Woody Hayes Fired As Coach After Punching Incident

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Woody Hayes has been fired after 28 years as head football coach at Ohio State University. OSU Athletic Director Hugh Hindman said, "Coach Hayes has been relieved of his duties as head football coach at Ohio State University. This decision has the full support of the president of the university."

He said he was leaving Jacksonville shortly to return to Columbus, Ohio, and would have absolutely no further comment on the firing.

The action was seen as the result of Hayes' behavior in Friday night's nationally televised Gator Bowl game when he apparently struck Clemson noseguard Charlie Bauman in the face.

Bauman thwarted a Buckeye drive with an interception with less than two minutes remaining, saving Clemson's 17-15 victory. Several Clemson players, including Bauman, when questioned about the incident afterward, told reporters Hayes punched Bauman in the face after the player was tackled out of bounds in front of the Ohio State bench. Bauman reportedly taunted the 61-year-old coach by waving the ball in his face.

Hayes, in his 28th season at Ohio State and his third as a college head coach, is well known for his fiery temper. Pictures of him flinging down his glasses or baseball cap in anger are famous. But up to the Gator Bowl, the Hayes temper has been directed against photographers and other newsmen.

He was reprimanded by the NCAA last year for hitting a network television cameraman who turned a camera on him as the coach angrily threw his earphones to the ground. The crucial moment came as the Buckeyes fumbled away the ball while in position to score in the 1977 loss to Michigan. That loss cost the Buckeyes the Big Ten championship and a trip to the Rose Bowl.

Famous for his effective if dull 3-yards-and-run-again offense and a talent for recruiting, Hayes had only two losing seasons in his 28 years at Ohio State.

In 1959 his team went 3-4-1 and in 1968 it was 4-8. The 1978 Buckeyes, the most lackluster of recent years, were 7-3-1. During the Hayes era, the Buckeyes had a 188-87-9 record, including four unbeaten teams, seven Big Ten championships and six co-championships.

His coaching victories rank him second only to Alabama's Paul "Bear" Bryant among active coaches and fourth in the history of college football behind Glenn "Pop" Warner, Amos Alonzo Stagg and Bryant.

Hayes' 1977 swing at an ABC-TV cameraman drew him a one-year probation from Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Dube, but it was neither the start nor the end of his public tantrums.

Sanford Home Guttled

Tot Dies In Fire

By LEONARD KRANSDORF
 Herald Staff Writer

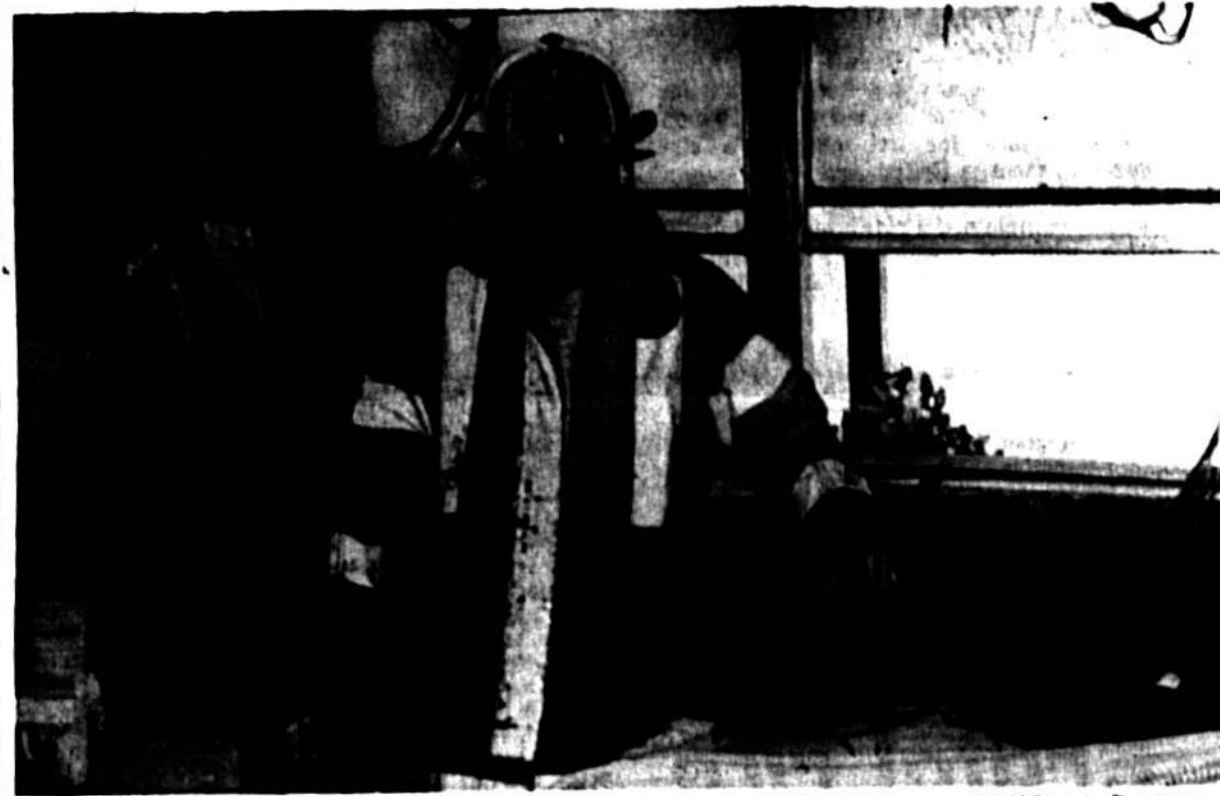

A six-month old baby has died of burns received in a fire which gutted a home in the Midway section of Sanford about 7 a.m. Saturday.

There were seven other people in the house, two of whom suffered severe burns.

Phillip Chisolm died at Seminole Memorial Hospital several hours after being carried out of the house by Seminole County firemen.

Listed in critical condition with severe burns is the boy's grandmother, Frankie Chisolm, 31, and Phillip's brother, Derrick, 1.

According to Sheriff department spokesman John Spolski, See FATAL FIRE, Page 1A

Bill Bibb points to bed on which the Chisolm boys were found Saturday morning. With him is Alan Williams, another fire service technician for the Seminole County Fire Department, who aided in the rescue effort.

MOTHER TIME

Yep, you're right. That's not your regular, predictable, every-day Father Time ushering the old year out and making ready for the new. The Herald figured it was about time — particularly as the ERA (Equal Rights Amendment) nears reality, with 1979 possibly being the year of its passage — that Mother Time was introduced to Seminole County and the world. And there she was — 67-year-old Florence Echeverrde at the Good Samaritan Home in Sanford — proudly wearing her banner with the tattered end bearing those unmistakable initials of "ERA." And her intensity was obvious as she pointed to the future, assured of her new place in history.

SMH Boss On Cost Guidelines: No Way

By MAX ERKILETIAN
 Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Memorial Hospital Administrator Charles Bentley contends proposed federal guidelines to control hospital expenses are based on a fallacy.

Joseph Califano, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), plans to send Congress a cost containment bill that would limit the rising cost of medical care. The Califano proposal calls for voluntary guidelines in 1979 to hold the increase in hospital expenditures below 9.7 percent. If the guidelines are not met, Califano said, mandatory controls should be instituted. The cost controls were mentioned because most hospital charges are based on reimbursement.

"The fallacy has always been that hospitals are supposed to control costs when those costs to us are not controlled," said Bentley.

He explained that the Califano proposal does not put restraints on the cost of medical supplies. Those costs are continually on the rise, according to Bentley.

"I don't think it is fair to single out the hospital industry. We don't control most of our costs, because most of our expense comes from buying medical supplies," said Bentley.

Another factor to be considered is the increase in population, according to Ken McGee, economist for the Florida Hospital Association.

"That is going to be tough to meet," McGee said of Califano's proposed guidelines.

"He's talking about limiting total expenses and you have to recognize that in Florida and Seminole County we have a great population increase. That means we will have to treat more people. To try and treat more people and keep increased expenses below 9.7 percent is going to be tough."

Florida hospitals reduced expense increases from a 15 percent increase in 1977 to a 12 percent increase in 1978, according to McGee.

Seminole Memorial Hospital's expenses rose 14 percent in fiscal 1977-78, according to Bentley.

Brian Schultz Tragedy Made Biggest Mark In 1978

By DENNIS FEOLA
 Herald Staff Writer

No other story involving police and courts directly affected as many Seminole County residents in 1978 as the disappearance of six-year-old Brian Schultz.

Hundreds of volunteers spent two days searching the area surrounding the youth's home in Lake Kathryn Estates near Casselberry. For three days it was believed the youth had run away from home and at one point in the search two youths reported speaking with the youngster. The massive search included helicopters, K-9 units, deputies on horseback and divers searching area lakes.

Three days after he was reported missing, two movers discovered the child's body in a refrigerator in a mobile home not far from where the youth lived.

Sheriff John Pelt announced the following day that Brian had been playing in the trailer with two younger friends the night before he was reported missing. Brian climbed into the refrigerator and one of the youths closed the door. Pelt revealed. When the youths couldn't get the refrigerator door open they left the trailer without notifying anyone that Brian had been left inside.

Possibly the most controversial story of the year was the manslaughter trial of Albert Dallabrida Sr. of Sanford.

Dallabrida's wife and three of his children died after the van he was driving collided with a truck on U.S. 17-46 in Sanford. He was charged with manslaughter by driving while intoxicated.

Following a three-day trial at the Seminole County Courthouse, Dallabrida was acquitted by a jury of all charges.

The year began with a major story that has occupied law enforcement authorities throughout the year and will continue to do so next year.

On Dec. 29, 1977, reserve deputy George Piel, 44, walked into the Longwood Village Pharmacy. Unknown to him, two robbers were in the store holding 11 persons including several children at gunpoint. Shots were exchanged and Piel was killed.

In January 1979, the man accused of firing the shots that killed Piel, Terry M. Sims, 36, will go on trial in the Seminole County Courthouse for the murder.

Two men involved in the robbery pleaded guilty to an assortment of lesser charges in 1978 in exchange for testimony at the Sims trial.

The only man still at large in the Piel murder is the alleged gang leader of 20 to 30 men who specialize in robbing and burglarizing drug stores: Clarence Eugene See THE POLICE BEAT, Page 2A

Baton Champ's Twirling Nets 400 Trophies

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

Cathy Capko grew up in a world of twirling batons. Her two older sisters, Jean and Pat, as well as an aunt, were going strong when Cathy began twirling.

Now she's as much at home among twirling batons and fancy routines as most people are just walking down the street. The Capko home in Sanford is bulging with trophies, including over 400 Cathy has accumulated herself.

A graduate of Lyman High School where she was head majorette, Cathy modestly admitted to having been chosen "Most Beautiful Majorette of Florida" in 1972.

Today, Cathy is a student at CFU (formerly FTU) where she laughingly said, "I'm busy trying to get a football team started."

That's only natural. Where else can a majorette strut her stuff?

Jean and Cathy conduct baton lessons daily in their studio, called PJC's School of Baton, Winter Springs. The initials stand for the three sisters' names.

However, Pat has moved away from the area. Jean has resumed teaching again after the recent birth of her third child, James.

Teaching right up to his baton, James laughed when asked how in the world she had done that, and answered, "Very carefully!"

Then she added, "But I did take two weeks off. Now I'm back at it again."

"I'm busy trying to get a football team started."

—Cathy Capko.

It's just in my blood," said the former "Miss Illinois of Baton." She also had a twirling scholarship to Butler University. With all the action connected with twirling, she has quickly gotten back in shape.

Jean's two young daughters, Jennifer, 9, and Natalie, 5, are keeping up the family tradition. Jennifer already has over 100 trophies, while Natalie has stashed away six.

With batons twirling over her head as well as she can remember, Cathy has been encouraged by all members of her family with trophies on display all over the house. Cathy's mother just smiled and said, "It's so good for children to be able to do something like this. The exercise and competition are both fine."

"We didn't go to contests to win every time. You have to take the good with the bad. The competition is always terrific," added Jean.

At recital time in June another family member, sister-in-law Judy, gets into the act, by helping design costumes. "We're all looking forward to moving into the new studio we will be building in the near future," said Cathy.

She and Jean teach majorettes at Lake Howell High School, Lyman High School and Tuskuville Middle School.

"We teach dance steps, leaps and jumps—regular routines. You use every muscle in the body and that's why it's such a great way to exercise. We encourage girls to take dancing lessons also. Dancing helps all the students," she said.

Youngsters from age three can be seen just about every afternoon at the studio. "We like to see our students perform. That's the point of their lessons. We march in area parades and perform for local organizations. We welcome invitations to perform. The youngsters all enjoy entertaining different groups," Cathy said.

I'm So Happy. My Cup Runneth Over
School On Threshold Of New Beginning

By JOAN MADISON
Herald Correspondent

"I'm so excited, I can't believe it!" confides Trina Willard founder and administrator of Threshold School.

What the founder and administrator of the school for multi-handicapped children with severe behavioral dysfunction can't believe is that—just as we are on the threshold of a new year—so is the school on the threshold of a new beginning.

A tangible sign of this is the purchase of a house on Tuskuville Road in Winter Springs which will allow the 3-year-old school to expand into a residential facility.

The school, which implements behavior modification techniques with emphasis on positive reinforcement, has five children in attendance five days a week. A one-to-one teacher-pupil ratio allows for intensive instruction to the students.

However, the residential program is needed "because without the continuity of the 24-hour program, it is harder for the children to learn," explains Mrs. Willard.

Many children who would spend their lives in custodial care can be helped at a school like Threshold. About 13 children have been through the behavioral management program at Threshold, and most are now functioning "rather well" in public schools. It is this success and the success of her own child, Ben, a 13-year-old multi-handicapped student at Threshold, that has given the spunky administrator the determination to seek a residential type program.

There are very few schools of this nature in the country, although a great need for such facilities exists. When the planned expansion of Threshold was mentioned in a recent publication by the National Society of Autistic Children, Mrs. Willard received calls from all over the country. "We will take local children first," she emphasizes.

One local child—a lifelong resident of Sunland Hospital began going to Threshold on a daily basis eight months ago, and the change in her has been phenomenal. Perhaps briefly telling her story will illustrate what a school like Threshold can mean to an exceptional child.

"When she came to us, she was a very self-destructive child," begins Mrs. Willard. Fourteen-year-old Susan was charted as having 2,000 head blows a day. She was not toilet trained. She could not eat solid food. She could not communicate at all.

"Now, only eight months later, her head bangings are down almost to zero. 'The only time she does any is in the car. That still upsets her,'" notes Mrs. Willard. She eats solids. She signs to go to the bathroom herself and is able to sign in sentences. They are now working on numbers, she's semi-academic." All this was accomplished by being "consistent and rewarding," informs Mrs. Willard.

Threshold School, which operates out of the Willard home in Goldenrod, was established when the Willards sought help for their own child, Ben.

Mrs. Willard, impressed by Matt Israel at the Behavioral Research Institute (BRI), studied under him. When she saw what could be done for multi-handicapped children, she wanted no less for her son and for other area children.

In fact, the usually very patient administrator has little patience for people who say, "You can't do anything for these kids."

She knows better.

She knows about the 13 students who have already gone through the program, and, of course, about Susan who "was requiring around the clock care" and has been progressing at such a rapid pace that "eventually she won't be in our program."

Ed Haskler, the school's director who studied under Israel and helped establish BRI, has been a real asset in structuring the successful program, as has been Dr. Richard Tucker, professor of psychology at the University of Central Florida—the school's consultant.

Trina Willard (left) and Kathleen Hasty look over new residential facility for Threshold, a school for multi-handicapped children.

The new facility, which is a five bedroom three-bath house with living room, dining room and kitchen, is located on three acres. It is zoned for four children and a house parent.

Hasty has a problem. The facility is in dire need of repair work before it can be used. There are large holes in the walls, tile missing from the bathrooms, rotten wood in parts of the house and the carpeting is worn and soiled, just to mention a few problem areas. However, for the woman who has the vision to see beyond the place is beautiful, she has faith.

"I say it worries me, but it really doesn't," she says, with a smile. Noting all the repair work that needs to be done plus furnishings required to begin housekeeping, she says confidently, "It will happen."

"If somebody told me two years ago when it started that Threshold—in less than two years time—would be able to do this, I would have said it couldn't happen."

What she does hope to happen is that the community will respond to the need. "A local contractor has agreed to work at no cost, other than materials, and he's going to try to get as many materials donated as possible," she says.

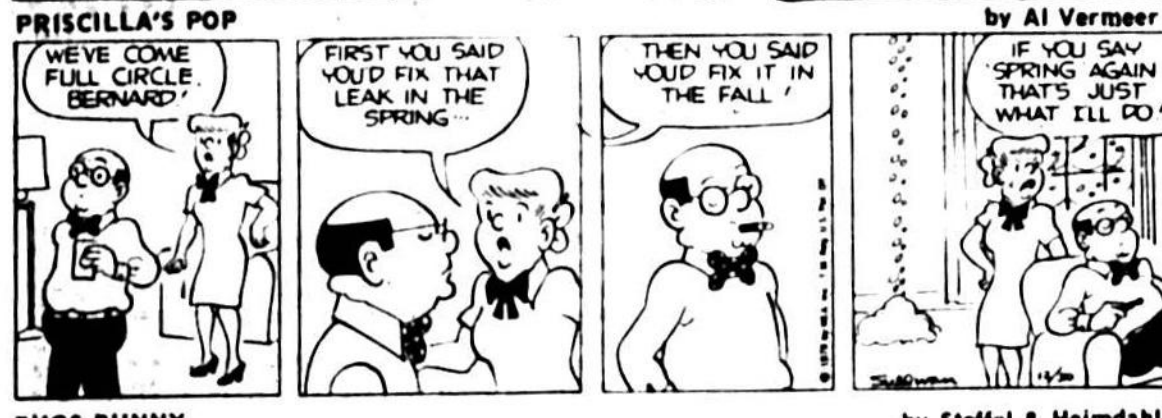

Sometimes in January a big "work party" is planned, and if all goes as planned in February the first child will be taken in.

Funding has always been a concern for Threshold, and funds trickle in from a variety of sources, including District 7A Mental Health, HHS, CITA, and a grant from Edyth Bush. There are $7,000 left in the matching-dollar fund that must be matched by March or they'll be lost.

Mrs. Willard explains that "For every dollar anyone gives us, Edyth Bush will give us another. It's amazing how quickly they add up—if you get enough."

In spite of all the worries, the concerns, the heartaches, Mrs. Willard says, "I'd do it if I didn't have this school. I love these kids. You get an attachment, and when they go... first ones were the hardest to lose, and now you can accept it knowing they are doing all right, and you know there are others who need you."

"I'm so happy. My cup runneth over."

In And Around Casselberry Sun Basker's Retreat To Ski Slopes

While we were basking in the sun during the holidays, John and Sandy of 100 Lake Kathryn Circle, took to the ski slopes of Vermont along with their sons, Jack and Roger, and the Larry Pope family.

Ralph and Maxine Drast enjoyed the Christmas holidays at their Forest City home with their daughter and son-in-law, Judy and Hank Butler and grandchildren, Wayne and Kimberly, who were visiting from Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Bob and Louise Miller of 600 Laurel Way, and their daughter Lisa, recently took a trip to Atlanta.

Mr. Vera Jack of 238 Lake Ellen Drive, enjoyed the Christmas holidays with a home full of relatives.

Happy New Year! The class ate the delicious main course of progressive dinner there. The house was beautifully decorated in the holiday theme and a white poinsettia was presented to Rev. and Mrs. Walt Reid of 221 Piney Ridge Road.

Anderson Golden Wedding Anniversary It's 'Like Great' Married 50 Years

What's it like being married 50 years? "Like great!" beamed Mary Anderson. And what keeps Larry Anderson on a hill of love after being wed to his bride of 50 years?

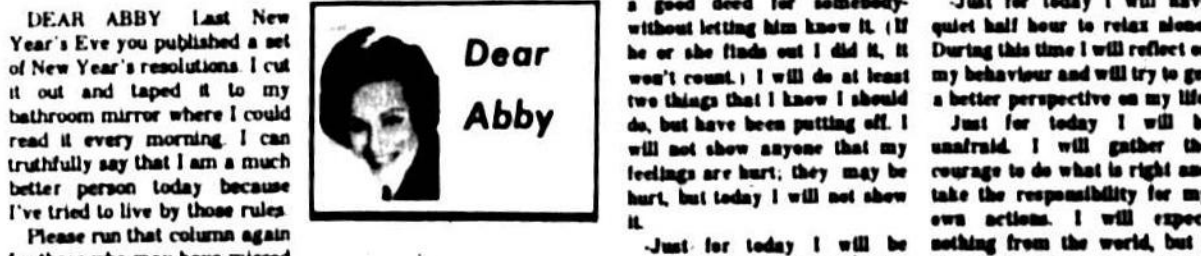

The couple were married Dec. 28 in Bradenton. They have lived in Tampa, Lakeland and in Sanford since 1963. Mary was born in Illinois and LeRoy, in Colorado.

After 45 years with Seaboard Coast Line Railroad, LeRoy retired as superintendent in 1973 and has been employed by the Abstract Corp. since then.

They are members of the First United Methodist Church of Sanford and Mayfair Country Club. Both are avid golfers and Mary has won several local tournaments including the Golden Age Olympics this year.

The couple enjoys travel and during this year they have cruised the Caribbean and toured the Western Hemisphere.

Dad Better Person After Living 'Just For Today'

DEAR ABBY: Last year I've published a set of New Year's resolutions. I cut it out and taped it to my bathroom mirror where I could read it every morning.

Just for today I will be a better person. I will be a better person. I will be a better person. I will be a better person.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

Don't throw that old charcoal barbecue grill away. They make beautiful planters. First, remove the hood and motor (if any). Drill several holes in the bottom of the fire-bowl and use a wire brush to thoroughly clean off any rust or flaked paint. Spray inside and out with a good paint to retard rust (I used gloss black but any color that suits your fancy would do as well).

When the paint is completely dry, put some colorful stick-on flower decals around the outside of the bowl; put in a layer of stones for drainage and fill the container with a mixture of good soil and peat moss. I planted a geranium in the middle of mine, surrounded by petunias and then put pansies around the outside. You could also put pot plants on the bottom shelf and since most grills have wheels, you could roll it around wherever you like, in sunny or shady spots, depending on the flowers you use.

Our grill was about ready for the dump, but I now have an inexpensive planter — as well as a very attractive one. Anita Morrell be allowed to continue, he became quite upset (pitched a fit, actually), and was sent to his room.

Later, his mother was talking to him about his behavior and said, "Do you think I should tell Trina that she can't sing? That she never be allowed to?" "No," replied Alan earnestly, "She can sing in church. God would understand and wouldn't mind. I do!" H.B.

STYLING IDEAS

DEAR HELOISE: Had an old sterling silver ice bucket and since the kids hate putting the silverware in the drawer from the dishwasher, I find putting cold silverware in the bucket works great. Saves time and drawer space and the bucket can just be carried to the table when setting it. Mrs. Julie Krahe

Voila! The core will be exposed and easily removed. Svit

Especially great if you have a child who always wants his apple cut and cored. No digging for that core and, besides, he'll have three pieces to eat instead of the usual two. That ought to please any apple-lover! Heloise

NO MORE MESS

DEAR HELOISE: When the boxes my children's puzzles come in start to break apart, I put the pieces in a 2-pound coffee can. Cut the picture of the puzzle off the box and paste it on the can. This way, the puzzles are easily identified and are kept neatly without fear of losing some of the pieces. Linda Strangio

BULLETIN BOARD

●Speaking of New Year's, the four digits of 1979 total 26. When will the digits of the year total 26 again? Time limit: 1 minute.

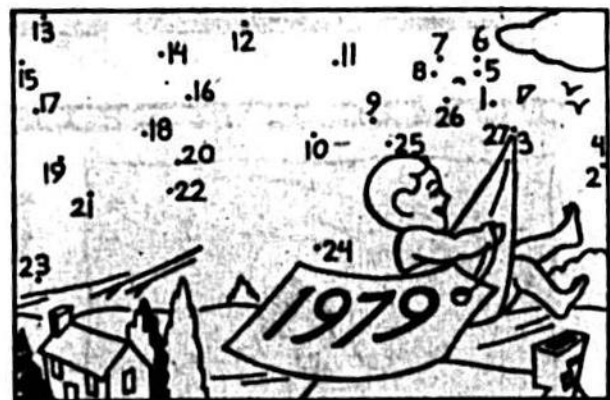

●Take 10. Double it. Subtract 10, and the answer is eight. How is it done?

HERE'S a test for those who think they get cleverer with years — and for anyone else who is interested. Four consecutive years, beginning with 1979, are strategically placed in the diagram above. You are asked to fill the 12 empty spaces with the numbers one through 12, so that each row, column and corner-to-corner diagonal will total exactly 2000.

Remember, the only numbers to be inserted are 1-12. No number is repeated. And the sum of four squares across, down and diagonally is 2000.

ACTUAL: 1979, 1980, 1981, 1982.

●Can you make up a sentence with a place name pun in it? For instance: He always took the Longview (Tex.). The skinny ones hardly Everett (Wash.). Give it a Troy (N.Y.).
