Wekiva River Set For Scenic System

The Wekiva River will be included in a study of Florida rivers for incorporation into an overall state scenic river system, it was reported here this morning by two representatives of the State Department of Natural Resources, Lonnie Ryder and William Beckham, of Tallahassee.

Ryder and Beckham met with the projects development and waterways committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

The long range planning committee of Seminole County (appointed by the Seminole County Commission) also has recommended that the Wekiva River be included in the scenic system when and if the Little Ecochokatchee River is re-routed from the "Big Econ" to carry Winter Park effluent into Lake Jessup, helping to eliminate pollution in the "Big Econ."

"The Wekiva River is one of the most beautiful in the nation," said John Kidder, Chamber manager, who said he believes that the state should have control over the development of the river insofar as it is necessary to preserve its beauty. The goal is control of development to preserve the natural beauty of the river and to eliminate pollution.

A study will be made by the state department in the near future and the Wekiva will be included in the preliminary study, Ryder said.

Organizational meeting for the study will be held in mid-November. Next step will be to set up priorities and begin the actual studies.

Twenty-eight rivers in the state have been proposed for the study by the Audubon Society.

Education Aid Urged

Florida's institutions of higher learning will be faced with finding new state money for construction purposes if voters veto the proposed amendment to the Florida Constitution on Tuesday's election ballot.

This was discussed during yesterday's luncheon meeting of area educational leaders at Seminole Chamber of Commerce offices.

Dr. Earl Weldon, president of Seminole Junior College and George King, executive assistant to Florida Tech president, joined SJC trustees and Seminole County vocational and educational leaders in stressing the importance of voters understanding and approving the amendment which will restore authority to issue bonds until June 30, 1975 for construction of college and vocational school facilities.

Dr. Weldon said the educational crisis is brought about because of the expanding, population that will see the doubling of college enrollments in just a few years.

"If the amendment to allow bonds is passed by the voters, then there will be no additional taxes," he stated.

Weldon said there seemed to be no opposition to the amendment, but voter apathy might cause a problem.

"At 6.5 per cent interest, $160 million for college and vocational school construction will be available for use with the amendment," he said. Weldon said he felt $1 million of that amount would be available for SJC.

King, succeeding Weldon, outlined the projected FTU growth and advised the nearby college will be as large as the University of Florida in seven years.

"After voter approval of the amendment, 18 months, legislators must still pass implementation act to divide up the funds among the colleges," he advised.

He foresaw $30.6 million for FTU construction by 1974 and declared, "I would hate like hell to have to tell SJC students we have no room for them at FTU."

The new constitution adopted last year prohibits issuance of new bonds after June 30, 1969 and the public is being asked to restore bonding right at Tuesday's polls, he concluded.

Angel Supports State Order Teacher Work 'Jazz' Blasted

School Supt. John Angel today said he had not been approached by any county teacher threatening to leave the profession because of the "behavioral objectives" they are required to write in addition to regular teaching chores.

The superintendent said any teacher who is concerned is not content to become static and understands that the work is necessary.

Dean Bryant, School Board member, took issue with Angel over the objectives and the time teachers are required to devote to the concepts during last Thursday night's board meeting at Lyman High School.

Angel admitted today "it is a lot of work and all county teachers and principals are involved in one way or another."

Angel commented the work is required by the state to evaluate the teaching methods and determine the level that students should reach in regard to any subject.

The superintendent said a state Sept. 15 deadline for the objectives has been extended to 1972 but schools must submit a progress report by Jan. 1, 1970.

"The main problem of our schools is the improvement of the instructional program in curriculum and teaching skills," he added.

Regarding the contention by a Pine Crest teacher aide that a shortage of textbooks exists in the schools, Angel commented that the county's situation with textbooks is the same today as it has been for the past two or three years.

He said that a textbook is not the only tool used by teachers in class and noted it is but one of several being, including film strips, that is available for teaching a given subject.

The superintendent said another teacher would be placed at Pine Crest School since the board last week voted to keep a West Side teacher in her classroom rather than adhere to administration requests to move her.

Seminole In '70s

Challenges and opportunities were outlined by seven leaders when "Seminole In The Seventies" was discussed at a meeting of the League of Women Voters of Seminole County in Sanford yesterday.

John Alexander, chairman of the Seminole County Commission, outlined his view of the decade with an accent on the need for new thinking and new processes.

Development of all the human resources in our county was seen as the basic need of our community by Rev. Ann Jones, executive director, Seminole County Action, Inc. Educational pressures in the '70s will force a wide enlargement of educational facilities and a new program in both the building and teaching fields according to Mrs. Jean Bryant, member of the Seminole County School Board.

When Dr. Frank Leone, director of the Seminole County Health Department, took his four-minute spot he put mental health needs in the spotlight and cited statistics at some length to drive home the seriousness of this challenge.

George Touhy, president of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, took a hard look at the county and prescribed an end of division and a drive towards unity as the way in which the coming decade can best be encountered.

Duane Harrell, chief deputy, Seminole County Sheriff's Department, spoke from hard experience and warned of the two threats to the county from organized crime and the use of drugs.

Stafford Derby, editor of the editorial page of The Sanford Herald, saw the challenge of the '70s best countered by an informed public and advised careful reading of all news and personal involvement of all voters in attending commission meetings and letting their views be known.

Airport Zoning Studied

Proposed zoning of Sanford Airport will be considered Thursday by the Sanford Zoning and Planning Commission at 8 p. m.

The airport zoning is required under the long range plan submitted by J. S. (Red) Cleveland, airport manager, to the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA), shortly after the 1,650-acre former Navy base was released to the city by the General Services Administration (GSA).

At first it was thought that a special zoning board composed of members of both city and county zoning boards would be formed to supervise the zoning problems at the airport but various members of both boards expressed belief that zoning of the facility could be handled by the individual boards.

Other agenda items expected to be considered Thursday include:

- Appointment to fill two vacancies left by resignations of Philip Logan and John Daniels.
- Consideration of a request made to the City Commission through the Scenic Improvement Board for a review of present M-1 zoning of the area from French Avenue to Mangostine Avenue, north of First Street for the possibility of making it into a C-2 commercial zone. (This is in keeping with the proposed Lake Monroe Park development as proposed to the county by the Orange-Seminole-Osceola Joint Planning Council.)
- Consideration of appointing or assigning a member of the city zoning board to attend meetings of the Orange-Seminole-Osceola Planning Commission or appointment of a city zoning member to the tri-county policy making board.

"Serving You Is Our Pleasure"

Strikes And Spares

BY JOHN A. SPOLSKI

I usually get so wrapped-up with a high game or series that I open the Strikes and Spares column talking about same... and then forget to cover those Saturday evening bowlers who were on hand trying for the coveted Bowler of the Week honors.

Speaking of those men and women who have qualified by rolling 30 pins or more over average the previous week in league play... they take to the lanes at 7 p.m. and again, after they roll their three games, the man or woman who again bowls most pins over that night's average is declared the winner.

About two weeks ago we had some truly outstanding bowlers which should have been brought to your attention. Competing were Don Gorman, Gil Flegler, Dan Miller, Gordon Lench, Steve Raze, Lynn Cleveland, Bill Morris, Tom Hopkins, Ray Bolton, Frances Flegler and Velma DeCook.

Two of the events from the Unprofessionals League on Tuesday evenings had an interesting night. Robert M. Moye bowled his first 300-plus sanctioned game and Wes Stoner added a 600 set to his achievements with a fine 622.

WES STONER

ROBERT MOYE

Well, that's not exactly right either, since we had had both Wes and Ray Green rolling... and as it turned out they were rolling nothing but strikes. Del rolled a 622 scratch series or 80 pins over her average, while Green tallied a 544, which was 96 pins over his average.

In addition to the certificate and arm patch, plus key chain and lock, gift certificates were awarded from the following merchants: Sanford Plaza One Hour Cleaners, Barber Chef, Man's Flowers, Betty Anne's Hairstyling and Mr. Chicken.

At the end of each month, all of the weekly winners get together to find out who'll be the Bowler of the Month and receive a personalized bowling shirt.

BOWLING POT POURRI

One of our Loyal Order of the Moose Junior bowlers was on his way with his first two games this past Saturday afternoon. Scott Roche, one of the most improved juniors in the area, started with identical 200 games... and dreams of a high triplicate series. Unfortunately, split came along the way and ruined the third effort, down to a 157 for a fine 596 series.

And to give you an idea of who we studied Scott out as an improved bowler, last season he completed the league with a plus 340 average. At this time he's second high for averages with a 170.

BRISTER TOPS BENTAMS

Little Joey Brister of the Mustangs team in the younger Bantam League (bowlers under 12 years of age) came through with one of his biggest efforts to date, when he unloaded a 188 game. Not too many pins behind was R. Sank of the Poo-tops with a 157.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pat Nixon says she plans to take up bowling seriously so that she can encourage her husband in their games on the presidential bowling alley in the Executive Office Building next to the White House.

Mrs. Nixon made her disclosure while accepting a lifetime membership in the Women's International Bowling Congress Thursday.

"I love the sport," she said.

Joe L. Battle, Leonard Fiedler, Mrs. Emmeline Best, Sandra Kiders and Caroline Faust attended the annual Lutheran Teachers Conference which was held in Sarasota. They report that the conference was very informative and most beneficial to all in attendance from St. Luke's Christian Day School.

Pastor John J. Kucharik, E. L. Bellhorn, Andrew Duda, Jr. and Michael Kohany attended the Synod of Evangelical Lutheran Churches in Clark, N.J. as delegates of St. Luke's Lutheran Church of Slavia. Delegates made included a number as a non-geographical district of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod; and to have altar and pulpit fellowship with the American Lutheran Church.

A surprise birthday party was given in honor of Mrs. Janet Fiedler by her husband, Leonard, on Oct. 15, at their home in Maitland. Invited guests included Mr. and Mrs. Joe Battle, Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. F. Lorberg (mother of Mrs. Fiedler) and Mrs. P. Vorpahl and daughter. Supper was served at 6:30 p.m. After supper the guests participated in swimming, games and folk singing.

Meade Baker told me that Mrs. Frances Yerkes (of Buck Lake) is not real well these days and I am truly sorry.

Dyans Baker is home from the hospital and will have to take things rather slowly for a while.

Mrs. Mayme Sieg is a patient at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Cats Leer, Witches Jeer! It's Time For Halloween

The cats leer, the witches jeer. Spooky dance and goblins prance. It's time for Halloween!

If you don't give a hoot for Halloween parties, reconsider this year. Few occasions offer little children greater opportunities for plain old-fashioned fun.

And whether you are a mother or a grandmother, you will find full scope for using your own imagination.

An early after-dinner gathering is an ideal time for a child's Halloween party. Especially so this year.

A spooky decor will add to the fun. The Society of American Florists suggests a table centerpiece featuring witches that appear to glide through the air.

The "trees" are made of driftwood and manzanita branches, the witches are small, inexpensive dolls with black felt robes, corn husk brooms and scraggly white hair.

At the base of this arrangement is luxuriant combination of natural dried material in shades of orange, beige, and brown. Woodrocks with their exquisitely thin, craggy petals, miniature straw flowers, pinecone rosettes, and fuzzy green-green softflowers with their jaunty orange tips reflect both the mood of Halloween and the beauty of fall. And all are plentifully supplied at our shops this time of year.

A few days after the party, remove the witches from the driftwood or manzanita branches and the family will continue to enjoy the dried flower arrangement well into the fall.

Nevada Bread Recipe

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Tucked away in our files was a recipe for a date-nut bread made with yeast, served as a specialty by a restaurant in Nevada. When recently we tried the recipe, we understood why the bread had achieved a certain fame.

Here's one version of the recipe, streamlined for quick preparation. The undissolved yeast is added with part of the flour—no dissolving of the yeast first is necessary.

This bread tastes mighty good fresh from the oven. After a day or so it's heavenly toasted and buttered.

NEVADA BREAD
1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cups unbleached flour
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
2 packages active dry yeast
1 cup milk
1/2 cup water
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 eggs (at room temperature)
2 cups finely chopped dates, sprinkle with flour to separate
1 1/2 cups chopped walnuts (fairly fine)
Confectioners' sugar

In a large bowl thoroughly mix together 1 1/2 cups flour, the granulated sugar, salt, cinnamon and undissolved yeast.

In a saucpan stir together milk, water and butter, heat over low heat until liquids are warm. (Butter does not need to melt.) Gradually add liquid mixture to flour mixture and beat two minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add eggs and one cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed for two minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out onto lightly floured surface; knead until smooth and elastic—about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turn to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm draft-free place, until doubled—about 40 minutes.

Pineapple Upside Down Cake

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
This quick-to-make delicious dessert should please after-dinner guests.

Pineapple Upside Down Cake
1 can (1 pound 4 1/2 ounces) pineapple slices
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1/4 cup sifted cake flour
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup shortening
1/4 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 large egg

Thoroughly drain pineapple; reserve 1/2 cup pineapple syrup. In a 9 by 9 by 1 inch cake pan over low heat melt the butter; sprinkle with the brown sugar. Add nine pineapple slices in a single layer; quarter remaining pineapple slice and fit into vacant spaces at center.

Into a medium mixing bowl sift the flour, baking powder, salt and granulated sugar; add shortening, reserved 1/2 cup pineapple syrup, milk, vanilla and egg. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed until smooth—two minutes. Turn batter, spreading evenly, over pineapple layer in pan.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out without any batter sticking to it—35 to 40 minutes. Place cake in pan on wire rack to stand for five minutes. Turn out on large serving platter; allow to stand for several minutes; remove pan. Serve warm or reheated; top with whipped cream. Cake serves nine.

THE FAMILY LAWYER
Aunt Minnie, vacationing at a mountain hotel, picked out a rocking chair on the front porch and sat down. Unhappily, she failed to notice that one of the runners was missing. Result: she fell off her rocker and suffered injury to her back.

In the course, she sued the management or damages. "Not liable," pleaded the management in court. "The would have seen the condition of the rocker, had she just taken the trouble to examine it."

But Aunt Minnie, however, the court saying the defect was not that easy to see. The judge said a five-cent nail was assumed without making an inspection, that all the rocking chairs on the porch were kept in reasonably safe condition.

In fact, this applies to all seating facilities—in hotels, restaurants, and shops—where the public is invited to assemble. Nor is it merely a matter of maintenance. Even the design of such facilities must take safety standards into account.

Thus, in another case, a store incurred liability by providing an ultramodern, but unstable, chair for its customers. When a woman sat on the front edge of the chair, it tilted her off to the floor.

In holding the store liable, the court denounced "unwarranted creations which are designed more to please the eye than to provide the stability one expects to find when reposing this anatomy upon a chair."

When the management pointed out that the woman was overweight, the court replied: "A large woman is as much entitled to a safe chair as a small one, and is much more in need of it."

Nevertheless, a customer cannot expect provisions that are beyond reason. Take this case: A man was trying to sit down at a bar when the stool skidded out from under him. In a damage suit afterward, he insisted that the stool should have been bolted to the floor.

But the court said the use of free-standing stools was too common a practice to be considered an unsafe. Requiring such stools to be bolted over, said the judge, was simply asking too much.
