Homecoming parade today

SANFORD — The Seminole High School Homecoming Parade will begin to make its way down First Street this evening at 5 p.m.

The annual parade will be led by Midway Elementary School's Marching Recorder Band.

The route along First Street will be blocked off from St. Juan Street just west of the New Tribes Mission to the Magnolia Mall in downtown.

According to Police Chief Steve Harriett, Seminole Boulevard from Sanford Avenue through San Juan will remain closed from 4:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. so that the parade can be assembled.

Once they turn on to First Street, officers will block off streets on a rolling basis.

Following the parade there will be a pep rally at the Magnolia Mall.

'Boil water' order continues

SANFORD — The "boil water" order placed on residents of Midway last Friday will remain in effect until the leak in the community's main water line is repaired and a piece of fragile pipe is replaced, according to officials at the HRS Seminole County Public Health Unit.

"Even though the bacteriological levels are low, the 'boil water' order will remain in effect, due to existing water line leaks," John Cochrane, director of the unit, said late this morning. "These leaks could be a possible source of contamination should there be a loss of pressure."

Health and Department of Environmental Regulation officials issued the "boil water" order after State Road 46 widening crews turned off the community's main water supply last Wednesday, possibly allowing bacteria into the system through the leaks.

Eighteen of 24 water samples taken from area faucets and water fountains showed no signs of contamination, he added.

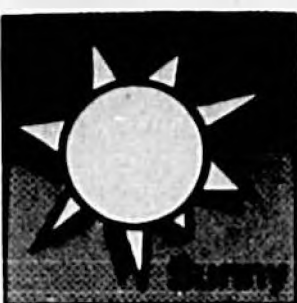

"The safest thing to do is to keep boiling water until the lines are repaired," Cochrane added.

Recycling rates climb

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County is well on its way to meeting the state's 30 percent garbage reduction goal by 1995.

In figures released Wednesday, the entire county reduced the amount of garbage going to the county dump in Geneva by a total of 7.1 percent. That figure represents 28,676 tons out of 404,224 total tons of garbage recycled during the July 1, 1990 to June 30, 1991 year.

"Of the 7.1 percent, about 6.4 percent was recycled by residents and businesses. The remaining 0.73 percentage represents construction debris, yard trash, appliances and tires. The county is required to report recycling results the state annually.

"This was not a full year," said Sherry Newkirk, the county's recycling coordinator. "So next year, when we have a full year, we'll have a great year."

Newkirk explained most cities didn't begin curbside recycling programs for residents until November 1990. Casselberry didn't begin their recycling program until July this year.

Also, in January, the county will begin collecting yard waste separately from regular garbage and composting it. Newkirk said with the addition of yard waste to the recycling effort, she expects the county's recycling rate to jump over 20 percent by the next reporting period.

"With a full year and yard waste added in, we'll be in excellent shape," Newkirk said.

Newkirk said the county had some difficulty in obtaining business recycling figures. A questionnaire sent this summer produced about a 20 percent response rate. The county contacted many businesses that didn't respond for information on where their recyclables were sent.

More than two dozen recycling companies in the state were contacted for amounts of recycled material.

Garbage reduction goals are on target

SANFORD — Seminole County, city and rural residents attained their most successful recycling month yet in October, separating more than 1,000 tons of garbage for the first time since countywide recycling began a year ago.

"It's just wonderful isn't it," said Sherry Newkirk, county recycling coordinator. "It's a wonderful reflection on the residents."

According to county records, recycling rates have climbed steadily since last November when 1.2 million pounds were recycled, although there was a drop during the vacation months of June and July.

In all, residents of the county and cities

SANFORD — A group of students and school administrators at Seminole High School are working to promote Seminole High School in the community.

Calling themselves "Seminole Express" the group has begun making the rounds over area churches where many students are members and inviting the youngsters to get involved in school activities while asking their parents to become more involved in their children's education.

Led by Principal Gretchen Schapker, the group made its first visit this past Sunday, attending a meeting at St. Matthew's Missionary Baptist Church in Midway.

Schapker, Ed Wilson, director of guidance; Don Merrifield, occupational specialist and Assistant Principal Verna Jackson were accompanied by students Vashaun Williams, Tara Hall, Michelle Lyons and Shayne Stewart.

Williams, the quarterback of the football team, is also president of the senior class.

City leader's cocaine buy scrutinized

SANFORD — Senior officials in the state attorney's office were to meet today to decide what, if anything, to do about City Commissioner Lon Howell's admitted purchase of $20 worth of crack cocaine in Old Sanford on Oct. 24.

Howell, in an interview yesterday, volunteered details of the incident and pointed out that he reported the transaction to police afterwards. He said his intention was to demonstrate how easy it is to buy drugs on the streets in portions of the city he represents. He acknowledged that he had violated the law and had made a mistake.

Police Chief Steve Harriett said in a separate interview yesterday that he turned the matter over to State Attorney Norm Wolfinger on Oct. 25 to avoid any questions of impropriety.

In a related development, Harriett said the police

SANFORD — A heavy teaching load at Lake County Vocational Center will probably keep Seminole County School Board chairman Joe Williams from seeking to retain that position when the board reorganizes next Tuesday. Other board members believe that vice chairman Nancy Warren would be the right one to take over the job.

"The logical thing would be for Nancy Warren to be the next chairman," said board member Barbara Kuhn. "She has the experience."

None of the board members questioned is yet willing to commit to whom they might nominate for the position of either chair or vice chair.

Judge Johnson, 61, passes away

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Judge Harold F. Johnson, 61, passed away yesterday at his residence. He had been battling cancer for almost two years. He was recently hospitalized, and had undergone surgery on Oct. 24.

Johnson was born May 25, 1930 in Sanford, and was a graduate of Seminole High School. He left briefly to attend law school, but returned after graduation to join a local law firm. He began his relationship with Seminole County as Assistant County Attorney, then County Attorney. He was elected as Seminole County Judge in 1972 and took office the following January.

Johnson was active in both social and legal organizations including the Florida Bar Association.

Hospital ordered to pay for pricked toe

FORT LAUDERDALE — A hospital has been ordered to pay $100,000 to a woman who pricked her toe on a stray six-inch needle that had been left on the hospital floor.

Betty Sinaore merited the award because of the anxiety the accident had caused her, a Broward County jury ruled.

The Florida Medical Center in Lauderdale Lakes also must pay Mrs. Sinaore's husband Joseph $10,000 for the loss of his wife's companionship, the jurors ruled Friday.

"She was concerned that she might develop Hepatitis-B or the AIDS virus," Mrs. Sinaore's attorney, Mark R. McCollem, said. "She was concerned every day, as anybody might be."

Wild dogs may have killed zoo's gazelles

MIAMI (AP) — Two Thomson's gazelles were killed and a third injured in an apparent attack by wild dogs at Metrozoo.

A zookeeper early Wednesday found the bodies of the 30-pound African animals in their holding pen, zoo spokesman Ron McGill said Wednesday.

"The first thing she sees is the two animals dead and one injured, and the other three all tucked and cowering in the corner," McGill said.

A pack of wild dogs was blamed for a prior attack that killed the zoo's springbok antelopes. The dogs were tracked down and destroyed.

That pack had consisted of "neglected stray dogs that were diseased animals that eventually would have been euthanized anyway," McGill said. "But they were at one time someone's pet and that's the crime."

Alleged child porno ring nets arrests

DAYTONA BEACH — Two Florida men, including a former television news reporter, have been arrested in what may have been a child pornography ring.

Emmet Rozler, 51, and Jimmy Walker, 22, who live together in Holly Hill, were arrested on charges of sexually assaulting teenage boys.

Rozler, who worked for an Orlando television station in the early 1980s, has already served 11 months in jail for a 1983 no-contest plea to child abuse.

The state attorney's office on Friday charged him with lewd and lascivious assault upon a child under 16. Walker was charged with sexual battery.

Two other men were arrested in Columbia, S.C., in the case.

Churches protected, fires probed

Sanford area steps up surveillance

By NICK PFENAU
Herald Staff Writer

Local as well as national concern is mounting rapidly over church burnings. Area law enforcement surveillance has been stepped up.

Of the estimated 50 church fires suspected to be arson cases in Florida during the past 2 years, one has been in Sanford. The All Saints Deliverance Church, at 9th Street and Holly Avenue burned on Feb. 10th of this year. The cause of the fire still has not been determined.

Several area churches have made arrangements to have persons check their property during the nighttime hours. A few others have installed new or improved alarm systems. None of the church leaders wished to have their facility identified. As one church spokesperson said, "We are doing things to protect our church, but we don't want that information to be made public."

Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said, "We discuss this problem regularly at our roll-call meetings. All of our patrol shifts are well aware of the potential problems with church fires, and we have increased our patrols of those areas accordingly."

Regarding churches arranging for their own guarding, Harriett said, "Some of our patrols have reported finding night guards, usually church members or officers, at a number of churches in the Sanford area. Everyone is becoming more and more concerned." He added, "We are undertaking a rather aggressive program in Sanford to avoid any problems."

In Lake Mary, Police Chief Charles Lauderdale has issued a directive calling for a special concentration on Lake Mary churches. "I discussed the matter with officials in Gainesville about two and a half weeks ago," Lauderdale said, "when they had some of their fires, and determined that we are in a possible area of concern with our close proximity to I-4, similar to Gainesville. So I immediately called on a special watch."

Lauderdale said, "Anyone seen on church property in Lake Mary during non-operational hours, will be considered a threat, and be questioned."

Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning said, "We haven't issued any special written instructions on increased surveillance for churches, but we have discussed the importance of this problem verbally." He added, "All of us in the Longwood Police Department know it is our responsibility to do what we can and double check all of our area churches."

The Seminole County Sheriff's office is also increasing its vigilance. Spokesman George Proche said, "Everybody in the Sheriff's Department is well aware of the church arson problems around the state. Our patrol captain is instructing our personnel to insure extra emphasis be made on patrolling."

Investigators say suspects significant

Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Investigators probing 50 Florida church fires say they have significant suspects and have confirmed that the latest blaze, this week in Gainesville, were both arson.

Fires gutted the Westwood Hills Church of God on Monday and caused minor damage at the St. Augustine Catholic Church on Tuesday.

They brought to eight the number of suspected church arsons in Gainesville this year, and a task force of federal, state and local investigators is trying to determine if that string is related to other blazes across Florida.

While closely guarding details of the multi-agency arson task force's work, sources close to the investigation told The Gainesville Sun they believe they have made some solid progress toward finding out who has been setting the fires.

A top suspect has been jailed somewhere outside Gainesville on an unrelated charge as investigators gather evidence, the Sun quoted unidentified sources as saying in a story for Thursday's editions.

One source described the man as a loner and a transient.

Sources also told the newspaper that the person or persons setting the fire uses materials found at the scene rather than bringing an accelerator.

Black and white

Study: Death penalty is not colorblind

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Murderers of white people are three times more likely to be executed in Florida than those who kill blacks, a study group has concluded.

"The application of the death penalty in Florida is not colorblind," a draft report by the Racial and Ethnic Bias Study Commission said.

Other things being equal, a killer is 3.4 times more likely to be sentenced to death if the victim is white rather than black, according to the report released Wednesday. It will be discussed by the 27-member commission Friday.

The study also found that in 18 percent of all of Florida's capital cases over the last 20 years, a judge has sentenced a defendant to death despite a jury vote for life imprisonment.

"The discretionary authority of the judge to override a jury's recommendation of life opens up an additional window of opportunity for bias to enter into the capital sentencing decision," the report reads. "This discretion is too often influenced by public pressure for punishment and retribution."

The report recommends that the Legislature change Florida law to ban judges from overriding a jury recommendation for life.

It also addresses the over-representation of minorities in jails and prisons and the under-representation of minorities in law schools and law firms.

"Both fairness to the individual and economic self-interest of the state mandate the need for fundamental reforms to eradicate the stain of racism from the garments of justice in Florida," the report said.

Memo: Marine Patrol top-heavy

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Marine Patrol is undisciplined and wasteful of taxpayers' money, a Department of Natural Resources analyst said in a memorandum.

The patrol is top-heavy with supervisors, analyst Dale Adams wrote, and he added, "It should be recognized that the problems within the patrol stem not from its rank and file, but from top-level management."

Adams wrote a memo in September that was obtained by The Tampa Tribune for a story Wednesday on the agency responsible for patrolling Florida's 8,400 miles of coastline.

DNR deputy assistant executive director Dale Patchett, who oversees the patrol, said he asked Adams and others on his staff operations as part of an effort to reorganize the 400-officer patrol.

"It's an organization that hasn't been under a microscope for years. They're like a big family. They kept family fights in the family," Patchett said.

The analysts' concerns were given to then-DNR executive director Tom Gardner, who last month proposed a restructuring, and 12 days later resigned his post.

Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet asked DNR officials to wait until a new executive director is hired before any reorganization.

Marine Patrol practices, operations and management are being investigated by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, the Statewide Prosecutor's Office, the Comptroller's Office, the Auditor General's Office, and the DNR inspector general's office.

POLICE BRIEFS

Battery charged

Mark David Schachter, 35, of 155 Sandalwood Way in Longwood, was arrested on Tuesday night. He was charged with battery.

Longwood Police officers responded to a disturbance at the home. They report that Schachter was reported to be intoxicated and belligerent when he hit his wife over the head with a mirror and cut the phone lines in the house.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $100 bond.

DUI arrest

Marilyn A. Bailey, 42, of 2580 Ridgewood Ave. in Sanford, was arrested Tuesday afternoon and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

A sheriff's deputy followed Bailey's car for a distance on Airport Boulevard and observed her leave the road on several occasions. A traffic stop was made and a roadside sobriety test was conducted.

Bailey failed the test and was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where she was held in lieu of $500 bond.

Warrant arrests

Paul Curtis Nipper, 29, of 123 Club Rd. in Sanford was arrested on Tuesday afternoon and charged in connection with two felony warrants from Orange County.

One warrant charged him with violating his parole on charges of forgery. The other charged him with violating his parole on burglary charges.

He was arrested at 1807 Hartwell Ave. after Sanford Police received an anonymous tip that said he was at that location.

He is being held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility without bond.

Zina Mae Davis, 31, of 84 William Clark Ct. in Sanford was arrested Tuesday.

She was charged with warrants for failing to appear in court on charges of burglary to a dwelling and burglary to a structure.

She was arrested at Sunshine Liquors, 1810 W. 13th St. in Sanford.

She is being held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility without bond.

Longwood shortens meeting

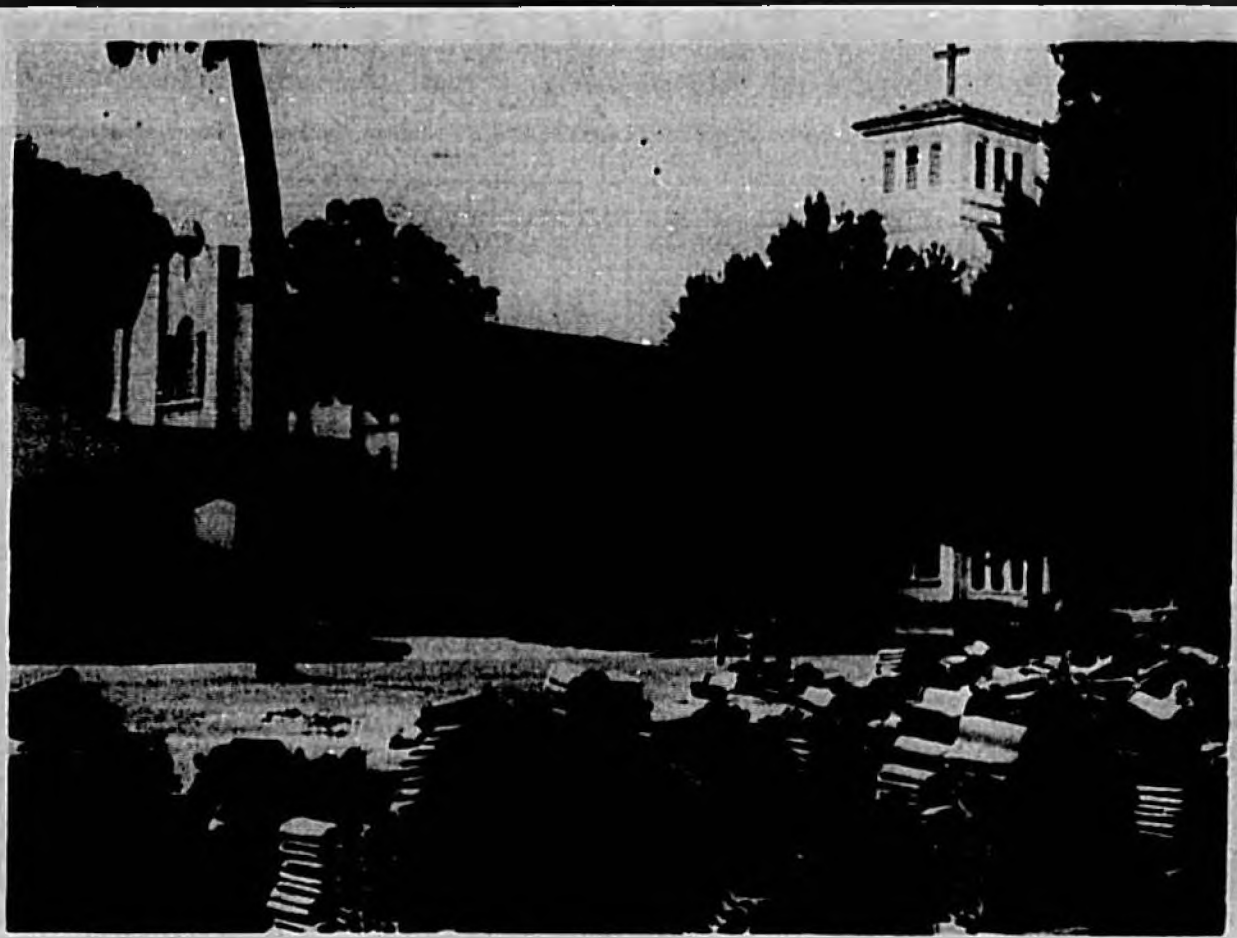

LONGWOOD — The Longwood City Commission met in a work session last night. The main item planned for discussion had been dropped from the agenda.

The major purpose for calling the work session was to hold further discussion on the proposed takeover of Sanlando Utilities, by Wekiva Utilities, and the changes it would bring to Longwood as well as Seminole County.

The Seminole County Commission however, voted Tuesday to hold off on an approving the agreement. Wekiva had sought County as well as City approval in a joint agreement that would have had the County, rather than Longwood, take over operation of the water and sewer system in approximately 30 years.

The proposed $25.5 million sale of the utility was discussed. City Administrator Don Terry said.

"The general consensus was to hold off on the matter until closer to the time Seminole County brings it back for discussion. In the meantime, we'll be hearing from more of the participants in the matter."

Lake Monroe residents protest new incinerator

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Residents of Lake Monroe vented their anger at Seminole County development review staff Wednesday over developer Sid Vihlen's resurrected proposal to build a 48-ton-per-day medical waste incinerator in their tiny community.

"Does Seminole County have anyone to inspect this thing after it's built," asked Betty Giles of Riverview Avenue.

"I'm about the closest person to it and I can't," responded natural resources officer Tim Clabaugh.

"Then how do you know if it's harmful or not," Giles responded.

"I've recommended against it," Clabaugh answered.

"You can't even keep the ditches clear," said Russell Mann. "God help us if there's a problem."

Indeed, county reviewers were split over the proposal, although none asked Vihlen questions during a county Development Review Committee meeting. Instead, they gave him a computer-printed comment sheet.

Clabaugh and three other members of the Development Review Division wrote they opposed the proposal, although their transportation reviewer gave the proposal tentative approval. Planning Division officials asked for more comments, but made no recommendation. Engineering Division staff made no recommendation, but had several comments for the site to meet county codes. The Land Management and Environmental Services Divisions approved the project.

Seminole County commissioners turned down a similar incinerator proposal by Vihlen in March, but allowed Vihlen to resubmit his plans with additional details about the incinerator.

Vihlen repeatedly assured residents that if the county shows the incinerator would be unsafe to humans or the environment, he will voluntarily withdraw the proposal. Vihlen said he would pay to have independent inspectors check the operation of the facility "daily, weekly" or on whatever schedule was sought by the county.

"So you'll be funding your own inspections," said Mary Ann Bruce, 4050 Church St.

"What effect will mercury in the exhaust coming out of the stack have on our vegetables or the fish in the river?" asked Edgar Bruce, Mary Bruce's husband.

"If there is any pollution that will cause any harm, I will voluntarily withdraw the application," Vihlen said. "The smoke from the stack will cause less pollution than the fire in your fireplace."

"Why did it come up again?" asked Mary Bruce. "We don't want it. Nobody wants it."

"I'm the applicant," Vihlen said. "I'm the guilty party."

"We know that," answered Mary Bruce.

"I have a right to apply," Vihlen said. "If it's bad, I'll withdraw it."

proval puts continued emphasis on management of student behavior but more on the management of instructional materials.

Knowledge of the field of instruction, the ability to plan and deliver services in the assigned area and an evaluation of the program which the individual oversees are also a part of the new form.

The administration evaluation form remains essentially unchanged from that used in previous years, according to Reichert.

He noted that the only changes are in the area of the evaluation coding and the titles of the competency categories.

"The titles come from state guidelines for administrative evaluation," Reichert said. "They are different names, but essentially the same evaluations."

Reichert said that it had been eight years since the administration evaluation form had been updated.

The school board will vote on whether or not to accept the new forms at their meeting next Tuesday, which will take place at the board meeting room, 1211 Mellonville Ave. in Sanford at 3:30 p.m.

School board to review job evaluation forms

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Florida law requires that all public employees be evaluated on an annual basis.

The Seminole County school district has made some changes in the forms used by evaluators who observe the job performances of administrators at the county office and resource teachers.

"The basic evaluation process has been established for a long, long time," said John Reichert, director of personnel services.

Reichert said, however, that the need for some new forms for particular positions came up as the district's Personnel Assessment Handbook was reviewed this year.

He said that resource teachers, those teachers who provide instruction and research assistance for classroom teachers, came to him this summer to say they felt it was unfair they were evaluated on the same form as classroom teachers when they had completely different duties.

"Why should they be evaluated on (an item like) student control when they are not in the classroom?" Reichert asked.

The new form that has been developed for school board ap-

What does the fastest-growing bank in Florida have to say for itself?

We're excited. We're challenged, and we're looking forward to meeting the challenge. Southeast's branches are now part of First Union. And we've planned for this phase of our growth for a long time. ♦ But, quickly, let's get to the what's-in-it-for-you part. ♦ First, if you're a Southeast customer, expect uninterrupted service. We'll handle everything. Bank as usual at your present branch. ♦ Second, and most important, you need to know that your bank now has new financial strength, with $25 billion in assets in Florida alone. ♦ What if you're not a Southeast customer? "Who is First Union and what can they do for me?" you might ask. "A lot," we'll answer. You'll enjoy banking privileges at nearly 500 branch offices statewide and over 930 branches throughout the Southeast once the changeover is complete. You'll also have access to hundreds of additional 24-Hour Banking Machines. ♦ You'll have a variety of innovative products and services designed to make all your banking easy and convenient. ♦ And you'll have generous portions of what we're known for: Service. Service is how we've built our bank, and service is what we promise. ♦ In the coming months, as the conversion takes place, there will be a lot of news. We hope you'll give us a chance to share with you all that we believe in about service - and about sound banking.

Toward peace

The Bush administration showed a lot of diplomatic skill in maneuvering the key parties in the Middle East conflict to the negotiating table. But even if that leads to progress toward regional peace, the effort it took just to get everyone to Madrid underlines a crucial point about America's new role as the only superpower. The role may be too much for any single nation, however powerful.

That thought is especially relevant as criticism grows about the president's preoccupation with foreign affairs at a time when this country's economic problems and unmet social needs are so painfully evident. How can the United States continue to lead efforts to stabilize the Middle East, the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe and Indochina, to name the most obvious places, when doing that requires such enormous commitments of time, effort and money?

There has never been a shortage of foreign crises and the United States, at least since World War II, has always borne such a burden. Yet the job is now far more difficult, in part because America can no longer afford to be as generous, even as the problems of less fortunate countries worsen, and in part because the end of the Cold War has brought new vitality to old crises and created new ones in Eastern Europe and in the Soviet Union.

One natural response — favored by a growing number of Americans — is to pull back, to pick and choose which crises to respond to, and to what extent.

At the margins, at least, the administration seems to have begun doing that; but in the absence of a second superpower, and given President Bush's penchant for playing world statesman, the global agenda still looks very full — and forbidding.

The president must set both foreign policy priorities and limits on the extent of U.S. involvement, and must do it in concert with U.S. allies. Given an economically powerful, and likely soon, a more politically assertive Japan, and a Europe annoyed at being marginalized in the Middle East peace talks and at U.S. penny-pinching on aid to the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, the need for such collaboration becomes all the more important.

Conceivably all this can be done, but hardly as easily as the allied coalition in the Persian Gulf was put together. As yet there's not even a clear idea, much less consensus, about how to deal with a Saddam Hussein who acts as if he'd won the war and is trying again to stir up more trouble in the region, perhaps even to continue a nuclear weapons-development program under the nose of U.N. inspectors.

What's most worrisome is that, as pressure builds at home with the approach of the 1992 election, the White House may feel compelled to shrug off even those international obligations that this country's principles, and its status as the sole surviving superpower, impose on it. The United States is riding high, but it also may be riding a tiger.

I hear America singing; Bush doesn't

In the carcass-strewn political battlefield of the recent elections, the media and the Democrats made the same discovery, worked the same phrases and had a ball, wallowing in their pessimistic portents.

"Ominous overtones for Bush," intoned the Greenboro (N.C.) News & Record page-one headline the day after the election. (My emphases.)

The semantic disease caught on and spread like a virus in a flu epidemic. "Election results ominous for Bush, incumbents," weighed in the Democratic-leaning Raleigh (N.C.) News & Observer headline the following day. That same day, the Republican-cheerleading Wall Street Journal climbed aboard the jeremiadic bandwagon with a page one headline: "Pennsylvania election sends nation's leaders an ominous message." (Again, my emphases.)

It doesn't end there: Republican analyst Kevin Phillips and Democratic Sen. Charles Robb of Virginia used the identical phrase in agreeing that the voters had sent President Bush "a wake-up call."

No such thing. True, Rip Van Winkle George Bush only awakens intermittently — in time for the next leg of Lemuel Gulliver's travel plan. The fact is, he is traveling around the world trying to solve its problems while simultaneously telling unemployed, poor and homeless Americans to go to hell.

Still, voters in state and local elections were not thinking about Bush. They strictly voted their stomachs, pocket books, contempt, anxieties and racial hatreds, in reaction to woes that they believed to be caused by local and state officials, economic conditions and racial excesses.

Bush did not cause the dramatic (and absolutely delicious) senatorial defeat of his ideological homeboy Dick Thornburgh in Pennsylvania any more than Bush's endorsement caused incumbent Republican Gov. Buddy

Black political empowerment suffered setbacks.

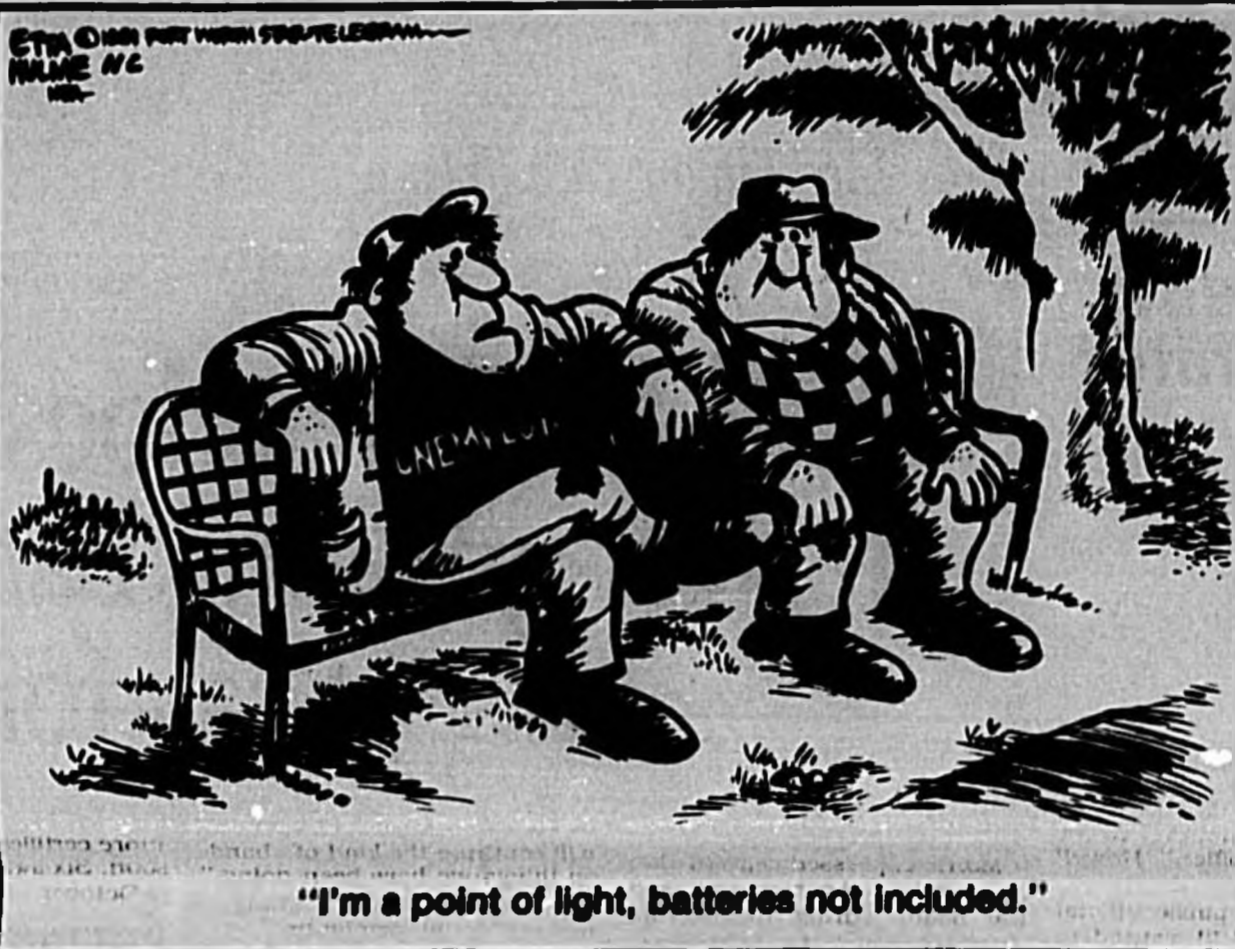

Roemer's primary defeat at the hands of race-baiting David Duke in Louisiana.

The fact is, Thornburgh is a snake, Roemer is a chameleon, and their reptilian tergiversations finally caught up with them.

In two other states, the message was different, but still local. New Jerseyites voted their anti-tax pocketbooks as Republicans seized control of both houses of the state legislature. Mississippians resurrected anti-black hostilities by electing as governor a Republican throwback to the days of lynchings and church burnings.

Black political empowerment suffered setbacks in three elections, but high white antagonism was less of a factor than low black voter turnout. Disproportionately lower black voter turnout was responsible for both the defeat of Durham, N.C.'s first black mayor, Chester Jenkins, and the election of Mississippi's racism-reviving GOP gubernatorial candidate, Kirk Fordice.

Yet, none of these seemingly cataclysmic changes, including the rise to respectability of David Duke, dismay me. If I suffer from any syndrome, it is congenital optimism. This may sound corny and I really don't give a damn if it does, but this is such a great country.

Clean up Lake Mary mess

(Early this month), Seminole County's contractor installed new storm drains from the school pond, and evidently hooked them into old drains which empty directly into Big Lake Mary.

On Friday on the way home for lunch, I noticed the pond had been pumped out. When I sat down at home to eat lunch and looked out the window, I saw a brown lake. I called City Hall, but everyone was at lunch.

On Monday morning I made several calls, and eventually got to the St. Johns Water Management District, who came out late Monday and checked the water near my property. They said the turbidity was not high enough for it to be a violation. I asked them if they checked for toxic chemicals, and they said no. If what the Seminole County contractor did was legal — they have a license to spill — to pollute at will.

Everyone is supposed to be so concerned about the environment. We have to recycle to lessen pollution with landfills.

We are so concerned with visual pollution that the whole Lake Mary Boulevard project was held up, and a great deal of money spent on lawyers, just to hide utility wires. A lot of money is going to be spent on landscaping.

If you compare the size of the Exxon Valdez oil spill and the size of Alaska, with the size of our city and what has just been deliberately done to Big Lake Mary, ours is a bigger environmental disaster. If they cause this much damage now, what are they going to do when they get to the portion of the project adjacent to the lake?

If the city has money to spend to sue its own citizens, surely we have money to sue Seminole County for the damage it has done. This was no mistake — it was deliberate, wanton destruction of a pristine, natural, valuable resource. The County should be made to clean up the mess it made. The County just tripled my taxes, and then polluted the lake my property fronts on. And all the other property owners around the lake are in the same disgusting position.

We have what I consider an exorbitant number of people working for our small city. Professional people being well paid for their expertise. People who are supposed to be protecting our welfare, the quality of our lives, the value of our property.

Where were all our representatives? Where were all the professional people they hired? — while the greatest natural resource in our city was being destroyed? We citizens need to make changes — changes in those elected by us, and those hired by our representatives. We need people who are more preoccupied with our welfare than what they are having for lunch.

Let's get some people in here with the guts to make tough laws and then enforce them. If they're going to destroy wetlands in our City — let's insist that the mitigation be in our City — not in some distant area of the County. If they're going to cut down a tree in our City — let's insist they replant two.

If we still have old storm drains putting unfiltered water into our lakes, let's rip them out. Let's revamp them and route them into retention ponds like they're supposed to be. Let's get some leadership in here. We have to start cleaning up our environment right here in Lake Mary. And we certainly don't need to be allowing the acceleration of pollution like we did last week.

Recycling rules hurt poor

What gives a city or county the right to recycle, "cans, paper and etc." when certain people need to do this to help pay rent and to buy food; this is like taking candy or food out of children's mouths.

They better rethink this recycling business on their part.

Honor veterans

Veterans are an important segment in America! They have served their country faithfully in peace and in war in the various crises and conflicts our nation endured. Their valor in the time of conflict, and their voice in times of decision, have aided tremendously in the preservation and safeguarding of our American heritage of rights and freedoms.

It is the memory of their service in time of conflict, it is the record of their exploits written on the pages of American history. It is their loyalty to the greater issue of preserving the American nation in spite of personal inconvenience, danger, or even disagreement with a particular policy, that should stir us to a determination that the freedoms of which we proudly boast, shall not be destroyed or liquidated by apathy, subterfuge, or political chicanery.

Let us make special effort to proclaim again the patriotic significance of Veteran's Day. Let us re-emphasize what "freedom" is all about, why it is so important, and why millions of Americans have served their nation in those conflicts which have threatened to subdue, divide, or disintegrate our sovereign land. Let us reaffirm our loyalty to those basic concepts — such as honesty, decency, justice, and integrity — which are the foundations of a responsible, trustworthy, representative, democratic government.

May Veterans Day serve as a continual stimulus to refocus and refresh our memories on the heritage that has kept American great — and free!

Public discontent continues to grow

WASHINGTON — For 60 years, this has been a watchdog column that has supported the voiceless over the dominant, the helpless against their exploiters, the small enterprise above the octopus.

Its role was established by the late Drew Pearson, who became the champion of the downtrodden during the Great Depression. Millions lived vicariously through him as he rooted out the scoundrels of his day and plagued the scoundrels beyond the reach of the common people.

Not since those grim early years has this column stirred such an anguished response. Mail floods into our office on waves of discontent — troubled letters from concerned readers. They feel threatened by shrinking incomes, rampant lawlessness, exploding costs, inept leadership and an uncertain, onrushing future.

They've lost confidence in their political leaders who debate yesterday's issues and ignore today's realities, who mismanage the government and let the economy drift, who put the special interests ahead of the public welfare, who raise their own salaries while the folks back home endure pay cuts, layoffs and forced retirement.

Those who write to us are worried, above all else, about the economic outlook. They're caught in a downturn that they fear could leave them with mortgages they can't pay. Parents no longer expect their children to live better than they did. Students no longer believe that a college degree will get them a job.

We've received thousands of letters from victims of crime who no longer trust the police to protect them, who feel that the courts are more concerned about protecting criminals than victims. So they're triple-bolting their doors, installing security systems and purchasing guns to protect themselves from marauding criminals.

In some neighborhoods, murder has become a commonplace response to trivial irritations. Legitimate enterprises are packing up to leave and drug pushing, theft and prostitution are the only thriving industries. The violence in these urban neighborhoods is beginning to spill over into the suburbs.

Some of the most anguished complaints come from readers who can no longer afford health care. For many families, the combined cost of medical insurance and non-covered expenses has almost reached the breaking point. Deficit-ridden hospitals are beginning to refuse treatment to those who cannot pay. And the uninsured complain that they can't collect Medicaid.

The crisis is compounded by money-draining diseases such as AIDS, crack addiction and the ailments of the aged. It's hard to avoid the conclusion that the nation's health-care system is breaking down.

There are constant complaints, too, about the government's clamor for more revenue and its refusal to stop wasteful spending; the daily hours lost in gridlock traffic; the poor performance of our schools; and dozens of other frustrations and aggravations.

We've tried to be an advocate for the helpless against the mighty, the duped against the dupers. In a sense, our function is that of the steam vent. By letting off steam, we may help prevent the boiler from blowing.

LET US KNOW — We're interested in hearing about what bothers you in the current economic and political climate. The volume of our mail makes it impossible to answer all the letters.

We investigate as many complaints as we can and forward others to the proper authorities. Letters should be addressed to P.O. Box 2300, Washington, D.C., 20013.

Mail floods into our office on waves of discontent.

Howell

officer to whom Howell reported the transaction has been reprimanded. The officer, Jim Spears, destroyed the evidence, which is not proper police department procedure, Harriett said.

Asked what the status of the case was, Wolfinger said yesterday that he planned to review the incident with senior attorneys from his Brevard and Seminole County offices today to determine whether to file charges against Howell.

"We will try to determine whether or not there was a criminal violation and whether there was criminal intent," Wolfinger said. "We will look at whatever facts there are and what the circumstances are. Obviously, this is a little different than normal."

Chief Harriett said he believes there was no criminal intent on Howell's part. The state attorney would not discuss what specific charges were being considered.

Wolfinger said he received the complaint about two weeks ago from Harriett and had briefly discussed it with his attorneys, but was unable to quickly schedule a formal conference with them due to scheduling conflicts. He said there was "no hurry" to review the case because Howell had not been arrested.

He said the case was complicated because the police officer destroyed the substance given to him by Howell but that, nevertheless, the case should not be difficult to resolve.

Howell, 45, a former sales representative who now is a project administrator for the Upper Academy restoration project, was elected to a four-year term on the city commission in 1988. Prior to his election and since then, he has been active in promoting improvement in the downtown area including strengthening zoning codes and helping to clean up the area.

Most recently, he has been involved in forming a neighborhood watch group in Old Sanford which is the historic district including downtown and the adjacent downtown area. Often, he rides around the area observing what's going on and sometimes reports apparent illegal activity to the police or concerned residents.

On the early evening of Monday, Oct. 24, Howell said, he was driving along Magnolia Avenue and was accosted in a carpooling situation at 4th, 8th, and 12th streets by different people who wanted to sell him contraband. On the third attempt, he said in the interview, "The guy jumped out and said, 'Hey, wanna buy?' Without thinking, I bought $20 crack cocaine and right away I went to the police department."

Howell said he did not recognize the pusher and described him only as riding a bicycle and having two gold teeth in the front of his mouth. The man said the drugs were stashed in Park on Park along Park Avenue between 8th street and 9th Street, according to Howell. He said he followed the man there and exchanged the money for the substance.

In his one-page official report, Officer Spears stated that he was dispatched at 7:33 p.m. to meet Howell at Sanford Avenue and First Street.

"He handed me what appeared to be crack cocaine and I asked him where he had got it. He described a black male he had encountered at the Park on Park and that he gave the black male $20 for it," Spears wrote. His report continued:

"At this point, I had the substance in my hand and told the commissioner that what he had done was a violation of the law and that by rights I should arrest him."

"His comment was something to the effect that that was why he wanted to talk to me in private, that he wasn't sure what he should have done. He felt like the black male was 'twisting my arm to buy it.'"

"Commissioner Howell also stated that he didn't believe that drug dealers were so blatant in their dealing on the streets."

"At this point, I opened my hand and dropped the two pieces of substance to the pavement and ground it away with my foot. I told the commissioner never to do that sort of thing again and reminded him again that he, in fact, had broken the law and could have been arrested."

Chief Harriett described Spears as a fine officer who, in this incident, failed to do his duty correctly. "The purported coke was disposed of improperly. I want to assure you that this was not proper departmental procedure," Harriett said in explaining the reprimand.

The chief said that when he learned of the incident, he went directly to Howell's home to discuss it.

Howell recalled, "Steve came over the next morning. He was obviously upset. He said he would have to turn it over to the state attorney's office." Howell said he agreed.

Harriett said a public official was involved and "I wanted to be sure there was no hint of impropriety." Because of that, Harriett said, he himself drove to Wolfinger's Brevard County office to present the case to him.

Howell acknowledged that the repercussions of what he did could be serious. Buying cocaine is a felony. A conviction, he said, could cost him his city commission seat.

Nevertheless, "Even though I made a mistake — I knew it was wrong — ... but I wanted to prove a point... I would be more than glad to lose my commission seat if it makes people aware."

The night of the transaction, Howell made two telephone calls to the chairman of the newly formed Downtown Neighborhood Watch, Liz Williams.

The first call was placed about 7 p.m.

"I know he's out there patrolling. He always calls me and says 'Liz I'm out here, where are you?' His exact words were 'Why aren't you out there tonight? Go over and look.' He informed me of a prostitute standing on the street corner soliciting," Williams said.

Howell called again about 8 p.m.

"He does this all night long. He just tells me what's going on in the neighborhood. When he called the second time, he said 'You're not going to believe what I just saw.' Lon leaves messages like that. Then I go out on my porch to see," Williams said.

"Until we get the mobile unit going, Lon is the only commissioner out on the streets doing anything," Williams said.

The incident was not the first time Howell has involved himself in apparent illegal activity and drawn the criticism of Chief Harriett.

For example, after he was elected, he took it upon himself to check into drug activity in a rooming house in his district. In that incident, Chief Harriett appeared on the scene and lectured Howell about staying out of public business.

Harriett staff writers J. Mark Barfield and Lucy Damon contributed to this report.

Johnson's fellow County Judge Wallace H. Hall observed, "Harold was always full of life and got along with everybody. He was a super person and it's like I have lost my best friend."

Arthur H. Beckwith, Jr., former Seminole County Clerk of Circuit Court, worked with Johnson for 23 years, from 1960 until 1985. "I remember Harold most when he was the County Attorney," Beckwith said. "He was probably the best we ever had in the County. He was complete in his work and diligent in his investigations." He added, "He was much the same serving as County Judge. Seminole County has lost a great

"We want them to know who does what job so they can feel more comfortable if they want to come on campus," Wilson said. "And we invite them to come."

Jackson said the group started off bringing their message to churches because they felt that is where they could reach the most families, but said they will go wherever they are invited. So far the group has two more commitments to address congregations in Sanford.

On the second Sunday in December, they will attend services at New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church in Georgetown and in January they will visit Allen Chapel AME Church in Sanford.

"We'll go wherever we're invited," Wilson said.

tossed 1,072 tons of glass, plastic, newspapers and aluminum cans in their recycling bins last month. That's more than 2 million pounds of garbage that would have been buried in the county landfill.

Every city and the unincorporated county residents increased their recycling rates. Unincorporated residents increased their recycling from 491 tons in September to 585 tons in October. Sanford residents boosted their recycling efforts from more than 67 tons in September to almost 72 tons in October.

Lake Mary residents increased their recycling from about 33 tons in September to about 37 tons in October. Longwood residents increased their recycling rate from 39 tons in September to almost 47 tons last month.

County employees have proved to be effective recyclers as well. Nearly one ton of office paper was tossed in recycling bins instead of garbage cans by the 1,000 county employees. That's about a half pound of paper for every man and woman working for the county.

County employees apparently aren't big soft drink drinkers. Only nine pounds of aluminum cans were offered for recycling by employees last month.

Recession threat downplayed

WASHINGTON — Despite an unexpected inflation scare in October, analysts remain convinced that an economy struggling to recover from a recession will keep demand soft and prices under control for the foreseeable future.

These economists say the Federal Reserve will still have maneuvering room to cut interest rates once again, although the timing of the next rate reduction is more uncertain given last month's sharp jump in wholesale prices.

A rash of new information on the economy was awaited today with release of reports on retail sales and consumer price performance during October and the number of new Americans filing claims for unemployment benefits for the last week in October.

Analysts were busy revising upward their estimates for consumer inflation following the report Wednesday that wholesale prices rose an unexpectedly high 0.7 percent in October. Many economists said they believed consumer prices may have risen 0.5 percent last month, which would be the sharpest retail price jump this year.

Credit card rate advice offered

NEW YORK — For many consumers, shopping for the best credit card deal is a bewildering experience.

It doesn't come in glossy junk-mail brochures. It probably isn't available from the corner bank, and you probably won't find it at the office credit union.

"The onus is on the consumer," said Robert K. Heady, publisher of the Bank Rate Monitor of North Palm Beach, Fla. "Many of the best deals are not being advertised or promoted, that's why the cardholder must do his or her homework." Experts say consumers should consult newsletters that track credit cards, credit card charts that appear in some newspapers, and leading business magazines.

Extended jobless benefits seen likely

WASHINGTON — Congress is ready to approve extended unemployment benefits for the jobless now that President Bush is endorsing the Democratic effort and ending a lengthy partisan brawl.

The House planned to approve a $5.2 billion bill today that would add up to 20 weeks of coverage for Americans who have exhausted their basic 26 weeks of payments. Sponsors say as many as 3 million recession-battered people could be helped during the measure's 16-month life.

The program would cover most people depleting their benefits since last March 1 and before next July 4.

The Senate could approve the bill later in the day. Bush has promised to sign the measure and end a four-month fight that saw the president kill two earlier versions.

AIDS testing jumps dramatically

When Magic Johnson dished out a double-pump bounce pass, basketball players everywhere emulated him. Now people are lining up by the thousands to follow his example and get tested for AIDS.

In the week since Johnson's surprise announcement that he had tested positive for the AIDS virus, health officials around the country say they have been swamped with requests for tests.

Health clinics that formerly could test patients immediately are building up backlogs a week long. Those that already had waiting lists are seeing them get longer.

Women earn less and less, study shows

WASHINGTON — A working woman just out of college gets three-fourths the pay of the men she studied with. And the older she gets, the more she falls behind. Census Bureau figures show.

It's not just college-educated women who find their years in the classroom discounted in the workplace. An Associated Press analysis of census statistics released Wednesday found that at every education level, women make less money than men with the same amount of schooling.

A college-educated woman between ages 25 and 34 earns an average 75 cents for every dollar earned by a man of the same age and education. Her earnings drop steadily and by the time she is between ages 55 and 64, the average female worker is making 54 cents for every dollar earned by a man.

Women 18 to 24 with four years of high school earn 92 cents for every dollar a man earns. By the time they're in their late 50s and early 60s, they're earning only 53 cents to the dollar.

Military cuts under secret review

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon's top officials, fearing even deeper spending cuts than the 25 percent already under way, are ordering a top-secret review of the effect further reductions would have on the armed forces.

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, ordered the review, said Pentagon sources who spoke on condition of anonymity.

"It's really being tightly held," one official said of the study. "Nobody wants anybody to think such ideas are even being contemplated."

But since the military must plan long-term in order to train its officer corps, purchase its weapons and ready its troops, "planning for any contingency, budget or otherwise, goes on," the official said in a recent interview.

Cap on credit card interest rates gains

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Credit card interest rates would be slashed dramatically under an amendment attached to banking legislation in the Senate.

Lawmakers adopted a provision to cap rates in a 74-19 surprise vote Wednesday night over the last-minute objections of the Bush administration. If eventually enacted, it would immediately drop rates by nearly five percentage points on average.

A final Senate vote on the overall bill, which also would replenish the government's dwindling deposit insurance fund, was not expected before Friday.

Meanwhile, the House was planning today to vote on a similar banking bill, although without the credit card provisions. Aides said Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., would introduce a similar rate cap measure. But under procedures limiting amendments to the banking bill, adopted 305-112 by the House, Annunzio will have to push his legislation separately.

Educational TV reaches millions

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The cable television industry spends about $53 million annually to bring commercial-free educational programming to nearly 10 million high school students, industry officials said today.

Amos B. Hostetter Jr., a cable executive heading a nationwide initiative known as Cable in the Classroom, said the industry's goal is to provide educational programming to every public high school by December 1992 and to every state-accredited private secondary school by September 1994.

"Through the efforts of thousands of local cable companies and the cable networks, we now bring Cable in the Classroom programming to nearly half of the students in America's public secondary schools," said Hostetter, who estimated that the services at $53 million annually.

Softball league meeting set

SANFORD — An organizational meeting for the upcoming Sanford Recreation Department's adult softball leagues has been scheduled for 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 11.

The meeting will be conducted at the recreation department's office on the first floor of City Hall, 300 N. Park Ave.

League play is expected to begin the week of Jan. 6

For more information, call 330-5887.

Tribe hosts hoop jamboree

SANFORD — Seminole High School will host the other five Seminole County schools in a girls' basketball jamboree on Tuesday, Nov. 19, at the Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

The six schools will play eight eight-minute quarters with a 10-minute warm-up period between each quarter.

Action tips off at 6:30 p.m. when Seminole plays Lyman. The other five quarters (along with approximate starting time) are Oviedo vs. Lyman (6:55 p.m.), Oviedo vs. Lake Mary (7:20 p.m.), Lake Howell vs. Lake Mary (7:45 p.m.), Lake Howell vs. Lake Brantley (8:10 p.m.) and Seminole vs. Lake Brantley (8:35 p.m.).

Admission will be $2.50.

Altamonte man wins tourney

APOPKA — Doug Russell of Altamonte Springs captured the 1991 National Championship in Brunswick Recreation Centers' "Bowl and Boat Summer" bowling tournament.

Russell rolled a 267 at Brunswick Wekiva Lanes, 120 pins over his average of 147, to defeat more than 45,000 competitors nationwide in the "pins-over-average" tourney.

His grand prize package includes a 17-foot Bayliner Capri Bowrider boat with a Force 70 outboard motor and a custom escort trailer, a Zebeo Spinecast Rod and Reel combo and one full year of free open play bowling.

AROUND THE STATE

Hawkins, 76ers thump Magic

ORLANDO — Hersey Hawkins scored 18 of his career-high 43 points in the third quarter as the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Orlando Magic 121-100 Wednesday for their fifth straight win.

Charles Shackleford had a season-high 18 rebounds and 13 points for the 76ers. Charles Barkley added 18 points for Philadelphia.

The poor-shooting Magic lost for the third time in four games since a 3-0 start. Dennis Scott led the third-year team with 28 points. Scott Skiles had 17 and Terry Catledge 10 with 22 rebounds.

Heat holds off Pistons

MIAMI — Blimbo Coles and Grant Long each made two foul shots in the final 6.8 seconds, helping the Miami Heat hold off the Detroit Pistons 107-102 Wednesday night.

Coles paced Miami with 19 points, while Rice added 18 and Willie Burton had 17. Joe Dumars had 21 for the Pistons, who lost Tuesday night in Chicago in a fight-interrupted game.

NATIONALLY

Clemens wins third Cy Young

NEW YORK — Roger Clemens, the Boston Red Sox right-hander who led the league in ERA and strikeouts, won his third American League Cy Young Award on Wednesday.

Clemens, who also won in 1986 and 1987, got 21 first-place votes, four seconds and three thirds in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America. His 119 points easily beat Minnesota's Scott Erickson (56 points).

Clemens, 18-10 this year with a 2.82 ERA and 241 strikeouts, became the fifth three-time Cy Young winner. Only Jim Palmer (1973-75-76) had done it previously in the AL. Steve Carlton won four NL Cy Youngs and Tom Seaver three.

Sandy Koufax is the only one to win three Cy Youngs when the award covered pitchers in both leagues.

Nothing less than perfect

Unbeaten Fla. Manor claims title

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — H.D. Realty gave it a whale of a shot, but Florida Manor wouldn't be denied Wednesday night, completing a perfect run through the Sanford Recreation Department Wednesday Men Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park.

With its 8-7 win over H.D. Realty, Florida Manor claims the league title with a 10-0 mark. In other contests, Hall's Stucco defeated Robertson Tire 21-9 in a game stopped in the bottom of the fifth by the mercy rule. Hopkins Meats didn't need that long, romping over Beer: 30 23-3 in two-plus innings.

Trailing Florida Manor in the final season standings were Hall's Stucco, H.D. Realty and Hopkins Meats (all 6-4) and Robertson Tire and Beer: 30 (both 1-9).

Even though Robertson Tire took a 3-0 lead in the top of the first inning, the game was never really in danger of being lost by Hall's Stucco. The home team struck for five runs in the bottom of the first and six more in the second before blowing the game wide open with nine runs in the third.

Bobby Wells led the 18-hit attack of Hall's Stucco with an inside-the-park home run, triple, three runs scored and four RBI. Dave DeRosso tripled, singled, scored three runs and drove in one. Jim Hall added a triple, double, three runs scored and an RBI. Frank Stagg had a double, single three runs scored and a pair of RBI.

Spencer Baggett hit two doubles and a single and scored a pair of runs. John Haddock contributed a double, single two runs scored and an RBI. A.W. Imes chipped in with a double, single, one run scored and an RBI. Dwan Towery singled and scored two runs. Jimmy Johnson contributed two singles, one run scored and two RBI. James Garner scored a run.

Did they or didn't they?

Bubba Split and his Crazy Wings teammates went into last night's season finale at Pinehurst Park tied for first place with Schuckles Young Guns at 7-2. Crazy Wings was scheduled to play the 1-8 Kokomo Recyclers while the Young Guns finished with the 6-3 Wrecking Crew. No results were reported.

For Robertson Tire, which had 11 hits, Danny Robertson singled three times and scored three runs. Allan Tyrell and John Polk each hit two singles, scored a run and drove in a run while Bill Grant had a single, two runs scored and an RBI. Suki Nagata and Dennis DeGaetani each singled, scored a run and drove in a run. Carlos Gonzalez added a single. H.D. Realty led Florida Manor on three different occasions (2-0, 4-3 and 7-6). The last lead came when H.D. Realty scored two runs in the top of the sixth to go up 7-6. But Florida Manor struck for a pair of runs in the home half of the inning to re-take the lead, then shut out H.D. Realty in the seventh.

Blake Murray paced Florida Manor's 10-hit attack with three singles and three runs scored. Rick Poore ripped an inside-the-park home run. Greg McClelland tripled, scored two runs and drove in one. Kent Brubaker contributed a single, one run scored and an RBI.

Tim Huck added a single and two RBI. Kyle Brubaker singled and scored a run while Jerry DiBartolo singled and drove in a run. Joe Ferpes singled and Joe Sheehan had an RBI.

For H.D. Realty, Sam Raines hit three singles, scored two runs and had an RBI. Chris Dapore doubled, singled, scored a run and drove in a run while Brian Jones singled twice, scored once and drove in a run. Duane Carlson had two singles and an RBI. Chrat Doney and Carl Thorne both singled and scored a run. Mack Thorne and Bill Funchian each hit a single. Mike Morgan scored a run.

Hopkins Meats did an impressive amount of damage in less than three full turns at bat, scoring 23 runs on 14 hits. Pete Harrison led the rout with an inside-the-park home run, single, three runs scored and three RBI. Roger Kinnard also had an inside-the-park home run to go with three runs scored and two RBI.

Ira Hall doubled, singled, scored a run and drove in four more. Aaron Johns chipped in with a double, single, one run scored and three RBI. Scott Williams had a triple, three runs scored and an RBI. Sonny Eubanks added two singles, two runs and two RBI. Donnie McCoy doubled, scored two runs and had an RBI. Calvin Bryant and Wayne Walke each singled and scored twice. Frank Turner hit a single. Mike Brodericks scored three runs. Jimmy Ramos scored once.

Rodney Curry led Beer: 30's offense with a single, one run scored and an RBI. Ruben Garcia and Ken Cornetto each had a single and an RBI. Steve Almany also hit a single. Todd Pagel and Dean Ponsiano each scored a run.

Mau, Calvin lead Rams into Section III match

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary High School seniors Melissa Mau and Tara Calvin aren't your classic example of good friends.

Co-captains of the Ram volleyball team that will be playing for the 4A-Section III title Friday at Boca Raton-Spanish River, Mau and Calvin have starkly different playing styles that might reflect incompatible social personalities.

Mau, the setter, is elegance, finesse and precision, cocking one leg just so before she serves.

Calvin, the hitter, is unbridled energy, pounding inflated spheres flat to punctuate rallies.

But on the court, they both know they complement each other perfectly. If anything, one would be less without the other.

For example, Calvin is able to make her charging attacks on the net because she knows that the ball will always be there when she gets there. Why? Because it always has been. And Mau's pinpoint control passing the ball would be wasted without someone to convert the sets into kills.

"We're so different in what we do on the court," said Calvin. "We complement each other really well."

Not only that, but four years playing together has elevated their game from reflexive to instinctive. When Mau calls Calvin's number, T.C. doesn't wait and see if the pass will be made. And Mau knows that when she sets Calvin, it's all but automatic.

"I have confidence in all the hitters," said Mau. "But I know in key moments, Tara will get the job done. We've been working so long together, we're so used to each other."

They're so used to each other that when those key moments in a match come up, Mau doesn't even bother calling Calvin's number.

"I expect it," said Calvin. "If we're in a tight spot, I know Melissa will get me the ball."

Having the combination of Mau and Calvin has given Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry ideal role models for what is largely a young team. The only other seniors on the 11-player roster are Lisa Masilunia, Michelle Ball and Shannon Cook. And of the three, Masilunia is the only other starter.

"We start three seniors, a junior (Lorrie Boger) and two sophomores (Jennifer Greissing and Diane Duber)," said Calvin. "Melissa and I really just try to get everyone together and lead by example."

Lake Mary's win over Del Phillips in the Region V championship match on Tuesday night was a perfect example. With Lake Mary trailing 12-9 in the first game of the best of three, it appeared that Mau started to direct the attack a little more in Calvin's direction.

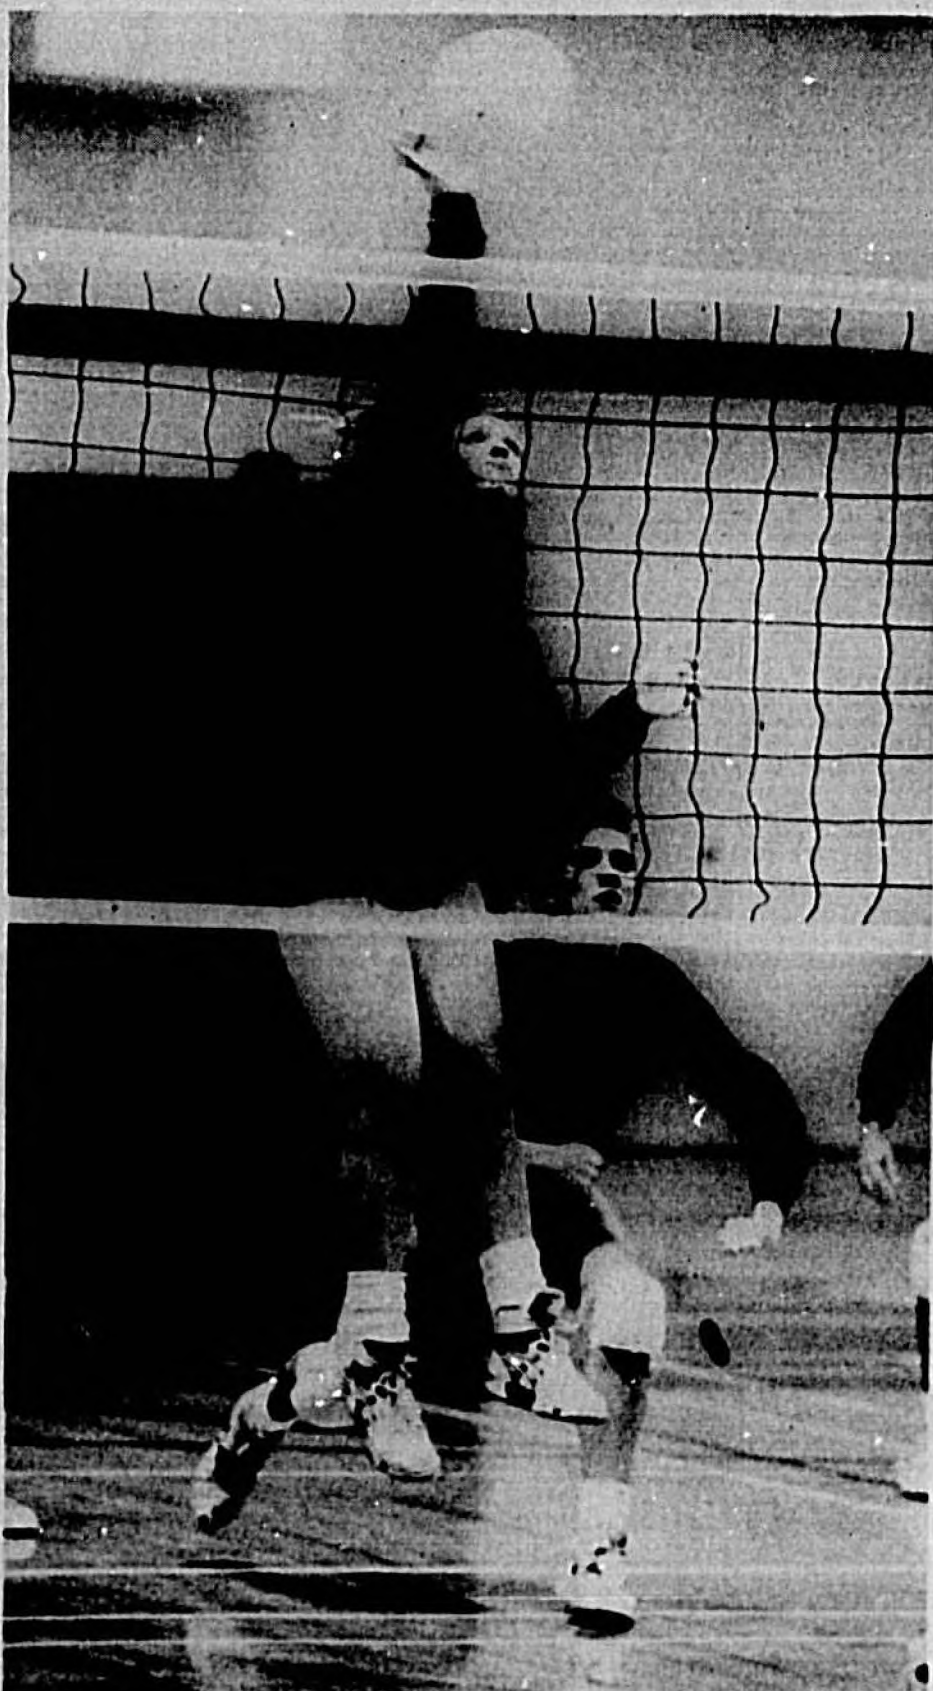

What has developed into Lake Mary's signature play is to have Duber (5 feet, 10 inches) and Greissing (5 feet 9 inches) crash the net while Calvin circles in behind them, spiking Mau's short backset through the screen created by Duber and Greissing.

At home or on the road, the play never fails to elicit a response from the Lake Mary fans. And it's almost always a momentum switcher, turning a game around on a dime. It did against Dr. Phillips as Lake Mary outscored the Panthers 18-4 the rest of the way.

"In the second game, everything came together and we gave a good exhibition of Lake Mary volleyball," said Mau.

As much as the oft-repeated sequence of "Calvin dig, Mau set, Calvin kill" can frustrate an opponent, it provides a constant on which the younger Rams could rely as they gained varsity experience. Now, when other teams try to defend against Calvin's hitting, the other four on the floor can — and often do — take advantage of the space created.

"It's contagious," said Calvin. "All it takes is for one of us to get a good hit and it's like we all say, 'Yeah, we can do it!'"

File Photo

After playing on three teams that lost in the district tournament finals, seniors Tara Calvin (hitting) and Melissa Mau (No. 6) have led Lake Mary (33-1) to district and regional titles and now have their collective sight set on the 4A-Section III crown and a berth in the state semifinals.

Heading south

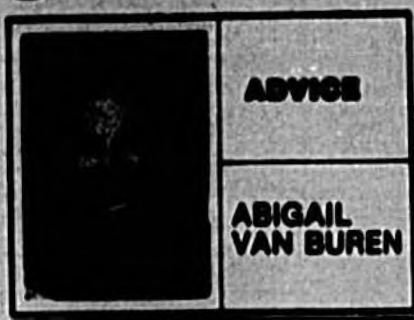

Carolyn and Louis Hevey, six-year residents of Sanford, have won the Nancy Duke Trust Fund Bahamas Cruise and Vacation donated by Farmer's Furniture of Sanford. The furniture company held a two-day benefit for Nancy Dukes who needs a heart transplant. The winning ticket was purchased by the Hevey's 16-year-old daughter, Nicole, who gave the winning ticket to her parents. Carolyn said Nicole's generosity deserves some reward. The Heveys, who honeymooned in the Bahamas, will purchase two other tickets so that the whole family can go on the trip together. Left to right: Ralph Dukes, Nancy's husband; Nicole Hevey, 16, Carolyn Hevey and Rob Moore, store manager. A portion of the store's receipts over one weekend was donated to the Nancy Duke Trust Fund.

Wife begs man to slow down

DEAR ABBY: My husband underwent multiple bypass surgery a year ago, and he's rapidly falling back into his old habits of working too long and too strenuously. I'm afraid he is soon going to be back to the state of health he was in when he got that heart attack. He is in his late 50s and is still a workaholic. He is holding down two full-time jobs and, being the perfectionist he is, he tries to excel at both. Forget exercise. He has a stationary bicycle at the foot of his bed that he's had for two years, and it's as good as new.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

The reason I'm writing is that some of my friends have told me that you had a poem in your column titled "Slow Me Down, Lord," and I would like to get a copy so I can have it blown up and framed and hung over his desk. He has promised that if I get it for him, he will read it every day and try to slow down. Please?

"SKEETER" IN SOUTH CAROLINA
DEAR "SKEETER": The poem was written by Wilfred A. Peterson, and I hope your husband can slow down long enough to read it. And here it is:
SLOW ME DOWN, LORD
Slow me down, Lord!
Ease the pounding of my heart
By the quieting of my mind.
Steady my hurried pace
With a vision of the eternal reach of time.
Give me,
Amidst the confusions of my day,
The calmness of the everlasting hills.
Break the tensions of my nerves
With the soothing music of the sighing streams
That live in my memory.
Help me to know
The magic restoring power of sleep.
Teach me the art
Of taking minute vacations of slowing down to look at a flower;
To chat with an old friend or to make a new one;
To pat a stray dog;
To watch a spider build a web;
To smile at a child;
Or to read a few lines from a good book.
Remind me each day
That the race is not always to the swift;
That there is more to life than increasing its speed.
Let me look upward
Into the branches of the towering oak
And know that it grew slowly and well.
Slow me down, Lord.
And inspire me to send my roots deep
Into the soil of life's enduring values
That I may grow toward the stars
Of my greater destiny.

Recently she began counseling to help cure her compulsive spending, and deal with her anxiety and guilt.

I do not want to jeopardize her job or her marriage but I am desperate to find a way to help her and protect my financial security. Please help me.

GOING DOWN THE DRAIN
DEAR GOING: Notify the stores where you have charge accounts that no one other than you may use your charge account. Then tell your daughter that in order to protect yourself from bankruptcy — and herself from humiliation and trouble with the law — she must not attempt to charge anything on your accounts.

DEAR ABBY: I had my eyes examined by an ophthalmologist who should have had his head examined. I am considering sending him a bill for services inadvertently rendered. Let me explain:

Dr. Toad (not his real name) must think that his female patients are so preoccupied with their eyes that they will not notice that the doctor's knee, arm, chest or whatever is pressing against them with more than ordinary pressure in this dark and very quiet examining room. (Actually, my knee was being sexually assaulted.)

Had I said anything, he would have feigned unawareness of any undue familiarity and accused me of having a dirty mind. So, I decided to handle this in my own way. From now on, anyone who treats me like a lady for hire will get my bill in the mail.

Any comment?
RUBBED THE WRONG WAY
DEAR RUBBED: Yes. Anyone, male or female, who feels that a professional is behaving unprofessionally should speak out immediately on arriving at that conclusion.

And should it happen a second time, a letter of complaint should be addressed to the county medical association.

Thanks for the memories

was honored for the many years he has directed the Golden Age Games. He thanked the club for fellowship enjoyed over the past 17 years of his service to the senior games.

Each Defendant is further notified that the Petitioner will petition for an Order of Taking before the Honorable C. Vernon Mize, Jr., one of the Judges of the above styled Court, on the 3rd day of December, 1991, at 3:30 p.m., in the Seminole County Courthouse, Sanford, Florida, in accordance with its Declaration of Taking heretofore filed in this cause. All Defendants to this suit and all other interested parties may request a hearing on the Petition for the Order of Taking at the time and place designated and be heard. Any Defendant failing to file a request for hearing shall waive any right to object to the Order of Taking.

AND Each Defendant and any other persons claiming any interest in the property described in the Petition in the above styled Eminent Domain proceeding is hereby required to serve written defenses, if any you have, to the Petitioner heretofore filed in this cause on the Petitioner, and any request for a hearing on the Petition for the Order of Taking, if desired, on Petitioner's Attorney, whose name and address is shown below on or before November 26, 1991, and to file the original of your written defenses and any request for hearing on the Petition for the Order of Taking with the Clerk of this Court either before service on the Petitioner's Attorney or immediately thereafter, to show what right, title, interest or lien you or any of you have or claim in and to the property described in said Petition and to show cause, if any you have, why said property should not be condemned for the uses and purposes as set forth in said Petition. If you fail to answer, a default may be entered against you for the relief demanded in the Petition. If you fail to request a hearing on the Petition for the Order of Taking you shall waive any right to object to said Order of Taking.

Monitoring periodic but rapid heart rate

DEAR DR. GOTT: Five years ago I was diagnosed with paroxysmal supraventricular tachycardia. I took medication for two years and recently chose to stop it. Now, about every two months, I have an episode where my heart rate will suddenly double before returning to its regular rate. My doctor says not to worry. Is he right?

DEAR READER: To a large degree, my answer depends on your age and the symptoms you experience when your heart rate increases. Paroxysmal SVT is a rapid pulse due to disruption of the normal cardiac pacemaker, usually caused by arteriosclerosis. Many people occasionally have short bursts of SVT (three or four beats) of which they are totally unaware. This may be discovered by accident during routine testing and requires no treatment.

However, when the SVT occurs frequently, is prolonged or causes symptoms of weakness, palpitations, light-headedness or shortness of breath, preventive therapy (with drugs such as beta-blockers or calcium-channel blockers) may be necessary. SVT is most likely to cause symptoms in the elderly, in whom it can also lead to angina because the heart muscle is deprived of oxygen. In such cases, treatment is mandatory.

Since you are aware of your attacks of SVT, I think you should receive treatment — especially if you are over 60 years of age. However, I am not a cardiologist, nor do I have access to information in your medical records. Nonetheless, I am concerned that you were prescribed medicine for two years, chose to stop it and are now having symptoms. This indicates to me that your SVT is worsening — or at least hasn't improved.

In order to resolve this issue, I suggest you obtain an additional opinion from a cardiologist. Such a specialist will review your records and may test you further with a stress test and/or a Holter monitor (a measurement of your pulse for a 24-hour period). Then, armed with more data, the cardiologist can advise you further about whether or not preventive therapy is indicated.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

The famous Hawaiian detective, Harry Hoo, is renowned for recognizing key clues. He brought this skill to the bridge table for the match between Control and Kaos, the two TV-siccom spy organizations. On the fourth deal, he found the perfect play. To test yourself, cover the East-West cards and plan the play in three no-trump. West leading the spade queen.

Siegfried's weak jump overall of two diamonds wouldn't appeal to everyone, especially at the prevailing vulnerability. But his partner was a passed hand and it seemed sure Control had at least a game available. Over two diamonds, Hoo elected not to make a negative double because he was short in spades. This proved fortuitous because four hearts is doomed to failure. Leads: sitting West, decided to lead from his spade sequence. This seems to defeat three no-trump because when declarer concedes a club trick, his last spade stopper is knocked out. Then, when he leads a diamond, the defenders win with the ace and run the spades. But Hoo spotted the winning line. He won trick one with dummy's spade king and called for the diamond three.

If Siegfried won with the ace, Hoo would have nine tricks: two spades, two hearts, three diamonds and two clubs. But when Siegfried played low, Hoo won with the king and conceded a club trick. Now his nine tricks were two spades, two hearts, one diamond and four clubs. "Brilliantly played, Hoo!" "Thank you, Mr. Smart. As Confucius says, it is felicitous when heads I win, tails Siegfried loses."

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Nov. 15, 1991

You may establish some new relationships with some rather influential people in the year ahead. Ironically, however, those who'll help you the most will be of lesser ranks.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is one of those unusual days where it may appear as if everyone is ganging up on you. Your assessment is erroneous, but if you believe it, it might cause them to do so. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences governing you in the year ahead. Send for Scorpio's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You might be just a tad behind the curve today in matters pertaining to your career. Don't make the mistake of thinking your position is stronger than it actually is.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually, you're not a gullible individual, and you're quite good at discerning the true motives of others. Today, however, these assets might not be operating. Be careful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) For someone who takes pride in being independent, you might be cast today in the unfamiliar role of depending too heavily on others, especially in matters that affect your material security.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not be on the safe side today, do not let anyone make important decisions for you. Listen to their suggestions and points of view, but do the deciding yourself.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Sincere humility is an admirable virtue, but today you might humble yourself for ulterior purposes. Let at least a portion of your ego shine through.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) On occasion, it's necessary to assert yourself when dealing with others. However, you might do so with the wrong people at the wrong time today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

You may get involved in something today where you mistakenly feel you have strong support behind you. Be careful, because the ranks following you might not be as dedicated as you are.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You could be a trifle gullible today, and this might prove to be counterproductive. Instead of believing everything you hear, request verification.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Conditions are uncertain today where your commercial or financial affairs are concerned. Something that initially appears to be a bargain might be just the opposite.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A partnership you're presently involved in could collapse of its own weight at this time — if each partner does not make an equal contribution.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not assume today that critical situations will automatically sort themselves out to your satisfaction. You must make things happen. Do not leave them up to chance.
