Japan Turns Down Lytton Report In Plea Before Court

Declares It Can Prove Policy Of Peace In Far East If World Will Have Patience

GENEVA, Nov. 21. (A.P.)—Defending Japan's course in Manchuria at the bar of the League of Nations council, Yosuke Matsuoka today rejected the findings of the Lytton Commission and pleaded for the patience of the Western world until his country can prove its policy of peace in the Far East.

His address was similar to the official "observations" published yesterday as Japan's answer to the Lytton Commission report but he finished with a conciliatory appeal which is not to be found in any previous Japanese utterances upon the conflict with China.

The report of the Lytton commission, which investigated the Manchurian situation, placed responsibility for the outbreak on the Japanese military element.

In a summary of the Tokyo government's observations as they will be outlined before the League, released here yesterday by the Japanese embassy, the Japanese contend:

That the activities of the army were made necessary by the hostile action of the Chinese in various parts of Manchuria which, like China proper, long has suffered from a lack of proper organized government.

That the preliminary steps taken by Japanese soldiers in Manchuria were designed only to protect their own ratings and properties under Japanese control of treaty rights.

That neither the Kellogg anti-war pact nor the nine power treaty protecting the sovereign rights of China have been violated.

The Japanese summary of the Lytton report distinctly favors the Chinese in numerous instances to the disadvantage of the Japanese and contends that the document is filled with inaccuracies and misrepresentations.

"It is apparent on the face of the (Lytton) report that its findings are based on newspaper articles, letters of casual correspondents and private conversations, as well as unauthenticated (Chinese) trial, and right of elucidation to the degree of credit which attaches to this miscellaneous evidence must be reserved," says the Tokyo summary.

The evidence all through the report, the Japanese assert, is in (Continued On Page Three)

NEW HIGH VOTING RECORD MADE IN STATE ON NOV. 8

Unofficial Returns To Be Canvassed Today; 279,593 Cast Votes

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 21. (A.P.)—Complete but unofficial returns from the general election from all of the 1272 precincts in the 67 counties of Florida, as tabulated yesterday in the secretary of state's office, show President-elect Roosevelt received 204,170 votes and President Hoover 68,938.

The tabulations so far do not include votes cast for candidates whose names were written in on the ballots but the total tabulated set a new record high for any election in Florida history.

The total returned for the office of governor was 279,593 while 273,108 voted for one of the major party presidential candidates.

The previous high vote was in the first primary last June when more than 270,000 ballots cast, there were more than 254,000 votes cast in the 1928 general election in which Florida left the Democratic fold for the first time since reconstruction days and gave Hoover 144,168 to 101,154 for Alfred E. Smith.

Yesterday's tabulations show Governor-elect Dave Sholtz, Democrat, received 156,122 votes and W. J. Howey, Republican, 93,471. In 1928 Governor Carlton, Democrat, defeated Howey 148,435 to 95,018.

Tabulations also show that the Democratic victory swept not only the state as a whole, but extended into each of the 67 counties. Both Roosevelt and Sholtz carried every county.

For Congressman at large, W. J. Sears, Democrat, received 189,274 and Glenn B. Skipper, Republican, 61,200.

For Congressman in the First District, J. Hardin Peterson, Democrat, received 81,281 and Arthur R. Thompson, Republican, 19,010. Representative R. A. Green, in the Second District, received 22,510. (Continued On Page Four)

McAdoo Says That Farm Aid Is Most Important Subject

Los Angeles, Nov. 21. (A.P.)

William Gibbs McAdoo, senator-elect from California, believes the United States may have to forget some hoary formulas of government in restoring the purchasing power of the farmer and bringing prosperity back.

Asked to name the most pressing problem to be considered by the next Congress the former secretary of the treasury answered without hesitation: "Agriculture."

The first democratic senator California has had in 12 years disclaimed any thought of speaking for the incoming administration.

"I am convinced that legislation for the farmer is most important. We aim to take care of other business, why not agriculture?"

McAdoo said that when the farmer's dollar is given back to him he will spend it and all business will benefit.

"The farmer needs everything," he said, "seeds, machinery and other necessities and luxuries as well, but they cannot buy because they have no money. Given reasonable prices for their products, his money will reach every avenue of business."

HOOVER KEEPS OPINIONS ON DEBTS SILENT

Opposition To Cancellation Grows As Party Leaders Arrive For Important Session

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. (A.P.)—In the face of steadily growing congressional opposition to war debt revision, suspension or cancellation, President Hoover yesterday marshaled, but kept silent upon his answer to that theory.

Shifting a retraction temporarily from his drive to reduce expenditures, now facing a cash $500,000,000 from appropriations, the President proposed for his Tuesday's exchange of war debt proposals with President-elect Roosevelt. Pending this interchange, Hoover has directed himself chiefly to proceed with re-announcing to the Congress.

Hoover yesterday spent much of his time in the White House study, and in talk with a few of his friends and advisers concerning both the domestic and international situation.

The President's coming up to Roosevelt's influence with Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill should be able to reach common ground, but in his message to foreign creditors, requests for a suspension of Dec. 15 payments and for a re-opening of debt negotiations.

Also the more immediate reply to Great Britain's note suggesting such action should certainly be delayed until the meeting of the President and the British elect. Similar proposals in the form of a moratorium on foreign debt will not be proposed immediately.

Meanwhile, as more and more Senate and House leaders converged upon the capital, there came "reluctant" statements against any moratorium on foreign debt. This would leave the President only a demand for the Dec. 15 payments, an open question of stand of payment or default.

The President has been supported by high members of his administration as definitely opposed to another year moratorium. He has been newsed at the same time as favoring a more strict attitude toward the European countries cannot pay.

Although all the 12 Republican and Democratic senators and representatives who have been elected by the President and White House war debt party, Washington has not yet reached the capital. (Continued On Page Four)
