SANFORD — Vickie Christoffer has two great interests in her life. One of them recently got in the way of the other.

Christoffer, a native of Cincinnati and a dyed-in-the-wool Cincinnati Bengals fan, is also the past captain of the local Star Trek chapter, U.S.S. Genesis. Christoffer was at a Star Trek convention when local football hero Jeff Blake, quarterback for the Bengals, made a visit to his hometown.

Often, the interaction is cause for concern, distrust and even anger.

Bond issues reach Lake Mary voters

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — It isn't official until the ballot is published. For Lake Mary, the official date will be Sunday, July 30th.

That's when the official ballot will be published for the Tuesday, August 1 bond referendum approved by the city commission and now to face the voters of Lake Mary.

There are three items on the ballot. While they all pertain to a massive improvement project to involve much of the city and its citizens, the city commission believed it was in the best interest to divide the plans into three separate items.

Proposition No. 1 deals with road and drainage work. In part, the wording on the ballot reads, "Shall the City of Lake Mary, Florida issue not exceeding $2,025,000 revenue bonds, bearing interest at not exceeding the maximum legal rate, maturing within 30 years from date of issuance...for the purpose of financing road (including median irrigation) and drainage improvements..."

The city has established a specific plan for paving and drainage which would be incorporated if this over $2 million bonding is approved.

Proposition No. 2 concerns public safety.

The amount sought is, "...not exceeding $1,715,000 revenue bonds, (again maturing within 30 years), for the purpose of financing police station, emergency operations center and fire station improvements, and all purposes incidental thereto."

The question here is whether or not the citizens want to have the police station, fire station and operations centers improved, possibly enlarged or otherwise made more operational.

Proposition No. 3 is for recreation.

The amount sought is, "...not exceeding $760,000 revenue bonds, ... for the purpose of financing Community Center renovation and maintenance facility improvements and all purposes incidental thereto."

In all three of the propositions, the wording strictly specifies, "payable from certain legally available non-ad valorem revenues of the city."

During many public discussions of the matter, members of the city commission have continuously stressed that these projects should be accomplished without having to increase the tax rate for Lake Mary residents.

At the conclusion of the three propositions, Lake Mary citizens will find one additional "Note For All Propositions" item listed.

It says, "The city reserves the right to adjust" See Bonds, Page 5A

Some students head back to school

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The summer heat remains oppressive in Seminole County as July is in full swing.

It's a good thing school's getting ready to start tomorrow.

This week, youngsters in the elementary and middle school students (except at Pine Crest and Midway elementary schools) will be heading back into the classrooms for the start of another academic year.

"It just comes around too fast," said Karen Martin, who will be entering the sixth grade at Sanford Middle School said. "We just got out of school last month. We're supposed to have three months off. That's how it's been forever. Why change it now?"

The year round calendar keeps students in school 11 months out of the year. Still, they are in class only 180 days, just as they were under the traditional calendar.

"It just seems longer," said Catherine Longo, the mother of two elementary age students. "For goodness sake, you can't even take a month to go off for the summer."

This past week, teachers and administrators were on the job getting things ready for the start of the school year.

Classrooms were being decorated with bright posters and educational materials. Teachers and administrators met with parents and students in preparation for next week's opening.

Many schools hosted open houses in preparation for the start of classes.

"I'm starting to get bored," said Shaneka Jones, a soon-to-be eighth grader. "I'm glad school is starting. I miss all my friends."

While most schools kick off Monday, there are some multi-track institutions which are still completing intersession time for some of those tracks which ended their school year later.

"It is a little confusing if you haven't looked at the calendar for your track," said David Mays, an incoming fifth grader at Hamilton Elementary School. "But you can figure it out."

Colorful attendance calendars are available at the schools and at the district office if you are unsure of your student's attendance schedule.

It wasn't too long ago that Goldsboro Elementary School teacher Florrie Moreland and fifth grader Pam Millsap adjusted the flag on campus as school ended. The new term begins Monday as Pam heads for sixth grade.

Passengers evacuated from jet

FORT LAUDERDALE — Passengers battled for the emergency chutes and even jumped off the wings after a Canadian jetliner was forced to make an emergency landing Saturday when a fire indicator light went off in the cockpit.

The 90 passengers and crew were quickly evacuated down the emergency slides to the runway at the Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport. Three minor injuries occurred during what passengers said was a panicked deplaning of Canadian Airlines Flight 295 to Toronto.

"I was freaking out. I was bawling," said Jen Church, 15, of Toronto. "There was a fire warning. I didn't know if I was going to be around in ten minutes."

The pilot reported to the air traffic control tower that there was a fire in the cockpit of the Boeing 737 shortly after takeoff from Fort Lauderdale at 11:25 a.m. EDT, officials said. However, there were conflicting reports whether there actually was a fire.

"There was smoke in the cargo area," said Kathleen Bergen, spokeswoman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Atlanta.

Ex-husband to pay pet support

JACKSONVILLE — Divorce is for the dogs. Just ask Bruiser, the recipient in what may be this area's first case of "petimony."

In a divorce settlement filed Thursday in Duval County Court, Terry Ritchie agreed to pay his ex-wife, Carolyn, $30 a month for dog support until Bruiser, a 9-year-old Labrador-Shepherd mix, barks his last.

Ms. Ritchie said working out terms to end their 14-year marriage was simple. The couple parted amicably and co-wrote the divorce agreement.

She gets the car, the house, the furniture and the dog, Ritchie, 39, a radar specialist who now lives out of state, will keep his boat, pickup, motorcycle, and military retirement benefits.

The only bone of contention was Bruiser.

"It really wasn't an argument. I said, 'If you take him, he'll end up dead,'" said Ms. Ritchie, a piano accompanist and waitress.

She pointed out that Bruiser was with her husband when he collided with a truck. The dog lost two toes. The Ritchies split the $760 vet bill.

She agreed that the agreement, termed "petimony" by her former mother-in-law, is unusual. She said if she had to do it again she would ask for $50 a month, since Bruiser is such a large dog.

Prisoners take civilian jobs at air base

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. — A union official is criticizing an Air Force decision to replace 36 civilian laundry workers with cheap prison labor.

Twenty-four permanent employees at this Florida Panhandle base will be transferred to other jobs, but 12 contract workers will be laid off within the next two months, base spokeswoman L.L. Shannon Cooper said Thursday.

"Taxpayers are supporting the inmates; inmates are taking the jobs of federal employees," said Debbie Milau, president of Local 1897, American Federation of Government Employees. The union represents many of Eglin's civilian workers.

She said she wrote a letter to Vice President Al Gore this week to seek his help in halting the transfers and layoffs.

The base has signed a contract with Unicor, a subsidiary of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, to operate the base laundry with inmates from a minimum-security prison camp at Eglin.

The contract is part of an effort to reduce by 30 percent the Eglin-based Air Force Development Test Center's staff of 2,500 civil service workers during the next five years as a cost-cutting measure.

The laundry contract is expected to save $1.5 million initially as Unicor also assumes responsibility for overhead and maintenance and $800,000 annually thereafter, Cooper said.

Youth pleads guilty as video vandal

JACKSONVILLE — A teen-ager charged with five other youths in a vandalism spree that was captured on videotape has pleaded guilty to six counts of home burglary and one count of burglary to a vehicle.

Ryan Jay Mason, 16, will be sentenced July 28 by Juvenile Circuit Court Judge Mark Crenshaw. Punishment could range from community control to confinement in a juvenile center.

Mason is one of six boys accused of destroying walls, windows, ceiling fans and fixtures in seven vacant Jacksonville homes in January and February. The youths took turns videotaping their vandalism spree.

Mason is the first to accept a plea in the case.

He is being treated at Daniel Memorial Hospital in a program for troubled youth.

Abuse shelter gains directors

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Safehouse of Seminole has hired a new executive director and program director to run the abuse shelter which opened earlier this year.

Altamonte Springs resident Hollan Pugh is the executive director and will work on a part-time basis until she begins full time Aug. 7. She has been executive director of the 12-year-old spouse abuse shelter "Help Now" in Osceola County for 2 1/2 years.

"We're real pleased to get her," said Cindy Gennell, a Safehouse board member. "She'll start working a little this weekend, phasing in, then Aug. 7 she'll be on board full time."

Joining the staff as assistant director is Michele Hickey, whose background includes two years as clinical director of Spouse Abuse Inc. in Orlando. Most recently she worked as a coordinator of Roseline for the Catholic Diocese of Orlando. A resident of Maitland, she begins work Monday. Pugh will earn $35,000 a year and Hickey will earn $28,000.

"Both of them are highly qualified and both of them are experienced. Both of them are enthusiastic," Gennell said. "We are looking forward to great things."

About 30 applications were received for the vacancies and Gennell said the board worked July 8 and part of July 10 screening and interviewing candidates.

"We're really happy with them," Gennell remarked about Pugh and Hickey. "We think they'll work real well together. We think we're in real good hands."

Pugh was raised in Orlando and earned a master's degree in counseling psychology from Santa Clara University in California.

The Osceola County shelter she is leaving is in the midst of expansion and although she is looking forward to working at Safehouse, it was not an easy decision.

"I have been the director of Help Now for 2 1/2 years and I have loved it," Pugh said. "It was a hard decision to leave but I'm excited about the possibilities with the new shelter. There's so much you can do with a new shelter. There's so much creativity that can happen."

"I really enjoy running a domestic violence shelter," she continued. "It is such an important thing for a community to have. It seems like this county has just been so responsive and they've worked so hard to make this happen. So what's nice is coming into an area where there is a good public understanding of the need for a shelter, kind of what domestic violence is all about, because sometimes there's not the level of understanding."

As executive director at Help Now she wore many hats. She was clinical director, grant writer and did just about every other job at the Osceola shelter. "I would have been the cook if we'd had a cook," she quipped.

Pugh is looking forward to her Safehouse job which will permit her to do more management and empower other people to do a number of tasks she performed at the small shelter.

The way we were: The war years

As our country gears up to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the end of World War II, I thought it would be fitting to write about some of the things that were happening here in Sanford during those war years of 1941-45. I have a few Sanford Heralds from that era so will use them as reference.

Beginnings of SNAS

The earliest newspaper I have is dated Friday, April 24, 1942. The large headline across the top screams "Navy Gets Sanford Airport." Another headline underneath, also stretching across the page, says "Five Million Will Be Spent by Navy; between 1,200 and 1,500 cadets, 150 officers, to be stationed at base."

There are three articles about this exciting news on the front page; I'll give you the highlights. Congressman Joe Hendricks had informed the Herald the previous night that Sanford's new airport would be taken over by the U.S. Navy for use as a naval operational training base. The huge site was located south of Geneva Avenue. The city had purchased this 800 acre site for $36,000 and improvements were being made through a WPA project and funds from the CAA.

The field would be deeded to the Navy by the city for the sum of $1. The Navy was to keep the site for the duration of the war or as long as they needed it, then it would be deeded back to the city for the same amount. Should additional land be required, the

Kiwanis Club treat campers

Campers attending the Sanford Kiwanis Club annual special day at Camp Challenge, a summer camp for handicapped children, were treated to a special celebration (below) Saturday. In honor of the campers' achievements, Mickey and Minnie Mouse and Chip and Dale visited. Music, face painting and temporary tattoos added to the excitement. Some campers took time out from the festivities to learn a little about animals and reptiles from docents from the Central Florida zoo. At right, Googee Guadalupe is all smiles when joined by Mickey Mouse.

Gunfire in second neighborhood City commissioner backs Neighborhood Watch

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — For the second time in three days, shots disturbed the tranquility of a Sanford neighborhood.

Neighborhood Watch organizers say things might have turned out differently if representatives of the apartment complex where the Saturday morning shooting took place had been involved.

According to the Sanford Police, Johnathan Martin was pulling into the parking lot of the Franklin Arms Apartments at about 11:24 a.m. when a green Camaro sped in behind him. Three unidentified black men allegedly fired approximately six shots at his car.

One bullet hit the hood of the Martin's burgundy Buick, went through the windshield and lodged in the dashboard.

Martin, 22, raced from the area and called the police.

The suspects have not yet been apprehended, and the investigation is continuing.

According to Cmdr. Dennis Whitmire, a capias has been issued for the suspects.

When the shots rang out this morning, city commissioner Kerry Lyons said he was atop a ladder painting the side of his house. When he heard the shots, he said, he left off the ladder and ran toward the sound, ready to "hit the ground" if necessary.

Later, shaking his head, he said he hoped the management of the Franklin Arms Apartments had learned a lesson.

Lyons, as a private citizen, not as a commissioner, has organized a Neighborhood Watch program for the neighborhood to the east of Seminole High School.

They had their first meeting on Friday night.

"I invited the management from both the Franklin Arms and the Lake Jenny apartments to come out and bring their representatives," he said. "No one showed up."

Shootings like the one that occurred on Saturday morning are just the sort of thing the Neighborhood Watch program are prepared to help police investigate with eye-witness information and to possibly prevent with highly visible surveillance.

"This is why we need the Neighborhood Watch," he said. "This is why I wanted to get them involved. They (the apartments) are the major cause of the problems in the neighborhood."

Lyons conceded that the new management that has been in place at the Franklin Arms

Deltona residents oppose homecoming of convicted killer

The Associated Press

DELTONA — The sheriff and a probation officer are the latest opponents of a request by a convicted killer to return to this Central Florida town after his release from a Vermont prison.

Sheriff Bob Vogel called Wayne DeLisle "one of the most dangerous men ever to live in Volusia County."

Also joining a growing list of officials and groups opposed to DeLisle's homecoming was Marvin Barnett, a state probation supervisor.

"Unless he appears here with angel wings and a halo over his head, I would feel compelled to recommend a rejection of his request," said Barnett, who is investigating DeLisle's request for the Florida Department of Corrections.

DeLisle, 51, was convicted in 1991 of murdering his girlfriend in 1976, then dumping her body in a river near his home in Enosburg, Vt. He was sentenced to 20 to 50 years in prison, but the Vermont Supreme Court found that his jury had been improperly instructed.

He was then allowed to plead to second-degree murder in exchange for a reduced sentence. He is being released next week and wants to join his mother at her Deltona home.

DeLisle had been living in Deltona for about 13 years at the time of his arrest in 1990 for the Vermont murder.

Investigators had targeted him as a suspect in several slayings in this area, and he was charged in nine cases of sexual assault, but was never convicted, officials say.

Barnett will not submit his report until the state formally receives DeLisle's request.

Besides the opposition from Barnett and the sheriff, the governor has received letters recommending that DeLisle be kept out of Florida from U.S. Rep. John Mica, R-Winter Park, State Attorney Steve Alexander and Chairwoman Freddie Moore of the Volusia County Council.

Right to bear arms?

"...and are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

Hopefully, these aren't unfamiliar words. People should have at least heard some of them recently when we celebrated Independence Day on July 4th.

The Declaration of Independence indicates the people must be allowed to have their share of freedoms. Many rights however, are taken away by government in order to protect others. In most cases, this is very logical.

Why then, did the U.S. House of Representatives even give consideration to allowing convicted felons to have their firearms rights restored. Associated Press says it was the Republican representatives who were pushing for it, and it was thwarted by the Democrats.

Except for possibly a handful of people who have the opportunity to read the congressional agenda on a regular basis, we doubt many citizens knew that there was even an attempt being made in this. If it were known, we believe people would have given Congress a very loud "no" response.

Average citizens have rights taken away regularly. As has already been said, it is done regarding what our government believes to be in the best interests of everyone. How could giving convicted felons the right to have guns after they are released from prison be for everyone's interest?

Yes, there are those who say that once a person has served his or her time, all should be forgiven and they should be allowed to return to society again. In the first place, it's a known fact that very few convicted persons end up serving lengthy terms. They are often back on the streets within months or just a few years after having committed crimes and having been convicted.

Many of these crime involve firearms. Yet those people in Washington are trying to tell us giving them the right to bear arms once again is just restoring their rights as citizens.

While it may be stronger than some would like, we believe that a person committing a crime against his/her fellow man, is going against all the rules, and regardless of punishment, should be treated as a person who is against the rights of others.

We are happy this effort in the House of Representatives was nipped in the bud. This may not be the last time members of our government try to get this past the people however.

In this case, as in all law making efforts, people need to be more aware of what's going on behind the doors of our legislative meeting rooms. We have to do whatever possible to convince our lawmakers that they, "derive their just powers from the consent of the governed," not the lobbyists and power rangers who are behind the scenes of many of these laws which fail to serve the majority of people.

LETTER

What's in a name?

When we moved to the Sanford area some 33 years ago, animosity between North and South Seminole County was full blown. Mention Orlando and take your life in your hands.

Isn't it time that we who live in Seminole County and in the Sanford area grow up! Fate did not intend that Sanford should be as big as Orlando, and aren't we glad of that? Rather than expend our energies griping about Orlando, why don't we all pull together working to make our area the best, exploiting our natural resources, our historic areas and the "homey-ness" of our community.

It doesn't matter to me which name comes first in the airport's name. I can only testify to the surge of pride many of us felt as we landed at our airport with its magnificent terminal after a junket to Biloxi, Miss.

What's in a name? Nothing. It's the people who make the difference.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. All letters must be signed, include the address of the writer and a daytime telephone number. Letters should be on a single subject and be as brief as possible. The letters are subject to editing.

The innocents will be sacrificed

Analyzing the information forthcoming from Washington relative to balancing the national budget makes it clearly evident that the innocents (American children) are to be sacrificed in the process. There is no disputing the fact that as a country we need to be more fiscally responsible. There is also widespread concurrence that the welfare system as it has evolved, demands change. However, the critical question is how may these compelling changes be wrought in a manner consistent with Christian ethics and that will have positive outcomes for the greatest number of our citizens?

Everyday survival is becoming more desperate for millions of children throughout this land. Instead of social problems being held static or declining, they are accelerating. Consider this: the incidence of child abuse and neglect has risen 70 percent in Los Angeles over the past five years; between June 1994 and June 1995 an additional 32 percent of families in Boston have turned to local food pantries for groceries; in Philadelphia, 80 percent of public school students are so poor they qualify for free or reduced lunches. Thus, significant numbers of American children are faced with not having their basic survival needs met. Hungry children, sick children, abused children and homeless children are not "free to learn."

Joe Doolin, archdiocesan director of Catholic charities calls our attention to a report by Brandeis for deeply questioning the contention that welfare recipients are going to magically be transferred from the welfare rolls to the employment rolls. The realities are that 50 percent of Massachusetts' welfare recipients have no high school degree or job experience. This coupled with the stark decline in entry level jobs in the manufacturing sector and projections that a majority of new jobs will be computer and technology oriented, does not bode well for employment opportunities of welfare recipients. Further, the Brandeis Report predicts that almost two-thirds of the new jobs created within the next 10 years will require a college degree and there will be a shortfall of about 30,000 jobs in Massachusetts. Consequently, it appears that Congress is on the road to acting in haste and repenting at leisure. Since children are the sacrificial lambs, this rampant disregard for the human dynamics of the situation is deplorable.

SEMINOLE OPINION

The first action Congress should take is to determine how many employable citizens nationwide are receiving public assistance. The second step should be to ascertain the available jobs and the number of jobs that need to be created. With major corporations downsizing it is imperative that Congress identify jobs and the training that will be needed, before simply dismalizing citizens from public assistance. We cannot as a Christian nation and as a government abandon our most vulnerable citizens to the possibility of having more and more hungry children, more and more abused and neglected children, more and more families joining the homeless ranks, and fewer and fewer children free to obtain an education that would make them competent to compete economically in the 21st century.

The fallout from the current congressional budget thrust by 2002 would be cuts in needed programs: $187 billion or 32 percent for Medicaid; $37 billion or 22 percent for food stamps; $13 billion or 14 percent for welfare. Block grants would be utilized for child and adult care programs and would be cut 50 percent, foster care and adoption assistance would decline 23 percent.

Congressional legislators must be aware of the latent hazards of block grants. Mississippi state legislator John Reeves (Republican) wrote in the Wall Street Journal, "As a taxpayer and guardian of public trust, I wouldn't feel safe giving this money to us or any other state. I've seen too many years of good old boy politics to know they shouldn't do this without stricter controls and requirements." Gov. Lawton Chiles assessed block grants thusly: "Shifting responsibility to the states without fair and equitable shifting of resources is not any kind of new federalism. It's a shallow attempt to balance the federal budget on the backs of states; worse yet, on the backs of children, the elderly, the poor and the sick."

GUEST COLUMNIST

Thanks for successful display

Well, we've had our fireworks in Sanford after on, off, on, off, then on conditions. What a hassle it was to get something that should have been like "falling off a log" organized. Next year should go very smoothly since we found an excellent pyrotechnician to do the shoot this year and he is interested in returning next year. I have started the fund-raising for the 1996 fireworks and we already have around $2,000 in hand. Thanks to Martha Yancey for stepping in and taking over the fund-raising effort with the Bucket Brigade, we are well on the way of reaching our goal of $20,000 for the '96 fireworks event.

This year's shoot was in the $15,000 range. Thanks to Randy Pritchard of Great Show Fireworks located in Tarpon Springs. Randy originally added $2,000 to help out since we accepted the Sunday, July 2nd date which was better for him. Then when the fireworks started and Randy heard the crowd "Oohs, aahs," he added another $2,000 to give us a spectacular event.

All of the Bucket people are being thanked in another article so I will not elaborate on their names and organizations. But how nice to see Rotary, Kiwanis, Sanford Woman's Club, Bram Towers, Historic Trust, and employees from the courthouse get involved with the Bucket Brigade. This is what we need to make our town the greatest town there is.

People and organizations that deserve a big pat on the back for making the fireworks '95 which was dedicated to Victoria Alford who lost her life just a week before our great event are as follows: County Commissioner Daryl McLain who found the pyrotechnician for me; City Commissioner "Whitey" Eckstein, City Manager Bill Simmons and all of the people who are with the city - Parks and Recreation, fire, safety, Police Explorers, Bill Barwick of Seminole National Bank. Just to name a few - who stepped in and really assisted with this event. This was not a Rod Loyer fireworks show but one in which many people came together to assist in making it work. To my good friend, Martha Yancey who stepped in with her Bucket Brigade idea, you are an angel, Martha. This is what makes Sanford so great. The people working for a common cause. Thanks, Sanford.

Now to the contributors who helped to make the fireworks happen: City of Sanford, Tiffany McMurray, Mary Jolly, John and Grace O'Brien, ABB Power T&D, Inc. Ace Hardware, Board of County Commissioners, Butch's Complete Auto, Butch's Towing, Great Show Fireworks, Hellig-Meyers Furniture, Knights of Columbus, Knight's Shoe Store, Lakeview Lawn & Garden, Marina Hotel, Powell's Office Supply, Publix Super Markets, Paralyzed Veterans of America - Central Florida Chapter, Rich United Corporation, Sanford Discount Drugs, Sanford Flower Shop, SHDWA, Sobik's Sandwich Shoppes, SunBank, Sunniland Corporation, Taylor Rental, The Hillman Group, Inc., Tommy Speer-P.A., VFW Post 1081, Walgreen's, John Olbert of Impact Media Productions for his efforts in discussions with the original two pyrotechnicians, the Seminole County Sheriff's Office for the donation of their marine patrol. Thanks everyone.

If I've missed anybody, my apologies since I'm having a problem identifying everyone who did contribute to the fireworks for 1995. You are the ones that made our fireworks what they were.

I feel that I need to clarify one item that really needs to be addressed. That is SHDWA, and the Downtown Merchants Association. When I started the fireworks planning last year with the blessing of SHDWA, I had a timetable to follow. When it was time to start the fund-raising, the board of directors got a little worried that the necessary funds could not be raised in time and that the SHDWA treasury would have to make up for any shortage of monies.

As the president of SHDWA, I knew that there was no way the merchants could absorb that kind of money, so I had a benefactor who was willing to make up the shortage of money needed to make the fireworks cover expenses. When the membership voted to disassociate from the fireworks, and only a handful of the members were present, the vote was to pull out. Not every member present voted to pull out, but the majority prevailed. So SHDWA disassociated themselves from the fireworks. I resigned the next day figuring that the vote was a vote of no confidence.

I ask the people of Sanford not to find fault with the downtown merchants as they were concerned about having to fund the fireworks if I did not raise the necessary money. They are a good group of people and deserve the public's business. Some of the ones voting to pull out did not believe that we should burn up that kind of money in just a few minutes time, with so many people needing help. I can certainly see their side of the issue, but we are Americans who have grown up with celebrating the birth of our great country. As Commissioner Eckstein indicated in the Sanford Herald a few weeks ago, our kids today are growing up without the pride in their country and understanding what certain holidays are all about. Plus people like to see the beautiful display of fireworks.

Upon closing, I would like to thank the Sanford Herald for all of their support in helping to make our Fourth a great one. Last, but not least, a big round of thanks to the PVA for agreeing to be the umbrella for the '95 fireworks display. Without them, and Commissioner McLain, there would have been no fireworks in Sanford this year. Wait until next year, folks...

Richest list neglects crooked, crowned

WASHINGTON - No list of the world's richest people is complete without including the crowned and the crooked - as their body is often in line with that of the biggest tycoons.

The current issue of Forbes magazine contains its annual cover story on the richest people in the world. Produced by a staff of 19, the article names 386 billionaires from dozens of countries.

By focusing only on legitimate business owners, however, the list is far from complete. We have some other candidates, some of whom would knock several of the top 10 industrialists from their perch.

According to U.S. intelligence reports, shared with our associate Dale Van Atta, the world's richest person is Sultan Mudda Hassanul Bolklah of the tiny, oil-rich Muslim sultanate of Brunei, on the north coast of the island of Borneo.

According to one Central Intelligence Agency estimate, this sultan is worth well in excess of $25 billion, putting him comfortably ahead of Microsoft founder William Gates as the world's richest man.

The sultan is so wealthy that he never bothered to inquire about a missing $10 million he had given to the Nicaraguan contra effort in the mid-1980s, which wound up in the wrong Swiss bank account because of a typing error. It was about the same time, at the request of then-Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, that he transferred some of his wealth into British banks, singlehandedly propping up the British pound.

The 49-year-old ruler does little to hide his wealth. He lives in the largest house in the world, a palace featuring 1,788 rooms. Though many of these rooms are used for government business, about 900 are reserved for the "private" use of the sultan, his wives and children, and their relatives and friends. Similar stories can also be told about the royal families of Saudi Arabia and the small Gulf states of Bahrain, Qatar, Oman and the United Arab Emirates. Only the riches of the Kuwaiti royal family have significantly diminished in recent years - due to the cost of the war with Iraq and the subsequent rebuilding.

While the oil barons of the Middle East and Asia have only come into their wealth in the last 50 years, any list of the world's richest people should also include royalty. Queen Elizabeth of England, for example, would surely make the list if the sum of her vast holdings in land, jewels and other priceless artifacts could be reliably totaled. Other European royals, such as the family of the late Princess Grace of Monaco, would also be likely to make the list.

Also near the head of the list, according to U.S. intelligence reports, would be political leaders who feel it is their right to skim off the top of their country's wealth. The top two candidates on this list - who would also be candidates for the Forbes top 20 - are President Suharto of Indonesia and President Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire, each of whom is believed to have fortunes probably in excess of $5 billion.

And finally, no list of the world's richest individuals would be complete without noting the criminal kingpins who control the world's production and sale of illicit drugs. Here too it's impossible to cite specific figures, but one can be relatively sure that some of America's wealthiest mafia families - along with Colombian and Southeast Asian drug lords - would also find their names on the Forbes list if their true wealth were ever revealed.

No list of the world's richest people is complete without including the crowned and the crooked.

Rooms

While Christoffer was convalescing with other Trekkers, her neighbor was making good on a promise to bring Blake over to see her Cincinnati Bengals room the next time he was in town. The Christoffers moved to Sanford from Ohio 12 years ago and Vickie started work on her Bengals room before the Super Bowl in 1989. The walls are painted Bengal orange and are decorated with posters and memorabilia for the team she has followed since she was a kid. Her neighbor, Charles Harris, was aware of the shrine

Christoffer had erected to her favorite team and told her he knew Blake and would have him come by to see it. Unfortunately, when he was in town, she was out of town and the only one home was husband, Walter. Blake did see the room and reportedly autographed a quilted wall hanging of the Bengals logo. Christoffer said, "I thought that was very nice of him," but, "I told Charles (the visit) didn't count because I wasn't there."

Christoffer's Bengals room is actually only one of two interesting rooms in her home. Christoffer said her first love, "depending on the season," is her affiliation with the Star Trek chapter, and she also has a room decorated to attest to that. This room is painted a deep blue and accented with a border of planets around the top of the wall. She started her Star Trek collection three years ago and actually focuses on collectibles having to do with the "Second Generation." More than a thousand pieces have been collected and Christoffer has every one inventoried on computer. Actually, she said neither the Star Trek room nor the Bengals room is big enough to hold all of her collections.

Christoffer recently relinquished her position of captain to take a new position of sector Alpha coordinator, with a rank of Fleet Captain, overseeing the activities of 18 Star Trek chapters in several states. "It's a lot of fun," Christoffer said, "playing the part is fun." The group meets twice a month, to discuss upcoming activities and do role playing. Each member can assume an identity of a crew member and even dress the part. The chapter participates in conventions and other local events, such as the Orlando Christmas parade, in uniform.

But the club's purpose is not only fun and games. Most chapters adopt a beneficiary. For the U.S.S. Geneva, it is Meals on Wheels. During the holidays last year, the group did several fund-raising functions to support the Meals on Wheels program and to bring a little cheer to seniors at Christmas. One of the annual events is pictures with Mrs. Claus at Cafe Books in Seminole Centre, with proceeds from the event going to the program that brings a daily hot meal to homebound seniors.

Christoffer and her good friend, Bettie Ferme, who is also a Trekker, even deliver meals every Wednesday.

Just in case you wondered, Christoffer said the rest of her house is "normal," but she adds, "why be normal, it's no fun."

Christoffer feels it is such a coincidence that she moved here from Cincinnati and that Blake, from Sanford, is a star on the Cincinnati team. Football will continue to be a big part of her life, as her son, Tony Brooks, looks forward to being the starting quarterback for the Seminole High School junior varsity football team this fall. The proud mother even brags that, when he was playing Pop Warner, his coach commented that "he played just like Jeff Blake."

Basically, the intention here is, for example, if the projected Community Center renovation and related projects amounts to over the $760,000 bond amount, the city would increase the amount if necessary, but not to exceed an additional 10 percent. The money would come from other sources and not the bonds.

Citizens will be asked to vote on these three items during the special bond referendum election in the City of Lake Mary, August 1. The choices are for the bonds, or against the bonds on each individual proposition. There will be no other item or political race on the ballot.

China's foreign trade grows

BEIJING — China's foreign trade grew significantly in the first half of the year, to $126 billion, up 29.6 percent from the first six months of 1994, the official People's Daily reported today.

Exports soared by 44.2 percent to $69.79 billion, while imports also grew, by 15.2 percent to $56.61 billion, the brief, front-page report said.

Earthquake jolts Taiwan

TAIPEI, Taiwan — An earthquake with a preliminary magnitude of 5.8 jolted eastern Taiwan on Saturday, shaking buildings and triggering rock slides. No casualties were reported.

The tremor's epicenter was in Suao, about 70 miles southeast of Taipei, the Central Weather Bureau said.

The quake, recorded at about 1 a.m., set buildings in motion and caused rockslides along 8-miles of an eastern coastal highway, it said. The full extent of the damage was not immediately known.

The earthquake was followed an hour later by another tremor with a preliminary magnitude of 4.9.

A quake of magnitude 5 is considered very strong; a six is capable of widespread damage.

Iran finds bodies of 3,000 killed

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Iran has discovered the bodies of 3,000 Iranian soldiers killed in the 1980-88 war with Iraq, Iranian media reported Saturday.

The reports, quoting the head of the Iranian missing-in-action committee, did not say when or where the bodies were found, or why they were not discovered earlier.

Faisal Bagherzadeh was quoted as saying that all the bodies had been identified and a funeral procession for 2,695 of them would be held Friday in Tehran.

A funeral procession for the other 305 dead will be held Wednesday in the southeastern city of Kerman, state-run radio said.

About 1 million soldiers and civilians died in the eight-year war. The Islamic Republic News Agency said the bodies of 20,000 missing soldiers had been found previously.

The report did not say how many Iranian troops are still missing.

Bagherzadeh said the bodies of several Iraqi soldiers were also found.

Relatives appeal to Kashmiri kidnappers

SRINAGAR, India — Hours before an evening deadline was to expire, rebels threatening to kill five Western tourists gave Indian officials another two days to meet their demand to free jailed militants.

In a statement distributed to journalists, the shadowy Al-Faran group said it was extending the deadline because of appeals from Amnesty International and others.

Earlier today, the hostages' loved ones wept and pleaded today for Al-Faran to spare five "innocent tourists" ensnared in the battle over independence for northern India's Jammu-Kashmir state.

Al-Faran had threatened as recently as Friday to kill the hostages tonight unless the government frees 21 jailed rebels. It gave no specific hour.

Despite attempts on both sides, the government and Western diplomats could establish no direct contact with the previously unknown Al-Faran, which even many militant groups in Jammu-Kashmir state say they do not know.

"The hostages are merely innocent tourists and are not responsible for the situation," said a statement read by Catherine Moseley, wife of a British hostage.

She spoke on behalf of wives, girlfriends and relatives of the five captives.

Jane Schelly, wife of an American hostage, also read a statement: "In the name of God, please release all five hostages immediately and return them to us."

Good Sam welcomes United Way head

By MARVA HAWKINS
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — The residents, administration, board members and staff of the Good Samaritan Home welcomed the new President and Chief Professional Officer of the Heart of Florida United Way this past week.

The Good Samaritan Home was one of the 81 local agencies and 150 programs visited by President and CEO Brian T. Quail.

Since becoming head of Heart of Florida United Way, he has set out to meet and become familiar with the organization and the agencies that will receive money and that are under the direction of the Heart of Florida United Way.

Quail comes to serve as President and Chief Professional Officer with expertise in the leadership fund-raising area. He has held positions with several public and non-profit human service organizations, including four years as vice president of resource development and workplace services for Metro United Way in Louisville, Kentucky, where he was responsible for managing all fund-raising efforts and workplace service programs throughout a two-state, seven county area.

In 1994, he led the Metro United Way in raising $22,000,000.

Quail also worked for four years at the United Way Crusade of Mercy in Chicago, where his position included being assistant campaign manager, group director and division director.

The Heart of Florida United Way is a local voluntary system of caring for people in need through a single annual, fund-raising campaign. United Way volunteers raise money that helps 81 agencies, including the Good Samaritan Home. It also provides human care services to the tri-county community of Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties.

In 1994, the Heart of Florida United Way raised $15,000,000.

Swiss Scientists Discover New Energy Product

Lugano, Switzerland - After 25 years of research Lightning 828 was developed with the help of Swiss Laboratories. After extensive testing with amazing results, Lightning 828 is now available in the United States. Scientists are amazed at Lightning 828's results on improved memory, attitude and athletic performance.

In a double blind cross-over trial on university students in Italy, Lightning 828 was given twice daily for 12 weeks. The results were astonishing. Students obtained higher scores in math, logic and physical education.

This new discovery has been a windfall for working and active people that seem to run short of energy around mid-afternoon and need a little extra lift. Lightning 828 when taken in the morning gives a sustained, balanced form of energy throughout the day.

During an interview in Chicago, a beautician stated, "I used to go home exhausted after being on my feet all day. Now it's just incredible. I go home with extra energy and really enjoy my family more." Lightning 828 is a necessary boost for students, professionals and senior citizens.

Lightning 828 is now available at most K-Mart Pharmacies including:

Discovery's skipper takes call

CAPE CANAVERAL — Discovery's skipper took time out from his orbital duties Saturday to chat with a World War II veteran who was a little nervous about taking such an extraordinarily long-distance call.

"I'm glad I don't have to pay for this," Harland Clausen, 72, said from his bed at the Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Milwaukee.

"I'm glad I'm not paying for it, either," Air Force Col. Terence "Tom" Henricks said as his space shuttle sped over the Pacific Ocean. "Without your efforts, this program wouldn't exist and we wouldn't be making this phone call."

The 13-minute call from Discovery, via Mission Control, was the first phone call made to a patient's room at the medical center. In the process of installing telephones throughout the hospital thanks to a nationwide volunteer project. Until now, the 1,000 patients had to use pay phones.

Hospital officials chose Clausen for the ceremonial call because of his World War II experience — the Army infantryman escaped from a German prison camp but was recaptured and, finally, liberated by the Allies.

Clausen wanted to know about Discovery's female members. Two of the five shuttle crew members are women.

"Are the ladies any trouble to you people, to you men up there?" Clausen asked. A dozen relatives and others jammed into his room laughed loudly.

First week of Smith trial drags

UNION, S.C. — A media horde that rushed this mill town for the trial of confessed child-killer Susan Smith has left even faster, wilted by 100-degree heat and tedious jury selection.

More than 80 news organizations that surrounded the courthouse at the beginning had by week's end dwindled to but three television cameras and about 20 reporters, hardly a media spectacle.

"This is definitely no O.J.," one cameraman muttered.

Ms. Smith, 23, faces two death-penalty murder charges in the drownings of her sons, 3-year-old Michael and 14-month-old Alex. For more than a week last fall, she tearfully told the nation how a carjacker had abducted her boys, but on Nov. 3 confessed to sending them and her car to the bottom of a lake.

No longer silent and sullen in court, Ms. Smith whispered with her lawyers and kept notes as potential jurors explained their feelings on the death penalty. At week's end, she was shaking hands and smiling.

But even Ms. Smith's increased activity couldn't keep some in court interested. By the fourth day of jury selection, the bailiff was asleep and Ms. Smith's ex-husband David was nodding off as lawyers sought to find a 12-member jury and six alternates.

In six days, 12 jurors were selected: five white men, four black men, two white women and a black woman. The final two panelists and two alternates were seated on Saturday. Once the remaining four alternates are chosen, the trial could begin sometime this week.

Baboon transplant for AIDS

BETHESDA, Md. — A San Francisco AIDS patient may soon get a bone marrow transplant from a baboon in a desperate attempt to save his life.

Advisers to the Food and Drug Administration say the experiment probably won't prolong Jeff Getty's life — and may kill him earlier than his AIDS would — but should be allowed anyway to see whether baboons, who don't get AIDS, hold a key to fighting the fatal disease.

Getty's reaction was reserved Friday as he noted that the experiment still has to be approved by the FDA. "It's a victory, but we're not over the fence yet," he said from his Oakland, Calif., home.

Getty, who's had HIV for 14 years, said he is in stable condition but has started having problems with his lungs in the past month. The experiment requires a candidate without any complicating conditions.

"Ultimately, I may not be able to do this because the FDA delayed," he said. "I think that this is a good example of what's wrong with AIDS research and our government They do not understand the urgency of AIDS so we have to fight our way through with them."

Dr. David Sachs of Massachusetts General Hospital said if the patient is aware of the risks "and wants to go ahead anyway, OK, but there may be less chance he'll make it to his next birthday than if he went without the transplant."

Bad weather won't affect local area

From Staff and Wire Reports

Sanford area weather is more of the same, despite Tropical Storm Chantal strengthening Saturday in the Caribbean. But forecasters said it could remain in the Atlantic and avoid the U.S. coast altogether.

Locally, light wind and chance of afternoon showers, high in the mid 90s, continues to be the forecast, even though Chantal has South Floridians concerned.

South Floridians stocked up on supplies and got ready to move their boats if Chantal's 50-mile-per-hour winds neared.

"People are going crazy to get water and batteries," said Janet Silmak, a checkout cashier at a Miami Publix supermarket. "They're buying seven, eight gallons at a time."

Despite a strengthening, radar showed Chantal moving to the northwest and possibly peeling away from the U.S. coast and into the Atlantic, forecasters said. Chantal had been on a more westerly route when it first formed Thursday as a slowly meandering and disorganized system east of Puerto Rico.

"There is plenty of warm water out there and I think it has a good chance to become a hurricane," Jerry Jarrell, forecaster with the National Hurricane Center, said Saturday. "Hopefully, the track will be taking it back out to sea."

At 5 p.m., the storm was located near 23.3 north latitude and 68.3 west longitude, about 380 miles north-northwest of San Juan, Puerto Rico, or fewer than 1,000 miles southeast of Miami.

Chantal was moving west-northwest at about 8 mph with maximum sustained winds of 50 mph. Tropical storm force winds extended outward up to 145 miles.

Storms become hurricanes at 74 mph.

A tropical storm warning was in effect for the southeastern Bahamas and Turks and Caicos Islands.

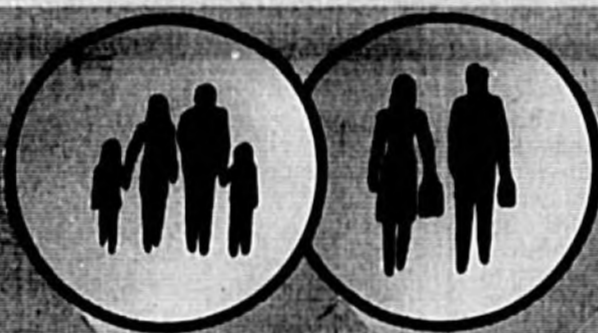

"The concern for the Caicos and Turks is as much seas as it is winds," Jarrell said. "They are getting some fairly decent seas there — 12-foot seas were reported."

For South Floridians, the memory of Hurricane Andrew of August 1992 still has many skittish about any tropical storms brewing in the Caribbean. They crowded hardware and grocery stores for supplies.

"I wasn't here for the big one but everyone's got me scared," said Phil Barragan, who was buying water at the Publix. "I feel like I'm stocking up for World War III, but all my friends tell me this can save me if we get in another hurricane."

Marinas were also fielding calls from worried boat owners.

Marlins victim of first no-hitter

LOS ANGELES — Ramon Martinez threw the first no-hitter of the season Friday as the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Florida Marlins 7-0.

Martinez was perfect through 7 2-3 innings, then walked Tommy Gregg on a 3-2 pitch. He struck out eight and threw 114 pitches in completing the first no-hitter for the Dodgers since Aug. 17, 1992, when Kevin Gross beat the Giants.

In the ninth, he struck out Charles Johnson, got Jerry Browne on a hard grounder to second and got Quilvio Vera to line to Roberto Kelly in left field to end it.

It was the 22nd no-hitter in Dodgers history and the first ever against the Marlins. The last no-hitter in the NL was by Kent Mercker of Atlanta on April 8, 1994 — also at Dodger Stadium.

Red Sox slugger assailed

BOSTON — Mo Vaughn, the major leagues' home run and RBIs leader, sustained a bruised left eye when he was assaulted at a nightclub, the Boston Red Sox said.

According to Boston police, Vaughn was involved in an altercation with Theron Davis, 26, about 1 a.m. Friday at The Roxy, an upscale dance club in the city's theater district.

The incident occurred as Vaughn was defending his girlfriend.

Seles, 21, won eight Grand Slam titles before she was stabbed on court in Hamburg, Germany, on April 30, 1993.

Seles will play Martina Navratilova in an exhibition match July 29 in Atlantic City, N.J.

Regets' three RBI leads Altamonte to Senior win

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald Sports Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Sean Reece, Ryan Donohue and Shawn Perkins combined on a four-hitter and Johnny Regets drove in three runs as Altamonte Springs beat Sanford 12-5 in the opening game of the Babe Ruth Baseball 16-18 Seniors Area Tournament at Eastmonte Park Friday night.

Altamonte Springs was to have played Ocala in the winners bracket at 1 p.m. Saturday with the loser turning around to play Sanford at 4 p.m. The two surviving teams are to meet in the finals today at 1 p.m. with the if necessary game at 4 p.m. The winner of the tournament advances to the state tournament in Ft. Pierce later this month.

Reece was wild but effective as he walked six, but only gave up one run and two hits over four innings of work to get the victory.

Donohue pitched two innings, giving up one run on one hit and Perkins hurled the final inning, getting touched for three runs, one earned, on just one hit.

Altamonte Springs took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning with the help of a Sanford error. With one out, Tony Millian reched on an infield single and moved to second as Chris Bugbee reached on an error on a potential double play ball. After a walk, Reece helped his own cause with a two-run single to center.

Altamonte added a run in the second as Ricky Flores singled, stole second, moved to third on a single by Regets and scored on the back end of a double steal.

Sanford cut the lead to 3-1 in the second as Robert Randall walked, stole second and scored on a double by Anthony Almeda.

its lead in the fourth as Paul Evans walked and scored on a single by Regets. After Millian was hit by a pitch, Bugbee ripped a two-run double off the left field screen.

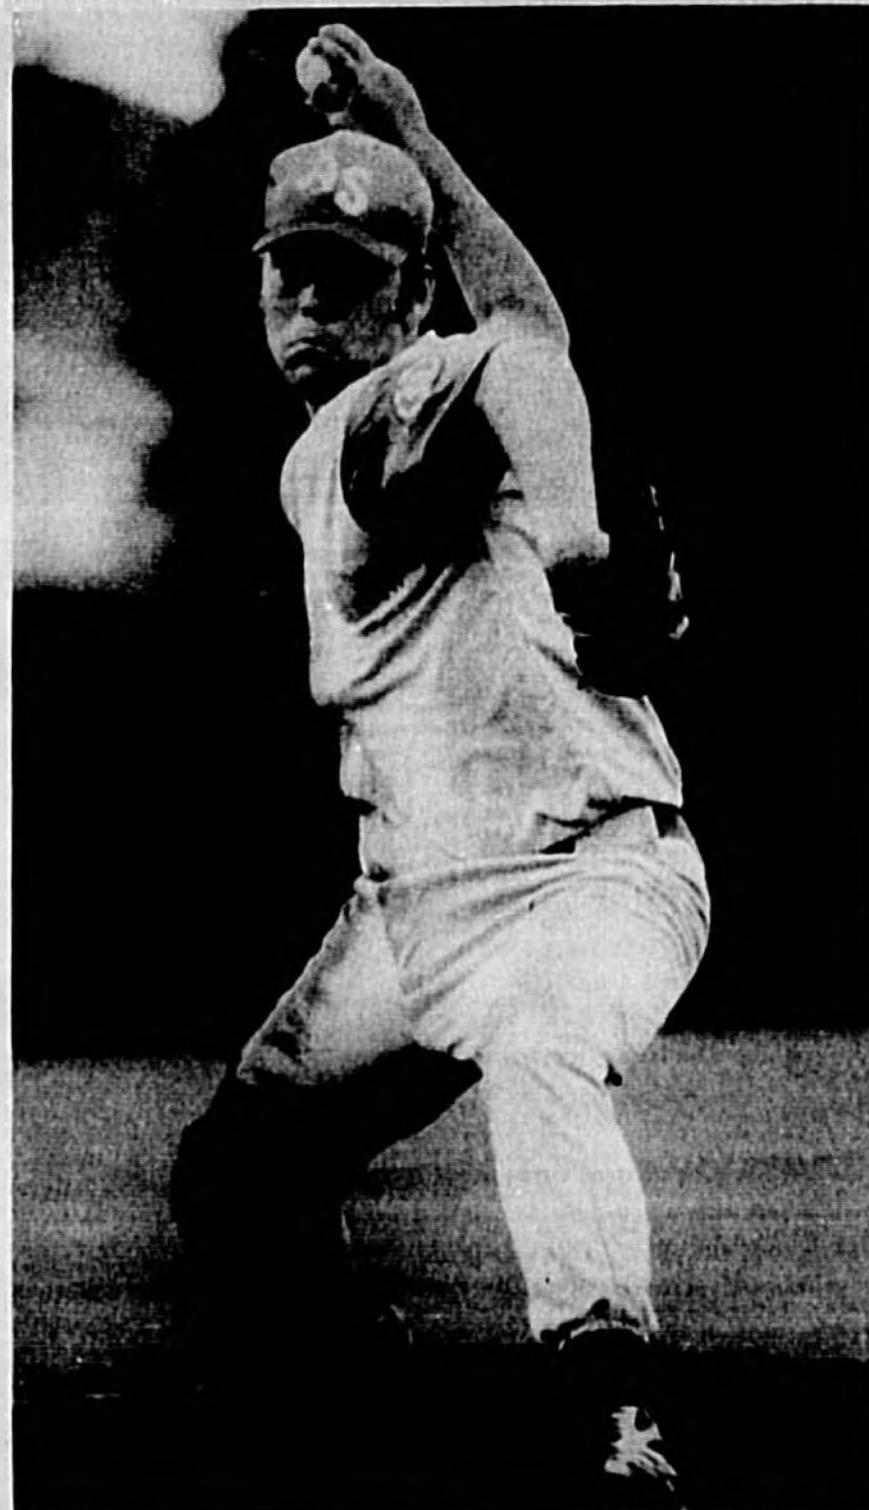

Almeda got his second hit of the game leading off the fifth for Sanford and came around on a pair of stolen bases and a sacrifice fly by Jamie Pitzer.

Altamonte got the run back in the sixth on a walk to Flores and a squeeze bunt by Regets and then put the game away in the seventh, scoring five runs without the benefit of a hit, giving the hosts a 12-2 lead.

Sanford scored its final three runs in the bottom of the seventh on a walk, a hit batter, a fielder's choice RBI grounder by Adrian Knight, a throwing error on a grounder by Pitzer that scored Knight and an RBI single by Ryan Colgate.

Contributing to the Altamonte Springs attack were Regets (2-for-3, run, three RBI), Reece (2-for-3, two RBI), Bugbee (double, two runs, two RBI), Millian and Flores (one single and two runs scored each), Donohue, Mike Mahoney and Keith Barnes (one run and one RBI each), Evans and David Moore (one run scored each) and Jake DeSart (RBI).

Leading Sanford at the plate were Almeda (2-for-2, double, run, RBI), Colgate (2-for-4, RBI), knight and Pitzer (one run and one RBI each) and Randall and Nathaniel Cline (one run scored each).

Sean Reece walked six, but struck out four and allowed just one run on two hits over four innings to lead Altamonte Springs past Sanford 12-5 Friday night. Reece also helped his own cause with a two-run single.

After suffering an 8-0 first-round loss to the Bartow Savages, pitcher Sarah Smith and the Seminole Softball Club 14-and-Under Savages would have won 12 games in two days to claim the NSA fastpitch softball state title.

Eagles win opener; Savages, Falcons fall

From Staff Reports

LONGWOOD — When you're playing in a three-day double-elimination tournament with 47 other teams, the worst thing that can happen is losing your first game.

Because of the double-elimination format, you still have a chance to come back and win the tournament. But because of the double-elimination format, you'll have to play a bunch of games and not have much time to do it.

The Seminole Softball Club's 14-and-Under Eagles managed to avoid that pitfall in this weekend's National Softball Association's Florida Fastpitch State Tournament by beating The Force 1, 12-2, in a game stopped by the eight-run mercy rule after 4 1/2 innings at the Seminole County Softball Complex.

Tanya Howard was the winning pitcher for the Eagles while Maria Duvall led the offense with a two-run triple.

The Eagles were scheduled to play again Saturday morning against the Miami Storm North. A win there would put them in Saturday night's winners' bracket game against the survivor of the Plantation Polson/Jupiter Seahawks contest.

The quarterfinals were set for 8:30 and 9:30 a.m. today with the semifinals to follow at 10:30 a.m.

Where the Eagles were just five games away from the championship, the SSC's 16-and-Falcons and 14-and-Under Savages fell into a deep hole by suffering first-round losses Friday night.

Playing at the Seminole County Softball Complex, the Savages were the victim of a one-hit shutout in an 8-0 loss to the Bartow Renegades. Katie Griffin's single was the only hit for the Savages.

Beginning with Saturday's 12:15 p.m. game with the Tampa Mustangs, the Savages faced a long, torturous road to a possible state title shot. To win the state title, the Savages would have to win 12 consecutive games over two days.

Only slightly less demanding was task facing the Falcons. After dropping a 6-2 decision to the Smokes Friday night, the Falcons would have to win 10 straight games — beginning with Saturday's 11 a.m. contest against the loser of the Purple Haze/Lake Lytal Lazars game — to win the state crown.

There was no report from the SSC Falcons playing in the 18-and-Under state tournament at the West Orange Girls Club.

THE PRICE OF SUCCESS

Lake Howell: Solid program doesn't come cheap

By TONY DESORMIER
 Herald Sports Editor

WINTER PARK — As a former coach, Don Smith knows what it takes to run an athletic program the right way. As the principal of Lake Howell High School, Smith realizes that what you want isn't always you get.

"To project what our athletic budget will be for 1995-96, we look at what we took in for 94-95 and go that route," said Smith. "If we get a tremendous amount of rain dates during the football season, it can have an impact on what we do."

Not only can there be a shortfall of income, there's always the probability of unexpected expenditures incurred when teams enjoy successful seasons and advance in the state playoffs.

"You hope to do well in sports, but if you go to state like we did in girls basketball and cross country or have athletes qualify for the state meet like we did in track and field or wrestling, those are expenses that have to be met," said Smith.

Last year, participation in events beyond the district level accounted for approximately 10 percent of Lake Howell's $145,000 athletic budget for the 1994-95 school year.

Meeting that budget is a year-round effort, said Smith.

"Various teams have fund raisers," he said. "During summer school, Steve Kohn (boys' basketball), Dennis Codrey (girls' basketball), Vince Manna (boys' cross country and track) and their kids are selling pizza, bagels, and drinks to raise funds for some of the necessities for their programs."

Smith stressed that the teams were raising money for the things they need, not items they may want above and beyond that. Manna and his team, for example, are trying to raise money for

Cagers need shoes

WINTER PARK — When it comes to outfitting a high school basketball player, schools provide just about everything ... except the shoes.

"The girls have to buy their own shoes," said Lake Howell High School girls' basketball coach Dennis Codrey, whose Silver Hawks have advanced to the state tournament the last two seasons. "I wish we could buy the shoes for them, but we can't."

The school does the next best thing. Instead of the girls buying their shoes individually, they — the members of the varsity, junior varsity, and now freshman teams — buy them as a group and get something of a "bulk" discount.

SANFORD — It wasn't perfect, but it was awfully close.

Karen Milligan, who throws for Nice & Easy, topped the Playtime Darts Association's list of Hot Shots for the week of July 9 with an effort that included a near-perfect seven wins. She also had a 5-mark, a 6-mark, and one CHT.

Each of the other three Hot Shot honorees won five games.

Jolynn Moreland from the Bamboo Cafe also had two low tons, a 5-mark, a 6-mark, two 7-marks, and a CHT.

Danny Phillips, who also competes for Bamboo Cafe, had two low tons and two 5-marks along with his five wins.

Whiskey River's Buddy Stampf added a low ton and a 5-mark.

In play the week before, Otis Gosser from Whiskey River earned a special T-shirt for hitting a Black Hole. Rhonda Gelb, another Whiskey River shooter, collected 5 1/2 wins and four 5-marks.

Special hunt applications available

In addition to the regular nine-day and special quota hunt program, the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission offices have applications on hand for a variety of unique quota hunts.

For instance, hunters who have mobility impairments and who require special equipment can apply for hunts on the Three Lakes and Seminole Forest wildlife management areas (WMAs) in Central Florida, the Holton Creek WMA in northeast Florida, and the John G. and Susan H. Dupuis Jr. Wildlife and Environmental Area in the Everglades region.

"These hunts are set aside exclusively for mobility-impaired hunters," quota hunt coordinator Eddie White said. "They aren't intended for hunters who have the Florida disabled hunting and fishing license, but rather those persons permanently confined to a wheelchair, persons requiring the use of mechanical aids (crutches and walkers) to walk and those with complete single leg amputations."

Interested persons should obtain a Mobility-Impaired Persons Hunt application, he said.

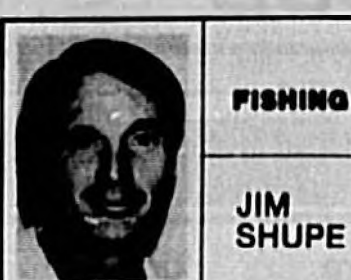

Another unique hunt is one established for hunters between 8 and 15 years old. Two WMAs in northeast Florida — Camp Blanding and Andrews — offer the opportunity for adults to take young hunters on these rigidly-controlled hunts where safety and learning receive maximum emphasis.

"Applicants typically exceed the number of spaces available each year," White said. "To sign up, ask for a Camp Blanding and Andrews Supervised Youth Hunt application."

The Goethe WMA in Levy County has a quota on the number of groups that may use dogs to hunt. The commission has established a quota of seven groups ranging in size from five to 15 hunters. Interested groups should submit Goethe Dog Hunt applications.

Wildlife management areas in the southern part of the state offer hunters unusual challenges because of the glades-like habitat. Hunting these areas requires special vehicles which are limited by quotas.

Applications for these unique hunts are due in Tallahassee between July 12 and 28. They must be delivered by a postal delivery service during that period and may not be delivered in person. To obtain applications, hunters should contact or visit commission offices in Tallahassee, Panama City, Lake City, Ocala, Lakeland or West Palm Beach.

Meanwhile, the commission received 54,000 applications for regular nine-day and special quota hunt permits before the June 12 deadline. Computerized random selection is in progress and should be completed around July 20.

"Hunters will receive either a quota hunt permit or a rejection notice," White said. "The 10,000 sportsmen who will receive rejection notices also will receive instructions about reapplying for other areas that still have openings."

SHUPE'S SCOOP
It is a good practice to sight-in your bow or rifle before each hunting season to make certain that it is shooting accurately.

FISHING FORECAST
The Pussie Lake area is still good for bass in spite of the heat. The best action is taking place south of Pussie Lake around deep bends and the mouths of sloughs.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that the ocean is super clean and that gamefish are close in to shore. King mackerel are being caught just off the beach and dolphins are showing up in 110 feet of water. Captain Mike Cain of the Whitewater reports that bottom fishing is good when the current isn't running too strong.

Inside the Port, expect plenty of flounder and sheepshead. Trout have slowed somewhat due to the heat, but reds are still active on the flats of the Banana and Indian rivers.

Ponce Inlet is providing fast action with anglers who fish with live or dead shrimp. Sheepshead, drum, redfish, bluefish, jack crevalle and a few flounder are all active. Redfish are rated as good in Mosquito Lagoons.

warmups. Also, Smith said that Lake Howell has a general booster club that helps raise money and "more or less coordinates the activities" of the sports' individual booster clubs.

"It's a sizeable undertaking. Going into last year, we knew we were going to spend 90 percent of that $145,000," said Smith. "We're glad to do it. Lake Howell supports over 30 athletic teams that involve between 800 and 1,000 students. And we want to make sure it's done right."

"Look at your personal life. Do you drive a broken-down vehicle or something you can be proud of? We want to present our kids in the best way we possibly can."

And you do that by making sure they have good equipment, from practice gear to game uniforms. It's the difference, Smith said, between running a program and just fielding a team. It's a difference that the students and the community recognizes and has an impact on how the students see themselves.

"Obviously, you have to set some priorities," said Smith. "You don't buy the most expensive uniforms and you don't buy every team a new set of uniforms every season, but you want to make sure the teams are well outfitted."

"Soccer's played during the winter and there are cold nights. You don't have to buy warm ups. You could just wrap a blanket around the kids instead. There's ways to do things and a way to do it right without being gaudy. You want the students to represent and showcase Lake Howell High School and its community in the best possible manner."

That extends beyond presentable uniforms.

"You want the fields mowed and lined," said Smith. "You make sure your stands aren't dilapidated. You want to showcase the accomplishments of past athletes and teams. That helps instill pride in the current student body and shows what we're doing and where we've been to visitors to our campus."

"We want to have a program, not just field teams. And that program involves all of our athletes, from the ninth through 12th, our parents, and our community."

Basketball

"Last year, we went with a Reebok shoe that cost the girls $55 for the regular shoe or $70 for the pump model," said Codrey. "By buying them in a group, the girls saved about 15 percent."

Like every other sport, Codrey's biggest annual expenses are travel to away games and officials for home games ($74 for a two-man crew, $96 for a three-man crew). Also, Codrey usually purchases six new basketballs ($52 each) a season.

Then there's uniforms. According to Codrey, each Lake Howell varsity team member has a home and an away uniform, a set of practice gear, warm-ups, a shooting shirt, and two T-shirts. "That's the difference between running a program and just offering a sport," said Codrey. "The thing is, the girls help in raising the money, so it just comes back to them. They earn it."

The last two years, the Silver Hawks have traveled to Jacksonville, representing the school and the county in the FHSAA sub-regional playoff game.

"That's what's really expensive," said Codrey. "The further you go, the more it costs you. We'd play on Tuesday and stay over. If you won, you'd have to go back Friday and stay over with the possibility of playing again Saturday."

FPL gets award

The United Way of Florida has presented Florida Power & Light Company with its 1995 Community Commitment Award. The award recognizes FPL's statewide United Way campaign work, and its corporate commitment and the commitment of FPL employees throughout the state to generously and effectively support local United Way efforts.

In presenting the award, United Way Chairman of the Board, Barbara Rosenblum, pointed out that "the efforts of FPL and its employees around Florida to assist the needy in their local areas are exceptional. We present the Community Commitment award to FPL because those efforts rank as one of Florida's most caring corporate citizens."

FPL was singled out because it raised almost $2.5 million statewide in 1994 to help needy Floridians. With a per capita giving (including corporate and employee gifts) of almost $150, FPL ranks as the largest United Way supporter among utility companies in Florida.

The campaign got underway earlier this month, and is designed to recruit young adults for Job Corps centers throughout the Southeast region.

"Our graduates are shining examples of what you can do with a Job Corps education," said Melvin R. Collins, Southeastern regional director. "They are continual testimonies that Job Corps can make a difference that lasts a lifetime."

The program will incorporate a Zero Tolerance for Violence and Drugs policy, with the "one strike and you're out" provision.

While there is no local district office in the Sanford or Orlando areas, Job Corps has offices in Jacksonville, Gainesville and Miami.

Announcements forthcoming Mall grand opening slated for Sept. 21

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Opening day is fast approaching. The Seminole Towne Center Mall is planning to have a grand opening gala on September 21st.

The five major tenants, J.C. Penney, Dillard's, Parisian, Sears and Burdines, are already prominent to passers-by on Interstate 4.

Wednesday, a special press conference has been called to announce the additional tenants for the massive mall.

In the original plans, 130 specialty stores were proposed. Specific information regarding whether the number remains the same have not been made public at this time.

Even as the initial stages of the mall were announced, growth took place. Originally planned was a total of 1,250,000 square feet of space in Phase I of construction. The amount was later expanded to 1,485,000 square feet. It was to include 165,000 square feet of retail space which had not been planned until Phase II.

An additional 70,000 square feet was also added to Phase I.

One of the buildings, the Sears automotive facility, is separate from the main mall facility, and is located immediately to the south of the major parking area.

The mall was originally planned for a grand opening on September 7, but the date was moved two weeks later. The reason given by Melvin Simon and Associates, developers of the mall, was that they were having an official grand opening of another mall, Circle Centre, similar in design, located within only a few miles of the Simon headquarters in Indianapolis.

Simon projects meanwhile, are continuing across the nation.

One of the largest malls developed by the Simon brothers thus far makes even the Seminole Towne Center appear rather small.

The Mall of America is billed as one of the largest malls in the U.S. It is now open in Bloomington, Minn., near Minneapolis. It covers 4.2 million square feet.

Major tenants at the Minnesota mall are Nordstrom, Macy's, Bloomingdale's, Sears, Kohl's, and Service Merchandise. In addition to over 400 specialty stores. The facility also includes a seven-acre indoor theme park known as Knott's Camp Snoopy with miniature golf courses, 18 movie theaters, and a 1.2 million gallon walk-through aquarium.

While the massive mall incorporates many special features which will not be seen in Sanford, many of the features in construction and design are being incorporated at Seminole Towne Center.

Loyal patrons feted at summer picnic

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Enzo's Restaurant on the Lake recently celebrated its 15th anniversary. The theme was a summertime picnic in Rome.

Owner Enzo Perlini sent out invitations to over 800 patrons from as far away as Pennsylvania. He then picked up the tab for the entire event.

The party took place on Sunday, June 11.

Chef Enzo joined captain Orazio and the entire Enzo's team to create and present a memorable evening that included special cuisine, strolling musicians and an Orlando Magic basketball game shown on a wall screen television set brought in for the occasion.

"We have made lots of friends over the years and this is our way to say thank you for all of their support," Perlini said. "We are very excited about the future and are looking forward to our next 15 years."

All of Enzo's employees donated their time and worked together to make Picnic in Rome a successful day and evening.

With the garden full of colorful flags and balloons, a variety of fine cuisine was served, from porchetta and a lamb cooked on a wooden stake, to fresh oysters, pasta, salads, sandwiches, pizza, appetizers, sausages and meats.

Enzo's Restaurant was founded in 1980, and is derived directly from Enzo Perlini's native Italian family. He brought the art of preparing authentic Italian cuisine from his mother's simplistic, traditional Italian influences, and his mother-in-law's appreciation for the arts is represented in her original paintings which hang throughout the restaurant.

Enzo's Restaurant, located at 1130 South U.S. Highway 17-92 in Longwood, is open Monday through Friday for lunch from

Prime interest rate drop portends good news

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — The recent drop in prime interest rates triggered by the Federal Reserve is good news for both prospective home buyers and existing owners wanting to refinance their existing homes.

That is the observation of two local industry experts whose businesses are influenced by interest rates.

"There's no question that the drop in prime is the vitamin shot the housing industry needs badly right now," said Lena K. Wasserman, president of Longwood-based Community State Mortgage Corp.

"Although mortgage interest rates have been dropping slowly over the past several weeks, the quarter of a percentage point drop in prime last week clearly shows that this is a serious trend, and not a temporary aberration," she continued.

Daniel A. Wallace, president of GulfAtlantic Division of Lawyers Title Insurance Corporation, (LTIC) and area manager for LTIC, agrees. GulfAtlantic has three offices in Seminole County including Sanford, Lake Mary and Altamonte Springs.

"This trend will have a favorable impact on the local market, particularly in the area of home refinances," Wallace said.

"However, we won't know the full measure of that impact until one or two months down the line, when people actually close on their loans."

Wallace notes that the title insurance industry is fueled by mortgage interest rates. When the rates are high, business is slow. When rates drop, business can be exceptional, as it was two years ago when rates plummeted to their lowest levels in a quarter of a century.

"Home refinances account for a significant percentage of our residential title insurance business, as much as 25 to 30 percent," Wallace said. "When rates are high, you lose that."

According to Wasserman, long-term mortgage rates in recent weeks had fluctuated between 7.5 and 7.75 percent, higher than two years ago, but still attractive to stimulate home sales.

"I don't know if we'll ever see interest rates for long-term conventional loans flirting at five percent like we did, but I think you'll see interest rates at or below seven percent this year," she said.

Wasserman concluded, "Home purchases have been strong and we expect that activity to intensify and get even better. Who will benefit? Builders with home inventory available for immediate occupancy and home owners who didn't take advantage to refinance their homes the first time around."

Margie turns 90; class meets for 20th reunion

In a charming old world ambience, Margie Thompson reigned as Queen for a Day when she was honored on her 90th birthday Saturday, July 8.

Site of the elegant birthday dinner party was Sanford's quaint Rose Cottage Tea Room which displays an eminent collection of treasured wall-to-wall antiques and bric-a-brac. Guests were seated at beautifully appointed tables featuring imported china, silver and crystal. The stiffly starched linens matched the floor-length white ruffled pinafore aprons worn by Sica Nacu, owner, and her pleasant, attractive assistants.

As the guests arrived, they were greeted by Peggy Hardin, the honoree's daughter, who hosted the event, along with her brother and his wife, Ernie and Joyce Thompson of Savannah. Guests were offered a variety of beverages while waiting for the arrival of the guest of honor.

Finally, Margie arrived looking like a million in a stylish royal blue dress heavily encrusted with crystal beads. She was escorted to the head table to reign as the birthday girl while Peggy introduced the relatives and presented the family tree.

Guests were served a delicious dinner including: green salad, roast beef, savory new potatoes. See Dietrich, Page 2C 3C

LAKE MARY

MARY ROWELL

Lake Mary High School summer school went on location, so to speak, this week. Thirty-five history students in Jan Blackwelder's class got to take an excursion to the Lake Mary Historical Museum and library at the Frank Evans Center and points of interest around the downtown area, before heading for Big Tree Park, in Longwood, and Loch Haven Park, in Orlando.

Arriving bright and early at 8 Tuesday morning, the students were welcomed by Lillian Griffin, co-chairman of the Lake Mary Historical Commission. Librarian Margaret Wesley had prepared a display of posters in the auditorium and spoke on items of historical interest such as the 100-year-old cemetery and Presbyterian church congregation. After a tour of the library, the students and guides loaded on the school bus and headed for the cemetery, where the students were shown the oldest grave marker, then driven in a loop along Wilbur Avenue and Fifth Street. Points of interest along the route included Gleason's store, the Presbyterian church, the old hotel site and the starch factory site as well as the oldest standing house in Lake Mary.

Wesley reported that one interesting question raised was, what was a bath house? Wesley See Lake Mary, Page 2C 3C fresh asparagus, steamed carrots and birthday cake for dessert.

One of Margie's gifts, from a great nephew and his family, was a week's trip to Houston Thanksgiving to visit her sister. They have reserved seats in a sky box at the Astrodome to see the Houston Astros play the Denver Broncos. Margie will also be honored by her family at another birthday celebration in Houston.

Margie, born July 14, 1905 in Bloomington, Ind., is very proud to have been a minister's wife through the years. When she and her husband, Charles, were first married, he had been in sales and also show business. But he wanted to be a Methodist minister more than anything and worked diligently toward that goal with his family, from the ground floor up.

Margie said his first church was at Naples and his annual salary was $900. During this time, the Rev. Thompson also had two other small churches he pastored. He completed the seminary through a four-year correspondence course offered by Emory University in 1943. By 1945, the Rev. Thompson was earning $1200 annually. "We were up in the bucks...we thought," Margie laughed.

As a minister with the Florida Methodist Conference, the Rev. Thompson served numerous churches in Florida and the family moved frequently. In speaking of her mother's interior decorating expertise, Peggy said, "My mother was thrilled to move because she liked to decorate." And at every different parsonage, Margie's imagination ran rampant with distinctive decorating.

Eventually, the Rev. Thompson was appointed superintendent of the Methodist Children's Home, Enterprise, where the family lived from 1947-1953. Margie recalls there were 150 children at the home during that time. She still hears from some of the "children" and attends the annual alumni meetings.

Margie said during her days, ministers' wives did not work outside the home and were on call to entertain, visit and serve in various church capacities. "I loved being a minister's wife. I loved the ministry," she said.

After her husband's death, Margie owned an apartment building in Bradenton for about 10 years which she later sold and moved to Altamonte and then to Sanford in 1985. She is active in the First United Methodist Church and frequently models in fashion shows.

She happily lends her artistic aptitudes to the Renaissance of Sanford where she lives by arranging flowers for the lobby and dining room. She also frequently helps in the dining room.

Margie's philosophy: "I try to live my life so I can be remembered as a person who cares...who loves. I try to set an example for the kids and others to follow."

SHS class of 1975 meets for reunion

"Is that really you?" was the leading question when the 1975 class of Seminole High School began its 20th reunion to reminisce and renew forgotten friendships. The gang gathered at the American Legion Friday night, July 7, to socialize and gear up for a weekend of celebrating.

"You haven't changed a bit," may have been the leading statement. Saturday, a tour of the alma mater was cancelled due to construction and classmates visited with families and friends. That night, a reunion and dinner dance was held at Timucuan Country Club.

Classmates relived some of their activities of 20 years ago. Disco was popular back in those days and several took to the dance floor to revive the "Bump" and the "Hustle." Some more progressive grads displayed their talents at performing the "Electric Slide," a newer dance craze. Sunset Entertainment provided music from the '70s and '80s.

The class colors of blue and gold were carried out in the decor and elegant table settings. Included on the buffet menu were: a variety of garden salads, two pasta dishes, carved roast beef, carved chicken, herbed potatoes, assorted pastries and raspberry mousse.

Door prizes were awarded during the evening with the grand prize, a trip on the RiverShip Romance, going to Jim Brodie.

Senior wills and fun-saver cameras were arranged on a table. Classmates were asked to snap pictures both on Friday and Saturday nights for a future memory album. A professional photographer also took pictures for the album.

Committee member Rick Wiggins prepared a video presentation that ran continuously both nights on two television screens he set up.

The reunion committee presented Dawn (Divans) Pierce with a lovely bouquet of pink roses for her extra effort in heading up the reunion.

The historian recorded the following accounts for future reference:

• Jim Brodie was cited as having changed the least.

• Rob Robinson traveled the greatest distance, arriving from Southern California.

• Dan Blasdel made the biggest effort to attend the reunion. He flew in from Illinois Saturday at 6 p.m., and flew out early the next morning. His wife is eight months pregnant.

• Alice (Trammell) Kalota attended from Athens, Ga. while Katie (Whelchel) Stewart and Sarah (Mercer) Tinnon came from Atlanta.

• Joe Jenkins received plaudits for being the only grandfather in the class.

• Mike Hartwig and wife Patti (McClanahan, class of 1976), were among the newest parents attending. They have a son going into high school, a daughter in middle school and another daughter, 10 months old.

• Chris and Donna Franks are the couple married the longest.

• Patti Hartwig, Barbara (Swann) Huffman and Sharie (Rempke) Brodie, all of the class of 1976 and spouses of 1975 grads, were in attendance and made notes for their 20-year reunion next year.

• The predominant dress color for women attending the gala was black.

• David Jernigan was the only FBI agent in attendance. He is a field agent recently assigned to Huntsville, Ala. Davis has seen action at the Branch Davidson incident, Waco, Texas; the World Trade Center, New York; and the more recent Oklahoma City federal building bombing.

• Mary (Martindill) McNeal was named Teacher of the Year at Indian Trails Middle School.

Class officers and representatives in attendance were: Jim Brodie, second vice president; Alice (Trammell) Kalota, secretary; Edge (Garner) Donahou, treasurer; and Katie (Whelchel) Stewart and Tom Robare, representatives.

Sarah (Mercer)Tinnon and Alice Kalota were also the editors of the yearbook, 1975 Salmagundi, which won an

All-American rating. Bob Robinson did the cover illustration and acted as the staff photographer. Dona (DMartino) Jepperson was the business manager.

The reunion committee included: Dawn Pierce, Jim Brodie, Mary (Martindill) McNeal, Jan (Jenkins) Kaufman, Mindy (Fann) Barkley, Pam (Morgan) Westbrook, Debbie (Pharis) Wallace, George Wallace and Rick Wiggins.

According to Shari Brodie, "A few brave souls dragged themselves out of bed Sunday and traveled to New Smyrna Beach." She added that during the summer months, a weekly visit to the beach was a regular event.

As classmates and guests went their merry ways, all agreed on one thing. It was a truly great gathering.

ropractic Association, Alltel Mobile, TV 20, Kiss 105, and a grant from the Alachua County Board of County Commissioners in conjunction with the Alachua County Tourist Development Council. Each winner of the Sunshine State Games received a medal in the tradition of the Olympic Games.

The Seminole Blades soccer team, competing in the Under 19 age Division, took second place. These 16- and 17-year-old players were collectively preparing themselves for the competition they plan to face while traveling through Europe, specifically England and Holland, during the final days of their 1995 summer. The team has been trying to raise money for the European trip for the past year and have successfully raised close to $6,000 to be divided among the players.

Through car washes, car washes, and more car washes, two bookbinding marathon weekends, working the concession stand at the Seminole soccer fields, working the Orlando Air Show, selling supplies and foot items, selling food coupon books, and whatever else was suggested, the Seminole Blades soccer team has been successful off the field as well as on the field. The Sunshine State Games were well attended and officiated and the Seminole Blades worked hard and enjoyed the Silver Medal Award.

Lilly recognized

Linda Lilly of the Oak Tree

Pre-School has completed all requirements for the Child Development Associate Credential, awarded by the Council for Early Childhood Professional Recognition, located in Washington, D.C.

In addition to completing course requirements, Lilly was also required to solicit the opinions of her students' parents regarding the quality of the child care which she has provided over the last year.

Some of the questions asked of the respondents included the teacher's ability to provide creative outlets for the children, the availability of the teacher to discuss the concerns of the parents, along with the reading time reported, the art, music and block time encouraged, and other concerns such as childhood fears and the issue of confidentiality.

During the short visit to the Oak Tree pre-school and kindergarten, Mrs. Lilly had an imaginary conversation with one of her student's parents on the play telephone; the little pre-schooler was slightly upset at having forgotten a special bear and Mrs. Lilly was telling "Mommy" all about it at the request of the child, the conversation incorporating new social skills of explanations and feelings.

Another of the children was not fond of the idea of having his picture taken, and almost without thinking, Mrs. Lilly asked the student if he would hold the turtle so that he might be in the picture; immediately, the minor problem was solved. Some people are just naturals with children.

Grand opening

The South Seminole Christian Sharing Center, Inc. announces the grand opening of the "Values Reborn Thrift Store," located at 600 N. Highway 17-92, in Longwood. The grand opening will be held on July 21 at 10 a.m. The 7,500 square foot facility will feature good quality new and used items, including clothing, household items and furniture. Donations are being accepted and pickups will be arranged for large loads by calling Sam Deputy or Dorothy Nipper at 332-0925.

The South Seminole Christian Sharing Center helps those persons who need food, clothing, rent, utility and/or medical assistance. Oftentimes the person may need some request that will permit more independence as that is what the center is about, helping those who are interested in helping themselves. The South Seminole Christian Sharing Center is nondenominational and is supported by most of the churches in the south Seminole County area. All useful donations and help are accepted; if you are interested in this ministry, call 332-0925.

explained the popular meeting place for swimmers, on Crystal Lake.

Before departing the Frank Evans Center, the students were given a packet containing three articles written by Wesley, that contained more information about the area and life in Florida at the time the village was at its peak of activity. They also received a commemorative bookmark printed by the Historical Commission, a magnet and pen donated by the city of Lake Mary.

Tomorrow is the first day of school for blue, green, yellow and orange tracks. For teachers it means new lesson plans; for students, new school supplies; and for the Stardust Service Unit of Girl Scouts of Lake Mary, it means it's time to start recruiting. Recruitment doesn't usually take place until late September or October. This year, recruitment is starting early for two reasons, year round school and camporee.

Camporee is a time when Girl Scouts from all age levels get together to go camping. This year, Stardust will camporee the first weekend in October at Wekiwa Springs State Park. Wekiwa has a wonderful youth facility with cabins. Last year,

Stardust camped in platform tents, so cabins will be like the Hilton. Especially since all the cabins have ceiling fans. The leaders will really feel spoiled. Leader cabins have bathrooms and refrigerators. Not all of the girls will spend the night. Daisies and first year Brownies will not be ready for that step yet, but they will be able to come out to camporee for the day and join in the activities with the other Girl Scouts.

Other activities that Stardust has planned for the year include Christmas in Olde Lake Mary, and the Girl Scout Olympics.

If your daughter is interested in being a Girl Scout, you can call one of the following school coordinators to place her. For Lake Mary Elementary, call Shari Brodie at 321-6471. For Wilson Elementary, call Cindy Slump at 324-9992. For Heathrow Elementary, Greenwood Lakes Middle, or Lake Mary High, call Linda Parks at 333-0778.

"Vision" of Trinity Assembly in Deltona will perform at Music Fest '95.

Novella Stanley begins making a batch of her famous candy.

Hobby: Her candy spreads sweetness to all around

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Novella Stanley has been involved with hobbies since she was a child. She and her mother spent countless hours quilting together. Her love of ceramics began about 1967. But, the most delicious of them all has been Stanley's chocolates and candy.

Stanley began by discussing her quilting. "I've been quilting a long, long time. My mother taught me to quilt. We used to work on quilts when I lived in West Virginia."

Stanley has been gracious enough to share her years of expertise with other women at the church she attends, Sanford Church of Christ. "I do some quilting at home. I assist with the quilts that we make for the newlyweds at church."

"I made various gifts for others. I made an old English chorale group for my sister, Sue, my daughter, Nikki and my son, Jim. I really do concentrate more on Christmas things or something I can give as a gift."

Chocolates and hard candy fill the kitchen of Stanley at times. "I started making the chocolates before I came down from West Virginia in 1963. I do a peanut butter dipped chocolate for my family. Sometimes I make them acorn shaped. Other times I shape them into squares, round balls or whatever I think of at the time."

Another mouth-watering treat over the years was named as fruit-nut candy. "Some people think they're bought," said Stanley. "I use marachino cherries and dates. I mix confectioners sugar with a liquid. I then shape them into squares, balls or elongated styles and dip them into chocolate too."

When not found quilting, Stanley told of some ceramic projects that have been a favorite of hers. "My biggest hobby is making Christmas things," she said. "I've made nativity sets and Christmas trees for all my family. I have some good pieces. I put them out at the holidays."

She continued by saying, "I go to the ceramic shop and buy paints and glazes. I take it back and have it fired. When I first started I learned from a lady on Locust Avenue. She taught me all about ceramics. She even had her own kiln."

Gifts and miscellaneous other assorted ceramics fill Stanley's home. "That's how I spent all my time for two or three years," she looked good, but I looked terrible.

The photographer said if he took them over, we would have to pay for another sitting, and that was out of the question.

We decided to put the pictures away and think it over. A couple of days later, Rick called the photographer and ordered the one in which he looked good and I looked terrible.

Do I have the right to be mad? BRIDE OF THREE WEEKS

DEAR BRIDE: Yes. Tell your husband that fair's fair, then call the photographer to order a copy of the picture you liked. That way, each of you will have a picture you look good in.

(When you look at the pictures in 25 years, you'll probably agree that both of you looked terrible!)

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Sometimes, old friendships should die a natural death

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, we moved to the suburbs — a two-hour drive from the city. Wanting to maintain our friendship with city friends, we often make the drive to see them. We always take a bottle of wine, and gifts for the children. Now for the problem:

For all of our efforts, they have come to visit us only twice. Lately, they don't even acknowledge our birthday cards or gifts with so much as a thank-you. We have dropped hints and come right out and expressed our disappointment and hurt — to no avail.

We still talk on the phone occasionally (when we call them), but we've finally come to the end of our rope. Abby, how do we make it clear, without issuing an ultimatum, that our friendship will be limited to telephone conversations unless they visit us in our home?

FED UP WITH OLD FRIENDS

DEAR FED UP: Some friendships fade with time. Distance and inconvenience can also play a large part in their demise. Perhaps you should let this old friendship die a natural death and concentrate on making friends in your new community so you will not be entirely dependent on those from your former neighborhood.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: After reading your answer to the 88-year-old widow in Portland, Maine, who wished that her grown children would respect her privacy and telephone before dropping in unexpectedly, I had to write.

You advised: "When you desire privacy for any reason, pull down your shades, lock the doors, and don't answer your doorbell."

Abby, I am a 71-year-old woman who has a husband, for which I am grateful. We also have married children, and we don't care whether they call or not before visiting us. They are welcome to drop by any time. In fact, they don't visit often enough to suit us.

A visit from our kids means more to us than a TV show or a book that can be put aside and picked up at a later date. Our children know what we look like most of the time, so what difference does it make if my hair is in rollers and we're not dressed up?

BERNELE HALE, BOUNTIFUL, UTAH

DEAR BERNELE HALE: It will probably please you to know that I received an avalanche of letters from readers who agree with you.

However, the widow from Portland, Maine, wrote that she had asked her family to please phone her before dropping in, as there are days when she doesn't feel like getting dressed or making her bed. And sometimes there are dishes in the sink, her hair is a mess, or she could be entertaining her "significant other," who lives across town.

You may welcome drop-in visitors, but they could be embarrassing to the Portland widow. Everyone has right to privacy.

DEAR ABBY: Rick and I have been married less than three weeks, and we've already had a serious fight. Here's what happened:

Rick picked up the proofs of our wedding pictures, and there were only two pictures that were any good. There was one in which I looked good but Rick looked terrible. In the other one,

Dramatists seek help

SANFORD — Funding at Seminole Community College for the 1995-96 school year has been cut. Many programs have been cut back. One of those programs is the Support-An-Actor Fund. Last year, that fund helped pay rent for students, pay for doctors' visits, pay for classes and for many other expenses as well. The Theatre Foundation needs public assistance to continue that work. They are accepting donations from $1 to $1,000 or more. For more information, contact Sara Z. Daspin, artistic director of the Fine Arts Theatre at Seminole Community College at 328-4722.

Registration set

All students who plan to enter Luman High School for the upcoming school year and who have not already registered should plan to enroll and schedule immediately. The guidance office is open Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. until 3 p.m. with a counselor on duty. Counselors will also be available for enrollment and scheduling from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m. on Tuesday, August 1 and Wednesday, August 2. School opens for the 1995-96 school year on Monday, August 7 at 7:25 a.m.

Working together in the classroom

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TROY, Pa. — With a sense of urgency, Philip Browne's fingers rummage through the broken crayons in the box on his desk. His wide eyes suggest determination.

"Here Philip. Here's the pink," says Courtney Jackson, 6, casually looking up from her double-digit math problems. She smiles at her 9-year-old classmate as he scribbles straight lines over the black outline of a bird.

While other students work quietly, Philip calls out the colors. His voice is deep, the words abrupt, broken, at times unintelligible.

His teachers beam. They never thought he would come this far. For two years, the developmentally delayed youngster attended a special class in a neighboring school district and still did not know the alphabet. Now he can read.

Philip is an example of a child with a learning disability and handicap benefiting from inclusion in a regular classroom. Around the state and nation more and more public school districts are developing programs to take advantage of such benefits.

If not for the inclusion program at W.R. Croman Elementary School in Troy, Philip would be in a separate classroom with special education teachers instructing him in the basics of number and word recognition.

Instead, he is making friends, learning social skills and improving academically at a pace far beyond what his teachers say they could have imagined.

"The growth of those students is unbelievable," said Barbara La Mont, a second-grade learning support teacher. "These kids are accepted. The other children don't baby them or mother them. They support them. To them, there is no difference."

The U.S. Education Department reported that in 1991-92, for the first time, regular classrooms were the most frequent choice for children with disabilities.

Of the 5.17 million children with special needs, about 36 percent were in regular classes at least 80 percent of the time, 34 percent spent most of their time in resource rooms and 24 percent were in special classrooms.

Opponents fear that disabled children will be dumped into classrooms with teachers unprepared to handle their needs.

FDA: nicotine is now a drug

NEW YORK — Concluding for the first time that nicotine is a drug that should be regulated, the Food and Drug Administration has made initial suggestions for stricter regulation of tobacco products. The New York Times reported last week.

The FDA is authorized to regulate drugs on its own, but in view of the politically sensitive nature of the issue, the agency submitted its proposals to the White House for action, the Times said, citing administration officials it did not identify.

The proposed regulations include a ban on selling cigarettes in vending machines, a chief source of cigarettes for children, and stricter licensing to hold vendors responsible if they get caught selling tobacco to minors, the newspaper said.

Technically, tobacco sellers are already prevented from selling to minors, but enforcement is lax.

Other tobacco regulations currently in force include a ban on television ads for tobacco products and a warning label printed on packages about the health risks of tobacco use.

The FDA has been investigating whether nicotine should be regulated as an addictive drug, which would give the agency wide-ranging authority to control the distribution and sale of tobacco products.

Jim O'Hara, an FDA spokesman, told The Associated Press late Wednesday that the agency had no comment on the Times' report. "We are continuing to work" on the investigation of tobacco, he said.

The FDA proposal sent to the White House includes a document asserting the agency's authority to regulate tobacco under the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, and an outline of possible regulations that would cause the least political turmoil.

Dispelling your kids' fears about asthma

It's not the fear of ghosts that keeps many children hiding under their covers instead of playing outside. It's the fear of triggering an asthma episode. An estimated 4 million children under the age of 18 have asthma and, according to studies, the incidence of asthma in children is rising.

In 1988, approximately 35 percent of physician visits for children under 20 years of age.

Asthma should not be a living nightmare for the young. By learning about their condition, the need for environmental control (i.e. avoiding triggers), and the role of drug therapy (both anti-inflammatory and symptom-relieving medicines), children with asthma can enjoy an active, fulfilling childhood.

Asthma is no reason not to be active

Committee. "This is best accomplished by defining asthma in children's terms and teaching them how to anticipate and treat asthma symptoms. Once in control, the fear is gone."

The following steps can help children take care of their asthma:

- Ask your child's physician to explain to him/her (and you) how and why asthma occurs; reinforce these points at home.
- Help your child recognize his/her asthma triggers (pollen, animal dander, dust, mold, exercise, etc.) and the warning signs of an oncoming episode (difficulty breathing, wheezing, coughing or a tightness in the chest, etc.)

• Explain the benefits of ongoing environmental control, i.e. avoiding triggers, and the importance of using a peak flow meter, which determines how open the lungs are and monitors any change in lung function.

• Explain the importance, as well as the role, of drug therapy in asthma management. Identify which medications should be taken daily (such as anti-inflammatories) to minimize the number of attacks, and which are needed only when an asthma attack occurs (such as short-acting bronchodilators).

Make sure your child follows the protocol recommended by his/her physician, in the event of an asthma attack:

- Use a short-acting bronchodilator
- Alert a person of authority (such as a parent, a teacher or a babysitter)
- Call a doctor if the episode is severe

Night Night! Nightmares

For children with mild to moderate asthma, physicians may recommend bronchodilator therapy and/or an anti-inflammatory treatment with either a non-steroid or a corticosteroid.

Equipped with the necessary skills and information, your child can leap out from under the covers, into an active fulfilling lifestyle.

Government to intensify their watch for dangerous food-borne illnesses

By ROBERT GREENE
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON — Health investigators in five states will intensify efforts to find out how many people get food poisoning each year.

One of the questions they will be asking people in Georgia, California, Connecticut, Oregon and Minnesota is whether they had diarrhea and whether they saw a doctor about it.

Despite well-publicized outbreaks of sometimes deadly illnesses linked to undercooked meat and other food hazards, health agencies still lack reliable numbers. People often dismiss the diarrhea that accompanies these illnesses as "stomach flu," and may not even contact a doctor.

An intensified search getting under way this month aims at uncovering cases that may otherwise have gone unreported.

Officials will contact laboratories that do stool analyses, interview doctors and the general population and do random telephone surveys.

More precise data will be needed as the food industry is required to adopt new scientific inspection methods that rely on documented safety steps, officials of the Agriculture Department and the Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday.

Gathering accurate numbers "gives us a way to identify the problems so that we can focus on what the hazards are and better control them," said Kaye Wachamuth, deputy director for programs at the FDA's Center for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition. The numbers also will provide a yardstick for measuring how the new systems work.

The FDA regulates dairy products, fruits, vegetables and seafood. The Agriculture Department regulates meat, poultry and eggs.

The official announcement of the investigation, scheduled for today, comes as Congress is deliberating several measures that the administration and consumer groups say will undermine food safety efforts.

Officials say they know that food poisoning from such pathogens as salmonella and E. coli O157:H7 is a major public health problem. Estimates of U.S. cases range from 6 million to 33 million a year, with up to 9,000 deaths.

The Agriculture Department and the FDA, working with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and public health departments, established advanced monitoring sites in the five states this month.

Data collection will start in October, with the first usable results available next year. The study will focus on E. coli and salmonella, with other pathogens possibly added later.

The current "passive surveillance" system relies on doctors and laboratories reporting to the CDC. The government says only 1 percent to 5 percent of cases are reported. Cases are missed when patients don't see doctors, physicians misdiagnose the ailment or doctors, diagnosing the ailment properly, fail to report the cases.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 16, 1995

Although you might have a few extra responsibilities to contend with in the year ahead, you should find them manageable. Also, you might fulfill a secret ambition.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You can be extremely convincing today. Most persons you deal with could find merit in your ideas and suggestions, provided you don't try to force your views on them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Financial involvements will be unusually tricky today. Do not let your guard down for a minute, even if you think you've made a good deal.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Group involvements should work out reasonably well today. However, one-to-one relationships could prove testy if you're not cooperative.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be extremely selective today about whom you volunteer to help with a difficult task. You might pick someone who'll expect you to do it all yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) When dealing with others in serious development today, don't introduce frivolous elements into the discussion. They won't appreciate your brand of humor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will handle involvements outside your domestic domain skillfully today. Dealings with family members, however, could prove much more difficult.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your judgment and ideas will be good today, but guard against the inclinations to impulsively introduce last minute changes that might not work out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you share something valuable with others today, strive to be fair and impartial. Selfish gestures will provoke a similar response from associates.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be a team player today rather than

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Francis Bacon wrote, "Travel, in the younger sort, is a part of education; in the elder, a part of experience." Do you agree with him?

He is on the right track, but I think, whatever one's age, that travel is both an education and an experience. It is one of the big pluses of working in bridge. But time must be found to see the sights. For example, while I was in Jordan, I went for a dip in the Dead Sea, which was bizarre. When I tried to swim on my stomach, my feet shot into the air. I also visited Jerash, where there used to be a Roman city, and Petra, the mandatory tourist spot, where a city was hewn out of solid rock.

In today's deal, South wanted to travel into the dummy, but he found the entrance closed.

Defending against four hearts, West, Prabhakar from India, led the spade four, third- or fifth-highest by partnership agreement. After East put up the spade jack, South won with the king and continued with the diamond queen. How should West have defended?

West won with the ace, East signaling an odd number with the two. It was clear to Prabhakar that South wanted to discard his spade loser on dummy's diamond winner. And if West had played 10 of his remaining 11 cards, that would have happened, declarer getting into the dummy. But Prabhakar played the killing card: the spade queen.

With no immediate dummy entry, South led a low trump. However, East won with the ace, put his partner in with a club to the ace and received a spade ruff to defeat the contract.
