing; livestock shows fine profits; dairying and poultry raising yield big returns. Oranges and grapefruit of best quality ripen when demand is greatest and prices are highest.

Prepared by Business Men of Dade City; Sold by Seaboard on Easy Terms

Bankers and business men have prepared these farms to attract industrious settlers; the Seaboard is selling them to increase its tonnage, and employs farm experts to help buyers succeed. Real farms, 40 acres and up.

Your Chance is Here to Make Money in Fruit Growing and General Farming

The Seaboard, with tracks covering heart of Florida's farming territory, following policy of extending lines and service in advance of development, is in touch with conditions all over the State. Pasco county was selected by general development department for colonizing them to come to me, pointing my revolver at them to make them stop. They put me on a rubber sheet and carried me five miles to Pozieres. My wound was not very painful, except when I was shaken by my carriers. They dropped me a couple of times when they ducked in the shell holes to escape the fire. That hurt."

"What is the spirit of the German soldier as observed by your American eyes?" I asked.

"They are downhearted. The Somme offensive has depressed the German soldiers, though excellent in many respects will not fight at close range. Just before I was wounded, when my lot got to the first trench, there were about thirty German soldiers in it. All of them held up their hands, excepting one officer, who was using his small arms at a very lively rate. I had the satisfaction of bayoneting that officer in the back. I never found out whether he died or not, but he was undoubtedly shot and fell in the trench and I myself was wounded shortly afterward."

"Most of the men in the counter attack," Fritz has the range of his own trenches, and that is where we catch it. When we saw a new trench some distance away, but in November the ground is too hard. In the nature of things we suffer a good deal from our own artillery fire. It's part of the game and can't be helped. At 200 yards we have to stoop as we go forward, so as not to get hit by the barrage. When we are within 50 yards of the German trench and when the barrage which has been keeping up a lively fire, half of it shrapnel, so as to make Fritz keep his head down—the very second the barrage gets up we have got to make a rush for it."

Sergeant McClintock said that in his battalion 50 per cent were citizens of the United States, many of them born English. He thought that about 10 per cent were native born Americans. He said that it was generally understood and accepted that there were 40,000 native born Americans fighting in the armies of the Entente Allies. McClintock is deeply attached to his battalion.

"What is the worst thing that you met with?" he was asked.

"The dead ones," he replied. "The ground is full of them. I have counted as many as sixty-two lying unburied in a ten minute walk. Once, in a trench, when I was digging a funk hole, I struck two corpses. Usually they are thrown in shell holes and covered up. It's not much use burying. The shells kick them right up. Sometimes we tried to make a bayonet into a cross for an officer, but it doesn't stay long. A shell seldom hits a trench, but when one does land it starts something. I saw a five and nine-tenths shell, a 'coal box' as we call it, hit a trench and kill three men. We couldn't gather enough of those three men to fill a boot.

"About the most unpleasant thing, next to the corpses, is trench feet. I have suffered as long as seventy hours continuously in water up to my knees. Even if you wear gum boots the water soaks through and your feet swell up. You get plenty of bully-beef and potatoes and, one of the best things of all, two drinks a day of rum, that helps ward off germs and malaria. There is always a glass of rum just before you go over the top. As for sleep, we don't have it, in the ordinary sense of the word. It is more like cat-napping. Some of the men try to woo sleep in their funk holes, but after my experience trying to dig one up I gave it up. The maximum of bathing is one bath a month, with a change of underwear."

All this story the young Kentuckian told with a lively sense of humor and a twinkle in his eye. He seemed to have a pretty good feeling, on the whole, for the German soldier, whom he always spoke of as "Fritz." He told the story of the prisoner to whom an English soldier said, "You are on your way to England, too."

"Yes," replied Fritz, with an air of concession, "but I have no return ticket."

Sergeant McClintock was very proud of his Canadian and American friends. "Who is the best soldier of them all?"

"Many people say the Australians, who are certainly a jure devil lot, and then there are the French Canadians, who are afraid of nothing on earth, but have no planning. Take them all together and put down another, I think our Canadians are the best."

A Bill We Can't Pay

A ten-year-old boy overhauled a conversation about certain bills to be paid, and conceived the idea of making out a bill for his own services. So the next morning he hid his statement of account on his mother's breakfast plate:

"Mother owes Willie for carrying coal six times, twenty cents; for bringing water lots of times, thirty cents; for going ten errands, fifteen cents." His mother read the bill but said nothing about it. That evening Willie found on his plate the seventy-five cents and also another bill which read as follows: "Willie owes his mother for his happy home for ten years, nothing; for his food and clothing, nothing; for nursing him through a long illness, nothing; total nothing." When Willie saw the seventy-five cents he was pleased. But when he read his mother's bill his eyes grew dim and his lips quivered. Then he took the money to his mother, threw his arms about her neck and begged that she would let him do lots of things for her.

Mother's bill is rarely presented but it will pay each person to think it out and over for himself and then pay it in love and service.—Exchange.

Orlando's Musical Festival this week was one of the greatest musical events that has been pulled in Florida in many a day. That bunch down there can do anything.

The business houses of Sanford should make the week of April, Tuesday 3rd the big shopping week by taking ample space in The Herald Easter Edition. This is the time to advertise your spring stocks.

The American people are standing squarely behind President Wilson and while he will stay out of the world's war as long as it is possible to preserve our honor yet should an overt act on the part of Germany try his patience beyond the breaking point he will not hesitate to call their hand even though war follows. None of us want war but we want this nation to be respected, even if it takes the backing of the navy and army to instill this respect.

Prices on food stuffs continue to advance and this is no time for the dreamer to talk of what should be done. The best thing for the people of this great farming section of Florida to do is to plant all the staple crops their lands will hold and be ready for any eventualities that may occur between now and next fall. Sweet potatoes, corn, hay and other staple crops together with hogs would tend to keep the wolf from the door for a long time and we can almost live within our own state if worst comes to worst. Plant something to eat and plant it now.

We take the liberty to extend, individually and on behalf of Bob Holly of the Sanford Herald, appreciation of the Arcadia Daily News, with reciprocal sentiment, for the following: "So far as we know there are only two semi weekly papers published in the state, the Plant City Courier and the Sanford Herald. Probably there are no paper better edited than these two, and who knows but the very sensible plan of their appearance has much to do with their efficiency. ILLEGAL FISHING
Sheriff Morris and his deputies have succeeded in arresting several fishermen who were violating the law by illegal fishing. The sheriff has seized and now has in his possession, five men charged with illegal fishing, six boats, one of which is an expensive launch and six seines. An effort will be made to confiscate these seines and boats. The sheriff reports that he is informed the fishermen are working for a wholesale dealer in Sanford, who must certainly be as guilty, as accessory before and after the act, as the men who were pulling the nets. Many of Florida's multitudinous fishing laws have been passed for the benefit of corporations—to give the people something to think and to quarrel about while the legislature failed to pass just regulating laws, or left unjust laws on the books.

The sheriff of Volusia county reports that hundreds of people are violating the laws with regard to fishing, but that he loses money on every arrest he makes, owing to the expense of getting evidence, hiring launches, etc.
Governor Catts will be informed of conditions, and an effort made to stop illegal fishing in Volusia county waters.—DeLand News.

JOE WHITNER
A wave of genuine sorrow swept over Orlando and Orange county when the news of Joe Whitner's death was published. He had been active in leadership among the prominent men of this section for a number of years, and was a large figure in furthering its material development up to the day of his death. Joe Whitner came in the class of men who may be regarded as many sided. He was at home in any company, inclining largely to politics, but not for the love of the game so much as for the results. He was found always on the conservative side, standing staunchly for his principles but not allowing himself to become worked into a frenzy against his opponents. He was calm minded and believed in the survival of the fittest; the victory of the best in the ultimate. The real Whitner heart however, was in seeing the fine country, which he had come to love so well grow into the realization of his dreams. Back in the days of the terrible freeze he had faith when others lost it. His steadfast and unflagging optimism inspired others to remain and fight it out, and he had the satisfaction of winning the race himself and seeing others come out alongside with glowing faces and bulging exchequers. He had the hardihood of the pioneer and the zeal of a pilgrim; the fellowship for his brother man which near kinship to nature gives and the vision which brightens the sunrise of promise and gilds the sun glow of hope.—Reporter Star.

A TIMELY WORD OF WARNING
The Manufacturers' Record, a live magazine which is published at Baltimore always has a broad and comprehensive view of matters which pertain to the welfare of the entire south. The following from its issue of February 15th is so pertinent that we gladly give it space in our columns:

"Whether there be war or peace between this country and Germany, whether war be continued in Europe, for another year or two, or whether peace should come, the demand for foodstuffs will exceed the supply, both in this country and abroad. The shortage in the world's food crops last year, taken in connection with conditions created by the war, brings us nearer to a famine station in food stuffs than the world has known in this generation. If the crops of this country should, by unfavorable weather conditions or by a lessened acreage, be short of a full average yield, we would have almost famine conditions, because we will go into the next crop practically barren of food supplies.

"Nothing less than a bumper crop of grain will save us from exorbitantly high prices for wheat and corn next winter. It is important that the whole country should understand this situation, but it is doubly important that the farmers of the south should understand it and plant the largest acreage in grain which they have ever had in order to save themselves from having to pay the highest prices they have ever paid for their foodstuffs. Every business man in the south should do all in his power to urge upon southern farmers the planting of grain and the raising of foodstuffs of all kinds this spring and summer.

"It is hardly possible to predict what may happen to cotton. The price, judged by the world's demand ought to be high, but in view of the uncertainties of conditions here and elsewhere, a large cotton crop might prove a misfortune by forcing prices below a fair profit.
The south might raise too bit a cotton crop for its own prosperity, but it cannot raise too big a grain crop nor too much livestock. Every available acre should be put into the raising of foodstuffs, into grain, into vegetables, potatoes, and as much attention as possible should be given to livestock, and even to the raising of chickens and to dairying, for the purpose of meeting the home demand for foodstuffs.

"It will be almost a crime for any southern farmer not to provide, during the coming spring and summer for all of the foodstuffs which his family will need for the next twelve months. Anything short of that would be ignoring every condition which this country and the world confronts in the lack of foodstuffs and in the certainty of high prices. Business men, state governments and the national government owe it to the farmers and to the welfare of the country to stress these points with all possible emphasis. The south can become independent for foodstuffs by quick and vigorous action this spring and summer by its farmers, and if it fails to do so, it will be drained of hundreds of millions of dollars for high priced foodstuffs, which should have been raised at home, and there will be poverty in many homes where there should be abundance."

JOSEPH N. WHITNER
A Tribute to the Memory of One of Florida's Best Citizens
By R. J. Holly

Break, break, break, on thy cold gray stones, O sea
And I would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me.
And oft times these lines of Tennyson occur to the writer when the occasion arises to chronicle the life and works of those who have gone before and especially of one who was a dear friend and neighbor.

Hon. J. N. Whitner

Joseph N. Whitner was born at Mar's Bluff, near Florence, South Carolina in 1857, the son of Joseph N. Whitner and of the third generation of Joseph N. Whitners, the first one for many years serving as Justice of the Supreme Court of South Carolina. Born upon the old Whitner Plantation on the eve of the great struggle between the states and reared in the atmosphere of the old south, filled with the instincts and traditions of the true southern gentleman it is little wonder that he carried these same high principles with him to the day of his death or that they were coupled with the word of the Holy Writ as the guiding star to shape his life.

His parents moved to Florida in 1859 settling near Sanford and purchasing the old Finnegan place, afterward buying the Melwood groves and making that place their home until the great freeze destroyed their hopes of a fortune in citrus culture. The subject of this sketch received a good education and in early youth took up the pursuit of business travelling for the well known firm of P. McQuaid of Jacksonville, one of the largest wholesale feed and grain houses in the state.

In 1885 he was united in marriage to Miss Caldwell of this city and wishing to give up travelling was given the Sanford territory by Mr. McQuaid and organized a branch house here building up a large and lucrative business in feeds and supplies. On the death of P. McQuaid Mr. Whitner organized the J. N. Whitner Co., having associated with him J. P. Tallaferra (afterward U. S. Senator), T. V. Porter, C. B. Rogers and several other prominent business men of the state and the firm grew into one of the largest wholesale houses in Florida, making Sanford a leading sale and trading center in wholesale hay and grainland supplies and being the first to embark upon a large scale in the distribution of orange boxes and growers' supplies.

The freeze crippled the business and Mr. Whitner and family retired to Shell Bank, a farm at the extreme end of what is now known far and wide as Celery avenue (named by Mr. Whitner) and here he had fond hopes of retrieving his fortunes by raising cattle and farming. Mr. Whitner even in those early days had visions of Florida as a great cattle raising state and vegetable center and his ideas were so far in advance of his neighbors that he was looked upon as a dreamer. He went ahead, however, and purchased fine blooded cattle to cross with the native stock and was probably the first man in south Florida to have registered cattle and to entertain great hopes of the future of this industry.

It was while residing on Celery avenue at Shell Bank that he conceived the idea of growing celery in Florida as a winter crop and he sent to Peter Henderson Seed Co. for the first seed. Others followed his lead and some celery was raised for the local markets. Capt. Frank Whitner, S. O. Chase and J. N. Whitner later shipped the first celery in car lots, shipping three cars of Sanford celery to New York. There was no road from Sanford to Shell Bank and the Whitner family were really the pioneers of that part of the country, having difficulty many times in getting to Sanford through the deep sand. How true were the visions of Mr. Whitner on the celery industry one has but to go out this famous avenue today with brick streets, beautiful homes of growers and countless teams and signs of industry on every hand.

The great system of subirrigation and drainage that has since made Sanford famous was not known then and was discovered through the efforts of Dr. Moore who resided in Sanford. The city streets were very sandy but there were several flowing wells in the city street and Moore conceived the idea of having wooden troughs placed under the ground for the water of the flowing wells to circulate through wetting the surface and sufficiently to keep it moist on the same principle of the ocean tides and also to act as a drainage of the streets. This idea appealed to J. E. Terwilliger who was growing celery near town and he worked it on his farm in the crude state as suggested by Dr. Moore's idea. Mr. Whitner was also taken with the idea and worked night and day on this system with the notion paramount that the idea was right but needing some changes for perfect irrigation. His system was completed one Saturday night on the Shell Bank farm and with the wooden troughs under ground all ready for the water it was turned on and left for the night. Early the next morning Mr. Whitner arose to see if the experiment would work and going out to his field saw the ground moist and uniform and the plan working complete, and seeing the hand of God pointing to the destiny of this great gift of nature threw himself on his knees and with his family gave thanks to Him from whom all blessings flow. Thus was the Great Idea planted that has since proven to be the greatest system of subirrigation and drainage that the world has ever known and Moore, Terwilliger and Whitner were the channels of blessing through which it was given to the world.

Although a very busy man with his own affairs Mr. Whitner found time to devote to his neighbors and his town and county and state. He served as member of the Orange County Commissioners and in 1896 introduced the first resolution in the board "to levy a tax of 3 mills for a special fund to be used for purposes of putting clay, shell or other hard surface substance upon the public roads of Orange county and was really the father of good roads in the state of Florida, as Orange county was the first county to make hard surfaced roads and since that time has held the record for hard surfaced roads and Mr.

Whitner's resolution that day in 1896 was the signal to begin the system that has made this state famous as being among the leaders for good roads systems.

Another one of Mr. Whitner's great ideas for development of Florida in general and this section in particular was the drainage of the upper St. Johns river and for the purpose of getting a charter for this great work became a candidate for the Florida legislature and served one term. The drainage charter was his pet scheme but he also gave his attention to many other laws while serving as legislator and while he was too modest to take any credit for himself was really responsible for many of the good laws passed at that session of the legislature and he was looked upon as a great leader in thought and action in the capital of the state.

In after years Mr. Whitner devoted his attention to farming, cattle raising and land matters and while a very busy man never lost sight of the drainage of the Upper St. Johns. Meantime the Clyde Line, the Jacksonville Board of Trade and others interested were clamoring for the war department to take action on this drainage and stop any preliminary work as the drainage of the head waters of the St. Johns river would lower that stream and make navigation impossible. Mr. Whitner spent years of his time in trying to convince the government engineers and others that in dry seasons the head waters of the Upper St. Johns river flowed southward and dry seasons would have no effect upon navigation. It took nineteen years to convince them of this fact and just a few months ago Mr. Whitner had the pleasure of having this great drainage scheme made possible by the sanction of the government engineers and in the last years of his life he served on the drainage board of the Upper St. Johns and assisted materially in convincing the government and the navigation companies of their mistake.

He did not live to see the completion of this great work but when it is finished it will be a monument to his memory and the many thousands who receive the benefit of this wonderful development that will take place will rise up and call him blessed. This was the triumph and crowning glory of a life spent in the interest of his state and in a measure demonstrates that Mr. Whitner lived to assist others, lived that he might work and develop his state for future generations, lived only for his family and for his fellow man, with no thought for personal advancement, with no thought of personal gain, with no thought of emolument or public praise. Here was an exceptional man who took part in politics for public weal only, for the good that he could do, for the purity of public life, for the upbuilding of his country alone—for himself he wished nothing and how often has the thought occurred to his friends that he received his wish.

The history of this great man's life would not be complete without a tribute to his great work for the churches and for his fellow man through the church. J. N. Whitner was one of the pioneers of Presbyterianism in south Florida, being one of the founders of the church at old Ft. Reade near here and since his early manhood being a most active worker in the church and in fact all the churches, regardless of denomination. He was one of the broad type of men who believed in the power of the Lord to save regardless of creeds and his purse was always open not only to the churches but to his fellow man and J. N. Whitner probably gave more to charity than any other individual in Sanford. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church at the time of his death and though in feeble health attended regularly to the last. His brethren in the Lord's work feel his loss most keenly for it was here that his true Christian character shown in celestial reluctance and by his example and precepts was a tower of strength for all the members of the church.

His great work in developing the state, his many acts of charity and benevolence, his untiring devotion to principles, the sweet picture of his home life, his lofty ideals of citizenship will never be known abroad or if known will never be given full credit, mainly because his extreme modesty would not allow the chronicles to appear in print but the name of J. N. Whitner will live long in the memory of those who knew him best and sometime, some day when the tramp of thousands of feet turned to Florida chiefly through his efforts will obliterate all vestige of former days a new generation will rise up and some one in writing of Florida's truly great men will give Joseph N. Whitner his rightful niche in the Hall of Fame.

Floods Are Recalling

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 8.—The crest of the rise in the Tennessee river is expected at midnight when the weather bureau predicts that the waters will begin to fall. The gauge at 7 o'clock this morning read 47.3 and the river was still rising slowly. A stage of 48 feet is expected tomorrow. The rise last night cut off another street car line and interrupted railroad traffic. The waters covered the Southern tracks in the suburbs but trains continued to pass over the flooded portion cautiously. It is estimated that between 4,000 and 6,000 people were driven from their homes. They have all been provided for. The only fatality is one negro woman but it is believed she died from fright. The river is falling at upriver points.

Atlanta, Ga., March 8.—Tennessee railroads today were feeling the effects of the flood. The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis was operating between Chattanooga and Dalton, Ga., over tracks of the Southern, because of high water and the danger of collapse of a bridge over Chickamauga creek. The bridge is weighted down with loaded cars.

The Southern suffered a washout on a fill between Knoxville and Morristown, but it was reported it would be repaired this afternoon sufficiently to allow trains to pass. Railroad yards at Chattanooga were covered with water, causing traffic delays.

Raleigh, N. C., March 8.—Rivers in eastern North Carolina which for several days have been above the flood level either were falling or were almost at a standstill today. The Roanoke river was rising slowly but prospects were that the height of the flood would pass Weldon today, the local weather bureau said. The Cape Fear, reached its highest point at Fayetteville last night and was falling today, while the Neuse at Smithfield was at a standstill. The Tar river was rising slowly but the crest of the flood was expected to Tarboro tomorrow. No serious damage has been reported.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Woman's Club was held on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Galloway presiding.

Preceding the annual meeting the regular monthly meeting was held and routine business disposed of. The meeting then adjourned and business of the annual meeting was taken up in order. Reports of the officers of the club and chairmen of departments for the year just ending showed the affairs of the club to be in excellent condition and splendid progress made along new lines during the year.

The president's report which sounded throughout, the keynote of cooperation was an eloquent appeal for the unselfish support and loyalty of club members, especially in the matter of eliminating society functions and their attendance on the club days set forth in the calendar of meetings. Mrs. Galloway was most cordial in her appreciation of the support of the Board of Managers and the departments. In conclusion she recommended as the slogan for the coming year a larger attendance at club and department meetings; avoiding social affairs on club days and a more general use of the club house by all members of the club. The paper, which was well written and delivered in a pleasing manner received the enthusiastic applause of the assemblage.

The report of Mrs. Deane Turner, retiring first vice president was a brief summary of moneys earned by the club in various ways during the year, and concluded with words of encouragement to the incoming first vice president and stressing the pleasure the office had brought to her.

The second vice president, Mrs. May Dickins, reported twenty-five new members and three restored to membership, making a total of twenty-eight.

The report of Mrs. W. L. Morgan, the recording secretary dealt with the year's achievements of the club, especially, and the corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. W. Dickins reported the duties of her office to have been light but faithfully performed, among them being letters of condolences to four members of the club, to whose families the Death Angel had come within the past few months. The treasurer's report (Mrs. Geo. Fox) was wonderful, showing a balance of $13.66. March, 1916—Deposits in the year $1,224.17 with added deposits on the building fund drawing interest, of $253.04, making a total of $1,477.21. Disbursements $1,098.62 (practically all of it spent in Sanford) and a balance of $139.21 on deposit, in addition to the building fund. Reports from department chairmen were excellent showing the music department to have cancelled its obligation of one hundred dollars on the building fund and the other three making ex-lent progress on same in addition to fine reports of the work in each department along their various lines. House and press committee made their annual reports, also showing activities of these committees.

The by-laws were placed upon their final reading and adopted with few slight changes, an important section being the payment of dues than "October 1st." This being necessary in order that the club may have full representation at the annual Federation meetings in November.

The annual election of officers as chairman resulted as follows: President, Mrs. H. M. Galloway; 1st vice president, Mrs. W. L. Morgan; 2nd vice president, Mrs. May Dickins; 3rd vice president, Mrs. B. A. Howard; recording secretary, Mrs. W. E. Watson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. W. Dickins; treasurer, Mrs. Geo. Fox; chairman Literature Department, Mrs. L. R. Phillips; chairman Music Dept., Mrs. Gwynn Fox; chairman Social Dept., Mrs. Julius Schultz; chairman Welfare Dept., Mrs. James Moughton. The newly elected officers will begin their terms of office in October, present officers holding over until then.

Woman's Club applications blanks and score cards can be secured from Mrs. H. C. Gerrer, chairman of the Baby Week Campaign committee.

Civic Committee

The Civic Committee of the Woman's Club, Miss Nellie Elder, chairman, presiding held an interesting meeting on Monday morning with Dr. Geo. Hyman, chairman of the Civic Committee of the Board of Trade meeting with them.

Plans were discussed for the civic improvement and betterment of Sanford in which the two bodies will cooperate. Specific work decided upon for the immediate future was the beautifying of the station grounds which will be under the personal supervision of Dr. Hyman and his committee and the planting and beautifying of the Ninth Street Park by the Civic Committee of the club. This work has been under consideration by the Civic Committee for some time and steps will be taken at once for its improvement. The park is near the station, almost at the entrance of the city and as yet is entirely unimproved. Miss Elder and the club at large are delighted to have the support and cooperation of the Civic Committee of the Board of Trade. Secretary Marlowe of the Board of Trade made a request to the committee that they take up the question of orange trees in every yard in Sanford and other trees and tropical foliage of Florida. The committee urge the adoption of the suggestion.

Notice

The Press Committee in her report of the business meeting overlooked the fact of the appearance of Mr. A. T. Kelsie before the Woman's Club on Wednesday, in behalf of the starving Armenians. Mr. Kelsie wished to arrange for a lecture on Hawaii, the proceeds to be sent to Armenia. Mrs. W. E. Watson, Mrs. Geo. Dickenson and Mrs. J. W. Barnes were appointed a committee to confer with Mr. Kelsie and arrange details for the lecture which will be given at an early date, notice of which will appear later.

Rex Beach in Florida

Rex Beach, well known author, accompanied by Mrs. Beach, spent a few hours at the Hotel Mason yesterday while en route to Belleair and Tampa. The writer lived ten years of his youth in the latter city, where he owns property and has many friends. During their lay over here they motored about the city to the different points of interest, ending their tour at the passenger office of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, where Mr. Beach made transportation arrangements and called upon A. W. Fritot, division passenger agent, some of whose filibustering adventures during the Spanish-American war were used by the author in his latest book, Rainbow's End.

Mr. Beach asked many questions about the atmospheric and climatic conditions here for motion picture making, thus indicating that one of the companies producing his books in pictures may come here for various scenes in the future. He is keenly interested in this work, all of which is being done by his own companies under his personal supervision. A few weeks ago the Barrier, his third successful novel was released as one of the most stupendous picture productions of the year and is now playing the larger cities.

Although he has passed through Jacksonville a number of times during the past few years, this is to be his first visit in ten years to the scenes of his boyhood. It has been twenty years since he left this state to complete his education at law schools in the north. His preliminary schooling was received at Rollins college, Winter Park.

Mr. Beach's well known novels are

The Barrier, Partners, The Spoilers, The Silver Horde, Going Some, The Ne'er-Do-Well, The Net, The Iron Trail, The Auction Block. He was also co-author with Paul Armstrong of the play, Going Some, and with James McArthur of the dramatization of the Spoilers.—Times-Union.

News Girls for Sanford

On Saturday, under the direction of Mrs. Hal Wight a group of Sanford's charming girls will sell the Tampa Times on the streets, having news stands in prominent and conspicuous places. The special edition is being edited by the Florida Federation of Woman's Clubs and is not only interesting but an attractive issue. Five hundred copies will be placed on sale in Sanford. The State Federation receives a per cent of the proceeds, which will be applied on the improvement of the State Royal Palm Park, one of the greatest beauty spots of America. The Times will be sold all over the state tomorrow. It will be a novel sight to see girls on the streets selling papers. The very novelty of the situation should bring a generous response.

Evening Party

Last Friday evening, Edmund Meisch was the genial young host at a charming party in honor of his cousin, Miss Dorothy Meisch of Syracuse, N. J. The attractive home was simply decorated with quantities of potted ferns. Dancing, music and games whiled away the happy hours, and guessing contests furnished much fun and merry laughter. The prizes were won by Miss Helen Peck and Walter Connelly, who were presented with silk handkerchiefs and by Frank Purdon who won a box of candy. Others enjoying the hospitality and pleasures of the evening were Misses Serita Lake, Norma Herndon, Dorothy Rumph, Ethel and Florence Henry and Mollie Abernathy. U. at Thomasville, Ga., is named was present and gave to the local chapter a set of books entitled "Joyce Mayfield, Crusader" (Alice M. Kimball) with the request that they be distributed in Sanford. The gift was accepted with warm appreciation of Dr. Bouchelle's kindness.

ELKS ELECT OFFICERS

Sanford Lodge Selects Efficient Corps for Ensuing Year

Sanford Lodge No. 1241 Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks held their annual election of officers last Wednesday night and the lodge room in their new home was filled with members, as the election is always the event of the season. The campaign had been carried on very quietly, but results proved that it had been most systematic for some of the candidates and their supporters were there with the ballots. The election was a good natured affair and the result gave general satisfaction as the Bills only want good men in the offices and have little preference in the matter.

The following officers will hold down the upholstered chairs for the ensuing year:

- O. L. Taylor, Exalted Ruler.
- George A. DeCottes, Esteemed Leading Knight.
- S. M. Lloyd, Esteemed Lecturing Knight.
- R. R. Deas, Esteemed Loyal Knight.
- Felix Frank, Secretary.
- L. P. McCuller, Treasurer.
- Ed. Rourke, Tyler.
- C. F. Williams, Trustee (3 year term).

Next Winter's Orange Crop

From all sources of information, which include newspapers and individuals, which the Herald has consulted, the conclusion may be drawn that next winter's crop of oranges and grapefruit will not be as much as twenty per cent less than the crop of this winter now passing. The freeze killed very few bearing trees anywhere in the state. Nearly, if not quite all of these killed were very young trees that would not have come into bearing for several years.

On the bearing trees, only the outer buds and tender branches were nipped. This killed a great deal of the blossom that was starting to put out; but in a few weeks from now, a new growth will appear and on this will come a good crop of blossoms that will produce fruit. Many trees are already showing the new growth on which the blossoms come. Undoubtedly, however, there are trees which bore this past winter which were so injured that they will not yield anything next winter; and, taking these into consideration, it seems fair to conclude that next winter's crop will be a million boxes less than this winter's, but it will bring fully as much money to the producers.—Punta Gorda Herald.

Not Really an Escape.

We often think that, if we had been placed in the same difficulties which we see overwhelm others, we could have got out of them. Just so; we might have squeezed, or wriggled, or crept out of a position from which another who would not stoop could not have escaped.—If escape takes the form of a temptation, they do not escape.—Mary Cholmondeley.

Optimistic Thought.

Charity cannot dwell with a mean and narrow spirit.

MICHELIN

UNIVERSAL TREAD

Note the exceptional thickness of Tread, ensuring maximum durability.

This is the new tire everyone is talking about.

Three Reasons Why

Durability

This new casing possesses in full measure all the long-wearing qualities that characterize the world-famous Michelin racing type flat tread, the most durable tire ever produced.

Like the Michelin flat tread, the secret of the remarkable durability of this new casing is in the extra heavy broad flat tread, a tread that sticks to the ground when the car is started without wearing away as a result of slipping, a waste that in most rubber non-skids, especially those of the high studded tread type, is very real, though seldom considered by the average motorist until it is too late.

Resiliency

In making an extra heavy long-wearing tire, like the New Michelin Universal tread, it is essential that the utmost care be taken in the design and construction to secure maximum life and resiliency, qualities that are so necessary to comfort in motoring, and to the preservation of the mechanism of a car.

In addition to the unequalled durability of this new casing, the New Michelin Universal Tread marks a forward step in tire construction as regards resiliency, being an advance even on the Michelin plain tread, heretofore recognized as the most easy riding tire made.

Non-Skid Features

In addition to the superior resiliency of the Michelin Universal casing, and its extra heavy long-wearing tread, the non-skid feature is of unusual interest. The tread is a combination of the really valuable features of the suction type non-skid, and of the raised or studded type, and unites in one casing advantages never before thought possible. This new casing is really a step forward in tire construction.

NOTE—The Michelin Universal Tread casing is made with two types of beads, viz: Quick Detachable Clincher, for all Q. D. Clincher rims, and straight Side, for all rims made for straight side tires.
