Sanford goes to bat for Jackie Robinson

By RUSS WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale, City Commissioner Whitey Eckstein, City Manager Bill Simmons and other city leaders are asking the business community and citizens to go to bat at a Sanford baseball ceremony on June 28 at Jackie Robinson Ballpark in Daytona Beach.

If all works out, several hundred Sanford youth league ballplayers would be provided transportation and tickets to a Florida State League double-header between the Daytona Cubs and the Kissimmee Cobras. Dale and Eckstein were visited Thursday by Daytona Cubs President Jordan Kobritz, whose organization is honoring Robinson on the 50th anniversary of his major-league debut with the Brooklyn Dodgers. In 1946, Robinson trained with a Dodgers farm team in Sanford and Daytona Beach.

City officials in Sanford apologized this spring for the actions of their predecessors who upheld a city ordinance prohibiting integration on the ballfield. Robinson and a black pitcher named John Wright were not allowed to stay with the other players at a Sanford hotel. Robinson was also ordered off a playing field one day by the city's police chief.

Humane Society moving forward after adversity

By STEVE BARNES
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Elvira is beautiful, with deep brown eyes and medium length chestnut hair. The first time I saw her, I lost my heart.

Elvira is a four month old German Shepherd mix who resides at the Seminole County Humane Society and she needs your help. She is one of about 125 dogs who are looking for loving families to take them in. The shelter is also home to over 100 cats in need of homes.

The shelter has a variety of pets available for adoption, including dogs and cats and a pot bellied pig named Darby. The six-month-old pig is house broken and friendly. She will make a wonderful pet to a family living in an area which is properly zoned. (Residential zoning prohibits the keeping of "livestock")

A number of hard to place dogs are also in desperate need of homes. Some of the dogs have been at the shelter for up to six years. The reason that they are so difficult to place is that some are aggressive or not good with children or other pets. They are often ideal for people in need of a good watch dog.

The shelter takes in as many animals as it has room for but runs at full capacity most of the time. In addition to receiving unwanted

Relay For Life helps fight cancer

By DAVID FRAZIER
Herald Staff Writer

AIDS still saturates the health news here in the 90's, but an old enemy remains lingering: cancer. Cancer has claimed an astronomical number of lives and that count keeps climbing. But there are still individuals that maintain the fight against this dreaded foe.

The American Cancer Society's Relay for Life is an effort for that cause. The event takes place in Seminole County, will be held today and Saturday, June 6 and 7, at Lake Mary High School. The relay is the effort of the Sanford-Lake Mary branch of the American Cancer Society to raise funds and continue to provide patients with services including transportation and durable medical equipment.

Many residents in the community have already had their lives affected by the disease. Many have survived and the Society is endeavoring to provide funds to assist in the survival of many more.

Relay for Life is the American Cancer Society's signature event. It encourages local businesses, corporations, and social groups to gather as a community in the fight against cancer. For 24 hours, teams made up of 10-15 people camp out on a track field. Barbecue contests, pajama parades, music, scavenger hunts, twister, laughter and non stop entertainment make this event one of the most enjoyable fund-raisers. Anyone can participate because it's not just a walk.

Relay for Life is a celebration of life. Cancer survivors of all ages are honored at the event. Several patients are invited to walk the first lap of the event and are applauded for their continuous strength and courage in the fight against their illness. At dusk, a luminary ceremony honors these survivors once again and remembers those who have lost in the battle. At this point candles will be lit around the track and will burn throughout the night.

The event serves as an economical retreat, as well as enhance an already established corporate image. It offers a fun casual atmosphere which encourages camaraderie and informal team building among employees, club members, and teammates. It also provides visibility to companies and organ-

Tour showcases future of school

By STEVE BARNES
Herald Staff Writer

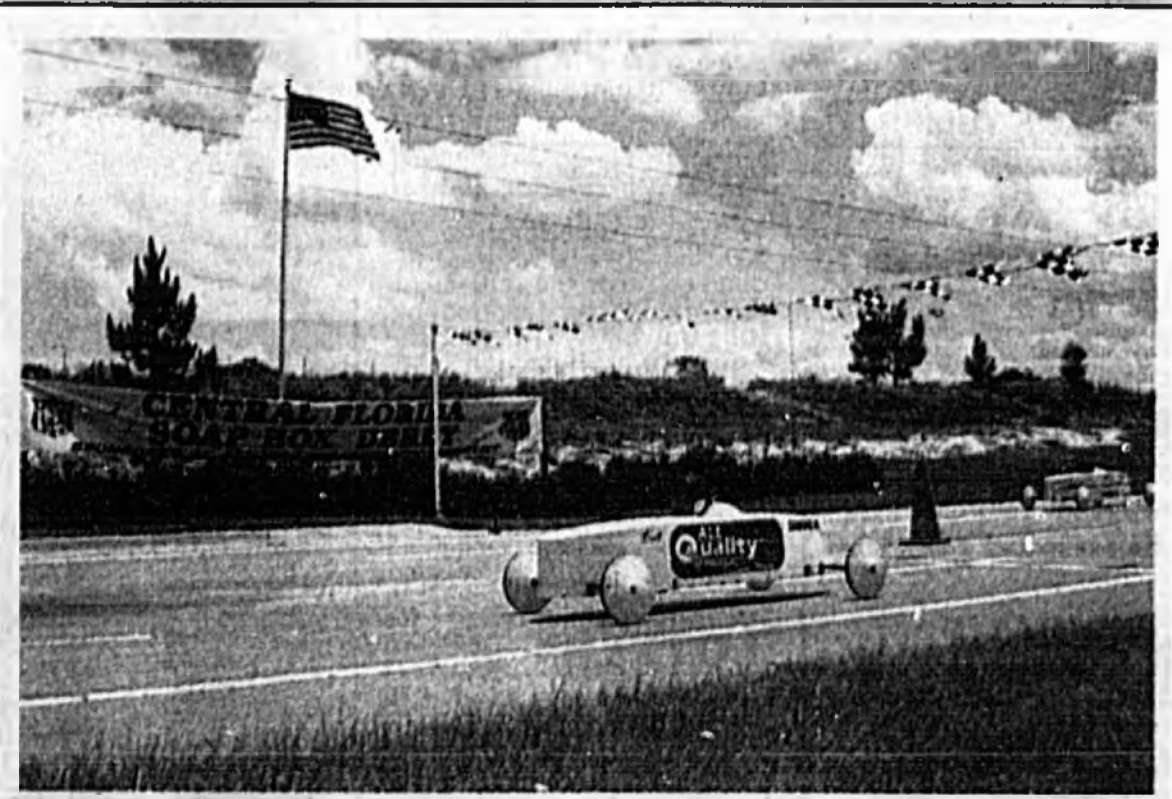

SANFORD - Dozens of parents turned out for a walking tour and informal question and answer session at Goldsboro Elementary School Thursday evening. The event was designed to help parents become more familiar with the pending changes at Goldsboro, which will become a magnet school in the 1998-99 school year.

Tour guides pointed out the future location of the new two story classroom and computer lab building, which will be located on the open lot next to the current administration building. The $8.5 million dollar building will house a number of classrooms, four state of the art computer labs and two math labs plus a television production room. According to Principal Ron Nathan, the entire structure will be geared towards learning. It will feature large, open hallways and windows and details such as floors made up of geometric patterns.

In addition to the new facilities, Goldsboro is also overhauling its entire curriculum in an effort to promote math, science and technology. According to Karen Gundal, a fifth grade teacher and the new math/science specialist for the school, technology is being integrated into every aspect of the school. As an example, she cited reading classes. In the past, she said, children would learn to read using traditional children's stories. Once the magnet program begins, they will read stories which integrate math, science and technology

It's Bonza Bottler Day again. That day when we have holiday just for the excuse for having one.

The late Elaine Fremont invented the holiday to celebrate when the number of the day is the same as the number of the month. It's an excuse to have a party at least once a month.

As if any of us needs an excuse.

In Fort Walton Beach, they've found another excuse for a party: the Billy Bowlegs Pirate Festival.

Each year, Cpt. Billy Bowlegs and his Krewe (portrayed by local business and community leaders) invade the city. For a week, the citizens of that north Florida city will party, hunt for treasures and frolic through town.

Meanwhile, it's Labor Day in the Bahamas (I guess that not everyone there is not on vacation.)

Be careful if you're visiting Wisconsin the next couple of days. They're going to be cutting the cheese at the Great Wisconsin Cheese Festival in Little Chute, Wis.

More than 10,000 are expected to take part in cheese breakfasts, a parade, a cheesecake contest and a cheese carving demonstration and a cheese tasting.

This is also Donut Day. The day celebrates the Salvation Army Depression fundraiser.

So go out and have a few donuts.

And, of course, this is the anniversary of D Day.

On June 6, 1944 the Allied Forces landed in Normandy on the North Coast of France.

The U.S. alone sent 1,700,000 fighting men to take part in the invasion.

Look elsewhere on this page for some old photographs from our archives.

On Saturday, don't forget the Central Florida Soap Box Derby here in Sanford.

Though they have been racing at Derby Park for a couple of years, tomorrow will mark the grand opening of the facility. Mayor Larry Dale and other local dignitaries will be on hand for the ribbon cutting ceremonies at 9 a.m. The races will kick off after that.

Another important sporting event is the Belmont Stakes, the final race of the Triple Crown being run in Belmont, NY on Saturday.

Watch for Silver Charm as he tries to become only the 12th horse to win the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont.

They're celebrating the Eel Festival in Jyllinge, Denmark on Saturday and Sunday.

Everywhere in town you can get fried eel and enjoy every thing from theater to sporting events.

They are celebrating Frontier Days in Culbertson, Mont. and taking the willing on Ghost Tours in New Hope, Penn.

The Governor's Cup, a premier running race, is being held in Helena, Mont. on Saturday (there's an awful lot going on in Montana this week end, isn't there?).

This is Take A Kid Fishing Weekend in St. Paul, Minn. (We can do that here, though. Can't we?)

Up there, resident adults can fish without a license when they are accompanied by a child under the age of 16.

In Danville, Ill., they are having grand Turtle Races, which pit 32 of the world's fastest turtles against one another in an all day event.

And, finally, the world's largest garage sale will take place in South Bend, Ind. with 12,000 participants selling their wares.

If you want to celebrate some birthdays, how about these:

Today is singer Gary U.S. Bonds' 58th birthday, former football player Ruben Mayes is 34, actress Billie Whitelaw is 65, actress Amanda Pays is 38 and tennis player Bjorn Borg is 41.

Saturday will be poet/author Gwendolyn Brooks' 80th birthday. Grateful Dead drummer Bill Kreutzmann will be 51, actor Liam Neeson will be 45 and The Artist Formerly Known as Prince will be 39.

St. Johns could become federally-protected river

From Staff Reports

PALATKA — The St. Johns River could become one of 10 nationally recognized and protected rivers in the United States if efforts to garner President Bill Clinton's support are successful.

The St. Johns River Water Management District plans to nominate the St. Johns — Florida's longest river. As part of the nomination, the District is seeking support from citizens, businesses and local governments throughout the communities along the 310-mile long river that flows north from the Vero Beach area to the Atlantic Ocean east of Jacksonville.

"Strong community support is an important part of this application," said District Governing Board Chairman

Bill Segal. "The unique nature of the St. Johns River certainly makes it a viable candidate, and if we can show that the communities are behind this nomination, we've got an excellent opportunity."

During the next two months, the District will also bring together representatives of the communities along the St. Johns to help identify how they believe the river helps their economy, culture and recreation.

Letters of support must be received by July 10 and can be mailed to American Heritage Rivers, c/o St. Johns River Water Management District, P.O. Box 1429, Palatka, Fla. 32178. For information, call Bill Graf at 897-4307 or visit the American Heritage Rivers page at <http://sjr.state.fl.us/new/shr.html>.

D-Day remembered

Today we remember the men who fought so valiantly during World War II, especially at the invasion at Normandy known now as D Day.

This is the day we celebrate the invasion which took months of planning.

The invasion included 2,727 ships of every size and description which converged on northern France from British ports all over the North Sea.

Operation Overlord involved 2,000,000 tons of war materials, including 50,000 tanks, armored cars, jeeps, trucks and half tracks.

The Germans didn't believe the invasion would take place under the adverse weather conditions on that June day but it did and the village of Saint Meere Eglise was liberated.

The shelter responds to complaints of animal abuse. Scott Weintraub, kennel supervisor and animal cruelty investigator, says he gets "lots" of calls about abused dogs. Most of the time, he says, the cause of the abuse is just plain ignorance. Other times it is outright abuse. "Sometimes a guy will get mad at his wife or kids or whatever and take it out on the dog."

In cases like that the society steps in and takes whatever action is appropriate based on the situation.

According to Bruce Johnson, executive director of the Humane Society, the shelter has been struggling financially since the old building was destroyed by fire in April of 1993.

The fire took the lives of 73 dogs. It took three years to complete the new structure which opened May 31, 1996. Current needs include cash donations and supplies such as food and blankets. (For a complete list, contact the Humane Society.) The shelter receives no tax dollars and relies entirely on donations for its operating costs. The adoption fee charged is used to cover the cost of shots given to the animals.

The society uses a number of volunteers to help care for and walk the dogs. Johnson says the volunteers and staff are wonderful and love the animals as if they were their own. If you would like to help out or are looking for a new addition to your family, contact the Humane Society at 324-8685.

In a way that make learning these subjects fun. Parents are encouraged to participate in the curriculum committee, which will begin meeting again in the fall.

The teaching staff is also undergoing a transformation. Each teacher is receiving training in areas related to technology and special training to encourage them to think of every classroom as a laboratory. The teachers will also receive computer training to help them take full advantage of the five computers and Internet access which will be available in each classroom.

Goldsboro will also get some much needed relief for its overcrowded buildings when Wicklow Elementary opens this fall. Goldsboro currently has over 1,200 students in a school designed to accommodate only 800. About 600 students, along with their teachers, will transfer to Wicklow when it opens this fall. Teacher to student ratios will then be 20:1 for kindergarten and first grade and 25:1 for higher grade levels. Current ratios are only slightly higher.

Controversy and mystery still surround the issue of who will be able to attend Goldsboro once the magnet program is put into place in the 1998-99 school year. The United States Justice Department has ruled that the school must maintain a black to white student ratio of no higher than 49:51 and no lower than 29:71.

The Seminole County School Board, with the help of the consent decree task force, has been trying to develop a plan which meets that requirement and also fits into plans being developed to create a cluster program in the rest of Sanford's schools.

The most recent recommendation of the task force is to allow ESS (special education) students first priority, followed by students from the preference zone and then children of school employees. After that, families from throughout the county would have an equal opportunity to apply through the use of a computerized lottery system.

Although this system has the backing of the task force, it has not yet been accepted by the school board or approved by the justice department. In addition, many parents, black and white, have voiced concerns about the fairness of the current plan. Some feel it denies children who live in areas historically served by Goldsboro the chance to participate in an improved version of their neighborhood school.

Others complain that children in other areas of the county do not have equal opportunity to participate in a school designed to be a "magnet" for students from throughout the county. The school board will address the consent decree plan at its next meeting on June 10.

Support the Seminole County Humane Society

One of our favorite Seminole County non-profit organizations is the Humane Society, for all the selfless good works the volunteers there do for abandoned animals.

Often, the plight of children, which is certainly of foremost concern to all, overshadows the duty to care for all creatures. The cats, dogs, pigs, horses, and all God's creatures at the Seminole County Humane Society are offered a home for life, and are not euthanized unless their health degenerates to the point it would be more humane to put them to sleep.

Some of the harder-to-place animals have been society residents for over six years. But despite the foster status these strays bear, volunteers diligently feed, bathe, walk and care for them as if they were family members.

That's the feeling at the Humane Society. Everyone loves the animals. They truly have a wonderful temporary home.

Bouncing back from the devastating fire that killed several dogs a few years ago, rebounding from the alleged embezzlement of funds by a former board member, the Seminole County Humane Society employees and volunteers work even harder with less to ensure a comfortable home for their charges.

We hope you will support this great effort. Adopt a family pet. Drop off some dog or cat food. Contribute what you can.

Our own humanity depends on the compassion we show to those less fortunate than we are. And that includes people and animals.

What war on drugs?

Mr. Steve Barnes is correct in saying that the use of drugs by parents is giving the green light to their children, but that isn't the reason why there is no "war" on drugs. Many of the same parents see nothing wrong with adding a toke or a snort to their relaxing happy hours, and they don't want that market dried up. But kids see; kids know.

Rich and powerful people always believe that they are not affected by laws for us commoners. Rich white establishment types don't care how many strange-looking young punks in the housing projects go to jail for how long, and rich black establishment types don't care who goes to jail as long as the robbers and burglars don't pick their streets or their ATM machines. The establishment is against drugs for others, but it has little passion for equality of consequences.

But the real reason is that "fighting" drugs is profitable. Lots of politicians, lawyers and bureaucrats -- especially politicians who have worn out their welcomes back home -- get dreamy jobs paying big bucks to go through the motions, but not to cut off the reason for those jobs. Politicians prate grandiose programs and ask Business/American to give them money. Guess what? Business/America is glad to do it. Businessmen would laugh at the idea of giving their own money to anybody; they love to give someone else's money to the businessmen.

Establishment Republicans want to spend ever more of your money on stupid schemes that are good for their and their friends' prison-construction and guard businesses. Establishment Democrats want to spend ever more of your money on stupid schemes that are good for their and their friends' social-meddling and touchy-feely psychology businesses. Hey, what are friends for, so long as it doesn't cost you? There's always more money. Just don't kill all the geese.

China doesn't deserve MFN status

When Congress renewed China's Most Favored Nation trade status last year, the Republican leadership rationalized that the goodwill gesture toward Beijing would encourage the Communist government to desist with its protectionist trade practices, to curb its human-rights abuses and to slow its military buildup.

Well, China's MFN status expired on June 3. And before lawmakers blithely renew it for another year, they ought look back over the past 12 months and consider whether U.S. generosity to China yielded the promised results.

Over the past year, the United States has seen its trade deficit with China soar to $40 billion (up from $34 billion in 1995). That's larger, even, than our deficit to Japan, though our trade volume with Japan is four times larger than our volume with China.

The explanation for this is that Beijing is deliberately pursuing a mercantilist trade policy with the United States. It takes advantage of its free and unfettered access to the American consumer market that MFN status provides. But at the same time, it denies American exporters the same access to the Chinese consumer market.

Over the past year, the United States has seen its trade deficit with China soar to $40 billion.

Indeed, China continues to slap a 30 percent tariff on American imports, which prices them out of the range of most of China's 1 billion consumers (who earn an average of only $350 a year). On top of that, Beijing imposes various nontariff barriers to its markets, including licensing requirements, trade quotas and local content restrictions.

In the past year, China has not committed any obvious human-rights outrages, like the Tiananmen Square massacre in 1989. But it continues to operate more than 1,100 labor camps, known as laogai, with nearly 1.8 million prisoners reduced to slave laborers.

Five years ago, the United States and China signed a memorandum of understanding in which Beijing agreed not to export any prison-made products to this country. But Harry Wu, a political prisoner in China for 19 years before he won asylum in the United States in 1995, told Congress recently that China continues to export to America products made by slave labor, including artificial flowers, Christmas tree lights, hand tools and automotive parts.

The Clinton administration corroborates Wu's charges. We believe that there are facilities that may be exporting materials made with prison labor to the United States," said Jeffrey Bader, a deputy assistant secretary of state, in an appearance last week.

Chances are customers won't even notice the differences when they visit their local banks this summer.

Will bank branching be good for consumers?

WASHINGTON--The American banking industry will experience a quiet, yet radical, reform as full-fledged interstate bank branching laws become effective as of June 1.

Chances are customers won't even notice the differences when they visit their local banks this summer. June 1 merely marked the culmination of several years of gradual change in the industry. Yet this quiet reform--which was championed by President Clinton--also represents a gigantic payday for an industry that's already been reaping record profits in recent years.

Under current laws, a bank holding company, such as NationsBank or First Union, can own "subsidiaries" in different states. But to do so, the bank must set up state charters in every state where it maintains a branch. Banks also have to keep separate management structures in each state, and report all its business on a state-by-state basis.

"It costs an enormous amount of money to do all that," NationsBank spokeswoman Lynn Drury told our associate Aaron Karp. "With interstate banking, business will still be done at a local level. People in Tampa will make decisions about what gets done in Tampa. We just won't have to file the reams of paperwork just for Florida."

There's spirited debate among experts over whether or not interstate bank branching is a good deal for consumers.

"I think from a consumer standpoint, it's really got a lot of pluses that have already gone into effect," said the American Banker Association's Charlotte Birch. For example, the ability to cash and deposit checks across state lines at branches of the same bank is one of the gradual reforms that has come from interstate banking and branching laws, which was passed in the fall of 1994.

But don't expect that banks will pass on their savings to their customers. As banks have enjoyed record profits after the lean years of the late 1980s and early 1992, they've found dozens of new and innovative ways of gouging their customers with fees and service charges.

Some industry analysts fear that the new law will only lead to more consolidation in the industry--which means fewer choices for consumers.

"Major bank mergers cause major job layoffs," Ken Guenther, executive vice president of the Independent Bankers Association of America, told us. "Major bank mergers also cause major bank closings, which means there's less consumer service."

"I do think when history is written on (interstate bank branching)...it's going to be written that this has proven not to be pro-competitive, will increase prices on consumers, and will not be user-friendly for small businesses and agriculture."

UNDER THE DOME--Sen. Robert C. Byrd, the venerable Democrat from West Virginia, will stoat nothing to preserve the prerogatives of his beloved Senate. The purpose of the Senate, Byrd fondly reminds listeners, is to cook things off--especially legislation--not unlike when coffee is poured from a hot cup into a saucer. Byrd likes being the saucer.

So it was no surprise last Friday, when Byrd took to the floor to give a lengthy address on--not the budget deal, or any other piece of pressing national business--but Mother's Day.

"It used to be that Members of the House and Senate would call attention to special days, days of special significance such as Mother's Day," Byrd began. "I do not hear much of that being done anymore, but I like to stay with tradition."

MORTON KONDRACKE

Teaming up against Pentagon waste

"If I felt any better, it would hurt," former Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., said about his "retirement" the other day. Now, Rudman and ex-Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., are taking on a huge new task: reforming the Pentagon.

Already co-chairmen of the Concord Coalition, the budget-balancing lobby, the two are about to become the joint heads of a high-powered panel assembled by Business Executives for National Security to show the Defense Department how to save up to $20 billion a year by eliminating administrative inefficiencies.

BENS's executive director, retired Air Force Gen. Thomas McInerney, says that the goal of the Nunn-Rudman "tooth-to-tail commission" is to reverse the current Pentagon spending ratio of 70 percent support to 30 percent war-fighting.

The importance of the task is profound. Saving $200 billion over a decade on overhead, services, and support personnel would enable the Pentagon to buy the modern planes and ships it wants without raising the overall defense budget, a politically radioactive undertaking, or cutting war-fighting readiness, a strategic danger.

The task is also extraordinarily difficult. Rudman has tried it before. "In the 1980s, as a senior member of the defense appropriations subcommittee," Rudman recalls, "I did an analysis of the support-to-combat ratios of the major armed forces of the world and found ours way out of whack."

"I introduced legislation to eliminate non-combat spending and shift it to combat, but it never passed. The Pentagon was against it. I don't know if we can get to 70-30 favoring combat. Fifty-fifty would be a huge achievement, but I won't prejudge it."

Rudman is not the only one who has tried to institute large-scale reform. Vice President Al Gore's "reinventing government" initiative tackled the defense procurement system under which, Gore says, it used to cost $50 in paperwork to buy a $4 stapler.

Gore claims that his procurement reforms will save $12 billion over five years, but McInerney, who formerly served as director of Gore's Pentagon task force, says that many of Gore's reforms remain unimplemented and that 95 percent of the overall reform effort remains to be accomplished.

Reform has the full support of Defense Secretary and former Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, who told a BENS audience recently that 75 percent of military purchases under $2,500 still are negotiated in written form -- to the point where it recently cost a military day-care center in Europe $1,200 to order $1,200 in supplies for a birthday party.

Cohen recently appointed a task force on defense reform to begin figuring out how to streamline the huge Office of the Secretary of Defense and move on to the rest of the Defense Department.

That task force will be headed by Arnold Punaro, who served as Nunn's staff director on the Senate Armed Services Committee and now is a senior vice president at SAIC Corp., a defense contractor.

Nunn, Rudman, Cohen and Punaro make for a powerful coalition operating against Pentagon waste. The BENS panel also includes former Defense Secretary William Perry as an adviser. Former Rep. Vin Weber, R-Minn., is on it, along with Josh Weston, chairman of ADP Corp., the payroll processing giant, and Bernard Marcus, CEO of Home Depot.

One of the BENS project's chief strategists is Larry Smith, once a top aide to the late Les Aspin, D-Wis., who was both chairman of the House Armed Services Committee and Secretary of Defense.

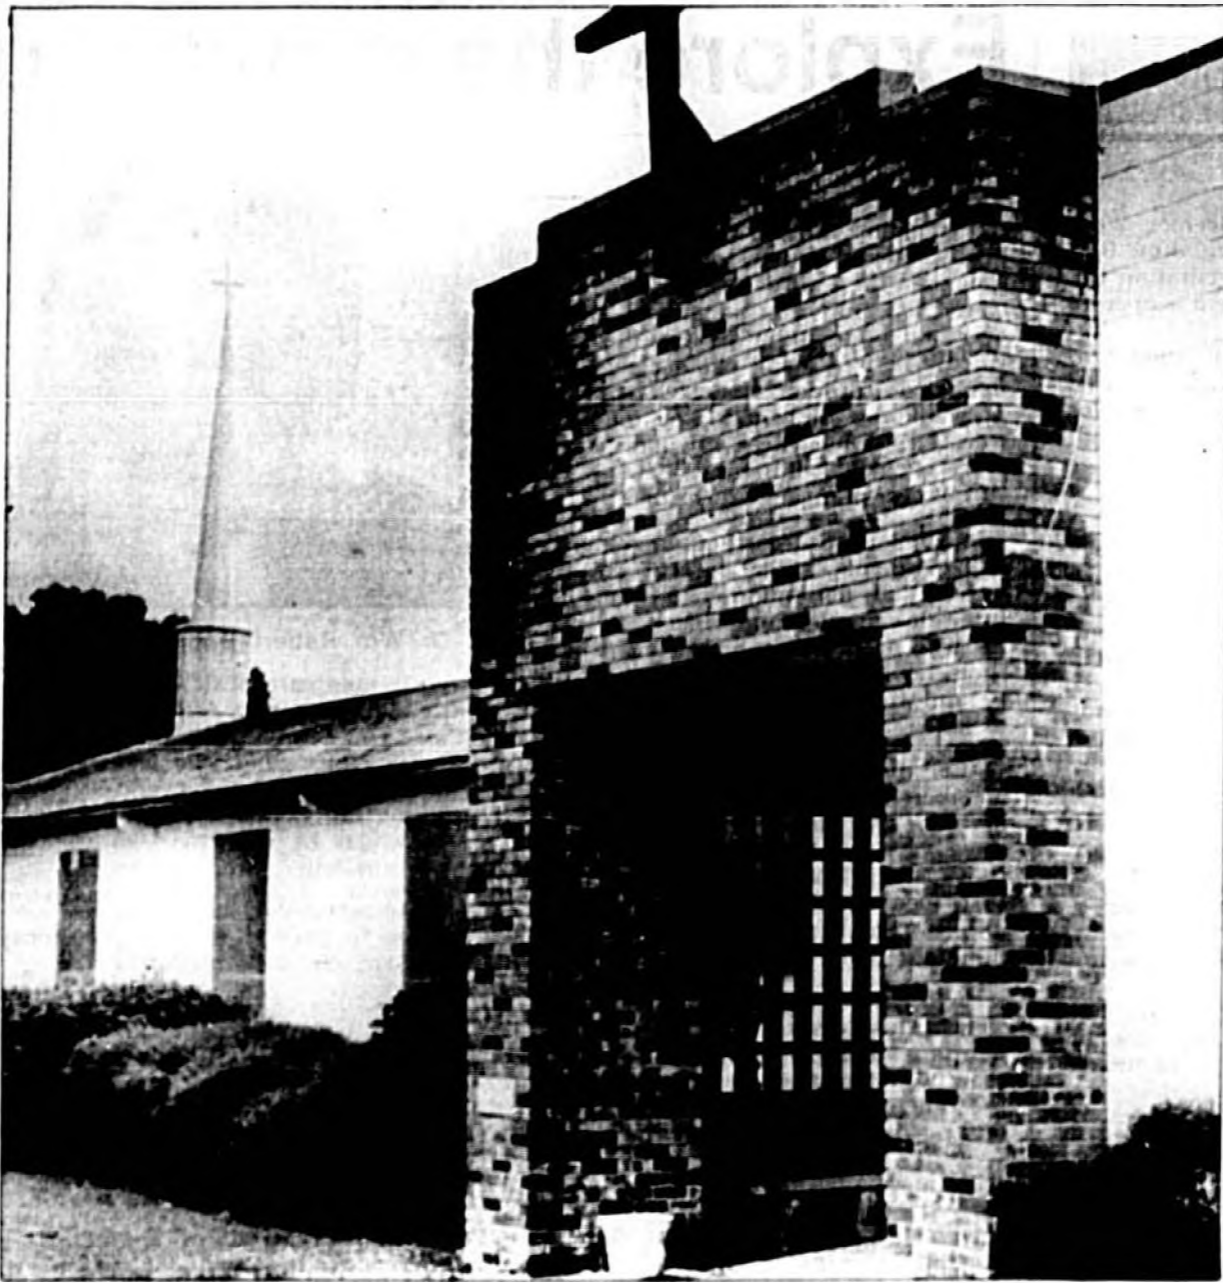

As Smith wrote in a memo launching the BENS project, "Since the end of the Cold War, the U.S. has taken historic steps to downsize and reshape its fighting forces, but DoD's support businesses are still mostly impervious to change. Even though we have mostly post-Cold War fighting forces -- or military 'teeth' -- we still have an oversized Cold War defense 'tail.'"

The BENS panel is addressing six specific reform areas: outsourcing and privatization of services like payroll, non-combat travel, satellites and storage; base-closing; implementing Gore's acquisition reforms, including the four military services to operate and equip themselves more jointly; updating the 1960s-era program-budgeting system; and reducing headquarters personnel.

Unlike other Washington task forces, the BENS gang plans not only to issue recommendations -- the first one, on outsourcing, will be done in 90 days -- but also to work directly with reformist Pentagon officials to demonstrate what can actually be accomplished.

Rudman and Nunn bring to bear knowledge of how the Pentagon and Congress work, and, perhaps as important, the possibility of bringing public pressure to bear on the task.

Explore the power of integrity!

By DR. WM (BOB) PARKER
First Baptist Markham Woods

Synonyms of integrity include: honesty, purity, honor, trustworthiness and faithfulness. The word "integrity" can be translated into any language the world over and is incredibly powerful when activated. The well being of a society is highly impacted through honesty, trustworthiness and by the sheer keeping of one's word. The following true and practical story vividly illustrates the impact "keeping a promise" can bring:

In 1989 an 8.2 earthquake almost flattened Armenia, killing over 30,000 people in less than four minutes. In the midst of utter devastation and chaos a father left his wife securely at home and rushed to the school where his son was supposed to be, only to discover that the building was as flat as a pancake.

After the traumatic initial shock, he remembered the promise he had made to his son: "No matter what, I'll always be there for you!" And tears began to fill his eyes. As he looked at the pile of debris that once was the school, it looked hopeless, but he kept remembering his commitment to his son.

He began to concentrate on where he walked his son to class at school each morning. Remembering his son's classroom would be in the back right corner of the building, he rushed there and started digging through the rubble.

As he was digging, other forlorn parents arrived, clutching their hearts, saying: "My son!" "My daughter!" Other well meaning parents tried to pull him off of what was left of the school, saying:

"It's too late!"
"They're dead!"
"You can't help!"
"Go home!"

"Come on, face reality, there's nothing you can do!"

"You're just going to make things worse!"

To each parent he responded with one line: "Are you going to help me now?" And then he proceeded to dig for his son, stone by stone.

The fire chief showed up and tried to pull him off of the school's debris, saying, "Fires are breaking out, explosions are happening everywhere. You're in danger."

Dr. Wm. Robert (Bob) Parker

"We'll take care of it. Go home." To which this loving, caring Armenian father asked, "Are you going to help me now?"

The police came and said, "You're angry, distraught, and it's over. You're endangering others. Go home. We'll handle it!" To which he replied, "Are you going to help me now?" No one helped.

Courageously, he proceeded alone because he needed to know for himself: "Is my boy alive or is he dead?"

He dug for eight hours...twelve hours...twenty-four hours...thirty-six hours...then, in the thirty-eighth hour, he pulled back a boulder and heard his son's voice. He screamed his son's name, "ARMAND!" He heard back, "Dad?! It's me, Dad! I told the other kids not to worry, I told 'em that if you were alive, you'd save me and when you saved me, they'd be saved. You promised: 'No matter what, I'll always be there for you! You did it, Dad!'"

"What's going on in there? How is it?" The father asked.

"There are fourteen of us left out of thirty-three, Dad. We're scared, hungry, thirsty and thankful you're here. When the building collapsed, it made a wedge, like a triangle, and it saved us."
"Come on out, boy!"

"No, Dad! Let the other kids out first, 'cause I know you'll get me! No matter what, I know you'll be there for me!" (Charles R. Swindoll, "The Power of a Promise.")

This promise that was made was tenaciously kept and became the difference between life and death. The boy survived on the promise that his dad would "always be there" for him. The promise made was not forgotten even under difficult and almost impossible circumstances.

The power of human integrity

"Stand by your word" is the call of integrity. Be honest, trustworthy and dependable—someone is in great need of that. It could be your own son, daughter, wife, husband or friend!

The power of divine integrity

Another definition of the word "integrity" is "perfectly complete." God is the only one who meets this description. There are over 7,000 promises of God to man which are descriptive of Divine Integrity.

"Take the promises of God. Let a man feed for a month on the promises of God, and he will not talk about how poor he is. You hear people say, 'Oh, my leanness! How lean I am!' It is not their leanness, it is their laziness. If you would only read from Genesis to Revelation and see all the promises made by God to Abraham, to Isaac, to Jacob, to the Jews and to the Gentiles, and to all His people everywhere (if you would spend a month feeding on the precious promises of God—you wouldn't be going about complaining how poor you are. You would lift up your head and proclaim the riches of His Grace, because you couldn't help doing it!" (Quote from Dwight L. Moody from All the Promises of the Bible; author-Herbert Lockyer.)

Peter speaks of these promises as "the exceeding great and precious promises" (II Peter 1:4). Two of these promises are 2,000 years old; yet, they remain good today:

(1) Jesus said, "Come unto me, all who are weary and heavy-laden and I will give you rest" (Matthew 11:28).

(2) He also said, "He that cometh to me, I will in no wise cast out" (John 6:26b).

These precious promises assure us that as we live in a world surrounded by social, imperfect and sinful "debris" and where tragic events occur without notice, God will keep His Word-- "pull back the stones" of a depraved world-- and save those who cannot save themselves but call upon Him.

Think about that!

Winter Park Interfaith Fellowship examines domestic violence problem

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

WINTER PARK — The Winter Park Interfaith Fellowship, newly renamed and previously known as The Winter Park Fellowship of Churches and Synagogues, has been exploring the issues relating to domestic violence and studying diagnostic, preventive and remedial strategies with the help of Terri O'Sullivan of the Family Office of the Catholic Diocese of Orlando. O'Sullivan, who heads a program entitled "Separated, Widowed, Divorced," has worked in the field of domestic violence for more than a decade including seven years experience with a domestic violence shelter in Kentucky. O'Sullivan notes with great satisfaction and increased awareness to the problems of domestic violence especially by governmental and law enforcement officials. She points with pride to the Governor's Task Force on Domestic Violence as an excellent beginning to increasing awareness of a problem most would rather ignore.

O'Sullivan's work with the

The Rev. Jana Norman-Richardson and Terri O'Sullivan review information.

Winter Park Interfaith Fellowship is but one of many examples of her own personal efforts to identify families torn by violence and begin the long and arduous process of healing.

The Winter Park Interfaith Fellowship has identified four areas of concentration. The first, counseling and case management helps parishioners identify needs such as housing, child care, medical and social support. The second, support groups require trained facilitators to help victims learn about domestic violence and how to deal with their feelings. The third, court advocacy aims to provide emotional support throughout court proceedings and the fourth area of concentration is on information and referral to help those in need access the services of a variety of agencies in our community seeking to halt the rising tide of spousal abuse and domestic violence.

The Winter Park Interfaith Fellowship is a community of houses of worship all oriented to Winter Park who share the common goal of creating a better community for all the citizens of the area. Through fellowship and sharing, the Religious leaders who participate in the Fellowship support one another and the worthy goals of a wide variety of community service organizations. The Fellowship is headed by the Rev. Jana Norman-Richardson, associate pastor of the First Congregational Church of Winter Park.

Pastor issues wake-up call

SANFORD — A fellow down in Hamlin, West Virginia, more than doubled Old Rip Van Winkle's record for the nap marathon. To be honest, however, this modern Rip did not sleep all of the time - he just went to bed back in 1916 and never bothered to get up again.

Sick? Afflicted? Crippled? Not in body, although there is a strong possibility that he was sick in the head. When he died at the age of 71, he had spent the last 42 years of his life in bed. Nobody knew for sure what caused his "long night," but a neighbor said it was because he got peeved when his father sold a pet calf. His sister blamed the measles in 1916 and all went to bed - George never bothered to get up again.

Some Christians act that way. They get upset about something and lay down their commitment to the Lord. They go to bed and never get up. They sleep while others work.

Let me issue a wake up call to you today. It's time to get up and get busy for the Lord. Jesus is coming and people are dying without Christ. Let us put aside our pettiness, and let us work for Christ.

SRD keeps on growing and growing

SANFORD — With the annual Soap Box Derby coming up tomorrow it got me to thinking about how much things have changed, mostly for the better. In Sanford since Mike Kirby took over the reins of the Sanford Recreation and Parks Department.

With the help of Tom Farnsworth, Rocky Ellingsworth, Jim Schaefer, Tom Kelly and the others in the department, the SRD has grown by leaps and bounds.

Just a few short years ago, the Soap Box Derby started on 17-92 with barely enough cars to run the event.

Now we have a beautiful Derby Park just off of SR 46A on Oregon Avenue that is the envy of any in the country, save possibly the big track in Akron, Ohio, more cars than you can shake a stick at and several rallies during the year so competitors can test their cars.

And less than 10 years ago we had a men's softball league, a women's softball league, a junior major baseball league, a little major baseball league and a pee wee league. None of the leagues had more than six teams and we were still getting forfeits. And there were only four or five of us umpiring all of the games.

Now we have three or four men's softball leagues, two women's softball leagues, a Co-Ed softball league and a Church softball league. And we could probably have more leagues if we had more playing fields.

We also have a Senior Babe Ruth League (16-18 year olds), a Babe Ruth League (13-15 years old) with two five team divisions, a Bambino League (10-12 year olds) with two six team divisions, a Pee Wee League (7-9 year olds) with 11 teams, a T-Ball League (5-6 year olds) with five teams, and a girls' softball league.

All of this with a successful new Little League group also operating within the city.

And we also have an umpire's association with more than enough people to score and officiate all of the games.

And that's not to mention the Youth Flag Football League (made up of three age divisions), that plays in the fall. Adult Flag Football leagues, the youth basketball leagues (three boys' divisions and two girls' divisions), that play in the winter, an adult church basketball league that plays two seasons during the year, a summer youth basketball league for high school age players, and recreational and power volleyball leagues that play three seasons during the year.

And there has also been a lot of improvements in the facilities.

In addition to building the Soap Box Derby Park, the downtown softball field has been converted into a second youth baseball field, Lee P. Moore Park was built. Pinehurst Park had its fences moved back, new dugouts built and new turf and a new lighting system installed, and Chase Park had its fences raised among other improvements.

And last we forget possibly the biggest project of them all...The renovation of Sanford Memorial Stadium.

New lights, new turf, new seats, a new paint job, a new sound system, a new scoreboard, just to name a few of the improvements. By the time the project is finished, the stadium will again be a showplace that the whole county will be proud of.

The first thing that will be held at the stadium will be the ASA (Amateur Softball Association) Men's Open Softball Nationals, the world championship for the big boys of softball.

The stadium also figures to house the older Babe Ruth baseball leagues, several adult baseball leagues, the Adult Flag Football leagues, college baseball games, tournaments, concerts, the possibilities are endless.

Also on the drawing board is a fast pitch softball league for the younger girls who will have to play the game in high school and college and there are still hopes of building a multi-level baseball/softball complex somewhere in the city.

So just keep your eyes open, I'm sure there are a lot more good ideas for the future being formed down at the Downtown Youth Center.

Speaking of growing. Sanford American Legion Post 53 will sponsor as many as six baseball teams this summer.

That's a far cry from five years ago when Mike Powers and Rod Ferguson were having a hard time filling one team. And that's just in Sanford, we know there will be several different summer teams from the different communities in the county for the high school and early college aged players to play on.

When you see the interest in baseball within this county and see the amount of money professional players are making, it makes you want to laugh when you here people say that baseball is a dead sport. Wake up and just look around nay-sayers.

Congratulations and good luck David. Hats off to the Boston Red Sox. It's about time someone realized that David Eckstein is a very talented baseball player who can really play this game. I still believe he will make it big because he has the drive and determination to make it and will make us and his family proud.

Babe Ruth Series

Pirates-Royals meet in finals

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — The top two teams from the regular season in the Sanford Recreation Department Babe Ruth Baseball League will square off in the City Championship Series tomorrow morning and the burning question is, can anyone beat the Moose Lodge Pirates?

The Pirates are 17-0 this season and will be looking for their third straight City Series championship when they meet the Blitz Clean Royals, who went 17-2 and claimed the American Division title. In Game One on Zinn Beck Field at 10 a.m.

Game two of the Best-Two-out-of-Three series will be on Monday at 5:45 p.m. with the third game, if both teams have one win, being played on Tuesday at 5:45 p.m.

The Pirates, under coaches Tollie Frank and Ken Erickson, swept away the Nobles Construction White Sox in two games in the semi-finals, 8-1 and 10-4. They are led by Jay Roland, William Cleveland, Richard Wiggins, Adam Frank, John Brooks, Jeremy Heckle and Nick Erickson.

The Royals, under coaches Brian Jones and Larry Chunal, also won their semifinal series in two games, dumping the Knights of Columbus Cardinals 7-4 and 10-2. They are led by Bud Bennett, Pooh Killingsworth, Jason Sheffield, James Soydars, Uriah Kimming, Alex and Antione Anderson, Robert Lowe and Jeff Young.

The two teams met in the regular season way back on April 12th. In that game the Royals, who will be making their first appearance in City Series finals, hung with the Pirates for a while before the Moose sponsored club pulled away for a 6-1 victory.

Tire City clinches at Chase

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — It took a little work, but Tire City and Central Baptist Church of Sanford both did what they had to do as Tire City claimed the championship in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Spring Chase Park Thursday Night Slowpitch Softball League.

Last night's games were make-ups for when the lights went out on April 17.

Central Baptist fell behind Church of the Nativity Catholic of Lake Mary 4-2 after two innings and did not take the lead until exploding for six runs in the fourth inning to take a 10-4 lead and went on to beat Nativity 12-4.

Crazy Wings then wiped out a 3-0 deficit with a seven-run second inning and held on for a 12-7 victory over Nativity.

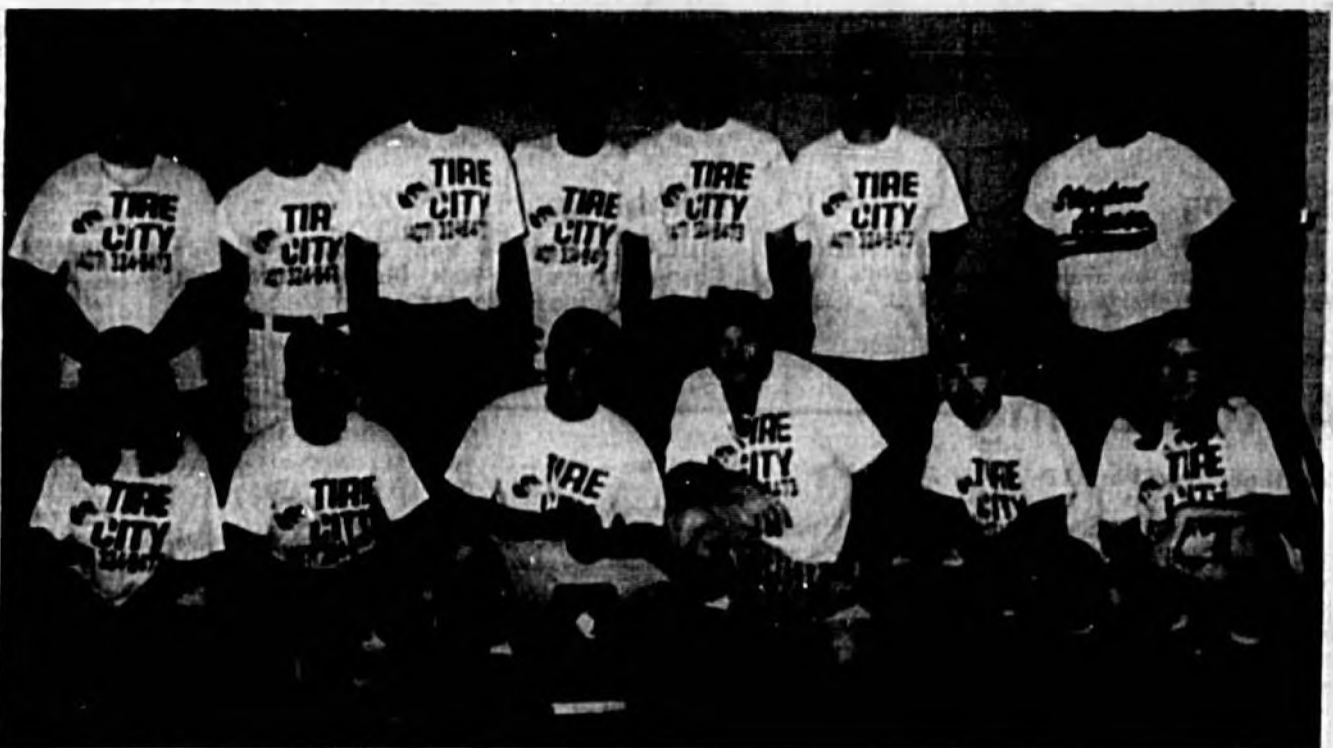

That set the stage for the last game with Tire City holding a half-game lead over Central Baptist and needing a win to secure the title. A loss would have necessitated a one-game playoff with Central Baptist.

Things started well for Tire City as it took a 6-2 lead after the top of the third inning. But Crazy Wings battled back to tie the game at 6-6 after five innings. That only seemed to incite Tire City, which reassumed control of the game by scoring five runs in the sixth inning and then added an insurance run in the seventh inning to win the game and the title 12-6.

The final standings for the league were: Tire City (9-1), Central Baptist Church of Sanford (8-2), All Souls Catholic Church of Sanford (6-4), Crazy Wings (4-6), M.T. Muggs (2-8) and Church of the Nativity Catholic of Lake Mary (1-9).

Providing the offense were:

Central Baptist Church of Sanford: three hits — Mike Hartman (double, two runs, three RBI), Asa Evans (two RBI); two hits — Mike McCoy and Jeff Berryhill (one double, two runs and one RBI each), Bill Rex (three runs), Joe Latt (run); one hit — Jay Crutchfield

How to choose summer clothes

As you purchase that new swimsuit this year--carefully consider which style will be most flattering to your figure. Here are a few suggestions to help you.

If you are small busted--look for a style that creates a bust such as draping, shirring, slight padding, underwire, stripes that draw the eye to the bust, textured fabric gathering.

If you are full busted--look for styles that support, bra cups, molded cups, sleek, high neck, simple tank style, busline patterning, sculpting or draping.

If you have a tummy bulge--look for low-on-the-leg cuts or patterns, gathers at waistband, hips, and vertical lines.

If you have full hips--look for styles that are above or below the crease between thigh and hip or a skirt bottom, empire waist, color banded neckline, bright color on top with a darker color on the bottom.

If you have a long torso--look for styles that have waistbands and high cut legs.

If you have saddlebags--look for styles that hit along the crease between thigh and hip or cover the saddlebags.

If you are very thin--look for styles that cover, mini-skirted two pieces, or have high necks.

If you have a thick waist--look for styles that hide the waist, have high cut legs, have a halter neck.

The increased popularity of running as a fitness activity in this country is phenomenal, and the number of runners has doubled in the recent years. Clothing plays an important part in a runner's general comfort, speed, and development of proper runner style.

The key factor in choosing running clothes is the individua's needs. All runners should keep in mind several points when choosing the basic attire for running, a pair of shorts and a T-shirt or a sleeveless top called a singlet.

Running gear should fit closely but not tightly. A close fit avoids the problem of loose edges of clothing flapping in the breeze and creating a drag on running speed. It also prevents loose edges from catching on objects. The stretchy fabric of which jogging shorts and tops are often made solves many problems of fit. Most shorts have expandable waistlines. Look for soft, easily stretchable elastic at the waistline. Many shorts adjust with a drawstring that allows for a wide range of waistline sizes. Be sure the waistline has some elastic as well as the drawstring to allow room for breathing and movement once the drawstring is tied.

Be certain that the waist-to-crotch length is sufficient so that the crotch line is not binding. Each company has a slightly different "ideal figure" in mind when cutting its own line of clothing, so it is best to try on several different brands as you search for the right fit.

The fit of the singlet is of great importance because the arm motion used in running can push an ill-fitting garment out of position or cause chafing of the arms, chest, and underarm area.

An important aspect of fit is whether or not the garment will keep its size after laundering. Most manmade fabrics tend not to shrink significantly, but check the labels on natural fiber garments, particularly cotton, before purchasing to see whether they are shrink resistant.

Out of control teens need limits

Dear Parents, We need to have a "counseling" session about a situation I've seen repeated over and over during my years working with your children. I am not referring to single parental families where the custodial parent has to work long hours, often leaving the kids home alone, just to keep food on the table and a roof over the family's heads. I'm referring to the middle and upper middle class two parent families where there are adequate financial resources, often with only one parent working. The parent will come to me distraught about his or her teenager who has gotten out of control.

They will lament that they have done everything they can to give their children a good life and wonder where they have gone wrong. The usual comment is, "All I've ever wanted is for my kids to be happy. I've done everything I can for them and this is what happens!"

That statement loses sight of what our primary responsibility is. It is to rear out children to be responsible, productive, ethical and moral human beings. It is NOT about making our children happy. Real happiness can never be given. It must be earned through feelings of accomplishment and self-respect.

However, when youngsters are given adequate doses of love, training and responsibility for the consequences of their behavior, they often experience happiness as well. Giving our kids everything they want, catering to their every whim, and being their whipping boy when they are angry neither makes them happy or responsible. It makes them behave like spoiled brats who have no respect for parents, teachers, or work.

If your teenagers are behaving in ways that they know are against your family's values of against the house rules, then threatening to run away, or worse, if you attempt to set limits on their behavior, you need to get outside help in re-establishing respect and responsibility in your home.

Woman's fear of kissing puts her fiance in a funk

DEAR ABBY: We are 63 and 86, and engaged to be married. This is my problem: I haven't had a "real" kiss for some time.

My fiancee, Emma, had a sore throat several months ago, so she stopped kissing me on the lips. Recently she told me she had seen on television that there was an outbreak of the "kissing disease." Now she has become completely paranoid about it.

Emma says she loves me and is always very attentive when we're together. However, when I try to kiss her, I have to settle for a kiss on the cheek.

Am I being unreasonable to want a kiss on the lips? TIRE OF TURNING THE OTHER CHEEK

DEAR TIRE: In view of the fact that you and Emma are engaged to be married, you are not being unreasonable in wanting to be kissed in a romantic fashion. Ask Emma to be frank with you. She may be reluctant to tell you that you have a halitosis problem. If that's not it, schedule a visit with a physician who can explain to Emma how the "kissing disease" (infectious mononucleosis) is transmitted, and screen you for it. If neither of you has it, you won't get it from each other — and she can kiss you till the cows come home with perfect peace of mind.

DEAR ABBY: You published a poem years ago that I clipped and enjoyed very much. It was a poem that compared the behavior of man and the ape, and was quite humorous. I think the title was "The Monkey's Disgrace." Would you put it in your column again, please? CHESAPEAKE, VA.

DEAR CHESAPEAKE: With pleasure. That poem last appeared in my column in 1987. It's one of my favorites.

PHARMACY TOPICS By: Abi J. Fakeye, R.Ph.

Interaction alert: combining grapefruit juice and calcium channel blockers can cause dangerous blood pressure fluctuations and other heart symptoms. Archives of Family Medicine reports. Chicken pox is linked to about 10,000 hospitalizations and 100 deaths each year. Vaccination is recommended for babies between 12 and 18 months, and for older kids who haven't had the virus. Increasing bone density calls for increased calcium and plenty of exercise, researchers at the University of Cincinnati note. Neither works adequately without the other, the doctors say. Ongoing research by the National Institute of Health will study whether giving insulin pills to high-risk children and young adults could head off diabetes before it strikes.

Controlling the spread of STDs

DEAR DR. GOTT: A recent segment on our local TV station addressed the problem of cervical cancer. The reporter concluded by saying that a woman who has unprotected sex with a man who has had multiple partners has an increased risk of cervical cancer. The implication is that when you have sex, you are also having sex with anyone your partner had sex with. What gives?

DEAR READER: In practical terms, the reporter is correct. More than 30 sexually transmitted diseases have now been identified. Some, like genital warts, are associated with cervical cancer and can be spread even when the infected partner is free of symptoms.

Thus, from an epidemiologic standpoint, you run the risk of contracting any STD that your partner got from a previous sexual encounter. In essence, you are having sex with your partner's past sex partners, at least as far as the microorganisms are concerned.

This can be a serious problem in promiscuous young people who flit from one one-night stand to another without using proper protection.

It is less of a problem in older adults who may, in their youth, have had multiple partners but who have been completely free of any STD symptoms for decades.

When I was growing up, the encompassing fear of intercourse related to pregnancy. Today, however, people have far more to fear, because the incidence of STDs — some very serious ones, including AIDS — is rising exponentially. This is a compelling reason for sexually active women to have annual Pap tests and examinations — and for both men and women to exercise caution in their choice of partners and in the ways they express their sexuality.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Where to Find Sex Information."

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is it necessary to take a flu shot every year? I'm 72 years old and have emphysema. When my doctor urged me to take a flu shot, I reluctantly agreed. However, during the winter, I had three wicked colds, so I doubt that the shot helped.

DEAR READER: I don't agree. First of all, the flu shot is formulated each year to protect patients only from the flu. It has no effect whatsoever on the common cold or any other upper respiratory infection.

Second, given your age and the presence of a chronic lung disorder, you need to be protected against the flu, which could cause serious pneumonia.

In my opinion, you need an annual flu shot. But don't expect too much

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

"nothing" and ignored it. But I'm wondering what other people do in a situation like this.

DEAR READER: During medical testing, doctors often discover incidental and harmless abnormalities. Kidney cysts are such a finding.

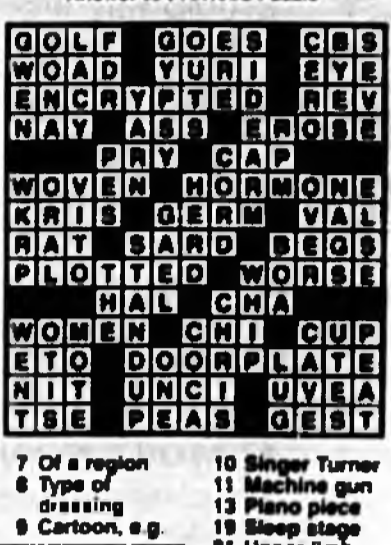

Before the advent of CT scanning, these cysts were generally not seen on routine X-ray tests. Now, however, physicians sometimes obtain more information from CT scans than they need.

In my experience, renal cysts are common, pose no threat to health and can be ignored. When patients are given this information, they usually gladly get on with their lives and pay no attention to the cysts, which cause no symptoms anyway.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Down the slippery slope

By Phillip Alder

Bridge can be a misleading game. For example, when the Principle of Restricted Choice was first described, it triggered numerous articles in magazines around the globe, some accurate, some not.

South operated under a misconception in today's deal. See if you can spot it.

After North's forcing raise, South cue-bid to express slam interest because he had three aces. This was enough to persuade North to take control with Blackwood.

South, faced with an unavoidable diamond loser, had to bring in the trump suit without loss.

After winning the first trick in the dummy, declarer called for the spade queen. However, when East played low without a care, South went up with his ace and down in his contract. Why?

He explained, "A few years ago Zia Mahmood wrote a Bois Bridge Tips article. His tip was that if they don't cover, they haven't got it. So, when East didn't cover with the spade king, I concluded he didn't have it. Also, the a priori odds were in my favor. West will have a singleton king 13 percent of the time, whereas East will have all three trumps only 11 percent of the time."

Do you see why North wasn't impressed with these arguments?

South overlooked that as he had shown at least a five-card spade suit with his opening bid, East was never going to cover the spade queen, whether he started with king-third or king-doubleton. And a priori, East will have king doubleton 26 percent of the time. So, running the spade queen is easily the right play.
