Battle Flotillas Near Libya

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two U.S. aircraft carrier battle groups moved eastward in the Mediterranean today, waiting for the possible go-ahead by President Reagan to launch a retaliatory air strike against Libya. U.S. officials said.

The shift toward the central Mediterranean by the carriers Coral Sea and America, in separate forces totaling 21 ships, was not viewed by the officials as a prelude to an attack but it did bring the ships closer to Libya.

The two battle groups steamed separately as they edged near their potential target and did not form a single task force, the officials said Thursday.

"They will link up if a decision is made to do something, but not right now," said one source, requesting anonymity.

The officials said the administration has decided to retaliate against Libya for the terrorist attack in West Berlin a week ago that killed an American soldier, a Turkish woman and wounded 50 other Americans, but no decision has been made about when to attack or how to carry out the strike.

Reagan has stopped short of pinning the blame on Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy for the bombing of the Berlin discotheque, saying only that the administration was gathering evidence about who may be responsible for the bloody attack and would retaliate only when it had sufficient proof.

But Army Gen. Bernard Rogers, the supreme allied commander in Europe, was not as reticent.

He said in Atlanta Wednesday there is "indisputable evidence" that Khadafy was behind the terrorist act, according to a Pentagon transcript of his remarks made available Thursday.

"The disco in Berlin — the evidence is there," he said. "We have indisputable evidence and I won't tell you how we get it because ... well, I can't tell you how we get it. But it's there."

The Washington Post reported Friday that the United States had been warned about the bombing of the discotheque. An administration official told the Post the United States learned of the bombing "days before" the attack.

Rogers said U.S. officials tried to warn soldiers about the bombing, but, "We were about 15 minutes too late."

Sesame Street personality Bob McGrath talks to students about reading and fun at Thursday session at Lake Mary Elementary School.

Sesame Street Star Links Reading, Fun

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Sesame Street television show personality Bob McGrath appeared in three Seminole County elementary schools Wednesday and Thursday to congratulate students for their accomplishments in the Friendly Ice Cream Incentive Program. McGrath is a spokesman for the restaurant-sponsored effort, done in a cooperation with ten county elementary schools.

"We hope the students will remember our message connecting books, reading, and having a good time," McGrath said. "All of us connected with Sesame Street have had offers to get involved with programs, but this is the most valid and most exciting to come along in a long time," he said between shows Thursday morning at Lake Mary Elementary School.

The program is designed by Friendly Restaurants to make a contribution to the central Florida community as they open new restaurants here. "There is much talk of community involvement from corporations, but this is an honest attempt to be a good neighbor and member of the community," McGrath said. "This is a genuine program, and they did their homework on it, just like we did in developing Sesame Street. The show was planned for two years before we went on the air."

The program kicked off in March, with ice

7-Eleven Gives In; Will Halt Sales Of Adult Magazines

From Staff and Wire Reports

Local and national religious leaders applauded Southland Corp.'s decision Thursday to ban the sale of adult magazines at their 7-Eleven stores nationwide, even if it forces people "to go to Sleazetown" to buy Playboy.

"I think it is a tremendous victory for the people who are concerned with the pollution of the mind as the Surgeon General is with the pollution of the body," said John Butler Book, religious activist and pastor of the Northside Church of Christ in south Seminole County.

"When I heard about it this morning, I got down on my knees and thanked the Lord. Book said the next step is to get references to such material off television. He said if the banning of cigarette ads is not censorship from a physical health standpoint then the banning of such material should not be considered censorship from a mental health standpoint.

The Five Points 7-Eleven south of Sanford was picketed on two occasions recently by persons demanding the end to sales of magazines they said were pornography.

Lake Mary Sees 'Excellent' Chief Candidates

"I'm impressed," said Lake Mary Mayor Dick Fess following Thursday night's initial interview of four of the six final candidates for the city's chief of police.

The (Central Florida Police Chief's Association) screening committee did a good job and a fair job," commissioner Russ Megonegal said at the conclusion of the interviews and after the candidates had left.

Fess said the candidates recommended for their consideration were "excellent". The city had asked the screening committee to sift through about 50 applications for the job, and narrow the field to a final group for interviews.

The half-hour question and answer sessions between commissioners and the candidates were conducted in an unusually empty city hall.

even though the meeting was announced as a public work session. Only the commissioners, mayor, city manager Kathy Rice, and an Evening Herald reporter attended.

The four candidates interviewed were: Edward Joseph Overman, Altamonte Springs, an Altamonte Springs police lieutenant; Robert Andrew O'Conner, Winter Park, a former Seminole County Sheriff's Deputy; Mark Bradford Lamprey, Casselberry, a Winter Garden police lieutenant; and Frederick Justin Staly, Orlando, an Orange County Sheriff's Department detective sergeant.

The candidates fielded questions from all commissioners and the mayor including dress code, the use of deadly force, high speed pursuit.

Terrorism Fears Reduce Bookings

Eastern Cancels Planned Miami To Madrid Route

MIAMI (UPI) — Eastern Airlines has canceled plans to open a Miami-to-Madrid route because increasing fears of terrorism in Europe have reduced bookings drastically, airline officials said.

"We're in the process now of informing people with reservations they're going to have to seek alternate arrangements," Eastern spokesman Glenn Parsons said Thursday evening. "We had very low load factors. It was a very obvious economic decision to be made."

Eastern was believed to be the first major U.S. carrier to cancel flights outright to Europe for economic reasons related to terrorist incidents.

Eastern flies to only one European city, London, but saw the Miami-to-Madrid route as a lucrative pipeline linking Spain and Latin America.

"People are booking the United States and Canada ... and they're taking cruises but they are not interested in flying to some of these places in the Middle East and Europe."

Eastern pulled full page newspaper ads Thursday and halted a major marketing campaign it began a week ago to launch the flights to Spain, which were to begin May 1. Marketing officials had given travel presentations touting the route to agents in Barcelona and Madrid only last week.

"People are booking the United States and Canada and Alaska and they're taking cruises but they're just not interested in flying to some of these places in the Middle East and Europe," Parsons said.

The cancellation of the new route will not alter Eastern's plans to hire 700 more flight attendants, Parsons said. Eastern also announced Thursday it will hire 220 new computer operators, secretaries and part-time reservations agents in Miami.

In another development, the Department of Transportation said it will hold a hearing next month on the competitive implications of Texas Air's proposal to take over Eastern Airlines.

The proposed merger has been challenged by Delta, Presidential Airways, People Express, Pan American and USAir.

After 42 Years Pen Pals To Meet

By Deane Jordan

Paula Tanner Girard evidently has the "write stuff" because after 42 years of correspondence she will meet her English pen pal for the first time tomorrow.

And what will the south Seminole County woman and her pal do?

"Talk." And talk, and talk, and talk. They've got four decades to recap.

"The poor guys will have to sit in the car. We'll talk non stop all day, all night long and all day Sunday," said Mrs. Girard of Lake Seminary Circle.

Mrs. Girard, 57, who was an art teacher in Seminole County for 13 years before recently retiring to engage in creative writing full time, will leave with her husband Jerry for England

Multi-Billion-Dollar Heroin Ring Smashed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Authorities say they have smashed a multibillion-dollar wholesale heroin distribution ring that sold enough of the drug to supply as many as 100,000 addicts every day for a year.

In raids Wednesday and Thursday in New York and Florida, teams of federal, state and city law enforcement authorities arrested 38 suspects and seized 1.5 kilograms of heroin and 1 kilogram of cocaine as well as cash, weapons, fur coats and jewels. Two others sought in the case remained at large.

Robert Stutman, special agent for the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, said Thursday the suspects, who included three reputed members of an organized crime family, were part of nine interrelated groups that distributed 2,300 pounds of heroin a year, worth about $2.1 billion on the street.

"It was enough to supply 90,000 to 100,000 addicts daily for a year."

That amounts to one-sixth of the drug used each year in the United States and 30 percent of the heroin used in New York, he said at a news conference with U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani and New York City Police Commissioner Benjamin Ward.

"It was enough to supply 90,000 to 100,000 addicts daily for a year," Stutman said.

There was no official estimate of the amount or worth of cocaine distributed, but authorities said heroin was the ring's main commodity, with seven of the groups dealing in heroin and two in cocaine. The officials declined to say whether the suspects were involved in importing the drugs.

Giuliani said the 38 arrests "constitute one of the most effective blows ever delivered in New York against organizations that profit from the sale of heroin and cocaine."

The two-year investigation leading to the arrests was the "largest single joint ... narcotics action in New York state," Stutman said. In all, 300 DEA agents, New York City police officers and New York state troopers were involved in "Operation Lesson," he said.

Stutman said the investigation got its name because the drug operation "was a festering sore in the city of New York."

14-Year-Old AIDS Victim May Return to Empty Classes

KOKOMO, Ind. (UPI) — Authorities feared today that 14-year-old AIDS victim Ryan White might find scores of empty seats when he shows up for his second full day of school since summer.

Only 27 of the 364 pupils at Western Middle School went home Thursday when they learned Ryan was on his way back, and Principal Ron Colby said, "I really feel things went very well."

"Tomorrow may be something different," he said. Ryan's only other full day of school this year came Feb. 21. Parents had learned the day before he would be back in school and 151 students stayed home.

"Hopefully in a couple of days they will be back," said Ryan's mother, Jeanne White. She reacted with resignation to the news that other parents had decided to appeal the judge's decision that let Ryan back into school Thursday.

"It's their choice," she said.

Contra Aid Catch May Force Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has chosen ground rules for reconsidering President Reagan's Contra aid request that tie it to a spending bill Reagan opposes and could force him to veto the very aid he has sought.

The aid package is attached to a $1.7 billion spending bill that carries some projects Reagan opposes and the White House says he may veto the measure even if it contains the $100 million in military and other aid to the rebels fighting the Nicaraguan government.

"This is clearly an effort to kill our proposal by delaying tactics, tactics that could jeopardize the lives of the freedom-fighters," White House spokesman Larry Speakes quoted Reagan as saying on Thursday.

But the issue was settled Thursday by a voice vote of the Rules Committee, despite an appeal by Secretary of State George Shultz to Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., for an aid package stripped of any entanglements.

Under the rules adopted by the House, if the spending bill passes, the Contra aid remains tied to it. If the spending bill fails, the House provided an escape clause automatically dropping the Contra aid package and sending only the overall spending bill to the Senate for a conference committee.

Italian Wine Taken Off Shelves

By United Press International

Liquor distributors nationwide removed Italian wines from store shelves in response to a government advisory against drinking the vintages until tests determine whether they are contaminated with deadly methanol.

The federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms said Thursday it learned April 1 that some Italian wine contained high levels of wood alcohol, or methanol. A spokesman said a number of people in Italy have become ill or have died after drinking such wine.

"We are taking all steps to guarantee the safety of the American consumer, even though, as of now, there is no evidence that the methanol contaminated Italian wines have reached this country," said Stephen Higgins, director of the agency.

Italy is the largest exporter of wine to the United States, the agency said.

Shuttle Rocket Redesign Costly

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — In the wake of the Challenger disaster, space agency engineers are focusing on eight to 10 potential rocket joint design changes that could cost up to $500 million to implement, officials say.

J.R. Thompson, directing NASA's accident investigation, met with three members of the presidential disaster commission Thursday to review preliminary results of tests to pin down exactly how the accident happened.

A formal report to the entire panel is expected April 18 and the commission, in turn, will report to President Reagan by early June.

Challenger was destroyed when a joint between the lower two of four fuel segments in its right-hand booster rocket ruptured. Engineers at the Marshall Space Flight Center are spearheading the work to come up with a new joint design to prevent a repeat of the disaster.

Opponents Take Aim at Gun Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House approved a bill making the transport of rifles and shotguns across state lines easier, but despite a continued ban on interstate handgun sales, gun control advocates say the fight for tougher laws is not over.

In the wake of a House vote Thursday to ease gun laws for the first time in 18 years, a spokeswoman for Handgun Control Inc., said the group is mounting a new drive to require a waiting period before a handgun can be purchased.

After a tumultuous session, the House approved 292-130 the first change in the federal gun laws in 18 years by passing a bill that would make it easier to buy and transport rifles and shotguns across state lines.

Heart Shortage Cuts Transplants

CHICAGO (UPI) — Heart transplants could save thousands of lives in the United States every year, except for a major problem — there are not enough hearts to go around.

The demand for donor hearts outstrips the supply by about 15 times, meaning that "between 14,000 and 15,000 people die each year who could benefit from a heart transplant," said Roger Evans of the Battelle Human Research Centers in Seattle.

And this severe donor heart shortage may get worse as public health policy seeks to reduce accidental deaths, the major source of viable organ donors, Evans said.

"The seatbelt laws, child restraint laws, drunk driving laws are in many ways reducing the pool of available hearts," Evans said.

Soviets Say Arms Race Renewed

MOSCOW (UPI) — The United States fired the starting gun for a new leg of the superpower arms race with its latest underground nuclear test, the Soviet Union warned.

"The new American nuclear test on the Nevada test site can be assessed as an open challenge by Washington to world public opinion," a television news commentator said Thursday.

Soviet Leader Mikhail Gorbachev warned earlier this week the Soviet Union would abandon its unilateral test ban if the United States went ahead with Thursday's detonation — the second U.S. nuclear test in less than three weeks.

Wholesale Prices Dip In First Quarter

By T.R. Eastham

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices fell at a whopping annual rate of 12.4 percent during the first quarter of 1986, the largest quarterly decline since the government started keeping the financial index in 1947, the Labor Department said today.

Plunging gasoline prices, down a record 21.9 percent in March, and home heating oil cost caused most of the severe drop.

The Producer Price Index for Finished Goods fell 1.1 percent in March after a record 1.6 percent decline in February and a drop of 0.7 percent in January, according to a report prepared by the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Extended for 12 months and adjusted for seasonal changes, wholesale prices declined at an annual rate of 12.4 percent during the first three months of the year, another record. The annual rate of wholesale deflation in March was 12.0 percent.

The heaviest decline was again in energy, where the collapse of oil prices dragged the index back 13.4 percent following a 9.4 percent decline in February. The 21.9 percent fall in gasoline prices followed a 11.1 percent decline in February.

Home heating oil prices dropped 6 percent in March following a record 6.2 percent decrease the previous month.

Food prices increased 0.3 percent overall last month following an 1.6 percent decline in February, unusual for mid-winter. Prices for fresh fruits and vegetables, pork, poultry and eggs moved up while wholesale costs fell sharply for beef and veal.

The index for consumer goods other than foods and energy rose 0.8 percent after seasonal adjustment, following a 0.1 percent decrease in February.

Prices for toys and cosmetics declined, but household furniture, drugs, alcoholic beverages and light motor trucks all advanced.

The index for intermediate materials, supplies and components fell 1.2 percent. The annual rate for the quarter was a record 11.6 percent.

Producer costs for crude materials declined 2.8 percent last month, due mostly to the drop in petroleum prices.

House Panel Votes To Repeal Joint And Several Liability

By Michael McClelland

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The House Commerce committee Thursday voted to abolish the controversial legal doctrine of joint and several liability despite charges they were protecting "the negligent, the drunk driver, the polluter."

Joint and several is at the heart of a raging legislative battle over skyrocketing commercial insurance rates. The doctrine holds that any defendant in a multiple defendant suit can be forced to pay all damages, even if he is only responsible for a small percent.

Insurance companies say that doctrine encourages litigants to go after the "deep pocket" defendant — in many cases, an insurance company. Joint and several, they say, has cut into their business and forced them to raise rates.

One example, said bill sponsor Rep. Sam Bell, D-Ormond Beach is a lower court ruling against Walt Disney World upheld by the 4th District Court of Appeal Wednesday. The court ordered Disney to pay 88 percent of the damages awarded, $64,000, even though the lower court had determined Disney was 1 percent responsible for the amusement ride accident.

"That highlights the absurdity of the law," said Bell. "It (his bill) would make people responsible only for their rightful share of damages."

Opponents of the repeal say joint and several protects innocent victims of negligence by ensuring they will be compensated for their injuries even if one or more of the defendants cannot pay. They claim the insurance industry reaped the benefit of insuring poor risks to gain investment capital in the high-interest years of the late 1970s, and is now distorting facts to gain favorable legislation.

"This (repeal) will protect the negligent, the drunk driver, the polluter," charged Academy of Florida Trial Lawyers spokesman Steve Masterson. "If there is a litigation crisis, make (insurance spokesmen) come in and prove it. Don't pass laws because they sneak around the back corridors and spread stories about the anecdotal bad case."

Bell's bill (HB172) would make each defendant pay only damages he is directly responsible for, except in the case of environmental damage. Polluters — the shipper and oil company involved in an oil spill, for example — would still be subject to joint and several litigation.

The bill passed the influential Commerce committee by a vote of 14-6. A similar bill passed the House in 1985, but failed to win Senate approval. This year, Bell and House Speaker James Harold Thompson say they will not bring the bill before the full House unless the Senate first acts on joint and several.

Bell predicted the House would approve a repeal again this year, but was not sure of its chances in the Senate.

"But it's there," Bell said. "It's ready if we need it."

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Snow from a weak slow-moving storm that forced the postponement of a major league baseball game lingered over parts of the Northeast today while cold weather to the west prompted livestock warnings in Montana. Snowshowers stretched from the upper Ohio valley across the northern and central Appalachians today, with some rain along the northern Atlantic coast. Up to 5 inches of snow was expected in parts of Ohio and West Virginia. Frigid temperatures chilled much of the Northeast and reached as far south as South Carolina. Indianapolis reported 30 degrees early today, and Binghamton, N.Y., had a 25-degree reading. At Columbia, S.C., it was a chilly 33. On Thursday, snowshowers and cold temperatures stretched from the Great Lakes across the central Appalachians into northern New England, dumping a foot of snow on Terre Haute in the northern mountains of West Virginia. Elkins, W.Va., which received nearly 8 inches, shattered its seasonal snowfall record with a total of 114.1 inches, breaking the previous record of 107.7 set during the 1970-71 season. Travelers advisories were issued for portions of Ohio, where spring snow made roads slick. "It's a little unusual to be sending one out so late in the season but it's happened before," said National Weather Service meteorologist Jim Thompson. "Snow is beginning to accumulate on the highways and the roads are becoming icy." In Pittsburgh, where Thursday's high was 36, the scheduled baseball game between the Pirates and the New York Mets was postponed. About an inch of snow fell on the area, causing several minor accidents, police said. "A large number of drivers thought winter was over because of the warm weather and took their snow tires off," a state trooper said. "That was a mistake." In New York, snow flurries were reported in Buffalo, Syracuse and Rochester, where slick roads were blamed for several minor traffic accidents. A four-car pileup on Interstate 490 in Rochester closed the highway for two hours.

The second suspect allegedly dragged Elizabeth Ann Cortez, 18, from her home and was trying to rip her clothes off when her screams caused both suspects to flee, police said.

The attacks occurred at about 8:30 p.m. Monday. Michael Crawford Cook, 23, and Jeffrey Scott Fawdry, 23, both of 704 Sandpiper Lane, were both charged with aggravated battery and burglary at the Casselberry police station at about 2 p.m. Wednesday. Fawdry is accused of attacking the woman, while Cook allegedly fought with the man, police said.

They were being held in lieu of $4,500 bond each.

FORGERY ARREST

A man who allegedly presented a check drawn on an Altamonte Springs snack shop's account for cash at Sun Bank on Douglas Ave., Altamonte Springs, has been charged with uttering a forged instrument.

The attempt to cash the $50 check was made at about 7 p.m. Wednesday and bank employees called Altamonte Springs police who questioned a suspect at the scene.

The owner of Snacks by the Pound, 130 E. State Road 436 was called to the bank. He told police that check was missing and that neither he nor his wife had given anyone permission to take it.

Anthony Freeman Smith, 18, of 225 Growlingwood Trail, was arrested at 7:31 p.m. and was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

A television worth about $500 was stolen from the home of Torey Swafford, 26, of 624 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford, Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

Wanda J. Bingham, 32, of 3803 Cypress Ave., reported to sheriff's deputies that a $239 video recorder, a $200 stereo, a $119 television and a $400 television were stolen from her home between April 4 and Wednesday.

A $1,000 television and a $500 video recorder were stolen from the home of Joseph Smith, 48, of 1040 Harrison St., Oviedo, Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

Paul M. Rodriguez, 37, of 7035 Citrus Point Court, Winter Park, reported to sheriff's deputies a $439 lawnmower was stolen from his garage between March 29 and Wednesday.

A $400 video recorder was stolen from the home of James A. Schweitzer, 57, of 2365 Sun Valley Court, Winter Park, Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

Kenneth D. Wingate, 24, of 128 Stefannik Road, Winter Park, reported to sheriff's deputies that a $300 weed eater was stolen from his yard Tuesday or Wednesday.

Southern Gospel

The Singing Emmanuels from Fitzgerald, Ga., will present a gospel concert at the Church of God of Prophecy, 2509 South Elm, Sanford, tonight at 7:30 p.m. The nine gospel singers are members of the Southern Gospel Music Association. The general public has been invited to the concert, without charge. Bishop Steven L. Gilmer is pastor of the church.

Circuit Court Sentencings

A 27-year-old woman accused of slashing a 17-year-old girl on the arms has pleaded no contest to battery. It was one of nine cases heard in circuit court recently.

Betty Joyce Bullock, of 520 Mitchell Hammock, Oviedo, entered the plea before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor who set May 20 for sentencing. She could receive up to a year in the county jail.

According to court records, Ms. Bullock and the girl got into an argument at a party a week before the Nov. 25 incident.

The victim told police of the attack after she was treated at Winter Park Memorial Hospital in Winter Park for a 5-inch cut on one arm and a small cut on the other arm.

Ms. Bullock was arrested Nov. 26 at Broadway's Market, State Road 419, Oviedo.

In other court action:

—Frank Daniel Verdino, 20, of 619 Ivanhoe Way, arrested Feb. 6 in Del Rio, Texas, reportedly driving a car stolen from Seminole County. He pleaded guilty to conspiracy to commit burglary and possession of burglary tools and could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced today by Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Lefler. According to court records, the stolen vehicle was a 1979 Toyota.

—Annie Jean Burgess, 19, of 41 Higgins Terrace, Sanford, arrested in December after slashing a man with a straight razor. She was sentenced by Lefler to one year probation and ordered to complete 50 hours of community service. Further, the judge ordered her to pay $301.12 in restitution and $300 to the Public Defender's office. According to court records, Eugene Jackson of Sanford walked to Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford after being slashed with a straight razor on the neck and chest. He was treated for a 6-inch wound on his neck and a foot-long gash on his chest, a Sanford police report said. Jackson was injured at his Cowan Moughton Terrace home. According to court records, a woman arrived there and "wanted to talk to him." When he refused to talk, she reportedly chased him into a bathroom and cut him.

—Daniel Thomas Oliver, 18, of Center St., Sanford, arrested in September 1984 after stealing 11 bottles of wine from a supply truck and divvying up the booze with an accomplice. He was sentenced to 6 months probation, fined $200 and ordered to pay the Public Defender's office $300. According to court records, police reported seeing Oliver near a dumpster behind the Fairway Market, U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford with the wine. He could have received up to a year in the county jail.

—Larry Eugene Nettles, 24, of 147 Country Club Court, Sanford, arrested in January, has pleaded guilty to grand theft. He could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced by McGregor May 20. According to court records, he was charged with grand theft after being accused of stealing $539 from his employer, Bally's Great Escape, 980 State St., Sanford, on Jan. 4. He was arrested after questioning at the Sanford police station.

—Gregory Mark Jacobs, 26, of 341 Nebraska Ave., Longwood, arrested in November after being found in a fenced back yard at 333 E. Oakhurst Drive, Altamonte Springs. He pleaded guilty in March to trespass in an occupied structure and was sentenced by Lefler to a year of probation and 100 hours of community service. Lefler also ordered Jacobs to participate in mental health counseling. According to court records, in November two girls reported seeing a light shining into their bedrooms at that address. Jacobs, however, told police when they arrived at the scene that he had been out running when he heard a noise in the back yard and went to investigate.

—Wilson Arthur Knott Jr., 23, of Orlando, arrested Sept. 8 and charged with conspiracy, armed burglary and grand theft. He pleaded guilty in March to solicitation to commit burglary. He was sentenced to 3-years probation and ordered by Lefler to complete 50 hours of community service. The judge also ordered that Knott pay $500 in restitution. According to court records, Knott was accused of tipping burglary suspects as to when his father would not be at home. In exchange for the information, Knott was reportedly to receive 10 percent of their haul. The elder Knott's home in south Seminole County was burglarized Aug. 24 with jewelry and firearms stolen.

—Arthur Dewey Givens Jr., of Orlando, arrested in July after he reportedly borrowed a car in Seminole County but didn't return it. He was sentenced by Lefler to 3-years probation and 121 days in the county jail. Lefler gave Givens credit for 121 days already served. According to court records, Marlon Ficus told sheriff's deputies that she loaned Givens the car on June 26 to drive to a job interview in Orlando. He never returned and on June 29 she reported the car stolen.

—William David Gretzinger, 18, of 1619 Clematis Lane, Winter Park, arrested in October in connection with the theft of a $360 air compressor, was sentenced to 6 months probation and was ordered by Lefler to complete 100 hours of community service. Gretzinger was implicated in the theft of an air compressor from 1548 Chilean Lane, in south Seminole County. He could have received up to a year in the county jail.

the man to his home because he was going to find a place for her to live. The girl said she is a runaway.

At the man's apartment he allegedly gave the girls tequila and the 15-year-old laid down on the living room sofa and the 16-year-old went to bed in a bedroom, a police report said.

The 15-year-old said the man began fondling her. He told her he was a "masseur" and tried to remove some of her clothing, the report said.

Two other men arrived at the apartment and the 15-year-old, who was unable to awaken the 16-year-old, was able to escape alone, the report said.

She went to a nearby apartment and contacted her father who called police to the scene, the report said.

Police arrived and entered to find the suspect's apartment empty.

The man was located in a vehicle at Denny's Restaurant, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, at about 2:10 p.m. Wednesday.

The second girl was found at a home where the 15-year-old said she might be. She told police the man had taken her there after she refused to "sleep" with him. She said she had awakened to find the man fondling her. He allegedly said he was a "masseur," but the girl said she resisted when he allegedly tried to remove some of her clothing.

Jamal Ryad Aly of 101 E. Altamonte Drive #1823, has been charged in the case. He was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

JAIL PUNCH CHARGE

A 22-year-old Altamonte Springs woman, jailed for violation of probation, has been charged with battery on a corrections officer after having allegedly punched a Seminole County jail guard in the face.

The inmate, who was in a recreation area at the jail at about 2:15 p.m. Tuesday, reportedly asked guard Kimberly Dale for a drink of water. Ms. Dale refused the request, but called a jail nurse who gave the inmate a small paper cup of water, a sheriff's report said.

The woman drank the water, crushed the cup in her hand and allegedly swung her left fist to hit Ms. Dale in the left eye, the report said.

The battery charge was filed against Carol Brightwell of 101 Larkspur Drive, at the jail at about 2:45 p.m. Thursday. She was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond in that case.

BURGLARY-BATTERY

Two men reportedly knocked repeatedly on the door of a Casselberry home. One eventually, allegedly, confronted and fought with the male occupant while the other allegedly dragged a woman from the apartment and tried to rip her clothes off. Both have been arrested by Casselberry police.

Test-Ban Treaty Demand A Ploy

The chutzpah and deception that Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev practices from time to time were in flower recently. During a television broadcast, he called for a snap summit meeting in Europe with President Reagan to negotiate a nuclear test-ban treaty.

This was Mr. Gorbachev's latest move in his seductive campaign to influence public opinion in the world and to put the United States on the defensive in its nuclear preparedness. Mr. Gorbachev has twice extended a self-imposed moratorium on Soviet nuclear testing that began last July in commemoration of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Predictably, the peace activists are in full cry for the United States to join the Soviet Union in a nuclear test ban. Last week, 63 members of the House and Senate joined in calling for President Reagan to cancel scheduled U.S. tests. And a resolution approved by the House on Feb. 26 urged the United States to negotiate a test-ban treaty with the Soviet Union.

The administration's wise response to this Kremlin offensive has been to reject the one-issue summit invitation and to proceed with nuclear testing.

The U.S. view is that underground nuclear explosions are required to verify the reliability of this nation's nuclear deterrence, to overcome the nuclear advantage that the Soviets now enjoy and wish to freeze and to develop a nuclear-triggered laser required for the developing Strategic Defense Initiative that could make nuclear war obsolete. Finally, a ban on nuclear tests would be unenforceable because Soviet cheating could not be detected by current seismic monitoring methods.

Actually, the United States has observed two unratified treaties signed during 1974 that limited nuclear tests to under 150 kilotons, or the force of 150,000 tons of TNT. But the Soviets, utterly disregarding these pacts, have exceeded the 150-kiloton limit at least 15 times since 1976. The substantial nuclear advantage gained by these violations explains why the Soviets now piously call for a ban on U.S. testing.

Mr. Gorbachev remains silent about the U.S. invitation to join in what President Reagan described as "a specific new technical method known as CORTEX which we believe will enable the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. to improve verification and ensure compliance with these two treaties."

In fact, the president has invited Mr. Gorbachev to send his scientists to a Nevada test site later this month and see the new verification method in action. American peace activists are as silent about this dramatic invitation as are the Soviets.

The irony in Mr. Gorbachev's grandstand play on a test-ban summit is that it contrasts so sharply with Soviet foot-dragging on the summit meeting that was scheduled for Washington this summer during the Reagan-Gorbachev meeting in Geneva last November. The Kremlin steadfastly refuses to set a date and, indeed, links the prospects for a meeting with prior negotiating for a ban on nuclear testing. The Soviets are even trying to hold the summit timetable hostage against U.S. policies that displease them, such as the American decision to reduce the Soviet missions to the United Nations.

Unmoved by this posturing, the administration has merely observed that time is running out for the scheduled summer summit. Soviet watchers believe Mr. Gorbachev is not likely, in the end, to pass up the propaganda possibilities that the Washington limelight would provide him; he will press for every concession until the 11th hour and then confirm his self-proclaimed search for peace in the United States. The planned visit by President Reagan to Moscow in 1987 is the summit to worry about.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State George Shultz, in dismissing Mr. Gorbachev's public diplomacy, advised that "we will get somewhere in our relationship with the Soviets when we're able to have some discussions that are relatively quiet and direct..."

Even that conditioned premise is extremely optimistic. The historic reality, of course, is that the Soviets regard negotiations and summit meetings as but tactics in their strategy for world dominion and not as approaches for world peace.

Unfertile Fruit Flies And Giddy Goobers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Remember the fruit flies that caused so much havoc in America's citrus groves a couple of years or so ago?

Well, now it turns out that maybe the tree owners should have turned up the volume on the grapefruit.

Agricultural researchers have established the female fruit flies like loud music. And that trait, which may sound hauntingly familiar to human parents, could be the undoing of the species.

The trick is to sterilize and release more males with "robust singing styles," says entomologist John Sivinski. That will cause female groupies to throw their hotel keys on the stage, or however fruit flies play the fool.

"When a sexually attractive male fruit fly also happens to be sterile, that's it," according to Sivinski. "There'll be no offspring, and the females probably won't mate again."

That's where the analogy stops. Human females who failed to produce children probably would be likely to try again, if for no other reason than to hear some more loud music.

It is true that most of Sivinski's experiments thus far have involved Caribbean fruit flies. But he assures us a high decibel count also turns on Mediterranean fruit flies. The location apparently is immaterial as long as the music is sufficiently vociferous.

Wherever they come from, female fruit flies seem to regard louder, faster buzzing as more seductive than the muted tones of certain males. If that puts you in mind of any trumpet players you know, don't carry the comparison too far.

"The release of massive numbers of sterilized male insects into the wild can reduce an insect population by causing females to waste their reproductive capacity," Sivinski tells us.

Release of massive numbers of sterilizing trumpet players has never been tried, but Sivinski reports that when male and female fruit flies finally get together, the entire serenade acquires a higher frequency and greater volume.

That illustrates the importance of sterilizing male fruit flies that make loud buzzing noises. No crooners and other male fly practitioners of the diminuendo need apply. Especially not if they have peanuts on their breath.

The Agricultural Research Service also reports that peanuts exposed to severe cold or heat before curing may contain too much alcohol, which causes them to taste funny.

But, the service says, a new test can determine how "drunk" goobers are. "It's as sort of breathalyzer test for peanuts," one chemist explained. "The meter tells us the level of alcohol in peanuts."

I have been to cocktail parties at which bowls of peanuts were available, but I always assumed munching created the opposite effect. I didn't realize the hosts and hostesses were trying to save money on booze.

Now that we know the bitter truth about peanuts, I predict it won't be long before police-manning drunken-driver roadblocks will add that test to their repertoire.

Taxpayers Will Pay Bad Loans

By William R. Hawkins

Recently, President Reagan named former New York Congressman Barber B. Conable, Jr. as president of the World Bank. The choice of Conable caught many observers by surprise, but then the Reagan administration has been making several changes in policy towards the World Bank, some of which may prove quite harmful to the American economy.

The World Bank was created after World War II, its purpose to finance with long-term loans the rebuilding of the war-shattered European economies and to aid less-developed countries (LDCs) to industrialize.

The Bank has been criticized for providing funds for dubious projects, for allowing funds to be siphoned off in corruption, for favoring the expansion of inefficient government-run industries at the expense of the private sector and for channeling too much money to radical and communist regimes. It has also helped to finance foreign industries which compete against American firms.

The Reagan administration was originally cool towards the Bank and even cut back to "only" $2.25 billion its funding of the Bank's International Development Agency, the arm which loans money for 50 years at zero interest. It also wanted the World Bank to avoid entanglement in the international debt crisis. It has now reversed itself.

Treasury Secretary James Baker now feels that the World Bank should play a larger role in the debt problems of the LDCs, a role which will require a 50 percent increase in World Bank loans (from $8 billion to $9 billion in new funds).

In addition, the bank's Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency will guarantee direct investment in the LDCs, which means that the World Bank and ultimately the U.S. taxpayer will cover defaulted loans. Baker's plan, laid out last October at the World Bank's annual meeting, calls for $20 billion in new commercial Bank loans.

Christine Bogdanowicz-Blindert, a former economist with the International Monetary Fund and an advocate of larger and easier World Bank loans, reported in the journal Foreign Affairs. "The record American appetite for imports helped absorb expanded exports from debtor nations. Virtually all the increase in exports from Latin America between the first quarter of 1983 and the first quarter of 1985 went to the United States."

U.S.-Moroccan Ties Become Frayed

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration's once-ardent support of Morocco's King Hassan has cooled like the desert sands. In fact, we have learned, State Department officials had at least three secret talks last year with the leftist Polisario rebels, who have been battling Morocco for 10 years over the mineral-rich Western Sahara once owned by Spain.

The cause of this startling reversal of administration policy is one man: Moammar Khadafy, the "flaky" dictator of Libya. Though he once supported the Polisario with weapons and money, he astonished the White House in 1984 by announcing a "union" with Morocco. Khadafy's betrayal of the Polisario rebels left Algeria as their only effective supporter.

It was the Moroccan-Libyan solidarity treaty — which the Reagan administration learned of in the newspapers despite years of courtship King Hassan — that led the president's policy makers to consid-

Trade Barriers Cost

How would you like to be overcharged by more than $56 billion?

Well, you — that is, American consumers in general — have been.

Economists Gary Clyde Hufbauer and Howard F. Rosen calculate that much was added to the price tags of consumer products during one year, 1984, by protectionist measures designed to shield 19 American industries from foreign competition.

Hufbauer and Rosen are the authors of a current study on the subject, "Trade Policy for Troubled Industries," for the Washington-based Institute for International Economics.

The usual justification for import barriers is that lower-cost foreign products endanger domestic industries, especially the jobs they provide. The classic current example is the auto industry, which has had the benefit of import-limiting quotas in gearing up to meet Japanese competition. But experience shows that quotas are not very effective protection. And to the extent that they are, it is only at excessively high cost.

Take autos again. Total employment in the protected U.S. industry still has declined sharply. And to the extent that the decline may have been less than it would have been without import-restricting quotas, it has been at an estimated cost of $105,000 per job saved, according to Hufbauer and Rosen. Car buyers have been nicked for an extra $5.8 billion as a result.

And that's not the only such example. In the 19 industries the study covers, the top unit cost is in the benzoid chemicals group — more than $1 million per job saved at a total of $2.65 billion in higher consumer prices. By comparison, a salvaged job in the protected textile and apparel industry looks like a bargain at only $42,000 per. But the total consumer cost in terms of higher-priced clothing added up to a whopping $27 billion.

Hufbauer and Rosen take special note of two aspects of protectionist efforts. One is the "enduring quality." Once protected, an industry tends to remain so. The record is held by the U.S. maritime industry, which has been on some form of welfare since 1789. Book manufacturing has been shielded since 1891, and rubber footwear, ceramics, orange juice and canned tuna since 1930.

Also, protection tends to create "scarcity values." That is, when it is made more difficult to buy a popular foreign product, demand increases and hence price — to the benefit of the foreign producer.

Autos again. The Japanese have profited hugely from the quota system. It has meant a guaranteed market share and premium prices at no increase in production costs.

An even better example is provided by textiles and apparel. For years foreign producers have been assigned import shares of the U.S. market. In Hong Kong, the shares themselves have become a local industry. Quota-holders who haven't produced a shirt themselves in 20 years sell their U.S. import rights to the highest bidders at prices which may run 20 to 40 percent of the actual per garment value. Fluctuations in quota prices appear in the press along with the stock quotations.

Hufbauer and Rosen have some suggestions for improvement. The most novel would be a shift to a system in which import quotas, instead of being given away by the U.S. government, would be auctioned off to the highest bidders.

Scientific Studies In Cancer

By Rob Stein

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Scientists are experimenting with a drug that may lead to a new approach to treating some forms of cancer — one in which cancerous cells are rendered harmless instead of killed.

The work is highly experimental, but scientists working in the laboratory have succeeded in turning certain types of cancer cells into near-normal cells using a substance known as hexamethylene bisacetamide or HMBA.

All current weapons in the arsenal against cancer — chemotherapy, radiation and surgery — work by killing cancerous cells. In the process, they unavoidably also kill healthy cells.

But HMBA knocks out the cancer cells' most lethal characteristic — their tendency to reproduce rapidly and overcome healthy tissue — without killing the cells or damaging nearby normal cells.

"It's very different from the traditional way of treating cancer," said Dr. Paul A. Marks of the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, who discussed his work with HMBA during a recent seminar for science writers sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Researchers are uncertain exactly how HMBA works. But they suspect the substance turns on certain genes and turns off others to allow the cells to continue on their natural process of development.

Cells are believed to become cancerous when their normal development becomes blocked for some reason, perhaps due to the exposure to a carcinogenic substance. HMBA is believed to unblock the development process.

"It's letting the cancer cell do what it would have done if it hadn't been blocked," said Richard Rifkin, chairman of Sloan-Kettering. "The purpose of this drug is to relieve that blockage."

HMBA, which is inexpensive and easy to make, was created in the early 1970s after researchers working with another similar substance — dimethyl sulfoxide (DMSO) — accidentally noticed its ability to aid cell development.

Laboratory experiments have since found HMBA to be effective on cells from a variety of cancers, including human and animal leukemia, rat breast cancer, dog kidney cancer, human nerve cell cancer, human lymph cancer and human colon cancer.

direct U.S.-Polisario meetings. He complained that the Reagan administration has not gone as far as he would have liked, but he said, "There is a change of mood." Congress, he added, has been much more supportive lately.

The administration's new interest in Algeria and the Polisario is not necessarily a crass betrayal of its longtime ally, Hassan. It's no secret that Morocco is in bad economic shape, with high unemployment and food shortages. Spilling his country's limited resources into the endless desert war doesn't help Hassan or Morocco.

In that light, the Reagan administration would be doing its old, uncertain ally a favor by nudging him toward the negotiating table to end the war.

Footnote: Morocco's Washington lobbyists have argued ardently that King Hassan's solidarity treaty with Khadafy is little more than a pro forma piece of paper and that the United States is still the foremost object of Hassan's affection.

Rival South African Tribes Battle; 11 Bodies Found

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Rival tribes battled near Durban with guns, knives and homemade weapons, killing 11 people and raising the death toll this year in tribal clashes to more than 150, police said.

In other developments Thursday, police shot and killed a black man, and thousands of children attended a funeral in Johannesburg's black ghetto of Alexandra for a peer they said was killed by right-wing militants.

A police spokesman said Thursday night that officers investigating a report of clashes between tribesmen in the Umbumbulu Hills near Durban discovered the bodies of 11 men.

A helicopter was sent to the hills today to retrieve the dead and returned with six bodies found at the bottom of a gorge, police Capt. Winston Heunis said. Officers remained in the area to search for casualties, he said.

Zulu and Pondo warriors — traditional enemies — were believed involved in the fighting, but no further details were available. The spokesman said the reason for the fighting was not known.

The deaths brought to more than 150 the number of people killed in tribal warfare in the coastal region near Durban and around Johannesburg.

Rebels Surrender In Ceremony

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — President Corazon Aquino's government today stepped up efforts to negotiate the surrender of communist rebels after more than 1,100 insurgents and sympathizers laid down their arms "to give democracy one more chance."

Political Affairs Minister Antonio Cuenco Thursday accepted the first mass surrender of rebels since Aquino was swept to power Feb. 25 in a civilian-backed military revolt that ousted 20-year ruler Ferdinand Marcos.

Villagers cheered and relatives burst into tears as scores of young rebels handed over their M-16 rifles, .38-caliber pistols and more than 1,000 rounds of ammunition.

"It was quite emotional," said Cuenco, who attended the ceremony along with provincial military commanders and local officials.

Cuenco said 100 guerrillas belonging to the communist-led New People's Army and 1,000 sympathizers took part in the surrender in a town plaza outside Catmon town on Cebu Island, 345 miles south of Manila.

Guinness Kidnappers Sought

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) — Police scoured the countryside today for three masked kidnappers who abducted the wife of a member of Ireland's wealthy Guinness brewing and banking dynasty and demanded $2.6 million in ransom, police said.

Authorities said the kidnapping Tuesday of Jennifer Guinness, 48, appeared to be the work of a criminal gang. But they were investigating the possibility that the outlawed Irish Republican Army seized the woman.

Police across the country, acting on suspicions the kidnappers might be holed up in a remote, rural hideout, searched vacant houses and derelict buildings. In several counties, they were assisted by troops.

Woman Admits Planting Staples In Girl Scout Cookies As Prank

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — The woman who first reported finding staples in a box of Girl Scout cookies has been arrested by the FBI and charged with lying about putting the staples in the cookies, officials say.

FBI agent Mark E. Tilton said in a sworn complaint that Veronica Singleton, 18, admitted after a polygraph examination that she had placed the staples in the cookies as a prank.

"Singleton admitted she had lied about the tainting and contaminating. ... Singleton stated she did this as a prank," Tilton said Thursday.

One of Singleton's co-workers, Lillian Grant, was fired from her job after she reported the cookie contamination to police. Singleton apparently had shown Grant staples she said she found in the cookies and Grant called police. Grant has since been rehired.

Singleton was charged Wednesday with "knowingly communicating false information that a consumer product had been tainted and that communication affected interstate commerce," the FBI said.

Academics Defend Polygraph

BARTOW (UPI) — A controversy has surfaced in Polk County over the use of lie detector tests on students, and the American Civil Liberties Union says it is a violation of civil rights and has threatened to take the issue to court.

Polk County school officials say they have been administering lie detector tests to students for five years and never heard any complaints until the polygraph policy was disclosed recently by the Winter Haven News Chief.

They said the policy was never approved by the school board and never was written into the school administrative rules.

School Superintendent John Stewart denies any student's civil rights have been violated, but said Wednesday he is reviewing the use of polygraphs.

School officials give the lie detector tests about 200 times a year to students to settle disciplinary disputes and to get to the bottom of conflicting stories given by students.

Attorney Calls Ruling 'A First'

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) — An attorney for a boy found guilty of murder when he was 9 years old says a recent Florida Supreme Court decision overturning the conviction is the first ruling of its kind in the state.

Thomas McCoun represented the boy at his 1984 trial and argued he was too young to be tried, and that he understood so little about courts he thought a jury "was something you wear around your neck."

But Pinellas Circuit Judge Jack A. Page refused to hold a hearing to determine if the boy was competent to stand trial, and at the end of the trial adjudicated him guilty of first-degree murder.

The Florida Supreme Court's 5-1 ruling March 27 tossed out the conviction, saying the boy "was entitled to a hearing on his competency to stand trial."

The court ordered the boy be tested and if found competent, "The state may proceed with a new trial."

echoed Book's sentiment.

"My congratulations to the courageous leadership at Southland Corp. for putting principle above financial gain," said the Rev. Jerry Falwell, who immediately ended a seven-month boycott of 7-Eleven stores by his Liberty Federation, formerly the Moral Majority.

"We want it so you'll have to go to Sleetztown to buy Hugh Hefner's magazine," Falwell said Thursday from Grand Rapids, Mich., a stop on his book-selling tour.

Southland officials in Dallas announced the company will end the sale of Playboy, Penthouse and Forum magazines at its 4,500 company-operated stores when the May issues are gone and will recommend that some 3,600 other franchise stores do the same.

Playboy officials said the company responded to "the hysteria of the moment," but Southland cited concern over a possible connection between adult magazines and crime.

The Rev. Dr. W.A. Criswell, pastor of First Baptist Church of Dallas, said he was "grateful beyond any way that I can say" for the ban.

Selling adult magazines "is the same thing as selling cocaine or heroin or pot or any other thing," Criswell said. "When you sell pornography, you're going to have a repercussion that is bad in the lives of people. You can't see that stuff and it not have some kind of influence on your thinking."

Christie Hefner, president of Playboy Enterprises and daughter of magazine founder Hugh Hefner, said magazine officials were disappointed at Southland's "response to the hysteria of the moment."

"The idea that Playboy, which has stood for positive, healthy sex for three decades, should be linked to violent pornography or to harmful social effects is absurd," Hefner said.

The Rev. Rodney Page of Ecumenical Ministries of Oregon in Portland, Ore., called Southland's decision "excellent," saying pornographic magazines "demean the human spirit."

Falwell, who called for a boycott during a Labor Day rally at the corporate headquarters in Dallas last year, said, "I hope that Christians in America will now show their appreciation by supporting 7-Eleven stores everywhere."

cream sundae parties in ten Seminole County elementary schools to attract student attention to the program. Bonuses were offered to students to encourage them to read for recreation. Those who read five books were given a certificate for a Friendly Ice cream cone, and signed an honor roll sign at the restaurant.

Students who read 12 books earned a book for the school library, with their name inscribed inside.

In less than a month, a total of 17,757 books were read by 5,660 students, according to program records. The three schools reading the most books are Woodlands, 3,630; Longwood, 3,416; and Lake Mary, 2,589. Each of the top schools won appearances on McGrath.

According to Myrna Walters, district consulting coordinator for reading and language arts, "the program has been extremely effective."

"We've seen a change in how a child looks at reading. They're reading for fun now. Also, children spend time with an adult volunteer or administrator on a one-on-one basis, and that's important. They're looking at adults as helping them do something wonderful, not just someone they see when they get in trouble," Mrs. Walters said.

She added that the program has also attracted more volunteers from the community into the schools.

Books read are accounted for by volunteers who conduct oral book reports or "book chats" with the students. Most volunteers come from the district's Dividends school volunteer program. Students, administrators and teachers from Seminole Community College also volunteered as did a school custodian, who conducted "book chats" with kindergarden students.

"This program could not have been successful without the volunteers," she said.

"We're hearing reports that students are reading on the school buses between home and school, and parents have to tell their children to turn off the lights and go to bed at night, because they're reading. That's a delightful change from watching television," said Lake Mary Elementary Principal Elizabeth Paul. She credited Assistant Principal Marlene Kinne with co-ordinating the volunteer effort at the school.

"The reading compliments our creative writing classes and the entire language arts program," Mrs. Paul said. "Students are encouraging each other to read. They are showing great enthusiasm, as are the teachers and volunteers."

According to Wendy Taylor, a Friendly representative, a total of a half-million books have been read during the programs which have been conducted in several states, but she pointed out the company is not in the education business.

"We have a wholesome, fun product, and use it to help the schools," she said.

Friendly Public Affairs Director Jim Vells said reading habits students develop during the program usually continue when the program ends. Public and Employee Communications Manager Jim Fiola said the cost to the company for the program in Seminole County won't be complete until a final amount of books to be purchased is known, but he said the company spent $60,000 on a similar program in Richmond, Virginia.

McGrath's shows at Lake Mary were received with mass enthusiasm. The show included singing, sign language, a book chat, and stories about Sesame Street characters, including Big Bird, Bert and Ernie, and Oscar. Students promised McGrath they would continue to read, even after the Friendly program ends in May.

McGrath said, "Students discover a new level of reading, and even in grades 1-4, they become more aware of authors and style."

"They're more aware of what's in the library, and I am told the librarians have been extremely busy," he said.

Bomb Threat Halts Amtrak's Sanford- Washington Train

LAKE CITY, S.C. (UPI) — A Florida-to-Washington Amtrak train carrying 428 passengers made an emergency stop early today because of a bomb threat. No bomb was found on the train, officials said.

The Amtrak Auto Train, which transports passengers and their cars, pulled to a halt after a conductor found the threat in a restroom, said Clifford Black, a spokesman for Amtrak's offices in Washington.

The train makes a daily run north and south between Sanford, and Lorton, Va., near Washington, Black said. Amtrak is taking no special precautions following today's incident.

"A conductor found a bomb threat note stating that a bomb was on board the train. I don't know the exact contents of the note," Black said.

Lake City Police Chief M.E. Brumblies said a message stating "Bomb is Aboard" had been scribbled on the wall of a bathroom.

Police evacuated passengers to a fire station and called for a bomb search team from Shaw Air Force Base in Sumter, about 30 miles west of Lake City. Passengers were taken to an elementary school in Lake City and then returned to the train at 5:10 a.m. after no bomb was discovered.

Amtrak, which is investigating the incident, had no idea who left the threat.

Fatal Accident Reported Near Disney World

One person was killed in a multiple-vehicle collision near Walt Disney World early this morning, according to the Florida Highway Patrol. The identity was being withheld pending completion of the initial investigation.

The accident occurred around 6 a.m. on State Road 535 at Reams Road and Lake Buena Vista.

A tractor-trailer, two cars and a pickup truck were involved in the accident, according to reports.

The Florida Highway Patrol is investigating the accident, in which it is believed other injuries occurred.

today and arrive in London about 2:30 a.m. our time Saturday.

There they will meet Kathleen and John Sparks, of Gosport, near Plymouth.

Mrs. Girard and Mrs. Sparks began writing to each other in 1944 during World War II.

"We wrote like girls write," she said. "I used to write to my pen pals too, and I put everything in those letters too," said Mrs. Girard, who still corresponds with some of her grade school chums.

She said she and Mrs. Sparks wrote through dating, love, marriage, kids, economic hardships and wars. So, when one of Mrs. Girard's three children offered her a nine-country vacation tour of Europe for Christmas, she decided to leave a couple of days early and spend the weekend with her pen pal.

To make sure all goes well, her pal has arranged for several contingency plans should they miss each other at the airport, although that will not be likely.

The Sparks plan to be at the airport carrying large signs saying "Welcome Paula and Jerry."

drug testing duties, and administrative duties.

On the use of deadly force to stop a fleeing felon, the candidates responded:

"It is justified if confronted with a gun," Overman said.

"Obvious immediate danger, if a weapon is displayed and the situation is life threatening, is the only excuse for pulling the trigger," O'Conner said, adding, "If a fleeing felon was running (away), I wouldn't shoot if he was unarmed."

"It should be used as a last resort, only in a life threatening situation," Lamprey offered.

"I would allow officers the ability to use it. If all other means have failed, it could be used as a last resort," Staly said, adding that officers should be trained in the use of guns.

The candidates agreed that initiating a high speed pursuit to stop someone for a traffic violation such as running a red light should not be done.

"The risk involved in a high speed chase for a red light violation is too high," O'Conner said.

"I would tell the officers not to chase someone for a traffic offense, and don't endanger people's lives," Lamprey responded.

"I would cancel the pursuit. The liabilities are too high," said Staly.

On drug testing for department employees, "I'm all for it," Overman said.

Lamprey echoed those words and added, "In this business, you need to find the problem and weed it out."

Commissioner Paul Tremel followed that question by asking Lamprey what he would do if a test came back positive. Lamprey responded he would be more concerned if an officer tested positive for cocaine than marijuana. The use of "hard drugs would result in harsh action," he said.

"Times dictate that it be done," Staly responded to the drug test question. When Tremel asked what his response would be to a positive drug test, Staly said, "I don't need that employee."

Tremel asked each candidate how they would react to resentment from within the department of community if they were selected, while acting chief Lt. Samuel Belfiore has been the subject of community support to be considered for the job. Belfiore was not on the list of final candidates recommended, and Tremel said he asked the question to check the personality traits of the candidates.

"It is commendable that the citizenry is behind him," Overman said. "Every man should have the opportunity to prove his worth."

O'Conner, who said he has talked to Belfiore recently, said, "I am impressed with the enthusiasm he has for the city. He wants the job, and if he didn't apply, I would have wondered why. He's interested in what's best for the city, and I would have no problems working with him."

"I've dealt with resentment in the past. You overcome it by showing that you can do the job, and that you are a professional," Lamprey said.

All four also agreed that it would be beneficial to cooperate with other area law enforcement agencies.

The two other candidates, Charles Willford Lauderdale of Lillieen, Texas, and Charles Emmett Olive of Richmond, Virginia, will be interviewed starting at 7:30 p.m. April 24.

Penick: A Rare Hare Among Tortoise Milers

Billy Penick doesn't discount the parable about the tortoise and the hare — he just doesn't adhere to it.

Penick doesn't think a plodding, catch-as-catch-can winner is the way to go. Penick gets the lead on talent and win on guts. He's at his best when he takes a rabbit-like start and holds off any would-be winning kickers.

Penick is more hare than tortoise. Any miler who takes off like a sprinter when he has to circle that oval four times must be hare-brained.

That's what the state class 4A mile field thought last year when Penick went out as if he left his coat on a runaway bus. He stretched his lead to 220 yards while the pack laid back, a la tortoise, waiting for this Seminole High junior upstart to return.

Penick cruised through the halfway point at 2:04. His second half was 2:14 which dramatically brought him home as the state champion miler in a career-best of 4:18.0. It was the upset of the meet.

The strategy, however, was anything but hare-brained. It bordered on genius. Seminole coach Ken Brauman, knowing his talented junior wasn't one of the favorites, shocked the sensibility of the field by having Penick go carrot-wild.

It was a shrewd and gutsy move. "No one expected Billy to win mile last year." Brauman said. "He surprised them. He just ran a fantastic race."

Brauman has proven his track and field acumen. Winning a state championship in just his second year at Seminole did that. Of course, there weren't many doubters after his two state titles at Palatka.

And Penick has proven his guts. Winning the way Penick won was the ultimate in strategy and courage. Running the 2:04 and then fighting off the pain down the stretch was quite an accomplishment. A test which the scholar-athlete passed with a checkered flag.

The hare gave everything he had to snare the lead. The tortoise just knew he'd come back. But he didn't. This is one time the plodding tortoise couldn't overcome the speedy hare. And, in the mile, that's rare.

It's a year later now. Tonight at Lyman High School, the articulate senior will tune up for the district, regional and state competition at the first Seminole Athletic Conference Meet.

With the "Second Season" almost upon us, what will Penick be this year — tortoise or hare?

"I don't know the strategy until the day of the race," Penick, who is leaning toward a scholarship at Florida State, said. "That's when we really talk about it and think about it."

And sometimes even the day of the race is too soon. "Really, there are times when I don't know until I start running," he continued. "It just depends on

Green, Kratzert Set Pace

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Bill Kratzert and Ken Green share something more than the Masters lead. They both have unique caddies.

Kratzert, after firing his regular caddy during a Wednesday morning dispute, is using a friend who usually sells electronic components. Green's caddy, here and on the PGA Tour, is his 29-year-old sister, Shelley.

Kratzert and Green battled wind and slick greens Thursday while posting 4-under-par 68s. They enter today's second round with a one stroke lead over T.C. Chen, the Chinese golfer who almost won last year's U.S. Open, and Gary Koch.

Two-time Masters champion Tom Watson was just two shots off the lead along with frequent Masters threat Tom Kite, Australian Greg Norman, Canadian Dave Barr, Bob Tway, and Japan's Tommy Nakajima who bogeyed the last hole.

Kratzert's caddy, 5-handicapper Chuck Hofius of Fort Wayne, Ind., said he had a "blast" caddying in the first of the four major golf championships.

"I'm still in awe. I'm going to try to do tomorrow what I did today. That means go around without hurting anyone, including myself," Green said.

Green's sister also was impressed with the hoopla surrounding the Masters.

"I loved it. It was fantastic," she said. "It was the best round of golf I ever saw Ken play."

Kratzert, winless on Tour since his Pensacola Open victory 18 months ago, started quickly Thursday, sinking a 60-foot birdie putt on the first hole. He wound up with five birdies, three in a five-hole span on the back nine, and suffered his lone bogey when he missed an 8-footer at No. 9.

"I putted today probably as well as anyone could putt here," said Kratzert. "And, I don't say that boastfully."

Green, whose lone Tour victory came at last summer's Buick Open, had a more erratic round — making seven birdies and three bogeys. He had only one par over the first six holes and none the last three.

"I made about five no-brainers today," said Green. "After the 40-footer at No. 1, I thought that would be it. I hit some awful shots."

The wind and the greens dominated the Masters Thursday.

"The weather conditions combined with the speed of the greens are incredible," said Kite, sixth or better in eight of the 10 previous Masters. "These are the fastest greens I've ever seen. There's no way to try to make a putt."

"I think the greens are quicker than they meant to have them," Kite continued. "At No. 18, it's about impossible to hold the ball up on the level where the pin was placed."

"I like the Augusta National," said Kratzert. "I hit the ball high and if you do that you can get close to some of those pin placements. When you put it on the right shelf, you have better birdie opportunities."

Defending champion Bernhard Langer of West Germany struggled with those greens throughout his round.

"I didn't hit a putt all day," said Langer after posting a 74. "My putting cost me at least three or four shots. I don't feel very good about my round. I felt I played good and didn't get any score out of it."

Tribe Pulls Together, Tops Mary

By Mark Blythe
Special to the Herald

Seminole's Lady Seminoles found a new way to win Thursday afternoon at Lake Mary High School. The Lady Tribe turned in one of its most solid, all-around performances of the year to post a 6-4 Seminole Athletic Conference victory.

Although Sanford did receive some help in the early going from as Lake Mary pitcher Beth Watkins continued to have her problems (six walks), Seminole won the game with two big runs in the top of the seventh.

Bobbie Osborne popped up to shortstop Karen DeShetler but it was called a "no pitch" by the umpire and she was given another chance. Bobbie Osborne promptly reached on an error. The Lady Seminoles quickly made a good thing of the situation as sister Buffy Osborne drew a walk and a Jackie Farr single scored Bobbie, giving Seminole a 5-4 lead. Marcie Tooke singled in Buffy Osborne for insurance.

"Today is the day we pulled together as a team" Seminole coach Lance Abney said. "We had good defense and good offense, plus our attitude is helping our confidence when we play."

Seminole built a 4-0 lead going into the bottom of the fourth on the Watkins' walks and a two-run double by Sheri Peterson.

In the bottom of the fourth, though, Lake Mary displayed some much needed offense. Watkins started things off with a two-out single up the middle. Brooke Taylor followed up with another single and after a throwing error Watkins scored.

Monica Frakes then hit a bloop single over the shortstop to place runners on first and second. Marnie Frey followed with a shot down the right field line for a three-run homer to tie the game at 4-4.

"It was just a typical game for us" Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry said. "We proved we can hit, but we just need to hit for more than one inning. If our confidence level rises while we hit we'll be much better off."

Howell's Time Bomb Splatters Lady Patriots

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Along with their gloves and bats, Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots should have brought a few shovels to Lake Howell High Thursday afternoon. They could have used them the first few innings to dig a couple fox holes to jump into because, in the other dugout, there was a time bomb waiting to explode.

Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks broke a 1-1 tie with an eight-run second inning outburst and went on to bury the Lady Patriots, 11-1, in a big Seminole Athletic Conference confrontation.

The win lifted Lake Howell into a first-place tie for the SAC lead with Lake Brantley, both at 6-2, with two games remaining. The Lady Hawks, 14-9 overall, host Lake Mary Tuesday and Lyman Thursday while the Lady Patriots, 22-5 overall, are at Lyman Tuesday and at Seminole Thursday.

"We didn't have a whole lot to lose so the girls were relaxed and came out swinging," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "No one has really dominated the SAC this year and today just goes to show that anyone in the conference is capable of beating anyone else."

The Lady Hawks, who pounded out 18 hits in the game, exploited just about every hole there was in the Brantley defense in the big third inning. Erin Hankins drilled a single to right to lead off and Jaudon Jonas followed with a single up the middle and an error on the play moved the runners to second and third. Brantley then intentionally walked heavy-hitting Christy Tibbitts to load the bases.

That brought up Ava Gardner and the senior first baseman got the scoring parade started as looped a single to left to score

Hankins with the go ahead run. Susan Hayden followed with a wormburner up the middle to drive in Jonas and Leslie Barton's base rap to left scored Tibbitts for a 4-1 lead.

The inning was far from over though as, still with on out, Alicia Dinkelacker's reverse-engineered infield single scored Gardner and Julie Barton then cleared the bases when she unloaded a triple to left to make it 8-1. After Barton belted her ninth triple of the season, she scored the eighth run of the inning on Jennifer Thomas' RBI groundout as Lake Howell took a commanding 9-1 lead.

Lake Howell pulled further away with single runs in the fourth and sixth frames. In the fourth, Gardner, who was 3 for 4 for the game, reached on a fielder's choice and eventually scored on a Brantley miscue. In the sixth, Jonas hit her third single of the game and scored when Hayden hit into a force play.

The Lady Patriots had six hits in the game, two each by Tracy Brandenburg and Gebhart.

While Brantley managed just six hits, Lake Howell pitcher Tibbitts walked none and struck out four, three swinging. "She (Tibbitts) pitched a great game," Luciano said. "She's really a great leader. She's the one that usually keeps all our young kids under control."

HOMER TIES UP PATRIOTS
In other baseball Thursday, Lake Brantley also had its game with Winter Park called due to darkness but the Patriots salvaged a 7-7 tie despite blowing a 7-4 lead in the final inning.

"I thought we had this one wrapped up," Brantley coach Mike Smith said. "After the double play I thought we had them but somebody forgot to tell them it was over."

Brantley, 10-13-1, hosts Orlando Boone Saturday at noon.

Starter Mike Beams took a 7-4 lead into the final inning but the Wildcats erupted for three runs. Bill Lee reached on error by shortstop Andy Dunn and Peter Fleming singled. Thad Mosley then hit into 6-4-3 double play but Kevin Merk walked to keep the inning alive. David Richardi followed with a three-run homer over the 345-foot sign in left to tie the game.

In the first, Beams reached on error by second baseman and stole second. Dunn sacrificed him to third where he scored on a wild pitch.

In the second, Dan Beaty walked and Pat Lusk singled to left. Dave Rabaja missed a bunt attempt and Beaty was picked off at second. Rabaja walked and Rick Koch singled to right center to score Lusk.

In the fourth, Rabaja walked again and stole second. Koch bunted him to third and Rabaja scored on a wild pitch.

In the fifth, Dunn singled to center and stole second. Mike Davis popped out but Dunn moved to third on a wild pitch. Dunn, though, was picked off for the second out. Coffey walked and stole second before Beaty struck out but reached first when the catcher dropped the ball. Coffey scored on the throw to first base.

In the sixth, Beams cranked his county-leading ninth homer over the left center field fence. In the seventh, Davis singled up middle and Coffey socked his fourth homer over the left field fence. The homer was the 25th of the year for the Pats.

Beaty followed with a single and was balked to second. One out later, Rabaja roped a liner to right center but Richardi, setting the tone for his heroic seventh, made a sensational diving catch.

Orange Belt Conference action Thursday at Orlando.

The Lady Lions, 13-7 overall, raised their OBC record to 6-1 and remained tied for first place with Occoala.

Leading the 15-hit offensive attack for the Lady Lions were Jodie Switzer, Jessica Bradley, Mikki Eby, Debbie Murray, Caroline Chavis and Dee Dee Beasley with two hits each while Cathy Bergman added a triple.

Oviedo scored once in the top of the first when Eby singled with two outs and scored when Switzer ripped a triple. The Lady Lions took command with four runs in the third with on RBI singles by Eby, Chavis and Beasley and a sacrifice fly by Switzer.

"The girls who I counted on are really starting to come around with the bats," Oviedo coach Jackie Miller said. "Now if I could just get my fielders under control."

Chambliss said. "We have some good hitters and sooner or later we'll get it together. There's no problem there."

Galarraga ripped a three-run homer and drove in four runs Thursday to send the Expos to a 6-3 victory over the Braves. The rookie first baseman Venezuela went 3-for-3 and helped to back the combined six-hit pitching of Jay Tibbs and Tim Burke for Montreal.

Tibbs, 1-0, permitted four hits over six innings to earn the win. Burke, despite allowing the home run to Chambliss, earned his first save with three innings of relief. Atlanta took a 1-0 lead in the fourth on an RBI single by Ken Oberkfell. Montreal tied the score 1-1 in the fifth off Atlanta starter Zane Smith on an RBI single by Galarraga.

"He put the icing on the cake with the big home run and he got the double to score the go-ahead," said Montreal manager Buck Rodgers. "He's got to feel 10 miles high right now."

Chris Chambliss, who hit a two-run homer for the Braves in the ninth inning, said Atlanta was outplayed by the Expos.

"We just didn't take advantage of the baserunners," went to third. Jason Thompson, pinch hitting for Tibbs, then singled in Galarraga. Tim Raines singled Thompson to second and Vance Law singled in Thompson to knock out Garber.

Thompson, who came to the Expos from Pittsburgh during the exhibition season, was pleased with his performance.

"It felt real good to help out like that," Thompson said. "I knew I wasn't in their plans at Pittsburgh, and to come here and help right away it feels pretty good."

The Expos added three runs in the eighth. Hubie Brooks led off with a double and one out later Mitch Webster was intentionally walked to knock out reliever Jeff Dedmon. Galarraga then ripped reliever Bruce Suiter's 1-0 pitch deep over the left field fence.

Tim Raines singled in five at-bats.

Padres Trim LA, Even Long Series

United Press International The San Diego Padres and Los Angeles Dodgers played their first series of the season as tightly as if the playoffs were at stake.

Pitching dominated the four-game set at Los Angeles, in which a total of 10 runs were scored, five by each team. The teams split the series, and one run decided each game, including last night's 3-2 Padres victory.

"We're going to have to win by one run when we go up against the strong pitching that Los Angeles has," Padres left-hander Mark Thurmond said after earning the victory with a seven-hit, four-strikeout performance over 6 2-3 innings. "We had thought all along our pitching was going to be strong, and it looks like it's started off that way."

San Diego manager Steve Boros claims Thurmond has been his most consistent pitcher all spring, having developed a hard slider. Rich Gossage worked two innings for his first save. He had not pitched in a game since April 1, but was not injured, according to Boros.

"Gossage was back in his old form," said batterymate Terry Kennedy. "He does a good job as long as he controls his delivery and doesn't rush it."

Rick Honeycutt, 0-1, was forced to leave in the fifth with a bruised left leg after allowing eight hits and three runs.

Cesar Cedeño, who signed with the Dodgers earlier in the day, started in center field and collected two singles in his first two at-bats.

N.L. Baseball

"Here I am with the Dodgers and I'm in the lineup in a couple of hours," Cedeno said. "I don't think I'm where I want to be as far as playing is concerned. Give me a few more days and I'll feel more comfortable."

Cardinals 4, Cubs 2 At St. Louis, Rick Ownbey recorded his first major-league victory since 1983, and Ozzie Smith drove in two runs to spark the Cardinals. Ownbey pitched into the seventh inning, allowing four hits. Dennis Eckersley took the loss, allowing three runs before leaving for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

Astros 4, Giants 0 At Houston, Bob Knepper scattered five hits to lead the Astros to their first victory over the season. Knepper did not allow a walk and struck out four in notching the 68th complete game of his career. Vida Blue, seeking his 200th major-league victory, took the loss.

At Pittsburgh, cold weather forced postponement of the game between the Pirates and the New York Mets. The game has been rescheduled for Friday, June 6 as part of two-night double-header. Last year, the major leagues set a record for the fewest rainouts, with the first not occurring until May 20 when Milwaukee was at Cleveland.

Raiders Topple Santa Fe

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Thursday's game between Seminole Community College's Raiders and Santa Fe's Saints may have been played at Gainesville, but the Raiders turned it into extra-base city.

Half of SCC's 12 hits Thursday were of the extra base persuasion with Jeff Morgan's two-run homer in the top of the seventh the biggest blast as the Raiders downed the Saints, 8-4, in Mid-Florida Conference action.

SCC ran its record to 24-13 overall with its seventh consecutive victory. The Raiders also improved to 11-3 in the conference and return to league play today at home against Lake City. Santa Fe now stands at 26-11 overall and 11-6 in the conference.

The Raiders picked up single runs in the second, third, fourth and sixth frames before Morgan's homer, his 13th of the season, put the icing on the cake.

In the second, Leonard Thigpen walked, advanced to second on Kevin Hill's single, took third on a wild pitch and scored on Rick Given's sacrifice fly. In the third, Chad Sims led off with a double, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Jeff Greene's sacrifice fly.

Santa Fe tied the score at 2-2 in the bottom of the third but SCC came back to take the lead for good in the fourth when Danny Moore tripled and scored on the play on a wild throw from center field. SCC made it 4-2 in the sixth when Hill singled, Moore walked and Hill scored on a double error by the pitcher on Tico Martinez' bunt.

SCC picked up three more runs in the seventh when Mike Songini walked and scored on a triple off the bat of Greene and Morgan followed with his two-run tater.

The Raiders scored once more in the eighth when Martinez led off with a double, went to third on a groundout and scored on Greene's single.

Mike Walker went the distance on the mound for the Raiders, scattering nine hits, striking out four and walking five. Walker raised his record to 7-4 with his third consecutive victory.

No Ruthian Shot But Canseco Pops Twins

United Press International Jose Canseco will have to hit them farther if he is to maintain comparisons with Babe Ruth.

Canseco, whose titanic blasts in batting practice have people already comparing him to the Yankee legend, just cleared the left-center field wall for his first homer Thursday. Still, it was his first to satisfy himself and help the Oakland A's to a 3-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

At New York, designated hitter Mike Easler doubled to lead off the bottom of the 10th inning and scored on pinch hitter Dale Berra's bases-loaded squeeze bunt to lift the Yankees. New York erased a 5-0 lead to force extra innings.

At Detroit, Dwight Evans, Bill

A.L. Baseball

Buckner and Jim Rice drove in runs with two-out hits in the fourth and fifth to give the Boston Red Sox their first victory of the season. Al Nipper went 8 2-3 innings to win his first start of the season, and Joe Sambito notched a save. Dan Petry took the loss.

At Chicago, Billy Joe Robidoux singled home the tying run and Earnest Riles followed with a three-run homer in the ninth to rally Milwaukee.

At Baltimore, Fred Lynn drilled a three-run homer in the seventh inning and Rick Dempsey added a pair of solo home runs to power the Orioles. Ken Dixon, 1-0, scattered six hits over seven innings for the victory.

At Arlington, Texas, Willie Upshaw smacked a two-run homer and George Bell followed with a solo shot in the eighth inning to boost the Blue Jays over the Rangers. Texas reliever Greg Harris, 0-1, allowed both homers. Tom Henke, 1-0, pitched the final two innings for the victory.

At Seattle, Alvin Davis went 3-for-4 with three RBI and a homer and Gorman Thomas also homered to back the six-hit pitching of Matt Young for the Mariners. Young, 12-19 a year ago, pitched a complete game in his season debut. Don Sutton was the loser.

Georgia's Ridley Drives Local Fans Wild

He might be from Chatsworth, Ga. but he is one of Central Florida's top race car drivers. When Jody Ridley visits New Smyrna Speedway or Volusia County Speedway he is always the crowd favorite.

It took a long time but the opportunity that Ridley sought is finally his. He has become the regular driver for the Rahmoc-Nationwide NASCAR Winston Cup team. Ridley at last got the chance, in his mind, to prove what he can do as a competitor on the elite stock car racing circuit.

Ridley was told he would replace Lake Speed as Rahmoc's driver. "It surprised me," Ridley admitted. "They hadn't given me an indication they were going to do what they did. I didn't have any idea about it."

Ridley seemed the logical choice as Speed's replacement, nonetheless. He had already competed twice in a Nationwide Ford Thunderbird for Rahmoc in a research and development purpose. He ran the Daytona 500, where he finished 12, and the Motorcraft 500 at Atlanta.

After years of successful competition on the short tracks, where he became immensely popular while winning somewhere in the vicinity of 500 races, Ridley got his first crack at Winston Cup racing when he became the driver on Junior Donlavey's Ford in 1980.

The Chatsworth, Ga. driver won the Champion Spark Plug Rookie of the year title that season and then, in 1981, notched his first and only Winston Cup victory at Dover, Del.

Carl Vanzura MOTOR SPORTS WRITER

By the end of the '82 season Ridley and Donlavey had parted company. "When I left Junie, it might have become for the biggest mistake I ever made in racing," Ridley said. "Junie had good cars, but he was always held back by finances. We couldn't run new tires and stuff like that. I thought at the end of '81, that I had a deal worked out to drive for someone else, but it fell through, suddenly I was on the outside looking in."

"At that time I drag out a bunch of my old stuff and went short track racing."

The ache to race on the Winston Cup circuit was still there even though he won the Snowball Derby last year in his Thunderbird.

"You always hope to get another deal," he said. "I know I was. But other than Daytona and Atlanta over the last two years, I was pretty much out of the picture. I didn't have many feelers out there and once you get out of sight, it doesn't take long for people to forget you."

Ridley's fans didn't forget him and hope for him to shine in his new chance and for many wins to come his way.

Orlando Speedworld has really been putting on some good shows at the popular paved oval located near Bithlo. Running a traditional Friday night show, the race track has had a strong field of cars each race. Sanford's Casey Hawthorne has been tearing them up in the late model class.

Speedworld's first big event of the season will be April 18. It will be a 100 lap enduro with $500 to win and will pay back 15 places. Most enduros pay back five or 10 places, but Don Nerone, track promoter, feels if more guys make money it'll make for a bigger field of cars and a better race.

The race will start a maximum of 100 cars in rows of three abreast from a standing start.

It was week number three at Volusia County Speedway and another win for Tuck Tretham. The Orange City driver picked up his second NASCAR Winston racing series late model feature in a row Saturday night.

More than 15 cars started the 30 lap event. Street Stock driver Mike Hunter visited the winners circle for the first time this year. Wayne Durham won the Cyclone Feature and Darryl Hendrix picked up the checkers in the newly formed 4-cylinder class.

The action continues this Saturday night at the super-fast, half-mile dirt track.

Boxscores for Minnesota vs Oakland, San Francisco vs Houston, and Toronto vs Texas.

IN BRIEF

Generous Tribe Gives Rams 2-1 Victory In Season Finale

Seminole High's junior varsity Seminoles must have been in a generous mood Thursday because they sure gave one away.

Scott Conklin scored the winning run on a Seminoles error in the bottom of the seventh to give Lake Mary's JV Rams a 2-1 victory at Lake Mary High.

It was the eighth straight win for the Rams who now stand at 13-5. Lake Mary closes out the season Tuesday at Lake Howell. The loss spoiled the season finale for the JV Seminoles who got a fine pitching performance from Sammie Edwards.

The JV 'Noles took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first when, with two outs, David Houghton walked and scored when Jerry Blankenship drilled a triple off Lake Mary starter Corey Prom.

Lake Mary got the run back in the bottom of the second and did it without the benefit of a hit. Jimmy Kremer walked, advanced all the way around to third on an error and scored on a wild pitch.

The score remained tied into the bottom of the seventh when Lake Mary pushed across another unearned run to win it. David Fenick led off with a single and Conklin then walked but Fenick was forced at third for the first out. Edwards then struck out Aaron Iatarola for the second out and he also struck out Alex Birle for what would have been the third out. But the catcher dropped the third strike and all three runners were safe. Conklin then scored the winning run when Prom's routine grounder to second was booted.

Edwards allowed only three hits for the game, including two singles by Fenick, struck out five and walked four. Jeff Hagen came on in relief in the fifth for Lake Mary and allowed only one hit in two and two thirds innings. Prom gave up eight hits.

For Seminoles, Bubba Corst, Houghton and Jim Williams had two hits each.

Lister's Block Dims Cavs' Hopes

United Press International

Milwaukee's Alton Lister blocked World B. Free's last-second shot Thursday night to seal a Bucks victory and dim the playoff hopes of the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Lister's block of Free's 12-foot jumper with three seconds left gave the Bucks a 102-101 decision. The Cavs lost their sixth straight as they continue to backpedal in the race with Chicago for the Eastern Conference's eighth and final playoff berth.

In dropping to 28-52, Cleveland remains a game behind the 29-51 Bulls. Two games remain for each team, including a head-to-head clash in the season finale at the Cavs' home court in Richfield, Ohio Sunday.

"We're close to being in intensive care," said Free. "We can't do much but win tonight, and that won't be easy."

In Atlanta last night, Dominique Wilkins scored 57 points, the most by an NBA player this season as well as a personal best, to power the Hawks to a 126-117 triumph over New Jersey.

In other games, the Los Angeles Lakers downed Houston 117-113, Portland subdued the L.A. Clippers 115-100, Utah trimmed Sacramento, 119-108, and Dallas held off Seattle 115-109.

Florida Sports Hall Inducts 5

ORLANDO (UPI) — An Olympic swimming champion, a champion race-car driver, a professional baseball player and two successful college coaches are the 1986 inductees to the Florida Sports Hall of Fame, it was announced Thursday.

The Florida Sports Writers Association and the Florida Sportscasters Association honored: Rowdy Gaines, a native of Winter Haven who won three gold medals in swimming at the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles; Bobby Allison, a native of Miami who has won more than 85 million driving stock cars; current Kansas City Royal Hal McRae, a native of Avon Park playing his 17th season in the major leagues; Ron Fraser, the baseball coach at the University of Miami, who has won nearly 1,000 games; and Tom Nugent, who was the football coach for six seasons at Florida State, taking two teams to bowl games.

Noah Suffers 'Interesting' Loss

DALLAS (UPI) — Yannick Noah dropped one service break in his WCT quarterfinal match against third seed Stefan Edberg of Sweden and still lost in straight sets.

"It was an interesting match," said Noah. "I would have had to return better on his second serve and have been more aggressive. On this fast surface, the serve is important and Edberg's serve moves well."

Edberg won 6-3, 7-6 (7-3), 7-6 (7-4) Thursday to advance to Saturday's semifinals, where he will meet the winner of tonight's Paul Annacone-Boris Becker match.

In the only other match Thursday, Anders Jarryd upset countryman Joakim Nystrom 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

First SYSA Track Meet Saturday

The Seminole Youth Sports Association will hold the first of four track and field meets Saturday at Lyman High School, according to SYSA spokesman Tom Bieri. Registration is at 9:30 p.m.

The second meet will be Saturday, April 26 and the third meet is Saturday, May 10. The fourth meet will be announced later, Bieri said.

The meets are open to county students from ages 8 through 14. An SYSA membership costs $13.50 or competitors may pay .50 per event.

Gooden, Bell Win Top Amateurs

ORLANDO (UPI) — Dwight Gooden, the record-setting pitcher for the New York Mets, and Kerwin Bell, quarterback for the University of Florida, have been voted Florida's pro and amateur athletes of the year for 1985. It was announced Thursday.

The pair was named in voting by the Florida Sports Writers Association and Florida Sportscasters Association. Gooden and Bell will be honored at a banquet May 19 at Marriott's Orlando World Center at Lake Buena Vista.

Vice-President Takes Charge

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Mindy Moore, the vice-president of the LPGA, has taken charge at the $200,000 Kyocera Inamori Classic.

Moore, who Thursday opened with a 6-under-par 66, enters today's second round with a three-stroke advantage over Val Skinner, Patty Sheehan, Atsuko Iikage, Hollis Stacy, Laurie Rinker and Pat Bradley. Seven golfers are two shots below par.

Gardening

Adults and Children Must Become Aware of Poisonous Local Plants

Many gardeners and homeowners, especially those coming south to live, are not aware that some of our common garden and landscape plants contain highly poisonous substances. Most of these plants have such an unpleasant taste that it is not likely anyone would want to chew them very long, much less swallow them. This usually applies to adults, but children are something else. They may eat small amounts of anything, especially if a dare is involved. Even a tiny tot in a playpen may reach out and pull in anything that is within reach.

Concerned parents should teach their children as soon as possible not to put anything in their mouths except food. Smart adults, too, should refrain from chewing on leaves and twigs of plants as they walk through a garden or woods. Collecting and eating wild mushrooms, unless you positively know they are edible, is dangerous business in the South. And, unfortunately, there is no guide available for identification of edible wild mushrooms in our area.

Skin irritation, or dermatitis, is the most common form of plant poisoning, and is caused by contact with a plant you may not be aware of. If such a problem arises, you should make an effort to remember which plant caused the difficulty and avoid it in the future. Not everyone is susceptible to all or any such plants, so those who are generally susceptible know to avoid the problem plants.

One of the most common poisonous plants you'll find, especially in the outlying areas, is poison-ivy. This noxious, blistering weed is a real problem for many people. If you're

Alfred Bossen

If your home is on a wooded lot, or in a recently developed area, you could easily have a problem with poison-ivy. Remember the old saying, "leaflets three-let it be." Generally, with poison-ivy, you'll know it. You don't have to touch it to be affected. If you have a cat or dog that roams, it can pick up poison ivy on its fur, and when you pet it—you get a good case of poison-ivy.

If you find poison-ivy growing in your landscape, don't try to pull it out by hand. First, you may get a good itch from it, and second, you may just propagate the plants as you break off the roots. The best control is to spray with a herbicide, such as Amitrole, Kleenup, Roundup or ammonium sulfamate. These can be sprayed on the bark of trees where poison-ivy is growing without affecting the trees. Avoid getting it on the foliage of desirable plants, though.

Carolina-jessamine, sometimes known as yellow-jessamine or yellow-jasmine, is another plant that can cause severe dermatitis in some folks. It is a common climbing vine, rather pretty, with fragrant yellow blooms. But it is poisonous. It's genus is Gelesmium, which tells you something, as it contains an alkaloid, gelesmine. This alkaloid depresses and paralyzes nerve endings, and severe poisoning can result in respiratory arrest.

A more common plant, widely grown in our area, is the oleander. Because all parts of the plant are poisonous, this is one to avoid. One leaf is reported to be sufficient to kill an adult human. And, the dry leaves are almost as poisonous as the green ones. Children may be poisoned by carrying flowers around in their mouths. Many unsuspecting individuals have been poisoned by making hot-dog sticks from the straight stems at picnics. Inhaling smoke from burning oleander stems has caused poisoning, also. And, simply handling the plants with bare hands can cause dermatitis in susceptible individuals. Is it worth growing?

A relative of the oleander, and the Confederate jessamine, too, is the yellow allamanda. In spite of its beautiful flowers, the allamanda is poisonous. The bark, leaves, seeds and juice have been used for their cathartic effect.

The tropical mango is another plant that is botanically related to poison-ivy. And, folks susceptible to poison-ivy would do well to avoid mangos. You may develop a dermatitis from handling any part of the plant. Cooking the fruit destroys the material that causes the irritation.

The best advice is to learn which plants may cause problems, and teach your children not to put any plant parts, seeds, or flowers into their mouths—stick to the meat and potatoes and fresh veggies from the garden! Happy Gardening!

Elks Lodge Picks King And Queen At Educational Scholarship Ball

The Grand Night was highlighted by the crowning of King Stewart Baker and Queen Delores Martin, royalty of Celery City Lodge No. 542 and Evergreen No. 321 Improved Benevolent Protected Order of Elks of the World. This was the focal event of the annual scholarship ball held on behalf of the Educational Fund. The contestants wish to thank the community and the educational scholarship committee for their help in making this Grand Ball a success.

Deacon Henry Hooks celebrated his 92nd birthday April 1. Hooks was born in Monticello in 1894, and had a lovely marriage to the late Minnie Ola Stokes. Helping to celebrate his birthday were his five children, Dorothy Vallot; Minnie Lee Knight; Willie, Sanford, and James and Japhus of Rochester, New York. He is the proud grandfather of 26 grandchildren, 40 great-grandchildren, and four great-great grandchildren, and is the uncle of 31 nieces and 36 nephews. Hooks can still be seen at his church on Sundays at Providence Missionary Baptist Church, Lake Monroe, where he is an active deacon.

Happy birthday wishes to Deacon R.M. McClain, Louise R. Mitchell, Queen Gaines and Angela McKinney.

Woman Thinks Bald Men Are Sexiest

DEAR ABBY: Why all the letters about bald men? What makes people think a man needs hair in order to be attractive? And why should any man let his thinning hair grow long enough to wrap around his head six times to create the illusion of hair?

My husband is 33, and he's losing his hair but fast. Do I care? Heck, no! He gets more handsome and distinguished-looking every day. I can't wait until he is out of the military so he can start growing a beard. I think guys with beards and little or no hair on their heads are the sexiest-looking men alive.

Bald-headed men and flat-chested women have a lot in common. They feel embarrassed because of what they don't have. Some try to "fix it," which is OK if they think they need it. But once they wise up and realize that what they are has nothing to do with what's on their heads or what's up front, they are much happier, self-assured and together.

I am built like a 12-year-old boy, but my husband thinks I'm sexier than Dolly Parton.

Print this. So many people need to see it.

HAPPY

DEAR HAPPY: And I am happy for you. You and your lucky man sound like a peach of a pair.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am 60 years old and an incurable collector — baby clothes, news clippings, coupons, jars (cleaned, of course) and miscellaneous items. I box and store these items throughout my large house, in the attic, closets, under beds, basement — anywhere they are not in plain view.

My problem is not my collecting, but my children. They are all grown with homes of their own and find my habit distasteful. When I leave the house for work, shopping, vacation, etc., they clean me out. They go through my things and throw away what they regard as unnecessary and take for their own use whatever they want. They have discarded, or taken, some of my parents' belongings, baby clothes (special to me only), household items and my "junk."

I can't change the locks. My husband wouldn't hear of it, and gives me no support. Don't think I'm trying to defend my habit. I know it's a quirk, but it's harmless. I'm trying to defend my privacy. If it were my husband doing this, I wouldn't like it, but it is his house as well, and I would have to respect his right to live in a clutter-free environment. My children, however, have no claim here and have no right to go through my drawers and closets and take my things.

Please give me suggestions as to how I can put an end to this. I'm afraid to leave my house. Thank you for any help you can give me.

BARBARA

DEAR BARBARA: As long as your "collection" does not present a fire hazard, is not in plain view and inconveniences no one in your home, your children have no right to enter your home in your absence and clean it out.

Your husband's failure to support your right to privacy baffles me. You say, "It is his house as well, and I would have to respect his right to live in a clutter-free environment." Can it be your collection is actually an inconvenience and source of irritation to your husband but he has not verbalized it to you? Discuss it with him, and if that's the case, you owe it to him to stop collecting.

However, if it's as you described — "just a harmless quirk" — and you are a competent, functioning adult, if your children refuse to keep out, they should be locked out.

Library Acquires Children's Books On Sign Language

The Casselberry Branch of the Seminole County Library System has recently acquired a Signed English series of 57 children's books published by Gallouet College Press. The picture books are for use in teaching correct English through a modification of Sign Language. Designed for use by parents with deaf children, the books expose children to vocabulary, phrases and simple sentences that relate to their daily experiences (dressing, eating, playing, etc.). The books also concentrate on high-interest topics such as a trip to the farm, a day at the beach, seasons, etc., as well as classic stories and fairy tales.

TUMBLEWEEDS

Seriousness Of Disease Depends On Mutation

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — My sister, my mother and I all suffer from a blood disorder called thalassemia. So do our kids. Could you please discuss this in your column? There isn't a lot of information readily available.

DEAR READER — Thalassemia, a type of inherited anemia, appears in several forms. It is caused by a mutation in the synthesis of hemoglobin, the oxygen-carrying red blood pigment. The seriousness of the disease depends on the amount of mutation present. The most severe form is called thalassemia major, or Cooley's anemia. It affects children early in life and requires frequent blood transfusions to sustain life. This can result in a secondary disease called "iron overload."

The next most serious form is an intermediate type: transfusions are not necessary. Patients learn to alter their lives in order to cope with a chronic anemia.

Thalassemia minor means that one carries the trait. Although patients are anemic, they do not require transfusions and they can function normally.

The diagnosis is made after testing a person's hemoglobin by a technique known as electrophoresis. The abnormal hemoglobin molecules can be differentiated from the normal varieties.

Many medical centers are carrying on research to discover a cure for thalassemia. There is a great interest in the disease. There are some organizations that may be able to provide you with more precise information: Iron-Overload Disease Association (224 Datura St., Suite 912, West Palm Beach, Fl., 33401) and Cooley's Anemia Foundation (105 E. 22nd St., New York, NY 10010).

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've been taking Butazolidin for 15 years. My quandary exists because my doctor of 30 years recently retired, and the younger doctor seems determined to discontinue the Butazolidin because of the severe side effects attributed to it. I'm aware of these problems, but so far have had none. This medicine works for me; they can't get it?

DEAR READER — Butazolidin is a useful drug for short-term treatment of bone, joint and muscle pain. However, your new doctor is absolutely correct in his belief that long-term use is dangerous and inappropriate. The medicine can, at any time, depress your bone marrow and make you sick — even if you have taken it safely for years. Get off the stuff and take the young doctor's advice about newer, safer therapy. There should be no quandary about this issue. Your doctor is right!

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

When you're learning how to skt, your instructor tells you to lean forward on your skis. That goes against your natural impulse to rest your weight on your heels. But following your natural impulse will land you flat on your back. There are natural impulses in bridge, and usually it's OK to follow them. But watch for exceptions. See if you, as declarer, can get high marks on today's deal. When East plays the diamond king on his partner's opening lead. For a true test, cover the East and West hands with your thumbs.

Did you take the ace of diamonds and lead a club to the jack? East will win and return a diamond. You might go to dummy and play another club. West will win and force out your last diamond stopper. If you then go to dummy to play still another club, West will take two more diamonds to set you. Or if you try hearts instead, they do not split. And no, the queen of spades does not fall under the A-K. So what's to do?

Stifle your natural impulse and let East win the king of diamonds. When he plays another diamond, win the ace and cash the queen (remember, you still have the jack), pitching the ace and king of spades from dummy. Now play the jack of spades and continue that suit until a defender takes the queen. Even if the defender who wins the spade queen does not play another diamond, you have the heart queen for entry to those good spades and can make three no-trump.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY APRIL 12, 1968

More travel than usual is in the offing for you in the year ahead. It looks like you're going to take that long trip you've always desired.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Challenging situations will awaken your ingenuity and resourcefulness today. The way you resolve your problems will be unique. Trying to patch up a romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to make the relationship work. Mail #2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An imaginative friend has a clever idea for something that could prove profitable. Even though it may sound weird, hear him or her out.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone you met recently, but didn't pay too much attention to, wants to get to know you better. It's to your benefit to acknowledge his or her overtures.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Career situations can be turned around to your advantage today, so start exploring new avenues that could offer you fresh opportunities.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't put yourself in a position that allows others to make important decisions for you today. Your judgment is better than theirs.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An unexpected change that affects you and your household might catch you off guard today. Don't fret; it'll work out well.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone you're closely associated with needs an ego boost today. Let this person take credit for the bright ideas you originate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

Business associates hold you in high esteem today; they will act in concert with your desires. Shoot for the moon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Know-how is one thing; having pals in the right places is another. Today you're in the position to pull off something advantageous because you have both.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Things will have a way of working out to your ultimate benefit today. Even though appearances may lead you to believe otherwise, keep the faith.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Backers of something you're promoting will rally to your banner today. You will even gain a supporter who you thought would be pitted against you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A financial matter that looked like it could go in either direction is going to turn out profitable. The positive swing will be sudden.

THE BULL STOPS HERE!

An Open Letter To The Car Buyers of Central Florida

It's time someone put a stop to the misleading information and half truths that are sneaking into local automotive advertising.

And that someone is the Central Florida Dealer Association.

We believe this kind of misguided competition is not only unfair to you, it's unhealthy for the automotive business. For this reason we developed and presented the following Advertising Code Of Ethics to every authorized dealer in Central Florida. The signatures below will tell you who agreed to abide by it. And who didn't.

CENTRAL FLORIDA DEALER ASSOCIATION ADVERTISING CODE OF ETHICS

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, RECOGNIZING THE RESPONSIBILITY OF EVERY MERCHANT TO MAINTAIN HIGH STANDARDS OF BUSINESS ETHICS AND INTEGRITY, SUBSCRIBE TO THE FOLLOWING PRINCIPLES AND PLEDGE:

PRICE

All advertised vehicles will be available at the time of ad placement. If supply is limited or offer is for one of a kind, this will be clearly stated in the ad copy.

All new vehicle prices will include freight and dealer preparation.

All cars advertised at base price will clearly indicate that options are at additional cost.

All reference to manufacturers suggested retail price (MSRP) will be based on actual "sticker" price excluding dealer add ons.

All "discounts" will be referenced to either the MSRP or the price at which the vehicle is normally sold.

Cost plus ads should not be used unless the cost basis is clearly defined and seller is prepared to verify claim.

Trade allowance offers must reference the MSRP or the price at which the vehicle is normally sold.

All Truth In Lending Laws Will Be Observed.

TERMS

All payment terms will be clearly defined in legible type in form and size to clearly convey the offer.

"Asterisked" disclaimers or qualifiers are discouraged. If necessary to use an asterisk to condition offer, then copy should be in form and size comparable to offer being qualified.

All lease terms will be clearly defined as non-equity lease. Customer should not be led to believe that terms convey ownership.

Buy down rates are misleading unless part of a program from a captive finance source. All other buy downs have a cost. Advertising should clearly indicate that cost is passed along to purchaser.

OTHER

Competitive Claims such as:

"we beat everybody"

"world's largest"

will not be used unless true and substantiated within ad copy.

Since all franchised dealers are "authorized" to sell new cars, terms such as "exclusive factory authorized" sale should not be used.

Warranties or Guarantees, if promised, should be clearly defined.

Advertising copy which tends to discredit other products or dealers will not be used.

Vehicles advertised for sale should be clearly described as new or used without the use of misleading terms.

Obey and uphold all state and federal laws and regulations concerning financing, insurance, taxation, licensing and titling of all vehicles sold.

We accept these principles and pledge this organization to abide by them.

The Thrill Of Victory ...Without The Agony Of Bruises

By Susan Loden
Herald Feature Writer

The thrill of victory is a bit easier if your body isn't being battered in the race.

That's one reason 26-year-old Keith Young of Longwood, has switched from racing real motorcycles, dune buggies and off-road vehicles to racing one-tenth scale models.

Young said Seminole County's shrinking recreational space is also another draw of mini-size dirt tracks and vehicles.

"This gives me the thrill and excitement of racing without the expense," Young said. "I'm getting a little older. I'm not in my youth any more and I enjoy going back to work on Monday not hobbling around and all bruised up from competing."

In racing real vehicles, he said, "It's inevitable that you get banged around and bruised." With radio controlled models you're in control, but not in the driver's seat.

See TERRILL, page 8

...Thrill

Even though these mini-vehicles peak at speeds of about 30 mph, the thrill doesn't exactly match that of running a real racer. However, unlike the major bucks behind running full-scale vehicles, Young said, you can hit the track with an investment in remote control vehicle, control box and battery pack totaling about $200. You end up with a racer that can be transported in the trunk of your car instead of having to be trailered to the raceway.

The battery packs are rechargeable, Young said, and a 15 minute charging will run a vehicle for five-to-10 minutes. The batteries can be charged about 300 times before a replacement is needed.

These model vehicles don't take up garage space. Typically, he said they are 12-to-18-inches long and 8-to-10-inches wide.

Models are available in kit form in various degrees of completion at area hobby shops. Some models are sold pre-assembled, but the average 10-year-old, or a talented 8-year-old could put together most of the model kits, Young said.

When Young built Seminole County's first radio control race track at his home about two years ago a dozen racers showed up for the first meet. Today races are held every Saturday and Sunday and typically 80 to 120 racers face competition, he said.

Young is moving his operation to the "Toy Box Raceway" behind Loehmann's Plaza in Longwood and he said there are also two other major raceways in Orlando.

Racers pay entry fees of about $5 per race and run for trophies and titles, Young said. There are national meets and he has his hopes pinned on competing for the world championship in Europe in 1987.

In citing advantages of these quiet, battery powered machines Young, a Central Florida native, said in recent years, because of development, riders of real off-the-road vehicles have found they have no place to run.

"Ten years ago it wasn't a problem to go out and find a place to race. Nobody cared if you raced 4-wheel drives. Now that's not the case," Young said.

"I remember going to the beach and riding on the dunes. You can't even ride on the beach any more. The area for full-scale, off-road vehicles is very limited now. That's one factor in the growth in popularity of the radio-controlled vehicles."

These tiny racers are beach legal, he said.

The trend in down-sized racing started in California in the 1970s, where they felt a space crunch a bit earlier than in Florida, Young said.

Off-road radio controlled vehicles also draw vehicle operators who couldn't handle the rigors of racing the real machines. Children, the elderly and the handicapped are part of the remote-control racing family. And anyone has a chance to win.

In Young's style of racing he is still running in an "off-road" class, because his vehicles run on dirt tracks, not asphalt. However some racers do run on paved raceways.

The vehicles aren't exactly the same for paved-track races. And although most of them are also electric-powered machines, some of those racers are gas-powered.

Owners of these mini-machines can create highly personalized vehicles which, though incapable of taking their owners for a ride, can be their tickets to race tracks all over the nation.

Young, who has traveled the U.S. with his machines, in addition to looking forward to the 1987 European competition also hopes to make runs in Hawaii heats, going for big thrills with little racers.

Beverly Hills Laughs On Way To Bank

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The community of Beverly Hills, an enclave of wealth and privilege with more celebrities per square foot than any other neighborhood, has become a laughingstock — in movies and TV anyway.

The fact that most of the people who poke fun at the lush, plush Los Angeles suburb are its own residents only makes the denizens richer.

Of course, Beverly Hills can afford to laugh at itself. It isn't even necessary for these wealthy burghers to leave their homes to see new movies. They watch themselves ridiculed in their own ornate projection rooms while sipping exotic drinks.

Now if the entertainment industry were picking on, say, the Detroit suburb of Hamtramck, there might be organized protests, an appeal to the American Civil Liberties Union, blood running in the streets.

But no offense is taken when "Beverly Hills Cop" makes the police department look like a bunch of clowns or "Down and Out in Beverly Hills" shows its citizens as bubble-headed crazies.

Beginning April 25 the quiet residential community will be further teased in a new TV series titled "Leo & Liz in Beverly Hills."

The CBS show stars Harvey Korman and Valerie Perrine as a married couple from New Jersey who move to Beverly Hills and try to worm their way into its social milieu with little success.

Korman, a veteran of the old

Carol Burnett variety series, is not himself a resident of Beverly Hills. He lives in Bel Air, another filthy rich community abutting Beverly Hills. Many Bel Air folk, who are just as rich but fewer in number than their neighbors, look down their noses at Beverly Hills.

Korman's character, indeed, might be typical of non-celebrity Beverly Hills immigrants. Leo Green made his fortune in the brasserie business.

Their new-found wealth enables them to employ a group of servants, among them an off-the-wall maid (Julie Payne) and a wacko handyman played by Michael J. Pollard.

"It could be any Beverly Hills household," said comedian Korman, who is looking for a new house but not in Beverly Hills, where $1 million might fetch a handyman's bungalow on the fringes of the community.

"Leo, in fact, is a lot like me. He in no way relates to any of the characters I played when I was on Carol's show."

"Beverly Hills is a wonderful setting for a situation comedy because of the economic and social extremes of the residents and the people who serve them."

"Even so, our show offers a loving, caring family and the humor is gentle."

The new series — only six episodes have been filmed — is Korman's second sitcom. His first, "The Harvey Korman Show," survived only five episodes before being canceled.

He also made a pilot film based on England's "Faulty Towers" hit, but it failed to get off the ground.

"Tony Thomopolis was head of ABC-TV at the time," Korman recalled. "He talked me into doing the series promising me it would be a hit. We made the pilot and he hated it. So did everyone else."

"I was burned twice and thought it best to avoid them. But Valerie and I were co-starred last year in an episode of the George Burns comedy anthology series titled 'The Couch' playing Leo and Liz."

"Steve Martin was the director and the chemistry between me and Valerie so good that they decided to build a sitcom around them, with Steve as producer. We are very pleased with the results."

As Korman sees it, "There really isn't such a thing as comedy-variety shows on the networks anymore. They're dead and gone."

"I don't know why except maybe the old format was too predictable with songs, dances and sketches. At one time there were 17 variety shows on the air every week. Now there isn't a single one."

"Except for sitcoms, comedy has moved to movies where all those guys from 'Saturday Night Live' are cleaning up — people like Chevy Chase, Dan Aykroyd, Bill Murray and Eddie Murphy. There are others like John Candy, Michael Keaton, Tom Hanks and Richard Pryor."

"Kids go to movies and want to see all that irreverent, violent and outrageous stuff. It's a whole new market and a new bunch of stars. So maybe it behooves us older guys to stand aside and find room for ourselves on TV."

"Bill Cosby is doing it with his show, and, hopefully, 'Leo & Liz' will be a big success."

New Beat For Soviet Youth

MOSCOW (UPI) — On the edge of Moscow city, far from tourists and Kremlin intrigues, a "lost generation" of Soviet youth dances to an endangered beat.

"We are different," said a 22-year-old mini-skirted woman, known to her friends as "Blondie" after the Western rock singer and her own dyed blonde hair.

They call themselves the "tussovshiki," an untranslatable word derived from the Russian slang for "hangout."

"This is our hangout, and that's what we do," Blondie said, waving around the small nightclub before running to the dance floor.

These young people are mostly the grandchildren of peasants and workers — but their parents are the elite. The parents work in government ministries or in high level jobs in institutes or factories.

"But we don't want what they wanted," said Elena, 21, a student at one of Moscow's institutes of foreign languages.

"We don't want to just get married and work and have babies and go to bed after dinner," said Elena, stylish in strand after strand of exotic beads over a hand-knit sweater.

The club, reached by driving 45 minutes from the Kremlin past miles of modern housing projects and empty fields, is small by Western standards.

It has none of the dance floor laser technology of clubs like New York's Palladium or Paris' La Palace, but the "tussovshiki" say it is still the best place to "see and be seen."

Most nights the club is crowded with about 300 people. Its large parking lot is half-full with Soviet cars — Zhigulis with Moscow license plates. Unlike foreign-currency discos popular with diplomats and tourists, the club accepts only rubles, the Soviet currency.

"We live only for the moment," Elena said. "Because things are going to get worse before they get better."

"We don't care about politics. We just like to come here, but soon even this may be gone."

"Politics says this place is a waste of time," said a young graphic artist in a baggy Italian suit. "Here we have fun, tonight, because tomorrow who knows? It may not be here or open to us."

Already under Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's strict anti-alcoholism laws, the club has stopped serving alcohol. Bottles of fruit juice and Soviet-manufactured Pepsi littered tables. Smuggled-in bottles of gin, vodka and whisky were hidden under tables and in women's purses.

What Plans Are There For David Carradine?

Dear Debra — I recently saw David Carradine in "Kung Fu: The Movie" and admire him greatly as an actor. Does he have any other plans to do TV movies? — E.A., Pittsburgh.

Yes, you can look for David Carradine to reprise his role as Justin LaMotte in ABC's "North and South, Book II" to air in May. He received a Golden Globe nomination for Best Supporting Actor in "North and South, Book I."

Dear Debra — I've just started watching the reruns of "Hawaii Five-O" and while watching the show, I've often wondered where I have seen Jack Lord, the actor who plays McGarrett. Can you help me? — L.H., San Francisco.

Jack Lord has played on stage, in films and on TV. He's also written and directed TV shows. On TV, he starred in "Stoney Burke," and he also played in segments of "Bonanza," "Dr. Kildare," "Combat," "Laredo," "Ironside" and dozens more. His films include "The Court Martial of Billy Mitchell," "God's Little Acre," "The Hangman," "The Counterfeit Killer," "The Name of the Game is Kill!" and several others. Born John Joseph Ryan on Dec. 30, 1928 in New York City, Lord went to sea as a teenager. He ran a Greenwich Village art school after that. His paintings have been exhibited at galleries and museums worldwide, including the Museum of Modern Art and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

Dear Debra — Several years ago when Carol Channing was filming a movie in Seattle, she mentioned she had lived in Alderwood Manor, a small community north of Seattle, Wash. Please give me any information about her as I'm doing some research on the historical background of the area. Thank you. — J.R., Lynnwood, Mass.

Celebrity Corner

Carol Channing was born on Jan. 31, 1921 in Seattle; her father was a Christian Science lecturer. Carol went to Bennington College, but didn't finish; she left in 1941 to pursue acting, singing and dancing. Her career really took off after her Broadway rendition of "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend," which she sang as Lorelei Lee in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" (1949). After that, there was "Hello Dolly" (1964) as well as TV shows and films. She won a Best Supporting Actress nomination for "Thoroughly Modern Millie" in 1967.

Dear Debra — Could you please tell me if Rutger Hauer has been in any movies other than "The Osterman Weekend"? Thank you. — M.H., Factoryville, Pa.

In "Chanel Solitaire," a 1981 film, Hauer played a gentleman romantically involved with the Coco Chanel of the title. In "Nighthawks," also a 1981 film, Hauer played a ruthless international terrorist who was tracked down by New York City cops Sylvester Stallone and Billy Dee Williams (1981). "Blade Runner" (1982) featured the actor as an android on Earth in the 21st century. And most recently, our hero played a different sort of role in "Ladyhawke," a 1985 film that also starred Matthew Broderick and Michelle Pfeiffer. He played a knight — with Broderick as a thief who helps him break an evil curse — in the legendary tale set 700 years ago.

Dear Debra — Are the actors who play Dorian Lord (Robin Strasser) and Erica Kane (Susan Lucci) sisters? Is Phyllis Diller their mother? — G.Y., Gaston, N.C.

No. And no. This is the definitive no to the "sisters" rumor that surfaces continually. Miss Strasser, from "One Life to Live" and Miss Lucci, from "All My Children," are not related. Miss Diller is not their mother. On two of daytime TV's most popular soap operas, they play two of the most popular characters. Both actresses have received numerous Emmy nominations — and accolades from both critics and fans. Their longevity is formidable in a business where faces change almost weekly. It sometimes seems.
