Diabetes Cured In Dogs; Human Trials Next

MIAMI (UPI) — University of Miami medical researchers say they have cured diabetes in dogs with injections of purified insulin-producing cells from healthy donors and are making plans to try the process on humans.

Dr. Daniel Mintz, director of the university medical school's Diabetes and Metabolic unit, said Wednesday he and his associates developed the non-surgical technique over the last 10 years.

"It is reasonable to begin to plan for human clinical trials," Mintz said, but added they need experience with laboratory use of insulin-producing cells from the human pancreas before trying the technique on people.

"There are still some remaining technical problems that need to be resolved before a time frame can be developed," Mintz said, "but we want to do this as soon as possible."

He said, for example, human insulin-producing cells could trigger rejection problems the researchers did not experience with dogs.

The researchers, who successfully performed the technique on about 24 dogs, injected insulin-producing cells called "the islets of Langerhans" from the pancreas of donor animals into the livers of diabetic dogs.

"The diabetic dogs were cured by the implantation with these islet cells. These animals required no immunosuppressive drugs, yet diabetes has not recurred in any so far."

"To recover the majority of islets from the pancreas in a highly purified state, so they can be directly injected into the liver in a total cell volume of less than 20 drops, is an important advance," Mintz said.

The researchers said they hoped their work would lead to restoring the ability of diabetes sufferers to produce their own natural insulin in the body.

To set up a successful program for humans, Mintz said a supply of donated pancreas glands must be available. And vital to this is the development, still in progress, of methods of keeping a donated pancreas alive for 24 hours.

Diabetes is a life-threatening disease that affects as many as 12 million Americans, including about 3 million who are dependent on daily insulin injections. It is the third largest cause of death from disease in the United States and often leads to blindness.

McClanahan Seeks City Leader Role

Saying "a vacuum in leadership will be created in the city of Sanford with Mayor Lee P. Moore's announced retirement in January" and he "intends to take an active role in providing that leadership," A.A. "Mac" McClanahan announced today his candidacy for the district 1 seat on the city commission.

The city election will be held on Dec. 4.

McClanahan will be opposing banker John Y. Mercer for the seat held by Commissioner Eddie Keith.

Keith can't run for re-election unless he moves into district 1, formed under a recent federal court order.

A native Floridian, born in Minneola, Lake County, McClanahan, 58, of 108 W. Sixth St., was first introduced to Sanford in 1949 when he served here as a U.S. Navy recruiter. He has been a legal resident of the city since 1963. He got out of the Navy and was general manager of Bill Kirk Motors in 1964 and 1965, before going back to the Navy on active duty in late 1965.

Elected to the city commission in 1972, he served until 1979. During those years major advances were made by the city, McClanahan said, pointing to the construction of the new city hall, new public works complex, police complex, and new fire station on U.S. Highway 17-92, while the city's main fire station was moved to French Avenue and remodeled.

The city also paved 25 miles of streets during that time, he said.

Noting the city's accelerating growth rate that saw in recent weeks Sanford's again becoming the most populous city in Seminole County, McClanahan said, "Sanford is going to have continued growth and it needs to be guided and controlled by persons who are interested, objective and knowledgeable."

"I can do that job," he said.

Over the years, McClanahan served on the Sanford Industrial Commission, the forerunner of the Sanford Airport Authority and he served two years on the Seminole High School Advisory Board. In recent years he was a member of the city's charter revision committee.

McClanahan also served on the Seminole County Mental Health board from 1976 to 1979 and after his appointment by the Seminole County Commission he served on the District 7A Mental Health Board encompassing Seminole, Ocala and Orange counties from 1982 to 1984.

He has a bachelor's degree in business administration and a master's degree in criminal justice from Rollins College. He started law school at the University of Florida in March, 1979, but he had to withdraw because of medical problems.

McClanahan and his wife, Candie, have two sons, A.A. "Mick" Jr., who practices law in Sanford, and John, an engineer on the Seaboard Coastline Railroad and a daughter, Patti, who is a homemaker. The McClanahans have four grandchildren.

As executive director of Seminole Self Reliant Housing Inc., a non profit corporation designed to assist low income families with building their own homes, McClanahan has guided the program for mostly first-time homeowners who contribute their labor as the down payment for their homes.

He worked a full year on his own time putting the program together, he said. Twelve homes have been built and are occupied. Twelve more homes are under construction and federal funding was recently approved for nine more homes in the Oviedo area.

Herndon Sues County

Restraint Of Trade Charged

By Donna Estes and Jane Casselberry

Herndon Ambulance Service Inc. is suing Seminole County, the Board of County Commissioners and the commissioners as elected officials and as individuals charging a violation of the anti-trust laws and restraint of trade.

Idus Willis, who was owner of Herndon for the more than 15 years the county contracted with Herndon for emergency ambulance service, signed the suit as the plaintiff, said Deputy County Attorney Bob McMillan.

No hearings have yet been scheduled on the lawsuit, McMillan said.

Willis is seeking a restraining order and a mandatory injunction to force the county to renew the ambulance service's Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity to permit the firm to operate in the county.

The county nearly a year ago called for bids on ambulance service twice before granting an exclusive franchise to City Ambulance, a firm which originated in the state of Alabama.

County Attorney Nikki Clayton said Herndon did not submit a bid during either of the two calls for bid and Herndon's contract with the county expired on July 1 when City Ambulance, the only firm to respond to the call for bids, was awarded the exclusive contract.

While the county was paying Herndon slightly more than $200,000 for the service, it is paying $198,000 to City Ambulance for the emergency service.

To further complicate the matter, McMillan said, the county has been negotiating with Rural/Metro, which has told the county it bought 100 percent of the stock in Herndon and that Willis is no longer associated with the company.

McMillan says while the county did not grant Herndon an exclusive franchise during the years it operated under contract with the county, since it was the only ambulance service in Seminole, it was operating exclusively.

Ms. Clayton insists the county has not been guilty of restraint of trade because Herndon can operate a non-emergency medical transport service now.

McMillan said the county has been discussing with Rural/Metro what it wants to do.

"We are trying to sort out who the players are," McMillan said.

Willis said not being able to do business in Seminole County meant a 25 percent loss of Herndon's business and the contract with Rural/Metro calls for a substantially higher selling price if the company to be allowed to operate a non-emergency ambulance service in Seminole County.

"They (the county) revoked our certificate of public need and necessity," said Willis. "We had contracts with the hospitals and their patients to transport patients, but they called up our hospitals and told them we would no longer be able to serve them. They took our business and gave it to our competitors. They gave the exclusive franchise to the next guy, something they would never give us."

Valentine's Day Rapist Gets 40 Years

Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

An Orlando man who raped and stabbed a south Seminole County grandmother on Valentine's Day then left her bound in her burning home was given a 40-year prison term Wednesday.

Keith Lambert, 31, was sentenced by Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. who also handed him four other sentences.

In addition to the 40-year sentence for rape, Lambert was sentenced to 40 years for robbery, 30 years for burglary with assault and battery, 30 years for arson, and 15 years for attempted murder. The sentences are to run concurrently and he is to pay the Public Defender's Office $1,200.

Lambert, whose combined sentences would have netted him 22 years under sentencing guidelines, could have received life under state statutes. Davis said he "aggravated" increased the recommended sentence, because Lambert entered the home of a 67-year-old woman who lived alone, committed several acts of violence, and then left her tied up and bleeding while he tried to burn her home down.

'...almost every crime possible except littering.'

Assistant State Attorney Steve Brady said he was pleased that Davis increased Lambert's sentence. Brady, at the sentencing hearing, told Davis that in one short crime spree lasting about an hour, Lambert "committed almost every crime possible except littering."

Two charges against Lambert, trespassing, were not prosecuted. Lambert still awaits trial on charges of burglary, possession of burglary tools, and loitering and prowling in a separate case stemming from an arrest Feb. 22.

It was while Lambert was in custody on the latter burglary and prowling charges that investigators re-arrested him for the rape and other charges.

According to the investigators, they arrested Lambert for the rape and other crimes after they compared fingerprints from the rape scene with Lambert's and found what they said was incriminating evidence in Lambert's apartment.

The day after the rape and other charges were lodged, on Feb. 23, Lambert attempted suicide in the Seminole County jail by jabbing tweezers into his arm.

Rabies No Threat To Seminole

From Staff Wire Reports

The raccoon rabies outbreak in Orange County apparently poses no threat to Seminole County and health officials say there will be no animal quarantine here.

"We have tested several animals close to the county line and none tested positive," Bob McIntosh, of Seminole County Animal Control said. "There will not be any quarantine in our area unless we find a significant number of animals with rabies in a concentrated area in a short amount of time."

McIntosh said it is natural for wild animals to contract rabies and any residents who spot animals that appear to be acting abnormally should contact authorities.

If you take the normal required precautions — obey the leash law, which applies to both dogs and cats, keep your pets on your own property and make sure your animals have been inoculated against rabies — he foresees no threat to the health of area animals or to residents in connection with the Orange County rabies scare.

McIntosh added that the outbreak of rabies among the raccoon population in Orange County, which that county's health officials expect to disappear in several weeks, appears to be moving south, away from Seminole County.

"It seems to be a cyclical thing," said Bill Toth, Orange County health education supervisor. "We expect this cycle to burn itself out in about a month or so."

Toth said this is the first outbreak of rabies in Orange County history.

On Wednesday, health officials extended a rabies quarantine area and placed the entire county under alert.

The 30-day quarantine applies to pets and covers nearly 30 square miles, including much of the city of Orlando, officials said.

NATION IN BRIEF

Girl Who Was Expected To Die Winning Fight Against Cancer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Pamela Hamilton, a fundamentalist minister's daughter who was dying of a rare form of bone cancer until a court ordered her to undergo medical treatments, has been given a clean bill of health.

Pamela, 13, has finished her last scheduled round of chemotherapy and East Tennessee Children's Hospital officials said Wednesday she is beating overwhelming odds against survival.

Doctors testified last year that Pamela would die in three months unless a juvenile court judge ordered the treatments against her family's religious beliefs. The doctors gave the shy girl only a 25 percent chance of survival even with the treatments.

The Hamiltons believe only God can cure and their church, the Church of God of the Union Assembly, forbids the use of medicine.

Shuttle Fliers Get A Day Off

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The shuttle Discovery awaited a slow journey back to Florida but its crew celebrated Labor Day three days late today, relaxing with family and friends after a week of hard work in orbit.

The fliers are scheduled to begin three days of debriefings Friday and plan to report to the public on their mission at a news conference next Wednesday.

The six-day mission, during which three satellites were launched, cleared the way for the most ambitious manned spaceflight schedule ever undertaken by the space agency — one shot a month for the foreseeable future.

NASA technicians are preparing Discovery, the nation's third shuttle, for a ferry flight atop a 747 jumbo jet back to the Kennedy Space Center launch site in three or four days where it will be readied for launch again Nov. 2.

Tennis Ball Death Sparks Suit

NEW YORK (UPI) — The family of a tennis umpire who died after being struck in the groin by a tennis ball during last year's U.S. Open blames lack of security for the fatal accident and wants $2.25 million in compensation.

The lawsuit, filed Wednesday in state Supreme Court in Manhattan, accuses the United States Tennis Association of negligence in providing inadequate safety precautions for umpires, said Jacob Fuchsberg, an attorney handling the case.

The lawyer said umpire Richard Wertheim was officiating at the junior championship finals of the U.S. Open in New York City last year when he was hit in the groin by a ball smashed by Stefan Edberg, then 17.

Wertheim, 60, doubled up in pain, fell to the ground and struck his head. He died in a hospital five days later of skull and brain injuries, said Fuchsberg.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Air Florida Jet Repossessed; Rescue Plan May Be Jeopardize

MIAMI (UPI) — Air Florida's fleet of usable aircraft dwindled to three after a federal bankruptcy judge gave another creditor permission to repossess a Boeing 737.

The action could hinder Air Florida's rescue plan with Chicago-based Midway Airlines, which hopes to use four of Air Florida's Boeing 737s and about 200 employees to fly routes in the Northeast, Midwest, Florida and the Caribbean.

But Leonard Gilbert, bankruptcy attorney for Air Florida, said he did not believe the loss of the jet would jeopardize the Midway transaction. He said Air Florida may lease another jet to satisfy Midway.

The Federal Aviation Administration has liens on Air Florida's other three planes, but has agreed not to repossess them yet.

Double Execution Off

STARKE (UPI) — Both men who were scheduled to die in Florida's three-legged electric chair today have received reprieves, averting the nation's first double execution in 19 years.

A federal judge Wednesday granted a temporary stay of execution for Nollie Lee Martin, less than 15 hours before he was scheduled to be executed for the murder of a convenience store clerk.

U.S. District Judge James King in Miami granted Martin a 24-hour stay that runs from 7 a.m. today — the original time of the execution — until 7 a.m. Friday. King said the stay would give defense attorneys time to "seek review" in the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta.

Child-killer Ernest John Dobbert Jr., who was also scheduled to die today, was granted a temporary stay by the 11th Circuit on Tuesday. Oral arguments in his case are scheduled for 1 p.m. today.

The death warrants for both men expire at noon Friday.

Suit Filed In Child Abuse Case

MIAMI (UPI) — A $6 million suit has been filed by the parents of a boy who allegedly was molested at an unlicensed babysitting service which is the target of a Dade County investigation on child abuse.

Family Fight Lands Man In Prison

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

An Orlando man who broke into the apartment of a neighbor of his estranged wife and beat the woman has been sentenced to four years in state prison.

Lawrence Michael Newland, 29, was sentenced Wednesday by Seminole Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. who also ordered Newland to pay the Public Defender's Office $350. Newland was given credit for 151 days already spent in jail.

Davis "aggravated" the sentence and gave Newland more than the state guideline recommended 12- to 30-month sentence because Newland entered the home where a woman lived alone and committed acts of violence.

According to an arrest report, Doris Woods, 952 Lake Destiny Drive, Altamonte Springs, said Newland had entered her apartment through a rear sliding glass door around 1 a.m. April 8 and woke her. She said he hit her on the head and hands and as they struggled a wedding ring fell from his finger.

She said she offered to pay him to leave her alone but he refused and ran from the apartment when she began screaming, according to court records.

Ms. Woods said she saw him enter another apartment and a neighbor, Richard Kook, who was investigating the disturbance, followed him.

Kook confronted Newland in the apartment's bathroom where a third man, David Newland, the intruder's uncle, was taking a bath. Lawrence Newland then fled and Kook took down the license plate number of his car, the records said.

Diane Newland, the estranged wife of Lawrence Newland and who was staying with her husband's uncle, David Newland, identified the ring as belonging to her husband.

Lawrence Newland was located a short time later in the apartment complex parking lot and was charged with burglary to an occupied dwelling and battery.

In other court action before Davis, a Winter Park woman arrested by Casselberry police, was sentenced to three years for the possession of cocaine.

Alicia Clair Roth, 18, of 685 Grenadine Court, was also ordered to complete drug and mental health counseling and pay $100 to the Casselberry police.

A co-defendant in the case, Harry Lloyd Baker, 25, of 7436 Antietam Court, Winter Park, was sentenced by Davis June 12 to three years probation, fined $1,000 and ordered to undergo drug and alcohol counseling.

They could have each received a year in the county jail.

According to court records, an officer reported spotting the pair parked behind Roscoe's on state Road 436, Casselberry, at about 12:20 a.m., Feb. 17.

He said that they appeared to be "snorting" cocaine when he approached the car.

A 29-year-old Lake Monroe man pleaded no contest Wednesday to two counts of aggravated assault.

Edwin Scott entered the plea before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor who set Nov. 15 for sentencing. Scott could receive up to a year in the county jail on each count.

According to court records, Scott reportedly threatened his mother and brother with a rifle and a knife.

After Seminole County sheriff's deputies responded to a disturbance call at 4731 Douglas St., Lake Monroe, at 6 p.m. March 20, Alma Colquett Scott, 65, told the officers that one of her sons had threatened her with a knife and had pointed a .22-caliber bolt-action rifle at her and another son, L.A. Scott.

When deputies arrested Edwin Scott and tried to remove him from the house, the suspect reportedly said "I'm going to kill everyone. You are all going to hell tonight," the deputies reported.

Deputies confiscated the weapons.

Parents Of Mass Murder Victims To Argue Against Parole For Richard Speck

CHICAGO (UPI) — It has been 18 years since Richard Speck killed John Matusek's daughter and seven other student nurses — a crime for which Matusek wants to be sure the mass murderer stays in jail the rest of his life.

Matusek, 77, said he would be there in his wheelchair today at a Prisoner Review Panel hearing to determine if Speck should be given a parole.

"It's a hard time, all the time," said Matusek, who has gone to each of Speck's four previous parole hearings at the Stateville Correctional Center in Joliet.

"You have to say your piece. I don't want him ever to be released," said the wheelchair-bound retired tavern owner. His daughter, Patricia Ann, was one of the eight student nurses murdered by Speck July 14, 1966.

"We know there are nine people signed up to speak before the board who oppose his parole as well as other letters and correspondence," a spokesman for the Department of Corrections said.

Armed with a knife, Speck, 42, an itinerant merchant seaman, broke into the South Side townhouse where the student nurses lived.

He was treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital for blood loss and returned to the jail within a few hours.

On Feb. 20 Lambert was found not guilty in circuit court in a third separate case involving the knife-assault of a woman in a Seminole County bar in September, 1983.

According to testimony involving the rape case, the woman, now 68, confidently identified Lambert as the slight man who, at 4:30 a.m., Feb. 14, loomed above her in bed while holding a towel in one hand and a knife in the other. She testified that Lambert stabbed her in the right breast and lung, shoved her between a bed and a window and, placing a pillow over her head, raped her.

After the stabbing and rape, Lambert ransacked her home taking heirloom jewelry and then, with the woman bound and bleeding, set her home afire.

When a fire alarm began sounding, Lambert knocked it down and fled, according to court records. The woman untied herself, failed to put the fire out, and then went to a neighbor's for help.

Lambert was found guilty as charged May 22 by a jury that deliberated five hours.

Congress Split Over Balanced Budget Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats and Republicans in Congress are stumbling over each other in a rush to throw their support behind a balanced budget proposal — a key issue this election year because of the swollen deficit.

The Republican-led Senate Judiciary Committee tentatively scheduled a hearing today on a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget — a measure backed by President Reagan that passed the Senate in 1982 but failed in the Democratic-controlled House.

Congress returned Wednesday from a three-week recess, and Democratic leaders wasted no time in trying to gain an advantage on the issue.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., and Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd called on Reagan to reveal details of his balanced-budget plan and said they will support a proposal to require Reagan and all future presidents to submit balanced budgets to Congress.

Congressional Democrats will offer and support during the next four weeks a budget reform measure by House Budget Committee Chairman Jim Jones, D-Okla., to require presidents to submit a balanced budget to Congress, Byrd said.

"Democrats will offer legislation that will require a balanced budget from this president and all future presidents," Byrd said.

The proposal is an obvious attempt to head off a move by House Republicans to force a repeat of the vote on the balanced budget constitutional amendment defeated by the House Democrats two years ago.

Reagan and his Republican allies in Congress support a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget. Most Democrats oppose it, arguing it would take seven years for the states to ratify the amendment and the federal deficit would be too large to make the law feasible or enforceable.

Under Jones' measure, currently in committee, the president would be required to submit a balanced budget. But if he deems it "inappropriate," the president could submit an alternative budget containing red ink. The Senate and House budget committees would be under the same constraints.

Man Jailed In Knifings

A Sanford man arrested for allegedly slashing the face and throat of a Sanford woman in two separate incidents was being held in the Seminole County jail today in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Lena Mae Carter, 27, reported to police that her boyfriend had cut her face with a pocketknife during an argument at LeRoy William's Bar, 13th Street, Sanford, at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. On Wednesday, police were called to Pearlle Mae's Bar on 13th Street, Sanford, where Ms. Carter said the man had slashed her throat at 8:20 p.m. using the same pocketknife, which has a four-inch blade, police report.

In the first knifing, Ms. Carter received several cuts on her face, including a four-inch gash on her left cheek. In the second incident, her throat was cut, police report.

In both cases, police said she was taken by private vehicle to Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, where she was treated and released.

The suspect fled after both assaults, but reportedly called police from Goudino's Fish Fry, U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, and turned himself. He was arrested at that restaurant and charged with two counts of aggravated battery at 10:01 p.m. Wednesday.

Dan William Peterson, 28, of 415 E. 4th St., has been charged in the case.

ALCOHOL DEATH

A Orlando man who was found dead in a holding cell at the Seminole County jail at 8 a.m. Friday, died of alcohol poisoning, sheriff's spokesman John Spolski said Tuesday.

Terry Brick Keene, 33, had been charged with driving under the influence and booked into the jail following a traffic accident on state Road 46 at Osceola Road in east Seminole County. He had been arrested at 2:10 a.m. Aug. 28 and was treated for a minor cut to his chin at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, before being booked into jail.

Keene was last seen alive when a nurse checked on him at 6:30 a.m. Friday, Spolski said.

Concern Over Mugabe Justified

Robert Mugabe, the prime minister of Zimbabwe, hasn't pretended to be anything but a Marxist in the four years since he helped overturn the government of Ian Smith in what was then Rhodesia.

He had previously announced that capitalism had no place in Zimbabwe. It came as no surprise recently when he announced that he intends to turn the country into a one-party state.

That would be one further step in the conversion of a once prosperous and conservative British colony into an outpost of communism.

In the Soviet Union and many other one-party states, control of the government rests with party officials, not the people. There is little personal freedom and no opportunity for the people to influence the way they are governed. Without organized political opposition, a party can implement its objectives — in the case of Mugabe, communizing the country — with little or no restraint.

There was a time, early in Mugabe's regime, when Zimbabwe was held up as a model for other black African nations that were striving to control their own destinies in the post-colonial period.

Mugabe received some praise in the United States. The New York Times said: "He has shown that he can be as firm and skillful in pursuing his political goals peacefully as he was in war."

The Times criticized the U.S. government for being "stingy with the kind of economic assistance that could help assure Mr. Mugabe's success."

Now, four years later, those responsible for the stinginess appear vindicated. It would not have been a favor to the people of Zimbabwe for the United States to have helped the success of a leader who says he is a Marxist, who works to end capitalism and who says that his will be the only political party.

Now It's Genocide

Now it is genocide. Having failed to put down the armed resistance in Afghanistan, Soviet forces are now reportedly killing civilians indiscriminately — an attempt to undermine support for the guerrillas and cut off their food and shelter.

Thomas Goutierre, director of the Center for Afghan Studies at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, gave this explanation:

"The Soviets have found they cannot catalog and identify resistance fighters from the population, so they don't focus on the resistance but on the population."

Goutierre cited a massacre at the village of Istalif. He said the Soviets slit the throats of 240 women and children and left them to bleed to death in the snow.

One wonders about the feelings of the Soviet soldiers who are given the bloody job of carrying out the orders. Can they be so hardened that the murders don't affect them?

In some cases, no. One of four enlisted men who deserted and were brought to the United States, Sgt. Nikolai Moychan, 20, said soldiers are demoralized and confused. The Soviet government has shown by its words that it wants to be accepted as a peace-loving member of the community of civilized nations. But it has shown by its actions in Afghanistan how serious a mistake it would be for the community of civilized nations to let down its guard.

Seminole County youngsters were among the 200 Florida 4-H members who got hands-on experience in how the government works when they participated in the annual 4-H Legislature in Tallahassee recently.

"It was one of the best legislatures we've ever had," said Ruth Milton, a 4-H extension specialist.

The young legislators passed a bill restricting the development of atomic energy, until a means for disposing nuclear waste is developed. They also approved a bill requiring a minimum grade point average for students participating in extracurricular school activities and gave the go-ahead for a state lottery. They agreed to tag a tax on church property and turned thumbs down on the sale of human body parts.

A bill to establish a state income tax died in committee. Two other bills considered, one to eliminate the insanity defense for defendants and one to legalize gambling, failed to win approval.

As in most legislatures time ran short and many proposed bills were not considered. Among those were proposals to ban smoking where food is prepared, the placement of breathalyzers where alcohol is served, and mandatory restitution for property damage caused by a driver under the influence of alcohol or any other illegal substance that hinders driving ability.

Gov. Bob Graham told the youngsters of his own 4-H experience and Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter challenged them to work in their communities to curb the use of alcohol.

Studds's Rival On Low Road

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (NEA) — Massachusetts may be the site of this year's most vicious campaign as Rep. Gerry Studds, a Democrat, campaigns for his seventh term in Congress.

Studds represents the 10th Congressional District, which stretches from Boston's southernmost suburbs to the tip of Cape Cod. It includes affluent and upper middle-class bedroom communities, New Bedford's fishermen, and year-round residents of the Cape, Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard, whose numbers are increasing.

The 10th is regarded as the state's most Republican district, yet Studds has held office since 1972, and his popularity has grown with each succeeding election.

Studds's work has been into fishing, which may be the district's major industry. He's on both the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee and the Foreign Affairs Committee, which handles fishing-rights. He also has championed the Coast Guard, protecting it against Reagan administration cutbacks. In addition, Studds learned Portuguese so he could speak to his district's large Portuguese community.

Studds should have had few worries about the 1984 election — but then it was revealed he is a homosexual, and the House censured him for having a sexual relationship with a 17-year-old male House page 10 years ago.

Now Studds is fighting for his political life, and the campaign against him is marked by innuendo, intolerance, and slogans and bumper stickers whose contents can't be printed in a family newspaper.

Studds, who lives in a gay area of Provincetown, on Cape Cod, has come out of the closet, saying that "sexual orientation is totally irrelevant in running for Congress or doing a good job once there." Of his relationship with the page, he says that "while it was an error in judgment on my part... it was a voluntary relationship between two consenting adults."

Studds is the first avowed homosexual to run for Congress. Others have run after being tagged as gay, but they either denied the charge or ignored it.

But Studds can't ignore the issue — however much he might want to — because of the nature of this campaign. His opponent in the Sept. 18 Democratic primary is Plymouth County Sheriff Peter Flynn. Flynn says he decided to run more than a year ago as he watched the televised news conference in which Studds admitted his gayness as relationship with the page.

Flynn says the incident with the page was "nothing more than a case of child molestation" and claims it will cost Studds his seat. It's clear that Studds's open homosexuality has badly split the district and will cost him votes. Some fundamentalist Christian groups are trying to make the primary a referendum on homosexuality.

Still, less than three weeks before the primary, it's evident that Studds is still very popular with many segments of the community

FARMING WORLD

Commodity Options

By Sonja Hillgren
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As early as next month, farmers and ranchers will be able to trade commodity options — a practical new tool to insure themselves against risks of crop and livestock price volatility.

Economists at the Commodity Futures Trading Commission are reviewing proposals for agricultural options trading submitted by six commodity exchanges. When the review is complete, the commission is expected to vote sometime in October to approve a package of six options.

Trading will begin shortly thereafter, but farmers and ranchers are expected to be slow to take advantage of the price insurance tool.

"I don't think the producers are going to want to jump on these in a hurry," said Kalo Hineman, a Dighton, Kan. wheat, milo and cattle producer who has been a CFTC commissioner since early 1982 and a leader in efforts to educate farmers on advantages of futures and options trading. "I don't think anybody ought to be disappointed as some of these start out slow."

Dependent on the variability of weather since crops and livestock were domesticated thousands of years ago, agricultural producers have always faced unique perils.

Over the past decade, uncertainties increased dramatically as American producers became increasingly dependent on exports for a share of their income. Vagaries of international markets put an end to relative stability of cash prices.

To manage risks, farmers can use government price support programs, forward contract their crops and livestock or trade in the futures market.

Futures trading has many pitfalls that have scared away many producers. Although speculators are necessary to futures trading because they accept the risks that farmers are trying to unload, their presence in the market offends populist sentiments of some farmers.

Trying to counteract those kinds of feelings, the CFTC, the Agriculture Department's Extension Service, land-grant universities, commodity exchanges and brokerages are actively engaged in efforts to instruct farmers and ranchers on commodity options, which are expected to be more useful to producers than futures trading.

Hineman, the CFTC commissioner, said the most important result of the educational efforts will be for more producers to understand options and futures trading. He said that complaints by producers to the CFTC reflect lack of understanding.

He said producers should be able to make informed decisions on whether they want to use options. If he were running his Kansas farm, he said, he would use a combination of options and futures trading.

Farmers rally against price volatility, yet volatility provides opportunities to lock in higher prices with help from financial tools, Hineman said.

But he warns that options are only one tool and certainly not a cure for all that ails agriculture.

Options trading will enable a farmer to establish a minimum selling price but will not eliminate an opportunity to receive higher market prices.

For a premium, a farmer can buy an option to sell his crop at a certain price. If cash prices rise above that price, he does not have to exercise the option and can sell the crop in the market.

If cash prices drop below that option price, he can exercise the option and get the higher price.

Trees Sacrificed For Lumber Firm

WASHINGTON — Louisiana Pacific Corp. is nuzzling up to the public through again, with a friendly nudge from the U.S. Forest Service. The giant lumber company buys more government-owned timber than anyone else, and has a long history of preferential treatment from the Forest Service, which happens to be headed by Louisiana Pacific's former general counsel, John Crowell.

I've reported in the past how Crowell lobbied successfully for a $600 million bailout of the big lumber companies, allowing them an interest-free extension on overpriced bids that turned sour in the housing-industry recession.

Not long after this act of corporate welfare, Louisiana Pacific posted record profits.

The Forest Service also impeded a congressional investigation into charges that the company fixed prices and rigged bids on government timber in Alaska. The Justice Department dropped a criminal case against the company despite a federal judge's finding in a civil suit that Lana Pacific and another lumber company "conspired to restrain trade and to monopolize the timber industry in southeastern Alaska."

The latest chapter in the history of Louisiana Pacific's cozy relationship with the federal government involves ambitious expansion into the production of waferboard, a plywood substitute made of wood chips bonded with resin. The beauty of waferboard is that it can be made out of trees that are otherwise commercially worthless, and thus cheap.

One such tree is the aspen, previously valued chiefly for its brilliant autumn foliage. With the potential boom in waferboard, aspens have now become well worth harvesting.

The Forest Service had a modest plan to harvest 2 million board feet of aspen in national forests in Colorado, cutting down mature trees that could be a fire hazard.

According to Internal Forest Service documents seen by my associate John Dillon, the 2 million board feet ballooned to an astronomical 50 million soon after Louisiana Pacific told the agency of its plan to build a waferboard plant near Montrose, Colo.

In one internal memorandum, a Forest Service official candidly acknowledged that the 25-fold increase in the harvest was "in response to Louisiana Pacific's request for aspen."

He wrote that the cost data justifying the increase "is based on information as developed from recent contacts by Louisiana Pacific regarding possible new markets for aspen and expansion into this area with construction of a new mill facility."

A Louisiana Pacific spokesman painted a different picture of the company's role in the increased aspen harvest, saying: "The company is in there not to maximize an asset but to carry out an aspen management plan for the Forest Service. We are in there in response to a Forest Service need."

Two environmental groups in Colorado don't buy this benign view of wholesale aspen cutting.

"By claiming a need to manage aspen, the Forest Service is disguising the real project, which is to provide wood to Louisiana Pacific," they wrote in an appeal for a full environmental impact study.

Assassination Attempt Will Spur Peace Efforts

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Education Minister Selim Hoss, injured in the explosion of a booby-trapped Mercedes-Benz that killed four people, says the assassination attempt will strengthen the government's resolve "to unify Lebanon."

Police said the explosion Wednesday in the waterfront Raouche area of the capital killed a 64-year-old bystander, Hoss' driver and two of his motorcycle police escorts. State-run Beirut radio said at least 25 people were wounded.

Hoss, 54, a Sunni Moslem and former prime minister, was being driven to the home of Lebanon's Sunni spiritual leader, Sheikh Hassan Khaled, when the parked Mercedes-Benz packed with 155 pounds of explosives blew up as his car passed by. Police said it was detonated by remote control.

He contended the attack would serve to stiffen the government's resolve to end more than nine years of civil war.

Libyan Link Jeopardizes U.S. Aid

United Press International

Vice President George Bush will warn Morocco its military assistance program with the United States is in jeopardy because of its new federation agreement with Libya, State Department officials say.

Without ironclad guarantees from Morocco that U.S. military equipment or technology will not fall into Libyan hands, State Department officials said, the U.S. program would have to be stopped.

In the fiscal year that concludes Sept. 30, the United States gave or loaned Morocco $56 million in military assistance and in the proposed aid for the coming fiscal year, the administration has asked for $66 million for Moroccan military aid.

Police Patrol Riot-Torn Areas

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Heavily armed police today patrolled riot-torn black townships where 30 people died in three days of violent protests over rent increases.

In Johannesburg, a Soviet-made magnetic "limpet" mine was discovered at 9:05 a.m. in a broom closet at the local branch of supreme court, and police sources said it had been set to blow up at 10 a.m.

No one immediately claimed responsibility for the attacks. The African National Congress, which opposes white rule in South Africa, has admitted involvement in some 250 past sabotage and bomb attacks.

Nicaraguans To Meet Pope

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A Nicaraguan delegation will meet with a representative of Pope John Paul II in the hope of improving relations that have deteriorated since the Sandinista's put an anti-government priest under virtual house arrest.

The Vatican is believed to be eager to discuss the case of a priest accused of supporting U.S.-backed rebels seeking to overthrow the Managua government.

Caasari is expected to seek clarification of the status of the accused priest, the Rev. Luis Amado Pena.

In July, 10 priests were expelled from Nicaragua for allegedly taking part in a demonstration to protest Amado Pena's arrest.

U.S. Accused Of Violating Neutrality Act

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Officials phoned the families of two Americans killed in a rebel air attack and the government accused the United States of violating its own Neutrality Act by failing to halt the activities of the paramilitary group that sent them to join anti-government forces.

Nicaraguan Foreign Minister Miguel D'Escoto launched Nicaragua's latest verbal salvo against the United States as representatives from both countries met Wednesday in an apparent effort to ease the escalating hostilities.

The private meeting, the fifth between the two sides in three months, came after relations were further strained by Saturday's rebel air attack on a military training camp in Santa Clara, 6 miles from the Honduras border. Eight people, including four children, were killed.

D'Escoto told reporters in Managua he and other Nicaraguan government officials called the families of the two Americans killed in the raid — Dana Herbert Parker, 36, Huntville, Ala., and James Powell, 37, Memphis, Tenn. — to invite them to Nicaragua to retrieve the bodies.

D'Escoto said Parker's father, Dana Parker, was too upset to claim his son's body in Nicaragua and asked government authorities to return it to the United States.

Rose Powell, who reportedly told Nicaraguan officials she was "in a state of shock" over the death of her son, said she would decide within a few days whether to retrieve his body in Nicaragua, D'Escoto said.

Nicaraguan Defense Minister Humberto Ortega earlier described the two Americans as "soldiers of fortune of the CIA."

D'Escoto, however, appeared to back off that statement.

"What is important is not that they were agents or exactly what kind of relationship they had with the CIA," he said. "What is important is that it is evident from the facts that their activities could not have been carried out not only without the knowledge, but also the consent of the CIA."

The United States has provided financial and military aid to the rebels fighting to overthrow Managua's leftist Sandinista government.

Posey: Fast Times At Seminole High

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Jerry Posey is ready to pull up the curtain on his 10th football team and the personable Sanford coach couldn't come up with a better name for his production than "Fast Times at Seminole High."

Granted, Seminole has always had speed burners, but not quite like this year. When a 9.8 sprinter like Frank Barnett has yet to earn a starting role, there must be so guys burning rubber on Georgia Avenue.

Barnett, of course, is in his first year of football and Posey doesn't mind waiting for the state's best hurdler to come into his own. "It's just the little things that Frank lacks," said Posey. "The raw talent is there. He just has to acclimate himself to football."

Things don't slow down much after Barnett. Posey said Cliff Campbell and Dexter Jones will be the halfbacks and Daryl Edgemon will be the fullback when Seminole opens against Titusville Astronaut Friday night at Titusville's Draa Field. Kickoff is 8 p.m.

Campbell, probably the top 140-daah man in the state, had a superb sophomore debut two years ago. He ran for over 150 yards against Lake Brantley in one outing and was extremely dangerous on the sweep.

Last year, the 5-10 170-pounder couldn't get untracked. His longest run from scrimmage was just 15 yards and he was constantly nagged by injuries. He finally went down for good due to a game foot with two games to play.

Posey, however, said from all indications Cliff is ready to flash that sophomore form. "He sure looks it in practice," said Posey. "Cliff has got some more size (15 pounds) about him now and the weightroom work has made him more durable."

Lining up next of Campbell in the Tribe's Flying Wing-T will be Jones, who Posey said may be his most complete player. "He's got both speed and power and is a great blocker," he said. "Dexter is a big plus for us blocking on our power play. If he gets a clear shot at that linebacker, he'll have his hands full."

Barnett, Campbell and Deron "Catch-Me-If-You-Can" Thompson (5-10, 171) all run 4.6 40-yard dashes. Jones (5-7, 166) is right behind at 4.7 while McCloud (5-7, 160) runs a 4.8 and Edgemon a 4.9. All six are seniors. Junior Louis Brown, another track man, runs with the first group, but his talents will be utilized on defense.

Posey said what makes the "Fast Times" that much more impressive is he doesn't have a slow hand on his stopwatch. "I'm very conservative when I clock them," said Posey. "I know some coaches who wait a stride or two, but I start it when they move."

Edgemon is being pushed by Barnett (6-0, 183), but Posey said he doesn't expect Edgemon (5-10, 181) to run away from anybody — just run them over. "Edgemon is not as quick as some of our past fullbacks," said Posey. "But pound-for-pound he is just as strong. He also has very good balance. He can take a couple of hits, spin off and get a few more yards."

Posey said all the burners will get work at halfback. "(Backfield) Coach (Emory) Blake and I are going to use them all. We figure on starting Campbell and Jones, but McCloud and Thompson will also get a lot of time. McCloud is a lot like Dexter but not as fast."

Thompson, the most exciting of the group, is the main man in the defensive backfield at safety. He plays his "Catch-Me-If-You-Can" game on returns. "He must have returned three or four for touchdowns last year," said Posey. "But I hate to say that because then nobody will kick to him."

Posey said, though, look for number 22 on all returns. "And if we get to running wide right and left (sweeping), you'll see him in and out of there, too," he said.

Posey is counting on Mike Whelchel to put the production in motion. The senior quarterback is a good ballhandler, something that is a must for Posey's wide-open running attack to work.

Which means all systems will be go Friday if the speed burners can do that one important thing — hold onto the ball. "That's the one thing that has me worried," said Posey. "We have spent so much time preparing for Astronaut that I don't know if we've scrimmaged as much as we should have."

"But, fumbling wasn't a problem before. We scrimmaged for an hour the other night and only dropped it once."

Lions Want 'In Between' Season To Last All Year

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

The start and finish of the season was a big problem for Oviedo High in 1983 as the Lions lost their first two and last two games of the year. In between, Oviedo was a respectable 3-3 but the bad start and finish gave the Lions a 3-7 record.

Oviedo is hoping to get off to a good start this season as it takes on the Melbourne Bulldogs Friday night at Melbourne. Melbourne is in a rebuilding year, according to coach Tom McIntyre while Oviedo should have a much better team than last year's.

Oviedo dropped a 21-7 decision to Melbourne in last year's opener and then the Lions were ripped by 2A powerhouse Eustis, 37-17. The Lions then upended St. Cloud, 27-20, followed by losses to Leesburg, 35-21, Rockledge, 25-13, and Orlando Jones, 13-10. That made the Lions 1-5 but they came back the next week to slaughter Bishop Moore, 46-0; then made it two in a row with a 14-13 nudging of Cocoa Beach. Oviedo ended the season with losses to Osceola Kissimmee and Lake Mary.

Oviedo has almost the same tough schedule in 1984 with the only change being a matchup with 4A Seminole High instead of 3A Rockledge. Melbourne is also a 4A team. Oviedo takes on defending 2A state champions Eustis on Sept. 14. Eustis was ranked number one in 2A in the prep preseason poll. Another of the Lions' opponents, Jones, was ranked seventh in the 3A preseason poll.

While inexperience was the Lions' weakness in '83, injuries may slow them down in the early going of '84.

Barbecue, Intrasquad Keep Rams Motivated

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Mary's Rams will be idle the opening week of the 1984 prep football season before opening with DeLand's Bulldogs next Friday, Sept. 14. The Rams will use the extra week to try prepare for DeLand and they will also get in some game-type experience in tonight's Red-Gray intrasquad game at Lake Mary High.

The night's activities will start at 6 with a barbecue in the Lake Mary High cafeteria. The cost of the meal is $3.75 and also includes admission to the football game which starts at 8.

"The intrasquad game will give us a feeling of game conditions so we won't be at a disadvantage Sept. 14," Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson said. "We'll try to make the open week work to our advantage. It will give us a chance to look at the best players and find out the best people to be starting at each position."

The week off did work to Lake Mary's advantage in 1983 as the Rams opened the season with a 15-14 victory over DeLand. Lake Mary went on to a 6-4 season in its first year of 4A competition.

Tonight, the Rams will divide into two teams and the coaches will evaluate the best players position by position.

"We'll have our 'Bison (pronounced, bee-zon) Backfield' on one team and our scabcat backfield on the other," Nelson said. "And we'll have our good defense on one team and our trouble-shooters on the other."

The Rams' bison backfield includes fullbacks Scott Underwood and Bill Caughell while the scabcats are Charlie Lucarelli and Pat Murray. The Lake Mary running game was awesome in the preseason jamboree against Lake Howell as it rolled up 255 yards rushing in just one half.

The quarterbacking job is still a heated one with a pair of juniors — Ray Hartfield and Mike Schmit — going at it. Schmit, the thrower, and Hartfield, the runner, will be on opposite teams tonight.

Since Lake Mary won't be in action on Friday night, Nelson will travel to Jacksonville to watch DeLand take on Jacksonville Bolles, the eighth-ranked 2A team in state in the preseason poll.

Cheers, Cheers

Conversations ranged from cheerleading to shopping and boys recently during a practice for the Seminole High varsity cheerleaders. The girls will be all business Friday night, though, when the Seminoles travel to Titusville to play Astronaut in the season-opening football game. This year's varsity includes captain Ria Singleton, co-captain Dana Ray, Jenny Craig, Sharon Gaines, Angela Galloway, Margaret Hall, Jodi Jones, Rebecca Martinez, Kristin Merrifield, Suzi Nye, Debra Sensakovic and Anita Smith.

BMX Fan Loves Skillful Dashes, Dislikes Crashes

Bicycle Motocross, like football and baseball, has its share of zealous fans. Spectators come every Saturday night to avidly watch the kids compete and win.

Melody Davis has been a BMX spectator for about a year-and-a-half. She goes every Saturday night to Barnett Park in Pine Hills to watch her brother Mike, and other friends compete against other racers for trophies.

"I like watching all those radical dudes doing tabletops and other tricks," said Melody.

Although the motos are exciting, sometimes the racers get a little too radical, and crash. "I always look to make sure it's not my brother," said Melody.

BMX accidents are one of the reasons why the 15-year-old Seminole High School sophomore hasn't taken up the sport herself. "I feel sorry for the little dudes and dudettes who crash. I think I'll just sit and watch, thank you."

There was no participating or spectating this weekend at Barnett Park in Pine Hills due to the Grand Nationals being held in Louisville, Ky.

The Grand is a culmination of the National Bicycle Leagues "War of the Stars" series. The Grand Nationals determines who will be NBL's national number one rider in each age group.

This weekend, racing at Barnett Park will resume with registration starting at 6 p.m., and staging the motos at 8 p.m.

Franco: Winning 1st, Record 2nd

Pro Football

SEATTLE (UPI) — Yes, Jim Brown's career rushing record is out there waiting for Franco Harris, but there's also the possibility of a fifth Super Bowl.

Winning is what Harris wanted to talk about when he signed with the Seattle Seahawks Wednesday. And it's the possibility of winning big this year, however remote, that undoubtedly motivated the Seahawks to sign the future Hall of Famer.

The 34-year-old Harris is expected to step right in to replace Curt Warner, Seattle's star running back who will miss the rest of the season with a knee injury. Harris will be in uniform for Sunday's game with San Diego.

"The thing I want to do is win," said Harris. "I hope the guys realize that."

Certain things can be contagious and I think that a winning attitude can be contagious. And that's what I have."

Harris was waived by the Pittsburgh Steelers last month after 12 years — and four Super Bowls — with the club. The release came with the two sides locked in a contractual impasse.

Seattle's decision to sign Harris was a stunner more for its speed than anything else — the extent of Warner's injury wasn't known until his surgery Tuesday.

But since taking over the reins in Seattle, president and general manager

Mike McCormack and Coach Chuck Knox have shown a readiness to make decisive moves and to spend when they have to, particularly on veterans.

"He gives us all the experience and leadership back there," said McCormack. "He has done it. He'll help the offensive linemen — just by his presence on the football field."

JETS, STEELERS TONIGHT
EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Joe Walton didn't have to dig very deep to find incentives for his New York Jets in tonight's nationally televised game against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"It's going to be a very physical game," Walton said. "They like to hit — we like to hit. I feel the biggest thing for us is that this is the first playoff team we're playing and it's a team that beat the hell out of us last year in front of our fans.

"We'll see if we'll continue to improve. The New York Jets have never beaten the Pittsburgh Steelers in a regular-season game and some of the defeats have been rather embarrassing."

The Jets are moving to Giants Stadium this season after 20 years at Shea Stadium in New York.

CARTER IS QUESTIONABLE
MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins Wednesday listed starting linebacker Jay Brophy, running back Joe Carter and special teams player Fernanza Burgess as questionable for Sunday's game against the New England Patriots.

Brophy has a sprained ankle. Carter and Burgess shoulder injuries.

Gene Mayer lunges. Mayer plays John McEnroe today.

'Other' Lloyd Assumes Stage — Bassett Stings Mandlikova

Pro Tennis

NEW YORK (UPI) — The past and present of Chris Evert Lloyd will be on full view on Center Court today at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Not to mention a live appearance by the young woman herself.

Evert Lloyd and another of her long-time friends, Billie Jean King, were scheduled to open the day's competition with a quarterfinal doubles match against Betsy Nagelsen and Anne White.

Almost certainly, Evert Lloyd won't be in a hurry to leave the premises when her day's work is done, for following her on the Stadium Court will be Jimmy Connors versus John Lloyd for a men's quarterfinal match.

Connors once was engaged to Chris Evert, and she now is married to Lloyd.

One other singles match is listed for today, with top seed John McEnroe facing unseeded Gene Mayer in the evening.

The Lloyds separated recently but are back together, and Chris, obviously, is his biggest booster: as he tries to recapture his previous high rating.

"We're a team, and it's great," she said. "We support each other. I watch his matches, he watches mine. It's been that way for five years.

"There's no competitive feeling between us. I'm his biggest fan, he's my biggest fan. He's always had the talent. It's just a matter of him committing himself to playing and competing, and he has done this. It's great to see."

Lloyd never has taken a set from Connors in three meetings, and the unseeded Briton is ranked 49th in the world to No. 3 for the American.

In the men's quarterfinals, Pat Cash, the 15th seed, eliminated No. 4 Mats Wilander, 7-6 (7-4), 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, and in the women's draw 16-year-old Carling Bassett, seeded 14th, stung No. 3 Hana Mandlikova, 6-4, 6-3, and 31-year-old Australian Wendy Turnbull, seeded 13th, overcame No. 4 Pam Shriver, 6-2, 6-3.

The 19-year-old Cash, also a semifinalist at Wimbledon, becomes the first Australian man since John Newcombe and Ken Rosewall in 1974 to reach the semis of the U.S. Open.

Zoeller Draws Crowd To PGA

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — Fuzzy Zoeller has always been colorful, and winning major championships has given him the charisma to add luster to this week's PGA tournament.

The reigning U.S. Open champion and former Masters titleist will lead the prime attraction in the $350,000 event starting today at Pleasant Valley Country Club — if his back holds up.

Zoeller captured the nation's attention with his performance in the Open at Winged Foot in Mamaroneck, N.Y., where he beat Greg Norman in an 18-hole playoff. His golf was solid but his personality is what makes him popular.

The easy-going Zoeller has influenced other players' attitudes.

"Fuzzy Zoeller has been good for me," said veteran Hubert Green. "Over the past couple of years he's helped me accept things better and showed me that there are more important things in life than golf."

But Zoeller's back has been painful since the PGA Championship three weeks ago, and due to the painful recurrence of a disc problem left over from a high school basketball game, he didn't swing a club for more than two weeks.

Zoeller said on Aug. 14 that he "felt a little twinge in my lower back. I got up and the pain had spread to my shoulder. I bent over and I couldn't stand up. It went right down through my legs."

"It was diagnosed as a protruding disc that pinched a nerve and a doctor said the only thing was rest."

Wife Struggles To Forgive And Forget

DEAR ABBY: I have learned after 30 years of marriage that my husband is a bisexual and a molester of young boys. He is a professional person and a pillar of the church.

I also learned that he molested our oldest son during the boy's teen-age years.

Our four children are professional people. If my husband gets caught by the police, he will disgrace us all. He says he loves me, and begs me to accept this weakness of his. My children want me to forgive him and do nothing about it, but I find this hard to do.

Should I try to stick it out? I am 60 years old. Please don't mention my city. This is...

A FAMILY AFFAIR

DEAR FAMILY AFFAIR: When a known child molester is allowed to go free to molest more children, it is not a family affair. It's a crime against society.

Your husband has more than a "weakness"; he is sick and in need of treatment. It is your obligation to do whatever is necessary to get him to a doctor. Insist upon it. If he refuses, you must turn him in.

DEAR ABBY: My in-laws are super people, but a few years ago they started a practice that I found objectionable. We have two sons, 3 and 5, and on the birthday of one grandchild they bring two gifts — one for the birthday boy, and another for his brother so he wouldn't feel left out.

I think a birthday is a very special day for a child, and he shouldn't have to share it with anyone else. Each child will have his special day, so it's not as though one child is being favored over the other.

When my in-laws started this, I hinted that it wasn't necessary, but either they didn't get the hint or they chose to ignore it. How do you feel about this,

Abby?

MOTHER OF TWO

DEAR MOTHER: I think it's a very considerate gesture. It shouldn't diminish the joy of the birthday boy if his brother receives a small gift.

DEAR ABBY: Please print your address in your column once a week. It would be a big help. I want to write a personal letter to you asking for help, but I wouldn't want it to fall into the wrong hands. Thanks.

STEADY READER

DEAR READER: My address should be printed every day, but some newspapers do not have sufficient space to use it. It's P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. And for a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the older woman, "Mrs. Eastman," who took great offense when a dental hygienist addressed her as "Gertrude." In all fairness, I think you should print a professional's point of view. I work for a dentist, and I mean no disrespect when I address people by their first names.

I put my foot in my mouth when I went into the waiting room and announced, "Mrs. Walker." Mrs. Walker turned to me and abruptly said, "It's Ann Walker — I'm divorced!"

Having learned my lesson, in calling the next patient I announced, "Mr. Edwards." Mr. Edwards turned out to be 4 years old!

Another time I announced, "Mrs. Brown," and a man stepped forward. (His first name was Connie.) That's when I decided to glance a little more carefully at the patients' charts.

DENTAL ASSISTANT

Miss Thornell Bride Of M.J. McGowan

Christine Louise Thornell and Michael James McGowan were married Aug. 24, at 3 p.m., at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Sanford. The Rev. Ralph I. Luman performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Johns, 420 Satsuma Drive, Sanford.

Mrs. Michael McGowan

The bridegroom is the son of Margaret and Francis McGowan, 1015 W. 20th St., Sanford.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose for her vows a white polyester gown fashioned with a high collar, lace yoke and blue satin sash tied into a large bow in the back. She wore a spray of baby's breath in her hair and carried a bouquet of roses grown by her stepfather.

Renee Templeton attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a silver gray dress with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of roses.

Mitchell (Scooter) Colgate served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Craig McGowan and Johnnie McGowan.

The reception was held in the church social hall. Rebecca Prevatt, sister of the bride from Jacksonville, cut and served the cake. June Martin, Kay Wolff, Mildred Dahlin and Edith Pehling prepared and served the refreshments. Pamela Wise, niece of the bride, Altamonte Springs, helped to register the guests in the bride's book.

Following a wedding trip to New Smyrna Beach, the newlyweds are making their home in Sanford. The bride is employed by Gentry Manufacturing Company and the bridegroom is employed in construction work.

Valium Could Become New Habit For Alcoholic

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband is a recovering alcoholic and has been taking Valium for six years. The doctor keeps giving him Valium even though the opinion seems to be that people should not take it except for a short period of time. He also takes antihistamines every day plus Anacin and extra-strength Datril.

DEAR READER — I do not know how much Valium your husband is taking, but if it is a moderate amount, he probably has a physiological dependency on it by now. And even if he is taking a small amount and is past middle age, he may have an addiction. Older people do not break down Valium as quickly and may become dependent upon it much more easily than younger people.

Valium is a good medicine in helping people when they are getting off alcohol, but it should not become a new addiction. It is a tranquilizer and has an addictive effect when taken with alcohol or any depressant medicine. That includes antihistamines.

The antihistamines cause drowsiness and are brain depressants. It follows that antihistamines increase the depressive effects of sedatives, tranquilizers or alcohol.

Why don't you talk to your husband's doctor about your concern? I am not optimistic that your husband will be able to stop his drugs without his doctor's help. If he has a medical reason for taking so much medicine, you should know about it. good health, but I do have diabetes and high blood pressure. My diabetes is well controlled by diet alone and my blood pressure is controlled at 130 over 80 with medicine. I play golf four times a week, walk and carry my own bag.

I started taking Metamucil every morning because I read it cuts down bad cholesterol. Is that true? My last test showed my cholesterol was 266 and triglycerides 184. I feel great, thanks to my careful diet and exercise. Also, does lecithin help to cut cholesterol? Will either of these affect my diabetes?

DEAR READER — There are studies that show Metamucil will help to lower cholesterol. This is true of many bulk agents, including raw apples. Bran doesn't seem to have this effect. Apparently, some fibers sequester cholesterol or bile salts in the intestine, preventing them from being absorbed back into the circulation. In this way, fiber lowers cholesterol. Lecithin is digested and absorbed as fat and choline. The bulk will not harm your diabetes. Also, if you can lose any extra body fat, that would be a big help for both your diabetes.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
North's infatuation with ace propelled him into placing his partner in a so-so slam. North bid his suits and controls, and then showed moderate diamond support with the four-diamond bid. South cue-bid the club king, and found himself in six diamonds. If you want a little fun, or a headache, cover the East and West hands and ask yourself how you'd play the slam.

fall singleton. When nothing happens, play the king of diamonds. Diamonds will usually divide 3-2, and the queen may be doubleton. Still nothing.

Now for your last shot at glory. Play the queen of spades and then lead a low spade toward the dummy. When West plays low, put in the 10. If that loses to the jack, you will have gone set the absolute maximum. But the 10 holds the trick, and you discard your two losing hearts on the ace and king of spades.

Why is this play best? Because you make the slam whenever the diamond queen drops, or the spade finesse against the jack is successful. Two chances are indeed better than one.

More Illegal Aliens Spurs Border Patrol Expansion

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — An unprecedented boom in illegal migration from Mexico has prompted a $66 million budget increase for the U.S. Border Patrol that will translate into a 35 percent increase in agent strength in the southwestern United States.

Alan Eliason, chief patrol agent for the Chula Vista sector, said the number of agents in his area — which runs from the Pacific Ocean to the eastern San Diego County line — will increase by 45 percent, from 594 agents at present to 861 by October 1985.

The El Centro sector in neighboring Imperial County will be increased by about 50 percent, or 102 agents, according to the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Forty-three agents will be added to the Yuma, Ariz. sector and 24 will be added to the Tucson sector.

"Come October, the start of the fiscal year, we'll begin a major hiring campaign," said Eliason.

Harold Ezell, INS Western regional commissioner, said 850 additional agents nationwide are provided for by the increase, plus more investigative and legal personnel.

Ezell said the new budget calls for the largest single increase in the Border Patrol's 60-year history.

Of the new agents, 150 would be assigned to a 17-mile stretch of border separating San Diego and Tijuana, Mexico, a popular crossing point for aliens.

"We do not have control of our border today. We do catch illegal entrants, but many more get away. That's not what I call control of the border," said Eliason.

He said he wanted to catch at least 85 percent of the people trying to enter the country illegally in the coming year, and he projects his sector will make 400,000 arrests.

"I feel we're in the neighborhood of 50 percent. That's not very good, one out of two," said Eliason.

The Border Patrol will change the name of the Chula Vista sector to the San Diego sector Oct. 1, Eliason said.

Rub A Dub Dub

This contestant prepares the engine on his souped up bathtub in preparation for this weekend's Flea World Cup Bathtub Regatta. The event will be held Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at North Lake behind the Interstate Mall, I-4 and state Road 436, Altamonte Springs. There will be a celebrity race featuring local political and media personalities at 11 a.m. both days. About 30 daring bathtub racers will reach speeds of up to 25 mph in their quest for the coveted cup. Proceeds from the event will go to Florida Easter Seals.

Hello? Could You Please Help Me With A Dangling Participle?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Do you suffer from dangling participles? Are you baffled by whether to use "that" or "which"? Do you mispell words so badly that you don't even know where to start to look for them in the dictionary?

Then help is a telephone call away at 212-R-E-W-R-I-T-E, a grammar hotline manned by professors at New York's York College that offers advice on grammar, word usage and spelling.

English Professor Joan Baum founded the program three years ago with Alan Cooper, English department chairman.

"We are all crazy people," Baum said of the educators who volunteer one to four hours a week during the school year for the hotline. "What's in it for us is an education."

The York College volunteers receive two to three telephone questions a minute from a room stocked with more than 70 grammar books and style manuals.

Baum said the hotline has received calls from secretaries who disagree with their bosses, reporters, lawyers, screen writers — even people playing games. "It's amazing how many people play 'Scrabble' on the job," she said.

Because there are rarely absolute answers in grammar, Baum said they can sometimes only give preferred answers to questions. "Our service provides answers when it can. When it can't, it provides alternatives, reasoning and information," she said.

No reference book is favored over another. The correctness of the answer may depend on the audience.

"It's a matter of tone and rhetorical context," she said. There are basically two types of people: prescriptive, those who adhere to more conservative rules and avoid jargon, and descriptive, those who tend to accept jargon that is technically wrong but widely used.

Some questions cannot be answered with the help of reference books.

On the question of what courtesy title to use for vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro — Miss, Mrs. or Ma. — Baum said she encourages the use of Ms.

"Ms. Ferraro's own pitch is strongly to a

He recalled a young girl who called and asked 'What is sex?' I gave her the Webster's unabridged definition but she kept calling back, asking increasingly shocking questions. I finally told her she could be arrested for making obscene phone calls.'

woman's constituency for whom the Ms. has become very important," she said.

The hotline has gotten calls from as far away as Great Britain and Nova Scotia. "People mostly call anonymously," she said. "That way they don't have to feel stupid."

Baum said her staff is sometimes wrong and sometimes callers disagree.

One physicist called to ask if there was a word, "redder," meaning, "more red."

The word "redder" is listed in Webster's Unabridged Dictionary as "a comparative of red," Baum said. But the physicist argued that it was impossible for a red to be more red, so the word should not exist.

Eleanor Hakim, a writer and part-time York teacher on the Rewrite staff, said the most popular question is almost always whether the period goes within a quote or not. It does — except in England.

"One woman won a $100 bet with her husband on that one," she said.

Hakim also told of a widow who called, distraught because a friend had told her it was improper to use her dead husband's first name. "Forget him. He's dead," the friend had told the widow.

Hakim reassured her it is proper to continue using her husband's first name in most cases.

He recalled a young girl who called and asked "What is sex?"

"I gave her the Webster's unabridged definition but she kept calling back, asking increasingly shocking questions. I finally told her she could be arrested for making obscene phone calls."

The hotline is open Monday through Thursday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. EDT. Collect calls are not accepted.

Corvettes Are Prime Targets For Thieves Who Apparently Like To Work In Boston

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sporty Chevrolet Corvette is popular with car thieves and Boston is tops for cities where autos are most likely to be stolen, a consumer magazine says.

Other cars found especially appealing to thieves were the Cadillac Seville, Eldorado or DeVille, the BMW 320i, the Audi 4000S and 5000S, the Lincoln Continental Mark VI and the Pontiac Firebird.

The Corvette Tuesday topped Consumer Magazine's list of most stolen cars in America while Boston headed the list of cities where autos are most likely to be stolen.

Motorists who like to see their cars where they last parked them may want to invest in the Subaru DL and the Pontiac Phoenix. Other makes with a slim chance of being stolen are the Ford Fairmont, Honda Civic and the Toyota Corolla.

Tax Group: Cut Lawmakers' Hefty Pensions

By United Press International

Hefty pensions earned by 138 retired congressmen, three of them from Florida, are out of line with retirement benefits available to most Americans, a Washington lobbying group says.

Former Reps. D.R. Matthews of Gainesville and Robert L. Sikes of Crestview, and former Sen. George Smathers of Miami were named in last month's report on congressional pensions by the National Taxpayers Union, a non-partisan group that wants benefits decreased.

Sikes, who gets a $72,132 yearly pension compared to the $60,662 he earned while in Congress, topped the list of Florida retirees. Smathers receives a $57,000 pension compared to $30,000 he earned in office and Matthews gets $39,998 compared to his former $30,000 salary.

"We think they need to be scaled down substantially," said Katy Kiggins, a National Taxpayers Union spokeswoman.

Matthews, who served from 1953 to 1967, when he was defeated for reelection, agreed pensions have grown too large.

"I certainly think no member of Congress should get more money than if he were in Congress," said Matthews, 77.

Congressional pensions are far higher than those awarded private sector employees, said Bob Mueller, pension project coordinator for the National Taxpayer's Union. He said congressmen's pension benefits also are adjusted each year to compensate for inflation, an advantage over most pension plans.

"A pension for a senator and a representative and their employees is much more generous than in the private sector," Mueller said.

Former Sen. Smathers, 74, said congressional pensions will have to be controlled because today's longer lifespans are burdening the system. Smathers retired from the Senate in 1969 after serving in the House from 1947 to 1951 and in the Senate from 1951 to 1969.

"My pension is very generous and a lot of people need it, but I'll tell you that the whole system is going to have to be changed because of the life expectancy of people," he said.

Smathers concluded, however, that lawmakers deserve "a heck of a lot more than the average businessman."

Congressmen receive pensions through the Civil Service Retirement System, into which they must pay 8 percent of their yearly salary. If they opt to join the system, they may retire by age 50 and receive benefits if they serve at least nine terms in the House or three in the Senate, or if they have 20 years of combined federal service.

Phil Gardner, director of the annuity role services branch of the Office of Personnel, said most federal employees pay only 7 percent of their paychecks into the pension fund.

"They (congressmen) pay a higher percentage, so I guess they deserve" better benefits, Gardner said.

"They serve their country, so what can you say?" he said.

How Plants, Animals Survive Drought May Benefit Mankind

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists say they have unlocked the secret of plants and animals that can survive indefinitely without water, a discovery that may help in food preservation and storage of organs for transplant.

High concentrations of a sugar called trehalose preserve cell membranes, allowing the organisms to survive dehydration during drought or low temperatures until water becomes available again, a team at the University of California-Davis said.

Among these kinds of organisms are soil-dwelling nematodes, cylindrical worms with unsegmented bodies. They are also known as roundworms.

Bacterial and fungal spores, plant seeds and many dormant small animals can also tolerate dehydration.

"High concentrations of trehalose exist in many of these organisms and may thus be a universal protectant for drought resistance," said UC droughtologist John Crowe in an announcement from the National Science Foundation, which backed the study.

Trehalose accumulates in high concentration in nematodes during slow drying, blocking the stages the cell membranes would normally go through in the absence of water and keeping them healthy, Crowe said.
