Freeze Slashes Citrus Crop To 17-Year Low

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A three-day January freeze, the coldest and longest of this century, leaves Florida with the smallest Orange crop in 17 years, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Monday.

The freeze brings estimates of Florida's 1984-85 citrus crop to 104 million boxes, almost 13 percent lower than the 119 million boxes forecast before the freeze, the government said.

The estimate was based on the first official Agriculture Department survey of the crop following a Jan. 20-22 freeze that damaged the prime source of Americans' orange juice as well as southern vegetable crops. The freeze pushed the crop 11 percent below last season.

From October to January, the department had estimated the Florida orange crop would fill 119 million boxes, a little more than the 1983-84 crop that was devastated by a freeze at Christmas 1983.

At 104 million boxes the 1984-85 orange harvest will be the smallest since 100.5 million boxes were picked in the 1967-68 season.

The department estimated frozen concentrated juice yield from Florida oranges at 1.33 gallons per box, down from 1.46 gallons per box before the freeze but still larger than last season's poor yield of 1.29 gallons per box.

The freeze was yet another blow to a beleaguered industry, which has suffered from four freezes in recent years and from an outbreak of citrus canker, a disease that harms both trees and fruit. The Florida industry saw its share of the domestic market slip from about 90 percent to 60 percent before this latest freeze. Orange juice imports from Brazil have filled the gap.

Earl Wells, vice president for public relations of Florida Citrus Mutual, said dollar losses from the freeze probably fell short of record levels because losses in northern citrus areas were so heavy in the December 1983 freeze.

"But I think that it was at least the worst freeze from the standpoint of temperatures and duration since the freeze of 1894-95, and I think it was worse than that," he said.

Temperatures fell to 18 degrees south of Lake Okeechobee, he said, adding, "That's the first time I've ever seen that down there."

The department estimated that Florida's early and mid-season varieties would total 56 million boxes, 5 percent less than last month. The Valencia crop was estimated at 48 million boxes, down 20 percent from a

Satellite Dish Ordinance Passes

Tree Rule On Books; Enforcement To Wait

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

A new ordinance is on Sanford's books to protect city trees, but it will be awhile before it is enforced.

A resolution setting the rules for enforcement must be adopted by the Sanford City Commission before enforcement can begin, said City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles.

The commission also adopted an ordinance setting standards for the installation of television satellite dishes.

The arbor ordinance stipulates that a permit must be obtained before a tree, six inches in diameter and at least three feet tall, can be cut down or destroyed. The as yet unwritten resolution must also stipulate the fees to be charged for a permit to remove a tree.

The city commission, Monday night, adopted the ordinance on a vote of 4-1. Commissioner David Farr voted against it for the same reasons he has given each time the matter has come up. Farr said the ordinance would take away private property owners' rights to do what they want to with their own property.

He said such an ordinance is needed to stop land developers from razing the land when new subdivisions or commercial structures are built.

Also at Monday's meeting, Larry Strickler, manager of corporate affairs for Southern Bell Telephone Co., told the commission the photo on the cover of the just-out 1985 Sanford area telephone directory was taken by Knowles. Strickler presented copies of the book to Knowles and members of the commission.

The photo, given at no charge to the telephone company by Knowles, is called "Wetlands Sunrise." It was taken at sunrise from the Osteen Bridge between Seminole and Volusia counties.

Strickler said an identical cover will be used on the DeBary-DeLtona telephone book. He said this is the first time a local cover is different from those used for the entire Southern Bell territory. Strickler saw the photograph last fall and asked Knowles for a copy. Knowles did not know in advance the photo would be used on a telephone book cover.

Concerning the arbor ordinance, Knowles said it will be at least Oct. 1 before money can be allocated for enforcement. He estimates that it will cost about $28,000 annually for an inspector, a vehicle and other necessary equipment.

There is not sufficient money in the 1984-85 budget year's contingency fund to allocate funds for that enforcement now, Knowles has said.

He told the commission when a city engineer is hired sometime in May, a member of the engineering staff can be assigned the duties of an arbor inspector temporarily.

Knowles envisions the new inspector, hired after Oct. 1, can also perform house inspections to provide relief for the building department hit with additional work in the building boom.

Longwood Seeks City Attorney

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood has another vacancy to fill following the Monday night surprise resignation of City Attorney Frank Kruppenbacher.

Kruppenbacher said he is stepping down for "personal and professional reasons."

The attorney, with the law firm of Swann and Haddock of Orlando, has been advising the city for a year and a half.

He said that he had been hired by the state cabinet to defend the state in several legal actions and this will require much of his time. Kruppenbacher has missed some meetings because of illness in his family and he said he does not think it is fair to the city to send others to fill in for him.

The commission set Feb. 28 as the deadline for receiving applications from area law firms for the city attorney post. Kruppenbacher said he would not leave until the city finds a replacement and predicted commissioners would have plenty of applicants to from which to choose once the word got out.

The commission voted to accept his resignation "with regret" after an unsuccessful effort to get him to reconsider. The commission voted unanimously on the recommendation of Acting City

Expert Tells DER:

Water Near Record Low When Tested

By Deane Jordan
and Donna Estes

An expert on the flow of water testified today the level of Lake Monroe was just one-hundredth of an inch from its lowest recorded level when the state tested the water for pollutants, saying the level was average.

The expert, Alton Robertson, of Tampa, said the low level, which statistically should occur only once every 65 to 75 years, could have affected the results of the Department of Environmental Regulation test which prompted the agency to tell the city to stop dumping effluent into Lake Monroe.

His testimony came in the second day of a hearing in which the city of Sanford is trying to demonstrate that the city is not polluting the lake and does not need to change from a sewage disposal method that dumps treated effluent into the lake to a method that would require expensive landspreading.

The city maintains the treated effluent it is pumping into the lake is of higher quality than the water already in the lake.

Robertson said the mean daily water flow of the lake in cubic feet was extraordinarily low during the summer months of 1981, when the DER took its sample. He said analysis of 25 years of records, 1959 to 1983, shows the mean daily flow of the lake over the 25 years to be about 411 cubic feet of water per second. The flow in the summer of 1981 was about 55 cubic feet a second. He said that low a flow is statistically a once-in-65 year average.

The lake, however, was one-hundredth of an inch lower in 1981, he said.

The flow analysis was determined by using U.S. Geological data collected at different stations along the St. Johns river, said Robertson.

Meanwhile, DER officials who testified against Sanford Monday were not sympathetic to Sanford's plight.

Two employees of the agency, Cynthia Hilly and Rosanne Dow, said Sanford's application for a waiver of the state ban against dumping effluent into a body of water — in this case Lake Monroe — was not comprehensive enough.

Miss Hilly, an environmental supervisor with the state agency, said the application did not show what other sewer plants might be adding pollution to Lake Monroe by dumping sewer effluent into the St. Johns River upstream. Nor did the city show where pollution might be coming from "non point" sources such as pastures, farm lands and drainage systems, she said.

Miss Hilly said that gathering all the information from a 2,000 square mile area nearby and south along the St. Johns River about pollution both non-point and from point sources — other sewer plants dumping into water ways and that pollution finding its way into Lake Monroe — would be "time consuming and expensive," but she insisted such a study could be done.

At the same time, she said DER has not conducted such a study itself.

"We have the capacity to do the type of analysis we are asking Sanford to do, but I doubt the state would put the resources into it" to conduct such a study, Miss Hilly said. She said an adequate study would include land uses in the 2,000 square miles to the south of Lake Monroe, the taking of water samples, water quality studies, biological studies and other time consuming studies.

And Diane Kiening, hearing officer, refused to permit City Attorney Bill Colbert to question

Vietnam To Return Remains Of Five GIs

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnam has agreed to turn over the remains of five more Americans killed during the Vietnam War, a U.S. Embassy official announced today.

The embassy said talks in Hanoi last week between the United States and Vietnam had resulted in new information on "several" cases involving American soldiers who were listed as missing in action during the Vietnam War.

Lt. Col. Paul Mather, the MIA-POW officer at the Bangkok embassy, said the Vietnamese agreed to turn over the remains of five more Americans killed during the war, but no date had been set for the transfer of the remains.

The United States hopes to receive the bones "as soon as possible," Mather said.

Since 1975, Vietnam has returned the remains of 73 U.S. servicemen. Two other sets of remains turned over to the United States have not been positively identified, Mather said.

The U.S. military talks in Hanoi last week were part of a series of meetings on MIAs since December 1982. After the U.S. mission left Vietnam Saturday, Radio Hanoi said Vietnam had "newly found" information on missing American servicemen, Mather said.

In Laos, a U.S.-Laotian team today continued to search for the remains of at least 13 Americans who were aboard a military transport plane shot down over Laos in 1972.

The remote crash site was reached by helicopter from the provincial capital of Pakse.

NATION IN BRIEF

Reagan, Fahd: Search For Mideast Peace Must Continue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan and Saudi Arabian King Fahd agreed the search must go on for a Middle East peace but differ on which issue must be resolved first: Israeli security or the Palestinians' demand for a homeland.

The Saudi monarch, the first head of state to visit the White House in Reagan's second term, was to end his talks with the president today when the two leaders met for breakfast.

Reagan recoiled from Fahd's prodding Monday that the United States take a more direct role in the Middle East.

A senior administration official said Fahd wanted the United States to persuade Israel that conditions in the region are moving toward a possible rise in tensions if the peace process is not revived.

U.S. officials hoped to persuade Fahd to use his influence in the Arab world to promote an arrangement under which Jordan's King Hussein would enter the peace process on behalf of the Palestinians.

Report Says Aid Figures Stilted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration has provided Congress "insufficient, misleading and in some cases false information" about U.S. involvement in El Salvador, says a sharply worded report released today by three congressmen.

William Blacklow, an aide to Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., said Miller and Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., and Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, planned to release the report on U.S. policy in El Salvador today.

The administration declined to comment on the report Monday.

Among the report's accusations is that the Pentagon routinely has "almost twice as many U.S. advisers" in El Salvador as the administration admits. There is supposed to be a limit of 55 military advisers.

It said military aid to El Salvador is twice as great as economic aid, despite administration claims that economic help far outweighs the military.

Hecklers Try To Reach Settlement

DEDHAM, Mass. (UPI) — If Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler takes the witness stand, her divorce trial will shift focus from money to the reasons her 31-year marriage was a union "in name only" since 1963. Because of that likelihood, the trial was recessed abruptly Monday as the Cabinet official and her husband, spurred by the judge, tried to reach a financial settlement.

A settlement would spare the highest-ranking woman in the Reagan administration and her wealthy stockbroker husband, John, from testifying about the reasons their 31-year marriage started falling apart in 1963.

When the trial began on Jan. 8, John Heckler's lawyer told the judge that Mrs. Heckler, 53, had refused to engage in marital relations with her husband, 57, since 1963.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Kim's Opposition Party Hopes To Cripple Government In Election

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — South Koreans voted today in legislative elections that a new opposition party allied with dissident leader Kim Dae Jung hopes will demonstrate a loss of confidence in President Chun Doo Hwan.

Officials predicted a record voter turnout of more than 80 percent due to mild weather and a feisty campaign that attracted large crowds at pre-election rallies.

The elections for a 276-seat National Assembly are the second since Chun took power five years ago but the first to include a bona fide, independent opposition aligned with South Korea's two most prominent dissidents — Kim Dae Jung and Kim Young Sam.

Kim Dae Jung, once condemned to die, returned home Friday from two years in exile in the United States and was placed under house arrest.

Arafat, Hussein Sign Agreement

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat today urged the Reagan administration to recognize the rights of the Palestinian people to a homeland after agreeing to work with Jordan on a joint plan for Middle East peace.

The agreement with Jordan's King Hussein Monday is aimed at reaching a "just solution for the Middle East crisis," the leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization told reporters at Amman military airport before leaving early today.

A senior Jordanian official Monday said the accord calls for Jordan and the PLO to seek a settlement based on a U.N. resolution urging Israel to give up occupied lands in exchange for peace and recognition of its right to exist.

Former Prosecutor Fined For DUI

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A former DUI prosecutor was fined $250 Monday and had his driver license suspended for six months after pleading no contest to driving under the influence.

Joe Flood, 27, of 1805-B Landings Drive, Sanford, entered the plea before County Judge Alan Dickey who also ordered Flood to complete 50 hours of community service, pay $27.50 in court costs and serve one year probation, all keeping with the usual sentence for first-time DUI offenders. Flood, like most first-time DUI offenders, will be given a driving permit to be used for business purposes only while his license is suspended, according to the judge.

Flood was a prosecutor with the Seminole-Brevard State Attorney's Office until he resigned in January because of the incident. He had worked for the office two years starting with misdemeanor DUI prosecutions and working his way up to prosecuting felony cases.

Flood was arrested Dec. 22 on charges of DUI and leaving the scene of an accident with property damage after his car was reportedly involved in a minor parking lot accident outside the Buccaneer Lounge, Cavalier Motor Inn, 3200 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford. The arrest was made in the parking lot of ABC Liquor, 2885 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford, less than a mile from the lounge.

According to the arrest report, Flood refused to take a roadside sobriety test.

The parking lot incident and subsequent arrest followed an incident at the Buccaneer Lounge in which a man who had been drinking was ejected twice by bouncers after he made offensive comments to several people and "touched" some women.

As the man was leaving in his car, a woman told the bouncers he had hit two cars in the parking lot and was "getting away." One bouncer stood at the bar's door while the other called the police.

Flood was stopped a short time later.

Dickey dismissed the charge of leaving the scene of an accident with property damage reportedly because there were no witnesses.

In DUI cases, according to usual sentencing practices, it is not uncommon for other charges to be dismissed or not prosecuted when a person enters a no contest or guilty plea to DUI.

Unlike a guilty plea, a no contest plea — which can result in an identical sentence as a guilty plea — cannot be used against an individual in civil action resulting from an incident, according to legal sources. It is an agreement by a person to accept punishment for an alleged offense while not directly admitting guilt, according to the source.

Restaurant Knife Incident Ends In Arrest

A man who was apparently intoxicated and reportedly brandished a large knife at Burger King, state Road 436, Altamonte Springs, fled to a nearby Publix where he was sitting with his head lying on a table when he was nabbed by Altamonte Springs police, a police report said.

The suspect was charged with carrying a concealed weapon after a K-Bar double blade knife was reportedly found by police in his boot, beneath his pants leg, the report said.

Police were called to Burger King at about 9 p.m. Monday and witnesses said the suspect who had been reportedly creating a disturbance had brandished the knife and fled, the report said.

Police searched for the suspect and found a man matching his description at Publix. Two witnesses from Burger King reportedly identified the suspect after the man was caught and the knife was confiscated, the report said.

David W. Saunders, 18, of 207 Colonial Lane, Longwood, was arrested at 9:52 p.m. Monday. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

HIDDEN GUN

A man who was charged with disorderly conduct after Sanford police stopped him from driving away from the Holiday Inn, Sanford, after an inn employee alerted them that the man might be a potential drunk driver, has also been charged with carrying a concealed firearm, a police report said. The officer reported the man was verbally abusive and that he saw the handle of a pistol sticking from beneath the man's belt and under his jacket. The gun was a .45-caliber weapon holding a magazine with 45 live rounds, with one round in the chamber. The weapon was cocked and ready to fire, the report said.

Richard Casey Beardsworth Jr., 40, of P.O. Box 202, Geneva, was arrested at 11 a.m. Saturday in the parking lot of Holiday Inn, Sanford Marina. He was released on $1,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court Feb. 25.

IN BRIEF

Paul Off Critical List; May Be Home In 3 Weeks

United Press International

An 11-year-old boy injured in a Christmas day pipe-bomb explosion near Orlando was taken off the critical list at Shriner's Burns Institute in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Hospital spokeswoman Sandy Shackelford said Paul Jewell's condition was upgraded to serious after his 12th skin-graft operation Monday.

"We estimate he might possibly be released in three to four weeks," she said.

The youngster was injured on his 11th birthday while trying to fill a bicycle tire with air at a Lockhart convenience store. The pipe bomb was attached to the air pump. Jewell suffered second- and third-degree burns over 60 percent of his body. In addition, doctors amputated one of his legs.

Police have not determined who planted the bomb.

Teen Hero Saves Second Life

CRESTVIEW (UPI) — An ailing teenager leaped over a backyard fence and smothered a ball of flames that had engulfed a 10-year-old boy who tried to light a campfire with gasoline — the teen's second lifesaving rescue in a year and a half.

Crestview firefighters credited Michael McClurd, 15, with saving the life of 10-year-old Bobby Strickland.

McClurd was dressed only in his bathrobe and underwear Sunday and was relaxing in his back yard, recovering from an illness, while Strickland and several other boys played in the next yard.

"McClurd jumped over a chain-link fence," a fire department spokesman said. "His bathrobe caught on the fence. Dressed only in his underwear, McClurd grabbed the Strickland boy and rolled him around on the ground to extinguish the flames."

Strickland was rushed to a local hospital, then was airlifted to Children's Hospital in Birmingham, Ala., with second and third degree burns over 60 percent of his body.

Strickland was reported in "guarded" condition at Children's Hospital in Birmingham. Hospital officials said "Guarded" means he was being watched around the clock.

It was the second lifesaving effort attributed to McClurd in a year and a half, the spokesman said. In 1983, McClurd was credited with using the "Heimlich Maneuver" to dislodge food from a junior high school student's throat.

Man Pleads No Contest In Fondling Case

By Deane Jordan

A South Carolina man was being held without bond today after pleading no contest to lewd and lascivious assault on a 7-year-old girl.

Arnold Wayne Frost, 30, of North Charleston, formerly of Casselberry, could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced March 15 by Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize.

According to court records, Frost while living in Casselberry assaulted the girl several times between Jan. 1, 1984 and June 15. The girl said in a taped confession that Frost fondled her, engaged in oral sex with her and did other sexual acts.

Frost, a convenience store clerk when he lived in Seminole County, was arrested Nov. 16 at Charleston International Airport, Charleston, S.C. A Seminole County sheriff's deputy with a warrant issued by the State Attorney's Office brought Frost back to face the charge.

In other court action, a DeBary man who had marijuana on him when stopped for a routine safety check has pleaded guilty to possession of more than 20 grams of marijuana.

John Thomas Hagen, 32, could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced April 4 by Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi.

After Hagen was stopped Oct. 14 on Orange Boulevard in Lake Monroe, he was identified as being wanted on two outstanding warrants from Volusia County and a Seminole County warrant for failure to appear in court on DUI charges.

When being taken into custody by a Florida Highway Patrol trooper, the marijuana was discovered.

David Lester Barnea, 20, of 312 Teakwood Lane, Altamonte Springs, was sentenced by Salfi to 15 days in the Seminole County jail and 2 years probation for carrying a concealed weapon.

Barnea was arrested Aug. 23 by sheriff's deputies.

According to court records, deputies searched Barnea because he reportedly matched the description of a drug dealer for whom the investigators were looking.

While searching him, they found a loaded .38-caliber revolver in his pants pockets, records show.

No drug charges were filed against him.

He was arrested as he stood in front of the Altamonte Men's Club, North Street, Altamonte Springs.

A New Hampshire woman has pleaded guilty to grand theft in connection with the theft of about $1,600 worth of money orders.

According to investigators, the woman took eight American Express money orders during a 9-day period while she worked for a 7-Eleven convenience store.

The woman walked off the job, did not return and was fired before it was discovered the money orders were missing.

The money orders were cashed at a Seminole County Sun Bank with the suspect using her name and identification to cash two of the orders. A man, a codefendant, reportedly cashed the remaining six, according to sheriff's records.

Lealle Jane-Bechard, 18, could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced April 8 by Circuit Judge Volle Williams.

Codefendant, Andrew Leroy Gilquest III, 22, awaits the disposition of his case.

Cheers!

month ago. The department cut its estimate of the nation's entire orange crop, excluding Texas, to 161 million boxes, down 8 percent from a January estimate and 5 percent less than last season.

The California orange crop is expected to be 54 million boxes, unchanged from Jan. 1 but 12 percent more than last season. The navel crop is expected to be 28 million boxes and the Valencia crop was estimated at 26 million boxes.

The Arizona orange crop was estimated at 2.85 million boxes, up 4 percent from last month and 47 percent more than last season.

The Texas crop is expected to be insignificant because of damage from the December 1983 freeze.

The nation's grapefruit crop estimate was estimated at 49.8 million boxes, down 4 percent from a month ago but 1 percent more than last season.

Florida grapefruit production was estimated at 42 million boxes, down 6 percent from last month but 3 percent more than last season.

The California desert crop was estimated at 4.1 million boxes, up 8 percent from a month ago and 23 percent more than last season.

The Texas grapefruit crop is also not being counted because of damage from the 1983 freeze.

The lemon crop will be 25.8 million boxes, down 3 percent from last month but 21 percent more than last season.

Here are Agriculture Department citrus estimates of the 1984-85 crop, on the basis of Feb. 1 conditions, with the 1984-84 harvest in parentheses:

Oranges: Arizona 3.6 million boxes (1.8 million); California 54 million boxes (48.2 million), including 36 million of Valencia (18 million); Florida 164 million boxes (114.7 million); Texas not counted (3.1 million).

Grapefruit: Arizona 3.7 million boxes (3.1 million); California (desert only) 4.1 million boxes (3.34 million); Florida 49 million boxes (49.9 million); Texas not counted (3.2 million).

Lemons: Arizona 5.2 million boxes (4 million); California 38.8 million boxes (17.25 million).

Tangerines: Florida 3.7 million boxes (3.4 million).

Tangerines: Arizona 790,000 boxes (988,000); California 1.8 million boxes (1.85 million); Florida 1.1 million boxes (1 million).

Tangelos: Florida 3.4 million boxes (3.9 million).

Sentell, acting president of Sanford's Interested Sarahs to Encourage Rejuvenation, told the commission their organizations endorse the law. Mrs. Tillis noted that several 200-year old oaks were "cut down in the name of progress" in Lake Mary recently to make way for a new shopping center. She said she doesn't want to see that happen here.

Bruce Tipple of Geneva presented a petition opposing the ordinance. He said the petition contains the signatures of 500 Sanford residents.

Tipple said as he talked to Sanford residents gathering the signatures, only two percent favored an arbor ordinance.

Mayor Bettye Smith, however, asked if had fully informed those who signed the petition of all aspects of the law, including the section where it says damaged or injured trees can be disposed of.

Tipple said when one is circulating a petition there is not time to explain everything. "Just the fact that people would have to get a permit to cut down a tree was enough," he said.

Concerning the satellite dish ordinance, Sam Robard of SR Satellites in Sanford said he wholeheartedly supports the measure. "The idea of an ordinance is excellent," he said.

He was concerned, however, that the ordinance requires an engineer, certified by the state of Florida, to approve installations.

Knowles said Robard can get an engineer to certify the safety of installations and do many installations according to that certified plan.

the women about whether a section of DER rules calling for "equitable abatement"—the fairness of "applying standards against Sanford to the exclusion of the whole world"—was considered when Sanford's application was turned down.

Colbert suggested that the ban against dumping effluent into Lake Monroe was being enforced against Sanford, while it was not being enforced against other governmental bodies.

"I will decide what is equitable," said Miss Kiealing.

Colbert also pointed to the state rule calling for consideration of economic impact in enforcing the ban on dumping into bodies of water. Sanford's consulting engineers have said it will cost the city $36 million to stop dumping effluent into Lake Monroe and to use the state preferred land spreading technique of effluent disposal instead.

He asked if this rule was considered in turning Sanford down. The women were not permitted by Miss Kiealing to answer this question either, after an objection from B.J. Owens, DER attorney.

Asked by Colbert whether the DER used information it has about other sewer plants polluting the St. Johns River before it flows into the lake, Miss Dow said that since Sanford was making for the waiver, it was incumbent upon Sanford to prove pollution from other sources, not the DER.

Miss Dow said Sanford in its application claimed Orlando's Iron Bridge Regional Sewer Plant near Oviedo is adding to the pollution of Lake Monroe through its dumping of effluent into the Econlockhatchee River. But, she said she doesn't "honestly know" whether this is the case.

She said a DER memo of rules prepared by the staff was used to determine whether Sanford's application for a waiver contained enough evidence of pollution in Lake Monroe from sources other than Sanford.

The hearing is to conclude Wednesday.

Duet Of Despots

The U.S. State Department actually has apologized to the communist Polish government, which allows no free elections, press or independent labor unions, for a Radio Free Europe broadcast that implied Poland is similar to Nazi Germany and Prime Minister Wojciech Jaruzelski similar to Adolf Hitler.

Poland regularly complains about Radio Free Europe, a U.S. government-financed, Munich-based station that beams programs to Eastern Europe, but Washington has brushed such protests aside until now.

Bowing to the Polish Foreign Ministry's complaint, the State Department called the broadcast offensive and said it was "in very poor taste."

"The U.S. government regrets any implication of similarity between Nazi Germany and present-day Poland and particularly between Adolf Hitler and Gen. Jaruzelski," the statement said.

True, there are differences. For one, the Nazis were homegrown tyrants whereas Warsaw's despotic government is Moscow-manipulated.

Last May, Jaruzelski, hat in hand, traveled to Moscow where he heard Soviet President Konstantin Chernenko warn that the USSR would not tolerate any changes in the Soviet bloc's (which includes Poland) communist system.

Dutifully echoing his Kremlin masters, Jaruzelski noted that "there can be no deviation from Communist Party policies in Poland." He then received the Order of Lenin, an award granted only to those who follow Kremlin orders.

Another difference: Jaruzelski rules with an iron fist but professes democracy; Hitler never pretended to be democratic.

However, settling aside the Nazi leader's independence from foreign control and his refusal to mask his disdain for democratic rule, he and Moscow's satrap, Jaruzelski, are controlled among the long line of political despots who have plagued people throughout history.

The State Department owes an apology to Radio Free Europe.

Let 'Em Eat Mink

"If you have to ask the price," J.P. Morgan once said in response to an inquiry about the cost of his yacht, "you can't afford it."

Apparently times have changed, for among the economic indices there's now an index measuring the cost of luxury items. And those items got lots pricier in 1984.

Even as the general consumer price index rose just 4 percent, the luxury index increased at double that rate. Chocolate truffles were up 12 percent, beluga caviar and mink coats even more.

But before you shed a tear for the wealthy among us, recall that their incomes have lately gone up more rapidly than those of the general population. Besides, the actions of J.P. Morgan can sip their Dom Perignon — the price of which rose not at all last year — and console themselves with the thought that, if everyone could wear mink and eat caviar, there wouldn't be much point in being rich in the first place.

Reagan Sets The Budget Pace

WASHINGTON — Amid the storm of criticism swirling around President Reagan's proposed budget cuts, one overriding reality is being overlooked: Reagan is forcing Congress to deal with the budget largely on his terms.

After four years of on-again, off-again budgetary warfare, the president has once again set the boundaries and the terms of debate in which this year's budget battle is taking place. And Congress — mindful that it is dealing with a president at the peak of his popularity, who carried 49 states last November — has clearly shown a willingness to play by most of Reagan's rules.

Those rules are fairly simple: (1) Cut federal spending; (2) Don't raise taxes; (3) Don't cut defense beneath the $277.5 billion Reagan has requested, unless new economies and savings can be found; 4) Don't reduce Social Security cost-of-living increases — that is, unless Congress insists on doing so.

As for rule No. 1, most members of Congress — Democrats and Republicans — agree that runaway federal spending must be cut if the dangerously high deficits are to be placed on a downward trajectory.

Regarding rule No. 2, both parties in Congress agree that tax increases are out of the question. Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole of Kansas, among other GOP congressional leader dead-set against them, and few cries of "raise income taxes" have been heard from the Democrats since the election.

The nation's overwhelming rejection of Walter Mondale's campaign proposal to raise taxes has stuffed the tax-hike genie in the bottle for the time being.

As for rule No. 3, White House strategists pry acknowledge that Reagan's request for a 5.9 percent real defense-spending increase will not survive the budget-cutting appetites of this Congress, no matter what Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger says.

The strategy now is to keep Congress from cutting too deeply into Reagan's defense buildup.

As for the rest of Reagan's $837.7 billion budget: for the next six months, Congress will be doing pretty much what Reagan believes he was re-elected to do — cut spending.

The toughest word for a politician to utter "is a simple, flat 'No.'" Reagan said in his budget message to Congress. "The patience of the American people has been stretched as far as it will go. They want action; they have demanded it."

SCIENCE WORLD

Bhopal Victims Studied

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Medical researchers suspect the federal limit for safe industrial exposure to isocyanates is too high and hope to confirm that by examining tissue from those killed in the Union Carbide disaster in Bhopal, India.

Yves Alarie, chairman of the University of Pittsburgh Graduate School of Public Health, said he suspects the safe level of industrial exposure to the highly toxic chemicals should be three times lower than the acceptable ceiling set by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

"Based on our research done with animal models," said Alarie, "we predict the safe level of exposure should be 0.008 parts per million, or about three times below the federal standard."

Scientists routinely use animal experiments to gauge the impact of substances on humans, and often the animal models are accurate predictors of human reactions, Alarie said.

"The animal models for anates are very good. We use mice for sensory irritation (experiments) and guinea pigs for allergic reactions," he said.

But the researchers want to evaluate blood and tissue of Indian victims to confirm their predictions.

Alarie says he is awaiting word from Indian physicians and scientists on how to proceed in the effort to analyze blood samples from people injured and tissue samples — preferably corneas — from some killed in the world's most deadly chemical disaster. A ruptured valve Dec. 3 caused a leak of methyl isocyanate at Union Carbide pesticide plant in Bhopal, killing 2,500 people and injuring more than 100,000. Most killed were children and old people crowded into nearby shanty towns. A variety of isocyanate compounds — which can cause death, lung and eye damage and allergies, depending on nature and exposure — is used in common products such as polyurethane, bedding and insulation.

But Alarie called methyl isocyanate, used as a pesticide, "probably the most toxic" of the family of chemicals. "It is the most hazardous because it volatilizes very quickly," he said.

Alarie said the tissue samples would provide a unique opportunity to determine how isocyanate molecules attach themselves to human tissues and cause damage.

U.S. Targets Soviet Spy Satellites

WASHINGTON — Long before President Reagan brought up the subject of "Star Wars," the militarization of space had already begun. Both the United States and Soviet Union have been keeping a military watch on one another for years through spy satellites high in space.

But few Americans realize just what these orbiting Peeping Toms are capable of, and how big a threat they'd be in case of a conflict. My associate Dale Van Atta has obtained a secret General Accounting Office report that gives the Pentagon experts' assessment of the threats posed by the Kremlin's satellites.

I've already reported on the four types of spy satellites considered most immediately dangerous to the United States. But the Pentagon has assigned a No. 2 priority to other satellites; these, too, are considered a military threat.

The total number of satellites in the two top priorities is close to 40. In case of war, the planned "Star Wars" defenses would move from

FARMING WORLD

Debt Crisis Grows

By Sonja Hillgren
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Neil Hari, an Iowa State University agricultural economist, says a key factor in the farm debt crisis was an October 1979 decision by the Federal Reserve Board to bring inflation out of the American economy.

The Federal Reserve responded to policies that contributed to raging inflation of the 1970s. That era had made it clear that an enormous price was paid when people began to believe that inflation was permanent.

Hari analyzed economic factors that led to the current crisis for a House Agriculture subcommittee, which examined the issue last week.

In addition to the Federal Reserve's decision to fight inflation, the second most significant factor that brought on the debt crisis, he said, was the 1981 tax cut that cut federal revenues so sharply as to assure massive budget deficits.

The result has been low inflation and record-setting real interest rates as strong demand for tight credit boosted the cost of borrowing money.

For agriculture, which is capital intensive and must export crops produced on one-third of cropland, a strong dollar has stifled exports while high interest rates have boosted production costs.

Hari said policies to reduce inflation and cut taxes to induce economic activity have created gainers and losers.

"It seems not inappropriate for the gainers to share a small part of the gain with the losers," he said in defense of federal help for the farm community.

He said the financial position of roughly one-half of the nation's farmers is deteriorating, with two-thirds of the nation's total farm debt of $212 billion held by borrowers slipping toward insolvency.

In general, farmers with $40 in debts for every $100 in assets are unable to make interest payments. By last December, 42.5 percent of farmers in the Central states had debt loads that high.

For the entire country, 28.7 percent of farmers with about two-thirds of farm debt were in that category. As land values decline, all farmers have less equity to back up their debts.

"Unless something dramatic is done, or circumstances change, nearly half of the farmers will move into insolvency, taking down their lenders, their suppliers and their merchants and inflicting incalculable damage upon the fabric of rural communities," Hari said.

Hari said he fears that 10 percent to 15 percent of farm borrowers will be unable to obtain credit this year, forcing their land and equipment on the market.

"We appear to be on the verge of pushing four to five times as much land on the market as those markets have handled in good times," he said.

Hari said the administration program to restructure debts, which was modified last week, will provide some buoyancy to land and machinery markets, but it is not possible to predict its impact with certainty.

As a contingency, he suggested Congress may have to create a separate financing authority to provide capital to keep an operation going if bankers' reduction of interest or loan principal under the existing program is insufficient.

If no other solution works, he said pressures will mount for farm debt moratoriums.

Hawaiians Fight For Their Land

KAHIKILANI, Hawaii (NEA) — Leilani Kalaheo is a full-blooded Hawaiian — one of fewer than 1,000 still alive — and a direct descendant of Queen Lydia Liliuokalani, the last member of Hawaii's royal family to rule the islands.

That special status ought to qualify Mrs. Kalaheo for one of the homesteads supposedly guaranteed to native Hawaiians under the terms of a federal law passed in 1921.

That statute, the Hawaiian Homes Commission Act, was specifically enacted to provide restitution to the aboriginal people of the Hawaiian Islands who were subjugated by — and whose land was confiscated by — 19th century white settlers.

More than three decades after applying for her homestead, however, Mrs. Kalaheo remains on a waiting list — along with almost 9,000 others deprived of their ancestral homelands.

The 1921 law designated slightly more than 200,000 acres of land on five Hawaiian islands to be set aside for those with at least 50 percent Hawaiian blood to use as home sites, farms and ranches. Each recipient must pay $1 per year to maintain a 99-year lease. But fewer than 30,000 acres have been distributed as the law specifies, while much of the land has been leased to government agencies and commercial users for scandalously low rents of $1 to $5 per acre annually.

There has been no shortage of rhetoric about the need to enforce the law. In 1921, the chairman of a House committee insisted that the statute was crucial because "the Hawaiians were deprived of their lands without any say on their part."

In 1938, a joint congressional committee criticized the fact that "only a small part of the area has of yet been used" and described the native Hawaiians as "a landless people in the country of their forefathers."

In 1959, the federal law granting Hawaii statehood explicitly required implementation of the 1921 statute.

In 1980, Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus said the intent of the law had been "substantially frustrated" by federal and state officials who "have either neglected or misinterpreted many of their responsibilities."

In 1983, a joint federal-state task force reiterated both governments' theoretical commitment to the law and called for the establishment of a special advisory committee to explore ways to finance development of the natives' land. But for the past 18 months, Hawaii Gov. George R. Ariyoshi has refused to designate the committee members.

Tribe's Patience With Walker Pays Big End-Of-Year Reward

Sam Cook
Sports Editor

A week ago, Seminole basketball coach Chris Marlette went to freshman Craig Walker and told him he was being promoted to the varsity.

After leading the freshman team to an unbeaten season and performing above expectations at the junior varsity level (53 points and 30 rebounds), Marlette reasoned it was time for his 6-6 phenom to "see what he could do with the big boys."

Walker, a sincere youngster who he is kind of overwhelmed by all of this, listened intently to his coach. Then he replied, "Coach, do you think I can think about it tonight and give you an answer tomorrow?"

Marlette, suppressing his surprise and laughter, said he politely told the youngster that he didn't have anything to think about. He was ready for varsity basketball and that's where he was going to play.

Craig, an easy going and likable young man, can't be faulted for his doubts about moving from ninth grade to the top of the class. Physically, he has all the tools. He has the build of a young Akeem and the shooting touch of a young Ralph Sampson. And he blocks shots like a young Pat Ewing.

But the emphasis on all these bold comparisons is on the "young" and not the Akeem, Sampson or Ewing. No matter how devastating Walker looked as a freshman, and dominating as a JV, the contact and quickness are a different game at the varsity level.

But Marlette thought Walker was ready — and he was right. The third year Seminole coach threw his prize frosh into the fire against the No. 8 ranked team in the state last Friday and he came out without a burn.

The Seminoles came out pretty well, too. They upset DeLand, 57-55, at DeLand, which is quite an accomplishment.

"I didn't think I was ready for varsity," said Walker modestly. "But I do now."

Walker's final stats had him with seven points and seven rebounds. These stats, however, don't tell the true story because he must have altered five shots. Marlette, who played a zone defense (2-3) for the whole game, said it was the first time he's ever done that.

Walker's presence made that move possible. Of course, it was also done to protect the young phenom. Putting him one-on-one on all-star Randy Anderson or 6-4 brute Marcus Johnson might have been disastrous.

But as the center of the zone's back line, Walker was in a position to do what he does best — intimidate.

Marlette said Walker, who was having trouble adjusting to Seminole's intricate man-to-man defense, will not be in the starting lineup tonight but he will play a lot. Matt Maxwell, who also did a job job inside Friday, along with Whitney, Rouse, Kenny Gordon and Rod Henderson will start tonight against the Lake Howell Silver

Hawks at home.

Henderson probably has been the one most helped by Walker's maturation. He has tremendous offensive skills. He's a great shooter with good range, a determined driver, superb passer and ferocious rebounder.

But the 8-3 sophomore was saddled with the job of center since Seminole didn't have a legitimate center until Walker's emergence. And he was doing a good job at it, too. He was averaging 11 points and eight rebounds a game.

But the real Henderson came off Friday against DeLand. The versatile soph scored 27 points and pulled down 15 rebounds.

Walker and Henderson both played freshman basketball before moving to the varsity. And here lies one of the keys to Seminole's basketball success. While some schools change freshman coaches with regularity, the Tribe has always had strong basketball people at this position.

John McNamara, Marlette's present assistant, lost one game in two years at Crooms High. Bill Klein, who has coached the frosh at Seminole the past two years, is a mere 30-0. No one is arguing Seminole doesn't have great athletes, but those horse need the correct instruction and they're getting it at Seminole.

McNamara, who played high school basketball with Hubie Brown, has junior college coaching experience and still plays the game pretty well for all those years. Klein, still a great shooter, attended Indiana (Pa.) College on a basketball scholarship.

Either of the two could handle a varsity coaching job and Seminole has the benefit of both on its staff.

After Walker's game, I heard a lot of people say, "I would have had him up to the varsity all year."

Why? The trouble with high school sports is that too often a young man is rushed into action before his time. Craig Walker was neither physically or emotionally ready for varsity basketball at the beginning of this year.

Even when he became ready physically, Craig still didn't think he was ready emotionally. He just told you that. But by devastatingly playing freshman ball and dominating playing junior varsity ball, Craig developed the confidence he needed to perform so well Friday night.

Sometimes it's not good enough to have the best players. You need to have good coaches, too. Seminole has both and for the next three years, Central Florida better run for cover when Seminole comes to town.

Lady Seminoles Take Over 1st..Temporarily

Basketball

Mona Benton poured in 24 points in just over two quarters of play Monday night as Sanford's Lady Seminoles took over first place in the Five Star Conference, at least temporarily, with a 70-28 thrashing of Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks at Seminole High.

Seminole, which has won eight straight, now stands at 21-5 overall and 14-2 in the Five Star, one-half game ahead of Lake Brantley (13-2). Lake Brantley travels to Seabreeze for a 4:45 game today as the Lady Patriots look to stayed tied for the top spot. Lake Howell now stands at 3-19 overall and 1-15 in the conference.

Benton scored 12 of her 24 points in the first quarter as Seminole ran off the first 20 points of the game before Lake Howell's Kellee Johnson hit a pair of baskets to make it 20-4 after one quarter. Seminole went on to take a 42-10 halftime lead.

Benton, a senior swingperson (guard-forward), also dished out

six assists and collected three steals. She was joined in double figures by senior guard Andell "Soul" Smith with 13 points and junior forward Catherine "Kitty" Anderson with 12 and 10 rebounds. "Soul" also handed out four assists and came up with four steals while Anderson doled out three assists and collected five steals.

Junior forward April Peterson contributed eight points, nine rebounds and five steals while junior center-forward Kim "Big Wheel" Johnson chipped in with six points and seven boards.

Sophomore point guard Erin Hankins was high for Lake Howell with nine points and three steals. Patti Rae tossed in seven points and pulled down eight rebounds while Regina Schmidt hauled down nine boards.

Seminole hosts Mainland Thursday night before closing out the regular season Monday at Apopka. Lake Howell hosts Apopka Thursday and goes to Seabreeze Monday.

"We tried a lot of different things tonight and executed pretty well," Seminole coach Ron Merthie said. "We want to keep molding into a better team. I'm happy to have the success we've enjoyed but we now we can be better."

Monday's junior varsity game was much closer than the varsity encounter as Lake Howell took Seminole into overtime before Yolanda Robinson led the JV Lady Seminoles to a 53-51 victory.

Because of a mixup in the scorebook, Seminole had a three-point lead, 47-44, with 1:35 remaining instead of a two-point lead, 49-47, as the scoreboard read.

Seminole also had the ball out of bounds but Lake Howell's Tamara Lewis, the point guard for the varsity much of the season, came up with a steal and was fouled. Lewis made one of two free throws to make it 47-45 and she came back to sink two more free looses with 1:13 left to tie it at 47-47.

Both teams had their chances in the last minute of play but couldn't score and the game went into overtime knotted at 47-47.

The two teams traded turnovers three times to open the overtime period before Lewis came through with a steal and raced downcourt for a layup that gave the JV Lady Hawks a 49-47 lead with 2:07 left to play.

Robinson dropped in a layup with 1:45 left to tie it at 49-49 and Seminole got the ball back after a Lake Howell turnover.

The Hawks then fouled Sharon Manley who stepped to the line and made the front end of the one and one for a 50-49 Seminole lead with 1:38 remaining. Manley missed the second shot, but Robinson was there for the rebound, made the followup, and was fouled. Robinson made the free throw to complete the four-point play as Seminole took a 53-49 lead.

Lake Howell had a chance to pull closer but missed the front end of a one and one and the Lady Hawks had another chance but missed a wide open layup with 38 seconds left.

The Lady Hawks still hung tough though and battled back within two, 53-51, with 26 seconds left on a jumper by Lewis. A Seminole turnover gave it back to Lake Howell but the Lady Hawks missed another layup with eight seconds left. Lisa Hartman then grabbed the rebound with six seconds left and held on to the ball until the buzzer sounded.

Tribe Stumbles Over Apopka In District Playoff

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Sanford's Fighting Seminoles were looking forward to a rematch with top-seeded and top-ranked (4A) Lake Howell in the 4A-9 District Tournament but the Seminoles couldn't clear the first hurdle in their way — Apopka's Blue Darters.

The Darters built a 2-0 lead with 28 minutes left in the match Monday night and held on for a 2-1 victory in the opening round of 4A-9 soccer tournament at Seminole High.

Apopka will now go up against Lake Howell tonight at 7 at Lake Howell High. In other first round games tonight, second seeded Lake Brantley hosts Spruce Creek at 7. No. 3 Lyman hosts Mainland at 8 and No. 4 DeLand hosts Lake Mary at 7.

"We just couldn't buy a goal," Seminole coach Logan Fleck said of Monday's loss. "We pretty much controlled the game but we couldn't finish it off once we got close to the goal."

Seminole ended the season. Fleck's first at the helm, with a 3-15-2 record. It will also be Fleck's last season as the Tribe's coach. Fleck said he will probably get an assistant coaching job at a northern college where he will work toward his master's degree.

The Blue Darters jumped out to a 1-0 lead five minutes into the match Monday on a breakaway goal. Apopka hung on to a 1-0 lead at halftime. "It took us a while to get warmed up," Fleck said. "Apopka just jumped on the opportunity when they had it."

Seminole had numerous opportunities in the second half but couldn't tie the score and Apopka scored again with 26 minutes left in the match to take a 2-0 lead.

The Tribe finally got on the board with 11 minutes remaining when the ball came off an Apopka defender and Matt Albert fired it into the goal.

Seminole had a few more opportunities in the last 10 minutes of play but again the 'Noles couldn't capitalize. One excellent opportunity to tie the game came with six minutes left when Chris Ray had an open shot at the goal but the ball hit a defender on the goal line and bounced away. Seminole also had a direct kick from about 25 yards out but again could take advantage of the opportunity.

"We were all over the field and had a number of good shots but we couldn't put them away," Fleck said. "It's a disappointing loss, but the kids gave it their best effort. To me the loss doesn't dampen the effort the kids put out all season long." The top two seeds in tonight's district tourney are expected to have easy paths into Thursday's semifinals but the third and fourth seeds will be in for dogfights.

Lake Howell and Lake Brantley were all alone at the top of the district during the regular season as the Silver Hawks compiled a 7-0-1 district record compared to 6-1-1 for Lake Brantley.

But, after Brantley, there is a four-team logjam with Lyman, DeLand, Lake Mary and Mainland. Lyman will try to avenge an earlier 2-1 loss to Mainland in tonight's match at Lyman.

Lake Mary will also try to avenge an early-season loss as it travels to DeLand tonight. The game will be played at Spec Martin Stadium at 7 p.m.

In the girls Region 2 playoff tonight at 6, Lyman's Lady Greyhounds host Vero Beach.

Lyman goes in with a 20-0 record and 41-1 in the past two years. The Lady Greyhounds have already beaten Vero Beach twice this season. The winner of tonight's match goes on to the Section I championship.

Duet Of Despots

The U.S. State Department actually has apologized to the communist Polish government, which allows no free elections, press or independent labor unions, for a Radio Free Europe broadcast that implied Poland is similar to Nazi Germany and Prime Minister Wojciech Jaruzelski similar to Adolf Hitler.

Poland regularly complains about Radio Free Europe, a U.S. government-financed, Munich-based station that beams programs to Eastern Europe, but Washington has brushed such protests aside until now.

Bowing to the Polish Foreign Ministry's complaint, the State Department called the broadcast offensive and said it was "in very poor taste."

"The U.S. government regrets any implication of similarity between Nazi Germany and present-day Poland and particularly between Adolf Hitler and Gen. Jaruzelski," the statement said.

True, there are differences. For one, the Nazis were homegrown tyrants whereas Warsaw's despotic government is Moscow-manipulated.

Last May, Jaruzelski, hat in hand, traveled to Moscow where he heard Soviet President Konstantin Chernenko warn that the USSR would not tolerate any changes in the Soviet bloc's (which includes Poland) communist system.

Dutifully echoing his Kremlin masters, Jaruzelski noted that "there can be no deviation from Communist Party policies in Poland." He then received the Order of Lenin, an award granted only to those who follow Kremlin orders.

Another difference: Jaruzelski rules with an iron fist but professes democracy; Hitler never pretended to be democratic.

However, setting aside the Nazi leader's independence from foreign control and his refusal to mask his disdain for democratic rule, he and Moscow's satrap, Jaruzelski, are controlled among the long line of political despots who have plagued people throughout history.

The State Department owes an apology to Radio Free Europe.

Let 'Em Eat Mink

"If you have to ask the price," J.P. Morgan once said in response to an inquiry about the cost of his yacht, "you can't afford it."

Apparently times have changed, for among the economic indices there's now an index measuring the cost of luxury items. And those items got lots pricier in 1984.

Even as the general consumer price index rose just 4 percent, the luxury index increased at double that rate. Chocolate truffles were up 12 percent, beluga caviar and mink coats even more.

But before you shed a tear for the wealthy among us, recall that their incomes have lately gone up more rapidly than those of the general population. Besides, the actions of J.P. Morgan can sip their Dom Perignon — the price of which rose not at all last year — and console themselves with the thought that, if everyone could wear mink and eat caviar, there wouldn't be much point in being rich in the first place.

Reagan Sets The Budget Pace

WASHINGTON — Amid the storm of criticism swirling around President Reagan's proposed budget cuts, one overriding reality is being overlooked: Reagan is forcing Congress to deal with the budget largely on his terms.

After four years of on-again, off-again budgetary warfare, the president has once again set the boundaries and the terms of debate in which this year's budget battle is taking place. And Congress — mindful that it is dealing with a president at the peak of his popularity, who carried 49 states last November — has clearly shown a willingness to play by most of Reagan's rules.

Those rules are fairly simple: (1) Cut federal spending; (2) Don't raise taxes; (3) Don't cut defense beneath the $277.5 billion Reagan has requested, unless new economies and savings can be found; (4) Don't reduce Social Security cost-of-living increases — that is, unless Congress insists on doing so.

As for rule No. 1, most members of Congress — Democrats and Republicans — agree that runaway federal spending must be cut if the dangerously high deficits are to be placed on a downward trajectory.

Regarding rule No. 2, both parties in Congress agree that tax increases are out of the question. Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole of Kansas, among other GOP congressional leader dead-sets against them, and few cries of "raise income taxes" have been heard from the Democrats since the election.

The nation's overwhelming rejection of Walter Mondale's campaign proposal to raise taxes has stuffed the tax-hike genie in the bottle for the time being.

As for rule No. 3, White House strategists pry acknowledge that Reagan's request for a 5.9 percent real defense-spending increase will not survive the budget-cutting appetites of this Congress, no matter what Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger says.

The strategy now is to keep Congress from cutting too deeply into Reagan's defense buildup.

As for the rest of Reagan's $837.7 billion budget: for the next six months, Congress will be doing pretty much what Reagan believes he was re-elected to do — cut spending.

The toughest word for a politician to utter "is a simple, flat 'No.'" Reagan said in his budget message to Congress. "The patience of the American people has been stretched as far as it will go. They want action; they have demanded it."

SCIENCE WORLD

Bhopal Victims Studied

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Medical researchers suspect the federal limit for safe industrial exposure to isocyanates is too high and hope to confirm that by examining tissue from those killed in the Union Carbide disaster in Bhopal, India.

Yves Alarie, chairman of the University of Pittsburgh Graduate School of Public Health, said he suspects the safe level of industrial exposure to the highly toxic chemicals should be three times lower than the acceptable ceiling set by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

"Based on our research done with animal models," said Alarie, "we predict the safe level of exposure should be 0.008 parts per million, or about three times below the federal standard."

Scientists routinely use animal experiments to gauge the impact of substances on humans, and often the animal models are accurate predictors of human reactions, Alarie said.

"The animal models for anates are very good. We use mice for sensory irritation (experiments) and guinea pigs for allergic reactions," he said.

But the researchers want to evaluate blood and tissue of Indian victims to confirm their predictions.

Alarie says he is awaiting word from Indian physicians and scientists on how to proceed in the effort to analyze blood samples from people injured and tissue samples — preferably corneas — from some killed in the world's most deadly chemical disaster. A ruptured valve Dec. 3 caused a leak of methyl isocyanate at Union Carbide pesticide plant in Bhopal, killing 2,800 people and injuring more than 100,000. Most killed were children and old people crowded into nearby shanty towns. A variety of isocyanate compounds — which can cause death, lung and eye damage and allergies, depending on nature and exposure — is used in common products such as polyurethane, bedding and insulation.

But Alarie called methyl isocyanate, usemake pesticides, "probably the most toxic" of the family of chemicals. "It is the most hazardous because it volatilizes very quickly," he said.

Alarie said the tissue samples would provide a unique opportunity to determine how isocyanate molecules attach themselves to human tissues and cause damage.

JACK ANDERSON

U.S. Targets Soviet Spy Satellites

WASHINGTON — Long before President Reagan brought up the subject of "Star Wars," the militarization of space had already begun. Both the United States and Soviet Union have been keeping a military watch on one another for years through spy satellites high in space.

But few Americans realize just what these orbiting Peeping Toms are capable of, and how big a threat they'd be in case of a conflict. My associate Dale Van Atta has obtained a secret General Accounting Office report that gives the Pentagon experts' assessment of the threats posed by the Kremlin's satellites.

I've already reported on the four types of spy satellites considered most immediately dangerous to the United States. But the Pentagon has assigned a No. 2 priority to other satellites: these, too, are considered a military threat.

The total number of satellites in the two top priorities is close to 40. In case of war, the planned "Star Wars" defenses would move from Priority One targets to Priority Two in a matter of seconds.

According to the Pentagon experts' assessment, U.S. intelligence-gathering satellites are still superior to those made in Moscow. More of ours transmit their information instantaneously, like a live TV show of Soviet military movements and equipment. More of theirs operate on a delayed-broadcast system.

Here are the Priority Two targets listed in the secret report:

— The Salyut series of military space stations. The report says: "The station possibly can provide near real-time intelligence-targeting data to military forces and can detect missile launches. Photo-reconnaissance is believed to be its major activity; however, these stations can possibly be modified to do reconnaissance such as electronic intelligence, communications intelligence and command and control."

— High-resolution photographic reconnaissance satellites that drop film in capsules by parachute from low orbit. "The one assessed to be of primary concern," according to the report, "is capable of ejecting recovery capsules — which minimize the time from when the photographs are taken to when the film is available for analysis."

The report explains that the photographs from these satellites are used to study troop positions and for targeting and damage assessment. "Resolution is capable of distinguishing automobiles," the report states.

It adds: "As the Soviet Union projects its forces further from its borders or into a denied area, such as China, it becomes increasingly dependent on this type of (satellite)."

— Navigational satellites. "These satellites, deployed in regularly-spaced three- and six-satellite constellations, provide navigational fixes with an average waiting time of 90 minutes and 45 minutes at the equator, respectively, for NAVSAT-1 and NAVSAT-2," the report states, adding: "NAVSAT-1 is accurate to 200 meters, and NAVSAT-2 is possibly accurate within 100 meters. They are primarily used by Soviet naval forces, including ballistic missile submarines."

Knocking out these navigational aids would make it difficult for Soviet missile subs to precisely determine their location — and precision is critical for launching nuclear missiles.

— Communications satellites. The secret report states: "The Molniya-Raduga types are of primary concern because they are able to provide real-time command and control to naval, land and strategic forces. As Soviet forces operate farther from the Soviet land mass, they become more dependent on these satellites for control of military forces."

Knocking them out, in other words, would leave Soviet field commanders pretty much on their own — which is not the way the Kremlin likes to conduct wars.

FARMING WORLD

Debt Crisis Grows

By Sonja Hillgren
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Neil Hari, an Iowa State University agricultural economist, says a key factor in the farm debt crisis was an October 1979 decision by the Federal Reserve Board to wring inflation out of the American economy.

The Federal Reserve responded to policies that contributed to raging inflation of the 1970s. That era had made it clear that an enormous price was paid when people began to believe that inflation was permanent.

Hari analyzed economic factors that led to the current crisis for a House Agriculture subcommittee, which examined the issue last week.

In addition to the Federal Reserve's decision to fight inflation, the second most significant factor that brought on the debt crisis, he said, was the 1981 tax cut that cut federal revenues so sharply as to assure massive budget deficits.

The result has been low inflation and record-setting real interest rates as strong demand for tight credit boosted the cost of borrowing money.

For agriculture, which is capital intensive and must export crops produced on one-third of cropland, a strong dollar has stifled exports while high interest rates have boosted production costs.

Hari said policies to reduce inflation and cut taxes to induce economic activity have created gainers and losers.

"It seems not inappropriate for the gainers to share a small part of the gain with the losers," he said in defense of federal help for the farm community.

He said the financial position of roughly one-half of the nation's farmers is deteriorating, with two-thirds of the nation's total farm debt of $212 billion held by borrowers slipping toward insolvency.

In general, farmers with $40 in debts for every $100 in assets are unable to make interest payments. By last December, 42.5 percent of farmers in the Central states had debt loads that high.

For the entire country, 28.7 percent of farmers with about two-thirds of farm debt were in that category. As land values decline, all farmers have less equity to back up their debts.

"Unless something dramatic is done, or circumstances change, nearly half of the farmers will move into insolvency, taking down their lenders, their suppliers and their merchants and inflicting incalculable damage upon the fabric of rural communities," Hari said.

Hari said he fears that 10 percent to 15 percent of farm borrowers will be unable to obtain credit this year, forcing their land and equipment on the market.

"We appear to be on the verge of pushing four to five times as much land on the market as those markets have handled in good times," he said.

Hari said the administration program to restructure debts, which was modified last week, will provide some buoyancy to land and machinery markets, but it is not possible to predict its impact with certainty.

As a contingency, he suggested Congress may have to create a separate financing authority to provide capital to keep an operation going if bankers' reduction of interest or loan principal under the existing program is insufficient.

If no other solution works, he said pressures will mount for farm debt moratoriums.

ROBERT WALTERS

Hawaiians Fight For Their Land

KAHIKILANI, Hawaii (NEA) — Lelani Kalaeloa is a full-blooded Hawaiian — one of fewer than 1,000 still alive — and a direct descendant of Queen Lydia Liliuokalani, the last member of Hawaii's royal family to rule the islands.

That special status ought to qualify Mrs. Kalaeloa for one of the homesteads supposedly guaranteed to native Hawaiians under the terms of a federal law passed in 1921.

That statute, the Hawaiian Homes Commission Act, was specifically enacted to provide restitution to the aboriginal people of the Hawaiian Islands who were subjugated by — and whose land was confiscated by 19th century white settlers.

More than three decades after applying for her homestead, however, Mrs. Kalaeloa remains on a waiting list — along with almost 9,000 others deprived of their ancestral homelands.

The 1921 law designated slightly more than 200,000 acres of land on five Hawaiian islands to be set aside for those with at least 50 percent Hawaiian blood to use as home sites, farms and ranches. Each recipient must pay $1 per year to maintain a 99-year lease.

But fewer than 30,000 acres have been distributed as the law specifies, while much of the land has been leased to government agencies and commercial users for scandalously low rents of $1 to $5 per acre annually.

There has been no shortage of rhetoric about the need to enforce the law. In 1921, the chairman of a House committee insisted that the statute was crucial because "the Hawaiians were deprived of their lands without any say on their part."

In 1938, a joint congressional committee criticized the fact that "only a small part of the area has of yet been used" and described the native Hawaiians as "a landless people in the country of their forefathers."

In 1959, the federal law granting Hawaii statehood explicitly required implementation of the 1921 statute.

In 1980, Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus said the intent of the law had been "substantially frustrated" by federal and state officials who "have either neglected or misinterpreted many of their responsibilities."

In 1983, a joint federal-state task force reiterated both governments' theoretical commitment to the law and called for the establishment of a special advisory committee to explore ways to finance development of the natives' land. But for the past 18 months, Hawaii Gov. George R. Ariyoshi has refused to designate the committee members.

Tribe's Patience With Walker Pays Big End-Of-Year Reward

A week ago, Seminole basketball coach Chris Marlette went to freshman Craig Walker and told him he was being promoted to the varsity. After leading the freshman team to an unbeaten season and performing above expectations at the junior varsity level (53 points and 30 rebounds), Marlette reasoned it was time for his 6-6 phenom to "see what he could do with the big boys."

Walker, a sincere youngster who he is kind of overwhelmed by all of this, listened intently to his coach. Then he replied, "Coach, do you think I can think about it tonight and give you an answer tomorrow?"

Marlette, suppressing his surprise and laughter, said he politely told the youngster that he didn't have anything to think about. He was ready for varsity basketball and that's where he was going to play.

Craig, an easy going and likable young man, can't be faulted for his doubts about moving from ninth grade to the top of the class. Physically, he has all the tools. His has the build of a young Akem and the shooting touch of a young Ralph Sampson. And he blocks shots like a young Pat Ewing.

But the emphasis on all these bold comparisons is on the "young" and not the Akem, Sampson or Ewing. No matter how devastating Walker looked as a freshman, and dominating as a JV, the contact and quickness are a different game at the varsity level.

But Marlette thought Walker was ready — and he was right. The third year Seminole coach threw his prize frosh into the fire against the No. 6 ranked team in the state last Friday and he came out without a burn.

The Seminoles came out pretty well, too. They upset DeLand, 57-55, at DeLand, which is quite an accomplishment.

"I didn't think I was ready for varsity," said Walker modestly. "But I do now."

Walker's final stats had him with seven points and seven rebounds. These stats, however, don't tell the true story because he must have altered five shots. Marlette, who played a zone defense (2-3) for the whole game, said it was the first time he's ever done that.

Walker's presence made that move possible. Of course, it was also done to protect the young phenom. Putting him one-on-one on all-stater Randy Anderson or 6-4 brute Marcus Johnson might have been disastrous.

But as the center of the zone's back line, Walker was in a position to do what he does best — intimidate.

Marlette said Walker, who was having trouble adjusting to Seminole's intricate man-to-man defense, will not be in the starting lineup tonight but he will play a lot. Matt Maxwell, who also did a job job inside Friday, along with Whitney, Rouse, Kenny Gordon and Rod Henderson will start tonight against the Lake Howell Silver Hawks at home.

Henderson probably has been the one most helped by Walker's maturation. He has tremendous offensive skills. He's a great shooter with good range, a determined driver, superb passer and ferocious rebounder.

But the 6-3 sophomore was saddled with the job of center since Seminole didn't have a legitimate center until Walker's emergence. And he was doing a good job at it, too. He was averaging 11 points and eight rebounds a game.

But the real Henderson came alive Friday against DeLand. The versatile soph scored 27 points and pulled down 15 rebounds.

Walker and Henderson both played freshman basketball before moving to the varsity. And here lies one of the keys to Seminole's basketball success. While some schools change freshman coaches with regularity, the Tribe has always had strong basketball people at this position.

John McNamara, Marlette's present assistant, lost one game in two years at Crooms High. Bill Klein, who has coached the frosh at Seminole the past two years, is a mere 30-0. No one is arguing Seminole doesn't have great athletes, but those horse need the correct instruction and they're getting it at Seminole.

McNamara, who played high school basketball with Hubie Brown, has junior college coaching experience and still plays the game pretty well for all those years. Klein, still a great shooter, attended Indiana (Pa.) College on a basketball scholarship.

Either of the two could handle a varsity coaching job and Seminole has the benefit of both on its staff.

After Walker's game, I heard a lot of people say, "I would have had him up to the varsity all year."

Why? The trouble with high school sports is that too often a young man is rushed into action before his time. Craig Walker was neither physically or emotionally ready for varsity basketball at the beginning of this year.

Even when he became ready physically, Craig still didn't think he was ready emotionally. He just told you that. But by devastatingly playing freshman ball and dominatingly playing junior varsity ball, Craig developed the confidence he needed to perform so well Friday night.

Sometimes it's not good enough to have the best players. You need to have good coaches, too. Seminole has both and for the next three years, Central Florida better run for cover when Seminole comes to town.

Lady Seminoles Take Over 1st...Temporarily

Mona Benton poured in 24 points in just over two quarters of play Monday night as Sanford's Lady Seminoles took over first place in the Five Star Conference, at least temporarily, with a 79-26 thrashing of Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks at Seminole High.

Seminole, which has won eight straight, now stands at 21-5 overall and 14-2 in the Five Star, one-half game ahead of Lake Brantley (13-2). Lake Brantley travels to Seabreeze for a 4:45 game today as the Lady Patriots look to stay tied for the top spot. Lake Howell now stands at 3-19 overall and 1-15 in the conference.

Benton scored 12 of her 24 points in the first quarter as Seminole ran off the first 20 points of the game before Lake Howell's Kellee Johnson hit a pair of baskets to make it 20-4 after one quarter. Seminole went on to take a 42-10 halftime lead.

Benton, a senior swingperson (guard-forward), also dished out

six assists and collected three steals. She was joined in double figures by senior guard Andell "Soul" Smith with 13 points and junior forward Catherine "Kitty" Anderson with 12 and 10 rebounds. "Soul" also handed out four assists and came up with three steals while Anderson doled out three assists and collected five steals.

Junior forward April Peterson contributed eight points, nine rebounds and five steals while junior center-forward Kim "Big Wheel" Johnson chipped in with six points and seven boards.

Sophomore point guard Erin Hankins was high for Lake Howell with nine points and three steals. Patti Rae tossed in seven points and pulled down eight rebounds while Regina Schmidt hauled down nine boards.

Sanford's Fighting Seminoles were looking forward to a rematch with top-seeded and top-ranked (4A) Lake Howell in the 4A-9 District Tournament but the Seminoles couldn't clear the first hurdle in their way — Apopka's Blue Darters.

The Darters built a 2-0 lead with 28 minutes left in the match Monday night and held on for a 2-1 victory in the opening round of 4A-9 soccer tournament at Seminole High.

Apopka will now go up against Lake Howell tonight at 7 at Lake Howell High. In other first round games tonight, second seeded Lake Brantley hosts Spruce Creek at 7. No. 3 Lyman hosts Mainland at 8 and No. 4 DeLand hosts Lake Mary at 7.

"We just couldn't buy a goal," Seminole coach Logan Fleck said of Monday's loss. "We pretty much controlled the game but we couldn't finish it off once we got close to the goal."

Seminole ended the season, Fleck's first at the helm, with a 3-15-2 record. It will also be Fleck's last season as the Tribe's coach. Fleck said he will probably get an assistant coaching job at a northern college where he will work toward his master's degree.

The Blue Darters jumped out to a 1-0 lead five minutes into the match Monday on a

Duet Of Despots

The U.S. State Department actually has apologized to the communist Polish government, which allows no free elections, press or independent labor unions, for a Radio Free Europe broadcast that implied Poland is similar to Nazi Germany and Prime Minister Wojciech Jaruzelski similar to Adolf Hitler.

Poland regularly complains about Radio Free Europe, a U.S. government-financed, Munich-based station that beams programs to Eastern Europe, but Washington has brushed such protests aside until now.

Bowing to the Polish Foreign Ministry's complaint, the State Department called the broadcast offensive and said it was "in very poor taste."

"The U.S. government regrets any implication of similarity between Nazi Germany and present-day Poland and particularly between Adolf Hitler and Gen. Jaruzelski," the statement said.

True, there are differences. For one, the Nazis were homegrown tyrants whereas Warsaw's despotic government is Moscow-manipulated.

Last May, Jaruzelski, hat in hand, traveled to Moscow where he heard Soviet President Konstantin Chernenko warn that the USSR would not tolerate any changes in the Soviet bloc's (which includes Poland) communist system.

Dutifully echoing his Kremlin masters, Jaruzelski noted that "there can be no deviation from Communist Party policies in Poland." He then received the Order of Lenin, an award granted only to those who follow Kremlin orders.

Another difference: Jaruzelski rules with an iron fist but professes democracy; Hitler never pretended to be democratic.

However, setting aside the Nazi leader's independence from foreign control and his refusal to mask his disdain for democratic rule, he and Moscow's satrap, Jaruzelski, are controlled among the long line of political despots who have plagued people throughout history.

The State Department owes an apology to Radio Free Europe.

Let 'Em Eat Mink

"If you have to ask the price," J.P. Morgan once said in response to an inquiry about the cost of his yacht, "you can't afford it."

Apparently times have changed, for among the economic indices there's now an index measuring the cost of luxury items. And those items got lots pricier in 1984.

Even as the general consumer price index rose just 4 percent, the luxury index increased at double that rate. Chocolate truffles were up 12 percent, beluga caviar and mink coats even more.

But before you shed a tear for the wealthy among us, recall that their incomes have lately gone up more rapidly than those of the general population. Besides, the scions of J.P. Morgan can sip their Dom Perignon — the price of which rose not at all last year — and console themselves with the thought that, if everyone could wear mink and eat caviar, there wouldn't be much point in being rich in the first place.

Reagan Sets The Budget Pace

WASHINGTON — Amid the storm of criticism swirling around President Reagan's proposed budget cuts, one overriding reality is being overlooked: Reagan is forcing Congress to deal with the budget largely on his terms.

After four years of on-again, off-again budgetary warfare, the president has once again set the boundaries and the terms of debate in which this year's budget battle is taking place. And Congress — mindful that it is dealing with a president at the peak of his popularity, who carried 49 states last November — has clearly shown a willingness to play by most of Reagan's rules.

Those rules are fairly simple: (1) Cut federal spending; (2) Don't raise taxes; (3) Don't cut defense beneath the $277.5 billion Reagan has requested, unless new economies and savings can be found; 4) Don't reduce Social Security cost-of-living increases — that is, unless Congress insists on doing so.

As for rule No. 1, most members of Congress — Democrats and Republicans — agree that runaway federal spending must be cut if the dangerously high deficits are to be placed on a downward trajectory.

Regarding rule No. 2, both parties in Congress agree that tax increases are out of the question. Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole of Kansas, among other GOP congressional leader dead-set against them, and few cries of "raise income taxes" have been heard from the Democrats since the election.

The nation's overwhelming rejection of Walter Mondale's campaign proposal to raise taxes has stuffed the tax-hike genie in the bottle for the time being.

As for rule No. 3, White House strategists pry acknowledge that Reagan's request for a 5.9 percent real defense-spending increase will not survive the budget-cutting appetites of this Congress, no matter what Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger says.

The strategy now is to keep Congress from cutting too deeply into Reagan's defense buildup.

As for the rest of Reagan's $937.7 billion budget: for the next six months, Congress will be doing pretty much what Reagan believes he was re-elected to do — cut spending.

The toughest word for a politician to utter "is a simple, flat 'No.'" Reagan said in his budget message to Congress. "The patience of the American people has been stretched as far as it will go. They want action; they have demanded it."

SCIENCE WORLD

Bhopal Victims Studied

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Medical researchers suspect the federal limit for safe industrial exposure to isocyanates is too high and hope to confirm that by examining tissue from those killed in the Union Carbide disaster in Bhopal, India.

Yves Alarie, chairman of the University of Pittsburgh Graduate School of Public Health, said he suspects the safe level of industrial exposure to the highly toxic chemicals should be three times lower than the acceptable ceiling set by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

"Based on our research done with animal models," said Alarie, "we predict the safe level of exposure should be 0.008 parts per million, or about three times below the federal standard."

Scientists routinely use animal experiments to gauge the impact of substances on humans, and often the animal models are accurate predictors of human reactions, Alarie said.

"The animal models for anates are very good. We use mice for sensory irritation (experiments) and guinea pigs for allergic reactions," he said.

But the researchers want to evaluate blood and tissue of Indian victims to confirm their predictions.

Alarie says he is awaiting word from Indian physicians and scientists on how to proceed in the effort to analyze blood samples from people injured and tissue samples — preferably corneas — from some killed in the world's most deadly chemical disaster. A ruptured valve Dec. 3 caused a leak of methyl isocyanate at Union Carbide pesticide plant in Bhopal, killing 2,500 people and injuring more than 100,000. Most killed were children and old people crowded into nearby shanty towns. A variety of isocyanate compounds — which can cause death, lung and eye damage and allergies, depending on nature and exposure — is used in common products such as polyurethane, bedding and insulation.

But Alarie called methyl isocyanate, used in pesticides, "probably the most toxic" of the family of chemicals. "It is the most hazardous because it volatilizes very quickly," he said.

Alarie said the tissue samples would provide a unique opportunity to determine how isocyanate molecules attach themselves to human tissues and cause damage.

U.S. Targets Soviet Spy Satellites

WASHINGTON — Long before President Reagan brought up the subject of "Star Wars," the militarization of space had already begun. Both the United States and Soviet Union have been keeping a military watch on one another for years through spy satellites high in space.

But few Americans realize just what these orbiting Peeping Toms are capable of, and how big a threat they'd be in case of a conflict. My associate Dale Van Atta has obtained a secret General Accounting Office report that gives the Pentagon experts' assessment of the threats posed by the Kremlin's satellites.

I've already reported on the four types of spy satellites considered most immediately dangerous to the United States. But the Pentagon has assigned a No. 2 priority to other satellites; these, too, are considered a military threat.

The total number of satellites in the two top priorities is close to 40. In case of war, the planned "Star Wars" defenses would move from

FARMING WORLD

Debt Crisis Grows

By Benja Hillgren
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Neil Harl, an Iowa State University agricultural economist, says a key factor in the farm debt crisis was an October 1979 decision by the Federal Reserve Board to bring inflation out of the American economy.

The Federal Reserve responded to policies that contributed to raging inflation of the 1970s. That era had made it clear that an enormous price was paid when people began to believe that inflation was permanent.

Harl analyzed economic factors that led to the current crisis for a House Agriculture subcommittee, which examined the issue last week.

In addition to the Federal Reserve's decision to fight inflation, the second most significant factor that brought on the debt crisis, he said, was the 1981 tax cut that cut federal revenues so sharply as to assure massive budget deficits.

The result has been low inflation and record-setting real interest rates as strong demand for tight credit boosted the cost of borrowing money.

For agriculture, which is capital intensive and must export crops produced on one-third of cropland, a strong dollar has stifled exports while high interest rates have boosted production costs.

Harl said policies to reduce inflation and cut taxes to induce economic activity have created gainers and losers.

"It seems not inappropriate for the gainers to share a small part of the gain with the losers," he said in defense of federal help for the farm community.

He said the financial position of roughly one-half of the nation's farmers is deteriorating, with two-thirds of the nation's total farm debt of $212 billion held by borrowers slipping toward insolvency.

In general, farmers with $40 in debts for every $100 in assets are unable to make interest payments. By last December, 42.5 percent of farmers in the Central states had debt loads that high.

For the entire country, 28.7 percent of farmers with about two-thirds of farm debt were in that category. As land values decline, all farmers have less equity to back up their debts.

"Unless something dramatic is done, or circumstances change, nearly half of the farmers will move into insolvency, taking down their lenders, their suppliers and their merchants and inflicting incalculable damage upon the fabric of rural communities," Harl said.

Harl said he fears that 10 percent to 15 percent of farm borrowers will be unable to obtain credit this year, forcing their land and equipment on the market.

"We appear to be on the verge of pushing four to five times as much land on the market as those markets have handled in good times," he said.

Harl said the administration program to restructure debts, which was modified last week, will provide some buoyancy to land and machinery markets, but it is not possible to predict its impact with certainty.

As a contingency, he suggested Congress may have to create a separate financing authority to provide capital to keep an operation going if bankers' reduction of interest or loan principal under the existing program is insufficient.

If no other solution works, he said pressures will mount for farm debt moratoriums.

ROBERT WALTERS Hawaiians Fight For Their Land

KAHIKULANI, Hawaii (NEA) — Leilani Kalaela is a full-blooded Hawaiian — one of fewer than 1,000 still alive — and a direct descendant of Queen Lydia Liliuokalani, the last member of Hawaii's royal family to rule the islands.

That special status ought to qualify Mrs. Kalaela for one of the homesteads supposedly guaranteed to native Hawaiians under the terms of a federal law passed in 1921.

That statute, the Hawaiian Homes Commission Act, was specifically enacted to provide restitution to the aboriginal people of the Hawaiian Islands who were subjugated by — and whose land was confiscated by 19th century white settlers.

More than three decades after applying for her homestead, however, Mrs. Kalaela remains on a waiting list — along with almost 9,000 others deprived of their ancestral homelands.

The 1921 law designated slightly more than 200,000 acres of land on five Hawaiian Islands to be set aside for those with at least 50 percent Hawaiian blood to use as home sites, farms and ranches. Each recipient must pay $1 per year to maintain a 99-year lease.

But fewer than 30,000 acres have been distributed as the law specifies, while much of the land has been leased to government agencies and commercial users for scandalously low rents of $1 to $5 per acre annually.

There has been no shortage of rhetoric about the need to enforce the law. In 1921, the chairman of a House committee insisted that the statute was crucial because "the Hawaiians were deprived of their lands without any say on their part."

In 1938, a joint congressional committee criticized the fact that "only a small part of the area has of yet been used" and described the native Hawaiians as "a landless people in the country of their forefathers."

In 1959, the federal law granting Hawaii statehood explicitly required implementation of the 1921 statute.

In 1980, Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus said the intent of the law had been "substantially frustrated" by federal and state officials who "have either neglected or misinterpreted many of their responsibilities."

In 1983, a joint federal-state task force reiterated both governments' theoretical commitment to the law and called for the establishment of a special advisory committee to explore ways to finance development of the natives' land. But for the past 18 months, Hawaii Gov. George R. Ariyoshi has refused to designate the committee members.

adding: "NAVSAT-1 is accurate to 200 meters, and NAVSAT-2 is possibly accurate within 100 meters. They are primarily used by Soviet naval forces, including ballistic missile submarines."

Knocking out these navigational aids would make it difficult for Soviet missile subs to precisely determine their location — and precision is critical for launching nuclear missiles.

— Communications satellites. The secret report states: "The Molniya-Raduga types are of primary concern because they are able to provide real-time command and control to naval, land and strategic forces. As Soviet forces operate farther from the Soviet land mass, they become more dependent on these satellites for control of military forces."

Knocking them out, in other words, would leave Soviet field commanders pretty much on their own — which is not the way the Kremlin likes to conduct wars.

Tribe Stumbles Over Apopka In District Playoff
By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Sanford's Fighting Seminoles were looking forward to a rematch with top-seeded and top-ranked (4A) Lake Howell in the 4A-9 District Tournament but the Seminoles couldn't clear the first hurdle in their way — Apopka's Blue Darters.

The Darters built a 2-0 lead with 28 minutes left in the match Monday night and held on for a 2-1 victory in the opening round of 4A-9 soccer tournament at Seminole High.

Apopka will now go up against Lake Howell tonight at 7 at Lake Howell High. In other first round games tonight, second seeded Lake Brantley hosts Spruce Creek at 7. No. 3 Lyman hosts Mainland at 8 and No. 4 DeLand hosts Lake Mary at 7.

"We just couldn't buy a goal," Seminole coach Logan Fleck said of Monday's loss. "We pretty much controlled the game but we couldn't finish it off once we got close to the goal."

Seminole ended the season, Fleck's first at the helm, with a 3-15-2 record. It will also be Fleck's last season as the Tribe's coach. Fleck said he will probably get an assistant coaching job at a northern college where he will work toward his master's degree.

The Blue Darters jumped out to a 1-0 lead five minutes into the match Monday on a breakaway goal. Apopka hung on to a 1-0 lead at halftime. "It took us a while to get warmed up," Fleck said. "Apopka just jumped on the opportunity when they had it."

Seminole had numerous opportunities in the second half but couldn't tie the score and Apopka scored again with 28 minutes left in the match to take a 2-0 lead.

The Tribe finally got on the board with 11 minutes remaining when the ball came off an Apopka defender and Matt Albert fired it into the goal.

Seminole had a few more opportunities in the last 10 minutes of play but again the "Noles" couldn't capitalize. One excellent opportunity to tie the game came with six minutes left when Chris Ray had an open shot at the goal but the ball hit a defender on the goal line and bounced away. Seminole also had a direct kick from about 25 yards out but again could take advantage of the opportunity.

"We were all over the field and had a number of good shots but we couldn't put them away," Fleck said. "It's a disheartening loss but the kids gave it their best effort. To me the loss doesn't dampen the effort the kids put out all season long."

The top two seeds in tonight's district tourney are expected to have easy paths into Thursday's semifinals but the third and fourth seeds will be in for dogfights.

Lake Howell and Lake Brantley were all alone at the top of the district during the regular season as the Silver Hawks compiled a 7-0-1 district record compared to 6-1-1 for Lake Brantley.

But, after Brantley, there is a four-team logjam with Lyman, DeLand, Lake Mary and Mainland. Lyman will try to avenge an earlier 2-1 loss to Mainland in tonight's match at Lyman.

Lake Mary will also try to avenge an early-season loss as it travels to DeLand tonight. The game will be played at Spec Martin Stadium at 7 p.m.

In the girls Region 2 playoff tonight at 6, Lyman's Lady Greyhounds host Vero Beach.

Lyman goes in with a 20-0 record and 41-1 in the past two years. The Lady Greyhounds have already beaten Vero Beach twice this season. The winner of tonight's match goes on to the Section I championship.

Leading goal scorers for Lyman include juniors Sheila Mandy, Dawn Boyesen and sophomore Kim Mitchell. Top midfielders are senior Allison Wright, sophomore Diana Boyesen and sophomore Stacey Roy.

Kenny Gordon drive the baseline and lays up a shot against Darryl Merthie. Gordon, Seminole's 6-2 forward, and Merthie, Lake Mary's 6-1 swingman, are listed among the leaders in every county category except one. Seminole hosts Lake Howell tonight and Lake Mary entertains Mainland in two big district 4A-9 basketball games.

Lady Seminoles Take Over 1st...Temporarily

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Mona Benton poured in 24 points in just over two quarters of play Monday night as Sanford's Lady Seminoles took over first place in the Five Star Conference, at least temporarily, with a 79-26 thrashing of Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks at Seminole High.

Seminole, which has won eight straight, now stands at 21-5 overall and 14-2 in the Five Star. One-half game ahead of Lake Brantley (13-2), Lake Brantley travels to Seabreeze for a 4:45 game today as the Lady Patriots look to stayed tied for the top spot. Lake Howell now stands at 3-19 overall and 1-15 in the conference.

Benton scored 12 of her 24 points in the first quarter as Seminole ran off the first 20 points of the game before Lake Howell's Kellee Johnson hit a pair of baskets to make it 20-4 after one quarter. Seminole went on to take a 42-10 halftime lead.

Benton, a senior swingperson (guard-forward), also dished out

six assists and collected three steals. She was joined in double figures by senior guard Andell "Soul" Smith with 13 points and junior forward Catherine "Kitty" Anderson with 12 and 10 rebounds. "Soul" also handed out four assists and came up with four steals while Anderson doled out three assists and collected five steals.

Junior forward April Peterson contributed eight points, nine rebounds and five steals while junior center-forward Kim "Big Wheel" Johnson chipped in with six points and seven boards.

Sophomore point guard Erin Hankins was high for Lake Howell with nine points and three steals. Patti Rae tossed in seven points and pulled down eight rebounds while Regina Schmidt hauled down nine boards.

Seminole hosts Mainland Thursday night before closing out the regular season Monday at Apopka. Lake Howell hosts Apopka Thursday and goes to Seabreeze Monday.

Tribe's Patience With Walker Pays Big End-Of-Year Reward

A week ago, Seminole basketball coach Chris Marlette went to freshman Craig Walker and told him he was being promoted to the varsity.

After leading the freshman team to an unbeaten season and performing above expectations at the junior varsity level (53 points and 30 rebounds), Marlette reasoned it was time for his 6-6 phenom to "see what he could do with the big boys."

Walker, a sincere youngster who he is kind of overwhelmed by all of this, listened intently to his coach. Then he replied, "Coach, do you think I can think about it tonight and give you an answer tomorrow?"

Marlette, suppressing his surprise and laughter, said he politely told the youngster that he didn't have anything to think about. He was ready for varsity basketball and that's where he was going to play.

Craig, an easy going and likable young man, can't be faulted for his doubts about moving from ninth grade to the top of the class. Physically, he has all the tools. He has the build of a young Akeem and the shooting touch of a young Ralph Sampson. And he blocks shots like a young Pat Ewing.

But the emphasis on all these bold comparisons is on the "young" and not the Akeem, Sampson or Ewing. No matter how devastating Walker looked as a freshman, and dominating as a JV, the contact and quickness are a different game at the varsity level.

But Marlette thought Walker was ready — and he was right. The third year Seminole coach threw his prize frosh into the fire against the No. 6 ranked team in the state last Friday and he came out without a burn.

The Seminoles came out pretty well, too. They upset DeLand, 57-55, at DeLand, which is quite an accomplishment.

"I didn't think I was ready for varsity," said Walker modestly. "But I do now."

Walker's final stats had him with seven points and seven rebounds. These stats, however, don't tell the true story because he must have altered five shots. Marlette, who played a zone defense (2-3) for the whole game, said it was the first time he's ever done that.

Walker's presence made that move possible. Of course, it was also done to protect the young phenom. Putting him one-on-one on all-star Randy Anderson or 6-4 brute Marcus Johnson might have been disastrous.

But as the center of the zone's back line, Walker was in a position to do what he does best — intimidate.

Marlette said Walker, who was having trouble adjusting to Seminole's intricate man-to-man defense, will not be in the starting lineup tonight but he will play a lot. Matt Maxwell, who also did a job job inside Friday, along with Whitney, Rouse, Kenny Gordon and Rod Henderson will start tonight against the Lake Howell Silver more free tosses with 1:13 left to tie it at 47-47.

Both teams had their chances in the last minute of play but couldn't score and the game went into overtime knotted at 47-47.

The two teams traded turnovers three times to open the overtime period before Lewis came through with a steal and raced downcourt for a layup that gave the JV Lady Hawks a 49-47 lead with 2:07 left to play.

Robinson dropped in a layup with 1:45 left to tie it at 49-49 and Seminole got the ball back after a Lake Howell turnover.

The Hawks then fouled Sharon Manley who stepped to the line and made the front end of the one and one for a 50-49 Seminole lead with 1:36 remaining. Manley missed the second shot, but Robinson was there for the rebound, made the followup, and was fouled. Robinson made the free throw to complete the four-point play as Seminole took a 53-49 lead.

Hawks at home.

Henderson probably has been the one most helped by Walker's maturation. He has tremendous offensive skills. He's a great shooter with good range, a determined driver, superb passer and ferocious rebounder.

But the 6-3 sophomore was saddled with the job of center since Seminole didn't have a legitimate center until Walker's emergence. And he was doing a good job at it, too. He was averaging 11 points and eight rebounds a game.

But the real Henderson came alive Friday against DeLand. The versatile soph scored 27 points and pulled down 15 rebounds.

Walker and Henderson both played freshman basketball before moving to the varsity. And here lies one of the keys to Seminole's basketball success. While some schools change freshman coaches with regularity, the Tribe has always had strong basketball people at this position.

John McNamara, Marlette's present assistant, lost one game in two years at Crooms High. Bill Klein, who has coached the frosh at Seminole the past two years, is a mere 30-0. No one is arguing Seminole doesn't have great athletes, but those horses need the correct instruction and they're getting it at Seminole.

McNamara, who played high school basketball with Hubie Brown, has junior college coaching experience and still plays the game pretty well for all those years. Klein, still a great shooter, attended Indiana (Pa.) College on a basketball scholarship.

Either of the two could handle a varsity coaching job and Seminole has the benefit of both on its staff.

After Walker's game, I heard a lot of people say, "I would have had him up to the varsity all year."

Why? The trouble with high school sports is that too often a young man is rushed into action before his time. Craig Walker was neither physically or emotionally ready for varsity basketball at the beginning of this year.

Even when he became ready physically, Craig still didn't think he was ready emotionally. He just told you that. But by devastatingly playing freshman ball and dominatingly playing junior varsity ball, Craig developed the confidence he needed to perform so well Friday night.

Sometimes it's not good enough to have the best players. You need to have good coaches, too. Seminole has both and for the next three years, Central Florida better run for cover when Seminole comes to town.

Waltrip: Fans Remember 500

By GARY KALE
UPI Auto Racing Writer
DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Even though he's a two-time NASCAR Grand National champion, winner of seven races last year and the leading money winner on the stock car trail in 1985, Darrell Waltrip is still lacking the recognition he desires.

The 38-year-old resident of Franklin, Tenn., won't feel he has achieved the ultimate in his craft until he wins the Daytona 500.

Waltrip has suffered years of frustration at the Daytona 500 and sometimes questions his talent due to this failure. Last year, he was leading on the final lap when Cale Yarborough used the slingshot technique to surge past for the checkered flag.

"People remember the guy who won Daytona when they don't know the guy who won seven races in a season," Waltrip said of his 1984 experience. Munching on a sandwich after an early Monday practice lap, Waltrip added, "It's an important race to win. It's important to me because a victory would make me have more credibility."

Auto Racing

"It's a jewel and you need it in your crown."
 "In 1981, I won every race I entered but the big one at Daytona — the Busch Clash, a 125-mile qualifying race and the Sportsman 300. I came so close to having a good week, until the 500, which I lost again. People say maybe you can't drive Daytona and after a while you get to figure 'Maybe they're right.'" Waltrip, on the circuit since 1972, has won 64 Winston Cup races, 27 on superspeedways. Still, the Daytona 500 remains an elusive title for him to capture.

"At Daytona, I've been starting off the year with that agonizing defeat," Waltrip moans. "The track is not like Talladega, where there's so much more downforce that cars adhere to the track. They don't skitter around like Daytona. You don't have to lift off the throttle except when somebody's in your way."
 "Here, as your running, the track gets slick and the wind

Darrell Waltrip puts a victory in the Daytona 500 above every other race. In 1983, he crashed into a wall to curtail his chances for that year. Waltrip tries again Sunday.

blows. You start feathering the throttle in the corners because this is a narrow track."
 Waltrip is not concerned over the speed exhibited by the first row Ford for this Sunday's 500 classic. Bill Elliott set an all-time NASCAR qualifying record of 205 mph on Saturday and Cale Yarborough's 203 also bettered the old record. Waltrip's best was a 197.7 in a Chevy.

 He said the outcome of Sunday's race will depend on how well the front row crew chiefs set up their engines. Waltrip is confident his car is fast enough to win.
 And what will his strategy be for the race?

"You've got no strategy if you're the first guy out of the race. The outcome is in the hands of other people. No matter how good a driver you are, if there's a bit of carelessness in the motor shop or on the line, then it's not your year again. You can't come here behind in your work and expect to win."

Late Models Run Tonight At Volusia

BARBERVILLE — As Volusia County Speedway goes into its final week of the 1985 "World Series of Dirt" racing, the STARS late models and the modifieds take over.

The late model entry list, which numbers 46, is represented by drivers from Florida to Texas and from Minnesota to Maryland. The modified drivers, 45 in count, are predominately from New York, New Jersey, Louisiana and Texas.

Modifieds took over Monday, late models tonight and the two classes combine to finish off the week, Wednesday through Saturday. All racing starts at 7:30 p.m. every night.

On that final Saturday the feature event for each class will pay $5,000 to win and a point champion will be declared.

Sprint car feature winners this past week were Bobby Allen, Hanover, PA (Wednesday), rain (Thursday), Sammy Swindell, Bartlett, TN (Friday), Steve Kinser, Bloomington, Ind (Saturday) and Kinser again (Sunday) for the $20,000.

Volusia County Speedway is located 14 miles west off I-95 on Route 40. Phone numbers are 904/985-4402 and 255-2243.

Street Stocks and cyclone cars will also run on selected nights.

IN BRIEF

Central Florida Gains Revenge; Hatters Top B-CC; FSU Triumphs

Three of Florida's major college basketball teams picked up victories Monday night as Central Florida, Stetson and Florida State all won.

At Charleston, S.C., Julian Butler put UCF ahead, 52-51, with a little over a minute to play and John Friday's basket secured a 55-51 victory over Baptist College.

Sam Alexander tossed in 16 points for the Knights while Butler finished with 12 and Stan Kimbrough added 11.

The victory for the 8-15 Knights avenged an earlier one-point loss to Baptist at Orlando. UCF hosts Stetson Saturday.

At DeLand, Stetson placed six players in double figures as it routed Bethune-Cookman College, 100-83, before 3,571 fans.

Jay Daniel led the way with 20 points. Tim Shuler, Rodney Williams and Gary Coachman each tallied 13 points while Tony Hemphill added 12 and Andrew Woodward 10.

At Tallahassee, senior forward Maurice Myrick scored 23 points to lead Florida State to a 91-79 Metro-Conference victory over Southern Mississippi Monday.

Ailton Lee Gipson had 22 points for Florida State, 9-12. Randy Allen had 16 and Joe Ferrar, Dean Shaffer and Jerome Fitchett had 10 each.

Burke's 30 Lead Sun Bank Win

Bernard Burke fired in a game-high 30 points Saturday as Sun Bank upended Pamar, 54-28, in Sanford Recreation Intermediate League basketball Thursday.

Burke scored 20 of his 30 points in the second half to help Sun Bank pull away. George Irwin contributed 10 points for Sun Bank while "Steady" Eddie Charles canned six.

Reginald Lawrence was high for Pamar with 18 points while Darius Grayson and Joe Murphy added four each.

In other action, seven players got into the scoring column as Sanford Electric edged McLain-Pierce Insurance, 27-24.

Tony Braxton and James Cox had six points each for Sanford Electric, Anthony Delany and Karl Carter had four each, Adrian Rouse three and Paul Thomas and Oscar Edwards two apiece.

Von Eric Small's game-high nine points led McLain-Pierce while Willie Walton and Ronald Cox had six each. David Willis chipped in five and Mike Rumler contributed four.

Leach Stuns Wilander 7-5, 6-2

DELRAY BEACH (UPI) — Unseeded and unknown Mike Leach rolled to a straight-set victory over Mats Wilander, the world's No. 4 player, to begin a series of upsets in the fourth round of the $1.8 million International Player Tennis Championships.

Leach, the 1982 singles champion from the University of Michigan, shocked Sweden's Wilander Monday 7-5, 6-2.

Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia, seeded No. 11, defeated fourth-seeded Anders Jarryd, Wilander's teammate on the winning Swedish Davis Cup team, 6-1, 6-4.

In the women's division, Andrea Temesvari of Hungary downed third-seeded Wendy Turnbull of Australia, 6-4, 6-3.

In other action, Stefan Edberg won his first set against top-seeded Ivan Lendl and was serving in the second set at 5-6 when rain postponed the match, which will be resumed today.

NHL All-Stars Battle Tonight

CALGARY, Alberta (UPI) — He might be the reigning king of hockey, but when it comes to the NHL All-Star Game Wayne Gretzky takes a democratic approach.

"I like the format the way it is now," said Gretzky, Edmonton's high-scoring wing who will lead the Campbell Conference against the Wales Conference tonight. "It's a chance for 40 players in the league who are having good years to be able to play in the game."

"If you take the championship team, then 20 guys who might deserve to be there won't be."

Twins; Hrbek Signs For 5 Years

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Kent Hrbek has become baseball's newest $8 million man.

Hrbek, who grew up in a working-class neighborhood virtually in the shadow of the Minnesota Twins' former stadium, signed a 5-year, $8 million dollar contract with the Twins Monday. He shrugged off suggestions that the fat contract would inflate his head as much as his wallet.

Napoli Shoots, Rams Top Bucs

Oscar "Big O" Merthie pumped in 17 points and Matt Napoli popped in a season-high 15 as Lake Mary's JV Rams came back from an early deficit to claim a 74-70 victory over Mainland's JV Bucs Monday night at Lake Mary High.

Mainland jumped out to a 20-10 lead after the first quarter and took a 41-33 lead at halftime.

"We had a terrible game against Seabreeze (two point loss) Friday," Lake Mary coach Charles Steele said. "The way we played in the first quarter tonight brought nightmares of Seabreeze right back to me."

Lake Mary, which improved to 14-3, came back in the third quarter to outscore the Bucs, 20-11, as the Rams took a 53-52 lead into the fourth quarter. Roosevelt Gaines scored six points in the fourth quarter to keep the Rams in control.

Merthie also added nine rebounds to his 17 points while Napoli, who made 7 of 8 shots from the floor, pulled down seven boards. "I've been getting on his (Napoli's) case about shooting the ball more," Steele said. "He has a good shot, he just needs to take it when he's open. He shot really well from the outside tonight and that took the pressure off our big men."

Terry "The Cat" Miller added 12 points and seven assists for the JV Rams while Jimmy Stewart tossed in 12 points and grabbed a team-high 11 rebounds.

MAINLAND JV (76) — Robert B. Azomo 16, William G. Powers 6, Kennedy A. Austin 4, Dixon A. Telford 2, 25 16-34 FR.

LAKE MARY JV (74) — Merthie 17, Napoli 15, Miller 12, Stewart 12, Gaines 6, Sullivan 6, Collins 4, Dransky 2, Telford 2, 25 16-34 FR.

Betty Jean Gaut, William A. Dew Exchange Vows

Betty Jean Gaut and William Alton Dew were married Jan. 5, at 3 p.m., at St. Mary Magdalen Church, Altamonte Springs. The Rev. E. Tobin performed the traditional Catholic ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Gaut of Winter Springs. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Dew of Dade City.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore her mother's full-length, ivory satin gown with train, and her grandmother's headpiece fashioned of rose point lace.

Flowers arranged by the bride's grandmother of margarettas, lilies of the valley, jasmine, roses, daisies and baby's breath were in colors of ivory and white.

Jill D. Stout, of Winter Springs, was the matron of honor. She wore a gown with a white eyelet bodice over a blue flowered print bouffant skirt, made from Key West silk screened fabric. A satin ribbon sash of orchid completed the gown. She carried a spring bouquet, arranged by the bride, with orchid and ivory ribbon streamers, entwined with lilies of the valley. Her headpiece was a wreath of matching flowers.

Bridesmaids were Mary Neal Tucker-Reynolds of Sanford and Birmingham, Ala., Karen Johnson, of Sanford, both friends of the bride, and Susie

Blach-Woodmansee of Chico, Calif., the bride's cousin. Their gowns were identical to the matron of honor's in colors of blue, aqua, and sea green.

Vasco Watters served the bridegroom as best man. Michael Dew of Winter Springs, the groom's son, served as usher. Groomsmen were Phil Dew, the groom's brother, of San Louis Obispo, Calif., Joe Gaut and Jim Gaut of Orlando, and Tom Gaut of Atlanta, Ga., all brothers of the bride.

Flower girls were Shana Dew, daughter of the groom, and Ashley Fisher of Atlanta, Ga., the bride's niece. Their dresses were of white eyelet with cummerbunds of matching Key West fabric of the attendants' gowns.

The reception was held at the Westmonte Civic Center, Altamonte Springs. Bridal assistants at the reception were Melissa O'Connor-Sovran of New York, who was lector, and Sandy Ealinger of Orlando, ceremony coordinator and cake designer, both friends of the bride.

Following a camping trip to the Florida Keys, the newlyweds will make their home in Winter Springs. The bride is a registered nurse. The bridegroom is employed as production manager at Deep South Products.

Kids Learn By Paying Rent

DEAR ABBY: To "Furious in Dallas," who thinks it stinks that parents would ask their child to pay room and board for living at home: "Children don't ask to be born," said "Furious." "Their parents brought them into the world, and they're responsible for feeding, clothing and housing them until they decide to leave home."

When I finished my schooling and entered the working world, I, the child, was required to pay my parents room and board every week. My family was fairly well off, so at first I was angry, but my parents told me it was for my own good—that it would teach me responsibility and prepare me for the "real" world.

They were right. That's how I learned the value of money—how to spend it and how to save it and how to live within my means.

The day I went to buy my wedding gown, my wonderful mother pulled out a little book and gave it to me. Inside was a savings account with all the money I had paid for room and board! She smiled and said, "It's yours."

Actually, I learned two lessons: responsibility and love.

DEAR LEARNED: Lucky you to have had such wise parents. Read on for another example of how responsibility is taught:

DEAR ABBY: I know a couple whose daughter got pregnant when she was in high school. She kept the baby and her mother raised it while she (the young mother) ran around and got pregnant again.

Abby, my daughter will be taught the facts of life as soon as she is old enough to understand them. If she decides to have sex before she's willing to take responsibility for her actions, she will have to pay the consequences. In plain language, if she gets pregnant, she will have two choices: She will either have to put the baby up for adoption or she will have the baby, stay home 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and take care of it like any other mother!

If she wants a high school diploma or a college education, she will have to figure out for herself how to do it.

OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in a heated discussion over something that is so trivial I'm almost ashamed to ask, but I'm afraid if I don't find the answer, it could escalate into something serious.

We have a 9-month-old son who has just started to walk a little. My husband says, "Put shoes on him right away to help him walk better, and hurry up or the kid will grow up with flat feet."

I say, "He has 74.6 years to wear shoes; what's the hurry?"

Please, Abby, help us.

DEAR MARY: Assuming the boy's feet are normal, he doesn't need shoes until he starts walking outside—then he'll need them only for protection. And tell your husband that walking without shoes does not a flatfoot make.

DEAR ABBY: For years I have watched my brother-in-law pour cheap liquor into empty liquor bottles that once contained expensive brands, in order to fool his guests.

I am very careful of what I drink when I am a guest in his home because after drinking some of the rank booze in the camouflaged bottles, I've had a monumental hangover the next day.

When my wife and I are invited to his home for dinner, we always bring a gift of some high-quality liquor or wine, but it's put away in a closet, and that's the last we see of it.

For over a year now I have drunk only beer at his house, and I'm not particularly fond of beer.

Should I tell him why I'm not drinking in his home?

BROTHER-IN-LAW

DEAR BROTHER-IN-LAW: After this appears, you may not have to.

Slicks Brings Back Happy Days Of 50-60s

Good food, and live entertainment at Slicks

David Clayton Thomas and Blood Sweat & Tears, Gary Lewis and the Playboys, and The Drifters— if these groups bring back pleasant memories, then Slicks is the place for you.

Slicks is a new and different 50s and 60s club which features quality food, moderate prices, cocktails and the very best in live entertainment including big name bands from that era still remembered fondly by their fans.

Slicks, formerly Molly Magee's, is located at 2544 Park Drive, Sanford, and officially opened under its new name on Jan.

15. The new owner, Bill Adams, is bringing the same brand of fun and nostalgia that have made "Remember When" in Maitland, his other good-time establishment, so popular.

If you missed David Clayton Thomas and Blood Sweat & Tears in their one-night appearance here Saturday, you won't want to miss Gary Lewis and the Playboys when they perform at Slicks on Feb. 22 and 23, or The Drifters who are coming here in March. Reservations are suggested. Call 321-4677.

On regular nights, music for entertainment and dancing are provided by live bands such as The Shifters, Trivia, and Johnny Thunder and a disc jockey.

The Shifters are playing for this Thursday night's Valentine Party. There will be prizes. Proper attire is required.

There is a cover charge Tuesday through Saturday, except those arriving before 8 p.m. or ordering dinner, don't have to pay it.

Magie by Jair is a special feature on Friday and Saturday nights with a half hour show followed by magic tricks tableside.

There are happy hours all day from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. with free hors d'oeuvres served beginning at 5 p.m. There are drink specials such as Ladies' Night on Tuesday, and happy hour all evening on Monday. On Ladies' Night the cover charge is $1 and drinks are 50 cents.

The house dinner special is a 32 oz New York Sirloin Steak for two for only $15.95.

Seafood, Italian dishes and appetizers are also specialties.

Shrimp and spaghetti lunch specials on Saturday are only $3.89 from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. plus drink specials.

Pioneer Eyes State Charter

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI) — Pioneer Savings Bank is planning a major diversification. President Blair Culpepper said. Currently awaiting regulatory approvals to switch from a federal to a state charter so the thrift institution can broaden its business, he said Pioneer hopes to acquire other companies, including other banks if it goes through.

Pioneer resulted from the January 1982 merger of Clearwater Federal and Winter Park-based Park Federal. It has 48 offices in the Clearwater and Orlando areas, but has no plans for statewide expansion, Culpepper said.

Older People Should Be Careful With Weights

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read an article that stated that weight lifting destroyed rather than constructed muscle mass in the older person. It said that the older person does not replace the muscle tissue used in strenuous exercise, and that weight lifting therefore produces less muscle rather than more.

I'm 62 and in better physical health than when I was in my 40s, since I have gotten into a running and diet program. That reduced my weight from 196 to 160. My endurance has increased as you have said it would (beyond anything I thought possible nine months ago) and I would like to build up my strength, too. Would it cause any problems if I began a weight-training program, working into it gradually as I worked into running?

DEAR READER — Most people who have experience with strength training and muscle building probably would disagree strongly with the article you quoted. We all lift weight, even if it is just our body weight. Compare your leg muscles now with the way they were before you started your running program. Most runners develop better thigh and calf muscles, although they are not huge.

If you overdo weight training, you can defeat your purpose of developing muscles. That is true for everything, not just older individuals. However, for other reasons, people over 40 should indeed follow a careful training program. This can be done while also developing muscle size and strength. One does not have to strain to the maximum to develop strong muscles. I see no reason why healthy older people cannot do moderate strength training to develop and maintain muscles, and muscles will increase in size despite your age.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 64-year-old male in good health, but I have bilateral inguinal hernias. The doctor felt there was little danger that I might have strangulation. He recommended, though, that I have surgery within a year or so, since my health is good and healing would be better than if I needed surgery at age 75 or 80. Do you agree with this? DEAR READER — Things have not really changed. An inguinal hernia is a defect in the abdominal wall where the cord to the testicle passes into the small intestine. The muscles in the area may be torn, or the actual ring and canal through which the cord passes may be enlarged and weakened. The problem cannot be corrected except through surgery that repairs the abnormal or torn

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Four spades is certainly a very fine contract. A cursory inspection of declarer's chances indicates that the hand will make if the king of clubs is located in the West hand.

If not, declarer is still safe whenever East has the ace of hearts. That's good enough odds for any gambler, but a bridge player should always want to improve the odds.

South won the ace of diamonds, cashed the king of diamonds, and played a spade to the king. He played the jack of diamonds from dummy and let go a club as West won the queen.

West played back the nine of diamonds and East threw a small club as declarer ruffed.

The play of the small club from East was interesting, designed to convey the impression that East did not have the club king, but South was not fooled by that card.

He played a spade to the 10, played the club ace and continued with the queen. East tried the king, which was trumped by declarer, who then returned to dummy with the spade queen to discard a heart on the jack of clubs.

The contract was now safe, and the chance of an overtrick still existed if the heart ace was with East. No such luck, but declarer could still congratulate himself on making the hand even though both key cards, the club king and the heart ace, were wrong for him.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY FEBRUARY 12, 1985
 Your gift for making friends with people from all walks of life will be accentuated this coming year. Although you will get to know many new people, you will single two out for special relationships.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
 Try to vary your routine today for an invigorating effect upon your outlook and attitude. Do something enjoyable with friends. Looking for Mr. Right? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can show you who you are best suited to romantically. To get yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
 Lady Luck will be smiling on you today, so be alert for unusual conditions that could possibly fulfill a material desire.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 Your warmth and wit are more than a match for antagonists today. If confronted by forceful people, melt them down with your charm.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 Today you are likely to be more concerned about the welfare of those you love than about your own needs and wants. Let your nobler inspirations prevail.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Today in situations where others see problems you will see possibilities. Their day could be a bummer but yours should turn out to be fun.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Objectives you previously thought were unattainable are within your reach today. Use your imagination and resourcefulness and you'll get what you go after.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Instead of visiting your usual haunts today, go places where you can meet new people. There's a chance you'll encounter someone you'll instantly like.

VERGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 Try to devote some time today to projects that improve or beautify your surroundings. You're rather ingenious in these areas at this time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
 If you have an important matter to discuss with another today, don't do it by phone or mail. You'll be far more effective in a face-to-face get-together.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
 Financial conditions remain favorable. Put moneymaking situations at the top of your list today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
 You're not the type of person who goes unnoticed. But today your personality will have extra dynamics that set you apart, especially in social improvements.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Instead of restraining impulses that urge you to do something special for one you love today, go all out. Joy comes from giving.
