

Graham Ignoring Support For 'Mercy Killer'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham is keeping mum on the case of Roswell Gilbert, saying he does not want a news media trial over the clemency plea by the 76-year-old man imprisoned for the "mercy killing" of his wife.

Graham said he does not blame reporters for covering the case — nor for publishing public opinion polls suggesting widespread support for some form of clemency for Gilbert.

But Graham insisted Tuesday that a complete understanding of the case can be had only through careful study of court transcripts and lawyer's arguments — and not by reading newspaper and broadcast accounts.

"I'm a strong believer in the 1st Amendment and freedom of the press," Graham said. "But this is a responsibility which the constitution places upon myself and the members of the Cabinet, and I'm certain they're taking it as I am — as an individual responsibility to try to reach a just verdict."

Graham also said a clemency hearing last week helped clarify for him the issues the case presents. But the governor declined to say when he might decide whether to recommend a reduced sentence, temporary freedom or any other form of clemency for Gilbert.

"I have feelings. I have ideas both emotional and intellectual on this case. I'm not starting from zero starting today in terms of reaching the ultimate conclusion," Graham said. "But until I've gotten to that conclusion I don't want to be publicly discussing the steps toward reaching that conclusion."

Three Cabinet members must agree to any change in the mandatory 25-year sentence given Gilbert for the March 4 shooting death of his wife of 51 years, Emily. Gilbert said he fired the two shots that ended his wife's life to relieve her suffering from progressive senility and a painful bone disease.

Gilbert's lawyer asked Thursday that Gilbert be at least temporarily released from prison. See GRAHAM, page 6A

Officer Shot By Robbery Suspect Set For Surgery

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Surgery was scheduled today for a Casselberry police detective shot through the lung during a manhunt following a department store robbery Tuesday.

Stafford Lynn Cambre, 37, was listed in serious but stable condition at Orlando Regional Medical Center this morning with a bullet lodged near his spine, according to a hospital spokesman. The spokesman said the operation was scheduled for between 2 and 4 p.m. and was intended to remove the bullet.

Cambre was shot at close range (5-10 feet) when he confronted a suspect following a 12:40 p.m. armed robbery at Service Merchandise, formerly Wilson's, in Seminole Plaza, Casselberry. Witnesses said Cambre had movement in his feet following the shooting, apparently indicating the bullet did not immediately damage his spine.

Cambre, on the Casselberry force four years, was one of several officers looking for a man in heavy brush near a fenced lake minutes after the holdup. A witness said when Cambre apparently came upon a suspect and ordered him not to move, at least three shots were fired through the chainlink fence.

Two of the bullets struck Cambre, one grazing his left shoulder and a second slamming into the middle right side of his chest, piercing his right lung and

Det. Cambre ...shot by fleeing robber stopping near his spine, according to Casselberry Police Chief Fred McGowan.

Cambre got off two shots, but did not hit the suspect, McGowan said. Still conscious, Cambre asked a witness to call an ambulance. He was later flown via helicopter to ORMC.

Cambre was not wearing a bullet proof vest which are provided by the department to officers who want to wear them, McGowan said.

As paramedics worked on Cambre, officers, including Seminole County sheriff's deputies and Florida Highway Patrol troopers, continued their search for the gunmen and within minutes arrested Kenneth Douglas King, 28, reportedly from Dallas.

King was found unconscious, or pretending to be unconscious, in waist-deep water in the fenced lake.

Because of King's condition, he was transported to Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs where he was held under guard overnight for observation, according to Casselberry's Assistant Police Chief W.A. Gates.

Gates reported that emergency room doctors said King's eyes had "pinpoint pupils," and he had high blood pressure, making them suspect he was under the influence of some drug.

McGowan said he too believed the man was under the influence of something. "He was not reacting too much," he said.

McGowan said King would be transported today to the Casselberry police department for booking and then taken to the Seminole County jail. He probably will be charged with attempted murder, armed robbery, aggravated assault and perhaps a weapons charge, McGowan said. The State Attorney's Office is expected to ask that King be held without bond, he said.

McGowan said Cambre might have suffered a less severe wound if the gun used by the robbery suspect had been a high-powered weapon rather than a cheap .25-caliber "Saturday Night Special."

He said a bullet from a more powerful gun would have had the speed to go through Cambre's body rather than "bounce around," inside him.

"We all pray that he'll come out of it with no lasting effects," McGowan said.

The shooting was the first of a Casselberry police officer in that city's history, he said.

According to police reports, the incident began when a man entered the department store, brandished a gun, and told two women cashiers to hand over all the cash they had. After they put a total of $624 in two blue bank bags, the man took them and rushed from the store.

He bolted across the parking lot with three or four male store employees in pursuit. The shirtless man fired one shot at his pursuers, then dashed across busy U.S. Highway 17-92. He probably hurled a fence next to Entemann's Bakery and disappeared into woods and brush behind the bakery, the reports said.

The holdup took place less than a mile from the Casselberry Police Department, McGowan said.

Casselberry officers, including Cambre, converged on the scene and the department's tracking dog was brought in to flush the suspect out. Once the man was

Social Security: U.S. Frontier Of Want, Fear Now Reclaimed

By United Press International

Americans took pause today to commemorate the 50th anniversary of Social Security — the national retirement system begun by the Democrats and which the Republican administration takes credit for rescuing from bankruptcy four years ago.

Social Security recipients in New York will place a wreath on the grave of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt who signed the legislation creating Social Security on Aug. 14, 1935.

Plaques were to be presented in San Francisco to community leaders who have served the elderly and disabled.

In Washington, administration officials Tuesday denied the conclusion of a study that indicated young Americans are losing faith in the Social Security system.

Martha McStein, acting commissioner of the Social Security Administration, insisted the retirement system "serves all people of this country and it serves them well."

In Elkins, W. Va., Jennings Randolph, 83, one of the few congressional members still alive who voted for Social Security, joined about 250 other people to commemorate the anniversary.

"In my speech (in favor of the bill), I spoke of the one in four laborers, or 13 million who were unemployed in 1933," Randolph said.

"One million of these individuals were homeless, drifting from town to town. Others lived in tarpaper shacks."

"It was in that atmosphere that the New Deal came. In the first 100 days, we passed 15 major bills and they were to relieve the suffering of the Great Depression."

"We moved rapidly. As the president said, we surely would make mistakes but if we waited, we wouldn't have time to make mistakes. I think we accomplished our mission."

Roosevelt signed the legislation with this mandate: "There is still a frontier that remains unconquered — an America unreclaimed. This is the great, the nationwide frontier of insecurity."

Eek! Rats Transform Hubby Into Rodent-Clubbing Nightowl

Beatrice Williams is sick of watching her husband sit up nights, baseball bat in hand, trying to kill rats coming over from the abandoned, rundown house next door.

Mrs. Williams told Seminole County commissioners Tuesday of the rat and snake infestation which began some time ago when the house at 705 Citrus Tree Drive in Orange Estates, near Altamonte Springs, was abandoned by its owners, Mancel and Lurlene Williams.

Mrs. Williams is not related to the owners.

She said the house is in a state of decay and she fears for the safety of her three children.

"It might fall down on them," she said.

Commissioners were already aware of the problem and were considering condemnation and demolition of the abandoned house when Mrs. Williams spoke up to encourage the board to order it be razed.

She said so far she has poisoned 10 rats, but her husband has been unable to catch two others running around her home. Two snakes have also been seen in the house, she said.

"I'd appreciate it if you would demolish it," she pleaded.

Homeowners Unhappy

Gas Pumps OK'd For 7-Eleven

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Despite opposition from neighboring homeowners, Southland Corporation won county permission Tuesday to install gasoline pumps as an accessory to a new 7-Eleven store slated for construction on the south side of Howell Branch Road, west of Betty Street.

On May 20, the Board of Adjustment denied a special exception, requested by Southland, because of concerns of surrounding homeowners about the traffic the convenience store, especially with gas pumps, will generate.

But Tuesday night, the county commission voted unanimously to overturn the board after Southland representatives promised to donate to the county 20 feet of right-of-way to widen Howell Branch Road and to install turning lanes into their planned new store.

Bill Tipton, Southland's traffic engineer, said a convenience store with no gas pumps generates 1,563 vehicles of traffic a day and with gas pumps generates about 2,095 vehicles.

Tipton said an average of 400 new customers would be seen strictly because of the gas pumps.

Rich Hall, construction coordinator for Southland, reminded that a nearby 7-Eleven store will be closed and its site sold when the new facility opens.

Owen Regan, of the Wrenwood Homeowners Association, said he opposed the installation of gasoline pumps because they cause increased traffic and the traffic endangers children who must walk to Eastbrook School along Howell Branch Road.

Rich Foley, also of the Wrenwood Homeowners, said the gas pumps are the issue and significantly increased traffic raises the possibility of accidents.

In other business, the commission voted unanimously to uphold a decision by the Board of Adjustment, denying a special exception requested by June and Waverly E. Dowdy to place a mobile home on a three-acre tract on the north side of Wayside Drive, 900 feet east of Orange Boulevard near Sanford.

The Dowdys asked for permission to park a double wide mobile home on the parcel to replace their deteriorated conventional home at the site.

The commissioners agreed with the adjustments board that the trend in that area is toward conventional, not mobile homes.

Youth Sentenced To Life For Florida Ax Murders

PENSACOLA (UPI) — Agreeing the ax murders of two people constituted a "heinous" crime, a judge sentenced a 20-year-old from Washington state to life in prison for the 1984 slaying of his grandmother and her male friend.

Raymon Grayson, of Federal Way, Wash., showed no emotion when Circuit Judge Lacey A. Collier found him guilty of two counts of first-degree murder. The judge rejected a prosecution call for the death penalty and gave him two concurrent life terms. Grayson will have to serve a mandatory 25 years.

Public Defender Earl Loveless, who brought in four expert witnesses to testify on Grayson's mental state during the two-day trial, claimed the brutality of the murders and notes by Grayson calling himself God showed "reasonable doubt" about Grayson's sanity.

But Assistant State Attorney Michael Patterson disputed Loveless' contention. He claimed Grayson "knew exactly what he was doing" and "knew killing was wrong." He called for the death penalty.

The judge agreed with Patterson that the crimes were "heinous, atrocious and cruel," but opted for the life terms.

During the sentencing phase, when

Patterson asked Collier to sentence Grayson to the electric chair, the youth rose to his feet and cursed. Two bailiffs approached him and Grayson sat again.

Moments before that, Grayson's father began to speak aloud from his seat behind Grayson. He stopped, shook his head and left the packed courtroom before the sentence was handed down.

Willie Mae Grayson, 57, and Timothy Mitchell, 67, both of Pensacola, died March 21, 1984, from severe head wounds cause by an ax and baseball bat. The following day, Mitchell, who boarded with Mrs. Grayson 20 years, was found against a dining room wall with wounds to the left side of his skull and the neck.

Mrs. Grayson, her face beaten and deep cuts on her forehead and face, was found near a door leading to the kitchen. A hacked dog was found under a bed.

Grayson had told police after his arrest that a masked gunman had broken into the house and forced him to kill everyone, then made him drink the blood. A taped interview of that conversation was played in court Monday.

IN BRIEF

General Dynamics, Navy 'Kiss And Make Up'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Business is back to normal between the Navy and the General Dynamics Corp. now that the giant defense firm has pledged to implement a "comprehensive ethics program" to prevent improper expense claims.

But a vocal congressional critic of the Pentagon, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., suggested that General Dynamics and the Navy have merely "kissed and made up."

Assistant Navy Secretary Everett Pyatt said Tuesday the Navy lifted its suspension of $1 billion in contracts to the nation's third largest defense contractor and immediately released nearly $700 million in contracts to the company's Electric Boat and Pomona, Calif., divisions.

Navy business with the contractor now is "back to normal," Pyatt said.

On May 21, as part of a Pentagon "get tough" policy following several procurement scandals, the Navy froze all contracts with the two divisions until General Dynamics set up a "rigorous code of ethics" so it no longer charged the government for such expenses as putting a corporate executive's dog in a kennel or for private use of company jets.

No details of the ethics plan were revealed.

Bodies Of 26 MIAs Returned

United Press International

Vietnam, in its largest accounting of Americans missing in action, presented crates containing remains of 26 soldiers killed during the Vietnam War to U.S. officials in Hanoi today.

A C-130 transport flew to Hanoi from the U.S. Clark Air Base north of Manila early today to pick up the remains.

New information on the fate of six other U.S. servicemen was to have been provided to the military team in Hanoi during the brief visit today but no formal talks were scheduled.

The remains — in 26 wooden crates — were placed on the plane in Hanoi and flown to Clark, where they were to be placed in flag-draped stainless steel caskets for shipment Thursday to the Joint Casualty Resolution Center at Hickam Air Base in Honolulu where they will be positively identified.

Nearly 100 sets of remains have been returned since the war ended in 1975 but 2,464 Americans are still listed as missing in action in Indochina, with more than 1,300 of the cases associated with Vietnam.

Escaped Prisoners Captured

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UPI) — One of two prisoners who escaped custody by critically wounding two U.S. marshals with a marshal's gun was captured when police spotted the fugitive in a van taken from a traveling salesman, authorities said.

John Luttrell, 34, was apprehended shortly after 10 p.m. Tuesday on the east side of Rockford. The other prisoner, Michael Whitehead, 38, was captured soon after the men overpowered their guards at about noon in northern Wisconsin.

Marshals Henry Carlson, 62, and Wayne Ruud, 56, were listed in critical condition early today at St. Luke's Hospital in Duluth, Minn. Both men suffered multiple gunshot wounds in the chest and abdomen.

Luttrell and Whitehead were being taken by car from a federal prison in Marquette, Mich., to Minnesota when Whitehead threw a denim jacket over the head of a marshal on the passenger side of the front seat, authorities said.

"Luttrell then lunged forward and grabbed a pistol and started shooting wildly. He even shot Whitehead," Douglas County Sheriff Fred Johnson said.

Prison officials said Whitehead had been convicted of bank robbery in California and had been at the prison since July 1984. Luttrell was convicted of bank robbery in Kentucky and had been at the prison since last March.

Graham Seeks Dismissal Of House School Veto Challenge

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham has filed an answering round in the legal battle with House leaders over his use of the line item veto on a $232 million school construction bill.

In a motion filed Tuesday, Graham said the lawsuit House Speaker James Harold Thompson filed Aug. 2 to block the line item vetoes was unconstitutional. Graham said the constitution gives the House no authority to mount lawsuits without the consent of the Senate. Senate leaders have not joined the House in the lawsuit.

Graham asked the justices to throw Thompson's lawsuit out of court, adding that if Thompson disapproves of his action regarding the bill he should sue as a private citizen and taxpayer and spend his own money on the case — not the state's.

Thompson argued in his lawsuit that the constitution limits the line item veto to the General Appropriations bill only. He said that if the Legislature passes a separate school bill — as it did during the 1985 session — the governor must accept or reject the bill in its entirety.

Graham had vetoed $5.8 million in projects from the school bill, arguing that unless the line item veto applied to all spending bills, lawmakers could evade his check on their spending power by splitting the budget into 5, 50 or more bills.

Highway Bandits Strike Again

MIAMI (UPI) — Three more motorists have been ambushed on Dade County highways despite orders by Gov. Bob Graham last weekend to step up police protection against bandits who have been disabling cars and robbing occupants.

The Florida Highway Patrol said Tuesday that two drivers were held up during afternoon rush hour on Monday. The third robbery was just after sunset that day when a woman slowed her car and someone threw a rock through a window.

The suspects in all three cases got away, grabbing two purses and a pocketbook.

On Saturday, the governor ordered 85 additional police backed by two helicopters to protect a five-mile stretch of Interstate 95 in the Miami area. There have been about 100 people who have been robbed on that stretch alone this year.

Restaurant Owners Reverse Stand, Want To Sell Booze; City Says No

A downtown Sanford restaurant company has asked the city commission for permission to sell beer and wine — a reversal of its decision three weeks ago not to sell alcoholic beverages.

The city commission turned down the request Monday on 3-2 vote.

Hampton Confectionery Inc., which owns the newly-opened Hampton Gardens restaurant, 112 E. First St., wants to sell beer and wine at its proposed French cafe at the Dollar Store, next to Hampton Gardens, according to Jerry Gross, who leases the property to Joe Pertz, the restaurant owner.

Pertz and Gross asked the city's planning and zoning board July 18 for permission to sell beer and wine at Hampton Gardens. The board recommended the request be approved by the city commission which took up the issue Monday.

But at the July meeting the request was met by stiff opposition from residents who charged that serving alcoholic beverages would ruin the family atmosphere of the restaurant and bring drunks staggering downtown.

Because of the opposition at that time, Gross and Pertz said the issue was not worth losing customers over and that they wouldn't sell beer and wine.

But Monday Gross said the company would like to have permission to sell the booze "in its back pocket" in order to compete in the future with other downtown restaurants that sell alcoholic beverages, such as Christo's.

While he said the company was seeking permission primarily for the proposed French cafe, it would also consider selling beer and wine at Hampton Gardens.

The commission shot down the request with Mayor Bettye Smith and Commissioner John Mercer voting against the denial. Commissioner Milton Smith said alcohol would "foul up" the downtown area.

"I've never seen liquor as a drawing card. My conscience voted against it," he said.

Crimewatch Turnout A Big Success

From Staff And Wire Reports

Many neighborhoods in Seminole County joined Americans in 46 states in turning on porch lights, standing in front of their homes, or participating in block parties and parades on "National Night Out" to demonstrate their determination to make their neighborhoods safe from crime.

"We were pleased by the support," Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said. "There were several different approaches by Neighborhood Watch groups in the city. Most turned on their porch lights and some even had block parties and neighborhood covered dish dinners. There were decorated signs with scarecrows, balloons, and crepe paper streamers. The rain damped it some, but people sat on their front porches and waved to police officers as they drove by."

Harriett said McGruff, the crime fighting canine mascot who wants to "take a bite out of crime" drove around the city in a police car visiting some of the neighborhood parties and residents. He said there are nine organized Neighborhood Watch groups in the city with several more in the process of organizing.

Neighbors joined neighbors for the second annual event, a nationwide effort to drive crime out of their neighborhoods, said

Residents of Dream World subdivision, Geneva Terrace and Georgia Arms Apartments assembled Tuesday night at a Neighborhood Watch sign on Georgia Avenue in Sanford to participate in the nationwide front against crime with property owners turning on outside lights at their homes and sifting outdoors or organizing block parties.

Peskin said earlier that as many as 10 million people would participate. Although Town Watch officials did not know how many people actually took part this year, they pronounced the event a success. Only Montana, Wyoming, Utah and Vermont had no activities planned this year, Peskin said.

Another Chemical Spill At Union Carbide

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — Union Carbide spilled 1,000 gallons of foul-smelling brake fluid chemicals into the Kanawha River two days after a chemical cloud from its nearby pesticide plant sickened 135 people.

A woman driving near the plant was treated at the Kanawha Valley Hospital for throat and eye irritation, and officials said 50 people called police or hospitals complaining of nausea and burning eyes.

Union Carbide spokesman Mike Lipscomb said about 1,000 gallons of "Union" hydraulic brake fluid, isopropanol, a solvent, and sulfuric acid were spilled into the river Tuesday night.

Lipscomb said the accident was caused by an unexplained pressure buildup during the Union manufacturing process, causing a storage tank valve to release and spill the chemicals into the river.

"Right now, we just can't put our finger on it," he said. The unit at South Charleston was shut down immediately, Lipscomb said, and would remain closed while the company investigates the accident.

Tuesday night's spill was four miles from Carbide's Institute plant, where 500 gallons of aldicarb oxime, which is used to make the pesticide Temik, spilled from a storage tank Sunday and rolled like a yellow fog over four nearby towns, sending 135 people to hospitals.

Anti-Crime Seminar Set

Citizens Against Crime of Winter Park will present a seminar August 20 on preventing assault, rape, robbery and residential burglary.

The seminar will be held 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. at Wilshire Plaza's Festival Bazaar, 857-22 E. Semoran Blvd., Casselberry, according to plaza merchant Maureen Fine of Tropic International.

Little Brock of Citizens Against Crime, a national crime safety awareness program, will speak on alternative ways residents can protect themselves and their property. Ms. Fine said.

Citizens Against Crime is affiliated with the national organization of the same name. Wilshire Plaza is one quarter mile east of U.S. Highway 17-92 on State Road 436 (Semoran Blvd.).

City To Discuss Land Use Plan

Anticipated changes in Longwood's Land Use Plan are slated to be discussed by city commissioners at a 7 p.m. meeting today with the Land Planning Agency. The commissioners are also scheduled to meet with the city's Historical Committee at the committee's request 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

At 6:30 p.m. Monday the commission will meet with the Governance Task Force of Project 2000, the Orlando Area Chamber of Commerce's planning group, prior to the regular 7:30 p.m. commission meeting.

The task force has asked for the work session with Longwood officials to discuss ways services can be consolidated in the Orlando Metropolitan Area and to get commissioners' views on intergovernmental relations, city services, expansion and annexation, tax savings, and the city's future.

Meanwhile, former Longwood City Administrator Don Terry, now city clerk, will hold the reins at city hall again this week while Interim City Administrator Greg Manning is on a hunting trip in South Carolina. Manning will also be on vacation the third week in August.

Longwood Declares Land Surplus, Puts It Up For Sale

Two parcels of Longwood city property have been declared surplus and put up for sale.

The city commission voted Monday night to sell 3.5 acres on the Longwood Lake Mary Road and a 50-by-50-foot municipal parking lot located downtown between County Road 427 and the railroad.

Commissioners said they would ask for at least the appraised value of the property. No appraisal has been conducted.

In other business, the commission voted unanimously to accept a $96,350 bid by Sunshine Building and Development Company to make repairs and improvements at the below-standard Columbus Harbour Wastewater Treatment Plant. There was only one bid received for the project.

The contractor has agreed to start within 10 days of the signing of the contract and complete the job within 90 days.

At the request of City Administrator and Police Chief

Greg Manning the commission will hold a workshop 7 p.m. August 21 to select an architect for the proposed new police building. From those who applied for the job, the top three contenders are Architects Design Group of Florida, Winter Park, Schweizer Associates, Orlando, and Wendell Mounce Associates of California.

The police complex is to be located on city-owned property on Jessup Avenue and will cost an estimated $800,000 to be paid for over eight years.

The Commission voted unanimously to declare two parcels of city property surplus and put them up for sale. They are 3.5 acres on Longwood Lake Mary Road and the 50-foot by 50-foot municipal parking lot located downtown between County Road 427 and the railroad.

The proceeds from the sale will go into a fund to purchase park property. The commission asked City Planner Chris Nagle to research other city property, such as platted but unused streets, that might be surplus.

Also to go into escrow for the purchase of property to be used for parks will be the $200-per-dwelling unit to be donated by Centex Homes in lieu of donating a public park along with its 100-unit development on West Lake. Centex will be allowed to keep a proposed 1/2-acre park, which it previously had offered to the city, for the use of residents. Nagle and the commissioners said the park was too small, too close to homes, and did not have enough parking for a public park and opted for a donation instead.

The vote to accept the offer was 4-1 with Commissioner Perry Faulkner, who wanted $250 per unit, voting no.

The commission unanimously approved a conditional use request for East Longwood Commercial Center to operate a wholesale outlet and distribution business on the east side of U.S. Highway 17-92 between Automotive-1 and Centra Care Center. The site plan was also approved contingent on the annexation of the property now in Seminole County. A public hearing on the annexation request was continued until the Sept. 9 meeting at the request of the trustee for the property, Roger L. Jablonski.

Sanford Must Decide: Fight Or Switch

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford is expected to decide Monday whether it will fight or switch — fight the state over sewage dumping in Lake Monroe or go to another treatment method.

A fight seems unlikely. The city commission is scheduled to hold a special meeting at 4:30 p.m. at city hall to decide which of several options — all of them expensive — it will take.

The city and state Department of Environmental Regulation have been debating the matter for four years. The DER has ordered the city to stop dumping treated sewage from its Poplar Avenue plant into Lake Monroe. The city's permit allowing dumping into the lake expires January 1987.

If the DER does not extend the permit, which is considered possible but improbable, the city would have to have an alternative sewage system. The DER prefers the city go to an expensive landspreading system where effluent is sprayed on a large land mass like fertilizer. As an added incentive, the DER says Sanford is eligible for $8.6 million in state grants if it goes to landspreading.

Sanford and the DER conducted hearings in January and April, during which the city tried to convince the regulatory agency that dumping treated sewage is not hurting the lake.

City officials have talked about fighting DER in court in order to be able to continue dumping in the lake. But during Monday's city commission meeting Commissioner John Mercer, in what sounded like a speech conceding defeat, said he realized the city was being forced by non-elected "bureaucrats" to do something that he believes is not in the best interest of the city — go to a landspreading system.

Landspreading could cost residents at the most between $27 and $36 a month, depending on which option the commission takes and whether or not Seminole County helps with the project in exchange for some of its treatment capacity. Present monthly rates are about $9.

City Manager Frank Faison said residents must realize that it's the DER, not the commission, that's forcing monthly sewage rates to go up.

The commission is leaning toward a plan calling for expanding the Poplar Avenue plant instead of building a new one, and pumping the effluent out to a site west of the city for landspreading.

The other options include building a new plant or fighting DER in court.

The commission must decide Monday because the state's deadline for grant applications is next week.

The commission this week selected a financial advisor to guide the city through its $33 million bond issue program which will pay for the sewage expansion.

Hawkins One Of Top Fund-Raisers

Raised Over $1 Million So Far This Year For Re-Election

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sens. Paula Hawkins, R-Winter Park, Fla., and Mack Matungly, R-Ga., raised more than $1 million for their 1986 re-election bids in the first half of this year — both getting help from a friend in the White House.

In total, 31 senators who are expected to stand for re-election next year raised more than $20 million from January through June — including $5.8 million in political action committee contributions, according to Common Cause, which based its data on reports filed with the Federal Election Commission.

The ability to raise massive amounts of money is becoming the single most important qualification for Senate candidates.

Fred Wertheimer, president of the citizens

Paula Hawkins
...preparing for tough challenge from Gov. Bob Graham

Six senators raised more than $1 million in the January-through-June period.

Hawkins, expected to face a tough challenge in 1986 from Gov. Bob Graham, raised $1.5 million in the first half of the year — $128,578 of which came from PACs.

Much of Hawkins' $1.5 million — which put her behind only Sens. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., and Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., in re-election fundraising — resulted from a May 27 fete attended by President Reagan in Miami, an event that pulled in $925,000.

So far, Hawkins has spent $350,816, the bulk of which went for setting up a campaign office in Winter Park and campaign-related mailings, according to a Hawkins spokeswoman.

Administration Planning For Rest Of '85

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — A transcontinental administration strategy session has produced the elements of a White House master plan to revitalize the Reagan presidency in the last four months of 1985.

As President Reagan vacationed at his mountaintop ranch, his top advisers — called together by chief of staff Donald Regan — talked for an hour and 45 minutes Tuesday on strategy and tactics on a telephone conference call between Santa Barbara and Washington.

This is merely putting policies previously enunciated by Ronald Reagan into an overall plan that will guide us," Regan said.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the discussion covered domestic and foreign policy concerns, the outlook in Congress and how and where Reagan can communicate his message to the public.

"First and foremost, among the priorities discussed, Regan said, was the economy and plans for a fall offensive on tax reform that will see Reagan on the road three or four times a month.

Competing for his time and attention will be preparations for his November summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Making The Transition

Instructor Tina Burnsed helps Kimeontae Asbie and Keith Cain, both 5, in a six-week summer program designed to help children prepare for kindergarten. The program, in which 21 children are enrolled, caters to pupils who will enter kindergarten at Idyllwild Elementary School later this month. Funding for the program came from the Florida Department of Education.

Automart Swap Meet Coming To Flea World

A new way to buy, sell and trade cars, trucks, boats, recreational vehicles and motorcycles is coming to Sanford Friday, when the Automart Swap Meet opens at Flea World.

After visiting auto swap meets in California and seeing the overwhelming positive response, Flea World owner Syd Levy said he decided to give the idea a go at his business on U.S. Highway 17-92 just north of Sanford.

The sales area will start with 130 vehicle spaces and eventually expand to 300 spaces, Levy said.

To accommodate buyers and sellers, a covered pavilion will be provided for protection from sun and rain. An experienced auto trader will be on hand to help prospective buyers and sellers with appraisals, title transfer questions and finalizing sales, he said. Printed window cards will be supplied for sellers to fill in information of make, model, mileage, condition and asking price.

To display a vehicle, sellers will be charged a flat rate of $6 for Fridays, $15 for Saturday, $15 for Sunday or $30 for all three days.

LMHS Band Barbecue Fund-Raiser Saturday

The Lake Mary High School Band will hold its annual barbecue Saturday from noon to 5 p.m. at the Longwood Recreation Center on Wilma Avenue.

Barbecued chicken or beef will be served on a bun along with cole slaw and baked beans for a donation of $3.50. The band will perform at 1 p.m.

AIDS And Its Potential ...

There are few forces in America more effective than celebrities in focusing national attention on a subject. Rock Hudson's contracting AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) has given new urgency to this alarming disease.

Spread through sexual contact, contaminated needles, and blood transfusions, the AIDS virus destroys cells that protect the body from disease. Hence, victims usually die from infections, most commonly from pneumonia, and a skin cancer called Kaposi's sarcoma.

In addition to its physical suffering, AIDS carries a social stigma. It has long been viewed as an affliction, somehow deserved, of the homosexual community and its unorthodox lifestyle. Yet, there is an increasing incidence of the AIDS virus in the general population.

Experts predict that as many as 1 million Americans have the virus although they show no signs of the disease as yet. A significant percentage of these persons will develop AIDS and die during the next five years.

So far, the human cost has been significant. The federal Centers for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta report 11,871 AIDS cases to date, of which 5,917 have been fatal. AIDS fatalities continuing at this rate will total more than 47,000 by 1987.

The medical costs are already enormous. CDC officials estimate the health care bills of the nation's first 9,000 AIDS victims amounted to $1.25 billion and that lost wages and indirect costs amounted to $4.5 billion. These figures are expected to double during the next 12 months as the number of AIDS cases multiply.

AIDS is a relatively new disease to America inasmuch as the virus was not identified in San Francisco until 1976. Medical scientists believe the AIDS virus migrated to the United States through the Caribbean after a disease similar to AIDS was discovered earlier in green monkeys in central Africa. This hypothesis is bolstered by the high incidence of AIDS reported in Zaire and among Haitian refugees in the United States.

As Mr. Hudson discovered in Paris, there is no cure for AIDS. He was reportedly treated with an experimental French drug, HPA-23, which stops reproduction of the virus cells. However, the drug also causes liver damage, bleeding disorders, and though halting the disease, does not reverse it.

Researchers have been more successful in killing the AIDS virus in blood-clotting concentrates given hemophiliacs. And scientists in Boston have produced a protein from the AIDS virus that could serve as a diagnostic test, and later, perhaps as a vaccine.

Recognizing the increasing severity of AIDS, the Reagan administration is seeking a 48 percent increase in funds for AIDS research, with a 1986 fiscal year appropriation of $126.3 million.

A half century ago, a president felled by polio helped stimulate collective national action that helped to bring a cure for that crippling disease. A decade ago, Betty Ford spoke openly about the formerly unmentionable subject of breast cancer. Last month, President Reagan's operation for intestinal cancer brought renewed national attention to that affliction.

Now, Rock Hudson, in acknowledging that he has contracted AIDS, has paradoxically breathed new life into a subject that many Americans have been recoiling from. Already we can perceive a more constructive national consciousness that can mobilize the monetary and medical resources required to combat AIDS effectively.

Budget Post-Mortem: Deficit Demon Lives

WASHINGTON — The first thing that must be said about the budget Congress has just approved is that it's amazing how fast our legislators can act on the eve of a month-long summer vacation.

After nearly seven months of bickering, stalemate and procrastination, the House and the Senate were able to reach a compromise neither side seemed to like very much. But in the end there was no way Congress could leave town during the dog days of August without approving a budget in the face of crushing deficits.

The second thing that can be said is that this budget may be a high-water mark in deficit reduction for some time to come, because next year is an election year, a period that is hardly conducive to great feats of political courage.

The disappointment over what Congress had wrought was perfectly expressed by Rep. John Edward Porter, R-Ill., who cried, "Tonight, after having lost the war, we are going to declare victory and go home."

But hadn't the Congress of the United States just approved the biggest budget cuts in American history? Wouldn't this reduce the deficit by nearly $280 billion over three years? Well, perhaps not quite.

When the dust from Congress's hasty departure had settled over the haze-shrouded Capitol, the numbers didn't look as spectacular as their authors had first trumpeted.

That $55 billion reduction in next year's deficit apparently will be closer to $40 billion, according to Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole of Kansas and House Budget Committee Chairman William H. Gray of Pennsylvania. And next year's deficit will likely be $180 billion, down from this year's estimated $210 billion in red ink, still a monstrous deficit.

Instead of cutting the $200 billion-plus deficit in half by fiscal 1988, a goal devoutly to be wished, the last year of Ronald Reagan's second term may see a deficit of at least $161 billion and perhaps even higher.

The reasons why the Deficit Demon has not been slayed can be found in what Congress didn't touch and what it only chose to snip around the edges.

Congress failed to freeze the civil service and military retirement pay and overhaul the pension system to bring it into line with the private sector as the Grace Commission proposed.

It failed to eliminate, as the administration proposed, the pork barrel-ridden Economic Development Administration; Amtrak subsidies; the heavily politicized Urban Development Action Grant program; the Small Business Administration; and the Jobs Corps, among more than a dozen programs that deserve to be scuttled.

The only program of any significance that the budget resolution purports to eliminate is the $4.6 billion revenue sharing program, though even that won't be abolished until 1987.

But Congress, in its infinite wisdom, seems to be saying that with the deficit already exceeding $200 billion this year and coming close to that mark next year, what's another $4.6 billion to help communities like Beverly Hills and Palm Beach?

Moving Up A Notch

In 1954 Peter Drucker, the brilliant teacher of business management, wrote:

"A scant twenty years ago, it was widely believed that the mass-production technology — yesterday's industrial revolution — threw people out of work. We know this today to be a fallacy. Where mass-production methods have been applied on the broadest scale, the class of employees that has been growing most rapidly in numbers and proportion is that of skilled and trained people. And the truly unskilled laborer of yesterday, who contributed only his brawn, has become the semi-skilled machine operator of today — a man of higher skill and education, producing more wealth, earning a vastly higher standard of living."

Thus thirty years ago did Drucker set in perspective the phenomenon of technological change and its impact on employment. His view is as relevant to day as then, as Americans, seeing computers and robots everywhere, wonder where the jobs for their children will come from.

In 1984, Walter Mondale worked fervently to exploit their fears by hinting that if Ronald Reagan were re-elected, Americans would be doomed to sweeping up around Japanese computers. Unfortunately for him, U.S. semi-skilled workers, even those in basic smoketack industries fighting foreign competition, voted decisively for Reagan anyway. They recognized what Mondale hoped they would not: that no president can halt the vast, relentless shifts in the nature of our economy, and the kinds and numbers of jobs it will provide.

The consequences of new ability to produce goods are new markets and new demand — which mean new jobs. The jobs that develop in coming years will not be limited to "service" fields. Nor will employment in manufacturing be eliminated by technology. Ditch diggers, after all, now use diesel-driven backhoes instead of shovels. That means fewer diggers per ditch — but the need for ditches remains, and new opportunities in construction and related fields for formerly unskilled workers appear. Technology, far from throwing low-skill people out of work, moves them up a notch to semi-skilled occupations — even beyond.

The future of employment in America is yet a future of risks. Political leaders may well swallow the propaganda that manufacturing is dead, and proceed to bury it with new anti-business taxes and regulations. But it is also a future of huge opportunities for both service and manufacturing sectors — and those yet undiscovered.

Senators Take 2nd Look At Presser Case

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

International Teamster President Jackie Presser, a man of amiable bulk, has escaped from another tight corner. For the second time the Justice Department has closed an investigation of him.

But the harried Presser may find himself in still another corner. Two of the Senate's most respected stalwarts, William Roth, R-Del., and Sam Nunn, D-Ga., are reviewing the Justice Department's action with a skeptical eye.

Presser presides over a union on the edge of scandal. He solemnly promised a Senate committee three years ago that he would clean it up. Instead he floundered on the slippery slopes and wound up in the

What's Not Possible?

President Reagan may have sensed something that the rest of us remained unaware of when he proposed his Strategic Defense Initiative, a defense against incoming missiles which opponents call "Star Wars." The public overwhelmingly supports the idea, and with his sensitive antennae and good political instincts, the president may have understood that.

A recent Suddinger Poll conducted in cooperation with Policy Review magazine contains some surprising findings.

Eighty-five percent favor developing a missile defense "even if it cannot protect everyone." Sixty-nine percent favor it even if it means "withdrawing from our existing arms control agreements with the Soviets." Nearly three-quarters believe that a Star Wars system would "make the U.S. more secure."

Like President Reagan, the majority of Americans are not content with our total reliance on deterrence — the balance of Mutual Assured Destruction known as MAD. Sixty-one percent believe that this strategy is "dangerous and does not sufficiently defend" the United States. Seventy-seven percent prefer it to a defensive shield against incoming missiles.

Public opinion is much different from the views pressed by the big-name "opinion makers" in the media and in lobbying groups like the Union of Concerned Scientists. Indeed, the opinion-makers do not appear to be making much opinion. An enormous gap exists.

Sixty-nine percent think the U.S. should go ahead with Star Wars even if it involved "withdrawing from our existing arms control agreements" with the Soviet Union.

"Opinion-makers" like Robert McNamara and Hans Bethe think almost any concession should be made to preserve those agreements and something called the "arms control process."

Ninety-two percent of the public believes that the Reagan administration should publicize Soviet violations of previous arms-control agreements. Eighty-five percent would not consider it a foreign policy failure if no agreements were reached at Geneva.

All of that represents, in my view, a pretty reasonable assortment of judgments.

A comment on the strong public support for Star Wars: Of course there are many vocal intellectuals who oppose any attempt to defend America or advance its interests, even when one of those interests is sheer survival. The public does not share that contemptible attitude. But the public also, I judge, has a sounder faith in technological possibility than some of the intellectuals who are stressing the difficulties of a missile defense.

The public may be naive on many things, and it may not know the details, but it saw the man walk on the moon, it saw the space shuttle, its own electronic toys are the beneficiaries of miniaturization, it knows about organ transplants, it has home computers. The public thinks it can be done.

Back in the 1940s, the top chemist James Bryant Conant expressed the following opinion and used his prestige as president of Harvard to advance it. It would not be technologically possible to construct an Intercontinental Ballistic Missile, he said.

So much for that.

High Altitude Problems

By Lidia Wasowicz
UPI Science Writer

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — If you're going to climb mountains at high altitudes, you should be aware of such potential health risks as swelling of the lungs, two medical experts warn.

"It used to be that only hardy climbers had access to certain high mountain regions," said Dr. Herb Hultgren, a staff cardiologist at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Palo Alto and professor at Stanford University Medical School.

"But in the last few years, modern travel has made it possible for others to get there, and there are certain high-altitude medical problems that the climber as well as the health professional should know about."

Hultgren has spent years researching high altitude pulmonary edema, or swelling of the lungs. Symptoms include headache, nausea, vomiting, low blood pressure and increased heart rate.

"The climber might act disoriented, cough and wheeze, perhaps even claim to hear a 'bubbling' in the chest," Hultgren said. "He or she might not be able to sleep, complain of dizziness and cough up a whitish liquid."

People who experience those symptoms should be moved to a lower altitude as quickly as possible, and oxygen should be administered, he said.

Hultgren said he often is consulted by other physicians who ask if it is safe for patients with heart or lung conditions to travel to high altitudes.

"Each case has to be evaluated individually," he said.

Dr. Frank Sarnquist, associate professor of anesthesiology at Stanford and assistant chief of the anesthesiology service at the Palo Alto VA, climbed in 1981 with the American medical research expedition to Mount Everest — the first team to perform medical experiments above 26,000 feet to determine the effects of extremely high altitudes on humans.

Sarnquist, who was a mountaineering guide in the eastern Sierra Nevada in the 1960s, said the expedition confirmed that humans can adapt to the thin atmospheres of high altitudes.

Sherpa porters had carried stationary exercise bicycles and medical laboratory equipment to above 20,000 feet.

Researchers found climbers breathed more often or more deeply than they had expected and, thus, were able to raise their oxygen level. Possibly because of the higher oxygen content, their blood was more alkaline and less acid than anticipated, so the climbers were able to do more work and exercise at a higher altitude than expected.

Three Charged In Alleged Kidnapping

Three men accused of kidnapping a Casselberry man and holding him for about six hours Saturday have been arrested and released on $10,000 bond each.

They also face aggravated assault charges after allegedly holding Robert Catledge, 28, of 106 Mark David Blvd., against his will.

The suspects held Catledge from about 7:30 a.m. Saturday at World Enterprises, Inc., 376 Commercial St., Casselberry, where they and a Fern Park topless club dancer who was not charged, allegedly threatened him, a sheriff's report said.

Seminole County sheriff's investigators say the kidnapping may have stemmed from a cocaine deal gone sour.

Catledge had been arrested by Orange County sheriff's deputies Friday on a second-degree felony warrant. His rental car was impounded and he was released on $1,000, deputies reported.

Catledge's captors allegedly took him to the Orange County Sheriff's Department to get his car.

While there Catledge told a deputy he was being held against his will, the report said.

The three suspects were taken into custody in Orange County and transported to Seminole County where they were arrested at the Maitland interchange of Interstate 4 at 1:40 p.m. Saturday, the report said.

Charged were: Charles R. Ellison Jr., 28, of Manassas, Va.; Charles Elmer Beales, 43, of 376 Comer St., Casselberry; and Charles Rafael Cuevas, 31, of Fern Park, have been charged in the case. They are scheduled to appear in court Aug. 26.

KICKER CHARGED
An Altamonte Springs woman told sheriff's deputies she was kicked in the abdomen and maybe in the head by a man after their argument developed into a fight.

Cynthia Hamilton, 21, of #4 Terrace Lane, told Seminole County deputies the man attacked her while in her home. She was treated at the scene by Altamonte Springs paramedics, a sheriff's report.

Willie Clyde Smith, 28, of 106 Ford Ave., Altamonte Springs, has been charged with assault and battery and was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond. He was arrested shortly after the alleged attack at about 11:30 p.m. Sunday. No reason for the dispute was given in the arrest report.

sleeping on a bench on U.S. Highway 17-92 was robbed by two men who awakened him and threatened him with a knife.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported the man was robbed at about 9 p.m. Sunday. The thief took $18.20 from Thomas Lloyd Murphy, 44, and fled, a sheriff's report said.

BATTERED AND HELD

A 32-year-old Sanford man who allegedly pistol whipped his wife and then held a 3-year-old child captive in their home after the woman fled to seek help has been charged with aggravated battery and use of a firearm in a felony.

Sanford police, who didn't identify the woman or child in an arrest report, said the incident occurred at about 9:30 p.m. Sunday at the suspect's home at 1903 S. Palmetto Ave. No reason for the alleged attack was given in the report and police said the man had to be "talked out" of the home before he was arrested.

Keith Vincent Hinckley Jr. was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

DRAGGED OUT

A 35-year-old Altamonte Springs man who allegedly dragged his wife out of their trailer and onto the ground has been charged with battery.

The suspect was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies at his home at 252 Green Acres Camp at 2:42 a.m. Sunday. A reason for the attack and the victim's name were not given in an arrest report.

Donald Gannon has been released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court Aug. 21.

CAR HITS CHILD ON BIKE

A 6-year-old Sanford boy riding a bicycle was hit by a car Sunday after he failed to stop at an intersection, a police report said.

Travis Wirick, of 415 Palmetto Ave., was hospitalized with head and knee injuries. He was listed in satisfactory condition Monday at Central Florida Regional Hospital.

According to the police report, Wirick was riding his bike east on Seventh Street in Sanford at about 7 p.m. when he apparently ignored a stop sign and tried to cross Magnolia Avenue.

A 1977 Plymouth driven by Ruthie Leggone, of 2606 W. Mitch Court, Sanford, was heading south on Magnolia and hit Wirick, the report said. No charges were filed.

STOLEN VCRs

A Sanford man walked into his home in time to see a burglar stealing his videocassette recorder.

Sam Joe Watson, 34, of 1701 Celery Ave., reported to police that he spotted the man when he returned home at about 9:50 p.m. Sunday. The man fled with the $1,300 VCR through the back door and headed south, the report said.

The burglar had broken into the home through a bedroom window and rummaged through some drawers but apparently nothing else was missing, the report said.

In a separate incident Sunday, a VCR was taken from another Sanford home. Victoria Ann Mills, 19, of 1710 W. 16th St., reported to police that between 8:30 p.m. Sunday and 1 p.m. Monday someone broke into her house and stole her VCR valued at $450.

FIRE CALLS

The Sanford Fire Department

responded to the following calls.

Sunday

—1:36 p.m., 2939 Orlando Drive, rescue. A 2-year-old girl had a fever and temporarily stopped breathing. The girl was taken to the hospital.

—2:44 p.m., 113 Longleaf Pine Circle, emergency-related. A smoke detector malfunctioned.

—9:43 p.m., 1508 Elliot Ave., rescue. An 87-year-old woman fell and possibly broke her hip. She was taken to the hospital.

Monday

—5:36 a.m., 2701 Georgia Ave., false alarm.

—6:33 a.m., Celery and Sanford avenues. A 55-year-old man fell down but suffered no apparent injuries.

—6:57 a.m., 702 W. Third St., rescue. A 32-year-old woman was assaulted by another person who hit her on the left side of the head. She reported she was unable to hear in her left ear. She was taken to the hospital by taxi.

—7:14 a.m., 119 Castle Brewer Court, rescue. A 48-year-old man who was spitting up blood was taken to the hospital. Rescue workers reported the man was in an auto accident a year ago and suffered severe internal injuries.

—11:58 a.m., 2828 Grove Drive, rescue. A 68-year-old woman who had difficulty breathing was taken to the hospital.

IN BRIEF

Bomb Blast In Elevator; More Deaths In S. Africa Riots

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — A bomb exploded in an elevator at Johannesburg's Witwatersrand University today and three people were killed in riots near East London and Port Elizabeth.

The new deaths brought the number of people killed in riots and clashes with police since September to 615.

"The death toll is unprecedented in the history of apartheid," the South African Institute of Race Relations reported Tuesday.

Apartheid, South Africa's institutionalized system of racial segregation, was imposed by the white Afrikaner Nationalist Party that has ruled South Africa since 1948.

Hundreds of black and white students who boycotted classes at Witwatersrand University this week clashed with whip-wielding police today. Ten people were arrested.

JAL Cabin Caved In: Witness

FUJIOKA, Japan (UPI) — Police today recovered the flight recorders of a Japan Air Lines jumbo jet that slammed into a mountainside and said 520 people were killed in the crash — the worst single aircraft disaster in history.

JAL reported that a section of the tail of the Boeing 747 fell off before the plane crashed into the mountain in central Japan, strewn wreckage over a half-mile area. A survivor told airline officials the cabin ceiling caved in before the plane went down.

"There was a loud crash," stewardess Yumi Ochihi, 26, told airline officials from her hospital bed in Fujitoka. "The cabin became bathed in a white light. The ceiling caved in. Oxygen masks popped out."

She said the plane then went down at a sharp angle.

Ochihi was one of four survivors found in the wreckage Tuesday. But police in Gumma prefecture near the scene said there was no hope for the other 520 passengers and crew. The toll made the crash the worst single aircraft disaster in history.

Seminole United Way Schedules Orientation, Training Sessions

United Way of Seminole County orientation and training meetings for board members, agency representatives, key volunteers and other interested persons are scheduled for this month.

The orientation sessions for board members will be held at Seminole Community College in room 112 of the Health Building (gymnasium) 7-8 a.m. Tuesday and 5-6 p.m. Wednesday. The second meeting will be a duplication of the first and is for the convenience of those unable to attend the morning session.

Campaign Chairman John C. Knapp is asking key volunteers and agency representatives to attend both the orientation meeting and the training session one week later. Knapp said it is important that those involved notify the United Way office at 834-3131 as soon as possible which sessions they plan to attend.

The purpose of the meeting will be to acquaint those attending with the United Way mission, functions and responsibilities. The history of United Way will be covered as well as selected short audio visual material. There will be handout material.

The training sessions for campaign workers on August 27 and 28 will be at the same location. Instruction will be given in the basic principles of campaigning — making initial contacts, planning a meeting, working with management, soliciting, and effective communications.

The identical sessions will be held at 7-8 a.m. on August 27 and 5-6 p.m. on August 28.

'Danny' Pushing Toward Louisiana, Texas Coasts

MIAMI (UPI) — Tropical Storm Danny pushed 55 mph winds across the mid Gulf of Mexico today on a course aimed at the Louisiana and Texas coasts where a 400-mile stretch was placed on a hurricane watch.

The season's fourth-named tropical storm was about 350 miles south of New Orleans this morning and forecasters said hurricane warnings may be extended westward along the Texas coast later today.

Gale force or perhaps even hurricane force winds could affect the Gulf coast in the warned area tonight or Thursday," the National Hurricane Center in Miami said in a 9 a.m. EDT advisory. "Residents in those areas should closely monitor the progress of this storm."

Gale warnings and a hurricane watch were in effect from east of Port Arthur Texas, through Mobile, Ala., and the advisory warned small craft from Mobile to Appalachicola, Fla., to remain in port, and advised those on the Texas coast to exercise caution.

Meanwhile, Hurricane Claudette, with 75 mph winds, was causing few problems over the open Atlantic, where forecasters said it would begin weakening today.

$500 For New Home

County OKs Road Impact Fees

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Accused of putting a "double whammy" on the prospects of enticing new industry to Seminole County with "unfair" road impact fees, the county commission Tuesday reduced the proposed fees for office complexes, manufacturing facilities, warehouses and mini-warehouses. The new fees are effective immediately.

The fees for new manufacturing, industry, warehouse or mini-warehouse construction can be levied on a basis of one of two formulas, depending on whether the developer wants to hire a consultant to show exactly how much traffic his development will generate. A flat fee is proposed for residential development, one endorsed by the Homebuilders Association of Mid-Florida.

One formula calls for a certain amount per square foot of the new structure and the other would be levied on the exact basis of how many daily vehicular trips to and from the facility it will generate.

The fees to be charged are $500 per residential unit, $1.50 per square foot or $50 per trip generated for commercial, $1 per square foot or $50 per trip generated for offices and 25 cents per square foot or $50 per trip generated by manufacturing industry, warehouses and mini-warehouses.

If, however, a developer can prove to the county he would pay less based on the traffic count his project produces at $50 per trip, the county will allow him to pay the lesser amount.

The fees must be paid by housing developers when final inspections are done by the county and by commercial and industrial developers when certificates of occupancy are issued after construction.

County Public Works Director Larry Sellers has estimated the impact fees will bring the county $17 million over the next five years for use in new road construction or widening projects.

This schedule of fees will remain in effect until a study is completed by consultants to set permanent fees. The study is expected to be completed in nine months to a year.

Commissioners were prepared to adopt a resolution setting fees for warehouses, manufacturing and industrial at $1 per square foot and mini-warehouses at 50 cents per square foot until warehouse and industrial developers turned out in opposition at the commission's Tuesday meeting.

Mike Hattaway, former county commissioner and a member of the Seminole County Industrial Development Authority, predicted a backlash to the fee, as proposed, by industrial developers.

Hattaway said a $1 per square foot fee for a 30,000 square foot warehouse would cost $30,000, an amount he said would be neither fair nor equitable.

He said a convenience store or a fast food restaurant generates much more traffic but would be paying far less per trip than industry or warehouses.

"To put this much burden on industry is not fair," Hattaway said. "This will stymie industrial growth. It will have a double whammy on industry in the county."

Hattaway referred to the absence of tax incentives in Seminole County and the state of Florida to entice industry while the county is proposing to levy an impact fee for roads.

Bob McKee, a Sanford developer, said the $1 per square foot would be about 10 percent of the development cost of a warehouse.

Tom Pratt, another member of the industrial development authority, said he would like to see a fee of no more than 25 cents per square foot for industry, manufacturing and warehouses.

As commissioners discussed reducing the proposed fee and perhaps delaying adoption of the resolution for two weeks, Hattaway spoke up to remind commissioners they and the industrial developers in the audience had reached agreement.

"Let's adopt this and start getting the money in for roads," he said.

The resolution was changed Monday afternoon in workshop also. A phrase was included to charge road impact fees against developers whose projects will front on county roads even though they are within the municipal limits of one of Seminole's seven cities.

The resolution says that projects on county rights-of-way which lie within city limits will be subject to interim impact fees when the county issues a driveway permit.

Another section says a developer may appeal the impact fee on the basis of his economic impact on the road network being less than the schedule of fees. The resolution also says that if the mandatory impact fee levied in the permanent ordinance is less than the amount of the interim fee, the difference will be refunded. The money collected from the fees will be kept separate from other county funds and are to be used solely for construction of or improving roads, streets, highways and bridges.

Bus Driver Pay Raise Pact Reached

Seminole County school bus drivers and aides reached agreement Tuesday with the school board on a new pay and benefits package.

Chief negotiator for the Seminole County School Board, Ernest Cowley, said beginning Aug. 19 the drivers and aides (there are about 40 aides who assist bus drivers on the special education student buses) will see an increase of 4 percent over last year for starting drivers. The increase are greater depending on years of service, and top out at 6 percent for those with 15 years of service.

Drivers with more than 15 years service will see a pay increase of 4 percent Cowley said.

The pay and benefits clause of the drivers' three-year contract is renegotiated annually, Cowley said. Health insurance benefits for the workers were also increased by 9.8 percent, Cowley said, bringing the board's cost per employee to $767.40 per year.

Under the new contract a new driver scheduled to work an eight hour day will earn $9,016 a year, compared to $8,669 last year, Cowley said.

Although he does not know the overall cost of the pay contract, no driver, Cowley said, will get less than a 4 percent raise and some will get up to a 6 percent raise. Most of the 350 drivers and aides fall in the range that would give them more than a 4 percent raise, he said.

The overall contract for the drivers and aides will be open to renegotiation next year, he said.

Leaves Constitutional Questions Open

Court Won't Block Judge Hastings Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal appeals court refused Tuesday to halt an investigation into the activities of U.S. District Court Judge Alcee Hastings, formerly of Altamonte Springs and Florida's first black federal judge.

However, the decision by a three judge panel of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia failed to address constitutional issues raised by Hastings, explaining such a ruling would be premature.

The investigation of Hastings' conduct is not the first he has faced since becoming a federal judge in the Southern District of Florida in 1979. He was indicted in December, 1981, tried and acquitted on a variety of charges including he solicited and accepted bribes.

Following the acquittal, two federal judges began another investigation under the Judicial Councils Reform and Judicial Conduct and Disability Act of 1980, which established a mechanism by which federal judges could be disciplined by fellow judges for "conduct prejudicial to the effective and expeditious administration of the business of the courts."

Hastings, seeking to stop the investigation that began in June 1983, challenged the investigation and the constitutionality of the act itself in a suit filed in federal court in the District of Columbia. The court dismissed Hastings' action and ruled that the move was constitutional.

The appeals court refused to decide the constitutionality of the act saying such a ruling was premature as there was no final determination of the investigation. The court dismissed the rest of Hastings' suit.

"We must permit the proceedings against (Hastings) to unfold as they will," Judge Carl McGowan wrote.

The case has attracted widespread public attention, and the Tallahassee Democrat Sunday published the results of an opinion poll indicating 63 percent of Floridians favor some form of clemency for Gilbert. About the same number said a person should have the right to kill a terminally ill loved one to spare the relative further suffering.

Hotel Magnate Marriott Dead At 84

WOLFEBORO, NH (UPI) — J. Willard Marriott, who started a root beer stand with borrowed money and turned it into the Marriott hotel and restaurant conglomerate, died of an apparent heart attack, hospital officials said today. He was 84.

Marriott was taken by ambulance from his Tuftonboro summer home, overlooking Lake Winnepesaukee, at about 8 p.m. Tuesday to Huggins Hospital where he was pronounced dead at 9:19 p.m., said hospital supervisor Marilyn Barba.

She said CPR was administered to Marriott en route to the hospital but he was pronounced dead in the emergency room.

Barba said Marriott apparently suffered a heart attack but the exact cause of death was to be determined by an autopsy.

Marriott was chairman of the Marriott Corp. but had turned over the day-to-day operations to his son more than 20 years ago. The conglomerate includes 125 hotels around the world as well as 2,500 fast-food restaurants, airline flight kitchens and catering operations.

In addition to being a leader in the Mormon church, Marriott was a big contributor to the Republican Party and a close friend of Richard Nixon. He served as chairman of Nixon's inaugural committees in 1969 and 1973 and hired Nixon's brother, Donald, to scout sites for Marriott hotels.

Marriott was born Sept. 17, 1900, near Ogden, Utah, in the small Mormon settlement of Marriott, which was named for his grandfather, John, a polygamist who had come to Utah in the Mormon migration in 1847.

He tended his family's sheep herd before doing the mission work required by his faith, spending two years in New England before returning to Utah to attend Weber State and the University of Utah.

His college jobs included selling clothes and running a bookstore. After graduation he taught English at Weber State, where he also served as treasurer and theater manager before moving to Washington, D.C., with his new wife, the former Alice Sheets, in 1927.

He supplemented $1,000 in savings with a $1,500 loan, parlaying an exclusive A&W root beer franchise into a chain of small Washington restaurants called the Hot Shoppes.

In 1937 he began catering meals for airlines and 20 years later opened his first hotel — The Twin Bridges Marriott — in Virginia just across the Potomac from Washington.

Sanford Players Excel At Junior Tournament

The Central Florida Tennis Confederation Tournament for unranked players was held recently at the Azalea Lane Tennis Courts in Winter Park. Players from clubs all over the area participated and many of our own Sanford youngsters did very, very well.

This is a tournament held each year at this time and is part of the State Youth Tennis Federation. The winner and runner up in each division qualifies to go on to the state wide tournament to be held in Lakeland later this summer.

In the 10 and under doubles finals, Jonathan Duryea and Shawn Perce lost a very hard fought match to a team from Fort Gallin. The final score was, 6-3, 6-4.

In the 14 and under doubles, Mitch Albert and Chad Perce lost to the number one seeded team in a very close match and, in the 16 and under doubles, Matt Albert and John Ludwig lost in the semifinals in a three-setter.

Perhaps the single most impressive performance turned in by a local player in this tournament was by Matt Albert. Albert got all the way to the finals of the 16 and under singles before losing to the number one seed. Of course, Matt will go on to the state tournament in Lakeland.

Congratulations to all of these players on a job well done and we wish them continued success in their tennis. It seems that Sanford is growing a good crop of fine, young tennis talent.

Rain, rain and more rain. That's what Bill

Payne and Dean Smith are saying about their recent Seminole Community College Tennis Tournament.

Payne and Smith set a new record for sweeping courts and consecutive hours spent at the courts in trying to get their tournament in.

This was another fund raising event to help support the SCC basketball program and, even though the rains came and the weather was hot and humid, some great tennis was played.

Acually, about 50 players participated and a good deal of money goes into the Raider Booster Club to allow coach Payne to bring in the kind of basketball players he needs to turn the corner toward a state championship.

We salute Bill Payne, his right hand man Dean Smith and all those who helped with the tournament. It's not only going to support his basketball team but it's great for local tennis to have these regular tournaments. Also, coach Payne says thanks to Wayne Morris and the Western Sizzlin' Steak House for donating money for the trophies.

Of course, because of the rains, the tournament is not over but most of the finals will be played this week.

In the men's singles final it will be number one seed Kerry Clapper against number two seed Scott Reagan. In the men's doubles finals, it will be number one seeded Clapper and Kevin Copeland against number two seeded Reagan and Larry Castle.

The women's singles was won by Sandy Mowery over Linda Huelsman, 6-3, 6-1. The women's consolation was won by Maria Parlak over Ann Sipp, 6-2, 6-3.

The men's "C" singles will pit Reggie Moseley against John Demundo later this week. The "C" doubles was won by Moseley and Jeff Horn over Vince Cheney and Jeff Hacker, 6-2, 6-0.

The "B" doubles was won by Danny Parlak and Simeon Goring over Brian Koslic and Dr. Carlson, 6-1, 6-2. And the "B" singles was won by Jim Stone over Simeon Goring, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Bribery Trial On Again

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The sports bribery trial of former Tulane basketball star John "Hot Rod" Williams, which was threatened with termination, could begin again today because a judge has reversed his mistrial order in the case.

Orleans Parish Judge Alvin Oser late Tuesday vacated his declaration of a mistrial, changing a stunning decision he had made four hours earlier. Oser had declared the mistrial because prosecutors failed to turn evidence over to Williams' attorneys.

Oser repeatedly ordered prosecutors during pre-trial hearings to turn all relevant evidence over to Williams' attorneys, but they failed to give the defense lawyers copies of taped statements by Jon Johnson and Clyde Eads, former teammates who testified Tuesday against Williams.

Defense attorney Michael Green was beginning his cross-examination of Johnson when Oser ordered the mistrial, angrily accusing Assistant District Attorney Eric Dubeller of causing the mistrial by not providing the Johnson tape to defense attorneys.

But after meeting with nearly a dozen attorneys for four hours, Oser vacated his declaration of a mistrial. The trial will continue where it was halted — with the cross-examination of Johnson.

"I ordered a mistrial on grounds the state failed to provide the tape," Oser said.

Oser, speaking with reporters in his chambers, said the trial could be restarted late today, depending on how fast a court reporter can transcribe trial testimony that must now be reviewed by the judge.

Oser said he listened to the tape in his chambers and discovered there was some material that could tend to help Williams' case because it could show inconsistencies in Johnson's testimony.

Usual Tight Race Expected In SWC

United Press International

After making their annual forecasts that the 1984 Southwest Conference football race would be the closest in history, the SWC coaches finally turned out to be right.

Things were so close that it would have taken only a slightly different bounce of the ball to have made the ultimate results quite different.

As it was, however, the conference champions emerged with two league losses and that had never happened before. And for the first time the top five teams finished within a game of each other.

It was, as the coaches said it would be, the closest SWC race in history.

"Everybody thought we were crying 'woe,' when we said the conference would be balanced," said Texas Tech coach Jerry Meyer, whose team finished next-to-last in 1984. "I think the same thing can be said about this year."

And well it might, since many of the elements which went into making last year such an entertaining affair are back to become potential factors this time around.

Some of those factors include:

— A rash of quality skill people at Southern Methodist University, athletes who helped make the Mustangs co-champions last year and who make up the base of what should be another outstanding club.

— The return of almost the entire starting offensive unit at the University of Houston, which was given little chance of contending last season but which wound up capturing a share of the league crown and representing the SWC in the Cotton Bowl.

— Arkansas' defensive team, which lost only two players to graduation and figures to be the stingiest group in the league.

— An abundance of defensive talent at Texas A&M, which finished strong in 1984 and has definite hopes that this will finally be the year that coach Jackie Sherrill can produce a champion at Aggieland.

Football

— Kenneth Davis, who averaged 146.5 yards per game during Texas Christian University's surprising season and who is the league's best candidate when it comes to early Heisman Trophy thinking.

Every team in the league seems to have something going for it, even the Rice Owls who traditionally bring up the rear.

"It was a long season last year," said Rice coach Watson Brown, whose first campaign with the Owls included just one win. "But we learned a lot about our players and we will be more experienced."

"I hope we don't have to learn as much this year."

Although last year demonstrated that surprises are still in vogue in the SWC, the consensus choice this season remains SMU.

Despite an NCAA investigation into the SMU football program that is now entering its third year, the Mustangs continue to amass talent and continue to get outstanding coaching from one of the most underrated men in the business — Bobby Collins.

During Collins four years at SMU, the Mustangs have a 31-4-1 record, a No. 2 national ranking (at the end of the 1982) season and bowl victories over Pittsburgh and Notre Dame.

Such successes should continue this year since SMU has the conference's top running back tandem (Jeff Atkins and Reggie Dupard splitting time at the running back spot just as Eric Dickerson and Craig James once did), a corps of very fast receivers and a senior quarterback (Don King) who already has a conference title under his belt.

Moore Returns, Four Still Unsigned

MIAMI (UPI) — Now that Nat Moore has decided to end his holdout and play another season, he is hoping for a repeat of last season's success — but not for a repeat of last year's constant questioning on when he will retire.

The veteran from Florida, entering his 13th NFL season, signed a two-year contract with the Dolphins Monday and worked out with the team Tuesday. Moore, 33, said he has been working out, but it's not the same as being in camp.

"You can do all the work possible on your own, but it's just not the same as being here and being part of the ballclub," he said. "Being in shape is not the same as being in football shape."

Moore's signing leaves the Dolphins with four unsigned veterans — Bob Brudzinski, Glenn Blackwood, Jim Jensen, and Dan Johnson. In addition, quarterback Dan Marino also is out of camp in a contract dispute.

Moore, who was considering retirement last season, says his success in 1984 (43 catches for 573 yards and 6 touchdowns) and not the Super Bowl loss to San Francisco was the biggest factor in his return.

Football

"Last year, after the Super Bowl, it was probably the emptiest feeling I've ever had," he said. "This year, it (the Super Bowl) had some play in my decision, but it wasn't the biggest factor."

"The biggest factor was I still felt good and can play," Moore said.

While the Dolphins wanted him to sign a two-year contract, Moore says he has made no decision about playing next year and will not decide until after the season is over.

"The last thing you want to do as a player is stay around when you're not productive. I've had a great career," he said.

Obviously, Coach Don Shula was glad to see number 89 back in uniform. "It's always good to see Nat in the meeting room or on the practice field," he said.

"His value has been well documented, he's one of the best receivers in the National Football League," Shula said.

BUCS RELEASE OWENS

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers waived eight players Tuesday, including veteran running back James Owens.

Also released were wide receivers Dwayne Dixon and Zach Thomas, defensive linemen Phil Darna, Carlton Gunn and Allen Dale Campbell, linebacker Willie Moore and defensive back Dave Burke.

Owens, 30, was entering his seventh NFL season and his fifth with Tampa Bay. He carried the ball 264 times for 911 yards and 11 touchdowns in his career with the Buccaneers and also returned 55 kicks for a 19.5 yard average.

Dixon, Thomas and Darna joined the club late last season while Gunn, Campbell, Moore and Burke all signed as rookie free agents in 1985.

Scott Signs With Florida Southern

Volleyball

Maitland's Christy Scott, a 1984 Lake Howell High graduate, has signed a letter-of-intent to attend Florida Southern College in Lakeland. It was announced by Lois Webb, head coach of the Florida Southern Lady Moe volleyball team.

Scott, who was an All-Mid Florida Conference selection last season at Valencia Community College, will be a sophomore at Florida Southern this fall where she will major in recreation.

In high school, Scott, lettered in three sports her senior year including volleyball, basketball and track. In volleyball, Scott was selected Evening Herald Player of the Year as a senior. In basketball, she finished out her career at Lake Howell as the nation's sixth all-time rebounder. In track, she set a school record in the discus throw with a 124.6 and placed third in the 4A State meet.

Scott is the daughter of Charlie and Mary Scott of Maitland.

Along with the addition of Scott, Florida Southern also signed Marlene Ansoategui out of Valencia Community College. In two years with the Lady Matadors, Ansoategui earned All-Conference and All-State honors and was twice nominated for All-American. She is a 1983 graduate of Tampa Catholic High.

Before playing at Valencia, Ansoategui starred at Tampa Catholic in volleyball and softball. In 1983, she was chosen Athlete of the Year by the Florida Coaches Association while in 1984 she was selected to participate in the Sunshine State Games.

Scott and Ansoategui will be important additions to the Florida Southern team in 1985. The Lady Moe's lost all six starters from last year's squad which won the Sunshine State Conference regular season and post season championships and advanced to regional NCAA Division II tournament play. — Chris Flister

Christy Scott, shown here in her days with Lake Howell High, will be playing volleyball at Florida Southern University as a sophomore in 1985. Scott went to Valencia Community College as a freshman.

Young Boosts Orioles

BALTIMORE (UPI) — With the possible exception of Maryland crabcakes, not much has made Earl Weaver smile since his return to Baltimore as manager of the Orioles.

Mike Young, however, has given Weaver quite a bit of satisfaction despite the generally poor overall play of the team.

Every time Weaver sees Young play he knows that he was right about him and nothing makes a manager happier than being assured that his talent evaluation was correct.

"I liked Young when I first saw him and always thought he had super power," Weaver said Tuesday night after watching his prize outfielder hit home runs from each side of the plate in the Orioles' 8-4 triumph over the Cleveland Indians. "I wasn't surprised last year when I was looking in the paper and seeing him hit home runs."

Young lined his 16th homer to lead off a two-run third inning and hit a two-run homer in the eighth to snap a 4-4 tie.

Cross Country Jamboree Set For Aug. 24 At SCC

The 10th annual Summertime Seminole Cross Country Jamboree will be held Saturday, Aug. 24 at Seminole Community College.

The first of five races, a quarter-mile run for boys and girls nine and under, will begin at 5:30 p.m. That will be followed by the boys and girls 10-13 half mile race at 5:40. The girls team race (14-18), which is two miles, starts at 5:50 followed by the boys team race, three miles, at 6:20.

An open three-mile race for men and women 19 and over will be held at 6:50.

Entry fee is $4 per person per race and all entries will be taken starting at 4 p.m. and continuing to race time.

Drawings for over $300 worth of merchandise donated by the Seminole Track Officials, Burger King and Track Shack will be held during the awards ceremony which follows the final race. All race entrants are eligible to win and must be present to win.

For further information, call Dave Maul at 273-5145 or Joe Laughlin at 834-1317.

Nominations For County Hall

The Selection Committee of the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame has designated Aug. 15 through Sept. 15 as the nomination period for persons who wish to submit names for Hall of Fame consideration.

The names of people nominated should be sent to: Sports Committee, Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Drawer CC, Sanford, 32772, along with verifiable data of the nominee's accomplishments in his/her field of athletic participation.

The general public is invited to submit nominations to the Selection Committee which is composed of representatives of Seminole County Chambers of Commerce, high school and college officials, Sports Editors, Recreation Directors and the general public.

Eligible candidates must have lived in Seminole County for three years or must have worked in Seminole County five years. Must have made an outstanding contribution to their sports field as a player, coach, administrator or fan. Must be at least 21 years of age on the date of nomination.

Clay Hurls O-Twins To Victory

Danny Clay hurled a four-hitter and struck out seven Tuesday night to lead the Orlando Twins to a 6-3 victory over the Memphis Chicks in Southern League play at Memphis.

Clay, 11-7, had his shutout bid spoiled in the bottom of the ninth when Memphis scored his three runs but the O-Twins backed Clay with five runs over the first six frames.

The win enabled the Twins to remain one half game back of Charlotte in the Southern League East Division.

Orlando took a 2-0 lead in the second inning on an error by Memphis' Lenny Faedo and a run-scoring single by Alexis Marte.

The Twins added three more runs in the sixth, one on Greg Morhardt's RBI double and two more on Rick Colbert's two-run homer. It was Colbert's sixth homer of the year. Orlando rounded out its scoring in the eighth when Sam Sorce ripped an RBI double.

In Florida State League play Tuesday, the Oseola Astros' game against Fort Lauderdale at Kissimmee was rained out. The Astros have been rained out in five of their last eight games. Oseola, which leads the Central Division by five and a half games, returns to action tonight at 7:30 at Winter Haven.

Fleming Shines In Charity Game

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (UPI) — Vern Fleming of the Indiana Pacers won MVP honors as the West beat the East 113-93 Tuesday night in the 27th annual Maurice Stokes Memorial charity double-header.

Playing before a sellout crowd of 2,918, Fleming, playing with San Antonio's Edgar Jones and Denver's Dan Schayes, scored 24 points. Wes Matthews, who played with the Chicago Bulls last season, scored 20 for the East.

In the preliminary game for veterans, "Pistol" Pete Maravich scored 25 points to lead the West to a 80-71 triumph.

Earlier, the board of trustees for the fund, designed to financially aid ailing former ballplayers, allocated a four-figure grant to an undisclosed former player.

In addition, a grant was made to Ed Warner, the former City College great confined to a wheelchair after an automobile crash. Another undisclosed donation was made to the Hall of Fame for a new Stokes Room.

Post 53 Hosts Golf Tourney

On Saturday, Aug. 17, Campbell-Lossing Post 53, American Legion, will host a golf tournament at the Mount Plymouth Golf Club.

This event is open to the public and those interested may sign up at Post 53 anytime after noon each day. Those entering must be at the golf course 7 a.m. for a 7:30 a.m. starting time.

The format is Foursomes play the best lie, shotgun start. Trophies awarded for first, second and third and last place plus door prizes and lunch at Post 53.

Rinker Holds Fall Classes

Wes Rinker's Florida Baseball Schools fall baseball classes will begin Saturday, Sept. 7 starting at 9 a.m. at Sanford Memorial Stadium. Classes will be each Saturday for 10 weeks from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

A limited number will play in the 24-game Zinn Beck Fall League. Cost for class is $120. For more information, contact Rinker at 323-1046.

Caulkins Has Trouble Turning Gold To Green

Tracy Caulkins

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — For onetime Florida Gator Tracy Caulkins, going for the gold was much easier than going for the green.

You don't see Caulkins treading water on the front of a Wheaties box or munching on a McDonald's hamburger. Competitive swimmers' all-time record-holder has found a year after her early "retirement" from the sport that gold does not necessarily turn to green, no matter who you are.

"It probably hasn't been as profitable as it could have been," said Caulkins, 22, who recently graduated from the University of Florida with a degree in broadcast journalism. "A lot of people might say I wasn't as aggressive as I could have been, but I was going to school a lot. I didn't really know what to expect."

Caulkins was unequaled as a swimmer, with 62 American records and 48 national titles to her credit. She was voted the country's top female athlete at age 15. Upon arrival at the University of Florida, it didn't take her long to add the

Swimming

Broderick Cup as the top female collegiate athlete to her cache of kudos.

She gave up a year's college eligibility — with Gator coach Randy Reese's blessing — to try to cash in while her name was still fresh on America's mind. Yet it was Mary Lou Retton who took a toothy grin and $6 million to the bank.

Caulkins, however, said in an interview with United Press International that she takes some of the responsibility for her relatively low profile. She has been very selective in her dealings, often devoting time to raising money for causes instead of herself.

Her beneficiaries include the Nashville (Tenn.) Aquatic Club (saved from bankruptcy), the Women's Sports Foundation, the United States Swim-a-thon and the University of Florida's annual gliding drive.

Her agent is Orlando lawyer Robert Fraley, whose clientele includes University of Alabama football Coach Ray Perkins, Tennessee Coach Johnny Majors and Washington Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs. But, Caulkins said, she and Fraley sometimes don't touch base with each other.

"We don't have the best communication," Caulkins said. "He's very busy and I'm very busy. There were some things that I didn't go after and there were some things that he thought, 'No way,' that I don't know if I would have done them."

One project that has netted her some pocket change and attention is a regional deal with Coca-Cola worth a reported $14,000. But Fraley's credit for that deal is at best shared with the Florida Athletic Department, which deals extensively with Coke. University officials reportedly are trying to cut a deal that would parlay the regional ad into a national campaign.

"I don't know that he (Fraley) has steered her away from things," Dr. Tom Caulkins, Tracy's father said. "I can say he could have done better, though."

Norman Regains Lead In Jackson Classic

JACKSON, Mich. (UPI) — Carol Norman won her last four match games Tuesday night to regain a 15-pin lead over Lisa Wagner after four rounds of the Ladies Pro Bowlers Tour Jackson Classic.

Norman, of Ardmore, Okla., lost her lead early in the fourth round to Marliss Borr and then to Wagner before regaining the advantage in the final game. The 24-year-old right-hander finished with a 26-game total of 5,654 pins, including match play bonus pins.

Wagner, the 1983 Woman Bowler of the Year from Palmetto, Fla., was second at 5,639, two pins ahead of Borr, a 33, of Kalamazoo, Mich. Borr has never finished higher than 16th.

Patty Costello of Scranton, Pa., was fourth with 5,590 pins after winning all eight of her matches, followed by Cheryl Daniels of Detroit, at 5,436 and Shirley Hintz of Merritt Island, Fla., at 5,393.

The tournament ends Thursday night. MARTIN LEADS BUFFALO BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Steve J. Martin coasted to the No. 1 position in the $110,000 Buffalo Open Tuesday night, finishing 386 pins ahead Gary Skidmore.

Martin, of Kingsport, Tenn., went 18-6 in match play and averaged 222.5 for 42 games — more than six pins per game more than any other player — to finish with a pinfall total of 9,889.

As the top-seeded player, Martin will have to win just one game in the televised finals Wednesday night to earn his eighth career Pro Bowlers Association title and $15,000.

Skidmore, of Albuquerque, N.M., qualified second with 9,503.

Ron Bell, of Akron, Ohio, who finished fourth in this event last year, qualified third at 9,467, followed by another Ohio bowler, Bill Peters of Englewood, who totaled 9,451.

Grabbing the last spot in the finals was three-time champion Dennis Jacques, of Middletown, N.J., with 9,373. Jacques, who will be trying for his third title this summer, will take on Peters in the opening match of the finals.

Fernandez, Bonder Win At Festival

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Mary Jo Fernandez and Lisa Bonder won first-round matches of the St. Louis Tennis Festival Tuesday night.

The six-day festival continues Wednesday with quarterfinal matches at the Doubletree Hotel in suburban Chesterfield.

Fernandez, 13, defeated 21-year-old and 78th ranked Andrea Leand 6-4, 6-1 in her match. Bonder stopped Virginia Ruziel 6-3, 6-3.

"It was tough because Virginia hits with so much topspin that she had me so far back that to hit it hard would have put it in the net," Bonder said. "I thought I played very well."

Bonder credited using a new racket.

"It's a lot lighter than the one I was using last week," she said. "I have a lot of confidence in it."

Bonder faces Chris Evert-Lloyd in her quarterfinal match Wednesday.

"I am always an optimist with everybody," Bonder said. "I would say Chris has the advantage since she had three wins to my one in matches against each other. I am looking forward to a good match. I want to work on certain shots of my game. I am trying to peak for the (U.S.) Open so it is important that I work on my game."

The first-ever festival in St. Louis began on Monday when Susan Mancarin defeated Susan Sloan 6-2, 3-6, 6-3 and Bonnie Gadusek defeated Anne White 6-4, 2-6, 7-5.

Tennis

In other matches Wednesday, Mascarini faces Hana Mandlikova and Gadusek meets Andrea Temesvari.

RINALDI SURVIVES SCARES MAIWAH, N.J. (UPI) — Kathy Rinaldi survived a bomb threat and a first-set scare Tuesday on her way to a straight-set victory over Belinda Cordwell in the second round of a $150,000 women's tournament.

Rinaldi, who had a match here in 1981 stopped when the lights went out, returned to the court Tuesday after a bomb scare cleared the stadium with the score 2-2 in the first set and rallied for a 7-6 (7-2), 6-2 victory over the unseeded New Zealander.

"There's never a dull moment at this tournament," Rinaldi joked.

In other second-round play, Helena Sukova overcame the delaying tactics of Argentina's Adriana Vilagran and rolled to a 6-4, 6-1 triumph.

"It wasn't a good day because I was annoyed that she stopped play so often," said the fourth-seeded Czechoslovakian.

Fifth-seeded 16-year-old Steffi Graf needed only 47 minutes to dispose of Britain's Amanda Brown, winning nine straight games at one point to win 6-1, 6-1.

Sweden's Catarina Lindqvist, seeded eighth, ousted Annabel

Croft of England in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4. Canada's 15-year-old Helen Kelesi, who got by her opening round match when Zina Garrison withdrew because of an injury, rebounded to beat Anne Minter of Australia, 1-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Pam Casale, a finalist here in 1981, trounced Jenny Klitch, 6-1, 6-1 in first round action.

The tournament is sponsored by United Jersey Bank.

NO. 1 AMATEUR WINS KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (UPI) — Christine Gilles, the women's No. 1 seed, scored a 6-1, 6-1 second-round victory over Angel Cobb in the U.S. National Amateur Tennis Championships Tuesday.

Gilles of Plymouth, Mass., and a sophomore at the University of Wisconsin, is the national amateur hard courts singles and doubles champion.

No. 2 seed Jennifer Fuchs of Dix Hills, N.Y., advanced to the quarterfinals with a 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, victory over Elizabeth Daly of New Zealand. Fuchs is a member of the U.S. Junior Wightman Cup team.

Sneva Wants Greater Safety For Auto Racing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Sneva is determined to arouse the support of fellow drivers in bringing greater safety to auto racing.

Sneva heads for this weekend's CART race at Pocono (Pa.) Raceway aware he has little chance of winning a third Indy car title. Last year at this time, he trailed Mario Andretti by only one point. Sneva now is in sixth place, 41 points behind co-leaders Andretti and Emerson Fittipaldi.

"We're with a new team (Dan Gurney) and new equipment with the Eagle as opposed to the March we ran last year," Sneva said Tuesday. "We haven't had time to develop the Skoal Bandit. We're the only one racing Eagles. We haven't managed a substantial test program like the Marches and Lola's and I'm concerned about the situation."

"But I'm sure things will change for us. Our situation hasn't been good (no victories),

Auto Racing

but it hasn't been bad, either (a second at Milwaukee and third at Michigan). We were one of the quickest at Indianapolis until we crashed. We passed Danny Sullivan and were closing in on Mario Andretti at the rate of a second a lap when we were caught in the tangle that involved Rich Vogler and Howdy Holmes.

Sneva won Pocono in 1977 and finished fourth last year. He has been on the Indy Circuit since 1971. He owns 13 victories, including the 1983 Indianapolis 500 and was series champion in 1978 and 1979.

The 37-year-old former school teacher had to adjust to a CART format of virtually splitting its program between oval and road races. He prefers ovals because that type of racing is more competitive.

"On ovals, we're racing side by side with the opposition, passing in the corners and getting charged up when we're challenged. It's a race against another person. In road racing, we're competing with the course."

Sneva calls Pocono a safe track because there is room in the infield if a car spins out. Not like Indianapolis, or Michigan, which becomes a one-groove track for most drivers and where the cars' ground effects cannot do the job because the surface is so rough.

"Mario's injury at Michigan (three weeks ago) was a dreadful thing, but hopefully we'll now have a veteran driver who sides with us in advocating slower speeds," Sneva said. "I wasn't getting the right movement until Bobby Rahal and Rick Mears supported my efforts this year at Indy."

Erratic Moor Survives

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Terry Moor is feeling the pressure of being a defending champion.

Moor, who won the Cleveland Tennis Classic last year, overcame erratic play Tuesday to oust unseeded Scott McCain, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1 in first round play of the $80,000 tournament.

Moor, seeded sixth here and ranked 39th in the world, allowed only five points in his last three service games.

"It was a question of regrouping," said Moor, of Memphis, Tenn. "I feel some pressure as last year's winner, but I also feel at home here."

Drewett advanced Tuesday by drubbing Czechoslovakia's Jaro Navratil, 6-3, 6-1.

The day's only upset victim was 1983 Cleveland champion Marty Davis of Harbour Bay Isle, Calif., who was eliminated by persistent Marian Vajda of Czechoslovakia.

In Tuesday evening first-round matches slowed by rain, top-seeded Brad Gilbert of Piedmont, Calif., defeated Peter Doohan of Australia, 6-4, 6-3; and No. 2 seed David Pate of Las Vegas, Nev., struggled but managed to overcome Eric Korita of Glenview, Ill., 3-6, 7-6(7-4), 6-3.

In earlier first-round matches, Brad Drewett, Australia, def. Jaro Navratil, Czechoslovakia, 6-2, 6-1; Ben Testerman (5) Knoxville, Tenn. def. Dan Goldie, McLean, Va., 6-5, 7-6(7-5); Ricardo Acuna, Chile, def. Steve Meister, N. Miami Beach, Fla., 6-2, 6-4; and Ricky Brown, Largo, Fla., def. John Frawley, Australia, 4-6, 7-6(7-5), 7-5.

UPSTARTS FACE TESTS

MONTREAL (UPI) — With upsets under their belts in the first round of the $375,000 Player's International tennis tournament, upstarts will face their real tests when the seeded players jump into today's action.

Canadian national champion Stephane Bonneau was the most surprised person in Jarry Stadium Tuesday when he upset 17th-ranked Tomas Smid in first-round play.

The 23-year-old Bonneau, ranked No. 212 on the men's professional tennis circuit, won 6-3, 3-6, 7-5.

In another upset, Brazilian Nelson Aerts, ranked 213th, beat No. 18 Scott Davis of Baltimore, Fla., 7-6, 6-2.

Leading 6-5 in the third set, Bonneau broke his 29-year-old Czech opponent's service to take the match.

"I couldn't believe it," Bonneau said of his emotions entering the final game of the match, leading 6-5. "I said: 'Wow, let's go for it.' I never beat a player in the top 20 in the world. I have trouble beating the top 20 in Canada."

Cook Of The Week

While Husband Trucks, Wife Runs Things Down On The Farm

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

While some of us are still between the sheets, Margaret Haynie is milking her cow, feeding the hogs and chickens and tending to the other early morning chores on her productive 8-acre farm just outside the city.

"I love every minute of it," says Margaret, our Cook of the Week, about the daily routine of tending her livestock and pets. "I started getting a pair of this, and a pair of that, and now I've got chickens, peacocks, geese, ducks, two hogs, a Jersey cow, dogs, birds outside and birds inside. I even have chickens that lay low cholesterol eggs."

Margaret is a spunky lady who originates from Little Rock, Ark. One of five daughters and three sons, Margaret says, "When I was about nine years old, my Pappa and Mama decided they had raised city kids long enough, so we moved to another part of Arkansas and they share-cropped. That's when I saw my first boll of cotton! I picked cotton. I planted corn. I pulled corn. I've used a harrow with a team of mules, and I milked cows." Much of Margaret's early upbringing helped to prepare her for marriage and a family of her own.

Sitting in her sunny country kitchen surrounded by a collection of exotic birds, Margaret talks of her school years in Arkansas where lessons were taught in a small two room school house. Students were divided into grades and all taught by one teacher out of one book.

"We didn't have a lunch room like they do today," says Margaret, "but we had a chapel, and the school day was started with a hymn and a prayer, like it should be today."

Widowed at a young age, Margaret had seven children to raise, and has always been very close to them. "During the time I was a widow woman," says Margaret, "I had to invent things to eat that would serve all of us. I also fished commercially to help raise my children, until I got a job in a sewing factory ... and I cannot sew a straight line," she laughs.

When Margaret met and married Bill Griffith, a local resident, she had been a Floridian for several years. "He was very well-known in this area," says Margaret. "He was one of the best mechanics around here. He bought me the Day and Night Grill and I ran that for more than five, although he died shortly after he bought it for me." Margaret then met W.T. Haynie, "and I've been happy ever since," she says. "He's a truck driver and owns and operates his own business," says Margaret. "I even rode with him on the truck for about two years." Margaret smiles when she says, "My life is absolutely heaven now. I have an adorable husband, and the good Lord's been good to me. We met when he was a customer at the Day and Night Grill, and he was just as nice and polite as could be. And not just to me, but to everybody."

Now that she's settled down to life on her miniature farm, Margaret enjoys simple country cooking. "When I first left home to get married, I knew how to bake bread and fry meat. From there, I learned on my own," says Margaret. A cow that gives better than 5 gallons of milk a day helps keep the butter supply plentiful. Margaret enjoys churning her own sweet creamery butter and turns it out in handy 1/2 pound molds.

Starting early in the day, Margaret takes care of her livestock, then it's back in the house from noon time until about 4 p.m., "then I start all over again," she says. While she's caring for her birds inside, she keeps an eye on her favorite soap operas. Margaret's beautiful birds include parakeets, mynah birds, cockatiels, finches, Amazon parrots, and an unusually graceful looking pencil-tailed Whyoda. "Most of all I would love to have a miniature goat," says Margaret. "I have always wanted one and hope to have one some day."

As if this busy lady doesn't have enough to do, she still finds time to plant a garden. "We have green beans, peas, cucumbers, tomatoes, beets, carrots, cabbage, onions and okra, and that's only part of it," says Margaret. So, while W.T. is 'on the road' hauling shrubbery and totaling more than 500 miles a day, Margaret is running things down on the farm.

Even though her children and their families are scattered from Florida to Texas, Margaret says they get together as often as they can. The days of cooking large meals are over except at holiday times, but the goodness is still there, and Margaret's recipes conjure up some memories of good ol' family fare. "They loved my pinto beans and corn bread," says Margaret.

Below is a list of favorites that are nutritious and satisfying:

- PINTO BEANS
2 cups pinto beans
Pinch of baking soda
1 tablespoon salt
Water to cover beans
Ham hocks or ground beef for flavor
Wash beans and place in large saucepan.
Add water to about half full. Add soda and bring to a boil. Simmer slowly until beans begin to soften. Add salt and continue cooking until done to taste. At the beginning, Margaret adds her ham hock or ground beef to give flavor throughout. Beans should be thick, not watery. Serves 4.

- CORN BREAD
1 1/2 cups corn meal (self rising)
1/2 cup flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 cup Crisco
1 egg
1 1/2 cups buttermilk
Combine dry ingredients and cut in shortening until crumbly. Add egg and buttermilk, blending well. Pour batter in iron skillet and bake at 375° for about 30 minutes. Cut in 8 generous wedges. Goes well with pinto beans.

- FRIED CABBAGE
1 medium heat cabbage
Bacon grease
Lawry's seasoning
1 tsp. sugar
Slice and core cabbage and add to melted bacon grease in skillet. Sprinkle with seasoning and sugar and cook slowly until tender crisp. Serves 4-6.

- PINEAPPLE UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE
1 1/2 cups self rising cake flour
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup butter
1 egg
1 1/2 cups buttermilk
1/4 cup light brown sugar
1 can (16 oz) crushed pineapple
Combine flour and sugar; cut in butter until crumbly. Add egg and buttermilk; blend well. Sprinkle light brown sugar in

Low-Cal Mushrooms Are High In Vitamins

With warm weather comes an increase in outdoor cooking. Ordinary foods such as hamburgers, hot dogs and many fresh vegetables experience a renewed flavor thanks to an outdoor grill.

One vegetable that tastes great when cooked on the barbecue is fresh mushrooms. Mushrooms skewered on a kabob or "baked" in foil packets can add flavor and texture to even the simplest of barbecues. Best of all, they're available year 'round so you can enhance your meals no matter what the season.

A favorite way to barbecue fresh mushrooms is to toss them in chili-seasoned butter or oil, wrap them in a foil pouch and cook on the grill until tender — usually just a few minutes. This simple combination is delicious over steak, chicken, and fish or alone as a side dish.

When purchasing fresh mushrooms, look for smooth, firm closed caps. Mushrooms are sold in convenient packages or loose in bulk trays. Store them in the refrigerator. If you've purchased them loose or the package is opened, transfer them to a paper bag in the refrigerator to keep them fresher longer.

To clean, simply wipe them with a damp cloth, soft vegetable brush, or rinse quickly. Since mushrooms are naturally porous, be careful not to soak them in water or they could lose their texture and taste.

While mushrooms add a delightful flavor and texture to everyday barbecues, they won't add a lot of calories. A two-thirds cup serving contains only 14 calories, is 99 percent fat free, low in sodium and cholesterol and is high in fiber. Fresh mushrooms will also provide your family with important vitamins and minerals such as thiamin, riboflavin, potassium and niacin.

So for a special summer meal, try adding fresh mushroom to your next barbecue.

MUSHROOMS BAKED OVER THE COALS
1/4 cup butter or margarine

- 1 large clove garlic, pressed
3/4 teaspoon chili powder
Dash salt
8 ounces mushrooms, sliced
In saucepan, heat butter, garlic, chili powder and salt to melt butter. Add mushrooms, tossing to coat. Spoon mushrooms onto two 12-inch squares heavy duty aluminum foil, dividing equally. Wrap securely. Set packages on grill over hot coals; cook 8 to 10 minutes. Serve hot over barbecued meats, poultry or fish, or over split and fluffed hot baked potatoes.

NOTE: Mushroom packets may also be baked in 400° oven 10 minutes.

Cheese Course Drama

Flambe Stars At Industry Dinner

CHICAGO — A cheese course after the entree is the hallmark of an elegant dinner. Served with or without a simple salad, it can consist of a variety of cheese or a single special offering. Either way, its purpose is to provide a savory preface to dessert.

At a gala dinner hosted by Kraft, Inc. during the 1985 Food Marketing Institute Convention, a dramatically presented cheese course earned applause from guests. FMI Board Members and newspaper food editors were treated to a memorable sight as the lights of the Ritz-Carlton's ballroom dimmed and a flaming display lit the center of the room.

Moments later, the maitre d' reached for lemon wedges to squeeze over the flaming brandy on the Feta Flambe. When the lights came on and conversation resumed, guests were served wedges of the crumb-coated, fried and flamed cheese, a recipe created by the Kraft Kitchens especially for the occasion. A simple seasonal salad and French bread provided the accompaniment for the cheese, which can easily be prepared at home.

Feta, a tangy flavored, milk white cheese, is a centuries old tradition in Greece and is considered that country's most important cheese. Until a few years ago, feta generally unavailable in the U.S., except in Greek neighborhoods. Churny Company, Inc., a Kraft subsidiary located in Wisconsin, changed that by distributing nationwide a top quality, natural feta cheese. Made from farm-fresh Wisconsin milk, the cheese is now available in supermarkets and delis from coast to coast.

Feta Flambe showmanship can be easily duplicated at home.

FETA FLAMBE

- 2 8-oz. pkgs. natural feta cheese
  - 2 eggs, beaten
  - 1/4 cup dry bread crumbs
  - 1/4 cup margarine
  - 3 tablespoons brandy, heated
  - Lemon wedge
- Cut cheese lengthwise into 1/2 inch slices. Cut each slice in half diagonally. Dip each cheese slice in eggs, coat with crumbs. Repeat dipping and coating. Melt margarine in skillet over medium heat. Fry cheese until lightly browned, turning once. Remove cheese from skillet, place in ovenproof serving dish. Ignite brandy; pour over cheese. Squeeze lemon over flaming cheese. Serve immediately. 8 appetizers.

Single Women Opt For Children Without Shame

By Iris Krasnow
UPI Feature Writer

The definition of "unwed mother" has been stretched with time. Joining big-time unmarried moms like Farrah Fawcett and Jessica Lange, a growing breed of white, middle-class women are taking on pregnancy without husbands or shame.

"Before the big freak out was 'oh my God, I'm pregnant'. Now the big freak out is, 'oh my God, I'm not, and I'm still single and getting older'," says Ciel Benedetto, administrator of the Santa Cruz Women's Health Center in California.

On the average, two women a week call or drop by her center with inquiries on single parenting. Benedetto, 35 and unmarried, is seriously considering it for herself.

In 1982, the last year census figures are available, out-of-wedlock births increased by more than 4 percent, according to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

It's no longer a social phenomenon confined to low-income minorities. In 1975 black women were bearing children out of wedlock at a rate seven times higher than single white women. By 1982, single white women began catching up, with a birth rate only four times lower than that of single black women.

The women interviewed for this article are all middle-class whites.

One 31-year-old Washington writer who heard "that tick of my biological clock" is expecting her first baby in December. The father is her companion of the past seven years.

Neither want marriage. "When I became pregnant, I announced it jubilantly to everyone, but I could tell some people were thinking, 'Oh, you poor thing. He won't marry you,'" she says.

"I do think this is the man I will be with forever, but having a baby together is as big of a commitment as two people can make. Frankly, I'm afraid to have a new marriage and a new baby all at once. I would feel trapped."

One night with a stranger gave Lange Burnett, 31, the baby she'd wanted for a year. Burnett's daughter, Jade Thiele, was born last Valentine's Day.

"I feel like meeting Jade's father was God's gift," says the Dallas make-up artist. "I had asked the Lord for the right person to come along. When I met Jade's father one evening, I actually heard a little voice saying 'this is the golden one.'"

"It was a one-nighter and that was it."

She describes the man she chose to father her child as "extremely intelligent, handsome and athletic." Burnett didn't tell the father she had conceived until after Jade was born.

"My baby girl was six weeks old when I told him," she said. "I hadn't seen him since that first night. He was shocked, to say the least, but he came over right away. Now he comes over almost daily."

"When he sees her, his eyes light up. He wants her to know he's her daddy," she said.

Burnett says she and the man are simply friends.

The father, a fledgling actor-model, is not in a position to share child raising expenses now, but Burnett is confident he will be in the future. And there's a possibility the couple will be parents together again.

"Provided I stay single, I'd like to keep my family in the bloodline," says Burnett. "I think he probably would go along with it."

The legal ramifications for such unmarried fathers have yet to be determined.

"There hasn't been a great deal of litigation that would show the rights of the man," says Colleen Connell, director and legal counsel for the American Civil Liberty Union of Illinois' reproductive rights project.

"But if a man were not married to the mother of his child and he wanted to assert parental rights," Connell said, "he would have to establish his paternity in court before he could assert those rights. Then, I would expect it would be very similar to the kinds of custody disputes we see between people who are married."

In lieu of a willing (or unsuspecting) partner, other women are opting for artificial insemination or adoption.

"These women feel they are entitled to have a child — with or without a husband," says Dr. Joseph Feldschuh, co-director of Idant Laboratories in Manhattan, the largest sperm bank in the world.

Although he says the numbers of single patients are rising, these women still constitute a "very tiny fraction" of females signing up for artificial insemination. Dr. Feldschuh estimates the figure at 5 to 7 percent.

"We don't accept people who are not emotionally and financially stable," he continues. "The single women we see are significantly above average in educational background, and obviously selective. They don't want to just go out and seduce somebody."

His patients are largely in the mid-30s age range, yet one woman was impregnated at age 45. When donor sperm is deemed acceptable, the man is paid $25 per specimen.

What does a woman who has been implanted with sperm from a plastic syringe tell her child when he or she is old enough to ask about daddy?

"I'm trying to develop language that my son will understand to communicate that his father was a sperm donor. I've already started talking to him about it," says Barbara Leboy, who was inseminated four-and-a-half years ago "by my own private way — not a sperm bank."

Leboy, administrative director of the Oakland Feminist Women's Health Center, is "amazed" at the mushrooming trend.

"Sixty percent of our patients are unmarried women," she says. More than half of that group are lesbians. The facility is the major sperm bank in the Bay Area.

"No matter what a woman's sexual preference is, the common denominator among these patients is wanting to have a child," says Leboy. "And she would rather choose a donor that has been screened medically than to try and start a relationship for the sake of having a baby."

Three to four years ago, recalls Leboy, lesbians ready for motherhood relied on do-it-yourself methods such as sperm injections with turkey basters.

"We don't subscribe to turkey basters as a technique for insemination — we don't feel it's safe," she stresses. "It's probably effective in helping people get pregnant, but it increases the chance of introducing air into the uterus, which can be harmful."

The concept of women conceiving through quick fixes at sperm banks raises painful ethical issues for some.

"Children are not toys or pets, but they are real, live human beings and they have a need for a home with parents of both sexes," says William E. May, a professor of moral theology at Catholic University in Washington, D.C.

"Artificial insemination by some unknown donor is utterly irresponsible. The male in question is in truth the father of the child but doesn't give a damn about him. And he has also caused a pregnancy in a woman he doesn't know and doesn't give a damn about either."

Microwave Magic

Let Kids Help In Preparation Of Ideal Snack

If you have children or young people around your home you know that snacks are an important part of the food budget. The ideal snack is one that is nutritious, quick and easy to prepare, and not expensive (because of the amounts consumed). If you use your microwave oven to prepare snacks ahead to keep on hand you will have almost instant snacks.

Granola keeps well if properly stored and is a nutritious snack most everyone enjoys. Enlist the children's help in the preparation. This recipe provides a good lesson in measuring with dry measures, liquid measures, and measuring spoons.

GRANOLA

3 cups old fashioned rolled oats

Midge Mycoff

Home Economist
Seminole Community College

- 1/2 cup shredded coconut
  - 1/2 cup sliced almonds, chopped
  - 1/2 cup honey
  - 1/4 cup dark brown sugar, packed
  - 1/4 cup vegetable oil
  - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
  - 1 teaspoon vanilla
  - 1 teaspoon molasses
  - 1/2 cup raisins
  - 1/2 cup dried apples, chopped
- Mix rolled oats, shredded coconut and chopped almonds in large bowl. Set aside.

Combine remaining ingredients, except raisins and apples. In an 8-cup measure. Microwave on 100% power 2-3 minutes, or until boiling, stirring after each minute.

Pour honey mixture over oats, tossing to coat. Microwave on 100% power 4-7 minutes, or until mixture begins to stiffen and appear dry, stirring 2 minutes.

Stir in raisins and apples. Allow mixture to cool about 1 1/2 hours, stirring to break apart 1 or 2 times during cooling.

Popping corn is fast and easy in the microwave oven and requires little clean-up. It is a light snack because it uses little or no oil. DO NOT microwave popcorn in a brown paper bag; it could catch on fire. Follow the instructions on a microwave popper or buy already popped corn to make this recipe.

CHEESE POPCORN

8 cups popped popcorn
1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1/4 cup grated American cheese
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Seasoned salt
Place popcorn in large bowl. Set aside. Place butter in a 2-cup measure. Microwave on 100% power 45 seconds, or until melted and bubbly. Stir in cheeses. Drizzle over popcorn. Toss to coat. Sprinkle with seasoned salt to taste.

Bar type cookies can be made easily in the microwave oven. This recipe is easy enough for young people to prepare.

BUTTERSCOTCH CRUNCH BARS

1 cup butterscotch chips
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup peanut butter
4 cups corn flakes
1/2 cup chocolate chips

In large bowl, combine butterscotch chips, sugar, corn syrup and peanut butter. Microwave on 100% power 1-1 1/2 minutes, or until mixture can be stirred smooth. Stir in cereal.

Press in lightly greased 10x6-inch baking dish. Place chocolate chips in a 2-cup measure. Microwave on 50% power 1 1/2-2 minutes, or until chips are glossy and can be stirred smooth. Spread melted chips on bars. Cool before cutting.

Kids of all ages like this snack. CHOCOLATE-COVERED BANANAS

1 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips

2 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup chopped peanuts

Peel bananas; cut each in half crosswise. Insert wooden sticks. Place on wax paper-lined plate. Place chocolate chips and shortening in a 2-cup measure. Microwave on 50% power 2 1/2-4 minutes, or until chips are glossy and can be stirred smooth. Spoon melted chocolate over each banana to coat. Allow excess to drip back into bowl. Sprinkle with peanuts. Place on wax paper-lined plate. Freeze until firm. Wrap in wax paper. Label and freeze no longer than 2 weeks. Um-m good!!

Even Kids Like Peas Amandine

Frozen vegetables and the microwave are a pair just meant for each other. And, for those who still admonish their youngsters to "eat your peas," here is a peas amandine recipe that includes shallots, tarragon and almonds that should get the kids' attention.

PEAS AMANDINE (Microwave Method)

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon chopped shallots
2 tablespoons dry sherry or chicken broth
1/4 teaspoon tarragon, crushed
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen peas
1/4 cup toasted slivered almonds
Combine butter and shallots in covered casserole; microwave at High 2 minutes. Add sherry and tarragon; mix well. Add peas and cover; microwave at High 8 to 10 minutes or until peas are cooked. Garnish with almonds.

This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

HOT TUNA SALAD SANDWICHES

1 1/4 ounce can tuna, drained
1/2 cup shredded American cheese (2 ounces)
1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1/4 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
8 onion rolls, split and toasted
Flake tuna into a 1-quart bowl. Stir in shredded American cheese, mayonnaise or salad dressing, chopped celery, sweet pickle relish, chopped onion, lemon juice, and salt; fold in the chopped hard-cooked eggs. Place the tuna salad mixture in the microwave oven.

Cook tuna mixture at high for 3:30 minutes till heated through, stirring twice. Serve hot tuna filling on toasted onion rolls. Makes 8 servings.

Adults Benefit From Fluoride As Well As Kids

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is fluoride in mouthwash and toothpaste of any benefit to adults? Is there enough fluoride in these products to do any good?

DEAR READER — Fluoride enters the teeth in two major ways: It is carried by the bloodstream and incorporated into the enamel of unerupted, growing teeth in children; and it actually combines with enamel when used topically in adults.

I am told that fluoride toothpaste and mouthwash will help prevent adult cavities, although the amount of added chemical is small.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My kids (4 and 6 years old) like to eat the toothpaste off their brushes. Will this hurt them?

DEAR READER — Possibly: I would discourage the habit. Toothpaste contains a startling array of compounds — including fluoride, abrasives and detergents.

If your children are using fluoridated drinking water or taking fluoridated vitamins, their toothpaste diet may add dangerously high quantities of fluoride to their bodies.

Abrasives are related to sand. Detergent is a type of soap. When I asked my 5-year-old son about eating toothpaste, he wondered why your kids choose to eat sand and soap. I do, too. You might mention that to them.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I understand there are some new ways of treating diabetes (i.e. oral doses of insulin). Could you discuss this subject?

DEAR READER — You must have read the April 25 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine. In an article on page 1078, the authors report a novel technique of administering insulin by nasal aerosol.

Insulin can be given in a variety of ways, the most common being by subcutaneous injection. This method has traditionally provided the least expensive and most reliable means. Insulin given by mouth is degraded by stomach acid. When administered by intravenous pump, the drug can be given in a wave form to stimulate natural insulin production, but the technique is cumbersome and carries risks. Until recently, insulin-dependent diabetics have had to rely on self-administered shots. According to the authors, insulin given by nasal spray has many more advantages, not the least of which is that it's easy. Before this method will gain wide acceptance, however, more testing will have to be done. No one is sure whether the nasal insulin may produce consequences which are as yet unknown.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Do you need to retain trumps in the short hand to prevent loss of trump control in the long hand? That's the question Harry Lampert answers with the diagrammed example from "The Fun Way to Advanced Bridge" (Simon and Schuster, Inc.).

Since as little in North's hand as the diamond king and spade support would provide a reasonable play for game, South bid it immediately when North raised spades. Three rounds of hearts forced declarer to ruff the third one. Because the takeout double by West showed an opening bid, declarer did not waste time with a futile diamond finesse.

trumps, he led a low diamond to the jack. West ducking. When that held, declarer came back to his diamond ace and played the queen. West still did not cover, and declarer discarded a low club from dummy as East ruffed. East now returned a trump, but South was able to force out the diamond king, ruffing it with dummy's spade jack. Only then did he draw trumps and make his contract.

Note the disaster awaiting declarer if he draws even two rounds of spades before attacking diamonds. West should not take the first diamond, and I'll leave it to you readers to work out the various ways the defenders can now set the contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY AUGUST 18, 1985

This coming year is going to be more socially active than you've experienced for quite some time. Many exciting, new people will enter your life, bringing with them new opportunities.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your popularity with pals is at a high point today. Several friends may converge on you at the same time, each vying for your time and attention. Major changes are ahead for Leos in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Happenings over which you have little or no control will work in your favor today. Lady Luck will tune you into the proper frequency.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll find it enjoyable today if you plan something special with a few friends whose company you truly appreciate. Limit the participants.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Set your sights high today because you can achieve what you envision. Use your ingenuity and don't be afraid to experiment with new methods or shortcuts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In your involvements with others today, the mantle of leadership will be placed on your shoulders. All will expect you to take charge, so do so.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your intuitive business or financial insights will be remarkably accurate today. Pay heed to your hunches, but also use your common sense.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Normally it's unwise to put too much credence in snap judgments. However, decisions you come up with on the spot are apt to be better than those you ponder over today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 19) Vital career goals are within your reach today if you apply your imagination and native intelligence. Use your smarts and think your way to the top.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The primary axiom of your success at this time is to have faith in your ideas and in your future. Know in your mind that what you conceive, you can do.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Wishful thinkers who bet in the blind usually wind up losers. However, in your instance, a sensible calculated "flyer" might pay off today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take things in stride today and try to maintain harmony in your relationships. If you let calm prevail, all will eventually balance out in your favor.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There could be an unusual swing in your financial affairs today that might suddenly put you on the profit side of the ledger in two situations.

A.P.I. And His Wives

played by David Faustino, in "I Had Three Wives," a new comedy mystery series premiering tonight at 8 on CBS, channel 6.

Madonna, Sean Penn Get Wedding License

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rock star Madonna and actor Sean Penn have quietly taken out the license for their upcoming wedding.

The couple sneaked in a back door of the civil courthouse with a bodyguard Monday, a clerk said. The entertainers apparently tried to keep a low profile, she showing up without makeup and dressed conservatively and he dressed in black.

Madonna, famed for her long-line bras and peek-a-boo outfits, wore a white jacket and pants with big blue circles, clerk Gloria Guerra said.

"Most of the time she tried to hide her face," Guerra said. "She didn't want people to recognize her. It seemed like she wanted to leave very soon."

The couple appeared happy and both were smiling, she said.

"They were chuckling, that I did notice," said another clerk, Sally Chavez, who said Penn was sporting a punk hairdo that was "sticking up."

Penn and Madonna entered the marriage bureau through a back door and were whisked into a back room where they filled out the forms. They left through the front door.

A Warner Bros. spokeswoman said the couple will marry Friday in a family ceremony in Los Angeles.

Madonna Ciccone, 26, recently appeared nude in Playboy and Penthouse magazines, which bought photos taken in 1979 when she was a struggling model.

County Gets Suggestions For Road Improvements

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Construction of a new Interstate 4 interchange at County Road 46A is among the recommendations for Seminole County road improvements over the next 20 years.

Also among the recommendations is that the county build a four-lane bridge over Lake Jessup and collect tolls from motorists using it whether an expressway is built in the county or not.

More than 100 citizens, divided into five study groups, looked at the county's traffic problems and road needs over the past three months to come up with recommendations for solutions.

A meeting committee composed of representatives of each of five study groups recommended the four-laning of many roads, the six and eight-laning of others to meet the road needs of motorists, but also stressed the need to safeguard established neighborhoods and the environment.

The groups' work product, a two-inch thick, 593-page volume, was turned over to county commissioners Monday.

The volume of recommendations are to be forwarded to county consultants, Transportation Consulting Group of Winter Park, for inclusion in a transportation management program, expected to be completed by the end of September or the first part of October. A price tag on the improvements will be included.

The north county study group recommended the four-laning of:

- County Road 46A from Country Club Road to Rinehart Road. The committee said the four-laning is necessary if the interchange with Interstate 4 and CR 46A is to become a reality. In this instance, the committee predicted major disruption of established neighborhoods throughout the area to be four-laned. If the widening of 46A cannot be accomplished, the committee said an extension of Oregon Avenue should be considered.
- Airport Boulevard from State Road 46A to Sanford Avenue and from SR 46 to Sanford Avenue. The committee said the roadway should be developed to serve industrial needs of the corridor and the airport. But, "the integrity of established neighborhoods should be considered."

- Lake Jessup Bridge from SR 434 to County Road 427. Construction of a two-lane bridge has been suggested by consultants as part of the proposed Seminole County Expressway, but the committee insisted a four-lane bridge is essential. The committee suggested the county conduct a detailed origin-destination study to determine the location of the northern terminus of the bridge and that the bridge be built as a toll facility even if the expressway is not constructed. The committee also cautioned that all environmental safeguards be used when crossing Lake Jessup.
- County Road 427 from State Road 436 to Sanford Avenue. The four-laning of Sanford Avenue to Airport Boulevard and the four-laning of Airport Boulevard all the way to the airport. The committee said alternative designs should be considered for the U.S. Highway 17-92 intersections with CR 427 and with SR 419. "Intersections must consider the environmental impacts to Spring Hammock."

- State Road 46 from the Lake County line to SR 431. The committee said this project should be given low priority while intersection improvements should be given high priority. The group also said plans should be coordinated with Lake County.

- The North Seminole Committee also recommended:
- Six-laning of Lake Mary Boulevard from Country Club Road to U.S. Highway 17-92; four-laning of Lake Mary Boulevard from 17-92 to Sanford Avenue and two-laning of Lake Mary Boulevard from Sanford Avenue to SR 415 SR 46.

- The West Central study committee concurred with the north area study committee on the Airport Boulevard, CR 427 and Lake Mary Boulevard recommendations.

- The committee also recommended:
- Four-laning of Lake Mary Boulevard from Marham Woods Road to Interstate 4.
- Eight-laning of SR 434 from Montgomery Road to Interstate 4 if the 434-I interchange is improved.
- Six-laning of U.S. 17-92 from 25th Street to Seminole Boulevard.

- The southwest Seminole study committee recommended four-laning of:
- Bunnell Road from Bear Lake Road to SR 434. The committee said Bear Lake community should be protected.
- Center Street from Montgomery Road to Palm Springs Drive. Center Street would be a new street, but planned by the city of Altamonte Springs for 10 years.
- Dog Track Road from CR 427 to U.S. 17-92.
- Douglas Road from SR 434 to SR 436.
- Mallard Avenue from SR 436 to the Orange County line.
- Montgomery Road from SR 434 to SR 436.
- Wymore Road from SR 436 to Orange County line.
- Seminole Boulevard from U.S. 17-92 to Tuskawilla Road.
- Seminole Boulevard from Hunt Club Boulevard to SR 434.

- The committee recommended six-laning of:
- Interstate 4 from SR 436 to Lake Mary Boulevard.
- Palm Springs Drive from Center Street to SR 436.

- SR 434 from Orange County line to Montgomery Road.
- SR 434 from Interstate 4 to U.S. 17-92.
- SR 436 from SR 434 to Orange County line.
- U.S. 17-92 from 25th Street in Sanford to Seminole Boulevard in Casselberry.

- The committee recommended the eight-laning of the following:
- SR 436 from the Orange County line to SR 434.
- U.S. 17-92 from Seminole Boulevard to near Part of Sanford, toward SR 434.

- The committee urged two-laning of Eden Park Road in the Bear Lake area from McNeil Road to SR 436 and North Lake Boulevard from North Street to SR 434.

- The South Central study committee recommended the four-laning of:
- Dodd Road from Red Bug Lake Road to Howell Branch Road.
- Dean Road from SR 436 to SR 434.
- Red Bug Lake Road from Tuskawilla Road to SR 436.
- SR 436 from the Orange County line to Tuskawilla Road and from Tuskawilla Road to SR 434.
- SR 434 from Tuskawilla Road to Mission Road.
- SR 434 from 419 to Lake Jessup Bridge.
- SR 434 from Mitchell Hammock to County line.
- Tuskawilla Road from SR 434 to Winter Springs Boulevard.

- The committee recommended six-laning of:
- Howell Branch Road from the Orange County line to SR 436 and from SR 436 to SR 434.
- Rug Bug Lake Road from SR 436 to Tuskawilla Road and from Tuskawilla Road to SR 436.
- SR 436 from Orange County line to Tuskawilla Road.
- SR 434 from Lake Jessup Bridge to Tuskawilla Road.
- Tuskawilla Road from Winter Springs Drive to SR 436.

- The committee recommended eight-laning for SR 436 from CR 427 to Orange County line.

- The East Seminole County area study committee recommended four-laning of SR 434 from East-west Mitchell Hammock Road to the Orange County line. When this work is done the committee urged that the bridge over the Econlockhatchee River be reconstructed.

- The committee recommended two-laning of:
- East and West Mitchell Hammock Road from SR 426 to Lockwood Road.
- Mission Road (a new road) from CR 427 to SR 436.
- Lockwood Road from CR 419 to the Orange County line.

- Six-laning was recommended for SR 426 from the Orange County line to Tuskawilla Road.

Comet Viewing Guide Offered

Three generations have awaited the return of an astronomical legend, Halley's Comet, which departed from out skies in 1910, is approaching Earth once again and will swing by in late 1985 and early 1986.

To help the public view and enjoy Halley's Comet, Sky & Telescope magazine has published a booklet telling exactly how to locate it in the sky. Such a guide is necessary because the comet will only be above the horizon at certain times of night, and even then it will be too dim to catch attention. Unfortunately, Halley does not come very near the Earth on this visit, so it will not be as spectacular as in past ages. Seeing it at all may be a bit of a challenge.

The booklet, titled "Mr. Halley's Comet," will enable anyone to find the comet on any date it is visible. The step-by-step instructions are specially tailored for people who know absolutely nothing about astronomy. The booklet also describes what comets are, offers tips on buying and using binoculars or a telescope for Halley, and tells how to photograph it. The writing is junior-high level.

Single copies may be ordered by sending $2 to "Mr. Halley's Comet," Sky & Telescope, 49 Bay State Road, Cambridge, MA 02238. Bulk discount prices are available on request.

The magazine stresses that Halley will not be visible at all from cities, where lights wipe out the view of all but the brightest stars. A good view will require complete darkness at a rural site.

Witness: Sex A Popular Soviet Lure

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Richard Miller, the first FBI agent charged with espionage, was not the first agent to be the object of sexual advances by a Soviet woman who later was convicted of spying, a former colleague testified.

Retired agent John Hunt testified Tuesday that he warned Miller to stay away from Svetlana Ogorodnikova because she had tried to seduce him two years earlier.

Hunt told the federal court jury about a period in 1982 when he was evaluating Ogorodnikova as a possible informant. He said the woman gave him some information about Soviet consular officials in San Francisco, but eventually her irrational behavior made her too unreliable to use.

The prosecutors claim that Miller started an affair with the wily Soviet immigrant and that, coupled with his deep financial problems, led him into a conspiracy in which he would provide FBI counterintelligence documents in exchange for sex and $65,000.

Local Ham Radio Operators To Demonstrate Skills

"Hams" from the Orlando Amateur Radio Club will demonstrate their radio skills to the public August 24 and 25 from a temporary station at Flea World, U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford. There is no admission charge or parking fee.

Among the 250 amateur radio buffs in the Orlando area, they will give how-to information to those interested in becoming ham operators when they send short wave signals to 35-45 states and up to 15 foreign countries.

Their hobby is shared by such diverse celebrities as Stevie Wonder, Barry Goldwater and the King of Jordan.

Hams use their radios, many of them homemade, to communicate locally, nationally, and internationally. They give advice to tourists in the area and seek advice via short wave when they are touring. They come in handy in during disasters and emergency situations by calling for help or contacting the highway patrol from the site of a roadside accident.

Hams also use their radios to earn awards. After conversing with another ham somewhere in the world, the short-wavers send each other confirmation cards to prove that they did indeed converse. They try to achieve goals such as "Worked all states," "Worked all continents," or "Worked all counties in the United States."

"A ham is never lonely," said Orlando ham Don Alliger. "There's always someone out there waiting to talk to you."

Letters From Son's Girlfriend Leave Mom Numb

DEAR ABBY: The day I sent my 13-year-old son off to camp, while cleaning his room, I came across some letters he had received from his "girlfriend." Apparently, he is sexually involved with her. She's 14. He is very popular and a good kid, but I never expected anything like this!

Dear Abby

My inclination is to ground him when he comes home and not let him out of my sight, but I know that is not the answer. He returns in two weeks. Please help me.

UPSET MOTHER

pregnant teen-ager — then it will be too late.

Don't assume that in providing your son with the information he needs to prevent venereal disease or accidental pregnancy you are condoning his sexual activities. You're not — you are being realistic. Since he is already sexually active, you must teach him sexual ethics and sexual responsibility.

The sex drive, a God-given natural urge in all of us, is one of the most difficult to control, so like it or not, it's the parents' responsibility to see that their sexually active children don't get themselves — or anybody else — in trouble.

DEAR ABBY: How can a man change so much in one year? My husband used to be a loving, caring, sexually alive man. We were considered an ideal couple who never argued.

He quit smoking a year ago (doctor's orders) and now he's turned into an arguing, complaining person who finds fault with everything I do. He goes to bed mad about something every night. He lies there like a log and never makes a move toward me — no hug, kiss or even a caress.

He has eaten himself into clothes two sizes larger from snacking from the minute he comes home from work until he goes to bed.

I long for some love and companionship. If it weren't for the children, I would seriously consider leaving him.

He refuses to talk, so we can't even talk about what's bothering him. He wasn't this way before he quit smoking. I almost wish he'd start smoking again.

How do I get a conversation going with him? Please answer soon. My marriage depends on it. I love this guy, but he's not

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your husband has obviously undergone a personality change. He's unhappy, and is either consciously or unconsciously trying to punish you.

His having quit smoking may or may not be related to his sudden change in behavior. This should be reported to his physician. If he doesn't report it, you must. There is something either physically or psychologically wrong with him.

lightly buttered 9x13 baking pan. Pour crushed pineapple (juice and all) over sugar in pan. Pour cake batter over all. Bake at 350° for about 35 minutes or until cake tests done. Invert onto serving platter while still warm. Cut into serving size pieces.

EASY-DOES-IT QUICHE

2 10-oz. pkgs. frozen spinach
1/2 lb. ground beef, browned and drained
2-3 eggs, beaten
1 cup sweet milk
Large pinch of nutmeg
2 cups shredded cheese (cheddar or your favorite)
1 9-inch pie shell, baked

Cook spinach in butter until done; drain. Place in bottom of baked pie shell and pack down with spoon. Spread cooked beef over spinach. Beat eggs together with milk, add nutmeg and pour over all. Top with shredded cheese and bake in a slow oven (250°) about 45 minutes until quiche rises and is golden brown. Link sausages, salami, ham or the meat of your choice may be used in place of the ground beef. Let cool slightly, then cut into wedges before serving. Serves 6.

Classes Offered

Fast From Freezer

Even A Busy Teenager Can Find Time To Cook Supper

Between track meets, after school jobs and the telephone, what busy teenager has time to help an even busier parent by fixing the family supper? The answer: yours.

Your teenager will always have time when you make the job easy and fun and the results delicious. The secret is keeping on hand a stock of handy frozen prepared foods and some quick recipes that will capture a teen's imagination. These recipes each have a bonus anyone will appreciate: easy clean-up.

Our family suppers start with frozen prepared breaded chicken or beef pizza patties, fully cooked so they can be quickly heated in either conventional or microwave oven. Having a freezer stocked with the all-meat patties will make it hard to say, "I don't have time!"

Chicken Patties with Chunky Tomato Sauce are especially easy and colorful, plus go well with a simple green salad and rolls. The simple ingredients can be kept on hand, so this supper can be ready to prepare anytime.

CHICKEN PATTIES WITH CHUNKY TOMATO SAUCE

- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
- 1 can (8 oz.) stewed tomatoes, chopped
- Dash red pepper
- 1 tablespoon water
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1 package (12 oz.) frozen prepared breaded boneless chicken patties
- 1/2 teaspoon parsley flakes

Prepare chicken patties according to package instructions. In small saucepan, combine butter, tomatoes and red pepper. Gradually blend water into cornstarch until smooth. Stir into tomato mixture and cook, stirring constantly over medium heat until mixture is bubbly and slightly thickened. Pour sauce over chicken. Sprinkle parsley on top. Makes 4 servings.

CHICKEN PATTIE TOSTADAS

- 1 package (12 oz.) frozen prepared breaded boneless chicken patties
- 2 cups shredded lettuce
- 1 can (6 oz.) frozen avocado dip or 1/2 cup guacamole dip
- 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
- 3 green onions, sliced (about 1/4 cup)
- 1 medium tomato, chopped (about 1 cup)

Prepare chicken patties according to package instructions. Place chicken on top of lettuce. Top chicken with avocado dip, cheese, onion and tomato. Makes 4 servings.

PIZZA PATTIES BOATS

- 1 medium onion, chopped (about 1/2 cup)
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 teaspoon Italian seasoning
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 package (8 oz.) refrigerated biscuits (8 biscuits)
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
- 1 package (12 oz.) frozen prepared beef pizza patties, thawed 10 minutes

In small saucepan, saute onion and green pepper in butter until tender-crisp. In small bowl, combine cheese, Italian seasoning and garlic powder. Separate biscuits. Place two biscuits together and shape into a circle 1/4-inch larger than beef pizza patty, forming a ridge around outside of circle. Repeat with remaining biscuits. Spread biscuits with sour cream. Top each with vegetable mixture and cheese mixture. Place patties on top. Bake on cookie sheet in center of 375° oven 16 minutes or until hot. Makes 4 servings.

SWEET AND SOUR CHICKEN PATTIES

- 1/4 cup prepared sweet and sour sauce
  - 1 tablespoon soy sauce
  - 1 package (12 oz.) frozen prepared breaded boneless chicken patties
- In small bowl, combine sweet and sour sauce and soy sauce. Set aside. On cookie sheet, arrange chicken patties. Heat in 425°F. oven 10 minutes. Turn chicken over. Brush sauce on top of chicken. Heat an additional 6 minutes or until hot. Makes 4 servings.

Grilling Instructions: In small bowl, combine sweet and sour sauce and soy sauce. Set aside. Place frozen chicken patties on grill 6 inches above hot coals. Heat, covered, 15 minutes, turning occasionally. Brush sauce on both sides of chicken. Heat an additional 5 minutes or until hot, turning occasionally.

HERB AND MUSTARD CHICKEN PATTIES

- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons Dijon-style

- mustard
- 1 tablespoon parsley flakes
- 1 teaspoon instant minced onion
- 1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
- 1 package (12 oz.) frozen prepared breaded boneless chicken patties

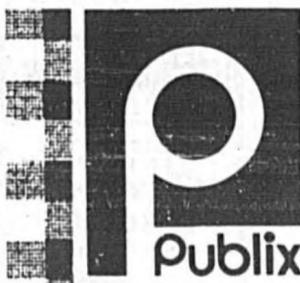

In small bowl, combine oil, vinegar, mustard, parsley, onion and hot pepper sauce. Set aside. On cookie sheet, arrange chicken patties. Heat in 425°F. oven 10 minutes. Turn chicken over. Brush sauce on top of chicken. Heat an additional 6 minutes or until hot. Makes 4 servings.

Grilling Instructions: In small bowl, combine oil, vinegar, mustard, parsley, onion and hot pepper sauce. Set aside. Place frozen chicken patties on grill 6 inches above hot coals. Heat, covered, 15 minutes, turning occasionally. Brush sauce on both sides of chicken. Heat an additional 5 minutes or until hot, turning occasionally.

Chicken patties are especially easy and colorful, too.

The Versatile Banana

Tasty Fruit From The Tropics Is All-American Favorite

Since America got its first good look at the banana during the 1876 Centennial Exposition, we've been in love with the tropical fruit. Although no bananas are raised commercially in this country, we've made bananas our favorite fresh fruit. Each year, we consume about 22 pounds of bananas per person.

There are many reasons why bananas are found in nearly all American households.

- They taste great.
- They pack a lot of nutrition.
- Bananas are low in calories, yet are satisfying.
- They're available year round, thanks to sophisticated banana production methods.
- Bananas carry a modest price tag, especially when you consider that they must be shipped great distances from the plantations where they are grown.
- They are a versatile fruit, as delicious right out of the peel as they are in salads and recipes.

Scientists believe that the banana plant dates back at least one million years, making it the most ancient of fruits. In fact some say that the forbidden fruit in the Bible was a banana instead of an apple.

Nutritionists tell us we should reduce our consumption of fats and sodium, increase complex carbohydrates and lower our caloric intake. No one food can answer all nutritional needs, but the banana has many of the key attributes needed for a more healthful diet.

Athletes love bananas for their high carbohydrates and potassium. Seniors know that bananas are easy to digest and always affordable. Singles appreciate the fact that bananas, when purchased green, keep well. Children love the flavor and parents enjoy serving them in lieu of sugary snacks. Dieters love bananas because they are low in calories, yet very filling.

Virtually every supermarket, grocery and produce stand has bananas for sale each day of the year. Bananas are one of the few fruits that must ripen off the plant and shoppers are fortunate because the color is a handy barometer of ripeness — the more yellow, the riper the fruit.

Many people purchase bananas with different degrees of ripeness so they have fruit perfectly ripe for eating every day. Some people eat their bananas when they still have a touch of green on the tips, others when they're fully yellow, and still others when the peel is speckled with brown indicating maximum sweetness.

Bananas should be stored at room temperature as they ripen. If bananas reach the ripeness you prefer and you're not ready to use them, we recommend simply putting them in the refrigerator. The cold will slow down the ripening process and while the peel will turn dark, the fruit will remain delectable.

Most of us eat our bananas right out of their biodegradable peel. For breakfast, as a light lunch, snack or after dinner treat, the banana shines.

But the banana also is a versatile fruit. In salads, baking, desserts, beverages and even entrees, bananas add flavor, nutrition and tropical appeal. Following are some of our favorite recipes.

L'ORANGE REFRESHER

1/2 cup pineapple orange juice drink
1/4 cup orange flavored liqueur
1/4 cup milk
1/2 ripe banana
Combine ingredients in blender container. Cover and run on high until smooth and well blended. 1 serving (12 oz.)

BANANA SMOOTHY

1 ripe banana
1 cup milk
3 scoops vanilla ice cream
1 tsp. lemon juice
Combine ingredients in blender container. Cover and run on high until well blended. Pour into tall glasses. Sprinkle with nutmeg, if desired. 2 servings (8 oz. each)

PUFFY FRUIT OMELET

4 eggs, separated
1/4 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 bananas, sliced
Lemon juice
1 can (11 oz.) mandarin oranges, drained
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
1 cup sour cream
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon honey
1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel
Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Combine egg yolks, milk and salt. Beat until light and frothy. Fold into egg whites. Melt butter in 10-inch omelet pan. Pour egg mixture into skillet; spread evenly. Cook over low heat until omelet is set and brown on bottom (8-10 minutes). Bake at 325°F., 10 minutes. Moisten bananas in lemon juice to prevent browning. Spoon fruit over omelet and sprinkle with nuts. Cut into wedges. Mix together sour cream, orange juice, honey and orange peel. Serve over omelet. 4 servings.

MOROCCAN LAMB

1 lb. ground lamb or beef
1 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped dried apricots
1/4 cup natural raisins
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
1 can (14 1/2 oz.) stewed tomatoes
Salt and pepper
1 banana, sliced
1/2 cup chopped peanuts
Hot cooked rice
Brown meat; remove from skillet. Drain. Sauté onion. Add meat, apricots, raisins, cinnamon, cloves and tomatoes. Simmer 10 minutes. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Add banana and nuts. Heat through. Serve over rice or bulgur. Top with plain yogurt, if desired. 4-6 servings.

BANANA BREAD
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups sifted flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
2 very ripe bananas, mashed
1 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup grated apple
2 tablespoons orange juice
Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs; beat until light and fluffy. Sift together dry ingredients; add alternately with banana pulp to creamed mixture; mix until well blended. Add nuts, apple and orange juice; mix well. Spoon into three 5 1/2 x 3-inch greased and floured loaf pans. Bake at 350°F., 1 hour, or until tests done. Cool 5 minutes before removing from pan. 3 loaves (30-35 servings)

BANANA BRAN MUFFINS

1/4 cup milk
1 cup mashed, ripe banana
1 1/2 cups bran
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup sugar
3 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 egg slightly beaten
1/4 cup light molasses
3 tablespoons shortening, melted
1 cup natural raisins
In large mixing bowl, pour milk and banana over bran; let stand 5 minutes. Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and soda. Add egg, molasses and shortening to bran mixture; mix well. Add flour mixture and raisins; mix until all flour is moistened. Fill greased muffin pans 3/4 full. Bake at 400°F., 20-25 minutes. 1 1/2 dozen.

In the late 1800's, when key limes (a perishable variety of limes grown in the Florida Keys) were abundant and refrigeration was scarce, sweetened condensed milk was a "natural" ingredient for Key Lime Pie. Because sweetened condensed milk is a pre-cooked blend of milk and sugar, it thickens magically with the addition of lime juice. The result — a filling that's firm enough to cut — with no cooking!

Key Lime Pie is still a Florida specialty that has become a favorite in other parts of the country, too.

KEY LIME PIE

Makes one 8- or 9-inch pie
1 (8- or 9-inch) baked pastry shell

3 eggs*, separated
1 (14-ounce) can sweetened condensed milk (NOT evaporated milk)
1/2 cup lime juice
Few drops green food coloring, optional

1/2 cup sugar
Preheat oven to 350°. In medium mixing bowl, beat egg yolks, stir in sweetened condensed milk, lime juice and food coloring if desired. Pour into prepared pastry shell. In small mixer bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until soft peaks form; gradually add sugar, beating until stiff but not dry. Spread on top of pie, sealing carefully to edge of shell. Bake 12-15 minutes or until golden brown. Cool. Chill thoroughly. Refrigerate leftovers.

Tip: For a lighter filling, fold 1 stiffly beaten egg white into filling mixture; proceed as above.

*Use only Grade A clean, uncracked eggs.

STARTERS' STIR-FRY

1 tablespoon oil
1 medium green pepper, cut into thin strips
1/2 pound boneless sirloin steak or boneless chicken breasts, cut into thin strips
1 can (8 oz.) whole water chestnuts, drained and sliced
2 envelopes onion cup-a-soup
2 teaspoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 cup water
Hot cooked rice

In large skillet or wok, heat oil and cook green pepper 1 minute. Add beef and cook, stirring frequently, 2 minutes. Add water chestnuts and instant onion soup mix, sugar, cornstarch and ginger blended with water. Cook, stirring frequently, 1 minute or until sauce is thickened. Serve with hot rice. Makes 2 servings.

GRECIAN VEGETABLE DELIGHT

2 cups green pepper strips
1/2 teaspoon dried basil leaves, crushed
1/2 teaspoon pepper
3 tomatoes, sliced
1 1/2 cups (8 oz.) crumbled feta cheese

1 cup fresh bread cubes
Saute onions, peppers and seasonings in 2 tablespoons margarine. In 1 1/2-quart casserole, layer onion mixture, tomatoes and cheese; repeat layers. Top with bread soaked with remaining margarine, melted. Bake at 350°, 30 minutes.

6-8 servings GRAND FINALE DESSERTS

DOUBLE LEMON FRUIT CUP
2 3-oz. pkgs. lime flavored gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1 6-oz. can frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed

1 1/2 cups miniature marshmallows
1 11-oz. can mandarin orange segments, drained
1 cup banana slices
1 cup strawberry halves
1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add concentrate; stir until smooth. Pour into six dessert dishes; chill until firm.

Combine marshmallows and fruit; mix lightly. Fold in whipped cream; spoon onto gelatin. Chill. 6 servings
