Oh Those Phone Calls

I was told by a mother who called me the other evening that someone is "mis-informed" about that insurance coverage for football players Sounded more than a little peeved-off, too, and said that she was going to write to the Editor. (See, I'm always getting fan mail for you, Larry.) What startled me was her statement that, "Military dependants are NOT covered in case of accidents on the field." Previously, I had been told that they would receive coverages and this was the reason for some of the parents not wanting to take part in an insurance program for the entire football Well, according to this mother, the Navy is not prepared to handle dependants' fractures, etc., and of necessity would send them to the local hospital. At this point, the cost for emergency treatment, X-rays, etc., would enter into the picture and be considerably more than the cost of an insurance

So, if you're in that category, perhaps it would be wise to reconsider your previous thinking on this matter. Additionally, in talking with Superintendent of Schools William J. Phillips, he was completely surprised that such a condition exists in Seminole County and told S.O.S. that it would be changed. Quote and unquote.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) -A waitress who tried to be helpful cost Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevens some $320. Mrs. Stevens absentmindedly walked off and left a purse with $320 and some other items in the restaurant. After she left, a waitress, spotting the purse. rushed with it to the front of the cafe and saw a woman getting into her car to drive away. She asked the woman if the purse was hers and received a quick "yes, thank you" as the car drove off.

About that time Mrs. Stevens realized that she had left the purse at the restaurant and returned-only to find that the purse had been given to another.
